Cass City crime drops in 1980

Crime in Cass City declined in 1980, compared to the year before. The number of parking tickets issued increased. The reason for both is attributed to another officer being added to the village police force last year, making the total five including Chief Gene Wilson. His report for the year was presented to the village council Monday evening. The only crime in which there was an increase was in assaults, up three from the 20 reported in 1979. Larcenies declined from 142 to 119, burglaries from 25 to 16, vandalism from 119 to 117, frauds from six to three, bad checks from 78 to 53, drug complaints from 16 to 9, auto thefts from seven to four and arson from one to zero. When the village had three patrolmen, Wilson said, he had two cars patrolling the streets and alleys on Friday and Saturday nights. With four patrolmen, he was able to add a second car on Thursday nights. That and the fact that there was one more policeman on duty 42½ hours a week, the chief feels, was a deterrent to would-be criminals. "If they see a police car going around the corner, they tend not to do things." Conceivably the crime rate could have increased, because more policemen would mean more crimes being uncovered or criminals caught in the act. Wilson feels, however, that factor was outweighed by the deterrent factor. With more policemen on the job, that also meant more traffic violations and instances of illegal parking being uncovered, and more time to check parking meters. The number of traffic tickets issued increased from 388 in 1979 to 547 last year. Tickets for illegal parking climbed from 164 to 224 and meter violation tickets jumped from 547 to 980. The number of arrests made and appearance (in court) tickets issued increased from 87 to 132. Juveniles petitioned into probate court totaled 12 last year, two more than in 1979. Some other statistical categories changed little. The number of disorderly conduct complaints increased by only two from the 139 received in 1979; traffic accidents totaled 157 last year, one less, and minor accidents, from 22 to 24 last year. Family troubles declined from 48 to 43. Run-aways increased from 28 to 31; prowler complaints from eight up to 14. Officers did more walking in 1980, or at least less driving. Patrol cars were driven 82,061 miles in 1979; 77,420 miles last year. The Cass City police force is back to four officers, as Duane Sprague, the patrolman added last year, resigned effective Jan. 13 to join the Caro Police Department. Winter being traditionally a slow time for crime and in order to relieve the village's tight budget, a replacement won't be hired until the weather gets warmer. Some of the "lost" hours are being made up by hiring officers from other departments to work in Cass City during their off-duty hours.

Families split $1+ million settlement in accident suit

The families of the late Kenneth R. Voelker of Owendale and James A. Frey of Brown City will split a more than $1 million settlement of their lawsuit filed in connection with the 1977 death of the two men in a traffic accident.

The settlement of about $1.3 million, negotiated by the attorneys representing the various parties in the complicated case, was reached late Thursday morning in Federal district court in Bay City.

A jury had been selected and opening statements were to be presented Thursday afternoon to begin a trial that was expected to last several weeks.

The two families had originally asked for about $2 million each. They will split the settlement 50-50.

The two dairy farmers, both board members of the Michigan Artificial Breeders Cooperative, were returning June 30, 1977, from an artificial breeders national meeting in Columbus, Ohio, when they were killed on I-280, south of Toledo.

A semi-tanker truck jackknifed, crossed the concrete median, and crashed head-on into their northbound car, which was driven by Frey.

The suit charged negligence by the driver of the truck, Joyce McCarron of Amarillo, Texas; her employer and owner of the truck, Jack B. Kelly Inc., also of Amarillo, and the manufacturer of the Peterbilt truck, PACCAR, Inc., of Bellevue, Wash.; the transmission, Eaton Corp., Cleveland, and the gears and bearings in the transmission, TRW Corp.

Thomas P. Patterson of Bay City was the attorney for Mary Jane Voelker, administrator of her husband's estate. William J. Drillock of Marlette represented Lulabelle Frey, administrator of her husband's estate.

The two attorneys filed separate suits, the first one by Patterson in the fall of 1978, but federal District Judge R. James Harvey later consolidated them into a single suit.

According to Patterson, what caused the accident was that the transmission bolted to the engine came loose, causing a bearing in the transmission to break off inside. There was disagreement over whether that caused the transmission to jam. The truck did jackknife, sending it across the road.

Had the case gone to trial, the attorney said a key issue would have been whether the problem was due to faulty manufacturing of the truck and transmission, as he and Drillock would have argued, or whether it was due to poor maintenance, as lawyers for the manufacturers would have argued. Both sides had employed expert witnesses to testify.

The suits could have been filed in a circuit court in Michigan, according to Patterson, but the federal court was chosen because of the defendants and plaintiffs being in different states.

Making the case more complicated was that Mrs. McCarron and her husband Max, a passenger in the truck — they were a driving team — filed suit against two manufacturers. Some of the defendants filed cross-complaints against each other.

Selection of the jury had taken about a week and ended about Wednesday noon.

INCENTIVE FOR NEGOTIATING a settlement at that point, Patterson said, stemmed from the extreme complexity, with the suits and counter-complaints. For that reason, Judge Harvey encouraged the parties to negotiate a settlement.

council members.

The 1980 general fund revenue was projected at $434,500. Revenue totaled $451,339.

General fund expenditures totaled $426,716, versus a projected $464,500.

The big reason for the "surplus" was that only $30,586 was transferred to other funds, instead of a projected $72,200.

It had been projected that $68,500 would have to be contributed from the general fund to the major street fund, primarily for the Doerr Road-Garfield Street reconstruction project, which was primarily federally funded.

But instead of costing $98,000, the cost was kept down to $78,097. Payment of special assessments by property owners along the streets involved totaled $36,860, instead of $15,000 expected last year. That reduced the needed general fund contribution to $30,962.

Although the village financial picture is slightly rosier than originally anticipated, Althaver warned after the meeting that revenue received from the state will likely be even less than in 1980, due to the continuing recession, so any additional funds will be sorely needed.

The figures presented were part of the monthly budget report. The official 1980 audit will be presented at the February meeting.

SOLID WASTE

The council gave its assent to participating with other Tuscola county villages and townships in preparing a countywide solid waste disposal plan, in accordance with the state Solid Waste Management Act.

The county board of commissioners declined to file a "notice of intent" to prepare such a plan.

If the municipalities and townships don't do so, then the 14-county East

Central Michigan Planning and Development Region will be asked by the state Department of Natural Resources, and if it declines, the DNR will prepare the plan.

Council members felt that a plan prepared within the county will be more practical than one prepared by the planning region or DNR.

In contrast to the county land solid waste plan of a few years ago, that dealt only with landfills, prepared under an old law, village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie explained, the new law requires the county plan to also deal with recycling of waste materials such as metal, paper and glass. Such resource recovery might be delayed until economically feasible.

Concern was expressed, however, that whatever the plan is, it will be costly to implement.

Representatives of villages and townships will be meeting in Caro Feb. 19 to decide what to do about preparing a plan. They will be presenting their decision to the DNR at a meeting in Caro March 4.

Twenty charged in county 'drug bust'

Tuscola County Prosecutor Artis Noel issued warrants Tuesday charging 20 persons with various drug delivery charges.

As of mid-Wednesday morning, nine persons had been arrested so far and were to be arraigned before Magistrate Donald Smith. The arrests were made by Tuscola sheriff's deputies, Caro village police and Reese village police.

Some of the 20 — 17 adults and three juveniles — face more than one charge. Magistrate Donald Smith signed 24 warrants for delivery of marijuana and three for delivery of LSD.

All are charged with having sold the controlled substances to the same undercover police officer, a Lapeer county sheriff's deputy. The earliest buys date back to last summer.

Of those charged, nine adults and two juveniles have Reese addresses, two are from Vassar, two from Caro, and one each from Gageton, Deford, Akron and Richville. The only out-of-county resident is a juvenile from Saginaw.

The investigation, Noel said, was handled by his office, the Tuscola Sheriff's department and Reese police.

The "drug bust" was the same type operation as one in November which resulted in the arrest of 24 persons for 28 various drug delivery charges. All of those cases are now in circuit court, with some defendants having already pleaded guilty.

A different Lapeer county deputy made all the buys leading to those arrests.

Only one person charged in the first "drug bust" was also charged in the second.

In addition to the criminal charges, Noel plans to file civil suits to seize three cars used by some of those charged in transporting drugs, as authorized by the state controlled substances act. Such a suit can be filed when, for instance, the defendant is accused of having sold drugs from his car.

Asked if more large scale drug arrests can be expected in the future, Noel responded, "I'd like to kind of leave it open ended, to tell the truth. Hopefully, we're making some headway in slowing down drug trafficking."

Influenza closes Owen-Gage schools

An outbreak of the flu in the Owendale-Gagetown schools forced cancellation of classes Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week in an effort to slow spreading of the illness.

The Highland Pines School outside of Caro for Tuscola county handicapped youngsters was closed Tuesday until further notice for the same reason.

At the high school in Owendale, Principal James Barr said about 60 of 200 students were counted absent Tuesday, the highest number so far, and some more students went home during the day after the enrollment count was taken.

