

CASS CITY ENTERPRISE.

VOL. XXI. NO. 7.

CASS CITY, MICH., OCT. 3, 1901.

BY A. A. P. M'DOWELL

The Most of
The Best for The Least

That's what you get at the CASS CITY FAIR

and that's what we think you get with us.

J. D. CROSBY & SON

Cass City's Shoe and Clothing Men

P. S. Leave your babies and packages with us.

School Books

A full line of everything necessary for school use. We have some special prices to offer on second-hand books; come in before they are all gone. We have all the new books that have just been introduced at exchange prices. Bring in your old books as early as possible and we will try and make the school book burden lighter.

School Supplies

Eggs taken in exchange, at Bond's Drug Store

LAING & JANES

announced to the purchasing PUBLIC that their SPECIAL SALE of

Shoes, Hosiery and Summer Underwear

will be continued and goods at close of season sold without regard to

COST

LADIES' GARMENTS REGULAR 25C NOW	12-1-2	Other values
20C	10	in proportion
MEN'S GARMENTS REGULAR 50C NOW	26
25C	14

Whether in need of these goods this season, you cannot afford to lose this opportunity to supply future needs, at these unprecedentedly low figures.

If You Have a Cold Do Not Neglect it

Laxative Cold Cures Hot Water Bottles Cough Syrups, Etc.

T. H. FRITZ, Druggist.

CEMENT

.....for stone work and sidewalks.....

ALPHA PORTLAND

a pure rock cement equal in quality and strength to any made

MILWAUKEE

Nothing better for stone work. New and fresh.

Call us up by phone.

CASS CITY LUMBER & COAL YARDS

GREAT SUCCESS.

Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac District Fair at Cass City the Best Yet Held.

Preparations for our Fair which opened on Tuesday began at the Driving Park last week, in the way of locating tents, booths, etc., although the management had been hard at work long before making necessary alterations and improvements. Last week was such a pleasant one that many feared bad weather this week, but Tuesday was a fairly good day and the exhibits kept coming in steadily until in every department room was at a premium by Wednesday forenoon and the placing and arranging of all was scarcely completed by noon of that day.

We cannot give a detailed report this week, but will merely make general comment and endeavor to give more of the detail in our next issue as it is simply impossible to do the matter justice in a report at so early an hour. The show of horses was excellent, the quality showing up considerably better than formerly and showing the tendency of our farmers towards rearing a better class of animals.

The thoroughbred cattle filled the stalls and we feel safe in saying was fully as good as any exhibit ever made here. Extra pens had to be made for both sheep and swine and the showing was of the very best stock, many of the specimens being winners at the State fair. The poultry was considerably better place to show. Agricultural Hall was fairly well filled and in most departments the exhibit was good. There were not quite as many vegetables as usual, but the quality was all right. Bread, butter and pastry was very tastily arranged. Canned fruit was not as plentiful as in some other years, and the same might be said of grain and seeds. Apples made a splendid showing with pears a close second, but others fruits were not numerous.

In Floral Hall the display of plants and flowers surpassed that of any previous year. Competition was very keen and it was a hard matter to tell where to place the prizes. Paintings and drawings were not abundant but there was some fine pieces. In needle and fancy work the display was about the same as in former years as to quantity but more care seems evident in the preparation of such work each year.

Fairweather Bros., J. L. Hitchcock & Sons, Geo. Matzen, Roby & Coon and H. L. Hunt made excellent displays of their various lines of merchandise and Floral Hall has been one of the principal places of interest. The new dining hall, under the management of W. C. Janks, proved a great convenience and was liberally patronized. The booths and stands of various make-ups all appeared to be well conducted and there was a pleasing absence of the games of chance which are generally so common at the country fair. There was a fine showing of wagons, buggies, carriages and implements.

The horse races so far have all been interesting and quite closely contested and the attractions, including the high diver, the wire-walker, the "wings" in their trapeze act, the Glass Sisters, and the Colored Concert Co., were pleasing and satisfactory.

Prof. Shaw's military band, of Caro, furnished an abundance of good music, at the various centres of attractions, at the grounds and on the street.

The sale of membership tickets has been about the same as in the past two years and the receipts to-day have been sufficient to ensure the financial success of the Fair.

Taken all in all the Fair will compare very favorably with those held in much larger towns and the management is to be congratulated, while they appreciate the hearty manner in which the farmers and citizens generally have co-operated with them.

Bright Prospects.

Chances Good for a Large Sugar Factory at Cass City.

Very little has been said for some time regarding the establishment of a sugar factory at Cass City, but our citizens have been quietly at work in the matter and developments during the past week are very encouraging indeed. An eastern promoter, with an expert, has been in town this week, and the gentlemen state frankly that the location is much better than was even represented to them. A definite agreement has not been arrived at as yet, but the plan has been outlined and the necessary local stock and site guaranteed, and in all probability an understanding will be reached in a few days. The honor of arousing the interest of the promoter belongs to our citizen, A. A. McKenzie, who has conducted the correspondence for some time. This is a brief statement of present conditions and we will endeavor to keep our readers posted as to developments.

Local Happenings.

Miss Eva Osborn spent the first of the week at Bay City.

Mrs. A. J. Knapp, of Bad Axe, is visiting friends here.

The Sebawaing Blade has been purchased by Otto Spriess.

Miss Libbie Randall spent last week with friends at Pontiac.

Rev. B. J. Baxter, of Port Huron, is the guest of friends here.

A. G. Bernay, of Detroit, is greeting his many old friends in town.

Roy Rice, of St. Catharines, Ont., is visiting his parental home here.

Chas. Karr, of Carsonville, has accepted a position in Geo. Matzen's store.

D. N. Campbell, of St. Thomas, Ont., is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Monroe.

J. N. McCready, of the London farm, Novesta, did business in town on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crawford, of Novesta, did business in town on Monday.

Chas. H. Schenck, of Sebawaing, spent Sunday at his parental home here.

Chas. S. Karr has bought forty acres, adjacent to his farm, of Geo. A. Karr.

Mrs. Stoner, of Pigeon, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. E. P. Smith, south of town.

Geo. Stone has moved his household effects to the Fritz block where he has the Racket Store.

A. W. Traver moved his stock of implements to the Frost & Hebblewhite building last week.

Mrs. John Anker, of Duluth, left this morning after a few weeks' visit with relatives in Elmwood.

Geo. Earl, of Ellington, attended a re-union of the Eighth Michigan Cavalry, at Dryden, last Thursday.

Wesley Wellwood and Miss Rudd, of Marlette, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. N. Dorman on Sunday.

A twelve and a half pound girl arrived this morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Orr, and all is well.

Dr. Wm. Morris was in Caro on Monday, attending the funeral of Dr. Graves, who died Saturday morning.

N. Hill and M. Parent returned last week from Onaway and vicinity where they were placing a number of monuments.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Robey, living three miles west of town, welcomed a little son to their home on Saturday morning.

Bruce Wheeler is now an attendant at the Eastern Michigan Asylum, having left here last Thursday to report for duty.

Mrs. D. H. Kyes left yesterday to attend the wedding of a sister at Munith, Mich., and will remain a while at her former home.

Fred A. White has purchased the John Lynn sixty five acres, three miles east and one mile south of Cass City. Consideration, $1,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fleenor and the latter's mother, Mrs. Matilda Kitchen, left Monday morning for their future home, at Lucas, Iowa.

T. J. Clements and family arrived from Caro the first of the week and now occupy their recently purchased residence on Third Street.

Robt. Conlter, of Shabbona, was in town on Saturday, and reports that, in his neighborhood, "everything is lovely and the goose hangs high."

Rev. M. W. Gifford will speak at the Dilman school house next Sunday, after the session of the Sunday school, which convenes at 2:30 p. m.

Geo. A. Karr has purchased the one hundred and twenty acre farm of Henry Dew, near the Winton school-house. Consideration, $1,900.

Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Truesdell, of Shabbona, left this week for Saginaw, where the Doctor will take a post-graduate course at the medical college.

Miss Estella McKay, daughter of Hon. Wm. McKay, of this county, is soon to be wedded to Wm. L. Day, son of Judge Day, ex-secretary of state.

All interested in the formation of a class in shorthand are requested to meet in the High School room on Monday evening, Oct. 7th, at 7:30 o'clock.

Our Low Prices Make Business Boom

We are selling the best 5, 8, 10, 12½ and 15 cent COTTON BATT in the World. Ask to see our new line of Cotton Batt.

While at the Fair do not fail to visit our Big Double Store, where you will see the Best Assortment of Dry Goods, Cloaks and Carpets

in this part of the country. We have some great bargains in store for you during Fair week. Do your trading at our store, we can save you money enough to pay all your expenses while at the Fair. Ask to see our

New Line of Underwear and Hosiery

Greatest values we have ever shown. Big assortment to select from. We have a large assortment of all the new things in DRESS GOODS. Buy your New Dress and Cloak at our store and you have the proper thing.

Wanted, 10,000 Bush. Windfall Apples

Delivered at once. Must be all sound and not smaller than about two inches across. Pay cash or trade.

FAIRWEATHER BROS.

David Schell, of Pontiac, a former resident of this section, has secured a patent on a combination wagon rack, which he had on exhibition at the State fair.

Wilson Harrison, the tailor, is turning out some fine ladies' tailoring, these days. Read his adv. in this issue and call and see his samples and get prices.

Mrs. Belle Clark, of Grand Rapids, who has been visiting relatives and friends in this place and vicinity for several days, left for her home this morning.

Miss Daisy Smith, of Oxford, is stopping with her aunt, Mrs. E. B. Landon, and will serve in the millinery establishment of Mrs. M. L. Moore until the holidays.

The Hunt Stock Co is giving entertainment at the Opera House each night this week. Lovers of the drama and vaudeville pronounce the company a good one.

In our last issue we neglected to mention the arrival of another little daughter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Bigelow. Mother and babe are doing nicely.

C. LeRoy Spencer has completed his business course at the Detroit Business University and accepted a position in a wholesale clothing house as book-keeper and typewriter.

The Social Workers of the Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Clapp, Wednesday Oct. 9th. Tea will be served from 5.30 to 8. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

On Wednesday of last week, a quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Scott, of Verona, when their daughter, Miss Eva, was united in marriage to Geo. M. Clark, of Bad Axe.

John Tuckey, of Mitchell, Dak., is spending the week here and expects to dispose of his farm, west of town, before returning. His hand, which was so severely injured recently, is healing rapidly.

Through a special arrangement with the publishers we are able to offer the Twice-a-week Detroit Journal, the popular magazine called The Pilgrim and this paper all one year for the sum of $2.20.

It is stated that Mr. Coreyell, of Bay City, has commenced work on the new test wells for the Bad Axe beet sugar factory, and that as soon as the wells are completed work will be pushed on the factory.

Geo. F. Scupholme is arranging to labor in the lumber woods for the coming winter. Wm. J. Campbell has been selected in his stead as superintendent of the Paul Sunday School, south of town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Stranbe returned on Saturday evening from their wedding trip. They have leased the A. W. Seed residence, corner of Sanilac and Leach Streets, and are arranging to begin housekeeping at once.

Hugh Walters returned last Monday from an extended stay at Spokane, Wash., where he went for the benefit of his health. He has been gaining considerably but recently had an attack of pleurisy which left him weak.

A recent Saginaw despatch says that on the afternoon of Sept. 21st in that city, the Huron Sugar Company was organized with a capital stock of $500,000, all paid in. A factory will be built at Harbor Beach. F. W. Gilchrist, Alpena, is president, Geo. L. Burrows, Saginaw, vice-pres., and F. R. Gilchrist, Cleveland, secretary-treas.

David Hutchinson, three miles east of town, has engaged to operate the O. K. James farm, just north of the village, and announces an auction sale of his farm stock and implements on Friday, Oct. 11th, at one o'clock. J. H. Striffler, auctioneer.

On Sunday evening Rev. A. Torbet, of the Presbyterian Church, announced that he would, on Sunday evening next, at seven o'clock, reply to certain things in the address of Rev. M. J. Crowley, of Gagetown, when he spoke in the Town Hall here, Sept. 22nd.

It has been customary for many years to have all preaching services on Sunday evening, begins at seven o'clock instead of seven thirty, beginning Oct. 1st. The change begins next Sunday and the bells will ring accordingly. The young peoples' services will begin at six.

Wm. Bentley has rented his farm and will sell at public auction, at the Hall farm, south of town, his stock and implements on Monday, Oct. 14th, at one o'clock. J. H. Striffler, auctioneer. Mr. Bentley will visit friends in Ontario and later will assist Elmer Atwell at Novesta Corners.

At the State fair at Pontiac, John Marshall & Sons, of Hillside Stock Farm, captured twenty-six premiums. F. L. Terry, of Novesta, won eleven on his Large English Berkshire Swine, and Saigeon & Son, of the Chestnut Grove Dairy and Poultry Farm, won first on their Jersey bull.

Jessie, wife of Thos. H. Flint, living six miles northeast of town, who has been ill since last spring, when she had a severe attack of lagrippe, died on Wednesday of last week, at the age of twenty-one years. Her maiden name was McLeish. The funeral services were held at the Presbyterian Church on Friday and were conducted by Rev. A. Torbet.

The Bert Kline Vaudeville Minstrel Company will appear at the Opera House, Cass City, on the evening of Friday, Oct. 11th, with eighteen people, band and orchestra. A free street parade will be given. They have a guaranteed attraction of ten specialties and a stage setting of red, white and blue with flags of all nations. Prices, 25, 35 and 50 cents.

The Sanilac Sugar Refining Co. has been organized by Charles Bewick, president; A. McVittie, vice president; Frank E. Kirby, second vice president; M. E. Farr, secretary and treasurer; and Joseph H. Berry, all of Detroit, with a capital of $300,000, to establish a $700,000 beet sugar factory at Crosswell, Sanilac county. The village has donated 120 acres of land.

Here's a Bargain.

Good residence on one of Cass City's principal streets, for sale or rent. Will sell one lot or five (all in same block) as desired. Inquire of 9-19-11 E. W. KEATING.

Wanted.

Twenty girls wanted to pick beans at the elevators of FRUTCHER, McGEORGE & Co.

For Sale or Rent.

I will sell or rent my farm 1½ miles west of Cass City. Prices and terms reasonable. Address all communications to JOHN TUCKEY, Mitchell, So. Dak. 9-12-3 horse, buggy and harness for sale. Weight of horse, 1075 lbs. Inquire of A. W. Seed. 8-22-11.

Money to Loan

On farm property in amounts of $200 to $2,500 from 2 to 10 years. Will take partial payments. See J. C. LAING for particulars. 8-4

New Carpet

Samples

Latest Patterns Down-to-date

-Picture Frames-

Made to order from 90 different patterns
--at--

Lenzner's Furniture Store

Big

Reduction

:: IN ::

BICYCLES

of all grades at

Johnson & Seeley's

Come and price them.
We can suit you.

IN EVERY DETAIL

as Funeral Director the service I am prepared to give is beyond criticism.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF CASKETS AND FUNERAL SUPPLIES...

always on hand.

FLOWERS ORDERED WHEN DESIRED

A. A. MCKENZIE.

Branch Houses at Gagetown and Argyle.

The Scourge of Damascus

A Story of the East...
By SYLVANUS COBB, JR.

Copyrighted 1891 by Robert Bonner's Sons.

CHAPTER XVII.—(Continued.)

Ulin bowed her head upon her hands, and could not restrain the promptings of her heart at that moment have been read, they would have revealed a secret not much to be wondered at.

"I think," said Ezabel, after a pause, "that you have had some opportunity to study Julian's character."

"I have seen enough to assure me that he is a noble, generous man," returned Ulin, raising her head.

"And," added Ezabel, "if you could know him better you would find your impressions strengthened. But he will not be here long. As soon as he recovers from his wound he will leave us."

"If I am not mistaken," ventured our heroine, "Julian is at home in this place."

"Most certainly he is, my daughter. From his earliest childhood he knew no other home but this."

"And he was on his way hither when he overtook me in the hands of the Arabs?"

"Yes."

"And will my presence cause him to leave you?"

"I think not, lady. But you will give yourself no uneasiness on that account. If Julian feels that he had better be away from you, he will go for his own sake. And, remember—the truly noble soul finds joy in the generous sacrifices which it may be called upon to make. I hear Ben Hadad's voice. He is calling me."

She arose and left the chamber; and when she returned she was followed by Ben Hadad. Now that Ulin saw the hermit by the light of the day she was awe-struck by his venerable appearance. All that could be noble and honorable and lovable in old age seemed combined in him; and as he bent his gaze upon her and extended his hand in welcome, she felt her heart go to him with all its trust and confidence.

"My child," he said in tones of tenderest solicitude, "Ezabel has told me your story and I have come to bid you an affectionate welcome to my cave. Rest here and feel that you are at home. Your mother paid me for this long ago. Come—follow me to where the air is fresher, and where the sunbeams can greet you."

The maiden thanked Ben Hadad as well as she was able and then rose to follow him. He led her to the main cave, where she found Hobaddan and the slaves.

"This is my home," said the old man, as he led the maiden to a seat, "and here have I lived more years than go to fill up the allotted age of man. All these trees and shrubs I have trained up from the tender sprout, and these vines I have taught to clothe the gray old rocks. And I have been most fortunate in my life. I have been able to protect many who needed protection and my days have been lengthened out to protect more."

Ulin was touched by the deep paths of the hermit's words, and for a whole hour she sat and listened to his conversation. At the end of that time he led her back to the cave where Ortok, the black slave, had prepared dinner. She did not feel hungry, but she sat down with Ben Hadad and Hobaddan and Ezabel—she and Albia—and partook with them.

Thus passed three days; and Ulin had become so used to the place that it already seemed like home. She had learned to love the hermit; and she had learned to love Ezabel; and she had learned to respect and esteem the stout-hearted Hobaddan and to converse with him freely. Once she asked the lieutenant what had become of Julian's band. Would they not be seeking him?

And he explained to her that he had communicated with them—that they knew of their chieftain's safety and had gone away into the mountains of Lebanon, where comfortable abiding places for them were plenty.

