Licensing Engineers.

The question of licensing engineers is being so agitated in ever state in the Union that within a short time, for the protection of human lives, it will be impossible for any intrusted with steam to hold or secure a situation without passing a rigid examination and obtaining a license. Stephenson's Illustrated Practical test has been published to aid engineers preparing to pass such examination, and as it embraces all the questions asked on the Boiler, Pump, Engine, Dynamo, Coalless Engine, &c., It has already met with such a demand that it is now in its fourth edition. This work, which only costs one dollar, can be obtained of the publisher, Walter G. Kraft, 70 La Salle Street, Chicago.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.—The following is a list of advertised letters remaining in the postoffice at Cass City, Mich., for the week ending June 11th, 1892:

Henry Laesch, Augustus Hess, F. H. Burnham, Fred H. Johnson and Timothy O'Brien. Persons calling for above will please say "advertised."

A. W. SEED, P. M.

Bill Nye comes right to the point in the following: "Our wagon roads throughout the country are generally a disgrace to civilization and before we undertake to supply Jegar underwear and searskin covered bibles with flexible backs to the African it might be well to put a few dollars to the relief of galled and broken down horses that have lost their health on our miserable highways."

We would say to those persons who are expecting to attend a summer school, that the chances for such a school being held here are good, and would advise them not to make arrangements to go elsewhere. Board and rooms can be had at the lowest rates. We have a nice library and considerable apparatus in our school, which would assist greatly. If such a school can be held here it would be a great saving to many from this section who expect to attend somewhere.

A certain little Red squirrel did not realize of how much importance he was until Monday morning when he ascended the shade tree in front of E. McKim's blacksmith shop. The tree was soon surrounded by eleven men and three dogs, which was enough to give any squirrel the palpitation of the heart. But this little squirrel wasn't built that way, and by sitting perfectly still when the eight revolver shots were fired at him, he was unharmed and finally made his escape under the walk.

The entertainment given under the auspices of Miss Irene Pinney, at the Town Hall, Friday evening, for the benefit of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid, was not as well attended as was merited, yet the program as published two weeks ago—with the exception of the cornet solo by M. Kirby, which was necessarily dispensed with—was nicely carried out. Miss Pinney in her renditions of the several literary productions on the program, evinced rare talent and accomplishment as an elocutionist, and the audience showed their appreciation by frequent applause. The musical part of the program as a whole, was highly entertaining. The door receipts amounted to about twenty-three dollars.

The rooms at the west end of the Tenant House will soon be in the hands of the carpenters and painters, and will be finished off into bedrooms. At present Landlord Gordon has not sufficient room to accommodate all who desire to stop with him while in town.

DIED—Sunday afternoon, at the home of her son, Wm. Webster, in Novesta, Mrs. Mary Webster, aged 71 years. The funeral was held at the residence Tuesday afternoon, the pastor of Detroit officiating. Undertaker McKenzie had charge of the remains which were laid in the Elkland cemetery. Two sisters and a niece of the deceased, from Bay City, attended the funeral.

The new double postal cards will be ready for distribution by July 1. They will constitute the only means yet provided for the payment in the international mail service of return postage by the sender of a communication. They will probably be issued in the form of a folder, the two sides of which are alike. The sender writes on one side and folds the card, leaving the inside blank for the answer. The cost will be four cents.

It is evident that things have not changed materially since the days of '65, as the battle on the diamond last Monday afternoon resulted in the defeat of the Southerners to the tune of 36 to 20.

Oaly seven innings were played owing to the lateness of starting. The Southerners were at a disadvantage in not having a regular pitcher, and the ball was often sent on a visit to distant parts of the field. Chas. Stevenson pitched for the north-siders, and filled the box satisfactorily—that is to the side he represented. J. D. Crosby was the umpire and was very fair in his decisions.

