TUSCOLA COUNTY.

From our Exchanges.

Ballasting on the S. T. & H., railroad has begun again.

The Vassar Exchange Bank opened for business on the 20th inst.

A number of cases of diphtheria in the German settlement, near Mayville.

Pinkham's mill, in Arabela, does not run at present.

The schools have closed in the northern part of Arabela, on account of scarlet fever.

Fire has been raging in Arabela, through log heaps and brush, but no damage done.

The smoke stack at Ides' mill, in Arabela fell down one day last week, entirely demolishing it.

John Worth, a resident of Blumfield Junction, was killed last Saturday by a falling tree near Maple Grove.

The Catholic association has bought two lots in the village of Reese, and intend building a church in the spring.

The Fair Grove post-office in this county has been changed from its present position, one mile west, to the railroad station.

Eugene Sovereign, the instructor of station agents for the P. H. & N. W., company, is speedily recovering from a severe attack of inflammation of the lungs.

Edwin Cobb, of Millington, clipped off the ends of his two forefingers on the right hand last Wednesday week, while working with the jointer in his shingle mill.

Wadley & Kelley, of Mayville, have got their new foundry in running order, and the prospects are that they will work up a business that they need not be ashamed of.

Drs. Morris and Reed, of Gifford, performed a nice surgical operation on Mrs. Youman, last week, in removing a cancer from the left breast. The patient is doing well.

The watchman on the engine of the S. T. & H., railroad was fired at one night last week when at Unionville, but as the gun was loaded with bird shot there was no damage done; only the cab shows several shot in it.

We understand that the railroad company have purchased three acres of ground of West Johnson, at Aldrich's corners, and will build a depot on it. They have already put up one small building for their tools to be stored in.

A daughter of Walter Richardson, of Millington, sustained a serious injury the other day, by being struck in the face with a stone which was thrown at some cattle by a boy near her; two teeth were knocked out and her face otherwise injured.

Last Monday night Al. Adams and Will Allen, two of Vassar's young bloods, made a raid on a house over the river, kicking in the door and otherwise demolishing things, for which they were brought before Justice Bourne and sent to the Caro jail to await trial.

A natural curiosity may be seen about two miles south of Vassar, on the Millington road. It is a pine tree of perhaps two feet in diameter, from the trunk of which, at a distance of 15 feet from the earth, seven small trees branch out, each one being nearly a foot through.

Some years ago Adelbert Hopkins, of Millington, inflicted an ugly gash across the lower joints of the toes on one of his feet, since which time he has been troubled more or less, till last Monday "Dell" plucked up courage enough to have an amputation performed by Dr. Rogers, and now he can toe the mark once more.

The Vassar Library association opened its library for the accommodation of the members on Saturday last, at the rooms of Mrs. A. L. Oakley, the librarian. The library contains 200 volumes, 150 of which were donated by the people of the village, the balance having been inherited from the defunct association, and the officers report a fund of $105 on hand, which was raised by subscription.

The residence of A. B. Sperry, of Fostoria, was burned to the ground last week with nearly all of its contents. Mr. Sperry was keeping a boarding house, and the property destroyed included all his worldly possessions; but we understand that the people of Fostoria and vicinity have contributed and are contributing liberally for his relief. Mr. Sperry is an honest, upright man and a good citizen, and certainly needs and deserves friendly aid to set him on his feet again.

A citizens meeting was held at Vassar, on Tuesday evening to take action relative to the proposed removal of the county fair from Watrousville, and a committee was appointed to procure subscriptions to a fund to be presented to the society in case Vassar is designated as the place. The committee actively canvassed the village last Wednesday, with very satisfactory results, and a definite proposition was submitted to the executive committee of the agricultural society at its meeting on Thursday.

Miscellaneous.

—Rev. Mr. Talmage has found a man who wanted to borrow fifteen dollars to relieve his distress, but refused to accept enough money to open a news stand because the business was beneath him! It seem that beggars are choosers in these days.

—The Boston Traveller relates that a young infant in that city having been presented with a handsome basket bearing the words, "Welcome, Little Stranger," in green and gold, the Irish nurse protested against the form of the salutation, contending that "for sure that was wrong, for the baby is not a stranger, but one of the family."

—A Rochester doctor has earned a private box in the opera house there, for the rest of his life, because his patient, the builder and owner, although sick, did not die, but saw the completion of his opera house. This is reversing the order of things. It is more apt to be the doctors who confer private boxes upon their patients.—Detroit Free Press.

