MIDWINTER TRANSFORMATION.

Grandma—Hello, Enoch! Glad ter see yer. Dew take yer things right off.

Enoch—Cold night—ain't it?—Harber's Bazar.

Caught On The Fly.

List teachers and scholars as you shall hear. An explanation we make right here. Last week we did state—as all are aware—that a letter received good things did bear; the date of the letter our eye did escape. And that's the secret to our great mistake. The vacation in "School Notes" one week was to be. But still it was rumored 'twas one less than three. To correct this false rumor the letter was wrote. But the editor thought 'twas to correct the "School Notes." We're willing our share of the censure to take. And will always, hereafter, keep watch of the date.

Samuel Wells is ill. Our poet is strictly temperate. Wednesday was all fools day. Don't forget the item box at the post-office.

Chas St. Mary has closed his restaurant and billiard hall.

W. T. Brown attended the teacher's examination at Marlette last Friday.

H. P. Mahoney has sold one of his planers to John Parrott, of Evergreen.

Rev. Curry will occupy the pulpit in the Baptist Church next Sunday morning and evening.

Miss Maggie McDougall arrived home from her two weeks' vacation at Pt. Edward, Tuesday night.

Next Sunday is "Envelope Sunday" at the Methodist Church—or in other words "pay up day."

McDougall & Co. will occupy the building vacated by Chas St. Mary, as soon as the same is fitted up.

Editor Corliss, of the Mayville Sayings, was in town Saturday and made this office a pleasant call.

Garrison Buckingham, of Caseville, was in town last week receiving medical treatment from Dr. Deming.

There was no preaching in the Baptist Church last Sunday evening owing to the illness of Rev. McArthur.

E. Maturcan has moved his grocery to the Hitchcock building, recently vacated by Mrs. A. Z. Cleaver.

Wm. Ostrander and family intend moving to Kalamazoo instead of Grand Rapids as we stated last week.

Our job press is kept "humming" day and night this week. Next Monday is "Town Meeting Day" you know.

The Township Board was in session at the Town Hall Tuesday, settling up with Township Treasurer McKenzie.

Scott Brotherton and wife were in Detroit last Monday. Mrs. Brotherton was receiving medical treatment for her eyes.

We are pleased to announce that Mrs. B. Predmore, whose serious illness we have mentioned before, is recovering.

A meeting for mothers will be held under the directions of the W. C. T. U. at the Presbyterian Church this afternoon.

Texas has a Hogg for governor, a Pig for judge, a Lamb for senator, a Durham for representative and a Buffalo for sheriff.

Miss Helen McGregor, principal of the Fremont Bay City School, and her sister, are visiting their cousin Dr. J. H. McLean.

Henry Sheffer has engaged as cook on James Tolbert's drive, which commenced at the mouth of White Creek Tuesday morning.

All are requested to come prepared for a Bible reading next Sunday evening at the Epworth League. Meeting will commence at 6 p. m., sharp.

About thirty persons wrote on the special examination held here last Friday and Saturday. H. E. Gordon and Mr. Reavy were the examiners.

"Free Will and Character" is the subject for the young people's meeting next Sunday evening. All are expected to come prepared to talk on the subject.

Misses Hannah McDougall and Belle McKenzie returned to Cass City Monday noon, the former having been visiting at Pt. Edward and the latter at Kingston.

"Tis a "farm horse" instead of a "farm house" that E. McKim advertises for sale. The manager of our three cent column desires to apologize.

The Baptist society intend to add a steeple and belfry to their church in a short time. They also contemplate papering the interior and make other improvements.

The Baptist Society will give a reception for their pastor, F. L. Curry, Friday, April 10th, at the residence of J. S. McArthur. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

G. W. Bordman, of Vassar, is in town this week selling stock for the Home Building and Loan Association, of Detroit, and endeavoring to organize a local board. He is meeting with good success.

A. H. Higgins will soon engage in the watch and clock repairing business at Kingston. Kingston is a hustling little town and Ab is a good workman, therefore we predict for him a good business.

We would be pleased to devote space each week to the various churches in town. We invite the ministers to hand in the text of their sermons and such other items and announcements as would be of interest to the ENTERPRISE readers.

Frances J. Karr, who has been an enfeebled with consumption for some time, died on Wednesday at her father's home. She was thirty-four years of age, respected and loved by all her friends and acquaintances. The funeral occurred at Bethel Church last Friday at ten o'clock.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church, will meet at the residence of Mrs. S. M. Gilchrist next Wednesday, April 8th. All interested in the work of the church and society are cordially invited to be present.

Rev. W. L. Baker, who has filled the pulpit in the Presbyterian Church for the past two Sundays, left for his home at Belleville, Ohio, Tuesday morning. He has accepted the pastorate of this church and will move here with his family about May 1st.

MARRIED.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Brookfield, Mar. 31st, 1891, by Rev. S. M. Gilchrist, Andrew W. Johnson and Miss Mary Gill, of Brookfield. By the same pastor, at the same place, Elijah Young, of South Saginaw and Miss Annie Gill, of Brookfield.

The W. T. C. U. will hold public Meeting at the Presbyterian Church, on Friday Eve, April 10th, to which all are invited. The members, both active and honorary, are especially requested to be present. A fine program is being prepared, which will be both instructive and entertaining.

John Leonard received a letter this week from his sister in Chicago, in which she details the robbery of his mother's house a few days before. Besides securing some money, watches, jewelry and silverware, the robbers handled Mrs. Leonard so roughly that she is not expected to live.—[Bad Axe Democrat.

Edward Fitch took his son Roy to Ann Arbor last week to ascertain whether or not anything could be done for the restoration of his eye sight. The physicians at that place did not think it advisable to attempt to effect a cure, as it might result in destroying what little sight the boy now has.

Mrs. Elmer Smith, whose serious illness has heretofore been mentioned, died with consumption at her home last Wednesday. Deceased had suffered for a long time, but bore her pain with the greatest of patience until death relieved her. The funeral occurred Friday at the

M. E. Church. The husband and family have the sympathy of all.

Mrs. H. S. Wickware received a telegram last Saturday, announcing, as she supposed, the death of her mother, who resides at Keesee. Accompanied by her husband and children she left for that place the same day, arriving there early the next morning. Her mother was alive and enjoying as good health as usual. It was the death of her brother's wife that the telegram announced.

Advertised letters remaining in the postoffice at Cass City, Mich. If not called for before May 1st, 1891, will be sent to the dead letter office at Washington, D. C.: Herman Winchic, Geo. Pose, Joseph Clark, Alex McMillen, Chas. T. Masters, John Botomer, J. L. Erb, David H. Elliot, Maggie Walker, Ella Harrison, Mrs. Ruth Dickont, Mrs. Violet Bingham and Miss Lucy Elymer.

Snake stories are now in vogue and a cow story may not be amiss. Here's one from Lansing: C. L. Seeley, of that city, owns a Holstein cow that gives 60 quarts of milk per day, one-half of which is cream. The truthful editor neglects to state that after a hard day's work making milk for Seeley the cow cheerfully works the churn until late in the night and spends the rest of her useful life in making cheese. She also pumps the water for the rest of the stock, and Mr. Seeley is thinking of teaching her to milk herself.

The Students' Christian Association building at the Michigan University is nearly finished, but $12,000 are needed to complete and furnish it in time to dedicate during the June "commencement." The Detroit Journal has undertaken to raise this amount for them in small donations, and this plan has been endorsed by the pastors of the Ann Arbor Churches. Donations for the same purpose may be sent to the Detroit Journal, and will be acknowledged and forwarded. The readers of this paper should heartily co-operate, for it is a most worthy object.

This is the way the orthographyless editor of the Columa Boomer writes and punctuates his items: On Monday there was a dancing party on C. A. Williams. The party was in honor of their 25th annual marriage of life, which they were presented a hanging lamp and Center table, about 25 of their friends were present. May they and those who were there meet again in 25 years to come.—The Coloma pickle factory is dead! we will live in hope to catch another. The company had about 150 acres of cucumbers engaged, for which that was wanted, but why the firm did not show up, have not learned.

It may comfort some nervous and emotional women to know that a French physician has declared in favor of a "good cry." He encourages groaning and crying during surgical operations, and is of the opinion that such patients as yield to their emotions and let nature's grand outlets for allaying pain be unchecked, recover more quickly than those who from a feeling that it is weak to utter groans and cries restrain them. He cites the case of a man who brought his pulse down 60 beats by giving himself up noisily to his strained and nervous condition for two hours. So cry, good sisters, if you want to, and rest in the belief that science sanctions it.

The farmer is being victimized again, that is, those of him who are susceptible. Here is the way it is being done: A firm advertises in the papers that a first class farm is wanted, and of course, receives replies without number, as a great many are just now ready to dispose of their farms. The game is, on receipt of these letters, to write to parties, saying that if railroad fare to and from the farm is sent to the advertisers, some one would at once come out, as from the description it is judged the farm is about what is wanted. Quite a number of people forward the railroad fare which of course they never hear of again. The scoundrel skips out, and their victims are apparently without redress.

Mrs. Andrew Swogler is quite ill. All should read the ads. of J. L. Hitchcock and W. J. Campbell.

Wm. Eliever returned Wednesday night from his visit at Annada.

Mrs. Hand fell down cellar on Tuesday and severely injured herself.

A bouncing baby girl arrived at Orlando Predmore's on Thursday morning.

All those having books belonging to M. E. library will please return the same next Sunday.

E. H. Pinney has a new desk in his bank. It was manufactured by O. C. Lenzner, and is an elegant piece of furniture.

Landon, Eno & Keating's planing mill has commenced running again after lying idle for some time, caused by some repairs going astray on the railroad.

