

Three mills for one year

Much at stake in school millage vote

A lot is at stake in Tuesday's millage election in the Cass City School District, including all athletics except for two sports, extracurricular activities and two teaching positions.

Requested is 3 additional mills for operations for one year, which will raise $287,000. Last year, the district levied 21.52 mills for that purpose, plus 1.34 mills for debt retirement.

Polls at the high school will be open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m. Tuscola county residents who wish to vote on the Road Commission millage requests will have to do so at their township hall. That election is the same day.

The school board first sought three additional mills in the June 8 school election, but at that time hadn't decided what cuts it would make if it were defeated. The measure lost, 718-461. Renewal of 12.9 mills was approved, 815-360.

Defeat of the millage this time, the school board has decided, will mean elimination of the following during the 1981-82 school year:

- All athletics except for boys' varsity basketball, the only sport which makes a "profit," and girls' varsity basketball. (Junior varsity basketball will also be eliminated.)
- The following extracurricular activities, for which teachers are reimbursed for providing supervision: High school vocal music, marching band, pep band, concert band and solo and ensemble competition (classes would be retained), forensics, debate, dramatics, Honor Society, Future Farmers of America and paid class sponsors.

- One librarian position, which will mean half-time service at the elementary and intermediate levels. Funding for librarians to work one week before the start of school and one week after it ends will be eliminated.

- All class field trips.
- Reduced purchase of materials and supplies.
- Teacher workshops and conferences.
- No textbook changes that increase the cost over adopted text replacements.
- No capital outlay or major expenditures for building maintenance and improvements.

The board has not decided, should the millage be defeated, whether it will allow booster groups to raise funds to continue such activities as sports and band programs outside of classroom hours.

The contract between the district and the Cass City Education Association provides for teacher to be paid for supervising designated extra-curricular activities. If teachers wanted to volunteer their time for such purposes, according to Supt. Donald Crouse, it "would have to be cleared with the union."

LESS SAVINGS

The above cutbacks, if enacted, will save $83,000. The austerity budget adopted by the board in June also calls for using up all of the estimated $190,000 fund balance left at the end of the last fiscal year, June 30. (The exact amount won't be known for a few weeks, until the auditors finish their work.) Using up that fund balance will be costly, Crouse pointed out. The more money the district has in the bank, the more interest it draws and the less it has to borrow to fill the gap between the end of the fiscal year June 30 and when property tax starts rolling in in December.

Last year, Cass City collected an estimated $54,000. Please turn to page 3.

Honey producer to rebuild after $65,000 loss

The true cause of a fire that destroyed a barn west of Cass City early Friday, resulting in an estimated loss of $65,000, will never be known.

The blaze which destroyed the less than two-year-old 62-by-72-foot pole building of Owen Pierce on Spence Road, north of M-81, was reported at 5:20 a.m.

Fire Chief Dave McNaughton said the "most likely possibility" was electrical, but it was impossible to determine what actually started the fire.

Pierce discovered the fire when he was awakened by his barking dog.

He called the fire department but discovered someone else -- he didn't know who -- had already called it in.

"It was already too far gone by the time I got there," he said as he watched his building burn.

McNaughton said the roof of the building was already gone by the time firemen arrived. The Elkland unit was assisted by the Elmwood-Gagetown and Caro Fire Departments, each of which brought a tanker to the scene.

Firefighters were there about two hours.

Pierce is in the bee and honey business and has 630 hives scattered as far as Oxford and the far side of Flint. He was expanding his business to eventually have 1,000 hives.

Among his losses were 1,000 new bee boxes (supers) and 3,000-4,000 used ones, which will cost $8-10 each to replace.

Also lost were a honey extractor, boilers, more than 100 barrels used for honey storage, 1,000 pounds of honey, about 600 pounds of wax in piles, and 2,000 pounds of wax still in combs waiting to be melted down. "That's why it was burning so hot," Pierce explained.

Other losses included a rare 1955 four-wheel-drive stake truck -- not running, but repairable -- gardening equipment and tools.

Pierce wasn't sure how much of his loss would be covered by insurance. As for McNaughton's estimated $65,000 loss, he said, it "sounds reasonable to me ... but it's hard to say."

He plans on constructing another building and getting new processing equipment.

Proposed Deford bar draws ire; Novesta board rejects license

To drink or not to drink.

That was the question and when the discussion was over Monday evening, the Novesta Township Board unanimously voted any drinking done in the township won't be in a tavern.

Presented to the board was a request by Eugene Kaake, an Elkland township resident, for permission to operate a tavern in downtown Deford.

He said he has an agreement to purchase the ex-store building, on Bruce Street (Deckerville Road), which presently has someone living there, contingent on his tavern license being approved.

He also said, following the board's rejection, his lawyer would be filing a lawsuit against the board.

A state Liquor Control Commission representative told the Chronicle Tuesday, the agency has Kaake's application for a tavern license on file.

A letter will be sent to the Novesta Township Board within the next week or two asking for its recommendation. Told the board had already voted, she said it would probably only have to notify the LCC of its rejection.

Once a letter from the township is received, the LCC will deny Kaake's license application due to the unfavorable recommendation. State law does not permit the liquor board to approve such an application if the governing unit objects, she said.

The board meeting drew about 40 persons, of whom only one in addition to Kaake spoke favorably concerning his request.

He presented two basic arguments. One was that persons are going to drink anyway, so local residents might as well do it in a tavern in Deford as opposed to Cass City or Kingston. "If they're going to drink, you might as well keep the money in the township."

The township would also benefit directly, he added, as all of the state license fees, about $900, would go to the township, plus 4 percent of revenues.

(The LCC representative said the township will receive 55 percent of the license fee, which is $250 a year. It will not receive a percentage of revenues. Kaake responded that the fee for that license, plus LCC inspection, beer and wine takeout and dance permit will total $900 and that after the first year of operation, he can also obtain a liquor by the glass permit. A percentage of his purchase of liquor from the state will go to the township, he said.)

KAAKE'S ARGUMENTS didn't go over too well.

Danny Allen responded that the presence of a tavern would create law enforcement problems and be a bad influence on children.

Later in the discussion, he said the cost to the township to hire law enforcement would more than outweigh any financial benefits it would receive.

Some objections were more poignant. "I don't want no drunk running into me," said Delores Hartsell, who lives west of Deford. She then recounted that seven years ago, her son-in-law, age 30 and the father of four children, was killed when a drunk driver ran into him. "Drink causes heartache," she said.

That remark got Kaake mildly upset. He asked Mrs. Hartsell whether she was going to stop grocery shopping out of fear of an accident. "There's bars all over."

Lucille DeLong then recounted the accident in March in which her husband, Donald, was seriously injured when the van he was riding in on Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was struck head-on by a car. "He has suffered untold pain because of what a 17-year-old girl did." Among various charges against the girl was drunk driving.

KAAKE ADMITTED during the discussion that with any bar there is going to be trouble.

He didn't buy the arguments about rowdy bar patrons causing disruptions. "I can remember when we (as youngsters) used to raise Cain down here (downtown Deford) at 1 or 2 in the morning." No one complained then, he said. "Why would you argue you can't sleep because of a tavern?"

His lone defender, a young woman who didn't give her name, said, "We have trouble with the auction and

Road, bridge millages on Tuesday ballot

What are good roads and bridges worth?

The Tuscola County Road Commission is hoping taxpayers will agree Tuesday they are worth an extra mill of their property taxes.

There are two separate proposals on the ballot, a half-mill for improvements to township bridges and village streets and a half-mill for maintenance of township roads and village streets. Both proposals will be for five years.

Polls at township halls will be open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m. Cass City School District residents (who live in Tuscola county) will have to go to the high school if they wish to also vote that day on the 3-mill levy for schools.

The Road Commission tried twice last year to get a half-mill approved for bridges and village streets. Both times the levy was lumped together with a half-mill for county government operations. The total 1-mill levy was defeated 3,518-3,333 in the Aug. 5 primary and 11,688-7,519 in the Nov. 4 general election.

The arguments for the bridge millage are the same as presented last year. The road millage is something new.

BRIDGE MILLAGE

Since 1970, the Road Commission has levied 1-mill for bridges, with a portion going for village streets. The levy expired with December, 1980, tax bills.

Only a half-mill is needed to replace it, according to Road Commission Chairman Grover Laurie, because additional state and federal critical bridge funds are becoming available.

However, to get the funds, the county must have matching funds available and the bridges designed, ready for construction to start. Money is also needed for emergency bridge repairs.

An additional $2 million is expected in state and federal funds over the next few years if the local matching funds are available.

Money raised from the bridge millage since 1970, plus $1.18 million in state and federal funds received since that time, enabled the Road Commission to improve 120 bridges on township local roads. More than 60 are still posted with load limits.

If the bridge millage is rejected, Road Commission Clerk Jim Miklovic doesn't foresee any money being spent for bridges. "In my estimation, it is hard to take money from roads because bridges are so expensive."

Doors to close at Kingston Krome

The sagging automobile industry and accompanying recession have taken its toll on another Thumb automobile parts plant -- the second such plant to close in the last 18 months.

Kingston Krome, a company which presently employs 41 persons at its 3577 Pine Street plant, will close in 60-75 days, officials announced July 29.

The plant has been buffing and polishing automobile parts for its parent company, Trim Trend, for 15 years, according to Lowell Driver, general manufacturing manager.

"It's kind of a sad thing when this happens. There's nothing wrong with Kingston (Krome), the people there are terrific," the Trim Trend executive said, adding, "we've tried everything we can."

Employees at the plant will all have the option of working at the new plant -- in Port Huron. "We really expect very few will take the option. Although we'd like them all to come, we realize it's 70 miles away."

The employees can also be placed on a preferential hiring list for Trim Trend's other Thumb plants, Snover Stamping and Deckerville Die Form. To be placed on the list an employee must fill out an application, Driver said.

"There may not be a lot of salvation in that (preferential hiring)," he continued, "none of the manufacturers of automobile parts are really hiring."

Feedback from the soon-to-be unemployed workers hasn't reached Driver yet, so he is uncertain how many will go to the new plant. "We're trying to be as fair as we can, giving them some notice and doing what we're capable of financially. I'm sure it's come as kind of a shock to them."