When Ulin retired to her own apartment she sat by herself, with her head bowed upon her hands, taking no notice of her serving-maid. At an early hour she retired; but it was a long time ere she slept; and when she did sleep she was troubled with strange dreams. She dreamed of the unfortunate Helena, and awoke with a cry of pain. And then she dreamed a more pleasant dream—a dream of something that had haunted her waking thoughts—a dream of the Scourge and Damascus.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Something More Than a Dream.

On the following morning, when Ulin entered the main cave, Julian was there to greet her. She extended her hand to him and smiled as she spoke. The youthful chieftain was somewhat pale, but his large, lustrous eyes burned with a deepened intensity and the white brow offered a strange contrast to the waving masses of golden hair. The maiden's smile faded away when she met the earnest gaze that was fixed upon her, and her hand trembled before she withdrew it. He spoke to her a few words of cheer, expressed his gratitude that she had found a place of safety; and hoped that the future might have no more clouds for her.

"O, my mistress," cried Albia, when she and Ulin were alone, "how noble a man he is!"

"Who?" asked the princess, starting out from a deep reverie.

"Julian, I mean," returned the maid, quickly and with enthusiasm. "Does he not look handsomer than ever?"

Ulin bowed her head and made no reply.

"Is he not beautiful to gaze upon?" pursued Albia, without seeming to notice her lady's abstracted mood.

"Hush, Albia, say no more now. I am busy with my own thoughts."

"Pardon, sweet mistress. I meant no wrong. I thought—we owed him so much—and he has suffered in our behalf—that you might—"

"Albia, say no more. I know you meant well. You mistake me if you think I am not grateful. There—say no more. I love you, and would not hurt your feelings. Go out into the grove and walk awhile."

Ulin bowed her head again as she spoke, with her hand upon her brow—upon her brow for a moment—and then pressed upon her bosom. And thus Albia left her.

When the freed girl reached the grove in front of the cave she found Julian and Osmir in close conversation and before they noticed her she had heard enough to excite her curiosity; and with a freedom that was natural to her, she asked them what had happened.

"Osmir thinks," said Julian, with a smile, "that one of the Arab robbers has followed us and tracked us to this place; but I laugh at him."

"I may be mistaken," rejoined the other, "but still I think I am right. I have seen the fellow twice; once by the river at the entrance of the wood, and once further away. It was one of the rascals who escaped us."

"And if it is the Arab, what can he want?" asked Albia.

"If it be one of those fellows," returned Julian, "he may wish to join our ranks."

"Oh," added Osmir, "he may hope to steal something."

"Very likely," assented the chieftain. "However," he concluded, after a brief pause, "we may as well keep a sharp lookout."

"Selim and I are on the watch," said Osmir; "and if we catch the rascal, we'll secure him."

Albia fancied that Julian had thoughts which he was not willing to express in her presence, but she did not mean to fret herself; and before she rejoined her mistress she had almost forgotten the circumstances.

At noon, and again in the evening, did Ulin meet Julian; but they did not converse together. She could not meet the gaze of those insidious eyes without trembling, and she sought to avoid that which so much annoyed her. If he had approached her and spoken freely with her on some subject of general interest she would have joined him readily; but he did not do so.

Morning came again, and again the maiden met the man who had saved her from the Arabs. This time he greeted her in few words, and soon turned away to speak with Hobaddan. He did not seem well. He looked paler than on the day before, and there was an expression of pain about the mouth and eyes. Ulin was uneasy. Perhaps his wound was giving him new trouble. As soon as the morning's meal had been eaten, she sought Ezabel and asked her if Julian was suffering from his wound.

"No," replied the old woman. "I do not think it is his wound. I have noticed his appearance and have asked him what it meant; but he puts me off with a smile and a blessing and tries to assure me that all is well. I do not like to see him suffer. He is like a child to me and I love him tenderly. Ah, the world little knows what a noble, generous soul dwells within that manly form."

"If I thought he was suffering from my account," said Ulin, "I should be most unhappy."

"How on your account?" said Ezabel, quickly.

"I mean in consequence of the wound he received while fighting for my deliverance."

"I hardly think it is that. Something beside the wound troubles him. It may be that the short captivity in Damascus worries him. He may have heard something there that gives him unpleasant thoughts."

At noon Julian did not appear when the rest ate their dinner. He was out by the river. Late in the afternoon Ulin met Ezabel again and the latter seemed sad and dejected.

"Julian is going to leave us," exclaimed the woman, in answer to an inquiry from Ulin.

"Leave us?" repeated our heroine, with a start.

"Yes; so he told me only an hour since."

"When will he go?"

"Early in the morning."

"But he will shortly return?"

"I fear not. I asked him that and he only shook his head."

"Does he give any reason for his going away?"

"None that you need to know, my child. In fact, he gives me no reason directly. I am left to draw my conclusions from accidental remarks."

When Ulin retired to her chamber she was in a frame of mind not easily analyzed. She spoke to Albia concerning the chieftain's unexpected departure and the girl expressed the opinion that he felt himself to be in the way.

"What do you mean by that?" asked Ulin.

"Well," replied Albia, "I think Julian feels that there are enough dwellers in the hermit's cave without him. I may be mistaken; but his manner, for a day or two past, has seemed to indicate that he was not perfectly at ease here."

The princess asked no more questions, but busied herself with her own thoughts.

As the sun was sinking from its daily course, Ulin wandered out into the grove alone, and as she approached the spot where she sometimes sat with the hermit, she saw Julian, seated upon a bench beneath an orange tree. At first she thought of turning back, and retracing her steps; but an impulse which was no result of her will, but rather an instinctive emotion, as though some secret force, led her on; and almost before she was aware of it she came so near that the youth heard her stop and looked up. He started when he saw her and a flash of joy, like a quick passage of sunlight, was upon his face. In a moment, however, the look was gone, and a shade of sadness succeeded. The maiden could not now have withdrawn even had she been so disposed in the first place. Following the strong impulse, she advanced to the shadow of the orange tree and placed her hand upon Julian's shoulder; and it thrilled the youth like an electric shock.

"Kind sir," she said, scarcely able to speak above a whisper when she commenced, "Ezabel tells me you are going away."

"Yes, lady," Julian replied, rising as she spoke; "I have so determined."

"And you go soon?"

"In the morning."

"This is sudden, sir."

"No, lady; no more so than my movements are apt to be."

CHAPTER XIX.

Ulin and Julian.

Ulin hesitated and trembled, and finally sat down upon the bench from which the chieftain had arisen. In a few moments she had recovered herself so that she could speak without faltering.

"Good sir, I have one question to ask you." She went on hurriedly, as though the old impulse still led her; "you had not planned to leave the cave so soon?"

"I had planned nothing about it, lady."

"But—if I had not been here, with my servant, you would have remained longer?"

"Lady, do not ask me such questions."

"I must ask them, sir, for I want to know. If I thought that my presence here had caused you to leave your old home, I should be most unhappy. When I came here I did not know how near and dear this place was to you. If one of us must go, let me find some other resting place."

Julian started and trembled like an aspen. A moment it was so, and then he turned upon the maiden a look so earnest and so deep and so full of tumultuous feeling, that she shook beneath it.

"Lady," he said, speaking almost in a whisper, "you shall know the secret which I had purposed never to reveal to mortal being. The words are forced from me. Let me speak them now; and then let me be forgotten. When I heard that the king of Damascus had shut up a fair maiden within the Palace of Lycianus, and that he meant to make that maiden his wife, I felt my heart grow sick within me and I resolved, if the fair one was held against her will, that I would set her free. I led my brave men to the palace and overcame the guard which the king had set. Heaven was opened, but in the blessed realm I was offered no abiding place. I saw the loved spirit of light within the cave which had been the home of my childhood; but my love I dared not speak. How could I, the enemy of Damascus, and the branded robber, tell my love to the daughter of the king's prime minister. Lady, I dare not trouble you more."

(To be continued.)

THE INDISPENSABLE MAN.

Prudent Business Men Now Get Rid of That Positivity.

Some of the most successful business men in this country make it a rule to dispense with the services of any man in their employ, no matter how important his position may be, as soon as he comes to regard himself as "indispensable," says Success. This may seem harsh and even unbusiness-like; but, if we look into it, we shall find that there is wisdom in this practice. Experience proves that the moment a man looks upon himself as absolutely necessary, he usually ceases to exercise to the fullest extent the faculties which have helped him to rise to that indispensable point. He becomes arrogant and dictatorial, and his influence in an organization is bound to be more or less demoralizing. Many concerns have been seriously embarrassed by the conduct of managers, superintendents, or heads of departments, after they had reached positions where they thought no one else could take their places. This undue appreciation of one's own importance is as disastrous in its results as utter lack of self-esteem. It is really evidence of a narrow mind, and ignorance of general conditions; for the man who is up to the times, thoroughly posted in regard to the world-wide trend of the twentieth century, will realize that there are few people in the world no matter what their talents or ability, who cannot be replaced. It is a very rare character, indeed, that is imperatively necessary, and the man who actually reaches this point does not brag of it, nor act as if he considered himself "indispensable."

DAIRY AND POULTRY.

INTERESTING CHAPTERS FOR OUR RURAL READERS.

How Successful Farmers Operate This Department of the Farm—A Few Hints as to the Care of Live Stock and Poultry.

Some Hints on Turkeys.

From the Farmers' Review: After the red cox, usually when they are eight or ten weeks old, it is not necessary to fight lice upon them again if you keep their roosting place clean. It is best to fix roosts under a shed, under trees, or even in the open, and remove their coops after they are feathered out, for rusting quarters always results disastrously. Let the most of their food be given after they outgrow the bread period and now it will do no harm to allow them to eat all they want if they have considerable of a run, for they are naturally great bug-eaters and foragers, so the feed you give will help to make quick growth.

Never neglect to provide clean water in clean vessels for them to drink; if you do not they will either drink foul water, or wander off in search of water. Poults will gang together and will follow after any hen that will cluck and not fight them. We had one old chicken hen that we named the "turkey hen," for she raised two gangs of turkeys each year. Towards fall she would have the whole gang of turkeys after her. After she had brought her second clutch through babyhood until we staid them. They would even try to stick their heads under her while on the roost.

It is hardly possible to get turks to fatten during the hot weather, but the first frosty nights seem to sharpen their appetites and then they eat greedily. We feed mature shelled corn for six weeks before sale day, aiming to give all they will eat three times a day. If they seem droopy after babyhood, give them a feed of curds made black with pepper and thick with chopped onion tops some morning. This will nearly always straighten out their dumps. If it does not put a quart of good wood ashes in two gallons of water and allow them to drink of it. This often cures disease that greatly resembles cholera, but if they still continue droopy quarantine the worst ones and strive by added cleanliness to prevent the well ones becoming droopy. We do to doct: much, excepting for symptoms of roup and bowel trouble, for we think cleanliness, wholesome food, grit and few lice, or none at all, are the best things to have in the way of medicine.

The first year we killed several in our ignorance by using cold oil in their roost coops, and by our crowding. We soon discovered it simply will not do to use strong fumes of any sort in their coops, nor to overcrowd, nor to put grease on them.

Last summer our neighbor told us she found lice on her poults that morning, and that she promptly greased them a little with lard. We told her her poults would be most sure to die, and in a few days she said some were already dead, the others had the dumps and finally they all died that she greased. But what can I do for lice? "Use insect powder." It didn't kill them when she had used it. Well, then, it wasn't fresh. Get good, either by sending to headquarters or by buying of a reliable druggist.—Emma Clearwaters.

Red Hogs.

It strikes the writer of the swine editorials that the reeder of red hogs is well deserving of a word of not sympathy but praise and encouragement at our hands. He seems to have little to say for himself but he may here take notice that we shall be glad to have him come to the front and say something in his own behalf through these columns. We thought of the red hog man last week when visiting upon a large stock farm down in the flat lands of western Indiana where the big ditches have made it possible to grow good crops of corn and grass instead of the crops of frogs which were at one time the main dependence of the residents for a living. (They didn't personally eat the frogs but got a good price for them in the Chicago Market.) Here we found upon the same farm large herds of both Poland-Chinas and Duro-Jerseys and both varieties were of good blood and form. It was a chance to compare notes as to the difference between the two lots of hogs and we do not intend to tell all that was said because there was no red hog man there to make a "professional statement" for his friends. But after all what did transpire was to the credit of the red hog breeder and we rather imagine that his P-C rival would take exception to some of the remarks made on behalf of the warm tinted swine. Our own opinion was that comparing the two breeds the red hogs had the advantage in size of frame and length of body but appeared somewhat coarse and loosely built. Is this a correct estimate? Interviewed, the breeder said that what he found to be especially in favor of the red sow is that she brings forth more pigs than her P-C sister. His annual average shows eight pigs per sow for the red breed against five for the P-C and he tells us that the red pigs are great hustlers after feed from birth and seem to be less susceptible to the ailments of young pigs than are the others. Also as they grow towards maturity they grow heavier than the black pigs and make growth faster on the same amount of food and at killing time weigh with him 100 pounds more than the marketable P-Cs. Is this correct, Mr. D-J breeder? But then there was an alleged draw back to all of this fine showing. The breeder alleged that the red hog may be the best hog for the farmer but said that the packer does not especially admire him. Why is this, if it is a fact? We presume that it is entirely owing to the large size and heavy weight of the red hog added to the well known fact that the packers are nowadays after a medium, well fed and finished hog that will cut a good percentage of carcass to live weight. If this is not the reason then it may be that the P-C bears more lard and that lard is more profitable compared with extra large sides and hams of mixed meat and bacon. It is certainly a great thing in favor of the red hog that the sow is so prolific and that she has an abundant supply of milk for her pigs, but there are a lot of things we want to know from the red hog breeder before we form a "fully matured" estimate of the value of his big breed. Experiments at hand do not furnish much information about Duro-Jersey swine. In some Ontario experiments made in 1895 two Duro-Jerseys fed the same way as two P-C hogs (pure bred) made a daily gain of 1.16 lbs. compared with 1.03 lbs. made by the latter. At the close of the experiment the D-J's weighed 199 lbs. and the P-C's 190 lbs. The former dressed 77.21 per cent dressed carcass, and the latter 77.18 per cent. At the commencement of the experiment the D-J's weighed an average of 62 lbs., and the P-C's an average of 69 lbs. To make a gain of 100 lbs., the D-J's required 580 lbs. of food and the P-C's 507 lbs. of food. In similar experiments carried out at the Michigan Ex. Station, the P-C's made a daily gain of 1.20 lbs. and the D-J's a daily gain of 1.47 lbs. At start of experiment the P-C's weighed an average of 81 lbs. and the D-J's 89 lbs. At the close of the experiment the P-C's weighed 264 lbs., had used 514 lbs. of food for 100 lbs. of grain and dressed 84.7 per cent. The D-J's weighed at close of experiment 320 lbs., had used 467 lbs. of food per 100 pounds of grain and dressed 83.2 per cent. This will give our readers a chance to figure out exactly which is the best hog. It also relieves us of the responsibility of judging in the matter.

Poultry Briefs.

According to the experimenters at the California station 100 hens weighing three pounds each should daily receive the following: Dry matter, 16 pounds; protein, 2.52 pounds; fat, 1.2; carbohydrates, 9.9. To get this balance in the circulation the various rations are proposed, any one of which may be used:

Ration 1.—6 lbs. wheat, 2 lbs. bran, 2 lbs. middlings, 5 lbs. crushed barley, 1 lb. coconut oil-cake meal, 4 lbs. alfalfa hay, 75 lbs. blood meal.

Ration 2.—11 lbs. wheat, 3 lbs. bran, 4 lbs. middlings, 2 lbs. alfalfa hay, 1 lb. meat meal.

Ration 3.—1 lb. wheat, 3 lbs. bran, 5 lbs. crushed barley, 5.5 lbs. coconut oil-cake meal, 5.5 lbs. alfalfa hay.

Ration 4.—7 lbs. wheat, 3.5 lbs. bran, 2.0 lbs. alfalfa, 4.5 lbs. crushed barley, 1.0 lb. meat meal.

Ration 5.—9 lbs. bran, 5 lbs. middlings, 5 lbs. bran, 15 lbs. skim milk.

The California station has been looking into the poultry business a good deal and some valuable data have resulted. Analyzing the eggs, they found the following: Shell, 10.81 per cent of the whole; yolk, 32.47 per cent; white, 56.42 per cent. Over 93 per cent of the shell is found to be carbonate of lime; over 4 per cent organic matter and water; less than 1 per cent carbonate of magnesia, and the same amount phosphates. Of the yolk, about half is water; 15 per cent protein and 33 per cent fat. Mineral matters in the yolk—lime, magnesia, phosphates—total less than 2 per cent. Of the white, about 86 per cent is water, 12 protein, and fat about one-fifth of one per cent.

It is evident from a brief consideration of the subject that the power of digestion of fowls are somewhat different from that of other farm stock. This difference is in favor of the fowl and is due to the gizzard. This makes it possible for the fowl to pulverize the bony and other hard matter consumed. To what extent this pulverized material is taken into the circulation we do not yet know.

Good and Bad Butter.

Have you ever stopped to think that the world is hungry for a fresh, highly flavored creamy butter, and that the demand for the same is greater than the creameries can supply? Have you ever stopped to think that there is not an eater in the land hungry for the butter you sell at the grocery store? Nine every ten pounds of butter sold at the grocery goes into a barrel and is sold as packing stock for several cents a pound less than the merchant paid for it, and is not offered to the public as butter until it is purified and sells at a higher price than its maker received. What is wrong with such a system? Give to your creamery every pound of cream you make into this low priced grease, and the increase in price you will receive will make you smile.—Exchange.

At last California has taken a step toward a dairy school. The University of California announces that a dairy school will begin at the university October 9 and continue till December 12. The announcement is further made that only 30 students will be received the first year. This looks small alongside of what some of the eastern states are doing, but probably the California dairymen are thankful for even a start. It has been notorious that up to this time the great gold-producing state has been utterly negligent of the educational interests of her dairymen.

Brazilian coffee imported to Porto Rico was boycotted by the residents of the island recently.

