

Owen-Gage millage okayed, principal hired

There was good news for the Owen-Gage town as both millage proposals were approved overwhelmingly by voters.

The board also hired a new school principal.

Renewal of 4.25 mills for two years was approved, 360-127. An added levy of 2.25 mills for two years was okayed, 322-163.

The two board members reelected to four year terms were Leona LaFave, who received 402 votes, and Joe Warack, 380.

A total of 495 votes were cast, which is about 35 percent of the approximately 1,400 registered voters in the district. There were nine spoiled ballots, resulting from persons using checkmarks on the paper ballots instead of the required X's.

Following news of the approval, the board authorized application to the state Municipal Finance Commission for permission to borrow $395,000 to be repaid from property tax revenues, which will start coming in in December.

Under the most optimistic of schedules, if the loan application is approved speedily, the district will have money to resume paying its staff, plus back pay, in late July. Employees were last paid March 13. The application can't be made until the new fiscal year begins July 1.

The new principal is F. Wayne Wright, presently a math specialist in the Romulus school. He was selected from a field of more than 60 applicants and was one of five to be interviewed by the

The board spent about an hour in executive session discussing retiring principal James Barr's contract, which calls for him to be paid $27,825 this school year.

The problem was that his state teacher retirement system pension is based on a percentage of the average of his income for his five highest paid years. Since he, like the other employees haven't been paid since March 13, if he were not to receive his back pay until after he retired, it would have reduced his official last year's pay by a substantial amount. In turn, that would have meant his pension would have been less.

The board returned and voted to dip into its meager funds to pay Barr all the money due him by June 19, his official last day.

The principal, prior to the executive session thanked the board for its kindness during his recent hospital stay and during the June 2 open house and offered his support for its continuing fight with the state.

OTHER ITEMS

The board voted to renew its membership in the Michigan High School Athletic Association for 1981-82.

Letters of congratulations will be sent to Jim Patnaude, state Class D pole vault champion, and the girls' softball team, winner of the North Central D League season title and the district tournament.

May student of the month was Heidi Rockett, a senior.

2 children killed in crash near Snover

Two children were killed in an accident Sunday evening east of Snover.

Pronounced dead at the scene was Michelle Lynn Ertman, 10, daughter of Donald and Rosalee (Dysarz) Ertman of 3381 Huron Line Road, Uby.

Pronounced dead on arrival at McKenzie Memorial Hospital in Sandusky was her niece, Penny Marie McNeil, 2 1/2 months, daughter of Gary E. and Audrey M. (Ertman) McNeil of the same address.

They were passengers in a car driven by Doris M. McNeil, 38, of Bad Axe, the sister-in-law of the third passenger in the car, Penny's mother, Audrey, 19 (Michelle's sister).

Doris McNeil was transferred from McKenzie to Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, where she was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon. Audrey McNeil was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw, where she was in serious condition Tuesday afternoon.

The other driver involved was Diane Buniak, 20, of Sandusky, who was treated and released from McKenzie. A passenger in her car was unhurt.

Sandusky state police reported that the Buniak vehicle, eastbound on Snover Road, failed to stop at the stop sign at M-19 and ran into the right side of the McNeil auto, which was southbound on M-19.

The 6:35 p.m. accident remains under investigation.

Joint funeral services for the two girls, the sixth and seventh persons to die in Sanilac county traffic accidents this year, will be conducted at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Ignatius Catholic church, Freiburg, Father Gerald Kukla officiating. Burial for both will be in the church cemetery.

Michelle Ertman was born Jan. 9, 1971, in Bad Axe. She had just completed the fourth grade at Uby Elementary School.

She is survived by her parents; five sisters, Cynthia (Mrs. Troy) Casey, Ottumwa, Iowa; Cheryl (Mrs. Daniel) Breskey, Filion; Denise (Mrs. James) Travis, Victoryville, Calif.; and Audrey (Mrs. Terry)

McNeil and Dawn Ertman of Uby, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ertman and Mrs. Angeline Dysarz, all of Cass City.

A wake service was to be held at the Zinger Funeral Home in Uby, by Father Kukla at 7 p.m. Wednesday. Penny McNeil was born March 23, 1981 in Bad Axe.

She is survived by her parents; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ertman of Uby, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary E. McNeil Sr. of Bad Axe; great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ertman and Mrs. Angeline Dysarz, all of Cass City, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Landenberg, all of Bad Axe, and by her great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Williams of Inkster.

Extra millage defeated; Burnette, Hobart on board

Although a formal decision has not been reached, it's likely that the Cass City Board of Education will make a second try for a full educational program.

Supt. Donald Crouse said following the decisive denial Monday of 3 extra mills for operations, 718-461, that he will immediately outline the cuts that will be made necessary to operate the school next year.

If the board feels another try for the millage is proper, the issue can be placed before the voters. Before the vote, the cuts in the curriculum that will be necessary will be outlined so taxpayers will know what to expect in the operation of the schools in 1981-82.

School officials have projected a shortfall of some $300,000 with the millage now available.

A proposition to renew 12.9 mills for operation passed, 815-360.

CANDIDATE VOTE

The voters also elected

Ellen Thresa Burnette and Ben Hobart to school board posts for four-year terms. Burnette is an incumbent and led the ticket with 477 votes. Hobart polled 360 votes and replaces Dean Hoag who resigned after 10 1/2 years on the board.

Hoag told the board Monday night that he was pleased to be able to serve and enjoyed his tenure on the board. "I'll take the profits and go to Bermuda," he joked. Board members receive $40 per year.

and the votes they received were: Richard M. Shaw, 319; Louis Horner, 286; Fred Mathews, 236 (write-in); Gregory W. Brown, 170; Thomas A. Sutter, 169, and Luis Salas, 107 (write-in).

Although Hobart has never served on the board, his views as an interested spectator indicate he is supportive of administrative policies.

Burnette has been generally critical of several of the administrative policies and generally receptive to the aims of teachers.

Millage loses in Uby, approved in Kingston

The Uby Board of Education will meet Monday evening, June 15, to decide its next step in the aftermath of the defeat of the millage proposal on Monday's ballot.

In the Kingston School District, the candidate who lost by only one vote plans to ask for a recount. The millage renewal there was approved.

The 6-mill levy for operations in Uby -- 3 mills renewal and 3 additional -- was defeated, 744-549, with three votes spoiled.

One option available to the board is to schedule another election.

The meeting will be at 8:30 p.m. in the high school library. The board scheduled the special session after learning during its regular meeting Monday of the levy's defeat.

There were four candidates running for the one vacancy on the board. The winner was Julia Mae Heilig of Union Street, Uby, with 424 votes.

The other candidates were J. Walter Walsh, 314, Martin R. Kubacki, 308, and Terry Haupt, 178.

There were 81 ballots cast for candidates that had to be rejected because the elector voted for more than one candidate.

A total of 1,307 ballots were cast, which is 52 percent of the registered voters.

In the Kingston district, renewal of 15 mills for operations was approved, 216-128, with two votes spoiled.

Top vote-getter for the two four-year terms on the board was Janet M. Grieve with 231 votes.

Louis E. Wenzlaiff, who has served on the board 14 years, received 202 votes, only one more than Wesley E. Scott.

Scott said Tuesday he plans to ask for a recount.

A total of 346 votes were cast.

Picking school photographer no snap; board rejects Richards' proposals

The Cass City School Board may have set a record Monday night. A new mark for the length of the session coupled with little visible achievement.

Meeting at the school, the trustees squabbled about school photographers, high school attendance, and the swing-out without reaching a decision about any of the three.

The meeting stretched on to 11 p.m. More than a third of the marathon meeting was devoted to whether or not the school should hire Powell Studios to continue as the official school photographer.

It was first brought up in the May meeting when a committee was formed. Principal Russell Richards presented a committee report which he said had the unanimous approval of the committee. It called for Powell Studio to be the official photographer.

To get in the yearbook students have to have a sitting from Powell which costs $10 including permanent proofs.

At the meeting, Kirk Winter, a member of the committee that Richards said approved the recommendations, reported that what many of the students wanted was to have a choice of photographers. This is expected to increase the cost of the yearbook.

After considerable discussion it was decided by the board to shove the whole affair into the hands of the students on the yearbook staff and make no decision.

The staff is expected to research the proposition and return with recommendations. There was a motion by Trustee Dick Albee to have the staff decide it all without reporting to the board but this motion was withdrawn when it was pointed out that the board was financially responsible for the yearbook which costs nearly $6,000.

Evergreen Principal Dorland Kuntz called the action a copout.

ATTENDANCE POLICY

It just wasn't Richards' night with the board. Two other recommendations failed to receive board approval.

They concerned a change in the attendance and tardy policies.

Presently unexcused absences are punished on a sliding scale depending on the number of days missed by suspension from school.

The administration wants a system that requires a comprehensive examination for any student that misses more than 10 days of school per semester.

If the student passes the special exam, normal marking procedures would prevail.

Trustee Dr. E. Paul Lockwood objected to the policy because he didn't feel that students with excused absences should suffer the same "penalty" as pupils with unexcused absences.

The administrators said that the test was not a penalty but a means of determining if the student has learned the material.

We feel that this will encourage attendance more than the present system, Richards said, and we want the kids in school.

