

Kingston losing $49,562 from state

The Kingston schools are faced with a loss of $49,562 in state school aid.

The decision now facing the Kingston School Board, according to Supt. Robert Cameron, is whether it can get through the 1981-82 school year by continuing to dip into its reserves, whether a millage increase is needed and will be sought and-or will it be necessary to lay off some personnel.

The board at its Monday meeting, he said, will be presented with a revised budget, based on the state aid figures received earlier this month from the state Department of Education.

The budget adopted by the board last fall was based on estimated state revenues. The actual amounts, aren't too much less than the estimates, Cameron indicated. "We knew we were going to get hurt. The only question was how bad."

The state aid categories and the amount Kingston will receive in 1980-81 (1979-80 in parentheses) are: membership state aid, $565,180 ($547,553); court placed children, $39,418 ($39,418 -- both are estimates); special education, $12,335 ($14,787), and transportation, $48,792 ($69,703).

After some adjustments are figured in, the 1980-81 total becomes $668,300, compared to $717,862 last year.

The state aid figures are for the state's fiscal year, which runs from Oct. 1-Sept. 30, so will have to be adjusted to correspond with the school district's fiscal year, which started July 1.

The revised budget to be presented to the board Monday, coming so late in the year, isn't going to result in a noticeable change in school operations this year, Cameron indicated. Most purchases, for instance, have already been made for the year.

He didn't wish to commit himself to what lies ahead for the Kingston schools in 1981-82 until he could first present the new state aid figures and revised budget to the board for them to consider.

The district has dipped into its reserves the last couple of years, he said.

As mentioned, the board will have to examine whether it can get through another year by spending accumulated funds, seek a millage increase, and-or lay off personnel.

Cameron did predict, "If someone left, I would guess we might not replace them."

REMEMBER WHEN? -- Only a week ago, the temperature was around zero and there was enough snow for these youngsters to build an igloo, big enough for all five to get inside. Helping on the project, which took two days to build, but absent for the photo was Jodi Erla.

Road revenue declining Snow removal is crimp in budgets

This winter has not been kind to the public purse.

Both the Tuscola County Road Commission and village of Cass City have spent more than has been budgeted at this point to keep roads open to traffic.

Although the unseasonably mild temperatures of late made winter haters think that spring is just around the corner, there still could be plenty more ice and snow before spring comes to stay.

Making matters worse is that the gasoline and weight tax payments, which fund most of the cost of road maintenance, were less for the final three months of 1980 than was received during the same period in 1979, thus continuing a recent trend.

Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections are declining because cars are being driven less, and new cars are getting more miles per gallon, which means less gasoline tax and reduced weight tax (license plate fees) being paid.

The Road Commission, according to Clerk Jim Miklovic, has budgeted about $340,000 for snow and ice removal on primary and local roads during calendar year 1981. (Funds received from the state Department of Transportation for snow and ice removal on state highways is in addition to that.)

As of Sunday, Feb. 8, 57 percent of that amount had been spent so far.

Miklovic as of Monday hadn't added up the costs from cleaning up after last week's snow storm, but he thought the total spent this year had climbed to 65-70 percent.

Ideally, 20-25 percent of the amount appropriated should remain at the end of this winter to spend at the end of this year, but that may not happen if winter returns with a vengeance. "It's conceivable we could spend the whole thing."

SNOW STORM

Because of drifting snow Monday of last week and the snow storm and its aftermath the rest of the week, area schools were closed all five days. For the Cass City schools, that is the longest single span of days that schools have been closed because of snow since at least 1970.

According to the foreman, Miklovic said, roads in the county, with a few possible isolated exceptions, were opened to traffic by Wednesday night of last week.

Thursday and Friday were spent widening the pathways that had been plowed. Starting Thursday afternoon, plus Friday and Saturday, brine and salt trucks were out.

Monday, crews were working on unpaved roads, many of which were still very slippery. Salt is too expensive to use and brine runs off, so chloride treated sand was being spread on hills and curves. Workers were also clearing slush and doing other clean-up work.

During the height of the clean-up effort last week, Road Commission employees were working as much as 12-18 hours per day.

FEWER HOURS

Miklovic was looking forward to their returning to 7 hour work days this week. The Road Commission board reduced the regular work day by one hour a few months ago in order to avoid layoffs.

Workers who retire, however, aren't being replaced. Layoffs were undesirable, Miklovic explained, because in addition to not wanting to put persons out of work, "in a snow storm, we need everybody we've got."

In addition to the reduced work week, the Road Commission has eliminated almost all equipment purchases and road construction projects.

The more money that has to be spent on snow and ice removal means the less there will be for road maintenance the rest of the year. Roads this summer may be bumpier and dustier as a result, Miklovic predicted.

With revenues declining and expenses increasing, Miklovic commented, "I would say something has to give. You have to make cuts somewhere."

CASS CITY

In Cass City, village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie said, the amount spent for snow and ice removal and for salt have exceeded the amount budgeted at this point in the year, but couldn't say by how much until the figures are added up at the end of the month.

Two-thirds of the amount budgeted for purchase of salt in 1981 has already been spent, he said.

One reaction to the declining funds available for village streets is that no street rebuilding projects or alley paving is planned this year.

Owendale receives funds for sewers

Owendale has been awarded a $960,825 federal grant for design and construction of a sanitary sewer and sewage treatment system.

Construction won't start until more than a year from now and homes and buildings won't be connected to the sewers probably until sometime in 1983.

The federal Environment Protection Agency (EPA) grant pays 75 percent of the eligible cost.

Approval by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources of the state's 5 percent share is expected within a week or two, according to Rick Knop of Edmands Engineering of Bay City, the firm which is doing the engineering for the project.

The village must pay the remaining 20 percent, $256,208, plus $314,060 not eligible for the federal and state grants, bringing its total to $570,268.

The total cost of the project is almost $1.6 million.

The funding covers both design and the construction, so the next step, according to Knop, will be design of the system, which will pipe sewage from buildings via sewers to two treatment lagoons north of the village, on property it has yet to purchase.

The engineer will be meeting with the council at its March meeting to outline the steps ahead.

He said the present timetable calls for the project to be ready for advertising bids in April or May of next year and to be opened in June or July, with construction to start soon after.

It will then take 12-18 months to construct the system, which means hook-ups of buildings to the sewers won't take place until sometime in 1983.

The village council will have to hire a law firm specializing in bonding work to set up the local financing.

The local share of the cost will be financed by the sale of bonds, either to the Farmers Home Administration, if possible, which would be at a lower interest rate, or on the open market.

There are various ways the bonds can be paid off.

The environmental assessment report for the project discussed a connection fee for the original hookup to the sewer, plus a charge of $215 a year ($17.92 a month) for 20 years, when the bonds would be paid off.

Owendale is under orders from the Michigan Water Resources Commission to eliminate its present pollution problem, hence the need for the sewer project.

At present, raw or semi-treated sewage flows from septic tanks into small drainage ditches that flow into the Duffey Drain.

Septic tanks could no longer be used once the sanitary sewer is in place.

Edmands is also doing the engineering for the proposed Gagetown sewer project, similar to that for Owen-

Dubious practices elsewhere, organizers say

Tuscola police fund raiser strictly legit

The "60 Minutes" television program's expose Sunday evening of police charity fund raising practices couldn't have come at a worse time for Tuscola County Fraternal Order of Police Lodge No. 148.

The organization is presently selling tickets for its annual country music benefit show, March 29 at Caro High School.

The dubious practices shown on "60 Minutes" don't apply to the show in Caro, according to sheriff's Deputy Roger Zelmer, the benefit show chairman.

Sheriff's department employees, state police and village, city and township police belong to Lodge 148. (Only some are represented by the FOP in collective bargaining.) "60 Minutes" discussed the hiring of professional promoters by police organizations, who either sell tickets to music shows or send a "we support the police" or similar decal in exchange for a donation.

Some of the promoters, the program revealed, keep up to 90 percent of the proceeds. Potential donors are often told the proceeds will be used to help widows of police officers killed in the line of duty, or children, when in truth the money is used by the FOP or Police Benevolent Association to finance lobbyists in state legislatures.

ABOUT THE ONLY SIMILARITY between the "60 Minutes" expose and the Tuscola lodge's fund raiser is in its hiring of a professional promoter, according to Zelmer.

The deputy did not see the show, but heard about it Monday and one person commented to him that it would hurt ticket sales.

"We don't keep anything," he said of the proceeds.

The FOP promoted similar shows in 1978 and 1979. The proceeds from them are used to fund scholarships for students studying law enforcement in college, with anything left over going to the Caro Little League.

Proceeds from the 1979 show were used to fund three $500 scholarships in 1980, according to Zelmer. He didn't recall the exact amount left over, but thought about $200 went to the Little League.

No benefit show was conducted in 1980, because it would have conflicted with one put on by the Sheriff's Department Posse.

ZELMER DOESN'T feel the "60 Minutes" program will hurt ticket sales. "I feel we don't lie to the people. Nobody who wants to can stop in . . . we're not hiding anything at all."

He feels the dubious practices exposed in the television program are more likely to occur in urban areas. "Maybe I'm naive," he admitted, but, "In rural areas, those things don't go on."