We hope our readers will excuse us if the ENTERPRISE is not up to the standard this week in the line of local news etc., as an extra amount of job printing has caused us to neglect the paper somewhat.

HAPPENINGS ON THE HILL.

A FEW MASTER STROKES.

Several new students in school this term.

Eight new pupils in the primary room this term.

School opened Tuesday with a good attendance.

A very fine map of the United States was presented to the school this week by P. R. Weydemeyer.

The Misses McGeorge, teachers in the Bay City schools, and Mrs. Dr. McLean were visitors Wednesday.

Jennie Farrar and Lillie Schenck, who have been out of school for sometime on account of illness, are again in school.

The astronomy class commenced its work this week. We are sorry that we have not a telescope and some other apparatus for this subject.

If you have any small animals around for which you haven't any particular use, please notify a member of the zoology class and it will get a thorough examination, etc.

Mr. Johnson is in Ann Arbor receiving medical treatment, as it has been almost impossible for him to attend the school house for sometime.

An assistant teacher has been added who has charge of about thirty pupils from the primary room who are seated in the high school and grammar room, and will also teach some class from the high school.

The thirty dollars worth of books purchased last week together with those already in our library, gives us a very nice collection of books. We have now about two hundred dollars worth of good reference books in our school library, which is of great assistance to the pupils.

Parents, patrons and citizens, don't forget to visit us when convenient for you to do so. Walk right in without knocking, ask any questions you wish, stay as long as you please, make yourselves at home and leave when you get ready. We make no special preparations for visitors, but try to make the work of each day such that it will bear inspection.

More Poetry.

The following poem regarding the two week's vacation given to the teachers and scholars by the ENTERPRISE last week, was handed us Wednesday noon for publication:

Look dear readers and you shall find
The origin of that pleasing news, by your editor kind:
In Detroit to be sure was Conlon T. A.
But not upon the mentioned day;
Only two days sooner—that is all—
Which time to the post appeared very small.
And the letter was sent for the benefit of a few
To announce a one week's vacation and not at two.
And if on commencing some were late
The reason for this we can soon relate:
It was simply this and nothing more.
The date was not noticed as said before.

Card of Thanks.

We cannot express our heartfelt gratitude toward our kind friends and neighbors in rendering their assistance to us during the long illness of our loved one that has now gone to rest. We hope wherever your lot may be cast through life you may find as kind and willing neighbors as we have found.

To Farmers: If you desire to get the best possible returns from your dairy, set your milk in "Fairbank" cans. These cans were furnished by the Creamery while it was in operation and proved much superior to the old way of setting milk in pans.

I am authorized to sell the balance of these cans at about half price. They are nearly as good as new. If you wish to purchase some of these cans come while they last. We also have a few 20 and 30 gallon gathering cans, which are nearly new.

These are very convenient cans for parties who patronize the Cheese Factory and will be sold at less than half their cost.

The eight horse power boiler and engine now in the Creamery will be sold at a bargain.

AROUND THE STATE.

AFFAIRS CONNECTED WITH THE SOLDIERS' HOME.

Capt. Manly of Ann Arbor Appointed Commandant.—Estimate of Expenses for the Ensuing Two Years.—$185,840 Necessary.

The Soldiers' Home.

Capt. Manly of Ann Arbor has been elected the new commandant of the soldiers' home. He will take Gen. Pierce's place April 1. The board also approved Gen. Rutherford's bond of $50,000 as treasurer, signed by Edwin F. Uhl, Enos Putnam and Joseph Houseman of Grand Rapids.

Suicide at North Lansing.

Miss Myrtle Coats, 17 years old, and the daughter of well-to-do parents living at North Lansing, committed suicide Thursday night by poison; probably strychnine. The young lady was taken suddenly ill and soon passed into convulsions.

Heavy Damages Asked.

Harriet Kellogg has begun suit in the circuit court at Kalamazoo against a party named Harrison of Schoolcraft for $200,000 damages, alleging malpractice in treating for her cancer when she had a tumor. She alleges that he burned her body with candles.

MICHIGAN STATE ITEMS.

The latest directory of Lansing contains 5,930 names. A new postoffice has been established at Beavertown, Gladstone county. John A. Grebe, a leading business man of Hastings, died of heart disease Wednesday.

W. H. Clark, the Saginaw dry goods merchant who died Sunday night, aged 60 years, had insurance policies amounting to $46,000 and a comfortable fortune. There is lumber enough on the banks of the Menominee river to last the mills there 20 years and pay a good rate of interest on the $400,000 tied up in lumbering outfits.

Dr. James N. Martin has been appointed professor of obstetrics and diseases of women at the university. He has been filling the chair since Prof. Dunster's death. The United States life saving station near Muskegon will not open until May 1, instead of April 1 as in the past, owing to the change in date for the opening of navigation.

Chief Nan-qua-chio-ning of the Chipewas, aged about 50 years, migrated to the happy hunting grounds of the good Indians Monday. He was the last chief of his tribe.

The St. Joseph citizens held a meeting Tuesday night and resolved that it was for the best interests of the place to raise $50,000 to $100,000 to induce manufacturers to locate there.

The foundation for the new chair and table company's works at Hastings, the largest manufacturing in the place, is finished, and work on the superstructure will be rushed to completion.

Manager Bridge of the Dunham house, the leading hotel in Manistee, has spent $1,000 in repairs on the house and putting in bath rooms. He is now reaping the reward in the praise of his guests.

The first patron lodge was started at Moore, Sanilac county, five years ago. The lodge is now dead and a farmer's alliance organization has started there and swept the patrons out of existence.

Rev. C. M. Westlake of Manistee, who created hard feelings by marrying an old man and young girl without the consent of the girl's parents, has been compelled to seek new pastures and greener fields.

Harry W. Booth, the student who shot Motorman George Stoll Sunday night, is out on $500 bail and trying to settle the case. He says he is very sorry. It is said that he offered Stoll $500 to settle.

Mrs. Wealthy A. Curtis, a well-known resident of Morris, died at her daughter's residence Saturday, aged 90 years. She was an exceptionally intellectual woman and held her mental qualities to the end.

Fowlerville will rise from its ashes better than ever before. Eight new brick stores will be built, the Holy system of water works will be put in and the entire town will take hold to make things boom.

The Escanaba, Iron Mountain & Western road has been closed out. Stetson, Trembly & Kent of New York, being the real purchasers. It is probable that the Chicago & Northwestern will control the road.

The town of Crosswell, with its 800 population, has 315 church members and 305 members of secret and temperance societies. Every man, woman and child in the village belongs to some society or other.

Evangelist Rowland has been conducting a series of revival meetings at Marshall with such success that he was given a purse of $200 Wednesday night. He won the esteem of the community and has been very successful.

The Manistee & Northeastern railroad, the doleful road of Manistee county, has bought and paid spot cash for two locomotives and 50 freight cars, and now owns seven engines. The road is being pushed forward all the time.

Miss Julia A. Goddard, 45 years old, of Grand Rapids, has died of D. W. Wood, at Byron farmer of 70 years, for breach of promise. Dexter is now married, but according to the old maid's statement was a widower when he proposed to her.

Mrs. Benjamin Vickerman of Wheatfield township, Calhoun county, has been mentally unbalanced for some time, but was not supposed to be dangerous until Thursday, when she set fire to her clothing and slowly roasted to death before the flames could be put out. She was 43 years old.

At the request of the leading architects of Bay City Senator McMillan wired architect Windom Saturday to have operations on the Bay City government building suspended until Bay City people could be heard from. The Bay City people object to style and everything else and want a change.

There is a coal famine in Negaunee and local dealers have been obliged to stock up from Wisconsin points and they are mad because the Wisconsin dealers charged full price and did not throw in the extra 240 pounds to make up a long ton. Failure of a couple of coal boats to arrive in the fall was the cause.

Paul Weigel, brother of Andrew Weigel of Iron Mountain, who was arrested for counterfeiting, was also raked in during a raid on his residence, in which a lot of molds for making counterfeit nickels were found. Molds for making every coin from a 21 piece to a $20 gold piece were found at the same time.

Dan McLea, a tough, was confined in the jail at Alpena on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. He had but 15 days of his sentence to serve, yet he saved his way out by cutting one of the bars, and is now at liberty. The officers hope they will catch him so they can give him a good round sentence for jail breaking.

The Traverse City extension of the Chicago & West Michigan railroad will cut a wide swath through the cottages at the Bay View summer resort and raise a ruckus. As the regular residents want the road they will join with the railroad company in fighting the Chautauqua people, who are expected to oppose the plans of the road.

A mill hand named Olson, employed in Sand's mill at Lake City was caught in a shafting he was oiling Thursday and was killed around to his death. The coroner gave a verdict of nobody to blame, and the work of death goes on. Sand's mill has been the scene of two bad accidents this week, another man being badly injured by being caught in a saw.

Amos Smith of Big Rapids tried to work Fred Linsley, a baker, for 15 cents worth of cakes for one dime. When the game did not work he took satisfaction in pounding the baker. Amos' cake is all dough now, as he was arrested for the assault and fined.

An Ishpeming Finn drifted into a street fight and was beautifully thrashed. He developed a fighting drunk, but did not lose his bump of caution and steered straight for the hospital, thinking, no doubt, that he could find some cripple there that he could thrash. He did not reach the cripples, as the hospital doctors throw him out into the road and then had him arrested.

Charles Bell of Bay City was sentenced to 42 months in the Iowa prison Thursday by the Gratiot-county court for breaking into a store in Middleton some time ago.

Earl Crandall, 8 years old, of Benton Harbor was crushed to death Thursday by crawling under a moving train. He did not know that it was going to start.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

TEXT OF A NEW APPORTIONMENT SCHEME.