The best attendance boosting method we had was allowing students not to take finals if their marks were up and attendance met the standards established, he said.

However, this was abolished because missing the tests was not preparing students for further education. We recommend this as the second best alternative, Richards reported.

That proposal was tabled until the next meeting as was a companion proposal concerning tardiness. It calls for parent conferences plus in-school detention for varying periods depending on the number of tardy infractions.

SWING OUT

A recommendation of the principal for the abandoning of swing out was rejected by a 3-2 vote of the board.

Richards asked for the cancellation after a student, during the swing out, hooked a ride on the back of a car and firecrackers were thrown among the marchers.

A year ago, swing out was cancelled, then re-instated on the condition that students behave and the promise that if there was trouble it would be cancelled for good.

Despite this Thresa Burnette, Lockwood and Dean Hoag voted not to support a motion by President Geraldine Prieskorn that the swing out be cancelled. The motion was supported by Dr. Ed Scollon and Albee abstained.

Kuntz said that the action showed just how much support the administrators could expect to receive from the board.

OTHER BUSINESS

The board accepted the low bid for insurance at the school from Lawrence Insurance Agency after investigation of terms on the boiler portion of the insurance. Please turn to page 18.

Wind shifts, sparks fly, area barn burns Sunday

A shift in the wind Sunday morning resulted in an approximately 30-by-50-foot wood barn being destroyed by fire.

The barn on Grassmere Road, north of Daus Road and northeast of Cass City, was being purchased by Floyd and Ethel Moorish from Ken McRae of Uby. They are also buying the nearby house.

Elkland township firemen were called to the scene at 11:30 a.m. and were there until about 2 p.m. They were assisted by Elmwood Township-Gagetown firemen, who brought a tanker and a pumper, and Bad Axe firemen, who responded with a tanker.

According to Moorish, he was burning a large pile of brush for McRae, who still owns the property surrounding the barn and house he is buying.

"I watched it as close as I could," he explained, but the wind changed direction suddenly from the southwest to the northwest and blew sparks onto a pile of cedar fence rails on the north side of the barn. The burning brush was a couple of hundred feet to the north.

Moorish was between the pile and barn when the fire started. When he saw smoke, he ran to his house south of the barn and grabbed a bucket of water as his garden hose wasn't long enough to reach the barn. His wife called the fire department.

By the time he got back with the third bucket of water, the flames, which had leaped from the cedar rails to the barn, were so high up, he couldn't reach them with the water.

Moorish was able to get his dog and three rabbits in cages out of the barn, but six chickens were lost.

By the time the fire department arrived, the roof was burning. Elkland Assistant Fire Chief Ron Pawloski said there was no possibility by the time they got there to save the structure.

Among items lost in the fire were an old combine used for parts and 300-500 bales of hay owned by Art Battel of 7964 Daus Road. Value was not available.

Moorish lost 700 cedar rails outside the barn and another 300 inside, worth $1 each, and 15 or 16 large rabbit cages, worth a total of about $500. He had been planning to use them to raise a large number of rabbits.

He also lost eight loads of treated lumber, which was outside the barn, a large number of steel fence posts, bent and twisted from the heat, plus some wheels and tires and miscellaneous items.

He said there was insurance on the barn, but not enough to pay the cost of building a replacement.

It was a busy afternoon last Wednesday for Elkland township firemen.

About 2 p.m., they were called to the David Little residence on Dodge Road, north of Kelly Road.

Apparent cause of the fire there was trash left burning in a barrel. Sparks or burn-

"If It Fitz..."

Peccable socializing

By Jim Fitzgerald

President Reagan has recently been entertained at the homes of political columnists George Will and James Kilpatrick. This raises the question of credibility. The next time Reagan reads something written by either of these two nationally syndicated columnists, will he be reading to learn how to be a better president, or simply because he enjoyed the quiche Lorraine served by Will, or the beef stew served by Kilpatrick?

Many Washington observers claim it's a mistake for columnists whose job is to comment on the performance of a president to invite him to dinner. Naturally, these objections are not based on any fear that writers such as Will and Kilpatrick might be reluctant to criticize a president who is their good buddy. Everyone knows that most columnists are fiercely protective of their objectivity and never swayed by close proximity to the throne, even if the king sharpens their pencils for them.

Of course, despite what you read here, you shouldn't believe all columnists are perfect. While I'm certain no columnist would write nice things about a president simply because they're social friends, I do worry that some columnists might be tempted to name-drop and tell their readers how vexing it is to never know when the president and 32 Secret Service agents will drop in for Sunday brunch.

Syndicated columnists try to sell their words to as many newspapers as possible. It can increase sales for a columnist to write that Nancy and Ronald Reagan ate dinner at his house last Saturday. This social item will surely persuade some newspapers that the columnist has impeccable sources close to the White House, and they will buy his column. This puts the president in the awkward position of increasing the wealth of one columnist to the detriment of competing columnists whose dinner guests are peccable.

Despite what you don't read here, all columnists don't have too much pride in their craft to drop names for money. It's not unknown for a relative of a president to drop the president's name in a quest for cash, so it's obviously unfair to say a columnist, simply by virtue of his job, is automatically more honorable than someone born to the purple.

But there is danger in dropping a president's name, as was recently made evident by President Reagan's oldest son, Michael. Seeking business for the military equipment supplier for whom he worked, Michael wrote to a prospective customer: "I know that, with my father's leadership at the White House, this country (sic) Armed Services are going to be rebuilt and strengthened..."

Notice the sic. I inserted it parenthetically so you would realize I know better than to write "this country Armed Services," but Michael Reagan doesn't. That's the risk in dropping names. I don't know about George Will or James Kilpatrick, but I'd be embarrassed to drop the name of a United States president so negligent he didn't teach his son how to use the apostrophe.

So it is reasonable to hope that the possibility of embarrassment will restrain columnists from taking a president to lunch simply so they can drop his name and increase column sales. And, as mentioned earlier, there is scant reason to worry that columnists will give favored treatment to a president simply because he comes to their homes for dinner and brings a dish to pass. Columnists have too much integrity to risk losing a Pulitzer Prize by covering up the incriminating news that their friend the president failed to prepare his very own children for a life full of sics.

All of which leaves us with the columnists' credibility intact, but what about the president's credibility? Does President Reagan read George Will and James Kilpatrick, and thereby increase their wealth, because he likes their opinions, or because he likes their food? I don't know.

All I know is Hudson's and Coty cosmetics have invited me to have cocktails and hors d'oeuvres with Sophia Loren next Thursday but I'm not going because I think she's more interested in my body than my mind. Also, I heard she's peccable.

Named new principal

Wayne Wright right for O-G

The new principal of Owendale-Gagetown High School is F. Wayne Wright, 34, of Belleville, presently a math specialist for the Romulus Community Schools, near Detroit.

The board of education approved a contract Monday night hiring him for the 1981-82 school year. He will receive $23,000 for the year.

He replaces the retiring James Barr, who was principal seven years.

Wright received a BS degree, with a major in mathematics and a minor in social sciences, from Evangel College, in Springfield, Mo., in 1969. He received a master of arts degree in 1976 and educational specialist degree in 1979, both from Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, with majors in educational administration.

He taught math in the Bentley Community Schools in Burton from 1969-70, followed by two years in the Army, part of which was spent at Fort Carson, Colo., near Colorado Springs.

After his discharge, he taught math in the Harrison School District, Colorado Springs from 1972-75.

He returned to Michigan and taught math at Goodrich, near Flint, from 1975-77. Wright then was administrator of Real Life Christian Academy in Salem, Ohio, from 1977-79. He assumed his position with the Romulus schools in September, 1979.

He was employed in a federally-funded program, involved with working with Comprehensive Employment and Training Act eligible (low income) youth in such areas as teaching employment skills and job placement. He helped establish a math lab at Romulus High School.

The new principal was involved at Romulus with writing applications for federal grants, a skill he feels may prove useful for the Owen-Gage schools. Despite cutbacks by the Reagan administration, he said, there is still some federal money available for education.

One of Wright's assignments will be athletic director. He has coached seventh and ninth grade basketball four years, ninth grade track two years and junior varsity football one year.

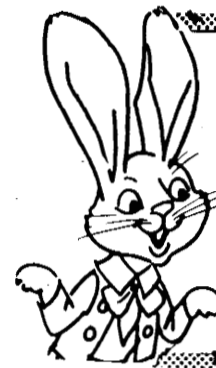

He has played in local basketball and softball leagues. His other interests are antique cars, and HO model trains. He has worked with a church youth group.

His wife, Jeanette, was born in Pigeon, but moved with her family to Flint at an early age. They have a daughter, Marsha, 4.

While he was meeting with the board Tuesday evening, Mrs. Wright was looking at houses. They hope to move by July 1. He officially begins his new duties July 6. The new principal told board members he and his wife are "very excited about our move to this area" and that he feels "very comfortable" with the high school's academic and athletic programs.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Don Erla was showing a big fish around town this week. It was a Walleye caught in Saginaw Bay Monday. It measured 30 1/4 inches long, weighed 11 1/2 pounds and had a girth of 18 inches.

Don't be envious of Don. He didn't catch it. Fred Bosco, a friend from Bay City, did.

Bill O'Dell, Novesta supervisor and retired farmer, builder and salesman, brought me a hat from Alaska. Folks who know me could have told Bill it would be too small. It was.