At the elementary school in Gageton, there were 66 students absent Tuesday out of 215 enrolled, according to Principal Bill Britt. Monday, there were 54 absent and Friday, only 15.

The cancelling of classes forced postponement of Tuesday's scheduled home basketball game with Peck to Saturday night. The volleyball team was to have hosted Carsonville-Port Sanilac Thursday. No make-up date, as of Tuesday, had been scheduled.

This is the second year in a row a flu outbreak has caused cancellation of classes at Owen-Gage. Last February, students missed 3½ days, after the absentee rate reached 25.6 percent in grades K-12.

The absentee rate Tuesday was worse. Sixty students absent out of enrollment of 200 equals 30 percent.

According to Joyce Higgins, nursing supervisor for the Tuscola County Health Department, "We are starting to see a higher incidence of influenza type symptoms in the northern part of the county."

School absentee rates in the southern part, she said, are no higher than normal. Symptoms of the illness are high fever, nausea and vomiting, upper respiratory problems (coughing and colds) and muscle ache.

The type of influenza hasn't been identified yet. In order to do so, Ms. Higgins said, the Health Department has ordered viral test kits from the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Doctors treating patients for the flu will use the kits to draw blood samples, which will be sent to the MDPH lab in Lansing where tests will reveal the type of flu that is prevalent.

In the Cass City schools, according to school nurse Lynn Babich, the number of flu-type cases has been increasing noticeably, primarily of the "temperature and sore throat" type.

Tuesday, the highest absentee rate was reported at Deford Elementary School, where 27 of 134 students (20 percent) were home.

The Health Department, she said, suggests school districts cancel classes if the absentee rate is at least 15 percent in one or more buildings and if the number missing disrupts school operations. The decision to close a school or school district must be made by the administration.

Diane and Philip Matusik

A Sunday noon ceremony with poinsettias, Christmas decor and a Christmas tree was the setting for the wedding of Diane Lynn Loeding and Philip Joseph Matusik. They were united in marriage on Dec. 28 at the home of the bride's parents.

Elder Dean Smith offici-ated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Loeding of Snover. The groom is the son of Stanley Matusik of Snover and the late Dorothy Matusik.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a white gown with a high rise neckline, long sleeved modified em-pire lace trimmed bodice, from which fell the softly gathered skirt with a bustle at the back, enhanced with a lace trimmed flounced hem.

She wore a white rose in her hair and carried one dozen red and white roses with baby's breath, tied with a pink ribbon.

Danette Loeding, Snover, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Debra Loeding, Snover, also sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

They wore matching gowns with spaghetti straps and hooded long sleeve coats made of rose red polyester. They each carried three red and white silk roses, tied with a pink ribbon.

Mark Matusik, Columbia-ville, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsman was Randy Parrent, San-duky, friend of the groom.

Ushers were Dwight ar David Loeding, Snover, brothers of the bride, and Dave Rich, Sandusky, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a rose polyester dress and wore a corsage of white carnations and pink roses.

The groom's sister, Mrs. Dave Rich, accom-panied her father at the wed-dings and wore a forest green dress. Her corsage was white carnations with red rose buds. She also baked and decorated the three-tier wedding cake.

The bride's maternal grandmother wore a blue dress and wore white carnations with silver ribbon. The bride's paternal grandmoth-er wore a green dress and also wore white carnation with silver ribbon.

The organ was played by Mrs. Arthur Severance. Mrs. Dean Smith sang "Walk Hand in Hand" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The reception for 100 guests consisted of a dinner prepared by Mrs. Dale Leslie, Mrs. Duane Moore and Mrs. Charles Izydorek. Mrs. Izydorek served the guests.

Following a wedding trip to Houghton Lake, the new-lyweds are making their home in Sandusky.

The bride is employed as a bookkeeper for Wolverine State Bank. The groom works for P.J. Parrent and Sons farm.

"If It Fitz. . ." The common man

By Jim Fitzgerald

It is estimated that the inauguration of Ronald Reagan cost $11 million. The four-day celebration began at the Lincoln Memorial, with the Army Band playing "Fanfare for the Common Man."

That song was chosen because every common man knows what it means to spend $11 million on white-tie galas and gowns by Galanos.

Michael Kelpy of College Park, Md., was probably a common man. He helped erect the scaffolding needed for the light show and music on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial. A few hours before the band began playing the common man's fanfare, a section of the scaffolding collapsed, and Kelpy was killed. High winds were blamed.

The news of Kelpy's death was buried deep inside my newspaper. The next day, on the front page, I read that Barbara Bush, wife of the new vice-president, "was among the first inaugural casualties." She fell at a party and cut her leg, requiring two stitches. Stairs were blamed.

Life is funny. Mrs. Bush fell on the same day Gerald Ford played golf on television with Bob Hope and some other common men. It will be recalled that, at the GOP convention last summer, Ford was just a breath away from becoming vice-president again. If Ford had accepted the nomination last summer, chances are good that Mrs. Bush wouldn't have fallen this winter, and Michael Kelpy might have achieved higher ranking among inaugural casualties.

Some people wondered why Ronald Reagan, who often dresses like a cowboy, would sanction inaugural events that required male guests to change frequently from white tie to black tie to morning coat with tails to striped trousers with pearl gray vest. The answer was supplied by Charles Wick, one of the inaugural organizers, who pointed to the man in whose honor the Lincoln Memorial was built.

"Ronald Reagan advocates the return to basic American values, and one of these is reverence for God and country. Abraham Lincoln wore a top hat to his swearing-in," Wick said. "Reagan is touching base with the great American who went before him."

Absolutely. Show me a common man who shows reverence for God and country without wearing a top hat, and I'll show you a pile of unsplit rails.

Another Reagan aide added to the pattern of basic American values when he revealed that Reagan wrote most of his inaugural address in longhand on a yellow legal pad while flying east from Los Angeles. Obviously, it's not as easy to find the back of an envelope on an airplane to Washington as it is on a train to Gettysburg.

One objection to the high cost of the $11 million inaugural was heard from Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., who couldn't see spending $400 to buy, or $40 to rent, the formal outfit suggested for the daytime inauguration itself. "We'll all be in topcoats, so what is underneath really is less important," he said.

Riegle was not touching the right base. Every American mother teaches her child that what's underneath is important. You can be sure that when Abraham Lincoln put on his top hat to go out and search for basic American values, his mother made sure he also put on clean underwear.

It is appropriate that the $11 million inaugural festivities began with the band playing "Fanfare for the Common Man." A lot of common men are out of work these days. Some of them are having trouble feeding their families. It is good that inaugural music was used to remind the common man that someday he, too, could be rich enough to waste $11 million.

There is nothing like the fanfare of trumpets blasting in a common man's ears to help him appreciate that there are people in top hats and Galanos gowns who are determined to work four score and seven years to return this nation to basic American values, even if they have to cut the food stamp program to do it.

Fostoria couple top cooperators

Robert and Betty Valentine of Fostoria were presented with the "cooperator of the year" award at the 37th annual dinner meeting of the Tuscola County Soil Conservation District last Wednesday at Caro High School.

The couple and son Bob farm 350 acres of cash crops in Watertown township. Conservation practices installed on their farm include erosion control structures, trees, with some planted every year since 1958, pond, wildlife habitat area, field windbreaks and chisel plowing.

Poster contest awards were presented to winners Julie Koepf, Sebewaung; Buffy Burmeister, Clifford; Jennett Brown, Millington, and Claudia Brown, Vassar, who was also a state contest winner.

Awards for the land judging contest were presented to the Millington Future Farmers of America, the Bruce Ruggles Memorial Award for first place; Mayville FFA, second, and Caro FFA, third.

A plaque was presented to William Siems, a Soil Conservation Service (SCS) technician for 26 years, for his service to the Tuscola district.

District Conservationist Philip Dakin presented a slide program showing accomplishments in the county during 1980.

Conservation practices were applied on 1,239 farms. Included were installation of 104 erosion control structures, nine waste management systems, and planting of 388 acres of trees. A soil survey was conducted on 54,466 acres.

Guest speaker was SCS Area Conservationist Jerry LeMunyon, who presented a slide program on conservation tillage.

The aim of conservation tillage, he said, is to keep crop residue on the surface to protect the soil from wind and water erosion.

It can also increase productivity, and by reducing the number of trips across fields, save time and fuel.

Elected to the district board of directors was Henry Gruber of the Gilford-Reese area, replacing John Findlay of Reese, the outgoing board chairman, who did not seek reelection.

Eighty land owners cast ballots.

Findlay announced during the meeting that the district would be receiving a Good-year honor award at the Michigan Association of Soil Conservation Districts convention Thursday and Friday at Grayling.

TOP COOPERATORS -- Robert and Betty Valentine of Fostoria were recipients of the cooperator of the year award at the Tuscola County Soil Conservation District annual meeting last Wednesday in Caro.