The Caro Democrat says: "Mr. J. D. Crosby, and children, of Cass City, and Mr. C. Thompson, of Boston, made the trip from their home to Caro by boat on Monday. J. D. says he enjoyed the cruise down the Cass immensely, and claims to be the first man to make this perilous voyage. He states that a small island was discovered several miles above Caro, which is inhabited by a race of people known as the 'Nephelocacy-gonians,' supposed to have been long since extinct. The island is inclosed by an ancient barb wire fence and as Mr. Crosby neared the island the inhabitants who were small in stature and copper colored, rushed down to the shores and by motions invited him to land. He passed by without stopping and will now organize a small company of Cass Cityites and explore the island. 'Stanley' Crosby's future experience will be watched with interest."

As is usually the case when no admission is charged to entertainments, the Town Hall was packed from stage to entrance Wednesday evening, the occasion being the promotional exercises of the intermediate and grammar departments of our schools. The pupils of the former department rendered their exercises first, which were very interesting and creditable, both to themselves and their teacher. The rain song, which was sung by fifteen little girls dressed in different colors and standing on the stage in a manner to represent a rainbow, and the singing and representation by a tastily painted canvas, through the holes in which at the top of each flower peered a little face, was very charming. The individual exercises of the pupils were received with favor by those in position to see and hear. The older scholars of the grammar room followed with their program, which was given in a fairly creditable manner. In the musical line the cornet and piano duet by M. Kirby and Miss McClinton was greatly appreciated, and the songs "Over the Mountains," by John and Alex. Graham, and "My Nellie's Blue Eyes," by Ashton, Tindale and Herman McPhail; also the Piano Duet by Winnie Mc-

Clinton and Gertie Schooley, were very pleasing. The promotional certificates were presented to the pupils by their principal, Prof. Conlon, who made appropriate remarks to the class. A parting song by the grammar class brought to a close the second annual promotional exercises.

Happy Philadelphia.

The census reports show us that in the matter of separate homes for private families Philadelphia is the most happily situated of any city in the country and probably in the world. Some time since, as we learn from one of Mr. George W. Childs' estimable papers, The Public Ledger, the women of Philadelphia took in hand the matter of designing a model home for working people. The pattern adopted was a separate house for each family, with not only heaters, a range and hot and cold water, but with a little yard and garden to each. In such a veritable palace of luxury any Philadelphia family can dwell if they can pay as much as eighteen to twenty dollars a month rent. So successful has proved the model cottage designed for the working people by the Philadelphia ladies that they are preparing a pattern of one of the houses for exhibition at the World's fair. It will be a model richly worth studying by inhabitants of other cities.

The comparatively very large number of Philadelphia people who live in homes all to themselves is shown in the following extract from The Ledger:

According to the printed statistics, Philadelphia, with only a little over a million inhabitants, has 187,000 dwellings, or an average of only 5.60 persons to a dwelling. New York, by contrast, with a population of over 1,500,000, has only 212,000 dwellings, or an average of 13.23 persons to a dwelling. The average Philadelphia family is larger than the average New York family in the proportion of 5.10 percent to 4.84 percent. Only 15 percent of the houses in Philadelphia are occupied by more than one family. In New York 83 percent are so occupied, and in Chicago 85 percent.

There are of course many reasons for the distinct advantage which Philadelphia possesses over other cities, but undoubtedly the greatest of these are the favorable situation of Philadelphia as regards growth, and the power of expansion, and the ease with which property may be acquired in this city. If the census report had included the proportion of houses owned by their occupants Philadelphia would have shown to even better advantage. To the building societies is due much of the marvelous growth of Philadelphia in this respect. The opportunity to acquire a home by means of this most useful form of organization is in the hands of every thrifty workman. The purchase or erection of homes reacts on the builders, causing them to offer more and more attractive houses as the demand increases, and with it the competition. The women of Philadelphia have designed the Philadelphia house. They have demanded that every room shall be lighted directly, that each room shall be entered by a separate door, and have insisted on the various little conveniences one after another which now go to make up the Philadelphia home. Not long ago a competition was held in Chicago for the best model of a workman's home. The plans which won the first prize would have been discarded at once by any Philadelphia woman. Unlighted bedrooms and communicating rooms were among some of the evils of the plan.

