The remains of Mrs. Kenoy arrived here Saturday noon from Detroit and were taken in charge by Funeral Conductor Elliott. Deceased was a daughter of Andrew Patrick, of Greenleaf. The interment took place on Sunday at St. Columbkil's cemetery in Sheridan township.

M. H. Quick has purchased thirteen acres of land from Novesta township, just east of the gravel pit, and adjoining his own farm. He and N. Hamilton are also negotiating the purchase of the W. R. Kent eighty acres in the same township, to be divided equally between them.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this place are arranging for a silver medal oratorical contest to take place the latter part of this month. These contests are being held at various places in the county and the winners will compete for a gold medal at Caro sometime in December.

The Cass City Meat Market has changed hands, W. C. Janks having sold the same to Harry Young and John A. Benkelman. The firm name will be Young and Benkelman. As both gentlemen are well known to our readers an introduction is not necessary. The shop will continue to merit a liberal patronage and all may be sure of being well served.

Our Industrial Projects.

There has not been any developments along the line of the projected sugar factory at this place for some time. There can be little question but that if the industry continues to advance in the state as it has been doing, that Cass City will have a factory, as it has all that can be desired in the way of location, territory, water and other essentials, but at the present there seems to be conflicting influences at work which cannot easily be manipulated. We are not dead, neither sleeping, but simply awaiting developments and standing ready to improve our opportunities.

Interest appears to be deepening in the canning industry at this place. Considerable investigation has been made and information gained, and the indications are that we will yet have a splendidly equipped canning factory, with ample capacity and managers of unsurpassed capabilities, so that the output may meet successfully any competition. It is probable that a company will shortly be organized with about $20,000 capital, which is thought sufficient to put in a first-class plant in every respect. Half this amount is already subscribed and the remainder is in sight. Let the farmers interest themselves and prepare to put in a large acreage from the start.

Still Room.

Capt. Ben. Boutell, of Bay City, who is considered authority on the beet sugar question, says:

"Michigan's 17 factories will next year require 5,000 acres each, in sugar beets, and still there is room for triple expansion. For if 100,000 acres will be devoted to sugar beets in Michigan in 1902, it would still require the product of 300,000 acres to supply enough sugar for use in this state alone. Fifteen million people could find work in this country, to produce from our sugar beets, all the sugar consumed by the people of these United States, annually."

Burned to Death

As Miss Anna Blackmore, daughter of R. A. Blackmore, proprietor of the Fremont hotel, Mayville, was dressing Tuesday, she was overcome by an epileptic fit, fell forward upon a lamp, knocking the chimney off and setting fire to her clothing and the window fixtures. Her father heard her fall, but before he could reach her, her body from head to knees had been burned to a crisp, resulting in death in a few hours.

May Sidetrack Bay City.

Men soliciting the right of way between Caro and Bay City for the Detroit Pontiac, Lapeer & Northern railway have been ordered to quit. The information now is that the road will cut across to Saginaw instead of Bay City. The latter considered it more in the light of a bluff, and if the road does not go there local capitalists will take up the project of building to Unionville, Sebawaing, Bad Axe and Harbor Beach.

Fatally Kic Ked.

Isaac Swackhammer, a resident of Port Austin for thirty years, was found dead with his head crushed in by a kick from one of his horses. Deceased was in his 73d year and leaves a widow and large family of grown-up children.

The Lovejoy Railway

The Sanilac Republican says that if the Detroit, Lenox & Sanilac Centre Steam and Electric Railroad doesn't become a reality it won't be the fault of Gil R. Lovejoy, who has taken on renewed activity and claims the prospects are now brighter than ever. A prospectus and map has been issued which gives the following information: The promoters of the Detroit, Lenox & Sanilac Centre steam and electric railway are Gilbert R. Lovejoy, Jas. E. Water, John B. Lutes and Warren S. Stone. They are not incorporated under any law at present but hold franchises and deeds in their individual names valued at $37,000. The line is to commence at Chesterfield in Macomb County at the intersection of the Rapid Railway, twenty-eight miles from Detroit. It runs thence north to New Haven and Richmond, where it connects with the Grand Trunk and Michigan Central, thence north to Memphis and Emmet, connecting at the latter place with the Chicago and Grand Trunk, thence to Sanilac Centre by way of Yala and Peck, thence west to Elmer, north to Argyle and west to Cumber, turning north again straight into Bad Axe. From Cumber a branch will extend west to Cass City. Total length, 97 miles, serving a population of 55,000. The estimated cost of the road is $2,000,000.

Nellie Weaver and Brock Pardo entered school this week. Miss Weaver expects to graduate with the class in June. The janitor is longing for grass to grow so that mud will not be so plentiful at times. The local Teacher's Reading Circle held an interesting and profitable meeting at the high school room last Saturday afternoon. One dozen were present. There are a number of bright, faithful and conscientious young men and women who would avail themselves of the opportunities which our school affords, if they had the opportunity to do work in part pay for their board and room. Has not some one work that these young people may do and thus not only benefit themselves but others. Many a young person has not succeeded in life because of the lack of a few years of schooling at the right time. The chemistry class is taking a series of questions, preparing for the term examination in December. Some of the high school boys, after coming from the gymnasium the other night, were unable to find their hats and had to go home bare-headed. There will be no more of this.

Small Pox.

The small pox victims in Kingston township are all reported as convalescing and no new cases have been reported. Dr. Geo. Bates has been engaged by the town board to devote his entire time to the stamping out of the disease. Two suspected cases have been reported from Elkton to the state board of health. State secretary Baker is to be in Caro tomorrow to arrange for a sanitary convention there soon.

Here's a Bargain.

THE FALL ELECTIONS.

Seth Low Elected in Greater New York.

HIS PLURALITY ABOUT 40,000.

Reports from Ohio show increased Republican pluralities. Nebraska Makes Some Gains—Republicans Carried Massachusetts—The Vote in Other States.

Complete returns of the election in New York show the utter rout of Tammany, further and conclusive proof of which is given by the retirement of Richard Croker, chief of the powerful Democratic organization.

Revised returns show that the Ohio republicans gained almost everywhere except in Columbus, where disaffection over some of Gov. Nash's appointments and local option caused great party splits.

Tom Pratt

Flirt? Yes. Though my hair is white, For my eyesight's good and clear; I can see ahead on the track at night, As far as an engineer.

I was young as you when I got my run, An' as full of snap an' go, An' I felt that life was well begun When I'd see the fire glow.

