GONE TO HIS REWARD

Rev. Geo. F. Smith, of Deford, Passes Away Suddenly.

Memorial Service Held Here on Tuesday.

Rev. Geo. F. Smith, pastor of the Deford charge of the M. E. Church, died at his home on Thursday afternoon last, Mar. 26th, of heart trouble. He had been doing his work till within a few weeks past, when it was decided that he must take a rest, with the hope of restoring his health in a measure at least. He was somewhat improved after a short absence from home, and it was hoped he might soon be able to resume his work. On the day of his death he had been attending a meeting of the Ladies' Aid a mile or two from his home. Being taken ill he was driven home by his wife as hastily as possible and a physician was called, but in about 20 minutes he passed away. His daughter, Louise, was in Detroit on her way home from Albion College when she received word of her father's death.

Mr. Smith entered the British army as a bugle boy when a mere lad, and passed through the Sepoy Rebellion in India, in '57-8. When some 18 years of age he came to America. In 1871, he was united in marriage with Miss Hannah Jackson, of Ferguson, Ont. To them were born three children, two daughters and one son. The son, the twin mate of Louise, died when six years of age. The elder daughter, Mrs. Derby, is located in N. Dakota.

Mr. Smith was converted about 18 years ago, and soon began to preach in the local ranks. In 1890 he came to Michigan, and since that time he has supplied work on frontier charges. He was ever devoted to his work, and sacrificed himself for the welfare of his people, often preaching four times on a Sunday. Unselfish devotion to his people characterized all his actions. Brother Smith was a man who never said much about his holiness; he did not need to. But those who came in contact with him felt that he was a man in touch with God. He was beloved and honored by his people. The funeral sermon was preached by Presiding Elder Stewart, at Deford, on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, but for the convenience of the friends on the Grant charge, a memorial service was held in the M. E. Church in Cass City in the afternoon. The remains were interred in the Cass City cemetery. Several of the preachers along the line acted as pall bearers. The Masonic order as well as members of other orders took part in the ceremony. The family have the sympathy of the entire community, as well as of the charges where he has travelled. A good man has gone to his reward.

A CLEAR CASE.

Dog Recently Shot Was Clearly Rabid.

There now appears to be no doubt remaining but that the dog recently shot here, belonging to Alfred Randall, was afflicted with rabies. A pig belonging to Mr. Randall, supposed to have been bitten by the dog, was taken sick and had to be killed, and two or three other dogs which showed similar symptoms were killed on Sunday. Several dogs which had been bitten about town, although no dangerous symptoms have shown, have been killed this week and a strict watch is being kept that all dogs are either muzzled or chained. Any dog now found at large without a muzzle will be shot by authority of the officials.

It has developed that the Randall dog had attempted to bite his owner on the hand, and although the skin was not broken, Mr. Randall and his friends became somewhat alarmed so that he left for Ann Arbor on Monday morning to take the Pasteur treatment. He writes back that he is feeling well, but will remain for three weeks to be treated. The virus from the dog which had been sent there had been tried on three guinea pigs, one of which died on Monday and the other two were raving, proving conclusively that the dog was rabid.

The local officials are doing all in their power to keep dogs close and prevent any fatalities, in which effort they should have the hearty support of every citizen.

For Sale

One Top Buggy, one Single Harness one Double Harness, one McCormick Rake, one Hay Rack. Inquire of S. OSTRANDER.

Four Stakes at Saginaw.

Secretary Cutting, of Saginaw, has offered a programme in the way of early-closing events that sets the pace in the way of liberality for small stakes. He announces four $1,000 early-closing events for 2:40 trotters, 2:20 trotters, 2:35 pacers and 2:20 pacers. These events are for a straight 5 per cent. entrance, with 1 per cent. payments, and nominations to be named April 15. If the horsemen of Michigan, or elsewhere for that matter, have a desire to race for the money and any disposition to show their appreciation of a liberal programme, the opportunity is now offered and these classes should be filled to overflowing. Saginaw is to give a four days' meeting the last week in July, and this is not too early for stake horses to get under way.

Secretary Cutting has closed a lease for Union Park and will throw it open to public trainers April 15. Those interested should write for entry blanks.

"A PRINCE OF EGYPT."

To be Given at the Opera House Next Tuesday and Wednesday Evenings.

We are pleased to state that this play, to be given under the auspices of the young people of the Presbyterian Church, bids fair to be a decided success, even outstripping the home talent play recently given. ## LOCALS

H. Colquhoun, of Detroit, has been in town this week, arranging for an introductory sale of his Twin Remedy No. 2, the announcement of which will be found on another page. The sale will be at the drug store of T. H. Fritz and the remedy sold at half price until April 15th.

Among those who have been spending the Easter vacation at their homes here are: Miss Myrtle Orr and Miss Cecil Fritz, of the Ypsilanti State Normal; Miss Rena Schenck, of Alma College; Miss Myrtle Brooker, teacher at St. Charles; Miss Bertha McKenzie, of the Mt. Pleasant Normal.

A very delicate surgical operation was performed last Thursday, upon Mrs. Louis I. Wheeler, of Noyesta, at the home of J. Frutchey, of this place, by Drs. A. N. Treadgold, of this place, and his brother, Geo. H. Treadgold, of Port Huron, assisted by Dr. Gallery, of Port Huron. We are pleased to say that the operation was quite successful and Mrs. Wheeler bids fair to make a quick recovery.

Rev. R. Weaver will preach upon the following subjects next Lord's Day: Morning, "Winter and Spring"; evening, "A Sad Subject." This address will have special reference to some conditions of social life in the present day. Baptist Young People's Union at 6:30. Miss Anna Handley is in charge of the topic. Please note that the evening service next Lord's Day commence at 7:30 instead of 7:00 p. m. All are cordially invited to attend the above services.

The regular monthly meeting of the Prohibition Alliance was held at the Epworth League parlors on Monday evening. The attendance was excellent and a very interesting program was given. The following officers were elected for the half-yearly term: President, Rev. Rich. Weaver; vice president, Wm. W. Withey; sec'y, Fred A. Bigelow; treas., Miss Lottie Bradley; chaplain, S. Ostrander; marshal, Miss Annie Scripture. Watch for announcement of the next meeting.

Mrs. M. J. McGillvray, whose millinery opening took place this week, has given the ladies of this vicinity an elegant display in the latest styles of the art. The shapes are very low, wide and flat, the Colonial and the Shepherd shapes predominating. Tuscan straw and braids are largely used. Flowers are the principal trimming used and come in all bright colors and an endless variety of forms. Feathers are used to some extent. The ready-to-wear hats are much more dressy than formerly but still very reasonable in price. Every lady will be interested in the display and should not fail to see it.

WANTED—Reliable young man to work in Market Garden. A good chance to learn and work up. Steady employment by month the year around. Address, giving age and wages wanted. Also what experience in farm work, etc. A. B. LEWIS, Pontiac, Mich. 4-2-2

A LOVE STORY BY AMELIA E. BARR

(Copyright, 1900, by Amelia E. Barr)

CHAPTER V.—(Continued.)

After he had gone, Mrs. Adams proposed a walk in the lovely garden, and Hyde hoped then to obtain a few words with her. But Mrs. Smith accompanied them, and Hyde found no opportunity to get a word in on his own affairs, and then, suddenly, as they turned into the main avenue, Doctor Moran and Cornelia appeared.

Quite as suddenly, Mrs. Adams divined the motive of Hyde's early visit; she opened her eyes wide, and looked at him with a comprehension so clear and real that Hyde was compelled to answer and acknowledge her suspicion by a look and movement quite as unequivocal. Yet this instantaneous understanding contained neither promise nor sympathy and he could not tell whether he had gained a friend or simply made a confession.

Doctor Moran was evidently both astonished and annoyed. He stepped out of his carriage and joined Mrs. Adams, but kept Cornelia by his side, so that Hyde was compelled to escort Mrs. Smith. And Cornelia, beyond a very civil "Good morning, sir," gave him no sign.

When the party reached the steps before the house door, though Mrs. Adams certainly invited him to remain, he had come to the conclusion that he was just the one person not wanted at that time; yet as he had plenty of self-command he completely hid beneath a gay and charming manner the chagrin and disappointment that were really tormenting him, and until he was out of sight and hearing he rode slowly, with the easy air of a man who was only sensitive to the beauty of his surroundings, and thoroughly enjoying them.

He kept this pace till quite outside the precincts of Richmond Hill, then he struck his horse with a passion that astonished the animal and the next moment shamed himself. Then he began to talk to himself in those elliptical, unfinished sentences, which the inner man understands, and so thoroughly finishes. Such reflections, blended with pet names and apologies to his horse, brought him in sight of the Van Heemskirk house, and he instantly felt how good his grandmother's sympathy would be. He saw her at the door, leaning over the upper-half and watching his approach.

"I knew it was thee!" she cried. "Now, then, what is the matter with thee?" Disappointed, wert thou last night?"

"No—but this morning I have been badly used; and I am angry at it." Then he told her all the circumstances of his visit to Richmond Hill, and she listened patiently, as was her way with all complainants.

"In too great haste are thou," were her first words. "No worse I think of Cornelia, because a little she draws back. To want, and to have thy want, that has been the way with thee all thy life long. Thy mother has taught thee to expect too much. If, now, thou hadst fallen in love with Arenta, it had been a good thing."

"If I had not seen Cornelia, I might have adored Arenta—but, then, Arenta has already a lover."

"So? And, pray, who is it?"