Attorney-General Ellis' Opinion Concerning the Payment of War Bounties.—Gov. Winans' Health Improving.

The house committee on fisheries, whereof Mr. Doyle of Sault Ste. Marie is chairman, has prepared its report. It commends the Michigan fish commission for its good work, its economical and wise management, and the excellent condition of the various fish hatcheries.

The committee expresses in pretty plain terms its inability to get statistics and information from the officials in charge of the United States fish hatcheries at Northville. The committee recommends that the state whitfish hatcheries be taken in charge by the general government, the reason being that the fish planted by Michigan swim over into Canadian waters, or to the Wisconsin, Minnesota and Indiana shores and the federal government ought to pay the cost, as the people of the province of Ontario and our neighboring states have a share in the proceeds of the fish culture. The committee recommends the establishment of a new fish hatchery at Sault Ste. Marie in case the present policy is continued, and are strongly of the mind that the appropriations asked by the fish commission should be granted.

The committee also strongly recommends that the game and fish warden should be made subordinate to the fish commission, and give some excellent reasons why this should be done.

The house committee of the whole has agreed to the joint resolution for the final adjustment of the disputed boundary between Michigan and Ohio. The joint resolution provides for the appointment of Daniel E. Soper as commissioner. The expenses of the commission are to be paid by the state board of auditors. No limit is fixed to the amount.

The house committee on apportionment will probably recommend a substitute bill for the rearrangement of representative districts in the state legislature. The substitute gives Wayne county 12 representatives, Kent 5, Saginaw 4, Bay 3, St. Clair 3, Lenawee 2, Jackson 2, Calhoun 2, Washtenaw 2, Berrien 2, Oakland 2, Muskegon 2, Marquette 2, Genesee 2, Kalamazoo 2, Allegan 2, Ingham 2, Ottawa 2, Menominee 2, Ionia 2, Montcalm 2, Monroe 2 and Macomb 2. The following are given one representative each: Sanilac, Eaton, Van Buren, Hillsdale, Shiawassee, Lapeer, Huron, Gratiot, Branch, Clinton, St. Joseph, Manistee, Barry, Cass, Livingston, Newago, Mecosta, Isabella, Mason, Oceana, Midland and Gladwin. The groupings of other counties which must "double up" to be entitled to one representative are still under consideration. Houghton county will be split and one-half attached to adjoining territory.

The bill appropriating $183,850 for the soldiers' home during the next two years passed the house Thursday morning, as did also the bill amending Lowell's charter.

Attorney General Ellis has reported to the house that, in his opinion, it would be unconstitutional to issue new bonds for the payment of soldiers' bounties. However, he recommends that bonds to the amount of $694,000, authorized in war times, be issued; and this amount, together with the sum due the state from the general government under the direct tax bill, will probably be sufficient to settle all bounty claims.

Notwithstanding the kick on the state weather service, a bill appropriating $2,600 for its support during the next two years has been favorably reported in the house.

World's Fair Commissioners Richmond, Lane and Barbour, and Messrs. Henry Chamberlain, Charles W. Garfield, Ford Starring, George M. Savage and Prof. Samuel Johnson had hearing before the world's fair committee of the house on Friday on the subject of an appropriation for the world's fair. Addresses were made by all the gentlemen named; Mr. George M. Barbour, Mr. Starring, Mr. Savage, Mr. Lane and Mr. Richmond for the general subject, the necessity for buildings and ample provision for a good display from Michigan, and Messrs. Chamberlain, Garfield and Johnson in reference to the agricultural and horticultural interests. The committee give by these gentlemen as a proper sum to enable Michigan to make a proper commensurate with the resources of the state is $200,000 to $300,000. About two-thirds of that amount will be required for buildings, which must be constructed of brick and iron. Mr. Starring explained President Palmer's idea to make the fair a comprehensive tour of the world, with Michigan to be suitably represented.

The senate committee on claims and public accounts have reported favorably upon a joint resolution allowing ex-Gov. Begole the privilege of presenting to the state board of auditors a claim against the state for money paid out by him in the case of Dullan vs. Wilson, the case of attempted removal of a trustee of the Flint deaf and dumb institute. The judiciary committee have likewise reported Senator McCormick's bill for the protection of dealers in monuments and gravestones.

IN DEATH'S GRIP.

Fastened Upon Hundreds of Victims In and About Pittsburg.

A dispatch from Pittsburg, Pa., dated Tuesday, says: From a street joke the gripe has become a generally dangerous pest. The death rate has increased to a great extent and this month will break the record by the alarming increase of 60 per cent. Closing at noon Tuesday 723 deaths have occurred in Pittsburg and Allegheny in the 24 days of this month. Thirty-eight deaths have been reported within the last 24 hours and many, no doubt, have not been reported. The direct causes given on certificates are gripe, influenza, pneumonia, typhoid and diphtheria. From the last named disease one death per day has occurred within the last three weeks at the Home of the Friendless alone. In the two cities there were 51 funerals Sunday and there were not one-half enough hearsees to go around. Respectably covered wagons are used, and carriages are daily at a premium. In one large clothing house 23 clerks are laid off with influenza, which is daily growing more severe and now numbers of victims nearing the 5,000 mark in the city and suburbs. Physicians are overworked and some have as high as 40 to 60 cases of gripe alone. It is estimated that 1,000 people are suffering with the gripe in the towns along the Fort Wayne road. At Bellevue and West Bellevue over 200 cases are reported, some of which are of a very serious nature. At Ellsworth and Haysville there are over 100 cases. There are also many cases in Sewickley, and it is estimated that fully 500 people are confined to their homes. Reports from other towns show results somewhat similar, though none are so afflicted as this city. A special from Canton, O., says Miss Kate Detwiler, a handsome young lady of 24 years, lung herself last night. She had been suffering from a severe attack of the gripe and while delirious from the fever succumbed.

Death Rampant in Chicago.

Gripping pneumonia and the vernal equinox, jointly, did deadly work in Chicago last week. The footings show that 804 persons died during the week, the major portion of them of lung diseases. Pneumonia claimed 170; gripe, 17; bronchitis, 81; diphtheria, 23; scarlet fever, 15; typhoid fever, 13; consumption, 46; acute lung disease carried off 238. Last week the death list was 709. The rate per 1,000 was 34.84, almost unprecedented in this history of the city.

Can't Stop Sneezing.

A dispatch from Lima, O., says: Among the several hundred cases of gripe here, that afflicting Miss Mary Christmas is peculiar. She was taken with the disease Monday and in the evening was seized with a violent fit of sneezing, which has continued ever since without intermission, physicians being powerless.

GENERAL NEWS.

$2 SILVER CERTIFICATE COUNTERFEITS ABROAD.

Death of Dr. Howard Crosby, New York's Noted Presbyterian Divine. Interesting News Items Gathered from Many Sources.

Counterfeit Bills.

A Washington dispatch says: A sensation has been caused at the treasury department by the discovery of a counterfeit $2 silver certificate so nearly perfect in all its parts as to be almost impossible of detection. Heretofore all counterfeiters of our paper currency have been readily detected by the failure to imitate the distinctive character of the paper on which government notes are printed, which is so arranged that each part of it forming a complete note contains a small silk thread running through it lengthwise.

This paper is for the first time almost perfectly imitated in the counterfeit just discovered. So far as known it has only been used in counterfeiting the $2 silver certificate of the series of 1868. This note was designed under the supervision of Treasurer Jordan and contains on its face a vignette of Gen. Hancock. It is estimated that there are now nearly $40,000,000 of these notes in circulation, and the problem before the treasury department is how to get them back into the treasury and to substitute a new series without serious embarrassment before any considerable quantity of the counterfeit notes get into circulation. This was the subject of a secret conference at the treasury department recently between officials of the bureau of engraving and printing. It was practically decided to suspend the printing of the two-dollar silver certificates and to institute a new series of the same denomination. These will contain a vignette of Secretary Windom, and will be issued as soon as the necessary plates can be engraved. It will take about two months to prepare the plates and the government will exert its utmost endeavors to secure and destroy the plates and other paraphernalia used in the manufacture of the counterfeit.

Death of a Noted Divine.

Rev. Dr. Howard Crosby died at his residence in New York city on Sunday afternoon. His end was peaceful. As the bells were ringing for resper service of Easter day he asked by sign for paper and wrote a few lines to his loved ones, to the absent son and daughter in Egypt and the three members of his family at home. The first words of this, his last writing, were: "I know I have to go."

Howard Crosby was born in New York city Feb. 27, 1826, and was graduated from the university of the city of New York in 1844. In 1851 he became professor of Greek in that institution, and in 1859 was called to the chair of Greek at Rutgers. Two years later he entered the Presbyterian ministry, and in 1863 became pastor of the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian church in New York, a position which he has held ever since. From 1870 to 1881 he was chancellor of the university of New York. Harvard gave him the degree of D. D. in 1859, and Columbia that of LL. D. in 1871. Dr. Crosby was a prominent advocate of temperance as distinguished from total abstinence. In 1877 he took a prominent part in founding the society for the prevention of crime, whose chief object is to decrease the number of saloons and restrict the liquor traffic. Through this society, of which he served as president from its foundation, he influenced legislation and was a potent factor for good. Dr. Crosby published several works of a religious and educational character, contributed largely to periodicals, and was a member of the American committee to revise the New Testament.

Paid the Penalty.

The jail at Much Chunk, Pa., was crowded Thursday morning to witness the hanging of Oliver William Stangley. Religious services were held in the cell of the prisoner. Ex-Sheriff J. W. Raubenbach, who hanged several of the Mellie Maguire's, superintended the execution. At 10:30 the procession came from the cell of the condemned man and ascended the scaffold. The sheriff asked him whether he had anything to say. Stangley replied in German that men should repent and not lead a life like his. His hands and feet were then shackled. Sheriff Levant then adjusted the rope about his neck and put on the black cap. At 11:04 the drop fell. Stangley dropped about five feet and his neck was broken. He was practically dead instantly, only once moving his legs. At 11:19 he was pronounced dead and at 11:30 the body was cut down.