An' think she was making steam for me, That had wiped an' rusted coal, That I wasn't the servant of 73, But her life an' her brains an' soul.

What got wrong with the kid before that trip, I never made out just right, He was awful pale, an' he dropped his lip When I kissed him an' says "Good night."

An' in front of the gauge an' before the glass, Across in the fireman's place, In the flashin' lights of trains we pass I could see that little face.

An' when the orders was brought ahead, His face was before me still, I never took in what the "con" had said, But just says "All right, Bill!"

The fireman says, "We're a-gittin' there, You're my kind of an engineer, But Tom, just wouldn't it raise your hair If we'd meet number 9 right here?"

He'd just said the words when we turned a curve, An' I grabbed the lever an' air, For a-shinin' out with never a swerve Was a headlight there right there!

I stayed in the cab an' felt it all, The crash and the sickening grind, I heard the butchered cattle call, As they died in the cars behind.

I saw—but no, I can't tell it yet, But in twenty more I could not forget That slight ahead, I know.

For number 9 was a passenger train, With a crowd from a holiday, Comin' up with orders right an' plain, "You have got clear right 'way."

Discharged? Well, what could the company do? Of course I expected that, They were more than good, between me an' you, In their death with old Tom Pratt.

It was all the orders I didn't hear, An' didn't make out just right, It was all the fault of a blindin' tear For a boy that died that night.

They gave me a job in a year or two, As a fireman in the yard, There was nothin' else for a man to do, Though the drop an' the work was hard.

An' little boys that was kids' knee high, When they gave me the right sign, Works up to their runs like you, while I Am a-dotin' what you see.

Injustice? Not much; it was only right, For a man whose brain ain't clear, Or with dyin' babies, like mine that night, Ain't fit for an engineer.

After the Storm Had Passed.

BY D. H. TALMADGE
(Copyright, 1901, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

It was rather an extraordinary situation. Tom Belwynd, elephant man with the Three World Show admitted without so much as an instant's hesitation that never during his career, which had not been a commonplace succession of events by any means, had he known anything like it. He was inclined to believe for a period of perhaps three minutes, while the effects of the shock were still strong upon him, that he was in some kind of a heaven, sitting upon green grass by the side of running waters. Across the stream upon the other bank was his ideal woman, the lovely creature of his dreams.

Then a loud splashing and trumpeting down the stream distracted his attention, and he turned his gaze anxiously and with reluctance in that direction. The vision upon the other bank rose to its feet, giving utterance to a squeak of the most conventional worldliness. The squeak settled it. The vision was such no more. Belwynd smiled, and his smile was answered. He spoke.

"You are in no danger, miss," he said, reassuringly. "It is only one of the elephants."

The information did not bring the expression of relief to the girl's face

"I am the elephant man," that he had hoped for, and he spoke again, introducing himself.

"I am the elephant man with the show, miss. Belwynd's my name—Thomas Belwynd. And when I tell you there's no danger I know what I'm talking about. It's old Pilate making all that fuss. He hadn't had a good play in the water for six weeks, and he's taking advantage of his opportunity. 'Tisn't every day that a tornado strikes us, and nothing short of a tornado gives the old chap the liberty he most desires."

"Where are the other elephants?" inquired the girl, dubiously.

"I'll be blessed if I know, miss; but I do know that they're not with Pilate. He's an aristocrat, and he won't associate with the others when he can help it. I have to chain him by himself in the menagerie tent, and I have to let him do his turn in the ring alone. He becomes offended if I don't, and sulks and makes a regular howling snob of himself. Here he comes now."

The elephant, lumbering gleefully up the bed of the stream, his small eyes twinkling, his trunk standing upright before his face, caught sight of them as the last word left Belwynd's lips, and stopped abruptly. Belwynd addressed him.

"Pilate, old man," said he, quietly, "come here."

Pilate hesitated. He recognized the master, but he was not yet weary of vacation. His great body swayed back and forth uncertainly for a time, and the end of his trunk was gradually lowered to the water. Belwynd addressed him again, sharply.

"None of that, Pilate! Come here, sis."

With a sound not unlike a groan the beast obeyed.

"Down Pilate!"

In another moment the mighty frame was stretched upon the grass, and Belwynd, a small stick in his hand, was looking triumphantly at the girl.

"You see, miss," he said, "people are afraid of elephants because they don't know 'em. There are animals in almost every barnyard of this blossoming state of Iowa that are more dangerous to handle. Now cows—I'm timid of cows. I never feel safe when there are cows around. I left home as much for that reason as any other. Father insisted that I help to milk, and I just slung a few of my more valuable possessions into a bandanna handkerchief and followed off the first cren that came along rather than do it. I've never been home since, though I write to mother regularly every Sunday morning. I sent her the money to clear the mortgage off the old place last week. Know anybody in Ohio?"

The girl raised her big brown eyes—big brown eyes and yellow, curly hair had been the prime essentials to beauty in Belwynd's estimation—from the elephant to Belwynd's face. She was trembling slightly, and her voice quavered.

"Ohio is my home," she replied. "I came from near Chillicothe."

"That's funny. So did I. Who'd ever have thought that two lonesome people from the same place who'd never seen each other before would have been blown out from among ten thousand by a tornado and plumped down together in a nice pleasant place like this hallow to talk it over! We're lucky not to be dead. We must be a quarter of a mile from the show ground, and we didn't touch once on the way, or breathe,—at least I didn't. It looks like fate."

The girl smiled. "How do you know I'm lonesome?" she asked.

"Because your home's in Ohio," he answered promptly, "and you're a long ways from it, and—and—you're afraid of elephants. Everybody is lonesome when he's away from home. Home wouldn't amount to shucks as an institution if he wasn't."

"I am lonesome," admitted the girl. "I'd give anything if I was back in Ross county this very minute." She glanced significantly at the elephant, and wiped the corners of her eyes. "I didn't have to leave. But my uncle wrote to me asking if I didn't want a position in his restaurant out here, and I was foolish enough to take it. I thought it would be better than the farm. And after I'd taken it I was ashamed to go back till I'd stayed a year. Father wrote me long ago, saying he could tell by the tone of my letters that I was homesick. He said I'd better come back. I wrote and told him that nothing but a—"

"Tornado," suggested Belwynd.

"Yes, that nothing but a tornado—would make me come back till my year was up, and he said I was just like mother—set in my way. After that I got a letter from mother, and she said she was sorry I was so stubborn, but she knew I couldn't help it, 'cause I was father right over again. My father's name is William Travis. Perhaps you've heard of him."