HARRISON AND REID.

THE NAMES WHICH WILL HEAD THE REPUBLICAN TICKET

President Harrison Re-Nominated on the First Ballot.—Hon. Whitelaw Reid, of New York, Ex-Minister to France, Chosen as His Running Mate.

The Last Day. Rev. Dr. Wayland Hoyt, of the First Baptist church, Minneapolis, offered prayer in opening the fourth day's session of the Republican convention.

The minority of the credentials committee announced that they would not oppose a majority report on the Alabama case, and the report was adopted. The minority report was defeated by a big majority.

The Michigan delegation was given permission to retire for consultation and only routine business was transacted during their absence. It was decided in the consultation not to present the name of Gen. Alger as a candidate. The vote stood 22 for McKinley and 6 for Harrison.

The chairman then announced that the next order of business was the naming of presidential candidates and the roll call was ordered amidst mighty cheers.

The balloting began and when Colorado was reached Senator Wolcott ascended the stage and said: Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the convention: The Republicans of the west sometimes differ with the Republicans of the east as to what is wanted, but on this occasion there is remarkable unanimity between genuine Republicans of the west and genuine Republicans of the east as to whom we need, and his name is Blaine.

The dramatic presentation of the name of Blaine, so unexpected, so decisive, took the convention by surprise. There was a dead silence for a moment. Then the Blaine men broke loose, and for three minutes the hall rang with their cheers, renewed again and again.

When Indiana was reached there was applause when the venerable "Dick" Thompson took the platform. Mr. Thompson said: "Gentlemen of the convention: I do not mean to make a speech, I propose to make a nomination for the presidency which shall strike a chord of sympathy in every true Republican heart. I propose to nominate for the presidency a man who does not seek elevation by the detraction of any other great Republican. With these simple words I nominate to this convention for the presidency of the United States, the warrior, the statesman, Benjamin Harrison."

The counter demonstration of Harrison men came with enthusiasm. Fans and umbrellas were in the air—delegates stood on their seats and Hon. Fred Douglas, waving his white handkerchief on top of his cane, led the cheering and was sustained for two minutes or more.

The call continued quietly without much demonstration until Minnesota was called. Then W. H. Eustis seconded the nomination of Blaine.

When Mr. Eustis concluded an incident occurred which sent the convention off into the greatest tumult it has yet known. Mrs. R. C. Kerens, wife of the national committeeman from Missouri, and Mrs. Carson Lake, of New York, who sat beside her, started the cheering, waving their parasols.

All over the convention hall the delegates were crying, "Blaine, Blaine, James G. Blaine." Delegates opened their mouths to the great tumult. The confusion was indescribable and the noise deafening.

Finally the "Blaine, Blaine, James G. Blaine" men fell into time with the band, and the cry went up from 5,000 voices as from one, while the stamping of feet that accompanied it made the big convention hall tremble. The confusion was indescribable and the noise deafening.

After Warner Miller had spoken in favor of the nomination of Mr. Blaine ex-Senator Spooner answered to the call of Wisconsin, seconding the nomination of Harrison. Pink, of Wisconsin, and Downing, of Wyoming, seconded the nomination of Blaine. A ballot was then ordered.

At 4:30 p. m. the balloting was ended and the record showed: Harrison, 534; McKinley, 183; Blaine, 176; Keed, 4; Lincoln, 1. The nomination was made unanimous amid great cheering and a recess was taken until 10 o'clock.

