IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL

The Remains of Hugh Walters Laid to Rest.

HAS BEEN A PATIENT SUFFERER

Many Beautiful Floral Tributes Showed the High Esteem in Which He was Held.

Last Friday morning the whole community was saddened to learn of the death of one of Cass City's brightest and most popular young men, Hugh Walters. Although Hugh had been ill for a couple of years with that dread disease, consumption, he was able to be around until about a month ago, when he was suddenly taken worse and failed rapidly and last Friday morning he "quietly fell asleep."

He was born January 30th, 1877, in the county of Middlesex, Ontario, and came with his parents to Michigan in 1880. He was one of six children. His sickness has really been for the glory of God, so that they enter in a very real way into the fellowship of the Saviour's sufferings.

2—The friends of Jesus in their affliction turn directly and immediately to him. In the day of prosperity it may be occasionally difficult to say whether a man is a Christian or not; but when in the day of trouble he makes straight for Christ we know then most surely whose he is and whom he serves. Take note of it then and when affliction comes observe to whom you flee for succor; for that will tell you whether you are or are not a friend of Jesus.

3—The response of the Lord comes often in such a way as seems to aggravate the evil. Christ loved the family at Bethany. Therefore he did not come immediately at their call. But he had in store for them a greater kindness than they could have dreamed of. Therefore, he delayed till he could confer that upon them. There is nothing for us at such times but to wait in patient, trustful expectation; but when we get to the end we shall see that there was love in the discipline.

4—The friends of Jesus have different individualities, but a common danger in their sorrows. In all our trials we are prone to lose sight of the universality of God's providence and to torment ourselves with the unbelieving "if." It proceeds on the principle that the providence of God is not concerned in everything and it gives to secondary causes a supremacy that does not belong to them. When calamity comes upon you be sure that it is not because this or that accident prevented relief; nor because the Saviour was not with you, but because it was his will and his will only to bring about that which shall be better for you and others than your deliverance would have been.

5—The friends of Jesus have a blessed end to all their sorrows. Rest in the Lord, therefore, and wait patiently for him, for the day is coming when you shall be constrained to say, "Because the Lord was with us our trials came upon us, and he brought us safely through them into his wealthy place." The above gives but a faint impression of the power of the address upon the vast audience that crowded the edifice in every part. It was more than once moved to tears as the preacher told of his daily visits to the departed, of the hearty welcome he received, and how he longed for his coming if he did not run in daily. He told the boys how the sick one appreciated his gifts of flowers sent to brighten his sick room, and he assured his audience that the departed was not dead but only "asleep in Jesus" and he urged all to yield their lives up to Jesus Christ so that they might meet Hugh Walters in another and better world. At the close of the sermon the choir sang "Nearer, My God, To Thee" and then the audience was allowed to view the remains before they were laid to rest in Elkland cemetery.

Hugh was a young man of highly commendable qualities and a cheerful disposition won for him many friends. The sorrowing family have the sympathy of their many friends in this sad bereavement.

A Narrow Escape.

Engineer Bailey had quite an exciting experience Monday evening when making the trip from Owendale to Caro. It seems that the boss of the fence gang let his men have the key to the hand car so that they could go to work the following morning and he left to spend the day with his family. Two of the men, Wm. Price and Wm. Fowler took the car, but instead of going to work made the trip to Owendale where they at once commenced to celebrate. They spent the entire day getting acquainted with the junction city and when the shades of night settled around them they were scarcely able to navigate.

They placed the car on the track and started on their homeward trip just previous to the departure of the Owendale "Cannonball." The necessary bobbing motion to keep the car spinning along did not help the drunken fellow to sober up and as a consequence they did not notice the approaching train. The engine struck the car while running at a good rate of speed and hand car and occupants were soon deposited in a ditch some distance from the track. The train was stopped and the two men brought to this place where they were loaded upon a dray like so much wood and placed in the county jail.—Caro Courier.

Was Gov. Bliss' Majority Over L. T. Durand, of Saginaw.

DEMOCRATS WIN ONE CONGRESSMAN.

Tuscola County Republicans Elect Their Entire County Ticket.

At the election held Tuesday the Republicans carried nearly everything in the State. Col. A. T. Bliss, the Republican candidate for governor, was re-elected by a majority of 36,975. In 1900 he carried the State by 79,384 majority over Maybury, the Democrat candidate. His small majority at this election was due to the light vote cast in various parts of the State, and being out in some of his former strongholds.

Congressman Fordney, of Saginaw, will again represent the eighth district in congress, being elected by a plurality of 4,693. This is a good "sugar beet" endorsement for "Joe."

The next State Legislature will be strongly Republican, there being only one Democrat senator elected out of thirty-two districts, and ten representatives out of the eighty-two counties. This gives the Republican party and Gov. Bliss full sweep of the controlling power for two years more. The whole Republican county ticket was elected by good majorities. Ed. W. Finney, the Democrat candidate for register of deeds, and one of Cass City's promising young men, carried Elkland township by a fair majority over his opponent, and ran considerably ahead of his ticket. He also made a good run all through the county.

The Democrats carried the city of Saginaw and re-elected Wm. B. Baum mayor, with thirteen aldermen out of twenty. W. C. Maybury was again re-elected mayor of Detroit by the Democrats.

The Democrats were successful in the first congressional district. Alfred Lucking, of Detroit, being elected to succeed John B. Corless, the present congressman, by a plurality of 3,000.

Laborers Appreciated.

Rev. and Mrs. G. F. Smith, who have recently been appointed to take charge of the Methodist circuit at Deford, League and a Ladies' Aid Society at that place, and an Epworth League will be organized in the near future. They are very enthusiastic over the work and before they left the Grant charge the members of the Junior League at that place presented Mrs. Smith with some nice gifts together with the following neat little note of appreciation:

"DEAR MRS. SMITH, Wishing to show our appreciation for the benefit we have received from you during the two years you spent with us, we present you with these presents, the truest token of the respect which we feel for you. Wishing you a happy future we retain many pleasant thoughts of the years you spent with us. THE JUNIOR LEAGUE."

STILL WESTWARD.

Editor Reaches the Terminus of His Long Journey Safely.

Special to the Enterprise. After leaving Keewatin, Oct. 19, we continue to run through the rocky country and see little else until we reach Whitemouth, sixty-one miles east of Winnipeg, where the prairie is reached. A railroad branch runs to the brick-yards at Lac du Bonnet. We are scarcely out of the timber and saw and planing mills are located here, but farmers are at work securing the winter's feed, drawing wood and taking home lumber for further building. We reach that western metropolis, Winnipeg, Monday afternoon, and spend three hours viewing the city, which shows every evidence of prosperity. The streets are nicely paved, modern electric cars glide hither and thither and fine business blocks and public buildings are much in evidence. For more than half a century Winnipeg has been the chief distributing and trading point for the great northwest, being the starting point for the ox teams or trains running for a thousand miles or more to the far north and west. However, in 1876 its population was scarce more than 2,000 and less than 1,000 bushels of grain were shipped that year from that point. During recent years it has become an important railway centre and possesses a large number of manufacturing industries. Its population has nearly reached 60,000 and last year 50,000,000 bushels of wheat were shipped from Winnipeg. This is conclusive evidence as to the value and productivity of the adjacent stretches of wheat and farm lands. We leave Winnipeg at six in the evening and so pass through Manitoba provinces in the night. Besides the main line of the C. P. R. there are a number of branch lines traversing Manitoba and the Canadian Northern has a considerable mileage running through the province northwesterly to Erwood, in the Saskatchewan territory. By daylight Tuesday we are well into the Assiniboia Territory, which is divided into two areas known as Eastern and Western, with their peculiar characteristics, the Eastern being essentially a wheat growing and mixed farming country, and the western part especially adapted for ranching. Some valuable minerals are also found. Western Assiniboia, as far west as Moosejaw, which

Steel Range Exhibit.