George Washington Moss was hanged at Wilkesbarre in the prison yard at 10:18 o'clock the same morning. This hanging was witnessed by only a few persons—the jury of twelve, twenty-five deputies and the reporters. The execution was conducted without a hitch. Most walked to the gallows smiling, with a firm and fearless face. He said: "God does not hold me responsible for the murder of my wife and I do not hold myself responsible. I die like a soldier, with a smile." Death ensued in eleven minutes.

At St. Peter's Run, Pa., Saturday night, a burglar named Anderson killed Detective Gilkinson and wounded two other men. He is in jail at Braddock, Pa.

An Italian meeting to protest against the New Orleans killing was broken up at Troy, N. Y., Sunday night by a mob, which bombarded the building with stones.

Some fool yelled "fire" in the opera house at Springfield, O., Sunday night while religious services were being conducted, and a panic was almost averted by the choir singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Four-and-a-Half Per Cents.

A Washington correspondent writes under date of March 27 as follows: The 4 1/2 per cent loan, of which a little more than $50,000,000 is now outstanding, will mature September 1, next. Treasury officials say there will be no trouble whatever in meeting it and it was regarded as a matter of so little concern that it was not thought necessary to bring it to the attention of congress. The department stands ready now to redeem these bonds with interest to maturity, and the small amount presented each day is taken as an indication that the holders are in no particular hurry to dispose of them. A prominent official said this afternoon that the department will be able to redeem them all on the date of maturity if they shall be presented, but that the history of all government loans indicate that there is no possibility of such a thing and that it will be found that a large amount of these bonds will not be presented for redemption for many months after interest has ceased to run. While the available cash balance in the treasury is now only about $13,000,000 the government has about $30,000,000 additional on deposit in national banks which can be utilized in case of necessity.

Paul Worth of Au Sable was hauled up for assaulting his wife and fined $16. This made him very angry, and catching up with his wife outside, he gave her unmerciful thrashing. Paul is now liable to do time for his gallantry, as he has been complaining of for assault with intent to do great bodily harm and is in jail.

Mrs. Eli Phillips of Alpena did not like Eli for a cent and applied for a divorce. The law is much too slow for Mrs. Eli, however, and Wednesday she sloped to Detroit and a handsome woodsman who left about the same time is supposed to have gone with her. Nearly $300 in hard cash that Eli had been saving up also took to itself wings.

Rev. H. A. Kerns of Big Rapids has been telling his congregation how much evil existed and how he knew it, and the authorities, just where it was. Marsh Seaman thought this an imputation on his good name and asked Kerns one day on the street where all this evil was that he talked about so glibly. The Rev. Kerns thought it time to depart and lingered not to tell the officer.

Snake stories are now in vogue and a cow story may not be amiss. Here's one from Lansing: C. Seeley of that city owns a Holstein cow that gives 60 quarts of milk per day, one-half of which is cream. The truthful editor neglects to state that after a hard day's work making milk for Seeley the cow cheerfully works the churn until late into the night and spends the rest of her useful life in making cheese. She also pumps the water for the rest of the stock, and Mr. Seeley is thinking of teaching her to milk herself.

Dun's Trade Review.

E. G. Dun's weekly review of trade says. If no news is good news as the condition of business at this season the outlook is fairly satisfactory. Trade has been rather quiet and hesitating and as is natural at this season, there is more complaint of slow collections, but throughout the northwest and west and the best state of country roads supply an explanation. Money is in fair and increasing supply and though still tight at Salt Lake and scarce at Jacksonville and in stronger demand at Milwaukee, is almost everywhere easier so that wants of legitimate business are not without trouble. The outlook for the coming crops continues exceptionally good. It has been a week of unhealthy speculation in some products owing to reports of powerful combinations to force prices on which they can unload without loss. Wheat was $1.16 1/2 on Monday, and at $1.15 1/2 is still 2c higher than a week ago, sales in New York having been 75,000,000 bushels, and corn, with sales of 35,000,000 bushels, has risen 4 1/2c to 7 1/2c, while oats at 59 1/2c are less than 1c higher. The treasury has put out nearly $5,000,000 more than it has taken in during the week, but part has gone abroad. The business failures have been fewer than the country during the last seven days number 256, as compared with a total of 275 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 243.

The Missouri peach crop is reported to have been ruined by cold weather.

A couple of slick sharpers settled down on Flint as the best point to work a fake scheme, and work it they did in a most effective manner. The best citizens were inveigled into it in this way. The sharpers represented themselves as agents of the Davison manufacturing company and formed clubs for the sale of both tubs. Each club member paid in $1 per week and each club consisted of 35 persons. The sharpers scooped $3,000 from the town, giving up nothing in return. It will be a long time before any 38 club scheme takes in Flint.

"So you've been bounced?" said Mrs. Popover. Marian Milman winced at the elegant word; but she understood enough of the Popover style of dialect to know that no harm was intended. Mrs. Popover did not gauge her phrasology by "Webster's Unabridged," but she was a good soul, nevertheless. "Yes," she answered meekly, "I've been discharged."

vacant place there was at least a score of applicants. They sought from place to place; they traversed street after street, but in vain. And on a dreary February night, when the snow was turning to discolored slush on the pavements and a dismal fog hung over the streets, Marian looked sadly up into her friend's face. "The soles of my shoes are worn in holes, Juliet, said she. 'My feet are soaking wet, and my head aches, and—I don't think I can go out any more. It's of no use. I think heaven has forgotten us.'"

How to Make Money. I read what Mr. Bell said about making $50 per month. I also sent to the Standard Silver Ware Co., Essex St., Boston, Mass., and received a fine case of samples. I took orders the first day that paid me $10 profit; made $40 the first week; at the end of one month I had $110 clear profit. GERMANY is said to be looking with longing eyes on Cuba. Yet it is reasonably safe to say that if that island changes hands at all it will not come into possession of another European power.

ONE good effect of this Mafia business is that it will suggest legislation to prevent the country from being any longer made the dumping ground for Europe's ignorance and villainy. Further neglect of this duty on the part of congress will not be tolerated.

PARNELL'S ENVOYS are not encountering the open arms and purses that have awaited former missions in behalf of Ireland in this country; and it is safe to say that until the controversy at home is settled between the factions, outside assistance will be somewhat limited in volume.

The unanimity with which American sympathizers with Ireland are withholding subscriptions for the "cause" until its champions in Ireland patch up their quarrels will stop the factional fighting quicker and more effectually than even martial law by the British government.

It is interesting early for a revolution to take place in Brazil, the overthrow of the empire having been accomplished only about a year and a half ago. Yet considerations of race and locality give some plausibility to the rumor that an uprising is being planned. Revolutions are among the staple products of South America.

MR JOHN A. MACDONALD thinks that the title "Americans" should be reserved are agreed upon that course, but we have pre-empted the title and proved up our claim.

GUILT, not nationality, is the determining consideration in the United States in dealing with banded criminality. The American Bald Knobbers, the Irish Molly Maguire, the German, Bohemian and Hungarian anarchist,
the Chinese highlander and the members of the Italian Mafia have the same punishment meted out to them in this country.

In defending his conduct in leading a fail to do their duty. Where would a continuation of this line of argument lead to?

The demand for notes of small de-

ORDERS have been sent to the various receiving ships of the navy to discontinue all enlistments for the present.
This is because the legal limit of 8,250 men and boys has been nearly reached.
It was discovered recently that the number in the service was within forty-two of the limit, and in order to provide for the continuous service men, which it is always desirable to retreat, it was deemed advisable to call a halt before there was no room left for these men.

MRS. JACKSON, the wealthy Englishwoman recently kidnaped by her husband, from whom she was living apart, and who has been held a prisoner in her husband's home under the old English law of absolute ownership by the husband of a wife, has been released by the court of appeals, which decrees that she be allowed her full liberty, with the right to choose her own residence. It is safe to say that if Mrs.
Jackson would surrender the control of her fortune to her husband he would have no objection to the order of the court.

The suggestion that a colossal statue of the late prince consort, husband of the queen of Great Britain, be erected at the main entrance of the principal exhibition building of the world's great fair at Chicago has received the entire approval of Secretary Blaine, and it is probable the suggestion will be carried out. It will be remembered that the prince consort was the original founder of the system of great international exhibitions, the first of the kind, viz., the London exhibition of 1851, having had its inception in the brain of the prince consort, and its successful accomplishment being largely due to his efforts.

The supreme court will, on April 27,
take up the question of the constitutionality of the McKinley law. A decision, therefore, may be looked for on an early day. To the country at large this is one of the most interesting cases which has been brought before that tribunal in recent years. Several legal points have been raised against the act, and that touching the reciprocity provision is apparently the strongest of them all. It will be remembered that a few of the best lawyers in the senate,
when the measure was before that body, declared that, in their opinion, the reciprocity section gave powers to the president which were not authorized by either the letter or spirit of the constitution. However, the whole matter will be definitely settled within the next few weeks.

plain-looking.—Life.

Very Striking.
"I beg your pardon," said Mr. Worthington, "but did I understand you to refer to the lady who has just passed as a stunner?"
"Yes, sir; I said it deliberately, and,
I think, judiciously. You must consider the fact that I was struck by her appearance."—Washington Post.

An Agitated Siro.
Father—Where are the girls going tonight?
Mother—There is a rehearsal of "The Messiah," I believe.
Father (sharply)—Has that infernal ghost-dance craze come East?—Judge.

