It is probable that we may now, without fear of dispute, boast of having the smallest "devil" in the state. Laud Eastman now serves in that capacity at this establishment, having commenced work on Monday. He stands four feet four in his high heeled boots and tips the beam at seventy-five pounds. But that has nothing to do with his ability. He's as smart as a whip and a little gentleman.

The union temperance meeting held at the M. E. Church on Sunday evening was very well attended and considerable interest was manifested by those present. The meeting deserved a still larger attendance and more general interest.

Married, in Brookfield township, on Wednesday, Sept. 14th, by Elder Rushbrook, Miss Margaret McDonald to Donald MacDonald, of Uby. The bride is well known here and her many friends join in wishing them every happiness through life.

We will give a copy of Ropp's business Calculator with each new six months' subscription to the ENTERPRISE. It's just what you want to prevent mistakes, relieve your mind and save you time and money.

Rev. J. W. Fenn gave a practical address on temperance at the M. E. Church on Sunday evening during the regular hour for service. It is reported that some of the voters were conspicuous by their absence. We wonder why?

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church, will meet with Mrs. Frank Hendrick, on Wednesday afternoon Sept. 28th. A new committee will serve refreshments at the usual hour, and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

An effort is now being made to ascertain how many tickets can be disposed of for a course of lectures the coming season. Cards are being circulated for signature and are in the hands of most of our business men. They should be signed liberally by all so that a first class course may be secured.

This quarterly meeting services held at the Evangelical Church over Sunday were well attended and full of more than usual interest, presided over by Rev. G. J. Kim, Ph. D., a former pastor of this charge. The address given Sunday evening in the English language was especially enjoyed by the attendants not familiar with German.

The following appointments for the Cass River District of the M. P. Church were made at the conference held at Mayville:—Cass River District, A. Scott, Chairman; Fairgrove, A. Ross; Prairie, J. W. Saxby; Gagetown, E. Shepherd; Kinde, A. E. Miller; Bad Axe, J. H. Holmes; Wells, D. Earl; Mayville, J. H. Reilly; Quanicassae, E. E. Christian.

The auction sale season has already opened, and the first sale announced is that of Mrs. T. D. Barnes, one-half mile north and one and one-half miles west of Holbrook, on Thursday, Sept. 23, at one o'clock. Next comes the sale of Edward Girov, two miles east of Colwood, on Monday, Sept. 23, at ten o'clock. J. H. Striffler will wield the hammer at both sales.

Our cider mill, apple butter factory and jelly mill is doing a very good business and we trust it may continue, but this is no reason why we should not also have an evaporator. The apple crop of this locality is sufficient to supply the demand of both and leave plenty to spare for shipment. It's too late for this season's crop but a good time to agitate and be ready for the next.

O. A. Withey has been reaping another harvest of peach tree sales in the vicinity of Holbrook during the past week, having closed several contracts for from twenty-five to one thousand trees, the leading varieties being the Bakara No. 3, Champion, Crosby, New Prolife and New Globe, being of the latest and hardest varieties. He also distributed a load of premium books for the Cass City Fair and reports several preparing articles for exhibition and a goodly attendance from that part coming to the Fair.

Principal Weaver, of our schools, reports a total enrollment of three hundred and forty-seven pupils, with eighty-three in the High School room, seventeen of whom are non-residents. It is expected that this number will be considerably increased during the colder months. At the last meeting of the school board it was decided to replace the old seats and desks in Miss Howard's department with new ones and use the old ones in fitting up a dining room in the basement, which will certainly be a great improvement. We may well be proud of our schools and the reputation they are rapidly gaining and maintaining.

The Baptist Social Workers will meet at the home of Mrs. Ware four miles west of town on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 21st. All who would like to go will please meet at Mr. McGregory's store where teams will be ready to take them from four to six. Tea will be served in the evening from 5 to 8. A cordial invitation to all to come and enjoy pumpkin pie for supper.

The roof is now being placed on the power house for our water works and electric light systems and a portion of the machinery has arrived. The pipe laying is being rushed at a greater speed than ever. Another shipment of pipes arrived Friday evening and this week the wages have been raised to $1.50 per day, with the view of securing more help and the force has been considerably increased.