The hardware store of N. Bigelow and Sons is the scene of busy excitement this week. Since Tuesday they have been conducting a cooking exhibit for the benefit of their customers that they may have a chance to see and test the wonderful cooking and baking qualities of the range on exhibition. The range is called the "Malleable" Steel Range and is manufactured in South Bend, Ind. Hot coffee and biscuits are served to all comers free of charge. The biscuits are baked in an incredibly short time. Those assisting to make the exhibit a success besides the regular staff of employees are Miss Mina Orr, who superintends the making of the biscuits and Mrs. S. F. and Mrs. N. Bigelow, who attend to the serving. The range is almost unbreakable and it is claimed to be a great fuel saver. The man who is exhibiting the good qualities of the range is John R. Gish, from the headquarters at South Bend, Ind. People passing by might have thought the man was in a bad frame of mind and trying to wreak revenge on an inanimate object the way he climbed over the cooking stove that sat pretty well back from the door in the hardware store. He let down an open door with his whole weight. "You will break it," some one said. Then the man with profound indifference let down the next door above that one and stepped on it with his whole weight. Then he flung down the door of the warming oven and climbed upon it, thence to the top of the stove. When he came down he picked up a heavy weight and struck the stove. The steel withstood the blow, but the deafening noise made some of on lookers shudder. He was illustrating the difference between the "Malleable" steel stove and the ordinary make. The result of the exhibit has been very gratifying to N. Bigelow & Sons.

The Girl at Number Nine --- A Pathetic Story of a Misunderstood Love.

She was neither picturesque nor romantic; and in the suburban parish where she lived there were probably a hundred girls prettier than she. But a bright, unselfish nature will make even a plain fact attractive; and there were those when you would have said that Nellie Graham was more than comely.

to control his voice. "I—we'll talk about it later on—perhaps. Good evening!" And off he swung, chin in air, twirling his cane between his fingers.

"First love is a pretty romance. But not half so sweet as 'tis reckoned; And when one awakens from the trance There's a vast deal of love in the second."

The curtain rose; and as "turn" succeeded "turn," it is probable that in all that vast audience the one implacably severe critic was Tom Marston. Nothing pleased him. The comic songs lacked humor; the sentimental possessed a distinct tendency to pathos; the acrobatic feats were devoid of originality; even Stella May, the star of the evening, radiant, outshining all her predecessors, failed to awaken his interest.

By this time his high spirits had completely evaporated. "I wonder where she has gone?" he said to himself. "She might have told her mother. Bother it! she has spoilt the whole evening."

In a flash a numbness fell upon his brain. This, however, lasted but a moment, and was followed by a curious sense of unreality; and for a space he sat staring at the paragraph, his face the color of cigar ash. "Miss Ellen Graham. It was a mistake! It could not be his Nellie, his little girl! She, who was so strong and healthy when he last saw her, to be suddenly struck down! To be lying on a bed of pain! The troubled current of his thoughts came to an abrupt standstill. "Hush, dear," she said, soothingly; and stretching out her hand she laid it caressingly upon his head. It was my fault—mine. I could have explained; but I didn't. I let you go, and I made you unhappy. My brother Ned," she continued, her voice growing stronger, "wrote me a letter begging me to meet him."

"Chronicle, sir?" "With a sense of keen disappointment Tom took the local weekly newspaper from the newsboy, and re-entering his sitting room, sat down, and mechanically opened the sheet.

In the domains of royalty the rigid observance of ancient customs is not altogether without its humorous aspect. In the Spanish court it is the custom on the birth of a royal infant to place the offspring of royalty upon a silver tray, and thus tender the child to its father, who exclaims: "It is a prince or princess, as the case may be."

MAKING A "MAN" OF HIM.

Up-to-Date Girl Gives Needed Lesson in Profanity.

There is a little woman down in Jersey who vows she has reformed a man. He is a very young man, who had always been tied to his mother's apron strings until this girl took him in hand. All last summer he tagged her around the golf links and worked like a reformed coal striker to row her up stream or beat her at tennis.

"I stood it as long as I could. Then one day at the tag end of the season he knocked over his tennis ball into the lake. I turned on him with eyes that should have been a warning; but he merely shut his teeth tight for a moment, then out of force of habit exclaimed, 'Oh, dear me! dear me!'"

It is a far cry from telegraphy to growing onions. When onion bulbs are developed enough to gather, the top shrivels. In order to hasten their development, it is customary to bend the tops over. The crease at the bend deadens the top and forces the bulb to develop. This process is called "kneeing." When sufficiently developed they are pulled and stored away.

CHAPTER XV.

"Good heaven!" murmured the Italian, sinking again into his chair. "And you are further charged with the attempted murder of the child, Alice Gravis-court, whose body you threw into the East river on a certain night, and on the same day you filed a certificate of death of Alice Gravis-court of smallpox."

"Good heaven!" gasped the quivering wretch. His face was pallid, his eyes staring, his manner that of a man beside himself with fear. The superintendent paused, giving the Italian a few minutes in which to recover.

After the pause the superintendent turned, and, looking the scoundrel full in the face, he said: "Now, Sigmotta, you see we know all about you. How would you like to spend the remainder of your days in a dark cell in Sing Sing prison?"

"It is all a lie! It is all a lie!" "Is it?" replied the superintendent. "Sigmotta cried out in his fear and 'Now listen to me while I read you two little documents I have here. Did you ever see the original of this?'"

He held the portrait of Charles Gravis-court's wife before Sigmotta. "Yes, yes, I knew her," he whispered. "Now listen."

The superintendent then proceeded to read the statement of Antonio Sigmotta, and the wretched brother of the trapeze actor sat shivering and quailing as the damning sentences were hurled at him in the superintendent's stern voice.

By the time Byrnes had finished that statement the wretch in the chair seemed ready to die of fright. "Now listen to this," said the superintendent, and he continued to read as follows: "The sworn statement of Luigi Dambo before me, —, the Prefetto of Cagliari, on the 8th day of — in the year 18—."

"Luigi Dambo, being sworn, and compelled by the obligation thus put upon me by my fear of future punishment to tell the truth, do declare that this is the true statement of my connection with the murder of Pachio Maligni, and the affairs in which he was an actor."

"I became attached to Maligni's circus in New York, and knew no person connected with it save my employer, and him only in the sense named. "After a few days of the exhibition at Madison Square Garden, in New York City, I was met by an Italian, who gave his name as Tortoni, who offered me a large sum of money if I succeeded in killing the girl, Nita Barloti, in some way that would not drag him into the matter. I made one attempt by cutting the rope of the trapeze on which Nita Barloti acted, in the hope that her weight might cause the other strands to break, and thus she would be killed by the fall. The severed rope was discovered, for the girl did not appear that night, and a new rope was substituted for the one I had cut."