The decision to close the plant was made within the last 90 days, he said, admitting it's been coming for some time.

"We tried a couple of different things, but they just didn't work out," Driver explained.

The problem has been transporting the parts made at other Trim Trend plants to Kingston safely and inexpensively.

Transit scratches were appearing on the parts, especially the bright trim ones, and Ford kept rejecting them, the executive explained. "We tried packing them in special packing materials that cost $15-$70 a pallet, which, when you're loading a semi a day, is no small investment -- they still rejected them."

Building begins of $550,000 apartments

Construction has started on a three-building 22-unit apartment complex in Cass City.

What will be called the Northwood Heights Apartments are located off Hospital Drive, behind Provincial House.

Contractor for the more than $550,000 project is Bavarian Builders of Frankenmuth. The owners will be a group of investors, three from Frankenmuth and two from Saginaw.

Construction should take about six months, according to Tim Zehnder of Bavarian Builders, which means occupancy at the end of this year.

One of the three buildings will be a townhouse unit containing two three-bedroom and four two-bedroom units. Another will contain seven two-bedroom and one one-bedroom apartments. The third building will have eight one-bedroom units.

The project is being financed by a Farmers Home Administration loan. A requirement for obtaining the loan was hiring an outside firm to conduct a market survey of the area, to justify the need and hence the financial feasibility of the project.

Bavarian Builders has constructed numerous apartments in the Thumb and Saginaw Valley, including ones in Caro and Reese.

Once the Cass City complex is completed, Zehnder said, it will be turned over to the owners. It will be managed by Crest Management of Frankenmuth.

The firm will be hiring an on-site manager. According to him, it has in mind possibly a retired man who can do routine maintenance.

Rents will not be subsidized by the government for low income persons.

Ubly millage loses, new vote Sept. 14

Almost half of the Ubly School District's registered voters turned out for Monday's special millage election and defeated the proposed renewal and increase 749 to 516.

The proposal, a combined 3-mill renewal and 2.41-mill increase for three years was voted on by 49 percent of the district's 2,600 voters, according to Mark Tenbusch, the district's business manager.

After the election results were in, the school board voted to try a third election, with two separate ballots, Sept. 14.

"We heard many comments that they would have voted for the renewal if it had been separated from the increase," Tenbusch said, explaining the issues will be separated in the next election.

One ballot will be for the renewal of three mills for three years, he said, predicting it has a "very good chance" of passing. The other ballot, which has a more questionable chance of passing, is for a one mill increase for three years.

The additional funding is necessary to help pick up a $200,000 deficit from last year, Tenbusch said.

The school board will officially adopt or reject a plan of action this coming Monday. It is likely the list of cuts already made will have other items, possibly including the building trades class, added to it, he continued.

The school board has already eliminated all summer programs, laid off school secretaries for four weeks and pink slipped sixteen teachers.

The defeat of last Monday's proposal and the accompanying loss of $500,000 in taxes and state aid will lead to layoffs of one bus driver, one janitor and four teacher aides, the board had predicted before the election. In addition, Minden City Elementary School will be closed and the shared time programs at the Ruth

Debbie and Larry Osentoski

Debbie Brown of Cass City and Larry Osentoski of Ubyly were married July 25 at St. Pancratius Catholic church in Cass City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown of Cass City. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Osentoski of Ubyly.

Fr. Joseph Morales officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white organza with a fitted chantilly lace bodice, wrist point lace sleeves and multi-tiered lace skirt ending in a chapel train. Her chapel length veil of silk illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls. She carried a white silk cascade of orchids, carnations and stephanotis with ivy accents.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Diane Walsh. Bridesmaids were Sandra Rutkowski, a friend; Loretta Osentoski, the groom's sister; Connie Nicol, a friend, and Rachel Walsh and Lisa Brown, cousins of the bride.

The bridesmaids wore powder blue gowns with pleated skirts, self-embroidered bodices and brief jackets tied at the waist. Matching silk organza hats, accented with roses and chiffon ties completed the ensemble.

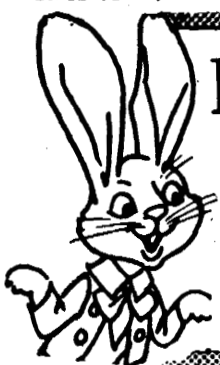

Flower girl Tammy Bock, a friend, wore a slim white organza gown with wide lace inserts and a band of white flowers in her hair.

Best man was Dave Osentoski, the groom's brother. Groomsmen were Carl Peruski, Danny Sempau and Kenny Frederick, cousins of the groom, and Floyd Spudowski, a friend.

John Osentoski, a cousin of the groom, was ringbearer.

The couple was honored at a reception at the Ubyly Fox Hunters Club.

They are residing in Ubyly.

Rabbit tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help)

A couple of weeks after voters in the Laker school district approved extra operating millage, members of the administration received substantial wage boosts.

That's got some of the taxpayers upset. It may well be, of course, that the raises were long overdue and richly deserved.

Regardless, the way salaries were handled in Cass City school district is the better procedure. Salaries were set and published before the taxpayers were asked for funds.

No matter how next Tuesday's vote comes out it will not affect the salaries at the school. There will be no post-election increases if the millage passes or other change if it does not.

This morning it was dark when I got up. Where has the summer gone?

There must be a reason why all three county fairs in the Upper Thumb were held on the same week. Whatever it was I hope it changes for 1982.

The old system when they were staggered over three weeks just has to have been better for all.

Horrible thought. What happens if the big unions stage a strike in sympathy with the air controllers who have been clamped down hard by President Reagan?

School seeks 3 mills Tuesday

in interest on its deposits.

As of June 30, 1980, the district had a fund balance of $306,000 and still had to borrow $608,000 for six months, which cost it $21,600 in interest.

With the fund balance having declined during the past school year to $190,000, the district presently has an application before the state Department of Education to borrow $740,000 in anticipation of state aid.

If the millage is approved, Crouse said, the hope is that the present fund balance won't be further depleted.

Even if the 3 mills are okayed, the district will eliminate two teaching positions due to declining enrollment. A millage defeat will mean two more.

Due to a retirement and resignations, it isn't likely any present teachers will lose their jobs.

During the 1980-81 school year, the district had 44 fewer teaching positions than it did the year before.

LOW COSTS

Cass City had the lowest operating expenditure per pupil of any school district in the area, $1,452 in 1979-80, the latest school year for which statistics are available. Of the 530 K-12 districts in Michigan, only eight districts spent less per pupil that year.

For that reason, Crouse pointed out, "If we make any cuts, it's going to affect the educational program. We're already operating a frugal program."

Property taxes make up about 65 percent of the district's revenue, the rest coming from state aid. The 1981-82 budget projects revenue of $3,046 million, not including the 3 mills, and expenditures of $3.21 million. (The figures do not include federal aid the district receives.)

TAXPAYER COST

Crouse stressed that the schools do not gain financially when property valuations increase. For every additional dollar received because of rising property values, the district gets a dollar less in state aid.

Three mills equals $3 for each $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

That means for a homeowner with a house worth $40,000 and an SEV of $20,000, the tax increase will cost him $60 per year. For a $60,000 house, it would be $90 more.

Not everyone will have to pay that much.

Senior citizens (at least one spouse 65 or older) may receive a credit or rebate on their state income tax, which is computed on a sliding scale.

At the top of the scale, those with an annual household income of more than $6,000 must pay their property taxes equal to 3.5 percent of their household income. They receive a rebate or credit on their income tax of 100 percent of their property taxes above that figure, to a maximum of $1,200.

Non-senior citizens are eligible for a credit or rebate of 60 percent of their property taxes in excess of the property taxes they pay equal to 3.5 percent of their household income. The maximum credit or rebate is again $1,200.

Farmers whose property is enrolled in the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act program have all of their taxes rebated which are in excess of 7 percent of their household income.

WALTER AND SUSAN WALSH, who recently celebrated their 65th anniversary. At right is Irene Franzel, Mrs. Walsh's sister, who was her maid of honor at the 1916 wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Walsh of Spencer Road, Ubyly, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary with a mass of thanksgiving July 10, recited by Father Gerald Kukla at St. Ignatius Catholic church, Freiburg.

Walter Walsh and Susan Leah McMillan were married at St. Ignatius July 11, 1916, by Father George O'Sullivan.

Among those present for the thanksgiving mass was Mrs. Irene McMillan Franzel, who was her sister's maid of honor at the wedding. Her late husband, George, was the best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Walsh reside on the dairy, beef and crop farm, one mile north and one mile east of Cumber in Austin township, which they operated until their retirement. (Mrs. Franzel lives next door.) Their son, Walter Joseph, and his wife now run the farm.

The Walshes have 10 children. In addition to Joe, there are Leo, Raymond, Michael, Mark and Louis, all of rural Ubyly; Daniel, Farmington; Beatrice (Mrs. Joseph) Bauman, Battle Creek; Lisa (Mrs. Grant) Lamphere, Highland; and Susan (Mrs. Harold) Brown, La Mesa, Calif. A son, Maurice was killed in an automobile accident in 1955. They have 64 grandchildren and 74 great-grandchildren.

A celebration was held July 12 with presentation of a decorated anniversary cake.

The Haire Net

It wasn't too long ago that Cass City was hurting for doctors. A half dozen years ago or so it was virtually impossible to get a reasonable appointment other than for acute illness. The doctors then did yeoman duty, but there just weren't enough to go around.

The community solved that problem with cooperative effort that included building a medical clinic and adding to Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Today, of course, we are a medical center for the Upper Thumb and growing.

One of the reasons we've been successful in our physician recruiting campaign has been our quality subdivisions. As a community we can't take any direct credit for that, but indirectly we can.

The subdivisions were built because there were buyers ready to shell out the bucks to buy the homes.

When they invested, they were also buying the community and what it had to offer.

Cass City Recreational Park is always high on the plus list. As a community we can take pride in it because most of us have had a hand in its development over the years.

Much of what we have come as a result of donations of time and money or both. A cooperative effort among the residents.

