A MERRY WEDDING.

Miss Ora M. Wickware and Dr. R. L. King Join Destinies.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY PRESENT

To Witness the Happy Event Yesterday.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Wickware, on Pine Street, was the scene of a pretty wedding yesterday at 1:30, when their only daughter, Ora M., was united in marriage to R. L. King, M. D., now of Caro. The day was very dark and cloudy and rain fell in copious showers, but this did not prevent the large number of guests from being present in good time, and as the dark effect was used, the outer gloom was not discernible. Rev. A. Torbet, of the Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony. The wedding march was played by Miss Laura Wickware, and as the bride entered the parlor with her father, Miss Mamie P. Whalen sang sweetly, "O Promise Me." Four little flower girls strewed flowers in the bride's pathway, the girls being Madeline Sealey, Retta Hooper (Caro), Marie Brooker and Helene Jones. The maids of honor to the bride were the Misses Winnifred McClinton (Alma) Gertrude Schooley (Saginaw) and Florence Clarke, of this place. The groom was supported by Fred Bunting and Geo. Flavelle, of Toronto, Ont., and Dr. Conroy, of Battle Creek. Little Katharine Torbet acted as ring bearer. The rooms were tastily decorated with ferns and smilax, pink roses and pink and white carnations. The bride was gowned in white peau de soie silk trimmed with pearl lace and carried white tea roses. Miss McClinton wore pink mouseline de soie trimmed with coral applique, also carrying white tea roses. The Misses Schooley and Clarke wore white with blue sashes, one carrying white and the other dark red tea roses. After the conclusion of the ceremony and the extending of congratulations all sat down to a dainty wedding lunch. Mr. and Mrs. King took the south-bound train for a short tour, after which they will be at home in Caro, where the Dr. has a lucrative practice. The groom presented his attendants with a scarf pin each, containing a pearl and a crescent of opals, and the bride gave each of her attendants a band ring.

There was an abundance of costly and useful presents. Among the guests from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Quinn, Wm. Quinn, Frank Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wisson, Mr. and Mrs. L. Husted, Mrs. Geo. Hooper, of Caro; Mrs. Rich. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. R. Morris, H. R. Morris, Vassar; Mrs. Thos. Foster, Mrs. A. J. Knapp, Bad Axe; Miss Gwendoline Collins, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. S. Y. Kenyon, Ellington; Mr. and Mrs. F. Elliott, Kalamazoo; Chas. H. Sohenek, Sebawaing; Mrs. F. C. Ballard, Sanilac Centre; Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wickware and two daughters, of Pontiac; Mrs. W. D. Schooley and daughter, Verna, of Saginaw; Miss Grace Tennant, New York.

Musical Convention.

A fine opportunity for singers, who wish to cultivate their voices. Professor Edward T. Remick, of Detroit, has been engaged by the choir of Caro, to conduct a Musical Convention in Caro, from July 8th, to 22nd. He is to give two lessons a day, and the convention is to close with a grand concert. No Musical Director in Detroit is superior to him. We pay him one hundred dollars for the two weeks. We ask each member to pledge one dollar only, and this amount is sure to be reduced by surplus pledges and proceeds of concert. We invite the singers of Tuscola county to come and enjoy this splendid opportunity with us. There are already 97 pledged members.

Professor Remick, each forenoon of the convention, will give Private Voice Culture Lessons to those, who may desire them, at one half his city rates.

Rev. Geo. W. Barlow, Caro, will gladly answer any question you may wish to ask.

FLORAL CONTEST.

Miss Florence Clarke entertained a company of her friends on Monday evening at her home, corner of Pine and Leach Streets. A handkerchief shower was a feature of the evening and a floral contest formed a pleasant part of the entertainment. Various objects were distributed about the rooms and cards furnished the guests containing twenty numbers, opposite which they were to fill in the names of the flowers represented. Mrs. J. C. Sealey was the first to fill in all the names.

Cass City The Winners.

Quite an interesting ball game was played at the Driving Park here on Friday between our own nine and Caro. Kern and Knapp made up the battery for the home team, and it appeared from the start that Cass City was an easy winner. A drizzling rain began shortly after play started and continued almost through the five innings which were played. During the last two innings the boys appeared to get a trifle rattled and there were several errors of exhibition ball, during which Caro succeeded in pulling things her way somewhat. The score stood twelve to nine in favor of Cass City at six o'clock, five innings having been played. Had there been time to finish the nine innings there might have been some very interesting playing.

OF NATIONAL FAME.

Speakers for This Year's C. E. Convention at Ludington.

The program for the annual convention of Christian Endeavor societies of Michigan at Ludington, July, 22-25, inclusive, is now being given its finishing touches, according to advices from the state secretary's office. The list of speakers, it is said, has never been equalled at a similar convention in the state. Rev. John P. D. John, ex-president of DePaw university and one of the best known men on the lecture platform to-day; Shailer Matthews of Chicago university; Rev. E. B. Allen, of Toledo, Ohio; Rev. C. B. Newman, of Christ Church, Detroit; Oliver H. Stewart, of Chicago, and others will deliver addresses. The last named man, who is known throughout the United States for his work in the good citizenship movement in Chicago, will talk on that subject. Because of Ludington's fame as a summer resort, there is indication of an unusually large attendance.

Civil Service Examination.

The U. S. Civil Service Commission will hold examinations during September and Oct., in several places in each state to secure young men and women for the Government service. There are now 126,423 positions in the classified civil service, being an increase of 46,786 in six years. There were 7,972 persons appointed between July 1, 1901, and April 15, 1902, being at the rate of 20,070 for the year. There will probably be 11,000 appointments next year. Salaries at appointment vary from $600 to $1,200 a year with liberal promotions afterward. All appointments are for life and for most positions only a common school education is required. Politics and religion are not considered. Those desiring to take examinations of this kind can get full information free by writing to the Columbian Correspondence College, Washington, D. C., and asking for its Civil Service Catalogue for 1902.

AN ALARM OF FIRE.

About nine o'clock on Saturday morning, a fire alarm was sounded and the usual rush for the fire hook took place. It appears that the blaze had started in some paper over the oven at Meredith's Bakery and had ignited the wood. Prompt action, however, extinguished the flames without the necessity of connecting the hose. It was certainly most fortunate that the fire did not gain more headway as it was in the center of one of the principal business blocks and a lively breeze was blowing at the time. The damage was very slight.

A DOUBLE WEDDING.

A double wedding occurred last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McBurney, northwest of town. Their daughter, Helen, was united in marriage to Alfred Goodall, and their daughter, Mary, to Robert H. Goodall. The grooms are brothers and have been in this vicinity for some time. Robert will take up his residence upon his own farm in Novesta township, and Alfred is the tenant on A. G. Berney's farm, southwest of town. Rev. A. Torbet performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate friends. The occasion was a very pleasant one indeed, and the many friends of the young people join in wishing them abundant happiness.

A Republican caucus for Brookfield township was held at Owendale on Tuesday last week, and the following delegates elected to attend the county convention: J. C. Gettel, Geo. McElmurray, Fred Hutcheson and C. F. Hey. Wm. McElmurray was elected chairman of the township committee.

BIG TIME AT CARO.

Citizens of the Capital Town Propose to Give the Grandest Celebration in its History.

The people of Caro have undertaken to outdo all events of other years in the quantity and quality of their features for the county celebration of the Fourth of July. For weeks the committees have been hard at work and every detail of the program has been completed regardless of labor or expense. Visitors will be entertained from sunrise to sunset with the best attractions that money can buy. The industrial and other parades will be worth going miles to see and the entertainment of the Watson family and Prof. Claire Brown, with the oration by Capt. Allen, the ball game and fireworks, will leave no time to drag on the hands of sight seers. Two bands have been secured and no one within traveling distance can afford to miss the event.

Mapping of Michigan.

The United States Geological Survey has resumed field work for the topographic mapping of a portion of Michigan. The special map on which work is now being done will be known as that of the Ann Arbor quadrangle, representing the district surrounding the city of that name. Like other topographic maps issued by the Geological Survey, not only the ordinary features will appear in detail, but also the relief or topography of the country, with elevations above sea level. Topographic features of special interest which will be represented on the Ann Arbor map are the terminal moraine passing through Ann Arbor and the old shore lines of Lake Erie. Naturally the professors and students at the University are interested in the work, and it will afford the students an excellent opportunity for field practice. The work is under the supervision of topographer E. C. Bebb.

Another Project.

Messrs. F. H. Farnham and Z. Dowling, from the engineering department of the Union Traction Co., of Indiana, have been looking over the line between Saginaw and Vassar, for the purpose of constructing an electric road between the two places via Bridgeport, Frankenmuth and Tuscola. The engineers are very favorably impressed with the route which it is expected will ultimately be extended to Port Huron. A meeting is to be held in Tuscola village next Tuesday evening, to take action toward securing the line, and a meeting was held at Frankenmuth the present week for the same purpose.—Saginaw daily of Saturday.

A BLIND WOMAN SEES AGAIN.

Mrs. C. D. Stevens, Crown Point, Ind., Restored to Sight After Years of Blindness, by the Oneal Dissolvent Method.

Dr. Oneal Straightens Eyes of Andrew Tillman of Milwaukee.

Mrs. D. C. Stevens, of Crown Point, Ind., can now see, after many years of blindness, and she is indebted to Dr. Oneal, Chicago's noted oculist, that she is again bright in seeing how he cured her. "I cannot say enough," she said. "No words are strong enough to express my feelings. Dr. Oneal rescued me from blindness and a life of misery, and may God bless and prosper him in his prayer."

Why do YOU hesitate after such evidence? Dr. Oneal has restored sight to thousands with the Oneal Dissolvent Method. He has cured CATARACTS, SORES, GRANULATED LIDS—ALL CAUSES OF BLINDNESS—ABSOLUTELY WITHOUT USING THE KNIFE, and in all his experience he has never injured the eye of a patient.

Another case of unusual interest to Milwaukee people is that of Andrew Tillman, who was restored to sight through the wonderful efficacy of the Oneal Dissolvent Method. He says: "I am a member of the Labor Exchange Advertiser of Chicago, and president of the Illinois Producers' Association, says: 'Dr. Oneal straightened the eyes of my nephew, Andrew Tillman of Milwaukee, in 2 minutes, without the use of knife, chloroform or bandage.'