"On the following night I tried fire, and saturated the ropes of the trapeze with oil, and when Barloti was aloft I set fire to them, but she was saved by Maubikeek, the Lion-Tamer, and a man from the audience whom I now recognize as Signor Wilberton."

"On this same night some person fired at Maligni and shot him in the chest. "The next day Maligni and the girl were missing, and so was Tortoni. "I kept myself secreted, knowing that the affair would stir up the police, and I saw neither Maligni, Barloti nor Tortoni for several days. "Then it became known to me that Maligni had taken passage for Europe with Barloti, and that he had plenty of money, and would, perhaps, return to Sardinia and settle."

"I sought Tortoni and found him. He told me that he had fired the shot at Maligni, and that he wanted me to follow the showman to Sardinia, and there complete the work that he and I had begun in New York. Tortoni informed me that Maligni was in possession of certain things contained in a red box which were most essential to him, and I was to get the box at all hazards. The murder of Maligni would avail nothing unless the box and its contents were obtained."

"I came to Sardinia and awaited an opportunity. At last it came. I had obtained an entrance into the Villa di Maligni by bribing some of the servants, and one night I killed Maligni and seized the box, which I found lying on the table in his room, but it was empty."

"I would have killed the girl, too, but the American had taken her away, and I could not find her in her room, where I went immediately after killing Maligni."

"There is nothing more for me to say. I am the murderer of Pachio Maligni, for which I was to be paid by Tortoni, of New York."

"Again I swear that the above statement is true, and may Jesus and the Virgin pity me as I deserve, and as no man on earth will pity me. I am lost."

"Luigi Dambo."

When the superintendent had finished this, Sigmotta's eyes were glassy, and he seemed almost ready to collapse.

"Now, Sigmotta," said the superintendent, "you are not the bird we are after. All this Sardinian affair does not interest us, any more than to show you our power. The man we want is the man who first employed you to kill Alice Gravis-court, and then to kill Maligni and Nita Barloti. Ralph Gravis-court is your master, and it is for you to choose whether you or he suffers the penalty for the crimes."

The Italian's face flushed with hope as he heard this, and looked from one of us to another in a vain search for a look of pity. "What do you want of me?" he asked. "We want a full and succinct statement from you of Gravis-court's crimes and yours, telling how the infant, Alice Gravis-court, disappeared, and how the smallpox fraud was perpetrated, hiding nothing, but revealing everything. That is what we want of you."

"And then what will you do with me?" asked Sigmotta. "Hold you until the truth of your statement is proven, and then release you."

He was a dirty, scrawny dog, but he maintained the dignity of his standing, or running, in fact, in dogdom. He might have been white at one time, with his black spots defined sharply, but circumstances evidently had compelled an existence that in recent years had not permitted a bath other than that provided by falling rain, and the indications were that he had not taken advantage of opportunities in that respect frequently.

He was trotting along under a truck that crossed Fulton street at a busy hour of the day. He glanced neither to the right nor to the left, but kept his gaze on the heels of the horses in front. If he had been a coach dog he would have been under the axle of the front wheels, but, being a truck dog, he was under the rear axle. Whether he had been trained to trot here as a protector of the tail-end of the truck from the expiring urchins of the street, or had of his own volition dropped back to a rear position as a concession to the difference between a coach dog and a truck dog, the chronicler knoweth not. At any rate, he knew his duty, and he was doing it.

Some Young-Old People. Mrs. Castlebury writes from Philadelphia to her 75-year-old son in New York that she never felt so gay and jolly in her life as at this very time, and feels quite positive that she will live to be over 100. Her handwriting is like copperplate, it is so steady and clear. At 97 she is planning amusements five years ahead. "Old Man" Cochrane, a highly respected citizen of Brooklyn, aged 93, walks from his home in Lewis avenue to Richmond Hill, a distance of seven miles, to romp on the lawn with his grandchildren. The late Secretary Gresham's mother has just celebrated her 100th birthday, hale and hearty. The advertising collector and assistant advertising manager of the Detroit Free Press is younger at 82 than any other man on the paper. He walks thirty or forty miles a day, takes a drink whenever he feels like it, and plays cards until midnight. James F. Secor, at 88, superintends his farm and country place at Pelham Manor, and there is scarcely a day that he does not handle a rake or hoe himself. As a diversion he pushes a lawn mower. There are others. Glory to every green and vigorous old age!—as Chas. A. Dana said.

A Wonderful Pill. Freedom, Mo., Nov. 3d.—A splendid remedy has recently been introduced in this neighborhood. It is called Dodd's Kidney Pills and it has cured Rheumatism right and left. On every hand may be heard stories of the remarkable recoveries and from what has been stated already there seems to be no case of Rheumatism that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

One of those who has already tested the virtue of Dodd's Kidney Pills is Katie Anderson of this place, who says: "I can't say enough for Dodd's Kidney Pills. They have helped me so much. I suffered very severely with rheumatism. Five boxes cured me completely. They are certainly the most wonderful medicine I have ever used."

Osage county abounds in just such cases and if the good work keeps on there will soon be no rheumatism left in this part of the state.

Demands Investigation. Bloomington, Ill., special: Superintendent R. S. McCauley of the Soldiers' Orphans' home has issued a signed statement requesting an immediate and thorough investigation of the charges of cruelty to inmates.

MEANT TO BE FUNNY

CHOICE SAMPLES OF THE HUMOR OF THE DAY.

One Explanation of the Origin of the College Yell—Her Golfing Costume—Only Wanted Just Reward for His Hard Work.

His Disclaimer. "No," said the American father, "there is nothing in the rumor that my daughter is engaged to the crown prince of Furrinland."

Here he assumes a pose of conscious pride, and resumes: "But she could have a crown prince if she wanted one. My fortune is now at such a figure that of the prevailing market rates I could give her 15 dukes, 20 lords, 10 earls or five ordinary princes. Thus you may see that the acquisition of a crown prince would not entail painful economy upon me."

Both Were Good.

He—I think she wears a very short golfing skirt. She—Well, why shouldn't she? She has a perfect right. He—Her left looks all right, too.

Explained It—Didn't Fight. "Did you know that your political antagonist had cast reflections on your truth and veracity?" "Yes."

"What are you going to do about it?" "Nothing. My pride forbids me to fight anyone except a gentleman. And a man who calls another a liar is no gentleman."

A Fair Philosopher. "And you really think that the ignorant may be successful in life?" said the man who enjoys abstruse discussion. "Certainly," answered Miss Cayenne; "the man who thoroughly believes in himself has a great advantage. And self-esteem is frequently based on the grossest sort of ignorance."

Quite Consistent. Miss Mainchantz—I suppose you've heard of my engagement to Mr. Jenks? Miss Ascott—Yes, and I confess I was surprised. You told me once that you wouldn't marry him for a million dollars.

Miss Mainchantz—I know, dear, but I discovered later that he had two millions.

Left Quietly. Mistress—I hope you did not have angry words with your last mistress on leaving your situation. New Servant—Lor' bless you, no, mum. I just locked her in the bathroom, took all my things, and went away as quietly as possible.—Stray Stories.