On Friday last, while D. J. McArthur, who is employed as engineer at the elevators, was assisting in placing a belt on a pulley, the ladder on which he was standing slipped from under him and threw him to the floor with considerable force. The distance was not great but the injury was of such a nature as to deprive him of the use of his limbs and he had to be carried home. Dr. McClinton was summoned and Mr. McArthur is improving but is still unable to walk.

Through the kindness of Rev. F. Klump we have had the pleasure of perusing a copy of the "Boys in Blue Edition" of the Commercial Advertiser, published at Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands. Among the notes we find the following in regard to Mrs. Klump's brother:—One of the notable enlisted men of the First Montana, is State Senator and Rev. W. J. Hannah, of Sweet Grass county. He left a pupil to go to the war. The clergyman, politician and soldier is a Methodist and a genuine patriot and a man in a million.

Whatever Thomas Wentworth Higginson has to say about the Abolition period is read with the keenest interest because of the active and prominent part he himself played in those stirring days. Under the title "Anti-Slavery-Days" he has written a charmingly readable article for the September Magazine Number of The Outlook. The article is illustrated with some particularly fine portraits of the anti-slavery leaders, men and women, and reproductions of some famous placards of the time. All these pictures are taken from the extensive collection of Mr. F. J. Garrison, of Boston, ($3 a year. The Outlook Company, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York.)

A very pleasant affair took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. H. Davis, Main Street west, being the marriage of their eldest daughter, Clara E., to Geo. R., son of M. Criddle, of Wickware. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jas. W. Fenn, of the M. E. Church, in the presence of a goodly number of the immediate relatives and friends, after which all participated in a sumptuous repast and spent some time in pleasant conversation before dispersing. The bride was the recipient of the usual number of elegant and useful presents. Among the guests from out of town were: Mrs. Chas. Swales, of Pigeon; Mr. and Mrs. Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. W. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Ewing. Mr. and Mrs. John Bradburn, Mr. and Mrs. Turnbull, from the vicinity of Wickware and Cumber. The young couple are well known and highly esteemed and have the best wishes of all. Their home will be one mile south of Wickware. May it ever be a happy one and may each be long spared to cheer the other's pathway in life.

We were pleased to have a call on Saturday morning from A. H. Burton, of Brookfield township. While conversing with him we learned incidentally that he was the first settler in Brookfield township, or rather that his was the first homestead entry to be made, being for 160 acres two miles north of Gagetown, and entered thirty-two years ago. He at first occupied a shanty on the John Wilson place close to Gagetown, while he was doing some clearing and getting ready to build, and during this time Richard Clark came in and built a house on the adjoining farm, moving thereon before Mr. Burton moved to his place. Elijah Thompson also came to the township about the same time. The first religious service held in the township was at Mr. Burton's and the preacher was Joseph Keightley, who had been taken up a homesteader in that locality. He afterwards became an ordained minister of the M. P. Church and passed to his reward about three years ago. Brookfield township was named after the township by that name in New York State which was Mr. Burton's boyhood home.

Prohibition Party of Michigan.

Campaign of 1898.

PLATFORM.

The prohibitionists of Michigan, in State convention assembled, unite on the following declaration of principles:

We indict the liquor traffic as being grossly immoral in its nature and tendencies, a violation of the vital principles of political economy, at variance with every object of good government; constituting it a political wrong of unequalled enormity, for which enforced legal prohibition in municipality, state and nation is the only adequate remedy. To secure this remedy, under the genius of our political usages, requires the agency of some political party united on that issue, and as all other parties are hopelessly divided on the question, it therefore becomes the unmistakable duty of all who prefer prohibition to license to support the Prohibition party. Otherwise they necessarily give aid and comfort to the enemy by voting with a party whose established and unchangeable policy is license. Intelligent people cannot afford to continually stultify themselves by blundering in this way, where great principles are involved. We, therefore, declare—

1. For the complete outlawry and suppression of the entire traffic in alcoholic liquors for beverage purposes, and for very rigid regulations over the manufacture and sale of alcohol for legitimate uses.
2. We favor making a fair and thorough trial of that more direct system of legislation known as the "Initiative and Referendum."
3. We demand, as our party has always done since 1872, the abolition of the invidious sex distinction on the question of suffrage.