Cross Eyes Straightened without the knife—a new method, successful in over 5,000 cases. Samuel Plummer, Marietta, O., was cured. Write him. Illustrated book, many testimonials and Dr. Oneal's advice free. If you have written, write again.

THE NEWS OF MICHIGAN.

James Now Disposed Of.

William M. Jones, tried in Detroit on the charge of murdering George H. Heywood, was convicted, sentenced and sent to Marquette prison for life on Saturday.

The case was one in which a family was wronged, a wife debauched and the husband and father murdered. The trial was long and stubbornly fought by the defence, yet the jury on the first ballot stood for conviction of murder in the first degree.

On the night of the murder he was returning from a K. O. T. M. dance, which was given in a hall near the corner of Baker and Eighteenth streets.

He had accompanied a party of friends in the direction of the late found dead within sight of the family home, 34 Amherst street, on the morning of April 10, of this year. The post-mortem examination showed that Heywood had been shot in the back of the head, and battered in the forehead with a blunt instrument, believed to be a wedge.

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD.

The Paterson Riots.

Paterson, N. J., was in the hands of a mob Wednesday, and as a result of the riots a number of persons were shot and two at least will die.

The police did their work well, but they were so few in number that they could make little headway against the mob. They were armed with stones and bullets by the striking silk dyers' helpers or roughs acting for them.

Mayor Hinchcliffe took personal command of the police of the city Thursday. He was much displeased that the meeting of strikers Tuesday night was not broken up. It was at this meeting that speeches were made which it is believed, led to the disorders of yesterday.

The mayor went to police headquarters and had all the men of the reserves lined up in front of him. Then he said to them: "Men, if your duty is to be aggressive, you know what to do. Be aggressive from the start."

In addition to the regular police force of 104 men there were sworn in Thursday 23 constables, 25 deputies and 15 firemen, who are to do duty as policemen. All these men were immediately armed with revolvers and heavy night sticks.

Ten silk manufacturing firms opened for work Thursday morning. These firms have their plants in the Hope, Harmony and Todd mills. Each employ about 25 men. In each of these plants every employee has been armed with a revolver. The weapons were supplied by the men's employers with the approval of Mayor Hinchcliffe.

General Tie-Up Threatened. The long expected call for a special national convention of United Mine Workers of America was issued Wednesday by National President Mitchell at strike headquarters in Wilkesbarre.

It is to be held at Indianapolis at the earliest possible date. The date for the convention will be fixed by W. R. Wilson, national secretary at Indianapolis, who has charge of the machinery by which a convention is arranged.

The Paterson Strike.

A meeting of all the trades unions connected with the silk industry in Paterson, N. J., was held late Saturday. It was decided not to work again in the mills until the militia had been withdrawn from the city.

A strike was inaugurated, but the matter was left in the above shape. In accordance with this, the unions decided to send a committee to the mill owners to ask them to submit the difficulties which exist between the owners and the dyers' helpers to arbitration.

The city officials decided to post the militia at the mills Saturday night and keep them there until all trouble was past. Two hundred Winchester magazine rifles of the latest pattern arrived at police headquarters Saturday. The weapons were purchased by order of Mayor Hinchcliffe.

With the rifles came a large consignment of ball cartridges. There are now rifles enough stored at headquarters for the mayor at a moment's notice to put into the hands of his 104 policemen, his 40 members of the fire department and nearly if not all of the special deputies recently sworn in for riot duty by the sheriff of Passaic county.

The Sultan Needs Training. Col. Frank D. Baldwin, of the Twenty-seventh infantry, who is stationed on the island of Mindanao, has received the following reply to a letter to the sultan of Bacod, in which he stated that the Americans did not intend interfering with the religion, plurality or property of the Moros.

We ask you to retire to Malabang; we do not want you in the Lake Lanao district unless you will join our religion and adopt our customs. In case you do not desire all the dattos will hike war on you, because here there is but one religion, that of Stambuh. Col. Baldwin says that the sultans of Bacod and Masinao will not be taken prisoners before permanent peace in Mindanao is possible.

The organization of civil government witnessed by a large crowd of people. Gen. F. L. Grant turned the administration over to acting Gov. Wright. Sen. Lorenzo was appointed governor.

Mayor James L. Holden, of Zanesville, O., was forcibly ejected from the court of Police Judge Rogers Monday. The mayor asked that an affidavit against a woman charged with intoxication be withdrawn, and when the judge refused, he insisted that he had the right to withdraw it. The judge ordered Chief of Police Tracy to eject Mayor Holden from the courtroom.

The Mayor Went Wrong.

Albert A. Ames, mayor of Minneapolis, has been indicted by the grand jury on the charge of offering a bribe. The charge is that the mayor endeavored to have his secretary, Thomas R. Brown, appointed sheriff by the county commissioners, whom he became evident that Philip Magarden would be removed from the office by the governor for misfeasance.

In attempting to carry out this plan he is alleged to have offered to so arrange matters that the $20,000 annual income of the sheriff's office should be equally divided between Brown and the three county commissioners who were to vote for him, forming a majority of the board.

Ames has been mayor of Minneapolis four times, having been elected three as a Democrat and again in November, 1900, after having been out of office for some years, as a Republican. He is a veteran of the civil war, in which he served as surgeon, and is a G. A. R. man. He is known as the "wide open mayor." Ames was once the Democratic candidate for governor and came within 2,500 votes of being elected.

Reichlin Confessed.

Henry Reichlin, disbursing officer of the department of justice, has been arrested on the charge of misappropriating $7,000 of government funds. He confessed to the shorting. Reichlin is from Cincinnati. Information received by Attorney-General Knox some time ago led to a suspicion that something was wrong with Reichlin's books, and the arrest followed an examination of the books under the direction of Comptroller of the Currency Tracewell.

Marshall County, Kentucky, citizens fired a fusillade of bullets into a morning meeting. Hardy Lamb was shot in the leg. The mormons returned the fire and more bloodshed is feared.

CONDENSED NEWS.

The German bark H. F. Glade, which sailed from San Francisco for Europe last October, is long overdue, being out 243 days. San Francisco was waded $150,000 on her safe arrival.

Thursday morning fire broke out in the St. Clair hotel, Toledo, a small establishment next to the Empire theater. Robert Smith, a sailor from Oswego, was snuffed out in the room. Some 40 inmates, many of whom had to leap for life. The damage to the building was small.

Six suits of international interest were entered in the United States Circuit Court at Pittsburgh Wednesday at the request of the Austro-Hungarian consul in behalf of the heirs of six men killed by an explosion at the Eliza furnace of Jones & Laughlins last year, to recover damages of $120,000.

LITTLE MISS MILLIONS

A ROMANCE OF THE RIVIERA.

By ST. GEORGE RATHBORNE.

Perhaps it was a wild guess, and he did the beauty wrong in allowing it to creep into his brain, but somehow Mark Merrick feared her influence for evil more than that of the allies two-fold.

She had the rare knack of making men believe that, while to all others she had been the adventuress, to them she was only a weak woman with a heart that long had sought its mate.

At the same time Merrick thought it well to keep an eye upon the treasure trove. Somehow he was not free from care with respect to Count Leon.

Who could guarantee that the partitions between the several compartments were sound—Merrick had heard of such a thing as a panel game, and it seemed to be a piece of business about in accord with the methods adopted by these fortune seekers.

He secretly wished some such move might be made by the enemy. It would give him an opportunity to work his personality into the game, and at least prove that he was able to resist the intoxicating influence of such a dangerous woman's presence.

No such adventure befell them, however, on the trip from Monte Carlo to Nice.

Merrick was constrained to believe his fears had a little foundation as the wonderful dreams of a hashish eater.

For the two little sacks that represented the broken bank at Monte Carlo still reposed upon the seat of the railway carriage as the train slowly rolled into the seaport on the Riviera.

To transport the golden fruit of the argosy to the hotel was another piece of business that required delicate engineering, lest the enemy get the better of them.

They surveyed the plunder dubiously. How many men would have been delighted at the opportunity of backing such a load—but then Merrick was an odd lot, taken in all, and as we know had particular reasons for disliking great accumulations of riches just at present.

Strangely enough, the idea had not yet presented itself to him that the same end he had in view might be accomplished, and the obstacles brushed aside through an accumulation of wealth on his part that would counteract the malign influence of those detested diamond mines.

Several men appeared just outside, and to their tender mercies the precious sacks were entrusted, while our two friends walked just behind.

The four entered a vehicle and drove off. Among those at the station Merrick saw the Russian bear, but Count Leon had vanished, having a little bag of his own to look out for just then.

When the treasure was snugly deposited in the hotel safe, and a receipt for the same stowed away in Jones' pocket-book, Merrick endeavored to dismiss the whole matter from his mind, and occupy himself with affairs more in keeping with his own private fortunes.

Like all lovers, Merrick endured all the doubts and fears that go hand in hand with things of this sort, and in his case there was reason for an unusually large crop—still, lovers come in on endless numbers, and will continue to do so up to the very end of the chapter, for no man is willing to accept some predecessor's experience as a warning to his own feet, but must needs try his own conclusions.

How would it end? The scene in the cabin of the yacht came vividly before him again, and he could hardly believe that even such an egregious failure would discourage so persistent a suitor as Count Leon when there were millions at stake.

How could Constance be the more surely protected against this insidious and unscrupulous enemy? Two ways presented themselves to Merrick.

The first was to take the bull by the horns and on the least provocation give the African explorer his quietus; while the second would cause him to take the girl and her fortune under his name, in fact to marry her as soon as she would agree.

Long Merrick deliberated while he savagely chewed the end of his cold cigar—one of two evils must be accepted—it was either the risking of his life in a duel with a dead shot, or the thrusting aside of all his scruples.

"All right," he said to himself finally, with grim resolution, "one of us must go under. If I should marry her now he might make her a widow in a week. Evidently he left his luck in the Sahara, and I can meet him on equal terms. Klismet, as the Mohammedans say, it is fate. A little smoke, then, to propitiate the goddess of destiny. Perhaps the next time Captain Leon the Valiant and myself come face to face with weapons in our hands something not exactly down on the bills will happen. And, hence take it, I for one will welcome the change," and lighting his cheroot he sent rings of blue smoke circling up toward the decorated ceiling, where the said goddess with her balances seemed sitting in judgment.

At breakfast Jones made a proposition. It was to the effect that they go over to Mentone bag and baggage. Merrick eagerly welcomed the change.

