Further education threatened

Tough job market ends dreams for many seniors

by Sheila Gruber

As a senior, deciding what to do after graduation is a difficult decision to make.

It is even more difficult for those graduating in 1981 in Michigan, where the unemployment is 12.2 percent.

For some Cass City High School seniors, fear over the uncertain economy and job market has led to an abandoning of dreams. For others, it has further complicated their chances of being able to afford to continue their education. For some, perhaps luckier than the rest, the economy seems to pose no threat.

Of 22 seniors surveyed in informal interviews, 15 said the economic situation has personally affected their plans for the future. Those not personally affected admitted fellow classmates were.

Rita Whittaker has wanted to work in special education since she was in eighth grade, but with things the way they are, she's given the idea up.

"There's just no jobs in special education, look at all the layoffs that just came in Michigan," she said, adding, "I don't know now what I'll do -- I never had a second choice."

Alesia Hoag had a similar dream -- she was going to be an elementary school teacher. "I changed my mind because there are no jobs," she said. She now plans to begin a two-year secretarial program in Ohio.

Some students are moving into the areas where job prospects seem the best.

Besides this move into certain job areas, students are also expanding their interests and studies to pick up on technological trends and increase their job marketability.

The Tuscola Area Skill Center offered Mark Rabeau a chance to gain some experience in electronics, and he took it. "Electronics is big, no matter what you're going into," said the senior, who now plans to enroll in a two-year business program.

Data processing skills, also taught at the skill center, are described as an "edge" over others by Karen Hall, who hopes to enter the travel agency business, where computers are used. She will attend a Pittsburgh school to become a stewardess or cruise director.

Other students hoping to enter fields where job situations look better than most include Kelly Seurnyck, who plans to attend Michigan State University to study nursing; Craig Tonti, who hopes to study engineering at Oakland University; and Kent Wischmeyer, who will attend an Oklahoma school specializing in aeronautics.

AMONG WHAT APPEARS to be an increasing number of students joining the armed forces are several Cass City graduates.

"If there was a decent job available, I'd stick around," said Dave Keyser, who is joining the Navy to train for a mechanics job.

Also joining the Navy is Mark Moore, who wants to be a construction mechanic.

"A lot of guys are joining the armed forces or moving to Texas -- not many want to stick around," said Karen Hall.

Many of the students looking for jobs admit they may have to leave Michigan to find one.

"It's hard finding a good paying job," said Bob Sawdon, who is currently working but accepts the possibility of leaving when he has to.

SOME STUDENTS PLANNING on going to college are concerned about financing the expensive venture.

"It's hard to go to school when there are no jobs to help you, said Sharon Wells, who hopes to attend Grand Rapids Junior College.

Rick Kuenzli, a graduate planning on attending Ferris State College and eventually becoming a dentist, said, "I'll make it through, but I'll sure be in debt."

Seven of the students questioned said economic pressures have not really affected their decisions.

Among these are prospective pre-medicine students, Brian DeBeaubien and Tom Loomis; Leah Britton, who will enter nursing school at Saginaw Valley State College and get married; Deb Dorland and Teresa Flowers, both engaged, and farmers Doug Hyatt and Bob Leslie.

Describing job conditions as "pretty negative," Chuck Cramer, manager of the Michigan Employment Security Commission Caro office, said, "Students are Please turn to page 10.

More grads seeking jobs

Poor economic conditions are having their effect on graduating high school seniors.

The number of them looking for jobs and joining the armed services is up considerably from previous years.

This year, 33 percent of 126 Cass City High School seniors who recently returned a survey given to them are looking for a job. Last year, a similar survey found only 9 percent looking for a job, said Wayne Dillon, vocational-career education director and guidance

Council okays rezoning to allow smaller homes

Cars aren't the only thing being downsized these days.

The Cass City Village Council Tuesday evening approved rezoning of a portion of the Northwood Village-Estates subdivision from RA-1 to the new designation of RA-1B, which will allow homes with a minimum of 1,000 square feet of living space (not including garages). RA-1 requires a minimum of 1,200 square feet.

The council meeting was preceded by a village Planning Commission public hearing on the requested rezoning. The hearing drew a full house to the council chambers, apparently composed mostly of homeowners surrounding the area proposed for the new designation.

Involved was a total of 25 lots in the northeast corner of the subdivision, bordered by the village limits on the north and Seeger Street on the east. The RA-1B designation requires the same minimum 12,000-square-foot lot size as does RA-1.

Subdivision developer Tom Herron explained to those present that 1,000-square-foot homes are a reflection of present day realities. With construction costs of $40-50 a square foot, he said the smaller homes cost less to build and to heat, plus smaller families don't need as much space.

The implication of some in the audience was that they feared smaller homes meant cheaper homes, which wouldn't fit in with the rest of the neighborhood.

The most vocal critic, Frank McComb, whose home is on Seeger Street, expressed doubt a 200-square foot smaller house would save much on energy costs. He then added, "Mine is 1,800 square feet and I'm going to look at 1,000 foot ones out my back window."

Earlier in the discussion, after it was said the market for new homes is almost zero because of high interest rates, he had suggested, "When the situation changes, let's change the zoning. Let's leave it alone right now."

His neighbor, Dr. Edward C. Scollon, commented there was "a lot of difference" between 1,000 and 1,200 square feet homes.

The veterinarian asked Herron what the 1,000 square-foot homes would be selling for. The builder replied they would cost about $50,000, including the lot.

Village Council member Lynda McIntosh later commented, in essence, that persons who could afford a home costing that much weren't the type who would bring down the quality of the neighborhood.

Herron, whose home is in the subdivision, responded to the negative comments,

"I got to live there and drive by them every day. I want a nice looking subdivision. It's just the need is for smaller homes."

Robert Britton, who also lives in the subdivision, said he had come to the hearing "a little concerned," but after hearing the discussion, "I wouldn't hesitate to go along with it (smaller homes)."

At the conclusion of the half-hour discussion, the planning commission voted to recommend to the council that it approve the rezoning request.

The council then began its meeting and voted 5-0 to rezone the property to RA-1B. One councilman was absent.

Village President Lambert Althaver pointed out that the RA-1B designation was a compromise by the Planning Commission. Her-

Administrators

Board assles, but grants salary boosts

Cass City school administrators were granted pay raises by the school board last Thursday of $2,100 a year.

The raises, which range from 6.54 to 10.61 percent, were for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Secretaries were granted pay raises of 8.25-10 percent.

The board accepted the recommendations of its salary committee, but only after an hour of sometimes heated discussion at the special meeting.

Members decided at their May 11 meeting that it was better to approve the increases before the June 8 millage vote, rather than wait until afterwards.

Board member Richard Albee, the only one to vote "no" on the increases, protested before the vote that "if you ever intend to get the millage increase, you've killed it." Not too many persons in the community make $30,000 a year, he suggested, and when they see the new salaries, "they're going to die."

Board President Geraldine Prieskorn responded there are going to be millage votes every year and that it wouldn't look good to increase salaries right after the June 8 election.

All of the administrators, with two exceptions, received a pay raise of $2,100. The rationale of the salary committee, it was explained, was that a teacher with a master's degree at the top of the pay scale will receive a pay increase of $2,087 during the next school year, based on the contract negotiated with the Tri-County Bargaining Association (TCBA). It was felt the administrators should receive more than that. All teachers received a 10 percent annual pay increase for all three years of the contract.

The exceptions are Supt. Donald Crouse, who voluntarily gave up a pay increase because of the district's financial situation, and high school Assistant Principal Roland Pakonen. No decision was made concerning his salary, because if the millage fails, it was suggested, his position will be eliminated and he will go back to classroom teaching. Crouse's salary is presently $38,067 and Pakonen's, $24,500.

ALBEE EXPRESSED concern about administrators receiving increases year after year. "I think there becomes a point where a job is worth only so much."

Crouse didn't agree with that concept. "I don't see how you can put a cap on administrative salaries, unless you put it on system wide."

An administrator who didn't feel the salary committee's recommendations were enough was Evergreen Elementary Principal Roland Kuntz, who teaches sixth grade in addition to his administrative duties. "What I'm hearing you say is because we're having money problems, the administrators should bite the bullet. I think that's a bunch of baloney."

He told the board he presently receives $4 more per day than the highest paid teacher, but his 1981-82 pay will put him only $3 ahead "and I think that stinks."

Kuntz and Deford Elementary Principal Betty Murphy, who also teaches full-time, will each receive $24,850 during the next school year. They each work 10 more days a year than teachers.

The top paid teacher next year will receive $22,956.

CROUSE, WHO SERVED on the salary committee with board members E. Thresa Burnette, Dr. E. Paul Lockwood and Dean Hoag, said the proposed administrative salaries were in line with what was being paid in surrounding districts.

Shortly before the board voted, J.D. Tuckey commented that "... either we're going to have to pay the going rate or we'll have problems." The "problem," it was suggested, is they might unionize, as happened at Mayville.

Mrs. Burnette suggested that Community Education Director Kathleen O'Donnell should receive more than what her committee had recommended of $21,900 annually. That is less than what the highest paid teacher makes despite her working 40 more days a year and that if she were a teacher, Mrs. O'Donnell said, because of prior experience, Please turn to page 5.

Road funds take big dive; road board seeks millage

The news for those who take care of roads is grim and it isn't a fairy tale.