Evening Session. MINNEAPOLIS, June 11.—The closing session began with the reading of the names of candidates for vice-president. No name was placed before the convention until New York was reached. Senator O'Connor then took the platform and made an address placing before the convention the name of Hon. Whitelaw Reid, editor of the New York Tribune and former minister to France. The name was greeted with hearty applause. Gen. Horace Porter, of New York, seconded the nomination in a speech which was full of high compliments to Reid. Gov. Buckley, of Connecticut, also seconded the nomination. Mr. Kearney, of Iowa, then moved that the nomination of Whitelaw Reid be made by acclamation, which was quickly done.

The End. A resolution thanking Chairman McKinley for the "splendid, impartial and courteous way in which he had discharged his duties as presiding officer" was unanimously passed.

Resolutions were also passed thanking the officers of the convention and the city of Minneapolis, thanking the retiring national committee for its services in the campaign of 1888.

Gov. McKinley was made chairman of the committee on presidential nomination which was then organized. A motion to adjourn was then passed.

THE PLATFORM.

The Full Report of Resolutions Committee as Adopted.

The representatives of the Republicans of the United States assembled in general convention on the shores of the Mississippi River, the everlasting bond of an indestructible republic whose most glorious chapter of history is the record of the Republican party, congratulate their countrymen on the majestic march of the nation under the banners inscribed with the principles of our platform of 1856, vindicated by victory at the polls and prosperity in our fields, workshops and mines, and make the following declaration of principles:

We reaffirm the American doctrine of protection. We call attention to its growth abroad; we maintain that the prosperous condition of our country is largely due to the wise revenue legislation of the Republican Congress.

We believe that all articles which cannot be produced in the United States, except luxuries, should be admitted free of duty, and that on all imports coming into competition with the products of American labor there should be levied duties equal to the difference between wages abroad and at home.

We assert that the prices of manufactured articles of general consumption have been raised under the tariff act of 1880.

We denounce the efforts of the Democratic majority of Representatives to destroy our tariff laws by piecemeal as is manifested by their attacks upon wool, lead and other chief products of American industry, and we ask the people for their judgment thereon.

We point to the success of the Republican policy of reciprocity, under which our export trade has vastly increased and our enlarged markets have been opened for the products of our farms and workshops.

We remind the people of the bitter opposition of the Democratic party to this practical policy of reciprocity, and claim that executed by a Republican administration, our present laws will eventually give us control of the trade of the world.

The American people, from tradition and interest favor Bimetallism, and the Republican party demands the use of both gold and silver as standard money, with such restrictions and under such provisions as shall determine the legislation, as will secure the maintenance of the parity of values of the two metals, so that neither will be undervalued.

We demand that every citizen of the United States shall be allowed to cast one vote, and that such ballot shall be counted and returned as cast, that such laws shall be enacted and enforced as will secure to every citizen, whether rich or poor, native or foreign-born, white or black, this sovereign right guaranteed by the Constitution.

The free and honest popular ballot, the just and equal representation of all the people as voters, and their just and equal protection under the laws, are the foundation of our Republican institutions, and the party which will maintain the integrity of the ballot and the purity of elections shall be fully guaranteed and protected in every state.

SOVEREIGN RIGHTS. We denounce the continued inhuman outrages perpetrated on American citizens for political reasons in certain southern states of the union.

FOREIGN RELATIONS. We favor the extension of our foreign commerce, the restoration of our maritime rights, the protection of our national interests and the honor of our flag, and we favor the maintenance of friendly relations with all foreign powers; entangling alliances with none; and the protection of our commerce and the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine and believe in the achievement of the manifest destiny of this republic.

MISCELLANEOUS. To favor efficient legislation by Congress to protect the life and limbs of employees of transportation companies engaged in carrying on their business, and to secure to every citizen the right of employment in state commerce, in mining and in manufacturing.

The Republican party has always been the champion of the oppressed, and recognizes the right of manhood, irrespective of race, color or nationality; it sympathizes with the cause of home rule in Ireland, and protests against the persecution of the Jews in Russia.

