

No strike, mail gets delivered

Just as word came Tuesday morning that a national postal strike had been averted and businesses began sighing with relief, news came from the bargaining table in Washington that a settlement had not been reached.

But as the conflicting reports continued, mail service went on as usual with Cass City Postmaster Grant Glaspie reporting all employees working Tuesday.

Apparently a verbal agreement had been reached with the four unions, including a $1,900 a year wage increase over three years for each employee. When the two sides attempted to put the agreement in writing, a problem arose over a pay hike for the first year.

"There was some confusion over $150 (part of the $1,900) that had been agreed to for the first year, but wasn't in the original contract. At about 3 p.m., the $150 was put back in the pay scale and the contract (tentative agreement) signed," Glaspie said in explaining his understanding of the situation with the two largest postal unions.

The American Postal Workers Union (the mail clerks' union) and the National Association of Letter Carriers had threatened a walkout of their 500,000 members when their three-year contract expired at midnight Monday.

Negotiations continued through the night though with enough progress made to avert the strike.

The two smaller postal unions, the 63,000-member National Rural Letter Carriers Association and the 39,000-member Mail Handlers had not joined in the strike threat, promising to adhere to binding federal arbitration.

The smaller unions, Glaspie explained, negotiated separately but basically agreed to the same economic package. "There were some issues like caps for city handlers that were different, but the cost of living and pay schedule increases were pretty much the same," he added.

Cass City postal employees are members of all but the Mail Handlers Union. Those employees, who load and unload trucks, are usually only in big cities, Glaspie said.

The unions had originally demanded 5 percent annual basic wage increases, adjustments and a new cost of living formula, which the Postal Service estimated would have cost $25 billion a year raised the price of a stamp to 45 cents by 1984.

HEALTHY MEAT — State meat inspector Wilbur Norrington of Caro checks a beef carcass at Erla's slaughterhouse for signs of disease or anything else abnormal.

Farmers could be losers

Federal takeover of meat inspection will affect packing houses, consumers

By Mike Eliasohn

Come Oct. 1, the meat for sale in the supermarket will look the same, but there will be a difference.

That's the day Michigan ends its meat inspection program and federal inspectors take over.

It will mean some changes.

What goes in hot dogs and sausage may not be the same.

Small packing houses may have to buy meat from large ones to sell over the counter.

Consumers who buy their meat "on the hoof" and have it custom slaughtered won't have the protection of an inspector examining what they are buying when the animal is slaughtered.

If federal inspection puts some small packing houses out of business, farmers could lose because there would be fewer buyers bidding for their animals at livestock yards.

The other big losers may be the approximately 120 state meat inspectors. They may get similar jobs with the federal government, but for less pay, and they may have to move.

PACKING HOUSES

One meat packer who isn't worried is Dick Erla of Erla's Food Center and Packing, Inc. "We've been in business 29 years. We're going to go federal and that's it."

Erla's, in addition to supplying its own supermarket in Cass City, also sells meat to many other stores and restaurants, and also does custom butchering.

Erla anticipates some small packing houses, which do mainly custom slaughter, but sell some meat over the counter, will go "custom exempt."

That means they will only be able to slaughter animals brought to them by customers for the customers' own use.

Erla believes some small slaughterhouses which go custom exempt, in order to retain their retail meat business, will buy meat from him to sell. "It probably would increase ours (business) by quite a bit, I would guess."

He assumes some changes will have to be made at his firm's slaughtering and packing facilities, but doesn't know yet what they will be.

He, like other meat packers, are waiting for a federal inspector to arrive to tell them what changes will have to be made.

Some apparently aren't too worried. Harold Deering of Deering Packing near Silverwood said his slaughterhouse already meets federal standards, so isn't anticipating having to make major changes. He added that so far in advance of Oct. 1, "I can't commit myself to what is going to happen."

"We feel we have a shot at it to go federal, but we just don't know," said John Maurer of Maurer Slaughterhouse near Uby.

He said 90 percent of his business is custom slaughter, but he also has a retail meat counter and sells to two restaurants. For such operators as himself, he commented, "You have to weigh the cost of federal versus going custom."

Royal Oak woman dies in area accident

Mary Wyer of Royal Oak became Tuscola county's 10th traffic fatality of the year Wednesday, July 15, when she was killed in an 8:25 a.m. accident northeast of Caro.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Robert, 47, who was southbound on Colwood Road.

Deputies reported their car was struck broadside in the driver's side by a car westbound on Akron Road, driven by Regina V. Lasceski, 59, of Filion, who failed to stop for the stop sign at the intersection.

Mrs. Lasceski later told officers she didn't see the stop sign until it was too late. Her car left 14 feet of skid marks before hitting the Wyer auto.

She also said there was tall grass growing around the stop sign and a corn field at the northeast corner obscured her view of the oncoming car.

All of the occupants were taken to Caro Community Hospital. Mrs. Wyer, 43, who was sitting in the right front passenger seat, was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw, where she died a short while later.

Her husband and their son, William, 17, were later transferred to William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, where Robert was reported Wednesday morning in fair condition. His son was released Friday.

Mrs. Lasceski and her passenger, Laura Lenzner, 74, of Bad Axe, were treated and released at the Caro hospital.

Prosecutor Artis Noel said Tuesday he is waiting for receipt of the police investigation report before deciding if any charges will be brought against Mrs. Lasceski.

There were also 10 persons killed in Tuscola county traffic accidents as of this date a year ago.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Two Pontiac motorcycles were injured in a 9:05 p.m. accident July 15, southwest of Gagetown.

John B. Kimmins, 29, was treated and released from Caro Community Hospital. Stephen D. Salisbury, 28, was released from there the following day.

Deputies reported both were southbound on Colwood Road, south of Dickerson Road. Kimmins started to slow to turn onto the right shoulder. Salisbury, who was following, didn't notice what was happening until too late. He tried to turn away, but ran into Kimmins' cycle.

Raymond S. Abbe, 17, of Owendale, was treated and released from Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, after a 7 a.m. accident Sunday in that community.

Bad Axe police reported Abbe was eastbound on Hopson Street, failed to stop at N. Port Crescent Street, and collided with the northbound vehicle of Lyle A. Rochefort, 61, of Bad Axe.

Rochefort was also taken to the hospital, but declined treatment.

LOCAL ACCIDENTS

Cass City police reported several accidents during the past several days:

At 5 p.m., July 13, Thomas N. Bills, 34, of 4042 S. Cemetery Road, while backing from a parking place at Vulcan and Sixth Streets, backed into a parked car. Owner of the parked car was not identified.

A hit and run driver damaged a car parked at Frank's Service Station,

Church and Leach Streets, at 9 a.m. July 14. Police said the person was backing from a parking place, started turning too soon, and hit the car parked alongside. Owner of the parked car was Phyllis McIntosh of Cass City.

At 9:35 a.m. that day, Cora A. Newsome, 81, of DeLong Road, Deford, northbound on Seeger, started to turn left onto Main from the right lane and collided with the northbound car in the left lane.

Driver of the other car was Tena M. Murray, 78, of 4578 Hill Street.

At 11 p.m. July 14, Trent C. Guinther, 19, of 6633 Voss Road, was headed northeast on M-81, east of Dutcher Road, when his vehicle struck a deer.

At 10:40 a.m. Thursday, Evelyn R. Kilbourn, 38, of 6695 Stevens Road, Deford, was turning east into the Pinney State Bank lot at Seeger and Main and was hit by a car headed north in the lot.

Police said she didn't see the other car approaching because her vision was blocked by a car improperly parked parallel to Seeger.

Driver of the other car involved was Leo Seroka, 63, of 2841 Van Dyke Road, Decker.

Donald Lee Buehrly, 49, of 5070 Buehrly Road, backed out of a space in front of Erla's Food Center onto Church Street, started to go forward headed east and collided with an eastbound auto.

Colette J. Nellett, 16, of Bay City, was the other driver involved. The mishap occurred at 8:25 p.m. Friday.

'Big Foot' unmasked near Caro

Big Foot it wasn't.

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department received a report at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday of last week about a "hairy creature" tapping on the window of a home on Washburn Road near Caro.

Deputies James Fyvie and Phillip Malloy investigated and found the creature was a "young subject" wearing dark clothes and a gorilla mask.

No oil or gas found in area well

Drilling at Elmwood and Dodge Roads ended Wednesday, July 15, at 3,627 feet, with no oil or gas being found.

The well was on property owned by the James Tuckey family at the northwest corner.

The drilling was being done for ANR Production Co. of Troy. Its area engineer, Ron Bacon, said the firm's state permit called for it to drill to 3,700 feet, but it was expected any oil or gas would have been found prior to that depth. When no signs were found that it was there, drilling was halted.

The drilling rig was removed the following day and is now being used at a site near Unionville.

Bay City boy drowns Sunday

A 15-year-old Bay City boy, Kevin J. Coons, drowned Sunday while swimming in the Quanicasee River, near Old State Road in the northwest corner of Tuscola county.

He was the second person to drown in the county this month.

The drowning was reported to the sheriff's department at 6:26 p.m. He was swimming with relatives, when, according to deputies, "he apparently tired and went under."

His body was recovered by sheriff's department divers at 7:45 p.m. in 10-12 feet of water about 70 feet from shore.

Aiding in the rescue attempt were the Bay County Sheriff's Department and Hampton township and Unionville police.