Constance would be there, and no man could ask a greater blessing of Providence than to saunter about those terraces of Mentone, along the Candamine road winding up the steep hill to the fortress, under the guarding shadow of Monte Agel and Monte Bataille, past the famous palace of the Criminals or the Tete du Chien, and having in his company the girl he loved best in all the world.

So they went down about noon, after Jones had managed to bank the proceeds of his previous night's great victory, much to the relief of the hotel proprietor, who had been rather uneasy over the fact that such a fabulous amount of gold and notes was known to rest in his safe.

Merrick was uneasy, because among the vessels at anchor near by he had discovered the steam yacht of Sir Lionel, which he had very good cause to remember with displeasure. It was very natural for this unprincipled English cousin of Constance to come to Monte Carlo, where all of his class gravitated at some time during the winter; but, remembering what had occurred recently at Nice, Merrick had a sense of impending evil come over him.

The gloaming gradually gave place to the darkness of night—a night long to be remembered by this strange community of Monte Carlo, since it would mark an era in the history of the gaming world that had never yet been equaled.

Mark Merrick, looking over the murmuring sea, could faintly detect a light that twinkled from some jutting Italian headland, possibly marking some dangerous rocks.

This would give him a couple of hours of leisure, and secretly he longed for an opportunity to walk and talk with Constance.

Constance Dare looked unusually lovely as his ravished eyes fell upon her—it was as if some deep intuition had caused her to wear just the colors he had called his favorites in the days that were long past, when they two wandered over the flower-decked veldt, or chased the timid springbok in company.

The old life was appealing heavily to Mark, and deep down in his heart he had begun to question the expediency of allowing such a foolish scruple as his hatred for wealth in the woman he loved to stand between himself and happiness.

And when Mark had joined the others in the theater where enchanting gavotte followed the strains of mazurka and waltz, he had resolved to take a bold step if the opportunity arose, a step that would forever give him the right to defend Little Miss Millions against the machinations of those who longed to handle her fortune.

His scruples must be crushed—she needed his protection, lest she fall into the hands of the fowler or fortune-hunter.

The desire grew within his heart to walk with Constance. When he proposed it she readily assented.

Deep down in her heart Constance rejected, for her soul knew no other lover than Mark Merrick, to whom she owed her life on more occasions than one.

A great yearning had always been present in her heart ever since they parted under the skies of South Africa, torn asunder by a miserable misunderstanding.

She could never love any one else—it were folly to delude herself with even a thought to that end. So she went out, promising not to stay too long in the night air.

Jones was seated near the door, and looked a little bothered when he saw his comrade leave; but Mark in passing assured him he had not forgotten his solemn obligations, and would be back ready to fulfill the decree of destiny inside of an hour.

Mark's hour had come! Nothing but a downright catastrophe could have throttled the appeal that was filling his heart to bursting.

The magical influence of the wondrous scene affected the two who sauntered hither and thither in the semitropical garden, gazing out upon the sea, where the silvery stars were reflected upon each tiny wavelet that rolled toward the white strand.

They talked of the old days, and Constance was so eager to revive the memories of that happy past it was little wonder Mark found himself forgetting the barrier he had deemed so formidable.

He had much to say, for he meant to humble himself before her and plead his cause with all the fervor of his heart.

It was spoken at last, and the ardent lover, upon learning that his devotion was returned felt elevated to the seventh heaven of delight.

Constance loved this man with all the fervor of her being, and having almost lost him once, she had made up her mind not to allow any senseless prudery to stand in the way should it come to such a pass—believing as she did, it was those diamond mines that stood in the way. Had Mark failed to declare himself she had determined to let him know the South African holes in the ground must not separate two hearts that beat for each other.

GATHERED 1,500,000 STAMPS.

An enormous pile of canceled postage stamps, in which were a million and a half different pieces, attracted much attention at the auction sale of rare stamps held in New York last week.

The stamp collectors who bid against one another for rare specimens were much interested in the big pile of "c. U. S. canceled, recent issues." It was the first time that as many as 1,000,000 stamps have been assembled together for display in New York.

The big pile weighed 250 pounds and occupied fifteen cubic feet of space. Mr. Doane, who is one of the largest dealers in New York, said the stamps were accumulated by three sisters in a Connecticut town. After all three had died and the estate was settled up the stamps were found, most of them done up in neat packages of 1,000.

Notes From the Range Country

Angellina County, Texas.—The stock range here is good. Stock are getting in good condition, but are not fat yet. But little stock is going to market.—J. N. Thompson.

San Miguel County, New Mexico.—The outlook for any kind of a crop in this section this year is bad. We had no rain or snow during the winter from last November to date with the exception of a few local rains in May. But little—about one-fifth of a crop—wheat has been planted and seeded. Oats are being planted now and some corn in the hope of early rains. Alfalfa, where it has been irrigated, is doing well, otherwise not.

On the 19th and 20th of May we suffered a severe cold spell which killed many buds and harmed growing alfalfa. Altogether, it is an unsatisfactory year. To begin with, reports from the sheep lambing camps are disastrous, and the crop will not exceed 50 per cent of a fair crop. Shearing will commence the latter part of this month and continue during June.

Sheep have plenty of feed, as on account of the drouth clipping has been prevented, but it is not serious. Many reports have come to me from outside districts where lambs are knocked in the head the moment they are dropped to save the ewe, but I will not vouch for this. Grain and hay will be very scarce in this locality for the next year, as the prairies and meadows are suffering from drouth.—William Frank.

Taos County, New Mexico.—Grass is short this season on account of protracted drouth. Cattle came out of winter quarters in fair condition. The price of cattle is lower than for years.

Sheep are in fair condition. The crop of lambs this season will not average more than 50 per cent.—A. Joseph.

Chaves County, New Mexico.—So far we have had a fairly good spring, although grass is short and very little out water. Stock are doing well and there has been very little loss in this vicinity. There are quite a number of cattle contracted in this county for spring delivery—I should judge that there would be 20,000 head from Chaves county alone. Spring seeding is all through with. Corn is up and doing well where under irrigation.

The prospect for fruit is the best in several years, especially in regard to peaches, apricots and apples. Horses are looking well and command a good price, especially light saddles and harnesses. Sheep and goats are nearly all through the lambing season, and I believe are a fairly good crop. Shearing will commence right away. Very little rain has fallen so far and unless it comes soon there will be serious injury to cattle and stock generally.—H. W. Creswell, Jr.

Bannock County, Idaho.—Prospects are not as good as they have been in the past although better than last year. The proportion of stock going to market is about 25 per cent and their quality is fairly good.—Parley P. Jensen.

Latah County, Idaho.—There are practically no ranges in this vicinity or surrounding country. The few cat-tles that are being sent to market from here are raised on the farm. This is undoubtedly a good country for stock raising, though it has not been very extensively developed here yet. All kinds of grasses and clovers do exceedingly well here. More cattle are being shipped in than are going out. They are coming mostly from Kansas and Nebraska on account of failures there last summer. There has been a great demand for horses in this neighborhood during the past year for shipment to the South African market. They have been selling for from $35 to $50 per head. There are very few sheep in this immediate neighborhood, but a good many in the surrounding country. Wheat raising is the principal industry here now, though I think stock raising would undoubtedly be more profitable.—P. S. Darlington.

Custer County, Oklahoma.—There are no sheep ranges in this vicinity. The cattle ranges are mostly tracts of Indian lands, as a rule the best in the country, which are leased chiefly by large cattle owners who demand a premium above the lease before they will let them go. Otherwise it is hard to control more than one section of land in a tract. All lands that are tillable are being taken by homesteaders. The quality of cattle going to market is very good.—H. V. Crockett.

Pawnee County, Oklahoma.—The ranges or pastures here in the Osage reservation were leased last year for a term of three years, but very few of them are full of cattle. For some reason the cattle have not been put on them. I presume the lessees were unable to buy the cattle after leasing the grass land. The cattle that are here are in first-class condition and the cattlemen will soon begin to ship. Very few sheep are pastured here but they would do well in many of the big pastures. Much of the country is an ideal place for Angora goats. There is plenty of browse and fine water. I wonder that more of them are not kept. This reservation is a fine place for farmers with some means, as rents are not high and there is always sale at good prices for their dinners.

A man with enough to go on for a year can lease raw land and get it free of rent from three to five years. Generally the first crop pays for putting it in cultivation so that he will have the rest clear gain. This is a fine farming country, as we have plenty of rain to mature crops and mild winters, so that no expensive shelters are necessary for stock. Our cattle find plenty of picking in the timbered pastures all winter. In growing wheat the pasture that it affords in winter more than pays for the seed and planting so that the grain and straw are all profit. The rainfall for this month is 18 inches.—M. C. Murray.

Emery County, Utah.—Condition and prospects for ranges here are good, as we have had a good many storms of late. No horses, cattle or sheep are going to market at present. A good many horses have been bought here for the British army, but outside of that none have gone out from here. There is no disease among stock; all are healthy and in good trim.—H. C. Wickman.

Logan County, Colorado.—The grass on the range at present is good around here, but the range is overstocked in many places, and condition is getting worse every year. Nearly everybody seems to be trying to get what he can while the grass lasts, with "the devil take the hindmost" feeling for the future; and the "hindmost" from the present indications, will be the actual settler on the upland with his little bunch of stock.

Cattle came through the winter in a very poor condition generally. There was unusual loss among the home-stealers, owing, probably, to the poor quality of the grass which was injured by frost last fall, and to the Texas itch, which seems to have a strong hold. Every one is dipping. It has been a harvest for the manufacturers of commercial dips, but the present tendency seems to be towards the lime and sulphur dip. No cattle or other stock are going to market from here. There may be some from along the river (alfalfa fed), but I cannot tell. Sheep feeding is entirely confined to the river, or alfalfa region, and not so much there as for a couple of years back, I think.—Charles Green.