Our community has long been noted for pulling together. We've had our squabbles and at times it

Last sail for Blackie

By Jim Fitzgerald

An old friend of mine was thrown overboard during this year's Port Huron-to-Mackinac Island sailboat race.

Ordinarily, nothing about that race excites me much. In fact, it has become a family tradition for me to ignore it, even though I grew up in Port Huron. The tradition was begun by my late father, who lived close enough to the water to be splashed by the start of over 40 Port Huron-to-Mackinac races but never looked at one.

His explanation was simple: "I can't get excited about a race that begins here on Saturday and ends 300 miles away next Tuesday."

That is the tradition to which I was born, and to which I remain faithful. The ponderous start of the Mackinac race may be a thrill for the participants, but for me, watching from shore, it's more boring than sitting on the curb waiting for Prince Charles and Lady Di to clip-clop by. And those two darlings have been so overhyped they would be boring as nude participants in a three-legged race at an IRA picnic.

Of course, that's just my opinion, and it's never been difficult to find someone to disagree with me. James (Blackie) Elliot, for instance, Blackie also grew up in Port Huron, and he always thought sailboat races were the greatest thing that ever happened. He never understood how I could live beside a river without loving boats.

Blackie moved into my neighborhood from California when he was maybe 11 years old and I was a couple of years younger. He was just plain James then, and he had a little brother named Charles. James was dark and Charles was blonde. My much older sister, Terrible Jean, immediately dubbed them Blackie and Whitey and the names stuck tight for life. No one ever argued with Terrible Jean.

Blackie and Whitey rode silver, balloon-tired bicycles with wide handlebars. They had seen live movie stars in Hollywood, and they called their mother by her first name. That was pretty exotic stuff for Port Huron, and I can remember expecting them to be bored by life in a small Michigan town. Not Blackie. He was enchanted because the St. Clair River was in his front yard and Lake Huron was just a short sail away.

Right from the start, Blackie hung around the local boat club. He bummed rides on members' boats, and soon he built his own sailboat in his backyard. I don't remember once seeing him play baseball or football. Every year of our youth, Blackie sailed from May to October and spent the winter getting his sailing equipment in shape.

Naturally, Blackie eventually began to participate in the famous race to Mackinac. We grew apart as the years passed, and I don't know how many times he made that long run on Lake Huron. I do know that several times he crewed on the Tigress, owned by George Lyon of Rochester.

The Tigress won its division in the Mackinac this week but could be disqualified for breaking the rule saying nothing may be thrown overboard during the race, thus lighting the load.

"That's ridiculous," a veteran sailor told me. "All George threw over was some ashes. Most of those racing guys puke and urinate overboard all the time and no one cares, so why beef about a little ashes?"

The ashes were the last remains of Blackie Elliot. He died of cancer last February and left behind a request that his ashes be scattered into Lake Huron.

"We sprinkled his ashes into the water as we kept sailing along," Lyon said. "We also threw some flowers and a little pin of an American flag."

A committee will decide if Blackie's burial at sea will cost George Lyon his Mackinac victory. Lyon said he doesn't care what the decision is. I shouldn't care either. I never care anything about the Mackinac race. It's a family tradition.

But I was there when Blackie got his name from Terrible Jean, and I remember how much he loved sailing. It would be a lousy crime if Blackie lost his last race and, worse yet, it was his fault. If that committee doesn't agree with me, I am finally going to get excited about a Mackinac race.

The Children Need Your Help Tuesday, Aug. 11

Our School Has Always Operated On A Cost Per Student Among The Lowest In The State And Will Continue That Way If You Approve The 3 Mills Necessary For A Full, Quality Program In 1981-82.

"We have nearly the lowest per student cost in Michigan, and, coupled with this, what I believe to be a very enviable school system doing an excellent job at both the administrative and teaching levels! Moreover, the recruitment of additional physicians to this area is dependent on a superb school system.
Ken Jensen

"I plan to vote for the millage because my children received their schooling through high school here and I want my grandchildren to have the same opportunity."
Luke Tuckey

"I would much rather pay my taxes locally than have them taken over by the state and lose all control about how my money is spent."
Art Severance

"Two of my children have received a quality education at Cass City and I want the 3 remaining to have the same opportunity."
Barbara Hutchinson

HERE'S THE PROOF!

How does Cass City rank in comparison with neighboring districts as to total operating expenditures per pupil as of 1979-80?

Owen-Gage	$2300	Kingston	$1624
Akron-Fairgrove	$2240	Ubyl	$1534
U.S.A.	$2176	Bad Axe	$1497
Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port ..	$2035	Sandusky	$1496
Caro	$1773	Cass City	$1452
Marlette	$1716

There are 530 high school districts in Michigan. The district with the highest per pupil cost is ranked 1 and the district with the lowest per pupil cost ranked 530. As of the 1979-80 Cass City school year, Cass City was ranked #522.

WHAT'S THE COST?

The 3 mills requested will provide $287,000 to continue our present school operations. A 3 mill tax levy is 3 dollars of tax for each $1,000 of state equalized value. State equalized value is supposed to be 50% of actual value.

Property Value	State Equalized Value	Tax Levy for 3 Mills
$20,000	$10,000	$30
$40,000	$20,000	$60
$60,000	$30,000	$90

The state equalized value of real estate is listed on tax billings and often abbreviated as S.E.V.

MOST SENIOR CITIZENS WILL HAVE THE 3 MILLS REBATED UNDER THE HOMESTEAD ACT.

Thumb area pork show set Aug. 15

Pork producers in the Thumb area are consigning market barrows to the Thumb Barrow Show at the Michigan Livestock Exchange yards at Cass City Saturday, Aug. 15.

Producers from Huron, Sanilac, Tuscola, Lapeer and St. Clair are participating.

The show will start at 1 p.m. with trophies for the champion and reserve champion barrow being furnished by Thumb area businessmen.

The barrows will be slaughtered at Peet Packing Co. the following Monday when carcass data will be recorded for each animal. This data includes back-fat thickness, loin-eye area, length of carcass, and percent of lean cuts.

Health data will also be recorded and will include rhinitis, pneumonia, and internal and external parasites. Complete reports will go to each exhibitor and trophies will also be awarded to the top quality carcass winners.

The show is sponsored by Pork Producers Associations in Huron and Tuscola counties, East Michigan Pork Producers which include Sanilac, Lapeer, St. Clair and Macomb counties, Michigan Livestock Exchange and the Cooperative Extension Service.

Target date for transit Sept. 10

The new target date for the start of public transportation in Huron and Sanilac counties is Sept. 10. It had been Aug. 10.

Recently hired Huron-Sanilac Transportation Authority Director Brad Diamond has hired the drivers for Huron county and as of last Friday, was interviewing drivers to work in Sanilac.

One reason for the delay, he said, is, "There are just too many things that have to be worked out before we get started."

The big question is when the radios for the buses arrive. They aren't scheduled to be delivered until September.

Limited operation could start without the radios, he said, but then it would be difficult to find the time to train the drivers how to use them. "Fifty percent of the training is radio operation."

Diamond, who was a transportation planner for the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region prior to his new position, said he would rather have all the training done before the service starts.

Sanilac county dry bean tour Tuesday

The Sanilac county dry bean tour and picnic will take place Tuesday.

The tour will start at the Stone Brothers' farm on North Banner Road at 7 p.m. This farm is a half-mile north of M-46 on the east edge of Sandusky. Eighty-seven varieties of dry beans will be examined.

The tour will then go to John Parrent's farm pond, 1 1/2 miles north of M-46 on Gates Road. New bean harvesting equipment will be viewed and discussed prior to the picnic dinner.

The picnic will be at a nominal expense to growers, with the County Bean Growers Association and agribusinesses picking up most of the cost. A short educational program will be held.

The tour is sponsored by the association and the Sanilac County Cooperative Extension Service.

HEALTH TIPS

Keeping cool when it's super hot

Frank Chappell

AMA

With the month of August come great waves of heat over most of the nation. With the heat come heat-related illnesses.

What to do if someone collapses from the heat?

The most important aspect of first aid is to cool the victim's overheated body. The first aid manuals offer various approaches to quick cooling.

Taking a cue from British Army medical experience in the tropics and deserts, an American medical unit serving in the Iranian desert during World War II adopted a unique but effective method.

The British medics had learned that an effective means of reducing body heat is to encourage evaporation of water from the skin. Evaporation carries the heat away much more effectively than does melting ice.

The desert medical teams placed the overheated patient nude on a table with a web or rattan top that allowed circulation of air under his body.

He was sprayed with water at room temperature, while large electric fans were played over his body.

The routine pioneered by the British medics proved quite effective, the Journal of the American Medical Association reports.

To stay healthy in extreme hot weather, drink lots of water. In the Iranian desert, temperatures, day and night, never got below 119 degrees. Healthy individuals kept going by drinking prodigious quantities of water and evaporating gallons of perspiration from their skin.

Virtually all bodily liquid was evaporated. The average person passed a small amount of concentrated urine once a day.

Packing an overheated person in ice is one method, but heat loss is slower than with the technique of water sprays and fans.

If an air conditioned building or vehicle is available, the artificially cooled climate can help to keep the patient cooled.

Heat illness can be quite serious, even fatal. First-aid to cool the victim is vitally important, and medical attention is urgently needed.

Seventy-six give blood

Seventy-six persons donated blood, six for the first time, at the July 28 Red Cross blood drive in the St. Pancratius Catholic church parish hall.

Bev Auten reached the one gallon mark with her donation.

The drive was sponsored by the youth fellowships of the Salem and Trinity United Methodist churches, assisted by youth from St. Pancratius.

concert and dance sponsored by the Cass City Rotary Club Aug. 19.

TEN YEARS AGO

The Tuscola County Fair this week was marred by tragedy when a harness race horse was killed by electrocution. A water pipe was accidentally turned into a ground wire for a hot water heater, causing the accident.

Voters in Owen-Gage School District approved two millage proposals in an election held Aug. 2.

Organizers continued plans toward completing Cass City's Western Round-up, slated Aug. 14.