"Of all men in the world, the gay, handsome, Frenchman, Athanase

Hyde answered with a smile.

Tounerre, a member of the French embassy."

"And her father? To such a marriage what will he say?"

Hyde stretched out his legs and struck them lightly with his riding whip. Then, with a smile, he answered, "He will be proud enough in his heart. His daughter, the Marquise de Tounerre, will be a very great woman in his eyes."

"That is the truth. I was glad for thy mother to be a lady, and go to court and see the Queen."

"Indeed, it is the common falling; and at present there is no one like the French. I will except the President, and Mr. Adams, and Mr. Hamilton, and say the rest of us are French men."

"Listen! That is thy father's gallop. So early in the morning, what is he coming for?"

"He had an intention to go to Mr. Semple's funeral."

"That is good. Thy grandfather is already gone."

At this moment Gen. Hyde entered the room. Hurry and excitement were in his face, though they were well controlled. He gave his hand to Madame Van Heemskirk, saying: "Good morning, mother! You look well, as you always do. Where is the Colonel?"

"He has gone to Elder Semple's house. You know—"

"I know well. For a long time I have purposed to call on the old gentleman, and what I have neglected I am now justly denied, for I must leave for England this afternoon at five o'clock, and I have more to do than I can well accomplish."

George leaped to his feet at these words. "Sir," he cried, "what has happened?"

"Your uncle is dying—perhaps dead. I received a letter this morning urging me to take the first packet. Now, George, you must come with me to Mr. Hamilton's office; we have much business to arrange there."

So far his manner had been peremptory and decided, but, suddenly, a sweet and marvelous change occurred. He went close to Madame Van Heemskirk, and taking both her hands, said in a voice full of those tones that captivate women's hearts:

"Mother! mother! I bid you a loving, grateful farewell! I bid you ever be to me good, and gentle, and wise—the very best of mothers. God bless you!" Then he kissed her with a solemn tenderness, and Lysbeth understood that he believed their parting to be a final one. She sat down, weeping, and Hyde with an authoritative motion of the head, commanding his son's attendance, went hastily out. It was then eleven o'clock, and there was business that kept both men hurrying here and there until almost the last hour. At four o'clock Gen. Hyde joined his son. He looked weary and sad, and began immediately to charge George concerning his mother.

"We parted with kisses and smiles this morning," he said. "I leave her in your charge, George, and when I send her word to come to England, look well to her comfort. And be sure to come with her. Do you hear me?"

"Yes, sir."

"On no account—even if she wishes it—permit her to come alone. Promise me."

"I promise you, sir. What is there that I would not do for my mother? What is there I would not do to please you, sir?"

"I ask you, then, to play with some moderation. I ask you to avoid any entanglement with women. I ask you to withdraw yourself, as soon as possible, from those blusters for French liberty—or rather French license, robbery, and assassination. Stand by the President, and every word he says. Every word is sure to be wise and right." Then, taking out his watch, he rose, saying, "Come, it is time to go to the ship—My dear George!"

George could not speak. He clasped his father's hand, and then walked by his side to Coffee House Slip, where the North Star was lying. Before either realized the fact, the General had crossed the narrow plank; it was quickly withdrawn, and the North Star, with wind and tide in her favor, was facing the great separating ocean.

George turned from the ship in a maze. He felt as if his life had been cut sharply asunder, and that his mother's voice and presence would be the best of all comfort at that hour; so, late as it was, he rode out to Hyde Manor. His mother opened the door for him.

"I thought it was thy father, Joris," she said; "but what? Is there anything wrong? Why art thou alone?"

"There is nothing wrong, dear mother. Come, I will tell you what has happened."

He gave her his father's letter, and assumed for her sake the air of one who has brought good tidings. She silently read, and folded it.

"Ah, Joris, your father has always longed in his heart for England. Like a weaning babe that never could be weaned was he. And thou, too? Will thou become an Englishman? Woe is me! I have planned and planned, for whom I know not."

"You have planned and planned for your Joris. I desire most of all to marry the woman I love, and live here in the home that reminds me of you wherever I turn."

"So true art thou! So loving! So dear to me! Oh, I have thought ever as I worked, I shall leave my memory here—and here—and here again—for never, Joris, never, dear Joris, while thou art in this world, must thou forget me!"

"Never! Never, oh never, dear, dear mother!"

And that night they said no more. Both felt there would be plenty of time in the future to consider what ever changes it might have in store for them.

CHAPTER VI.

Aunt Angelica.

The first changes referred especially to Hyde's life, and were not altogether approved by him. His pretense of reading law had to be abandoned, for he had promised to remain at home with his mother, and it would not therefore be possible for him to dawdle about Pearl street and Maiden Lane watching for Cornelia.

Yes, he was not happy about Cornelia. Since that unfortunate morning at Richmond Hill they had never met.

If she saw him go up or down Maiden Lane, she made no sign. Several times Arenta's face at her parlor window had given him a passing hope, but Arenta's own love affairs were just then at a very interesting point, and, besides, she regarded the young lieutenant's admiration for her friend as only one of his many transient enthusiasms.

"If there was anything real in it," she reflected, "Cornelia would have talked about him, and that she has never done."

She did not understand that the quality of love in its finest revelation desires, after its first sweet inception, a little period of withdrawal—it wenders at its strange happiness—broods over it—sees the fearful of disturbing emotions so exquisite. These are the birth pangs of an immortal love—of a love that knows within itself, that it is born for eternity, and need not to hurry the three-score-and-ten years of time to a consummation.

Of such noble lineage was the love of Cornelia for Joris Hyde. His gracious, beautiful youth, seemed a part of her own youth; his ardent, tender glances had filled her heart with a sweet trouble that she did not understand.

Joris was moved by a sentiment of the same kind, though in a lesser degree. "I have thought of Cornelia long enough," he said one delightful summer morning; "with all my soul I now long to see her. And it is not an impossible thing I desire. In short, there is some way to compass it. Then a sudden, invincible persuasion of success came to him; he believed in his own good fortune; he had a conviction that the very stars conspired with a true lover to work his will, and under this enthusiasm he galloped irascible Diner understood why the Chicken Was Tough. The irascible gentleman had ordered a chicken. But when he got it he wasn't satisfied—some people never are.

"Waiter," he yelled, "bring a charge of dynamite and a hatchet and an extra double steam power coke hammer. This chicken's got to be carved, even if it is made of Harveized steel."

The waiter was desolate. "Very sorry, sir," said he, "but that always was a peculiar bird. It even objected to be killed, though we always do everything with the greatest care and kindness. But this bird, sir, actually flew away, and we had to shoot it, sir—yes, shoot it! It flew on to the top of a house, and—"

"Say no more," said the irascible customer. "I see it all now; you shot at it and brought down the weathercock by mistake. John, my friend, all is forgiven."

A Resourceful Bride. Her first venture at cooking dinner in her own home had passed successfully and they sat in silence at opposite ends of the table wondering at the novelty of it all and gazing at each other. Honestly, honestly—cross your heart—did you like it, Fred?" she asked finally. "Never enjoyed anything so much in my life," he said. "Every mouthful, from soup to pudding," he said, bravely. "Oh, I am so relieved, then," she said, as a huge sigh escaped her. "You see, I forgot to order the syrup for the sauce for the pudding, and I had to have something, so I took the cough syrup, and I was so afraid you'd taste it."—New York Times.

One for the Conductor. Here is a man for "Bub" Vreeland to take note of for promotion: The passenger, when approached for his fare, said: "I have paid it." The conductor remonstrated politely. "I beg your pardon, but you did not pay it to me," he said, "and I am in charge of this car." The passenger replied, drawing himself well up: "Do I look like a man who would beat a street railroad out of five cents?" "No, sir, you do not, when I am the conductor. None of your sort has ever beaten me yet." The five cents was promptly produced.—New York Press.

"Robbery," a New Magazine. A magazine has been started in Belgium to chronicle the doings of the criminal world. It is called "Robbery," and will appear quarterly. It will contain accounts of famous thefts in days gone by side by side with descriptions of the most up to date methods employed by thieves, burglars, etc., though it is not to be so far as known, an organ of the trade. Space will be also devoted to illustrating the various tools and instruments used by the craft on nocturnal excursions in town and country.

A Colorado Paul Revere. Leo L. Loeb, who styles himself "the Paul Revere of Colorado," is in Washington looking for a government position. He bases his claim to consideration of the fact that on Aug. 5, last, when a dam burst at Green Mountain Falls, Col., he rode at break-neck speed to Manitou on a mustang to warn the people of that place of the impending danger. He says he covered the distance—five miles—in seventeen and a half minutes.

Poodle Saved the Doll. French poodles, for all their foppishness, are cast in the heroic mold, at witness the latest story from Paris. A fire was raging in the Rue Monsigny, and while the family shivered on the cobbles their poodle sprang through the flaming door, raced up the smoldering staircase, and in a trice retrieved, with the baby's doll in his jaws.

Dogma. In a public school in Sandusky one of the teachers in the primary grade gave the word "dogma" to her class as a basis for a sentence-building exercise. As the class looked puzzled, the teacher repeated the word, putting the accent rather prominently on the second syllable. But the term seemed beyond the mental grasp of the children. None of them could produce anything. Time was called, and a wide-awake little girl snapped her fingers and read: "Our dog ma has three little puppies."—Selected.

FOR A HOME GYMNASIUM.

Best Use to Which Unused Room Can Be Put.

If there is an unused room in the house one of the best uses to make of it is to turn it into a gymnasium.