Finney County, Kansas.—The spring here opened with fine promise early in March, and cattle began to be put to grass April 1. Rains have been seasonable, and especially the present month. Range grass is in fine condition and has made a good growth. The drouth of last year had little bad effect on natural grasses. Cattle raising is the chief business on the ranches here, and they have never looked better than they do at present. Considerable wheat was sown, and the condition is perhaps 65 per cent of an average condition. The condition is much improved in the past thirty days, and now shooting, and a fair crop assured. The bottom lands are mostly set to alfalfa, and the crop is fine, with first crop now being harvested. We cut three crops of alfalfa. Alfalfa on the bottom lands is irrigated. Large acreages of sorghum for forage are being planted, and ground in fine condition for it. Quality of cattle in this section is good, having been graded over for the past five or six years with Herefords and Shortorns. Many fat cattle are shipped from the grass, and they will be ready for shipment early in June. Grazing interests prevail, stockmen are in good financial condition and people happy.—B. F. Stocks.

Increased Consumption of Coal. The coal trade since January 1 has generally exceeded that of the corresponding period of last year. Cincinnati gained 42.5 per cent. St. Louis shows an increase of 13 per cent. The Chesapeake and Ohio coal tonnage for nine months ending with March was 4,299,000 tons, compared with 3,918,172 tons last year. The coal and coke tonnage over the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburgh and Erie reached a total of 11,827,998 tons on April 26 of this year, compared with 10,930,812 tons last year. Connells-ville coke shipments this year averaged 10,747 cars per week, compared with 10,549 cars per week last year. Coal shipments to domestic ports on the lakes, mainly from lower lake ports were 930,096 tons this April, compared with 55,553 tons last April, while coastwise and foreign shipments for the first four months of the year amounted to 2,527,673 tons, of which 693,321 tons were hard coal, and 1,833,752 tons soft coal. The iron ore shipments of 1,774,622 tons bring the tonnage of these two chief articles in Lake trade to a total of 4,302,325 tons for the first third of the year. Coal receipts at Boston were 1,762,766 tons, compared with 1,559,313 tons last year. Coal and coke traffic over the Norfolk and Western Railway to the end of March increased 13 per cent over last year, and the Baltimore and Ohio's traffic for April increased 28.9 per cent above April, 1901.

Keep the Pig Growing. A stunted pig is of little value at any time. Why it is that an animal once stunted tends to develop slowly afterward we do not know. Perhaps the cells form habits as well as complete organisms. Certain it is that the animal that is kept growing from the time of birth is the one that makes the best growth and proves to be the most profitable in the end. Some pigs start into life with little instinct as feeders. They have to be directed to the tests at first to take nourishment and are likely to start off in the wrong direction for their dinners as not. This kind of a pig is not likely to make money for its owner. The pig with the right kind of feeding instinct finds the tests of the sow without trouble and starts in to grow. The time soon comes when he needs more than the sow can supply and this is the time when he needs to be looked after. Keep him growing from the first.

Poor seed corn has been the cause of many a farmer making a failure with his corn crop. Sometimes from that cause the yield is reduced one-half. That is a serious matter when from forty to eighty acres are put into that crop.

Unruly cows should be weeded out of the herd.

Religious Notes

Hope's Wooing. Hope wooed me with a datt'ring tale Long, long ago. He lured me with a song as sweet As ever mortal ears did greet. And laid Love captive at my feet— Long, long ago.

His song enlaved my heart and soul, Long, long ago. The melody with woe refrain "Thra'd" every nerve of head and brain. Imagination wove the chain— Long, long ago.

I listen'd as one 'neath a spell, Long, long ago. His eyes beam'd with Love's tenderness— I thought me—Hope my life shall bless. Long, long ago.

The song notes changed—then died away— Long, long ago. I thought that Hope and Love were wed— Until that night when tears were shed— And Hope within my heart lay dead— Long, long ago.

—Kate Thysen Marr. Quiet Resting Places. In the midst of tumult and strife there comes to us occasionally, times when the burden and stress of life seem suddenly and quietly lifted from our shoulders, and we feel ourselves free and untrammelled—what quiet, holy joy—the load lifted, the burden unmet. Strength renewed and the spirit refreshed. Where traveler thou, O soul! On rugged mountain or stormy seas, through dreary desert or in darkest night; all these thou knowest well, through each hast thou struggled, and murmured and wept. But think, in thy mountain journey, hast thou not come to many a sweet valley of rest? In thy voyage over stormy seas, has not thy barque oft been piloted into a safe haven of peace? In weary toiling through the wilderness, hast thou not many a time been led to rest while beside green pastures and still waters? And even on thy darkest night the dawn has at length risen in splendor.

Yes, all these thou hast known and proved—and still, thy faith oft fails thee, thy love grows cold, and hope dies within thee. Then listen to the promise, "Lo I am with you, always, even to the end of the world." Take fast hold of it—bind it round thy heart—faith in it will carry thee into the presence that is at all times a safe haven and a quiet resting place, whatever be the sorrow within or tumult around.

Bright Side of Heredity. The Christian (London, Eng.) thinks that too much attention is given to the dark side of heredity. There is a bright side also. We quote from a recent number as follows:

"What we dare not, for a moment, minimize the truth which both the Bible and modern research force upon us, that men transmit their weaknesses to their offspring, we must not forget the other side. Indeed, it is a part of the gospel to do so. Many writers on heredity see only the seamy side of life, hence they are confirmed pessimists. It is true that the iniquities of the fathers are visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate God; but it is also true that the promise of the new life in Christ Jesus is to us and to our children. No one can read the new testament without seeing what a large place is given to the bright side of heredity. We are afraid, however, that this has not seized the conscience of christendom as it should have done. But, above all things, our dominant note must be, a new heredity through the grace which is in Christ Jesus. Nothing less than this new birth will avail."

Works Among the Poor. Among the commissioners who took a leading part in the sessions of the Presbyterian assembly is one whose name has adorned and endeared manifold records of Christian enterprises, Rev. John Bancroft Devins, D. D. Dr. Devins is pastor of the Broome Tabernacle and editor of the New York Observer. He was born in New York and educated at the New York University and the Union Theological Seminary. During his college course he was reporter for a leading New York newspaper, and his work took him many times to the slums. Ever since he was ordained, in 1888, no clergyman in the metropolis has done more for the poor of New York than Dr. Devins. Thousands of the distressed of the great East Side have been relieved through his efforts. He organized an organization the first president of the Federation of East Side Workers, the parent of the city, state and national federations of churches and Christian workers, now so popular. He also started a free labor bureau, carried on afterward with great success in Cooper Union by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor.

Honesty First. Honesty comes first, and after that anything you can get. When you give up the honesty, the purity of heart, in exchange for anything else you suddenly find that you have been cheated out of your best self. The object of life is not to acquire, not that solely, unless it be to acquire character. Your temptation to gash your conscience is based on a promise which will never be kept, or if the worldly goods are delivered you will be robbed of something worth a great deal more. Stiffen your conscience until it will feel the force of temptation, and then you will be ready for life, for death and for any other world to which you may go when your term on earth expires.

The only thing to set men right and keep them right is the Sermon on the Mount.

Mount. It is the thought of others which consecrates the thought of self. A staff and scrip with a clean heart will do more for human happiness than whatever else you may desire, and until we get back to that fact and to a full appreciation of it we shall fall in the great essentials.—George H. Hepworth.

The Habit of Thankfulness. The habit of thankfulness is one that ought to be diligently and systematically cultivated. Nor is the task a difficult one to those that set about it in an intelligent fashion. If any man, for example, will learn to close every day by making a review of the blessings that it has brought him from the hands of God, he cannot fail to experience a deepening sense of gratitude. These blessings are so manifold and so rich that the attempt to enumerate them will be sure to bring a great surprise. Not only does our remark hold good in the case of those whom the world regards as happy—the wealthy and the great—but it is also true of those whose lot in life appears to be the narrowest and hardest—the lowly and the poor. There is not a man on the earth but can find a thousand good reasons for praising God, if he will only open his eyes and look for them.

Denominational Boards. A pretty story is told by Mrs. Baltington Booth concerning one of her children. When she is obliged to be away from home past his bedtime, and therefore compelled to miss the good-night kiss, the little fellow imprints a kiss on the bedpost, and leaves a message that his mother should receive the kiss upon her return. Mrs. Booth makes the ingenious application of the incident that the bedpost represents the agency which stands between the great classes of need on the one hand and the great classes of help on the other hand. This denominational board are doing. They fill the purpose that the bedpost filled for the little child. They receive the loving gifts of the church and transmit them to the hungry multitudes of the world.

Guided by the North Star. If a man can see the North Star when he is in doubt about his course over desert or through forest, on a lonely night, he can be sure of the right direction for him. That one sure point of light which God has fixed in the heavens above him is enough for his guidance. There may be myriads of other stars to be seen, some of them brighter and seemingly larger than the one he is guided by, but he need not look at them. The one God, the one light for guidance and the one course of duty pointed out to him, are all that he is to heed. Thus it is to every believer in his life course. He is to be guided by his one God-given polar star, and press on confidently in the path thus shown him.

Christian Endeavor Principles. From earliest days Christian Endeavor has reiterated the principle of denominational loyalty. The young people's societies make peculiarly ardent professions in this respect. They say that first, last and always, in every way, and by all means, they will stand by their own church and denomination. The practical point for the application of this great principle is at the denominational board. There can be small excuse for a young people's society to fail to support its own missionary boards, regularly and systematically.

Coming of Spring. The spring comes as the kingdom of God comes into the world. There is no beating of drums or blare of trumpets. Its approach is "down-shod to every sense." Great elemental forces are in activity, and they push their results into manifestation. Some day we may find that all the triumphs of Christianity over which we now rejoice are, to what is coming, as the swelling twigs of the pussy-willow in March to the glory and beauty of the month of blossoms.

Church's Opportunity. The word for to-day with all missionary boards is "forward." They realize the ripeness of the times and are pressing the work. The twentieth century is the church's great missionary opportunity. As never before, she is reaching out to all the world. Her work was never so aggressive. When we share in it we are having a part in one of the most progressive and laudable enterprises of the ages.

Turks to Become Missionaries. Two young men from Turkey in Asia, Manong Khildichin, an Armenian, and Yani Maerides, a Greek, will enter Roanoke college, Salem, Va., next autumn, and after their graduation from that institution will take a theological course in the United States with a view to becoming missionaries in their own country.

By and By. No one has any right to suppose that he will do better by and by, unless he is prompt to seize upon means and plans for doing better. Better living and better service do not come by chance; they are the result of thoughtful and earnest effort. We grow as we go.

Do Good. I expect to pass through this world but once. Any good thing, therefore, that I can do, or any kindness that I can show to any of my fellow-beings, let me do it now. Let me not defer nor neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again.