O'Dell and his wife, Lorraine, spent four weeks in Alaska and came back with pictures of small King Salmon weighing about 30 pounds.

They have to go 90 pounds if you are after a record in Alaska, O'Dell confided with a grin.

It's likely that Cass City Schools will be seeking another vote for the three mills for operation refused by the voters Monday.

Judging by the vote it will be a tough row to hoe. Not impossible, but uphill all the way.

Monday there were 360 votes cast against the renewal millage. You have to believe that these taxpayers would say no to calling the fire department if the buildings were on fire.

There were 257 more no votes than yes votes for the added millage. That means over 20 percent of voters will have to have a change of heart or 257 more yes votes that stayed home Monday be dragged to the polls.

Since the 1191 votes cast Monday is about as heavy a turnout as the district gets, increasing the vote is not likely.

I'm not implying here that an attempt should not be made. If boosters for a full school program infer that I feel they should prepare for the worst they are right.

Set fete for Doctor Ballard

The community will honor Dr. James H. Ballard with a cooperative dinner Sunday at 4 p.m. at the Masonic Temple on Garfield and Maple Streets.

The public is welcome and asked to bring a dish to pass and table service, said Helen Lorentzen, coordinator of the event.

Jack Esau, of Cass City, will lead a brief program acknowledging Dr. Ballard's 35 years of service as an area physician.

The medical staff of Hills and Dales General Hospital honored their colleague, Dr. Ballard, with a dinner Wednesday night at Charmont.

About 30 persons were expected at the dinner, where the doctor was to be acknowledged and presented with a gift, Randa Allen said.

The Haire Net

More often than not when the daily papers come to the house they are delivered by car. When I see a car drive up, I can't help but recall my career as a paper boy.

Back then delivery by car was as rare as delivery on foot today. At 25 cents for daily and Sunday delivery, there wasn't much left over for gas. Provided you had a car. It's certain that there are more two-car families today than there were families with cars during the depression.

We were one of the lucky ones with a car. It was a Terraplane, a bomb of a car that would do 100 easy unless it rained, when it wouldn't go at all.

But that's another story. If you can remember the Terraplane you can remember when cars had manual chokes and throttles.

For the benefit of you youngsters, a throttle was a primitive cruise control. You could pull it out and keep the engine from idling.

Its primary purpose was to keep the engine from stalling while it was warming up.

I found another use for it. A brilliant stratagem that only a 13-year-old, who was too young to drive but drove anyway, could devise.

Without boasting I claim that no one delivered the Free Press in Pinconning faster than I.

In Pinconning in a stretch of two blocks I had perhaps six customers all on the same side of the street. These houses all boasted large front lawns, perhaps 50 feet deep.

After a few weeks of delivering it was easy for me to see that I was spinning my wheels by driving that car in front of the house, jumping out to deliver the paper and then returning to drive the car the very short way to the next customer in the same block.

That's when my brilliant stratagem was hatched and why I say that I delivered the paper faster than anyone. At the very least anyone with sense.

Here's the way it went. At the start of the block I'd place the car in the center of the road and pull out the throttle. Just far enough so the car would creep down the road at about 10 miles per hour.

Then with the six papers under my arm I would dash across the lawns of the residents and deliver to my customers.

Meanwhile the car would be travelling driverless down the road for the two blocks. After my papers were delivered I'd catch the car and continue the route.

I did that morning after morning without mishap. Who says that providence doesn't look after the foolish or the young... or the young and foolish?

PEDALING AROUND

Suspicious guilt

By Mike Eliasohn

The only word that can be used to describe the 30 or so murders of young black males in Atlanta is abhorrent.

This is not the first time a (presumably) lone individual has terrified a community, even one with a million or so inhabitants.

In New York City a few years ago, David Berkowitz, the "son of Sam," had young women and their boyfriends afraid to go out at night.

Several years ago, young women in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area were afraid to go out alone until John Norman Collins was convicted of one murder.

Those two persons were caught, but the "Oakland county child killer" of a few years ago never was.

As of this writing (Friday), the Atlanta killer hasn't been caught, either.

Until the police there do find the killer, it appears they and the media will be satisfied to skewer the "suspect."

Ultimately, Wayne Williams, who was questioned by Atlanta police for 12 hours last week and then released, may be arrested and found guilty, but at this point, he has committed no known crime.

In this country, a person is supposed to be innocent until proven guilty.

Williams hasn't even been charged with a crime, but already he has been judged a "suspect," with the implication he is the guilty party.

Some of the blame belongs to the media, but the majority must fall on the Atlanta police. I'm sure if they wanted to, they could have questioned Williams with no one in the media knowing.

Instead, we know the man's name, how he first became a suspect and now that he has been released, we are being told that he is still a suspect and that evidence has been found in his home possibly linking him to the murders.

If Williams is innocent, the Atlanta police and the media have ruined him for life and deserve to be sued for every penny they're worth. Especially if the crime never is solved, he will be plagued with, "That's the man who did it, but they could never prove it."

It sure shows great police work to announce to the public the name of their suspect before they even have enough evidence to arrest him. What did the police hope to gain by taking him into custody? Did they think he was going to confess?

If Williams is ever arrested, his lawyers will have a great defense in proving (easily) their client's rights were violated. He could go free for that reason.

I hereby nominate the Atlanta police for the Dallas-police - let - your - suspect - charged - with - shooting - the - president - get - shot - to - death - by - a - nightclub - owner award.

Firm hired to run Cass City school lunch program

The Cass City School Board voted unanimously to hire Canteen to supervise the school's hot lunch program during the 1981-82 school year.

The move was made after a presentation by a member of the management firm who told members that he feels that his firm can run the program for the same prices paid this year and erase practically all of the projected deficit of over $20,000 that the program cost in 1980-81.

Build into this computation is the fee of the firm which is $675 for 10 months. Canteen will also train a manager for work at the local level.

Under Canteen it is projected that the current staff will be retained but hours worked reduced one hour per day.

Canteen expected to accomplish this by providing more attractive meals to boost student participation and keeping a sharp eye out to recover costs. Items from vending machines will be discontinued.

We deal in tenths of a cent per meal and we know how to use government surplus food to make it attractive, the board was told.

That he felt that the most impressive statistic he could present was that six schools that signed one-year contracts with his concern all have renewed.

Among the schools were Millington and Clio where deficits were eliminated.

The school authorized a three-year contract that can be cancelled by either party after a year with 60 days' notice.

10¢ dividend declared by Walbro

The board of directors of Walbro Corp. has declared a second quarter dividend of 10 cents per share payable July 31, 1981, to stockholders of record June 30.

The second quarter dividend is a continuation of a four-year trend of 10 cent quarterly dividends, according to Walbro President Lambert Althaver.

"The outlook for the second half of 1981 remains mixed," he said in announcing the dividend. "We expect a gradual upturn in sales levels in the coming months, building as the economy improves towards the end of the year."

Resource sampling underway

Tuscola county is one of 36 Michigan counties where soil and water resources information will be collected this summer for the U.S. Department of Agriculture national resources inventory, according to Philip Dakin, U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) District conservationist for Tuscola county.

The inventory is part of the inventory and monitoring program that has become a permanent function of the SCS as a result of the Resources Conservation Act. Soil and water resource data was collected in 32 Michigan counties in 1980 and the remaining 15 counties will be inventoried in 1981.

Dakin and soil conservation technician William Siems are in the process of visiting the 141 primary sample units in Tuscola county and have completed the data on approximately 17 percent. They are recording information about three sample points in each sample unit.

Based on their observations, they will record information on land use, land ownership, cropping history, conservation treatment, and factors affecting wind and water erosion.

The data they collect will be combined with similar information collected in every county in the nation during the three-year period and will be used to determine the condition of the nation's soil and water resources.

O-G Senior Citizens draw 45

New books at the library

ALL THE DAYS WERE SUMMER, by Jack M. Bickham (fiction). Set in a rural Ohio town in 1943, this novel pivots around a naive but thoroughly likable 12-year-old. It's a charming, comfortable story of one telling summer in the boy's life, during which he manages to cope with bullying classmates, make friends with a German POW, and adjust to the death of his beloved blind dog. This book takes you back to the innocence of childhood, flavors it with smalltown ambience and prejudices, and manages to tug a few heart strings at the same time.

SMALL COMPUTERS by Fred D'Ignazio (non-fiction). D'Ignazio exhibits boundless enthusiasm in his rapid rundown on small computers of the present and future, programmable as well as non-programmable, both service and game-oriented. He explains, in brief, computer hardware, software, and languages and provides tips on selecting a small computer, but concentrates most fully on tomorrow's revolutionary computers. He comments on darker aspects, such as the use of computer technology in warfare, crime, and "Big Brotherism." Appended material includes lists of magazines and books about small computers, a glossary and an index. Provocative fodder for a growing junior high and high school-age audience.

THE NOT-SO-EMPTY NEST by Feuerstein and Roberts (non-fiction). Parents frankly discuss the frustrations caused when grown sons or daughters return home after living on their own, a hiatus that the mothers and fathers had adjusted to and found a relief from heavy responsibilities. The homing young are also heard from, describing their disillusionment with relationships, the freedom they sought or other reasons for finding parental homes inviting. Back in the nest, they have few bills to pay, no household chores to handle, no major worries. But case histories show that dissatisfactions sour home life for parents and the grown dependents as well, creating situations that the authors give some advice on handling civilly, with mutual respect.

