In the Owendale-Gagetown district, only the two incumbents are running; in Kingston, three candidates for two seats, and in Ubyly, four are seeking the one vacancy.

All terms are for four years.

All four districts will have millage proposals on the ballot, as they have levies expiring, but none of the school boards has decided yet on the number of mills they will ask voters to approve.

CASS CITY -- The six candidates running are E. Theresa Burnette of 4293 Crane Road, the lone incumbent, and Gregory Brown, 6311 Virginia Drive; Ben Hobart, Hobart Road, Gagetown; Louis Horner, 4410 S. Seeger Street; Richard Shaw, 6235 Van Dyke Road, and Thomas Sutter, 6479 Main Street.

The other present board member whose term is expiring, Dean Hoag, is not seeking reelection.

The district has 12.9 mills expiring.

There are 4.25 mills expiring.

KINGSTON -- Louis E. Wenzlaff of Phillips Road, Kingston, is seeking reelection. The other candidates are Janet M. Grieve, Cemetery Road, Kingston, and Wesley E. Scott, English Road, Silverwood.

Washington delegates say farm policy in good hands

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is in good hands, according to Cass City area residents who took part in the 21st annual Michigan Farm Bureau (MFB) legislative seminar in Washington last week.

The trip got off to an inauspicious beginning for the 125 farmer delegates. They arrived Monday and their first scheduled activity was a 3 p.m. briefing by American Farm Bureau Federation staff members. Shortly before then came the news that President Reagan had been shot.

The briefing and all other activities were held as scheduled.

Although the assassination attempt did not hamper the group's activities, said Faye Adam, "I think it put a different atmosphere on things." The Lamotte township resident attended as vice-chairman of the Farm Bureau State Women's Committee, which sponsors the excursion each year.

The only change in the scheduled program because of the shooting came Tuesday, when the group met with Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng in place of Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block.

Before they left, the group did get to hear Block present the Senate Agriculture Committee the Reagan administration's proposals for 1981 farm legislation.

The others from this area who went on the trip were MFB Vice-President Jack Laurie of Dodge Road, Cass City, and Andrea and Ken Hofmeister of Hobart Road, Gagetown. Mrs. Hofmeister and her husband won the top award as Michigan outstanding young farm woman at the MFB convention last December.

WHAT IMPRESSED THE group most, all agreed, was that everyone they met in the USDA has a background in farming or agri-business.

One of the officials the Michiganders met with was Mildred Timmons, the new director of the Agricultural Marketing Service. She is a Minnesota farm wife, whose husband milks 80 cows.

"I think this really impressed the people, to know we have this type of people working for us," Mrs. Adam commented.

The group found many empty offices in the USDA, to be filled by persons yet to be appointed by the less than three-month-old administration. Some who have been appointed are so new, Laurie joked, "A lot of them are still trying to find their desks."

ALSO NEW IS THE administration's farm policy, presented by Block last Wednesday, which the Farm Bureau is still studying before taking an official position.

Mrs. Hofmeister said she was challenged by committee members about the proposed wide discretionary authority that would be given to the secretary of agriculture to operate commodity programs, to tailor them to changing supply and demand conditions, instead of rigidly writing everything into law.

Committee members weren't necessarily opposed, but felt Block would be under pressure from other government agencies, such as the Office of Management and Budget, to keep down commodity prices and thus food prices.

The Farm Bureau has gone along with President Reagan's not increasing the scheduled April 1 increase in dairy price supports, Laurie said, because of the present surplus of milk and the need to reduce federal spending.

Farm Bureau is concerned, however, that of the administration's proposed $55 billion in budget cuts, $10 billion is to come from agriculture (including food stamps, a USDA operated program).

The administration is examining other price support programs, in addition to the one for dairy. It is not cutting spending for agricultural research, however.

What the agricultural community wants, he said, is equity, to make sure that all government programs take their fair share of spending cuts.

The same holds true on the embargo on grain sales to Russia. "We already feel we've been sacrificed," Laurie commented. The Farm Bureau favors either a lifting of the embargo or banning sale of all products to the Soviet Union.

Legislators the group talked to, Mrs. Hofmeister said, predicted the grain sales embargo won't be lifted by the president until the situation improves in Poland, that it would look bad for the U.S. to end it, when Poland might be invaded by the Russians.

THE ENTIRE GROUP met with Michigan Senators Donald Riegle and Carl Levin and by district with their own Congressman, provided he showed up at the Farm Bureau breakfast Tuesday.

According to Mrs. Hofmeister and Mrs. Adam, the group was unimpressed with Levin, who didn't spend much time with them, appeared ill informed and, in the words of Mrs. Adam, "didn't want to be put on the spot."

In contrast, Riegle, who spent a couple of hours with the group Wednesday, was well versed on agricultural matters and, gave a nice overall impression, but, according to Mrs. Adam, "didn't commit himself on anything."

Rep. Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, told the delegates from the 8th Congressional District that although he supports the goals of the Reagan legislative program, to get spending and inflation under control, he can't accept it across the board.

For instance, one proposed budget cut he is opposing is for Veterans Ad-

Second child dies from suffocation

The second of three children found inside a refrigerator March 28 has died.

James Mazzola, 6, died about 8 p.m. last Thursday at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw.

His brother Shannon, 5, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Luke's, where he was rushed after he and the others were discovered inside the approximately 3-by-3 foot space.

Their sister, Kelly, 3, remained in critical condition Wednesday morning at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

The refrigerator was outside, at the rear of the home of their mother, Paula Mazzola, on Fairgrove Road, north of Caro. She discovered them missing at 5:30 p.m., searched until 7:10, when she called Caro state police, who found the children at 7:30.

Tuscola County Prosecutor Artis Noel requested that the Saginaw county medical examiner perform an autopsy on the body of James, which was done Saturday.

Preliminary cause of death, according to Caro state police, was carbon monoxide poisoning (suffocation).

Noel said he didn't learn until after James' death that an autopsy had not been performed on Shannon. It was up to the Saginaw county medical examiner to perform one, the prosecutor explained, and since an autopsy is normally performed in incidents of deaths from non-natural causes, he had assumed it had been performed on the first victim.

The incident remains under investigation, Noel said.

Ware, Tammy Tibbits citizens of the year

Cass City honored two more of its citizens Saturday night at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet when Jim Ware was named citizen of the year and Tammy Tibbits, junior citizen of the year.

Bill Kritzman presented Ware, the 21st person to be honored in the 20 years the Chamber has selected persons to be honored for community achievement.

He recalled Ware's achievements and history. Ware is a vice-president of Walbro where he has been employed for 26 years.

Class officer each year of high school and was a member of the cheer leading team.

Active in church work, she was one of three persons selected to attend Rotary's leadership training program last summer.

Tibbits edged Tom Loomis, Mechelle Particka, Deanna Sawdon and Kelly Seurnynck, who were the other students to be interviewed for the honor.

he added, is the community's ability to find strength within itself to grow and prosper.