Hile Campbell, aged 18, met with a peculiar accident which may result in his death. He was driving across Goodwin creek, near Vassar, when the wagon box floated off. The youth stuck to it until it capsized. He was thrown into the water and under the wheels. He was painfully injured, but managed to hold his breath until he reached the surface. No help being at hand he was compelled to swim to shore in spite of the great agony he was in. He then mounted a horse and rode home. He was taken to Saginaw hospital and died there Saturday afternoon.

West Greenleaf

Alma O'Brien visited Peter and Earl Somerville last Sunday. Miss Marion Gilbert visited at Barney Hill's last Friday.

Peter Somerville visited Miss Bessie Souden last Monday evening. Sabbath School and services started again at the Town Hall last Sunday.

Miss Rosa Schmitt is spending a week or two with friends at Ruth, Mich.

Things are very quiet this week since camp-meetings closed. Everybody are tired out.

Herb Greenleaf and sister visited at Mr. and Mrs. James Greenleaf's, near Cumber, last Sunday.

Stanley and Avery Jone made their annual trip north last Sunday evening. There is nothing like paying strict attention to business boys.

A good many of the farmers have been prevented from planting their potatoes by the continued wet weather. By the looks of the corn crop so far, we will all have to go without Johnny cake this winter.

Wallace Gilbert now has his gasoline engine in position to run his cream separator. In addition to this it also furnishes power to propel a twenty gallon churn with perfect ease and both at the same time. It is the finest labor-saving invention we have ever seen and speaks well of the push and enterprise of the proprietor, who always believes in having things up to date.

Greenleaf.

Miss Jennie McLellen is spending her vacation at home. A heavy hail storm passed over this place Monday afternoon.

John Tanner, Jr., made a trip to Sanilac Centre this week. Mary Paul was the guest of Gladys Duffield the last of the week.

John Gillies passed through town with a lot of farming implements. The farmers around here are trying to plant their beans between showers.

Mrs. and Miss Watson, of South Greenleaf, attended church here Sunday. The Misses McLellen attended teachers' examination at Sanilac Centre Thursday.

Peter McDonald and sister, Katie, of Brookfield, visited friends here a few days last week. John McCallum has improved the appearance of his house by painting it. Friends go thou and do likewise.

It is reported that a young man by the name of Davis is seriously ill with small pox. He lives two miles north of this place.

Saved From an Awful Fate.

"Everybody said I had consumption," writes Mrs. A. M. Shields, of Chambersburg, Pa., "I was so low after six months of severe sickness, caused by Hay Fever and Asthma, that few thought I could get well, but I learned of the marvelous merit of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, used it, and was completely cured." For desparate Throat and Lung Diseases it is the safest cure in the world, and is infallible for Coughs, Colds and Bronchial Affections. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Charles M. Green has about made up his mind that the Wheat railroad scheme has gone in the air. He says he has written Mr. Wheat two or three letters to obtain information, but has received no answer. He thinks the road is dead.—Pt. Huron Times.

Of what does a bad taste in your mouth remind you? It indicates that your stomach is in bad condition and will remain that way until there is nothing so good for such a disorder as Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets after having once used them. They cleanse and invigorate the stomach and regulate the bowels. For sale at 25 cents per box at Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Lewis Carey, son of W. H. Carey, of Bad Axe, who served in the U. S. army in the Philippines for a time and was invalided home has been granted a pension of fourteen dollars per month.

All diseases start in the bowels. Keep them open or you will be sick. CAS-CARETS act like nature. Keep liver and bowels active without a sickening gripping feeling. Six million people take and recommend CAS-CARETS. Try a 10c box. All druggists. 11-21-01

Beauley.

Steady cold weather up in this region. J. W. Young has 80 acres of beans planted.

We wonder if Rescue is dead (come chummy wake up.) Alvia A. McDonald was home last Sunday from Cass City.

D. McDonald has been laid up for nearly a week with a sore hand. E. W. Turner has one of the best fields of wheat in the town this year.

Hugh J. McDonald and Wm. McDonald were at Bad Axe last week at teacher's examination.

Farmers in this vicinity are very busy at present planting beans and potatoes and some planting corn yet.

A good number of the people from here were at Bethel Sunday evening. All say children's exercises were a success.

John R. McDonald has visitors from Canada and we are glad to see his daughter back again to visit home and friends.

Wellington J. McDonald is home from Albion, after spending nine months there and having completed the regular course of study and practice in the business department and now is ready to launch out on the sea of life. We wish him success on life's journey.

There is much talk about the coronation of King Edward at the present time but the most important talk in this neighborhood is the Fourth of July picnic to be held in R. Parr's grove, given by the Ladies' Aid Society for the benefit of the parsonage and now we would have you understand that this is not going to be a small one sided affair because the good people of Cass City, Bad Axe and Gageton—in fact a great many of the good people of the Thumb will be here on that notable occasion to enjoy themselves. See posters for particulars.

Read It in his Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio, is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lumb back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will bear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale at Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Shabbona

Mr. Babcock is erecting a barn. Arthur Atkins has returned from Flint.

E. G. Gilbert was in town this week. Miss Kitty Brown is home from Saginaw.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Allen are visiting at Pontiac. Mamie Cullen who has been so very sick is recovering.

Mrs. John Bullock is very ill, Dr. Truesdell is in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, Jr., were callers at Dr. Truesdell's last Saturday.

Wm. Davidson attended the teacher's examination at Sanilac Centre last week. Miss Cora Rogers a former teacher is a very welcome visitor in town this week.

J. D. Allen and R. Cameron attended the Republican county convention at Sanilac Centre last Tuesday.

Ira Little, of Forester, was in Shabbona in the interest of the "Woodmen" a society of which will soon be organized here.

The people from Shabbona who attended the Sunday School convention at Greenbank last Tuesday afternoon and evening, all speak in the highest terms of the very able talk given by Dr. Gifford, of Cass City, and only regret that more of the young people did not hear him.

A young lady of this town had a very narrow escape from a watery grave in the Dead Waters, but fortunately for her a certain young gentleman seeing the accident, at the risk of his own life p'unged beneath the wave and succeeded in bringing her to shore alive but awfully muddy—Who says Knight-hood is a thing of the past?

We were awakened the other night by what we at first thought were fire bells but it proved to be only a herd of cows that are allowed to patrol our front street! we were reminded while listening to their music, of a stanza of the late Mary T. Luthrop's rustic poem: "Those cows over there, Gray would call lowing herd And talk of their voices so mellow; Well perhaps they did low in the days that Grey wrote; But these animals certainly bellow!"

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Why Is It? Why is it that business men, manufacturers, professional men and all others interested in the "signs of the times" take so much interest in the government crop reports, in the crop estimates of all the specialists, and why do the commercial papers and the trade papers and all the great dailies give so much of their space and presence to discussions and criticisms of the work of the agricultural statisticians? Is it solely because of the humane feelings they entertain for the welfare of the farmers of the country? Are they thus acting through disinterested solicitude for the man with the plow? May they not have an idea more or less distinct that the country and people of every calling prosper when farmers prosper and fall when the farmers fall? When indications point to good crops, do not merchants buy more largely, do not manufacturers increase their output, do not capitalists build more houses, bargain with more contractors and give employment to more artisans? Do not men in every avocation feel the inspiration of favorable crop reports and gauge their operations and build their hopes accordingly? Then why should not all men everywhere use their influence for the promotion of the agricultural interests of the country?—Farm and Ranch.

Waste In Manure. There is an immense amount of manure going to waste throughout the country, principally in the small towns and cities, that the farmer ought to pick up and haul home for the farm. We have known farmers who have practiced this city manure drawing, and they have proved by the productiveness of their lands that it pays. In many cases this manure can be secured for the mere asking for it, and in a few instances it may be necessary to pay a little for a load, but 25 or 50 cents for $2 worth of manure is not a very extensive price. The townsmen has no appreciation of the fertilizing value of his surplus manure, or if he has then there is no opportunity or inclination to put it to use. Sometimes we do not need to go to the towns even to see the wasting of manure. Some farmers seem to have the habit so well formed that the breaking is impossible. We have actually known of instances where a farmer would be practically willing to give the manure on his farm away to some one who was willing to haul it off, but happily these men are few and far between, though there are still some of this class yet left.—Chicago Drivers' Journal.

The Blister Beetle. The black potato bug is a worse insect foe to potatoes in parts of central Pennsylvania than the Colorado beetle has been. It is hard to kill. One farmer testified that he tried "Tough on Rats" on it with no apparent effect. That is a poison whose use would not have suggested itself to me, but the failure adds to the tough reputation borne by the blister beetle. Some farmers, regardless of the claims of neighborliness, drive this pest out of their fields and to the fields of adjoining farmers. The beetle is very human in its willingness to "move on" if one lets it have its own way about it. A heavy application of bordeaux mixture and paris green to the vines destroys its aggressiveness, though I should hesitate to claim that it can be actually poisoned.

Winter Care of Sheep. Corn for sheep should not be grazed when pelt in silo, as it will not digest well. Fifty degrees is warm enough to keep sheep and lambs, says a New York farmer in American Agriculturist. Ensilage should be cut in half inch lengths and should be fed at the rate of two bushels night and morning for every twenty sheep. Hay should be fed at noon. Five quarts of wheat bran and five quarts of oats mixed should be given daily. When the lambs are dropped, a sheep should be fed daily a quart of oats, bran and corn in equal parts for every lamb she has. She should have all the water she wants. Sheep should be sheared in March and should lamb about April 1.

Kansas Crops in 1901. The Kansas state board of agriculture has issued its annual statement of crops harvested in that state. The yield of winter wheat for 1901 is given as 90,045,514 bushels, valued at $50,479,570. This breaks the record made last year by 13,450,070 bushels. These are the two largest wheat crops that have ever been raised in the Sunflower State. The Kansas corn crop of 1901 is only 40,005,672 bushels, but the value of the two crops combined is only 11.3 per cent less than for those two crops in 1900.

Wheat For Fowls. Wheat is much better than corn for a single grain diet. Fowls will not get overfat on wheat, says American Agriculturist. They will lay more eggs, keep healthier and give stronger chicks. In cold weather some corn is necessary to help keep up the body heat. Small, active sows like Leghorns and Hamburgs can be fed proportionately more corn than the large, sluggish breeds.