The Complaint of the Mouse. First Mouse—You don't mean to say you are afraid of women? Second Mouse—No, I'm not afraid of them; but they have such a way of screaming, you know. Really, it just upsets me completely.

Girl Goes With Every Drawing. Book—Clark is a lucky fellow. He has just won half a million dollars. Buzz—What lottery gives such prizes? Book—The matrimonial lottery.

In the Studio. Baker's Wife—I should like to have my little boy put into the picture, too. Artist—Then it will cost $20 more. Baker's Wife—But I'll take him in my lap.—Lippincott's.

Its Origin.

Wit of Great Preacher. Of all the brilliant preachers of modern times no one shone more resplendently in conversation than the eloquent Baptist minister, Robert Hall. For all whining pietists, for all oracular utterers of commonplace, all arguers for praise, in the pulpit or elsewhere, the great preacher had an ineffable contempt. One day a sickly, querulous old man belonging to his congregation met him in the street and said: "Ah, Mr. Hall, you have never been to see me, sir. I've—I've been very ill; I've been—at death's door, Mr. Hall. "Why didn't you step in?" was the quick response.

When asked for advice by a young man who desired to enter the ministry, and who gave as a reason that he wished not to bury his talents in a napkin, Hall replied: "Then put them in a pocket handkerchief, sir; that will be large enough!"

Horses Bring Fancy Prices. Thirty-eight Russian Orloff carriage horses, just imported, have been auctioned off in New York. One four-hand team sold for $7,950. Many sales were made around $1,500.

Grump—Where on earth did those students get that college yell? Hump—Why, once upon a time they upset a hornets' nest.

A Good Excuse. He was wandering in Ireland and came upon a couple of men "in bolts" rolling on the road. The man on top was pommeling the other within an inch of his life. The traveler intervened. "It's an infernal shame to strike a man when he's down," said he. "If you knew all the trouble I had to get him down," was the reply, "you wouldn't be talking like that."

Scrawny and Dirty, but He Did His Duty Well.

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH OF KIDNEYS EVERY TIME.

Major T. H. Mars, of the First Wisconsin Cavalry regiment, writes from 1425 Dunning street, Chicago, Ill., the following letter:

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the kidneys, and in the army. Medicine did not help me any until a comrade who had been helped by Pe-Ru-na advised me to try it. I bought some at once, and soon found blessed relief. I kept taking it four months, and am now well and strong and feel better than I have done for the past twenty years, thanks to Pe-Ru-na."

Mr. John Vance, of Hartford City, Ind., says: "My kidney trouble is much better. I have improved so much that everybody wants to know what medicine I am using. I recommend Pe-Ru-na to everybody and some have commenced to use it. The folks all say that if Dr. Hartman's medicine cures me it must be great."—John Vance.

Mr. J. Brake, of Portola, Ontario, Canada writes: "Four years ago I had a severe attack of Bright's disease, which brought me so low the doctor said nothing more could be done for me. I began to take Pe-Ru-na and in three months I was as well as man and have continued so ever since."—J. Brake.

At the appearance of the first symptom of kidney trouble, Pe-Ru-na should be taken. This remedy strikes at once the very root of the disease. It cures catarrh of the kidneys, the stagnant blood, prevents the escape of serum from the blood. Pe-Ru-na stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulating poison, and thus prevents the convulsions which are sure to follow if the poisons are allowed to remain. It gives great vigor to the heart's action and digestive system, both of which are apt to fall rapidly in this disease. Pe-Ru-na cures catarrh of the kidneys simply because it cures catarrh wherever located. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Pe-Ru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Constipation Undermine Your Health.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cures Constipation.

When the sewer of a city becomes stopped up, the refuse backs into the streets where it decays and rots, spreading disease-creating germs throughout the entire city. An epidemic of sickness follows. It is the same way when the bowels fail to work. The undigested food backs into the system and there it rots and decays. From this festering mass the blood saps up all the disease germs, and at every heart beat carries them to every tissue, just as the water works of a city forces impure water into every house. The only way to cure a condition like this is to cure the constipation. Pills and the ordinary cathartics will do no good.

MULL'S GRAPE TONIC

is a crushed fruit tonic-laxative which permanently cures the ailment. The tonic properties contained in the grape go into every afflicted tissue and creates strength and health. It will quickly restore lost flesh and make rich, red blood. As a laxative its action is immediate and positive, gentle and natural. Mull's Grape Tonic is guaranteed or money back.

Send me to Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill., for large sample bottle. All druggists sell smaller sized bottles for 10 cts.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.
Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, exposes the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures the catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. A. ## The Best Remedy for Group.

[This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for group is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The group remedies are almost as sure to be lost in case of group, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for group, known as live syrup and tain, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale at Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

The mammoth beet sugar factory made its start on its first campaign Monday with a full force of employees, all machinery working perfectly. There were enough beets in the sheds to keep the factory going for a few days and more have been coming in daily by team and train, so there is no doubt enough will come in to keep the factory going for the rest of the campaign, which will last at least 30 days.—Sebewaing Blade.

Disastrous Wrecks.

Carelessness is responsible for many a railway wreck and the same causes are making many wrecks of sufferers from Throat and Lung troubles. But since the advent of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, even the worst cases can be cured and hopeless resignation is no longer necessary. Mrs. Lois Craig, of Dorchester, Mass., is one of many whose life was saved by Dr. King's New Discovery. This great remedy is guaranteed for all Throat and Lung diseases at T. H. Fritz, Druggist, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

George Copenhaver, a German farmer residing about a mile a half south of St. Mary's Catholic church, in Burnside township, was found dead in his barn at about 6 o'clock Thursday morning with his throat cut, the rash deed having evidently been committed by his own hand. Neighbors say that the unfortunate man was despondent over the failure of his crops, due to the extremely wet season. He was a middle aged man and leaves a family.—North Branch Gazette.

State S. S. Convention.

The Executive Committee of the Michigan Sunday School Association held its quarterly meeting in Lansing, Sept. 26th, at which the program for the coming Annual Convention, (to be held in that city Nov. 18, 19, 20) was under consideration and adopted.

From present indications, this program will furnish a veritable feast of practical information along modern Sunday School lines and several new features will be introduced.

Speakers of national and international reputation have been secured who will interest and instruct Sunday School officers and teachers desiring more practical results in the work of their county, township and school.

Among the speakers are Marion Lawrence, Toledo, Inter. Gen. Sec.; Chas. D. Meigs, St. Louis, Mo., Associate Editor Sunday School Evangel, and who is known as the "Sunday School hustler," both of whom have been heard in Michigan in former years with great delight and profit.

Hugh Cork, Philadelphia, Pa., Gen. Sec. Pa. Sunday School Association, Miss Finie M. Burton, Kindergarten Instructress of Louisville, Ky., and Prof. E. O. Exell, the famous convention leader and apostle of song, has been secured to conduct the singing.

The complete program with full particulars will be published in the October and November issues of the Sunday School Advance.

The Michigan Passenger Association has granted a one-fare rate for the round trip as in former years.

At the committee meeting, Gen. Sec. Alfred Day reported a prevailing desire for closer relations with the State Association in convention work. He found a most serious hindrance, however, in the failure to secure co-operation from many county officers in planning for their annual convention far enough in advance to enable an itinerary of dates convenient alike to County and State and arranged in due form, that he might reach all the counties without changes or conflict of dates.