"No," said Belwynd, honestly, "I never did. Your home must be south of Chillicothe, isn't it?"

"Yes. Yours is north?"

"But it's all old Ross county."

"Yes," looking at the girl in frank admiration; "it's all old Ross county."

"And we're far away from it."

"Far away from it."

The girl drew a long breath. "Wouldn't you like to go back?" she asked.

"Well," confessed the elephant man slowly, "sometimes I do feel a hankering of that sort, and I can't account for it. I never got much else than kicks and pushes when I was there. Maybe 'twas my own fault, but I like to think 'twas more because none of my folks understood me. Old Ross county turned me down unreasonably hard, yet the hankering comes in spite of it. I'm a good deal like a man I knew once who was with the show. Him and his wife done a turn on the trapeze that was good for letters a foot high on the hills. It was a stunning act. But the little woman took sick. Overwork, I guess. They called it consumption. 'Twas heart-breaking to hear her cough. But she never lost hope. Folks sick with that thing don't, they say. She stuck by the show till the last minute. The day she died she rode old Pilate here in the street parade."

"Oh!" The brown eyes contemplated the prostrate beast with a new expression. Then they flashed sympathetically into the gray eyes of the elephant man.

"Her husband was a good deal cut up when the end came. He knew she was better off and all that, but somehow he couldn't seem to get reconciled. He hadn't married her because he loved her particularly,—'twas more because she was a clever performer on the swinging bar. It was a matter of business. Such things are not uncommon in the show line. Maybe they're not uncommon in other lines, I don't know. He was like most other men,—he had his notions about what went to make up female loveliness, and this woman, his wife, wasn't according to 'em. But after she left he quit the trapeze and took up another branch. He didn't know why he done it. He just felt that way. And three years later he found the woman that he'd dreamed of in his youth."

"And they were married?"

"No, they weren't married," Belwynd inadvertently bent the stick in his hand, breaking it. For a moment his face took on the look of one who mourns. "They weren't married. They never will be. It was a most peculiar thing. 'Twas sort of ridiculous, in fact. The man looked at the woman, and he knew she was beautiful, but something on his inside kept him from asking her to marry him. He knew she was beautiful, but 'confound it!' he said to himself, 'she doesn't cough and her face isn't thin like the faithful and true little woman's who's dead.' And he went on his way—alone."

"It is a pretty story," said the girl.

had to hide for days in the canyons from hostile Indians, when in trying to reach an almost inaccessible ruin she fell and nearly lost her life. Although she suffered hunger and thirst, weariness and danger, she did not despair, but bravely kept up her efforts, saying that she wanted other women to see the ruins, but wanted no other woman to suffer as she had done in the attempt.

Finally in the fall of 1899, gathering a few intimate friends about her, she organized the Colorado Cliff Dwellings association and set out to do a work which will make the association and its members remembered in the scientific achievement of their state. The first and greatest obstacle which confronted them was the inaccessibility of the cliff dwellings. Located as they are between thirty and forty miles from any railroad, over a rough, wild, uninhabited country, the cliff dwellings could only be reached at great expense of time, strength and money and a long and exhausting journey on horseback. To overcome this obstacle the first object to be attained was

CLIFF DWELLERS' HOMES.

A bill has been prepared for submission to Congress at its coming session providing that the cliff dwellings of Colorado shall not be destroyed by time or vandalism, but that they shall be preserved for the benefit of scientific investigation in future years. The measure provides that the region surrounding these habitations of a prehistoric race shall be set apart as a national park, protected by the government for the use and benefit of posterity.

These marvelous relics of American antiquity, for centuries inaccessible to any but the boldest and most tireless explorers, have at last been opened up by a little band of enthusiastic women. The ruins have long been considered by archaeologists to be among the finest and most interesting in the world and have stood almost unknown and wholly neglected in the Mancas canyon of southwestern Colorado. On rare occasions when they have been visited, except by one or two parties of scientific explorers, it has been by careless tourists and sightseers, who did not scruple to knock down walls and otherwise deface the ruins in their efforts to get and carry away interesting pieces of pottery and the relics valuable only to science.

These ruins were opened and made accessible to the public by the Colorado Cliff Dwelling association, composed of fifty women, and organized in the fall of 1899 by Mrs. Gilbert McClurg of Colorado Springs, Col. In 1882 Mrs. McClurg, then Miss Virginia Doneghe, a descendant of Edward A. Dunning, who made the first anthropological collection for Harvard and Yale, learning of the ruins of the cliff dwellings in the Mesa Verde, made an excursion to and explored the ruins at the risk of her life and under the escort of United States troops.

Appreciated Their Value.

What she saw of them convinced her that they were of great scientific interest to the world, and she resolved if possible to preserve and reclaim them from the ravages of time and vandal marauders. For sixteen years she labored, never once losing sight of her object, and when in 1885 she, with a party of friends, was beset and a wagon road. Here again was a difficulty.

The Mesa Verde is a part of the Ute reservation and the Indians objected to white men traveling over their lands. After much consideration the association hit upon the project of leasing the Mesa Verde from the Indians and negotiations were immediately begun. Mrs. McClurg, who had known the Ute chiefs and been known by them from a child, appeared before their council and, through an interpreter, laid before them her plans. The chiefs signed the lease giving the association the right to build and use a wagon road across their reservation in consideration of the sum of $300 a year.

A Wagon Road Opened.

This settled, the work on the wagon road was immediately begun and though the association was small and badly hampered by lack of capital, it was pushed rapidly forward until Sept. 1, when it was considered sufficiently under way to warrant a formal opening of the wagon road to the Mesa Verde and cliff dwellings.

The pictures presented herewith are from sketches made by members of the party.

All of the ruins are interesting to the archaeologist. In many respects the one known as balcony house is the best preserved and probably the most recently occupied. In contrast with this one are smooth and even and the stones well fitted together. The tower is straight, square and has three now broken through, has evidently been of a T shape. The whole ruin suggests a strong and almost impregnable fortress. A small force of men could hold it against a vastly superior enemy.

Balcony house is so called from a projection or balcony. It is a rather narrow balcony, but was undoubtedly used to sit and rest upon. Like all the ruins in Cliff canyon, it is difficult of access and is filled with dry dust and fallen walls.

Our Trade Possibilities.