Steelworkers elect Lester district chief

Harry E. Lester, education coordinator and staff representative of United States Steelworkers of America District 29, was elected district director May 28, by an approximate vote of 11,000-3,000 over challenger John Sadvery.

Members of 220 Steelworkers locals voted. The vote at Local 6222, which represents employees at the General Cable plant in Cass City, was 59-2, according to Local President Grace Nemeth. It was a light turnout, she said.

Lester, 51, will replace Charles Younglove of Trenton, who is retiring after

Livestock clinic set for 4-H'ers

Young livestock owners from Sanilac and surrounding counties can learn showmanship and proper grooming techniques at the 1981 Regional Livestock Fitting and Showing Clinic, said Patrick D. Livingston, Sanilac county extension 4-H youth agent.

The clinic will be at the Tuscola County Fairgrounds in Caro July 1, from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. with a break for lunch.

Grooming and showmanship for beef cattle, dairy cows, dairy goats, horses, poultry, rabbits, sheep and swine will be covered.

Participants will be shown the techniques and given an opportunity to practice their new skills. Proper livestock management and feeding practices will also be discussed.

The livestock sessions will run simultaneously, so it will be possible to attend only one session. If you want information on more than one species, arrange for a friend to attend a different program and get together afterward to share information. Livingston recommended.

having served as the district's director since 1960. He had run unopposed for each of his five four-year terms.

Lester, who lives with his family in Rockwood, south of Detroit, assumes office Sept. 1.

HEALTH TIPS

Sun tanning is harmful to skin

Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
AMA

What does your doctor think of sun tanning?

He's against it. If you should ask your doctor whether there is any health value to sun tanning, he would have to answer "No."

If you asked him whether sun tanning might hurt you, he would have to reply "Yes."

Sunning, overdone, can cause severe burn. Sunning, done modestly, can produce a golden tan that gives an illusion of health and well being.

But that golden tan often leads to premature aging and wrinkling of the skin, to premature "age spots" on the hands and neck, and to skin cancer.

So, once again, the American Medical Association advises Americans everywhere against suntanning.

But, your doctor also is well aware that millions of Americans will ignore this advice this summer.

They will flock to the swimming pools and beaches through the warm months to bask in the sun. They will stretch out on the grass in the back yard, or on the roof terrace, or in the nearest park.

If you insist on getting a tan this summer despite medical advice to the contrary, here's how to do it without burning.

On the first day of sunning, allow 15 minutes on each side. The second day 20 minutes. The third day 25 to 30 minutes. By the third day the skin should begin to brown. Thereafter proceed at the best pace for your own skin to tan without burning. At the first sign of redness, get out of the sun.

It isn't easy to confine sun time to only half an hour on the first day at the vacation

Father Joseph Morales officiated at the installation. Officers installed were: president, Agnes Zawilinski; vice-president, Florence Schell; secretary, Bunny Keyser, and treasurer, Marion Weltin.

A short business meeting was held. Marie Doyen accepted the chairmanship of the Christmas bazaar that will be held in the fall. Marion Turner and Cathy Diebel are co-chairmen of the bake sale during Cass City sidewalk sale days.

The next meeting will be in September.

Soil survey underway for year

Field work for the Tuscola county progressive soil survey is underway again.

The survey crew is mapping in Akron and Fairgrove townships at this time. The people performing the survey are party leader Ken Metter and soil scientists Willard Ryland and Cheryl English. They have mapped approximately 229,855 acres to date (44 percent of the county). Fremont, Watertown, Juniata, Indianfields and Denmark townships are scheduled to be mapped during the remainder of the year.

A progressive soil survey is an inventory of the existing soil condition which describes the type of material, drainage, slope and suitability for different land uses (farming, housing, forestry, development and recreation).

Any landowners who have questions regarding the soil survey can call the Tuscola

Soil Conservation District office in Caro.

Your Neighbor says
Need shouldn't be basis
for Social Security

Willard Dodson of Cass City objects to the solution of basing Social Security payments on how much a person needs, as suggested in last week's "Your Neighbor Says."

"It's just like paying on insurance," said Dodson, explaining "if you took out fire insurance and your house burned down, you'd expect the money you'd paid into the policy returned."

The program was first presented to the American people as an insurance policy for retirement, not a welfare program, he said. The 65-year-old retiree paid into Social Security the week it started in December, 1936.

"For 31 years I've paid the maximum amount into the system," said Dodson, a retired boiler maker. The government should come up with some solution to the program's financial problems that won't leave those of us who've been paying into it hanging, he continued, describing any plan to reduce benefits as "like renegeing on an endowment policy."

Dodson, a minister at the Bad Axe Church of Christ, claimed the government used Social Security revenues as they saw fit for years, putting the money into the general fund instead of letting it draw interest.

The government should not now deprive people of what they've been putting into the program.

"There should be a way of working out the problem, by combining income tax money and money from the insurance policy," suggests Dodson.

The Reagan plan to discourage early retirement, he said, isn't fair either. People should be allowed to work if they want to, but should not be deprived of what was promised them in the beginning.

Dodson and his wife, Nella, live at 6742 Main Street. The couple has nine children and 14 grandchildren "scattered all over the world."

Elementary pupils host parents

Title I reading students at Evergreen and Deford Elementary Schools hosted an open house for their parents Friday. Grades 1-6 were involved.

Reading teacher Marion Binder explained some of the reading materials used throughout the year and the importance of family visits to the public library during the summer months to maintain and support reading progress gained during the school year. Students shared different reading and writing activities with their parents.

Parents tasted special treats made by the reading students. First graders made Rice Krispie treats; second graders, granola; third graders, chocolate-oatmeal cookies; fourth graders, pineapple-bran muffins, and the fifth graders, Scotch crispies. Each student received a cookbook giving recipes to read and enjoy throughout the summer.

Two men charged in Gun Club break-in

Two St. Clair Shores residents have been charged with breaking and entering in connection with the early morning, June 3, break-in at the Cass City Gun Club on Englehart Road. They are Jody L. Miller, 20, and Robert F. Weber, 18. As of Tuesday, they had yet to be arraigned in Tuscola county because they were still being held in the Lapeer county jail on charges of minor in possession of alcoholic beverages and possession of marijuana, according to Detective Ron Phillips of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

They are charged with having had those substances in their car when it was stopped by Imlay City police at 4 a.m. last Wednesday, as well as what was taken in the break-in.

It is believed the break-in at the Gun Club took place about an hour earlier. Taken were several cases of beer, candy, snacks and soft drinks.

The suspects' car was stopped by Imlay City police on what was reported to be a routine traffic stop. A third person in the car was a female juvenile.

Bauer retires from board with hospital in the black

James Bauer, Hills and Dales General Hospital board president, retired with the hospital on firm financial footing, the annual financial report indicates. His attendance at the annual meeting Tuesday of the non-profit corporation marked the end of his 25 years on the board. The report, presented by Robert Tuckey, certified public accountant, revealed revenues for the fiscal year ending March 31 were $4,410,322, up $948,089 over last year's figure. The increase was not a result of increased charges to patients but of an increased number of patients and operations performed at the hospital, Tuckey said.

With the increased revenues, the hospital was able to have an excess of $155,656 in revenues over its expenses for the year, up from $124,238 last year.

"It was a good year," said Bauer, who credited Hospital Administrator Ken Jensen with running a "tight ship." "I'm bowing out, but don't have to worry about the operation (of the hospital) with such a fine and dedicated board," he continued. He also credited employee support for the hospital's success.

Gerald Prieskorn, board member, was elected by the board to assume Bauer's leadership role. Phil Keating was elected the new vice-president, replacing Dr. H.T. Donahue.

Two new members, Don G. Tonti and Robert F. Green, were elected to the board.

Tonti is director of human resources for Walbro Corp. and Green is a dentist and member of the hospital's medical staff. Attorney Clinton House was reelected to the board.

Giving his annual report to the board, Jensen described the year as "busy and eventful," with the hospital's biggest asset being its employees and volunteers like those in the hospital auxiliary.

Highlights of the past year, reported by Jensen, include:

- Finalization of arrangements with three new physicians and current negotiations with two general practitioners.
- The sale of land for construction of a new physicians' clinic, almost completed.
- Extension of the clinical dietician hours to 2 1/2 days per week.
- Renovation of the basement office area and upgrading of video equipment for internal television used for patient education programs.
- Upgrading of employee pension programs.
- Incorporation of full time physician coverage in the emergency room on week ends and holidays.
- 13,583 days of patient care provided to 2,575 patients.
- Delivery of 157 babies.
- Performance of 2,702 surgical procedures.
- Handling 19,227 persons through the new ambulatory care facility.

Farmers advised to check for armyworms

Growers of corn and small grains should be checking their fields now for signs of feeding by armyworms, advise Michigan State University extension entomologists.

Small but abundant armyworms have seriously damaged young corn in Tuscola, Monroe and Cass counties, and they've also been reported in the grasses and small grains in those counties and in Kalamazoo county.