It is not at all a difficult matter to fit up a gymnasium at home that will answer all the requirements for general exercising and carry out the plan of a regular gymnasium very well.

To begin with, there should be a rug on the floor. This need not be an expensive affair. One of the cheaper sort will do, or a rug manufactured from old carpet pieces. The latter is very thick and would be excellent for the purpose.

Very little apparatus is necessary in a home gymnasium, as well selected exercises form its main stock of usefulness. However, wall pulleys, dumbbells, and lightweight Indian clubs ought to be put in the room.

The main idea of the home gymnasium is that it may be used by one person at a time perfectly independently.

GOT THE WRONG BIRD.

Irascible Diner Understood Why the Chicken Was Tough.

The irascible gentleman had ordered a chicken. But when he got it he wasn't satisfied—some people never are.

"Waiter," he yelled, "bring a charge of dynamite and a hatchet and an extra double steam power coke hammer. This chicken's got to be carved, even if it is made of Harveized steel."

The waiter was desolate. "Very sorry, sir," said he, "but that always was a peculiar bird. It even objected to be killed, though we always do everything with the greatest care and kindness. But this bird, sir, actually flew away, and we had to shoot it, sir—yes, shoot it! It flew on to the top of a house, and—"

"Say no more," said the irascible customer. "I see it all now; you shot at it and brought down the weathercock by mistake. John, my friend, all is forgiven."

A Resourceful Bride. Her first venture at cooking dinner in her own home had passed successfully and they sat in silence at opposite ends of the table wondering at the novelty of it all and gazing at each other. Honestly, honestly—cross your heart—did you like it, Fred?" she asked finally. "Never enjoyed anything so much in my life," he said. "Every mouthful, from soup to pudding," he said, bravely. "Oh, I am so relieved, then," she said, as a huge sigh escaped her. "You see, I forgot to order the syrup for the sauce for the pudding, and I had to have something, so I took the cough syrup, and I was so afraid you'd taste it."—New York Times.

One for the Conductor. Here is a man for "Bub" Vreeland to take note of for promotion: The passenger, when approached for his fare, said: "I have paid it." The conductor remonstrated politely. "I beg your pardon, but you did not pay it to me," he said, "and I am in charge of this car." The passenger replied, drawing himself well up: "Do I look like a man who would beat a street railroad out of five cents?" "No, sir, you do not, when I am the conductor. None of your sort has ever beaten me yet." The five cents was promptly produced.—New York Press.

"Kidney Colds" Nothing will "lay you out," "play you out," "put you to bed" quicker than a kidney cold.

Thousands feel the first effect of colds in the kidneys; backache, rheumatism, urinary disorders, retention of the urine, infrequent and too frequent urinary discharges tell of kidneys out of order.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all Kidney ills from common backache to dangerous diabetes.

A. T. Ritenour, owner of the wood yard at 125 East Cork street, Winchester, Va., says: "Ever since I had la grippe I have been a sufferer from kidney troubles, which made themselves apparent in racking pains through the region of the kidneys and across the small of my back. The pains were always severe, and sometimes so sharp and biting that they compelled me to take to my bed. The kidney secretions furnished further evidence of disorders. They were of color, irregular, and painful of passage. Added to this there was an annoying weakness."

"The newspaper advertisements of Doan's Kidney Pills attracted my attention, and I procured a box of that remedy at Frank Baker & Sons' drug store. The relief I experienced was magical. The pills lifted me from my bed of sickness, placed me on my feet, and made me a well man. I can work as well as ever. Doan's Kidney Pills, I believe, saved my life. They are a great remedy to stop kidney troubles resulting from colds."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Ritenour will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

EFFECT OF THE OPERATION. Part of Nature of Sheep Grafted on Farmer.

An operation was performed recently by a local surgeon on a farmer living near Norris, says the Philadelphia Telegraph, and the peculiar methods pursued will go down on record as a marvel of science, if the tiller of the soil should get perfectly hale again.

The man had been suffering from cancer of the stomach for many years, and considered his case hopeless, until he conferred with the surgeon, who promised that an operation might cure him. Accordingly it was agreed to perform it at the farmer's home the next day.

The sufferer was laid upon a table side by side with a healthy sheep. The stomach of each was cut open, and the part affected by cancer was transferred to the sheep in exchange for a good slice of its intestines. Both patients were sewed up and soon revived from the effects of the anesthetic used during the extraordinary operation. The sheep was turned loose and its master put to bed. For a week the farmer was nourished on goat's milk, and after ten days was allowed to sit up in a chair, as everything was progressing favorably.

To-day the proud surgeon received a letter from his patient stating that the sheep was still alive and feeding as usual, and that the only ill effects produced upon himself by the exchange is an insatiable "hankering after grass."

A Remarkable Statue. An Italian sculptor finished for a family in Logansport, Ind., a statue for the local cemetery which exemplifies the longing of the bereaved for an exact literal reproduction of the dead, and at the same time affords the most complete bit of realism known. In order to get the statue the family had a photograph taken of a man exactly the size of the deceased, dressed in the latter's clothes. These include a mackintosh over an ordinary business suit, trousers crammed into the tops of rubber boots, loose tie, turn-down collar, and soft broad brim hat. The photograph and a head of the deceased were sent to Italy, and the result is a counterfeit presentment of the father of the family in white Carrara marble standing on a tall pedestal in the cemetery. The rubber boots recall the business of the deceased; he was a contractor of ditches.—New York Times.

Electric Plant for Mexico. It is reported that the English contractors, Sir Weetman, Pearson & Son, who have large investments in Mexico, have obtained concessions from the Mexican government for the establishment of an extensive system of electrical energy. They announce that they have the necessary plans completed for expending $12,000,000 gold in constructing an electric generating plant in the mountains of the state of Puebla, where there is an abundance of water power.

Recreant Spouse Is Taken Back After Spending Money on Another. Milwaukee, Wis., dispatch: After having sent his wife $400 with which to pay her expenses from Germany to America Michael Kitka of Chicago found that she had used the money to elope with a German professor to Milwaukee. When, however, she was taken into custody and confronted Kitka, she wept so copiously and pleaded so hard for forgiveness that he relented and took her back.

Good Reason for Not Trading.

Those who know Dr. Wilder, father of Marshall P. Wilder, appreciate that humor is hereditary. The doctor approached a friend in the Waldorf-Astoria last Saturday and asked:

"Did you know that the Times publishes every day a list of the names of people who will never trade at So-and-So's (naming a prominent department store) again?"

"No, you don't say. Why, I should think that would be ground for a damage suit."

"Well, you see," replied the doctor, "the names are under the heading, 'Died Yesterday.'"

$100 REWARD $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one drugged disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c.

Mrs. Laura L. Barnes, Washington, D. C., Ladies Auxiliary to Burnside Post, No. 4, G. A. R., recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"In diseases that come to women only, as a rule, the doctor is called in, sometimes several doctors, but still matters go from bad to worse; but I have never known of a case of female weakness which was not helped when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used faithfully. For young women who are subject to headaches, backache, irregular or painful periods, and nervous attacks due to the severe strain on the system by some organic trouble, and for women of advanced years in the most trying time of life, it serves to correct every trouble and restore a healthy action of all organs of the body."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a household reliance in my home, and I would not be without it. In all my experience with this medicine, which covers years, I have found nothing to equal it and always recommend it."—Mrs. LAURA L. BARNES, 607 Second St., N. E., Washington, D. C.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proves untruthful.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women.

MRS. RATH'S BABY

Tired Mother's Touching Story of Anxiety and Suffering.

Cuticura Brings Blessed Cure to Skin Tortured Baby and Peace and Rest to Its Worn Out Mother.

It is no wonder that Mrs. Helena Rath was taken sick. Single-handed, she did all the housework and washed, cooked and mended for her husband, Hans, and their six children. After a plucky fight to keep on her feet, Mrs. Rath had to yield, and early in 1902 she took to her bed. What followed she told to a visitor, who called at her tidy home, No. 821 Tenth Ave., New York City.

"I hired a girl to mind the children and to do whatever else she could. I couldn't stay in bed long. Sick as I was, it was easier for me to crawl around than to lie and worry about my little ones. So I got up after a few days, and let the girl go. I had noticed that she had sore on her face, hands and arms, but I paid no attention to that until Charlie, my youngest, began to pick and scratch himself. He was then ten months old, and the girl had paid more attention to him than to any of the others. Charlie was fretful and cross, but as he was cutting teeth, I didn't think much of that. Even when a rash broke out on his face I wasn't frightened, because everything I knew that was a cure common with teething babies. Several of my others had it when little, and I thought nothing about it."

"But the rash on Charlie's poor little face spread to his neck, chest, and back. I had never seen anything quite like it before. The skin rose in little lumps, and matter came out. My baby's skin was hot, and how he did suffer! He wouldn't eat, and night after night I walked the floor with him, hands and arms. Often I had to stop because I felt faint and my back throbbled with pain. But the worst pain of all was to see my poor little boy burning with those nasty sores."

"I believed he had caught some disease from the girl, but some of the neighbors said he had eczema, and that is not catching, they told me. Yes, I gave him medicine, and put salves and things on him. I don't think they were all useless. Once in a while the itching seemed to let up a bit, but there was not much change for the better until a lady across the street asked me why I didn't try the Cuticura Remedies. I told her I had no faith in those things you read about in the papers. She said she didn't want me to go on faith nor even to spend any money at first. She gave me some Cuticura Ointment—I think the box was about half full—and a piece of Cuticura Soap—I followed the directions, bathing Charlie and putting that nice Ointment on the sores."