Guilds given Army badge

Army Pvt. Kenneth L. Guilds, son of Charlotte Kitchen of 6178 Shabbona Road, Deford, was presented the Air Assault Badge upon graduation from the Air Assault School at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Trainees learned to rapidly and safely exit a helicopter from a variety of difficult situations. Whether descending into tree tops or lowering themselves or injured soldiers down sheer drops, the graduates are highly proficient.

The Haire Net

Perhaps you caught the segment of "60 Minutes" that showed kids in junior high in Texas repeating the eighth grade. Taking it over so that they would be better prepared. Alas, not for studies, but for sports.

The idea was that when they had another year on the farm (junior high) they would be better prepared to play football at the high school level.

Tsk, tsk, you say? That's ridiculous. Dumb.

Or is it getting the kids off on the right foot? Preparing them for college. After all it's common practice to "red shirt" athletes at universities. If you're loaded with talent at tackle and you have a talented tackle to spare keep him on ice for a year so that he'll be ready when you need him. That way he gets to practice and gain experience without using up a year of eligibility.

I doubt that the Thumb will ever red shirt a grade schooler to prepare for high school. In Michigan it would be against the law, never mind common sense.

But the Thumb is afflicted with the same malaise. Cass City was to have lost its sports program once and money was raised to keep basketball alive.

This week in Imlay City a boosters club announced that it was raising $16,000 to keep the school's sports program afloat. The band boosters are aiming for $9,000.

Imlay City is wallowing in a deficit and teachers are being laid off.

Teachers won't accept a nickel cut in extra pay they get for extra duty as coaches.

What makes it exceedingly difficult is that there is no second chance for the kids or their parents.

The year lost is gone forever and there's no going back. That is it's lost unless you live in Texas.

What's happening today in Imlay City has happened to many other schools in the Thumb and is likely to happen to a great many more in the future.

inflation would dictate is needed.

It's very possible that every taxpayer reading this will be called to decide what to do when the money runs out.

Will the community raise the money for all the various extracurricular activities that make high school what it is and is meant to be? Will the board allow it to do so? Will trouble be avoided when our schools come to us for extra millage? It is a lead pipe cinch that in Cass City, at least, this spring we'll be asked to dig down for our kids.

Realistically, solutions like the one proposed in Imlay City just can't work for long.

This year the groups might raise $25,000, but what about the next year and the year after that?

Raising money for popular extracurricular activities is a little like red shirting grade schoolers.

It's a stop-gap measure that really doesn't do a thing for the school or the program.

In the end taxpayers will either foot the bill or the programs will be abandoned.

And that's the way it should be.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

That insulated underwear found in back of the Chronicle by Alex Greenleaf belongs to Earl Markel of Cass City. It was found a long way from where it disappeared.

Markel says that he had the underwear in the dryer at the laundromat when he stepped out for a paper. When he returned they were gone.

Perhaps they were the wrong size for whoever it was that ditched them in the alley back of the Chronicle?

Karen Nielson, formerly of Cass City, called to get a paper winging out to Spokane. You know the question. Yes, she has a great view of Mt. St. Helens. Apprehensive? Not really, the wind usually blows the other way. Usually?

If it's not one thing it's another. In Florida all the fruit is suffering from the deep freeze. In California it's another problem. The problem is a fungus growth.

This comes direct to you from Mrs. Loma Etting, via her mother, Laura Reagh of Cass City. Mrs. Etting lives in Concord, Calif., and has a lemon tree that has gone sour. (Pun intended.)

The problem is so acute, I'm told, that there are concerted drives to eliminate it.

I confess. I'm out of step with the times. I watched, at most, one quarter of the Super Bowl Sunday and switched channels. Boring is what I found it.

While I appreciate the ordeal of the former hostages, for me I've been exploited too much by the media. Cynically, I can't help but think that many of the politicians and big shots are there because the TV cameras are grinding.

The Viet Nam war prisoners suffered at least as much and perhaps more but there was no ticker tape parade for them and if they wanted to stay in a hotel with their family they paid for it just like you and me.

Mixed emotions

By Mike Eliasohn

Although I am usually hard up for news and things to photograph (desperate is more like it), I'm glad that none of the families of the now ex-hostages lived within our coverage area.

I have mixed emotions about how far the press went in covering the families during the 444 day ordeal.

It would have bothered me every time there was a new development or another milestone passed (100 days, Christmas, etc.) to have to call and ask "How do you feel with your son (daughter, husband, etc.) still held captive?"

It should be noted that the basic decision on how much coverage each family received was up to them.

Some chose to avoid contact, and used a "family spokesman" to answer any questions from the press.

Others invited reporters, photographers and television cameras into their homes.

One impression that remains with me is the shot of Dorothea Morefield's living room, packed with reporters, photographers and TV cameramen waiting to record her reaction when she watched on television when her husband came off the plane in Algiers.

Another family, as I recall, served champagne to the assembled reporters in their home the day the hostages were released.

Apparently television this time avoided the sickening moment that occurred when our prisoners of war were released from North Vietnam at the end of the Vietnam war.

Television cameras (with sound) recorded the first conversation a wife had with her recently released husband, after years of captivity. Her husband did not know a loudspeaker was attached to his wife's phone.

Asked later why she would allow a national television audience to eavesdrop on such a very private moment, I recall the wife said something like, the press had been so nice, when they asked, she felt she owed it to them.

I wonder if the couple is still married.

Television avoided such intimate moments this time, as far as I know. Perhaps that was because when the ex-hostages arrived in Germany and the toll-free telephones with which to call their families, it was 3 or 4 in the morning.

As I said, I have mixed emotions.

Other than the reservation I have about invading personal privacy, television coverage about the release of the hostages was one of those moments that television does very well.

Who didn't feel some pride when the now free Americans came down the ramp at the Algiers airport?

Pierre Salinger's reporting on ABC about the behind-the-scenes negotiating that took place during the 444 days, most of which couldn't be revealed while the hostages were still in captivity, was fascinating and kept me up watching it until 1:30 Friday morning.

Revealed for the first time, for instance, was that the two main go-betweens between the U.S. and Iran most of the period were a French lawyer and an Argentine businessman and the chief negotiator for the United States until the final days was Presidential aide Hamilton Jordan.

There are, unfortunately, three American citizens still behind bars in Iran and, I assume, still a sizeable number of Americans living in that country of their free will.

Hopefully, the Reagan administration will honor the treaty negotiated by the Carter administration, which apparently only gives back to the Iranians what they had in the first place. Those maniacs shouldn't be given an excuse to do something else drastic -- granted they didn't need an excuse back in November, 1979.

As ex-hostage Richard Queen pointed out, the Iranians didn't get back two things they wanted, the Shah and his wealth.

Or as one of the signs read that greeted the ex-hostages after their return Sunday to American soil: "Super Bowl Score: U.S.A., 52; Iran, 0."

NEEDLEWORK DISPLAY -- More than 20 women from the Cass City, Caro and Kingston areas have various examples of the work on display at Rawson Memorial Library through Friday, Feb. 6. Coordinator of the exhibit is Faye Stoll of Kingston, who is holding a needlepoint she did depicting her house. The partially completed quilt is also hers. The quilt on the wall was made by Rita Lotter of Kingston; the needlepoint on the floor by Mary Hutchinson, Cass City. The exhibit will be open regular library hours.

HANDIWORK -- Among examples of the work that will be on display will be, clockwise from left, needlepoint by Joanne Brown, crewel by Mary Hutchinson, needle weaving (the basket) by Marge Henderson, counter cross stitching (pillow) by Mrs. Brown and Lexington lace by Mrs. Hutchinson.

CASS CITY ARTIST Jeanne Ellinger will have these watercolors and others on display at the library exhibit. Some needlework pictures of homes that will be on display used sketches drawn by Mrs. Ellinger as the pattern.

Three held in armed robbery

Three men charged in connection with the Jan. 21 armed robbery of a Vassar area couple were still being held in the Tuscola County Jail Tuesday afternoon, in lieu of $50,000 bond each.

Charged with armed robbery, breaking and entering, and possession of a firearm during commission of a felony are John A. Rashotte, 22, and Gregory W. Shephard, 22, both of Standish, and Larry D. Betz, 20, of Vassar.

They appeared last Thursday before Magistrate Donald Smith, who set bond.

Monday, the trio appeared before District Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled a pre-preliminary hearing for each of them Monday, Feb. 2, and preliminary hearing Feb. 6.

According to Caro state police, two men broke into the mobile home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gilmore in the Mark of Vassar Trailer Park about 1:15 a.m., held a sawed off shotgun on the couple while they were tied to the bed and then escaped with less than $100 in cash. The third person involved was waiting in the car.

The Gilmores freed themselves and called police. While troopers were rushing to the trailer park, which is off M-15, south of Vassar, they spotted a car stopped by Vassar police for a traffic violation.

The car matched a description given by the couple, as did the occupants, which led to their arrest.

The gun used and the money were recovered.

Energy Day program Saturday

Learn how to warm up for less at the Family Thumb Energy Day Saturday at Cass City High School.