The ultimate reliance of free popular government is the intelligence of the people and the spirit of freedom among men. We therefore declare anew our devotion of liberty of thought and conscience, of speech and action, and approve all agencies and instrumentalities which contribute to the education of the children of the land; but which invade the sacred rights of religious liberty, we are opposed to any union of church and state.

We reaffirm our opposition to the combination of capital, organized in trusts or otherwise, to control arbitrarily the condition of trade among the people, and we favor the enactment of laws already taken upon this subject and ask for such further legislation as may be required to enforce our enforcement more complete and effective.

We approve the policy of extending to towns, villages and rural communities the advantages of the free delivery service, and we favor the declaration contained in the Republican platform of 1856, placing at the earliest possible moment consistent with the maintenance of the postoffice department and the highest class of postal service.

CIVIL SERVICE. We commend the spirit and evidence of reform in civil service and the wise and consistent enforcement by the Republican party of the laws regulating the same.

SCALAGUA CANAL. The construction of the Nicaragua Canal is of the highest importance to the American people, as a measure of national defense and to build up and maintain an American commerce, and it should be controlled by the United States Government.

TERRITORIES. We favor the admission of the remaining territories at the earliest practicable date, having regard to the interests of the people of the territories and the dignity and honor of the federal officers appointed for the territories should be selected from bona fide residents thereof and the right of self-government should be accorded as far as practicable.

AMID LANDS. We have occasion, subject to the homestead laws of the United States, to the states and territorial restrictions as to disposition, reclamation and the right of entry, and will secure the maximum benefits to the people.

THE COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION. The World's Columbian Exposition is a great national undertaking and Congress should promptly enact such reasonable legislation in aid thereof as will insure a discharging of the expense and obligations incident thereto, and the attainment of the highest credit and honor to the dignity and progress of the nation.

INTEMPERANCE. We sympathize with all wise and legitimate efforts to lessen and prevent the evils of intemperance and promote morality.

PENSIONS. Ever mindful of the services and sacrifices of the men who saved the life of the nation, we pledge anew to the veteran soldiers of the republic a watchful care and recognition of their just claims upon a grateful people.

HARRISON'S ADMINISTRATION. We commend the able, patriotic and thoroughly American administration of President Harrison. Under it the country has enjoyed remarkable prosperity and the dignity and honor of the nation at home and abroad, have been faithfully maintained and we offer the record of pledges kept as a guarantee of faithful performance in the future.

Gorman, Governor Frank Brown, C. J. M. Gwynn, Honorable Barnes Compton, L. V. Paughman, I. Freeman Raisin, John S. Wirt and George M. Upher.

BLAINE, OF MAINE.

THE PLUMED KNIGHT TO BE SENT TO THE SENATE.

Maine Republicans Will Not Allow Him to Retire From Public Life and Politics—Movement on Foot to Make Him Senator Hale's Successor.

Augusta special: Maine Republicans will not allow Hon. James G. Blaine to disappear from public view just yet. His constituents had not ceased to hope up to the last moment for his nomination and of course are sorely disappointed.

They believed that his letter declining to enter the canvass against the President was extracted from him under the alternative of declining a nomination or resigning his portfolio as a time when important business then pending in the state department rendered it impossible for him to resign without sacrificing the fruit of all his labors.

Today, swift upon the feet of their great disappointment, from all sections of the state and from all classes in the party, with astonishing spontaneity, comes a call for the election of James G. Blaine to the United States Senate.

It is the sensation of the day here. The amazing thing about it is the suddenness of the call. Blaine has only just re-entered the state and his Republican followers rally about him as the people rallied about Monmouth when he raised the standard of revolt. It is Blaine for the senate in 1892 and Blaine for the presidency in 1895.

The opportunity to honor the defeated statesman is providentially at hand. Senator Hale's term of office will expire next March and the legislature to be elected this fall will elect his successor. Senator Hale has served nearly two terms in the senate, and under the custom of the party he has no claim upon the office.