China's present foreign trade does not amount to $1 per head, or $300,000,000, against less than $1 per head thirty years ago. Multiply China's population conservatively estimated at 350,000,000 by $6, and we have, as a reasonable estimate of China's foreign commerce, when she shall be opened up and her government improved like that of Japan, the magnificent total of $2,100,000,000 per annum.

The imports, two-thirds of which could be supplied by America, would equal $1,000,000,000. This sum may not be realized for another generation, but it must surely be reached in the not remote future.—John Barrett in Philadelphia Times.

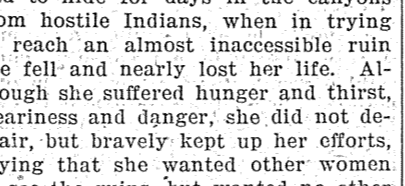

AN INKY LAKE.

One of the Most Peculiar Mysteries of Colorado.

The most uncanny curiosity in the strange, uncanny land by the Colorado river is what the naturalists in California call a lake of ink. The scientific journals in Los Angeles and San Diego have discussed time and time again what the lake of ink really is. It is a great pool of black fluid that resembles black writing ink more than anything else. It is about an acre in area. The surface of the lake is coated with ashes from the volcanoes to the thickness of about half a foot, and the explorer in these parts who is not looking out for this freak of nature would be very apt to walk into it. Surveyors have found that the lake is some three hundred yards deep in some places, but no bot-means Rome will also gain communication with Brussels. The second new line branches off at Milan for Chiasso, where it joins the Swiss system, with which Vienna is already connected and Berlin shortly will be. The four principal capitals of the continent, with their chief provincial cities, will thus shortly be within "speaking distance" of each other, and as England is already connected with Paris the continental network approaches completion, the next step will be to find a common international exchange.

Highest Altitudes Possible to Man.

The reason, Signor Mosso tells us, why so few have attempted the ascent of the highest peaks on the face of the earth is the conviction that man cannot withstand the rarefied air of these altitudes. "Herolism shrinks from such prolonged sufferings as those due to lack of health." His own experiments and observations, however, give us the assurance that man will be able slowly to accustom himself to the diminished barometric pressure of the Himalayas. "If birds," he says, "fly to the height of 29,000 feet man ought to be able to reach the same altitude at a slow rate of progress."—Pearson's Magazine.

Pike's Peak Railroad.

Capitalists of Colorado Springs have organized a company to build an electric railway to the top of Pike's Peak, at a cost of $500,000 or more. The road will start from Colorado Springs or from some station on the Cripple Creek Short Line. Experiments show that electricity can be operated without trouble at the altitude necessary, 14,143 feet. The Cog Road has heretofore held the field exclusively.

Champagne in Germany.

Germany produces a very good quality of champagne. In 1900 2,045 tons, valued at $547,000, were exported. During the same year the imports amounted to double that quantity. The duty on champagne imported into Germany is 35 cents a bottle. This high duty has induced many French firms to establish plants of their own within the German border.

tom can be found in others. There is nothing but theory as to the source of the supply of the lake, but no one seems to know what the component parts of it is composed of. The Indians say it is composed of the blood of bad Indians who are suffering in their hell amid the volcanoes. Samples of the lake have been brought to Yuma and Los Angeles for tests and examination. It is good for common marking purposes. Cotton goods that have been soaked with the strange black fluid keep their color for months, even when exposed to the sun, and the goods have a stiffness that is somewhat like weak starch. A gallon of the lake fluid was sent to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington the other day for analysis.

Diamond Cutters Need Work.

The South African war is causing starvation among the 200 men employed in Paris in the delicate work of cutting diamonds. Scarcely any diamonds come from Brazil or India now. Before the supply from the Cape ceased these men earned as much as 50 francs a week, out of which they have to pay their employers four francs a day for implements and motive power. Two carats each of diamond powder and boart are also necessary. This costs 25 francs, and the cutter's assistant draws another 12 francs, making altogether 37 francs. At present the men who still have work are earning about 60 francs, which leaves them slightly over 20 francs a week to live upon. A meeting of the 200 has been held, at which the 12,000 cutters of the Amsterdam and the 800 of Antwerp were represented. A general strike was unanimously voted, and all cutters who continue to work are assessed five per cent of their earnings for the strike fund.

Trunk Line Telephone.

The Italian government has just sanctioned the construction of two important trunk lines of telephone which will bring Europe a long step nearer to the goal of a continental system of international telephones. One of these lines goes from Rome through Bologna, Florence and Turin to Mount Cenis, where it is to be connected with the French line from Paris, by which Roosevelt a Hustler.

"For a persistent, indefatigable and positively tireless man, commend me to President Roosevelt," remarked one of the clerks of a New York book store, whose special duty is as a searcher for elusive titles. "When the President was writing his articles for the 'Cyclopedia of Sport' he brought in here a list of books that he said he must have, and have right away. In about a week I had managed to get together about 50 per cent of the lot, and turned them over to him. He was back the next day on a still hunt for the rest. I told him some were out of print, and the rest books that no dealer regularly carried in stock."

"But I must have them, every last one of them, and I must have them right away. Get a hustle on, my boy, but don't you dare miss one of them. I can't work without them."

"I hunted high and low, only to be stirred up at least once a day by Mr. Roosevelt, who in some way learned the hour he was sure to find me at the hour he was sure to find me at on hand to give me a good-natured prodding. At last I managed to get together all the books he wanted, but for a couple of weeks I had such a stirring up as I had never before, and such a one as I sincerely hope I may never have again, though Mr. Roosevelt was in the best of humor and good nature fairly oozed from him when he was pushing me in his most strenuous fashion. He made a hustler of me for just one month for fair."

AN HONEST NAME.

An Illinois Statesman Tells a Good Story—Know His Father's Son Would Not Lie.

The Honorable Alva Merrill of Chillicothe, member for the Twenty-fourth District, State of Illinois House of Representatives, tells an interesting story:

Some two years ago Mr. Merrill gave a testimonial stating that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured his rheumatism. This with Mr. Merrill's portrait were published in thousands of papers all over the United States.

On the train returning home from Springfield one day last winter were the Honorable Mr. Merrill and several other members. After a time one of them said:

"Merrill, what time do you get to Chillicothe?"

"This attracted the attention of an old man who had been apparently awaiting some identification of Mr. Merrill, and as soon as he heard the name he rushed up to his seat and extending his hand said:

"You are Alva Merrill and you saved my life. I was most dead with Lumbago and in an advertisement I saw your picture and your recommendation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I knew your father, and I knew his son would not lie, and therefore I decided to try the Pills."