State Treasurer H. H. Simpson, Bad Axe, reported that all the counties and individuals pay their pledges in full by Nov. 1st, the date on which his books will be closed for the year, there will be sufficient funds to meet all obligations. C. J. Burnett, Lansing, is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

A child of Mrs. Geo. T. Benson, when getting his usual Saturday night bath, stepped back against a hot stove which burned him severely. The child was in great agony and his mother could do nothing to pacify him. Remembering that she had a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house, she thought she would try it. In less than half an hour after applying it the child was quiet and asleep, and in less than two weeks was well. Mrs. Benson is a well known resident of Kellar, Va. Pain Balm is an anesthetic liniment and especially valuable for burns, cuts, bruises and sprains. For sale at Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston.

About twelve o'clock Thursday night a gentleman passing the railroad depot discovered that the roof of the building was on fire. He gave the alarm and the fire department responded promptly and by hard work succeeded in confining the fire to the roof, which was practically destroyed. The baggage and freight was all removed safely. It was one of the most stubborn fires to subdue that the department has ever been called upon to fight and it looked for a time as if they might not be able to handle it or save W. H. Carey & Co's elevator which stands directly across the track. But persistent effort on their part succeeded and they are entitled to great praise for the successful outcome of their efforts. The origin of the fire is unknown but from the fact it broke out near the chimney it is supposed to have been caused by an overheated flue.—Bad Axe Democrat.

The riches of the Klondike pale before the luster of that $300,000,000 that the farmers of Minnesota and the Dakotas alone have received for their produce this year.

Says the Buffalo Courier: The plan of European nations to organize against the invasion of American capital and products is as impracticable as their attempts to compete with this country without discarding antiquated machinery.

A "sporty young Chicago millionaire" has named his automobile "The Reaper." It is a machine with a cowcatcher resembling that of a locomotive. Considering the achievements of automobiles in mowing down pedestrians this name seems to fit.

The demand for American goods is increasing in Canada; hardware, brass goods, agricultural and farming implements, ladies' novelties, boots, shoes and hats are especially popular, and goods are advertised as American in order to win patronage.

According to Professor Baldwin Spencer, formerly of Oxford, now of Melbourne University, the blacks of Central Australia are free from one "white man's burden." He has spent several years making ethnological investigations among them, and one of his discoveries was that a mother-in-law was not allowed to come within a mile of the "mia-mia" (hut) of her married daughter.

It is becoming a matter of some difficulty to determine whether the steam roads or the trolleys kill and maim the greater number of persons. The unpracticed and reckless persons who undertake to guide automobiles on city and country highways seem to be fired with a desire for maiming and manslaughter that will shortly give them rank as competitors.

FROM ALL OVER MICHIGAN

The Great Game. In what is conceded to be the greatest football game ever played on a western gridiron, Michigan decisively defeated Wisconsin in Chicago Saturday, and undoubtedly won at the same time the championship of the west, though a later game must be won before that honor can be claimed.

The trick was turned in the presence of 20,000 enthusiastic spectators, and the din made by the rooters was incessant and deafening at times, drowning out the sound of the signals so the plays were run off with difficulty.

The weather was fine, but too warm for such a hard game, and the players suffered accordingly. There were few delays for foul play, and Michigan showed the effect of her continued aggressive offense in having men laid out.

Sandbagged and Robbed. B. E. Trick, a traveling salesman from Logansport, Ind., was sandbagged Friday night at White Pigeon, robbed of $190 and thrown on the railroad track in an unconscious condition.

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD

The Coal Investigation. The majority of the members of the anthracite coal strike commission left for Scranton, Pa., where they will meet to begin their investigation of the conditions in the mining region.

The first place to be visited after leaving Scranton probably will be Wilkesbarre. The tour of the commission through the coal fields in advance of the hearings will be of a preliminary character, as the same points will be visited later for the taking of testimony of the mine bosses, foremen and the miners themselves.

The towns to be visited probably will include Hazleton, Shenandoah, Pottsville, Tamaqua, Shamokin and Carbon-dale.

Members of the commission say they will go into the subject exhaustively, and one of them said he believed the report would be ready within two months.

Mitchell day was celebrated by all the union miners in the anthracite region Wednesday. There was a general suspension of work. A few washeries were working, but their output of coal was very small.

There were demonstrations in many of the near-by towns and after the parades the people flocked to Wilkesbarre in large numbers to see the big parade there.

Shamokin, 7,000 miners, headed by the 10th Regiment band and troops, paraded the streets, after which the mine workers were addressed by several labor leaders. All business was generally suspended.

"Mitchell day" is the anniversary of the loss of the big strike, Oct. 29, 1900, when the mine workers refused to work after being out six weeks, the owners having granted a 10 per cent increase in wages and other concessions.

As in the present strike, President Mitchell then conducted the strike for the mine workers.

A. B. Barnes, Kalamazoo, was the possessor of riches for 40 years that he knew nothing about. While working engaged in tearing down his old store building were at work in the cellar they came across a keg covered with an inch of dust.

Gen. Uribe-Urbe, one of the leaders of the Colombian revolution, has surrendered with 10 cannon, 2,500 rifles, and 300,000 rounds of ammunition.

The surrender of Uribe-Urbe is said to complete the pacification of the departments of Magdalena and Bolivar. The revolutionists now occupy the isthmus only.

There have been further serious earthquakes throughout Guatemala since the eruption of Santa Maria is yet in great eruption. There were tremendous detonations Tuesday morning.

The volcano has thrown a deep mantle of ashes upon the town of Quezaltenango (which has been partly rebuilt since the earthquakes of last April) and upon the town of Mecatlanango. The volcano is near both of these places.

All towns, villages and plantations near the volcano have been abandoned and the residents are fleeing to places of safety. The entire republic is in a disturbed condition owing to the seismic waves. Guatemala City, although more than 100 miles from Santa Maria, hears its continuous thundering.

Minister Wu is working hard to induce the powers parties to the treaty of Peking to consent to arbitrate the important question as to whether the indemnities to be paid them shall be paid in gold or silver.

The issue of the utmost importance; in fact, it is said that the insistence of the powers upon a settlement on the gold basis would mean the ruin of the Chinese empire, which is totally unable to pay the vast sum of nearly 450,000,000 taels in gold.

With this object in view, Wu has appealed to the United States for help in influencing the other powers to accept the proposition in behalf of the United States if the other powers can be brought into line.

Robert Smith, a member of the life saving station at Sleeping Bear point, says there is considerable anxiety felt in South Manitowish island over the fact that it is thought the island may suddenly disappear in the lake. A few days ago the members built a small boathouse near the station. After it had been completed a short time the ground about the building began to sink and suddenly the entire building dropped out of sight.

Refus Cantrell, of Indianapolis, the leader of the Indian robbers, whose disclosures have so far starting, testified before the grand jury and implicated, he says, 15 additional physicians and undertakers, and every one of the local medical and dental colleges that have thus far escaped scolding.

He also makes the statement that one or two women embalmers will be shown guilty of complicity in the purchase and concealment of bodies. He says he has shielded these men long enough, and he is also tired of protecting the women.