BRIDGE BUILDERS.

MAGIC IN AMERICAN ENTERPRISE IN THIS LINE.

The Shan State of Thibaw Opened Up to the World by a Railroad Over Hills, Through American Skill and Engineering.

There seems to be no spot in the world into which American enterprise is not penetrating. The way in which the United States is building great steel bridges in far off lands is something which will bring a wall of wool from the bridge builders of England, who have until recently had a monopoly of this sort of thing. How many people ever heard of the Shan State of Thibaw? It is a region lying between upper Burma and southern China, and through it runs the old caravan route from China to Mandalay. Long before the British took Burma the trade of the Far East filtered through Mandalay by slow stages, up and down the rugged hills and valleys, through the thick jungles and over the mountains, finally descending to an open plain. Now this is all changed, and a railroad winds up the hills and over the plateau between Mandalay and Thibaw, American skill, American ingenuity and American enterprise made this possible, for by means of a great steel bridge and viaduct the obstacle of the great mountain gorge of the Gokteik Valley—an obstacle which seemed at first insurmountable—has been successfully overcome. This Gokteik Valley slopes from the mountains on one side to a canyon 500 feet deep, at the bottom of which rushes a turbulent river. Across the river precipitous cliffs tower high up, forming the further wall of the valley. Across this canyon the caravans used to cross by a natural bridge, a causeway under which the river had tunneled. Now over the valley and canyon stretches a spider-like structure of steel, crossing the river 850 feet above its surface and striking a series of tunnels and artificial ledges in the face of the opposing cliffs, by which the railway makes its way to the slopes of the next valley. In building this bridge use was made of the old natural causeway for a foundation for some of the bridge piers, so that the deepest pier of the bridge is only 325 feet high—high enough, but not so high as it would have had to be had not the old causeway been there. This Yankee bridge is 2,000 feet long and 4,000 tons of steel enter into its construction. It was built in sections in the United States, carried with infinite care and difficulty to this far off region and there set up, every bolt, bar, rivet and nut finding its place and fitting into each other with the utmost nicety. Such things are the very magic of mechanics, and more wonderful they seem than any of the stale old exploits of King Solomon's Djinns. A man in Pennsylvania takes a piece of paper and makes a lot of figures on it. He then takes another piece of paper and draws a lot of lines on it—his calculations and his plans—the weaving of the magic spell. Then half-naked figures in the lights of flaming fires in dusky, cavernous buildings make pieces of steel as this master magician directs; they are his gnomes working out the spell. These pieces of steel are packed into boxes and shipped to the far off mountainous land, where dusty caravans wind through the hills laden with the products of Cathay, and the grave, white-turbaned merchants tell each other tales of the wonders of Oriental sorcery as they journey. The master magician from Pennsylvania waves his magic wand, his subordinate magicians spring to their work, and lo! before the astonished eyes of the people of the caravans appears a light and airy way of steel springing across the valley; and over it rush the iron devils, spouting smoke and fire—which means that the 6:30 train on the road to Mandalay is passing.—New York Press.

Watering Cows at Will.—A test was made to determine the effect of allowing cows to drink at will as opposed to the practice of watering them at regular intervals. Four mature cows were selected for the test, and the amount of water drunk was weighed in each case. The results showed that the cows that drank whenever they wished and in such quantities as they desired, made no more and no better milk than when they drank but twice daily.

Warm vs. Cold Water.—The report of the results of an experiment in warming water for dairy cows states that increase in the consumption of water when warmed was universally observed. The cold water was drunk more freely in November and May than in the intervening months. At all other times it was drunk much less freely than the warmed water, the increased consumption of water when warmed averaging from 8 to 23 per cent. This increase in consumption, however, resulted in no increase in the milk flow or decrease in its quality. In other words, the cow did not water her milk by increased drinking.

Excessive Amounts of Single Nutrients.—Experiments were undertaken to determine the effect of adding to a standard ration excessive amounts of a single nutrient. It was found that an excess of protein (Atlantic gluten flour) had but slight effect on the quantity and none upon the quality of the milk flow. A 10 per cent excess of carbohydrates in the form of cane sugar also had but slight effect upon the quantity and none upon the quality of the milk flow. The addition of a solid fat (palm oil) had a pronounced effect upon the quality of the flow, increasing the total solids 2 per cent and the fat 7 per cent. The increase appeared to be a permanent one. In similar trials reported a year ago cottonseed oil was found to increase the fat content of milk permanently to the extent of .20 to .30 per cent. Emulsified corn and linseed oils depressed the fat percentages. Financial considerations did not enter into these tests, as the protein, carbohydrates and fats added were so costly as to make very expensive rations.

Effect of Large Grain Rations.—To determine the effect of large grain rations, four, eight and twelve pounds of different grain rations were fed at different times, with hay and silage. The results from a financial standpoint showed that an increase of grain from four pounds to eight, or to twelve pounds, seldom yielded enough more butter to pay the cost of the extra grain. In practically every case, however, there was enough more skim milk and enough better manure made to more than offset the extra expense for grain. When the by-products are considered the profit was each time in favor of the eight-pound ration as compared with the four-pound and generally in favor of the twelve-pound as compared with the eight-pound ration.

Our Trade with Spain.

Trade relations between the United States and Spain have resumed the conditions existing prior to the war between the two countries. The exports from the U. S. to Spain in the fiscal year just ended were larger than in any preceding year with a single exception, 1883, and show an increase of 6 million dollars over 1899; while our imports from Spain also show a marked increase over 1899. In the 7 months ending July 1901, our imports from Spain were $2,110,118, against $2,875,840 in the corresponding period of the preceding year, while during the same period our exports to Spain increased from $3,189,288 to $3,988,970. Raw materials form the most important feature of our exports to Spain, and fruits and iron ore the principal articles of importation. The total value of our imports from Spain in the fiscal year 1901 was $5,409,301, and in 1900, $5,950,047. The details of the 1901 importations are not available, but those of the year 1900 show: fruits, over one and a half million dollars; nuts, 518 thousand dollars; wines, 538 thousand, and iron ore, 650 thousand dollars in value. Turning to the export side, raw materials prove to be the chief feature of our export trade with Spain. Our total exports to Spain in the fiscal year 1901 were $15,484,738, against $13,299,680 in 1900. Of the latter total, cotton was valued at $9,618,930; mineral oil, $888,011; shoes and staves, $850,295; tobacco, $661,842; boards and planks, $426,387; bread-stuffs, $236,353; iron and steel manufactures, $162,738.

S. R. Dawson, the inventor of the Damascus steel process who has served half of his ten years' sentence for killing a son-in-law, was recently paroled by Governor Shaw of Iowa in order that his valuable discovery might not die with him. Dawson claims that his steel can be made by his process much cheaper than the steel of ordinary commerce.

Learning Among the Clergy.

The idea that the business of a clergyman is to maintain and spread belief in a particular religion which he believes to have been revealed, and of a bishop to see that the does it, is slowly dying away, until there is a doubt whether learning is of any use, and the man who possesses it, especially if it be of the older kind, is regarded often with kindness no doubt, and sometimes with admiration, but usually with a pity from which contempt is not entirely absent. "What could you expect?" said a country town magnate a few years ago when told that the largest parish was falling into disorder. "Why E— (the rector) is a Hebrew scholar."—London Spectator.

Reassuring Him.

"Time flies, perhaps I've made my call too long," he said. Said she: "Oh, no, it wasn't long at all—It only seemed to be."

—Philadelphia Press.

Charles's mamma missed a small pot of jam one day, and as she noticed some tell-tale evidences about Charles's mouth and hands, she asked him if he had seen or eaten the jam. Charles insisted that he had not even seen the jam. Papa thereupon was called in, and Charles was punished severely. Drawing Charles close to her, and wiping the tears from his eyes, mamma said: "When I was your age, my boy, I never told a falsehood." "How old were you before you began?" asked Charles between sobs.

Cass City Enterprise.

An independent newspaper published every Thursday by A. P. McDowell, Main Street, Cass City, Tuscola Co., Mich.

Advertisements.
All changes of advertisements must be sent to this office no later than Wednesday noon of each week, else they can not be inserted in that week's issue. Reasonable rates are charged for display advertisements. Local notices in our paid local columns are five cents per line for first insertion. Notices of festivals, lectures, concerts and all entertainments of a money-making character are charged for at the rate of one dollar for each insertion. Cards of thanks are twenty-five cents for each insertion.

The wide circulation of the ENTERPRISE in the counties of Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac, makes it valuable advertising medium.

A. P. McDowell, Proprietor.

Professional Cards.

J. D. BROOKER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW, Solicitor in Chancery,
Reference: Exchange Bank and Cass City Bank. Office in second story of Exchange Bank block, Cass City, Mich.

W. A. Wellemeyere, D. D.
Homeopathic Physician and Surgeon, Graduate of Chicago Homeopathic Medical College. Office and residence in the Campbell block, at 730 p. m. Regular office hours 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m. 11-1-02-1900.

Drs. Wm. Morris & L. King.
Physicians and Surgeons, Offices in New Aie Block. Dr. Morris's residence, Seegar street, four doors south of New Sheridan.

Dr. G. M. Livingston.
Physician and Surgeon, Graduate of the University of Michigan—1898. Special attention given to diseases of women and children. Office over Cass City Bank. Telephone 21—2 rings.

Dr. A. N. Treadgold.
Physician and Surgeon. Will faithfully serve those who may employ him. Office at Dr. Treadgold's former residence, Seegar St. 6-20-01

I. A. FRITZ,
DENTIST. All work done equal to the best. It is my aim to make every job of work a blessing to those for whom it is done. My prices are reasonable. No charge for examination. Office over Fritz's drugstore. Not at home on Tuesdays.

A. A. McKENZIE,
AUCTIONEER. Sales of all kinds promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed. Sales solicited from all points. Terms reasonable. Arrangements can be made at the office of the ENTERPRISE. 8-3-94

Jas. M. McKenzie
Painter, paper hanger, etc. Patronage solicited.

Societies.

I. O. F.
COURT ELKAN, No. 825, I. O. F., meets on 2nd and 4th Tuesdays of each month in their hall in the Campbell block, at 7:30 p. m. Visiting brethren are cordially invited.

WILLIAM MESSNER, C. R.
A. A. P. McDowell Rec. Sec. 8-1-97

I. O. O. F.
CASS CITY LODGE, No. 203, meets on 2nd and 4th Fridays of each month, at 7:30 p. m. Visiting Sir Knights cordially invited.

JAS. RAMSAY, Secretary.
M. L. MOORE, N. G.

K. O. T. M.
CASS CITY TENT, No. 74, meets the first and third Friday evenings of each month, at 7:30 p. m. Visiting Sir Knights cordially invited.

H. L. PINNEY, Cashier.
C. G. MATZEN, Asst. Cashier.

EXCHANGE BANK
Cass City, Mich.

Loans Money on approved notes and real estate.

In Partial Payment Terms if desired.

Pays Interest on Time Deposits.

E. H. PINNEY, PROP.

CASS CITY BANK.
AUTEN & SEELEY, Props.

J. F. SEELEY, I. B. AUTEN, Caro, Mich. Cass City, Mich.
Established 1882.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Foreign Exchange Bought and Sold.

Drafts issued payable in any Country in the World.

Money loaned on Real Estate. Collections a Specialty.

C. W. MCKENZIE,
Cashier.

Kodol
Dyspepsia Cure
Digests what you eat.

This preparation contains all of the digestants and digests all kinds of food. It gives instant relief and never fails to cure. It allows you to eat all the food you want. The most sensitive stomachs can take it. By its use many thousands of dyspeptics have been cured after everything else failed. It is unequalled for all stomach troubles.

It can't help but do you good Prepared only by E. O. DeWitt & Co., Chicago
The $1.00 bottle contains 2 1/2 times the 50c. size.

You Can Lead a Horse to water but you can't make him drink.

You can't make him eat either. You can stuff food into a thin man's stomach but that doesn't make him use it.

Scott's Emulsion can make him use it. How? By making him hungry, of course. Scott's Emulsion makes a thin body hungry all over. Thought a thin body was naturally hungry didn't you? Well it isn't.

A thin body is asleep—not working—gone on a strike. It doesn't try to use its food.

Scott's Emulsion wakes it up—puts it to work again making new flesh. That's the way to get fat.

Send for free sample.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, 409 Pearl St., N. Y. 2nd and 3rd floors. All druggists.

Caro.

Fred Oesterle is painting his house. Help is very scarce at the evaporator.

Floyd Allen, of Indianfield's, was in town Monday.

D. Gould, of Ellington, did business here on Saturday.

J. Thompson and wife, of Mayville, spent the week in town.

Geo. Hitchcock, of Cass City, attended the Caro fair Friday.

Mrs. Immerson, of Almer, visited at Philip Dennis's on the 30th.

Mr. John Thompson, Sr., is making an extended visit in Canada.

Mrs. Geo. Cross, of Gageton, spent a few days of last week in town.

Mrs. Peats and children spent Sunday at Mr. Randall's, south of town.

Mrs. Parks and children, of Vassar, are visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Mrs. Thomas Campbell, of Canada, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Groh, of this place.

Rev. F. Smith has moved his family to Ellington, where he has secured an appointment.

Drs. Morris and Deming, of Cass City, attended the funeral of Dr. Graves, of this place, on Monday.

Ira Hays, of Elmwood, took the noon train here Monday for Arenac county to attend the funeral of his sister-in-law.

The business places of Chas. Montague, H. Montague, B. Himelchoch and E. O. Spaulding were closed Monday afternoon, during the funeral of Dr. Graves.

The many friends of Dr. Graves were saddened Saturday morning on hearing of his sudden though not wholly unexpected death, which occurred Friday night at his residence. Dr. Graves has been in poor health for sometime with a disease supposed to be cancer of the stomach, but attended to his practice on the day of his death. The funeral, which was conducted by the masons, was held at the residence Monday afternoon and was largely attended. He was laid to rest in the Caro cemetery.

Lewis Ockerman, Goshen, Ind.: "DeWitt's Little Early Risers never bend me double like other pills, but do their work thoroughly and make me feel like a boy." Certain, thorough, gentle. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Chas. R. Wessmar, Evanston, Ill., writes: "My boy 2 1/2 years old had a severe cold which refused to yield to any treatment until we tried Foley's Honey and Tar. He was completely cured before using one bottle." Take none but Foley's. T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

What cures and keeps you free from Sick Headache? Why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Sold at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

When you have no appetite, do not relish your food and feel dull after eating you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Price, 25 cents. Samples free at A. Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

"The Last Days of President McKinley," by Walter Wellman, in the Review of Reviews for October, is the most comprehensive account of the Buffalo tragedy that has appeared in print. All things considered it is a remarkable journalistic achievement. It should be read and preserved as a complete record of a great historical event.

Mrs. T. Bridleman, of Parshallville, Mich., was troubled with salt rheum, for thirteen years and had tried a number of doctors without relief. After two applications of Bannan Salve, her hands became better in a short time she was entirely cured. Beware of substitutes. T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

POOR AND BIG HEARTED.

Specimens of the Hospitality of the Southern Mountaineer.

The latchstring hangs outside every cabin door if the men folk are at home, but you must shout "Hello!" always outside the fence.

"We uns is pore," you will be told, "but y'u're welcome ef y'u kin put up with what we have."

After a stay of a week at a mountain cabin a young "furriner" asked what his bill was. The old mountaineer waved his hand. "Nothin," he said, "cept com ag'n!"

A belated traveler asked to stay all night at a cabin. The mountaineer answered that his wife was sick, and they were "sorter out of fixin's to eat, but he reckoned he mought step over to a neighbor's an borrow some." He did step over, and he was gone three hours. He brought back a little bag of meal, and they had corn bread and potatoes for supper and for breakfast, cooked by the mountaineer.

The stranger asked how far away his next neighbor lived. "A leetle the rise of six miles, I reckon," was the answer. "Which way?"

"Oh, jes' over the mountain thar." He had stepped six miles over the mountain and back for that little bag of meal, and he would allow his guest to pay nothing next morning.

I have slept with nine others in a single room. The host gave up his bed to two of our party, and he and his wife slept with the rest of us on the floor. He gave us supper, kept us all night, and sent us away next morning with a parting draft of moonshine applejack, of his own brewing, by the way, and would suffer no one to pay a cent for his entertainment. That man was a desperado, an outlaw, a moonshiner and was running from the sheriff at that very time.

Two outlaw sons were supposed to have been killed by officers. I offered aid to the father to have them decently clothed and buried, but the old man, who was as bad as his sons, declined it, left for that, and if not, why, he had—"The Southern Mountaineer," by John Fox, Jr., in Scribner's.

WASHDAY WISDOM.
A very hot iron should never be used for flannels or woollens.

Calicoes, ginghams and chintzes should be ironed on the wrong side.

Clotheslines are made much more durable by boiling for ten minutes before they are used.

Table linen should be ironed when quite damp and ironed with a very hot and very heavy iron.

Irons should not be allowed to become redhot, as they will never retain the heat properly afterward.

Embroideries should be ironed on a thin, smooth surface over thick flannel and only on the wrong side.

Linen may be made beautifully white by the use of a little refined borax in the water instead of using a washing fluid.

Wash fabrics that are inclined to fade should be soaked and rinsed in very salt water, to set the color, before washing in the suds.

Silken fabrics, especially white silk handkerchiefs, should not be dampened, but ironed with a moderately warm iron when taken from the line.

His Test.
A dealer in pictures who makes it his business to find as many new painters as possible, both in this country and abroad, was asked in regard to his methods of selecting pictures to buy.

"He was very frank in his talk, and one thing which he said is shrewd enough to be worth quoting.

"Of course," he said, "with my experience I am able to judge whether there is promise in a painter's work, but I never buy with any idea of putting the painter on my list until I have seen the man and talked with him myself. I always watch him closely, and I never buy his pictures unless his eye lights up when I talk to him about his work and about his profession."

The artist whose heart was really in his work would not discuss it without kindling, and the man who did not paint from the heart was not the one whose pictures the dealer wanted.

A Bird of Passage.
"And where, may I ask, do you generally reside?" the young man said after all other subjects had been exhausted.