As It Happens Too Often.
"It is a pity that young Gowitt hasn't taken more advantage of his opportunities."
"Yes, indeed; the trouble is that he has taken too much advantage of those who offered the opportunities!"—Puck.

His Ancient Pedigree.
"I'm a Hill, sir! the oldest family in America."
"I never heard of the Hill family being among those of ancient lineage."
"What, never heard of the proverb? 'As old as the Hills!'"—Judge.

Philadelphia's First Book.
The first book of any kind published in Philadelphia was Atkin's Almanack for the year 1696. It was an unpag-ed pamphlet of twenty pages, only two copies of which are now known to exist, each being worth more than its weight in twenty-dollar notes. The first copy of the "Almanack" printed was sent to Colonel Maricham, Penn's deputy, who reported to the Provincial Council that it declared Pennsylvania to have been organized by "Lord Penn." The council emphatically disapproved of this euphemistic falsehood, and directed both author and printer (William Bradford) "to blot out ye words 'Lord Penn.'" This caused the recall of the whole edition, and the obliteration of the obnoxious words.—St. Louis Republic.

Inductive Reasoning.
Gibbs—Kieckshaw is younger than his wife, isn't he?
Dimnick—Yes; but he doesn't like it known. How did you find it out?
Gibbs—From Kieckshaw himself.
Dimnick—Impossible.
Gibbs—Yes; he told me that a man ought to marry a woman six years his junior.—Judge.

A California Chorus In 1838.
General Vallejo's readiness of apt anecdote was always remarkable. Patti once dined with him, and asked the old soldier if he enjoyed the first opera he ever heard.
"Why, no," said Vallejo. "And yet I confess I shall never forget it."
This reply aroused Patti's curiosity, and she demanded when and where the event took place.
"In 1838, on the site of the Palace Hotel, San Francisco."
"Indeed! And who was the prima donna so long ago as that?"
"Well, I can't say," was the smiling answer, "but there were at least five hundred coyotes in the chorus."—Century.

That Let Him In.
Sappington—Do you know, Miss Amy, that nearly all great writers are downright fools at other things?
Amy—Is that so, Mr. Sappington?
Why, then, I should think you might succeed as a writer.—Life.

CHILDREN

Are always liable to sudden and severe colds, to croup, sore throat, lung fever, etc.
Remedies, to be effective, must be administered without delay. Nothing is better adapted for such emergencies than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It soothes the inflamed membrane, promotes expectoration, relieves coughing, and induces sleep. The prompt use of this medicine has saved innumerable lives, both of young and old.

"One of my children had croup. The case was alarming, and my physician and I were opposed to be well under control. One night
I was startled by the child's hard breathing, and on going to it found it

Strangling.
It had nearly ceased to breathe. Realizing that the child was in danger, I had come possibly in spite of the medicine it had taken, I reasoned that such remedies would be of no avail. Having a part of a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house, I gave the child three doses, at short intervals, and anxiously waited results. From the moment the Pectoral was given, the child's breathing grew easier, and a short time it was breathing quietly and breathing naturally. The child is alive and well to-day, and I do not hesitate to say that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved its life."—C. J. Woodridge, Wortham, Texas.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Tuscola—ss.
At a session of the Probate Court of said County, held at the Probate office, in the Village of Caro, this sixteenth day of February, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one. Present, James M. Van Tassel, Judge of Probate.

In the matter of the estate of Austin L. Muzzy, deceased.
On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Henry Butler administrator with the will annexed of said deceased, praying for reasons therein set forth, that he may be authorized, empowered and licensed to sell the real estate of said deceased for the purpose of paying the debts of said deceased, and for the purpose of distributing the residue of said estate. Thereupon it is ordered, that Monday, the twenty third day of March next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, be and is appointed the time when and where the heirs at law of said deceased, and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said court, to be held at the Probate office, in the village of Caro, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. And it is further ordered, that said petition be given notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of the petition to be published in the Enterprise, a newspaper printed and circulated in said county, four successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

JAMES VAN TASSEL,
Judge of Probate.

ENCLOSURE SALE.
Notice is hereby given that a mort-

WEST GREENLEAF. Oh! a big girl at Henry Prices. Levi Bordwell has purchased another team. Lawrence Fields has purchased a span of horses. James Hartwick has purchased a span of horses. Miss Jane Blackmore was in Ubly last week on business. The maple sugar is being corded up rapidly at Gilbert Bros.' A load of young folks spent a very agreeable evening visiting at J. M. Jones a few nights ago. Frank Wilmot has returned home from Pt. Huron, where he has been during the winter. Fred Leppla and his sister Bertha have gone up near Ubly, where they intend to spend the summer.

KARR'S CORNERS.

April fool. Good roads. Good sugar weather for the past week. Mr Sharrey and family have had a little truck with the mumps. They are better now.

Naman Karr has a watch that had the crystal melted and the spring destroyed in the deflagration that raged in the Mad Lake lumbermen's shanty, but since C. Spencer, of Cass City, put in new springs and a new crystal it keeps as good time as ever.

We have since learned that Mr. Crank has turned his attention from his flying machine and now he is inventing a kite to which he intends to attach himself. We don't know whether he is going to the World's Fair or contemplates making a trip to the moon.

On Wednesday March 25 between a. m. and 12 p. m. some unknown dog or dogs attacked Mr. Muma's sheep. After pulling a pound and a quarter of wool out of one of them they captured her and tore her in a frightful manner. The sheep succeeded in getting away from her captors and came to the barn. It is doubtful if she will recover.

Yes, Bro. of Kingston, when we quoted book to you for judging us sinners newly repented, we should have gave you "Judge not lest ye be judg'd" etc. Thanks for the suggestion, we will try and return the favor some time.

The following language from the lips of R. G. Ingersol, when compared with other of his writings is hard to understand. In his eulogy on the life of Lawrence Barret, he said: "In the drama of life we are all actors and none knows his part. No preceptors voice is heard and no one knows what the next scene will be." "Will the curtain rise on another stage? Reason says perhaps; hope whispers, yes."

As mild a winter as we have had no Blue Jays have been seen, and no Robins or Blue birds have put in appearance yet.

On account of the prevalence of the gripe our doctors and their horses have been over worked, till it has become cruelty to animals.

R. P. Reavy, of the public school reports that the grip is returning to pupils again, and that he will soon have his regular attendance.

It has been conjectured that the secret of antediluvian longevity was some method of keeping the blood pure, warm and vigorous. Moderns accomplish the same purpose by using Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best blood medicine ever brought to light.

No medicine has had greater success in checking consumption, in its early stages, than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It stops coughing, soothes the throat and lungs, and induces much needed repose. Hundreds have testified to the remarkable virtue of this preparation.

Happy Hoosiers.

Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from Kidney and Liver troubles." John Leslie, farmer and stockman of same place, says: "Find Electric Bitters to be the best Kidney and Liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50cts. a bottle, at Fritz Bros., Drugstore."

Remarkable Rescue

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her Lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her Druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own house work and is as well as ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Fritz Bros.' Drug Store. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

FOREIGN POWERS are about to adopt the electrical welding method for making shells for artillery. How would it do to use the electric process to cement an agreement of peace between the rotten old monarchies?

STENOGRAPHERS and typewriters can be had in New York in bunches at $4 a week. Cooks at $30 a month and board can not be found to supply the demand. All of which shows that the girls of the period would sooner be dictated to by a man than by a woman.

It is said that the Chinese have no straight street or walls, because they believe that the devil travels in a straight line. The best evidence in every man's life sustains the belief that his satanic majesty seldom beats around the bush, but that like Santa Clause in the poem, he always goes straight to his work.

The largest gold coin in circulation in the world is stated to be the gold 'loof' of Annam, the French colony in eastern Asia. It is a flat round piece, worth sixty-five pounds sterling. The next in size to this unwieldy coin is the Japanese 'obang,' which weighs more than two ounces and a half, about equal to ten English sovereigns.

THERE were employed about 48,000 census enumerators for last year's United States census, and the average pay was about seventy-four dollars apiece, or $3,552,000 in all, or about five cents a head of our population. There was neither time nor money enough spent on it. It had the disadvantage of being a legitimate object for the utmost liberality.

TO REGAIN a financial and commercial equilibrium it is necessary that common sense and conservative views should rule. To expect to get anything in this world without labor, or the products of labor, is a wild and dangerous theory. Laws cannot be passed to put money in one's pocket, but they can be adopted so as to keep it from being taken out unjustly.

In consequence of the New French law compelling seminarists to serve in the army the French bishops have taken measures for their protection during the trying period of service. There is to be a seminarist's home in every garrison town, where they will spend all their leisure moments. They will, so far as possible, observe the college rules and continue their theological studies.

It need not necessarily cut down next year's crop of wheat to inform the agricultural world that an acre of bananas will support 25 times as many persons as an acre of wheat. One thousand square feet of land, growing bananas, will produce 4,000 pounds of nutritious substance. The same space, devoted to wheat or potatoes will produce only 83 pounds of wheat, or 99 pounds of potatoes.

In last reports from the consuls of the United States, H. F. Merritt, of the United States consulate at Chemnitz, offers to the farmers of this country some highly interesting information and advice about beet culture. In the first place he shows that the United States annually sends to the German empire fully $16,000,000 for sugar made from beets grown in Prussia. Then he shows that in that part of the territory in this country lying between the thirty-eighth and forty-second parallels, there are millions of acres just as well adapted to the raising of beets as in the richest part of Prussia. There is no reason why the $16,000,000 sent to Germany every year should not be kept in this country and go into the pockets of the farmer and the men who make beets into sugar.