Carmack and Dorothy Smith

Eighty-five relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. E. Carmack Smith of Sherman Street, Cass City, attended a celebration Sunday at the home of their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wheeler at Fenton.

The affair, which included a dinner, was a surprise to the guests of honor, the Smiths, who recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They were expecting only a small family gathering, for which Mrs. Smith wore her 50-year-old yellow satin and lace bridal gown.

Relatives came from various places in Michigan, Georgia and North Carolina, including Smith's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse French of Conyers, Ga.

The anniversary couple received many gifts and a money tree.

Smith and Dorothy Stine were married July 4, 1931, in Pontiac. They met when

Earl Harris celebrates 57th anniversary

A dinner at Veronica's July 15 celebrated the 57th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harris and Mr. Harris' 80th birthday. Most of the Harris immediate family and friends, Mrs. Kathryn O'Rourke of Ann Arbor and Fran Previle of Caro, attended.

Following dinner, the family went to the Harris home for ice cream and an anniversary cake made by their daughter, Mrs. Richard Hampshire.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris were married in Lansing, July 15, 1924.

They have two daughters, Joyce Hampshire and Norma Decker, and one son, Newell Harris. They also have seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Hobart, Wright wed June 20

Ann R. Hobart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hobart of Gagetown, and J. Kent Wright, son of Dr. and Mrs. Johnson K. Wright of Traverse City, were married June 20.

The morning ceremony was held at St. Agatha Catholic church in Gagetown, performed by Fr. Joseph Morales and Deacon Lambert Kuhn.

Maid of honor was Marie Hobart of Lansing, sister of the bride.

The bride's dress was made by her stepmother. Her pearls had belonged to her mother.

Best man was brother of the groom, James Wright, of Traverse City.

Ushers for the ceremony were Scott Hobart, brother of the bride, and Tim Colgan, cousin of the groom.

Kevin and Clayton Hobart, brothers of the bride, served as altar boys at the ceremony. Organist Cathy Sullivan played Handel's "Air," from the "Water Music" for the processional.

Cathy Hobart read from the book of Zechariah for the first reading, Vicki Reichow read a letter from St. Paul to the Philippians for the second reading. The Gospel reading was according to Matthew.

The offertory hymn, the "23rd Psalm" composed by

Isaac Watts, was sung Dave Palazari and the communion hymn, sung Brenda Henehan, was Schbert's "Ave Maria."

A barbeque and reception was at the home of the bride's parents, 2558 Hobart Road, with 175 guests present from as far away as Pennsylvania, New York and Chicago.

The couple, both 1981 graduates of Kalamazoo College, are living in Chicago and attending the University of Chicago. Wright is working on a master's degree in history and Mrs. Wright on a master's degree in English.

Q. Setting up a budget is one of the things my wife and I seem to be able to put off almost indefinitely. However, the way prices have gone up during the past year, we are now ready to take the plunge. What's our first step?

A. The first step in setting up a budget is to divide expenses into two categories: fixed expenses (your regular bills, house payment, note payments) and discretionary expenses (day to day expenditures). You'll be able to determine fixed expenses easily enough... put them in the budget first. To determine your current discretionary expenses, spend the next month making a careful notation of each dollar spent and how it was used. At the end of the month make a comprehensive list of these expenses. The next month, list any changes you want to make in the way discretionary income is spent. Determine those changes in advance by preparing a written budget. Stick with that budget. You'll be surprised at the changes you see when you control your money instead of it controlling you.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

It was only a few short years ago when girls played softball that the infielders tossed the ball to first base almost like a shot putter.

That's all changed. The girls know what to do when the ball comes their way these days, I learned while briefly watching the week-end tourney at Cass City Recreational Park.

Truthfully, they play more and more like boys everyday. If that's male chauvinism, make the most of it.

Computers can foul up. The mail brought me a pitch for a record club offering "10 free albums to music lover John Haire."

They got the name right but the top artists they pitched included Christopher Cross, Pat Benatar, the Eagles and several others that I never heard of.

They did include Neil Diamond and The Doobie Brothers, whom I know about (very slightly) but whatever happened to Frank Sinatra, Tony Bennett and the Andrews sisters?

State Rep. Keith Muxlow, 77th district, from Brown City sponsored a fund raising golf tournament last week at Lakeside Golf Course, near Crosswell.

Undoubtedly Muxlow polices the State's finances closer than he does the golf tournament. A good many golfers from Cass City and the upper Thumb played in the tournament, a handicap affair where each golfer tells how many strokes over par he normally shoots and is allowed to take at many strokes from his actual score.

Anyway when the final results were tabulated most four-man teams were flabbergasted to learn that the winning score was 31 under par.

I'll guarantee you a team headed by Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer couldn't beat that score.

All business would have been affected by a walkout of postal employees Tuesday, but none more than the Chronicle.

When the issue was in doubt, the decision was made to take the papers to the various communities, Gagetown, Deford, Uby, etc. and have them picked up by subscribers for at least the first week while other plans were formulated.

Now that the immediate crisis has been averted, that plan hopefully won't be needed again. If trouble does strike unexpectedly and service is interrupted, the original plan will be in force again at least for one week.

Let's hope it never happens.

Rites held for Michael Lalko

Michael Lalko, 53, of 3244 River Street, Kingston, died Wednesday, July 15, at Caro Community Hospital after a long illness.

A lifetime resident of the Kingston area, he was born March 23, 1928, the son of George and Agnes (Malik) Lalko. He married Jane Ann Legg July 22, 1950, in Caro.

Lalko was employed at Saginaw Steering Gear in Saginaw and had been a member of United Auto Workers Local 699 and St. Michael's Catholic church. He was a charter member of the Kingston Lions Club.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, David and Timothy, both of Kingston; five daughters, Mrs. Chris (Brenda) Trimmer, Holly, Mrs. Larry (Susan) Roth, Kingston, Nancy Lalko, 17, and Marie and Jennifer at home; two grandchildren; a brother, John Lalko, Kingston, and three sisters, Stephanie Sopchik, Dearborn, Betty Sroka, Dearborn, and Emilia Romain, Cass City.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at St. Michael Catholic church in Wilmot, Father William O'Shea officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

A Bible scripture service was held Friday evening at Harmon Funeral Home, Kingston.

TAGGED by Hospital Auxiliary member Bev Little is Rev. Eldred Kelley. Auxiliary members stood on Main Street for their annual "Tag Day" Thursday, collecting a total of $425.

5 receive CMU degrees

Five area students were recently awarded degrees from Central Michigan University.

Luann Gallaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Gallaway, was awarded a bachelor's degree in education. The 1977 Cass City High School graduate was substitute teaching in Oscoda and is now looking for a permanent job. Ms. Gallaway majored in library science.

Elaine Stoutenburg, of Cass City, received a bachelor's degree in home economics. The daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Eldon Stoutenburg is working as a lifeguard at the Cass City pool, looking for a job in her field.

Timothy Lalko, a 1976 Kingston High School graduate, earned a bachelor's degree in special education. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lalko of Kingston is going to Arizona to look for a job teaching the mentally impaired. Also a therapeutic recreation major, Lalko hopes to someday run his own recreational facility for the physically and mentally impaired.

Dale Osentoski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Osentoski of Uby, graduated cum laude with a bachelor's degree. The 1979 Uby High School graduate studied industrial technology and is currently unemployed.

Marilyn Biefer of Cass City earned a master of arts degree.

She is the art teacher at Kingston High School.

Patrol car catches fire

A wire to a radar unit in a sheriff's department patrol car shorted out early Wednesday, filling the car with smoke.

Sgt. Leonard Huff was north of Cass City when the incident happened, which resulted in the Elkhart Township Fire Department being called.

Huff opened the door to let the smoke out and disconnected the wire. He had the problem resolved by the time firemen got to the station, so their services were not needed.

Driving a tea cart

By Jim Fitzgerald

On a recent evening, while the wife was correcting his driving, the husband was wondering if he might have jumped overboard during his sentimental journey home in 1945 had he known that 10 years later he would marry the world's most versatile backseat driver.

The most romantic aspect of their relationship is that they got seasick together on different boats. More about that later. First, it should be noted that when she was correcting his driving, he was driving a tea cart.

That is the most incredible aspect of their relationship. She doesn't need a car to backseat drive. She can backseat drive any operation he undertakes, in any location, under any circumstances. He first recognized her unusual skill early in their marriage when he was buying popcorn at the movies.

They patronized a theater that had a long brass railing separating the line of popcorn customers from the rest of the world. He would jog inside the railing to place their order, and she would jog along outside the railing and holler to him not to forget extra butter, salt, napkins and straws for their drinks.

"By Golly," he said to himself, "I think I'm lucky enough to have married the only woman in the world who can backseat drive at a popcorn counter." He has always found it wise to say such things to no one except himself.

Naturally, he wasn't surprised to learn from her that he didn't know how to drive a tea cart. It may be recalled that a year ago the wife decided the best place for their television set was on the bottom shelf of the tea cart, which is usually parked in a far corner of the living room with the top leaves collapsed, hiding the TV, so visitors will think the people who live there read "War and Peace." When there are no visitors, the TV must be wheeled into the center of the room so the resident intellectuals can see the 135th rerun of the Mary Tyler Moore show.

The tea cart has two large wheels on one end and two tiny wheels on the other. The tiny wheels turn but the large wheels don't. To move the tea cart north, it is necessary to wheel it east and then west and then east and so on, approaching the target like a drunk approaching a saloon door. The husband was surprised to learn that Martha Washington needed driver's training to wheel tea to George.