The FOP has an additional control over what happens in that its show promoter, Ray Owens, lives in Vassar. He has also promoted the previous two FOP shows.

According to Zelmer, after expenses are paid, Owens keeps one-third of the profits and the police lodge, two-thirds.

Zelmer helps Owens locate an office in Caro, from which the telephone calls are made, and keeps an eye on the operation.

Owens hires the persons to make the telephone calls, handles the ticket sales and books the show. The performers at the March 29 show, billed as "stars you've seen and heard on the Grand Ole Opry," are Penny deHaven, Sheb Wooley and Blue Ridge and the Mark 4 (singers and band respectively).

ACCORDING TO OWENS, ticket sales began in December with calls to merchants. By the end of February or early March, every name listed in a Tuscola county telephone book will be called.

The callers are paid minimum wage, he said. They are not paid on the basis of how many tickets they sell.

Unless a person asks, he or she is not told what the proceeds will be used for. "I feel they're buying a ticket to see a show," he explained. If they do ask, they are told the money will be used for scholarships. "They've got a right to know."

He feels the telephone calls are more effective than running advertisements, though the FOP will run some of those to reach persons not phoned, according to Zelmer, and to reassure those who were that the promotion is legitimate.

Owens has 6,400 tickets to sell, 3,200 per show.

Persons who tell the callers they are not interested in seeing the show are then asked if they would like to donate the price of a ticket so that a handicapped person can see the show.

According to Owens and his wife, who is also involved in the operation, tickets are given to the Caro Regional Center, nursing homes and other care facilities for their residents to see the show.

Church to show film

The true-life story of Corrie ten Boom, a former Nazi prisoner, will be presented in the motion picture, "The Hiding Place," Sunday at 7 p.m. at the Cass City Church of the Nazarene on Third Street.

This film shares the experiences of a family who was willing to risk all for others. The ten Booms became involved in the Dutch Underground during the German Occupation of World War II by hiding Jews in a secret room built in their house, thereby aiding them in their escape from the Nazis. As a result of a raid by soldiers, Corrie's family was taken prisoner and Corrie was sent to a concentration camp.

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Sometimes it pays to goof up. When I recounted a phone call with Mrs. Karen Nielsen recently I said she lived in Spokane. That's hundreds of miles from Mt. St. Helens, she writes.

She lives in Portland, Oregon, "close enough to have a life-time supply of volcano ash."

That's the bad news. The good news is that along with the correction she sent a small box of volcano ash, the real stuff. It's at the Chronicle if you care to look.

Small towners are friendly, friendly, friendly. Regular readers of the trivia will recall that Judy Woody tried to bail me out when I said the Tucson Chamber of Commerce wasn't sending out information in answer to requests.

She sent literature she had in her Chamber office at Cadillac.

Gail (Mrs. Keith) Baudoin went a step further. She's been living in Tucson for a couple of years now... and the natives should have her enthusiasm.

She called me at home and spent about 10 minutes clueing me in about the city which we will be visiting the last of March.

Information included names of the best hotels and other pertinent information in addition to her office and home phone in case we needed any more help.

The day she called a blizzard was in progress and I guess she's allowed to turn the knife a little.

75 degrees and the sun is shining, she said.

Water tower almost goes dry

Cass City almost ran out of water early Monday.

The reason, according to village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie, was an electrical problem in the village's water tower on Hillcrest Drive.

When the water level in the tank declines too much, the float on the surface activates a switch to turn on the pumps at the village wells, which then refill the tank.

The switch wasn't activated, however, and as a result, there was only a foot of water left inside the 200,000 gallon tank when the fault was repaired.

LaPonsie found out about it at 2:30 a.m. Monday, when a Hills and Dales General Hospital employee called to report there was no water on the fourth floor. Pressure was reported low in some other places.

The power of gravity, from the water flowing from the tower, maintains pressure in the water lines.

Village employee Frank Guilds, aided by police officer Phil Klaus, made a temporary repair. It then took about 10 hours for the tank to refill.

The timer indicated the problem began at 3:50 a.m. Sunday.

3 break-ins occur in Kingston area

Police agencies are investigating three break-ins reported last week in the Kingston area.

One home was entered for a second time. Located on Legg Road, east of Kingston Road, it is owned by Leo Zabinski of Dearborn and some others.

The first break-in was reported Feb. 6 by Howard Tucker of Bevens Road, who is doing some work on the home. He reported the second one Saturday, it having occurred sometime since the first one.

Reported taken this time was a vacuum cleaner worth $100. Damage to some plywood was estimated at $50. A .22 caliber rifle was also missing, but is believed to have been taken in the first break-in.

Reported stolen the first time were a color television worth $200 and a battery worth $50 from a tractor in the garage.

Entry both times was gained through the same window.

Zabinski is to report to the sheriff's department when he comes to the home whether any additional items are missing.

Sheldon Wheatley of New Baltimore reported to Caro state police Saturday that the home he owns on Legg Road was entered sometime since Jan. 31.

Entry was gained by breaking a window, worth $30. All that was taken was a waffle iron worth $30.

Dennie Rieck of Rieck's Auto Parts on M-46, west of Kingston, reported a break-in to state police Friday morning which occurred sometime since 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

Entry was gained by throwing two wheels through a 5-by-6-foot window worth $150.

Two radios were then stolen from a shelf. Value of the radios wasn't listed on the police report.

Home repair workshop set in Sanilac

The Sanilac County Co-operative Extension Service is sponsoring a "You Can Do It" workshop beginning Thursday, Feb. 26, from 1-3 p.m., and continuing the following Thursday, to be held at the county conference room in Sandusky.

The program is free. Reservations are requested by calling the extension office at (313) 648-2515.

The workshop is designed to teach how to do simple electrical repairs, first aid for plumbing and leaky pipes, and getting rid of faucet drips and flush tank problems.

The Haire Net

Employees that spent brief sojourns at Nogales working for Walbro in its Mexican plant just over the border often deplore the lawlessness they found there.

In the residential area, I'm told, groups of home owners banded together to protect their property because the law couldn't or wouldn't.

The returnees didn't have much trouble with credibility when they told this tale. After all, it's well known that those countries south of the border are always in a state of revolt and seem unable to accept authority. It's in their nature, not like us.

Or are they? I submit that basically we just don't submit to the law of the land either.

Examples are legion. Not just in our cities. Certainly, only a fool would walk down streets alone in the trouble spots of any major city.

But it wasn't the criminals in the society that allowed prohibition to flourish before repeal.

It isn't the criminals that refuse to obey the speed laws unless a cop is watching over our shoulders.

That's different? Not really. But let's move on.

Did you catch the story where a Senate Republican Campaign Committee spokesman said that Richard Nixon will draw a bigger crowd than Gerald Ford and Bob Hope combined at an upcoming fund raising dinner?

You can be sure that he won't be apologizing for his acts as president that required a pardon to keep him from trial as a crook when he speaks.

It isn't only politicians that look the other way. On the boob tube last week a story surfaced about a ruling that found plaques listing the 10 commandments as illegal in public schools.

Residents of Kentucky are defying the law and leaving the plaques on the school wall.

One woman allowed as she was for obeying the law... but not this law.

What she's saying of course is that she's for obeying the laws she likes and ignoring the ones she doesn't.

It doesn't matter that nearly everyone regardless of religious beliefs agrees with the teaching of the commandments.

What does matter is that placing them in schools is a violation of the law.

If we are law abiding citizens we would immediately take the commandments from the school walls.

If you are thinking there is a higher law than the courts, stop. It won't wash. Nobody is saying that you can't teach the 10 commandments, only that you have no right to force your religious beliefs on others in a tax supported school.

Separation of church and state is a fundamental tenet of the constitution. More, it's the law of the land and should be obeyed.

It's too bad that we are not better at it than we are.

"If It Fitz. . ." Catching the bus

By Jim Fitzgerald

The story of my life is that I don't decide the walk will be good for me until after I've missed the bus.

I prefer to be forced into doing things that are supposed to be good for me, because sometimes a thing doesn't turn out to be as beneficial as expected, in which case I feel better knowing I really didn't want to do it anyway.

For instance, everyone has always told me it would be a good thing for me to make a lot of money. I have felt pressured by my peers to increase my earning power. So what happened? Last year, for the first time in my life, I made more money than General Motors did, and I still can't pay my bills.

You might say that all good-for-you things are relative, the same as the bus fare I pay every time I manage to escape taking a walk that would be good for me. Going to work and then returning home, I ride the same city bus along the same route for the same distance. The fare is 35 cents going and 60 cents returning. The 25 cents difference is the price of mistrust.

I live close to the downtown bus station, within the 35-cent zone, and that's all I have to pay going to work, because everyone must get off at the station. There is no way I could ride further for 35 cents.

Returning home, the situation is more complex. Boarding the bus downtown, I can't drop 35 cents in the fare box and promise the driver to get off at the same corner where I am picked up for 35 cents. The driver doesn't trust me. I must pay 60 cents because I might hide in the back of the bus and ride into the 60-cent zone.