"Oh, I have no fixed abode," Miss Mobile replied, "but I usually pass the greater part of the winter in Reading, Pa. Last I found myself attracted to St. Paul. After that I go down to West Virginia and spend the summer and part of the autumn in Wheeling."

"And then?"
"Then, Mr. Heavy, I find myself admirably prepared for a month or two of Alken."—New York Herald.

A Good Cricketer.
Dr. W. G. Grace was once giving a brilliant batting display at the oval, and one of the spectators observed to his friend: "Did you ever see anything like it? Why, he puts 'em wherever he likes."

"Well," said the other, "it's all practice—he's always at it—he doesn't waste any of his time over family priers."—C. W. Alcock's "Cricket Stories."

Not to Blame.
"Della, this is no way! The dirt in this room must have been here a month."

"Then blame the girl before me, ma'am. I've only been here three weeks."—Exchange.

Easy to Prove.
If a man wants to know definitely just what kind of a peg he is—square or round—there is only one way—he must get into a hole. —Philadelphia Press.

Slavery Protected the Negro.

If the negro had been forced to compete for existence in America, he would have been crushed out by the civilized power, as the Indian has been, says Albert Phelps in The Atlantic, but the peculiar institution of slavery protected him not only from this competition, but also, by artificial means, from those great forces of nature which inevitably weed out the weaker organisms and which operate most unrestrainedly upon the ignorant savage.

For the first time, perhaps, in the history of the world human beings had been bred and regulated like valuable stock, with as much care as is put upon the best horses and cattle. As a natural consequence the sanitary condition of the negro during slavery was remarkable, especially by contrast with his present condition, and his growth was the abnormal growth of a plant abnormally raised in a hothouse.

When, therefore, this mass of helpless beings was thrown upon its own resources by the act of emancipation and when the protection of slavery had been withdrawn, the direst wretchedness and suffering followed.

A Brief Interview.
The late Rev. R. S. Storrs was a very hard man to interview, for he resented the inquisitiveness of the press and was lefy to its agents.

One evening a reporter attended a reception at his house and in the course of the evening touched his arm and whispered: "Doctor, I'm from the press. I want the names of guests and all the particulars."

"Yes," Dr. Storrs whispered in return, "this way, this way." And, taking the young man's arm, he escorted him to the front door and put him out.

It Takes Time.
"Your wife," we said to the husband of the great authoress, "is the woman of the hour?"

"Indeed she is," he responded, with a tinge of sadness in his voice. "She is the woman of the hour and a half when she is dressing for the theater."—Baltimore American.

W. T. Wesson, Gloucester, Va., druggist, writes: "Your One Minute Cough Cure gives perfect satisfaction. My customers say it is the best remedy for coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles." A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Another Respected Citizen Gone to the city to take treatment for his stomach trouble. The amount of money he paid for railroad fare to get there would have bought enough of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to have kept him and his entire family in good health for six months. You can't suffer from Constipation, Indigestion, Sick Headache or Stomach Troubles if you take this remedy. In 50c and $1.00. Sold at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

School Report.
Report of Dist. No. 2, Evergreen township, for month ending Sept. 27, 1901.

No. of days taught 20.
" " pupils enrolled 30.
Total attendance 443.
Average daily attendance 179.

Names of those not late nor absent during the month. Duncan Rule, Nora Glenn, Martha Collins, Sarah Bartlett, Iris Bartlett, Martha Atwell, Clara Lowe, Lillie Lowe, James Hamilton, Jannetta Sangster, Josie Hilliker, Robbie Harrison.

Names on the roll of honor. Gladys Rule, Martha Collins, Elva Collins, Martha Biddle, Clara Lowe, Duncan Rule, Addie Gowen.

L. MAUD MILTON, teacher.
DeWitt's Little Early Risers never disappoint. They are safe, prompt, gentle, effective in removing all impurities from the liver and bowels. Small and easy to take. Never cause or distress. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

The excitement incident to traveling and change of food and water often brings on diarrhoea, and for this reason no one should leave home without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. For sale at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

A millionaire appetite, with a scant income has made many a dyspeptic. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will cure Dyspepsia. Sold at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Stepped into Live Coal.
"When a child burned my foot frightfully," writes W. H. Eade, of Jonesville, Va., "which caused horrible leg sores for 30 years, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured me after everything else failed." Infallible for Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Bruises and Piles. Sold at T. H. Fritz's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston. 25c.

John Talbot, James Higgins and Wm. Carroll were found guilty by a jury of disturbing a religious meeting, held at the Pt. Austin Baptist Church Sunday evening, September 15th, and were fined $20 each and costs or 30 days in jail.

Has Trained Them for Fifty Years.
Over half a century's experience in educating young men and women for a practical business career is the record of the Detroit Business University, Detroit, Mich., the leading business school of America. During that busy and useful period it has had over 24,000 students, who now fill most responsible and honorable positions. No institution and city in the country offers such facilities for the student as the Detroit Business University and the city of Detroit. The necessity and great advantage of a practical business education in this era of wondrous commercial prosperity and advancement are obvious. The best business school in the country is the Detroit Business University. All interested should write at once for its handsome illustrated catalogue, mailed free.

Karr's Corners.

Geo. Maxfield and family visited at Cap. Dahn's Sunday.

Augusta Butler and sister, Lizzie, are visiting at Cass City.

There was an ice cream social at Bethel Church last Thursday night. The receipts being $5.10.

M. C. Tanner had the misfortune to fall out of an apple tree, Saturday, in such a way as to break his arm.

Jas. Karr is having a large addition built to his house, and when completed will have one of the nicest houses in this vicinity.

To Cure La Grippe in 24 Hours
No remedy equals WANN'S WHITE WINE OF TAR SYRUP for this terrible and fatal disease. If taken thoroughly and in time, it will cure a case in 24 hours, and for the cough that follows La Grippe it never fails to give relief. Price, 25c and 50c.

S. A. Ingalls, Crown Point, N. Y., writes: "My wife suffered from kidney trouble for years. She was induced to try Foley's Kidney Cure and in less than a week after she began using it, she was greatly improved and three bottles cured her." T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is not a mere stimulant to fire nature. It affords the stomach complete and absolute rest by digesting the food you eat. You don't have to diet but can enjoy all the good food you want. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure instantly relieves that distressed feeling after eating, giving you new life and vigor. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

When suffering from racking cough take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. The soreness will be relieved and a warm, grateful feeling and healing of the parts affected will be experienced. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

The Stock Markets.
Michigan Central Stock Yards, Detroit, Sept. 27.—The demand for live cattle is fairly active this week; receipts have been moderate of late. The following prices are being paid at the Detroit Live Stock Market:

Prime steers and heifers, $1.75 @ 5.25; heavy butcher's cattle, $1.00 @ 4.60; common, 1.00 @ 2.50; canners' cows, 1.50 @ $2.00; stockers and feeders, dull and slow at $2.75 @ 4.00.

Milk cows, steady at 25 @ 45; calves active at 5.00 @ 6.75.

Sheep and lambs, active. Prime lambs 4.25 @ 5.00; mixed 3.25 @ 4.25; culls 1.00 @ 2.25. Hogs—the leading feature in this market—light receipts. Trade is active at the following prices: Prime mediums, 6.50 @ 6.85; Yorkers, 6.75 @ 6.85; pigs, 6.00 @ 6.25; roughs, 5.25 @ 5.75; stags, 1/2 off; cripples, $1 per cwt. off.

DYSPEPTICIDE
The greatest aid to DIGESTION.

Farm for Sale.
206 acres, nine miles from Cass City, 4 miles from railroad depot. 180 acres improved, 130 seeded to clover; 2 large barns; good house, wood orchard 3 wells. Inquire of

E. B. Landon,

DON'T BE FOOLED!
The market is being flooded with worthless imitations of ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA. To protect the public we call special attention to our trade mark, printed on every package. Demand the genuine. For Sale by all Druggists.

Central Meat Market
Fresh and Salt Meats of all kinds.
CASH FOR HIDES.
John Schwaderer.
Old Sheridan Stand.

T. H. AHR
Contractor & Builder
If you intend building let us figure with you.
FIRST GLASS WORK GUARANTEED
Shop on Pine st. nearly opposite council rooms.
CASS CITY, MICH.

Foley's Honey and Tar heals lungs and stops the cough.

The Literary Era
A Monthly Reporting of the Field of Literature, with the choice from over 250 Standard Library Books
By Prominent Authors
(Handsomely printed and bound)
For the price of the Literary Era—Alone $1.00 PER ANNUM
Full particulars and list of books sent upon application—Sample copy of The Literary Era, for 2c. stamp.
The Literary Era
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

LEAST WASTE, GREATEST HEAT, SMALLEST EXPENSE
JEWEL STOVES AND RANGES
DETROIT STOVE WORKS
LARGEST STOVE PLANT IN THE WORLD

The leading stoves and ranges in the world. Unequaled for perfect construction, economy of fuel, handsome appearance. Over 3,000,000 in use. Famous for 35 years. For sale by leading dealers everywhere. Look for the trade-mark, and insist on seeing the genuine JEWELS.

Jewel Stoves are sold by
N. BIGELOW & SON, CASS CITY, MICH.

Have You Seen Our Line? If Not, Why Not?

J. F. HENDRICK,
THE JEWELER, is always ready to show to the public his line of CLOCKS, WATCHES, CHAINS, RINGS, ETC.
Call and see him.
—REPAIRING A SPECIALTY—

Magazines and Dailies for sale at the ENTERPRISE OFFICE
Agency of the Detroit Daily Free Press and Detroit Daily Tribune.
In magazines—Ladies' Home Journal, Saturday Evening Post, Success, McClure's, Cosmopolitan, etc.

GRAPHOPHONE
Prices $5 to $150
ENTERTAINS EVERYBODY EVERYWHERE
Latest NEW PROCESS Records
SEND FOR CATALOGUE 35
COLUMBIA PHONOGRAPH COMPANY
88 Wabash Avenue, CHICAGO, ILL.

PEACE WAR FIRST NEWS
MARKET REPORTS
The Detroit Journal, Semi-Weekly.

Are You Acquainted With
the paper that is read by more people in Michigan than any similar newspaper published.
The Detroit Journal, SEMI-WEEKLY?
The Journal, with its MARKET REPORTS, is indispensable to the FARMER. Two special features are its COMPLETE STOCK MARKET REPORTS, which are published in no other newspaper, and THE FARM AND HOME DEPARTMENT, edited by a practical farmer, and full of information to the farmer and his household.
FOR EVERYBODY
The Journal leads in News, Editorials, Stories, Cartoons, Portraits and carefully edited departments for every member of the family.

NO PREMIUMS! NO GUESSING SCHEME! NO HUMBUG!
The Best, Biggest, Cheapest Newspaper Published for the Price.
The Detroit Journal, Semi-Weekly,
2 BIG PAPERS EVERY WEEK.
$1.00 PER YEAR.
(Write your name and address on a postal card, address to J. C. Scott, Mgr., Detroit Journal, Semi-Weekly, for free sample copy.)
SPECIAL COMBINATION OFFER:

ENTERPRISE AND TWICE-A-WEEK JOURNAL
Both one year for $1.70
Ask for price on daily Journal. Address
THE ENTERPRISE,
Cass City, Mich.

TO THE PEOPLE!

I wish to announce to the People of Cass City and vicinity, that I have purchased the stock of Dry Goods and Groceries of Geo. McDonald, who is obliged to retire from business on account of failing health. We shall endeavor to always keep in stock strictly up-to-date Goods. We ask the patronage of the public on the merits of right prices, good goods and straight forward dealings. Our groceries are fresh and up-to-date. Our dry goods are staple articles and a nice line of Ladies, Mens and Children's Underwear. We will handle Butter Eggs and other Farm Produce, for which the highest market prices will be paid. We shall add to our stock from time to time as the trade demands, and will spare no pains to please our customers and use them right. Please give us a call.

Very truly,

W. J. CAMPBELL.

When the Heavy Fall Rains Come on be prepared for them with

Good Substantial Eavtroughs

on your buildings. We will consider it no trouble to figure on your work, and will be pleased to show you the stock we use. All work done in a first-class manner at living prices.

N. Bigelow & Son.

White Lily Flour

Full good value, a flour that furnishes stimulating food, which is a pleasure to the palate and is wholesome and beneficial.

ASK YOUR DEALER

for it and take no other. Manufactured at

Cass City Roller Mills,
C. W. Heller.

NEW GOODS NEW PRICES

In Our Dry Goods Department

Ladies' All Wool Dress Goods only 28c per yard, new styles.
Latest Broad Cloth Suits from $1.00 to $1.50.
Albaton Dress Goods from 50c to 75c per yard.
Latest Style Waists worth 90c to $1.25.
All-Wool Cassimere from 55c to $1.00.
Indian Linen from 8c to 12 1/2c per yard.
Window Shades 10c each.

Hardware Department

New stock of Pumps, Pipes, Bath Tubs, Steel Ranges, Sewing Machines, Washing Machines and Ball Bearing Wringers.

J. L. Hitchcock & Sons, Opera House Block.

Rescue.

George Bigelow is again among us. Threshing beans is now the order of the day.

Mrs. John Ashmore is visiting friends in York State at present.

Martin McKenzie will start building an addition to his house in a few days.

A newly arrived son is the cause of the joyous look in F. P. Thompson's face. Mother and child doing well.

The little child of John Breckenridge is slowly recovering from its long sickness under the care of Dr. Treadgold.

Last Saturday, while threshing a stack of buckwheat, Sam Heron found a duck that had been missing for over a week. By some means when the stack was started the duck was buried in the straw. When found it was alive and showed no ill effects of its confinement, for over a week without food or water.

Do you suffer from piles? If so do not turn to surgery for relief. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will act more quickly, surely and safely, saving you the expense and danger of an operation. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Backache should never be neglected. It means kidney disorder which, if allowed to run too long, may result in Bright's disease, diabetes or other serious and often fatal complaints. Foley's Kidney Cure makes the kidneys well. T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

A new remedy for biliousness is now on sale at A. Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston. It is called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. It gives quick relief and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the first indication of the disease appears. Price, 25 cents per box. Samples free.

Freiburgers.

Geo. Donnellon did business in Uly Friday.

Ye Scribe did business in Uly Wednesday.

George Hill is laboring for Joe Trudeau.

Ed. Styles transacted business in Cumber Friday last.

Chas. Pollard made a flying trip to Cass City Saturday.

Orval Meridith transacted business in Argyle Saturday.

Frank Brown, of Cumber, was a caller in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Graham were in Uly Friday evening.

Thompson McPhail, of Argyle, was a caller in town Monday.

John Gatz transacted business in Minden Wednesday last.

There was a barn raising at John Frenzel's Thursday last.

Geo. Hunt holds his head high now days, as he rides a wheel.

John Irwin, of Cumber, did business in town Saturday evening.

John Periso transacted business in Uly Wednesday of last week.

Paul Freiburger, of Argyle, did business in town Tuesday of last week.

August Rehl is putting a stone foundation under A. Hunt's residence.

Ben Eibler and Lottie Madill, of Uly, visited friends in town Sunday.

Miss Wellie Ward, of Charleston, called on friends in town Monday last.

John Armstrong, of Cumber, passed through our burg Monday, enroute to Tyre.

There was a dance at John Patterson's Tuesday evening. All report a good time.

Joseph Trudeau has erected a wind mill which adds greatly to the appearance of his farm.

Mrs. Thomas Brown and daughter, Ruth, of Cumber, visited at Rev. Thos. Pollard's Sunday.

Mrs. Chas. Pollard and daughter, May, and a number of others took in the State Fair at Pontiac last week.

Elton Harriman, who has been visiting relatives in town for the past three weeks, returned to his home in Mount Clemens Saturday.

It Renews and Builds up

WINDSON, OBT., Jan. 14, 1900.
I make the following statement for the benefit of all persons who are suffering from impure blood: That I have used Dr. C. D. Warner's Compound of Seven Cures, the great blood remedy, and I know of no better remedy for toning up the system and giving renewal of life than this.
C. QUALIN,
Provincial Game and Fish Warden.

The Cure that Cures

Coughs, Colds, Grippe,

Whooping Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis and Incontinent Consumption Is

OTTO'S CURE

Cures throat and lung diseases. Sold by all druggists. 25 & 50c.

Hay Creek.

Glen McQueen is on the sick list.

Miss Sylvia Nicols will assist at the Gordon House fair week.

J. H. Simmons has placed some new eavtroughing on his barn.

Chas. Banks and Ida Marshall of this place attended the fair at Bay City Friday last.

Homer Howey, of Detroit, who is visiting his parents at Novesta called on N. W. Bradley last week.

C. M. Phelps, Forestdale, Vt., says his child was completely cured of a bad case of eczema by the use of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Beware of all counterfeits. It instantly relieves piles. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Other remedies only alleviate the symptoms of dyspepsia and indigestion. Dr. Royal Ford's Dyspeptic Cure by attacking the root of the disease, and thus makes a healthy stomach that will perform all its functions perfectly. T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Just one Bottle.

Scammon, Kans., Nov. 19, 1900. Pepsin Syrup Co., Monticello, Ill.

Sirs:—About three months ago I had occasion to use something for constipation. One bottle of Dr. Coldwell's Syrup Pepsin was all I have been doing business with your firm over a year and find it like your medicine, profitable and pleasant.

Editor "Diamond Miner," Sold at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Pingree

Joe Dean, of Wickware, visited the school on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wicks visited at Mr. Bullock's Sunday.

May Mark called on friends at Shabbona Friday evening.

Mrs. Tilton and Ike Agar visited at Mrs. Burt's, of Wickware, on Sunday.

Miss Lydia Miller preached to a large congregation at the Menonite Church Sunday night.

Horatio Fox spent a few days visiting his grandparents, Mr. Bank's, returning with his mother, Mrs. Fox, on Tuesday to Bay City.

Etta Mark entertained at tea Friday evening the Misses Ida and Belle Burt, Rose Towle, Edna Dean, Fay Pringle, Ethel Agar and Etta Lord.