—Cleveland is ahead of all the cities in electric illumination. A mast 260 feet high has been erected in the public square, supplied with four electric lights having an illuminating power of 40,000 candles. This will light an area half a mile in diameter. It is strange that the people of Rhode Island do not light up their State with a mast like that.—N. O. Picayune.

—Two women called on a Maine dentist simultaneously, one to have all her teeth extracted, the other only one. The dentist mistakenly put the latter under the influence of ether, and rendered her toothless. Those who saw her, when she came to realize it, says the lion and tiger are incapable of ferocity. The dentist wonders why in the name of all that's good he was born, anyway, and is anxious to learn when it will be safe for him to come out of the swamps. The other woman thinks the whole affair very funny.—Boston Post

—A shrewd little female scamp in St. Louis collected about fifty dollars during the holidays from benevolent persons in the following manner: She would get into a horse-car, pay her fare ride a long distance, and then tell the conductor to let her out at a street remote from the point where the car then was. "Why, you are on the wrong car, three or four miles from where you want to go," the conductor would answer. Thereupon the little shivering wretch would begin to cry bitterly, and the other passengers, aglow with seasonal kindness, would take up a collection for her benefit.

—A remarkable exhibition of tranquility under acute suffering and generally disheartening circumstances was furnished by Mr. C. K. Tibbitts, of Boston, a victim of the accident on the Boston & Maine Railroad last Monday. He was found by a reporter, soon after the disaster, in a farm-house kitchen near the wreck, propped up in two chairs, with his head against the wall. One leg was badly crushed, his right arm was disabled, and his head was so thickly bound with linen that his mouth and one eye were the only features visible; but the philosopher was smoking a cigar, and evidently enjoyed it. He could not speak aloud, but he huskily whispered that there was no use in crying when he could just as well laugh.

The Girl Suicides.

The number of suicides in Paris has been appalling since a few weeks. Self-destruction seems to have become almost an epidemic. Not a day passes but the papers report one or several cases of voluntary death by drowning, suffocation or poisoning. The statistics of suicide in France are, indeed, of an alarming nature. Hundreds of unfortunate wretches are hurrying out of the world every year in this country, so prosperous, so highly civilized, at present so tranquil, but whose evil is a general lowering of the moral standard. It is particularly among that poor producers of luxury—the work girls, overworked, underfed, miserably paid, with brains impaired by the spectacle of frivolity and fashion, that the victims of suicide are recruited. Charcoal is the classic means of self-destruction with the sewing-girls, but occasionally some distracted plover of the needle will resort to a less ordinary end, as in the case of that unfortunate creature, who some years ago, threw herself down from the summit of the Vendome column. A more shocking death than hers could hardly be imagined, and the mingling of the trivial and commonplace circumstances which preceded her death has always impressed us deeply. She left her place of employment suddenly in the afternoon, alleging that she needed to buy thread; and hurried at once to the column on the place Vendome. Her companions, on hearing of her fearful death—her cry, when once she had leaped, will never be forgotten by those who heard it—remembered to have noticed her sewing her skirts together at the bottom, and to have wondered what could be the purpose of this. Life was not extinct in the battered broken body when it was taken to the nearest druggist's, and meanwhile eager groups were gathered around the pavement, where a horrid bloody stain marked the exact spot of the fall. And what of the suicide of two childish creatures, two girls of eleven and twelve, worked and driven beyond endurance, who crept away together one gloomy night, and, clasping each other's hands, walked step by step until the water closed over their heads, into the Seine, where their slight and miserably-dressed bodies were found floating together the next day. The suicide of a child! Can human misery reach a greater horror than this?—Paris Register.

Cass City, Mich. P. R. Weydemeyer.

LET us be thankful that the House of Representatives has at last got down to hard work.

MORMONISM must go. Let the agitation go. The American people are working up, and have only begun to utter themselves on this evil.

The dry goods clerks of Boston have just organized a "Mutual Culture and Benefit Association," the principal object of which is to allow its members to go to Europe. Each member subscribes fifty cents a week for the first twenty weeks. This fund will be enough to send one out of every twenty-five members to Europe, the employers agreeing to pay their salaries during their absence. Two out of every twenty-five members will therefore see Europe each ten months, and the whole number be able to go in the course of ten years.