"I am satisfied that Dodd's Kidney Pills and nothing else have saved my life and I have been waiting this opportunity to thank you personally, for had I not seen your recommendation I might never have been led to use this remedy, but, thanks to God, through your honest name and the honest medicine which you so heartily recommended I am still alive."

"I have been watching you since you got on the train at Springfield and thought I recognized your face as the one I had seen in the advertisement, and as soon as this gentleman called you by name, I knew you were the man I had to thank."

The Droskies of St. Petersburg.

There were 37,000 droskies registered at police headquarters in St. Petersburg last summer, or one to about every thirty-three inhabitants. During the winter season, when the wheeled vehicles are changed for sledges of similar patterns, large numbers of people come in from the country with horses to earn a little extra money.

The cheapest of all things is kindness, its exercise requiring the least possible trouble and self-sacrifice.—Smiles.

Stop the Blight

It is a sad thing to see fine fruit trees spoiled by the blight. You can always tell them from the rest. They never do well afterwards but stay small and sickly.

It is worse to see a blight strike children. Good health is the natural right of children. But some of them don't get their rights. While the rest grow big and strong one stays small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion can stop that blight. There is no reason why such a child should stay small. Scott's Emulsion is a medicine with lots of strength in it—the kind of strength that makes things grow.

Scott's Emulsion makes children grow, makes them eat, makes them sleep, makes them play. Give the weak child a chance. Scott's Emulsion will make it catch up with the rest.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.

A scallop party was given at the home of Miss Lizzie Rossman last Friday evening. Peanuts were served but they were a fraud. All to be found was conundrums and nothing.

On Saturday night some seven bags of beans were stolen from David Convis. After diligent search the bags were found near the sink holes three miles south of town and it is thought that the guilty parties will be apprehended soon.

Arthur L. Scott, of Dayton township, who has been buying produce here of late, has purchased the F. C. Vorhes farm, just west of town. Mr. and Mrs. Vorhes will probably spend the winter here and then go to make their home with a son in Oakland County.

Cars are now more plentiful and produce is moving some. Our elevator men inform us that at several towns on other railroads dealers are "tied up" completely for want of cars, and they fully appreciate the efforts of Supt. Sanford to keep things moving up here.

All the small pox patients are reported as convalescing and no new cases are reported. At a meeting of the board of health for the township it was decided to employ Dr. Geo. Bates to devote his entire time to the stamping out of the disease. Their action was certainly commendable and we hope will be speedily successful.

This is a good time to talk up milk routes for the creamery for next season. If you want to know how it pays ask those who patronized it this year. There should be at least two more routes started, one from the south, one from the northeast and we see no reason why the people from the west should not have a route as well. Talk it!

A thousand things to be done are far better than most things do one. We refer to Rocky Mountain Tea made by Madison Medicine Co. 35c. Ask your druggist.

Personal.
Will the lady who fell in a swoon last Thursday, in front of the postoffice, call at our store? She suffers from biliousness. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will surely cure her. Sold at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Fair and Beautiful Faces.
Impure blood is sure to cause pimples and roughness of the skin. Dr. Warner's Compound of Seven Cures, the great blood purifier, makes a rough skin smooth and fair.

The Lexington News says—Elder Barr, a Latter Day Saint, is holding meetings and making converts at various points in the county. Many seriously believe that this church will yet make trouble in the United States. It already dominates three of the states of the Union, and it is a notorious fact that polygamy is practiced in those states in spite of law or public opinion.

DYSPEPTICIDE

The greatest aid to DIGESTION.

HE COWED THE LION.

THE DARKY BELTED ALL THE FIGHT OUT OF MONARCH.

Laughable Manner in Which the Big and Ugly Circus Animal was Returned to the Showman After a Railroad Smash Up.

"It's queer how animals will act in a railroad wreck," said the boss canvasman. "Now there was 't' Saberee wreck. Six cars was in 't' ditch an' half o' 't' show's dens was under 'em. There was one cage o' monkeys mashed flat that we knowed of, an' a lot o' 't' other animals had took 't' woods, little animals, zebras an' wolves an' deer an' such like. Nothin' 't' do any harm exceptin' 't' big lion, Monarch. His den was bottom up in a little puddle o' ditch water, with a hole stove in it big enough 't' let out a cow, an' Monarch himself was gone with the little animal."

"Well, it was all off with makin' 't' stand that day, so we put up 't' runs, got 't' cookhouse outfit down on 't' ground, had breakfast an' started in 't' dig 't' stuff out o' 't' ditch. 'T' railroad company's wreckin' crew come along 't' help us, an' we'd got purty well under way when a tall, black buck darky come out o' 't' woods an' stood round rubberin'."

"Nobody paid any attention 't' him fer awhile, but by'n'by Mack, 't' chandler man, spoke 't' him, kind o' kidded him about bein' han'some, er some such guff. It was Missouri, an' he was a real black buck. Didn't have anything 't' say back—didn't say anything at all, in fact, fer awhile. Jest shuffled round in his cowhide boots from one foot 't' 't' other an' grinned bushfullike. By'n'by when he saw we didn't roast him hard he kind o' took courage."

"'Did any o' you gemmen lose a hard-rafte?' he says."

"'Grafte?' Mack says. 'No; we never owned no such thing with this trick. Why?'"

"'Well, boss, Ah done foun' somethin' up in mah 'tato patch this mornin', an' Ah 'lowed as maybe hit 'longed 't' you all.'"

"'Mack got interested. 'Wot does it look like?'"

"'Lardy, boss, hit's mos' monstrous. Nevah did see no such ole thing befoh, sah. Big cat raisin' with raller eyes, an' hit done come a-smalin' an' a-spittin' at me soon as Ah got out o' 't' baid.'"

"'Where is it?' says Mack."

"'Oh, Ah cawt hit all righty. Done put a rope run' 't' neck an' tied hit 't' mah cabin.'"

"'Go an' git it an' fetch it down here,' says Mack. Then 't' wreckin' crew got a tackle run' another den, an' we forgot all about 't' darky.'"

"'Maybe it was 20 minutes, an' maybe it was half an hour when we heard a noise over on 't' road amongst 't' trees—a noise kinder like a nigger drivin' a mule or like somethin' bein' driven. It come nearer an' louder an' louder an' nearer. Everybody stopped work an' listened, an' 't' ole man himself come out o' his car with his napkin hangin' round 't' neck.'"