But he thinks he has finally become quite adept at moving the TV into place, and he was stung when the wife said he was trying to make the big wheels turn and if he didn't drive right, he would break the tea cart and have to call a tow truck if he wanted visitors to think he reads "War and Peace."

It was this ultimate bit of backseat driving, plus a song game, that set the husband to thinking about his sentimental journey made 36 years ago. Recently, he and the wife were present when a tavern entertainer announced she would sing the little-known verse of a song popular in the '40s, and challenged her audience to name that song. Before she sang even one word, the husband predicted the song would be "Sentimental Journey." He was right.

The only way he could explain his amazing prescience was to recall the seasick story. When World War

II ended, he sailed home from Europe on a troop carrier and was miserably ill for five days while Doris Day continually sang "Sentimental Journey" over the ship's loudspeaker. Ten years later, he met a woman who said she was seasick for those same five days on Lake Michigan, while on her senior class trip, and Doris Day was singing the same song on her ship.

It was romantic fate. With so much in common — throwing up to "Sentimental Journey" — they were obviously made for each other. The honeymoon was 26 years ago, on dry land.

And today the husband says even if he had known enough to jump overboard in 1945, he would have missed the water because the wife wasn't there to tell him which way to jump. He says this to himself.

If you've become part of the Thumb community in the last 10 years it may be that the death of Dr. Harry Crandell didn't mean much to you.

If you've been around a decade or longer, it's likely that your life has been touched by Harry one way or another. Especially if you lived on a farm. Especially if you were young. Especially if you needed a helping hand.

When I arrived in town green as grass and a stranger looking to make a career in a farm dominated community, Harry was there.

It was Harry who dropped in to tell me that I'd better get a picture of the sheep at whatever the place happened to be with the outstanding animals. How he always knew mystifies me today, as a sheep is a sheep is a sheep.

I guess knowing is what made him a nationally famous authority. What made him popular on Thumb farms was using this vast knowledge to help area farm youth win top prizes all over the state and the midwest.

He helped by scouring Canada for fine animals and he helped by fitting the animals so their best points were emphasized. He knew all the judges and what traits each thought most important.

Telling what Harry did for the community is the easy part. Telling about Harry and his impact on those of us who were touched by him along the way is something else.

In his younger years when he was the only veterinarian in town, 18 and 20-hour days were common. At times he had trouble keeping up.

That's not unique. What made Harry different is that after a night wrestling with a cow he was the same as he was on the days when he was relaxing in his office at home.

He was interested in you. In helping.

It always seemed to me that Harry got a bigger charge out of giving me a story tip than he did in receiving the plaudits of his peers for his work with sheep.

When a member of the Cass City 4-H Livestock club won another of its major prizes, Harry rejoiced more than when he won any of his own.

I could count on Harry to hotfoot it down to the office when a local boy or girl made good. I'd have to call for details when I heard Harry, himself, swept most of the prizes at the State Fair.

If you knew Harry at all, you knew right from the start that he was really interested in you because he proved it at every opportunity.

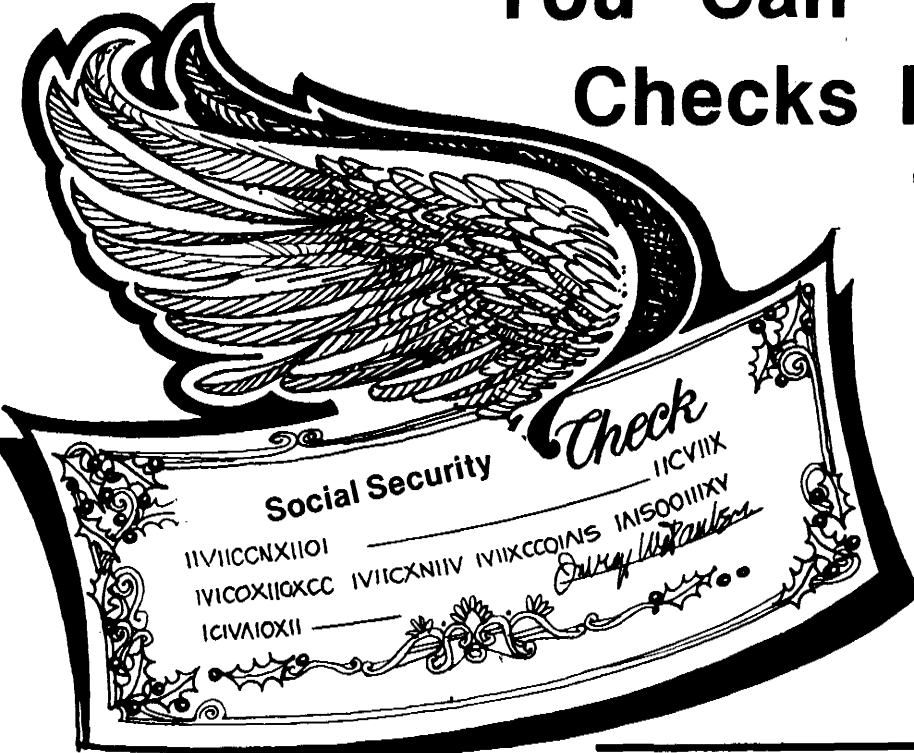

Many, many times you felt better after talking to Harry for no other reason than his concern.

He left a little added sparkle that wouldn't have been there if he wasn't.

He's gone now but for me the sparkle remains.

PEDALING AROUND
Summer
regained

By Mike Ellasohn

Miscellaneous:

Since I am not a baseball fan, I am not only not missing baseball, I am enjoying it.

Since the strike began, I have not missed one television program that would have otherwise been preempted by a baseball game, nor have I missed Johnny Carson's monologue because a game ran overtime.

I am also enjoying reading or hearing in the media about sports that wouldn't get coverage if there were baseball games to report.

The Detroit Free Press, for example, had an article Sunday about the British Grand Prix auto race. Under normal circumstances, it would only garner a paragraph at best.

Now if the professional football players will go on strike, I can enjoy this fall.

The Novesta Township Board is inconsistent.

In March, it voted not to participate in preparation of a state-mandated county-wide solid waste disposal plan. The reasoning was that it felt by participating, it would be sanctioning the final plan and the Cass City-owned landfill, which is in the township.

At the July 6 meeting, the board was complaining that one from the township was appointed to serve on the 13-member countywide committee that will oversee preparation of the plan. Cass City has two representatives on the committee.

To repeat, the Novesta board votes not to participate, then complains because it does not have any representatives on the committee.

Draw your own conclusion.

In case you missed it, as did I until last week:

By recent act of the legislature, now signed into law by the governor, all profits from the Michigan lottery will now be spent for education.

The myth has persevered over the years that the promise was made, prior to establishment of the lottery in 1972, that its profits would go for education. In reality, that was only a proposal.

One of the provisions of Proposal A, rejected by voters in May, would have earmarked lottery proceeds to education, something which the legislature has now done on its own initiative.

Last year, the lottery poured about $215 million into the state's general fund, of which about 31 percent ($67 million) went for education. ($238 million was awarded in prizes.)

It is naive to think the change will mean a windfall for education. If the lottery pumps $215 million annually into education, that means the legislature will appropriate $215 million less out of the general fund for that purpose.

The legislature in its wisdom last year designated the first Sunday in August each year as American Family Day.

According to State Rep. Thaddeus Stopczynski, the sponsor of the legislation, "Too many families are destroyed by floundering marriages, children who are excessively independent, and other individualistic tendencies which cause us to forget each other."

"A day which celebrates the family should cause people to reflect on their ancestry and on the virtues and happiness associated with familial relationships."

Unfortunately, families won't be restored by legislation.

The one song by Harry Chapin, killed last week in a traffic accident, that I remember (the thought, not the words) is "Cats in the Cradle" (if I remember the title right).

It is about a father who has no time for his son while the son is growing up. The father gets old and longs for the companionship of his grown-up son, but the son has no time for his father.

Songs of worship and laughter

Kingston man in music ministry

The $200 phone bill is overdue, you're flat broke and the company's threatening to disconnect the line. There are no jobs booked in the near future and without a phone, the chances of setting anything up are pretty slim.

What do you do?

Read your Bible, pray and wait.

That, Fred and Virginia Walker explained, is the equation for Christian life. Last week at least, it seemed to work for them.

Just as they were wondering how they were going to pay their phone bill, the mail came with two checks totaling $200.

"We get a little anxious now and then, living without a set amount of money coming in every week, but we're learning not to worry," Fred Walker, a Christian singer and guitarist said. "The bills always get paid and not knowing what's coming in is part of the excitement of it all."

WALKER 29, WHO WAS born in Cass City, travels 65,000 miles a year with his wife Virginia, singing "all about worship and laughter" and living mostly on offerings.

"My music is music of the good news," said the performer whose program consists of some of his own material, traditional hymns, gospel, folk and Christian rock music.

"I try to keep it personal because chances are what's happened to me has happened to someone else," Walker said, explaining the themes of his music change as he matures in faith.

Raised in Kingston, Walker began singing at the age of three on his parents, Gordon and Rose Walker's, Christian radio broadcast in Lapeer. His parents are deceased.

"Every time we would go into a church, whether we knew the pastor or not, my Mom would tell him, 'My son sings'. Before I knew it, I'd be up there singing, usually without a guitar," Walker recalled, laughing.