I can understand why the city must charge two different prices for the same bus ride. Not all bus riders are as splendidly honest as I am. It is possible some riders would lie and try to get a 60-cent ride for 35 cents. Drivers can't be expected to keep track of the amount paid by every person who boards a crowded bus, and then stop at the edge of the 60-cent zone and look under the seats for cheaters. It is much simpler to charge everyone 60 cents.

Obviously, if it is good for me to walk to work, it is better for me to walk home. Either way, the decision to improve my health and financial position by walking is never made until after I've missed the bus, after risking a heart attack in a running effort to catch the stupid thing.

Stopped buses can never be caught from the rear. Union rules require drivers to pull away just before the gasping, hollering chaser reaches the bus door. The best way to catch a bus is to approach it from the front, with arms waving. Faced with the alternative of running over people, most bus drivers will stop and pick them up. But not always.

At 5 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 5, three of us approached a half-empty Mack bus from the front as it began to leave the station in downtown Detroit. We waved and shouted. The driver kept going and we had to jump clear to save our lives. Which brings us to something that turned out to be as good for me as expected.

I have always believed it would be good for me if I witnessed God's punishment of a bus driver for trying to kill people, rather than transport them. The Mack driver was in such a hurry to escape without picking up more passengers, he tried to pull around a Chene bus in front of him, which was also leaving the station. The exit was too narrow, and the right front of the Mack bus scrunched snugly against the left front of the Chene bus.

The Mack driver got out to sheepishly assess the damages. I realized that taxpayers, including me, would end up paying the repair bill. But still, it was good for me to watch that driver try to explain how he could have done such a stupid thing.

A guy needs those little triumphs to keep him going in a world where 35-cent bus rides cost 60 cents, and he can make more money than General Motors and still be broke.

"Can anybody save me money on my Auto & Home Insurance?"

"Psst!"

Student math scores higher; ideas needed to create jobs

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

The state Department of Education recently reported Michigan students continue to score higher at all grades in reading tests than in math tests.

Phillip Runkel, superintendent of public instruction, in releasing the results of the 1980-81 assessment tests, noted more than 70 percent of the students in each of the tested grades — four, seven and 10 — received satisfactory scores.

The test was revised this year to better reflect what is taught in schools and thus results were not directly compared to results of prior years.

Runkel, however, did declare that Michigan students have made great progress in the basic skills during the past decade.

The best scores in the math test were achieved by fourth graders, with 72 percent of the students getting satisfactory scores.

That level fell sharply to 59 percent in the seventh grade and 58 percent in the 10th grade.

Although fairly consistent at each grade level, reading scores were highest at the seventh grade level, with 77 percent of the students achieving satisfactory scores, compared to 71 percent of the fourth graders and 73 percent of the 10th graders.

A satisfactory score indicates a student achieved at least 75 percent of the test objectives.

Girls continue to do better on the tests than boys, although the department said the gap is narrowing, compared to tests over the past three years.

The tests also showed the most serious reading problems occurred among both sexes at the fourth grade level, where 6 percent of the students achieved less than 25 percent of the objectives.

The most serious math problems were in the 10th grade where 5 percent of the students show unsatisfactory results.

the needs and concerns of those who create the jobs.

"The message is now very clear that we can best help the working people by developing a good business climate," Brickley said.

He concluded that "government and business under the right conditions can make rather beautiful music together," and that "government, through its taxing and regulatory powers can stimulate the creation of wealth and can distribute and redistribute the wealth.

Soybean, corn output a record

For the second year in a row Michigan farmers set production records for corn and soybeans, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

The state's corn production of 247 million bushels is 4 percent above last year's record crop. The state average yield was the same as last year's record yield of 95 bushels per acre. Michigan is the eighth largest producer of corn for grain in the country.

Soybean production at 30.4 million bushels was virtually unchanged from last year's record level, only surpassing it by 100,000 bushels. Acreage harvested declined to 950,000 acres, but a record average yield of 32 bushels per acre offset the drop.

Sugarbeet production increased 22 percent this past fall with better yields harvested from more acres this season. An average yield of 19.5 tons from 97,000 acres were harvested.

Alfalfa hay production climbed 1 percent with over 3.2 million tons cut.

Nationally, corn production declined 16 percent to just over 6.6 billion bushels due to lower yields in the traditional corn growing states. The national average yield dropped 19 bushels to 91 bushels to the acre. For the same reason soybean production declined 20 percent to 1.8 billion bushels. Sugarbeet production increased while alfalfa hay production declined.

dale. Gagetown's application is currently in the hands of the EPA and Knop expressed hope funding for it will be approved by April. "There are no known obstacles in the way," he said of the chances of funding for it being approved.

Meat prices to increase

The outlook for 1981 is that most meat prices will be higher. Beef prices are expected to be slightly higher in the beginning of 1981 with the major increases taking place in the spring, predicts the National Live Stock and Meat Board. During the second half of the year, prices should be stabilized.

Pork prices are also expected to be higher, "catching up" following a period of unusually low prices in recent months.

Defrosting Tips

Defrosting meat at room temperature is not recommended, according to the National Live Stock and Meat Board. Rather, frozen meat should be defrosted in the original wrapping in the refrigerator or in the microwave oven, following the oven manufacturer's directions. The length of time for defrosting meat in the refrigerator is 4 to 7 hours per pound for large roasts; 3 to 5 hours per pound for small roasts. One-inch steaks or chops will defrost in 12 to 14 hours.

PEDALING AROUND

Foreign travel

By Mike Eliasohn

Last Thursday, I received a letter from a friend in England with whom I stayed two days last summer.

Last Thursday was also one of the worst days of the winter, so it's much more pleasant to talk about summer.

This coming summer, I don't think I am going to travel farther than Grand Rapids, to see a friend, and some other friends along the way, so I would rather write about last summer.

I only devoted one column to my presumably once in a lifetime trip, so eight months later, here is my second one.

There are probably few families that could afford a trip like that, but for a single person or married couple without any kids or whose kids are grown, even in these inflationary times, such a trip is feasible — provided one has a job to pay for it.

My trip to England cost me under $1,300. Add 15 percent for inflation since then and the cost would be about $1,500.

Not cheap, but it's possible to blow that much or more on a motorcycle, snowmobile or horse, so it's all a matter of priorities. (It's also possible to spend that much or more on a bicycle.)

What scares some people from even thinking about making such a trip is reading about hotel rooms in London that cost $100 a night.

I'm sure it's possible to spend that much, but I spent about $19 a night in London for a room with color television, breakfast included. The bathroom and shower were down the hall, but I never had to stand in line.

What makes traveling in Britain affordable are the bed and breakfast places, either small hotels or private homes. The most I paid for such a room was slightly under $20, outside of London.

Of my 10 nights in England, I only had to pay for a room for five of them. The other five nights didn't cost me anything directly.

The reason is that I had been corresponding with three persons over there concerning a topic of mutual interest, the result of which was that they invited me to stay with them.

What we had in common was an interest in unusual bicycles.

I didn't start corresponding with the three with the idea of getting a free room and meals, but they nicely made the offer and I happily accepted.

I sent each of them a present upon my return, so in that sense my staying in their homes wasn't free, and should they ever visit the U.S., I will be obliged to reciprocate.

Knowing someone in the country you plan to visit, even if only by correspondence, certainly makes one's trip more enjoyable.

I also didn't pay as much for meals as some horror stories would have one believe. I think the most I paid was about $12 in London for an excellent steak dinner.

I did not shop around for the cheapest flight, but did buy my tickets about five months in advance, which saved me almost $100 over what the ticket would have cost me had I waited until shortly before my trip to buy it.

If my trip was any guide, then it's possible to travel overseas fairly inexpensively if one avoids the high priced places.

Probably the next foreign country I visit will be Canada. Not only is it cheaper than traveling to Europe, but of late I've been corresponding with a fellow in Toronto who owns an unusual bicycle like mine.

At age 90
Demaray, woodworker in miniature

TOOLS OF THE TRADE -- Frank Demaray prepares to assemble a windmill tower as his wife Ellen looks on. She is holding what will be a wagon box.

WAGON WHEELS -- Only the horses were not made by Demaray. The wheels, cut on a jigsaw, are made in two pieces (spokes and rim) and then glued together.

SMALL WORLD -- These miniature windmills and furniture are all made by Frank Demaray out of various scrap materials.

Frank Demaray has worked with his hands for most of his 90 years.

For 40 years, he used them to cut meat.

Since he retired in 1956, he has used them to cut and carve and fit pieces of wood into miniature replicas of the objects he remembers from his early years, horse drawn wagons and sleighs and the human figures to ride on them, windmills and furniture, dollhouses and even a two-hole privy once.

Demaray celebrated his 90th birthday Wednesday, Feb. 11. "I'm just a day older than Lincoln," he joked.

Sunday, Feb. 8, his fellow members of the Cass City Church of the Nazarene and its pastor, Rev. Jerry Deatherage, brought him a cake and helped him celebrate his upcoming birthday.

Demaray has been a resident of Provincial House in Cass City since October, following surgery, where he joined his wife, Ellen, who has been there since April. They are hoping to be able to return to their home in Walnut Trailer Park on S. Seeger Street this spring.

The Demarays were married in 1955, both having been widowed from their first marriages. Demaray has four children from his first marriage, of whom two are still living, two grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Mrs. Demaray, 85, has five children and 15 grandchildren.