Tot Causes Night Alarm

"One night my brother's baby was taken with Croup," writes Mrs. J. C. Snider, of Crittenden, Ky., "it seemed it would strangle before we could get a doctor, so we gave it Dr. King's New Discovery, which gave quick relief and permanently cured it. We always keep it in the house to protect our children from Croup and Whooping Cough. It cured me of a chronic bronchial trouble that no other remedy would relieve." Infallible for Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung troubles. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at T. H. Fritz's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Stricken With Paralysis

Henderson Grimet, of this place was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief, my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—Geo. R. McDonald, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Mothers every where praise One Minute Cough Cure for the sufferings it has relieved and the lives of their little ones it has saved. Strikes at the root of the trouble and draws out the inflammation. The children's favorite Cough Cure. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Novesta

Jas. Kule's barn is nearly finished.

Mrs. Fred Walker who has been very sick is around again.

The brick house of John Horner will soon be ready for occupancy.

Mr. Cranes was presented by his wife with a son last Saturday morning.

This locality was well represented at the State fair at Pontiac last week.

Jas. Hackett is a happy man again as his wife pre-ented him with another little daughter.

Fred Chadwick who has been suffering with malaria fever is recovering under Dr. Foote.

Homer Howard is suffering at present with a rheumatic hip joint affection and is under the care of Dr. Foote.

Bertha Dewey who has been sick for a long time and who has undergone several operations and relapses is improving at present.

A Fiendish Attack.

An attack was lately made on C. F. Ollier, of Cherokee, Iowa, that nearly proved fatal. It came through his kidneys. His back got so lame he could not stoop without pain, nor sit in a chair except propped by cushions. No remedy helped him until he tried Electric Bitters which effected such a wonderful change that he writes he feels like a new man. This marvelous medicine cures backaches and kidney trouble, purifies the blood and builds up your health. Only 50c at T. H. Fritz's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

After exposure or when you feel a cold coming on take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. It never fails to stop a cold if taken in time. T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Shabbona.

There is nothing small about Geo. Baker anyway.

Rev. A. Beeton will occupy Dr. Truesdell's residence this winter.

The bridge near Mr. Auslander's is rapidly nearing completion.

Robt. Mathews, of Port Huron, called on old friends here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan, of Detroit, were guests of A. S. Wait last week.

Relatives from Peck are visiting with Mr. Babcock and Mrs. Sharrard.

Married on the 25 of Sept. at Sanilac County, Lorin Wicks, of Novesta, to Miss Florence Stevens, of this place.

The young couple will occupy the house formerly occupied by R. Mathews. We wish them a life of happiness and prosperity.

Rev. Arthur Beeton, the new pastor of the M. E. Church delivered a very eloquent and instructive sermon Sunday evening to a large audience. Subject "The electrical power of the gospel of Christ." Mr. Beeton is destined to fill one of the foremost ranks in Methodism.

Dr. A. W. Truesdell left Tuesday for Saginaw where he proposed to remain for the winter attending the Saginaw Valley Medical College and Hospital. He will return to Shabbona in May, in the meantime another doctor will occupy his office and administer to the sick. All who have not already settled with H. S. Wait or J. D. Allen.

What's Your Face Worth? Sometimes a fortune, but never, if you have a sallow complexion, a jaundiced look, moth patches and blotches on the skin—all signs of Liver Trouble. But Dr. King's New Life Pills give Clear Skin, Rosy Cheeks, Rich Complexion. Only 25 cents at T. H. Fritz's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

"I had long suffered from indigestion," writes G. A. LeDeis, Cedar City, Mo., "like others I tried many preparations but never found anything that did me good until I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. One bottle cured me. A friend who had suffered similarly I put on the use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. He is gaining fast and will soon be able to work. Before he used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure indigestion had made him a total wreck. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

A Report from Supt. J. C. Gluck Reform School, Pruntytown, W. Va.

Oct. 18th, 1900. "After trying all other advertised cough medicines we have decided to use Foley's Honey and Tar exclusively in the West Virginia Reform School. I find it the most effective, and harmless." T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Dr. James W. Graves, one of the leading practitioners of this county, and one of the best known doctors in the Thumb, died Saturday morning of hemorrhage of the stomach, aged 58. He has resided in Caro for 35 years.

A Typical South African Store
O. R. Larson, of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railroad station and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town. Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past twelve months, no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

ONE HORSE FOR SALE. Inquire at G. W. Goff's harness shop. 8-15 1/2

A Card.
Having purchased the stock and business of Mrs. A. Parker baker we respectfully solicit the patronage of the public, as well as all the previous patrons of the house. Assuring all of full weight, pure food and everything up to date. Lunches served as usual.
Mrs. H. BAILEY.

Seven second-hand show cases for sale. Inquire of T. H. Fritz. 8-29—tf.

FOX
Makes a Success of any Breakfast

Pure, Wholesome, Refreshing, Delicious, Finest Quality, Fresh Roasted Mocha and Java. Sold only in one package, airtight cases, thus retaining its strength, flavor and cleanliness. Be sure to get the coffee that the most particular coffee drinkers appreciate, that's our Fox Brand Coffee. For sale by all grocers, at 25c. per lb.

The Smart & Fox Company, Wholesale Grocers and Coffee Roasters. SAGINAW, MICH.

BRAND

Miraculous CURES

DETROIT CLINIC

The Eminent Specialist who performs such marvelous cures that patients from the east and west visit the Clinic, will make the following regular monthly visits.

John Gordon's Tavern on Fri. and Sat.
Oct. 11 and 12.

"Eyes tested and glasses fitted by the latest scientific methods free."

CONSULTATION FREE!
and Strictly Private in Every Case.

It makes no difference how difficult or what your case may be, nor how many have failed to cure you, there is always hope for you, until you have consulted the Detroit Clinic, and been told that your case is incurable. The reputation of this Clinic has been made by curing cases that were supposed to be incurable.

After examination, if your case is not curable, you will be so informed, and it costs you nothing.

FACTS FOR SICK PEOPLE.
MAY 11, 1901.

I was suffering from general paralysis as a result of diphtheria. I had treated with the best physicians of Tuscola Co., with no benefit; in fact I grew worse under their treatment. I was entirely incapacitated for work, when I consulted the Detroit Clinic at Vassar, on March 13th; two months treatment has completely cured me, and I am able to do my work. I advise any one suffering from chronic diseases to consult this clinic.
(Signed) JOHN F. ALLEN,
Vassar, Mich.

Mrs. Grant McConnell, of Cass City, Mich., had a large growth of a cancerous nature growing on the inside of the mouth. It had been removed several times, but always returned. She had it removed by the surgeon of the Detroit Clinic, and without the use of a knife and with no pain, it was permanently removed in less than 30 days.

I have been growing deaf in both ears for the past six years as a result of La Grippe. I consulted the Detroit Clinic during their monthly visit to Cass City in January, and one month's treatment restored my hearing so that I could hear a watch tick five inches from my ear.
(Signed) JOHN HORNER, Novesta, Mich.

For 10 years I was a terrible sufferer from chronic rheumatism. I did everything possible, but found no relief, until I commenced treatment with the Detroit Clinic. Three months of their treatment cured me.
(Signed) C. C. JONES,
Rochester, Mich.

Mrs. L. C. Smith, of Detroit, was cured of Epilepsy (or fits) after having had this terrible disease for seven years.

The great success with which the Clinic treats all kinds of diseases is the wonder and admiration of all scientific men. The specialist in charge is noted for his skill, and the care with which every case is treated. No case that is not curable will be treated, but curable cases are treated with the latest scientific methods, and in no case does it interfere with the work of the patient.

Remember, it costs you nothing to consult this specialist, such an opportunity does not offer itself very often to people outside of large cities, and our citizens will certainly do well to take advantage of this one. It is best to consult the specialist personally, but question blanks will be sent on application, and all communications will receive prompt attention, if they are addressed to

DETROIT CLINIC,
Detroit, Michigan.

Dr. MONTGOMERY, Chief of Staff.
Box 116.

MILLINERY AND FANCY GOODS

Having just returned from the city with the very latest in Millinery and Fancy Goods, I will be pleased to have the ladies call and inspect my stock, which is complete in every department.

READY-TO-WEAR AND PATTERN HATS

.....of all kinds.....

TRIMMING DEPT.

My Trimming Department is in charge of MISS LIZZIE MARTIN, of Detroit, a most competent trimmer, who is ably assisted by Miss Helen Brumm.

A Call Solicited.

Mrs. M. J. McGillvray

ATTENTION, PLEASE!

We have been selling

OTWINE

at Chicago prices and we have some yet; and now we are going to offer some which we want to close out at better than Chicago prices. We have the THOMAS, IMPERIAL and AMERICAN; also some second-hand wheels. Come and look them over.

BICYCLES

Striffler & McDermott

A DURABLE AND BEAUTIFUL MONUMENT

Is the most seemly token of regard for loved ones claimed by death. We'd like to erect the monument at a moderate price.

HILL & PARENT

under Town Hall, Cass City.

Window Sills now on hand.

MILLINERY OPENING

Will be continued until after the fair.

Having just returned from the city with a Full Line of

Millinery in all the Latest Styles

We cordially invite you to call and inspect stock and prices.

MISS GALLOP has charge of the Trimming Department as usual. Her work speaks for itself; it needs no comments. Prices to suit everybody.

Ready-to-wear Hats from 60c up
Caps from 20c up
Infant's Bonnets from 35c up

Yours for business,

MRS. M. L. MOORE

PRESIDENT SINGS & IN CHURCH.

LITTLE CHAPEL OF THE DUTCH REFORMED CHURCH IN WHICH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WORSHIPS. IT IS THE SMALLEST CHURCH BUILDING IN THE CAPITAL.

President Roosevelt attends divine service at the German Reformed church, of which the Rev. Dr. J. M. Schick is pastor. The church is situated at Fifteenth and O streets, Northwest, Washington.

The church is a small brick structure with a slate roof, and the regular congregation is only 21. The following telegram from Washington tells of the president's first Sunday at this church. "The service on Sunday was the President joined with the congregation in singing the hymn, 'Jesus, the Hope of Israel, the Desired of All Nations.'" The pastor announced as his text Ephesians iii, 17-19: "That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth and length and depth and height; and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that we might be filled with the fullness of God."

ment something like a banjo, which will keep them amused for hours. Singing, however, is the soldier's greatest pleasure, and chorus singing is a great feature in the Russian army's accomplishments. The number of songs an ordinary soldier knows is beyond belief. Singing is encouraged by the officers, and the men with the best voices are especially rewarded. Among illiterate people the singer will always be able to exert a great influence. One has hardly to see a Russian regiment on the march to understand what moral power the singers can give the soldiers.

According to the latest returns for 1901, the statistics for the Russian army are as follows, on peace footing: Infantry, 900 battalions of foot, or 450,000 bayonets; cavalry, 50 regiments, or 51,000 sabers; artillery, 400 batteries, or 1,700 guns; Cossacks, 58,000 men and 103 cannon. The general total on peace footing, including those not in the ranks, garrison troops, and local reserve forces, amounts to 950,000 men, with 350,000 horses. On a war footing, including the reserves, the soldiers of the czar amount to 3,500,000 men and 600,000 horses.

The Japanese Maid.

A Japanese maid is now an absolute necessity to the society woman who desires to be strictly up to date. Prominent women in New York are all adopting the idea, and they are finding that the pretty Jap women can attend to their wants far better than the French maid, who for so long has been in such demand by the smart set. There are several reasons why the Japanese woman makes a better maid than the French, German or English woman. In the first place she is the most cleanly person on the face of the earth, and that counts for a whole lot. Then she knows how to dress the hair better than any of her sisters and she knows more little secrets which are of value in milady's boudoir than the woman of any other nationality.

General Charles Heywood, commandant of the United States marine corps holds the oldest commission in either branch of the fighting force. Next to him comes Admiral Dewey.

Lives With Bullet in Brain.

James Callan, an inmate of the Altoona (Pa.) hospital, is probably the only man living and in apparently good health with a bullet in his brain. He attempted suicide August 14 and fired a 35-caliber bullet into his head. For a time he hovered between life and death, and no attempt was made to probe for the bullet. Then he began to rapidly recover. His mind became clear and his normal health returned.

The physicians placed him under an X-ray machine and procured a photograph of the man's skull, showing that the bullet was imbedded in the middle of the brain. The photograph is reproduced above. Callan, according to a Philadelphia Enquirer special, says the bullet causes him no inconvenience. He was discharged as cured last week.

Out of Woman's Sphere.

Woman's advent in the learned professions is a comparatively modern development in the United States. Sixty years ago no woman in this country, so far as known, had ever been regularly accredited as an authorized practitioner in law, medicine or theology. Indeed, it seemed then far more likely that women would be allowed to preach than vote. When Antoinette L. Brown imparted to her classmate, Lucy Stone, at Oberlin, her intention to become an ordained minister, Lucy, who already aspired to become a voter, exclaimed, "You can never do it!" Yet Antoinette was ordained and ministered to an orthodox congregation some fifty years ago, while Lucy, after half a century of heroic effort, died a disfranchised citizen. Of the three learned professions, medicine has proved the most generally available for women. There are now many thousand women physicians of every school practicing medicine successfully in America.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

A great pantheon at Washington would rather separate him from the people than bring him to them. It would have too much of the official stamp, would have but one narrow significance as regards all its dead tenants, whereas the idea of the distant cemetery gives to the idea of the presidency the broadest significance possible. It is through belonging to his town, his county and his state that a president belongs in the most intimate way to the nation.

THE TOMB OF THE LATE PRESIDENT MCKINLEY AT CANTON—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN THE DAY OF THE FUNERAL.

THE TOMB OF THE LATE PRESIDENT MCKINLEY AT CANTON—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH TAKEN THE DAY OF THE FUNERAL.

Those Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

A great pantheon at Washington would rather separate him from the people than bring him to them. It would have too much of the official stamp, would have but one narrow significance as regards all its dead tenants, whereas the idea of the distant cemetery gives to the idea of the presidency the broadest significance possible. It is through belonging to his town, his county and his state that a president belongs in the most intimate way to the nation.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

A great pantheon at Washington would rather separate him from the people than bring him to them. It would have too much of the official stamp, would have but one narrow significance as regards all its dead tenants, whereas the idea of the distant cemetery gives to the idea of the presidency the broadest significance possible. It is through belonging to his town, his county and his state that a president belongs in the most intimate way to the nation.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his

The Weekly Panorama.

New Comptroller of Currency.

President Roosevelt, in conformity with his policy to carry out as far as possible the plans of President McKinley, has appointed W. B. Ridgely, of Illinois, as Comptroller of the Currency. Mr. Ridgely, who is the son-in-law of Senator Cullom, was the choice of the late President for the post made vacant on October 1 by the retirement of Charles G. Dawes. In fact, the commission was signed by Mr. McKinley just before the journey to Buffalo, but formal announcement of the appointment was delayed.

WILLIAM BARRET RIDGELY.

Can the Kitchen be Abolished?

In offering solutions of the servant girl problem it is a singular fact that scarcely anyone thinks of suggesting the plan of elevating cookery to a science that is worthy the attention and study of the brightest American women. The solutions that are now being proffered all tend toward one end, the complete abolishment of the kitchen as an adjunct of the modern home.

One of these kitchen exterminators recently outlined his plan in the New York Sun and commended it to the consideration of American housekeepers. His plan is to incorporate a company with sufficient capital to establish in various districts of a city large kitchens under the management of competent chefs, with a properly organized force of assistants and helpers. These various district kitchens are to be controlled from a central station and are to prepare and distribute meals at the residences of subscribers, the meals to be served in properly constructed, self-heating receptacles, the necessary dishes to be sent with the food, and, if desired, an assistant to arrange the table, or a waiter to serve the meal.

Lives With Bullet in Brain.

James Callan, an inmate of the Altoona (Pa.) hospital, is probably the only man living and in apparently good health with a bullet in his brain. He attempted suicide August 14 and fired a 35-caliber bullet into his head. For a time he hovered between life and death, and no attempt was made to probe for the bullet. Then he began to rapidly recover. His mind became clear and his normal health returned.

The physicians placed him under an X-ray machine and procured a photograph of the man's skull, showing that the bullet was imbedded in the middle of the brain. The photograph is reproduced above. Callan, according to a Philadelphia Enquirer special, says the bullet causes him no inconvenience. He was discharged as cured last week.

Out of Woman's Sphere.

Woman's advent in the learned professions is a comparatively modern development in the United States. Sixty years ago no woman in this country, so far as known, had ever been regularly accredited as an authorized practitioner in law, medicine or theology. Indeed, it seemed then far more likely that women would be allowed to preach than vote. When Antoinette L. Brown imparted to her classmate, Lucy Stone, at Oberlin, her intention to become an ordained minister, Lucy, who already aspired to become a voter, exclaimed, "You can never do it!" Yet Antoinette was ordained and ministered to an orthodox congregation some fifty years ago, while Lucy, after half a century of heroic effort, died a disfranchised citizen. Of the three learned professions, medicine has proved the most generally available for women. There are now many thousand women physicians of every school practicing medicine successfully in America.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

A great pantheon at Washington would rather separate him from the people than bring him to them. It would have too much of the official stamp, would have but one narrow significance as regards all its dead tenants, whereas the idea of the distant cemetery gives to the idea of the presidency the broadest significance possible. It is through belonging to his town, his county and his state that a president belongs in the most intimate way to the nation.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

A great pantheon at Washington would rather separate him from the people than bring him to them. It would have too much of the official stamp, would have but one narrow significance as regards all its dead tenants, whereas the idea of the distant cemetery gives to the idea of the presidency the broadest significance possible. It is through belonging to his town, his county and his state that a president belongs in the most intimate way to the nation.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

A great pantheon at Washington would rather separate him from the people than bring him to them. It would have too much of the official stamp, would have but one narrow significance as regards all its dead tenants, whereas the idea of the distant cemetery gives to the idea of the presidency the broadest significance possible. It is through belonging to his town, his county and his state that a president belongs in the most intimate way to the nation.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

A great pantheon at Washington would rather separate him from the people than bring him to them. It would have too much of the official stamp, would have but one narrow significance as regards all its dead tenants, whereas the idea of the distant cemetery gives to the idea of the presidency the broadest significance possible. It is through belonging to his town, his county and his state that a president belongs in the most intimate way to the nation.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

A great pantheon at Washington would rather separate him from the people than bring him to them. It would have too much of the official stamp, would have but one narrow significance as regards all its dead tenants, whereas the idea of the distant cemetery gives to the idea of the presidency the broadest significance possible. It is through belonging to his town, his county and his state that a president belongs in the most intimate way to the nation.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

A great pantheon at Washington would rather separate him from the people than bring him to them. It would have too much of the official stamp, would have but one narrow significance as regards all its dead tenants, whereas the idea of the distant cemetery gives to the idea of the presidency the broadest significance possible. It is through belonging to his town, his county and his state that a president belongs in the most intimate way to the nation.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

A great pantheon at Washington would rather separate him from the people than bring him to them. It would have too much of the official stamp, would have but one narrow significance as regards all its dead tenants, whereas the idea of the distant cemetery gives to the idea of the presidency the broadest significance possible. It is through belonging to his town, his county and his state that a president belongs in the most intimate way to the nation.