State revenue for work on highways, roads and streets and other transportation systems plunged 27 percent during the first three months of 1981, compared to the same period a year earlier.

It was the largest three-month decline ever recorded, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation, and was due to continuing decline in gasoline consumption and removal of the March 31 deadline in favor of a year-round system of purchase of license plates.

The result this summer is going to be bumpier, dustier roads and if the financial crisis continues, come winter, who knows?

County Road Commissioners, villages and cities receive most of their money for road work from the state Motor Vehicle Highway Fund (MVHF), which receives its revenue from the state tax of 11 cents per gallon on gasoline, diesel fuel taxes and license plate fees.

For the first three months of 1981, the Tuscola County Road Commission recently received a check from the transportation department of $575,932, down from $831,390 a year ago; Huron, $488,259, down from $727,469, and Sanilac, $531,867, down from $782,182.

The allocation formula is based on such factors as population and number of miles of roads and amount of gasoline sales within each county. The decline for Tuscola, according to Road Commission Engineer Robert Wellington, is only the worst of a continuing trend.

His agency's February payment (for October-December, 1980), was down 8.9 percent or $47,500 from the same period a year earlier; November, 1980 payment, down 10.6 percent ($48,700), and August, 1980, down 6 percent ($32,100).

One response of the Road Commission board to the declining revenue was its decision last Thursday to request a special election Aug. 11 to ask the public to approve two millage proposals.

Each will be a half-mill for five years, with one levy for bridges, to use as a match for federal and state funds, and the other half-mill for township road maintenance, which presently is only supported by MVHF money. Some of the bridge millage money will go to villages such as Cass City for local street repairs, even if they do not have any bridges.

Each of the levies would raise about $275,000 a year.

The same bridge millage proposal was on the ballot in August and November of last year and was defeated both times. Tuscola levied 1 mill for bridges since first approved by voters in 1970, but that levy has now expired.

Even if the millage is approved for township road maintenance, Wellington

Proper placement

By Jim Fitzgerald

Put your money in the right place. That's my advice to taxpayers who want to avoid a Draconian fate, a fate named after a man named Draco who was drain commissioner of Athens, Greece, during the final years of the Seventh Century BC.

It is silly to put your money in the wrong place. I will give you an example:

In Los Angeles, along the Hollywood strip, there are many street musicians to entertain tourists. My rich brother-in-law, Jack, was particularly impressed by a guitar player. To demonstrate his appreciation, Jack dropped money into the cup sitting on the sidewalk in front of the guitarist.

When Jack heard the splash, he knew he put his money in the wrong place. He put it in the guitarist's full cup of coffee.

Next to the coffee cup, there was an open guitar case. That's where appreciative passersby were supposed to put money. Naturally, Jack felt silly and immediately left Los Angeles.

It is easy for tourists to leave towns, but sometime they must go home, unless, like baseball players, they play all their games on the road, in which case they have no right to gripe about the gasoline tax. In Michigan, where most residents can't afford to be tourists, there is scant escape from the Draconian consequences of not putting your money in the right place.

An important thing to remember is that it's possible to run out of money while spending, just as it's possible to run out of boards while walking on a dock. I know a man who walked too far on a dock and fell into the ocean. He later observed, wisely, that "when you're out of slats, you're out of pier."

In case you haven't guessed, I should tell you today's column is my carefully-researched explanation of Michigan's perplexing tax situation. How do you like it so far?

The perplexing thing is that all Michigan residents want tax cuts but they keep voting down proposals to cut taxes. The "no" votes come from people who think the proposed cuts are either too small or too large. The people who fear large cuts say a meat-ax swipe would render government broke and unable to finance the most basic public functions, such as police protection and daycare centers for state legislators with working mothers.

One of the supporters of tax nicks is Lt. Gov. James Brickley. Faced with the defeat of yet another pocket-knife cut, Brickley recently warned of the impending meat ax. "We're going to have to... fight off some very extreme, Draconian measures that will be coming," he said.

It isn't unusual for a pocketknifer to use the word "Draconian" to describe a meat axer. That's because the meat-ax leader is Robert Tisch, drain commissioner of Shiawassee county and a direct descendant of Draco of Seventh Century Athens. Draco was infamous for the extreme severity of his administration, and through the years his name became a household adjective used to describe any government official who would cut off his own mother's food stamps.

Many people wonder what qualifies a county drain commissioner to lead a meat-ax approach to statewide tax-cutting. In Tisch's case, it's his physique. Every article written about Tisch describes him as gangling or lanky or rawn-boned. Obviously, he is Lincoln-esque as well as Draconian, and any government official who can split rails can meat-ax taxes.

Also, Tisch's occupation could be uniquely helpful in stemming the flow. He wants to cut property taxes in half, with no hike in sales or income taxes. His opponents claim such a Draconian measure would send the state down the drain. But Tisch is in a position to plug the drain, as long as he doesn't become flushed with success.

I hope this explanation has helped you to understand the Michigan tax situation more clearly. My closing advice is to never put money in a cup of coffee, and never forget that if the drain pipe were reversed, Draco would today be the Tishsonian drain commissioner of Shiawassee county.

Tractor fire damage set at $1,400

Elkland township firemen were called to the Steve Kruchko farm, 5445 Schwegler Road, Friday morning when a small tractor caught fire and exploded.

The tractor was being driven by Pam Goodman down the hill behind the house when it caught fire, near the barn, forcing her to jump off. She was not injured.

She and her mother, Irene Kruchko, almost had the fire out with a hose when firemen arrived, Kruchko said.

The explosion, which caused damages of about $1,400, was probably caused by a hot wire or oil on the motor, fireman Roger Hurley said. The tractor was insured.

"I was concerned because it happened so close to the barn full of hay," Kruchko said.

DUSTY TRAILS -- Dry weather during most of the Memorial Day week end enabled farmers to get much of their planting done, such as these farmers were doing Saturday on Bay City-Forestville Road. Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel estimated Tuesday about 25 percent of the corn crop was yet to be planted. About half the sugar-beet crop, planted earlier, had to be replanted due to frost damage. Dry bean planting should be underway this week.

CETA programs to be cut sharply

Comprehensive Employment and Training Act programs in the upper Thumb will be trimmed noticeably in 1981-82.

The Thumb Area Consortium administrative board last Thursday gave approval to its tentative CETA master plan for the fiscal year that starts Oct. 1, based on the recommendations of the Reagan administration. Congress has yet to appropriate any funds for the CETA program for 1981-82, so the consortium has yet to even receive an estimate of how much money it will receive, Executive Director Frank Lenard told the board.

Accepted by the board were the recommendations of its advisory council for a three-part program.

Title II-B will fund classroom, on-the-job and work experience job training programs. Proposed is that 265-320 persons will be enrolled in classroom programs, 50-60 in on-the-job and 25-30 in work experience. The latter is intended to be a first phase activity with enrollees to be transferred to other employment and training activities or services.

The Youth Employment Training Program, Title IV, will be for in-school youths ages 16-21. The consortium is receiving $551,000 for the program this year. If it is continued in 1981-82, Lenard said, the consortium will receive half that amount, or the program may be made part of Title II-B.

The final CETA program will be Title VII, with participants receiving on-the-job training with private employers, with federal funds helping pay the wages.

Gone will be Title II-D, public service jobs with government and non-profit employers, and Title VI, an emergency jobs program. The latter is extinct now except for 10 persons who will work until funds run out by the end of June.

In other action, Lenard reported the state Bureau of Employment and Training has offered him $15,000 in additional Title VII funds. If obtained, it will be enough to fund about 10 on-the-job training positions with private employers. Sixty-five persons are presently receiving training under the program.

A letter was read from the bureau concerning its review of the Title IV Youth Employment Training Program, operated by the Huron Intermediate School District under contract with the consortium.

The review, the letter concluded, "indicates a well run program serving the employing agencies and participants."

Candidates night slated Monday

Candidates running for the Cass City School Board will be answering questions at a meet-the-candidates night Monday sponsored by the Cass City Education Association.

The event will start at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium (room 110).

There are six candidates listed on the June 8 ballot for the two seats open on the board: E. Thresa Burnette, the lone incumbent, Gregory Brown, Ben Hobart, Louis Horner, Richard Shaw and Thomas Sutter.

Two known write-in candidates, Fred Matthews and Luis Salas, are also running. Lyle Clarke, chairman of the event, is asking all write-in candidates to phone him beforehand if they wish to be included as part of the program.

The panelists will be answering questions prepared by a panel of teachers. Members of the public who would like to ask questions should put them in writing and turn them in at the beginning of the session.

In addition to the candidates, there will also be an explanation of the two millage proposals that will be on the June 8 ballot, renewal of 12.9 mills and a requested 3 mills additional.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Sad, sad story. For the first time in 30 years the Haires took off over Memorial Day. The weather in Cass City I've been told was great Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Well, in Northern Michigan it rained Saturday and Sunday. The sun came out Monday afternoon just in time to get in our eyes driving home.

Looking for a little hideaway on the lake? There's a new three-unit condominium with a vacancy at Boyne City on Lake Charlevoix. It's high class with a couple of bedrooms.

You can buy one of the three for a mere $200,000. That's two hundred thousand dollars, folks.

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce is changing its method of charging concessions at the July 4 Festival this year. Instead of 10 per cent of sales, the new method is 25 per cent of profits.

That's going to be a bigger bite from most of the operators. The silver lining is that you don't pay unless you make money. The change is expected to boost revenues and help cut the Chamber's annual losses during the celebration.