IDEAS rule the world. They take possession of man's minds, and whether founded on fact or fiction the results are the same. Few individuals originate opinions of their own, for they are invariably obtained from those expressed by other. It is this condition of affairs—a condition and not a theory—which has been the rule in life from the days of Adam to the present time. And it is this condition which causes the wide-spread complaint of 'hard times,' which greets the ear whichever way one turns. In all ages, in all countries, rapid development, of the resources of a new country, increased population, etc., cause outlay of immense sums of money and consequent great prosperity as long as capital is being invested. But this gait cannot be kept up indefinitely, a limit must be reached some time or other, and then a reaction sets in which is very keenly felt by all classes. And when the reaction does come, dissatisfaction among the people, and particularly those who have been unfortunate in speculation, follows.

THOUGHTS FOR EASTER.

DR. TALMAGE'S SERMON ON THE GREAT CHURCH FESTIVAL.

The Significance of Christ's Resurrection in the Lives of His Followers.

New York, March 29.—Dr. Talmage preached an Easter sermon to his audiences today. Both at the morning service in Brooklyn and at New York in the evening the Academies of Music were bright with a profusion of flowers, Easter lilies being conspicuous. A selection of music appropriate to the festival was beautifully rendered at each service. The text of the preacher's discourse was Matthew 28:6, "Come, see the place where the Lord lay." Visiting any great city we are not satisfied until we have also looked at its cemetery. We examine all the styles of cenotaph, mausoleum, sarcophagus, crypt and sculpture. Here lies buried a statesman, yonder an orator, here a poet, out there an inventor, in some other place a great philanthropist. But with how much greater interest and with more depth of emotion we look upon our family plot in the cemetery. In the one case, it is a matter of public interest; in the other, it is a matter of private and heartfelt affection. But around the grave at which we halt this morning, there are gathered all kinds of stupendous interest. At this sepulchre, I have to tell you, in this sepulchre there was buried a King, a Conqueror, an Emancipator, a Friend, a Brother, a Christ. Monarch of the universe, but bone of our bone, and flesh of our flesh, and sorrow of our sorrow, and heart of our heart. "Come, see the place where the Lord lay."

It has for surroundings, the manor in the suburbs of Jerusalem, a manor owned by a wealthy gentleman by the name of Joseph. He was one of the court of seventy who had condemned Christ, but I think he had voted in the negative, or, being a timid man, had been absent at the time of the casting of the vote. He had laid out the parterre at great expense. It was a hot climate and I suppose there were broad-branched trees and winding paths underneath them, while here the waters rippled over the rocks into a fishpool, and yonder the vines and the flowers clambered over the wall, and all around there were the beauties of kiosk and arboriculture. After the fatigues of the Jerusalem court-room, how refreshing to come out in these suburbs botanical and pomological.

I walk a little further on in the parterre and I come across a cluster of rocks, and I seem to them the marks of a sculptor's chisel. I come still closer and I find that there is a subterranean recess and I walk down the marble stairs, and come to a portico, over the doorway—an architecture of fruits and flowers chiseled by the hand of the sculptor. I go into the portico and on either side there are rooms, two, four or six rooms of rock. In the walls are niches, each niche large enough to hold a dead body. One of these rooms of rock is especially wealthy with sculpture. It was a beautiful and charming spot. Why all this? The fact was that Joseph, the owner of the parterre, of that wealthy manor, had recognized the fact that he could not always walk those gardens, and he sought this as his own last resting place. What a beautiful plot in which to wait for resurrection!

Mark well the mausoleum in the rock. It is to be the most celebrated tomb in all the ages; Catacombs of Egypt, tomb of Napoleon, Mahal Taj of India, nothing compared with it. Christ had just been murdered and his body must be thrown out to the dogs and the ravens as was customary with crucified bodies, unless there be prompt and effective hindrance. Joseph, the owner of the mausoleum, begs for the body of Christ, and he takes and washes the poor and mutilated frame from the blood and the dust, and shrouds it and perfumes it. I think embalment was omitted. When in olden times they wished to embalm a dead body, the priest with some pretension of medical skill would show the point between the ribs where the incision was to be made. Then the operator would come and make the incision, and then run for his life else he would be slain for violating the dead body. Then the other priests would come with salt niter and cassia, and wine of palm tree, and complete the embalment. But I think in this case embalment was omitted lest there be more excitement and another riot. The funeral advances. Present: Joseph, the owner of the mausoleum; Nicodemus, who brought the flowers, and the two Marys. Heavy burden on the shoulders of two men as they carry the body of Christ down the marble stairs and into the portico and lift the dead weight to the level of the niche in the rock, and push the body of Christ into the only pleasant resting place it ever had. These men coming forth close the door of rock against the recess. The government, afraid that the disciples would steal the body of Christ and play resurrection, put upon the door the seal of the Sanhedrim, the violation of that seal, like the violation of the United States government, or of the British government, always followed with severe penalties. A regiment of soldiers from the Tower of Antonio is detailed to guard that mausoleum. At the door of that tomb a fight took place which decided the question for all grave-yards and cemeteries. Sword of lightning against sword of steel. Angel of God against the military. The body in the crypt begins to move in its shroud of fine linen and slides down upon the pavement, moves through the portico, appears in the doorway, comes up the marble steps. Christ having left his mortuary attire behind him, comes forth in the garb of a workman as I take it, from the fact that the women mistook him for the gardener.

There and then was shattered the tomb so that it can never be rebuilt. All the trowels of earthly masonry cannot mend it. Forever and forever it is a broken tomb. Death that day taking the side of the military received a horrible cut under the angel's spear of flame, and must himself go down at the last—the King of Terrors disappearing before the King of Grace. "The Lord is risen." Hosanna! Hosanna!

We weep no more, your comforts slain. The Lord is risen, he lives again. Again! Standing in this place where the Lord lay, I am impressed with the fact that floral and sculptural ornamentation are appropriate for the places of the dead. We are all glad that in the short time of the Saviour's imputation he lay amid flowers and sculpture. I cannot quite understand what I see in the newspapers where amid the announcements of obsequies the friends request "send no flowers." Why, there is no place so appropriate for flowers as the casket of the departed. If your means allow—I repeat, if your means allow—let there be flowers on the casket, flowers on the hearse, flowers on the grave. Put them on the brow; it means coronation. Put them in the hand; it means victory. Christ was buried in a parterre. Christ was buried in a garden. Flowers are types of resurrection. Death is sad enough anyhow. Let conservatory and arboretum do all they can in the way of alleviation. Your little girl loved flowers while she was alive. Put them in her hands, now that she cannot go forth and pluck flowers for herself. On sunny days twist a garland for her still heart. Brooklyn has no grander glory than her Greenwood, nor Boston than her Mount Auburn, nor Philadelphia than her Laurel Hill, nor Cincinnati than her Spring Grove, nor San Francisco than her Lone Mountain.

Standing in this place where the Lord lay, I am also impressed with the dignity of unpretending obsequies. Joseph that day was mourner, sexton, liverrymen—had the entire charge of all the occasion. Four people only at the burial of the King of the universe. Let this be consolatory to those who through small means see lack of large acquaintance have had the demonstration of grief at the grave of their dead. It is not necessary. Long line of glittering equipages, two rows of silver handles, casket of costly wood, pall-bearers scarfed and gloved are not necessary. Christ looks out from heaven on a burial, where there are six in attendance and remembers there are two more than he had at his obsequies. Again; standing in this place where the Lord lay, I am impressed with the fact that you cannot keep the dead down. The seal of the Sanhedrim, a regiment of soldiers from the tower of Antonio to stand guard, floor of rock, roof of rock, wall of rock, niche of rock, cannot keep Christ in the crypt. Come out and come up he must. Come out and come up he did. Profragation. The first fruits of them that sleep. Just as certainly as you and I go down into the grave, just so certainly we will come up again.

Various scriptural accounts say that the work of grave-breaking will begin with the blast of trumpets and shoutings; whence I take it that the first intimation of the day will be a sound from heaven such as has never before been heard. It may not be so very loud, but it will be penetrating. There are mausoleums so deep that undisturbed silence has slept there ever since the day when the sleepers were left in them. The great noise shall strike through them. Among the corals of the sea, miles deep, where the shipwrecked rest, the sound will strike. No one will mistake it for thunder or the wail of earthly minstrelsy. There will be heard the voice of the uncounted millions of the dead who come rushing out of the graves of eternity, flying toward the tomb, crying, "Make way! Oh, grave give us back our body! We gave it to you in corruption; surrender it now in incorruption." Snap! go the iron gates of the modern vaults. The country graveyard will look like a rough ploughed field as the mounds break open. All the kings of the earth; all the senators; all the great men, all the armies—victors and vanquished; all the ages—barbaric and civilized; all those who were chopped by guillotine, or simmered in the fire, or rotted in dungeons; all the infants of a day; all the oceanic millions—all! Not one straggler left behind. All! All! And now the air is darkened with the fragments of bodies that are coming together from the opposite corners of the earth. Lost limbs finding their mate—bone to bone, sinew to sinew—until every joint is reconstructed, and every arm finds its socket, and the amputated limb of the surgeon's table shall be set again at the point from which it was severed.

Wake up, my friends, this day, this glorious Easter morning, with all these congratulations. If I understand this day it means peace toward Heaven and peace toward earth. Great wealth of flowers! Bring more flowers. Wreath them around the brazen doors of the canon, plant them in the desert until it shall blossom as the rose, braid them into the mane of the war charger as he comes back. No more red dahlia of human blood. Give us white lilies of peace. Strew all the earth with Easter garlands, for the resurrection we celebrate this morning implies all kinds of resurrection, a score of resurrections. Resurrection from death and sin to the life of the Gospel. Resurrection of commercial integrity. Resurrection of national honor. Resurrection of international good-will. Resurrection of art. Resurrection of literature. Resurrection of everything that is good and kind and generous and holy and beautiful. Nothing to stay down, to stay buried, but sin and darkness and pain and disease and revenge and death. Let those tarry in the grave forever. "Glorious to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good-will to men."