The activities begin at noon with the opportunity to browse through commercial exhibits. Exhibits include insulation, geothermal units, generators, solar units and weatherizing information.

At 1:15 p.m., Bill Stout, of Michigan State University, will present "An Overview of Energy Today and Tomorrow."

At 1:45, those in attendance will have the opportunity to choose two programs from the six being offered. The programs offered will be geothermal units, tax credits for energy improvements, stopping heat loss from the home, wood stoves, vegetable oil for diesel engines and a Flintstone's energy film (which requires both sessions) for children.

The program will provide information about what can be done to conserve and where some products are commercially available. It is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of Huron, Sanilac, and Tuscola counties. It will end at 4 p.m.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

Your Neighbor says

Military action was needed early

"I was just so happy to see them home," was the reaction of Lois Sugden to the return of the 52 American hostages from Iran last week.

"A lot of them, I don't think, felt safe until they got to Germany, that they felt they were free."

She feels, however, "something more should have been done about getting them freed."

Military action should have been taken early to free the hostages, "not a flubbed up deal like they did." With the military power the U.S. has, the rescue attempt "certainly looked poorly done."

Mrs. Sugden does not support reneging on the agreement the United States reached with Iran to free the Americans, as some senators have urged. "We gave our word. I think we should be a country that can be depended on for what we agreed to."

However, she feels the negotiated agreement, instead of military action, made the United States look weak. "I think we should take a stronger position with foreign countries."

She also feels, "This may not have settled the problem. It (taking of hostages) may still rise another time and another place."

She added that there was enough warning, that either the embassy staff should have been evacuated before the Shah of Iran was admitted to the U.S. or he should have never been brought to this country.

An aide at Campbell Elementary School, she and her husband Richard have two daughters at home, Lori and Julie, and two married children, Donna Seeley and Rick, and two granddaughters. The Sugdens live at 5964 Cass City Road.

Thorp on Navy ship

Navy Operations Specialist Seaman Recruit Miles A. Thorp, son of Robert E. and Johnnie M. Thorp of 4556 Sebawaing Road, Owendale, has reported for duty aboard the amphibious command ship USS Mount Whitney, homeported in Norfolk, Va. A 1980 graduate of Owendale-Gagetown High School, he joined the Navy in June.

Sometimes the small, still voice of conscience got that way from sheer overwork.

Tillage comparisons

By Mike Score
Tuscola County
Extension Agricultural Agent

This is another report in a series regarding first year yield data from a Michigan State University study of tillage practices in Tuscola and Huron counties.

Al Latimer runs a poultry and cash crop operation in the Akron area. Manure from poultry production was utilized on conventional and conservation tillage plots at two rates to improve growth conditions on the sandy soil in the plots. Rates of manure in the plots were 1,500 gallons and 3,000 gallons per acre.

On the conservation tillage plot, a soil saver was used as a primary tillage tool in the fall of 1979. Two field cultivation operations were used in spring, 1980, for final seed bed preparation.

On the conventional plot, the soil was inverted in the fall with a moldboard plow and disked in the spring before planting. Primary tillage depths were at 6-8 inches and secondary tillage operations were at the 4-inch depth.

Corn was planted into the sandy soil May 14, in 28-inch rows at a population of 27,000 plants per acre. Along with the manure applied to the plots, Al applied 200 pounds of 6-18-6 per acre at planting, and 157 pounds of 38-0-8. Garno 5-93 and O's Gold 980 were the varieties chosen by Al. A combination of 2 quarts Lasso and 2 pounds Bladex were used for weed control.

With the high rate of chicken manure came a weed problem that required a post application of BRSagran with oil for broad leaf control. Volunteer corn was also a problem in the plot throughout the growing season.

Despite mid season crop growth problems, including symptoms of secondary and micro-nutrient deficiencies, the corn in the conservation tillage plot outyielded conventionally grown corn where 1,500 pounds of manure were applied.

Yield comparisons show a seven bushel advantage on soil saved ground. Where manure rates were 3,000 gallons per acre, a 4-7 bushel advantage was seen for conventionally managed corn.

Regardless of the rate of manure applied, benefits of leaving residues on the soil surface were obvious from a soil erosion standpoint.

The next meeting will be at the Gagetown fire hall Thursday, Feb. 5. Blood pressure readings will be taken and a hobby show will be featured.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Cass City needs an additional $18,700 to complete the municipal swimming pool, it was learned at Tuesday night's village council meeting.

New Elkland Township Fire Department officers have been chosen. They are: Jim Jezewski, chief; Jack Hartwick, assistant chief; Jerome Root Jr., captain; Bill Bliss Jr., lieutenant; Dave McNaughton, secretary, and Dick Root, treasurer.

The long sought Thumb-based alcoholic detoxification and treatment center will open its doors Monday at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe.

Carolyn Benscoter, Cass City, is the new chairman of the Huron Inter-Agency Services to the Handicapped. She succeeds Don Richards who resigned the post.

Jeanne E. Alexander of Cass City is among the outstanding scholars on Alma College's honors list for the first term of the 1975-76 school year.

TEN YEARS AGO

It is not likely that local anglers will be fishing for coho or chinook salmon in the Cass River near Cass City, according to authorities of the Department of Natural Resources in Caro.

James Bauer, Cass City, has been named president of the Michigan Tobacco and Candy Distributors and Vendors Association, it was announced this week by Michael Spaniol, executive secretary of the group.

Donald Koepfgen, Cass City, has the most improved dairy herd in Tuscola county, according to Bill Bivens, Dairy Herd Improvement Association fieldman.

Two Cass City persons were injured and a busload of students from Cass City High School stranded in a wreck during winter's worst storm, which struck the area Tuesday.

25 YEARS AGO

Three graduates from Cass City High School who are attending Michigan State University are among students on the honors list for the fall term of 1955. They are C. Edward Fox, Robert D. Fox and Koert J. Lessman.

Van Allen on ship in west Pacific

Navy Boatswain's Mate 3rd Class William S. Van Allen, son of Douglas and Hilda Van Allen of 6386 Severance Road, Cass City, is currently deployed to the Western Pacific and Indian Ocean.

He is a crewmember aboard the fast combat support ship, USS Camden, homeported in Bremerton, Wash.

During the cruise, his ship will support units of the U.S. 7th Fleet during training operations. En route to its assigned station, the Camden made port visits in Hawaii and the Philippines.

His ship is 793 feet long and carries a crew of 550. It is designed to provide rapid replenishment of petroleum, munitions, provisions and supplies for other fleet ships while at sea.

A 1974 graduate of Cass City High School, Van Allen joined the Navy in November, 1975.

Bonnie Jean Benkelman graduated from Western State College at Kalamazoo, receiving her bachelor of science degree.

William Hill of Fostoria announced this week that his jewelry repair shop on Main Street in Cass City is now open for business.

Cass City native Don McLellan is now a policeman in Lynden, Wash.

Cass City High School won its ninth straight game with a 78-52 win Friday over Caro. Bob Martus was high scorer for the Red Hawks with 23 points.

35 YEARS AGO

Village trustees at a special session Monday night voted to submit to voters the proposition of selling bonds for the purpose of purchasing and installing a softening plant in connection with the village water works.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ottaway, former residents of Grant township, will be observing their 60th wedding anniversary at their home in Sebewaing Jan. 31.

While out hunting, Warren Kelley saw a mink holding a rabbit by the neck. One shot got both the rabbit and the mink.

Capt. William Spencer, who has been visiting his parents here, will leave Feb. 14 for Manila where he has a position with Philippine Airlines as first pilot. He has accepted a three-year contract and his headquarters will be in Manila.

Weight control class set

The Sanilac County Cooperative Extension Service is sponsoring a Light and Livelier Weight Control program beginning Thursday evening, Feb. 5, from 7-9 p.m.

It will continue every Thursday evening through March 5. The series will be held at the County Conference Room in Sandusky. A small fee will be charged for materials and supplies. Reservations are requested by calling the extension office at (313) 648-2515.

The program is designed to help persons learn the facts of nutrition, how to change food habits and select foods wisely.

Student of the week

Jeff LaBelle, an eighth grader, was student of the week at Cass City Intermediate School for the week of Jan. 19.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed LaBelle of Third Street, Cass City.

"Well, with what our insurance paid for our stolen stereo, less depreciation... this is all we could afford."

Auto Owners for Real Replacement Value Insurance

If you have personal possessions destroyed or stolen, some homeowners insurance policies will only pay you the depreciated value on those items. Even though it may now cost much more to replace them.

But with Auto-Owners new Replacement Cost Endorsement, we'll pay you the whole amount it will cost to replace the articles that were stolen or destroyed (not to exceed 400% of actual cash value). And, it can be easily added to your present homeowners policy.

So talk to your local independent Auto-Owners agent. You could make beautiful music together.

HEALTH TIPS

Most moles cause no health problems

Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

Everyone has moles—those bumps on the skin, not those little animals that burrow underground.

Most of us have at least forty moles scattered over our epidermis. For the most part, they don't cause any health or appearance problems, and we just let them alone.