Dr. H. T. Donahue, an all-star college wrestler in his salad days at U of M, keeps up with his sport. He knows all the current coaches and many of the better wrestlers that have competed at the school.

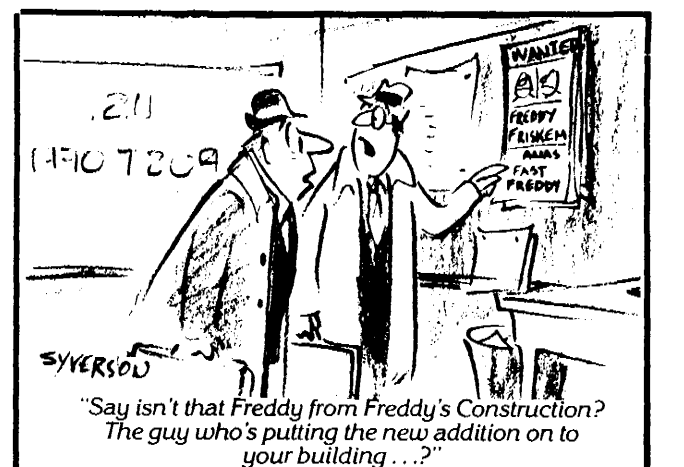

He renewed acquaintances recently at the Michigan Hall of Fame dinner where his college coach, Cliff Keen, was inducted.

Dr. Donahue has an interest in present coaches and they are interested in him as a strong Wolverine booster. Tentative plans call for the staff to visit the doctor in Cass City for dinner in the near future.

Russ Biefer, Cass City wrestling coach, attended the Hall of Fame fete but couldn't sit with the three others from Cass City that attended.

Don't feel sorry for him. At his table were Steve Gromek and Mickey Lolich, all-star retired Tiger pitchers, gathered to honor Jim Bunning, Tiger great. Bunning was inducted to the Hall of Fame.

What's more, Biefer has the autographs to prove it.

Auto-Owners for Surety Bonds

Usually, a man's word is as good as his bond. Unfortunately, that's not always the case. And that can cause trouble.

Trouble that can be easily avoided with an Auto-Owner's Surety Bond. Many of which can be issued on-the-spot for immediate protection. And our easy "postcard application forms" for other types of surety bonds are so unique, they're patented.

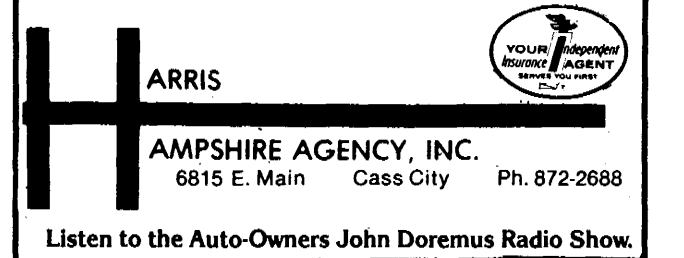

Get it in writing. Because if you wait until trouble is staring you in the face, it could be too late.

It's discriminatory, that's what it is and we should take it to court in behalf of fans everywhere.

The trouble is that it's the court that is at the root of the trouble.

In case you missed it, a ruling last week by Law Judge Andrew W. Foster granted workers' compensation to Steve Owens, Charlie Sanders and Jim Mitchell, former Lions football players, because their careers were cut short by injuries.

The three were granted benefits retroactive to the time they quit football in amounts ranging up to $32,000.

The judge called unconstitutional a law that restricts athletes from collecting compensation if they earn twice the average income in Michigan.

In addition the ruling means that each of the players will now receive for life compensation payments. Mitchell receives $147 weekly, Owens, $132 weekly until such a time as their income matches what they received when playing.

That may make legal sense but really it's nonsense.

A football career lasts 1 to 18 years or so with the average probably 3 or 4 years.

The law in its blindness can't see the difference between a football player with a bad knee and a worker who loses a hand in a machine.

The ruling opens a hole in the dyke and you can expect a sea of claims to come rolling in.

What happens when a player from 25 years ago who got busted up and had to quit files his claim? And all the players in between?

It's no wonder that the insurance carrier is appealing the decision.

It's not hard to see what that will do to the operating costs for the clubs.

The bottom line, as always, will be the increased cost sure to be reflected in the ticket prices. You and I will pay and pay. As always.

The claim was allowed because the judge ruled that the law passed to prevent these type claims was discriminating against professional athletes.

Maybe there is a ray of hope. My index finger is a little sore right now from playing golf. I was playing with an advertiser. Customer golf.

If that finger gets any worse and I might have trouble hammering the keys of this typewriter. An on the job injury.

A finger should be worth as much as a knee. Voila! A free ride for life.

That might not be right, but don't bet that it might not be legal.

The way things are going, you'd lose.

Crop acreage reports due by July 1

Michigan farmers have until July 1 to report their 1981 crops to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Dorn Diehl, acting state executive director of the Michigan ASCS, says farmers need to report their crops to establish eligibility for benefits of the 1981 Wheat and Feed Grain Programs.

Since there are no set-aside requirements or normal crop acreage limitations, all farmers who file an accurate acreage report will qualify for any program payments which may be made.

The 1977 Agricultural Act, which expires after 1981, provides for disaster payments and deficiency payments which could be important to agricultural producers in case of crop losses or low market prices in 1981.

Diehl added that crop reports are valuable in establishing proven yields on individual farms and may be used as a historical acreage base in future farm programs.

HEALTH TIPS

Breast feeding best for healthy infantsFrank Chappell
Science News Editor
AMAAn individual grows faster during the first year of life than during any other time. Birth weight usually triples in a year. This growth is made possible by adequate amounts of calories and nutrients.

Breast-feeding is recommended for most infants, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association.

During the early months of life, human milk is the preferred source of nutrients, and it may provide the infant with other health advantages.

Nutritionally complete infant formulas are available for use when it is not possible for the mother to breast feed. If vitamin or mineral supplements are needed, the doctor will prescribe them.

Between ages 4 to 6 months, most infants are ready to begin eating very small amounts of semisolid foods.

After 6 months of age, a milk diet cannot satisfy all of the infant's needs. Iron-enriched cereals are added, followed gradually by pureed vegetables, fruits, and meats. Milk, however, will continue to be the most important food until the infant is 1 year old.

If breast feeding is discontinued before 6 months of age, it is best for the infant to have an iron-fortified formula. Infants are vulnerable to iron deficiency once they have used the stored iron that they have at birth. Their diets should include good sources of iron; egg yolk, green vegetables, meats, and iron-enriched products.

By 1 year of age, most infants are eating a variety of chopped solid foods and drinking fresh cow's milk. Their appetites and enthusiasm about foods may fluctuate, but many new foods, introduced one at a time and in small amounts, are usually well accepted.

Children need three good meals a day plus snacks, especially if they are very active. Snacks should be small servings of the same nutritious foods needed at mealtime, such as fruits, juices, milk, crackers with peanut butter or cheese, small sandwiches, raw vegetables, nuts, or cereals. Poor appetites are fairly common among preschool children. The refusal to eat period is a difficult time for parents, but there is usually no cause for concern unless the problem persists.

Mechelle Particka, a senior at Cass City High School, has been named by the University of Michigan as a regents-alumni scholar.

She is one of 1,457 incoming freshmen at U-M designated for the honor, based on their "superior academic achievement and their potential contribution to the scholarly community of the University of Michigan." Of the scholars, 303 will receive a $500 merit award if they enroll.

Miss Particka, of 4020 Cumber Road, Uby, is co-valedictorian of this year's graduating class.

Telephone equipment
installed

Additional central office equipment has recently been added to the Cass City central office, according to Les Moench, northeastern division manager for General Telephone Co.

The addition consisted of 200 rotary lines, 200 rotary terminals and 400 lines of touch call trunking. The $44,200 addition was necessary to meet present demands and provide for additional projected growth in the Cass City exchange.

Moench explained that one piece of line equipment is necessary for each line in use. Touch call lines are necessary to provide service for customers with touch call telephones. Line equipment is the piece of equipment which gives a dial tone when the telephone handset is lifted.

The second type of equipment, terminals, is the apparatus which makes the final connection required for each telephone number.

Severances to demonstrate alfalfa plots

There are 20 varieties of alfalfa in plots at the Severance Farm in Evergreen township.

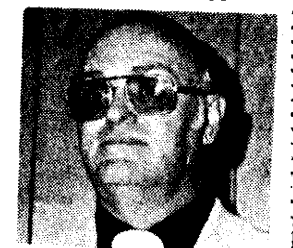

It's all part of the Forage Day program, according to Sanilac County Extension Director A. Rex Sietling. "Ten Ton in 81" is the theme and varieties are the key to reaching that 10 ton mark.

All of the varieties were planted in the spring and fall of 1980, so it will be a good chance to see them all under both planting dates.

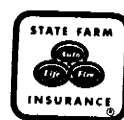

Other plots that will be shown to visitors will be fertility, 10-ton plot, weed control and various planting methods.

"Ten Ton in 81" is being sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties. There will be time to view and see forage machinery working, educational information and most equipment dealers in the Thumb will be present at the July 7 Forage Day.

Proposal proposed

By Mike Eliasohn

Does anyone out there like property taxes?