Such monuments could be built most appropriately in the capital and without affecting the question of burial.

But while the last resting place of the body may be in Canton, or Springfield, or Cleveland, there is no reason why a national memorial should not be erected at Washington for any president or for all the presidents. A single magnificent presidential arch would have room for many inscriptions covering the succession for many years. Or if it were desired to select one man for special honor the structure might be made a beautifully artistic tribute of regard for him and his work.

These Americans who filed out of Westminster Abbey all possessed by the idea that there should be one burial place for American presidents were singularly indifferent to the most impressive feature of President McKinley's funeral. Perhaps if they had been a little nearer home themselves they might then have caught the full meaning of that last home-coming.

The man of the people goes back to the people in death as he would have done in life had he survived his term of office. It is that close grip of the neighborhood, of the old circle of friends and acquaintances of the family, that habit of regarding his official experience as but an incident of his American citizenship, that makes him in the truest sense a national character.

AN ODD TALE OF THE SEA.

Rolling Copper Rivet Wears Through Bottom of Vessel.

Some years ago a vessel loaded with guano worth several thousand dollars caught fire in the south Pacific and was abandoned by the captain and crew, who came ashore in the small boats and reported the disaster. One of the consignees thought the cargo could be saved, as he knew that guano would not burn, and it was his idea that the bulk of the ship might be found floating somewhere at sea. He chartered a small English tramp vessel that happened to be at Callao, Peru, and started out to search for the derelict. After cruising for two or three weeks, he found her, the wood-work burned to the water's edge, but the hull sound as a dollar and the cargo all right. They started to tow her to Callao, but the day before reaching that harbor the tramp vessel they had chartered began to fill rapidly and the pumps could scarcely keep her afloat. They narrowly escaped sinking with all on board. The leak was a mystery. They managed to get her to Callao only by the greatest exertion. When the ship went into the dock and was examined it was found that one of the plates about the center had worn through. Further investigation demonstrated that the damage had been done by a little copper rivet, which had been accidentally left in the bottom and had rolled about and forth over the same spot so often and so long that the iron plate had been worn thin and the pressure of the water had broken through.—Chicago News.

A DREAM OF TREASURE.

Small Boy's Dream Locates Money Which Is Really There.

Dreams are often unaccountable, and perhaps what I am about to relate may interest your readers. When quite young I was only 7 years old then—I lived with my parents at a villa in Trieste, Austria. For weeks and weeks I had the same dream, although not nightly—namely, that in the night time I found myself at the bottom of the garden in my nightgown, scratching at a little heap of earth, and found copper, silver, and gold coins, and suddenly looking up, I found before me, and watching me, the sister of the landlady of the villa, an old, haggard woman. Having dreamed this so often, I naturally related it to my mother, who repeated it to her friends. These friends, who were of a superstitious nature, tried to induce my father to buy the plot of ground in question, but he would not listen to such absurdity, as he was an unbeliever in spiritualism. Well, some years later the landlady had occasion to build a lodge at the bottom of the garden, and while digging for the foundation a large sum of money in copper, silver and gold coins was discovered. How is it that a mere boy of 7, without any knowledge of the place or of the history of the owners of the said grounds, should have such a dream, which turned out true?—Spectator.

THE SHOCKED BURGLAR.

Indignant to Find Policeman Warning Himself at 3 o'clock.

Once upon a time a burglar looked up from his work at the Office Safe into which he was Drilling and Detected a Policeman in the act of Watching him from Behind the Stove. "Well," said the Burglar, dropping his drill and speaking with Manly Indignation, "I may not be Everything that a Gentleman should be. As I'm no Hypocrite, I Frankly Admit that I'm a Crook and Steal for a Living. But there's One Thing I can say for myself—I'm no Sneak. Come on with your handcuffs, Cop Gibbonney, and run me in. I'm a Burglar all right, but, thank heaven, I'm no Spy and Informer. And when the Mayor hears of this perhaps it won't be Me that'll find himself in Trouble." The Burglar's anti-patipzation was Justified. The mayor caused him to be Discharged with Apologies, and issued a statement to the public deprecating any action on the part of his Police Force that might wound the Sensibilities of the High-Spirited Criminal Classes. Moral: It is better that ninety-nine guilty men should escape than that anybody should employ the only means by which they can be caught.—Philadelphia North American.

The Bishop's Appeal.

The late Bishop Williams of Connecticut was a truly pious man, but was sometimes placed in a position where he envied the privileges of those not of the cloth. At a recent convocation at the General Theological Seminary they told this tale of the good bishop's wit: One summer day the bishop went out fishing with a friend, and, as the day was warm, they swung a bottle of rare Burgundy over the side of a rowboat. When luncheon time came the bishop essayed to pull the wine aboard, already tasting in anticipation the cool, delicious beverage. Through some mishap the string slipped from his fingers, and the bottle sank to the bottom of the river. Bishop Williams sat up with a sigh, and said, with his eyes sparkling: "You say it, Jones; you're a layman."—Boston Journal.

The sale of seats will commence Thursday morning at the Division theater for the opening attraction at that theater this season, which is "Lovers' Lane." The range of prices will be 25 cents to $1. The company to appear here consists mainly of the persons who were engaged in the New York and Chicago productions, where the piece was a hit. The production is under the management of the energetic W. A. Brady. The first performance of "Lovers' Lane" will be given next Sunday.

People and Events

Astor Is Sorry.

William Waldorf Astor, who has just apologized for his self-expatriation by saying that the bitter criticism of American newspapers drove him from the country, became a naturalized British subject in 1899, about one year or so after it became known that he was intending to renounce his allegiance to the United States. Mr. Astor was born in New York city on March 31, 1848, the oldest son of John Jacob Astor. He was married in 1873 to Mary Dahlgren Paul, of Philadelphia, who, through her mother, was descended from the American naval hero, Dahlgren. Mr. Astor occupied a few public offices under the American government. He served as a member of the New York legislature in 1873 and in 1881, and he was United States minister to Italy from 1882 to 1885. He had lived much in England, and about ten years ago he started The Pall Mall Magazine and purchased The Pall Mall Gazette. Since then he has lived almost entirely in the British isles.

Director of Construction St. Louis Exposition.

Isaac S. Taylor, who has just been chosen director of construction and maintenance for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, was born in Nashville, Tenn., in 1851. He was graduated with class honors from the St. Louis University in 1868, and at once adopted the profession of architect.

A FEARLESS PHYSICIAN.

Benton, Ill., Sept. 30th.—Much comment has been caused by the action of Dr. R. H. Dunaway, a physician here, who for over a year past has been recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills to those of his patients who suffered from Rheumatism, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or other Kidney Troubles.

Dr. Dunaway also published an open letter last May stating positively that he himself had been cured of Diabetes by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and that, after he had concluded his medical career, he is a well man today and says he feels it his duty to do as he has done and is doing because Dodd's Kidney Pills saved his life.

Admiral Sampson has bought a house in Washington, and, it is said, will soon make his permanent home there.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists. Hall's Family Pills are also the best.

Good advice is like castor oil; easy to give but hard to take.

Some people help others; others help

LONG AGO

I once knew all the birds that came
And nested in our apple trees;
For every flower I had a name—
My friends were woodchucks, toads and bees,
I knew what thrived in yonder glen,
What plants would flourish on a stonebraked toe—
Oh, I was very learned then,
But that was very long ago.

I knew the spot upon the hill
Where checkberries could be found;
I knew the bushes near the mill
Where pickled lay that weighed a pound!
I knew the wood—the very tree
Where lived the peaching, saucy crow,
And all the woods and crows knew me,
But that was very long ago.

And plucking for the joys of youth
I tread the old familiar spot;
Only to learn this solemn truth:
I have forgotten—am I forgot,
Yet there's this youngster at my knee
Knows all the things I used to know;
To think I once was wise as he—
But that was very long ago.

I know it's folly to complain
Of what's or where the fault lies;
Yet were not wishes all in vain,
I tell you what my wish should be:
I'd wish to be a boy again,
Back with the friends I used to know;
For I was of so many then,
But that was very long ago.
Eugene Field.

The Arbiter.

BY ELIZABETH CHERRY WALTZ.
(Copyright, 1901, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)
From a log cottage door on a green mountain slope Elsie looked wonder-ingly across the narrow creek valley.
There, evidenced by black openings on different levels, in scars and seams, in grimy elevators and sheds were the coal mines. In front were tramways, separators, great chutes where all day coal crashed and rumbled down into black cars. Here it was suddenly still and the noise of a great commotion came instead. The pit mouths gave up men instead of coal and they shouted and threw up their hands excitedly.

"I bring out Crazy Bill, Danny!" there's no need for any strike. I fetched 'im out 'bout a lick, Danny!"
How the men shouted!

WRESTLING IN JAPAN.

Peculiarities of Art of Self-Defense
Among Japanese.
A recent attempt to introduce into England a modified form of Japanese wrestling under the name of "bartitsu" calls attention to the peculiarities of this "art of self-defense" as it has developed in Japan. It is asserted that the Japanese hold this art of theirs in such reverence that it has rarely been allowed to be shown publicly in their own land, much less abroad. Wrestling has been a sport in Japan for more years than can well be counted. The Japanese wrestler belongs to a distinct class, and what he does not know about wrestling in an orthodox or even unorthodox way can scarcely be worth the knowing.
Some of the Japanese wrestlers can trace their sporting pedigree back for more than three centuries. They are all meat eaters, whereas the ordinary Japanese consumes only rice and fish.
Consequently—this fact is dwelt upon as one of the strongest arguments against vegetarianism—they are all big men. The champions of Tokyo, Kyoto and Osaka, when they meet in annual tournaments, can scarcely average less than six feet, whereas the Japanese people themselves are quite four inches under the European standard. Two hundred and eighty pounds is not an uncommon weight for a Japanese wrestler, and the heavier they are the better chance they stand in championship contests.

Up to Date.
The young man was from town, and was spending a Sunday in the suburbs, says "Short Stories." He knew far more about horses and carriages than the local livery salesman, and so his interview with the latter, when he sought to hire a "rig" for the afternoon, was tinged with a gentle air of patronage on his part. "Oh, have you a trap you can let me have?" "Yes, certainly." "One that will hold two?"
"Yes, or twenty," from the obliging countryman. "Oh, really. Have you a stylish road wagon?" "Yes." "Perhaps you have a spider or a Brewster buggy, or, on second thought, I might prefer a rubber-tired hansom. You can accommodate 'em?" "Yes. All kinds cheerfully furnished." "Can you give me a lash whip?" "Yes; with a fancy tassel." "Oh, well, what kind of a horse can you turn out—a short-tailed one?" "I think so," came gently from the wearied proprietor. Then, in stentorian tones to his man: "Take can you give this gentleman a short-tailed horse? If not, cut one at once."

Bids Are In Order.
The farmers of the Bavarian and Wurtemberg Allgau districts have combined for the purpose of buying all their fertilizers, both chemical and natural, at the best wholesale prices, and on the most favorable conditions.
They use about 1,000 wagon loads (of 200 cwt.) a year. It is also rumored that they intend to buy all their agricultural and other machines the same way. It is said that American sellers of artificial fertilizers and makers of American agricultural machinery are a good deal interested in this foreign combine, and to the extent of competing for trade.

"I'll not whip the mule."
had telephoned the office force in the valley below and an excited group was coming up. Shotgun barrels flashed in the sunlight. Danny laughed good naturedly.
"We'll all be shot, boys, 'long of that Crazy Bill. Stand together. Here comes that whole coal company!"
Hostilities were for a moment suspended in the pleasure of watching the

THE TIME TO LAUGH.

SOME GOOD JOKES, ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

It Was a Close Call, but the Postal Clerk Anticipated the Danger in Time —Facts Alter Cases—Reason for the Deed.

IT WAS A CLOSE CALL.
"I want, sir," he said as he got speech with the chief clerk at the postoffice the other afternoon—"I want to report to you that on November 23 I wrote a letter to my brother in Kalamazoo, Mich."
"I see," replied the official.
"In that letter, sir, I inquired about celery—how to prepare the soil, how to grow it, how to bleach the stalks to a milky whiteness."
"Yes."
"I inclosed a dollar bill for seeds and asked my brother to respond at one. I folded that letter up, sir, and directed it and stamped it and mailed it. The days went by. Day after day it fled into the past, and no response came. My Kalamazoo brother is not a procrastinator, sir. On the contrary, he is chain lightning at answering letters. When a fortnight had passed without a response, I wrote him again."

"And he hadn't received the first?"
said the clerk as he tapped his nose with his pencil.
"He had not. My epistle had never been placed in his hands."
"And then you came and filed a report?"
"No, sir. I decided to handle the case myself. I had my brother watch the Kalamazoo postoffice while I watched this and had a friend in Washington keep an eye on the postmaster general. Night after night, sir, I have walked around this building at midnight in disguise. By daylight or darkness my eyes and ears have been open. It was the same with my brother at Kalamazoo, the same in Washington."

"And haven't you struck a clew yet?"
was asked.
"I have, sir. Yes, sir, up to last night I had a clew leading up to the guilty party and was certain that his punishment could not be long delayed when a strange thing happened. I discovered the letter lying under some papers on my desk. It had not been mailed."

"All through your own carelessness."
"Hiram" said his wife, "I wish you would go out to the shed and get a bucket of coals."
"Coals!" muttered Hiram to himself, as he went grumbling to comply with the demand. "Coals! That's her way of reminding me that she could afford to spend six months in England every year before she married me!"

LITTLE LAUGHETS.
Then All Was Well.
He had just explained to her that he could not possibly defer the marriage for longer than three months,
and that if she would not consent it
were better to break off things at once than later. She had listened sadly, wondering. She did not see why he refused to wait longer for her—she had asked but a year—and then she consented to the limit.

Reasoning by Analogy.
Mr. Bronston—Mr. and Mrs. Upton
both had on new suits in church today. Mrs. Upton's dress was tailor-made.
Mrs. Bronston—Huh! How do you know it was tailor made?
Mr. Bronston—Because Mr. Upton's
clothes were ready-made.

Truly Indispensable.
"It seems to me that you take a great deal of impertinence from that bartender."
"Well," answered Bronco Bob, "he's kind of got us where we can't kick.
You see he is not only bartender, but he runs the only undertaker shop in town, and we've simply got to put up
with him."

A Far-Seeing Youth.
The father wanted the young man to go into business and the boy wanted
to be a lawyer.
"Which would you rather be," argued the father, "a lawyer or a millionaire?"
"I'll be both if you give me half a chance," replied the son, and the father hurried him away to a law school.

She Was Sure.
George—I see nothing but for us to elope. Do you think your father would forgive us?
Ethel—I'm sure he would.
George—How can you be sure?
Ethel—I felt a little nervous on that score, and—and I asked him.

An Easy Mark.
Bill—I've been to see a palm reader, Jill—And did you believe what he told you?
"Yes, I did. He told me I was too easy, and charged me two dollars."

In China.
"Some of these missionaries out here," said the heathen, "are regular birds."
"Yes; birds of prey," remarked the other significantly.

NERVE.
Smith (who has forgotten his own umbrella)—"Pardon, madam, but might I not be of assistance in carrying your umbrella?"

HARDLY WORTH MENTIONING.
A clergyman says that he was one day called down into his study to perform the marriage ceremony for a couple in middle life.
"Have you ever been married before?" asked the clergyman of the bridegroom.
"No, sir."
"Have you?" to the bride.
"Well, yes, I have," replied the bride, laconically; "but that was 20

NOTES ON SCIENCE.

CURRENT NOTES OF DISCOVERY AND INVENTION.

Chronic Bronchitis—How Baldness May
Be Cured—An Insect That Kills Bugs
—Its Only Mission Is to Exterminate
Caterpillars—Scientific Notes.

IT ALTERED THE CASE.
She had looked the house over and
was satisfied with it, but as she returned the key to the agent a thought
struck her, and she said:
"Ah, there is one more thing. Let me ask if anyone has ever died in the house."
"Why, y-e-s, I believe so," he reluctantly replied.
"That settles it then, and I won't take the house."
"But people are dying in houses all
the time," he protested.
"Yes, but the idea is uncanny. I'll look for a new house."