At first, moles are flat and are brown or black in color like a freckle. With time, they enlarge and some may develop hairs. Moles usually change slowly with the years, becoming larger and lighter in color. And, ultimately, most moles will eventually gradually disappear by seeming to fade into the skin. Or they seem to rub off.

Do moles present a health problem? Usually, no, says the American Medical Association.

The only moles that warrant medical concern are those that do something out of the ordinary. This includes any spot that bleeds, itches, becomes painful, or suddenly changes in size, shape or color. Sometimes an unsightly mole on the face or neck requires attention for cosmetic reasons.

Very seldom is a mole an advance warning of skin cancer, but sometimes a cancerous blemish may look like a mole at first.

If the mole is so located on your body that it is constantly irritated by rubbing against clothing, or if it presents an unsightly blemish on the face, your doctor may remove it.

He may simply cut the mole out with a scalpel, or he may use an electric needle. If the mole is quite large, plastic surgery may be required to minimize the scar. Many individuals find that small moles can be effectively disguised with makeup.

Most moles cause little or no trouble. But occasionally a mole may catch our interest because it is unattractive or annoying. If using cover-up cosmetics doesn't solve the problem, consult a physician to have the mole removed.

Mrs. Brinley dies at 72 after illness

Verna Ethel Brinley, 72, of Kingston died Friday at Provincial House in Cass City after a long illness.

She was born March 24, 1908, in Weatherbee, Mo., the daughter of James and Drusilla (Fay) Fleming.

Miss Fleming married George Brinley Aug. 18, 1928, at St. Joseph, Mo. Following their marriage, they made their home in Detroit.

Brinley died Nov. 4, 1958. In 1959, Mrs. Brinley moved to Lapeer and to Kingston in 1979. She had been employed by Am's Restaurant and Stevens Nursing Home, both located in Cass City.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Minnie Smart of Lapeer, and many nieces and nephews. Five brothers and two sisters preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted Monday morning at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City. Rev. Gerald Rodgers of the DeFord Community church officiated.

Burial was in Grand Lawn cemetery, Detroit.

Batts on dean's list

Steven W. Batts of Cass City has been named to the dean's list for the fall semester at Delta College.

To qualify, a student must have carried a minimum of 12 credit hours and earned a 3.5 grade point average or better.

Owendale man reported 'fair' after collision with truck

An Owendale man was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw, where he was taken following a 5:50 p.m. accident Monday just east of Owendale.

Injured was Arnold H. Sticken, 56, of 7689 Canboro Road.

According to Bad Axe state police, James S. Terbush, 34, of E. Sanilac Road, Caro, was westbound on Sebawaing Road when the dual left rear wheels came off his stake truck, which was carrying a load of wood. Terbush pulled onto the north shoulder, according to state police, but more than four feet of the left corner of the truck was protruding onto the roadway.

Coming Auction

Saturday, Feb. 14 - Phillip Hoffman will sell farm machinery at the place located nine miles north, three miles east and a half-mile south of Cass City on Grassmere Rd. Osentoski Auction Service, auctioneers.

pickup then ran into the Terbush truck.

Troopers said the latter had enough momentum when the wheels came off that Terbush could have pulled the truck completely onto the shoulder. He was ticketed on a charge of improper parking on the traveled portion of a roadway.

The brake drum had shattered when it hit the road after the wheels came off. Terbush told officers he was kicking pieces off the road and was about 200 feet east of his truck when Sticken hit it. A passenger had already retrieved one of the wheels. Terbush couldn't recall whether the lights on his truck were on when it was hit.

Sticken was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital, then transferred to St. Luke's.

CAR-DEER

Car-deer accidents were numerous in the area during the past week, none of which resulted in injuries to the vehicle occupants.

Three of them were reported Friday.

At 7:10 a.m., according to Cass City police, Karen Kay Alcox, 24, of Midland, was westbound on M-81, west of Crawford Road, when her car collided with one of the animals.

Tuscola county deputies reported that at 8:20 a.m.,

New Lutheran pastor to be installed

Rev. Allen R. Fruendt will be installed as the new minister of the Good Shepherd Lutheran church in ceremonies at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Rev. Allen R. Fruendt

Rev. Fruendt, 35, served as pastor of Zion Lutheran church in Scotia, Neb., from 1971 until September, 1977, and since then at Trinity Lutheran church in Centralia, Ill.

He graduated from Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, Mo., in 1971, with a master of divinity degree.

He and his wife, Ann, have three children, Christopher, 8, Jennifer, 5, and Jonathan, 2.

Since the departure of Rev. James Van Dellen June 1, Rev. John G. Riske of St. Peter's Lutheran church in Bach has been serving as interim pastor.

Larry J. Keyser, 38, of 4368 Woodland Street, was southbound on Cemetery Road, south of Severance Road, when a deer ran into the path of his car.

He swerved to avoid hitting the animal and his car went off the east side of the road into a ditch and struck three small trees.

At 8:15 p.m., deputies said, Mary M. Miracle, 44, of 6825 Gilford Road, Deford, was northbound on Cemetery, south of Severance, when her vehicle struck a deer.

Richard T. Diegel, 22, of 4223 E. Sanilac Road, Kingston, was westbound on M-46, east of Froede Road, when his car collided with one of the animals. Deputies investigated the 6:20 a.m. Saturday mishap.

At 6:45 a.m. Sunday, according to Cass City police, Janis Hubbard, 46, of 3039 S. Kingston Road, Kingston, was northbound on Cemetery Road, north of Shabbona Road, when her car hit a deer.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

A small fire was extinguished by attendant James Spencer after a car knocked over a gasoline pump at Frank's Service Station at Church and Leach Streets Friday.

Cass City police reported Steven W. Pasanski, 17, of 5102 Schwieger Road, was pulling into the station and the rear of his car clipped the pump closest to Leach Street, knocking it over. The mishap took place at 8:28 p.m.

At 12:25 a.m. Jan. 17, according to deputies, Richard E. Goodchild of Caro was attempting to pass a car on Deckerville Road, east of Cemetery Road, when he lost control of his pickup on the icy surface and slid into the ditch.

Driver of the car was Dale Gusko of Caro.

Michael M. Sagash, 25, of 3737 Cooklin Road, Cass City, was westbound on Cooklin, east of Hurds Corner Road, at 1:25 a.m. Sunday, according to deputies, when his vehicle went off the south side of the road and ran over a tree stump. The road was described as icy.

3 classes added for adult ed

The Cass City Schools community education department has added three offerings to its winter lineup of classes.

"Welcome to My World" is for adults who like to read and exchange ideas, interpretations and insights gained from their reading. Instructor will be Bob Ciure, a literature and drama teacher, "singing waiter" and actor. The 10-week class is scheduled to start Wednesday, Feb. 4, and run from 7-9 p.m.

"Friday Night Special" is a theatre class for adults who have never set foot on stage and those with some experience. Instructor will be Monica Kling, an actress active with The Acting Group and instructor in drama, drawing and trumpet. The 10 sessions will run from 6:30-8:30 Friday nights, starting Feb. 6.

"Alaskan Adventure," a travelogue presented by Bob and Margaret Parrott, will be shown Wednesday, Feb. 4, at 7 p.m.

To register or for more information, call the community education office at 872-4151.

IN FOR TWO -- Tim Sontag lays in two of the 10 points he collected Tuesday evening against Mayville. Trying to stop him is Don Beach.

Credit union assets are sold

The final chapter of the Cass City Federal Credit Union has been written with the sale of its loan file to the Education Employees Credit Union of Saginaw.

The CCFUCU board voted July 31 to liquidate, after it got into financial trouble and two attempts to merge with healthy credit unions fell through.

The National Credit Union Administration (NCUA), which insures deposits with credit unions for up to $100,000, paid off depositors in October and in early December, advertised for sale of the assets of the defunct credit union.

The CCFUCU had $84,678 in loans outstanding (assets). According to NCUA agent Harry E. Bellew, about $6,000-7,000 of that had shares in the CCFUCU pledged as collateral, and thus were not sellable as part of the loan file. The persons paying off those loans will continue to deal with the NCUA.

The EECU, the highest bidder, paid less than the amount of the loans outstanding, thus stands to make a profit if it can collect on all of them.

The NCUA always sells the loan file when credit unions are liquidated. Bellew explained, so that it doesn't have to deal with the repayment of the loans. Some borrowers have a couple of years yet to repay.

The amount the EECU paid for the loan file isn't public information, Bellew said. That money is deducted from the amount (also not made public) it cost the NCUA to reimburse the CCFUCU depositors.

In addition to making a profit from the purchase of the assets, the EECU, which has an office in Caro, might gain some members from the folded credit union.

The CCFUCU got into financial trouble when its manager let the record keeping fall apart when she was in ill health.

As an apparent result, too much money was loaned out, which cut into operating capital. Once its troubles became known, its problems were compounded when some members closed their accounts by withdrawing all their money.