The simplest explanation of why Proposal A was defeated last week by a margin of 72 percent to 28 percent is that most voters are satisfied with our present system of taxation.

A less simple explanation is that although voters aren't happy, they thought approval of Proposal A would make matters worse instead of better, that despite whatever tax savings they might have gained, it wasn't worth the trouble.

And there was Robert Tisch and his backers saying the proposal would have allowed the legislature to impose a new type of tax, that Proposal A was actually a sneaky tax increase.

Michigan voters have only approved two tax proposals in the past 10 years or so, repeal of the sales tax on food and drugs and the Headlee Amendment. Unfortunately, the tax savings aren't anywhere near what the originators of the Headlee proposal expected because when they wrote it, they could not anticipate the double digit inflation we would be undergoing.

Headlee was also weakened by the legislature when it approved the legislation needed to put its provisions into effect.

It seems to me part of the problem with any of the proposals, such as the three that were defeated in November, 1980, and Proposal A this time is that they tried to do too much.

They tried to cut property taxes and require the state to replace the lost revenue and to reduce its spending.

If there is a problem, maybe the solution is to attack each separately.

WANT ADS

If the state is spending too much money and the legislature won't voluntarily cut expenditures, let's vote to cut the state income tax or sales tax.

Remember, the legislature has cut expenditures, though not because it reduced taxes, but because with so many persons out of work, less tax revenue was coming in.

State employees have been laid off, other economy measures have been taken and schools and local governmental units are receiving less revenue from Lansing.

If the objection is property taxes are too high or are inequitable, let's change the system.

My personal preference is for the radical alternative of abolishing property taxes entirely. Let them be replaced with an income tax, which is much fairer, or in areas with a large tourist population, an increase in the sales tax.

I see nothing fair about a tax system that says you owe X amount in taxes on your house, even if you are laid off from your job and have an income of 0.

Since that isn't likely to happen and I'm not about to start a crusade, as an alternative, how about allowing school districts, since that's where most property taxes go, to levy an income tax instead?

There are two flaws with that approach, however.

First, the problems with the property tax will remain, mainly revolving around the question of how fairly assessors determine the value of a home, farm, business, etc.

Secondly, as far as schools are concerned, it doesn't matter whether their money is coming from income taxes or property taxes, they are going to need more of it, not less.

Of course, for those who don't feel the schools need more money, no Proposal A is necessary. Whenever a millage proposal is on the ballot, they can vote "no."

Veteran educator Barr retires after 33 years

After 33 years in education, James Barr is about to put away his books about educational philosophy and administration and pick up a hammer.

The principal of Owendale-Gagetown High School since 1974 is retiring as of June 19.

He notified Supt. Ronald Erickson before the end of the last school year that this would be his final year and officially notified the board at its February meeting that he was retiring.

The board and Erickson have interviewed applicants but have yet to select a replacement.

One reason the veteran educator has decided to retire is he is eligible for a Michigan's teacher's pension, the minimum required being 30 years in education and age 55.

A major reason, he said, was the same one cited by Dr. James H. Ballard in a Chronicle interview last week concerning the latter's retirement -- "It isn't fun anymore."

Barr and his wife, Muriel, the home economics teacher at the high school, will be moving to what for the past seven years has been their summer home on Bar Lake, four miles north of Manistee on the west coast of Michigan, previously owned by his mother.

Barr graduated from Manistee High School in 1938.

Mrs. Barr plans to substitute teach and her husband said he may also, but only in industrial arts.

The principal served in the Army during World War II, obtained his degree from Central Michigan University in 1947 and started his education career teaching math and farm shop at Elkton in 1948-49.

He then went to the Normand-Dickson Schools in Manistee county, where he was principal and shop teacher from 1949-53, superintendent and shop teacher from 1953-60 and superintendent and librarian from 1960-63.

He received his master's degree with a major in vocational education from the University of Michigan in 1951 and education specialist degree, majoring in general education administration, from CMU in 1962.

In 1963-64, Barr was superintendent and government teacher at Blanchard, midway between Big Rapids and Mount Pleasant.

HE THEN WENT TO THE Glen Lake Community Schools at Maple City, north-west of Traverse City. The district had 1,000 students. He was superintendent there from 1964-72, then gave that up -- "The principal wanted it more than I did" -- to teach shop and mathematics, which he did until 1974.

Glen Lake had its problems, having had three millage proposals rejected by voters. If the fourth one failed, the school board was going to reduce its teaching staff of more than 20 to seven. Barr was among those to be laid off.

He applied for the principal's job at Owen-Gage, was interviewed by Supt. Glenn Sanford on a Friday, who called him the next day to say he was hired. He began work the Tuesday after that, which was the day after Labor Day. Shortly after that, Glen Lake voters approved the millage.

Barr has spent his entire educational career in small school districts. "If parents want personal attention for their kids, then small districts do the best job."

As for Owen-Gage, he commented, "I've always thought as long as people are willing to support a school with their tax money, the school should remain open. The people here want to support their school and the state should be leaving them alone."

BARR HAS SEEN LOTS of changes in his 33 years in education. "There's a lot more reports now than when we started."

Student troublemakers, he said, are more questioning of authority. At one time

OWEN-GAGE PRINCIPAL James Barr. An open house honoring him because of his upcoming retirement will take place Tuesday from 7-10 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

they would assume whatever the principal said was right in disciplinary matters, but that is no longer true.

Most problem students, the veteran educator commented, either originally attended larger districts or come from broken homes.

One change Barr hasn't seen, which he wishes he had, is in financing of education. "It's still true as it was 30 years ago. They don't have a good way to finance education."

His opinion is that local taxes should pay for the buildings and equipment, which the state, in order to ensure more equality between districts, should pay operating expenses.

IN A FEW MORE weeks, however, that will all be behind him.

His major retirement project will be fixing up a home he owns next to his on Bar Lake and those of children Tim and Geni at Empire, west of Traverse City.

He and his wife have seven children. The others are Terry, serving with the Navy in New Orleans; Lori, in the Army, stationed in Hawaii; Sam and Sean, both attending West Shore Community College in Scottville, who will be living with their parents, as the college is within commuting distance, and Dirk, who will start sixth grade in the fall. Lori, Sam and Sean are all Owen-Gage grads. The Barrs also have three grandchildren.

Since he lives on a lake, he naturally plans to go fishing, something he hasn't had time to do the past few years. "I've been supporting the Michigan department of conservation by buying fishing license and not using it," he joked.

When schools reopen, come fall, Barr doesn't think he will miss it. "That's not going to bother me," he said. "I'm going to be too busy."

BOOST YOUR HOME'S ENERGY SAVINGS

With utility rates and fuel costs increasing from 10 to 15 percent annually, the homeowner who opts for improvements designed to conserve energy is wise indeed, says the National Home Improvement Council.

Although the cost of adding insulation, energy-efficient windows or a more efficient heating system may seem high initially, the investment should pay for itself in just a few years. And, as fuel costs rise, so will the savings.

Besides reducing your home's operating costs, home improvements aimed at increasing your home's energy efficiency may also add to its resale value. Since it will cost the next owner less for heating and cooling, he may be willing to pay more.

If you're looking for ways to reduce your home's energy consumption, an informative publication entitled "In The Bank Or Up The Chimney?" offers some helpful suggestions. Prepared by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and reprinted by NHIC as a public service, the publication is available for $2.45, including postage and handling, from NHIC, Dept. M, 11 East 44th St., New York, NY 10017.

Valuation increased

The State Tax Commission has added $21.05 million to the valuation of Tuscola county, over the objection of the county Board of Commissioners.

The STC's decision became known in Lansing Tuesday, when it presented final state equalized valuation figures for all 83 counties.

The county's valuation is now $572,799 million, $21.05 million more than had been figured by the county equalization department.

A county delegation journeyed twice to Lansing to argue that that equalization department's figures should be accepted, which are still higher than they were last year.

The decision of the STC will mean higher taxes for property owners, although it still must be decided how they will be apportioned.

The county board must decide whether it will appeal the STC's decision to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Administrators get $2,100 pay hike

she would be at the next to highest pay step. Mrs. Burnette's suggestion got nowhere.

Secretaries' pay, which was $4.60 or $4.80 an hour, was boosted, with one exception, to $5.25. There are six secretaries paid by the hour. The superintendent's secretary and bookkeeper each received a 10 percent increase, to $14,300 and $15,840 respectively. The high school principal's secretary received an 8.25 percent increase, to $10,500.

No decision was made on pay for other non-union personnel -- supervisors, crossing guards, and nurses -- because of possible contracting with a private firm to run the cafeterias, negotiations with the Operating Engineers union and the millage election.

IF THE MILLAGE IS DEfeated, it could mean some administrators will be teaching and some teachers with less seniority will be out of a job.

Apparently to prevent that from happening, it was reported at the meeting, the TCBA has filed a grievance, claiming its contract with the board doesn't permit administrators to be included on the seniority list.

The grievance is at the first step, filed with one of the building principals. If rejected by the principal, it goes to the superintendent, then to the board and if rejected there, to an arbitrator.

"It's going to be an interesting case," Crouse commented.

Volunteers needed for farm survey

Approximately 1,800 farm families throughout the east central and Thumb regions of Michigan will be taking part in the farm family needs assessment survey this summer, including 200 from Sanilac county.

The Cooperative Extension Service in conjunction with Michigan State University has received a grant to conduct the survey. The results will help determine program emphasis and offerings for farm families served by the Cooperative Extension Service and highlight the need for any changes to better serve them.