"I wouldn't have believed that my baby would have been cured by a little thing like that. Not all of a sudden, mind you. Little by little, but so surely. Charlie and I both got more peace by day, and more sleep by night. The sores sort of dried up and went away. I shall never forget one blessed night when I went to bed with Charlie beside me, as soon as I got the supper dishes out of the way and the older children undressed; when I woke up the sun was streaming in. For the first time in six months I had slept through the night without a break."

"Yes, that fat little boy by the window is Charlie, and his skin is as white as a snow flake, thanks to the Cuticura Remedies. I think everybody should know about the Soap and also the Ointment, and if it is going to help other mothers with sick babies, go ahead and publish what I have told you."

MRS. HELENA RATH.

The agonizing, itching, and burning of the skin as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair, and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, and great economy have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humour remedies of the civilized world.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold throughout the civilized world. PRICES: Cuticura Resolvent, 50c. per bottle (in the form of Cheolotea Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60); Cuticura Ointment, 50c. per box, and Cuticura Soap, 25c. per tablet. # Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

Our clay roads are drying up and we begin to rejoice on the low lands.
No school last week in Kingston, No. 6 f. Teacher was at examination.
Len Patch and Clayton Crawford have returned from the north woods.
Frank Terry will be held here for some time apparently to dispose of his bated hay.
The chimney burnt out at the home of Howard Retherford on the 28th and caused a scare.
This said that E. B. Landon has sold the Frutchey farm on Section 2, Kingston. Still, to us it is all hearsay.
John Retherford is doctoring his horse's head, it was badly torn by some unaccountable manner in the stable.
The ladies of the townline furnished the material and the schoolhouse district No. six, fr., Kingston, presents a fine interior finish.
Mrs. Geo. Pratt has bought a loom and is now prepared to weave carpets of all designs—from Scottish check, Irish dickerem whack, to American stripe.
"The Prohibits" have invaded the ranks of both old parties in Kingston, have a ticket in the field and will show up a vote April sixth that will make the ungodly apostles of Bacchus tremble.

Last week's correspondence. Wm. Walters is still very ill. James Hendrick is improving in health. Dorrr Perry and wife have a young daughter. Isaac Belknap and family have moved to Dayton. Miss Ida Compton is at Gagetown, sewing for Mrs. Helen Gage. Michael Toohy has gone to Philadelphia to remain indefinitely. Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Dean were guests of Gagetown friends on Sunday. Charles Graves and Maybelle Harp were married at Caro, March 18th. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith are settled in their new home on John Leishman's farm. Mr. and Mrs. E. S. White attended the funeral of B. W. White at Almer, March 19th.

Mrs. Murray Calley has returned from Chicago where she has been visiting her son.

Quarterly meeting was held at the Free Methodist church, Almer, March 21st and 22nd.

Mrs. Frank St. Mary, of Caro, spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pardo.

Mrs. Robert Wills died Sunday morning. She was ill only a few hours and died in convulsions.

The M. P. Ladies' Aid met at the church last week and quilted two quilts. The church sheds were finished the same day.

Mrs. R. Henderson, who has spent several months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manville Adams, returned to her home at Traverse City last week.

Elder Hawkins and wife, of Shabbona, were guests at Jacob Hawkins' last week. They were on their way home from a visit with their daughter at Unionville.

Due Notice is Served.

Due notice is hereby served on the public generally that DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the only salve on the market that is made from the pure undiluted witch hazel. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve has cured thousands of cases of piles that would not yield to any other treatment, and this fact has brought out many worthless counterfeits. Those persons who get the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are never disappointed, because it cures. For sale by all druggists.

Novesta

R. H. Warner still continues in very poor health.

Miss Lena Stone is on the sick list at this writing.

Neil Kennedy is home from Pontiac, where he has been during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ritter, of Cass City, called on Snore Island friends Sunday.

School closed in District No. 3 for a three weeks' vacation on account of the muddy roads.

Alfred Goodall has leased the farm of Geo. Aplin for a term of years and will take possession the first of April.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Fletcher have moved into Clarence Quick's house and Mr. Fletcher will labor for Clyde Quick for the summer.

T. I. Geekler has just completed a well for A. A. Livingston, having drilled down sixty-six feet before he got water. He is now putting one down for Levi Delong.

Quite a number of Mrs. Wm. Justin's neighbors surprised her on the 16th, it being her birthday and presented her with a quilt. The evening was spent in games and social conversation.

Quite a number of the school children of District No. 3, gathered together and surprised their schoolmates, the Clark children, before their departure for their future home. A good time was reported.

Wm. Clark will move his family back to the vicinity of Yale, where he came from several years ago, having bought a farm down there. We are sorry to lose such good neighbors as Mr. Clark, but wish them success in their new home.

The much talked of caucus was held in the Quick school house Saturday afternoon. There was a very exciting time over the nomination of supervisor and also highway commissioner, when the following persons were nominated: Supervisor, Robert Brown; clerk, A. L. Bruce; treasurer, Geo. Martin; commissioner, W. J. Crittenden; member of Board of Review, James Ferguson; school inspector, John Mudge; justice of peace, full term, Louis Wheeler; constables, R. ## Does Education Benefit The Farmer?

Detroit Tribune

Sometimes we hear a farmer say, "There is no use of my boy having an education: he's only going to work on the farm, anyway." As if the farmer should have no education! This is a mistake. The better a person is fitted for his work, the better is the chance for his making a success of that work.

If a man wishes to become a successful farmer, it is quite necessary that he should have at least a common school education. Without this, how can he look out for his own interests?

It has been well said, "If you want a thing well done, do it yourself." A farmer should be able to make out his own business papers in proper form; he should understand perfectly the nature of every paper before he signs it. This alone may be the means of saving him time and money.

When he goes to town he should be able to figure up his own load correctly. There are some dealers who are dishonest enough to take advantage of ignorant farmers.

He should be able to read intelligently. It may be for his benefit as well as recreation.

A farmer may be a good, moral citizen and yet if he has not a fair education he is unfitted for any public office. His illiteracy is the barrier which denies him success and prominence.

Now, we seldom meet with a farmer who can neither read nor write. Happily, our schools of today give every boy a chance for a common school education. Farmers, so educate your boys that they may have an opportunity to make life a success, even though they may be "only farmers."

DAVID C. RUSSELL,
Shelby, Mich.

My hard-headed old neighbor says a man should have just education enough to carry on his business: anything besides this—any education which does not relate to his work—is a detriment to him. My old neighbor began at the bottom and has worked his way well up. His opinion, therefore, should have weight. But what education does the farmer need to carry on his business? First a knowledge of how to bring back fertility to his worn out soil. Had the farmer of 50 years ago been educated to conserve the fertility of his land, the farmers of today would be beneficiaries by millions of dollars.

In studying the soil problem the farmer finds that he must have a thorough knowledge of handling live stock, their breeding, feeding and marketing. In order to get the best returns in dollars and cents, as well as in fertility, he must know the needs of the world's markets. Will it be hogs, cattle or sheep that will be in excess or deficiency of the demand? To answer this question requires all the resources of an educated man. But it is not enough to learn to make money; he must learn to keep it. If the money paid for "Bohemian oats," "gold bricks," and kindred schemes could have been spent in educating the farmer, many a man would now have a good library and no bitter memories to cloud his self-respect.

The antidote for the confidence man is education. Take, and read, the newspapers every day. To the newspapers we must look for our political education, and it is the duty of every man to understand the political education. In fact, "no knowledge is lost," even to a farmer.

A. B. WISNER,
Tipton, Mich.

SEVERE ATTACK OF GRIP

Cured by One Bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"When I had an attack of the grip last winter (the second one) I actually cured myself with one bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Frank W. Perry, Editor of the Enterprise, Shortsville, N. Y. "This is the honest truth. I at times kept from coughing myself to pieces by taking a teaspoonful of this remedy, and when the coughing spell would come on at night I would take a dose and it seemed that in the briefest interval the cough would pass off and I would go to sleep perfectly free from cough and its accompanying pains. To say that the remedy acted as a most agreeable surprise is putting it very mildly. I had no idea that it would or could knock out the grip, simply because I had never tried it for such a purpose, but it did, and it seemed with the second attack of coughing the remedy caused it to not only be of less duration, but the pains were far less severe, and I had not used the contents of one bottle before Mr. Grip had bid me adieu." For sale at Bond's Drug Store, Cass City; F. A. Francis', Kingston.

OPPORTUNITIES IN THE SOUTH.

No portion of the United States has made greater progress in the last year or two than the South. Northern and foreign capital is rapidly invading that section, finding profitable investment in the various industries and factories that are being rapidly developed and built. The great influx of settlers is creating an increased demand for lands of all kinds and prices are gradually advancing, as they will for years to come. Work is plentiful and poverty practically unknown. Alabama is supplying coal and iron to all the world. More money can be made and with less labor in the raising of small fruits and berries and in truck patching on the Gulf Coast than in any other state in the Union. Strawberries from Alabama reach northern markets before those from the states in the southeast. Cattle can be raised with great profit, there being millions of acres of cheap range lands. If you are interested in the south and its resources and desire information on any subject, address

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased. Mr. D. Kauble, of Nevada, O., says: "I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I had heart trouble with it. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me."

Ellington

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Seekens moved Monday to Gagetown to live.

Norton Young, of Caro, was visiting the school in District No. 1, Ellington.

The water has been going down in Cass River since it has stopped raining.

Wesley Medcalf is moving upon the farm owned by Dwight Turner at Elmwood and will work for Mr. Turner.