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS.
While an attack of acute bronchitis
in adult life is usually of brief duration and of little gravity, its repeated occurrence is to be dreaded as possibly leading to the much more serious chronic form. This form occurs for the most part in persons beyond middle life.
It may supervene upon an acute attack which has been neglected, or it may come on more gradually after a succession of such attacks, each one adding a little to the bronchial irritation left behind by its predecessor, until the actual disease is fully established. Subjects of the so-called uricacid diathesis are very prone to suffer from chronic bronchitis, and so are patients with heart and kidney disease,
and hard drinkers.
The two main symptoms of chronic bronchitis are cough and a more or less profuse expectoration. The ex-pectoration varies considerably in different cases, and in the same case at different times. In some cases it is rather scanty and sticky, and the effort
to expel it results in frequent and violent paroxysms of coughing, quite resembling whooping cough. In other cases
the secretion in the bronchial tubes is watery and easily expelled, but is formed in such quantity that the cough is almost incessant.
Pain is seldom complained of, but shortness of breath is quite common,
even at the beginning, and is constant in the later stages of the disease. At first this difficulty in breathing is noted only on exertion, but later it is habitual and becomes asthmatic in character. It is the result, usually,
of dilatation of the air cells in the lungs
caused by the strain of coughing.
Chronic bronchitis, like all other caterrhal affections, is much less troublesome in summer than in winter, and in those who live much in the open air than in the house-bound. From this simple observation may be drawn the lesson that the best remedy for bronchitis is pure air. This is generally conceded in the case of consumption,
but the world—even the medical world
—is slower to recognize that an abundant supply of pure air is equally essential to the cure of bronchitis and other chronic diseases of the organs of respiration.
The good result is due not only to the improvement in the general health,
but also to the direct effect of the oxygen upon the diseased bronchial membrane.
The patients should pay great attention to the care of the skin by cold or cool bathing, friction, and so forth, should dress warmly, and should change damp clothing immediately on entering the house.

"I notice that the landlady only helps you to the scraps," whispered the new boarder. "Why don't you leave?"
"I can't," responded the meek man.
"You see I am the landlady's husband."

HAND TO MOUTH EXISTENCE.
"I hear you are making lots of money."
"My dear fellow, I lead a regular
hand-to-mouth existence."
"You don't say! What are you doing?"
"Practicing dentistry."

RUBBING IT IN.
"Hiram" said his wife, "I wish you would go out to the shed and get
a bucket of coals."
"Coals!" muttered Hiram to himself, as he went grumbling to comply with the demand. "Coals! That's her way of reminding me that she could afford to spend six months in England every year before she married me!"

LITTLE LAUGHETS.
Then All Was Well.
He had just explained to her that he could not possibly defer the marriage for longer than three months,
and that if she would not consent it
were better to break off things at once
than later. She had listened sadly, wondering. She did not see why he refused to wait longer for her—she had asked but a year—and then she
consented to the limit.

Reasoning by Analogy.
Mr. Bronston—Mr. and Mrs. Upton
both had on new suits in church today. Mrs. Upton's dress was tailor-
made.
Mrs. Bronston—Huh! How do you know it was tailor made?
Mr. Bronston—Because Mr. Upton's
clothes were ready-made.

Truly Indispensable.
"It seems to me that you take a great deal of impertinence from that bartender."
"Well," answered Bronco Bob, "he's
kind of got us where we can't kick.
You see he is not only bartender, but
he runs the only undertaker shop in town, and we've simply got to put up
with him."

A Far-Seeing Youth.
The father wanted the young man to go into business and the boy wanted
to be a lawyer.
"Which would you rather be," argued the father, "a lawyer or a millionaire?"
"I'll be both if you give me half a chance," replied the son, and the father hurried him away to a law school.

She Was Sure.
George—I see nothing but for us to elope. Do you think your father
would forgive us?
Ethel—I'm sure he would.
George—How can you be sure?
Ethel—I felt a little nervous on that score, and—and I asked him.

An Easy Mark.
Bill—I've been to see a palm reader, Jill—And did you believe what he
told you?
"Yes, I did. He told me I was too
easy, and charged me two dollars."

In China.
"Some of these missionaries out here," said the heathen, "are regular
birds."
"Yes; birds of prey," remarked the
other significantly.

NERVE.
Smith (who has forgotten his own umbrella)—"Pardon, madam, but might I not be of assistance in carrying your umbrella?"

HARDLY WORTH MENTIONING.
A clergyman says that he was one
day called down into his study to perform the marriage ceremony for a couple in middle life.
"Have you ever been married before?" asked the clergyman of the bridegroom.
"No, sir."
"Have you?" to the bride.
"Well, yes, I have," replied the bride, laconically; "but that was 20

NOTES ON SCIENCE.

CURRENT NOTES OF DISCOVERY AND INVENTION.

Chronic Bronchitis—How Baldness May
Be Cured—An Insect That Kills Bugs
—Its Only Mission Is to Exterminate
Caterpillars—Scientific Notes.

IT ALTERED THE CASE.
She had looked the house over and
was satisfied with it, but as she returned the key to the agent a thought
struck her, and she said:
"Ah, there is one more thing. Let me ask if anyone has ever died in the house."
"Why, y-e-s, I believe so," he reluctantly replied.
"That settles it then, and I won't
take the house."
"But people are dying in houses all
the time," he protested.
"Yes, but the idea is uncanny. I'll look for a new house."

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS.
While an attack of acute bronchitis
in adult life is usually of brief duration and of little gravity, its repeated occurrence is to be dreaded as possibly leading to the much more serious chronic form. This form occurs for the most part in persons beyond middle life.
It may supervene upon an acute attack which has been neglected, or it
may come on more gradually after a succession of such attacks, each one
adding a little to the bronchial irritation left behind by its predecessor, until the actual disease is fully established. Subjects of the so-called uricacid diathesis are very prone to suffer
from chronic bronchitis, and so are patients with heart and kidney disease,
and hard drinkers.
The two main symptoms of chronic bronchitis are cough and a more or less profuse expectoration. The ex-pectoration varies considerably in different cases, and in the same case at different times. In some cases it is rather scanty and sticky, and the effort
to expel it results in frequent and violent paroxysms of coughing, quite resembling whooping cough. In other cases
the secretion in the bronchial tubes is watery and easily expelled, but is formed
in such quantity that the cough is almost incessant.
Pain is seldom complained of, but shortness of breath is quite common,
even at the beginning, and is constant
in the later stages of the disease. At first this difficulty in breathing is noted only on exertion, but later it is habitual and becomes asthmatic in character. It is the result, usually,
of dilatation of the air cells in the lungs
caused by the strain of coughing.
Chronic bronchitis, like all other ca-
terrhal affections, is much less troublesome in summer than in winter, and
in those who live much in the open air
than in the house-bound. From this simple observation may be drawn the lesson that the best remedy for bronchitis is pure air. This is generally conceded in the case of consumption,
but the world—even the medical world
—is slower to recognize that an abundant supply of pure air is equally essential to the cure of bronchitis and other chronic diseases of the organs of respiration.
The good result is due not only to
the improvement in the general health,
but also to the direct effect of the oxygen upon the diseased bronchial membrane.
The patients should pay great attention to the care of the skin by cold or cool bathing, friction, and so forth,
should dress warmly, and should change damp clothing immediately on entering the house.

"I notice that the landlady only
helps you to the scraps," whispered
the new boarder. "Why don't you
leave?"
"I can't," responded the meek man.
"You see I am the landlady's husband."

HAND TO MOUTH EXISTENCE.
"I hear you are making lots of money."
"My dear fellow, I lead a regular
hand-to-mouth existence."
"You don't say! What are you doing?"
"Practicing dentistry."

RUBBING IT IN.
"Hiram" said his wife, "I wish you would go out to the shed and get
a bucket of coals."
"Coals!" muttered Hiram to himself, as he went grumbling to comply with the demand. "Coals! That's her way of reminding me that she could afford to spend six months in England every year before she married me!"

LITTLE LAUGHETS.
Then All Was Well.
He had just explained to her that he could not possibly defer the marriage for longer than three months,
and that if she would not consent it
were better to break off things at once
than later. She had listened sadly, wondering. She did not see why he refused to wait longer for her—she had asked but a year—and then she
consented to the limit.

Reasoning by Analogy.
Mr. Bronston—Mr. and Mrs. Upton
both had on new suits in church today. Mrs. Upton's dress was tailor-
made.
Mrs. Bronston—Huh! How do you know it was tailor made?
Mr. Bronston—Because Mr. Upton's
clothes were ready-made.

Truly Indispensable.
"It seems to me that you take a great deal of impertinence from that bartender."
"Well," answered Bronco Bob, "he's
kind of got us where we can't kick.
You see he is not only bartender, but
he runs the only undertaker shop in town, and we've simply got to put up
with him."

A Far-Seeing Youth.
The father wanted the young man to go into business and the boy wanted
to be a lawyer.
"Which would you rather be," argued the father, "a lawyer or a millionaire?"
"I'll be both if you give me half a chance," replied the son, and the father hurried him away to a law school.

She Was Sure.
George—I see nothing but for us to elope. Do you think your father
would forgive us?
Ethel—I'm sure he would.
George—How can you be sure?
Ethel—I felt a little nervous on that score, and—and I asked him.

An Easy Mark.
Bill—I've been to see a palm reader, Jill—And did you believe what he
told you?
"Yes, I did. He told me I was too
easy, and charged me two dollars."

In China.
"Some of these missionaries out here," said the heathen, "are regular
birds."
"Yes; birds of prey," remarked the
other significantly.

NERVE.
Smith (who has forgotten his own umbrella)—"Pardon, madam, but might I not be of assistance in carrying your umbrella?"

HARDLY WORTH MENTIONING.
A clergyman says that he was one
day called down into his study to perform the marriage ceremony for a couple in middle life.
"Have you ever been married before?" asked the clergyman of the bridegroom.
"No, sir."
"Have you?" to the bride.
"Well, yes, I have," replied the bride, laconically; "but that was 20

NOTES ON SCIENCE.

CURRENT NOTES OF DISCOVERY AND INVENTION.

Chronic Bronchitis—How Baldness May
Be Cured—An Insect That Kills Bugs
—Its Only Mission Is to Exterminate
Caterpillars—Scientific Notes.

IT ALTERED THE CASE.
She had looked the house over and
was satisfied with it, but as she returned the key to the agent a thought
struck her, and she said:
"Ah, there is one more thing. Let me ask if anyone has ever died in the house."
"Why, y-e-s, I believe so," he reluctantly replied.
"That settles it then, and I won't
take the house."
"But people are dying in houses all
the time," he protested.
"Yes, but the idea is uncanny. I'll look for a new house."

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS.
While an attack of acute bronchitis
in adult life is usually of brief duration and of little gravity, its repeated occurrence is to be dreaded as possibly leading to the much more serious chronic form. This form occurs for the most part in persons beyond middle life.
It may supervene upon an acute attack which has been neglected, or it
may come on more gradually after a succession of such attacks, each one
adding a little to the bronchial irritation left behind by its predecessor, until the actual disease is fully established. Subjects of the so-called uricacid diathesis are very prone to suffer
from chronic bronchitis, and so are patients with heart and kidney disease,
and hard drinkers.
The two main symptoms of chronic bronchitis are cough and a more or less profuse expectoration. The ex-pectoration varies considerably in different cases, and in the same case at different times. In some cases it is rather scanty and sticky, and the effort
to expel it results in frequent and violent paroxysms of coughing, quite resembling whooping cough. In other cases
the secretion in the bronchial tubes is watery and easily expelled, but is formed
in such quantity that the cough is almost incessant.
Pain is seldom complained of, but shortness of breath is quite common,
even at the beginning, and is constant
in the later stages of the disease. At first this difficulty in breathing is noted only on exertion, but later it is habitual and becomes asthmatic in character. It is the result, usually,
of dilatation of the air cells in the lungs
caused by the strain of coughing.
Chronic bronchitis, like all other ca-
terrhal affections, is much less troublesome in summer than in winter, and
in those who live much in the open air
than in the house-bound. From this simple observation may be drawn the lesson that the best remedy for bronchitis is pure air. This is generally conceded in the case of consumption,
but the world—even the medical world
—is slower to recognize that an abundant supply of pure air is equally essential to the cure of bronchitis and other chronic diseases of the organs of respiration.
The good result is due not only to
the improvement in the general health,
but also to the direct effect of the oxygen upon the diseased bronchial membrane.
The patients should pay great attention to the care of the skin by cold or cool bathing, friction, and so forth,
should dress warmly, and should change damp clothing immediately on entering the house.

"I notice that the landlady only
helps you to the scraps," whispered
the new boarder. "Why don't you
leave?"
"I can't," responded the meek man.
"You see I am the landlady's husband."

HAND TO MOUTH EXISTENCE.
"I hear you are making lots of money."
"My dear fellow, I lead a regular
hand-to-mouth existence."
"You don't say! What are you doing?"
"Practicing dentistry."

RUBBING IT IN.
"Hiram" said his wife, "I wish you would go out to the shed and get
a bucket of coals."
"Coals!" muttered Hiram to himself, as he went grumbling to comply with the demand. "Coals! That's her way of reminding me that she could afford to spend six months in England every year before she married me!"

LITTLE LAUGHETS.
Then All Was Well.
He had just explained to her that he could not possibly defer the marriage for longer than three months,
and that if she would not consent it
were better to break off things at once
than later. She had listened sadly, wondering. She did not see why he refused to wait longer for her—she had asked but a year—and then she
consented to the limit.

Reasoning by Analogy.
Mr. Bronston—Mr. and Mrs. Upton
both had on new suits in church today. Mrs. Upton's dress was tailor-
made.
Mrs. Bronston—Huh! How do you know it was tailor made?
Mr. Bronston—Because Mr. Upton's
clothes were ready-made.

Truly Indispensable.
"It seems to me that you take a great deal of impertinence from that bartender."
"Well," answered Bronco Bob, "he's
kind of got us where we can't kick.
You see he is not only bartender, but
he runs the only undertaker shop in town, and we've simply got to put up
with him."

A Far-Seeing Youth.
The father wanted the young man to go into business and the boy wanted
to be a lawyer.
"Which would you rather be," argued the father, "a lawyer or a millionaire?"
"I'll be both if you give me half a chance," replied the son, and the father hurried him away to a law school.

She Was Sure.
George—I see nothing but for us to elope. Do you think your father
would forgive us?
Ethel—I'm sure he would.
George—How can you be sure?
Ethel—I felt a little nervous on that score, and—and I asked him.

An Easy Mark.
Bill—I've been to see a palm reader, Jill—And did you believe what he
told you?
"Yes, I did. He told me I was too
easy, and charged me two dollars."

In China.
"Some of these missionaries out here," said the heathen, "are regular
birds."
"Yes; birds of prey," remarked the
other significantly.

NERVE.
Smith (who has forgotten his own umbrella)—"Pardon, madam, but might I not be of assistance in carrying your umbrella?"

HARDLY WORTH MENTIONING.
A clergyman says that he was one
day called down into his study to perform the marriage ceremony for a couple in middle life.
"Have you ever been married before?" asked the clergyman of the bridegroom.
"No, sir."
"Have you?" to the bride.
"Well, yes, I have," replied the
bride, laconically; "but that was 20

they multiply rapidly. This is, at present, the only weak point of the system, for it is found that in practice the patient loses during the night almost all the benefit that he has derived from the inhalation of oxygen during the day. But this objection is to be swept away when a new laboratory has been built where consump-tives will be made to breathe the gas day and night until a cure has been effected.

IT IS A BUG ERRANT.
Nature has once more proved that she knows how to manage affairs in

THE CATERPILLAR'S ENEMY.
her numerous departments. While the suburbs are still bewailing a plague of caterpillars she has begun the work of extermination. She has sent a bug to do the work, and it is a wonderful bug indeed—a bug errant, one might say, for it has a lance and a suit of armor and just as much devotion to duty as any knight one ever read about.
This remarkable bug does not seem to have any mission upon earth except to fight caterpillars. It would rather fight than eat, and whenever it fights it eats, so that it takes an enthusiastic interest in the campaign. Its appetite would be disgraceful in a bug of less exemplary pursuits. There is a specimen in the Philadelphia North American office, says that paper, which has devoted more than ten times its weight in caterpillar in one day.
But the most remarkable thing about this ferocious insect is its method of attack. It does not use sharp claws like some beetles, nor poison like spiders. It has a little way of its own, says the Chicago Daily News.
Fastened by a flexible joint to the lower part of the body is a lance and with this deadly weapon the bug does rapid execution. It attacks a caterpillar like a torpedo boat attacking an unprotected cruiser. It creeps on its prey quietly, then makes a sudden rush. Raising itself when near the victim, it lets the lance drop forward and drives the sharp point home.
There follows a violent struggle of course. The caterpillar squirms and twists and rolls itself about, but the lance holds and there is no escape.

AN ANIMAL CURIOSITY.
There are not very many transparent animals, but recent studies of two larval eels which possess this peculiarity, and which belong to the National Museum, seem to show that among the possible advantages of being transparent is economy in personal decoration. In ordinary opaque animals the color markings are symmetrical on the two sides of the body, but this is not the case with the transparent eels.
Each of them, when looked at from one side, appears to have seven large black spots arranged at nearly regu-

DOUBLE STORE PHONE NO. 8.

We Save You Money

Dress Goods, Hats and Caps
Cloaks, Underwear

GEO. MATZEN

Cass City, Michigan.

Hunt's Grocery

Profitable inducements for grocery buyers.

Mocha and Java Coffee.....	23c per pound
Fancy Domestic Sardines 6 cans for.....	25c
Potted Ham, Chicken and Ox Tongue.....	10c
1/2 pound can Best Red Salmon.....	10c
English Boneless Herring per can.....	10c
1/2 pound can Chipped Dried Beef.....	15c
1/2 pound cans Veal, Beef and Ham Loaf.....	12c
Vienna Sausage per can.....	10c
Luncheon Olives large bottles.....	15c
2 1/2 pounds boxes Best Layer Eggs.....	25c
Light House and Rub-No-More Soap 8 bars for.....	25c

Our 35c, 40c and 50c Teas Leads them all for the Money.

12 quarts Extra Fine Dairy Pails.....	25c
Preserving Kettles.....	45c, 60c and 75c
Paris Green per pound.....	25c
Milk Pans per dozen.....	85c

Buy a 25c can of Baking Powder and get a draw on the sewing machine.

PROMPT DELIVERY H. L. HUNT

3-CENT COLUMN.

Advertisements will be inserted under this heading for three cents per line each week.

FOR SALE—One half or entire interest in livery. Enquire at this office. 9-22-14

FOR SALE—One well rig and engine—4 H. P. mounted for $100. M. KING. 9-15-14

FOR SALE—Registered Berkshire Boar, 7 months old. Inquire of JOHN F. COPELAND, One mile west and two miles north of Cass City. 2-21-14

FOR SALE OR RENT—One 120 acre farm and one 40 acre farm.