A CURIOUS law case has just been decided in the Georgia courts, and a Georgia railroad has had to pay $5,000 to a man who was put off a train last summer for sitting in his shirt-sleeves in the "ladies car." The conductor told him it was impolite, but he had contrary views on the subject. The conductor, who evidently thought himself responsible for the conduct of the passengers, as well as of the train, enforced, with the help of the brakeman, his own standard of social propriety, by ejecting him from the train; but a Georgia jury put a high price on the privilege of teaching etiquette to railroad travelers.

The London Advertiser contains the following paragraph, which is a fair sample of Chicago's generosity to the fire sufferers: The prize bale of cotton, which was sold at auction at Atlanta for the benefit of the Michigan sufferers, and started thence on a tour of the Western cities to be sold again and again for the same purpose, met with an unexpected rebuff at Chicago. The Secretary of the Board of Trade explained that the rules of that body forbade such charitable enterprises, and sent the bale to Toledo, as he had been requested to do. The gentleman in charge of the enterprise replied as follows: "We are exceedingly gratified to know that the Chicago Board of Trade has assumed such a high moral tone. We are also glad to be advised that the bale of cotton is on the way to Toledo, and as the minister said to the deacon to whom he had loaned his hat to take up a collection, 'we are mighty glad to get back that hat.'"

THE APPORTIONMENT BILL.

The Apportionment bill practically adopted by the House, fixing the number of members of the House for the next decennial period, subject to such additions as may be occasioned by the admission of new States, at 325, will in all probability become a law. It has yet, of course, to run the gamut of the Senate, but while action in that body may be delayed some weeks, there is scarcely a probability that any change will be made in the number of members agreed upon in the House. One reason is that the matter is one which more peculiarly concerns the House; and another, and a stronger one, is that the same considerations which prevailed in the House will control in the Senate.

One of the most extraordinary things in connection with the consideration of the bill in the House, was the fact that the Scaton method of apportionment was approved by a majority of the Committee on Apportionment, but that the method—which, as we have before said, had some "taking" features—was so riddled by criticism that it was left almost friendless when the vote was taken, only nine members arraying themselves in favor of it. And it must be said that the practical judgment of the House gave a more equitable apportionment than that which would be achieved by a plan which, though thoroughly scientific, unquestionably wrought injustice to two or three of the smaller States.

While there are some numbers which would have more perfectly adjusted the membership between the sections than that which was chosen, it is to be said in its favor that there are others which would have been palpably unjust. A total membership of 322 would have been more favorable to the Republicans than 325, and a total of 316 would have served the Democratic turn somewhat better. State considerations, however, played fully as important a part in finally determining the number of members as did political ones, and are more responsible for the aggregate increase of thirty-two in membership for which the bill provides.

It is worthy of note that, in respect to its effect upon sections and parties, the bill scarcely differs from that passed by the last House of Representatives, in which there was a Democratic majority. That bill, which provided for a House of 319 members, failed in the Senate. The allotment of the additional six Representatives by the present bill gives one each to the pronounced Republican States of Iowa, Kansas and Wisconsin, one each to the equally pronounced Democratic States of Texas and South Carolina, and one to be battled for in New York. The extent to which State considerations prevail is shown by the fact that although the last House was Democratic the bill which it adopted was not the one which had received the assent of the Democratic majority on the committee, but was introduced by Mr. Sherwin, a Republican member from Illinois. So, too, the present House, with a Republican majority, overruled not only the plan but the aggregate membership which the majority of the committee favored.—Free Press.

Communication.

Gagetown, Feb. 20th, 1882.
ED. ENTERPRISE.
It is claimed by some that the P. O. & P. A. railroad company do not pay as fast as they have promised to. I have dealt with the company to the amount of $1,500 within the past two months, and find them to be a good paying company. If parties do not get their pay it is because the pay rolls are not properly executed, and not the fault of the company. Some claim that James A. Lawrie, the contractor, is the cause of their trouble; in this they are mistaken as he does not make out the pay rolls or keep the books. He does not handle the money, and for this reason could not keep any pay from anyone. I have had a private account with Mr. Lawrie, to the amount of over twenty dollars, and have received every cent of my due, and for this reason consider him an honest man.
Yours Respectfully,
GEORGE C. PETERHANS.

OTIY AND VICINITY.

—Snow. —At last. —Beautiful. —Sleighting hot.

—Wheat holds steady. —Butter still at 20 cents. —Oats steady at 50 cents.

—Potatoes bring $1.00 readily. —Beans worth $2.75 per bushel.

—The sleighs are now seen bobbing around. —Plenty of drummers in the village on Monday.

—T. H. Hunt has purchased a new Diebold safe. —Eggs, during the week, took a drop to 15 cents per dozen.