Two resolutions asking for assistance in getting a Red Cross Blood Program in Tuscola county have been sent to the Tuscola Board of Commissioners by the Medical Staff of Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Theodore D. Coyer, a sanitary engineer from the State Health Department, recently closed the Cass City pool because it failed to meet the standards set by the department.

Letters are to be mailed early next week to approximately 2,700 World War II veterans in Tuscola county inviting them to attend the celebration at Caro in their honor on the first anniversary of V-J Day Aug. 14.

The Ross Laundry has been sold this week to William and Ellen Grekiewicz of Harbor Beach. They will conduct the business under the name of the Cass City Laundry and Cleaning.

The September primary school fund payment probably will be $10 per census child, according to E.B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction.

Aug. 17 has been set for the second annual Cass City 4-H show. This is put on by boys and girls of the Cass City Livestock Club who are feeding and caring for nearly 50 fine purebred animals.

Thumb area cattle tour set Aug. 12

Cattlemen in the Thumb area will be visiting farms in Sanilac, Lapeer and St. Clair Wednesday, Aug. 12, to observe a wide variety of cattle feeding facilities and farm operations.

The tour will start at 9:30 a.m. at Muxlow Farms, four miles south of Marlette on M-53. This is a family operation with a minimum investment in facilities, featuring corn silage stored on a concrete slab and a new barn for starting new cattle.

The second stop will be at Cork Farms, two miles south of Peck on Mortimer Line Road. This operation features a slatted floor finishing barn with liquid manure handling equipment. New cattle handling facilities are currently being installed.

After lunch, the tour will continue at Dobbin Farms, two miles south and one mile east of Jeddo in St. Clair county. This stop features a large covered feedlot with feed storage in both bunker and tower silos.

The last stop will be at O'Connor Farms, next door to Dobbins. This operation is highly diversified, featuring custom cattle feeding, farm supply sales, and a grain elevator business.

Howard Person, farm building specialist at Michigan State University, will be on the tour to discuss facilities and equipment for cattle feeding programs.

The tour is sponsored by the Thumb Cattlemen's Association and the county Cooperative Extension Services in the Thumb area.

June milk output up 2 percent

Michigan's dairy herds produced 433 million pounds of milk during June, up 2 percent from a year ago, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

The state's 392,000 cows averaged 1,105 pounds of milk per cow for the month of June. The 4 percent increase in production per cow offset a 2 percent decline in cow numbers.

Producers received an average of $13.40 per hundredweight (cwt.) for their milk during June, 80 cents above the 1980 price. The cost of replacement milk cows averaged $1,310, up 7 percent. Slaughter cow prices fell 11 percent below 1980 to $40.20 per cwt.

U.S. June milk production totaled 11.6 billion pounds, up 3 percent from the previous year. The nation's 10.9 million milk cows averaged 1,069 pounds per cow, 21 pounds above a year earlier.

Your Independent Auto-Owners Agent... For Insurance That's Right For You

It's not easy finding the insurance policy that will fit you best. Because when you go to an insurance agent who represents only one company, he only has one company's policies to offer you.

But your independent Auto-Owner's agent represents several companies. So if one's insurance isn't right in price or coverage, he'll tell you. He knows another one of his companies is.

In fact, he'll go to just about any lengths to suit your needs.

Dry bean problems

By Don Kebler

The current information I have from our dry bean disease specialist regarding white mold is as follows: "Many areas of the state have not had sufficient rainfall since dry beans were planted to keep the upper half-inch of soil very wet for 10 continuous days. Because of this, preventative sprays with Benlate are not recommended as a general practice this year.

"The decision to spray should be based on these 10 continuous days of wet soils for a particular field. Rain and wet soils, from this time on, will have little effect on the development of white mold, except for those fields which previously have had the 10 continuous days of wet soils."

I also was informed that if after this rain last Tuesday (July 28) your bean fields have this 10 days of wet soils, it will take about three weeks for any white mold to develop. By this time damage to the beans will be greatly reduced.

What we should be on the alert for now on beans is bean rust, leaf hopper and tarnish plant bugs. We could have common blight, black root and Anthracnose. However, we have no control of these diseases.

So let's concentrate on the three there are controls for — the leafhoppers, tarnish plant bugs and bean rust.

If you see four or more leaf hoppers and/or one tarnish plant bug per plant, you are at an economic threshold to spray if you want to. Leaf hoppers affect plants anytime. Tarnish plant bugs do their economic damage when beans are set by dimpling the bean seed.

Bean rust moves fast and with rain, high dew and air temperatures in the 60 to 85 degree range, rust is ripe to grow, spread and respread most rapidly.

When you first see leaves with two or three small rust bumps on the underside of the leaves without too much searching, this is the effective time to spray. However, don't feel one spray will stop bean rust danger completely. You should be ready to spray again within a week or 10 days or sooner if a rain or heavy dew condition occurs sooner.

Let's move to corn and alfalfa. We are expecting our first egg laying by the European corn borer adult moths this week. Be on the lookout for egg masses on the bottom of corn leaves.

Lastly, the same leafhoppers that are feeding on bean leaves also are being found in sufficient numbers in some alfalfa fields with extensive damage, enough to warrant a spray. As a precaution, the insecticide Sevin shouldn't be used where bees are pollinating.

200 attend care facility barbecue

About 200 residents, volunteers and employees of the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility attended an afternoon chicken barbecue July 29 on the facility's grounds near Caro.

A tent was erected by the Fairgrove Veterans of Foreign Wars Post for the occasion and each employee brought a dish to pass. The chicken was supplied by the facility.

The "Forget Me Not" volunteers, who work at the facility, were recognized at the gathering and residents participated in horseshoes and volleyball.

New books at the library

THE KGB: EYES OF RUSSIA by Harry Rositzke (non-fiction). For 20 years, Harry Rositzke worked for the CIA as an expert on Soviet affairs. His assignment was to observe and evaluate the KGB, Russia's espionage agency. Except for its own members, probably no one knows as much as he about the men, the motives and the methods of the world's best intelligence organization, and in this fascinating book he tells the whole story. Here are the techniques of undercover operations, from the recruitment and training of agents to the dead drops, safe houses and deep covers behind which they hide. Here are the actual operations: the penetration of NATO and the British Parliament, the theft of atomic secrets, the assassination of Leon Trotsky. This book will intrigue and amaze, inform and disturb.

COUNT VRONSKY'S DAUGHTER by Carola Salisbury (fiction). This is the story of a little girl left behind when the desperate Anna Karenina, her mother, threw herself under a train to die. The elegant swirl of the late 19th century in St. Petersburg and Paris serves as backdrop to this tale of a young woman attempting to escape a scandalous past who gets swept into a whirlwind of intrigue and mysterious characters: the shadowy Oliver Graysmith, an English friend of Seriozha, her stepbrother; Robert Haquin, a detective with the French Surete, and Levitski, agent of the Tsar's dreaded secret police.

THE CARDINAL SINS by Andrew Greeley (fiction). What does a woman do when the man she loves leaves... to become a priest? When it happens to Ellen, she retreats into a loveless marriage and unwanted motherhood in a desperate attempt to forget Kevin. But Maureen does not let the years change her love for Patrick. And even though he is about to become a cardinal, she flees into his arms.

Thumb 4-H's, fair-goers suffer

3 fairs in one week cause conflict, confusion

By Sheila Gruber

Quite a few people are wondering why. Some are openly complaining, more than a little upset. Others are already looking ahead to next year, thinking of a way to be sure the same thing doesn't happen again.

The issue: three Thumb county fairs the same week.

The Tuscola County Fair in Caro; Sanilac County 4-H Fair in Sandusky and the Huron Community Fair in Bad Axe are all running this week, causing problems for some area 4-H's, judges, parents, commercial exhibitors and fair organizers. Not to mention the average fair-goer who must decide which fair to attend.

"It's a bad situation all around that has happened and the fairs themselves are going to have trouble," said George Sangster of Decker, a member of the Sanilac 4-H horse committee.

"We've had a lot of people tell us, 'we go to the fair one night a week.' So instead of those people going to three fairs, they may only go to one," he explained.

LAST YEAR, THE CARO fair ran July 28-Aug. 2, and the Bad Axe and Sandusky fairs ran the following week.

This year, because Labor Day falls a week later (Sept. 7), the Tuscola fair board made the date of their fair one week later. "They've (Huron and Sanilac fair organizers) been blaming us, but every five years Labor Day jumps and if we didn't jump with it, we'd keep going ahead a day," fair Manager Walt Jackson said.

According to John O'Bryan, fair coordinator for the Michigan Department of Agriculture, each fair has the authority to set its own date. "The way I understand it, Sanilac and Huron hired their carnivals this year before they realized that the weeks jumped."

Traditionally, fairs have been scheduled so many weeks before Labor Day, he said, adding the carnival and ride companies bear a lot of weight in deciding the date. "They have summer routes so fairs can't just take any week."

Such was the case for the Sanilac fair board, which didn't know when it booked their carnival when the Tuscola fair would be, fair board secretary Cindy Pfaff said, adding, "We didn't find out until January."

Sangster, who attended the Sanilac fair board meeting following last year's fair, explained the situation. "My understanding at the meeting was this is the only week we could get McDonald (the carnival company)," McDonald Amusement Co., who runs a good, clean carnival, according to Sangster, guaranteed it would be at the fair this week, so had a contract before it left the fair last year.

Most carnival companies don't guarantee they will handle a specific fair, he explained, but that a company of the same caliber will be there. They wanted that company and just didn't realize the weeks jumped, Sangster continued.

RAY ERRER, CHAIRMAN of the Huron county fair board, also credits the ride companies with deciding their date. "We had to take the same week," he said, claiming fairs don't use the Labor Day rule anymore.

"I don't think attendance will be down, everybody usually supports the county they live in," Errer said.

The Huron fair has a lot of machinery and livestock coming from Caro, but they are working around the problems, he said, suggesting some things will be better because of the other fairs.

"We're getting a Class A pull from the south, because the other fairs are going on the same week," Errer said, predicting the tractor pull will be better.

Organizers of the other two fairs tended to disagree. "It will probably hurt all of us, attendance-wise," Jackson said.