GUEST SPEAKER

Marty Rauscher, vice-president Michigan Chamber of Commerce, told the group that a chamber of commerce is an organization of the community for the betterment of the community.

Worthwhile chambers, he said mobilize the most important commodity in the world, leadership.

Chambers must have leaders in positions of authority and then set goals. Among them should be in the political arena where persons who aren't functioning in your best interest are forced from office.

Chambers without leaders and without goals are always victimized by persons or groups who have goals and leaders, he concluded.

Loss may total $70,000 in two Thursday fires

Fires last Thursday destroyed a mobile home near Kingston and two small barns and a shed on a farm east of Cass City in Sanilac county.

Owners of the double-wide mobile home were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Stimpson. It was a total loss and Kingston Fire Chief Robert Phillips estimated the structure and contents may have been worth a total of $40,000.

The farm buildings were on a farm on Robinson Road, 1 1/2 miles east of M-53, owned by Martin Osentoski of Pringle Road, Cass City. The farm was being rented to Cliff Kibbey. Elkland Township Fire Chief Dave McNaughton estimated the loss at $30,000.

It was a busy morning for Kingston firemen, who received the call concerning the Stimpson fire at 7:15. The home is on M-46, between White Creek and Clothier Roads, east of Kingston.

The fire was called in by a neighbor, who had heard an explosion, Phillips said. The Stimpsons had left about 10 minutes before.

The home was heated with natural gas, but the cause of the explosion and fire are still unknown. At Phillips' request, Sheriff's Department Detective Larry Walker investigated, but as of Tuesday, the fire chief hadn't heard what if anything Walker had discovered.

The Stimpsons had insurance, according to Phillips.

The Kingston firemen were still fighting the Stimpson blaze when they were notified of a barn fire on Bevans Road, a half-mile west of Kingston Road.

Phillips dispatched one truck and the Caro Fire Department sent a truck. His understanding was the owner of the barn had the fire extinguished by the time firemen arrived.

day, McNaughton said.

About 4-5 acres of grassland around the buildings burned. A Department of Natural Resources bulldozer was brought to the scene to patrol the perimeter of the fire. Firemen used brooms to extinguish the grass fire.

By the time firemen arrived, it was too late to save the three buildings, McNaughton indicated, so they concentrated on saving some other outbuildings.

They were at the scene about 1 1/2 hours.

Investigation as to the cause is continuing. The small barn was wired for electricity, so that is one possible cause.

FARM FIRE

The Robinson Road fire was reported at 1:20 p.m. Kibbey, who had been renting the place only a few days, told firemen he came home and saw smoke coming out of the small barn. The fire started the surrounding grass burning, which spread to a larger barn and then to a shed.

The large barn, McNaughton said, was about 25-by-30 feet in size and contained hay. The small barn, about 15-by-30, contained a little straw.

There was a motorcycle inside the 15-by-115 shed that was destroyed in the fire.

Although the buildings were old, all were usable and Kibbey was planning to put cattle in one the next

GRASS FIRES

Elmwood township-Gagetown firemen extinguished a grass and brush fire in the ditch along Seeley Road, south of Cass City Road, Friday. Cause is unknown.

About 1-1 1/2 acres burned in two spots the first time, the fire being reported at 6:11 p.m. Firemen were called back at 8:56 p.m. because a tree, ignited from the original fire, was burning.

Elkland township firemen were called to a grass fire on Mushroom Road, about 1 1/2 miles east of Cemetery Road, at 9:35 a.m. Monday.

Persons at the scene had it out before firemen arrived, however. Cause was attributed to trash being blown out of a barrel. About a half-acre burned.

Pickpocket proofed

By Jim Fitzgerald

Unsolicited, the mail brought me a wallet guard that will thwart pickpockets and allow me to walk on my hands without worry.

People are always mailing me things I don't want. The same day the wallet guard arrived, I also received a designer bicycle pant clip and an invitation to a state legislator's party.

The wallet guard, shaped like a horseshoe with tabs, is made of black plastic and is patented by the Wallet Guardian Co. of Union City, N.J. The idea is to insert tab B into slot A, which creates tension between the two ends of the horseshoe, and then put the guard inside your wallet. Next you put the wallet into your hip pocket and release tab B from slot A, which relieves the tension and frees two prongs that dig firmly into the insides of the pocket. Imagine a horseshoe four inches wide inside your three-inch wide pocket and you have the picture. The world's greatest pickpocket couldn't remove that horseshoe without your knowing it.

But how can you pull out your wallet to pay for lunch? With practice, you can learn to put your hand into your hip pocket and re-insert tab B into slot A without being able to see the guard. Unless, of course, your neck is so long you can see inside your hip pocket without taking off your pants, in which case you won't need as much practice.

At this moment, I am still practicing the blind re-insert. My wallet has been stuck inside my left hip pocket for two hours and there is no telling how long it will be before I learn how to remove it. Never before in my life have I felt so safe from pickpockets or lunch checks.

The wallet guard provides protection against loss as well as theft. Whenever you stand on your head or walk on your hands, you won't have to worry about your wallet dropping out of your pocket. You can also fold your pants over the back of a chair without fear of dropping, although there will be a certain discomfort unless you take the pants off before folding them.

Moving right along, the designer bicycle pant clip came from a reader who asked that his name be withheld for fear of being attacked by Brooke Shields. Call him James. The clip has the name "Calvin Kline" lettered on the outside in yellow.