Low Temperature and Seeds. Farmers as a general rule have the impression that seeds are injured by very low temperatures. If ordinary seeds, such as corn, wheat, rye, etc., are properly matured and thoroughly dried, the lowest outdoor temperature, continued for many days, will not injure the germinating properties in the least, provided the seed is kept in a dry place.—American Agriculturist.

Wilmot.

Ed. N. Hartt is digging a well at the salting station.

Willie Scott and sister, Miss Emma, visited relatives here over Sunday.

Mrs. Kate Hartt, of Doyle, is visiting her mother and other relatives here.

Mrs. Penfold is spending a few days with her father, J. Soles, who is quite feeble.

The Ladies' Aid met and took tea at the home of Mrs. Dingman in the village.

W. Wilson has been quite ill the past week. Dr. Simenton has been to see him.

Arthur Legg and wife and E. J. Hartt and wife visited relatives at Doyle from Friday till Monday.

Mrs. McCollum, who has been spending a few days with relatives near Pontiac, returned home Saturday evening.

C. Churchill had a horse stolen out of his barn Monday night. The thief was caught at Lapeer and word was telephoned to Mr. Churchill Wednesday morning and he started at once after the horse.

The relatives and friends of M. Soles and wife surprised them the other evening by coming and spending the evening with them and bringing their supper and two rocking chairs and also smaller presents too numerous to mention.

During the summer kidney irregularities are often caused by excessive drinking or being overheated. Attend to the kidneys at once by using Foley's Kidney Cure. T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Republican County Convention.

At the republican county convention held at Bad Axe Thursday, the following delegates were elected: W. H. Wallace, W. O. Smith, Wallace Campbell, Joseph Schluchter, Fred W. Stafford, Harry McDonald, H. L. Chipman, John Leonard, Chas. E. Shaw, John C. Ryan, Robert Munford.

T. B. Woodworth was permitted to choose the following delegates to the Congressional Convention: B. W. Jenks, F. H. Bach, J. Morris, A. L. Wright, G. M. Clark, F. Whiteman, D. V. McNabb, F. H. Stafford, A. D. Smalley, Dr. McColl, W. J. Orr, J. E. Wallace.

Leads Them all.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Carrin, of Logansport, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

The Sanilac sugar refining company have purchased the old Pack farm, near Carsonville, and will erect a dam on Black River at that point. Just what uses the dam will be put to is not generally known, but it is hardly likely that the company will build a factory at Carsonville, although many seem to think so.—Lexington News.

Ready to Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Hon. Watts S. Humphrey, delegate at large from Saginaw county to the Republican state convention, and who was slated to make the nomination speech for Gov. Bliss, has been obliged to cancel the engagement. Last October, while hunting near Gramere, Haron county, Mr. Humphrey fell and sprained his right ankle badly. He is still forced to use a crutch and the trouble has baffled medical skill, consequently an operation is to be performed, there being a possibility that some of the small bones in the foot are fractured. This will prevent him from making the speech presenting the name of Gov. Bliss to the convention.—Courier-Herald.

Filthy Temples in India.

Sacred cows often defile Indian temples, but worse yet is a body that's polluted by constipation. Don't permit it. Cleanse your system with Dr. King's New Life Pills and avoid much misery. They give lively livers, active bowels, good digestions, fine appetite. Only 25c at T. H. Fritz's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Gil R. Lovejoy has been here this week in the interest of the Emmet-Bay City railroad. Gil is persistent in his efforts to push this road to completion and it is hoped that he may succeed. Yale will no doubt give her share in the way of a bonus.—Yale Expositor.

My little son had an attack of whooping cough and was threatened with pneumonia; but for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy we would have had a serious time of it. It also saved him from several severe attacks of croup.—H. J. STRICKLAND, editor World Herald, Fair Haven, Wash. For sale at Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

John S. Crandell of Sanilac Centre has withdrawn from the contest for the nomination for member of the state legislature, from Sanilac county. This leaves the field to Hon. Mark Willis of Applegate, the present incumbent, and Hon. C. Murphy of Watertown.—Brown City Banner.

Ten Years in bed.

R. A. Gray, J. P. Oakville, Ind., writes, "For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys. It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a God send to me." T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Chas. T. Strong, the enterprising proprietor of the meat market, met with a serious accident last week Thursday afternoon. While driving across the track on Main street the horse became frightened at an engine which was doing some switching in the yards near the street, and in trying to stop the horse Mr. Strong was thrown out of the rig, striking on his head and shoulders, breaking his collar bone and cutting his face.—Millington Gazette.

Interesting to Asthma Sufferers.

Daniel Bante, of Ottaville, Iowa, writes, "I have had asthma for three or four years and have tried about all the cough and asthma cures in the market, and have received treatment from physicians in New York and other cities, but got very little benefit until I tried Foley's Honey and Tar which gave me immediate relief and I will never be without it in my house. I sincerely recommend it to all." T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Wm. A. Heartt brought to this office on Wednesday a sample of alfalfa which shows a remarkable growth, being several feet in length. Mr. Heartt is an enthusiast upon the question of introducing this important forage crop in this section, and his experience is not an entirely new one as he has been growing it for five years. At present time he has over ninety acres of it and says that in no instances have its results proven disappointing.—Caro Advertiser.

Was Wasting Away.

The following letter from Robert R. Watts, of Salem, Mo., is instructive. "I have been troubled with kidney disease for the last five years. I lost flesh and never felt well and doctored with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggested without relief. Finally I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles completely cured me and I am now sound and well." T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Warning.

If you have kidney or bladder trouble and do not use Foley's Kidney Cure, you will have only yourself to blame for results, as it positively cures all forms of kidney and bladder diseases. T. H. Fritz, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Verne McCabe, a boy fifteen years old, who had been indentured from the industrial school at Coldwater to Daniel McDonald of Verona, was examined before Justice McLean yesterday on the charge of larceny. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was ordered returned to the school.—Bad Axe Republican.

How to Avoid Trouble.

Now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over, and if procured now may save you a trip to town in the night or in your busiest season. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful medicine in use for bowel complaints, both for children and adults. No family can afford to be without it. For sale at Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

John Large finished burning a 215,000 kiln of brick last week using the fuel oil process for burning. This process is certainly a big improvement over the old wood fuel process, as it enables the processor to maintain a uniform degree of temperature during the burning of the kiln, thus producing a much better grade of brick.—Brown City Banner.

Thieves broke into McKenzie's store Saturday night about 2 o'clock, effecting an entrance by breaking one of the front windows. They took about 300 pennies out of the till and some shoes. Further than this the amount of loss could not be accurately determined but perhaps was not great. They were probably some of the drunken hobos from the beet fields who have been infesting the town of late both by day and night.—Sanilac Republican.

A Fourth of July Confession

BY CHARLES EUGENE BANKS.
(Copyright, 1902, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"Mr. Arnold, I don't think you believe what you say."
"Indeed I do, Miss Darlington."
"Fourth of July is a farce? Then you really think that?"
"I mean to say that all the money spent in firing off crackers and burning rockets has no useful purpose."
"It expresses our feelings, I think, and that is all anything can do for us in this world."
"I do not agree with you. There are many simpler and more sensible ways of giving expressions to our emotions than by filling the air with noise and smoke. It is childish. Grown people ought to be able to show their patriotism in a more sensible way."
"Fudge. You are getting as dry and uninteresting as those old books you bury yourself in most of the time. I believe in life. Books are all well enough in their way, but that is generally a very tiresome way."
The young man stooped to the side of the path and picked up a dry twig, held it before his eyes for a moment and then snapping it sharply threw the ends into the air.
"Why isn't that as good an expression as though it had been tightly rolled paper with a little saltpeter confined at its heart? If I break the stick with a devotional thought concerning the Declaration of Independence I shall experience as sublime a thrill as though I had fired off a cannon."
"You might, Mr. Wiseman, but we are not all so gifted with imagination. Most of us require something outside of ourselves to move us sublimely."
The hot blood surged into the face of the young man at the retort. He turned his gaze full on the girl at his side, but she was already turning away, calling softly to a robin hopping in the shade of an old apple tree that grew beside the gate leading into the farmhouse grounds.
"Milly!" he called, reproachfully.
"Wait till George Lounsbury comes home from New York to-morrow and you'll see what the Fourth of July means to a man with real red blood in his veins. He was up last year and brought more than a hundred dollars' worth of fireworks. I don't believe any one went to bed that night at all. The sky was filled with red fire and I realized for the first time what it meant to be an American."
"You mean the son of Farmer Lounsbury, I suppose?"
"Yes. He's a great man now, although he was born and grew up in this illiterate neighborhood."
"Milly!"
"Miss Darlington, if you please, Mr. Shakespeare. Does your dingy old leather-covered book tell you that a young man has the right to address a young lady that he met only four weeks ago with as much familiarity as though she was his sister?"
The girl tossed her pretty head with an air that might have been learned in the court of a queen, although she had little knowledge of the ways of the world outside of Mohawk Valley. But was she not a woman, young, pretty, proud, whimsical—as most pretty young women are? And what need had she for instructions in the art of coquetry? To the serious young student who had come into the neighborhood with no other idea than that of earning a modest living by teaching in the public school she had knowledge enough and to spare. He loved her, of course. There was no escape from that. She knew it, too, as well as though he had told her so with all the impassioned fervor of a Romeo. But he had not told her so. How could he when she met every attempt of his to utter what filled his heart with good-natured raillery. But he had not been discouraged. "She will listen to me some day," he told himself over and over again as he walked over the hills or sat in his little room with an unread book in his hand. A woman does not like to be easily won. His reading told him that. He had never dreamed of a rival. The few young men of Randall seemed to feel that she was not for them and treated her with marked reverence or surly disdain. What was this she had been saying but now? George Lounsbury! A real man, with red blood in his veins. He felt the blood freezing in his heart.
"Is he—Mr. Lounsbury a friend of yours?"
"A friend of mine? Indeed he is. I have known him ever since I was a child. He is a great man now. Cashier in a bank in the city and trusted with tons of money. Wait till you see how things will move when he arrives."
He did wait, although with no pleasant anticipations. And that night he saw the rockets streaking across the sky and heard the honest country folk ### cheer the neatly dressed, smooth-spoken young man who set off whole packages of fire-crackers with far less thought that one of the wealthiest among them would have struck a match. And when it was all over, when the last red flame had faded out of the sky, the last pin-wheel had spit out its spiteful little life, the last bunch of fire-crackers popped and danced over the singed and trampled lawn, Arnold walked home alone through the woods, carrying the burnt end of a single cracker tightly clutched in his hand.