Demaray was born and raised in Gladwin. Other than a couple of years as a plumber — one reminder of which was a pair of tin snips he purchased in 1918, which he still uses — his early working years were spent as a meat cutter.

From 1935-46, he worked at Oldsmobile in Lansing, then returned to the meat business in Alma, where he retired 10 years later.

He and his wife moved to Florida in 1962. After four summers in Cass City, they moved here in 1972, where Mrs. Demaray's daughter, Mrs. Gilbert Albee, lives.

MAKING SMALL OBJECTS of wood was something that Demaray took up as a hobby to keep him busy during his retirement.

His "training" consisted of what he remembered from his father, who also could do wonders with pieces of wood. "My dad was an artist," he explained, "only he never knew it."

"When he wanted to keep us kids quiet... he'd just sit in the house and make us something."

He remembers the dancing man, strung on a wire, and the ball inside a cage, carved from a single piece of wood. "He could do most anything with a jackknife."

Demaray uses a lot more tools than a jackknife, which he has with him at Provincial House.

"I usually go to the old style things," he said of what he creates. "I know more about it."

His materials consist primarily of scrap pieces of wood and assorted other items.

Among the favorite objects he makes are horse-drawn wagons, the only part of which he doesn't create are the store-bought horses. It takes him a little over a day to make a wagon.

His wife does the painting. DEMARAY GIVES AWAY some of his creations, and sells some, though he admits, "You don't get rich at it." He has sold five horse and wagon sets since living in Provincial House.

A Birmingham woman who purchased some of his creations, Monica Schuler, donated three of them to the Museum of International Folk Art in Santa Fe, N.M., where they are now in its permanent collection.

When he is not busy with his tools, Demaray likes to read. With his glasses, he still has perfect 20-20 vision. He reads magazines, newspapers and books, but, "I think I read the Bible most of anything."

Looking back on his 90 years, the woodcarver and ex-meat cutter said, "It's been a good life. I can't kick."

Pesticide test in Sandusky

A restricted use pesticide recertification test is scheduled March 11 at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the county conference room, 37 Austin Street, Sandusky.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture sends out notices that present certification cards will be expiring within 120 days, along with a packet for recertification.

The information lists the testing site as the MDA office in Detroit, but the Sandusky testing site will eliminate the need to travel to the Motor City.

Recertification requires taking a short test. The cards expire on the holder's birthday.

Certification tests will also be offered in Sandusky for soil fumigation and space fumigation.

For further information, including being certified for the first time, contact the extension office in Sandusky.

Walbro sales up, but earnings down

Lambert E. Althaver, president and chief operating officer of Walbro Corp. has reported a 6 percent increase in the firm's consolidated net sales for the year ended Dec. 31.

Sales in 1980 were $43,316,000, up from $40,823,000 in 1979. Earnings for the period were $1,001,000, compared to $1,436,000 in 1979.

On a per share basis, earnings for the period amounted to $1.28, compared to $1.84 for the previous 12-month period. The 1980 cash dividend payout was 40 cents, the same as in 1979. The average number of shares outstanding was 778,820 in 1980, compared to 778,969 in 1979.

"In view of the overall economic conditions which prevailed throughout 1980, we feel that the company's performance over the past 12 months was a respectable one," Althaver commented.

He explained that very strong competition in the worldwide high volume carburetor market, unfavorable foreign exchange rates, a general downturn in the U.S. economy, high inflation and unprecedented interest rates combined to depress Walbro's earnings in 1980.

But Althaver noted several bright spots in 1980, including a continued strong share in the diaphragm carburetor market, a further strengthening of Walbro's foreign subsidiaries, significant new business for the company's Diecast Group and the development of new products by the Automotive Products Group.

"With continuing efforts toward increased operating efficiency and an expected improvement in economic conditions, we hope to attain an improvement in Walbro's earnings for 1981," he said.

Walbro manufactures small engine carburetors, automotive products, die castings and plastics, with facilities in Mexico, Japan, Singapore and West Germany in addition to those in Cass City, Caro, Bad Axe and Auburn.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Authorities were withholding names of 45 persons arrested during a drug raid in Snover Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fritz and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Koch of Gageton returned home after a two-week tour of Florida and a stop at the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tenn.

Deb Walter of Cass City was crowned Campus Life Sweetheart Queen at the annual pageant Saturday evening in Vassar. The Huron Intermediate School District Board of Education has denied the request of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Welchner to transfer their property in Brookfield township from the Owendale-Gageton to the Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port School District.

TEN YEARS AGO

It appears Kingston may get another chance to receive the backing of the Tuscola County Department of Public Works for a sanitary sewer program similar to that granted Reese and Millington.

James Bauer, Hills and Dales General Hospital board president, said this week plans now call for letting bids on hospital expansion sometime in April.

Gary Lee Christner, Cass City, has successfully passed his examination as a certified public accountant.

Cass City reported only a token gain of 1.5 percent in population from 1,945 to 1,975 in the last 10 years, according to official 1970 census figures released this week.

25 YEARS AGO

The Bureau of Census in the Department of Commerce this week released figures for retail sales in Tuscola county for 1954. There is an increase of 29.2 percent since the last census in 1948.

The 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Levi E. Dickinson was celebrated in their home with a family dinner attended by 35 relatives.

Argyle Sox gives awards to ex-officers

Forty-three members attended the Feb. 9 meeting of the Argyle Sox 4-H Club. Awards were presented to the officers from last year.

Members talked about Sanilac county 4-H'ers going to Bob-Lo Island in August. Ceramics classes will be on Wednesdays for older members and Saturday mornings for the younger ones.

Next meeting will be March 9 at the hall in Argyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace (Ellen Hallack) Mufford of Milner, British Columbia, and Ned Gowing of Royal Oak were in town renewing old acquaintances. Mr. and Mrs. Mufford left Cass City 44 years ago. They were surprised to see the many changes in town since they left.

A state decision will require 11 rural school districts now transporting their students to Cass City to reopen their buildings by July, 1957, or merge with Cass City. The districts are Sunshine, Hillside, Brown, Sand Valley, McConnell, Dillman, Wright, Byrd, Winton, Herron and Dickout.

35 YEARS AGO

Millard Ball was elected post commander at the second meeting held in the Home Restaurant Tuesday evening for the purpose of forming a Veterans of Foreign Wars post. Archie R. Mark was elected adjutant and Horace Pinney, quartermaster.

Isaac W. Hall, for 64 years a resident of this community and a well known building contractor, died at the Hutchinson Convalescent Home in Cass City after a long illness.

E. Grant Pinney, cashier of the Macomb County Savings Bank at Richmond, has resigned to accept a position as vice-president of the Lake County National Bank of Libertyville, Ill. He is the son of Mrs. Edward Pinney of Cass City.

Lester MacKay and Ynes Benitez of Gageton have rented the building of the late J.M. Umphry, and after extensive repairs and decorating, opened an ice cream parlor and restaurant.

Ralph Hanby funeral held Saturday

Ralph Duncan Hanby, 78, of Cass City, died Wednesday, Feb. 11, at Hills and Dales General Hospital after a long illness.

He was born Dec. 26, 1902, in Ypsilanti, the son of Herbert and Jessie (Deist) Hanby.

Hanby married Lillian Ward July 3, 1933, in Angola, Ind. After their marriage, they made their home in Ypsilanti, later moving to Cass City.

He was a member of the First Baptist church of Cass City and the Cass City chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons. Hanby had been a fireman for the city of Ypsilanti.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, Donald Hanby, Cass City, and Dick Hanby, Grand Haven; one daughter, Mary Hanby, Cass City; seven grandchildren, and one great-granddaughter.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Timothy Teall of the First Baptist church officiating.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

New books at the library

NEW LIVES FOR FORMER WIVES by Nancy Baker, (non-fiction). Millions of women lived the American Dream before death, separation or divorce took away both their husbands and their means of support. Suddenly they found themselves expected to earn their own living. Author Baker interviewed hundreds of these "displaced homemakers" and visited government programs across the country to write this comprehensive overview of the problem and specific advice on how others in the same situation have gone back to work, established a new social life, and found self-sufficiency and independence instead of despair.

CONGO by Michael Crichton, (fiction). In the Lost City of Zinj, in the heart of the Congo, there is a mine of invaluable diamonds. Dr. Karen Ross, top scientist for a clandestine but powerful corporation, must lead an expedition to locate those diamonds. With her is Charles Munro, a soldier of fortune; Peter Elliot, an expert on gorillas, and Amy, a mountain gorilla who can communicate with Elliot through sign language. They are forced to parachute into uncharted jungles, traverse a raging river, scale a volcano and sidestep cannibals and insurgent soldiers. When at last they reach the Lost City, they must face the unknown force that has killed everyone who has ventured into its realm.

THE SLEEPER by Eric Clark, (fiction). The "sleeper" is James Fenn, an English journalist recruited by the KGB during the 1956 Hungarian uprising but never used for spying. Now British intelligence needs someone to smear Sir Joseph Banks, an advisor to the prime minister, who the CIA claims is leaking secrets to Russia. A British agent posing as a Russian assigns Fenn the task of going after Banks. Fenn is portrayed as a sympathetic character used as a tool by the intelligence agencies to do their dirty work.