"'What is that?' he plies up in his snappy way. 'Who is that out there? Go an' see what that racket is, some o' you boys. Hurry up, now.'"

"'Nobody paid any attention 't' him, an' 't' noise got nearer an' nearer. In a couple o' minutes a cloud o' dust sailed out from behind 't' trees. When it got within a hundred yards o' 't' track, it cleared up a bit, an' there was that big, black nigger with a rope in one mit an' a piece o' fence rail in 't' other. On 't' other end o' 't' rope was Monarch.'"

"'Of all 't' mean, sneakin', under-handed cat animals that ever traveled with a circus Monarch was 't' worst an' out o' his car with his napkin hangin' round 't' neck.'"

Brain-Food Nonsense. Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutrition is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at Fritz's Drug Store, Cass City; or Francis' Drug Store, Kingston. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

Dozen in England.

Don't imagine that a dozen always means 12 things. In the Staffordshire potteries and in the earthenware trade a dozen to this day represents that number of any special article which can be offered at any fixed price.

For instance, the pitchers, which are called jugs in the trade, are sold as 2, 3, 4, 6, 9, 12, 18, 24, 30 and 36 pieces to each dozen, the price for a dozen being constant.

The ordinary pitcher holding a quart represents 12 to the dozen, while a pint pitcher is 24 to the dozen and is so called when dealing with that size.

Few of the articles of the trade are sold in dozens of 12, plates being almost the only ones and some of them being sold 60, 70 and even 80 to the dozen.

Besides these curiosities in figures the potters have peculiar names, such as cocksput, twifiers, etc., that make up a trade language of itself.

The baker's dozen of 13 is a recognized figure in their trade. A publisher's dozen is usually 13 copies.

Among fishermen in Cornwall a long dozen consists of 26—London Anglers.

Work of the Earthworm.

When we behold a wide, turf covered expanse, we should remember that its smoothness, on which so much of its beauty depends, is mainly due to all the inequalities having been slowly leveled by worms. It is a marvelous reflection that the whole of the superficial mold over any such expanse has passed and will pass again every few years through the bodies of worms. The plow is one of the most ancient and most valuable of man's inventions, but long before he existed the land was, in fact, regularly plowed by earthworms.

It may be doubted whether there are many other animals which have played so important a part in the history of the world as have these lowly organized creatures. Some other animals, however, still more lowly organized—namely, corals—have done far more conspicuous work in having constructed innumerable reefs and islands in the great oceans, but these are almost confined to the tropical zones.

Why the Mole is Blind.

The creatures which dwell in the darkness of the depths naturally lost their powers of vision after awhile. It is the same way with the mole, which is doubtless descended from progenitors which could see. Blindness in the mole is the result of a degeneration of the optic nerve, the consequence of which is that images formed in the eye itself are not transmitted to the animal's consciousness. Occasionally a mole can see a little out of one eye which has retained its communication with the brain.

It is not that the mole is born blind, but that it inherits a tendency to atrophy of the visual organs just as people derive from their parents an inclination to consumption or other diseases. Some day in the future there may be no such thing as a mole that is not entirely and hopelessly blind.

Heads Much Alike.

Most expert craniologists insist that it is extremely difficult to determine sex from the skull, but admit there are a few distinctions which taken together indicate sex. Perhaps the most marked distinction is the prominence of the bony projection over the nose. The skull in man is thicker and stronger, and the mastoid processes beneath the ear are larger. Broca is authority for the opinion that if the skull rests on the mastoid processes it is almost certainly a man's. In woman the top of the head appears flatter, while in man the curve from forehead backward is more smooth and even. Greek sculptors always recognize this.—Health Culture.

A Kick From Mexico.

Tourists come here and shout to waiters, hotel clerks, shopkeepers, etc., believing that if you only yell forth your English it instantly becomes comprehensible. And a common error in breeding and one not confined to tourist foreigners is to make unpleasant remarks about men, women and things in a tone of voice which conveys at once to the natives that something disagreeable is being said. So we acquire not without reason the reputation of being my gringos, or very rude, and too often we are.—Mexican Herald.

Seeing Around Corners.

There are many insects which have a very much larger field of vision than we have. This is due to the greater concavity of their eyes, enabling them to see around the corner, so to speak, behind and at the sides. This development in man would have its objectionable points, but also its good ones, not the least of which might be the detection of pickpockets.—Chambers' Journal.

Lets Him Out.

Mrs. Nagger—Oh, James, how awkward! Mr. Smith has come, and now he shall be 13 at table.

Mr. Nagger—What then?

Mrs. Nagger (with a shriek)—Why, one of us will die before the year is out!

Mr. Nagger (brutally)—Never mind. I'm tough.—Pick-Me-Up.

Just in Time.

An Irish gentleman getting upon a street car found one place vacant, which he proceeded to occupy.

"Sure," said he, with a twinkle in his eye, "I came just in the nick of time."

"How is that?"

"Arrah! If I was to come now, I shouldn't find a seat in the car!"—Exchange.

You can generally tell when a man is talking to a woman over the telephone by the tone of voice he assumes.—Nashville Banner.

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS

THE AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS is commended by Statesmen, Professional men and thousands of others prominent in the world's activities, for its fine discrimination in sifting the actual news from conflicting report and the presentation of current events in their just proportion. They comment on its freedom from daily-paper sensationalism. All men and women who want to know what the world is doing find it an intellectual necessity, to judge from the letters received from hundreds. Its editorials are comprehensive, and labor saving to the busy man or woman. Its timely contributions on important topics are by the best-informed writers. Its reviews of other magazines give the best of their best work. It is profusely illustrated. These letters will enable all thoughtful men and women to judge of its value to them:

PRESIDENT
"I know that through its columns views have been presented to me that I could not otherwise have had access to; because all earnest and thoughtful men, no matter how widely their ideas diverge, are given free utterance in its columns."—Theodore Roosevelt.

EX-PRESIDENT
"I consider it a very valuable addition to my library."
—Grover Cleveland.

"It is a publication of very great value. I have sometimes found there very important matter indeed which I should not otherwise have discovered."—George F. Hoar, U. S. Senator, Massachusetts.

"I am a constant reader of the 'Review of Reviews,' and appreciate it very highly indeed. I think me that I could not otherwise have had access to; because all earnest and thoughtful men, no matter how widely their ideas diverge, are given free utterance in its columns."—James K. Jones, U. S. Senator, Arkansas.