Christ, the Lord, is risen today, Sons of men and angels say. Raise your songs and triumphs high, Sing, ye Heavens, and earth reply. Love's redeeming work is done, Fought the fight, the battle won. Lo! the sun's eclipse is o'er; Lo! he sets in blood no more.

THE DIAMOND DRUMMER.

HE MUST BE A VERY EXCEPTIONAL SALESMAN.

He Often Carries a Stock Worth $25,000.—He Must Not be a Gambler or a Drinking Man.—He Sometimes Has a Guard.

"A thoroughly competent and thoroughly equipped diamond salesman," says a leading importer of the valuable stones to the Jeweler's Weekly, "is almost as rare and valuable as the diamond itself. I will say freely to you now that if I could find a salesman who filled all the requirements of the position I would gladly pay him a salary of $10,000 or $15,000 per year. But it is difficult to find a well-equipped salesman who has not some drawback or fault. There is a man in my mind now who is a most valuable salesman, is possessed of a thorough knowledge of diamonds, and his only fault is the fact that he will get drunk. Now if this man were strictly sober he could add several thousand dollars yearly to his salary. As it is he draws a large salary and the house which employs him would worry if they thought there was any danger of losing him. You can appreciate the danger of employing a man who is addicted to drink as a diamond salesman at once. You see we are forced by the nature of our business to give such a salesman when he goes out a valuable lot of goods to sell. We can't sell goods like other people.

"It is impossible to sell diamonds by sample. Diamonds are not manufactured; they are found, and when a man gets hold of a stone of value it is impossible for him to say to a customer, we have a stock of stones of which this is a fair sample, that we can supply to you. He must sell the stones separately. The buyer must examine each one. Hence we are forced to give the man a large and valuable stock of goods when he goes out to visit our customers. Now, anyone would naturally hesitate before he gives a man who is addicted to drink a stock of goods worth from $20,000 to $30,000. The firm who employs the salesman to whom I refer thoroughly realizes the danger and so does too salesman himself. He knows his own value and he also knows his own habits.

"In order to protect him when he goes out with a stock of goods a man is sent to accompany him. This man, who has nothing else in the world to do, always watches the salesman and takes care of the stock when he gets drunk. He receives a salary of $1,200 a year and has all of his expenses paid. Of course this man is really no value except as a guard over the salesman, and you can at once see the estimate placed by the firm on the salesman's value.

"One of the greatest dangers to a diamond importing house is that a trusted salesman will fall in with an unscrupulous woman, or will become addicted to the habit of gambling. Suppose a man becomes a gambler and suffers losses heavier than he can afford. He gets in a tight place. Like every gambler, he feels sure his luck will soon turn. He knows he has $20,000 or $25,000 worth of goods with him, on which he can at once realize ready money at a pawn shop.

"He never doubts the turn of the cards his way. He sells or pledges his goods. Any of his regular customers will buy from him and will never suspect anything if he offers a bargain. He has done that often before for the sake of trade. He loses the money and his delinquency is soon revealed. Then comes arrest, prosecution and conviction. As I said when I began, good diamond salesmen are rare, and I could name now several men who have been found short, but whom their employers have forgiven and offered another chance sooner than lose their services. If we could sell goods by sample all this would be changed, but we cannot and hence we are forced to take the risks. As a result, you will find that as soon as possible most importers of diamonds give a salesman as soon as they possibly can an interest in the business besides his salary, so as to offer an additional inducement to him to be honest."

Professional Posing.

One of the foremost women artists of New York is emphatic in insisting that a majority of studio-models are modest, clever women. She says the ordinary price paid is $1 a morning, or thirty-three and one-half cents an hour, posing thirty and resting fifteen minutes. It is tremendously trying work, necessitating considerable training to make a subject available for an artist's purposes. Proficiency of form and feature are strong recommendations to favor, but women of heroic mold with characteristic and marked faces, are prized above beauties, and are often able to command very high rates. As an instance of the possibility of the profession, she told of two little Italian boys, brothers, who support a family of nine members solely with money earned in this way. They are charmingly handsome chaps, with lustrous southern eyes. They sit for pictures of fruit-vendors, acolytes, boy princes, etc. So easily and surely do the young foreigners make a living, that with the abandonment common to their race, both parents have resigned labor, and with five other children subsist upon the studio profits of their two eldest sons.—From the Illustrated American.

A Humble Nerve Tonic.

Dandelion is the coming nerve for women. More than one experienced physician tells of its use in cases of nervous depression and melancholy almost suicidal. Hysteria with indigestion are most successfully treated by dandelion alone, using a strong decoction of the roots. For school girls growing green and black from over-study or bad circulation from any cause, for excitable women and those hysteric subjects who make their friends' lives a burden if not their own, the simplest remedy is a cup of strong dandelion coffee three times a day, made from the roots, fresh as possible, not the dried stuff sold as dandelion, which is half bread crumbs and the other half any age with the life roasted out.

SHE WAS "BUSINESS."

But She Had a Tender Feeling Deep in Her Woman's Heart.

A rickety old wagon, drawn by a pair of lean old mules, came around the corner of the freight house. A little old woman was holding the lines and three or four tow-headed children were behind her.

"Hec-up, Jerusalem!" she called to the off mule, who shied at a freight car, and with a twitch and a yank and a cut she wheeled the team around and backed up to the platform.

"Whar's the express feller?" she asked as she jumped out and came along cracking her whip. "Oh, you are the chap? Well, the old man's thar in the wagon. I want to ship him up to Erin."

"I don't see him," replied the agent, as he looked into the wagon.

"He 'uns in the coffin thar? I'm going up with it to Erin. How much to pay?"

"They went to the office and arranged matters, and the coffin was taken from the wagon and placed on a truck. Then the woman returned to the wagon and said to the eldest boy:

"Now you Rube, you drive slow and don't worry them mews, and the rest of you all behave yourselves. Come down fur me Wednesday, and bring a jag of co'n to sell with you. Hec-up, now!"

When the wagon had gone she turned to us and explained:

"Old man went off purty sudden, and I've had to move lively. He 'un wanted to be buried at home, and I wouldn't disappoint him."

"Your husband?" I asked.

"Sartin. Lived together nigh on to thirty years. Reckon you all are amazed that I don't cry and take on, but thar's heaps to see to, and it all falls on me. Only half an hour after the train, and I've got twenty things to think about."

We voted her full of "business," but rather hard-hearted, but we had to change our mind about that. She suddenly disappeared and as we walked along to the cotton bales piled high on the platform we heard a grieving and sobbing and then a voice of lamentation cried out:

"Oh, Jim, old man, it's the Lord's will, but I can't abide it! I'm a holdin' up and tryin' to be brave, but my old heart's being drowned out by tears which the eyes won't shed! I'm a-waitin' till I git back home whar I kin slop down and hev it out with my sorrow!"

And two minutes later she was standing at the ticket window and saying:

"Reckon these kivered kyars never do be on time, but I want no fussin' around in this case or somebody 'll get sued. Hain't got but two days to put him through and git back home."

A Matter of Color.

How many men feel called upon—How many vainly choose To paint the town a glory red To get rid of the blues.

Suspense.

Elysium is as far as to The very nearest room, If in that room a friend await Felicity or doom.

What fortitude the soul contains That it can so endure The accent of a coming foot The opening of a door.

His Badge of Honor.

The face of Preston B. Plumb, senator from Kansas, not handsome at best, is pitted by smallpox, says the New York Telegram. Said a man the other day who knows him: "Each one of these smallpox pits on Plumb's face is a medal of honor. In the early days of Kansas, Emporia was a booming town and Mr. Plumb was an impetuous printer. He gathered money together, however, to start a little weekly newspaper in the town and was doing fairly well with it and had almost paid up his debts. There ran a rumor through the new town one day that a strange tramp had been suddenly smitten with the smallpox and the epidemic was in danger of spreading. The rumor meant ruin to the embryonic municipality, and so the friendless and stricken man was hurried out on the prairies, far from the city, and left there in a log cabin to do the best he could for himself. There was no one to care for him, and of course, it was a wrestle with death. In a dingy, one-room editorial and printing office Preston B. Plumb heard the story. He closed the place, started out to the log house where the sick man lay, and for weeks nursed him and cared for him until he was saved from death. Then he lay down himself, stricken by the disease; but hearts had grown tender in the Kansas towns and kindly hands ministered to him until he, too, was saved."

Truthfulness.

Is it not a little odd that people are inclined to expect more from their children than they concede to their own duty? If all fathers and mothers were truthful, the result might not be to extirpate the race of liars, for liars must have originated and may well originate again, but it would surely diminish them. When these children of careless parents come to grief, there is the inevitable talk of ingratitude. Cakes and ale do not bind a son to decency or a daughter to purity. It is that subtle something which subsists in maternal care and fatherly love.

IT DIDN'T WORK.

He Had a Blood Purifier, but Found No Customers.

A dilapidated looking old man, who was chewing sassafras root with great energy, suddenly appeared in the waiting room of the Erie depot across the river, and as he approached a man who was waiting for a western train he pulled a bottle of liquid from an old satchel in his hand and said:

"My friend, you are looking yaller about the eyes, which is a sure sign your blood is in a bad state. One bottle of my blood purifier will restore you to health and vigor."

"Don't want it, sir!" was the curt reply.

"All right, mister, all right. If a feller wants to keep on looking yaller about the eyes when a pannycea is at hand, that's his own business. Long 'bout the middle of April you'll be on your back with a spell of bilious fever, but you needn't lay it up agin me."