Prior to receiving the questionnaire, families will be telephoned by a trained volunteer who will inform them of the purpose of the survey and approximate date of receipt of the questionnaire. At that time, the families will be asked to participate. Only those agreeing will be sent a questionnaire.

The Extension Service stresses the confidentiality of the survey. Each family will be assigned a number when selected for participation. The number will be written on the survey in place of the actual name of the family.

To aid in conducting the survey, the Sanilac county extension office is looking for volunteers. Even though this is a busy time of year for many people, it is an opportunity to help tailor Cooperative Extension Service programs to meet your needs.

Families interested in volunteering can call or write Peggy Houck or Mary Jane Berry, Cooperative Extension Service Office, 37 Austin Street, Sandusky, telephone 648-2515, for more information.

144 live in county foster care homes

In Tuscola county, there are 144 residents living in 32 foster care homes.

Adult foster care enables these persons to be involved in local community activities and encourages them to be as independent as possible within a physical and emotional environment that is supportive and protective, according to David Blum, Tuscola County Department of Social Services volunteer services supervisor.

May is Adult Foster Care Month, during which service providers and advocates for the residents are attempting to increase public awareness of the needs, the care, the involvement and participation of these residents. Persons who would like to obtain adult foster care program information or information about becoming a provider may contact one of the adult services workers at the Tuscola County DSS, 1900 W. Caro Road, Caro, or telephone 673-4144.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Sharla and Susan Hartwick, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Hartwick, Cass City, were named to the dean's list at Delta College for the winter semester. Both are sophomores.

A change in zoning is needed before the Konrad Konwalski home can be used as an adult foster care facility. A public hearing will be part of the next regular village council meeting in June, to discuss the change.

Cass City's new municipal pool won't be opening June 1 as scheduled, due to contractor delays of at least one week.

Wanda Lou Hacker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hacker, Cass City, was one of over 1,650 students on the winter semester dean's list at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

Calvin Ostrander received the Harold Ferguson Memorial Award presented each year to an outstanding senior band member at Cass City High School.

TEN YEARS AGO

The cost of water and sewer service in Cass City will increase an estimated 20 percent, July 1, following the approval of rate increases Tuesday by Cass City Village Council.

After 10 years Mrs. Thelma Pratt has sold her grocery store to her son, Marvin, who has just completed remodeling and enlarging the building on South Seeger Street.

A storm, probably the worst one of 1971 as far as damage is concerned whipped out of the southwest about 7 p.m. May 24, and sliced a path roughly 10 miles long and a half mile wide, damaging property northwest of Cass City and southwest of Gagetown.

Negotiators for Cass City school district this week presented to the Cass City Teachers Association a list of 30 requests concerning conduct of teachers and responsibilities of teachers

Mrs. Quick will miss kids

Retires after 25 years

"If you can read this, thank a teacher," said Dorothea Quick's t-shirt Friday.

It was "crazy t-shirt day" at Campbell Elementary School, and after 25 years of teaching, one of her few remaining days before she retires.

The t-shirt message seemed to sum it all up when Mrs. Quick said, "The thing I'll miss most is the kids who are appreciative -- the little things they do, the cards and notes that say 'I love you'."

There have been a lot of "little things" over the years. For instance, a class of third graders in 1963, Mrs. Quick recalled, planned a surprise party for her in the spring to celebrate her August birthday.

A 1938 Cass City High School graduate, she began teaching in a Cass City area country school when she was only 18 years old. She trained for her job at the County Normal School in Caro, which she attended for a year after high school.

It was 1965 and 27 years later when Mrs. Quick graduated from Central Michigan University -- the same year her daughter, Judy, entered the college as a freshman.

"I couldn't have done it without my family," Mrs. Quick said, describing how she attended CMU at night and through five summers while still teaching. Her husband, Basil, and Judy had to help out around the house and put up with her busy schedule during those years.

Her students, especially those who are eager to learn, make it all worth it, she said.

"It's very rewarding watching them grow and learn," said the teacher, explaining the importance of self-discipline in the learning process. "If they have self discipline, they're easy to teach."

Over the years, perhaps that's the change noticed most by Mrs. Quick, who had no trouble with discipline before.

"Now, children are smarter, more sophisticated, they know more at an earlier age," she explained, adding the small minority of parents who aren't supportive of their children's teachers also pose occasional problems. Describing herself as not always having the patience needed for her third graders, Mrs. Quick is "ready to retire."

She and her husband, who celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary Saturday, share similar artistic hobbies which she plans to be able to enjoy even more after retiring.

Mrs. Quick, a costume jewelry maker, and her husband, a silversmith, have already been invited to bring their handiwork to the Bay City art show this summer, and will probably attend others.

Retirement will also give Mrs. Quick the time to do the other things she's always wanted to, like travel, read, garden and enjoy music.

A lifetime resident of Cass

City, Mrs. Quick has a grandson, David, and step-grandson, Steven, who both live with parents Robert and Judy Zac in Midland, where Mr. and Mrs. Zac are teachers.

Mrs. Quick will be honored at a retirement dinner Saturday in Gagetown given by the Cass City Education Association.

Sanilac child dies in freak accident

Eleven-year-old Erika Heather Stempfle died early Saturday when she rolled out of bed and was strangled.

The death has been ruled accidental by Sanilac County Medical Examiner, Dr. D.A. Smallwood, DO, according to Sanilac County Deputy Paul Cowley, who investigated.

The girl died in the home of her foster parents, Robert and Susan Hawkins, Robinson Road, Cass City.

Cowley said the girl was mentally retarded and suffered from cerebral palsy. She had a tendency to get out of bed and walk around at night. To prevent that from happening and possibly hurting herself, the Hawkins had the girl wear a vest at night, with a rope attached to the vest and the headboard.

Erika rolled out of bed and apparently not having the ability to figure out what was happening, wasn't able to get up, and strangled.

Smallwood estimated time of death at 2 a.m. The Hawkins called the sheriff's department at 9:57 a.m. Cowley believed they had discovered the child shortly before then. They had used resuscitation in an unsuccessful attempt to revive the child.

She was born in Detroit Feb. 27, 1970, the daughter of John Stempfle and Mrs. Arthur Moore.

She came to the Cass City area from Warren with her foster parents in 1977.

She is survived by her mother and stepfather, Arthur and Carol Moore of Detroit; her father, John Stempfle of Detroit; one sister, Jeannine Moore of Detroit; one brother, Bryan Hawkins of Cass City; two step-sisters, Pamela and Paula Moore, and two step-brothers, Arthur and Richard Moore, all of Detroit; paternal grandfather, Frederick Stempfle of Grosse Pointe; maternal great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stoutjesdyk of Roseville, and her foster parents.

A prayer service was held Monday evening at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Father Joseph Morales of St. Pancratius Catholic church officiating.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday morning at the Eppens-Vandeweghe Funeral Home in Detroit. Rev. G.P. Dobberful of the Bethany Lutheran church of Detroit officiated. Burial was in Roseland Park cemetery, Berkley.

Road Commissions cope with reduced funding

said, it won't be enough to completely offset the loss in state money.

If the millages are approved, they won't appear on tax bills until December, and revenue won't start coming in until about the first of the year.

Meanwhile, the Road Commission is coping with reduced funds in various ways. Its 40 hourly workers are working four days a week (eight-hour days) and retirees haven't been replaced.

The reduced number of hours worked, he explained, will mean less brining and dust control, grading and patching and other maintenance work this summer.

No new equipment is being purchased. Ideally, 10 percent of Tuscola county's 350 miles of paved roads should be resurfaced each year. This year, no roads are being resurfaced.

The Road Commission, its engineer said, must hang on until it receives its August MVHF payment.

If that check isn't a substantial improvement over what was just received, he predicted, "things are going to get worse." A complete shutdown of Road Commission operations for awhile would be likely.

The only answer to the dilemma, Wellington joked, is, "I wish they (motorists) would run up and down roads and go buy a big gas guzzler."

HURON COUNTY

The Huron County Road Commission laid off its workers for two weeks after Easter, according to its director of finance, John Martin. There will be another two-week shutdown when the road construction season is over, probably in October.

Four employees were permanently laid off in January and in contrast to past years, no summer helpers, mostly college students, have been hired.

Weed and brush spraying has been eliminated and roadside mowing will only be done once this year, instead of the usual two times, except at intersections, which will be mowed more often.

Ideally, the Road Commission should be resurfacing 20 miles of roads a year, Martin said, but this year, will only redo four miles. All equipment purchases have been eliminated.

What happens next if road funds continue to decline? "I don't know," he responded.

SANILAC COUNTY

Measures by the Sanilac County Road Commission to cut costs have included not replacing employees who leave, no overtime, no major construction unless paid for by the township, and no equipment purchases, according to its engineer-manager, Jack Kineman.

"That can only go on so long before that catches up with us," he said of delaying equipment purchases. He figures his agency needs $300,000-$500,000 in new machinery.

The Road Commission does have some grading and graveling to do this summer, plus some culverts to replace and bridges to build. That will be enough to keep the 58 road workers busy through the summer Kineman said. After that, "we will see what happens then."

The county Board of Commissioners has contributed $50,000 for bridge construction this summer, to be matched by equal amounts from the Road Commission and the townships where the new bridges will be built.