After all had he not been right when he told Milly that all this celebration was "noise and fury, signifying nothing?" She had boasted to him that Mr. Lounsbury would bring a hundred dollars' worth of fireworks from the city to voice the patriotism of the neighborhood. And her boast had been made good. A hundred dollars! Why, that was more than he was to get for the three months' term of teaching in the Randall district school. A hundred dollars! What could he not have done with the money that had been consumed in an evening, for the glory of patriotism? He thought of the long, dreary struggle behind him, and the dark, dreary, tedious days ahead and a great bitterness clutched at his heart and an unfamiliar oath rose in his throat and demanded that he give it tongue. What was all this boasted liberty if it brought nothing to one and so much to another? Why should this young country boy be favored by fate so that the best positions in a great city were his for the asking, while he, the student, the scholar, the man with a real purpose and a high aim, was left to win his way among such hopeless surroundings? Hopeless, indeed. For she who had wakened in his heart new aspirations, made even the frowning future bright with promise, she had turned from him with scarcely a word to join in the praise and adulation that was showered upon the successful man of the world.

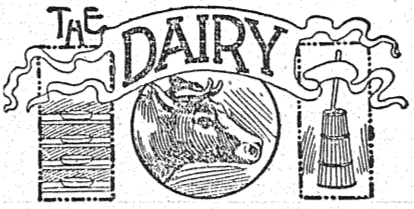

She was heartless. He was sure of that now, and it was well that he had found no opportunity during the bustle of the day and evening to give her the written declaration he had found it impossible to make in spoken words. At least he was saved the humiliation of a refusal. Let it be burned with all the other useless things of the day. He ran his hand into his pocket. The letter he had penned in a fever of hope and despair was gone. He must have dropped it on the lawn. The thought of some one finding and reading it brought the blush to his cheek and sent him back over the fields with impatient strides. He left the beaten path and climbing the snake fence that divided the pasture land from the orchard hurried forward in the shadow of the trees. As he came out upon the lawn a white bit of paper gleaming in the dew-wet grass caught his eye and he sprang forward and eagerly caught it up. It was the envelope that had held his letter, but it had been opened and the letter was gone.

It is said that every man has one murder in his mind which he will be ready to commit if the proper moment arrives. To the great majority this moment never presents itself; only one in ten thousand is therefore forced to face the gallows. Whether this be true or not it was fortunate that the person so suddenly to face the young schoolmaster at that moment was beyond the power of his hands. A man would have to be a devil indeed to wish harm to a fine young woman with the fresh color of the country on her cheeks, the light of roguery in her eyes and the moonlight clothing her as a garment. And then if she laugh merrily and the next instant throw her arms about his neck and tell him he is "an old goose," he isn't likely to wish harm to his worst enemy.

"I read your letter all through, you silly old thing, and there isn't a word of truth in it. If there was I should be caught up to heaven in five minutes. You were awfully scared when you found some one had opened it? Oh, I could see your eyes flash even in the moonlight. And you swore, too. I heard you; don't deny it. That's what decided me. Up to that time I was afraid you were too good to be human. There's just one thing more you must do before I'll promise not to refuse you. You've got to admit that the Fourth of July is the grandest day in the year and promise to celebrate it like a true American every year with real fire-crackers."

"I shall always hold the day sacred in my heart, dearest," he said, solemnly. "It has brought me—"

"Slavery, sir, slavery. But, there, I'll try to make your chains as light as possible, and—Frank, I love you better than all the rockets in the world."

PROBLEMS FACED BY WISCONSIN DAIRYMEN.

From Farmers' Review: The extreme and long continued drought of last summer presented some new conditions and problems to be solved before we can be sure of making farming remunerative, when such conditions prevail. Opposite fall rains produced a fine growth of late pasture, which, with the exceedingly mild winter helped the farmers to carry most of their stock through in fair shape. All surplus stock was sold early in the season. Prices were low, but feed was very high, so high, in fact, that those who kept their choice cows and fed for milk found their percentage of profit on the wrong side of his winter. Spring is with us again, however, and the weather has been remarkable for pushing all farm work. We have an abundance of moisture, pastures are coming on in fine shape, and farmers are hopeful of a bountiful harvest. * * * The principal crops grown here in central southern Wisconsin are corn, oats and hay. As all of our clover was winter-killed and all of our tame grasses seriously damaged by drought and winter-killing, we are increasing our forage crops to supply the lack of hay. I have lived in Wisconsin more than forty years and I cannot remember that in this locality we ever had to import hay, corn or oats to supply our farm deficiencies. We usually use large quantities of bran and middlings and commonly have farm produce to sell to pay for them, but it was all the other way the past year. * * * The silo has not come into general use here. A few have them, but most of the farmers seem to favor the corn husker and shredder and use the corn crop that way. In the county of Jefferson near Lake Mills, most of the farmers use them with good results. The silo properly constructed and intelligently operated is essential to successful dairying.—C. L. Thompson.

HYDRAULIC SEPARATORS ARE OF LITTLE VALUE.

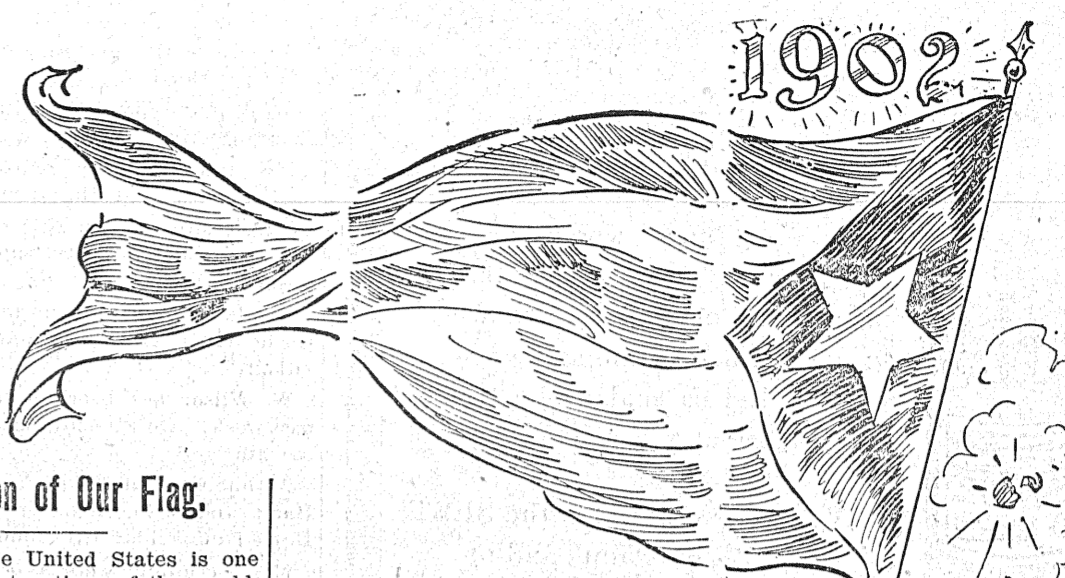

From a government bulletin we take the following: Everything claimed for the hydraulic separator can be equalled well done in a shot gun can, and if water below 40 degrees F., or ice can be obtained to bring the temperature down to 40 degrees F., the thoroughness of separation will be far superior to separation by any hydraulic separator. The only case where there is an advantage in using the method is in milk from cows far advanced in lactation, and then the efficiency of the process is about equal to deep setting in ice. This method is no more efficient than the old-fashioned shallow pan setting, with the disadvantage of greatly increasing the volume of skim milk to be handled, and, in case hot water is used, as is sometimes advised, there is the added inconvenience of the rapid souring of the milk. If any dairyman wishes to try the method there is no patent to prevent him using the process to his heart's content.

SHOULD BE LIMIT TO THE WATER IN BUTTER.

Abroad the question of water in butter appears to be quite a serious one. The foreign butter sellers or butter makers have been quite successful in working into butter an abnormal quantity of water. Again and again cases have been brought into English and Irish courts, where the butter contained in excess of 20 per cent of water. In a few instances the water content has been in excess of 30 per cent. Doubtless parallel cases have been discovered in German courts. Anyhow, the German government has now established a rule that all pure butter must contain at least 80 per cent of butter fat. Henceforth the aggregate of salt, water and casein in butter cannot exceed 20 per cent of its weight. In England a law is about to be put in force requiring butter to contain not in excess of 16 per cent of water. The people that ship butter to England and Germany must take cognizance of these facts, else they may find some of their consignments of butter tied up under the custody of officials delegated to look after the enforcement of this law.

TUBERCULOSIS IN COWS IS HARD TO DETECT.

For a period of four years at the Connecticut station four cows that had reacted to the tuberculin test were kept and fed and watched. For the first two or three years some of them showed not the slightest indication of having tuberculosis. The four dropped healthy calves and seemed to be making the most of their food. On the fourth year the disease developed very rapidly and the animals were killed. On post-mortem examination all were found to be tuberculous. Up to a year of the time of slaughtering one of these cows had been very sleek and fat. Yet it was known certainly that the cow had the disease for three years previous. When slaughtered on the fourth year both lungs were found to be badly diseased, almost solidified with tuberculous tissue; pleural costals covered with tubercles; mediastinal lymphatics tuberculous, and mesenteric lymphatics all badly tuberculous. Tubercles were also found on the rumen and diaphragm. This, it will be seen, proved to be a very bad case. Its diagnosis for years before shows the value of tuberculin.

Evolution of Our Flag.

Although the United States is one of the youngest nations of the world, its flag is one of the oldest among its powers. The country's standard, with its thirteen stars and stripes, which was first unfurled June 14, 1777, just 125 years ago, has remained practically unchanged through the progress and growth of the country of which it saw the birth. The star-spangled banner which now floats over Uncle Sam's possessions on lands and seas, is unaltered, with the exception of the number and arrangement of the stars, from the one which Betsy Ross, at Gen. Washington's request, made at her home, No. 232 Arch street, Philadelphia.