There has been a large amount of wood hauled out of the woods on Section 14, Ellington, this spring and more going.

Peter Shaver was called to Caro last week to care for his brother living there who had a paralytic stroke. He is there this week and may move there to take care of him. Should he have to move there, Peter Molonzo will move upon the farm and work it for Mr. Shaver this year.

Good for Children.

The pleasant to take and harmless One Minute Cough Cure gives immediate relief in all cases of Cough, Croup and LaGrippe because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect right at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. For sale by all druggists.

Wilmot.

Grandma Coan is some better at this writing.

Miss Annie Hallack visited her sister, at Marlette, over Sunday.

W. Westerby lost his horse last week which being a good one will be quite a loss to him.

David Griffith, wife and little daughter, from Kingston, visited at Wm. Jeffery's Wednesday.

Frank Hartt visited friends at Doyle Marine City and Marlette last week and returned home Friday.

N. Hartt, who has been spending the winter at Carsonville with his daughter, returned to his home here to day.

Miss Lily Ford is at Hadley with her grandparents. Her grandmother is quite ill, but some better than when Mrs. Ford came from there last week.

A number from here attended the funeral of our pastor, Rev. Smith, at Deford Tuesday, whose death came as a shock to all his friends although the deceased had been quite ill with heart trouble for some time past.

A full house greeted Mrs. Truesdell and other temperance speakers Tuesday evening at the Alliance held in the church here. All went home glad they had been there. Rev. Lohnes expects to give a temperance address in the church here Friday evening.

A Sweet Breath

is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick, of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have a dyspeptic for years—tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like. Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. For sale by all druggists."

Mrs. Wm. Ostrander and son, Audley, of Detroit, were called here by the death of Mrs. A. F. Stone.

Number 31 held by Mrs. Jas. Wilson drew the silk quilt raffled by Mrs. Sprague on Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry, of Oakland Co., also three daughters and a son were here attending the last illness and funeral of their daughter, Mrs. A. F. Stone. The entire community extend their sympathy to the bereaved family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. M. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Phos. Welsh, Mr. and Mrs. B. Crane and J. and A. J. Spittler attended the funeral of Mrs. Robt. Wills at Gagetown on Tuesday last.

Confessions of a Priest.

Rev. Jno. S. Cox, of Wake, Ark, writes, "For 12 years I suffered from Yellow Jaundice. I consulted a number of physicians and tried all sorts of medicines, but got no relief. Then I began the use of Electric Bitters and feel that I am now cured of a disease that had me in its grasp for twelve years." If you want a reliable medicine for Liver and Kidney trouble, stomach disorder or general debility, get Electric Bitters. It's guaranteed by T. H. Fritz, Druggist, Cass City; F. A. Francis, Kingston. Only 50c.

All diseases start in the bowels. Keep them open or you will be sick. CASCARETS act like nature. Keep liver and bowels active without a sickening griping feeling. Six million people take and recommend CASCARETS. Try a 10c box. All druggists. 11-21-'01 was born about 200 years ago, and, notwithstanding the fact that he was somewhat handicapped by being the fifteenth child, he made some valuable discoveries—one of which was the invention of the double vision Spectacle; i. e., a lens the upper part used for seeing at a distance, and the lower for reading. Many improvements have been made in Spectacles since Franklin's time, and to-day the "double vision" Spectacle is universally used. I have a fine stock of the double and single lenses, and test eyes free.

The famous little pills.

TWIN REMEDY, NO. TWO.

The Greatest Stomach, Kidney and Blood Medicine.

Until Saturday, April 18th, at HALF PRICE

Dozens of Testimonials from Parties Benefited in Every Town where this Great Remedy has been Introduced.

IMLAY CITY, January 19, 1903.

H. Colquhoun, Esq., Proprietor Twin Remedies:

Dear Sir:—I had been troubled for a considerable time with bloating and dizziness in my head. If I reached up to drive a nail I would get so dizzy I would almost fall backwards, or climbing a ladder would give me so dizzy a spell that I did not care to try it. At your introductory sale at A. F. Martin's I purchased Twin Remedy, No. Two, which cured me completely, and I feel as if I can't recommend it too strongly.

R. S. MORRISON, V. S.

One Vassar Citizen,—H. J. Morgan,—says: "I could not sleep nights; would have to get up every half hour; now, after using a little over one bottle, the pain has left my back and I can go to bed and sleep till morning. I cannot recommend Twin Remedy No. 2 too highly.

H. J. MORGAN.

IMLAY CITY, January 19, 1903.

H. Colquhoun, Proprietor Twin Remedies:

Dear Sir:—I suffered for four years with acute stomach trouble; was treated by specialists and spent hundreds of dollars trying to find relief, and after three months' trial I am sure I have found it in Twin Remedy, No. 2.

THE MICHIGAN NEWS

What is Doing in All Sections of the State

A School Riot.

The high school pupils of Benton Harbor revolted Tuesday, the climax of a row with the teachers. The students took possession of the big assembly hall of the Broadway building, locked all the doors, pulled down the shades and lighted the gas. The piano was brought into use, the seats were moved to the sides of the room, and the boys and girls were madly dancing the two-step to red-hot ragtime when Supt. Wilson, Prof. Dolle and other members of the faculty arrived at the outer door. After great difficulty they gained admission when they found all of the students were in their places. The room was highly decorated with overcoats, hats, rubbers, etc. The high school skeleton sat in a dignified attitude upon the principal's chair; it wore a pair of spectacles and an old hat, and appeared to be devouring a book which was propped up in its hands. The principal was unable to determine who was most to blame for the riot, so he has made a report to the board of education. An investigation is to be conducted, and there are threats of wholesale expulsion.

The Railroads Fight.

An order restraining Auditor-General Powers from proceeding to collect taxes due to the state from Michigan railroads was issued by Judge Warty in the Federal Court in Grand Rapids Friday. The injunction will be given a hearing on May 25. Twenty-three railroads were represented when the petition asking for the injunction was filed. These roads were: The Michigan Central, Pere Marquette, Grand Rapids & Indiana, Detroit & Mackinac, Detroit, South Shore & Atlantic, Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Mineral Range, Copper Range, Ann Arbor, the "Soo" line, Pontiac, Oxford & Northern, Grand Trunk, Chicago & Northwestern, Chicago & St. Paul, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis, Wabash, Boyne City & Southwestern, South Haven & Eastern, Indiana, Illinois & Iowa, Wisconsin Central, Manistee & Northwestern, Mason & Oceana, Milwaukee, Benton Harbor & Columbus, Detroit & Lima Northern, Wisconsin & Michigan, Munising railroad, Manistee.

The Legal Battle Comes.

Attorney-General Blair has been advised by the Michigan Central officials that on Friday of this week the various railroad companies operating in Michigan will apply to United States Judge Warty, of the western Michigan district, for an injunction to restrain the auditor-general from levying on its property for non-payment of any portion of the taxes levied under the new ad valorem law. The application was made under the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution, and is in line with the purpose of the companies to test the validity of the new law. Attorney-General Blair will look after the state's interests on Friday.

A Tough Stomach.

At the inquest held in Kalamazoo on the remains of Fred Cerraw, his stomach was found to contain 325 nails, a piece of coal weighing two pounds and twelve ounces, a spike four inches long, a carving fork, an iron wash, a tea set, 122 small stones, 28 pins, 17 buttons and other material. It was found that death was caused by a pin penetrating the lining of the stomach. Cerraw came to the asylum from Quincy, Mich., several years ago, and has been afflicted with stomach trouble for years.

Fined $1,400.

P. M. Thomas, of Charlotte, recently convicted in the United States district court of having a false affidavit made in reference to a soldier's land grant, was brought before Judge Swau on sentence Wednesday. There were 13 indictments against Thomas, and in the case in which he was convicted he was fined $300, in the next 10, $100 each, and in the last two $50 each. A plea of nolo contendere was made by Thomas in the last 12 cases. The sum of $1,400 was paid into court by the defendant and he was allowed to go free.

A Great Spree.

An employe in the Onaway pest-house, who, two of the inmates got whiskey and made themselves hilariously drunk. The patients decided that life in the hospital was too slow, so they escaped and made a tour of the saloons. Officers drove them into a physician's office, and special deputies were sworn to keep them under restraint until they were marched back to the pesthouse. A lot of people were exposed, and all concerned will be prosecuted as soon as the patients recover from the disease.

Hammond's Conviction Confirmed.

The Supreme Court has affirmed the conviction of D. Judson Hammond, of Pontiac, a member of the legislature of 1890, indicted by the Ingham county grand jury for soliciting a bribe, and convicted by a jury. The bench was divided, Justice Moore dissenting from the affirmative opinion in which Justices Montgomery, Grant and Hooker united. Hammond was charged with soliciting $500 from James Coye, of Grand Rapids, to defeat a bill which was being opposed by the wholesale grocers of Michigan.

The Village Council of North Adams is Again Talking Electric Lights.

A. F. Hunt, cashier of the Byron Exchange bank, has smallpox. No body is refusing to take money from the bank, however.

The Michigan Salt Association is 50,000 Barrels Behind its Orders, owing to the car famine which is also affecting lumbermen.

One of the severest wind and snow storms of the winter raged throughout western Michigan Tuesday with a drop in the temperature which reached two below the freezing point. Great fears are being felt for peaches and other small fruits. Snow plows were used on street railways and interurban roads.

The Bug's Bite is Awful.