It was a little bit harder to get judges this year, he said, explaining most of the food and clothing judges are from Huron county. "We had to reach out further for judges."

Commercial exhibitors may be hurt by the coinciding fairs.

John McIntosh, of Thumb Welding Supply, Cass City, thinks it's a "bad deal. We know we're not going to get people from Huron and Sanilac counties like we usually do, because they've got their own fairs to go to."

PERHAPS THE MOST disappointed of all is a small group of students who live in Sanilac county, belong to 4-H there, and go to Cass City schools, where they belong to Future Farmers of America, thus are eligible to also take part in the Tuscola fair.

"It's just not convenient for the ones with livestock that have to show the same day. They're supposed to be in two places at once," said Lyle Clarke, Cass City High School agriculture teacher.

Generally they show in the county they live in, he explained, but in a few special cases where they go to school in a different county, they can show in both fairs.

Bob Leslie, last year's senior beef showmanship winner at the Tuscola fair, was looking for a helicopter to get him from Caro to Sandusky in time for the livestock show Wednesday, his mother, Audrey Leslie, joked.

Beef judging is scheduled at about the same time at both fairs, Mrs. Leslie said. "We're hoping it will take longer in Sandusky to get to Bob's project," she said, explaining they have more age divisions than Caro, thus he will show at Caro first.

"It's kind of a bad situation; he's got two projects (4-H and FFA) and should be able to show them," Mrs. Leslie said, admitting they had quite a bit of money tied up in the steers.

"It's a problem, showing at both fairs, it puts a lot of miles on the car," Mrs. Art Severance said. Her son, Randy, is showing sheep at the Tuscola and Sanilac fairs.

"We definitely won't be going to the Caro fair as much as before," she added.

KIM SANGSTER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sangster, had to decide between the Sandusky and Caro fairs to show her horses.

"Running back and forth was just too hard," she said, explaining cost had a lot to do with her decision to not enter the Tuscola fair as an FFA member. "I'm also running in the 4-H queen's contest in Sanilac, which makes it even harder."

"This hurts the kids all the way around. It's not the money, but the chance for the kids to get together and have fun," her father said, admitting Kim would probably make more money showing in the Caro fair.

"Whether they like it or not, they're going to have to get together next year and get the weeks picked out," Sangster said. Organizers from Croswell, Goodells, Caro, Sandusky, Bad Axe and Vassar could sit down and try to hire the same carnival, he suggested, predicting "somebody's going to be left with nothing" if they don't work together.

The Thumb isn't alone on the fair calendar this week, according to O'Bryan. Seventeen fairs are scheduled to be held across the state, with a total of 45 fairs in the next three weeks - more than half of the state's 86 total county fairs.

The frenzy of fair activity keeps O'Bryan busy, but most counties like to host their fairs before the state 4-H competition Aug. 27, he explained.

FINAL TRIM -- Giving a final trim Tuesday to his market lamb in preparation for Wednesday's judging at the Tuscola County Fair was Clayton Hobart, 12, of Gagetown. Handling the comb was brother Kevin, 15. "Supervising" was Jason Lucius, 5.

36 photos on display for month

Members of the Thumb Area Photography Club are exhibiting some examples of their work this month at Rawson Memorial Library. Nine members have several photographs each on display.

In addition, a portion of the state 4-H traveling photo exhibit is on display, a total of 36 photographs. Club President John Agar has narrowed down the total number in the exhibit to mostly ones taken by 4-H'ers in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties (including two by his son, John L.).

The club was formed last fall and meets once a month, usually at Caro High School. Its president refers to it as a "learning club for all of us."

Persons interested in joining can contact Agar, of Shabbona Road, Decker, or Clara Gaffney of Cass City.

The club, which has more than 30 members, will hold its next meeting Tuesday at the library from 7-9 p.m.

Plant closes in Kingston

When the plant started, stainless steel parts were brought in from other plants in the Thumb. Now, between the move to aluminum parts, and Kingston becoming an "out of the way" plant, it's too expensive, Driver said.

Ironically, the plant which is being added on to in Port Huron to house the former Kingston Krome was almost built in the Thumb a few years ago.

According to Driver, Auto Anodics, a plant which coats aluminum parts with an anodic coating to prevent corrosion, would have been built in the Thumb if the company had found a suitable site. "The operation involves a high amount of water and caustic wastes and there just wasn't sewer and water systems in the area at the time equipped to handle it."

The plant, which employs 80 persons and will soon employ another 30, is located in the Port Huron Industrial Park. Trim Trend is adding on to the existing plant and hopes to begin operations there by the middle of September, Driver said.

Kingston's plant, which will begin phasing out its operation in 30-45 days, will be used as an unattended warehouse to store equipment.

Another Trim Trend plant, Mayville Moulding, was closed in March of 1980, with 85 persons losing their jobs. Only 12 of these employees applied for preferential hiring at one of the other plants and Driver was not sure how many, if any, were hired.

The spokesman was quick to point out however that the company is not just "picking on the Thumb." Two other plants, in Chelsea and New Baltimore have also been closed for economical, automotive reasons, he said.

Murder suspect arrested

It proved to be other than a routine stop to assist a motorist whose car had stopped running.

Caro state police took Susie Gonzalez, 59, of Saginaw, into custody at 12:05 a.m. Monday, who was wanted on a warrant from Saginaw police, charging her with the July 10 murder of her husband. Reportedly, she is charged with running into her husband with the van she was driving.

Troopers stopped when they spotted her car parked alongside M-46, near Chambers Road, southwest of Caro. Her car had broken down. A Law Enforcement Information Network check was run and it was discovered she was wanted on the murder warrant.

Officers took her to Richville, where she was turned over to Saginaw police.

Weights and measures, from grocer's scales to gas pumps, are routinely inspected as a consumer protection service of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Letter to the Editor

We must pay for education

Dear Mr. Haire;

The question of enough money to educate our children properly in the ways we want them to be educated seems to raise its ugly head regularly, especially when we feel pinched for money for the things we consider necessities. But let us consider:

In the late 1950s and early 1960s, most parents who sent their children to one room country schools voted to send their children to centralized K-12 schools where they hoped the children would get all the advantages the single teacher schools could not afford, plus a better basic education.

In rural schools where the teacher had all nine grades to teach, the allotted time for each class worked out to something like 10 minutes per class for the basic subjects.

Less basic subjects, such as history, geography and health, usually were planned in such a way that classes could be held on different days for different grades and projects.

With a student body in the low 20s, a teacher could do a fairly good job of teaching. With more than 30 students, the teacher needed to be an executive manipulator to do an equitable job of instructing all the children so they learned to their fullest potential. With 40 or more students, the teacher had to be a miracle worker to develop a satisfactory program for every child.

As for materials to work with, most rural schools supplied lots of chalk and some fairly decent blackboards, a few library books, perhaps a globe, and sometimes an atlas. Teacher's guides to instruction books were not considered necessary by most school boards, so the teacher used the children's books.

Janitor work and fire building were also in the teacher's province, along with correcting papers, disciplining, card marking, and nursing and doctoring decisions for the calamities that occurred.

Nearly everyone seemed glad to vote to centralize all their school problems in one large system under a few people who would be responsible for solutions to every kind of inequity, deprivation, and recalcitrance.

The children would all be taught extra music, art, physical education and, hopefully, would do better in their basic education in a one grade room where each child would receive more attention from the teacher.

But Sputnik jolted the education community to its foundations and created all kinds of pressures to improve the quality of education. We discovered there were still children who should have been able to read, but couldn't. Neither could they do math. And spelling - oh, my! Clear sentences and their grammatical construction? Impossible!

We were dismayed and shaken by the realization that what we, locally, considered the best failed to measure up nationally. We were distressed to find our money did not buy us the success we thought we had.

Now we must face hard facts! To have well trained students requires good teaching. Good teaching is impossible without well trained teachers and willing, disciplined students. And willing and disciplined students are made by parents who expect and insist their children achieve to the best of their abilities.

But still more is needed. Teachers, who have little time and few materials to work with in handling large numbers of children, can give only to their physical, emotional and mental limits.

If you want your children to have certain classes you believe will add to the quality of their lives, you must pay for them. If you want your children to have a physical education program to help develop a healthy body, you must pay for it. If you want your children to get special help from special teachers, you must pay for them.

If you want your child taught in smaller classes, you must pay for those, too.

For myself, I loved the old one room rural schools, which had many good things going for them. But, we have changed our system of training our young, and, I believe, it is past time for us to take inventory of the things we want for our children and face the fact that nothing is free: not books, not lunches, not pencils, not paper, not teachers, not heat, nor buses, nor warm buildings. Somebody pays and the only people who have money to pay are the people who earn it. Therefore, it is my belief that if you want a quality, and quantity, education for your children, you, we, all of us are going to have to pay for it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Brown

Picnic ends reading program

The summer reading program at Rawson Memorial Library ended with a picnic at the park July 30. The youngsters who completed the program by reading at least 10 books, were presented with a certificate and small gift.

The 28 children who reached the quota in time for the picnic are: Brent and Greg Sturtevant, Troy and Jodi Benitez, Connie Schneberger, Chris and Amy Klico, Jane Dickinson, Mike Jones, Melissa and Ken Micklash, Mike and Steven Bills, Jackie Younglove, Heather and Roy Shaft, Paula Merchant, Christy Rutkowski, Kristina Albee, Amy Ross, Julie Sugden, Alex and Mya Pakonen, Tanya Hatmaker, Mindy Fulcher, Jennifer and Tim Davis and Jean Weaver. Other youngsters, still working towards the 10-book goal will also receive certificates, according to Barb Hutchinson, head librarian.

Glidden named to all-star squad

Saturday will be a very big day in Jim Glidden's life. The May graduate of Owendale-Gagetown High School will be playing that day on the east team in the first annual Michigan High School Football Coaches Association East-West All-Star Game, featuring the top high school graduates about to embark on their college careers.

Kick-off will be at 1:30 p.m. in Spartan Stadium on the Michigan State University campus. Proceeds from the game will go into the association's scholarship fund.

Glidden, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Glidden of Owendale, is the only player named to the squad from the upper Thumb.