The device of a rattlesnake was popular among the colonists, and its origin as an American emblem is a curious feature in our national history. It has been stated that its use grew out of a humorous suggestion made by a writer in Franklin's paper—the Pennsylvania Gazette—that, in return for the wrongs which England was forcing upon the colonists, a cargo of rattlesnakes should be sent to the mother country and "distributed in St. James Park and other places of pleasure." Col. Gadsden, one of the marine committee, presented to congress on the 8th of February, 1776, "an elegant standard, such as is to be used by the commander-in-chief of the American navy," being a yellow flag with a representation of a rattlesnake coiled for attack.

Another use for the rattlesnake was upon a ground of thirteen horizontal bars, alternately red and white, the snake extending diagonally across the stripes, and the lower white stripes bearing the motto, "Don't Tread on Me." The snake was always represented as having thirteen rattles. One of the favorite flags also was of white with a pine tree in the center. The words at the top were: "An Appeal to God," and underneath the snake were the words: "Don't Tread on Me." Several of the companies of minute men adopted a similar flag, giving the name of their company, with the motto, "Liberty or Death." The Connecticut troops, who took part in the exciting times that followed Lexington and Bunker Hill, had a state banner with the state arms

The flag as altered in 1795, and motto, "Qui transtulit sustinet." The troops of Massachusetts adopted the words, "An Appeal to Heaven." Early New York records speak of different standards; indeed, the regiments from the different states, hastening to Washington's aid, flaunted flags of numerous devices, having only local interest and being only used on the occasion that originated them.

The first striped flag was flung to the breeze in America at Cambridge, Mass., Washington, headquarters, Jan. 2, 1776. It had thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, and the united crosses of St. George and St. Andrew on a blue field. When reported in England it was alluded to as the "thirteen rebellious stripes."

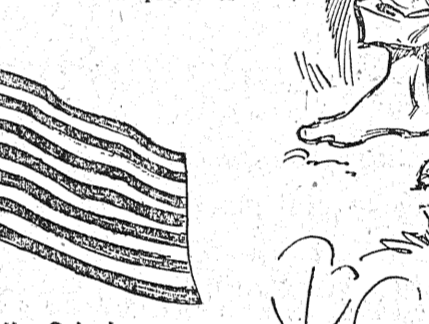

In 1775 a navy of seventeen vessels, varying from ten to thirty-two guns, was ordered. The senior of the five first lieutenants of the new Continental navy was John Paul Jones. He left it on record that the "Flag of America" was hoisted by his own hands on his vessel, the Alfred, the first time it was ever displayed by a man-of-war. This was probably the same device as the Cambridge flag used in January, 1776.

We now come to the time when the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew were taken from the Union flag and a blue field with white stars substituted for the symbol of English authority. One hundred and twenty-five years ago this June 14 the American congress, in session at Philadelphia, resolved "that the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; the union to be thirteen stars, white, on a blue field, representing a new constellation, the stars to be arranged in a circle."

There are many traditions afloat concerning the origin of this design, but the one in which there is undoubtedly the most truth is that which credits the idea of the design to Washington. The General found in the coat-of-arms of his own family a hint from which he drew a design for the flag. The coat-of-arms of the Washington family was two red bars on a white ground, and three gilt stars above the top bar. The American flag, once decided upon, was rushed through in a hurry, for the army was in need of a standard.

Betsy Ross enthusiastically undertook the work, and in a few days a beautiful star-spangled banner was ready to be unfurled. She had made one alteration in the design submitted by Washington. The General had made his stars six pointed, and three were on his coat-of-arms. Betsy Ross made her stars with five points—and five points have been used ever since. For several years Mrs. Ross made the flags for the government.

The first using of the stars and stripes in military service, it is claimed, was at Fort Stanwix, renamed Fort Schuyler, now Rome, New York, 1777. Aug. 2 of that year the fort was besieged by the British and Indians; the garrison was without a flag, but one was made in the fort. The red stripes were of a petticoat furnished by a woman, the white for stripes and stars were furnished by an officer, who gave his shirt for the purpose, and the blue was a piece of Flag of the Colonies. Col. Peter Gansevoort's military cloak. Three women worked on the flag, and it was raised to victory on the 22d of August, when the redmen and the English were defeated at the fort.

The next record of the using of the Stars and Stripes is on the first anniversary of American independence, which was celebrated at Philadelphia, Charleston, S. C., and other places, July 4, 1777. The banner was used at the battle of the Brandywine Sept. 11, 1777; at Germantown, Oct. 4 of the same year, and it also floated over the surrender of Burgoyne. This flag cheered the patriots at Valley Forge the next winter; it waved at Yorktown and shared in the rejoicings at the close of the war.

Some of the first flags were made under difficulties and at great cost, the greatest ingenuity being required on occasions to secure the necessary materials for the banners. History tells us that Madame Wooster and Mrs. Roger Sherman made the first national flag for the Connecticut troops used in the army from their own dresses.

As long as the states remained thirteen in number the original design of the circle of stars was all right, but when, in 1791, Vermont, and in 1792 Kentucky were taken into the Union, it was decided to arrange the stars in the form of one huge constellation.

In 1795 it was decided to add a stripe as well as a star for each state which came into the Union, consequently in that year Vermont and Kentucky were marked on the flag.

The Flag As It is Today. one by a white and the other by a red stripe; but some wise prophet, looking ahead some twenty or more years, saw that this plan of adding a stripe as well as a star for each state added to the Union would mean a constant changing of the flag, which would, in a few years, become so large and ungainly that its beauty would be lost. A committee in 1812 was elected by congress to decide upon a permanent design for the flag, and the result was that the thirteen original stripes were again used, the stars arranged on the blue field in the form of a square, with one constellation for each new state. In 1818 this plan was formally adopted by congress, and the flag, with its thirteen stripes and stars corresponding in number to the states in the Union, became the established emblem of America.

The premium list for our Fall Fair has been fully revised and is now in the hands of the printer. Those who have not yet secured their advertising space, would do well to attend to it at once, so as not to delay the issuing of the pamphlet. Inquire at this office or of Hugh Walters.

The following letters remain unclaimed at the P. O. at Cass City, Mich., for the week ending June 21, 1902: Chas. Banks, Eldred L. McCafferty, L. Livingston, Mr. Squire Sheldon, Cora Doctor. When calling for above please mention advertised. H. S. Wickware, Postmaster.

We are in receipt of a copy of the special illustrated edition of the St. Clair Republican, which contains a portrait of Miss Nancie McArthur, of this place, who has been a teacher in the schools there the past year, together with commendatory words of her work in that capacity.

Among the foremost window dressers in our town is F. A. Ellis, head salesman for A. H. Ale & Co. Considering the limited amount of time spent, we doubt if he can be beaten. Frank is an unpretentious mortal, but he knows his business and pays strict attention to it. Take a look at his windows.

Wallace Gilbert, of Holbrook, was in town on Saturday. He gave a glowing account of the Free Methodist camp meeting, which was held in his fine grove and had just closed. He states that on the last Sunday there must have been an attendance of fully 2,500 people. The best of order prevailed and, despite the wet weather, everyone seemed to enjoy themselves.

Geo. A. Stevenson has purchased a corner lot, with twenty-six foot frontage on Main Street, of Jas. J. Wallace, being at the corner of Main and Oak Streets, where Wm. Messner recently conducted a harness shop. Mr. Stevenson intends moving the building he is now using to that corner, and building a fine brick block on the site he now occupies, in keeping with the advance of the town.

At the annual town meeting last spring, the electors of Elkland township voted to raise $1,000 toward placing a new bridge two miles east of town and straightening the roadway. Later the township board voted to raise another $1,000, which is the limit. The discovery is now made that it will require $2,500 at least to do the work and the board does not see any way out of the difficulty, except to let it lay over till next year. The bid of John Hawkins was the lowest on the work of grading, being $191.

W. Carl Rufus, A. B. '02 of Albion College, will speak in the M. E. Church at this place on Tuesday evening next, July 1st. Mr. Rufus is county organizer for the Prohibitionists. He is a good speaker, forceful and logical. During his college course he took an active part in oratory and debate, winning four oratorical contests, representing his college in two state contests, also in debate. On Tuesday evening he will give "America, Bond or Free," the winning oration of the state contest of 1900, after which he will present his work. Let there be a full house.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil McGillivray, of Buffalo, have been spending a few days with relatives here and in Greenleaf, returning to Buffalo on Tuesday. He it was who so narrowly escaped with his life from the ill-fated Thos. Wilson, sunk in Duluth harbor recently. Together with the Captain and John Campbell, he succeeded in releasing a raft from the boat but the suction evidently drew Campbell down as the boat sank. McGillivray clung to the raft and hearing a voice "Save your Captain," looked about to see a man's head about forty feet away. He could not

Spring Fever.
 Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Eversly, Mountsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried." A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

An Entertainment.
 Father Crowley, of Gagetown, was in town on Saturday evening, and informed us that he had completed arrangements for the St. Cecilia Mandolin Club, of Pontiac, to give an entertainment at the Hitchcock Opera House on the evening of Wednesday, July 2nd. The Club is composed of sixteen young ladies, most of whom are graduates from the music department of the St. Cecilia school, and the concert promises to be one of the very best. See program elsewhere.

A Real Friend.
 "I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oaks, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheerfully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid. A. Bond, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

Virulent Cancer Cured.
 Startling proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by Druggist G. W. Roberts, of Elizabeth, W. Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed his case hopeless till he used Electric Bitters and applied the medicine to his cancer, which was completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions, ulcers and sores vanish. Bitters 50c, Salve 25c at H. Fritz's, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

TESTIMONIAL.
 To the Editor:
 Dear Sir:—For several years I have been troubled with deafness, roaring in my head and all the symptoms of Chronic Catarrh. I believed that my case was incurable, but upon the urgent request of a friend I consulted Dr. Morrison of the Detroit Clinic. After a careful examination he said he could cure me in two months. I commenced treatment and in two months I was cured; could hear as well as ever; no more pain or roaring in the head. I was afraid it would return but I have had a severe cold since I was cured and there has been no return of the trouble so I know I am cured. I want all your readers to know of my wonderful cure.
 THANK BOND.
 Cass City, Oct. 10, 1901.

A county institute for teachers is to be held at Bad Axe, beginning August 4th and continuing until August examinations. Prof. G. W. Loomis, of the Mt. Pleasant Normal, has been appointed conductor, and Prof. A. F. Doyle instructor. Miss Flora Mowbray, of Marquette, has been appointed primary worker for the last eight days of the institute.