The singer, who performs with a six-string guitar and sound board operated by his wife, took his first guitar lessons in a Cass City basement. "Steve Frank (of Frank's music store) had just started giving lessons. They were in some basement next to the Pinney State Bank," said Walker, who was then eight. That was about all the formal musical training he had.

Walker graduated from Kingston High School in 1970. He studied the Bible and youth ministry at Bethel College in Mishawaka, Ind., until 1974, but did not graduate.

"Right now we're concerned about a vehicle; we would like to get a van but we also need a typewriter," he continued, adding, "there's a lot of waiting involved."

THE WALKERS, WHO were in Portland, Maine, and Portland, Ore., during last year's tour, travel in a 1973 station wagon.

"We're going to cut back next year to a 300-mile radius of home, with one long tour a year," Mrs. Walker said, admitting she needs a home. "I like to travel, but I couldn't work out of a trailer."

Often when the Walkers travel, a group or church sponsors them, setting up places for them to stay as well as the performances. Last week, a Thumb area Christian ministry group sponsored concerts in Caseville and Elkton.

IT WASN'T THE FIRST time Walker sang in a church in this area. His singing and ministerial debut was at the Mizpah Missionary church of Cass City and a Marlette church when he was 13 years old.

Those early churches as well as the couple's home church, have been very supportive of the inter-denominational ministry. "You need people supporting you, believing in what you're believing in," Mrs. Walker said.

Support has come on a national level, too, the couple said, explaining Walker placed fourth in last year's Music City Song Festival. The competition was between contemporary gospel singers from across the country.

Although Walker describes this ministry he believes so strongly in as "not a preaching ministry," he claims people need to hear something that will "challenge" them.

"We need to hear about God's love but we also need to hear about a God of judgement, who requires things of us," said the singer, explaining why he uses music which tells "what's right or wrong in light of Scripture."

Quanicassee murder trial postponed

The murder trial of Randy Lee Tune, scheduled to begin Aug. 4, was postponed Monday by Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn to Aug. 25.

Tune, 23, of Buena Vista township, near Saginaw, is charged with the June 4, 1980, shooting death of Tommie Lee Smith of Saginaw. He was killed by shotgun blasts while fishing at Quanicassee.

A lengthy investigation led to the arrest of Tune April 22.

Joslyn granted the motion of the defendant's attorney, Patrick D. Brady of Bay City, for the trial delay.

The attorney in his motion stated he needed more time to consult with and arrange for expert testimony and to evaluate the potential testimony of some other witnesses, including one recently named by the prosecution.

The trial is scheduled to run three weeks.

Brady also filed a motion for change of venue, that is, to move the trial to another county.

Joslyn took the motion under advisement, until after jury selection begins at the trial. Should there be difficulty in selecting jurors, Brady can cite that in asking the judge to grant his motion.

Brady cited in his motion "extensive and adverse local pretrial publicity" as one reason for seeking a new location for the trial.

He also mentioned that "alleged racial overtones of this crime have given certain vested interest to the local community in this prosecution and constituted undue influence." Tune is white; the victim was black.

The attorney also argued "that the unusual nature of a first degree murder prosecution in this relatively small community in and of itself has created a degree of sensationalism that further inhibits the abilities of the defendant to receive a fair trial in Tuscola county."

Tune is being held in the county jail without bond, awaiting trial.

and a sentencing date will be set. Bond was continued.

His plea was in connection with the attempted entry Feb. 23 of a storage shed belonging to Dan's Super Market, 465 Hooper Street, Caro.

His guilty plea was part of a plea bargain with the prosecution, in exchange for which a charge of entering without breaking the storage shed of Wright's Pharmacy, 647 Hooper Street, Caro, the same day, will be dismissed.

Sharon C. Haynes, 35, of 6161 S. Cain Road, Vassar, was placed on three years' probation for attempted felonious assault. She was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, to be served at a later date, with credit for three days already served. She was fined $300 and assessed $400 court costs.

She pleaded guilty to the charge May 18, to an assault with a pistol on a woman March 31 near Mayville.

Ronald G. Mouton, 37, of 3675 Muck Road, Caro, was placed on two years' probation for delivery of marijuana.

juana Oct. 29 in Caro. He pleaded guilty to the charge May 11.

Twelve days in the county jail, minus one day already served, will be served on week ends. He was fined $400 and assessed $250 court costs.

Daniel V. Brigham, 21, of 383 Unionville Road, Bay Port, pleaded innocent to violating probation. A hearing will be held within 12 days.

The former Kingston resident was placed on 36 months' probation Dec. 8 for larceny in a building.

He is charged with having violated probation by possessing or consuming alcoholic beverages and associating with a person he knew had a felony record, both incidents being July 6.

William Hessling, 18, of Birch Run, was placed on five years' probation for attempted unarmed robbery.

He was also sentenced to one year in the county jail, with credit given for 123 days served, fined $200, assessed $400 court costs and ordered to pay restitution.

Hessling pleaded guilty June 1 in connection with the theft of money from a man March 20 near Millington.

DISTRICT COURT

Dean Stadlberger, 56, of Moriarty Road, Decker, pleaded guilty Monday to impaired driving (subsequent offenses).

Judge Richard F. Kern accepted his plea and sentenced him to 20 days in the county jail, fined him $118 and assessed $182 court costs.

Stadlberger was arrested on the charge March 20 in Caro.

Dennis Pond, 38, of Jackson, pleaded guilty Monday to reckless driving. His plea was accepted and he was fined $38 and assessed $62 court costs.

Pond was arrested by deputies July 11 after his car was seen being driven erratically on M-81, west of Cass City.

Criminal complaints in Tuscola jump from 665 to 743 in June

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department recorded 743 criminal complaints in June, a big jump from 665 in May.

Traffic complaints (accidents, reckless driving, etc.) led the list with 192 recorded, followed by vandalism, 84; larcenies, 73; disorderly conduct, 62; domestic matters, 60, and assaults, 40.

Deputies made 37 arrests during the month, of which 21 were for traffic-related offenses and eight for burglaries.

There were 211 traffic tickets issued, including 88 for speeding and 21 for defective equipment. Nineteen appearance tickets were issued, of which 10 were for purchase, possession or transporting of alcoholic beverages by a minor.

The county jail took in 115 inmates during the month, of whom eight were female, and released 119.

Patrol cars traveled a total of 42,161 miles and consumed 3,643.4 gallons of gasoline (11.57 miles per gallon).

Cass City police made five arrests in May, three for traffic-related offenses and one each for larceny and littering.

Caro state police arrested 12 persons, including seven for traffic-related offenses. Kingston police arrested two persons for traffic and one for larceny.

The number of accidents and complaints respectively in area townships and villages in June were as follows: Columbia, 9 and 3; Elkland, 22 and 5; Cass City, 58 and accidents not recorded by sheriff's department; Ellington, 14 and 1; Elmwood, 20 and 1; Kingston township, 22 and 1; Kingston village, 2 and accidents not recorded, and Novesta, 25 and 1.

Ugly man pinned by loader

An Ugly man was released Tuesday from Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, where he was taken after having been pinned underneath a loader Saturday.

Jacob Susalla, 51, was moving plywood with a loader at the site of his son Duane's new home, south of Ugly, when the accident occurred.

Susalla said the vehicle flipped backward after he let go of the clutch and pinned him underneath. The plywood however, was supported by the loader and didn't land on him so he was able to "squeeze" out and walk away.

He was treated for a fractured collarbone and fractured ribs, a hospital spokesman said.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

The Zonta Club lent a carnival air to last week's sidewalk sales when they sponsored a "dunking machine" project. Proceeds totaled $280 which is earmarked for the swimming pool.

A special Bicentennial celebration is slated for Cass City this week. Jack Esau is serving as general chairman of the event.

A farm owned by Nelson Anker, 5222 North Cedar Run Road, has been designated as a centennial farm. Walbro Corporation reported that sales and earnings for the second quarter were the best in the company's 26-year history.

Three long-time residents of Cass City gathered recently to discuss life in the village as they remember it for the bicentennial celebration. They were Mrs. Laura Reagh, M.B. Auten, and Mrs. Ella Croft.

Provincial House, residents continue working on a paper flag which will be part of a bicentennial float in Saturday's parade.

TEN YEARS AGO

It's not every day a little boy can open a clam and expect to find a treasure, but lucky Richard Henry Faulkner, 6, of Cass City did. He found a freshwater pearl in the Cass River at Sanilac County Park No. 3 on M-53.

Harry Little has received a plaque as one of 17 persons in the state to have completed 40 years as a licensed mortician.

The annual Gagetown Fireman's Field Day was held this past week end amid a carnival atmosphere with over $600 raised, according to Fire Chief Chuck Wright.

Cass City youths may just be getting used to the idea they can vote at age 18, but starting Jan. 1, 1972, all eighteen-year-olds will be legally declared adults and take on the right to drink alcohol.

25 YEARS AGO

Two recent graduates of Cass City High School were awarded scholarships at Central Michigan College. They were Keith O'Dell and Ronald Ferguson.

Farmers voting in the wheat marketing quota referendum throughout the county have set wheat support prices for 1957 at $2.00 a

Cataract surgery restores vision

Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
AMA

A cataract is the loss of transparency of the lens of the eye.

Contrary to popular belief, says a booklet from the American Medical Association, a cataract is not a growth or covering on the outside of the eyeball. It is, in a sense, a dense concentration of abnormal fibers in the lens.