Glenn Lake to address MMPA local

The Deford local of the Michigan Milk Producers Association will conduct its annual meeting starting with lunch at noon Saturday at the Shabbona United Methodist church.

Guest speaker will be MMPA President Glenn Lake, who will be stepping down from the post shortly, after having served 25 years.

Activities at the meeting will include election of officers for the coming year, election of delegates to the upcoming district meeting and consideration of other matters pertaining to the dairy farming industry.

Sixty-eight locals form the nucleus of the MMPA, the state's largest milk marketing cooperative with about 5,200 dairy farmer members statewide.

AROUND THE FARM

Soybean Day

By Don Kebler

The saying, "One cannot live on bread alone," may well be said regarding crop production in a sense of the word also.

No cash crop producer in the Saginaw Valley can successfully survive on a one or two crop rotation system. Under such a cropping system, either the economics, disease, insects, weeds or soil structure problems will catch up with the system.

As an example, most of us know the economic and soil destruction effects the one-time bean-wheat-bean rotation causes. Our cash crop operators moved away from these rotations and they can lengthen them more by raising soybeans.

In the last three years, extensive research has been done to make soybeans a market competitive cash crop not only in Michigan but in the Saginaw Valley. Last year, the Michigan Soybean Association high soybean yield contest winner produced 67.5 bushels per acre on 11 acres.

The winner, Kenneth Goetz of Pigeon, will be at the Mid-Michigan Soybean Day program to tell how he obtained this production. He will be only one of a battery of soybean production and marketing specialists at the program, Wednesday, Feb. 25, in the Saginaw Civic Center.

By attending this free event, from 9 a.m.-5 p.m., you will find out which of the over 200 soybean varieties researched are best for your operation. You will receive an update on the best soybean weed control recommendations and learn how to produce narrow row soybeans for highest yields.

During the afternoon, Frank Muellins, soybean analyst with Merrill Lynch from Chicago, will discuss marketing and soybean outlook.

You will also have plenty of time to visit more than 45 commercial exhibits and taste samples of roasted soybeans. Lunch will be available at the Civic Center.

Church holds sweetheart banquet

The annual sweetheart banquet of the Novesta Church of Christ was held Saturday evening in the fellowship hall with 95 persons attending.

The meal was planned and served by the G.E.T., the senior-high youth group, under the direction of sponsors Mr. and Mrs. David Little and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Peasley.

A vocal and musical program was presented by Barney Sapp, a student from Great Lakes Bible College, Lansing.

In a contest leading up to the banquet, honored were Albert and Eunice Englehart as king and queen, Skip and Ellen Speirs as prince and princess, and Scott Hartwick and Julie Woods as the courting couple.

An offering at the banquet went to the church building fund.

Ron Curtis in Navy exercise

Navy Mess Management Specialist Seaman Apprentice Ronald J. Curtis Jr., son of Rachel A. Caverly of 5766 Bond Road, Deford, recently participated in "National Week XXX" in the Mediterranean.

He is a crewmember aboard the frigate USS Patterson, homeported in Mayport, Fla.

The exercise involved more than 15 ships and 100 aircraft from the 6th Fleet, and was designed to test naval warfare techniques in a multi-threat environment. Anti-air, submarine, surface ship and task force warfare techniques were practiced.

The Patterson is a 438-foot long, "Knox" class frigate with a crew of 283. It is equipped with guns, missiles, rockets and a landing platform and normally carries a light helicopter for long range detection and attack of submarines.

A 1976 graduate of Kings-ton High School, Curtis joined the Navy in August, 1977.

HEALTH TIPS

Almost anything can cause an itch

Frank Chappell
Science News Editor

Your doctor calls it allergic contact dermatitis.

You call it a skin rash. By either name it's a big itch. It's caused by something that rubs against your skin. And it won't go away until the offending substance is identified and removed.

Almost anything can occasionally cause allergic contact dermatitis in someone.

To further complicate matters, you may be in contact with the substance for years and years with no problem, only to suddenly become allergic and develop a rash.

The metal nickel causes rash in many individuals. There is nickel in medallions, zippers, identification tags and necklaces, in hairpins and curlers, and in thumbtacks, needles, scissors, coins and pens.

Nickel-plated earrings often produce one of the cardinal signs of nickel sensitivity in women - earlobe rash, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association.

Rubber is a frequent offender. Not natural rubber, but the various chemicals that are added to rubber to preserve it and enhance its qualities. There is rubber in various foundation garments, swim suits, surgical bandages and support hose. Girdles and bras can contain rubber. Rubber panties may irritate the skin of babies. Rubber gloves can irritate the hands. Rubber shoes can cause foot rash.

Thousands upon thousands of people color their hair and will continue to do so without difficulty.

But some people who dye their hair will develop allergic hypersensitivity to an ingredient found in permanent hair dyes. These are usually called tints. If tints cause rash sometimes a semi-permanent dye or vegetable rinse will serve almost as well.

The person who develops allergic contact dermatitis can make life much happier if he learns to avoid the substance that causes the reaction and all materials that cross-react with it. There are safe substitute products for virtually everything

Your Neighbor says

TV probably most offensive to women

The Coalition for Better Television and Moral Majority, both religious-oriented groups, have declared war on what they feel are morally dubious television programs.

Plans include monitoring television programs for sexually suggestive language and scenes, profanity and violence and then encourage a boycott of the products of sponsors of what they consider the worst programs.

Darryl Hoag doesn't find much objectionable on television, but adds, "Probably for women there are a lot of things that are offensive, but it doesn't bother very many guys."

He offered as examples women being treated as sex objects on shows and advertisements for feminine protection products - "embarrassing to a lot of women" - and which show women talking about doing what is good for their husbands when the latter come home from work.

Hoag feels television does put a lot of emphasis on sex. "It gets blown out of proportion on TV."

Excessive violence, he commented, may be bad for "younger children who don't understand what's going on."

He doesn't support the idea of boycotting sponsors of morally objectionable shows. "The problem is not in the people (advertisers) who pay for TV, but in the people who produce it." Hoag doesn't feel advertisers have control over the content of programs.

A junior at Cass City High School, his favorite shows are "Dukes of Hazzard" and "White Shadow."

He is the son of Dean and Sue Hoag of 4137 Vulcan Street.

Rose Muntz dies at 88

Rose Belle Muntz, 88, of Cass City died Friday at Hills and Dales General Hospital after a long illness.

She was born Oct. 19, 1892, in Ortonville, Oakland county, the daughter of William and Elizabeth (Lockhart) Ritchie.

Miss Ritchie married Stanley Muntz March 18, 1921, in Caro. They made their home in Elkland township.

She was a member of the United Methodist church of Gageton and a charter member of the United Methodist Women. Mrs. Muntz was a teacher in the area for 37 years. She taught at Sand Hill, Bingham, Stone and Gageton Elementary Schools before retiring in 1964.

Mrs. Muntz is survived by her husband; one son, Howard Muntz of Cass City and one daughter, Mrs. William (Joan) Henry of Midland, Texas; five grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. Three brothers and two sisters preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Myra Sparks of the Gageton United Methodist church officiating.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Nature group seeks to save wild areas

The Michigan Nature Association (MNA) is looking for areas in Tuscola county worthy of preservation. The non-profit citizens' group has been preserving rare lands in Michigan for 21 years. By buying up unique habitat, the MNA forever prevents its exploitation by developers. Since 1960, the organization has established 64 nature sanctuaries across Michigan totaling 3,000 acres. A study made in 1980 by Sue Crispin, a botanist from Western Michigan University, revealed that of 83 Michigan counties, 32 have no nature preserves whatsoever. Tuscola is one of the 32. The MNA preserves are unique wild areas used only for non-destructive purposes such as hiking, photography, bird watching and general nature study. No fires, camping, or molesting of animals or plants are permitted and persons must walk instead of drive through. MNA preserves contain examples of every major Michigan habitat, including forests, bogs, swamps, marshes, prairies, and dunes, mountain ridges and rock outcrops. They protect over 1300 native plants, 152 species of birds and 80 kinds of butterflies. Persons who would like to suggest areas worthy of preservation can contact the MNA at: P.O. Box 102, Avoca 48006, telephone (313) 324-2626.

Square dance Saturday in Caro

The Rocking Eights Square Dance Club of Caro will hold a dance Saturday at the Sacred Heart School on Frank Street in Caro from 8-11 p.m. Jay Elenbaum is the club caller. Cherry desserts are the refreshments for the evening. Another club is expected to come on its mystery trip, so members should bring a little extra. All square dancers and those who would like to watch are welcome.

Rocheleau: dog training a labor of love

Judy Rocheleau has three top dogs.

Three German shepherds she owns or owned achieved American Kennel Club obedience title certificates within 11 months. Two of them also earned Canadian Kennel Club obedience certificates within that time span.

It takes a lot of work with one dog to achieve the honor, and some dogs aren't capable of it, so to achieve it with three within such a short time span was quite an accomplishment for the Elkton Road, Grant township, resident.

Her three German shepherds were Shone, Bear and Shane. The latter was sold in May to Kevin Kivel of Bad Axe, after it was qualified, for use in police work. It and Bear are both trained for police work (protection, tracking, climbing obstacles, etc.)