His habit of late years of spending his winters in Washington and his summers abroad has taken him quite out of touch with the people of the state, and his attitude in the recent contest—indifferent, if not hostile to Blaine—has not added to his popularity in Maine.

University Commencement. The faculty of the university at Ann Arbor has laid out the plan for commencement week, but as yet nothing definite has been made known. The commencement oration is to be delivered by Justin Winsor, LL. D., librarian of the Harvard University, and Honorable Benjamin Butterworth, of Cincinnati, will deliver the annual address to the laws Sunday evening, June 20. President Angell will deliver the baccalaureate address to the graduating class, June 29 will be alumni day and June 30 will be the day of commencement in departments of the university.

The regents have declined to appropriate any money for the commencement concert, that is usually given on Wednesday evening of commencement week, and hence it is likely that this unique and pleasant feature will be dispensed with this year.

Found Poison in His Tea. George Murray, of Kent county, has filed a complaint with the prosecuting attorney against George Bradner accusing the latter of attempting to poison him. Murray is a farmer and leased his farm to Bradner on shares and boarded with the latter. They did not agree and Bradner and his wife left. Murray took tea that night from a caddy left in the pantry and became violently ill. He and his hired man were similarly affected from drinking tea a second time and Murray found a suspicious sediment in the teapot. The tea and the contents of the pot have been sent to a chemist for analysis.

For the Democratic Convention. The Michigan Central railroad, in addition to arranging for extra equipment on its regular trains to handle the extra business incident to the holding of the Democratic national convention in this city, has arranged for two special trains to bring the Tammany Hall party from New York, with which an exceptionally fast run will be made. This road will also bring a special train with the Connecticut delegation and another for delegates from Michigan, and still another for delegations and clubs from Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Houghton County Kicks. The board of supervisors of Houghton county have passed resolutions annulling the apportionment act of the last state legislature, which gave a portion of Houghton county one Democrat member of the legislature and attached another small portion to Keweenaw county. The rescinding will give the Republicans two members from the county. An attorney was employed to take this case to the supreme court.

ROBBED OF $15,000.

Two Men Hold Up a Man, on a Crowded Train, at a Revolver's Point.

San Francisco Special: John Gilson, secretary of the Jusson Manufacturing company, drew $15,000 in gold and silver coin from the bank of British Columbia and took the Oakland ferry boat to cross the bay and pay off 600 employes of the company at the factory and rolling mills at Emeryville station between Oakland and Berkeley. Leaving the ferryboat he took the Berkeley train. When the train stopped at B-street station two men sprang aboard and hastened to Gilson's seat. There at the point of revolvers they compelled Gilson to give up the two satchels containing coin. The men then jumped from the slowly moving train and entered a buggy which was subsequently ascertained had been hitched at the foot of the street for some time during the morning, and drove away. Gilson fired five shots from the platform of the train, and one of the men, who had his face blackened, returned the shots but none of them took effect.

The passengers on the train were mostly merry-makers on the way to picnic and were dumbfounded at the scene rapidly enacted before them.

Harrison was Happy. WASHINGTON, June 11.—Bright light shone from a number of rooms of the White House last night, and many callers passed up the long walks and under the portico to present their compliments and congratulations to the victor of Minneapolis. The President was in an unusually cheery mood over his great triumph and received his friends with most effusiveness, but with much warmth. It was a genuine gala evening at the executive mansion.

Diagonally across Lafayette Square there stands the house of dark and forbidding history lately occupied by the family of James G. Blaine—the Ichabod of 1892. Not a light shone from any of its windows. No one was stirring about the building. Today it became haunted by another depressing event of American history: It is not believed that the ex-Secretary will ever occupy this house again and the sad fatalities that pursued his family there and the great political calamity that has overtaken him in it will be added to the Sickles-Key murder, the Payne assault on Secretary Seward and the many other unpleasant incidents of its long history.