Difficult to Relieve Pain.

The doctor smoked slowly on his cigar. It was plain that he had something to say.

"I was thinking of my early college days," he said, "and of a peculiar incident that happened very soon after I began my studies. The professor was instructing the class one day on the corpuscles of the blood. In order to get some fresh blood for microscopical examination each student was ordered to tie a rag around his forefinger and strike the top of the finger suddenly with a needle with sufficient force to draw blood. Seems easy, doesn't it? Do you know there wasn't a man in the class that did it at the first attempt. It was funny to watch some of those embryo surgeons poise the needle with a determined air and launch it to within a hair space of the flesh and there stop dead. Others tried to force the needle in slowly, but paused very shortly, with an expression of pain commensurate to that of an amputation. I myself gave it up as a bad job, and hooked a cavity in my thumb with a penknife, and found it easier."

"The fact that we were very young and inexperienced is no explanation for this peculiarity, as I have since found by personal test. Almost everybody exhibited the same repugnance to inflicting pain in that manner. Try it yourself."

The other man tried and succeeded on the fourth trial.—New York Sun.

A Critical Time During the Battle of Santiago.

Sick or well, a Rush Night and Day.

The Packers at the Battle of Santiago de Cuba were all heroes. Their heroic efforts in getting ammunition and rations to the front saved the day.

P. E. BUTLER, of pack-train No. 3, writing from Santiago, De Cuba, on July 23rd, says: "We all had diarrhoea in more or less violent form, and when we landed we had no time to see a doctor, for it was a case of rush and rush night and day to keep the troops supplied with ammunition and rations, but thanks to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, we were able to keep at work and keep our health; in fact, I sincerely believe that at one critical time this medicine was the indirect saviour of our army, for if the packers had been unable to work there would have been no way of getting supplies to the front. There were no roads that a wagon train could use. My comrad and myself had the good fortune to lay in a supply of this medicine for our pack-train before we left Tampa, and I know in four cases it absolutely saved life."

The above letter was written to the manufacturers of this medicine, the Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by T. H. Fritz, Druggist.

When You Get Ready

For your Painting and Papering you come down and see me. I have things to show you and things to say to you that mean much in saving, much in appearance, much in general detail of the work at hand. I make a study of the things, while it only comes to you once in a year or two. So you will admit that I can be of assistance to you in your plans.

When Polly Ann comes whistling down From Casewille, Pigeon and Gagetown, The folks that wait to take the train Repeat the old-time jokes again.
They criticize her speed, her gait, Her voice, all at a fearful rate; Her schedule and the noise she makes, (Or don't make,) and her rails, her brakes.
'Twould seem that nothing can she do To suit the folks she carries through.
These dire refections have no end.
Alas! Has Polly Ann no friend?
Do "corporations have no sons?" Yet, Polly with some spirit rolls Daily appearance through our town And many blessings sets us down.

Our foreign fruit, our coffee, tea, Most of our living—don't you see?
And all these fine, fine clothes we wear Are sent us in Miss Polly's care.
And then great news from near and far Comes in her well-filled baggage car; Letters from friends that bring us cheer And keep old friendships young and dear.
And too, what precious friends she brings All safe and sound. If she had wings She might be more angelic sure, But she has some things to endure.
For miles and miles of common ground She plods straight through, and it is found The traveling man blames Polly too, For all the kind she brings him through.
If Polly hears she never smiles, She never frowns—but with weary miles She puffs along (some like this rhyme) Often that not she comes on time.
"Three cheers for Polly Ann!" I say, She beats her critics any day.
They jibe and yet she talks not back But keeps straight on her faithful track; Turns not aside for cruel jokes, Nor will she till her heart is broke.
Blessings uncounted she lets down To us in this ungrateful town.
And we return our trite remarks With every traveler that embarks.
The human race—ungrateful set,
Has never been quite so fitted yet.
Now, you may call me Polly Ann, But I believe I never can.