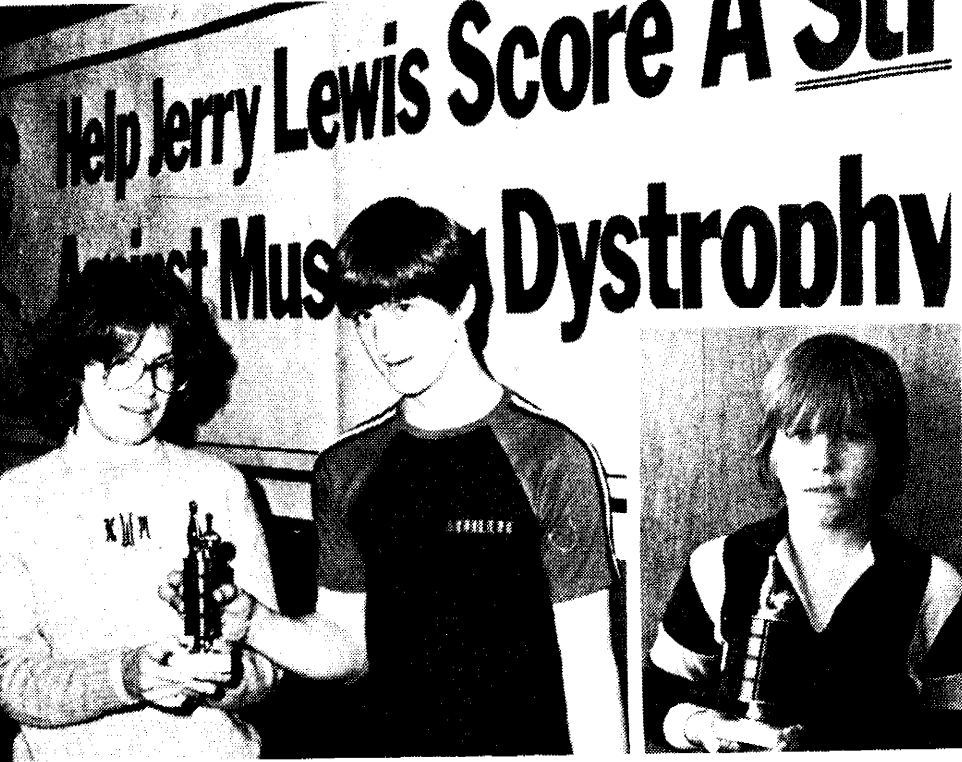

"Calvin spells it Kline instead of Klein for tax purposes," James wrote. "If you had conned 10 million women into paying $35 for a $14 pair of trousers, you would also be looking for ways to throw the IRS off your trail. Believe me, his name is really Calvin Kline and this is a genuine signature pant clip. Flaunt it! Throw out your beer gut and show the world you know the fashion trends before they happen."

James said he sent me the designer clip because he sensed from my writing that I am insecure in my dress, and he wanted to help me attain sartorial security. He was right. As a boy, I always worried about snagging my pants in a bicycle sprocket. I never owned a clip, so I stuffed my pants inside my socks. Everytime my mother lost my socks in the wash, she also lost my pants. This often forced me to go barefoot up to my waist, which is why I felt sartorially insecure, especially while fumbling for belt loops.

Finally, the invitation to a state legislator's party was relayed to me by a middleman who knows how I feel about unsolicited mail. Rep. Burton Leland, D-Detroit, writes: "Dear Friend: Since I am one of the new legislators on the block, I would like to get better acquainted with my colleagues. Therefore, I am planning a small reception for Tuesday, April 7th, from 5:30 to 7:30 at John-Q's . . . The cost is $25."

Gee, I would love to pay $25 to meet the new legislator on the block. A party like that would give a sartorially secure guy a good excuse to wear his wallet guard.

They held a birthday party last week for Stan Asher. He's 85 years old. Normally, that wouldn't be anything extra special.

What makes it special is Asher. He's 85 now and I swear that he isn't a day older looking now than he was when he retired from the Cass City main stem more than a decade ago.

You read about the flight to the sun belt and it doesn't make much of an impression. You realize what it's all about when someone you know migrates.

Three area youths left Sunday for Oklahoma City, drove straight through, arriving on Monday. On Tuesday, Mike Doerr and Charles Hover had landed a job and went to work. Becky Hover was still looking Tuesday, Mrs. Jack Doerr reported.

Good news for the Chamber of Commerce is that Tom Herron has agreed to take the presidency of the Chamber for another year.

He was all set to give it up at the annual banquet Saturday but the large turn-out and the remarks from speaker Marty Rauscher changed his mind.

Running the Chamber is one of the toughest of the volunteer jobs in the community.

If all volunteer reporters were as good as Dave Asher, reporting the news would be a lead pipe cinch. Asher's the one who gets all those details about the Cass City Recreation League that have been in the Chronicle weekly since the season started. In addition he works as a color commentator for Caro radio at basketball games.

In his off moments he is also an engineer for Walbro Corporation.

$67,650 '81-82 budget

The Gagetown Village Council March 30 approved a 1981-82 general fund budget calling for $67,650 in expenditures, to be matched by the same amount of revenue.

The new fiscal year began April 1.

In comparison, 1980-81 general fund expenditures were budgeted at $64,805 and revenues at $65,750. Although the final year-end figures aren't available yet from the village's accountants, it appears actual income and expense is close to the amount originally budgeted, according to Village Clerk Elery Sontag.

March 30 was the scheduled public hearing on the budget, however, no members of the public appeared.

The biggest single expenditure is $20,968 for public works, which includes $5,600 hydrant rental, paid to the water fund, $6,700 for contracted services and $3,000 payment on the newest village-township fire truck and $2,000 for the fire department.

The village employs one man full-time and one part-time to do maintenance work.

The police department is budgeted at $14,927. Gagetown employs two police officers, who work a total of 20 hours per week during the colder months and 30 hours total the rest of the year.

Next largest item is $12,435 for general operation, including $6,000 for salaries of elected officials, $1,000 more than in 1980-81.

Village building and grounds (maintenance and utilities) is budgeted at $6,850; vehicles and equipment (gasoline, repairs, etc.) at $3,990, and parks at $8,080; however, $4,000 of that for accounting purposes is billed for rental of village owned equipment.

Of the $67,650 expected in general fund revenues, $31,800 will come from property taxes, $15,000 from state revenue sharing, liquor license proceeds and gas tax refunds, and $18,700 in rental charges paid from the various separate funds (parks, streets, etc.) for use of village-owned equipment.

Gagetown should receive $9,000 in federal revenue sharing funds in the new fiscal year, which should garner $275 in interest.

Of that, $3,000 is to be spent for streets, $200 for auditing, and the rest is to be held in reserve for emergencies.

There is $22,525 budgeted for work on major streets, with the same amount in revenue. The greatest share of revenue, $14,800, is the village's share of state gasoline and weight tax (license plate fee) revenue. The rest is the transfer from federal revenue sharing and balance from previous years.

There is $6,905 appropriated for work on local streets, which is $745 less than anticipated local street revenue. The greatest share of revenue is $5,150 in state gasoline and weight taxes.

Two band members

earn top ratings

Two Cass City High School band members received first division ratings at the state solo and ensemble festival March 28 at Flint Northern High School.

They were Suzy Scollon and Kay Loomis, both of whom played piano solos.

Six Cass City musicians qualified for the state competition at the Feb. 20 district solo and ensemble festival at North Branch.

The others received second division ratings in Flint. They were Jill Hutchinson, cornet solo; Chris Langenburg, tenor saxophone solo, and Marek Kocan and Dave Wright, alto saxophone duet.

As a man he measured up. That doesn't mean that his policies do.

He's still anti-gun control. Maybe it's his western heritage. In Tucson a couple of weeks ago, a law enforcement officer went on TV urging the people to arm themselves for protection against the lawless element running rampant there.

The president has an obsession to increase defense spending. His budget balancing by cutting taxes and his supply side economics in general are untested theories challenged by many.

In Michigan we'll all be affected by his budget cuts and most of us are ready to bite the bullet if everyone else does too.

Did you notice that nothing has been proposed to cut the billions in Federal support of water projects in the west? If Michigan's aid from Washington is severely hamstrung, why not the arid west, too?

While the ship of state may be sailing down the wrong river, give the GOP and the president credit. We may be headed the wrong way, but at least we're not drifting aimlessly.

The administration is putting into practice what it promised in November.

The honeymoon is still on. Congress is more or less giving the new man his chance.