The public credit union had about 300 members when it folded, most of whom were employed at General Cable, Hills and Dales General Hospital and Evans Products.

Gagetown fire loss only $250

Damage was estimated at $250 in a fire in a building in Gagetown Tuesday afternoon.

The building, owned by Millie Mosack, is on Lincoln Street between Mr. Kelly's market and the post office. Cause, according to Elmwood-Gagetown Fire Chief Chuck Wright, was a wire which shorted in the attic. The damage consisted of burned wiring and a hole burned in the ceiling.

The occupant of the building, who rents it from Mrs. Mosack, smelled smoke and went next door to the market, where owner Wayne Tomich called Wright's house.

A daughter went and told Wright, who happened to be downtown.

The chief said when he arrived, smoke was pouring from the building and he was afraid the fire might spread to the adjoining buildings. He had the sheriff's department call the Elkland Township Fire Department, to come and assist.

The fire was less serious than first feared, however, and was quickly extinguished by Gagetown firemen. Elkland firemen never left the station.

The fire was reported about 2:30 p.m.

Legal aid for low income in operation citizens).

Legal Services does not handle criminal cases or "fee producing" cases, such as personal injury lawsuits or other matters expected to produce a monetary award or settlement from which private attorney fees could be paid.

TALS is staffed by a full-time attorney and a legal secretary. Attorney Robert Baer is a 1974 graduate of the University of Michigan Law School. He previously practiced law in Jackson and Chino, Calif. Baer and his wife Cheryl, a registered nurse, live in Caro.

Karen Campbell of Caro is the program's legal secretary. Married, she is a 1967 graduate of Caro High School.

The legal aid program is federally funded. Clients are not charged, but are expected to pay customary court costs, such as filing and service of process fees. In exceptional cases, presumably extreme financial hardship, the court may waive such charges.

Eligibility for the legal service is based on federally established income guidelines. A single person should have an annual income of $4,738 or less; for a family of four, $9,313 or less.

The income guidelines can vary somewhat, according to Baer, based on such factors as age and health.

The Legal Services office is located in the Human Development Commission office in downtown Caro. Its telephone number is the same as that for the HDC, 673-6153 or toll-free 800-292-3666. Baer advises that persons call first, rather than coming into the office. The mailing address is P.O. Box 67, Caro 48723.

For persons unable to get to Caro, it will be possible to arrange appointments elsewhere, probably at the HDC office in Bad Axe for Huron county residents and the HDC office in Sandusky for Sanilac county residents.

There is federal funding for two lawyers and two secretaries, so after the second lawyer is hired, when the caseload increases, the ability to meet clients outside of Caro will be improved.

Three persons within the area served by Thumb Area Legal Services are now serving on the board of directors of the parent organization, Lakeshore Legal Services. They are Tuscola County Assistant Prosecutor Kathleen Boyle, Bad Axe attorney Douglas Lee and Isabel Sanchez, director of the Migrant Ministry office in Sandusky.

Lakeshore Legal Services, based in Mt. Clemens, is a non-profit corporation which provides legal services to the indigent in Macomb and St. Clair counties.

Snowball breaks car window

Damage was estimated at $50 when a snowball was thrown at a car window last Wednesday and broke it.

Daniel Opanasenko of 6674 Huron Street told Cass City police he was southbound on Seeger Street, south of Garfield Street, at 9:30 p.m. when the snowball was thrown. The left rear window was broken.

The car belonged to Helen Agar of 4581 N. Seeger Street.

James Martin of 2100 Froede Road, Kingston, reported to sheriff's deputies the afternoon of Jan. 20 that 13 gallons of gasoline were siphoned from his truck while it was parked next to the house during the night.

Parachute class finished by Pitcher

Capt. Harper assigned to English base

Air Force Capt. James C. Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Harper of 5201 Centerline Road, Kingston, has graduated from the Squadron Officer School at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

Graduates of the school studied communication skills, international relations, manpower management, and responsibilities that prepare junior Air Force officers for command and staff duties.

Harper will now serve at Royal Air Force, Upper Heyford, England.

Hawks ragged in tune-ups for key games ahead

The Cass City Red Hawks tuned up for an important Thumb B Association game Friday at Laker High by defeating Mayville Tuesday, 67-52.

It was far from an artistic game with turnovers and sloppy passing the rule rather than the exception. It's likely that the Hawks will need to play much better if they are to repeat their first round victory over the Lakers.

The Lakers have been an up and down team this season. They were overpowered by the Hawks in the first meeting but turned around and defeated USA and lost by just two points to Bay City All Saints. USA is one of two teams that hold a win over Cass City.

Coach Ron Nurnberger used many different combinations against Mayville but none was exceptionally good.

It looked as if Cass City was going to be in for a long night when the game started. In the first three minutes Cass City missed 6 straight shots and the Wildcats shot in front 6-0.

But Craig Tonti got the Hawks rolling with a bucket and the Hawks scored eight unanswered points to take the lead and were never again behind.

While Mayville trailed from the last two minutes of the first quarter for the rest of the game they were within shooting distance most of the night.

At the end of the first quarter the Hawks were in front 13-7.

Mayville rallied in the first half of the second period to move to within a point, 16-15, before Cass City scored two unanswered buckets to push in front again. The rally was paced by Tim Sontag. At the half the Hawks led 22-18.

Coach Ron Nurnberger

put his team into a full court press in the second half and it bothered Mayville. Several turnovers and quick baskets enabled Cass City to move from a 26-24 advantage to a 32-24 lead in just a half minute.

Tonti then came to life and netted four quick buckets to pace Cass City to a 42-32 lead after three quarters.

Both teams were in pressing defenses in the last quarter and play was ragged. Cheap baskets were scored by both teams. When the smoke cleared there was 1:07 left in the game and Cass City was in front, 63-48, and Nurnberger cleared his bench.

Tonti led all scorers with 26 points. Comment added 16 and Sontag had 10. For Mayville Mark Colosky scored 15 and Rick Harris 12.

JV'S LOSE

Cass City's junior varsity lost another tough game moving to within a point with less than a minute to play only to bow to the Wildcats JV, 52-48.

SANDUSKY GAME

The Sandusky Redskins

were able to cope with one of Cass City's two senior star basketball players, but they were unable to handle both and fell for the second time this season to Cass City in a Thumb B Association tilt. The score was 78-61.

In the first half the Hawks played without Todd Comment who was nursing a pair of sore ankles.

It probably was a good thing that Craig Tonti was there. He almost single-handedly kept the Hawks from falling behind in the first two periods.

Tonti scored seven points in the first quarter to pace the Hawks to a 16-14 lead. His shots from the corners helped open the Sandusky zone.

Countering Tonti's offensive firepower was aggressive rebounding by the host team. Sandusky was beating Cass City on the offensive boards all through the first two periods.

The rebounding kept the Redskins in the game. With 6:15 left Sandusky went ahead for the first time since the early moments of the game, 22-20. After that the lead changed hands several times before the two teams left the floor at intermission all tied at 30-30.

Coach Ron Nurnberger inserted Comment in the game at the start of the second half and a hint of things to come was apparent when the lanky senior controlled the opening tip.

A moment later he sunk a shot from the corner and the Hawks went in front and never looked back.

With Tonti scoring on buckets from around the key and Comment taking command of the boards Cass City spurred ahead 49-42 at the end of three quarters.

A couple of unanswered buckets in the opening minutes of the final period pushed the lead to 9 points.

In the next three minutes the Hawks outscored Sandusky 13 to 9 and with four minutes left in the game coaches started looking at their bench strength.

Tonti finished the night with 34 points. Tim Sontag continued his improved scoring clip with 19 and Scott Hobart chipped in with 12. Steve Weiler paced Sandusky with 20.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The Hawks lost the preliminary to the Redskins JV, 59-55, as a last quarter rally fell short for Cass City.

Hawk spikers roll to 2 wins

The Cass City Red Hawks will be favored to continue unbeaten in Thumb B Association competition Thursday night at Lakers.

The Hawks continued their domination of Thumb area teams last Thursday when they rolled past Sandusky, losing just one game in the process.

Although the Hawks won the first match in straight games it took a big rally to win the second game in the set. After cruising to a 15-8 decision in the opening game, Cass City found itself behind 4-11 in the second game. The girls then ran off 11 straight points to take the match.

In the second match, Cass City again won easily in the first game, 15-6, but were severely tested in the next two. The Redskins bounced into a 6-11 lead only to see Cass City come back strong and force the game into overtime before bowing 16-14.

In the decisive game in the match Sandusky jumped out to a 5-11 advantage and the Hawks rallied again to send the game into overtime. This time Cass City was on the long end of the 16-14 score and it was enough to take the match.

Coach Michelle Anscorn said that the team's servers were 97 percent effective with Julie Carpenter and

Bulldog volleyball team splits

The Owen-Gage volleyball team split in a non-league contest last Wednesday with Lakers.

Lakers took the opening match, 15-8, 15-7. The Bulldogs rebounded in the second match, 16-14, 5-15, 15-10.