He achieved the honor after having been named as an end or wide receiver to the Associated Press, United Press International, Detroit News and Detroit Free Press Class D all-star teams.

He will be attending Ferris State College this fall on a football scholarship.

"I'm really happy about it. I can't wait," he said Wednesday of last week, the day before he departed for East Lansing for the first practice session.

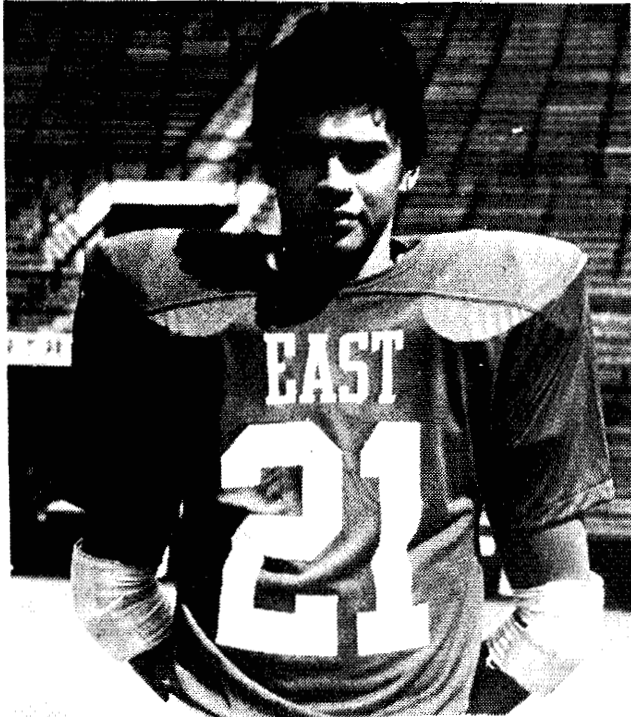

Twice a day practice sessions are scheduled, he said, the first three days on grass and the rest of the time on the artificial turf in the stadium.

Glidden, named to the offensive squad as a wide receiver, will be one of 36 players on the east team, composed of players from Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Monroe, St. Clair, Lapeer, Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties.

The west team is drawn from the rest of the state, including the Upper Peninsula.

At 6-1 and 170 pounds, he will be one of the lightest players in the game and he admitted he was a little apprehensive about playing with the "big guys from the city."

Everyone is supposed to play in the game and a large contingent from Owen-Gage is expected to journey to East Lansing to watch Glidden take part.

Class C-D fastpitch tournaments scheduled Friday, Saturday, Sunday

Cass City this week end will host the Michigan Amateur Softball Association District 8 Class C and D fast pitch softball tournaments.

The district winners will go on to the regionals and the winners there qualify for the state championship tournaments.

District 8 consists of part of Tuscola county, plus Huron, Sanilac, St. Clair and Lapeer counties.

Class C teams are considered a notch above D teams in quality of play. Unfortunately, there aren't too many of them in District 8. Only three will compete, Osentoski Realty, Cass City, Coca Cola, Port Huron, and Paul's Custom Vans, Snover.

The first game, between Osentoski and Coca Cola, is at 9 a.m. Saturday. Other C games that day will be at 3:30 and 9 p.m.

The championship game is at 3 p.m. Sunday, with a second game if needed in the double elimination tourney scheduled at 6.

Class D teams entered are Charmon, Cass City, McMahon Auto Supply, Cass City; Wolverine State Bank, Marlette; Wolverine State Bank, Sandusky; Dingman Farms, Port Huron; Sanilac County Bank, Sandusky; Liberty Lanes, Sandusky; The Lamplighter, Sebewaing; Thumb National Bank, Pigeon; McGraw Edison, Sandusky; Sanilac Dairy Farms, Sandusky, and Marlette Area Softball Hitters.

Charmon's first game is at 7 p.m. Friday. McMahon's starts at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Class D game times are: Friday, 7, 9 p.m.; Saturday, 9, 10:30 a.m., noon, 2, 3:30, 6, 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, 9, 10:30 a.m., and noon. Most of the time there will be two games going on at a time, on the diamonds at the east end of the village park.

The championship games will be at 1:30 p.m., with a second game, if necessary, at 4:30.

Cass City hosted the Class D tournament for the first time last year. This is the first time the C tournament is being held here. Tournament director is Jim Turner of Cass City.

The tournament is open to any team that pays the entry fee. All teams had to play in a sanctioned league during the regular season and are not allowed to use pickup players for the tournament.

The championship teams, however, will be allowed to pick two players from other tournament teams to use in the regionals.

Admission is free. The Osentoski fast pitch team will sell refreshments and Cass City Jaycees will be collecting donations Saturday at the tournament and downtown for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Bay City swimmers cop meet

The Cass City swim team managed to earn seven first places in the Thumb League meet Sunday, but finished last.

Bay City won with a score of 129, followed by Caro with 95 points, Marlette with 89 and Cass City with 57.

Nabbing first place medals were Rusty Bush in diving; Mark Hirn in the 50 yard backstroke and 50 yard freestyle; Suzy Scollon in the 50 yard freestyle; Justin McNaughton in the 25 yard breast stroke; a medley relay team and 200 yard free relay team.

Second place medal winners were Tim Horner in diving; Rusty Bush in the 25 yard freestyle; Mark Hirn in the 50 yard breast stroke; Stacey Capps in the 25 yard breast stroke and two different 100 yard free relay teams.

Receiving third place certificates were Don Herron in diving; Tim Horner in the 100 yard medley and Rusty Bush in the 25 yard breast stroke.

With the season over, the swimmers are now concentrating on a swimathon for muscular dystrophy Aug. 13-14.

The swim is scheduled to begin at noon and continue until participants swim 50 miles. Swimmers are now collecting pledges and anyone interested in joining the swim can pick up a sign-up sheet at the pool.

Osentoski cops fastpitch tourney

The Osentoski Realty fastpitch softball team of Cass City won its fourth tournament of the year last week end playing at home.

Osentoski hosted the eight-team double elimination tournament with teams from Lansing, Flint, Midland, Clio, Snover and Cass City.

Osentoski opened the action Friday night with a 1-0 win against Buck's Tavern of Flint. Craig Helwig was the winning pitcher, allowing only three hits and striking out seven. Ron Ouvry hit a home run in the third inning for the only score of the game.

In its second game, Saturday afternoon, Osentoski defeated Paul's Custom Vans of Snover, 4-2. Brian Helwig got the win. Mike Rea, Ron Ouvry, Dean Severance and Todd Alexander each had two hits.

In the game which brought the two undefeated teams together, Osentoski beat Mart Moderne of Midland, 7-1. Moderne scored in the top of the first inning, but Craig Helwig came on strong to shut them out the last six innings. Helwig struck out 11 batters and gave up only one hit for his second win of the tournament. Mike Rea, Ken Martin and Scott Hartel led the hitting attack for Osentoski.

Sunday afternoon in the championship game, Osentoski faced Mart Moderne again, this time winning 3-0. Ken Martin singled in the second inning, moved to third on a pass ball and a stolen base and scored on a single by Ron Ouvry. Osentoski added two insurance runs in the sixth on singles by Jerry Toner, Mike Rea, Ken Martin and Jeff Hartel. Brian Helwig chalked up his second win.

Ron Ouvry was awarded the most valuable player trophy.

Other teams entered in the tournament were Charmon, Cass City, Borden's Drugs, Clio, last year's Class C state champion; Omega Farms, Weberville, and American Fire Protection, Lansing.

Osentoski will take its 53-15 record into the state Class C district tournament at Cass City Saturday morning at 9 against Coca-Cola from Port Huron.

New law affects workers' benefits

Michigan Employment Security Commission Director S. Martin Taylor has reminded laid off auto workers of a new law change that affects their rights to extended benefits (EB) during model change-over layoff.

The amended Michigan law complies with new federal law in requiring EB claimants to actively seek work even during short-term layoff.

Taylor said auto workers usually received a waiver of the seeking work requirement during model changeovers at the request of their employer. Under the new amendment, such waivers can no longer be granted to workers who are receiving EB.

Extended benefits are paid during periods of high unemployment to workers who exhaust their regular state unemployment benefits. Regular state benefits can last for a maximum of 26 weeks, extended benefits for half as long to a maximum of 13 weeks. EB is a state-federal program, with each sharing the costs equally.

Elmwood township faces own election proposals

Elmwood township residents, as well as voting on the two Tuscola County Road Commission millage proposals Tuesday, will also be voting on two township proposals.

Both are for five years. One seeks a half-mill "for the sole purpose of maintaining and improving the Elmwood-Gagetown Fire Department."

The other seeks 1½ mills "for the sole purpose of maintaining and improving the township roads."

The 1½ mills, based on the township's present valuation of $19.9 million, will raise a little under $30,000 the first year.

The township board decided to put the proposal on the ballot, Supervisor Roy Messer explained, because the biggest chunk of the township's budget the last few years has gone for drains at large, leaving only a relatively small amount, $8,000-10,000, for graveling roads.

Although the present large drains-at-large assessment has only one year to run, he said, other township residents want to get their drains cleaned, so the township may be obligated to help pay for them in future years.

Passage of the millage will enable the township to catch up on and then improve them. "We hope we can maintain good roads in the township," he commented.

Without the extra millage, "We'll have to keep struggling on what we have."

The money from the road millage, he explained, can be supplemented from the general fund when money is available.

The fire department millage will raise just under $10,000 per year, based on the present valuation.

The aim, according to Messer, is to free the township and village of Gagetown from having to support the fire department out of their general funds, thus freeing the money for other purposes. "The fire department has been very costly and the cost of operation has skyrocketed the last couple of years."

The township pays two-thirds of the cost of operating the department. Gagetown pays the remaining third.

The money the millage would raise, according to the supervisor, about equals the present operating budget of the department. As its costs increase, the township and village could still appropriate money from their general funds.

One mill equals $1 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. The additional 2 mills, on a house worth $50,000, for example, ($25,000 equalized valuation) would cost $50 annually -- $37.50 for the road millage and $12.50 for the fire department.