The last of the animals to qualify was Shone (pronounced "shaun"), the lone female of the trio, who did so at the Pontiac Kennel Club show Jan. 25 at the Pontiac Silverdome. Shone and Shane, 3 years old, are sister and brother. Bear is 19 months old.

To receive the obedience certificate requires a dog to achieve at least 170 points out of a possible 200 at three dog shows before three different judges.

The owner must take the dog through a set routine twice, once on the leash and once off it. Included are walking alongside the person, automatically stopping when the person stops, sitting for at least one minute with 14 other dogs and lying down for three minutes, both times with the handler 40 feet away, and recall, telling the animal to sit and stay. The owner then walks 40 feet away, calls the dog, who must come and sit in front of the person, close enough to be touched without the person bending over.

The other part of the judging is the "stand for examination," at which the dog is examined by the judge without the handler close-by.

EACH DOG STARTS with 200 points. Points are deducted for such infractions as walking too far ahead or behind the handler or sitting crooked next to him or her, and moving while on the examination stand.

Automatic disqualification can come from "fouling in the ring" (urinating in the show ring), showing signs of aggression on the examination stand or when recalled, not getting close enough to the owner to be touched without the owner bending over.

No dog -- or very, very few -- are perfect, but Mrs. Rocheleau's came close, all having scored at one time or another in the 190s.

Bear was the only one of the trio, however, to be certified in only three shows. It took Shone four shows and Shane, seven.

Qualifying the dogs meant attending 15 shows in 11 months, the farthest away being at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

TRAINING THE DOGS, according to Mrs. Rocheleau, "is quite a challenge. You spend a lot of hours every day."

If starting with a puppy, training can begin at 14-16 weeks by getting it used to wearing a collar and then a leash. If starting with an animal that young, it usually must be about a year old before it is ready for shows. Commands -- "sit," "heel," etc. -- are usually taught one or two at a time before going on to other ones.

Some dogs never make good show dogs. Some may not take to training, and even some that do, when they get to the show with hundreds or thousands of other dogs, "get the shakes" and can't perform. It's like a comedian who is hysterically funny in front of his friends but gets stage fright in front of an audience.

Although she only works with German shepherds, any breed registered with the AKC can be obedience certified, although some breeds are better than others. Highly excitable ones, obviously, wouldn't do well at a show.

Dog owners, of course, have to learn what to do and Mrs. Rocheleau receives her "training" through membership in the Man Dog Training Club and the classes for members taught by Ron Forster, a professional dog trainer from Elkton. She is treasurer of the club.

THE ONLY DOG SHE IS still working with is Shone. Shane was sold, as mentioned, and Bear is now owned by her husband Bob, who is training it. Prior to getting it, he never was much involved with his wife's hobby.

She is also working with four young German shepherds, not ready for showing, plus she boards and grooms dogs. She figures she spends about five hours a day with them. "My life is built around dogs, but I love dogs," she commented.

Although she makes some money from them, with a dog food bill of $140 a month plus veterinary bills and other expenses, she considers the animals a hobby, the same as someone who bowls or goes fishing. "I'm so far in the red, I don't know if I'll ever come out," she joked.

Although Mrs. Rocheleau obviously enjoys working with her dogs, what's in it for them?

The answer is lots of praise, which she considers preferable to handing them a dog biscuit when they do right. When they do wrong, the dog is told "no" and is corrected. If the owner gets mad at the animal, the best thing to do, she advised, is to put it in its pen and do something else.

From the standpoint of the dog, pleasing the owner has to be "something to really work for." After the training sessions are over, there is time for the dog to receive a hug from the owner and to play.

As for the owner, spending so much time training a dog, "You really have to enjoy it to do it."

PERFECT RECALL -- One of the tests in obedience certification is recall. The handler tells the dog to sit and stay, walks 40 feet away and recalls the animal, which must come and sit close enough for the person to touch it without bending over.

Debaters 5th in state tourney

Cass City High School debaters Crystal Gallaway and Mechelle Particka finished fifth in the state Class C debate tournament Feb. 6-7 at the Southfield Sheraton Hotel.

The pair made it to the quarter finals before being defeated.

Kevin Hobart and Malcolm House finished 10th in the competition.

The Gagetown Village Council met in special session Monday evening to work on its budget for the fiscal year that starts April 1.

The budget should be finalized at the March 2 meeting. Also at that meeting, a public hearing will be held to hear suggestions concerning use of federal revenue sharing funds.

March 30, there will be a public hearing at 7 p.m. on a revenue sharing budget for the 1981-82 fiscal year, followed by a hearing at 7:30 on the village budget.

The council decided to seek bids to have the audit done of the present fiscal year, which ends March 31.

Council member Fred Sullivan was appointed budget chairman, to see that the budget is carried out.

Minor injuries in area crashes

CLUNK -- The breakup of roads due to freezing and thawing is becoming more and more evident, one result of which was a car lost part of its exhaust system at the corner of Main and Seeger. The intersection is slated for repairs by the village this year if finances permit.

A Mayville man escaped serious injury last Wednesday when his snowmobile ran into the side of a truck in Cass City.

Treated and released at Hills and Dales General Hospital following the 9:45 a.m. mishap was Douglas A. Dalrymple, 18.

Driver of the village-owned truck, which was eastbound on Houghton Street, east of West Street, was Frank Guilds, 55, of 6430 Third Street.

Cass City police reported the throttle on Dalrymple's snowmobile stuck and the machine headed south out of the yard into the rear wheels of the truck.

Dalrymple was ticketed on a charge of defective equipment.

Despite poor road conditions last week, relatively few accidents were reported in the area.

Sheryl Lynn Farnum, 27, of 110 S. Kingston Road, Deford, was ticketed by Caro state police on a charge of violation of the basic speed law (too fast for conditions) after an 11:30 a.m. accident Friday.

Troopers reported she was southbound on Cemetery Road, near Shabbona Road, when she lost control of her car on the icy pavement. The vehicle went off the west side of the road sideways and rolled over, landing upside down.

William G. Papke, 62, of 4823 State Street, Gagetown, was cited by state police on the same charge after a 9:30 p.m. accident that day.

They reported he was southbound on McEldowney Road and his car hit a slippery spot as it was approaching Bay City-Forestville Road. His auto couldn't stop and ran into the right side of a westbound car, driven by Linda Sue Batie, 30, of 5568 Hurds Corner Road, Gagetown.

Debra Ann Eschtruth, 26, of Caro, sought her own treatment for minor injuries after an accident at 8:35 p.m. Friday.

Deputies reported she was southbound on Phillips Road, south of Silvernail Road, when she lost control of her car on the icy surface. The vehicle skidded off the right side of the road and flipped over.

At 10:52 p.m. that day, according to Cass City police, James T. Crickon, 16, of 5730 N. Van Dyke Road was pulling into a parking place at the Charmont. His auto slid on ice into a parked car, owned by Morris Sontag of 484 Hartsell Road.

Deputies reported that at 11:45 a.m. Saturday, John A. Flikkie, 25, of 20 White Creek Road, Kingston, was pulling into a parking place at the Caro Building Center on M-81, west of that community, when his car slid on ice into a parked car. Owner of the parked car was Donna Irvine of Mayville.

John D. Gadomski, 25, of Downingtown Road, Snover, was westbound on Decker-ville Road, east of Hurds Corner Road, at 10:30 p.m. Monday, according to Caro state police, when his car ran into a deer.

Cass City road funds increase

LESS REVENUE

The problem is that fuel and weight tax revenue, the main source of support for Michigan's state and local road programs, declined in the last three months of 1980, compared to the same period in 1979, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation. That is a continuation of a recent trend.

Cass City is running temporarily counter to the trend, as it will receive $13,127 for the same period in 1979, compared to $10,804 for the same period in 1979.

The distribution formula is based primarily on the amount of gasoline sold during the quarter and the number of road miles within the jurisdiction receiving the funds.

In Cass City, LaPonsie explained, two streets in 1980 switched from local to major street status and streets in the Northwood Village and Estates subdivision and industrial park all officially became village streets. That increased the village's payment, but if state-wide road tax receipts continue to decline, so will Cass City's.

Gagetown will receive $3,875 ($4,051 a year ago); Kingston, $2,567 ($2,842); Owendale, $2,805 ($2,994), and Ubyly, $4,743 ($5,031).

The Tuscola County Road Commission will receive $483,995, down from $531,373 received for the fourth quarter of 1979; Huron County Road Commission, $413,176, down from $462,080, and Sanilac County Road Commission, $450,254, reduced from $499,376.

Motor fuel tax revenues statewide declined 9.2 percent from the October-December period of 1979 and weight taxes (license plate) fees fell by 7.5 percent.

The revenue raised for distribution to the state, counties, cities and villages for road purposes and to public transit and rail systems was down by 9 percent.

That compares to the July-September, 1980 distribution, which was off 10.9 percent from the same period in 1979.

Tillage workshop

The Cooperative Extension Service will combine efforts with local implement dealers and area farmers to provide information on how to get the best performance from tillage tools.

A workshop will be held Friday in the Akron State Bank basement, beginning at 10 a.m. with registration and coffee. At 10:15, speakers from implement companies will present information regarding the proper adjustment of tillage tools and planters for improved field operations.