Randall, Howard are all-staters

Padgett Randall of Cass City High School and Becky Howard of Owendale-Gage-town have been named to the United Press International all-state Class C and D girls' basketball teams respectively.

Randall, a 5-10 forward, scored an average of 18.5 points per game during the 1980 season, nine rebounds, and had a 51 percent field goal shooting percentage.

Howard, a 5-8 guard, averaged 27.7 points per game, 11.5 rebounds and collected 76 assists and 104 steals during the season.

The two seniors earlier won other all-conference and all-state honors.

Padgett Randall

Becky Howard

CRAIG TONTI -- picked up two of his 34 points on this shot against Sandusky. Although that record has not been kept it's likely that the senior guard is on his way to an all-time one-season Cass City scoring record.

O-G falters in last quarter as Tigers cop league tilt

Owen-Gage came close to upsetting Carsonville-Port Sanilac Friday night, 40-39.

The loss drops the Bulldogs to 2-5 in the North Central D League, while the second place Tigers climb to 5-2.

The game was close throughout, with the teams tied at the end of the first quarter, the Tigers ahead by two at the half and the Bulldogs ahead by two at the three-quarter mark.

With about 17 seconds left, the Tigers led 40-37, but Dan Glidden sank a field goal to bring his team within one.

C-PS tossed the ball in, but a steal attempt led to a jump ball with three seconds left. Dan Glidden tipped the ball to brother Jim, but the latter's jumper missed.

The brothers were high scorers for their team with 12 points each.

Tim Travis led the Tigers with 22 points and Mike

Pattullo dropped in 12. Neither team did very well in the field goal department. The host Bulldogs shot 16 of 56 from the floor, 29 percent, and their opponents, 26 of 53, 30 percent.

Owen-Gage sank seven of 12 from the free throw line, 58 percent, and C-PS, eight of 15 for 53 percent. The Tigers outrebounded their opponents, 39-32. Dan Glidden was top Bulldog rebounder with 13.

Carsonville won the junior varsity game, 54-42.

Popp goes to prison

Four sentenced in circuit court

Four persons were sentenced Monday when they appeared before Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

David, R. Popp, 26, of Houston, Texas, was sentenced to 4-10 years in a state prison for breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling.

He pleaded no contest to the charge Dec. 5, in connection with the July 20 break-in of L & B Decorating in Caro.

Hugh Bulla, 17, of 6777 E. Kelly Road, Cass City, was placed on three years' probation for larceny in a building. He was also sentenced to 90 days in the county jail, with 30 days of that suspended, fined $200, assessed $200 costs and ordered to pay $222 restitution.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Nov. 3, to having stolen various items from the home of Alice Lelito and her husband, 1609 S. Kingston Road, Deford, Aug. 9.

Maurice W. Taylor, 17, of Otter Lake, was placed on three years' probation for breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling.

He was sentenced to 112 days in the county jail, with credit given for 103. He was fined $200, assessed $200 court costs and ordered to pay $217 restitution.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Nov. 3, to having broken into a Watertown township grocery Sept. 20.

Darrell D. Cadotte, 25, of 2055 Forest Road, Caro, was placed on one year probation for joy riding, to which he pleaded guilty Nov. 3. He had taken a car in Caro Sept. 19.

He was also sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, with credit given for three days served, fined $50 and assessed $35 court costs.

A charge of attempted entering of an auto against Ronald E. Ames, 21, of 1274 E. Caro Road, Caro, was dismissed.

The incident took place Nov. 18, 1979, in Almer township and he pleaded guilty to the charge Dec. 17. Sentencing was then delayed one year.

He having complied with all provisions of his probation during that period, the charge against him was dismissed.

Kris A. Doud, 20, of Mungler, pleaded guilty to larceny in a building, but his plea was not accepted. A trial date is to be set.

He is charged with breaking and entering in connection with the Jan. 30, 1980, break-in of the IGA store in Reese.

The guilty plea of Kurt A. Urban, 19, of 200 Gamble Street, Caro, to delivery of marijuana was accepted. A sentencing date is to be set.

He pleaded guilty to having sold the controlled substance to an undercover police officer Oct. 9 in Indianfields township.

The guilty plea of Anthony E. Brabbs, 19, of Clio, to larceny was taken under advisement. A sentencing date is to be scheduled, if the plea is accepted. Bond was continued.

He pleaded guilty to the theft of more than $100 in tools and a tool box May 11 in Arbela township.

New books at the library

RE-ENTERING: SUCCESSFUL BACK-TO-WORK STRATEGIES FOR WOMEN SEEKING A FRESH START, (non-fiction), by Eleanor Berman. This book is directed at women who either have never worked except at homemaking or have been out of the job market a long time. Based on successful guidance seminars at Hunter College in New York City, "Re-entering" starts with specific techniques of self-analysis and identification of marketable skills, covers ways of matching skills (or potential skills) with job openings, and discusses reasons for returning to school, as well as giving brief descriptions of representative programs for mid-life returnees. It gives advice on resume preparation, job searching, interview deportment and how to work things out with the family. Between the chapters are illuminating profiles of many types of women who have successfully re-entered the job market.

NATURAL WONDERS OF THE WORLD, by Reader's Digest Association (non-fiction). A detailed summary organized by continent leads off an encyclopedia of the world's geologic marvels that features excellent full-color photographs on every page. Beginning with the impressive Alpine chasm Aar Gorge -- with its majestic, sheer limestone cliffs -- and concluding with a valuable glossary, the treatment identifies exceptional natural phenomena ranging from the deepest of caverns to salt flats, diamond mines, rocky inlets, and waterfalls.

THE MASTER SNIPER, by Stephen Hunter (fiction). Here's another plot involving Nazis at the end of World War II, this one concerning a top SS marksman who uses Jewish prisoners from Dachau as targets to test a new Vampire rifle that can pick out targets at night. The SS has $100 million that legally belongs to a Jewish youth hiding in the Alps. Repp, the master sniper, plans to kill the young boy with the rifle, but an OSS captain from London and a team of commandos set out to stop him.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Apartments needed for retirees

Mr. John Haire

Dear Sir, In answer to the write-up in the Cass City Chronicle of Jan. 22 about building another 22 apartments, don't you think it would be more appropriate to build senior citizen housing?

Seems to us senior citizens that we need them much worse, as it seems Caro and Harbor Beach both have them, beautiful ones.

Why doesn't Cass City get behind some housing for its senior citizens? The building could be a place for our meal site too, as none is available.

Yours truly,
Mildred Herr
Cass City

P.S. Also, Bad Axe has senior citizen apartments, so why not Cass City?

Five on honors lists at SVSC

Three Cass City students and one from Ubyly have been named to the president's list and one Gageton student to the dean's list at Saginaw Valley State College for the fall semester.

Named to the president's list for achieving an all-A average were Sandra K. Bergman, 6325 Kelly Road; Clara Jean Clarke, 3475 Cemetery Road, and Valerie A. Jamieson, 4170 Rescue Road.

Also on the list was Lynne A. Nowak of Rt. 1, Ubyly. Named to the dean's list for a grade point average between 3.4 and 3.99 was James F. Koch of 4806 Risky Road, Gageton.

Students had to complete a minimum of 12 credit hours to qualify for either list.

Ambassadors pick officers

The Ambassador class of First Baptist church held their monthly party Saturday, Jan. 17.

Sixteen class members met at the home of Jack and Rona Hillaker to elect new officers. They then went to Midland for tobogganing. After dinner in Bay City, the group returned to the Hillaker home for games and fellowship.

Officers elected for the class are: Rick Parrott, president; Bob Adams, vice-president; Kathy Adams, secretary; and Diane Richardson, treasurer.

Laurie on committee

Michigan Farm Bureau Vice-president Jack Laurie of Dodge Road, Cass City, has been appointed to the wheat commodity advisory committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

He is one of 22 Michigan farmers named as members or alternates to 11 AFBF commodity advisory committees.

Snow a novelty for Australian exchange student Lisa Albion

Lisa Albion decided she wanted to see America when she was in Africa.

The Australian exchange student, 17, has been in Cass City since Aug. 21. She returns home to Brisbane June 30.

Her father, a college professor, was employed by the United Nations when she was 11 and the family spent six months in Africa. When there, she met many Americans and decided she would like to visit their country some day.

Lisa's mother is a part-time professor at two colleges. She has a brother, 19, and sister, 12. She is the first member of her family to come to the United States. The Youth for Understanding exchange program participant admitted, "I wanted to go to Florida and they said, 'You can go to Michigan,' so I went to Michigan."

"I'm sort of glad I came to Michigan now. It's sort of different."

In Brisbane, a city of about 1 million on Australia's east coast, about the coolest it ever gets requires wearing a sweater, she said. This time of year — it's summer there now — the temperature can reach 110 degrees F.

Miss Albion, who has yet to visit the Michigan community of that name, has been skiing and ice skating, which she enjoyed. "I really like the snow for a novelty," she said.