Excitement runs high in Mendon, for another man has become the victim of the poisonous sting of the "winter bug." De Vos Olinberg, the famous entomologist of Wheeling, W. Va., is the latest victim. The mysterious case of Oscar Newsasky, the young Polish farmer who became a raving maniac as a result of being bitten by the bug, baffled medical science. Physicians from a distance have been summoned, but are unable to conquer the terrible swelling of the body which began the day after Newsasky was bitten. Whether medicine can alleviate the terrible suffering of Olinberg is now the question. Prof. Olinberg came for the National museum at Washington to procure specimens of the hideous bug which scientists supposed to have become extinct, especially in the northern states. He visited the locality in which Newsasky lived, and made a search among the sloughs and bogs. He discovered a nest of the insects, and in his endeavor to capture them he was bitten by one of the chins. He made his way to a neighboring farm house, staggering, and within an hour he was in a semi-unconscious condition. Medical assistance was called, but was of no avail. The winter bug is a member of the Belostomatid family, and some say it is the "electric light" bug which gathers in large numbers around arc lights, but it differs from this one in size, being from an inch to two inches longer. It has a proboscis somewhat similar to that of a mosquito, the head being an inch in diameter and covered with a fuzz like that on a bat.

Points to Pennell.

Two bloody finger prints were discovered Saturday on the casing of the revolver which the students carried. The discovery is believed by the district attorney to be positive proof that the murderer left the house after the crime was committed. The body of Arthur R. Pennell may be exhumed for the purpose of learning whether or not the bloody finger marks correspond to the intricate convolutions of the skin on the surface of Pennell's fingers. A suspicion so strong as to arouse the great interest of the authorities that the wounds on Edwin L. Burdick's head were made by the butt of Pennell's revolver has arisen from facts brought to light. Pennell, it develops, bought a revolver a month before the murder. On the morning Burdick was found dead—Feb. 27—Pennell went to the same store in a highly nervous and excited condition and bought another revolver. He said the first weapon had been stolen from him.

The Admiral on the Carpet.

Admiral Dewey called by appointment at the White House Saturday and made a full explanation of a recent newspaper interview, in which the admiral was quoted as saying the Caribbean sea maneuvers were "an object lesson to the Kaiser, more than to any other person." The admiral asserted to the president that he had no intention of reflecting in the interview, upon Germany, her emperor or her navy. The admiral was quick in saying the admiral was quoted as saying the Caribbean sea maneuvers were "an object lesson to the Kaiser, more than to any other person." The admiral asserted to the president that he had no intention of reflecting in the interview, upon Germany, her emperor or her navy. The admiral was quick in saying the admiral was quoted as saying the Caribbean sea maneuvers were "an object lesson to the Kaiser, more than to any other person." The admiral asserted to the president that he had no intention of reflecting in the interview, upon Germany, her emperor or her navy.

Cuban Senate Approves It.

The treaty of reciprocity between Cuba and the United States, as amended by the senate of the United States, was approved by the Cuban senate Saturday night. The Cuban senate, by vote of 12 to 9. This approval is absolute and is not hampered by any conditions, the questionable time limit amendment having been dispensed with through the receipt of the cablegram from Secretary Hay, in which it was positively stated that President Roosevelt would call a special session of congress prior to December 1.

Extra Session of House.

A prominent Republican senator, who had a conference with the president, has made the prediction that the fifty-ninth congress will be called in extra session November 9. The reasons given are that if nothing was done until the regular session, which does not start until December 7, the house would not be able to get down to work until January, as the speaker will need a week to make the committee appointments and then the holiday recess will break in. The president wants early action on the Cuban treaty and it is also desired to have the session wind up before national conventions are held.

A Postoffice Scandal.

Probably the most extraordinary government scandal since the famous Star Route fraud has been exposed in the postoffice department at Washington, by the resignation of Geo. W. Beavers, general superintendent of the division of salaries and allowances. After 22 years' service Beavers is not asked to resign, but goes out under fire. The president ordered an investigation which, it is said, revealed gross corruption throughout the entire system of supplies for the postoffice department. This was also true in the free delivery service, including letter boxes and supplies for carriers, both in city and country.

After yawning continuously for three days, despite all efforts to relieve her, Mrs. Wm. H. Jenner, of Oshkosh, Wis., is dead.

Immigrant arrivals at New York Sunday broke all Sunday records, there being 4,596 in all. This is the beginning of the rush season and this year's record is expected to exceed all others by many thousands.

By shooting and possibly fatally wounding Ralph McDonald, a motion picture student, Miss Jess' Waggy, of Weston, Va., has reversed a deception. Edwin and Frank Gould called at the tax office in New York where Edwin, on the plea that he is a non-resident, swore off his entire assessment.

A peculiar accident happened at Lake Odessa during the high wind the other night which resulted in the death of a horse, and may lead to a lawsuit. A pole carrying electric light wires was blown down just as a man was driving a horse and was struck the horse and caused the instant death of the animal.

STATE LEGISLATURE

Brief Chronicle of Matters of Importance

Senator Moriarty's bill affecting the paroling of convicts which passed, simply gives the governor power under certain conditions to allow a paroled convict to re-leave the state, and making possible to break the parole. Another bill of Moriarty's passed provides for further punishment for escaped convicts when their terms have expired.

The house, by a vote of 56 to 35, passed the Stone bill, prepared for Land Commissioner Wilder, authorizing the commissioner of the land office to sell the timber from state swamp, primary school and tax home-land lands, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the board of control of state swamp lands; and also to sell the timber from agricultural lands under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the state board of agriculture, provided such lands shall have been offered at public sale pursuant to act No. 21 of the public acts of 1903, and have been held by the state for one year after such public offering.

There were more lobbyists at the capitol on Tuesday than at any time since the session began, there being quite a number from Detroit to urge favorable action on several bills of great interest to the taxpayers of that city. Brewers were out in force to ask a concession in the matter of taxes. At present they may be compelled to pay a license in every county where they have a warehouse, and they want the law changed so that one license will cover all their business within Michigan.

There is a scheme behind the bill recently passed by the senate, permitting the brewers to establish branches, agencies upon payment of $50, conditional upon their paying one brewer's license of $800, at least, that is what an experienced man in liquor matters says. This man declares that if the bill goes through, big cities like Detroit are likely to lose about one-half of the revenue they now derive from saloon licenses, and in Detroit this runs something over $250,000 a year.

Senator Baird has perfected his long threatened primary reform bill for the whole state. There is in the bill no provision whatever for any direct vote of the people on nominations, state, congressional, county or city. It preserves county conventions to elect delegates to state conventions. In fact, all the principal features of the present system of making nominations are retained. The principal change proposed is that county primaries and the state shall be held on the same day designated on the bill, so that the "swap" caucuses for the election of delegates to all conventions to be held in a year, now so often held in county districts, shall be done away with. Should the Colby bill, providing for direct nominations, pass the house, it will go to Baird's committee on elections in the senate and there is little doubt that Baird will substitute his bill for Colby's, and the result will be made to friends of primary reform by Baird are likely to be all that they will get in this legislature.

State taxes are small compared to what the people of Michigan pay for running cities, counties, townships, school districts and villages, judging by what the state tax commissioners say in an address before the legislature. In fact, state taxes have decreased, while municipal taxes have jumped. The report says: "We invite the attention of taxpayers to the fact that for every $188 paid for the support of the state administration $14.67 is paid by the citizen in taxes. The average American citizen is too apt to find fault with those figures for which he is largely to blame. If one-half the time which he spends in grumbling at the great increase in taxation were employed in attending to the selection of better officials to administer the assessment and taxation laws, there would be such a reduction in taxes paid within the next two years that the work of the tax commission would bear its full fruition and the hundreds of millions of dollars which it has added to the rolls so equalize the expenses of government that they would no longer be an unreasonable burden to any property-holder in the state."

The legislature is taking things easy, so far. Both house and senate meet for an hour or less every Monday night. On Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday they usually devote about three hours every afternoon to the reception of committee reports and to consideration of, and action on, bills in committee of the whole and on third reading. Short sessions of that house are held Friday mornings, while session do enough senators remain in town to make a quorum of the senate for the week-end session. Of course during three forenoons and as many evenings of each week considerable committee work is done in both branches of the legislature. Legislators, who two months ago, were predicting that this legislature would finally adjourn by the first week in May, now shake their heads dubiously and say: "It looks as though we'll be kept grinding here until June 1."

The prospects for legislation on freight rates are growing dim. It had been proposed that in the April election the electors of the state should be asked to vote upon an amendment of the constitution permitting the establishment of a freight rate commission. Railroad men asked for a hearing and it was fixed for Tuesday night of the 17th, but the committees were then informed that the Michigan Central and Pere Marquette lawyers were not ready. Hence the hearing was deferred for two weeks, which will make it too late for action before the election, and the proposition will not be voted upon until the fall election of 1904, even if the bill should pass the legislature.

Rep. Vandereock says his proposition to the house state affairs committee for the removal of the state capitol to Grand Rapids was merely "josh," and not intended to be seriously considered.

"Whitney" Sullivan was electrocuted at Dannemora prison, New York, for the murder of Matthew Wilson, night watchman of the First National bank of Cobleskill, on November 26, 1900. Sullivan was a member of a gang that tried to rob the bank on that night and Wilson was shot in a fight with the thieves. "Goat" Hinch, another of the gang, is in Dannemora prison under sentence of death.

Still One Million Shy.