Good Polly Ann! Keep on your way, And may you travel many a day, Keep up your courage as you go;
For one thing you may surely know, Were you to take your final start Despair would fill each joker's heart.
If you should go off down the track With frantic eye fixed on Pontiac, And say you never would come back, A weeping town would all turn out To follow with imploring shout.
Yes, every woman, child and man Would say, "Don't go, dear Polly Ann!" —Mrs. Elizabeth H. Fern.

Called Home.

On Friday evening last, Margaret, the wife of Wm. Hartzell, passed to the life beyond, after a long and severe illness. She was born March 3rd, 1844, in the township of Caledon, county of Peel, Ontario, Canada. She was married to William Hartzell in the early part of the year 1870 and a few weeks subsequently they together bade good-bye to the familiar scenes and friendships of their youth and came to Michigan, settling in Grant township. At that time the whole surrounding region was a dense forest, yet like many other courageous people Mr. and Mrs. Hartzell hesitated not in the face of difficulties, but levelled the forest and located a comfortable home, until after the lapse of but three decades a fine property is the encouraging result of faithful toil. To add to their difficulties with which they were beset, the terrible forest fires of both '71 and '81 visited their premises, during one of which Mrs. Hartzell was confined to her bed, probably with the disease, in its initiatory stage, that finally terminated her earthly existence, after a long period of intense suffering. A son and daughter were born to them, both being married and residents of Grant, one of them occupying the original homestead. Deceased early became a Christian, uniting with the Methodist Church. She and her husband were among the earliest to unite with the Grant society and continued for nearly a quarter of a century devoted members, until moving to this city about five years ago and becoming identified with the M. E. Church here. Though constantly embarrassed by disease, and during a larger portion of the time a keen sufferer from intense pain, Mrs.
Hartzell continued, until recently, an active participant in the work of her church and an unflinching co-laborer in the W. C. T. U. The funeral services were held Sabbath afternoon at the M. E. Church, the pastor officiating. The church was tastily draped by appreciative friends of the Ladies' Aid and the local W. C. T. U. The beautiful hymns appropriately and feelingly rendered by the choir, were those most frequently sung by her request during her illness. A large concourse of people was present, consisting of relatives and devoted friends, drawn thither by the high estimation entertained for the noble character of the deceased.

To The Public.

For the ninth successive year your attention is called to the announcement of the annual exhibition of the Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac District Fair Association.

It is saying much, but, nevertheless, we think it is not exaggeration to tell you that the coming Fair promises to eclipse all other successes. The indications all point to that end. Last year our cattle, sheep, swine and poultry shows ranked with the best in the state. This year there is every reason to believe that these departments will be even better than before. The pen-exhibits have always been an honor to the district, and this year there will undoubtedly be a larger and more valuable display. Within the Agricultural Hall an improvement is also to be expected. The agricultural display and that in the fruit department will be large and creditable to the district resources.

Within the Floral Hall, in the fancy work and other art departments, the improvement in quantity and quality of the exhibits, has been steady. It will continue this year. So it is with all the departments. Advancement will be noted everywhere.

Remember the dates—Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th.

DO NOT BE IMPOSED ON.

Always insist on having Foley's Kidney and Bladder Pills, as it is positively, absolutely and unqualifiedly the best cough medicine. Accept no substitu-

The Fair at Caro.

The managers for the Caro Fair announce, for their fair this year, more and superior attractions than ever before secured, including hotly contested ball games, horse races, bicycle races, guides' wonders, soldiers, the gypsy camp, athletic sports and the world's greatest diver—all of the highest order; "Gildemont" and Podemont," the guides' wonders, will race for supremacy each day of the Fair. Sea-bury, the diver, was a feature at Barnum's circus last season. $100 will be divided between the base ball teams of the county. Prof. Robt. C. Shaw's military and orchestral band will render fine selections of music each day.
The dates are Sept. 27, 28, 29 and 30.

A HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY

No family should be without Foley's Colic Cure, for all bowel complaints.

Wanted!

Good Oxford Down Ram 3 or 4 years old. 98. O. K. JAMES.

The Birth of the Prince.

Paris was in an uproar. The whole city was as if insane. Church bells rang joyful peals, great guns fired equally joyful salvos, happy announcements were posted up at every point of vantage, and excited crowds besieged every entrance and avenue to the palace in a perfect delirium of joy.

Now, after many years, I find it difficult to understand—or indeed almost to realize—that many of those then shouting so enthusiastically for joy are the same people who lately yelled with savage fury: "A bas l'empire! A bas l'impérialisme!"

Equally mad was the enthusiasm, princely mad the delight, when the prince Imperial was baptized, and equally mad were the howls of fury against the whole imperial family when the sad news came of the reverse the imperial army had suffered when battle after battle had been lost.

Some of the noblest, the most generous, the most self devoted men I have ever known in the course of a somewhat long life I have found among Frenchmen—men quite worthy to be classed among the grandest heroes of antiquity.
But there is a reverse side to the medal, and when the tigerish nature of the excitable Frenchman is roused he is capable of a savage cruelty very near akin to that of the wild beast to which he has been compared.—Cornhill Magazine.

Satan as a Landlord.

There is only one spot on the earth's surface that has actually been willed, deeded and bequeathed to his satanic majesty. This spot lies 4 1/2 miles south of Helsingfors, Finland.

A few years ago Lara Huilariene died in the little town of Pielisjarvi, in the above named country, leaving considerable property in the shape of landed estate. How he had come into possession of so much land no one seemed to know, but as he was a very bad citizen it was generally admitted that he was in league with wintahausa (satan) and that they had many business deals with each other.

This somewhat startling opinion was verified when old Huilariene found a certified warranty deed which deeded to satan all his earthly possessions.

The will was to the same effect. The family have repeatedly tried to break the will, but so far, has been unsuccessful. Thus the records plainly show that his satanic majesty has legal right and title to some excellent grounds in the near vicinity of Helsingfors.

The simple people of the neighborhood have changed the course of the road which formerly skirted the Huilariene homestead and declare that they would not enter the possessions of Satan & Co. for all the money that the three estates would bring.—Pearson's Weekly.

"Wych" Hazel, Not "Witch" Hazel.

The correct name for Hamamelis virginica is not witch hazel, but wych hazel. Our plant has no connection with the magic of the water hunter. The blackthorn of England, Prunus spinosa, was the wood used in these divinations, or whatever these superstitious practices may be termed. Hazel had a very wide meaning in the olden times, and the elm, as well as the nut now known as sach, was hazel. One of these elms, now known as Ulmus montana, was the favorite wood for making wyches, or provision chests, and was therefore known as the wych hazel. In the present day it is the wych elm. Our hamamelis received from the early settlers the name of wych hazel from the resemblance of the leaves to those of the wych hazel or elm of the old world. Language reformers imagining that wych should be spelled witch are responsible for the confusion. Wych hazel is the correct term for our plant.—Mechan's Monthly.

Health Before Beauty.

Two Irishmen who had not met for years ran across each other in Derby, and after a period of handshaking adjourned for some moist congratulations.
"Long time since we met, Pat, isn't it?
Great lot of things have happened since then."

"Yes, indeed. Look at meself. Sure, it's married I am," replied Pat.
"You don't tell me."

"Faith, and O'ive got a fine, healthy boy, and the neighbors say he is the very picture of me."

O'Grady looked at Pat, who wasn't built on the lines of a prize beauty.
"Och, well, what's the harrum so long as the child's healthy?"—New York World.

TRAINING A WARHORSE.

How He Is Taught to Stand the Blaze and Thunder of Battle.

A warhorse is broken to be steady under fire by tying ropes to his legs.
While the animal is down on the ground the officer takes a pistol and fires it close to his ear. Then in rapid order he fires the weapon over his back, under his neck, between his legs, anywhere that an opening presents itself. During the horse's futile struggles. Not until he sinks back exhausted, all a-tremble and showing the whites of his eyes, does the pistol practice cease.