The armyworms were found in a corn field in the Fairgrove area last week, according to Tuscola County Extension Agent Bill Bortel. Twenty-three percent of the crop was damaged and the field had to be sprayed. The insects have been found in lesser amounts in some other fields.

They are most likely to be found, he said, in small grains and in corn fields with grassy residue resulting from use of minimum tillage.

MSU entomologist Bob Ruppel urges growers throughout the state to check their fields now for these voracious caterpillars.

"Get out into the fields and look for leaves chewed in from the margins," he said.

"Check the ground beneath the plants for green sawdust -- this is the armyworm's droppings. Then check the soil around the base of the plant for the worm itself."

The armyworm is a dark, hairless caterpillar with a light stripe down both sides. When mature, it may measure 1 1/2 inches long. The worms being found now are generally about 3/4 inch long, but that's plenty big enough to do a lot of damage in a short period of time.

They generally feed at night and hide at the base of the plant during the day. But when their numbers reach a certain density, he said, they'll begin to move about in large masses, feeding both day and night.

"When armyworms begin to march, they'll feed on almost anything," Ruppel says. "They'll eat the leaves of small grains and then clip the heads. They'll take corn right down to the stalks. We've had them in peas, and we've even had calls that they were mowing lawns."

Growers should check their fields now and contact their county Cooperative Extension Service agent if they find the worms in any numbers, Ruppel urged. The agents can then alert other local growers to check their fields. Anyone who has an armyworm problem should apply controls as soon as possible.

"The longer you delay, the worse the damage can be," Ruppel points out. "We have some better materials registered for armyworm control this year, but anything you use is more effective against the worms when they are small. The bigger they get, the more they eat and the harder they are to control."

The most likely places to find armyworms are in heavy stands of grasses; in wheat, rye and other small grains, and in corn, particularly in areas with a lot of weedy grasses. Fields in which green manure crops were plowed down this spring and fields where grass herbicides have failed because of leaching by heavy rains are likely candidates for armyworm attack.

Firemen believe heat from a fire earlier in the day started a pile of grass clippings and weeds burning that was piled against the outside of the barrel. The pile smoldered all day and then ignited the wood pile.

Another theory was that some children had started the fire. The only loss in addition to the wood was the plastic webbing on a lawn chair. Firemen were there about 15 minutes.

Kubacki funeral held

Casimer B. Kubacki, 70, a retired Austin township farmer, died Wednesday at Huron Memorial Hospital following a brief illness. He was born March 1, 1911, the son of Stanley and Elizabeth Kubacki.

He and Sophia Morell married Oct. 30, 1933, in Ubyly. She preceded him in death in 1974. Kubacki married Patricia Fleming Jan. 20, 1979, in Ubyly. He is survived by his wife; three sons, Elmer Kubacki, Richmond, Va., Michael Kubacki and Martin Kubacki, both of Ubyly; two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth (Carol) Grifka and Mrs. Steve (Diana) Potter, both of Pontiac; one stepson, Edward Fleming, Flint; one brother, Floyd Kubacki, Kinde; one sister, Mrs. Gaylord (Julia) Day, Ubyly; 18 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. A son, Ronald Kubacki, died in 1978.

Services were Saturday at St. John's Catholic church, with Father Julius Spleet officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

ing material were blown onto a closeby pile of logs and fence posts, which ignited. No one was in the immediate vicinity when the fire started.

The wood had been intended for kindling, and was not of major value. Firemen were at the scene about 45 minutes.

At 5:35 p.m., they were called to the Dagmar Brown residence on Elizabeth Street, east of Seeger, where some timbers and boards close to a trash burner barrel were burning.

Firemen believe heat from a fire earlier in the day started a pile of grass clippings and weeds burning that was piled against the outside of the barrel.

The pile smoldered all day and then ignited the wood pile.

The only loss in addition to the wood was the plastic webbing on a lawn chair. Firemen were there about 15 minutes.

Stine named all-region

Randy Stine of Cass City High School Baseball was named to the All-Region Number Six baseball team by coaches in the Michigan Coaches Association last week. The 11-man squad is composed entirely of seniors. Stine was named to an outfield post.

The complete squad: Bill Reh, Mayville, and Mike Vanderberghe, Armada, pitchers; Mike Campbell, Marlette, Todd Harris, Mayville, and Greg Henry, Sandusky, infielders; Tom Behr, Marlette, first base; Phil McLane, Mayville, David Foster, Marlette, and Stine, Cass City, outfielders; Tom Duggan, Bad Axe, designated hitter, and Gary Brown, Mayville, catcher.

Curt Henderson of Mayville with a record of 20-9 was named coach of the year.

In another action coaches named the Thumb B Association all-star team. No Cass City player was named. Randy Stine was named to the second team and Jim Adkins of Cass City received honorable mention.

The all-conference squad was dominated by Caro which was undefeated in the league. Six of the 11-member team were from Caro. They were Mike Rinker, pitcher; Mark Cockerill, infield; Tom Sawyer, first base; Ray Ruth and Joel Salect, outfielders, and Tim Albin, catcher.

Other members of the team are: Mike Campbell, Marlette, and Greg Henry, Sandusky, infielders; Tom Duggan, Bad Axe, pitcher; Carl Pettit, North Branch, outfielder; Dan Schultz, Bad Axe, designated hitter.

Coach of the year was Dave Gierhart of Caro with a 23-5 record.

Honor athletes at spring fete

Outstanding Cass City athletes were honored Thursday night in the annual awards night when Bob Sawdon and Beth Sieradzki were named outstanding senior athletes for 1981.

Master of ceremonies for the night was Athletic Director Roland Pakonen. Coaches introduced players competing in spring sports.

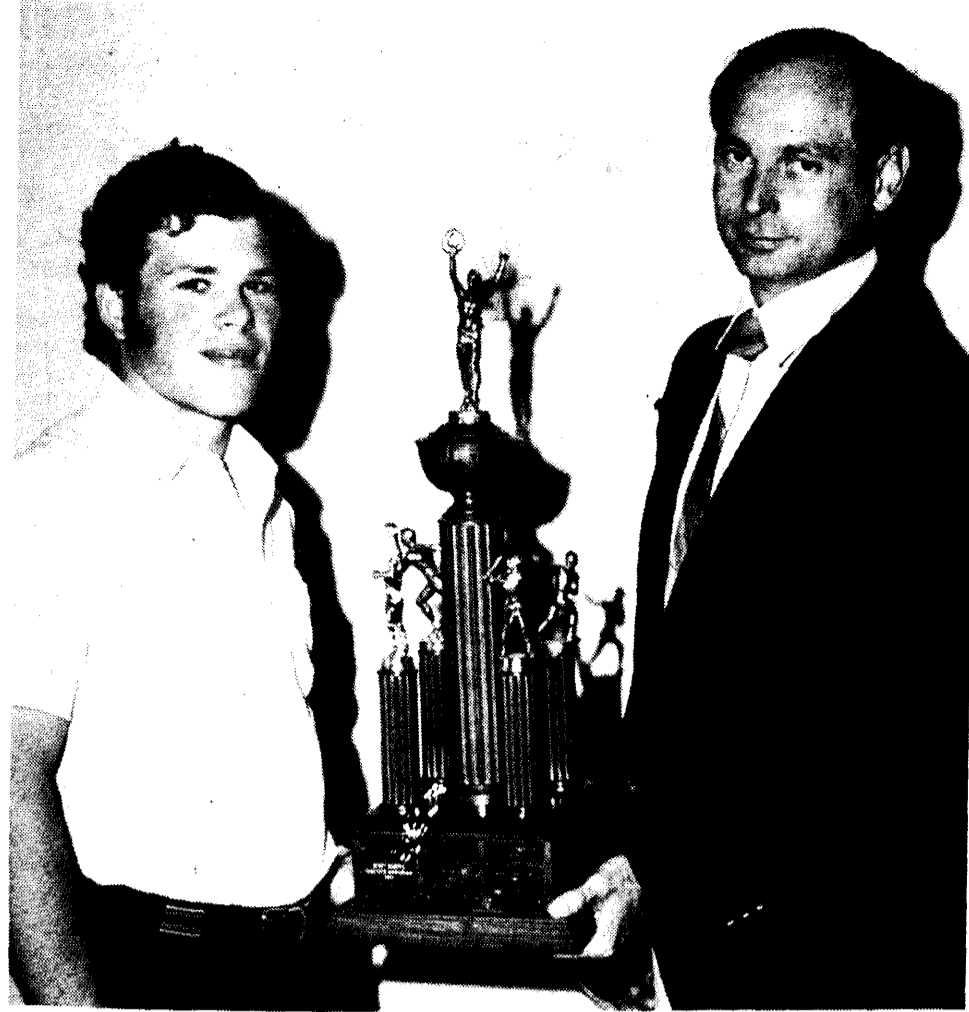

The top awards are presented on the basis of sportsmanship, leadership and academic capabilities.

Sieradzki won the award for girls. She was an all-conference player in both her junior and senior years in both softball and volleyball. She was named 2nd team all-conference in basketball.

The Paul Smarks award was presented to Bob Sawdon. He earned four letters in track and three in wrestling and football.

In football this year he was an all-conference performer at halfback and helped the Hawks to the co-championship of the Thumb B Conference.

He was named the most valuable griddier.