Regardless of your views of his presidency in the few days he has been in charge, only the most biased would question that today he stands taller than he did before the shooting.

It's pleasant to know that fears that our leadership would be only a facade woven by an actor were wrong.

It would be even more pleasant to find out that the fears about his economic policies were wrong, too.

The shooting really hasn't changed the picture in Washington at all, except that in the minds of a good many Americans he's earned the right to give it his best shot.

We all hope for a bullseye.

Windows broken

Russell Schneeberger reported to Cass City police Monday morning that seven windows at the rear of the Schneeberger's store were broken sometime Sunday.

The damage was done with bricks and stones and is thought to have been done by children. There were no signs of attempted entry.

Four approximately 18-by-25 inch and three 12-by-36 inch windows were broken and some of the falling glass may have damaged some new end tables.

No damage estimate was listed on the police report.

The Haire Net

While his theory of government still leaves me cold, respect for Ronald Reagan as a person rose more than a notch after the attempted assassination.

It's hard to conceive of anyone handling the trauma of the event better than he did. Some newsmen were saying that the one-liners showed his acting heritage.

When doctors asked him how he was doing, he answered in the W.C. Field's line, "I'd rather be in Philadelphia."

It may have been a line from vaudeville but it and his other oratorics as he went in for the operation, "I hope you are all Republicans," handled the situation. Really handled it. With class.

PEDALING AROUND

Lights

By Mike Eliasohn

I didn't intend to be nostalgic about junior high school for two weeks in a row, but last week's Harbor Beach Times had an article on the new movie projector and sound system in the Community House there, the combination meeting hall and movie theatre.

The projector that was replaced used carbon arc light. Getting parts for the antique became so difficult, the only thing to do was replace it with a new projector.

What that has to do with junior high is that the movie projector in the auditorium at Walter French used carbon arcs.

That's of significance to me, because I sometimes ran the projector there.

Back in the good old days, students had a half hour for lunch and a half hour during which they could attend study hall or the noon movie.

Most opted for the movie, which cost them or their parents the stupendous sum, as I recall, of 5 cents per week.

The movies were full-length features, several years old, divided into 25-minute segments shown over five days.

I usually attended. I only remember three movies I saw in that auditorium.

One was an Ozzie and Harriet movie, made in the early 50s.

It was around 1958 when I saw the movie, at which time Rick Nelson — Ozzie and Harriet's son, for those of you too young to know or too old to remember — was a BIG teen singing idol, when he probably would have been about 18 or 19 years old.

When he appeared on the screen in the movie for the first time, everyone laughed because when he made the film, he was still a squeaky voiced little kid.

There are two other things I remember about the film. One is that in it, Ozzie Nelson actually had a job, although I don't remember what it was.

The other was the scene where a group of men had to stop a car containing the bad guys, who were trying to get away. All the men had was the suitcase containing a girdle salesman's samples, so the girdles were hooked together and fastened to two trees on opposite sides of the road.

"Do you think they'll hold?" one man asked.

"Are you kidding?" responded another. "They hold my wife." Pretty racy stuff for those days.

Of course, when the speeding car came along and hit the girdles, it bounced off and the bad guys were captured.

The other full-length movie I remember seeing, shown at a Halloween night party intended to keep kids off the streets, was "Creature of the Black Lagoon."

As for the third film, the teacher in charge of the noon movie program was an aviation nut.

When he was faced with filling a half-hour because the feature movie that week only filled four periods, he scrounged a World War II training film for anti-aircraft gunners on identifying enemy aircraft.

I still don't think I would recognize a Japanese Zero fighter plane unless it had a rising sun on it.

The teacher was also the advisor to the audio visual club, members of which set up and ran projectors for teachers, to which I belonged.

In my final year at Walter French, I got to learn how to run the projector in the auditorium.

The projector used the aforementioned carbon arc rods, like welding rods, which emitted a very bright light when burning.

As I recall, the projector was on its way out because the carbon rods weren't being made any more. The teacher had stockpiled as many as he could get his hands on.

If the carbon rods were rare then, I wonder how Harbor Beach managed to hold on so long.

Hills and Dales conducts disaster simulation

Each year, in order to meet Joint Commission Accreditation, hospitals are required to stage two disaster drill simulations.

During one of the drills, outside agencies such as police, fire department, and ambulance services must be included.

Monday, March 30, at 9:15 p.m., the Cass City fire siren blew as part of a disaster drill at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Prior to this, many things happened. There were weeks of planning and updating of procedures. Outside agencies were invited to sit in on a final planning meeting. The drill was a surprise to the members of the fire department and the ambulance drivers, since that is the way it would be in a real disaster situation.

Hospital employees were notified in advance that a drill would take place sometime during the 24 hours of March 30, but not specifically when, nor were they told what type of disaster would be simulated.

Some employees were called at home during the drill and asked to come to the hospital to assist.

A simulated multi-vehicle accident took place at 8:45 p.m. at M-81 and M-53.

Thirteen emergency medical technician students, under the direction of EMT instructor Janis Hubbard, RN, and Jane Mitchell, RN, in-service director, were made up at the "accident" scene to be the casualties with injuries from minor to serious.

When this was accomplished, Mrs. Hubbard returned to the hospital, called the simulated accident in to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department in Caro at 9 p.m., and action began.

The sheriff's office attendants dispatched the Cass City police and the local ambulance. The ambulance en route to the scene, called the hospital. The hospital put out an initial response alert, calling in additional personnel and physicians. The emergency entrance was set up to receive the injured persons and additional supplies were delivered to that area.

When the 9:15 siren blew, the fire department and ambulance service were calling for additional help.

By 9:30, the hospital was secure, and the patients started to arrive. As the patients were brought in, they were evaluated and sent to various emergency areas set up for treatment. By 10:30, all patients had been brought to the hospital. "Treatment" could continue, however, the "all clear" was given and the drill ended.

The evaluation of the drill afterwards was that it helped the hospital meet the requirements of outside agencies, acquainted personnel with special procedures and treatment areas for the care of injuries caused by a disaster situation such as multi-vehicle accidents, fire, tornadoes, explosions and riots, and enabled the hospital to be prepared to render immediate care to members of the community in the event a disaster situation should occur, according to Isabel Wright, hospital safety director.

Cooperation from the EMT class, sheriff's offices, fire department, local ambulance service and their EMTs was excellent.

The drill was coordinated by Judy Polk, LPN, and Janet McGuire, RN, co-chairmen of the hospital disaster committee.

No charges to be filed on driver

No criminal charges will be brought against Mark T. Otto, driver of the car in which a person was killed Feb. 27, Tuscola County Prosecutor Artis Noel has decided.

The victim, Michael A. Zimmerman, 20, of Reese, was killed when the car in which he was riding, driven by Otto, went off of Van Buren Road, southeast of Reese, struck a telephone pole and rolled over three times.

Otto, 18, of Reese, could have been charged with negligent homicide, if it were possible to show his negligence contributed to the car going off the road. Noel said, but evidence was insufficient to prove why the vehicle did so.