Doctors connected with the medical colleges of Fort Wayne, Louisville and Cincinnati will be implicated, Cantrell says.

Growers on Lacandona near Tapachula, Mexico, will suffer great loss from the fact that their stock cannot procure food, the fields being covered with ashes from the Santa Maria volcano. The brooks are choked with ashes and cinders and all the neighboring roads are covered with them.

Investigation shows that there was no loss of life during the recent disturbances. Reports from towns across the Guatemala border show that the alarm was intense, everybody fled, and a similar fate befell Martineque and St. Vincent. Government experts are studying the effects of the eruption.

Gen. Uribe-Urbe, one of the leaders of the Colombian revolution, has surrendered with 10 cannon, 2,500 rifles, and 300,000 rounds of ammunition. They retreated to Rio Frio, where they were surrounded. The surrender came after two days' fighting. Gen. Castillo was with Uribe-Urbe.

Details of the fighting are lacking but the casualties on both sides are said to have been very heavy.

The surrender of Uribe-Urbe is said to complete the pacification of the departments of Magdalena and Bolivar. The revolutionists now occupy the isthmus only.

Moving Slowly.

The arbitration commission which is engaged in settling the differences existing between the anthracite coal operators and the mine workers decided while on their tour of the Wyoming valley to adjourn Thursday until Friday, November 14, when the taking of testimony will be begun.

The first four days of this week will be taken up in inspecting the mines and mining towns from Hazleton south to the end of the hard coal fields. All of this territory is in districts No. 7 and 9 of the United Mine Workers of America, and is under the jurisdiction of President Thos. Duffy and John Fahney of the union, who will accompany the commission.

Chairman Gray said the object in taking a recess of one week was for the purpose of giving both sides sufficient time to prepare their cases and also to give the members of the commission an opportunity to examine the issues. The commissioners feel that the questions involved are so important that any haste may work an injury to either side in the final verdict.

When the hearings are begun next week it is the intention to have the miners, who are considered the plaintiffs, submit their case first. How long it will take to hear all the testimony cannot be estimated by the commissioners. The 67 industrial operators will also be given an opportunity to be heard as well as all the larger coal companies.

A Great Combine. "At a meeting of the principal wholesale grocers of the United States, to be held in Detroit on Wednesday, November 14, a preliminary step will be taken for the formation of a wholesale grocery combine that will be next in size and importance to the United States Steel corporation." The move will mean a consolidation of all the big wholesale houses of the United States on a scale hitherto not dreamed of. The plans of the men interested have been carefully guarded, but enough has leaked out to state that the combine will probably take in the principal wholesale houses of Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Washington, Rochester, N. Y., Buffalo, Syracuse, Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo, Akron and Canton, O., Louisville, Ky., Atlanta, Ga., Charleston, S. C., Mobile, Ala., New Orleans, Galveston, Tex., Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Paul, St. Louis, San Francisco and possibly San Francisco.

Pineapple Juice.
In peeling a fresh pineapple the eyes and pulp should never be thrown away until they, too, have contributed to the larder. Put these fragments from a large pineapple with six unpeeled greening or other tart, juicy apples into a saucepan, turn on water enough to nearly cover them, cook until they are soft and drain through a jelly bag. Boil the liquor thus obtained for twenty minutes. Then measure it, add an equal proportion of sugar and cook again for five minutes. Fill into tumblers.

If time is scarce an easier process is to cook the eyes and core in water sufficient to cover them until they are soft, and then press them through a sieve and boil the juice with sugar for a few minutes. The flavored syrup will be useful in an apple or peach pie, in a pudding sauce, in lemonade or fruit punch, to serve with a fruit macedoine or with cut up bananas and oranges, or for no end of purposes.

Stylish Cloth Suit.
The double-breasted blouse jacket is fastened with two rows of handsome buttons, and has a fancy shoulder collar of the material finished with a single row of stitching. The sleeves, full at the bottom, are ornamented on the outside with buttons and tassels. The skirt is trimmed with seven graduated shaped ruffles, edged with stitching. The girde is of black duchess satin.—Chic Parisien.

Some New Hair Ornaments.
Tortoise shell combs are worn as much as ever and the usual set includes three or four, the extra one being a pompadour comb, which is placed in the hair entirely for service, as it does not show when the coiffure is completed. The newest combs are certainly designed with some idea of comfort, for the rims are rounded down in the center to fit about the flat knob on the top of the head. Even the larger comb, intended to keep up stray "scolding locks," is curved after the same fashion.

This, by the way is narrower than formerly, and does not give the head so broad a look as the heavily rimmed ones that have been the correct thing.

For evening wear there are jeweled tortoise shell combs, in sets of three and four, but for the street nothing is quite so pretty as rich ruby shell, plain and polished until it glows.

General Federation Roll.
According to a list which appears in the Club Woman, the organ of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, 117 organizations have been admitted to the General Federation since April, Kansas contributes 35 to this list, the largest number from one state, and California is second, 20 being the number admitted from that state. The American Women's Literary Society of Shanghai, China, and the Woman's Club of Sitka, Alaska, have become affiliated with the General Society since the May biennial held in Los Angeles. The Shanghai organization is the first club from the Flowery Kingdom to be admitted. Two federations have also come into the fold, namely, the National Federation of Catholic Women's Clubs (headquarters in Chicago), and the Seattle Federation of Seattle, Wash. New York city is represented on the list by two organizations, the Emma Willard Association and the College Women's Club, both of which have a number of Brooklyn members. Application for admission has been made by the Women's Club of Saltillo, Mexico. Mrs. Dimies T. S. Denison of Manhattan is president of the General Federation. The new clubs referred to have been admitted since the present administration came into power and the increase in membership is regarded as an auspicious beginning by the friends of Mrs. Denison and her associates on the executive board.

Satins and Brocades.
Next to the sumptuous yellow satins, moires and brocades that rank prominently among the evening textiles to be worn for two seasons to come, the beautiful rose tints stand supreme. In dancing toilets of silk or satin draped with lace and trimmed with satin ribbons, a soft pink gown imparts an exquisite glow to the complexion. Many of the French toilets in cameo, orchid or sea-shell pink, and pink alone, are of chiffon or mousseline de soie, over taffeta or peau de cygne of a deeper shade. Other toilets are mixed or delicately toned with reseda or sea green, pale mauve or honeysuckle yellow and also a certain very beautiful faint shade of fawn color.

Lace Tunics on Gowns.
Lace tunics are appearing largely on evening gowns; they are a capital way of renovating a skirt, the thicker the lace the more a la mode. A regrettable feature in the modes of the moment is the wearing of gowns that are suited for evening in the morning, and now satin shoes, with lace-trimmed stockings, are to be seen at many of our fashionable resorts. All stiffening is vanished from skirt fittings, except just at the hem, to the depth of three inches. Sleeves expand at the elbow, skirts at the hem.

Plaids in Wool and Silk.
Plaids in wool materials and silks have made their appearance once again, but they are never a pleasing revival, in spite of the fact that they are sure to come around with periodical regularity.

In the hairy wool materials you see small, almost invisible plaids which are subdued enough to meet with some success, perhaps, but women who dress in the best of taste are not as a rule fond of plaids. At least not of anything more pronounced than the dainty checked silks.