"It is one of the best and most satisfactory publications of the day."—Charles W. Fairbanks, U. S. Senator, Indiana.

"I do not have a great deal of time to read magazines, but I take pleasure in saying that the 'Review of Reviews' is among the number which finds a place on my table each month."—James K. Jones, U. S. Senator, Arkansas.

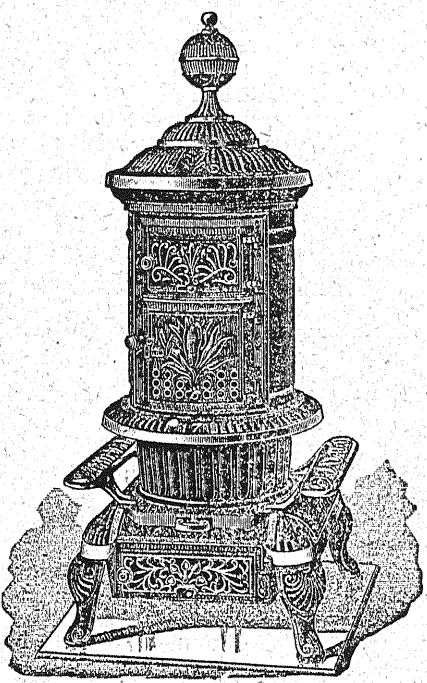

Send for particulars as to how it can be had with an invaluable set of books for 50 cents a month.

PROMPT DELIVERY H. L. HUNT

H. T. ELLIOTT

FUNERAL DIRECTOR

Successor to A. A. McKenzie.

Prompt and careful attention given to all calls day or night.

Mr. McKenzie remains with me and will go when requested. Lady assistant when desired and satisfaction guaranteed.

Novesta Corners.

Will Wilcox is working for A. Mill's. Fred Walker has moved to Wilmot. Ben Gage, of Deford, was in town on Tuesday.

Mrs. E. Bearup is recovering from an attack of erysipelas. M. D. Mills made a business call to Cass City on Monday.

Mrs. Nelson Mills made a trip to Marlette on Tuesday. Hiram Mills is constructing a mill to grind grain in this winter.

Sales throughout this vicinity are quite numerous at present. Dewitt and Clarence Lowe have gone to Northern Michigan.

Jas. Rule has purchased a corn thresher and he is doing a howling business. Everyone should see to it that they are vaccinated, as smallpox is in close proximity.

Elmer Lewis has been renovating the interior of Mr. Mills store and has made a big improvement. Mr. Warner, north of town, had a severe attack of heart trouble on Sunday. He is better at this writing.

Hugh Wentworth has a smiling face these days. Cause of it is that he is the father of a bouncing baby boy. Samuel Gowan has purchased the dwelling and lot upon which Dr. Foote is residing, of M. D. Mill's. The amount paid is supposed to be in the neighborhood of $400.

Chas. Cook is suffering from an injury of his left foot which might have been more serious than happened. He fell from the roof of a new barn owned by Simon Pratt and which he was helping to shingle at the time.

Miss Alma Palmateer died Sunday evening after suffering intensely from meningitis for about four weeks. She was a young lady very highly thought of and her demise is felt by all, and sympathy is expressed both publicly and privately for sorrowing parents.

W. J. Shively, Batesville, O., speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I had a very severe cough and cold and feared I would get pneumonia, but after taking the second dose of this medicine I felt better, three bottles of it cured my cold and the pains in my chest disappeared entirely. I am most respectfully yours for health, RALPH S. MEYERS, 64-Thirty-seventh St., Wheeling, W. Va. For sale at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Not a Dissenting Vote. A perfect laxative! That is the unanimous verdict of the people who use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. 50c and $1.00 sizes. Sold at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Sanilac Centre is all stirred up over railroad matters. They are offered a stub of the Pere Marquette if they will raise a bonus of $8,000 but it seems hard work to secure the amount. The people appear to favor the Lovejoy road and stand ready to assist it in every way.

To the Public. Allow me to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I had a very severe cough and cold and feared I would get pneumonia, but after taking the second dose of this medicine I felt better, three bottles of it cured my cold and the pains in my chest disappeared entirely. I am most respectfully yours for health, RALPH S. MEYERS, 64-Thirty-seventh St., Wheeling, W. Va. For sale at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Elkton.

Mrs. W. L. Doyle returned last week from an extended visit in Marlette. Miss Kate Rhote, of Bad Axe, made her home a pleasant visit last week.

The Elkton Creamery Co. closed business Saturday, Nov. 2, after a very successful season. Wm. Coverley purchased from J. W. Snell, lots 10 and 12, block L. Snell's addition to Elkton.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" was played in the Opera House by White's Company last Wednesday evening. Lou Dondineau, Geo. Kerr and others intend hunting deer in the northern part of the state.

Arochie Walsh, of this place, has been appointed administrator of the estate of Robt. Lanthers, deceased. A new pool and billiard room has been opened in the rooms over Kerr's meat market, by Chas. Eddy.

Geo. Farrar, of Port Austin, is the new proprietor of the Hotel Heasty at Pigeon. Geo. is well known here. Frank Bliss, of Caseville, and Miss Anna Knauss, living north of here, were married at Chandler last week.

Owendale is the terminus of the C. & L. H. R. R. with bright prospects of Elkton being the terminus next year. Mrs. Henry Kellerman returned home last week from visiting in Buffalo, N. Y., where she also saw the Pan American.

The local and long distance telephone was transferred from Jno. Grill building to E. P. Schiele's building now occupied by M. Braun. The Citizen's Lecture Course that was to give concerts and lectures this winter all fell through, so no entertainments will be held this season.

James Sillers and family, of Bad Axe, who are relatives of Robt. and Alex. McNabb, of this place, left last week for Battle Creek, where they will reside. Warren Salisbury, of Traverse City, who, for the past month has been visiting his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Salisbury, returned to his position in the above town.

When you feel that life is hardly worth the candle take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will cleanse your stomach, tone up your liver and regulate your bowels making you feel like a new man. For sale at Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Geo. A. Points, Upper Sandusky, O., writes: "I have been using Foley's Honey and Tar for hoarseness and find it the best remedy I ever tried. It stopped the cough immediately and relieved all soreness. Take none but Foley's. T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Luck in Thirteen. By sending 13 miles Wm. Spirey, of Walton Furnace, Vt., got a box of Buckner's Horse Sores on his leg. Nothing else could. Positively cures Bruises, Felons, Ulcers, Eruptions, Boils, Burns, Corns and Piles. Only 25c. Guaranteed by T. H. Fritz druggist, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

School Report. Of Dist. No. 4, Kingston for month ending Nov. 1st, 1901. No. days taught, 20. No. pupils enrolled, 37. Average daily attendance, 30. Names of pupils not absent during month—Lobbie Wood, Jennie Leek, Ida Gooden, Sibyl Wells, Ira Gooden, Roy Ashcroft, Eva Cooper, Cora Friends. BELLE SHELL, Teacher.