THE COVETED PAUL SMARKS award was presented to Bob Sawdon, by Coach Don Schelke. Last year's winner, Steve Richards, was unable to attend to make the presentation.

Elect Sieradzki, LaPeer to all-league softball team

Two Cass City seniors were named to the Thumb B All-Conference softball team by league coaches. They were Beth Sieradzki, strong-armed, hard hitting outfielder, and Shelly LaPeer, the designated hitter.

In the regular season LaPeer anchored the shortstop position for the Hawks.

In addition to the first team selections two Hawk girls were named to the second team. They were Tena LaRoche, outfielder, and Shirley Fleming, pitcher. Beabe McLachlan received honorable mention as a catcher and Kris Proctor as an outfielder.

The complete team: outfielders, Sieradzki, Carrie Bruni, Lakers, and Sue Nellenbach, North Branch. Infielders: Denean Deming, Lakers, Tina Moore, North Branch, Cyndi Long, Marlette, Laura Kaplaniak, Caro, Darlene Miller, Lakers.

Pitchers: Cindy Dubs, Lakers, Lynette Coon, Caro. Catcher: Melanie Ross, Marlette. Designated hitter, LaPeer.

O-G girls bow out in regional softball action

The Owen-Gage softball team's season came to an end Saturday morning with a 5-3 loss to Pontiac Catholic Central in the opening round of the regionals at Flint Genesee.

The Bulldogs were behind, 3-1, at the beginning of the seventh inning. Karla Kretzschmer, who until then had sat out on the bench because of an injured knee, hit a single. Carol Zimmer was walked.

Terri Sontag then banged out a hit, making it to first when the shortstop chose to throw out Zimmer at second. The speedy Sontag later stole second and while the ball was thrown to that base in an unsuccessful effort to tag her out, Kretzschmer stole home from third.

Dana Laurie then hit a single to drive in Sontag and knot the score at 3-3 and throw the game into extra innings.

In the first extra inning, however, Pontiac collected two runs to move into the regional finals.

Losing pitcher Becky Howard gave up four hits, struck out three and walked nine. She collected her team's other hit, a single.

Winning pitcher was Byrner, first name unavailable, who surrendered four hits, walked six and struck out nine.

Hurting the Bulldog cause was their seven errors, versus only two by Catholic Central.

The loss ended a sparkling season for coach Judy Campbell's squad, which finished 19-2 overall and won its sixth straight North Central D League title with a 13-1 mark.

"I thought we held our own real well," she said after the regionals loss.

In addition to not being able to put Kretzschmer in the game until the seventh inning, she had to do without the services of Julie Andrakowicz, who departed the day after graduation for a job in California, and Vicki Alexander, who was rehearsing with the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp band that will be playing in Europe.

Indian Dave friendly, helpful

By Sheila Gruber

On the banks of the north branch of the Cass River, between brick and wooden farmhouses, there once stood a wigwam of bark and hide.

The dwelling rose to a point from its log base and had only one opening, a doorway covered with a flap of hide. When the flap was closed, there were cracks on each side wide enough to let smoke out, and the curious eyes of a young boy in.

Inside was a small stone fireplace in the center of the floor with crossed sticks on each side supporting a steel rod from which a kettle hung. Lying dangerously close to the fire were two beds of straw, one on each side, with blankets folded neatly at the feet.

It was the early 1900s and the wigwam was the home of Indian Dave, as Leveret Barnes remembers it.

While growing up on his father's farm on Cleland Road in Greenleaf township, Barnes often saw Indian Dave and his son John wandering around.

"They'd stop in and talk to my daddy, or borrow a shovel or something," he said.

After one such visit, Barnes, now 81, went with his brothers and two neighbors to see the Indian camp, empty while Dave and his son John hunted in the nearby woods.

"I remember thinking I'd hate to be that close to a fire," he said, explaining the straw beds were only a foot away from the fireplace.

According to research about the more than 100-year-old Indian, done by Dorothy Dinsmore of Reese and Anne Hallock of Sebewaing, the Indian didn't worry too much about being so close to the fire. An expression remembered by those who knew him was, "White man builds a big fire and lays a long way away. Indian Dave makes a little fire and lays close."

INDIAN DAVE "Stocker" Davis, also known as "Crossing Cloud", was a descendant of great Chippewa-Ottawa-Ojibway-Odawah chiefs and one of the last Indians to hunt, fish and wander in the Thumb area, Mrs. Hallock said.

Apparently the Indian spent his winters in his Gilford township wigwam, making baskets, bows, arrows and whipstocks. During the summer though, he traveled around, often setting up camp in the Cass City area while hunting, fishing and selling the wares he made.

"They said those fellows walked an awful lot of miles, and they sure did," said Barnes, recalling an instance when the Indian had come to his father's farm to borrow a shovel and got caught in the rain on the way back. Laughing, he remembered Dave said, "You know, the Injun going east and the rain coming from west gets Injun awful wet."

Barnes, who now lives on Sherman Street with his wife, remembers Indian Dave passing by their farm every spring and fall from 1902, when he was six years old, to 1909, when the Indian died at his Gilford township camp.

He never remembers being afraid though of the rather large, gruff-looking Indian, or his smaller, deaf-mute son, John, who often walked with him.

NEITHER DOES JASON Kitchin, 88, who also knew Indian Dave as a young boy growing up on his father's farm a half-mile north of the Cass River on what is now M-53.

"He was always very friendly when he came around," he said, agreeing with other historical descriptions of the Indian as a "warm, friendly, leather-necked, old redskin with a colorful character who often helped the white people."

One fall, said Barnes, Dave, John and another Indian came by the farm. When asked about the third man, Dave told the lad's father, "You don't want to know him, he's a bad Injun. But don't worry, as long as he's with Dave, nothing will happen." Barnes said his dad figured at the time that the other Indian was from Caro and had gotten in to some trouble, so Dave was helping him out.

Barnes also remembers hearing about Dave helping a neighbor "doctor up" his child's rash with some kind of salve or something made from herbs. "The rash wouldn't heal, and Dave, who was quite a doctor, told them he'd heal it, and he did," continued the former groundskeeper for Hills and Dales General Hospital.

The Indian's kindness was often returned with help from his neighbors, both lifetime Cass City residents remember.

Once after son John had killed a woodchuck, Kitchin recalls Dave came to their farm for a chicken because woodchuck meat was "too strong".

Another time, when Dave and John were walking home to their campsite through a carrot patch on the Barnes farm, the family watched as the Indians stopped, picked up some carrots and set them back down again -- reluctant to take them without permission, yet wanting to.

"My dad went out and told them to help themselves to as many as they wanted," Barnes said, "and they each took a handful, Dave saying, 'This make I and son John good dinner.' I imagine they boiled them up with some muskrats."

WHEN A SPARK burned a hole in Indian Dave's coat, he brought it to the Kitchin farm and Mrs. Kitchin mended it for him, the former teacher remembers, proudly displaying an arrowhead found in a furrow on his farm in 1914.

Kitchin, who has written a history of Greenleaf township, said the "deadwater" section of the east bank of the Cass River where Dave camped in 1905 was the last Indian camp in the area. "Deadwater", he explained, refers to the deep water which flows slower than the rest of the river.

No one is exactly sure how old Indian Dave lived to be. Some historical accounts claim he was 106 years old when he died May 26, 1909, while others say he lived to be 109 years old.

Dave himself wasn't too sure, Barnes remembers. "He'd tell you one age once and three months later, he'd say something else," recalls the senior citizen, who added, "he was getting like the rest of us, forgetful I guess."

INDIAN DAVE

Indian Dave was one of the last Chippewas to hunt, fish and trap in the old manner in the Tuscola County area. Dave was born around 1803 and given the name Ish-Dom-Quit. According to legend, in 1819 he attended the gathering at the Saginaw River where 114 Chippewa chiefs and braves signed the Treaty of Saginaw. The treaty ceded about 6,000,000 acres of land in central eastern Michigan to the United States. Indian Dave fascinated youngsters with his tales and native customs. A mural portrait honoring him has hung in a Vassar bank for decades.

Teacher retires for second time

Keeping parents satisfied about the education of their children is quite different from keeping postal customers satisfied about their mail delivery, said Ray Vohsen.

As a Kingston High School teacher and 30-year veteran of the U.S. Postal Service, he should know.

After 10 years in the classroom, he will soon retire from his teaching job.

It won't be his first retirement. In 1971, Vohsen retired from his job as postal supervisor in Caro, only to begin a new job at Kingston -- teaching French, English and government to high school students.

"My wife and daughter kept telling me I'd be a good teacher, so I tried it," he said, adding, "I really enjoyed it."

Vohsen and his wife, Mary, have one daughter, Marsha Holmes, also a teacher and mother of two children, Mark, 8, and Christy, 4.

Describing himself as a "disciplinarian," the teacher said he "never laid a hand on a student." Instead, he made them write out the Declaration of Independence, in one night, for punishment. "Once they did that, they never had to do it again, they knew," he said.

Working days at the post office, Vohsen attended Wayne State University at night for six years before earning his bachelor's degree in 1970. Three years later, he completed a master's degree in administration, hoping to continue his education career in an administrative role.

"I had some ideas I wanted to incorporate, but never got the chance," he said of his aspiration to become principal. Explaining that he "came close," Vohsen said the decision has "left a bad taste in my mouth."