A few more railroad companies paid taxes according to their ideas what they ought to cash in to the auditor-general. The Chicago & Northwestern paid in $98,884.40 and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul $20,424.12. Altogether the companies have paid in $1,503,392.48 exclusive of the Wabash Railroad, which paid its tax of $47,911.68 under the new law. It is possible that the total taxes to be paid by the railroads under their own computation will amount to $1,550,000, which is about $200,000 more than was paid last year. The total is still about a million dollars shy of the sum that was assessed against the railroads under the new ad valorem law.

Killed His Brother.

Clyde, the 24-year-old son of T. H. Whittall, a farmer of Algoma township, stabbed his brother Archie, aged 22 years, Friday morning, and fled from home, which the latter died that night. The boys were quarreling in the house about a dog, when Clyde grabbed a butcher knife and made a lunge at his brother. The knife penetrated the young man's breast over the heart. The parents attended the tragedy. Clyde was stricken with remorse as soon as he realized what he had done, and made no effort to escape, remaining in the house inconsolable until the arrival of officers, who placed him under arrest.

Ward Bound Over.

Frank Ward, the Britton farm hand, was given an examination in Adrian Friday on the charge of assault with intent to commit murder upon the person of Mrs. Thomas Wilson, wife of his employer. The examination attracted considerable attention, and many residents from about Britton were in attendance. The prosecution put on the stand but one witness, Edgar Auten. Testimony was so damaging that the court saw his way clear to bind the prisoner over to the May term of the Circuit Court. Ward was unable to furnish bail, which was placed at $3,000.

The Burdick Murder.

The order Mrs. Alice Full Burdick, of Buffalo, was compelled to undergo in the inquiry into the death of her husband was productive of an evidence tending to clear away the mystery of the tragedy, though it doubtless has convinced many people that a motive has been established for fixing suspicion upon Arthur Pennell, with whom her relations had been so intimate as to cause her to attend the scandals. She admitted that she and Pennell loved each other, had numerous clandestine meetings, but claimed she had committed no criminal act and that he was always a gentleman.

Preferred to Die.

It is announced that Maj.-Gen. Sir Hector Macdonald, commanding the British forces in Ceylon against whom charges of grossly immoral acts were filed some time ago, committed suicide Wednesday by shooting in a hotel in Paris. Gen. Macdonald, a Scotchman, left England for the continent some days ago, and it was understood that he was returning to Ceylon under the advice of Lord Roberts to face the court martial.

VANITY FAIR

Rattan Window Seats.
Low rattan seats, without backs, are very pretty for the own private room of a young girl. These are placed in front of the window, and when filled with gay colored pillows form a very pretty and comfortable window seat. These seats come in all lengths, so that in choosing one it is easy to fit it to the window, and they may be had in the natural color or stained to harmonize with the woodwork of the room. A loose cushion, just the size of the seat, adds very much to the comfort of it, and when the pillows are piled high every girl friend will be envious of her chum's window seat.

Outline the edges of the wider braids, and a pretty braid effect is given to the new cloth in braids of cloth cut and stitched to form any design used in braiding.

Simple Wedding Gowns.
Simplicity is noticeable in all the smartest wedding gowns just now being ordered. The materials vary from crepe de chine to silk, satin, chiffon, cloth of silver and velvet, but the cut and style must be simple. Much preference is given to the princess, the front being draped, which makes it more adaptable to all figures.

Hints to the Beauty Seeker.
Here are a few things that it would be well for the beauty seeker to bear in mind:

That rich living will make her bilious and give her skin a yellow tint. That too much indulgence in the "cup that cheers," tea, will give her indigestion and eventually ruin her complexion.

That a glass of hot water the last thing at night and the first thing in the morning is good for both health and beauty.

That she should drink plenty of pure cold water daily.

Enameled Watches.
Enameled watches are lovely enough to warrant the exorbitant prices asked for them. They are suspended from a clasp that matches the back of the watch in design. A very beautiful one is of green enamel with an emerald heart surrounded by diamonds. The pin is a large emerald surrounded by diamonds.

Tailor-made Costume.
Tailor-made gown of gray cloth. The skirt is made with stitched plaits.

Chin Supporters Once More.
To get the little brown mark left by five years of stiff linen collars and high stocks from the neck has been the problem with the girls during the past months of crushed and low-neck effects. But just as the bleasish begins to "give" word comes from the seat of fashion that chin supporters will again be in vogue.

Stiff linen collars and high ones at that, are the prediction for summer. With them, say the wisecracks, ribbons will once more be tied in the back in smart bows. These new collars will have turnovers. In fact one kind has turnovers at both top and bottom. Between the two is a crisp band of black satin, finished with a knot in the back.

Another caprice is to have for the shirt waist an adjustable collar of the same material, which is to be worn over a linen collar deeper than it. This allows for the touch of white so indispensable to the up-to-date costume. The linen collar under the blouse collar will, it is said, be a feature of next summer's toilets.

Much Red in Millinery.
Red will be prominent this season in many ways, and particularly so in millinery, from the amount of scarlet straw, flowers, ribbons and velvets to be seen for this purpose. A very pretty hat, composed of scarlet geraniums, has the frame covered in tulle of equally as vivid a hue. This is one of the upturned models, and the facing is also made of the closely massed red flowers, with sufficient introductions of the green geranium leaves to break the color effectively. Without appearing noticeably elevated, there is a raised trimming of the clustered flowers on the left side mixed with loops and ends of a narrow width of geranium-colored velvet ribbons.

Season for Braiding.
Braid is seen everywhere, in the most severely simple and in the most elaborately ornamented styles. Often a narrow contrasting braid is used to ready for any hazard her little mistress may put her to. Then there is the black mammy, with a tiny baby in long, white clothes in her arms. There is the debutante, the maid of all work, the trained nurse—in fact, any occupation you want is represented.

Condensed Workboxes.
Little workboxes — "companions," they are called—have cropped out in surprising variety. They are made of leather and are to be had in natty boxes, round, crescent-shaped or square; in miniature trunks, imitation cameras and hat boxes, fruit shapes and any number of other conceits.

Some Simple Glove Rules.
Few women know how to care for gloves. When putting on a pair for the first time they hurry the fingers into place, and the result is badly strained and distorted seams.

Before it is donned the inside of a glove should be sprinkled with powder and inflated by the breath. Then, one by one, with the greatest care, the fingers should be worked into place.

When put away they should look much as they did when they left the shop. Never roll them up. Smooth them carefully and lay them away between sheets of tissue paper.

Gloves that have been wet should be allowed to dry in a cool room. When they are dry the pliability may be restored by massaging them.

New Yoke Inexpensive.
The collarless gown will be much in vogue for the coming summer. Many of the new models in batiste, organdie and dimities show the blouse without any collar.

The new yoke, or rather cape collar, can be made at home for a very moderate sum, but if purchased in the shops will be found quite expensive, the cheapest being probably $9 or $10. For a quarter of this sum an average clever girl should be able to make a most elaborate one, trimmed with bands of linen or taffeta, joined with herringbone, or fagoting stitching, and medallions of lace, either applique or inserted.

The yokes of collars come well down on the shoulders, producing the long drooping shoulder effect. Some are made on a foundation of mousseline or chiffon and some have no foundation at all.

Black Velvet-Tied Bouquets.
The smart girl ties her bouquet with black ribbon velvet streamers. The black brings out the soft tints of the blossoms to perfection. A bunch of sweet peas and asparagus fern or a cluster of daisies and maidenhair would be especially lovely when tied in black.

Improved Hot Air Syringe.
Dentists and physicians frequently have used for a device for heating air or vaporizing medicaments, the former for drying cavities in the teeth previous to filling them, and the latter for treating catarrh and diseases of the ear. There has been in use for years a simple instrument for this purpose, consisting of a rubber bulb and nozzle, through which the hot air is drawn from the flame and dis-

Whips Dust From Garments.
As is well known, there are certain kinds of cloth in which the nap is easily injured by frequent brushing to remove the dust, and the use of a beater for this work is about as harmful, since the blows may fray the garment if much force is exerted. It is the object of the device here presented to remove the dust from garments without injury from either of the above causes, the invention being devised by Winfield Harbough of Santa Barbara, Cal.

As will be seen, the apparatus consists of a pair of flat metallic plates, suspended by two cords from a bracket attached to a door post, window frame or any convenient point, the cords leading along the bracket and ending in a weight to counterbalance the plates. The bracket also serves as a clamp in which the garment to be cleaned is hung vertically between the beating plates. These plates have handles, which are grasped in either hand to clap the beaters together on the garment, effectually expelling the dust and dirt without chafing the fabric or injuring the nap.

As the beaters are perfectly counterbalanced the operator may readily move them for contact with every part of the garment without fatigue.

Egyptian Paint Palettes, of 5,500 B. C.
Prof. Petrie has recently described some of his discoveries at Hierakonpolis in Egypt among the tombs of the first pre-dynastic kings about 5,000 to 6,000 B. C. Among the finds are paint palettes used by the royal ladies for grinding face paints. The artistic execution of the carving is excellent and shows very high skill. Curiously enough the carvings are of interest to zoologists as they exhibit animals long since extinct in Egypt—the hartbeest, etc. The warriors are bearded, and are armed with bows and arrows, javelins on two sides, with spears, feathers, double-headed axes and with weapons like boomerangs. Two have lassos. That the race who made these objects had very high artistic taste and a knowledge of technique which proves long practice is apparent from an inspection of the objects themselves, which are eminently superior to any later Egyptian work.

Progress of Invention.
Successful experiments have been made for obtaining alcohol and sugar from pine and birch sawdust. French cabinet makers have learned a way of preparing sawdust and making it into articles of ornament that resemble carved wood-work.