—Mr. Gully, Harpers agent, was in the village on Monday. —Several new brick blocks will be erected in the spring.

—Green was singing at the top of his voice "four for a quarter" on Friday. —Mrs. J. L. Hitchcock was very sick Friday and Saturday, but is now better.

—Mr. Sam. Dellaree has added a handsome new cup case to his establishment. —Extensive travel through the village yesterday. The hotel was crowded at noon.

—Free managerie near the post office on Thursday night last. We were not invited. —Mr. Nathan Hirschberg has been visiting with his brother and cousin the past week.

—It is rumored that a certain person who uses the knife and saw quite often, is to be married. —Pontiac has at last raised all her bonus and work will be commenced at that point immediately.

—The Boston Restaurant is doing a nice business attending to the wants of the inner man. See change of advertisement. —The band boys are constant in their practice. They are bound to give a concert that will give the best of satisfaction.

—Attention pay to the change of advertisements in this issue of Wilsey & McPhail and of Frank Austin, and read, consider and act. —Mr. A. D. Gillies dislocated his left finger last week, but we are glad to say he does not suffer much inconvenience from the injured member.

—Mr. Frank Hendrick came out in our last issue with a new and enlarged advertisement. His business is growing rapidly as his increased space indicates. —Mr. Samuel Benkleman, who has lately returned from a two years sojourn in Colorado, called on the ENTERPRISE on Monday. He is not positive about returning.

—The new school books which are to be introduced into our schools, arrived on Monday and are now in stock for exchange or purchasing at both of our drug stores.

—Dr. Smith, we are glad to say, is able to sit up. He has had a serious time, but is gradually improving.

—We are informed that Mr. Geo. Freeman is detained in Canada on account of the dangerous illness of his mother.

—The P. H. & N. W. R. R., are running through trains from Port Huron to Saginaw and a number of handsome new coaches have been added to this well equipped road.

—The relief office has been removed from their old quarters to one of the rooms in the first floor of the town hall. There Messrs. Ale and Tennant may be found in their glory.

—The Dubois Brothers have the timber on the ground for their new store, which is to be 20x36, two stories high. The work of framing is going on and we may soon see the frame up.

—We have heard rumors that Mr. Muzzie, father of the boy who died of small-pox the week before last, was taken down with the same disease, but we are glad to learn that the report is not true.

—Quite a number of individuals the past two weeks have labored under a delusion about our place of business. We are on the second floor of the town hall, and not in Mr. Hinkle's building.

—We find that the January 26th number of the ENTERPRISE is not on our file, and we have no extra copies of that number to replace it. Anyone having one of the said copies will do us a favor by handing it in.

—The Mt. Clemens Monitor says to us "your another." Now if almost anyone else called us that, we should be very demonstrative. We would naturally infer that it did mean something deferential to our character.

—Last Wednesday eve, as we were going to press, we had the pleasure of receiving a large number of lady callers and explaining to them the mysteries of printing. We are always pleased to have lady visitors. Call again ladies.

—We are glad to welcome to the editorial ranks Frank H. Thomas, who has become the proprietor of the Caro Jeffersonian, the democratic organ of the county. Frank is a genial good fellow, respected by all and a leader in his party.

—Mr. Graham, who teaches in the Walmesley school house, was suddenly called to Canada some three weeks ago to attend the funeral of his mother. He returned on Thursday last. In his absence Miss Annie Walmesley took charge of the school.

—We announced last week that Mr. Brodie, Mr. Lawrie's clerk, would move to Cass City on Friday and remain permanently with us. In this we were mistaken as he has taken another notion into his head, or someone for him, and gone to Canada.

—Great is the effects of advertising. Last week a two line ad., in our columns, for snow, and lo and behold, after seeing nothing but bare ground for the past two months, a white garment of "the beautiful" covers the earth. "Advertise always, advertise now, etc."

—We can hardly tell what to make of a number of our correspondents. It seems impossible for them to send in their budget of news regularly. We want parties in every township within ten miles of Cass City to contribute local news matter weekly. Come or send for the necessary stationery.

—Three of Kirkpatrick's sons, of Novesta, were arrested on Friday for stealing several ivory rings and some small straps from Sol. Utter's harness, which was hanging in the hotel barn. They were brought before justice Jeffrey and plead guilty to the charge. In consideration of their father being away from home, the sentence was deferred for eight days, and they were let out, Mr. McHenry going their bail.