Otto was injured in the accident, but has since been released from St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw.

Methodist ladies meet

New books at the library

THE TEENAGE SURVIVAL GUIDE by Kathy McCoy. Author McCoy responds to letters and comments from teenagers in her discussions of virtually every imaginable problem that members of this age group might encounter. Tackling the complex issue of self-image, she urges teenagers to adopt realistic expectations for themselves. She explains that one should at times expect to experience loneliness, jealousy, stress, anger, boredom and depression, and offers suggestions for combating these feelings. Struggles with parents, sibling rivalry, teacher trouble, dating, love relationships, sexual involvement, living together, making the decision to marry, coping with crises, etiquette and planning for college are some of the other topics covered.

THE MORDIDA MAN, by Ross Thomas. This book's hero is Chubb Dunjee, on secret orders to rescue Bingo McKay whose brother is president of the United States. Libyan agents have snatched Bingo in the belief that the CIA have seized their terrorist Felix and the ransom they demand is his release. But Felix's captors are ex-FBI men hired by fugitive Leland Timble, an embezzler who wants to trade the terrorist for a pardon. Complicating the situation is the fact that Felix is now dead by mistake, so Timble and his thugs conspire to hijack Bingo from the Libyans as a substitute way of bargaining his way into the good graces of the president.

THE CREATIVE KID'S GUIDE TO HOME COMPUTERS, by Fred D. Ignazio. Young people will have hours of fun creating games and imaginative projects on their own with today's wide variety of programmable home computers and this lively, easy-to-understand sourcebook of ideas. It shows how to escape from a maze, invent computer games, compose music, draw a picture, write a poem, and many other creative projects.

Defense needs work

Hawks look to good pitching, good hitting in loop title quest

If pitching is 90 percent of the game the Cass City Red Hawks have a strong start towards a successful softball season this year.

That's because Shirley Fleming, an all-conference pitcher who hit .500 last season is back to anchor the team that was co-champion of the league last year.

Unfortunately, it won't be the same team that will take the field for Coach Dave Hoard this spring. Wiped out by graduation is the entire infield.

Gone are Nancy Tonti, smooth fielding shortstop, and Libby Hartel, an anchor at first base. Tammie Root, pitcher, also graduated. These girls were all-conference performers. Other graduates who will be missed are Sherry Bader, Tammie McKee and Vickie Pobanz.

While there are big shoes to fill this season, Hoard has strong performers returning. There are six lettermen that hit .375 or better in 1980.

Just under Fleming in the averages is Beth Sieradzki, an all-conference performer in the outfield with a .436 average. Tena LaRoche hit an even .400 and Padgett Randall carved out a .383 mark. Beabe McLachlan's average was .375 while Shelly Lapeer hit "only" .346.

Hoard will be using the pre-season practices and non-conference games to put together a defense for the league chase this spring. He sees Lakers, North Branch and Caro as the teams to beat.

The schedule:

April 7 Muth - here	May 7 Marlette - here
April 13 Mayville - here	May 12 Lakers - here
April 14 USA - there	May 14 Vassar - there
April 28 Bad Axe - here	May 18 Reese - there
April 30 N. Branch - here	May 19 Caro - There
May 2 CC invitational here	May 22 Pre-district - TBD
May 5 Sandusky - there	May 29 District at Mayville

Thumb Electric meet draws 500

Two amendments to the by-laws of Thumb Electric Cooperative (TEC) were approved by the membership at the March 27 annual meeting at Ubyly High School. About 500 persons attended.

The first amendment, to increase the membership fee from $2.50 to $5, was approved 140-85.

A second amendment, which allows TEC members to produce their own electricity for use on their premises, was approved 159-62. This amendment was necessary to allow those members who desire to install wind, solar or other means of self generation to do so.

Reelected to three year terms on the board of directors were Clarence Murray, Huron county; Allan Shaw, Sanilac county; and Elmer Rayl, Tuscola county. All were unopposed.

At the board meeting that followed, officers elected were: Walter Cook, president; Shaw, vice-president; Rayl, secretary; and Michael Lasceski, treasurer. Lasceski presented the 1980 financial statement which showed operating revenues of $5,521,666.

The major expenses included cost of power, $3,614,404; distribution operation and maintenance, $324,962, and interest $332,548. The balance owed to REA and CFC for long-term mortgage was $9,306,888.

The cooperative showed a profit margin of $294,732, down 12.3 percent from 1979. The cooperative is required to show a margin of this magnitude in order to continue to obtain financing.

Several staff changes occurred due to retirement and promotions in 1980 and 1981. Promoted were Les Teel, operations manager; Rod Varney, Tuscola district supervisor, and James Old Jr., Sanilac district supervisor.

In reviewing the 1980 cooperative financial condition, it was revealed that margins were down due to no growth in kilowatt hour sales in 1980 versus 1979, primarily due to milder weather. The cooperative met all financial requirements of its lenders in 1980. It was noted that all construction in 1980 and construction scheduled for 1981 will be done by TEC personnel, providing a savings of over 30 percent per project when compared to utilizing contractors.

TEC has begun a program of energy conservation assistance to its members. Home energy audits are made available to any members who are interested. A TEC employee will conduct the audit or the member can conduct the audit utilizing forms supplied by the cooperative. Power supply and load management problems and possible solutions were presented to the membership. A negotiated settlement was reached in December with TEC's wholesale supplier, Detroit Edison. Edison originally requested a rate increase of 12 percent, but negotiations were successful in reducing the amount to 7 percent with a moratorium on future increases until December, 1982. Increased interest cost and inflation were indicated as the main reasons for the increase.

General Manager Michael Krause pointed out that the short-term solution to the higher wholesale power cost is through peak shaving. The combination of TEC diesel generation and load management (water heater controls) saved TEC members over $457,000 in 1980. The average TEC member saved $52.35 because of peak shaving, members with water heater controls saved over $70.35. It was stressed that the more control units that can be installed, the greater the savings.

Long-term power supply alternatives are presently under consideration and it is hoped that decisions on future power supply can be completed before next year's annual meeting.

The feasibility of alternate sources of power such as hydro and wind were discussed. TEC has become involved with GLECA, a mid-west based hydro association, which is investigating the feasibility of placing generators in existing dams in the Midwest.

The potential for individual wind generation system was discussed and membership cautioned to investigate wind velocity in their area.

TEC filed with the Michigan Public Service Commission March 12 a request to increase retail rates by 5.9 percent. This will be TEC's first increase in retail rates since June, 1979. It is anticipated that the rate increase will take effect in May or June. Included in the rate proposal is a new interruptible heating rate which will, if approved, offer a 2.6 cents per kilowatt hour reduction in energy used to heat a residence.

In order to receive this rate, the members' primary electric heating system will be interrupted during peak load periods. The overall goal of this program is to provide members using propane or fuel oil an alternative, to use electricity as a primary source, and oil, propane, or wood as a backup, thus reducing the overall cost of heating.