Though the condition is generally hereditary and develops with age, other conditions may precipitate it.

Damage due to severe injuries, eye infections, electric shock, excessive exposure to X-rays, poisoning, endocrine gland disturbances, diabetes, viral infections before birth and other less common causes also can result in cataract.

A cataract is actually one of the least serious disorders that cause failing eyesight, and surgery to restore visual function is more than 95 percent successful. Even though cataract affects both eyes, often vision will be better in one eye. Surgery usually is not performed until vision is impaired.

The operation for a cataract is fairly simple and takes only about an hour, but requires skill on the part of the surgeon.

After the patient's eye is anesthetized, an opening is made in the upper part of the eye where the cornea and white of the eye meet. The cataract is grasped and carefully removed from the eye with a forceps, a suction cup or a freezing instrument. Many tiny stitches are made to close the incision.

With a successful operation, the patient may move around and care for himself immediately afterwards. A hospital stay may last from two or three days to one week.

New books at the library

CROCKETT'S FLOWER GARDEN, by James U. Crockett (non-fiction). "Crockett's Victory Garden" and "Crockett's Indoor Garden" broke sales records for books in their genre and this final title in the trilogy is bound to attract the late author's wide audience. Instructions on maintaining a blooming garden throughout the growing season are illustrated by glorious color photos of annuals, perennials, bushes; trees, etc. Arranged chronologically, the chapters give sound advice and list chores to be attended to, February through October. Notes on good outdoor housekeeping after frost include storing bulbs, building the compost heap and winterizing tender plants.

REFLEX, by Dick Francis (fiction). Aging jockey Philip Nore, a loner who was abandoned by his unwed, junkie mother, has decided to quit the track and make photography a profession instead of a hobby. At the same time, he begins trying to locate a half-sister he has just learned about, hoping she can shed some light on his past. Then George Millace, the racetrack's official photographer, is murdered and Philip gets involved in finding out why. Some scraps of film are developed and reveal that George was blackmailing several horse owners and racing officials. Philip is drawn into a parallel odyssey for a sister he never knew and an anonymous father while at the same time trying to keep himself from being the killer's next victim.

GORKY PARK, by Martin Cruz Smith (fiction). When three bodies are discovered frozen in the snow of Moscow's Gorky Park, and Chief Homicide Investigator Arkady Renko is beaten to the murder site by a KGB agent, he knows that these are no ordinary murders. Arkady's every action in the case is monitored by the KGB and he wonders why they don't take the case. He also meets and falls in love with Iriana, although he knows he cannot trust her.

to head campaign

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has announced local chairmen for its statewide Breath of Life campaign.

They are Debi Harbec, Cass City; Sandra Peters, Saginaw; Ven Stark, Kingston, and Eva M. Dickinson, Snover.

The chairmen will organize campaigns in September to raise money for research, education, diagnosis and treatment of cystic fibrosis.

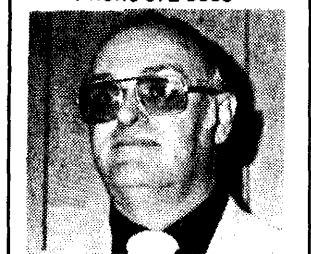

CF is the leading genetic cause of death among children, with the average life expectancy of its victims now in the early 20s.

The greatest health problems from CF are caused by increased lung damage from repeated infections and by malnutrition from inadequate digestion of food.

Early diagnosis and daily therapy and medications can increase the life span of those afflicted.

Statistics say drivers training saving lives

By Sheila Gruber

In recent years, with lowering enrollments and rising costs becoming grim realities for most school districts,
the merits of driver education versus its cost have often been the subject of heated debate.

Evidence compiled by the Michigan Department of Education and the Office of Highway Safety suggests the program has been helping create better drivers.

"Since 1955, we have doubled the number of drivers, roads and miles travelled, yet cut the fatality rate by more than half,"

said Richard Clafin, driver education consultant from
the Michigan Department of Education. In 1955, for every 100 million miles of Michigan highway travelled, 7.1
persons were killed in traffic mishaps, compared to only 2.8 persons in 1980. Better highways, police and courts,
in addition to driver education have contributed to the decrease," he said.

Other studies, indicating that youths who have completed driver education courses receive fewer moving traffic violations than those without instruction
and are involved in fewer accidents, have led insurance companies to offer

special rates to customers
completing driver education courses.

RON NURNBERGER,
who has earned the required
nine semester hours of graduate work in driver education, is among those who believe the value of the program outweighs its cost.

The cost for the Cass City school district to operate its driver education program
next year has been estimated at $21,168, according to Supt. Donald Crouse.

Some of the money to fund
the program comes from the state's driver's license fees,
set aside for driver education under a 1966 legislative act.

The allotment to each school district from the state has just been raised from $30 to $45 for each student enrolled, effective July 1. "The increase should help the districts with financial troubles," said Clafin.

ORIGINALLY, DRIVER
education was completely funded by the state, with automobile dealers providing cars at no cost to the schools.

As the program grew,
state money became less
and less available, dropping from $25 a student in 1957 to $12.50 in 1959.

Lagging automobile sales

meant more financial trouble for the program,
with dealers going to a leasing system in most cases. Usually cars are leased from local dealers on a day-to-day use base, for a nominal fee, ranging from $4-$7 a day across the state.
Cass City leases cars on a rotating basis from Geiger-Hunt Ford, Ouvry Chevrolet-Olds and Rabideau Motors for $4 a day.

"Local school districts
need to help fund the program," said Clafin, discussing the much quoted opinion that state mandated programs should be state funded. "Limiting the percentage of funding the state

does is good. The state shouldn't have to support schools that aren't economically run, such as one district whose cost was $300 a student because of unjustifably small classes."

Local administrators have been using "ingenuity" to cut costs, Clafin said. Some districts are buying used cars, or getting people to donate them.

The new competency system should also prove to be more cost-effective because it allows for more flexibility,
he said.

IN AN EFFORT TO make the program more consistent across the state
and more accountable, the education department,
through the Office of Highway Safety Planning, held a conference in December, 1976, outlining specific goals
for Michigan driver education programs to reach in the future. They are:

-To encourage a more active role by parents, possibly allowing students to drive with their parents
during the driver education program.

-To encourage regular school day programming for driver education, with full-time teachers.

-To change the function of
the Michigan Department of Education to a leadership role in coordinating, supervising and promoting better

traffic safety education programs within Michigan school systems.

-To improve teacher
competency in driver education.

-To create a more equitable funding procedure for driver education.

-To implement a K-12
traffic safety education program into the regular curriculum.

Seek $35,000 grant to start program for older persons

The upper Thumb may be one of the first rural areas in the states to offer a special older worker program if the Thumb Area Consortium's request for $35,000 is granted.

The consortium administrative board approved application for the funds last Thursday.

The program is funded by the Michigan Department of Labor and works to recruit more people aged 55 or older into existing Comprehensive Employment and Training Act programs, which the consortium oversees.

"Most of the money now goes to big cities," Program Director Marv Pichla said, explaining the money will be used to pay for administering the program in this area.

Two persons, at least 55
years old, would be hired to oversee the program. "They would go around to the Commission on Aging, Human Development Commission
and Department of Social Services and try to recruit older workers eligible for

CETA programs," Pichla said. "A lot of older people want to work but are afraid
and the one-to-one encouragement may help."

About 20 percent of the tri-county population is 55 or older, he estimated, and of these, 6,248 are economically eligible for the federally funded CETA programs.

The program, which Executive Director Frank Len-ard is "quite certain we'll get," would help the consortium meet affirmative action mandates to serve older workers. "We've done poorly in this area in the past," he said, adding, "it's a chance to try something at no cost to us."

Under the program, which the Commission on Aging
would also participate in,
older workers could work
full or part-time, depending on their needs. Individual programs could be set up for persons receiving Social Security, not exceeding the hours they are allowed under that program.

"Our on-the-job training
and work experience programs would especially be good in the new program," Lenard explained, suggesting the program could work with the Commission on Aging's outreach program to solicit jobs in private industry and the public sector.

Established as a "special governor's grant," the program will provide:

-Outreach and intake counseling for referral to appropriate agencies for provision of training, work experience, counseling and employment placement services.

-Development of jobs
which can meet the unique needs of older workers.

-Training in outreach,
communications, public relations and intra-agency coordination for program and support staffs.

If the application is granted, the program will begin Oct. 1 and run for one year.

In other business, the consortium reviewed CETA budget proposals now being discussed by Congress. The Thumb will be funded in four areas, Lenard said, under Titles II, IV, VII and summer work programs totaling $3 million. The total is far below the current budget, because of the recent discontinuation of Titles II-D and VI.

The board authorized a request for additional funds for the Michigan Employment Program. The $41,000 authorized for the period ending Sept. 30 is all obligated, Lenard said.

One of two different contract extensions for the program should be approved by the state, he continued, either $25,000 for three months

or $50,000 for six months.

The consortium's lease for most of the first floor of the Hahn Real Estate Building, 6240 Main Street, was renewed for another year by the board with a 10 percent increase in rent. A new provision was accepted by Hahn in exchange for the increase, allowing the consortium to terminate the lease on 60 days notice with no penalty. This provision was added, according to Lenard, "in case CETA comes on hard times" in the new administration.

The lease runs from Oct. 1, 1981-Sept. 30, 1982, with rent
of $1,956 a month including utilities.