—We have the privilege of extending our congratulations and wishing a long, peaceful and happy life to the respected pastor of the M. E. church, Rev. Benj. Reeve. He has this day taken unto himself a wife in the parsonage of Miss Hattie Mixer, of Midland. He and his bride will return tomorrow, and take immediate possession of the parsonage.

On Wednesday the Elder bled him away. Where he was going he would not say. He returns with one far better than any other, his own lonesome bride, Miss Hattie Mixer.

—A citizens meeting was held on Tuesday evening to take action relative to the proposed removal of the county fair from Watrousville, and a committee was appointed to procure subscriptions to a fund to be presented to the society in case Vassar is designated as the place. The committee actively canvassed the village yesterday with very satisfactory results, and a definite proposition will be submitted to the executive committee of the agricultural society at its meeting to-day.—Vassar Times. It would appear from the above item that Vassar was becoming somewhat greedy, although we do not blame the citizens for working for every improvement that it is possible for them to control. If the county fair is to be moved, and if it is to be a county fair why should it be taken so far into one corner of the county? Our people up here in the opposite corner would occasionally like to enjoy the privilege of attending these gatherings, but should it be located so far distant, many would prefer to remain at home rather than drive their stock and haul their produce twenty-five to thirty-five miles. It hardly seems probable that this action will be taken, but should it, they will then take steps, an idea which has been agitated in this vicinity to some degree, to have a "little one of our own" in this neighborhood.

—The work of partitioning off the hall on the second floor of the hotel for bedrooms, is about completed, and now a substantial broad staircase is being built from the front hall leading to these rooms. Mr. Tennant is bound to make everything comfortable for his patrons.

—A few of the delinquent subscribers have kindly called in and settled for the ENTERPRISE, but not a sufficient number to seriously clog the cash market in this office. Now we can only do one thing, namely: cut off all names from our books who have not paid their subscriptions in advance. This plan is forced upon us and we must carry it through. If you cannot pay for a whole year in advance, you certainly can for three months. We will give you two weeks to consider this matter and if you think the ENTERPRISE will be worth $1.50 to you in the course of a year, in keeping you posted in the local matters of this locality as well as the political and foreign news of the world, drop in and see us. We will be glad to see you. These not reporting by that time needn't scold the postmaster because he won't give them a paper, because there will be none there for them.

—How is it that such an enterprising village as Cass City has not a library association as Cass City has not a library association? This is a question asked by several parties on learning that we had no society of the kind. Now a rare chance of securing a first-class library at very low figures has presented itself to us the past few days. It is composed of fifty volumes, by the most popular writers in history, biography and works of a fictitious nature. Among the names of the authors may be found Jacob and John S. C. Abbott, Wilkie Collins, Charles Dickens, John G. Edgar, Samuel Smiles, Jared Sparks and W. M. Thackeray. These libraries contain books of all descriptions, to suit everyone's taste. It will cost but a small sum to purchase one of this size, which would be sufficient for the present and could be afterward added to. If an association of about fifty members could be organized in the village and vicinity, each member paying an entrance fee, say, one dollar for gentlemen and seventy-five cents for ladies, and a small yearly fee, it would be sufficient to purchase these fifty volumes and give each member a book each week for a year. By that time the increase of membership, the yearly dues and an occasional supper or social would enable the society to double up the number of books and in this manner have a fresh book for each week for each member. Take hold of this project ladies, and talk it up with your lady friends, and neighbors and your families. It is what is needed in every village and city. It gives the ladies a welcome change from the daily routine of the kitchen and the children something interesting to draw them off the streets and keep them at home in the evenings. Let us hear from our citizens on this subject, and grasp the liberal offer which has been placed before us.

—Mr. McCormick, having completed the survey of over five miles of the line south of the river, withdrew his corps of assistants from this part of the road and left on Wednesday for the vicinity of Caseville, where he has work to perform. Mr. Howard's gang are within ten miles of this village, so that there only remains about five miles more ground to be traversed before the surveying of the entire road from Oxford to Caseville will have been completed.

Insects In India.