After two or three lessons of this kind it is considered safe to mount him with a bridle furnished with a curb bit. Up to this time the horse has never felt a curb. The light snaffle is still retained, and the curb bridle is only given a gentle pressure at first, just enough to let him know that it is there. Gradually the strength of the pull is increased, and with this safeguard the horse is taught to stand fire from his rider's pistol or carbine.

In carbine practice the horse must be thoroughly broken, as both hands are required in using this weapon, whereas with the pistol the rider may retain the lead with one hand.

Then comes saber practice, and that is another trial to the horse. Again is he thrown to the ground, and he probably can't understand why he should have to suffer this indignity all over again, for he has learned that lesson very well. But when the bright blade of the saber, with quick thrusts flashing before his eyes and cutting the air in close proximity to his ears, appears to him he is again terror stricken.

But the lesson he has learned from the snell of gunpowder stands him in good stead, and he soon gets over his fear. And even with a man on his back and another mounted upon a seasoned horse coming at him with saber raised in the air or slashing left and right he knows that it is all a part of his education and something to be expected. So he stands his ground or cavors about the other horse while the two troopers indulge in their saber practice.—New York World.

FORESTALLED HIM.

The Chipper Youth Knew What Usually Happened In Such Cases.

The fresh young man with no respect in his soul for gray hairs and dyed whiskers swung himself on the car in the middle of a block, and leaning against the brake handle proceeded to roll a cigarette with great deftness. The fat man who despises the ways of the youth on general principles leaned against the window guards and watched the development of a cigarette.

"Got a match, neighbor?" inquired the fresh young man as he put the last finishing twist to his smoke.

"Young man"—began the fat man after a brief, elderly pause, calculated to greatly impress the cigarette smoker.
"Yes, I know all about it"—interrupted the youth, "so you might as well chock your lecture on a bormin. I know cigarettes will kill me if I stick to 'em, but I don't care. It's an easy death. I know if I must smoke I should smoke cigars, but I don't like the color of 'em. I've got a touch of paresis now, and I'm due for more. I know you think of all the disgusting things in the world a cigarette is the worst.

"I know they undermine the constitution and are wrecking the rising generation. Now if I've forgotten anything you were going to say help me out.
Come to think of it, I've got a match myself. If I keep on smoking these things, I won't be able to think at all before long. I know if you had a boy that smoked cigarettes you would lick him within an inch of his life. I nearly forgot you were going to say that.
Where do you get 'em anyhow?"

"Here," gasped the fat man as he dropped off the platform, muttering something about what this country is coming to. And the fresh young man lighted his cigarette with a grin.— Washington Times.

The Recruit's Religion.

Captain Philip Trevor begins a paper in The Nineteenth Century on "The Catholicism of the British Army" as follows:

"What's yer religious persuasion?" said the sergeant to the recruit.
"My what?"
"Yer what? Why, what I said.
What's yer after of Sundays?"
"Rabbits mostly."
"Ere, stow that lip. Come, now, chu'ch, chapel or 'oly Roman?"

And after explanation from his questioner the recruit replied: "I ain't no wise particular. Put me down chu'ch of England, sergeant. I'll go with the band."

Accounting For the Size of a Fee.

"It strikes me, Mr. Brief," said Mr.
Dogway, "that your charge of $750 for this opinion is pretty steep."

"No doubt," said Mr. Brief. "But you see, Dogway, when you come and ask me for an opinion which violates all my convictions you've got to pay not only for your law, but for my conscience."—Harper's Bazar.

The Place For the Repentant.

They had eloped and returned for the parental blessing.

"Father," the beautiful young woman said, "we are sorry for what we have done. Will you?"

"Then," the stern old man interrupted, "why don't you go to the lawyer around the corner? I'm no divorce court."—Chicago News.

One Consolation.

There is one consolation in being on the shady side of life. When a man gets to be 60 years or so and he says of a young woman, "Confound it, marry the girl myself," he actually believes she would have him. This is as good as getting her, better perhaps.—Boston Transcript.