One of the bridges to be financed out of that kitty will be on Wheeler Road over the middle branch of the Cass River in Argyle township. Estimated cost will be $45,000 ($15,000 each from the township, Road Commission and county). Construction will be some time this summer.

Out of the county share is supposed to come the $25,000 local share for reconstruction of the Snover Road bridge, west of Snover. A federal grant if it is received, will pay 80 percent of the total cost and the state will pay 10 percent, with the rest being the county's share. Construction may not be until next year.

VILLAGES

Cass City's first quarter MVHF payment will be $16,061, compared to $19,345 for the same period in 1980, however, the village will also receive a one-time only payment of $6,020 due to its increase in population since 1970, a factor for the first time in figuring the first quarter payment.

Gagetown will receive $4,740 plus $696 census adjustment, down from $6,380 a year ago; Kingston, $3,141 minus census adjustment of $64, down from $4,476; Owendale, $3,431, plus $302 census adjustment, down from $4,715, and Uby, $5,803 plus $375 census adjustment, down from $7,923.

In reference to our golf cart.

Jury finds

Wenta guilty in drug case

A Circuit Court jury last Thursday found Joseph H. Wenta, 23, of 1405 Oak Ridge Drive, Caro, guilty of delivery of marijuana.

The verdict came at the end of a three-day trial before Judge Patrick R. Joslyn. A sentencing date will be set.

He was found guilty of selling the narcotic to an undercover police officer May 16, 1980, in Indianfields township.

Money is the anesthetic that puts many a conscience to sleep.

And finally, the red light revolves when O-G is getting the SHAFT. (The light is used so often it's really not up to PAR anymore.)

More grads seeking jobs

not going to get out of school and just get a job. Many people are leaving the state."

SKILL CENTER

Another survey of area seniors, done by Steve Ley, placement coordinator for the Tuscola Area Skill Center (TASC), found 90 percent of the center's 325 seniors are looking for jobs. Many of these, Ley noted, currently have jobs, but are looking for better ones.

"Adults are now competing for the same jobs," he said, making it even more difficult for the students.

Pushing May as "Youth Employment Month," the coordinator said, has brought a slight increase in the number of jobs available. The yearly total, however, is still down from last year, he added.

Admitting there are not many jobs around, Charles Gentner, TASC assistant principal for student services, said students in programs at the skill center "have a foot in the door" and a better chance of starting an entry level job. The center had 651 students from Tuscola county's nine local districts enrolled, half of them seniors, in its 24 different programs this year.

Although he has no statistics to back it up, Gentner predicted more students will be going to college and joining the armed forces this year because of the job situation.

According to the high school's survey however, the number of seniors planning to attend college is about the same as last year — 51 percent.

MILITARY SERVICE

The number of Cass City graduates joining the armed forces, though, is up from four percent last year to 12 percent this year, the survey indicates.

Area recruiters from the U.S. Army, Navy and Air Force all report 20-25 percent increases in their recruitment of high school seniors within the last 12 to 18 months.

"There's no job market here," said Sgt. Andy Anderson, an Army recruiter for Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties. "We train them, pay them and give them jobs; it doesn't cost them a thing, so even parents are pushing them towards the armed services now," he explained.

Anderson reported recruitment levels of 109.3 percent or 10 percent above expected goals so far this year, with some jobs already closed out.

Not only is the Army getting a higher quantity of new people, it's also getting a higher quality, Anderson said.

Traditionally, Michigan is a low recruiting area for the Army because of the state's high industry level. Recently however, as area unemployment figures climbed, so did the Midwest region in recruiting — to the number one spot.

In Navy recruiting, Michigan was also number one for the month of April, said Stan Cogley, Navy counselor and area recruiter. Last year, when armed forces popularity was beginning to grow, Michigan recruitment levels were at about 100.4 percent, said Cogley, adding, "this year they'll be higher."

Cogley, who claims he was so busy last week he didn't have time to make his usual recruitment phone calls, attributes the swell to the economy and a more conservative attitude among students.

"Because of unemployment, people are saying 'maybe the Air Force is not such a bad idea after all,'" said Staff Sgt. Jim Markham, the Air Force recruiter.

Air Force recruitment is also up in the area. His office received 37 new recruits last year, compared to only 20 in 1979. This year, Markham expects even more.

YUKO OHASHI, Rotary exchange student living in Sebe-waing, demonstrated the ancient Japanese tea ceremony for Cass City Rotarians Tuesday, May 19. To serve in the traditional fashion the ceremony lasts a minimum of an hour, according to Ohashi.

Gasoline savings

If you're a careful driver, you should be able to get at least 30 percent better mileage than an average driver and 50 percent better mileage than a poor one.

For example, avoiding jack-rabbit starts can save you two miles per gallon in traffic.

According to the Office of Energy Conservation, if the fuel consumption of the average car were reduced just 15 percent, the nation's consumption of petroleum would fall more than 28 million gallons a day.

Energy tax credits extended

The State House of Representatives has overwhelmingly approved a two-year extension for the income tax credit available to homeowners who install alternative energy conversion devices — such as solar panels and windmills.

Business would also be granted a single business tax credit of 25 percent of the cost of installing such devices for the first $25,000, under a second bill approved by the House.

The income tax credit to individuals began in 1979 and was scheduled to be phased out, with homeowners getting credits of 20 percent on the first $2,000 cost of the system in 1981, 15 percent in 1982 and 10 percent in 1983.

Under the recently approved legislation, the credit would be revised to 25 percent on the first $7,000 in 1981 and 1982, then the credit would go to 20 percent in 1983, 15 percent in 1984 and 10 percent in 1985.

A move to include wood-burning stoves in the tax credit program was narrowly defeated.

Too much sunlight

People who live in climates with intense year-round sunshine; farmers, fishermen and others who spend many hours out of doors; blondes, redheads and the fair-skinned, face the possibility of developing a condition called solar keratoses, which in some cases can become malignant.

Years of long exposure to the sun can produce this condition. Solar keratoses may sometimes lead to skin cancer, the most common form of cancer among people.

In the past, surgery was used to remove the red, scaly patches that are indicative of this sun-induced condition. The symptoms are most often seen on the hands and face. Anyone with such symptoms should see a doctor.

Your Neighbor says

Many not informed about Proposal A

The average voter didn't know much about Proposal A in the May 19 election, said Clare Trischler.

"I have to look at myself and realize I should have learned more about it. It was always in the paper, I just didn't take the time to understand it," he said. Although he didn't quite understand it, Trischler did have some feelings about the tax reform attempt which voters recently defeated.

As a renter, he is less directly affected by high property taxes than most are and claims farmers are the most affected.

Proposal A, Trischler said, would have benefitted the middle class, but not the lower class, which he feels needs the help more.

He did feel the proposal, along with the earlier tax reform proposals, was too drastic.

"What's adopted eventually will be almost what we have now," he predicted, adding if the Tisch proposal comes back, it will be defeated.

Trischler is unsure where that tax reform will come from exactly, the voters or the legislature. "I don't know, but it would probably be more effective coming from the legislature."

A 1979 Cass City High School graduate, Trischler is now living in East Lansing where he works for Michigan State University in data processing.

The former high school athlete was recently married in Cass City to Julie Palmateer.

New books at the library

SMALL WORLD by Tabitha King (fiction). Wealthy and vivacious, but lonely, Dolly Douglas and eccentric scientist Roger Tinker share an incredibly bizarre secret. Roger's invention, the "minimizer," can shrink anything - including people for Dolly's world-famous collection of dollhouses. And Dolly has a whole list of people - including her own grandchildren - she plans to "minimize". But when Dolly's family finally uncovers the dreadful secret, they are helpless - unless they are willing to undergo a transformation as mind-boggling and horrifying as anything Dolly or Roger ever imagined.

MASTERSTROKE by Marilyn Sharp (fiction). Exquisite Nicole Compton, daughter of the Secretary of State, and Peter Lucas, her fiance and her father's assistant, have long dreamed of the Korcula Summit. There the American President and Soviet Premier will sign a historic human-rights document, freeing all Russian dissidents - including the famous "Soviet Six." But why, in the weeks before the Summit, are so many people brutally murdered? And why are Russian and American troops mobilizing around the world? Finally, why (and how) do the "Soviet Six" escape from prison carrying a mysterious tape that they will die to protect?

WHEN IS NOW? by Henry and Deidre Humphrey (young adult). The book begins with a project - how to mark off the number of days between the full moons, as people did after the last ice age. That leads to further projects and experiments for the reader, with some detailed historical background and interesting anecdotes to illuminate each project. In simple, everyday language, the authors explain how and why old time-keeping methods work, and the development of modern mechanical clocks and watches.

Monthly mini-message

By Pastor T. W. Teall

"Let me give you a piece of advice," are words often heard by us all, especially at this time of year by those graduating from college or high school.

Wise counsel is a must in life, but a lot of advice given today is self-centered, egotistical, unreliable, unauthoritative, untruthful bunk!

There is a source for advice that is always to the point and practical in every situation of life. A source by which all other opinions, preferences and creeds are judged. That source is the Bible, God's Word! Let me share just a few words of sound advice from the Bible which I think will be helpful to all, especially graduates.

1. The Bible says, "What does it profit a man to gain the world and lose his own soul." Thus the Bible's advice is that greatest importance should be placed upon your relationship with God. Goals in life must be set in regards to the soul of a man. Money, pleasure and things are the gods of our time, but the best of all of those things cannot bring one ounce of peace nor the promise of a life eternal.