For children's wear they are especially useful, while in velvets and silks for millinery purposes they are shown in the brightest colorings of the original Scotch varieties. How they will flourish remains to be seen, but it is hardly to be expected with the present elegance in dress that they will find universal favor.

Pretty Theater Waist.
Blouse of white silk ornamented with rows of white silk fagoting and trimmed around the low neck, down the front and on the outside of the sleeves, with motifs of white filet lace, alternating with white chiffon roses or rosettes. The cuffs are fagoted.

A Meringue That Never Fails.
Never use a wheel beater for a meringue. Only with an egg whip can one obtain good results. Use a deep plate. Take the whites of two fresh eggs, add a speck of salt, and whip until the whites are frothy; then add as much cream of tartar as would make a lump the size of a common bean; continue whipping until you have a dry froth; fold in lightly two level tablespoons granulated sugar; if flavor is desired, add it before whipping; spread on plate and set in the front of the oven with the door open; turn it once, and let it stay for at least two minutes, then push into the oven, shut the door and brown slightly. This meringue is always perfect, and will be good when several days old. It is dry on the outside and tender within.

Fruit Wine.
Bruise the berries with the back of a spoon and strain through a flannel bag. Add 1 pound of sugar to 1 quart of juice, stir well and cover closely, letting it stand for three days, stirring well each day. Pour off the clear juice and add sherry wine if cared for. Bottle and use in two weeks.

Ostrich Plumes for Winter Hats.
Ostrich plumes are to be characteristic hat trimming of winter, and it now is a stylish trick to wear white plumes that shade off at the tip into some tint appearing in the costume.

To boil cream the day before enhances the richness of the coffee into which it is poured.

To Take Stains Out of Knives.—Take a piece of raw potato, dip it into brick dust, and scour the blades with it.

Red tablecloths keep their color if a little borax is added to the rinse water and they are dried in the shade. Lay rusty keys and locks in paraffin oil and let them lie covered for some time. The oil will loosen the rust, so that it can be rubbed off.

To Prevent Rust.—To prevent articles of iron and steel from rusting, immerse or wash them for a few moments with a solution of carbonate of potash or soda.

To Whiten Linen.—A tablespoonful of turpentine in a clothes boiler will whiten linen, take out the stains and render washing easier. Flour is very cleansing and will clean the goods as well as soap; rinse well afterwards.

The Latest Ideas From Paris

Flower boleros represent the latest idea in floral garniture so much in favor this and last season.

Some of the newest combs for the hair are surmounted by artistic decorations of fruit or flowers or foliage.

A wrist bag of suede frequently has the ordinary chain handle replaced by a narrow ribbon of the same shade as the suede. The ribbon is doubled and tied at one side in a bow.

Ecrú Valenciennes lace is used again this year on gowns of white organdie, though preference is given to the pure white laces as a trimming for the new gowns of this dainty material.

The rage for green this season is carried out in laces, dyed in several shades of this vivid color. A hat trimmed with green and white shows a crown and brim of pleated white tulle, draped with deep green lace. A bow of dark green and red velvet is placed at the back.

THE LITTLE CRADLE.
It's over there, in the shadow, where the lonesome things must be,
But I meet the eyes of the mother, with tears in the eyes of me;
Tears for the years
With their hopes and fears,
Tears for the dead, sweet years!
I lead her out to the sunshine, where the flowers are fair to see;
But what do the flowers say to her, an' what do they say to me?
Tears for the years
With their hopes and fears,
Tears for the dead, sweet years!
An' I say: "God's world is bloomin', an' the birds—they sing to-day!"
But her dim eyes follow the misty path of the bird that's down away.
Tears for the years
With their hopes and fears,
Tears for the dead, sweet years!"
So I lead her back to the shadow, where the lonesome relics be,
An' I tell her: "God gave the gift of tears to you dear, an' to me!"
Tears for the years
With their hopes and fears,

MAGICIAN'S TRICK
There are many tricks of the magician that an ingenious boy can perform with neatness and skill, and thus afford entertainment for a company when other forms of amusement have become tiresome. Nobody ever gets tired of magic, and the boy who can perform little feats of this kind is always popular; besides, he learns something himself and teaches it to others. The trick here described is an illustration of specific gravity.

Get an ordinary mustard bottle, and pour water into it until it is three-fourth full. Make two holes in the cork through which stout straws will fit, the straws to be about eight inches in length. One of them is put in so that it will extend down into the neck of the bottle. Put sealing wax around the straws where they pierce the cork, so as to make the openings airtight.

Now, take two walnut half-shells, and bore a hole to fit the straw in the bottom of each. Put one of them on the straw that extends higher out of the cork, and make it fit tightly with sealing wax. Put the other one on the lower straw, make the joint airtight with sealing wax, and then into a second hole, previously bored in this shell at the side put a straw that will extend down diagonally. Put sealing wax around this also, for all the joints must be both airtight and water-tight.

Now, pour water into the upper shell, and it will run down into the bottle, causing the level of the water there to rise; but as the bottle has been made perfectly tight, the air in it is compressed when the water is poured in, and that will make the water and arranged cork and straws as in the other experiment, propose to your company to change a glass of wine into water.

"Do this you have only to pour the wine into the upper shell; from there it will run down into the bottle, a little at a time, and as wine has less specific gravity than water, it will remain on the surface of the water in the bottle.

THE STRANGE FIGURE

Draw this figure with a heavy line, not too small on a sheet of paper and offer to bet with anybody that he will not be able to draw the same figure without a copy. If he should take you up, cover the figure with your hand and he will to his own chagrin be unable to draw the strange figure from memory.

Surprise in a Country School.
The author of "Fowls of the Air" says that he has one exciting association with a certain bird belonging to American ornithology. It was in the old school by the cross roads, one sleepy September afternoon. A class in spelling took the crack in front of the master's desk. The rest of the

A PAPER KETTLE

Water may be boiled in a paper kettle without burning the paper. You make a little box or kettle of legal cap paper, fill it about a quarter or half full of water, and hang it up by four threads, one in each corner, over a spirit lamp. The water will soon begin to boil, but the paper will not burn. This is because all the heat from the lamp is used up in changing the temperature of the water from cold to hot. As soon as the water has really boiled and you are satisfied that the first statement made here is all right, pour the water out, and in its place substitute some small pieces of tin. If you watch you will be surprised to see that the tin will begin melted before the paper will begin even to burn. But of course this is not making the paper fireproof by any manner of means, and it is only because of the water or the tin that the paper does not burn. If you want to make the paper really fireproof all you have to do is to dip the paper in a very strong solution of alum water and then hang it up to dry. When it is entirely dry, dip it in the alum water again, and repeat this two or three times. When it is finally dry you may hold it in the flame of a candle and it will not burn.

A Three Days' Jag On Sulphuric Acid.

Ex-Representative Morgan of Missouri tells a good story about an old toper in the state of the muddy water. When he first settled down to practice the town boasted of a drug store run by one of his friends. The store had a soda fountain and back of this, with the bottles of liquids otherwise medicinal, was placed a bottle of whisky. In the town was an octogenarian, known as Uncle Billy. It was Uncle Billy's habit to step into the drug store every morning, pass behind the counter, and help himself to a tumbler of whisky.