Krause then presented a slide presentation about how the cooperative loans are financed through REA and the proposals of the Reagan Administration to reduce loans to rural electric cooperatives. The result will be higher interest rates which in turn will result in increased electric rates, he said.

Rebuilding year for girls' track

Coach Craig Weaver in his second year as girls' track coach feels that the Cass City Red Hawks have a few outstanding performers. Unfortunately, he says, it's probable that there are not enough of them to challenge for the Thumb B Association title this spring.

Freshmen and sophomores competing successfully against upperclass students in other schools is too much to expect, Weaver says. We are probably a year or two away from championship caliber.

Weaver sees Vassar and Marlette fighting it out for the top spot.

The problem facing Weaver this spring is that there are only two seniors on the team and only one is a returning letterman. She is Shelly Rabideau who will compete in the 440 and 880 as well as the mile relay. Rabideau also long jumps.

There's only one junior letterman on the team. But she is a good one. It's Kristy Deering who set a school record in the two mile in 1980.

There is real talent in the sophomore class headed by Michelle Fahrner. She qualified for the state in the 440 as a freshman. She's also part of the 880 and mile relay teams and high jumps.

Three other sophomore letter winners are: Theresa Harmer, 440 and 880 and sprints; Merilee Leslie, 880, 440 and shot put, and Lisa Wilson, the Hawks only returning hurdler. She also long jumps.

The rest of the squad will be composed of untried sophomores and freshmen.

There are lots of candidates. More girls are competing this year than last.

One bright spot for Cass City, which was 3-4 in Thumb B competition and fourth in the league, is that there were few losses from 1980.

Missing are Jane Hobart, Tam Rabideau, Sherry Hillaker and Sharon Wells.

Although they are new to the squad there are several girls that are expected to take the sting out of the club's inexperience. Carrie Lautner should do well in the middle distances, Weaver feels. Lorie Hawley was one of the best Junior High milers last season and Jamie LaRoche had a very successful 2-mile record in the eighth grade.

There are 30 girls out for track this spring.

In Thumb B Hawk thinclads title contenders

First year coach Doug Grezeszak has high hopes that the Cass City Red Hawk track team will win the Thumb B Conference track crown this spring.

There is a reason for his confidence. The Hawks lost only three stellar performers from the team that tied for second with Vassar last year.

Steve Richards, a record holder in the two-mile and mile, and conference champ in the 880, is now running in college.

Max Morrish was strong in the middle distances and Rob Clarke was the team's best sprinter.

Cass City showed its strength in a tri-angular meet last week, winning over Capac and North Huron. Despite strong winds there were some outstanding individual performances.

Todd Comment posted a 6-2 mark in the high jump to equal his previous best. Brian deBeaubien exceeded his best mark in the discus with a toss of 136 feet.

What promises to take the sting out of the graduation of Richards is the distance running of freshman Greg Bliss.

In his first outing on the varsity, Bliss ran a 10:18 two-mile and 4:51 mile for the Hawks.

Coming back are Tim Sontag, who qualified for the state in the mile relay and is expected to help in the hurdles, and Bob Sawdon who is the Hawks' hope in the 440 and a member of last year's mile relay state team.

Joe Decker is expected to give the team strength in the pole vault and there is a strong cadre of underclassmen to give the team depth.

Problem areas are the long jump and, as usual in recent years, the lack of sprinters.

Grezeszak sees defending champion Caro along with Marlette and Vassar as teams to beat in the Thumb B Association this season.

There are 33 candidates out for the team this season.

Cass City Recreational League regular season champion Shetler's and runner-up Stevenson Insurance battled it out for the play-off championship Saturday afternoon at Cass City High School. Stevenson won, 59-54.

Stevenson went into the game a decided underdog as only five players were on hand for the game. One of them pressed into service was 46-year-old Dick Stevenson.

With only five players Stevenson slowed the pace of the game and Shetler's was unable to speed it up. After one quarter Stevenson was in front, 8-6.

In the second quarter, Mark Green, voted the league's most valuable player, Bill Stevenson and Mark Gainforth combined for 18 points and the insurance men whipped out to a 29-20 halftime advantage.

With Green and Stevenson carrying the load Stevenson remained comfortably in the lead in the third quarter and went into the final 8 minutes with a 46-36 advantage.

Shetler's bounced back and moved to within three points early in the period. Using a fast break to advantage as Gainforth cleared the boards, Stevenson bounced back in front by 11 with 3½ minutes left.

After Jeff McKenzie fouled out Stevenson went into a stall and held on for the decision.

For Shetler's, Bill McLellan netted 12 and Paul Beachy and Kent Shetler scored 10 points each.

For the winners, Green and Stevenson scored 19 each and Gainforth added 10.

The two teams earned their way to the finals with wins. Stevenson bested People's State Bank, 66-61, and Shetler's eliminated Hillaker's Auctioneering, 68-47, in semi-final action.

Your Neighbor says Banning handguns isn't the answer

The shooting of President Reagan March 30 has renewed the debate over whether restrictions should be placed on ownership of handguns.

N.T. (Pete) Shields, chairman of Handgun Control, Inc., pointed out that 10 of 11 assassinations and attempted assassinations of presidents or presidential candidates have been with handguns. "Must we bury another president before the Congress acts to pass an effective national handgun control law?" he asked.

"I don't think gun control would do any good," is Maxine Kennedy's response to such arguments.

On the news Monday morning, she pointed out, was a segment about the many shootings in Italy. Supposedly, Italy has strict gun control, "so what good does it do?"

Although the accused assailant of President Reagan used a cheap "Saturday night special," if such guns were illegal now, Mrs. Kennedy said, he could have afforded a more expensive legal one.

Even if all guns were banned, "If somebody wants to kill somebody bad enough, they're going to find a way to do it."

Stricter enforcement of present laws, she feels, would put some gun toting criminals off the streets.

She doesn't like the idea of banning or controlling ownership of handguns for another reason. "I think it's just another way of (government) controlling us."

Mrs. Kennedy personally doesn't care for guns. The guns in her home are owned by her husband, Emerson, and are all long guns used for hunting.

The Kennedys live at 4652 Van Dyke Road, Cass City. Kennedy farms and does roofing work. The couple has three children, Bonnie Petee, Swartz Creek, and Ken Kennedy and LuAnn Palazzola, both living in Los Angeles, and two grandsons.

Pair injured in one-car crash

Two Cass City residents were treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital following a 5:30 p.m. accident last Thursday.

They were the driver, Doris Mae Welton, 17, of 4262 Oak Street, and her passenger, Paula Alexander, 16, of 6644 Houghton Street.

Sheriff's deputies reported their vehicle was southbound on Crawford Road, south of Kelly Road, at 35 miles per hour when, according to Miss Welton, she lost control going over some bumps in the road.

The vehicle went off the east side of the road into the ditch.

Jack L. Edwards, 18, of 6321 Severance Road, Cass City, was ticketed by Caro state police on charges of violation of the basic speed law and no proof of insurance following a 4:25 p.m. accident the same day.