2. The Bible says, "For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ." Thus the Bible's advice is not to be deceived by teachers, preachers and philosophers who deny the absolute truths of God. Some would have you believe that God wrote the Ten Commandments like this: "Thou shalt not commit adultery ordinarily," "Thou shalt not steal usually," "Thou shalt not covet generally." Believe me, friend, God said what He meant and meant what He said. We live in a day when many things that are legal are not right! Take note, God's judgment of you will be based upon what is right!

3. The Bible says, "Behold today is the day of salvation." Thus the Bible's advice is that there are things in life that must be settled now, today! Today is the day to care for your soul, to believe God and receive Christ.

Today is the day to realize that there is more to life than the one we are living. Today is the day to note that we are accountable to God. Today is the day for you to take to heart the Bible's advice.

Ball team cops pre-district at Bad Axe, 10-9

Shirley Fleming returned to form after an injury just in time to help the Cass City Red Hawks to an overtime win at Bad Axe, 10-9, in the pre-districts to remain alive in the Michigan High School softball tournament.

The win pits the Hawks against Uby in the first round of the districts. The game is carded at Mayville Friday at 1 p.m.

If Cass City wins they will play the winner of the bottom bracket drawing which pits the Lakers against either USA or Sandusky.

Fleming took over the mound chores from Jill Root in the fourth inning and limited the Hatchets to just three hits and one run in six innings.

Bad Axe had solved Root for a pair of runs in the first and second innings and a four-run outburst in the third.

Cass City counted with a run in the first on Shelley LaPeer's hit and a couple of errors. In the third a walk and error and hits by Beth Sieradzki, Tena LaRoche, Fleming and Kris Proctor netted five runs.

Cass City tied the score at 8-all in the top of the sixth on a pair of markers on an error and two-base knock by Beabe McLachlan.

The Hatchets took the lead again in the bottom of the sixth without benefit of a hit. A pair of errors let Pangborn romp home with the marker that put Bad Axe in front with the last inning coming up.

Faced with elimination the Hawks pushed across a run without a hit as Sieradzki got on and went around on a pass ball and a sacrifice by Stec.

Cass City pushed across the winning run in the ninth on hits by Sieradzki, Stec and Root.

Cass City picked up eight hits led by Sieradzki with two for 5. Kelly Plumb was a one-girl gang for Bad Axe with four hits in five tries.

Belew was charged with the loss and Fleming got the win in relief.

One-piece swimsuits in fashion

Your summer—or even your winter—vacation can go swimmingly when you start out in style in a spectacular swimsuit.

The look this year is one large-size ladies are likely to love—one-piece suits. You can choose from a variety of styles that include tunics with skirts that generally fall from the bosom—sheaths with front panels and fitted backs—maillots fitted both front and back and usually cut slightly higher at the leg—or the classic boy-leg style fitted back and front but with the leg cut straight across the thigh.

The fabrics are predominantly lycra spandex for better figure control in rich shades of purple, plum and lavender as well as the strong primary colors. Patterns run the gamut from bold geometrics to florals to solids with dramatic slashes of color.

Vikings oust Bulldogs in baseball pre-district, 1-0

Owen-Gage's chances for post-season play in baseball came to an end Friday with a 1-0 loss to visiting Akron-Fairgrove in pre-district play.

Pat Horner's home run in the second inning won the game for the Vikings.

Winning pitcher Jim

Crosby gave up six hits, walked two and struck out nine.

Losing pitcher Randy Radabaugh surrendered seven hits, walked one and struck out eight. He was also his team's leading hitter with a double and a single. Mark Furness contributed two singles.

Brian Rayl hammered two doubles and a single for Akron-Fairgrove.

Phil Gray's Bulldogs, now 5-7 in the league and 7-10 overall, end their season at home Thursday against North Huron. The game has been twice rescheduled.

KINGSTON

In a makeup contest last Wednesday, Owen-Gage split with visiting Kingston. The Cardinals won the opener, 5-3, and the Bulldogs took the nightcap, 5-2.

Winning pitcher in the first game was Jim Legg, who surrendered five hits, walked three and struck out nine.

Losing pitcher Alan LeValley also gave up five hits, walked two and fanned six. Jim Glidden hit two singles for Owen-Gage.

Randy Radabaugh was the winning moundman in the 5-2 nightcap, walking three, surrendering four hits and striking out four.

Losing pitcher Darrin Matthews struck out six, walked one and gave up five hits.

Scott Gaeth hit a double for the winner.

Flint team wins ball tournament

Francisco's Market of Flint won the third annual Osestoski fastpitch softball tournament held Friday through Sunday in the Cass City Recreation Park.

Francisco's finished second in its division with a 3-1 record. The team defeated Osestoski's, 5-4, in the first playoff game and then beat Bay City Towing, 3-0, in the championship game.

Ed Knieper, who tossed three shutouts for Francisco's, was named the most valuable pitcher in the tournament. Tom Armstrong of Bay City Towing was selected as the most valuable player.

Ten teams were entered.

OUT! -- Akron-Fairgrove's Bucky Streeter (right) was out in this second inning play in the Friday game at Owen-Gage. Second baseman Jim Kuhr (feet in air) fielded the ball, tagged the base before Streeter got there, who had been on first, and then lost his balance and fell. Coming to assist is shortstop Alan LeValley.

O-G marches on as softball team tops A-F

League champion Owen-Gage qualified for the softball district tournament by trouncing visiting Akron-Fairgrove in pre-district play Friday, 17-1.

The game ended after 4½ innings because of the 10-run mercy rule.

The win qualifies coach Judy Campbell's Bulldogs to play North Huron in the districts Friday at Caseville.

The two teams will have lots of practice against each other because they play a makeup double-header Thursday afternoon at Gagetown to end the North Central D League season.

Owen-Gage, 11-1 in the league, can do no worse than tie for the league title. To do that, they will have to lose both games Thursday to the Warriors, which would tie them for first with Caseville, which is 11-3. The Bulldogs have now won the title six years in a row.

Caseville was bounced from post-season action Friday when it was upset in the pre-districts by North Huron.

Winning pitcher Friday was Dana Laurie, who tossed a no-hitter. She struck out 10 and walked three.

Losing pitcher Carla Young gave up 11 hits, walked six and struck out two.

Joan Mosack slugged a double and a triple for the winners, Becky Howard hit a triple, Laurie belted three singles and Terri Sontag hit two singles.

THE COACH AND one of his star pupils get together more than 50 years later. Cliff Keen, left, the coach, was inducted into the Michigan Hall of Fame last Thursday in Detroit. Dr. H.T. Donahue, the pupil, was on hand to honor the U of M coach as he was introduced at Detroit's Cobo Hall.

Business bars up for youths under 18

Persons who are under the age of 18 cannot help incorporate a business, nor may they serve on a corporate board of directors, Attorney General Frank Kelley has ruled.

This prohibition applies to both profit and non-profit corporations. Kelley added his opinion has no bearing on minors holding and owning stock.

There is no specific legal prohibition against people under 18 either helping to form a corporation or serving on its board. However common law has traditionally prevented minors from serving in a corporate office or forming a corporation.

Because the state follows common law unless specifically abrogated by the state, that prohibition must follow, Kelley said.

The state has changed common law to grant adult status on people turning 18, instead of at 21, but "it cannot be said that the common law has similarly been abrogated with respect to legal capacity of minors in relation to the formation and management of profit or non-profit corporations in Michigan," he concluded.

Clothes, money missing from locker rooms

Cass City police were called to the intermediate school last Wednesday to investigate the theft of various items stolen from the locker rooms the previous day during a junior high track meet.

Principal Robert Stickle said the theft took place between 5 and 7 p.m.

The list of missing items was not complete, but taken from the girls' locker room were two pair of jeans, one shirt, one sweatshirt and money. Money was the only thing reported missing from the boys' locker room.

A Cass City woman was advised by police to see an attorney and request the prosecutor's office to issue a warrant after she reported Monday she had been assaulted by her husband.

She told officers she was in a Cass City bar Sunday night when her husband came in, took away the keys to her car and then removed part of the ignition system.

They argued and she then went to her sister's-in-law home. He came to the home, threw her off the porch, she said, then dragged her across the yard.

She requested a police escort Monday morning when she removed her clothes from her home. Her husband told her he wouldn't let her have custody of their children or her car keys.

Police advised her to see an attorney regarding her property rights and custody of her children and to visit the prosecutor's office if she wanted her husband charged with assault and battery.

Kenneth W. White, 33, of Pinnebog Road, Elkton, was arrested by Cass City police at 6:10 p.m. Monday on a charge of driving with license suspended after his car was stopped on Schwegler Road, near M-81.

He was taken to the county jail and released later that day after posting bond, pending appearance in district court.

Nothing was reported missing from a break-in at the Wilnot Homes and Building Center, 5515 E. Sanilac Road, Kingston, that occurred between 5 p.m. May 15 and 10:40 a.m. the next day.

Caro state police reported entry was gained by forcing open a window. Owner Robert Wilnot told troopers the intruder went through desk drawers and a file cabinet and papers were thrown around, but nothing was apparently taken.

Ray Periso of Gagetown reported to sheriff's deputies last Wednesday afternoon that a 250cc Suzuki motorcycle had been stolen from behind his house. It belonged to his son, Raymond, now living in Jackson.