FOR SALE—One mare and colt; two cows with calves. Inquire of GEO. L. HITCHCOCK. 9-15-14

FOR SALE—Three Oxford Grade Rams two and three years old. O. K. JANKS.

GRAPES AT HALF PRICE. F. C. LEE. 9-19-14

GOOD cow for sale. E. MCKIM. 8-16-14

POST—At the Bethel Church, on Sunday, Sept. 1st, pair gold bowled glasses. Please leave at this office or return to MRS. ANNA CRANDALL. 9-12-14

STRAYED—Onto my premises about the first of August one old sheep and lamb. Owner call and pay charges and take them away. JOHN H. CHAPMAN. 9-26-14

Fall and Winter Cloaks

have arrived.

We invite you to call and inspect them. We have a line of

Fur, Plush and Cloth

Capes

Ladies' and Misses' Jackets.

We have secured the agency for

Broadheads' Dress Goods

They have no equal for service. We have all colors. Prices range from $1.00 to $1.50

Our UNDERWEAR Department is overflowing with the best things in the market. It will pay you to see our values before you buy.

Kingston.

Wm. Moyer has re-entered into marriage relations.

Mrs. L. J. Miller is confined to the house with rheumatism.

Mrs. R. Lawrence, from Epworth, Ont., is visiting at Wm. Taylor's.

Geo. Elliott started for Sanilac Center Wednesday evening for a visit.

A reception was held at Dr. Bates in connection with the M. E. Church.

Mile Smith was doing business at Lansing last week and returned Saturday.

Beans are hauled here from Germann, Moretown, Argyle, etc., and sold at our elevator.

School Commissioner H. P. Bush paid Kingston school a very pleasant visit Tuesday.

Fred Clark, our tonsorial artist, is working for S. Champion at Cass City this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Rickman were at Caro last Monday attending the funeral of Dr. Graves.

Postmaster A. G. Millikin appears remarkably docile at present. Cause a very sore hand.

A son of D. J. Franklin, pastor of second Baptist Church at Buffalo, is visiting his parents.

Mrs. Madison Moyer was at Wickware last Friday attending the funeral of her sister, Jessie.

John C. Minis has bought a new bean thresher with modern improvements and they say it is a dandy.

N. Sole and wife were shopping in our village last Wednesday and say they can do better than at Caro.

On Tuesday last the vicinity of the elevator was crowded with wagons loaded with beans, grain, etc., for sale.

The daughter-in-law of W. B. King Mrs. Clyde King, of Cleveland, returned with Wallace for a few days' visit.

Mabel Parker, who has been staying with Geo. E. Hopps for sometime, returned home to Pontiac last Saturday.

W. B. King returned last Monday evening from Cleveland, where he had been visiting relatives the last three weeks.

A number of people from here visited the State fair at Pontiac last week and they all say it was "nice," but oh so crowded.

The Kingston "Hustlers" went to Cass City last Saturday to play base with Cass City junior team. Result, 14 to 15 in favor of Cass City.

Ed. Farrell is quite uneasy at the sudden disappearance of his brother, "Jim," who is of weak intellect. Ed. can obtain no tidings of him.

Alfred Moyer and family returned home Friday night from visiting friends in Amherstburg, Ont., Detroit and also visited the State fair.

Mrs. F. Rossman, Mrs. Pelton and others have been industriously laboring the past week cleaning and painting the parsonage for the occupancy of the new minister, Rev. McAllister.

Owing to the falling off in the amount of milk delivered at the creamery during the past week, it has been decided to close the season's run next Saturday. Also that the pay day for this time will be on Oct. 20th, in order that the last few days may be included in the September settlement, rather than to have another pay day for so small an amount.

On Sunday the 22nd inst, memorial services to the memory of our beloved President were held at the Baptist church. Harlow Pelton Post and Kingston Circle, Ladies of the G. A. R. marched to the church in a body, and listened to a most impressive sermon from Rev. McAllister, assisted by Rev. Harper. The text, "A Prince Has Fallen," was handled in a manner that frequently brought tears to the eyes of the old veterans, some of whom were from Ohio and had known the President in earlier days. The closest attention was observed throughout the address by the large audience present, and the singing by the choir "Lead Kindly Light" and congregation "Nearer My God to Thee," was truly most inspiring.

School Reports.

Report of Primary School, Kingston, for the month ending Sept. 27, 1901: Number days taught, 18; total attendance, 807 1/4; average daily attendance 44-5-6; number boys enrolled, 24; number girls enrolled, 29; total enrollment, 53. Those not absent during the month: Pearl Rossman, Minnie Evans Pearl Siffert, Edith Convis, Rosa Martin, Beatrice Eady, Laura Hammond, Mary Siffert, Edna Sanford, Ella Smith, Lulu Hunter, Janie Day, Ethel Convis, Pearl Lazenby, Valda Swales. LIZZIE ROSSMAN, Teacher.

Report of school Dist. No. 2, Kingston, for the month ending Sept. 27. Number of days taught 17 " " pupils enrolled 35 Those not absent during the month: Vernon Everett, Bertha Lamphere, Elsie Jeffery, Edna Harris. MYRTLE JEFFERY, teacher.

How High Was the Tower of Babel?

The actual height at which the last stone of that famous structure, the Tower of Babel, rested cannot, on account of the remoteness of the times at which it is said to have existed, ever become more than a matter of mere conjecture. Herodotus, who lived about 1,700 years after that "great spiral way to heaven" is said to have been attempted, says that he saw at Babylon a structure consisting of eight towers raised one above another, each 75 feet in height, but whether this was the remains of the Tower of Babel it was even then impossible to ascertain. Herodotus, usually minutely exact in his writing, leaves us in ignorance as to how the upper level of each of these 75 foot towers was reached from the level below.

As might be expected, even in tradition, a wide difference of opinion exists as to the height of the tower. Most orientals maintain that God did not put a stop to the work until the tower had reached a height of 10,000 fathoms, or about 12 miles. In Ceylonese tradition it is said to have been as high as 20,000 elephants, each standing one above the other. St. Jerome asserts on the authority of persons who had examined the ruins that it did not reach a height exceeding four miles. Other statements are still more extravagant.

Bill Nye on Life Insurance.

The late Bill Nye's indorsement of life insurance is probably the most characteristic paragraph to be quoted from his writings:

"In these days of dynamite and swift changing presidential administrations and dark tunnels through which an engineer goes groping his way at 25 miles per hour, these days of tumbling signs of the times and tinsy telegraph poles, live wires and dead repeaters; these days when the politician and the deadly bridge policeman with his pull list down together under the influence of the same stimulant; these days when death lurks in the air we breathe, the earth we tread, the food we eat, the water—the water we bathe in—I say it behooves us to look well to our insurance and our future state, and I take pleasure in certifying and saying to whom these presents may come that since I became fully insured my health has improved so much that it is a subject for profound congratulation on my own part and the deepest disgust on the part of those who would naturally inherit my vast wealth."

Sewing Done by Ants.

Ants are credited with so many marvelous accomplishments that a new one must be remarkable to the noteworthy. Mr. E. G. Green of Ceylon, an authority upon insect habits, has, however, made an observation which is well worth putting on record. He has watched red ants holding grubs in their mouths and using the web they spin to repair a rent in their nest.

Some leaves which had been fastened together by the ants were separated by Mr. Green, and in a short time after he saw small white grubs being passed backward and forward across the gap. Closer observation showed that each grub was held in the jaws of one of the worker ants, and its movements were directed as required. A continuous thread of silk issued from the mouth of each grub and was used by the ants to sew up the rent in their shelter.

There were no grubs in the neighborhood, and those used were obtained from a nest at some distance. This deliberate use of a naturally formed web as a sewing thread is as astonishing as any instance of the intelligence of ants yet observed.

Peculiar Trees.

The visitor to the Falkland Islands sees a number of what appear to be weather beaten, moss covered bowlders of various sizes scattered here and there. On attempting to turn one over he is surprised to find that it is anchored to the ground by roots of great strength. These are not bowlders. They are trees. No other place in the world can show such a peculiarity of "forest" growth. The Falkland Islands are exposed to a strong polar wind which renders it impossible for trees to grow in the proper form. Nature has consequently adapted herself to the prevailing conditions and produced this strange form of plant life. These "living stones," as they are called, are quite devoid of "grain," and it is next to impossible to cut them up and utilize them for fuel.

Its Changing Value.

It was right that the gallant act should be rewarded, but what should she give him?

"Ha, a kiss, of course! Were there not men who would pay a great price for that? Truly it was quoted high. "That," she said as she bestowed it, "is easily worth $100."

"It was," he answered, "but it is not."

"What do you mean?" she asked.

"While in your possession it would bring a good sum," he said, "but in time it cannot be exchanged for the price of a meal."

However, he was a prosaic sort of fellow at best, and besides he was hungry.—Chicago Post.

Cleanliness in Cooking.

Says a Chinese writer of the eighteenth century: "Don't cut bamboo shoots (the Chinese equivalent of asparagus) with an ordinary knife. A good cook frequently wipes his knife, frequently changes his cloth, frequently scrapes his board and frequently washes his hands. If smoke or ashes from his pipe, perspiration drops from his head, insects from the wall or smut from the saucepan gets mixed up with the food, though he were a very chef among chefs, yet would men hold their noses and decline."

Canaries.

Canaries, which were originally green and gray in color, were native to the islands from which they take their name and were first taken to England on ships plying between English ports and the south of France. From this stock have been derived a number of distinct varieties, such as the crested, the green, the lizard, which imitates the rattle in its variegated markings, and the Belgian, which has a strange humpback appearance.

Foley's Kidney Cure

makes kidneys and bladder right.

Cass City Markets.

Wheat No. 1 white.....	63
Wheat No. 2 red.....	63
Oats.....	31
Rye.....	41
Beans, Hand picked.....	35
Peas.....	50
Clover Seed.....	4.50 5.50
Hay loose.....	6.00 8.00
Hay, pressed, per ton.....	7.00 10.00
Eggs per doz.....	14
Butter.....	12
Hogs, dressed per cwt.....	€ 75 7.00
Best, dressed, per lb.....	6.00 7.00
Sheep, live weight, per lb.....	9
Lambs.....	4 1/2
Chickens.....	6
Turkeys.....	6
Ducks and geese.....	6
Hides.....	11 to 15
Wool, unwashed, per lb.....	11 to 15

MARKETS AT ROLLER MILLS.

White Lily.....	3.30 per bu
Helier's Best.....	4.30
Pillsbury's Best.....	4.30
Graham Flour.....	3.30
Softened Meal.....	1.75 per wt
Feed.....	1.10
Meal.....	1.10
Brain.....	1.10
12 W. Flour.....	2.00
12 W. Flour.....	3.00
Salt, per barrel.....	60

2 MACKS

are now arriving, and we would advise an inspection of our Goods before buying. Always have some special deals in all lines of Goods. Small lots to close out at less than cost. We carry the best makes of

Our Fall Clothing, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Gents' Furnishings

Overall, Pants and Jackets.

Guaranteed Satisfactory. Trade with the old reliable firm of Brain-Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutrition is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking a portion of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at Fritze's Drug Store, Cass City; or Francis' Drug Store, Kingston. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

Card of Thanks.

We tender our Thanks to our many friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us in the sickness and at the death of our loved one, and especially his Brother and wife who so tenderly cared for and nursed him while at Cass City.

MRS. ELI BAXTER AND FAMILY.

Barnard's 20th Century Washer

A PERFECT WASHING MACHINE.

The Only Machine in the World with Automatic Soap. Lightest in Operation. Makes a Family Washing Only a Question of Minutes.

To Whom This May Concern: We, the undersigned have this day seen an entire washing done on a Barnard's 20th Century Washer, and can highly recommend it as the best we have ever seen. The ease with which it washes large articles, counterpanes, carpets, etc., is a grand feature. It is so very easy to clean. It is easier to operate than any other machine. Another good advantage is its use as a table after washing. It does what is claimed of it and comes up to our expectations. No rubbing of clothes; washes any spot at will; soaps any individual spot at the wish of the operator. Not once is it necessary to put one's hands into the suds.

MRS. TRAVIS SCHENCK,
MRS. A. ARMSTRONG,
MRS. J. J. GALLAGHER,
MRS. P. A. KEFGEN,
MRS. JANE MCBURNEY.

Robert Miller, Agent, Cass City.

The Heart of a Mouse.

A tiny mouse who lived near the house of a magician begged him to save her from the cat of whom she lived in deadly terror.

So the magician changed the mouse into a cat, and she went away delighted.

In a few days she came back again in terror. "Oh, save me, save me now from the dog," she begged.

And the magician changed her to a dog.

A few days more, and back she came—this time in deadly fear of a tiger. "Nonsense," said the magician. "You have only the heart of a mouse, and afraid you will always be. It is the heart that tells!"

Ese Hard Bed.

A German doctor advises the adoption of a hard bed and that children should be trained from the beginning to sleep upon no other kind. It is certainly true that as a rule the hard bed conduces to the most refreshing kind of sleep, the feather bed, so dearly loved by our grandmothers, being enervating in the extreme and encouraging weakness of mind in the matter of getting up in the morning.

PONTIAC OXFORD & NORTHERN R. R.

PASSENGER TIME CARD.

Trains run on Central Standard Time.

GOING NORTH		GOING SOUTH
EXPT. No. 5 (No. 1)	STATIONS	EXPT. No. 4 (No. 6)	STATIONS
A. M. 7:00	P. M. 7:45	P. M. 11:00	A. M. 11:55
8:00	8:15	8:05	8:10
9:15	9:30	9:25	9:30
10:10	10:25	10:20	10:30
11:05	11:20	11:15	11:25
12:00	12:15	12:05	12:15
1:05	1:20	1:00	1:10
2:10	2:25	2:05	2:15
3:15	3:30	3:10	3:20
4:20	4:35	4:15	4:25
5:25	5:40	5:20	5:30
6:30	6:45	6:25	6:35
7:35	7:50	7:30	7:40
8:40	8:55	8:35	8:45
9:45	10:00	9:40	9:50
10:50	11:05	10:45	10:55
11:55	12:10	11:50	12:00
12:55	1:10	12:50	1:00
1:55	2:10	1:50	2:00
2:55	3:10	2:50	3:00
3:55	4:10	3:50	4:00
4:55	5:10	4:50	5:00
5:55	6:10	5:50	6:00
6:55	7:10	6:50	7:00
7:55	8:10	7:50	8:00
8:55	9:10	8:50	9:00
9:55	10:10	9:50	10:00
10:55	11:10	10:50	11:00
11:55	12:10	11:50	12:00
12:55	1:10	12:50	1:00
1:55	2:10	1:50	2:00
2:55	3:10	2:50	3:00
3:55	4:10	3:50	4:00
4:55	5:10	4:50	5:00
5:55	6:10	5:50	6:00
6:55	7:10	6:50	7:00
7:55	8:10	7:50	8:00
8:55	9:10	8:50	9:00
9:55	10:10	9:50	10:00
10:55	11:10	10:50	11:00
11:55	12:10	11:50	12:00
12:55	1:10	12:50	1:00
1:55	2:10	1:50	2:00
2:55	3:10	2:50	3:00
3:55	4:10	3:50	4:00
4:55	5:10	4:50	5:00
5:55	6:10	5:50	6:00
6:55	7:10	6:50	7:00
7:55	8:10	7:50	8:00
8:55	9:10	8:50	9:00
9:55	10:10	9:50	10:00
10:55	11:10	10:50	11:00
11:55	12:10	11:50	12:00
12:55	1:10	12:50	1:00
1:55	2:10	1:50	2:00
2:55	3:10	2:50	3:00
3:55	4:10	3:50	4:00
4:55	5:10	4:50	5:00
5:55	6:10	5:50	6:00
6:55	7:10	6:50	7:00
7:55	8:10	7:50	8:00
8:55	9:10	8:50	9:00
9:55	10:10	9:50	10:00
10:55	11:10	10:50	11:00
11:55	12:10	11:50	12:00
12:55	1:10	12:50	1:00
1:55	2:10	1:50	2:00
2:55	3:10	2:50	3:00
3:55	4:10	3:50	4:00
4:55	5:10	4:50	5:00
5:55	6:10	5:50	6:00
6:55	7:10	6:50	7:00
7:55	8:10	7:50	8:00
8:55	9:10	8:50	9:00
9:55	10:10	9:50	10:00
10:55	11:10	10:50	11:00
11:55	12:10	11:50	12:00
12:55	1:10	12:50	1:00
1:55	2:10	1:50	2:00
2:55	3:10	2:50	3:00
3:55	4:10	3:50	4:00
4:55	5:10	4:50	5:00
5:55	6:10	5:50	6:00
6:55	7:10	6:50	7:00
7:55	8:10	7:50	8:00
8:55	9:10	8:50	9:00
9:55	10:10	9:50	10:00
10:55	11:10	10:50	11:00
11:55	12:10	11:50	12:00
12:55	1:10	12:50	1:00
1:55	2:10	1:50	2:00
2:55	3:10	2:50	3:00
3:55	4:10	3:50	4:00
4:55	5:10	4:50	5:00
5:55	6:10	5:50	6:00
6:55	7:10	6:50	7:00
7:55	8:10	7:50	8:00
8:55	9:10	8:50	9:00
9:55	10:10	9:50	10:00
10:55	11:10	10:50	11:00
11:55	12:10	11:50	12:00
12:55	1:10	12:50	1:00
1:55	2:10	1:50	2:00
2:55	3:10	2:50	3:00
3:55	4:10	3:50	4:00
4:55	5:10	4:50	5:00
5:55	6:10	5:50	6:00
6:55	7:10	6:50	7:00
7:55	8:10	7:50	8:00
8:55	9:10	8:50	9:00
9:55	10:10	9:50	10:00
10:55	11:10	10:50	11:00
11:55	12:10	11:50	12:00
12:55	1:10	12:50	1:00
1:55	2:10	1:50	2:00
2:55	3:10	2:50	3:00
3:55	4:10	3:50	4:00
4:			