"Good mornin'," he always said, and "Good mornin', Uncle Billy," everybody said to him. That was about all that passed in a conversational way as he made his regular morning call.

One morning Uncle Billy had made his regular visit to the habitat of the whisky bottle, and was just disappearing through the door when the druggist discovered that Uncle Billy had drunk out of the wrong bottle. He had taken his potion from a bottle of sulphuric acid. Well, the druggist was almost panic-stricken. Uncle Billy had gotten out of sight, meantime, and the druggist closed the door of his shop, and in fear and trembling sent for his friend, the struggling young lawyer who later represented the state in congress. When told the situation

Morgan advised that the only thing to do was to open the doors just as if nothing had happened and to await developments.

Both momentarily expected word of Uncle Billy's death. Three days passed and no word came. Finally they were about to conclude that he had dropped dead from his dose of the poison in some obscure spot where no one had yet come along to discover him, when Uncle Billy, looking a little the worse for wear, but smiling all over, walked in rather nervously. The druggist was beside himself for joy.

"Glad to see you, Uncle Billy," he exclaimed, and repeated. "I am certainly glad to see you this morning. I've got a bottle of the finest brand of whisky I want you to try."

"Sorry," answered Uncle Billy, "but the fact is the last time I was here I got some that was a leetle bit different. From anything I ever had before. But it was the finest I ever tasted, and I think I will stick to that."

And the old man, who, instead of being killed by the poison, had gotten a three days' jag on it, insisted on being allowed to sample the sulphuric acid again.

A practical joke is a fool's cowardly insult.

Life's Plans Seem Sadly Out of Joint.

If, indeed, the intention was that life should mean happiness, how sad has been the blundering! For consider, for one thing, the pitiful ignorance which has resulted in such tragic suffering to humanity. As a matter of fact, man has been cheated of his birthright, supposing him entitled to happiness, for has he not been compelled, unaided, to wrestle with the problem of fitting himself to his environment? Through long ages, by sweat of brow, travail of spirit and onerous physical toil, he has struggled to adjust himself to conditions into which he was thrust. He found no paradise of happiness free to all. Life is a perpetual struggle, not elysium, says Vogue. Not only have millions been the victims of hideous slavery, but the whole race, from all time, has suffered cruelly because of ignorance, the most pathetic phase of this suffering being the unpremeditated cruelty and injustice which results from ignorant parentage. Can those who claim happiness as a birthright explain why sentient beings predestined for happiness are not put in the way of achieving it? For instance, is the fate which is supposed to dispense happiness asleep, or gone on a journey, that it permits northern capitalist unholy love of money to combine with southern parental greed for the torture of children, in the process of mill money getting? If happiness be the designed portion for humanity, then are life's plans sadly out of joint, for the most cunning of malevolent spirits could not possibly devise greater variety or more lacerating kinds of misery than those which human beings in all grades of society are made to experience. Apart from the inevitable personal sorrows which affect all, how is it possible for any but the very young or the very selfish to be happy in a world where the majority are miserable because of disease, little health, dire poverty, incapacity, onerous labor or cruel anxiety? Life as discipline for character-building is an inspiring conception. Life as an abortive happy hunting ground is an appalling theory.

Some of the Popular Cures for Rheumatism.

American men of science have returned to an old cure for rheumatism, in the shape of bee stings. The scientific explanation is that a bee when stinging injects formic acid which is a cure for rheumatism. What probably happens is that the patient, after having sat for some time on the beehive, forgets all about the rheumatism.

It is probably the long continuance of damp weather which has inspired so many newspaper correspondents to give the world just now their notions on cures for rheumatism. We referred briefly the other day to the American revival of cure by bee stings—a measure heroic enough to please every Simon Stylites in the world; and now we are told in the press of a cure by means of a mole's foot worn next to the skin, suspended from the neck by a silken cord so that it hangs a little below the chest. In many jewelers' shops one may see "rings for rheumatism," it being a common faith among even educated people that a metal ring worn on the little finger of the left hand is a cure infallible. But of all these notions the most interesting and probably the most popular in England is that known by the name of the potato cure, as the London Globe says. It is said that if a person suffering from rheumatism will carry a potato about with him he will find himself free from pain and distress. It is asserted that a potato carried in the pocket of a rheumatic person will speedily become as hard as a rock, while in the keeping of a person free from the complaint it remains in its ordinary condition. Therefore it would appear as if the explanation of "faith" in this case does not apply—as it would perhaps in the matter of charms. So far as we know, science has no pronounced judgment on the potato cure, but it would certainly be interesting to obtain a scientific explanation of the hardening of the potato.

Revenge may be sweet if one could forget.

VOLUNTEERS FOR THE FRONT.

Embarrassing Mistake Made by a Visitor to Hayti.

The character of the frequent revolutions in Hayti tends decidedly toward opera bouffe as attested by a story which has gained currency in the navy department during the last week. It emanated from a man who held, under one of the mushroom governments of Hayti, the post of admiral of the Haytian navy, the same office held by Admiral Killick, who is reported to have gone to the bottom with his ship, the Crete-a-Pierrot, when it was sunk by the German gunboat Panther.

The admiral was standing in the doorway of a hotel in Port au Prince in company with another American, who was familiar with Haytian customs.

Down the main street came a band of negroes. They were ignorant looking and seemed little inclined to march ahead, but were forced along against their wills by the persuasive powers of long black whips, in the hands of brilliantly uniformed persons, evidently officers of the Haytian army.

"Who are those—convicts?" asked the admiral, turning to his friend.

The friend appeared surprised, for he had just finished talking of the revolution reported to be raging outside Port au Prince. "Why, no indeed, they're not convicts," he replied. "They are volunteers going to the front."

WHAT MOST IMPRESSED HIM.

How Young Moody Came to Admire Fortitude of Stephen.

Paul D. Moody, son of the evangelist, was a class deacon and a power of righteousness in his class at Yale—1901. To his strength of character were added companionable qualities that made him very popular with his fellows.

One day Paul was induced to get into the exhilarating game of "nigger through a conspiracy it devolved upon him to pay the rigorous penalty of the game, which consisted in crouching against Alumni hall while the other participants, fifty feet away took three shots each at him with a tennis ball. Great was the hope of the Philistines that a worldly, undeaconlike cry would burst from the target at some stinging hit, but none came.

"I guess you swore under your breath once or twice, anyway; now, didn't you, Paul?" a fellow player asked, when the ordeal was over.

"No, I didn't," replied Moody frankly. "But, I tell you when 'Bob' Robertson (the 'Varsity pitcher) was throwing, I appreciated as never before the magnificent fortitude of Stephen, the stoned martyr."

Newfoundland Sparsely Settled.
The island of Newfoundland—a territory as large as the state of New York—has only about 250,000 inhabitants, and these are sprinkled along the coast line.

Seven Year Sentence.
Albert Adams who killed Jas. Henry the young Indian boy on the road between Sebawing and Unionville on June 28 last, has at last reached Jackson, the place he had hoped from the day the crime was committed that he would escape. Judge Beach in taking into consideration the age of the prisoner, was very lenient in his sentence, giving him but seven years although those who know the old gentleman best believe that he will not live the full term of his sentence. Previous to Adam's trouble with the Indian boy, he had applied for a pension. Sheriff Blinn took him to Jackson on Friday. —Caro Courier.