Advantages of New Lamp.
It is claimed for the mercury vapor lamp, which illuminates by the incandescence of mercury converted into vapor in a vacuum tube by electricity, that it will take but one-third the energy required for the arc light and but one-eighth the energy used by the incandescent filament.

Invents a Wireless Piano.
A resident of Bloomington, Ill., has invented a wireless piano. He first constructed a five octave comb record of steel, placed it upon a bridge and soundboard and by degrees discovered a way to make a very fine harp note. He has been working for eighteen years on his invention.

You can not absorb so much wisdom that you have a monopoly of it.

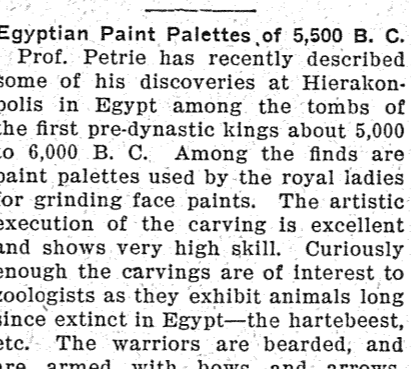

simplicity of this attachment also recommends it, there being no complicated system of pipes and valves, auxiliary to those which supply water direct to the tub. As will be noticed, the pipe through which the water flows to the sprinkler head may be connected direct to the faucets at the end of the tub, and the temperature of the shower is thus as easy to regulate as is that of the tub bath. To aid in supporting the pipe and sprinkler a bracing rod is clamped to the edge of the tub, and provision is made for suspending a water proof curtain from the canopy above the shower rose should the bather so desire, the brace and pipe together being rigid enough to carry the additional weight without additional supports attached to the walls or ceiling.

For Physicians and Dentists.
charged into the cavity. In the illustration we show an improvement over this arrangement, in which the air is heated by a flame in conjunction with the tubing, through which the jet of air passes before being discharged to accomplish its purpose. The portion of the device which is grasped between the thumb and finger is used as a reservoir for the storage of alcohol or other volatile liquid, with a wick tube lying beneath a coil of pipe to heat the air in its passage. The flames and heated coil are surrounded by a non-conducting shield to protect the hand. To force the air through the heating and drying coil a rubber bulb is compressed in the hand, and in the picture we show a reservoir below the bulb, arranged to contain a liquid medicine to be vaporized and discharged from the nozzle by compression of the rubber bulb. The apparatus was designed by a Californian.

Electrical Fish.
In a recent lecture Dr. F. Gotch, a professor of Oxford university, dwelt upon the subject of electrical fish and pointed out that no such fish existed in British streams. They were comparatively rare objects, he said, and were possessed of singular interest. There were at least four groups of electrical fish in which an extraordinary organ had been developed. Some of these fish could give shocks strong enough to knock a man down, and if the current they were capable of generating could be maintained, it would be sufficient to light a whole town. The electrical eel and the torpedo fish were alluded to as species possessing this remarkable phenomenon. The lecturer described the electrical organ found in the tail of the common skate. Physiologists, he said, had been dissecting this fish for years, but had generally passed over the tail as an abject unworthy of study. It is here, however, that the interesting structure is situated, immediately below the skin. It consists of a whole series of columns, which have taken the place of muscles. These columns contain translucent material and in the fresh state are most beautiful objects. The columns are crossed by lines which divide them into compartments including a most wonderful arrangement of nerves. The electrical discharge occurs as the result of a nervous impulse communicated to the fish to the nerve ends, causing an electrical charge. An electrical organ may include as many as 2,000,000 of these compartments.

The lecturer continuing said that a formidable species of electric fish which inhabits the rivers of North Africa, including the Nile, belongs to the genus gymnotus and is capable of giving a very powerful shock. An easily recognizable picture of this fish has been discovered in an ancient Egyptian tomb. These electric organs were the most remarkable examples of nerve mechanism known to exist. They had been developed as a means of defense—the first consideration for the maintenance of any species—and also as a means of attack.

KAISER IS PART FRENCH

German Emperor Has Blood of the Great Admiral de Coligny in His Veins—Is Also a Descendant of the Famous William the Silent.

NE of Kaiser Wilhelm's passions in recent years has been to visit the ancestral seats that have been accumulated by his roving and acquisitive family in the past centuries during which the Hohenzollerns have augmented their power steadily by war, barter and marriage, writes Walter L. Malloy in the Chicago News.

He has been able to enjoy the desire to the full extent in the case of practically all the old family castles, for they are within the empire. But there is one exception. And it is one of the most important of his ancestral homes, for from it there came some of the best and most historic blood that runs in the present imperial veins.

It is the home of the great Colignys, only eighty miles from Paris. There one of the best and most remarkable ancestresses of the Hohenzollerns was born.

The memory of the Admiral de Coligny, the great Huguenot, who perished in the bloody vespers, is kept so green in France that his old home, with the remnant of the castle, is a proud historic monument of the French people. They do not, however, love to admit that it is also an ancestral seat of the German emperor.

The French blood in the Hohenzollern line is direct. Louise Henrietta of Orange-Nassau, the great-granddaughter of Admiral de Coligny, married the great elector, Frederick William of Brandenburg, who won the sovereignty of the Prussia which then was a duchy.

It was this same marriage which made the present Hohenzollerns descendants also of the great prince of Orange, William the Silent, who broke the power of Spain in the Netherlands, Louise Henrietta having been the daughter of William the Silent and his wife, Louise de Coligny, who was the daughter of the admiral.

The French ancestral home of the Kaiser lies in the little town of Chatillon-sur-Loing, on the banks of the River Loing. It is in the present department of the Loiret, which used to be the great province of Orleans, intimately connected with the most stirring and impressive periods of French history. Chatillon-sur-Loing is about forty miles from the city of Orleans. It went to sleep long ago and has not the least desire to wake up.

To-day there remains only the great tower, of a curious octagonal shape, the remnant of a part of the surrounding wall, and a beautiful fountain made by the Huguenot sculptor Jean Goujon, to show what a mighty castle protected the Colignys in their bloody days.

In Coligny intense faith never became fanaticism. He was one of the clearest minds in France and his projects for the advancement of the nation were those of a statesman. He could see far beyond the terrible entanglements of his time, and history has pronounced the verdict that, had he been permitted to impress his policies more powerfully on the land of France, it would have been vastly beneficial to his country.

triest comrades, Charles de Theligny, who had fought by Gaspard de Coligny's side in almost all his wars.

In the night of St. Bartholomew, Aug. 24, 1572, her father and her husband were both massacred.

She herself escaped only as by a miracle and managed to reach Switzerland, where the Calvinists paid her honor. There, despite the horrors through which she had passed, she remained a powerful and influential factor in the growth of the new faith.

Finally she was permitted to return to Lierville, her husband's estate, and she lived there for some years in peace. But all her efforts to obtain honorable burial for her martyred father were futile. After the mob had dragged his body through the streets the government issued an edict that the dead man was to be hanged in the place of execution. It was 1599 before it was possible to bury the admiral in his home in Chatillon.

In 1583 Louise married again. Her second husband was the great William of Orange. Once more she went through years of war and terror for her faith. Bravely she remained by the side of her brave husband. And again it was her lot to see her beloved killed before her eyes, when the infamous Balthazar Gerard assassinated him to win the reward offered by the Spaniards.

William and Louise had a son, Frederick Henry. His daughter, Louise Henrietta of Orange-Nassau, became the wife of Frederick William, elector of Brandenburg, surnamed the Great Elector.

The great elector obtained the duchy of Prussia from the king of Poland and finally he annexed Magdeburg, Minden and a great part of Pomerania.

In 1648 Chatillon was raised to a duchy in favor of the nephew of Louise. This nephew bore his brave ancestor's name of Gaspard de Coligny, but he had only one son, who died without issue. So, in 1657, the male line of the Colignys perished and Chatillon fell to the Montmorencys.

The Coligny castle did not belong to the family until 1437, when Katharine de Saligny brought the castle into the Coligny family as her dowry when she married William II. of Coligny.

The Colignys were native to the east of France, close to the boundaries of Savoy. There were a bunch of the dukes of Burgundy, so the Kaiser could no doubt get heralds to find for

ZOLA WAS A "NEUROPATH."
Great Author So Described by French Experts.

Zola, who used his pen on others as a dissecting knife, submitted himself some years ago to a detailed medical examination in the general interests of anthropology, frankly recognizing the fact that Max Nordau saw in him an excellent illustration of his theory of the connection between genius and degeneracy. Not all those observations nor his own answers to questions about himself were published during his life, but there is now no need for reticence.

He had a wrinkled forehead when he was 6; he had "morbid ideas" until he was 35; and then, when success came in at the door, they escaped by the window. With his intellectual power went a lack of nervous equilibrium, and though he had a strong will and tenacity of purpose, he had feeble powers of concentration and attention, and in later years an uncertain memory. He had had sight and no ear for music. The French experts who examined him gave their verdict in a word—he was a "neuropath."

Congressman Cannon's "Present."
One evening Congressman Cannon slipped over to Adjutant General Corbin's house, where he and the general had a little duel at poker. Cannon is an inveterate smoker and half a dozen times during the session got up and walked over to the fireplace to knock the ashes off his cigars. When he was leaving Corbin asked him to come over soon and Joe said: "Sure, and I'll bring a little present with me." "What sort of a present, congressman?" "Oh, not a very expensive one—just a tin spittoon. I can afford it out of my winnings."