Mrs. Demo honored for parish service

Margaret Demo was honored by several St. Pan-

Margaret Demo

cratius Catholic church
parishioners Saturday evening at a farewell gathering
in the parish hall.

She was recognized for her 40 years of volunteer service to the parish, doing everything from preparing the altar to opening the church to making coffee for various gatherings. "She was always there when you needed her," said one of the parishioners.

She was presented with a gift by Agnes Zawilinski, president of the Women's Council.

Mrs. Demo, a widow, has moved to the Westchester Village Apartments in Saginaw to be closer to her family.

McCombs hold reunion

The 21st annual reunion of the descendants of William and Louisa McComb was held Sunday at the Cass City Recreation Park.

Present were 62 members
and three visitors.

Officers elected to serve during 1981-82 were: Ernest Bullock, president; Jerry McComb, vice-president, and Helene Burns, secretary-treasurer.

Attending from the greatest distance was Mrs. Lila Bullock of Cottonwood, Ariz.

The one with the most years was Mrs. Lila Bullock.

The one with the least number of years was Grete
Miller, granddaughter of Dick and Dottie Bell.

The couple married the most years was Mr. and Mrs. Harold McComb of Detroit.

The 1982 reunion will be held on July 18 at 1 p.m.

Your Neighbor says

Economy affects vacation plans

The economy has definitely affected vacation
plans, Linda Bucholtz of Cass City said.

Instead of going on a longer trip, Ms. Bucholtz
and her family are planning to camp for a few days nearby.

"You've got to squeeze in places you've never squeezed before and spend money more wisely," she said. "Instead of taking off
for seven days somewhere,
you have to check out the parks and stuff and see what you can afford to do."

Port Crescent Park,
where the Bucholtzs will camp in August, is pretty reasonable. "It's only $6 a day there and you can always live on hot dogs and hamburgers for awhile," Ms. Bucholtz said, adding,
"I'm glad this car is easy on gas."

Her family enjoys camping in their tent and it's something they can afford to do, she explained. "It gives the kids a chance to have a good time and me a chance to get away and relax."

Ms. Bucholtz of 6900 Ritter Road is an employee of Provincial House and has three children, including two foster children.

When she gets time off
work she takes the children to the beach to relax for the day and "soak up the sun"
instead of going on a long vacation somewhere.

And who gets how much

Your tax dollars at work

The following article is based on a hypothetical family of four people with a household income of $14,000
who live in an average home
with a state equalized valuation of $16,000.

I live in Tuscola county.
Recently I have read that there is a tax revolt in our area. I am all for that. Taxes are too high!

Just about everyone agrees that taxes are too high. Not everyone, however, agrees on which taxes are too high and which, if any, are not. If I am going to climb on any bandwagon, I want to know the facts.

First I had to figure out what taxes I pay. To begin with I took my 1980 income tax information, which is based on an income of $14,000 with four dependents. I listed the following:
federal income tax, social security tax, state income tax, property tax and sales tax.

I added all of these together and figured what percent each one was of the total. Since I am always concerned about school tax I determined how much of the property tax went for schools and figured that percent also. The results were surprising and indicated the following percentages — which can also be read as the number of cents
out of every tax dollar:

Federal Income Tax 32
percent or $1,067.
Social Security Tax 28
percent or $931.
State Income Tax 11 percent or $368.
Property Tax Schools
(22.9 mills) 11 percent or $366.
Intermediate School District in Caro (3.42 mills) 2
percent or $55.
County and Township (5.35
mills) 3 percent or $86.
Village of Cass City (16.50
mills) 8 percent or $264.
Sales Tax 5 percent or $169.

Total 100 percent or $3,306.
This might make an interesting comparison for anyone to make.

Next, I analyzed these taxes. Federal (32 percent) and state (11 percent) income taxes total 43 percent or a little less than half of all the taxes paid. However, I can't vote on those. Social Security tax was 28 percent of our taxes. I can't vote on that either. Sales tax? That can be annoying at times but it isn't very much. Besides, I can't vote on that either.

Property taxes, Ah Ha!
There is the culprit. I can vote on that. However, that is only 24 percent or 26 cents
out of every dollar of taxes that I pay. That includes local school tax, which, by itself is 11 percent. But that is just 11 cents out of every dollar I pay.

Let's look further. Money in federal income taxes goes to Washington. A recent survey showed Michigan

dead last in figuring the percent of tax money sent to Washington which comes back to the state.

It seems that the only taxes I pay that benefits my community is the property tax which accounts for payroll benefits, etc. that go directly into our community. Plus a good deal more in goods and services to local businesses.

The schools are directly responsible for our standard of living. It has been in our classrooms that our people,
all of us, learned the skills
and acquired the knowledge that has made this high standard of living possible.
We have more cars, refrigerators, washing machines,
and other labor-saving devices than anyone else.

Before the birth of Christ,
the Roman statesman Cicero, wrote, "What greater or better gift can we offer the republic than to teach and instruct our youth?" Many years later President John

Adams wrote, "The whole people must take upon themselves, the education of the whole people, and must be willing to bear the expense of it."

When I first think of what I get back for my tax dollar (out of each dollar only 24 cents stays in the community), I think I get more out of the 24 cents for property taxes than out of the rest.
But, the property tax is levied in only one or two big chunks, and not spread out,
a little at a time, over the whole year. It is more noticeable. It is the only tax
I can vote on.

One further note, in Michigan a family is eligible for a 60-percent rebate on their residential property tax in excess of 3.5 percent of their taxable income. Based on these figures, a $90 refund
would be due this family
from the State of Michigan.
Agriculture families also have a recourse in the form
of Public Act 116. ADV.

Osentoski wins 3rd tourney of year at Akron

The Osentoski Realty fast pitch softball team of Cass City won the Akron tournament over the week end for the second year in a row. It was the team's third tournament win this season.

Osentoski started the 10 team double elimination tourney Friday night with a win over Princing's Pharmacy of Saginaw, 3-0.

Brian Helwig threw the shutout, allowing only five hits and striking out eight batters. The game was scoreless until the eighth inning when Osentoski put together three hits after a walk and an error to score the three runs. Jeff Hartel, Jerry Toner and Mike Rea got the hits.

Saturday, Osentoski's second game went 20 innings, taking 3½ hours to play, but they defeated Pro Am Sports of Saginaw, 8-7.

Ken Martin got off to a slow start, with lazy defense contributing to a 5-0 lead by Pro Am after the first inning.

Osentoski came back and scored four runs in the second inning, with Tim Severance's double scoring two runs.

Ron Ouvry followed with a homer for two more runs. Ouvry tied it up in the bottom of the sixth with another home run.

Martin came on strong and held Pro Am scoreless for 12 innings. Pro Am scored twice in the top of the 14th inning after a pitching change and Osentoski tied it up in the bottom of the 14th with a walk to Todd Alexander, a double by Jeff Hartel and a single by Mike Rea.

Brian Helwig, after giving up the two runs, held on to pitch five more scoreless innings, keeping Osentoski in the game.

In the 20th, Craig Helwig came in to pitch, and Osentoski scored in the bottom with a double by Dean Severance and Tim Severance singled him home.

Sunday, Craig Helwig defeated Round Up Saloon from Midland, 4-1, giving up only three hits and striking out eight batters. Ken Martin had two hits and three RBIs and Dean Severance had three hits with one RBI.

In the game that matched the two undefeated teams Sunday afternoon, Osentoski beat Sports Page Lounge of Saginaw, 2-0.

Osentoski scored twice in the first inning on a fielder's choice, a triple by Mike Rea and a single by Ken Martin. Martin also got the shutout, giving up five hits and striking out three.

Sports Page came back through the loser's bracket to defeat Osentoski, 1-0, in the first championship game. Brian Helwig took the loss. A throwing error, along with three hits by Sports Page in the seventh inning spelled defeat.

That being Osentoski's first defeat in the double elimination tournament, Sports Page had to play them again.

This time Osentoski came out the winner, 5-0. Craig Helwig threw this shutout. A balanced hitting attack got the runs, with Tim Severance and Scott Hartel each getting two RBIs.

Tim Severance was awarded the most valuable hitting plaque.

Brian Helwig, after giving up the two runs, held on to pitch five more scoreless innings, keeping Osentoski in the game.

Tell winners in Lions tourney

The second annual Cass City Lions 2-man best ball tournament Saturday was held at Rolling Hills Golf Course.

The golfers were divided into three flights, depending on handicap.

Winner of the championship competition was the team of Jim Champion, Cass City, and H. Titus of Sandusky.

First flight winners were Eugene Kloc, Cass City, and Alva Allen, Deford.

Second flight champions were Hugh Lautner and Jim Burleson, both of Cass City.

In addition to the championships second and third place winners received prize money. In the championship flight Dale Sherman and Pat Putnam, both of Caro, were second and Bob St. Germain and Dennis Deschamps, both of Canada, were third.

In the first flight Terry Degelbeck and Terry Haske, both of Marlette, were second and Aime and Ron Ouvry, both of Cass City, were third.

In the second division Phil Gray and Jeff Maharg were second and Nat Tuttle and Gary Jones were third.

Over $1,400 in prize money was distributed among the winners, according to Lion Don Erla.

Lady golfers entertain Vassar club

Members of the Cass City Ladies' Golf League entertained ladies from Vassar Tuesday, July 14, in an annual guest day event.