The next person approached was a severe looking woman, about 35 years of age, who was probably an old maid.

"Them yaller streaks at the corner of your mouth denote a torpid liver, ma'am," said the man as he gave the bottle a snake. "Sunthin' right here to improve your looks fifty per cent in two weeks."

"Sir!" she demanded in icy tones.

"Only fifty cents a bottle, ma'am, and made right in my own house, from herbs and roots gathered by my own hand. Just opened the spring campaign, and the price is only fifty cents a bottle."

"Go away, sir!" she commanded, loudly.

"Don't want any, eh?"

"No, sir!"

"All right, madam—all right. Torpid liver may be a good thing to have about the house, but I don't think so. Here's your pannycea, and if you don't want it I can't compel you to buy it."

The third person was a man with a marked redness of nose and rough spots on his face. He was busy with a newspaper when the old man approached and said:

"One bottle will cure that nose, or money refunded."

"What! What's that?" demanded the man.

"And the second bottle will cause every rough spot to disappear, though it would be safer for you to take a third. 'Three bottles for a $1.25 or 50 cents for a single bottle. I war—!"

"Look a here, you old reprobate! What are you driving at?" exclaimed the patient as he stood up.

"I am selling a blood purifier, made of roots and herbs. It's a little early, perhaps, but I want to get the start of the buckwheat scratchers. Are you a drinking man?"

"Do you mean to insult me to my face, sir? Why, I'll punch your head for a cent!"

"Wouldn't do no good, mister. Here's the only genuine blood purifier in market, and last year I sold 7,000 bottles of it. It invigorates the liver, tones up the blood, and if I can't cure that nose of yours I don't want a cent."

"I'll purify you, you old assassin!" shouted the man; and he was peeling off his overcoat to do it when the depot policeman came up and told the old man he must go out.

"And not sell a bottle of my blood purifier in this crowd?" He asked.

"Come, out you go."

"And you don't want a bottle for yourself? You've got a jaundice look, and this 'ere stuff will knock the jaundice into a cocked hat in just five doses."

He was led out and told not to re-enter the depot, but he stood at the door and said to the policeman through the glass window:

"All right, officer, all right. If the people don't want my blood purifier they needn't have it. Its the season of purity, but I never go agin the law; and if there's a rampage of bilious fever next spring don't say I wasn't around with my pannycea at regular price."

Origin of Mermaid Stories.

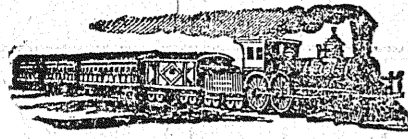

The dugong, a species of whale found abundantly in the waters of both the great oceans, but especially off the coast of Australia in the Pacific, is believed to have furnished the slender basis upon which all mermaid and merman stories have been founded. Its average length is from eight to twenty feet. It has a hand much resembling that of the human species, and breathes by means of lungs. It feeds upon submarine seaweeds, and when wounded makes a noise like a mad bull. Long hair in the female species and hair and beard in the male add to the resemblance of the head and neck. The flesh of this species of whale is used for food, and is said to have the flavor of bacon, mutton or beef, according to the part of the body from which the meat is taken.—New Orleans Picayune.

A Cranky Idea.

We believe in taxing every man fully up to his ability to bear it. Tax him for all the property he has, or all the common sense he hasn't, for all the luxuries he enjoys, and for all he don't enjoy, says the Germantown Telegraph. Grumbling is one of the luxuries which only farmers can fully appreciate; he has so many things to grumble about, and to grumble at, and makes it such an important item of his social standing, and then it is so annoying to his cattle, hogs, hens, family and neighbors, that he can well afford to pay. And we hope to see the day when grumblers will pay all the taxes required to run the government, to pay off the national debt, to support anti-grumblers themselves, their heirs and assigns forever. There are enough of them to do it all easily.

He Didn't Rest.

The desperado of the olden mining days hardly led a dolce-far niente sort of existence, if he did take life easily.—St. Joseph News.

"August Flower"

For two years I suffered terribly with stomach trouble, and was for all that time under treatment by a physician. He finally, after trying everything, said stomach was about worn out, and that I would have to cease eating solid food for a time at least. I was so weak that I could not work. Finally on the recommendation of a friend who had used your preparations with beneficial results, I procured a bottle of August Flower, and commenced using it. It seemed to do me good at once. I gained in strength and flesh rapidly; my appetite became good, and I suffered no bad effects from what I ate. I feel now like a new man, and consider that August Flower has entirely cured me of Dyspepsia in its worst form. JAMES E. DEBERICK, Saugerties, New York.

CANVAS-BACK DUCKS.

They Can Fly Two Miles a Minute and Can Keep it Up.

Dr. Charles Macrum, a wealthy retired physician of Portland, Ore., for the last three years has devoted his time to hunting and fishing and writing stories for sporting papers. The doctor has made a study of the speed of the duck and says the canvas-back can fly faster than any other member of the duck family.

"The canvas-back can distance any other duck," said the doctor. "It can fly two miles a minute and keep it up for hours. The mallard is the slowest, but with an effort can go a mile a minute. The gadwade duck is not found in the East, often, but is numerous in Oregon. The members of this family can travel eighty miles an hour. The broad-bill duck is almost as swift as the canvas-back, but cannot keep the race as long as the other.

"You may think that geese fly slower than mallard duck. This is not so. With the slow movement of their big wings they do not appear to be flying rapidly, but they travel from 80 to 100 miles an hour and keep it up for a day."

The doctor tells some interesting stories about his hunting experiences. When hunting near Madison, Wis., last fall he had a narrow escape from being killed by the body of a duck which had fallen at his feet from the air about 200 yards above him.

"A duck sometimes when wounded will circle around in the air and try to get as high up as possible," said the visitor. "I had wounded a big mallard and it started to circle upward directly over my head. I had a charge of buckshot in the other barrel and before it got out of range I fired. One of the bullets must have struck a vital part, for it came down instantly. It was directly above me and had I not dodged my head just in time its body would have struck me square upon the head. It whizzed past my ear with terrific force and fell at my side. There was not a bone in its body that was not broken when I attempted to pick it up. I am certain the blow would have crushed my skull had the body struck me on the top of the head.

"A friend of mine named Bancroft, when duck hunting in Florida, also had a close call. It was just getting dark, and we were waiting in our boats behind a pile of weeds, for the ducks to appear. We heard something come buzzing over the lake and my friend suddenly raised himself in his boat to see what it was. It was a teal duck. The bird must have been going at the rate of 150 miles an hour. Just as Bancroft looked up the duck struck him in the forehead and knocked him over into the water. The blow was so hard it stunned him and had I not been there to pull him out he certainly would have drowned. The blow killed the duck. When I fished it out of the water I found that the bird's breast-bone was broken."

Mrs. Macrum is with her husband. She always travels with him on his hunting excursions. She is also an expert shot. One day in the lakes near Madison she killed forty-eight ducks.

"Titles."

A great deal of needless ink seems to be shed over the titles which persons of small education give to each other. How does it injure one woman to have another woman a little blacker or poorer, or clumsier than herself called a "lady?" It signifies that the poor woman wishes to be thought and spoken of with respect, and who ought to complain of that? Jefferson once took off his hat to a negro, while his young grandson rode along without noticing the salutation of the poor man. "My child," said the Virginia gentleman, would you be outdone in politeness by a negro? Perhaps if a little more respect were shown by the fortunate to the less fortunate there would be less complaint of the rudeness of manners and the misplacing of titles.

Some newspapers are very scrupulous to bestow titles—"the Hon.," "the Rev.," and the like. Now a title which is not legally a man's right can only be given him by courtesy; and there is as much vulgarity in sticking these petty titles before a man's name as in calling a washer woman "a lady." The foolish designation of "Esq." for all men is going out of use, and it is now thought proper to entitle every man "Mr." Where real distinction of rank exists these titles mean something; where equality outwardly prevails the only sensible distinctions are those which manners and conduct make. I have never observed that there was any difficulty in distinguishing well-bred and well-behaved persons from their opposites; nature takes care of that.

The outward distinction conferred by the titles of "lord," "lady," "duke," "prince," or the American brevets of "judge," "general," "colonel," etc., had and still have an importance; but this cannot be increased by writing about them. The names impose on our imagination a little, but when we recollect that Talleyrand was a prince and John Howard only an esquire, we see that they do not mean much for posterity.—Boston Advertiser.

How the Devil Laughs.

Somebody says that "the devil laughs when men lie." If this be true, then the devil must laugh twenty-four hours a day all the year round, and has to employ one of his imps to weep for him when a sinner escapes his clutches by getting converted.—Norristown Herald.

Poor Policy.

An effort is being made in Brooklyn to induce women to become clubbable. The New Union league there has made a radical departure from club traditions in setting apart certain rooms, accessible by a private entrance, for the use of the wives and daughters of members, and in placing a their disposal, at certain hours and under certain conditions, the bowling alleys, library, and other privileges of the club house.

One who has tried it says panes of glass can be cut under water in almost any shape with a pair of scissors. Two things are necessary for success; first, the glass must be quite level in the water while the scissors are applied, and secondly, to avoid risk, it is better to perform the cutting by cutting off small pieces, thus reducing the force gradually to that required. The soft glasses cut best, and the scissors need not be very sharp.

In these days novelists have to hustle for fresh contents and "pastures new." People want new backgrounds to their stories. Rider Haggard has a Zulu romance now in the hands of his publisher and is collecting material on his present trip for an Aztec novel. He is going from Mexico to Peru to gather material for still another novel, to be called "The Incas." Next year the famous novelist will visit the Rocky mountain region of the United States to gather material for further writing.