Polls in the township-village hall in Gagetown will be open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

AFTERMATH -- The barn of Owen Pierce on Spence Road looked like this about an hour after the fire was reported at 5:20 a.m. Friday. (Another photo, story on page 1.)

Road, bridge millages on county ballot Tuesday

Last year, when a bridge collapsed on Huron Line Road near Gagetown, the Road Commission used millage funds to replace it. Without it, he said, probably all that would be done would be to put up barricades.

LOCAL SHARE

Each half mill levy will raise $275,870. (Due to a state imposed increase in the county valuation, which requires a millage rollback, only .4808 will be levied the first year on each proposal, should they be approved.) One mill equals $1 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation (half the true cash value).

State law requires villages and cities to receive a portion of that revenue, based on their portion of the county's total valuation, even if they do not have any bridges.

If the millage is approved, Cass City's first year share will be $9,957 for improvements from the bridge millage and the same amount for maintenance from the maintenance levy, for a total of $19,914.

Gagetown will receive a total of $2,139 and Kingston, $2,494.

ROAD MILLAGE

The half-mill for township road and village street maintenance is necessary, according to Laurie, because of declining Motor Vehicle Highway Funds, of which all county road commissions receive a share.

Money for the fund comes from the state tax on motor fuels (11 cents per gallon) and license plate fees. With more smaller cars on the road, for which there is a smaller license plate fee, getting more miles per gallon, plus motorists driving less, there is less money going into the fund.

The Road Commission's last four quarterly payments totaled $1,975,600, a decline of $382,800 (16.2 percent) from the $2,358,400 received for the prior four quarters (August and November, 1979, and February and May, 1980).

"It is impossible to adequately maintain our roads and streets with the funds we receive from the state," according to Laurie.

Since the Road Commission receives most of its money from the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund, it has already made various cutbacks, Miklovic said.

Hourly employees are working only 32 hours a week, there has been less brining for dust control, less grading and other road maintenance. Usually, the Road Commission seals cracks in about 50 miles of pavement each summer.

This summer, it will only do 15-20 miles.

"We have people complaining about roads needing dust control and brining right now," Miklovic commented. Part of the reason for the reduction, he explained, is a higher priority placed on snow removal, which means less money available for summer maintenance.

Legislation has been introduced in Lansing to change the gasoline tax to a percentage of the price, so that it would keep pace with inflation, but he isn't optimistic about it passing.

"We're trying to get the money back we lost from the gas tax," he said of the need for the millage.

Michigan leads the nation in production of navy beans, blueberries, tart cherries, cucumbers and eastern soft white winter wheat, and ranks fifth or higher in a total of 24 food crops.

CHOOSING a prize at the "Reading Round-up" party July 30 is Brent Sturtevant. He was one of 28 youngsters who read at least 10 books this summer through a Rawson Memorial Library program and were treated to a party in the park and a small prize. (Story, page 12).

Beware of food poisoning

Whether you're picnicking at one of the abundant lakes in Michigan or whether you're in your own back yard, you should be aware of the nation's foremost food hazard... food poisoning.

Each year millions of Americans are poisoned by microorganisms which thrive in foods which have been faultily handled, prepared or refrigerated in the home and in food service establishments. The foods most susceptible to spoilage are unfortunately those most traditional to picnics -- egg and potato salads, or anything with mayonnaise, cold sliced meats, meat spreads, creamed dishes, especially pies and undercooked meats.

The two main types of poisonings found in these foods are salmonella and staphylococcus.

Salmonella multiply at temperatures above 45 degrees and are found most frequently in meats, poultry and eggs. Each year, more than 1 million Americans are affected by these organisms. In Michigan alone 1,191 cases were reported to the Michigan Department of Public Health for 1980.

While refrigeration and freezing retard growth, cooking will destroy the organisms in the foods.

The onset of poisoning from salmonella is sudden, about 7-72 hours, and may be characterized by headache, chills and abdominal pain, followed by nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. There is often an associated low-grade fever with 1-4 days' illness.

To avoid salmonella, use hot, soapy water to wash hands, utensils, cutting boards or counter tops that have been in contact with raw meats, poultry and eggs, thaw frozen meats in a refrigerator, not at room temperature, use clean eggs without cracked shells, and wash all raw food including raw meats.

Unlike salmonella, staphylococcus is not destroyed by cooking. Foods that support "staph" include ham, cream-filled pastries, custard, egg dishes, gravies, stuffing, meat and poultry dishes.

To protect against the poison, persons with skin infections or infectious diseases should not prepare foods, and avoid coughing or sneezing over food.

With staphylococcus comes increased salivation, followed by vomiting, diarrhea, abdominal cramps and prostration within six hours of eating the contaminated food. Recovery should occur within 24 hours.

To plan picnics wisely, the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS) suggests avoiding foods which spoil easily. Pack only as much food as you will eat within a relatively short time and discard the rest, throwing out foods with "off" odors. Do not even taste food that is suspect.

It should be remembered that while portable ice chests help keep foods cool, they cannot be relied upon to inhibit bacteria growth for long periods of time.

Novesta nixes tavern license

we have trouble with people fighting... so I can't see where a tavern would add anything."

Among others speaking in opposition, emphasizing they were speaking as individuals, were Rev. Gerald Rodgers of the Deford Community Church and Rev. John Lange of Novesta Baptist Church.

Kaake commented that the large negative turnout at the meeting wasn't necessarily significant. "I didn't call any of my buddies who drink and ask them to come here tonight."

Zoning board Chairman Lyle Clarke, reading from the township zoning ordinance, said a tavern was an allowable use in the area zoned as a business district.

THERE WAS SOME controversy over how much say-so the township board has over approving or rejecting Kaake's tavern license application.

According to the would-be bar owner, if rejected by the board, he only has to prove in court that the board had no probable cause for not allowing it in order to receive his license from the LCC.

Supervisor Bill O'Dell said he had checked with the state agency and was told "it is up to the local governing body to make that decision and whatever that decision is, the state Liquor Commission will abide by that decision."

(The assistant attorney general assigned to the LCC, who didn't want his name used, said a tavern license applicant whose application is rejected by the local governing body can appeal to circuit court. In court, that body may have to justify its decision. The court, should it rule in favor of the applicant, can take various courses of action, such as ordering the governing body to conduct a new hearing. There have been instances, he indicated, where applicants by going to court, eventually received their license over the objection of the local government officials.

There was also a question raised about the motion the board unanimously rejected, which was "to ask the board to make a decision whether to approve or disapprove issuing a license for a tavern in Novesta township."

Allen and a few others questioned whether the wording of the motion actually meant the board was rejecting a license for Kaake.

In other action, it was announced Naomi Anderson of 6191 Shabbona Road is seeking to build an addition to her home to provide space to house and care for two or three older persons unable to care for themselves.

The zoning board Sept. 1 will act on the needed variance.

The township board Sept. 14 will act on her requested state license needed to operate the facility.

The meeting will be Sept. 14 because Sept. 7 is Labor Day.

State tops in blueberries

Michigan leads the nation in production of blueberries. Forty-one million pounds were harvested last year, worth $14.1 million. Approximately one-third of the harvest goes to fresh market customers while the rest is processed.

From SVSC

College courses to come to Cass City via video this fall

Beginning in September, Saginaw Valley State College will offer two freshman level courses at Cass City High School, plus 11 tele-teaching classes.

English 100, titled "Writing Skills," uses programmed materials designed to improve writing abilities. Student progress is monitored, with emphasis on developing basic grammatical skills and clear communication methods. Students completing the course, which will meet Tuesday evenings from 7-10, will earn three semester hours of credit.

Wednesday evenings from 6-10, Psychology 100, general psychology, is offered for students planning to major in that area or interested in learning more about human behavior.

Persons with a high school diploma or satisfactory scores on the General Education Development (GED) test may seek admission to either of these classes. High school juniors and seniors with outstanding academic records and the recommendation of a principal or counselor also may apply through SVSC's Advanced College Experience option. ACE provides an opportunity to get a head start on college or take academically challenging classes not available in local high schools.

SVSC's Cass City tele-teaching schedule includes four criminal justice courses, four in business and management, and three psychology classes. All are junior and senior college courses which apply toward a bachelor's degree. Students with some previous college background, appropriate technical training or job-related experience will be considered for admission.

Tele-teaching classes originate on SVSC's home campus and use an electronic blackboard with TV monitors and microphones to provide live two-way communication to Cass City. Paraprofessional teaching aides will distribute materials and assist students in the Cass City classroom, and the program includes three visits during the semester by the SVSC instructor.

By department, the tele-teaching courses are:

Criminal Justice -- "American Constitution and Legal System" (3 cr.), Mondays and Thursdays from 1:20-3:30 p.m.; "Delinquency Prevention and Control" (3 cr.), alternate weeks on Friday, 10:30 a.m. and Saturday, 9:00-11:00 a.m.; "Community Relations in Criminal Justice" (3 cr.), Tuesday and Friday, 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m., and "Criminology" (3 cr.), Tuesday and Friday, 10:11-11:30 a.m.

Business and Management -- "Social, Political and Legal Environment of Business" (4 cr.), Monday and Thursday, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.; "Personnel Management" (3 cr.), Tuesday, 7-10 p.m.; "Production and Operations Management" (4 cr.), Monday, 6-10 p.m., and "Consumer Behavior" (3 cr.), Tuesday and Thursday, 2:30-4 p.m.

Psychology -- "Child Psychology" (3 cr.), Wednesday, 2:30-5:30 p.m.; "Exceptional Child" (3 cr.), Wednesday, 7-10 p.m., and "Abnormal Psychology" (3 cr.), Thursday, 7-10 p.m.

An advisory period for prospective students is scheduled from 5-7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 19. SVSC academic advisor Tim Burke will conduct the session, using the tele-teaching equipment to link college record systems to Cass City High School. Students will receive counseling without having to travel to the college campus and will have an advance opportunity to learn how tele-teaching works.

Additional counseling and registration services will be provided at the high school Monday, Aug. 24, from 4-7 p.m. SVSC admissions representative Gerald Survant will be present to admit students and assist with enrollment procedures.