An estimated 60 ladies participated. Low gross golfers were Theresa Street, 41, for Vassar and Toby Weaver, 39, for Cass City.

Low net honors went to Jo Ann Metcalf, 25, of Vassar and Verna May MacRae, 21, of Cass City.

Fewest putts honors went to Earlene Cassidy, 13, of Vassar while Michelle Zdrojewski and Elaine Proctor tied with 15 for Cass City.

Most putts were by Ann Garner, 22, of Vassar and Marian Umphenbach, 25, of Cass City.

Toby Weaver won closest to the pin honors.

Cass City swimmers cop 10 firsts in triangular meet

The Cass City swim team captured ten first place awards at the July 12 meet in the Cass City pool.

The meet pitted Cass City, coached by Tim Horner and Scott Richards, against Marlette, coached by Lori Burton and Hileen Kraft, and Bay City, coached by John Trumper.

Marlette won the meet with 146 points, followed by Bay City with 102 and Cass City with 80.

In the 10 and under division, Rusty Bush took four first places, swimming the 25-yard backstroke in 23.6 seconds, the 25-yard freestyle in 19.35 seconds and the 25-yard breast stroke in 30.3 seconds. In diving competition he also placed first.

Mark Hinn took first place four times in the 11 and 12-year-old division, swimming the 50-yard backstroke in 46 seconds, the 50-yard freestyle in 35.9 seconds and the boys' 50-yard breaststroke in 49.04 seconds. He also captured his age group's diving competition.

In the 15 and over category, Tim Horner captured first in the boy's 50-yard backstroke with a 35.9-second swim and Susy Scollon captured first in the girls' 50-yard freestyle with a 32.3-second swim.

Other place winners for Cass City were: --10 and under, Mark Scollon, second and Mark Albee, third in the 25-yard breast stroke, and Wendy Weaver, third in the 25-yard freestyle and 25-yard breast stroke.

--11 and 12-year-olds, Lisa Hinn, second in the girls' 50-yard breast stroke; Roy Shaft, third in the 50-yard breast stroke and Tim Albee, third in diving.

--15 and over, Tim Horner, third in the 50-yard butterfly and 50-yard freestyle; second in diving, and Chris Langenburg, third in the 50-yard backstroke.

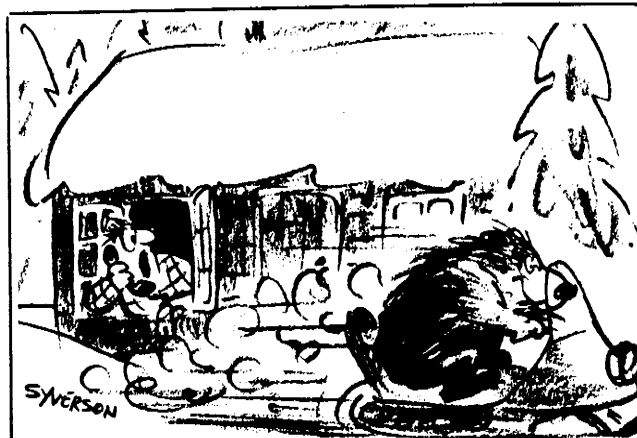

The loss was Cass City's second, following a meet against Marlette June 28. In that meet, at Marlette, Cass City scored 82 points and Marlette 165.

The team has two meets left, both at Cass City. July 26 against Caro, coached by Kurt Hines and Wendy Brown and a league meet Aug. 2. The meets begin at 4 p.m.

Walbro profits down in quarter

Lambert E. Althaver, president and chief operating officer of Walbro Corp., reported consolidated net sales of $11,331,603 for the three-month period ending

June 30. This compares with $11,029,490 for the same period in 1980. Earnings for the period were $125,628 compared with $222,206 for the second quarter of 1980. On a per-share basis, earnings for the period were 16 cents, compared with 28 cents for the second quarter of last year.

For the first six months of 1981, Walbro's sales totaled $22,816,993, compared with $22,624,970 for the same period in 1980. Earnings were $349,967 for the period, down from $625,498 for the first six months of 1980.

Althaver attributed the drop in earnings to a reduced worldwide market for the company's small engine carburetor line, and temporary operating inefficiencies due to rapid expansion of the company's diecast operations.

He also cited continuing high interest rates and unfavorable foreign exchange rates as factors further reducing earnings.

The executive noted sales of the company's automotive fuel pumps are expected to strengthen during the rest of the year, especially with the introduction of a new rotary fuel pump for the automotive original equipment market late in the year.

He also forecast an upturn in carburetor sales beginning in the third quarter.

Sales of the company's aluminum and magnesium diecastings and plastics parts are expected to remain at their present high levels throughout the balance of 1981.

Louis Weiler funeral slated Thursday

Louis Clinton Weiler, a lifelong resident of Gagetown, died suddenly Monday at his home.

He was born April 18, 1904, in Gagetown, the son of John and Mary (Lenhard) Weiler. Weiler, a retired crop farmer, was a member of St. Agatha's Catholic church of Gagetown.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Marie Campbell of Crosswell, and several nieces and nephews and grand-nieces and nephews. Two brothers, Vincent and John, and two sisters, Helen and Lucille, preceded him in death.

A rosary was to have been recited Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City.

Funeral mass will be conducted Thursday at 11 a.m. at St. Agatha's, Father Joseph Morales officiating. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Nuclear power

In the United States, we have 74 nuclear plants now operating and 92 under construction. By 1990, nuclear energy will provide almost one-fourth of the nation's electricity, second only to coal in total output.

Taking Stock

One upon a time there was a happy couple who had just built themselves a house. It was a pleasant place — two bedrooms, two ovens, two baths and two mortgages.

The living room had an enviable southern exposure, with a big window that could easily be slid back to catch the benign southeast breeze which makes this part of Florida a particularly delightful region.

These windows were screened, because in summer a bug or two had been known to come on the scene toward evening.

If there was no breeze, an old fashioned ceiling fan gently stirred the air. Lots of people liked it better than air-conditioning. Cheaper and quieter, among other things.

Joe and Mary were very pleased with their place. The lawn came on almost instantly, as lawns do in Florida, and the shrubs soon looked as though they had always been there. Back in Kalamazoo, it would have taken five years to have produced the same lush landscaping that flowered in Boca Raton in five months.

One evening, during the cocktail hour, when Mary thought Joe would be in a receptive mood, she murmured, "Joe, dear, wouldn't it be nice if we had a little patio in front of the living room?"

Before Joe could reply, she went on breathlessly, "You know, we could get some of those Cuban tiles — they look like real ones — and you just level off a little place and put some gravel in and lay them. Why I could help you and then what is it they put between the cracks, grout? It tells just how to do it here in this Readers Digest book . . ."

No use repeating the rest of the conversation. You know what happened. They built a patio, 18'x10'. Except they used Mexican tile, because that was not imitation. Cost a little more, but it was the real thing.

Having a patio, they of course had to have patio furniture.

"No use getting that flimsy stuff," said Mary. "Just won't last." So their cast aluminum and vinyl-webbed chairs, stools, and cocktail tables and a glass-topped table bit their bank account for $800.

Looked nice, though, and they lounged on their new patio before dinner, with frosted glasses of gin-and-tonic, and you'd swear, they looked like a page from Better Homes and Gardens.

Only trouble, come May and June, it was pretty hot until the sun went down. "Joe Dear," said Mary, "If we had a little fiberglass roof it would give us some shade, and it would keep the rain off, too. Lindsley's Lumber had them advertised . . . I could help you put it up . . ."

The roof did just that. And Mary, true to her promise, did hold the ladder, when she wasn't on the phone.

Come sundown, though, the bugs came. Not many, but enough to drive Joe and Mary into the house. Not every night, but usually when the wind came off the Everglades.

"Joe, dear, the patio is so nice and the roof is great. I'm just not going to say anything more about those leaks along the joint. Does fiberglass swell up? If it does, that may stop it."

"But I was thinking, we could just put some screen around the area, and we could sit out here every night. I could help you . . ."

The screen did just what it was supposed to. But by this time it was late November, and the nights were nippy. "Joe dear, do you think if we had some glass around this . . . ? Then we could close it in, when it got chilly. It would keep the rain out, too . . ."

It wasn't a bad idea. A screen porch lets in the chill, the rain and the wind. A glassed-in porch creates no problems, except one of solvency when you already have two mortgages and Visa and Master Charge are up to their limits.

For Christmas, Mary suggested carpeting so it would look more like a room.

"Long as we're doing it, Joe dear," said Mary at the cocktail hour, "might as well run the air conditioning and heating out to it. Then we could get a Castro convertible so Mother would have a room of her own."

By summer it was all done. Of course, with carpeting, the old patio furniture looked sort of funny, right alongside the Castro.

"You know, dear," said Mary as she brought him his tall frosted gin-and-tonic with a slice of lime, "we wouldn't have to give the patio things away. We could just build a little patio out here in front of the windows. Cuban tile would be good enough. About 10 by 18 would be a nice size."

"You could just level off a little place and put some gravel in . . . what is it they put between the cracks?"

I could help you . . ."

Accidents

Snover, was ticketed by village police on a charge of making an improper turn after an accident at 9:30 that evening.

Officers said he was turning south onto Leach Street from westbound Main Street and ran into an eastbound car driven by Phillip W. Martin, 22, of 5615 E. Cass City Road.