Lunch will be followed by presentations from a panel of farmers on their experience with several tillage tools.

Michigan State University agricultural engineers will explain University recommendations for choosing tillage tools to use on several soil types and crop rotations. The workshop will adjourn at 2:30 p.m.

Tillage tools to be discussed include moldboard plows, disk harrows, soil savers, planters, and V-rippers.

Interested persons who plan to attend the meeting should pre-register by contacting the extension office in Caro at 673-3161. There will be a fee for lunch and registration.

People who don't vote shouldn't be allowed to kick.

Three men charged in connection with the Jan. 21 armed robbery of a Vassar area couple stood mute at their arraignment Tuesday before Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

John A. Rashotte, 22, of Standish, and Larry D. Betz, 20, of 142 1/2 S. Main Street, Vassar, are both charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, breaking and entering an occupied dwelling and possession of a firearm in commission of a felony.

Rashotte is also charged with supplement information, of being an habitual offender, to which he also stood mute. If convicted of that, plus the other charges, he will receive a longer sentence.

Gregory W. Shepard, 22, of Standish, is charged with assault with a dangerous weapon and breaking and entering.

Pleas of innocent were entered for the three, with a pretrial hearing scheduled March 2 for Rashotte and March 16 for Shepard and Betz.

Bond of $50,000 each was continued. As of Tuesday afternoon, all were still in the county jail, unable to post bond.

The three are charged with breaking into the mobile home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gilmore in the Mark of Vassar Trailer Park, holding a sawed-off shotgun on them, tying them to the bed and then escaping with less than $100 in cash.

Also Tuesday, Steven B. Phelps, 17, of 2760 Phelps Lake Road, Mayville, stood mute to charges of unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle and receiving and concealing stolen property over $100.

A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled March 2. Bond was continued.

He is charged with taking a snowmobile Jan. 10 in Fostoria.

Everett F. Nicholas, 28, of Clio, pleaded guilty to malicious destruction of a building over $100. His plea was accepted and a sentencing date to be set, with bond continued until then.

The charge was in connection with an incident Oct. 5 in Arbel township.

The judge found Stanley M. Spencer, 38, of 1571 Colwood Road, Caro, competent to stand trial on a charge of criminal sexual conduct (4th degree).

A trial was scheduled April 7. Bond was continued. He is charged in connection with an incident Feb. 4, 1980, involving a 13-year-old girl.

At pretrial hearings, Nicholas C. White, 20, of 2380 Tin Bill Road, Caro, and Michael Martinez, 24, of 122 N. Hooper Street, Caro, each pleaded guilty to delivery of marijuana.

Their pleas were accepted and sentencing dates are to be set. Bond was continued.

Both were charged with selling the narcotic to an undercover police officer in Caro in August.

Appoint Hebert chairman of Community Bank

Peter J. Hebert has been named chairman of the Community Bank of Huron county to replace recently retired Albert G. Spaeth, it was announced this week by the board of directors.

The change was effective Feb. 3. Spaeth will continue as a director, participating in determination of bank policy.

Hebert has served Community Bank since 1940 when he joined Kinde State Bank after graduating from Pinnebog High School.

He managed offices at Kinde, Caseville and Ubyly and was elected vice-president in 1951 and a director in 1953. In 1967 he became a senior vice-president.

He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin School of Banking and the ABA National Commercial Lending School of Norman, Okla.

Married, he has four children.

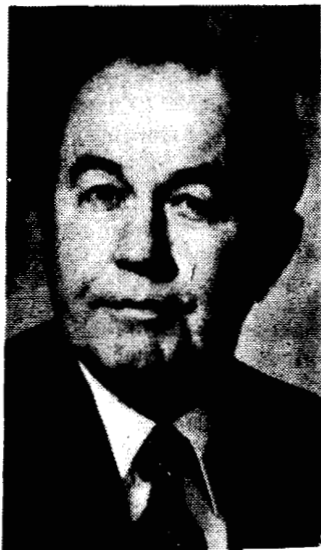

Spaeth and his wife, Bette, took control of the Community Bank Nov. 15, 1967, when they formed one of the first Michigan bank holding companies, the Huron Financial Services Trust, parent company of Community Bank.

According to bank authorities, earnings for 1980 were up over 33 percent equaling $5.84 before security gains. A 40 cents per share dividend was paid Jan. 31.

"WOMANLESS WEDDING" -- was the title of a humorous performance presented for several years by men in Cass City to raise money for charity. This is the cast in 1929, when the proceeds went to the school. Owner of the photo is Meredith Auten, who, dressed as Mary Pickford, is the second one seated from the left.

State's tax burden ranks 23rd, according to Federal study

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

Results of a study released by the Department of Management and Budget show that recent national statistics rate Michigan 23rd in terms of revenue imposed by state and local governments.

Robert Kleine, director of the Office of Revenue and Tax Analysis, said the state standing was determined by computing all forms of revenue except federal aid.

The report entitled "A Comparison of Selected State Tax Rates," based on data collected by the U.S. Census Bureau and other sources, notes that many other states included in the study supplement low tax rates with high fees and other charges.

Such items as tuition, park fees, hunting licenses, testing fees, sewer charges and school lunch sales are included along with taxes in measuring total state and local government revenue.

"These tables indicate Michigan's tax burden, as a whole, is about average, but it also shows that the local property tax and state income tax in Michigan are somewhat above average while the sales tax is below average -- all measured as a percent of total personal income," Kleine said.

He noted the tables illustrated one of the major reasons that the governor's proposal for property tax relief includes a sales tax increase as a means of offsetting revenue loss.

Kleine noted that the report also shows that the total revenue for state and local government is 16.31 percent of total personal income in Michigan.

The personal income total includes all income in the state including "transfer payments" such as Social Security, unemployment and assistance payments.

The national average is 15.69 percent.

Michigan state government revenues alone declined as a percentage of personal income in recent years, dropping from 8.2 percent in 1979 to an estimated 7.5 percent in 1981 and 1982, Kleine said.

Other portions of the report indicated that Michigan state income tax ranks 14th in the nation (among 44 states that levy an income tax); the state sales tax ranks 29th (among 45 states levying a sales tax); the property tax in Michigan ranks 18th, and the cigarette tax, 11 cents a pack, is lower than in 32 other states.

LOCKOUTS

A company lockout is a labor dispute for which employees are disqualified from receiving unemployment benefits, the Michigan Supreme Court has ruled. The decision reverses the Court of Appeals and reinstates findings of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The court said it rejected the contention that a lockout is not a disqualifying labor dispute because it would make redundant other clauses of the unemployment law relating to disqualification resulting from a labor dispute.

The high court also noted the Legislature declared that benefits shall not be paid when unemployment is due to a labor dispute which is in progress.

Even though the law is meant to provide relief from the hardship of involuntary unemployment, the court said the disqualification provision makes an exception to that general purpose.

The justices declared employers must bear the burden of proving the claimants disqualification since payment of benefits is precluded only if the labor dispute is shown to be a substantial contributing cause of unemployment, even if other causes, such as economic reasons, contributed to the lockout.

Ubyly residents receive degrees

Three Ubyly residents graduated from Central Michigan University at the end of the fall term.

William Osentoski graduated magna cum laude, receiving a B.S. degree in education, majoring in physical education.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Osentoski of Bay City-Forestville Road, Ubyly, and a 1972 graduate of Ubyly High School. He served four years in the Air Force before entering college.

Osentoski is now working for an auto testing firm in Aurora, Colo., and is hoping to find a teaching position in physical education in that state this fall.

Elizabeth Sweeney received a B.S. degree in education, majoring in preschool child development.

The 1976 Ubyly High School graduate is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Sweeney of 2331 Morrison Road, Ubyly.

She presently is substitute teaching and is seeking full-time employment in her field.

D. Mark Zurek graduated cum laude, receiving a B.S. degree in business administration, with a major in accounting.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Zurek of 4372 Washington Street, Ubyly, and a 1976 graduate of Ubyly High School.

He is now employed by the certified public accounting firm of Parker, Wittus and Co. of Southfield and plans to take his CPA examinations.

HARRY LENDA, left, and his wife, Mable, right, place ham and turkey in the shopping cart for Mrs. Tammy Talaski of Cass City as she starts her IGA shopping spree. The lucky winner each week of the contest gets free all the Fame products she can crowd in her basket in three minutes. The contests are held at noon each Saturday.

Police show OK in county

HE COULDN'T RECALL what percentage of the gross from past shows went for expenses without checking his books, only that they greatly exceeded the profits and vary from show to show.

A portion of the expense money does go to him personally, he said, adding that he makes up any losses. The FOP is given a guarantee that it will not lose any money.

In addition to the Tuscola show, Owens also promotes two shows each year for the Genesee County FOP and two shows for the Shiawassee FOP.

Owens, who saw the '60

Minutes" show, commented, "I think they should point out that not all promoters are like that."

He expressed the fear Monday afternoon that the television program would hurt ticket sales. "We'll know tonight when we start calling . . . because people will think we're all alike."

But according to his wife, contacted by the Chronicle after the calls were made and who was at the telephone headquarters, only one person telephoned mentioned "60 Minutes" and the number of persons who asked what the proceeds would be used for was no more than usual.