Troopers said he was eastbound on Main Street in Deford, started to pass another east-bound car, lost control and ran into the left side of that vehicle.

Driver of the other auto was Edward A. Andrusak, 18, of 366 Froede Road, Deford.

The accident took place in the vicinity of Spencer Street.

Kevin M. Frank of Cass City reported to village police early Sunday that the car he was using was hit by another car while it was parked on the east side of the Charnont between 12:15 and 1:10 a.m. Owner of his car was George S. Frank.

The other auto was apparently parked alongside and when backing out, the driver started turning too soon and his car hit the right side of the Frank auto. The driver then left.

At 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Cass City police reported, Mark E. Wilson, 16, of 6365 Third Street, eastbound on Third, slowed for the yield sign at West Street, then pulled into the intersection and collided with a northbound auto.

Driver of the other vehicle was Raymond G. Ferris, 17, of 6204 Cedar Drive.

Gagetown hires police officer

The Gagetown Village Council Monday evening hired a new part-time police officer, retired Bad Axe policeman Bob McBride.

He replaces Michael Pine, who resigned recently.

McBride, who will start Thursday, and the other village officer, James Compo, a Tuscola county sheriff's deputy, will work a total of 30 hours per week starting this week.

The council increased the hours Monday from the previous 20, which is the number policemen work during the winter months.

Holy Week services set

Holy Week worship services at Good Shepherd Lutheran church begin Maundy Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Good Friday services will be held at 1:30 p.m.

A sunrise service at 7 a.m. will be held Easter Sunday followed by the regular worship service at 9:30 a.m. The youth group will serve breakfast between the two services.

The Pigeon certified public accounting firm of Anderson, Lynch, Nietzsche & Co. was hired to perform the village audit for the fiscal year which ended March 30. Cost will be $1,500.

Bell Telephone was given permission to install underground lines, to replace poles and above ground lines. The work will be done this year.

Discussion was held with a representative of Hutchinson Realty concerning placement of a new mobile home on the lot on Gage Street behind the old service station, to replace the old mobile home there now.

The old one had been there before the area was zoned industrial. After checking with their attorney, the council gave its assent to putting in the new unit. One factor was a new law or court ruling which limits local governmental units on placing restrictions where mobile homes can be located.

The two village workmen will paint the outside of the old village hall on State Street.

May 4-8, they will be picking up old branches and other junk, but no garbage.

DeLong still in Iowa hospital

Cass City dairy farmer Don DeLong, injured in a March 10 traffic accident, in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is still confined to a hospital in that community.

He would still appreciate receiving cards and letters and telephone calls, according to his daughter, Connie Benitez. Mail can be sent to him in care of Mercy Hospital, 701 10th Street, SE, Cedar Rapids, Iowa 52403. The telephone number for his room is (319) 398-6541.

"It's hard to believe the (number of) cards and letters he has received," Mrs. Benitez said. "He really appreciates them."

Her father is improving, she said, but recovery will be a long process. When he finally is released from the Cedar Rapids hospital, the plan is for him to be transferred to a hospital in Saginaw.

More Immutible Laws for the Traveler (Tablet No. 3)

1. Travel does not broaden the mind. It just lengthens the conversation — and articles like this one.
2. If you seek the worst food while traveling, eat along the Florida turnpike. Or the Ohio. Or the Indiana. Or Pennsylvania or Illinois.
3. If you seek only the second worst meals, almost any airport will do.
4. If you have no regard at all for your alimentary canal, eat where the truckers do.
5. As you get older you'll find that the seats in coach class become narrower.
6. Show me a motel that doesn't have dirt behind the bathroom door and I'll show you one that hasn't been built yet.
7. The distinctive smell that meets you when you check into your motel room is imported. In the country of origin, Slobbovia, it is called sheep dip.

8. Your luggage from the plane will never be in the first truck that comes to the carousel. So go sit down. On the floor, of course, for there are no chairs.
9. When the plane lands and comes to a stop, no person alive can resist standing up and crowding into the aisle. The move is never unproductive. You will certainly bump your head as you straighten up under the luggage rack.
10. The luggage receptacle over your seat will be the one with the life rafts in it. That is also true for the receptacles ahead and astern of your seat.
11. If you like pretty blonde hair dangled over your food as it is served, fly Delta.
12. By the time you have figured out which gas station has the best price, you have either (a) gone by it and can't turn around or (b) your tank is already full.
13. If your seat companion starts reaching for his billfold he is not about to buy you a drink. He wants to show you pictures of his granddaughter.
14. Friends who tell you about their gas mileage are usually liars.
15. The man who invented the foam rubber pillow for motels has been sentenced to rot in a tropical dungeon, we are happy to report.
16. When you get home and friends say, "Tell us about your trip," they don't mean it.
17. If we could think of three more Immutible Laws, we'd have 20.

College Week June 22-25

Adults from throughout the state can learn from a variety of educational seminars offered during College Week '81, June 22-25, on the Michigan State University campus.

The event, sponsored by the Family Living Education Program of the MSU Cooperative Extension Service and the College of Human Ecology, has been offered for more than 50 years. This year, more than 1,400 people are expected to attend.

From the 50 classes offered, participants can choose sessions to help them learn to cope with the changing labor market, better handle interpersonal relationships both in and out of the home, improve their physical and mental health, preserve food and make their homes more energy efficient.

Personal growth and development, family and home-related topics, and community involvement are the general class categories.

"We try to give people things that maybe they can't get in their own community, and we take advantage of the university system to do it," says Wilma Miller, College Week coordinator.

Past participants have ranged in age from 17 to 86 and have come from both urban and rural communities.

Ms. Miller said that many of the classes are designed so that participants can take what they learn back to their communities or organizations and share it with others. She adds that surveys have shown that over 90 percent of College Week visitors do share the information.

Each person can participate in three classes that meet each day.

There are also several optional seminars, including workshops on eliminating self-defeating behavior and personal and property safety, and other topics. Tours of campus, the MSU dairy farm, dorm kitchens and the capitol will also be offered.

The $85 fee covers food, lodging, classes and several of the optional programs.

Persons can ask to room together by mailing their registration forms in together.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Laundry and burning leaves don't mix

Dear Editor,
I would like to bring to some people's attention about burning their leaves and trash.

They should do it during late evening so us women can hang our wash out without having it smell like smoke. All of us women who work days and night would appreciate it. Thanks.

ministration benefits and hospitals.

Although some Farm Bureau members present agreed with him, Mrs. Adam said, others didn't, feeling that if farm programs must be cut to get the nation's economy under control, other programs should also be reduced. "We feel we have to cut across the board."

The Michiganians returned home Thursday. Based on what they saw during their stay, Laurie commented, "I think there will be a friendlier atmosphere (for farmers) within the administration and in Congress in the next four years."

Hope is more effective when it forms a partnership with hustle.