Several cattle were reported roaming in the vicinity of Hills and Dales General Hospital Saturday morning, according to village police. They belonged to Lester Battel, whose dairy farm is on M-81, west of the village limits, who retrieved them. They had escaped through a broken fence.

12 finish CPR class at hospital

A Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) Instructor class was held at Hills and Dales General Hospital May 16 to prepare students to become CPR instructors. It was sponsored by the Michigan Heart Association (MHA).

CPR, which has been found to be 60 percent effective in saving lives of heart attack patients, must be started within six minutes after the patient's heart stops beating, before the patient gets to the hospital. MHA's goal is to teach CPR to the general public in order to save more lives.

The following have completed the CPR instructor class and are now ready to teach: Terry Yoder, Judith A. VanAllen, Nancy Spencer, Michael Salgat, Larry Robinson, Lynn Babich, Janis Hubbard, Hazel Spencer, Linda Battel, Sally Eyer, Mary Ann Hirn and Margaret Echols.

If you or your club or group are in need of CPR classes, please contact one of the students listed or call Jane Mitchell, RN, at Hills and Dales General Hospital 872-2121. Instructors for the class were Frank Kroswek and Jane Mitchell.

Taking Stock

An instant friend is anyone who says they read this column. When they add, "every week" they become even more endearing.

Such is Fran, the manicurist at Gulfstream Bank barber shop.

"I'm not sure I agree with you about renting rather than buying," she said. "I'm renting right now myself but I'd like to buy a condo."

I feel that anybody's rent figures are confidential, so I'll just use some of my own for illustration. The same for the condo she was looking at.

Renting now costs her $300 a month. The condo she was looking at had a price tag of $45,000.

"Fran, nobody yet has agreed with me on the Renting vs. Buying argument," I said. "But let's take some figures:

"So you buy a condo for $45,000. Whether you pay for it in cash, or whether you get a mortgage, the money costs you 15 percent. Either you pay that rate on a mortgage, or you're passing up 15 percent available from money-market funds.

"So 15 percent a year on $45,000 — $6,750."

"Plus maintenance and taxes, say $1,250."

"That's a total of $8,000 a year."

"Your present rent is $3,600."

"You're saving the difference of $4,400 a year."

"Yes, I know," said Fran, "but I'd be owning something eventually instead of a bunch of rent receipts."

Personally, I'd rather have some bank deposit receipts, but I don't convince anybody of my views.

Another example comes to mind from a fellow with a master's degree in business, or economics (I forgot which). He makes $25,000 a year at IBM, is a bachelor, living at home.

He's looking for an apartment.

"Nice ones at Porta Bella," I said. "Some rent for $600 a month."

"Wow!" he said. "Can't afford that. I'm looking at a condo, around $65,000."

Apply the 15 percent figure again to $65,000 — $9,750 a year in interest costs, plus taxes and maintenance of $1,250, say. Total $11,000 vs. $7,200 cost of renting at $600 a month.

"All well and good," said my friend. "But the interest payments and taxes are deductible from my income tax."

He has a point. As a single person, $25,000 in salary puts him in a final bracket of 34-39 percent. Interest cost of $9,750 plus the real estate tax-deductible part of the condo maintenance, say $500. Total tax savings, (35 percent of $10,250) about $3,500. That would cut his net cost of owning down to $7,500.

On the other hand, when the day comes that he finally has paid for the condo he will have $65,000 invested in it. If income tax is his problem, that $65,000 could be put in 11 percent tax-free bonds. Return: $7,150. Close to the $7,200-a-year rent figure.

My man who then rents wouldn't be paying $1,250 a year in maintenance. His tax-free income from the money he might have had in a condo would pay the rent. He'd save $1,250 a year.

By the time this gets into print, I am sure my friend will have bought a condo.

I will have lost another argument.

War dead honored in Memorial Day activities

FLYING THE FLAGS -- Cass City Girl Scouts had numerous flags flying in the Memorial Day parade down Main Street Monday.

PARADE PEDALERS -- The Memorial Day parade in Cass City Monday drew a large contingent of youngsters riding their decorated bicycles.

Council okays rezoning to allow smaller homes

ron originally requested the area be rezoned to RA-2, which requires a minimum floor area of only 850 square feet. Most of the village is zoned RA-2.

INDUSTRIAL WASTE

The council approved a contract with consulting engineers Hubbell, Roth and Clark, Inc., to prepare an industrial waste pre-treatment program, as mandated by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and state Department of Natural Resources in conjunction with construction of the new wastewater treatment plant.

Cost will be an estimated $20,000, of which the EPA will pay 80 percent if it approves the village's grant request, the state, 5 percent, and the village, 20 percent ($4,000).

Engineer Jim Hubbell recommended the village not have the plan prepared unless it receives the grant, that there would be no financial obligation to his firm if the money isn't received.

What the program entails, engineer George Hubbell explained, is a survey of industrial wastes, then developing limitations on what can be discharged into the sewer system.

The aim is to prevent industrial wastes from flowing into the treatment plant, which might upset the treatment process or result in pollutants flowing into the Cass River or be contained in the sewage sludge, which will be disposed of on land.

The plan must outline the enforcement program and equipment needed to monitor what is flowing into the treatment plant, plus how it will be paid for.

Jim Hubbell said as far as is known, there are no serious industrial waste problems, but that will have to be documented.

Preparation of the pre-treatment program is to be done by the end of 1982.

Eventually, according to Hubbell, local industries may have to pay a user charge, based on the cost of treating their wastes, and/or, some industries may have to pre-treat their wastes before allowing them to flow into the sewer.

OTHER ITEMS

The bid of Ken Martin Electric of Cass City of $9,886 for installation of lights for the new tennis courts was approved. Charlie Blank of Snover had submitted a bid of $9,800, but if he were to use the same candlepower lighting as Martin, according to the consultants for the project, his bid would have been $10,800.

Harris-Hampshire Agency of Cass City was the only firm to submit a bid for all of the village's insurance needs. Its bid of $14,869 compares to $16,638 being paid now, also through Harris-Hampshire. The village's good record concerning claims is the reason for the lower premium.

The bid, plus one of $2,966 for vehicle insurance from Doerr Insurance (versus $3,987 from Harris-Hampshire for that part of its package) were referred to the finance committee for a recommendation.

Problems with pumps have delayed opening of the swimming pool, but if all goes well, it will open this week end. Hours until school is out will be 1-5 and 7-9 p.m. Saturdays and 2-5 Sundays.

C.R. Hunt Construction was hired for $1,200 to clean out the storm sewer that crosses Doerr Road and empties into the Center B Drain.

A request from Ron Seeley and Ken Orton at the April meeting to sell ice cream from an ice cream truck has been found to be in compliance with village ordinance. They are only prohibited from selling in residential areas.

When he's down and out, a man may find his friends up and away.

REV. ALLEN R. FRUENDT of the Good Shepherd Lutheran church delivered the message at the Memorial Day service Monday in Elkland township cemetery. Frankie Anker placed a memorial wreath and Lilah Wilhelmi, both of the American Legion Auxiliary, gave a prayer. Jack Esau was master of ceremonies. The Cass City High School band played the National Anthem.

Five injured in M-53 accident

Five persons were injured in an accident on northbound M-53 at 9:50 Tuesday morning.

Caro state police said Illona J. Irwin, 34, from Warren, plowed into the back of a vehicle driven by Clarence Coupar, 79, of Marlette, south of Argyle Road.

Coupar, who was driving about 50 miles per hour, had three passengers with him, his wife, Beatrice, 78, and Julius and Ruth Pabst, both 81, from Marlette.

The five were taken to Marlette Community Hospital, where the Pabsts and Ms. Irwin were admitted in satisfactory condition and the Coupars were treated for minor injuries and released. Ms. Irwin, was ticketed on charges of careless driving.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

At 3:45 p.m. last Thursday, Cass City police reported, Donald D. Cummins, 47, of 5490 McAlpine Road, Gagetown, was about to exit the Croft-Clara Lumber parking lot on Main Street. He was stopped when a semi-truck backed into the right side of his pickup.

Driver of the semi was Perry W. Wolschleger, 24, of Harbor Beach.

Steven J. Wynn, 18, of 7943 Bay City-Forestville Road was turning right from westbound Main onto Sherman Street at 2:05 p.m. Friday, village police said, when his engine stalled.

That in turn rendered the power steering inoperative and he couldn't turn in time to avoid hitting a car parked by the east curb. Owner of the parked car was Lawrence Limberger of Cass City.

At 4:10 a.m. Friday, according to Cass City police, Lupe R. Martinez, 35, of Bad Axe, was southbound on M-53, south of M-81, when his auto collided with a deer.

Kenneth R. Harris, 25, of Greenland Road, was westbound on M-81, west of Crawford Road, at 12:55 a.m. Tuesday, according to Cass City police, when his vehicle struck a deer.

Pinconning girl drowns in pond

A six-year-old Pinconning girl drowned Saturday afternoon while swimming in a pond at the home of friends in Mayville.

Jennifer Wymer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wymer, died Sunday night at Saginaw Saint Mary's Hospital where she had been transferred following the incident.

Deputies said she was swimming with several other children in the pond when she came up missing and was found by the Mertz Road homeowner in three feet of water.

Mayville ambulance attendants called to the scene took her to Caro Community Hospital, where doctors were able to get her heart started again. She was later transported from Caro to Saginaw Saint Mary's.