3 wins keep Hawks in title race

Hawks impressive in win over Eagles

Now if Cass City can just play like that when the Michigan High School basketball tournament starts the first week in March life for Hawk fans will be beautiful.

Cass City played what may have been its finest game of the season Tuesday to nip Frankenmuth Eagles, 60-54. Certainly the first quarter was the best that the team has played all season. It was the first quarter that propelled Cass City to the win. The Hawks exploded out of the chute with three quick baskets and then after the Eagles closed the gap went on another rampage pushing the margin to 20-6 in the next three minutes. Frankenmuth pushed in a couple of buckets to make it 20-10 at the quarter.

The first quarter push was paced by Craig Tonti with six points and Tim Sontag with eight. Another key was some savage rebounding by Todd Comment against the taller visitors.

As the first period score indicated, for the first time this year the whole team operated like a well oiled machine.

Despite the huge lead, the Eagles were far from through. They took advantage of one of the weaknesses that the Hawks have shown all season. Defensive rebounding.

With good position on the board the Eagles kept shooting until they scored. With nine straight unanswered points they closed the gap to 26-21 midway through the quarter. Cass City adjusted and stopped the surge to lead, 34-29 at halftime. The Eagle rally was paced by Hugh Bernreuter and Mike Burns with three buckets each, mostly scored from close-in.

The second period rally set the stage for a surging battle in the last half. Frankenmuth made two runs at the Hawks and each time Cass City withstood the challenge. Midway through the third quarter the Eagles scored eight unanswered points to move within a point, 44-43, only to see Cass City score a key bucket to hold the lead, 46-43 at the end of three quarters.

Frankenmuth made another rally midway through the final period twice moving to within a point but never moving to a tie or in front. Comment saw to that. His last quarter effort was reminiscent of his heroics in the tournaments last spring. He scored 12 of his game high 23 points in the period with four baskets and three free throws, all coming when the Eagles were applying the pressure and challenging for the lead.

Tonti chipped in with 18 points in the game and played a fine floor game and Tim Sontag netted 11. For the Eagles Burns netted 16 and Bernreuter 13.

The game was won at the foul circle. Cass City converted 12 of 14 while Frankenmuth was a miserable 2 for 8. The Hawks committed 10 fouls and Frankenmuth was charged with 12.

JV'S LOSE

The JV team started slowly, rallied to get back in the game and then faded in the final period to lose to the Eagles, 75-59.

MARLETTE GAME

An outmanned Marlette Red Raider basketball squad proved to be little competition for Cass City last Friday as the Hawks took the Thumb B Association game, 82-42.

It was a contest for only the first half of the first quarter.

Cass City went ahead to stay, 9-6, with 3:17 left in the opening stanza after Marlette went ahead by a point early in the period, 6-5.

It was the only time that the Raiders were to lead. Paced by Craig Tonti who netted six quick points, Cass City chalked up 11 unanswered points and were in front, 26-14, at the end of the first quarter.

Todd Comment added to the Hawk lead as he hit three buckets from outcourt in the second period to go with three more baskets by Tonti to pace the Hawks to a 20-point lead with a couple of minutes left before the intermission. Coach Ron Nurnberger turned to his bench at this point and before it was over everyone received playing time and every player on the squad scored.

Things went from bad to worse for the visitors in the third quarter. Marlette managed only two baskets in the eight minutes while Cass City whipped in 19 to lead 64-25.

With the game decided, both coaches used their benches extensively in the last period.

Cass City had four players in double figures led by Tonti with 27. Tim Sontag netted 14, Comment, 13, and Ray Ferris, 11.

Tom Behr was the only Red Raider in double figures as he scored 13 points, 12 of them coming in the first half when the game was still in doubt.

As usual Cass City's rebounding was led by Comment with 10. Sontag added 8 and Scott Hobart, 6.

JV GAME

The Hawks came as close as possible to winning their second game of the season in JV competition, but were edged at the wire, 55-54, by Marlette.

NORTH BRANCH GAME

The Cass City Red Hawks stayed in the running for a share of the Thumb B Association title but looked like anything but champions while posting a 40-39 decision at North Branch Wednesday.

Only some atrocious shooting early in the game kept the Hawks from suffering their third loss of the season in the league.

The Broncos were out-rebounding the Hawks and getting two or more shots nearly every time down the floor.

But there was a lid on the basket and Cass City rode the coattails of Craig Tonti into a first period lead, 14-10. Tonti scored 10 points in the period.

The second period was almost a carbon copy of the first. North Branch missed good shots and Cass City missed a chance to salt away the victory early as turnovers were numerous. The Hawks led at the half, 25-19.

North Branch found the range in the third quarter. Don Smeznik poured in two quick hoops and Carl Pettit added another and suddenly the score was tied at 25-all.

The Hawks rallied to take back the lead but the Broncos kept the pressure on as Smeznik poured in a couple of more hoops on pretty drives to the baskets.

North Branch took the lead for the first time in the game, 21-29, with less than two minutes left in the third quarter.

At the end of the period the Broncos led, 33-31.

Cass City took back the lead midway through the final period. The Hawks hit Todd Comment in the middle for two quick baskets and a 37-35 lead with 3:46 left in the game.

With 2:12 left Pete MacNaughton picked up his only points of the game with a pair of free throws and North Branch trailed by a point, 38-37. With 1:15 left in the game Smeznik converted a pair of clutch charity tosses and North Branch was back in the lead, 39-38.

Tonti then scored on a drive as his teammates cleared away from the basket and was fouled after the shot. He made the first of two and Cass City led with 54 seconds remaining.

North Branch took the ball and tried for a good shot but probably took too much time from the clock trying to do so. The hosts called time out and only 5 seconds were left in the game. A desperation shot was blocked by Comment and the Hawks' chances for a title remained alive.

North Branch had a 39-34 edge in rebounds and only a 26 percent shooting average from the field saved Cass City from disaster. Cass City shot 54 percent.

Tonti netted 20 points for Cass City while Smeznik led all scorers with 24 for North Branch.

The Cass City Junior Varsity is still looking for victory number two this season as it faded in the final quarter and lost to the Bronco JV's 45-40.

TWO VALUABLE skills that Todd Comment brings to the Cass City Red Hawks are shooting and rebounding. Comment sinks a basket from 10 feet against North Branch. He was also the leading rebounder.

Paul Brown only Hawk to qualify for regional

Cass City qualified one wrestler for the state regionals at district 25 tournament held Saturday in Cass City.

PAUL BROWN Regional qualifier

He was Paul Brown, who finished second to Tim Wendt of Marlette in the 119-pound class.

To qualify, Brown defeated Dennis Friend of Burton-Atherton, 13-0; Jeff Cabrera of Saginaw Saints Peter and Paul, 15-2, and Terry Green of Flint-Hamady, 6-2. In the finals Wendt topped Brown, 15-10.

There were 14 schools in the district and New Lothrop won team honors, with 190 1/2 points to just nip Montrose with 187 1/2 points.

Cass City finished seventh. The complete team results: Burton-Bendle, 97; Burton-Bentley, 77 1/2; Goodrich, 71 1/2; Capac, 56; Cass City, 44; Flint Hamady, 42 1/2; Bad Axe, 35; Saginaw Saints Peter & Paul, 34; Sandusky, 34; Marlette, 33; Burton-Atherton, 32; Lakers, 0.

The winners were:

- Unlimited - Lee Bonczkowski, Bend.
- 98-pounds - Tim Weisenberger, NL.
- 105-pounds - Tim DeMaria, Bend.
- 112-pounds - Gary Silva, Mont.
- 119-pounds - Tim Wendt, Mar.
- 126-pounds - Shawn Murdoch, Mont.
- 132-pounds - Scott Edmorson, Bend.
- 138-pounds - Tom Ranger, Mont.
- 145-pounds - Corry Driscoll, S.
- 155-pounds - Kevin Quadrerer, NL.
- 167-pounds - Rod Severn, Mont.
- 185-pounds - Tony Bell, Mont.
- 198-pounds - Dale Arma-Bent.

Hawk spikers in battle for 2nd

It looks like a battle for second place behind undefeated Bad Axe in the Thumb B Association volleyball competition.

Cass City boosted its record to 6-2 in the league with a decision over Caro Feb. 5 and edged by Ubyly in a non-league encounter Monday.

The Hawks were not as successful in a tournament at Vassar Saturday. The Hawks lost both matches played. Frankenmuth edged Cass City in one match, 15-13, 15-17 and 15-12.

North Branch then topped the Hawks in straight games, 15-12 and 15-8. The matches against Caro were about as close as they could get. The Hawks won the opening match with relative ease with 15-8 and 15-6 decisions. The second match saw Cass City open with a 15-7 decision, lose 10-15 and then take the deciding match in overtime, 16-14.

Against Ubyly, Cass City lost the first game in each match and then rallied to win. The scores of the first match were 11-15, 15-8 and 15-2.

In the second match it was 12-15, 15-6 and 15-4. The Hawks were to have played a pair of conference clashes this week. Wednesday, Marlette was to have played at Cass City and Thursday the Hawks were scheduled at Vassar.