AT HOME, AT HER HIGH school of about 1,200 students, Lisa was taking English, geography, modern history, economics and French. When she returns, she will have a final semester to complete, from August to November, before graduating.

She wants to go to college and study journalism or languages.

Getting into a university in Australia is very difficult and is based on grades earned in the 11th and 12th grades.

In her country, she explained, "You go to school to learn and that's about it." Having fun takes place outside of school.

Thus one surprise to her here was the school spirit, sports and activities at Cass City High School. That doesn't take place in schools in her country.

Finding a job can also be difficult in Australia. The country has been suffering a recession for quite awhile. "I think it's much like in America."

THERE HAVEN'T BEEN too many surprises, since Australia and the United States are quite similar.

Miss Albion has been surprised and somewhat appalled to have been asked several times if English is the native language in Australia.

She often is asked the price of gasoline there, but since she wasn't old enough to drive yet when she left, hadn't paid attention to the price. Persons must be at least 17 to get a learner's permit to drive.

"I like the people. I like the school. I like the food," she said of her experiences so far in Cass City.

She is spending the year here with the Ron Nicholas family, 4721 Seeger Street.

COMPARED TO BRISbane, she finds there sometimes isn't much to do in Cass City, but explained that is the difference between a big city and small town, not between countries.

Living in a small town, albeit for only a year, does have a big advantage. "I find it's real friendly. It's a lot more personal than coming from a big city."

The day after Thanksgiving, Miss Albion flew to Vero Beach, Fla., where she stayed a few days with a woman whom her family knew when they were in Africa.

Before going home, she is hoping to go on the senior class trip to the Bahamas. The alternative is a Youth for Understanding trip to Washington, D.C.

"I really do like it here a lot," Lisa said of Cass City. "It's going to be hard for me to leave, I think."

LISA ALBION

Cass City to host industrial ed fair

Cass City High School will host the Michigan Industrial Education Society (MIES) regional fair March 27-29.

Industrial arts students from 148 junior and senior high schools from the Thumb and much of central Michigan (MIES Regions 11 and 12) are eligible to enter. The fair will be open to the public.

Probably between 1,000 and 2,000 entries will be on display, according to Dave Hoard, high school drafting teacher and chairman of the fair.

Students are entered in one of four classes: A, grades 7 and 8; B, 9 and 10; C, 11 and 12, and D, for students attending vocational centers, such as the Tuscola Area Skill Center.

There are nine divisions, divided into a total of 38 categories. The divisions are architectural drawing (divided into three categories, for instance), machine drawing, machine shop, graphic arts, electronics, woodworking, plastics, wrought work and open class.

Ribbons, paid for by the Detroit News, are awarded for first, second, third and honorable mention in each category. A trophy will be awarded for the grand prize winner in each division. First and second place winners in each category are eligible to compete in the MIES annual state convention.

Each school is eligible to send as many entries as it wants.

Entries will be brought in and set up Friday evening, March 27, or early Saturday. Judging will take place from 9 a.m.-noon.

The exhibit will be open to the public from 1:30-5:30 p.m. Saturday and noon-4 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

Judges will be primarily local persons, such as from Walbro, skilled in the areas they will be judging. Several judges will be from Delta College.

After the judging, a banquet will be held for the judges.

The fair organizers are trying to raise $1,800 from local businesses to pay for the banquet, trophies, mailing literature and advertising and posters.

Ron Lomasney, the high school wood shop teacher, is the fund raising chairman. He or Hoard can be contacted by those interested in making donations.

Assisting in organizing the fair are Wayne Dillon, high school counselor and vocational-career education director, who is recruiting the judges, and Assistant Principal Roland Pakonen.

It will be the first time the MIES regional fair has been conducted in the upper Thumb.

Federal job program slashed in upper Thumb

The Thumb Area Consortium has had its Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) Title VI emergency jobs programs funds slashed 30 percent.

The reduction amounts to $690,824. It was computed by the Michigan Department of Labor based on the latest federal allocation formula and the number enrolled in the program as of Oct. 1.

The decrease in funds, consortium Executive Director Frank Lenard said, won't have a drastic effect on the operation of the program as it is being phased out anyway, under the assumption that the Reagan administration will end it as of Sept. 30.

There were 516 persons employed in the program in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties as of Oct. 1 last year.

As of last Thursday's consortium administrative board meeting, that number had declined to 290. Persons can be enrolled in the program a maximum of 18 months. Once their eligibility runs out and they leave, they are not being replaced.

In contrast to Title VI, the funding for the Title IV Youth Employment Training Program has been increased $39,438, an increase of 7.58 percent. That will be enough, Lenard told board members, to allow those enrolled in the program to continue working through the summer. As of Dec. 31, there were 159 enrolled in the three counties.

Congress has yet to approve a final CETA program for the current fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, it having only passed continuing resolutions authorizing spending for a few months at a time. One result of that is a freeze on increasing the number of participants in most of the consortium's programs.

A change in federal regulations effective Dec. 5 required the consortium and all similar agencies nationwide to begin paying unemployment insurance coverage. Prior to then, the federal government had paid that cost directly.

Since the premiums will have to come out of the consortium's funds, according to Lenard, that means less money will be available to provide jobs.

It is too early yet to know how much the unemployment insurance will cost, thus how many new jobs can be funded.

The board authorized the director to hire a lawyer to represent the consortium in a suit brought by Clarence Schmitt of Huron county.

Schmitt had been employed as a CETA Title VI field service worker but was fired in June after he announced he was a candidate for Huron county register of deeds.

The consortium had checked with the U.S. Department of Labor, which ruled that Schmitt's continued employment would have been a violation of the Hatch Act, which bars political activity by federal employees.

In December, the DOL reversed itself and said he was not covered by the act, as he was directly employed by the Tri-County Public Service Agency, which is considered a not-for-profit agency instead of a government unit.

As a result, Schmitt was reinstated Jan. 20, but he is suing in federal court to get the wages he would have received had he been allowed to keep working. The amount is between $5,000 and $6,000.

In compliance with another federal regulation, the board okayed establishment of an advisory committee for the handicapped, dealing with such matters as hiring and building access problems.

Lenard didn't foresee many problems in complying with the regulation. Most facilities used by the consortium and agencies involved with its programs are already relatively barrier free and the percentage of handicapped CETA participants enrolled by the consortium is in excess of the required 11 percent. The number enrolled is about 12-13 percent.

The board reelected Calvin Reibling of Elkton as its chairman for 1981 and Margaret Wentz of Fostoria as vice-chairman. The board is composed of two county commissioners from each of the three participating counties.

Law suit settled injured in the accident. That will be paid by PACCAR and Eaton.

MRS. VOELKER, A REGISTERED nurse and in-service director at Scheurer Hospital in Pigeon, is the mother of two sons and a daughter, all teenagers. The dairy operation was closed down after Voelker's death.

Mrs. Frey is the mother of four daughters and two sons, ranging in age from 4-25. She has continued operation of the farm with a son, son-in-law and hired hand.

Attorneys in such damage cases, Patterson said, usually receive a percentage of the award or settlement as their fee. "Tremendous costs" are involved in preparing such a case and hiring of expert witnesses, which would make filing such a lawsuit prohibitive if such costs had to be paid in advance.

He termed the settlement fair considering the parties involved and that the trial could have taken 6-7 weeks, with appeals taking several years to be resolved.

"What we were trying to do is shift the economic loss from the persons who suffered it to those who caused it," he explained.

The next council meeting will be Tuesday, Feb. 24, one day later than the usual meeting date.

Armstead appeals judge's ruling

Sanilac County Drain Commissioner Stuart Armstead is appealing Probate Judge George Benko's appointment of a board of review to hear the county Board of Commissioners' appeal of a $33,000 at-large assessment against the county for the Stony Creek drain project.

The three-member review board was to have met Jan. 19, but its hearing has been postponed until after Armstead's circuit court appeal has been resolved.

No hearing date has been scheduled yet in circuit court, the drain commissioner said Friday. Judge Allen Keyes will hear the case unless for some reason he should disqualify himself.

The Stony Creek drain is primarily in Evergreen township, but partially in Lamotte. The drain cleaning project was completed in 1980.

The county board is appealing Armstead's assessing of the entire cost of setting back the drain along Deckerville Road, under orders from Judge Keyes, who was ruling in a suit filed by the county Road Commission. The drain commissioner contends the county should pay because the only benefit in setting the drain back is for road safety, which benefits the public at large.

The board contends the cost should be split among the property owners in the drainage district, the two townships and the county.

The purpose of the review board appointed by Benko is to apportion the $33,000 assessment. It could go along with Armstead or decide differently.

Armstead contends that the county commissioners don't have the right to appeal, that under the state drain law, only the Road Commission or county clerk can do so in such instances.

He was represented before Judge Benko by attorney John Patterson.

The county board's attorney, Don Teeple, argued that the county board does have the right to appeal, since the assessment is against it, not against the Road Commission. (Under state law, county road commissions cannot be assessed for drain work.)