As a retiree, he hopes to travel, and perhaps begin yet another career. "I'd like to do some free-lance writing for a newspaper."

TRIALS

Appeal unlikely in valuation hike

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners apparently won't appeal the State Tax Commission's adding of $21.05 million to the county's valuation over what had been computed by the county equalization department. The new total is $572.8 million.

The commissioners' meeting Tuesday was the first since the STC decision was revealed May 26 and the matter wasn't discussed, according to Royce Russell, chairman of the board's equalization committee. "I think we're done," he said.

The appeal would have to be made to the Michigan Court of Appeals, and would mean the board would have to hire a lawyer. With the county's present financial situation, Russell indicated, the general feeling of the board is it wouldn't be worth the expense, since the county could lose.

Commissioners received notice Tuesday the county will receive $355,602 in federal revenue sharing funds for the 1981-82 fiscal year, which starts Oct. 1.

That compares to $371,045 received this year. The board had been hoping the amount would increase since 1981-82 will be the first year the allocation from Washington is based on 1980 census figures. Tuscola's population has increased 17 percent from 1970.

The board approved the annexation of parcels owned by Dr. Edward Scollon and Frank and Shirley McComb on Seeger Street, across from the high school, to Cass City.

Negotiations with the Fraternal Order of Police, which represents sheriff's department employees, began with three sessions last week. Sessions were to take place Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

The county's present three-year contract with the FOP expires June 30.

The board has hired Caro attorney Thomas Abbey as its chief negotiator. Also serving on the negotiating team are Russell and Donna Rayl, members of the board's personnel committee, plus county Personnel Administrator Jackie Larson is sitting in on the sessions.

Elkland grants zone variance

The Elkland Township Board Monday evening granted a zoning variance to Dennis Faust, so that he can relocate his business in a building he is buying on M-81, 1 1/2 miles west of Cass City.

The property is zoned agricultural - residential, hence the need for the variance. Neighbors had been contacted and none objected.

Faust's alternator and generator rebuilding service is presently located in a rented building downtown.

The board gave its approval to a Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) agreement for two parcels owned by Allen and Joan Merchant, 160 acres in section 20 and 98 in section 21, north of Milligan Road and west of Cemetery.

St. Pancratius honors grads

St. Pancratius Catholic church honored its senior graduates recently with a special mass and breakfast.

A highlight of the mass was the announcement of the winners of the Julia Murray Memorial scholarships, Diane Marie Piaskowski and John Scollon.

Scollon was active in debate, golf, and school plays all four years. He has also been a member of the National Honor Society two years, a student council member and participated in baseball, varsity track and band.

He will study telecommunications at Michigan State University this fall.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward C. Scollon of 4849 N. Seeger Street.

Diane is the daughter of Mary Ellen Piaskowski and the late Danny Piaskowski.

She will be attending Saginaw Valley State College, where she will study nursing.

The fellow who sings his own praises always gets off on the wrong note.

Services held Tuesday for Roy Moshier

Roy L. Moshier, 37, of Bingham township, a Cass City General Cable employee, died unexpectedly last Wednesday.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Moshier was born April 2, 1944, in Shelby township, Macomb county.

In 1962, he married Jean P. Sawgle. They lived in Minden township, Sanilac county, until moving to Bingham township in 1971.

Moshier was very active in little league, pee wee and youth baseball and football in Ubyly.

He is survived by his wife; daughter, Jacqueline, and a son, Roy Jr. at home; his mother, Tressa Moshier, West Branch; a brother, Elmer Moshier, Kingston, and four sisters, Dorothy Sharrard, Deford; Lula Phillips and Carolyn Vantine, Imlay City, and Joan Schilke, West Branch.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning at the Zinger Funeral Home in Ubyly by Father Julius Splet of St. John's Catholic church, Ubyly.

Burial was in Moshier cemetery, Lamotte township.

Vender recalls prisoner visits

Recent prison uprisings in Michigan have reminded Rev. Melvin R. Vender, former pastor of the Cass City First Presbyterian church, of the years he spent in Stockbridge.

Rev. Vender was pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Stockbridge, a town 15 miles from the state prison in Jackson, from 1931-1934.

"There were a couple of escapes from the prison while we were there that 'recreated some excitement,'" he recalled, but he had no recollection of problems like the ones the prisons are now having.

In fact, while they lived in Stockbridge, he and his wife Blanche were often visited by the prison chaplain, Rev. McLain, and prisoners.

McLain, according to Rev. Vender, was "the best chaplain the prison ever had." Judging his 40 years at the institution Rev. McLain, also a Presbyterian minister, was the only chaplain allowed to take "lifer" prisoners out of the prison without a guard, said Rev. Vender, who claims the chaplain never carried a gun.

On several of his trips out with prisoners, he visited Stockbridge.

While Rev. Vender was in Chicago in 1932 attending summer school, Rev. McLain conducted Sunday services in Stockbridge, bringing with him a pianist and violinist, both convicted murderers.

After performing for the congregation they and Rev. McLain, who was also a medical doctor, were served Sunday dinner by Mrs. Vender.

"Our neighbors and members of the congregation, Bob and Lorna Wasson, had dinner with them," said Rev. Vender, adding the prisoners "loved" the cherry pies Mrs. Wasson had made.

On another occasion, the chaplain brought a popular soloist to Stockbridge - a "lifer" who left the ladies in the audience in tears after singing "Where is my wandering boy tonight?" Rev. Vender recalled his 90-year-old eyes sparkling as he talked about the old song.

In 1934, Rev. Vender left Stockbridge for his pastorate in Crosswell, the prison band came to town for some historical event. "The band was the best in Michigan at the time," said the former pastor, who now lives with his wife at Provincial House. He served in the Cass City church from 1944-1957.

"Our church was opposite the village square where the band performed," he said, adding the women of the church served the prisoners dinner 20 at a time, while guards looked on.

Peplinski licensed as nursing home administrator

Arlene Peplinski, RN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. O'Dell of Cass City, has recently received word, from the state of Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation, that she successfully passed her boards and is now a licensed nursing home administrator. She is presently director of nurses at Huron Woods Nursing Home in Bay City.

Arlene Peplinski

Ms. Peplinski graduated from Cass City High School in 1965 and later attended Ferris State College, Bay City School of Practical Nursing, Delta College and Saginaw Valley State College. She resides in Essexville with her husband John, and children.

You can BANK on it!

Q. Since my wife started working full time last year, we have managed to do pretty well. In fact, we're much better off financially than we thought we could be at our age (we're both in our 20's). It's very tempting to buy a lot of things we want on installment plans. Is there an established guideline for how much we can safely handle?

A. More and more families are solving the problem of rising costs by adding a second income to the family purse. Two income families should remember to exercise caution in building up the size of their debt load. What happens if a sudden job shake-up leaves one without work, or if the economy should take another sudden downturn? The good rule for financial security is: Don't commit more than 30 percent of after-tax income to monthly installment payments (including the mortgage). If your short-term debts can be liquidated in one year, you are on pretty safe financial ground.

Smoke bomb burns $100 hole in truck

Damage was estimated at $100 from a smoke bomb thrown onto the front seat of a pickup truck Sunday.

Wayne Dewey of 4455 Oak Street told Cass City police he and his wife were sitting on their porch at 3:10 p.m. when a yellow car stopped and one of the three occupants tossed the smoke bomb into his pickup, parked by the curb.

The bomb burned a 3-inch hole in the seat on the driver's side.

Stuart Merchant told village police last Wednesday someone had stolen the combination AM-FM radio and 8-track tape player out of the Sommers Bakery delivery van while it was parked during the night in the carport behind the bakery.

The unit, worth $60, had been bolted to the dash.

Bruce Messer of 6200 Hurds Corner Road, told village police last Thursday that his wristwatch was stolen from a locker in the boys' locker room at Cass City High School between 10:30 and 11:30 that morning. It was worth $55.

Joe Santos of 6405 River

Road, Cass City, reported to sheriff's deputies Monday afternoon that a girl's 20-inch wheel gold and silver bicycle had been stolen, worth $100.

Meal drivers needed

The Thumb Area Commission on Aging is currently delivering 9-10 meals a day to homebound area senior citizens not able to cook a nutritionally balanced meal or have someone to do it for them.

The meals, served Monday through Friday, are purchased by the commission from Hills and Dales General Hospital and delivered by volunteer drivers.

There are currently four drivers, with two more "desperately" needed, according to Ron Cassie, the agency's director.

"Drivers are paid 25 cents per mile and only have to drive once a week," he said, adding that some of the recipients have had meals delayed because of the need for more drivers.

Routes fluctuate, but are generally about eight miles a day said Cassie, who has seen the program grow from the original "Meals-on-Wheels" for just Cass City to an area now reaching county lines.

Persons interested in volunteering can call the Commission on Aging office in Cass City.

Taking Stock

Dear Boss: Again, at great expense and risk of bodily injury (is there another kind?) I have explored the reaches of the lower Mississippi River on behalf of the News.

My expense account met the usual fate at the hands of the Leader's treasurer, who is even now practicing his usual role in the 1981 production of The Christmas Carol. Scrawled across the bottom of my detailed list of figures which he flung back to me was one word, "Ridiculous."