Cabinet maker scorns 9-5 jobs

Larry Hosner: No big money, no ulcers

WOOD WORK -- At left, Larry Hosner trims a piece of wood on his table saw. At right, he opens the door on a cabinet he constructed, designed to fit into a corner.

"The thing I figure you get when you make fifty or sixty thousand dollars a year is an ulcer."

That might be described as Larry Hosner's philosophy of life. He doesn't make $50,000 or $60,000 a year and he doesn't have an ulcer.

He also doesn't have a 9-5 job, something he has avoided most of his working life.

Hosner, 32, is a custom furniture maker, something that allows him to work at his own pace.

The Kingston Road, Deford, resident started his career about two years ago.

His brother Clare, (better known as Butch) was getting married and he needed to get a present. Hosner already owned a table saw and joiner "so I said I'll make him something." What he made was a cabinet that fastens to the wall, with five sides exposed and numerous panes of glass.

The reason he already owned the two power tools was that they came with the house he once owned in Mount Pleasant.

Hosner graduated from Cass City High School in 1969, after which he spent four years in the Marines, repairing helicopters.

After that, he spent a year attending Central Michigan University -- that's when he owned the house -- lived in Florida for awhile, then moved home to help his father, George, maintain his trucks. The senior Hosner is a long-distance truck driver.

After Hosner made the breakfront for his brother and his bride, he decided to stick with woodworking. "I liked it and it was something to keep me busy."

So far, he doesn't make a living at it. He earns additional income from renting out a trailer he owns and from working six weeks each fall as a potato inspector for the U.S. Department of Agriculture at the Ore-Ida plant in Greenville, near Grand Rapids.

HOSNER, WHO IS single, will make -- and has made -- about anything out of wood that anyone wants.

What he enjoys making most is cabinets. "I like cabinets." His cabinets range from small ones about a foot high to corner cabinets about six feet high with glass doors.

Another specialty is tables and benches made out of slabwood with the bark still on the underside. Getting such wood is easy. The Hosner home and his workshop is next door to the Kappen Saw Mill.

Among his unusual creations are the trophies for the Wheatland Bluegrass Festival at Remus. The trophies are 9-inch tall cabinets containing a miniature replica of the instrument involved and a brass plaque designating the achievement (best banjo player, etc.).

Other Hosner creations have included wood spoons, mallets and plaques on which to mount deer antlers.

The woodworker has also built kitchen cupboards, rebuilt drawers, hung doors and helped rebuild an old barn.

MOST OF HIS CUSTOMERS have been from outside of the Thumb area, who learned about him via word of mouth.

Hosner makes some items on order and some "because I feel like it." In the latter category is a rolltop desk he presently has under construction.

A problem facing the creator of any handmade items is what to charge. For instance, he figures it took him about 80 hours to build the large corner cabinet sitting in his shop awaiting a buyer.

If he charged based on what his time is worth, he might never sell it, as a would-be buyer can go to a furniture store and buy something similar for much less.

At present, he is content to charge enough to get by, but doesn't figure he can afford to keep doing that much longer.

HE PLANS TO MOVE sometime this year, he isn't sure yet to where, and has a goal of having a place of his own to live and work. His dream shop will have a separate room for finish work to keep out the sawdust and an area for wood storage. He adds, "and I plan to have a good time while I'm doing all this."

At present his workshop consists of a lathe, joiner, two table saws, radial arm saw, belt sander and a router, plus a workbench and numerous hand tools in part of his father's large garage.

After only a couple of years at his trade, Hosner admits his work isn't perfect yet. "You've got to spend a few years to get proficient at your job."

He adds though, that as long as something is handmade one shouldn't expect the item to be perfect. If a person wants something "perfect," he said, he should go to a store and buy something made with a machine.

If your brand new car is totaled, will your insurance company pay you for a brand new car?

Auto-Owners will when you have comprehensive and collision coverage. If you have an accident anytime within 90 days and your new car is a total loss, we'll pay you the total cost of your new car. And with Auto-Owners, your new car is covered immediately, automatically, under your policy.

So if your present policy doesn't give you this kind of total coverage, maybe you better scrap it.

Down Memory Lane

An open house honoring Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kritzman of Decker on their 50th wedding anniversary will be held April 10.

Little progress toward getting federal funds to develop Cass City's industrial park can be expected until Tuscola county's economic development plan is updated.

Cass City police investigated $400-$500 damage done in the facilities building in the village park during the week end. Four mirrors were smashed and metal louvers in both doors ripped out.

Featured performer at the Cass City Chamber of Commerce banquet April 22 will be guitarist-song writer Joe Merchant, who will be playing for the first time before other than a church group or family or friends.

TEN YEARS AGO

Uby School District voters emphatically rejected a new $1.75 million elementary school building coupled with improvements of the high school. The margin was 742-397 in opposition.

Dick Erla, chairman of the Tuscola County Draft Board, has announced he is quitting because of the court decision convicting Lt. William Calley.

William Bliss of Cass City has resigned his position as detective sergeant with the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

An estimated 30 voters attending the Elkland township annual meeting in Cass City gave the green light to plans for a new fire hall and township meeting room and raised salaries 10 percent.

Kingston cancels quiz bowl

The scheduled first annual Kingston High School area quiz bowl, which was to take place Friday, has been cancelled due to lack of enough teams.

The plan was to have seven area high schools compete, plus Kingston. However, of 12 high schools to whom invitations were sent, only Carsonville-Port Sanilac and Akron-Fairgrove accepted. The first seven to accept were to have competed.

Those that did accept, Kingston Principal Lee Robinson said, "were quite disappointed when the competition was cancelled."

Most schools didn't even bother to reply. Those that did send their regrets included Cass City and Owendale-Gagetown.

The teams, with six members each, were to have competed two at a time. Each school was to have submitted 15 questions in each of the following categories: science, current events, history, English, math, and trivia, which were to be reviewed by a panel of teachers for acceptability for use in the competition.

Robinson said he will try to hold the event during the next school year, in the fall when school spirit is higher and possibly there are fewer competing activities.

Senior citizen ID cards available

The Thumb Area Commission on Aging will be taking senior citizen identification-discount pictures at the Commission on Aging office in the Huron County Building Tuesday from 1-4 p.m.

Any senior citizen age 60 or older can stop in at that time and receive a card. The card will enable them to get a discount on items purchased from Huron, Tuscola, and Sanilac county participating merchants.

LOT OF VOLUNTEERS

It is quite true that it takes two to make a quarrel -- but when one is willing, it's easy to find another.

for the clerk, treasurer and supervisor.

25 YEARS AGO

Milk deliveries were back to normal Wednesday, following the end of the nine-day strike by the Fair Share Bargaining Association. Farmers are now receiving an increase from $4.41 per hundredweight to $5. In the Cass City area, many farmers continued to ship milk during the strike, but others kept their milk home. Monday, two Fair Share members, Edward Nauka of Decker and Robert Hickey of Deford, were injured in a traffic accident while on their way home from picketing the Borden plant in Marlette.