You have recently arrived in the country, are living in a kutcha house (built of sun-dried bricks and mud-mortar), have made yourself comfortable therein, and are going to have your first dinner party. All your knick-knacks are proudly displayed on your table, and in its center blazes your lamp, just unpacked. The dinner hour approaches, and you nervously take a look round to see that all is right. One or two insects, new to you, are fluttering about the lamp or on the table, and in brushing them off you perhaps notice that the same insects are swarming out of a corner from the floor. Your guests arrive; and while receiving and marshaling them into dinner the insect invasion has assumed formidable proportions, so that when you sit down to soup you find the air around the lamp alive with termites, and your fair cloth covered with them. Every soup-plate is stuffed with them, as also your glasses of sherry. In despair you appeal to the company, or to your table attendant, and are advised to remove the lamp at once from the table. On doing so, the invaders on the wings are diverted; and then you notice that the thousands on the table have dropped their wings broadcast, and are now chasing one another about. In comparative darkness you finish your dinner and adjourn to the drawing room. When your guests have left curiosity takes you back to the dining-room; and you find the table and the site of the removed lamp strewn with myriads of wings, and their owners nowhere.

Watch the insects outside and the sight is equally wonderful. From a spot in the ground where you would least expect it you find one or two termites fluttering in the air; watch them narrowly and you will find a minute hole, far too minute for the hordes which are squeezing out of it and then rising into the air. Around the hole half-a-dozen wingless workers are fussing frantically. But let us watch the perfect insects, and return afterward to the workers. Soon we see a pyramidal cloud of insects in the air, the apex resting over the hole. This becomes denser and spreads wider as the breeze catches their wings. News of the flight have been telegraphed far and wide. Sparrows and crows, fly catchers and king-crows, kites and mynas, flock to the scene and gorge on the fliers. (Kites feast laboriously; every termite is individually seized with the talons and then disposed of with the beak.) If evening is setting in, bats and even frugivorous flying-foxes join in the revel; and termites are devoured in myriads. Turn again to the hole whence the last termite has emerged, and you will find the workers busily engaged in plastering it up again and destroying all traces of the flight. The few survivors of the swarm seek the earth, drop their wings and disappear. The dropping of the wings is a marvelous process; two pairs, with all their machinery of blood vessels, nerves and ligaments, are instantaneously dispensed with, and the insect seems livelier than before; and this mutilation occurs precisely at the exact moment. Seize a termite by the wings at the wrong moment and he will struggle violently to escape, the wings remaining firm in your grasp. Seize it at the right moment and you will see it lift its body upward and backward like an earwig, deliberately unhook its wings and so escape.—Chambers' Journal.

Pounds, Shillings and Pence.

A paper was read by Mr. John Evans, D. C. L., LL.D., on "L. S. D. or the Origin of Pounds, Shillings and Pence." In treating of the development of the three principal English coins, the lecturer proceeded to trace the history of the penny downward, and exhibited an interesting specimen of Offa's (King of Mercia, A. D. 759-796) coinage, that monarch being probably the originator of the penny coin. The earliest English piece with a date is one supposed to have been struck for Perkin Warbeck in 1494. From the time of Edward I. the penny silver coinage underwent a steady process of degradation, until in 1707 copper pennies, weighing one ounce avoirdupois each, were first issued by royal authority. The derivation of the name of "shilling" is doubtful, but in medieval times the word was always Latinized as solidus, a Roman coin, which was originally of gold and about seventy grains in weight. Though the term was well-known in Saxon times it was only in use in accounts. Henry VII., who was the first to introduce the pound in gold, also struck the first shilling in silver in 1504. Edward VI. was the first to introduce silver crowns, half-crowns and sixpences, and he also reformed the coinage of shillings, which his father had greatly debased. In 1816 the great recoinage commenced, and by 1819 upwards of 60,000,000 shillings and 30,000,000 sixpences were struck. The pound weight of silver originally corresponded with the money pound of account, there being in it 240 dwts. No gold currency existed in this country until nearly two centuries after the Norman Conquest, the first gold coin struck having been a gold penny, in the year 1259, which Henry III. ordered to be current for twenty pence. In 1343 another attempt to introduce a gold coinage was made, gold florins of six shillings, and half and quarter florins being then issued, but they were almost at once called in. They were succeeded by the noble, and in the reign of Edward IV. the angel, each being originally current for six shillings eight pence. In 1489 the sovereign, equivalent to twenty shillings, was coined, the name being derived from the representation of the obverse of the sovereign seated. With various changes in quality and value the sovereign or pound remained in currency until after the Restoration, when the piece obtained the name of guinea, from the gold of which they were made having been brought from Guinea by the African Company, and their value was enhanced to twenty-one shillings. The present sovereign dates from July 1, 1817, when it was made by proclamation based upon Act of Parliament, the sole standard measure of value and legal tender for payment without any limitation of amount.—London Post.

Two cases of small-pox are reported in the vicinity of Tuscola.