The Children's Friend. You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For coughs, croup, bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. H. George, Winchester, Ky., writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Chewing the rag is calculated to induce indigestion. Gum chewing is bad enough, but when it is done in rag time it is horrible. We, the jury find that the deceased came to his death from heart failure, caused by not taking Rocky Mountain Tea made by Madison Medicine Co. 35c. Ask your druggist. Brings attractiveness to listless, unlovable girls, making them handsome, marriageable women. That's what Rocky Mountain Tea will do. Ask your druggist.

Up Late Last Night? Then you don't feel just the best today. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is very effective for Sick Headache, Biliousness or disordered stomach. Sold at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Reliable and Gentle. "A pill's a pill," says the saw. But there are pills and pills. You want a pill which is certain, thorough and gentle. Mustard. DeWitt's Little Early Risers fill the bill. Purely vegetable. Do not force but assist the bowels to act. Strengthen and invigorate. Small and easy to take. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

To Cure a Cough. Stop coughing, as it irritates the lungs, and gives them no chance to heal. Foley's Honey and Tar cures without causing a strain in throwing off the phlegm like common cough expectorants. T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Startling, but True. "If every one knew what a grand medicine Dr. King's New Life Pills is," writes D. H. Turner, Dempseytown, Pa., "you'd sell all you have in a day. Two weeks' use has made a new man of me." Infalible for constipation, stomach and liver trouble. DeWitt's Little Early Risers fill the bill. Purely vegetable. Do not force but assist the bowels to act. Strengthen and invigorate. Small and easy to take. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Sanilac Centre does not lay claim to any particular boom during the past year, yet the building operations make a record that is scarcely eclipsed by any of our neighbors. During the year there have been completed or are now in process of construction four brick stores, a brick opera house, three brick houses, six frame houses and a large brick barn. There are still some more buildings likely to be built if weather remains favorable.—Republican.

A Startling Surprise. Very few could believe in looking at A. T. Hoadley, a healthy, robust blacksmith, of Tilden, Ind., that for ten years he suffered such tortures from Rheumatism as few could endure and live. But a wonderful change followed his taking Electric Bitters. "Two bottles wholly cured me," he writes, "and I have not felt a twinge in over a year. They regulate the Kidneys, purify the blood and cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervousness, improve digestion and give perfect health. Try them. Only 50c at T. H. Fritz's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

"Last winter an infant child of mine had croup in a violent form," says Elder John W. Roge, Christian Evangelist, of Filley, Mo. "I gave her a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and in a short time all danger was past and the child recovered." This remedy not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the first symptoms appear, will prevent the attack. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale at A. Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

For Hoarseness. Benj. Ingerson, of Hutton, Ind., says he had not spoken above a whisper for months, and one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar restored his voice. Be sure you get Foley's. T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

The Stock Markets. Michigan Central Stock Yards, Detroit, Nov. 12. The demand for live cattle is fairly active this week; receipts have been moderate of late. The following prices are being paid at the Detroit Live Stock Market: Prime steers and heifers, $4.50 @ 4.75; heavy butcher's cattle, $3.90 @ 4.10; common, 2.90 @ 3.50; canner's cows, 1.90 @ 2.50; stockers and feeders, quiet at 2.50 @ 4.00. Milch cows, steady at 2.50 @ 5.00; calves active at 5.00 @ 7.00. Sheep and lambs, active; Prime lambs 4.00 @ 4.30 mixed 2.75 @ 3.75; culls 1.50 @ 2.25. Hogs are the leading feature in the market receipts lighter. Trade is active at the following prices: Prime mediums, 5.40 @ 5.45; Yorkers, 5.40 @ 5.50; pigs, 5.30 @ 5.40; roughs, 5.00 @ 5.25; stags, 1/2 off; cripples, 3/4 per cwt. off.

Asleep Amid Flames.

Breaking into a blazing house, some firemen lately dragged the sleeping inmates from death. Fancied security, and death near. It's that way when you neglect coughs and colds. Don't do it. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption gives perfect protection against all throat, chest and lung troubles. Keep it near, and avoid suffering, death and doctor's bills. A teaspoonful stops a late cough, persistent use the most stubborn. Harmless and nice tasting, it's guaranteed to satisfy by T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

The Michigan crop report for November, issued by Secretary of State Warner, says that the condition of wheat, as compared with an average, is 84 for the state. The acreage sown is less than in former years. The estimated average yield of corn is 37 bushels shelled per acre for the state. The crop has ripened well, and the quality is good. This year's potato crop is not up to the average. Considerable hog cholera and distemper among horses is reported. The average condition of horses and sheep is 96, and of cattle and swine, 97.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician Geo. W. Scrogge, of Hilt County, Ga. Being a physician I have prescribed it, and it not only cures the best results. If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer no pain, and you get no starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. For sale at A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Jumped on a Ten Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and struck one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale at A. Bond's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

The Lapeer Clarion of last week says;

E. B. Vanmarter, a resident of this county, has made up his mind to spend his riper years in Tuscola county, where his son, Milo, is located, and with Mrs. Vanmarter and children, Robert and Mary, left for Kingston yesterday. Mr. Vanmarter went to work and returned with Battery A, 1st Michigan Artillery, serving four years and four months in the ranks of volunteers that the record shows were unsurpassed for bravery and effective army work.

Modern Surgery Surpassed.

"While suffering from a bad case of piles I consulted a physician who advised me to try a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve," says G. F. Carter, Atlanta, Ga. "I procured a box and was entirely cured. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a splendid cure for piles, giving relief instantly, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers." Surgery is unnecessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure any case. Cuts, burns, bruises and all other wounds are also quickly cured by it. Beware of counterfeits. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

From an Old Soldier.

I hereby certify that I have used Dr. C. D. Warner's Compound of Seven Cures and will say that his remedy has no equal in building up the system and giving renewed life and vigor to people advanced in years. JOHN COUGHEN, DETROIT, MICH., Feb. 5, 1900.