SVSC offers classes via electronics

"Keep your eyes on the blackboard" will take on new meaning for Thumb area students this fall. Beginning Labor Day week, they can enroll in college classes taught with the aid of an electronic blackboard.

Utilizing modern telecommunications technology, Saginaw Valley State College will offer courses at Cass City High School, in cooperation with the Cass City School's Office of Community Education.

The teleteaching system will use what looks like a portable blackboard seen in many classrooms, but converts marks made on its pressure-sensitive surface to electronic signals. These are transmitted over regular telephone lines and are displayed on TV monitors at both ends of the line. Microphones at each location provide live instant two-way communication between instructor and students.

According to Dr. Eugene Hamilton, dean of continuing education at SVSC, the package will permit SVSC's faculty to effectively teach many more students than with a traditional classroom set-up. "Since an instructor is teaching students at two or more locations simultaneously, there is a savings of travel time and cost."

"Students also save driving expense, because they can enroll in classes close to their homes. It allows us to offer classes to smaller groups, since they are enrolled in a section which is part of our regular campus schedule. And lessons can be stored through use of a stereo tape recorder for playback at students' convenience."

Hamilton noted that experience with teleteaching at SVSC's Wurtsmith Education Center in Oscoda has shown this type of instructional delivery brings good results for students who use it. "People who took tele-teaching classes at Wurtsmith performed on tests and evaluations as well as those enrolled on our home campus," he said.

A paraprofessional will be in the Cass City classroom at all times to distribute materials, present films or tapes, collect homework and monitor exams. The instructor will travel to Cass City and teach from that location at least three times during the 15-week semester.

Plans call for on-site instruction of some classes at Cass City by SVSC instructors. "Our total package of both teleteaching and on-site courses, supplemented by campus programs, will provide access to baccalaureate degrees for the Thumb, which does not have a regional four-year college," Hamilton feels.

The area Hamilton has targeted for service covers a 47 mile radius from Cass City, with approximately 75,000 residents.

Registration and academic counseling service will be given on-site at Cass City High School for students enrolling in the program.

SVSC coordinator Gerald Survant says he expects to offer a wide selection of courses including introductory level natural science and general education classes plus junior and senior courses in several majors. About 25 classes are being considered for Cass City this fall, with a final schedule to be announced later this month. "As the program develops, we expect to offer all courses needed by students majoring in criminal justice, sociology, political science or general business. It would be possible to complete most degree requirements close to home," Survant said. "Students could travel to SVSC's campus for elective courses or classes using special facilities or equipment."

The program will also be open to qualified high school juniors and seniors looking for academically challenging classwork. "With the recommendation of their principal, they can enroll in SVSC's ACE (Advanced College Experience) option and obtain college credit for teleteaching classes in fields of interest to them," Survant points out.

"ACE also provides an opportunity to get a head start on college by taking basic courses in humanities, social studies or English. Our courses are fully accredited and will apply toward a degree at SVSC or other accredited colleges," he concludes.

Persons interested more information can call Kathleen O'Donnell, Cass City community education director, at 872-4151. Questions about SVSC's continuing education activities can be answered by either Hamilton or Survant at (517) 790-4066.

Altar group meets

The St. Michael's ladies altar society meeting July 6 was opened with a prayer by President Vida Champagne.

Seven members were present at the Wilmet meeting with the following reports heard:

—Virginia Bilicki, chairperson of the Mother-Daughter Breakfast, reported that 128 mothers and daughters attended and Maxine Kozlowski reported that 40 fathers and children were served at the Father-Child Breakfast held June 14.

—Discussion was started concerning the St. Michael annual Christmas bazaar to be held in November. Chairpersons will be appointed and the dates will be finalized.

The next meeting is scheduled for Aug. 3, at 7:30 p.m. during which the art of making Christmas ornaments from beads will be demonstrated by Linda Zyrowski.

Ashmores host students

Mr. and Mrs. David C. Ashmore hosted several guests Saturday, July 11, their daughter, Sharon, and son-in-law, John, and three Brazilian exchange students.

The students, who will be leaving for home shortly, all have host families in the Saginaw area. They are Zulma Venturin, Pedro Medeiros and Angela Douardo. Also present was Pedro's host mother, Sharon Sopack.

Among the day's activities was a swim in the Cass City park pool.

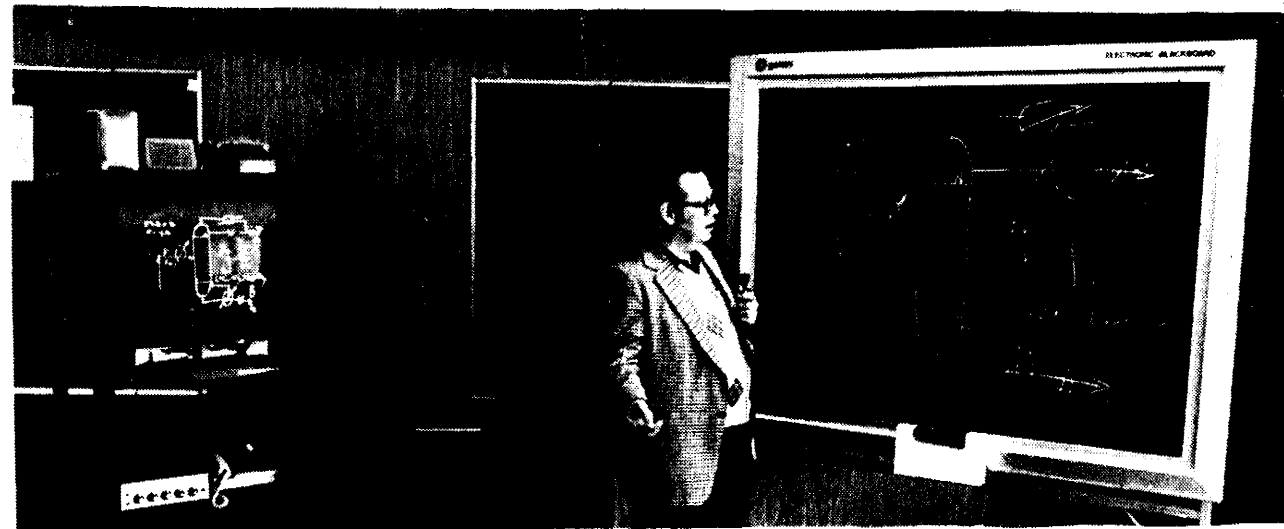

Blood drive Tuesday in Cass City

There will be a Red Cross blood bank drive Tuesday from 1-7 at the St. Pancratius Catholic church hall.

This blood bank is being sponsored by the Salem and Trinity United Methodist Youth Fellowships.

The youths will be calling people in the community who have donated blood previously to set up an appointment for donating on this date. If not contacted, donors are invited to call Libby Dickinson at 872-3566 for an appointment or appear at the hall during the blood drive.

Nurses are needed to help. If interested, contact Jane Mitchell, RN at Hills and Dales.

ELECTRONIC BLACKBOARD — A Saginaw Valley State College instructor demonstrates use of the electronic blackboard. As information is written on the board in the campus classroom, it will immediately show up on the television screen in the Cass City High School classroom for students taking the college classes. Appoint prof to Walbro board

Herbert M. Kennedy, chairman of the Business Administration-Economics Department at Principia College, Elmhurst, Ill., has been named to the board of directors of Walbro Corp.

Kennedy's election was announced by Walbro chairman and Chief Executive Officer Walter E. Walpole. He takes the seat of Truman F. Campbell, who becomes an honorary director.

Kennedy has served in his present capacity at Principia since 1978. Prior to then, he taught at Eastern Michigan University and the University of Michigan-Flint. He has also served as president of Trend-O-Graph Inc., an Ann Arbor advertising research firm, and as treasurer-controller of Hopkins-Campbell, Inc., an industrial advertising agency.

A graduate of Principia, he also holds an MBA in finance from the University of Michigan and is working toward a PhD in finance and international business at that institution.

Saturday, Aug. 1 - Wallace Kappen will sell sawmill and lumbering equipment at the place located 6 miles south of Cass City on Cemetery Road, one mile west on Deckerville Road and 3/4 mile south on Kingston Road. Hillaker Auction Service.

Boost rates at Thumb Electric

July 14, the Michigan Public Service Commission approved a 6.08 percent increase in electric rates for Thumb Electric Cooperative.

The increase was necessary to meet financial obligations established by the cooperative's lenders and continue to provide reliable service to its members, according to Michael Krause, manager of the cooperative.

This is the cooperative's first increase since June, 1979, and is effective for all electrical usage on and after July 19.

The average cooperative member consumer, using 800 kwh per month, will pay $3.50 per month more.

Two bikes stolen in Cass City

The theft of two bicycles was reported to Cass City police last week.

Cora Remsing of 4129 Cemetery Road said a yellow girl's 20-inch wheel bike was stolen from her porch between 10 p.m. Monday and 6 a.m. Tuesday. It was valued at $79.

Mary Horne of 4118 S. Seeger Street reported Wednesday a maroon boy's Schwinn 3-speed with chrome fenders was taken sometime since June 26 from her residence. It was valued at $50.

Dale Deering of 4292 West Street told village police Tuesday of last week that his tires were punctured while his car was left at a service station. No damage estimate was listed on the police report.

Ronald Martin of 6161 Lakeside Drive, Cass City, told sheriff's deputies last Thursday afternoon two BB holes had been shot in a glass panel of his outside light. Damage was estimated at $10.