Was he formerly a proof-reader? First of all, let me report that New Orleans water, despite reports from Ralph Nader, is potable. Trouble is, it's hard to find. Those Creoles drink everything else but.

We met an old friend of our China trip of 1978, Dode Platou, who runs an impressive place called Historic New Orleans Collection, which is on Royal Street in the naughty French Quarter.

A New Orleans-an who struck off left his magnificent home which has been converted into a notable museum. Some of the rooms have been left intact; others contain great relics of the past, principally photos, paintings and documents.

Among the treasures is an original copy of the state constitution, which was written in French.

Does any other state have a constitution written in a language other than English?

Dode staged a splendid reception in the courtyard of the museum the afternoon we arrived. Three hundred of the city's elite were there, including a former King of the Mardi Gras.

In New Orleans, a Mardi Gras King is outranked only by the Lord God Jehovah.

We assume the party was in our honor. Next day we boarded the Mississippi Queen, a big paddle-wheeler. This is the boat that Jimmy Carter took a few years ago and lost himself several hundred votes by jogging at 4 a.m. on the steel deck.

The evening news recently had a program on how navigation had practically stopped on Big Muddy because the water was so low. So I was pretty scared, even though I put on a brave front in my double-breasted belted trench coat as an intrepid reporter. I like to think I resemble David Niven in such situations.

Anyhow, there was enough water for the Mississippi Queen, which draws eight feet. At Natchez we noted high water marks on a riverside warehouse, showing the level 45 feet higher in 1945 and 1947. I was impressed, and I'm sure the people of Natchez, too, were impressed in those years.

When you take a Mississippi River trip you're going to visit antebellum homes, so you better like them. Phyllis and I thought they were gorgeous, for the most part. We avoided the "tours" and hired our own hacks, and proceeded at our own pace. Something about tours and tour buses, boss — I break out in hives.

We went up the river as far as Vicksburg, hired a hack again, and did the beautiful 14-mile drive through the National Park which has preserved the site of the siege of Vicksburg in 1863. It was a nice variation from the ante-bellum visits. Vicksburg is on a branch of the Mississippi called the Yazoo. Honest!

Then at Baton Rouge, on the way back, there's a fine Rural Life Museum south of town. A pre-war plantation has been re-created, with a magnificent collection of farm tools and implements and household furnishings of 150 years ago. It's all in an authentic farm area.

The Mississippi Queen, incidentally, is the sister ship to the famed Delta Queen that has been running the river since the Year One. We visited the Delta Queen, and were glad that we had chosen the larger, younger sister. The Delta Queen is long on charm and nostalgia but rather short in state-room sizes.

As for timing, we'd suggest early April, or October. Earlier than April it's cold in that area, and the Natchez Pilgrimage draws thousands to the area in March, and you'd be trampled underfoot. Later than April and it's too hot. After October it would be too cold probably.

Anything else you want to know?

Four teens injured in M-53 accident

Four Sterling Heights teenagers were injured in a 4:50 a.m. accident Monday on M-53, 1.2 miles north of M-46.

Released from Marlette Community Hospital Tuesday were the driver, Jeffrey Joerin, 17, and passengers Glenn Paternak, 17, and Ronald Kloubuchar, 17. The third passenger, Scott Zolnoski, 17, was reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital Tuesday afternoon.

Joerin told Sanilac county deputies he apparently fell asleep while the car was headed south. It ran off the east side of the road, then back on the highway, went off the west side and rolled over, coming to rest on its wheels.

The fire siren sounded in Cass City at 5 a.m. as officers thought the Elkland department's gasoline engine rotary saw would be needed in order to remove the victims from the wrecked auto.

By the time firemen got to the station, however, the four persons were out of the car, so the saw wasn't needed.

MINOR INJURIES

Guy A. Nanney, 18, of 7148 E. Elmwood Road, Cass City, was treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital following a mishap at 7:30 p.m. June 2.

Tuscola county deputies reported he and Ronald S. Karr, 15, of 3508 N. Cemetery Road, were riding motorcycles on a county Road Commission owned gravel pit near Kelly and Warner Roads.

They said Nanney was following Karr's cycle, looked back and ran into the rear of the other machine. Nanney's motorcycle then blew a tire and fell onto its side.

Laurel Ann Priehs, 22, of Caro, was treated and released from Hills and Dales after an 8:55 p.m. accident Friday.

Caro state police reported she was eastbound on Bevans Road, 1.4 miles east of Clothier Road. Her car crossed the centerline and hit the outside rear wheel of a westbound trailer pulled by a truck driven by John W. Forbes, 26, of Marlette.

Her auto traveled 205 more feet, went off the north side of the road and ran into five small trees.

Ms. Priehs was ticketed on a charge of driving left of center. Forbes received a citation for not having a license plate on his trailer.

Clare A. Schuette, 38, of 8374 N. Van Dyke Road, Cass City, was treated and released from Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, after an 8:30 a.m. accident Monday.

Bad Axe state police reported he was northbound on Barrie Road, west of Bad Axe, when his car was struck by one driven by Kevin D. Cubitt, 17, of Bad Axe, who was eastbound on Collon Drive.

The impact sent Schuette's car into a tree at the northeast corner of the intersection.

ance. If the bid is $13,754 it will go to Lawrence. The cloudy boiler bid could raise the price over the second place bid of Farm Bureau which is $14,436. If it does, the low bidder will be awarded the contract. There were four bidders.

A budget hearing will be held June 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the school to meet a new law that requires the meetings to be held before July 1.

A school calendar was adopted calling for school to start Aug. 27 and to end June 11 for the 1981-82 school year.

Athletic Director Roland Pakonen reported that the Pony League was building a baseball diamond on school property that would be available for school softball next season.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Gary M. Megge, 16, of 5670 Riley Road, Deford, was westbound on M-46, east of Cemetery Road, at 11:45 p.m. Saturday, according to deputies, when his car collided with a deer.

John F. Schwartz of 6128 Deckerville Road, Deford, reported to deputies he was driving on Kingston Road in Kingston township at 6:31 p.m. Sunday when his vehicle collided with a deer.

Cass City police reported an accident in the Cass City State Bank parking lot at 5:10 p.m. last Thursday.

They said Manley J. Asher, 76, of 6706 Third Street, was driving southbound through the lot as Marsha Kay Moore, 28, of 6907 Elmwood Road was backing out of a parking spot and the two vehicles collided.

Ezra Abbe dies Sunday at age 89

Ezra S. Abbe, 89, of Owendale, died Sunday at Provincial House, Cass City, following a long illness.

He was born Feb. 13, 1892, in Oliver township, the son of Daniel and Amanda (Doan) Abbe.

Abbe and Hattie Diebel were married June 27, 1916, in Oliver township. She preceded him in death Feb. 10, 1973.

Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints (RLDS), Owendale, where he served as an elder for 50 years and as pastor for nine years.

Burial was in Grant township cemetery. Arrangements were by Champagne Funeral Home, Elkton.

Police receive 9% pay boost

Cass City's three policemen will receive a 9 percent pay increase, according to the contract approved by the village council at a special meeting last Thursday morning.

The pay raise, retroactive to Jan. 1, is the same other village employees received for 1981, approved by the council in December.

The contract negotiated with the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP), which represents the three officers, provides for the new pay based on a 42½ hour work week until May 1, effective date of the new pact. The increase will be paid retroactively.

Effective May 1, the work week became 40 hours a week, with time-and-a-half for overtime.

The 9 percent raise will be effective until May 1, 1982, when they will receive a 7 percent increase for the following 12 months.

As of Jan. 1, 1982, the village will pay each officer $260 per year for uniform cleaning. The village now provides uniforms, shoes and equipment.

Minimum pay the first year of the contract is $14,347, with the maximum $18,220 for an officer in his fifth year or more. The 1982-83 pay range is $15,351 to $19,498. According to village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie, the health insurance and dental plans and vacation schedule in the new pact are the same as for other village employees.

Council members approved the new pact, the first with the FOP, 4-0. Before doing so, Village President Lambert Althaver remarked the 9 percent pay increase was what the village had in mind when negotiations started.

LaPonsie and the village's attorney, Clinton House, did the negotiating for the management side.

FOP Field Representative E. Ray Harwood did the negotiating for officers Donald Miller Jr., Kenneth S. Schott and Phillip J. Klaus. They are the only village employees who belong to a union. (As management, Police Chief Gene Wilson is not a union member.)

Other provisions of the contract, the first negotiated with the FOP, cover such areas as grievance procedure, seniority, layoffs and recalls, union recognition and management rights.

Oil lease holders file suit

Seventy-four property owners have filed suit in Tuscola County Circuit Court, seeking to have their leases with an oil exploration company cancelled.

The suit is against Pan American Exploration, an Ohio firm.

The plaintiffs claim in their suit they were victims of deception by the firm's representatives in signing leases, which were to pay them a maximum of $2 per acre.

Among the claims are that Pan American gave them one lease form to read and another to sign, claiming the one they were signing was a transfer document and they would receive the actual leases later, and that signatures of numerous plaintiffs on various documents were forged.

The plaintiffs ask the court to cancel their leases and award them damages of more than $10,000, plus costs, interest and attorney fees.

Most of the Pan American leases are in western Tuscola county, with many of them in the Reese area (Denmark and Gilford townships).