Persons interested in knowing more about SVSC's Cass City program can call Kathleen O'Donnell, Cass City Community Education director, at 872-4151. Information about Saginaw Valley State College can be obtained from Survant at (517) 790-4066.

THE CASS CITY CHRONICLE

From across the country they came

Saturday school reunion

draws more than 1,300

The Colony House was filled to overflowing Saturday evening for the second Cass City High School reunion.

There were 1,205 persons who ate dinner and another 150-200 who came for dancing only.

The gathering started at 4 p.m. and it almost took a bulldozer to get some of them to leave 11 hours later. The Dick Stevens Trio and Image stopped playing at 1:30 a.m. There were still 200-300 discussing old times at 2 and the last of them didn't leave until about 3.

The turnout far exceeded the 1976 all-school gathering, which was attended by 1,075.

Until recently, when reservations started rolling in, "I questioned whether it would go over 1,000," said

Jack Esau, chairman of this year's event, obviously pleased by the big response.

The event was such a success, it was decided during it there will be another all-school reunion in 1986. The organizing committee will consist of Nancy de-Beaubien, Clayton Turner, Sherry Seeley and Kim Glaspie, all of Cass City, and Asel Collins, Pigeon.

The classes from the 1930s and 1940s had the best turnout, Esau said, but no effort was made to determine which class had the highest percentage of returnees. Apparently all classes, starting with 1921, were represented. (The first graduating class was in 1887, not 1886, as reported previously.)

The oldest graduate there was E.B. (Chick) Schwaderer of Cass City, a member of the class of 1913.

Coming the farthest distance were Bill Chandler of the class of 1971 and his wife Teresa. The residents of Hawaii, where Chandler serves with the U.S. Marines, had their car shipped to Los Angeles, then drove to Cass City.

A chief warrant officer, the Marine for 10 years is being transferred to Okinawa for a year from his present station at Pearl Harbor.

Others attended from as far away as California, Colorado, North Carolina, Florida, and the Washington, D.C., area and Arizona.

It took 65 minutes for the 1,205 to go through the serving line for dinner. The Colony House, Esau said, set a limit of 1,200 as the maximum number it could serve, but five more were squeezed in.

More than that reportedly wanted to have dinner but sent in their reservations too late.

The facility was literally filled to overflowing, with members of the classes from 1960 and up being seated in a tent outside.

The reunion was the culmination of almost one year of planning and tracking down graduates by a committee composed of Esau, George Cole, Fred Auten and Agnes Milligan, plus a class chairman for every year starting with 1921.

THE CLASS OF 1921 held a reunion Saturday afternoon at Wildwood Farms prior to attending the Cass City All-School reunion. From left, Gillies Brown, Cass City; Arley Spencer, Toronto, Frances (Goodall) Golding, Cass City; Frederick Pinney, Cass City; Alice (McConnell) Neitz, Harrison; Kathryn (Cridland) Guppy, Lafayette, Cal.; Helen (Craig) Ramsey, Marlette; Mildred Fritz, Troy; Irene (Brown) Murray, Lapeer; H. Glenn Bixby, Detroit; Albert Gallagher, Cass City, and D.C. McIntyre, Vassar.

Conservation Tillage Day

Monday north of Caro

Farmers and others interested in seeing the principles of conservation tillage in practice can attend the Regional Conservation Tillage Field Day in Tuscola county Monday.

Though conservation tillage remains a controversial practice, Tuscola county extension agricultural agent Michael Score says its feasibility is being tested in the Saginaw Valley, and many Michigan farmers may find that the principles will work for them.

The field day begins at 10 a.m. on the Paul Findlay farm, 4 miles north of Caro at the intersection of Luder and Dutcher Roads. It will run through mid-afternoon.

It is being presented by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service Conservation Tillage Committee and is co-sponsored by the MSU Agricultural Experiment Station, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), the Soil Conservation Service (SCS), the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region and local agricultural producers and businesses.

The program includes comparisons between conservation and conventional tillage systems over 20 acres of Tappan Loam, which is representative of the soils in the Saginaw Valley. There will be eight plots -- each 2½ acres in size -- showing various tillage specifications with upright dry beans, soybeans, sugar beets and corn.

The field day will provide growers with information and an opportunity to examine the values of conservation tillage firsthand.

"Since conservation tillage systems require a higher level of managerial skills than conventional tillage, the practice is not recommended for everyone," Score warns. "However, it is still worth looking into."

The field day is free.

According to Score, conservation tillage has been the farmers' most successful management tool in controlling soil loss. ASCS and SCS efforts have reduced soil loss by over 50 percent on much of the land in Huron and Tuscola counties over the last two years by encouraging soil conservation practices.

Excessive soil erosion from agricultural land costs local producers several thousand dollars in crop damage and fertilizer loss, he said.

More than 30 commercial exhibits will be in a big tent. Machinery demonstrations will cover another 10 acres of land. Included in the displays will be sprayers, planters, tillage tools; dry bean varieties; corn, beet and soybean production; herbicides, and pest monitoring and soil testing.

Refreshments will be sold.

Farm facts

What do carrots, celery and cucumbers have in common? Michigan farmers are among the top 10 producers in the nation of these and 20 other food crops, receiving about $3.3 billion in cash receipts for these products in 1980.

If the label says "made in Michigan," your wine comes from one of Michigan's 15 wineries. Award winning vintners placed Michigan sixth in the nation in wine production. Michigan has about 15,000 acres of commercial vineyards with acreage increasing yearly.

GRADUATES as far as the eye could see in any direction filled the Colony House Saturday evening at the second Cass City High School all-school reunion. More than 1,300 attended.

YOUNGEST AND FARTHEST -- The youngest graduates at the all-school reunion were (at left) Dawn Herron and Chuck Auten, who received their diplomas in May. Coming the farthest were Marine CWO Bill Chandler, class of 1971, and his wife, Teresa, who live in Hawaii.

OLDEST GRADUATES to attend the Cass City High School all-school reunion Saturday evening were, from left, Lue (Barnes) Peterson, Flint (1916); Margaret (Hurley) Wallace, Cass City (1917), and E.B. (Chick) Schwaderer, Cass City (1913).

Gasoline thieves plague county

Two persons reported the theft of gasoline to Tuscola county sheriff's deputies recently.

Cathy Curry of 4300 Rossman Road, Kingston, reported July 27 the theft of 200 gallons of regular gasoline, worth $1.25 per gallon, some time since 9 p.m. July 25.

Felix Bandish of 1530 S. Kingston Road, Deford, reported the theft of gasoline from a 55 gallon drum and an old truck and 15 gallons of fuel oil. Damage was done to a nozzle attachment and lock.

Loss was put at $115, with the theft reported July 24.

Two area men reported thefts from their vehicles while they were parked July 17 during the day in the commuter lot on M-24, east of Mayville.

James E. Andrews of 1691 Van Dyke Road, Decker, reported a window was smashed and eight packs of cigarettes, chrome spotlight and two wrenches were taken. The stolen items were worth $34.50.

Dean E. Sarles of S. Kingston Road, Kingston, said the battery was stolen from his truck. It was worth $50.

Elwyn Helwig reported to Cass City police last Thursday that a hole was made with a BB or stone in a front window at Croft-Clara Lumber, 6141 W. Main Street.

It had been discovered the previous week. Four Cass City businesses had BB shots fired into their windows July 25-26.

Your Neighbor says

Kids need education

Sylvester Abraham of Cass City said he will support the requested school millage increase Tuesday.

"I have a friend that is a principal and another that is a teacher, as well as friends with kids who need an education," Abraham said.

Sports, fine arts and extracurricular activities are an important part of education, he said. If the millage is defeated again, the school board has said many of these things will be cut.

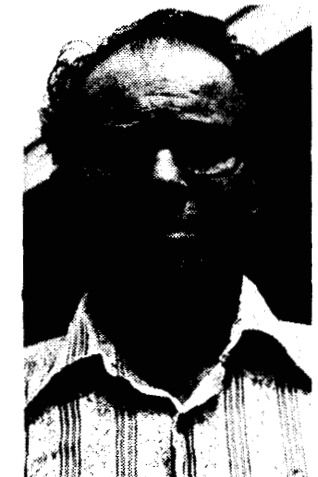

"The millage should pass but I really couldn't tell you if it will," the father of three admitted.

If the request for an additional three mills is defeated by voters, Abraham said the school board may put the issue before voters a third time. "They usually try again."

Abraham, of 6729 Garfield Avenue, works at Michigan State University, teaching agriculture. He has three children, no longer living at home, who attended Cass City schools at one time.

"They went until they were 12 or so and then went to a seminary," he said, describing the education they received as "good."

Brothers united

Three together for first time in 73 years July 22

It was quite a reunion July 22 for George Dillman, Roy Burton and Ed Burke.

The three men are brothers and it was the first time the three of them had been together in 73 years.

Dillman, 74, is a former Cass City resident, now living with his wife, Eleanor, in Zephyrhills, Fla. Burton, 72, lives in Caro and Burke, 76 or 77, is a Mount Clemens resident.

Their mother, Florence Thorngate (later Moisse), a widow, could not afford to care for her three young sons, so put George and Roy up for adoption. Ed stayed with her. He later assumed the last name of Burke.

It wasn't the usual type of adoption, however. Mrs. Moisse kept in contact with her sons, visited them, and insisted they keep track of each other.

Dillman grew up in Cass City and Burton, originally in Gagetown and later Caro, and have been close over the many years.

Dillman last saw Burke in 1926, when the latter was working in Detroit. When he went back to the company the next time, however, his brother no longer was working there and no one knew where he had gone. It turned out he had moved to Canada.

The Dillmans -- he is retired from Anrod Screen Cylinder and she was a teacher -- moved to Florida in 1973.

Dillman had kept in touch over the years with Burke's first family in Detroit. A daughter lives in Florida.

In 1979, the daughter invited Mr. and Mrs. Dillman to a wedding. The wedding was of a daughter of Burke's from his second marriage and at the wedding was Ed Burke, so the two brothers were reunited for the first time since 1926.

The first meeting between Burke and his brother, Roy Burton, came about in Caro a couple of weeks before the three brothers got together there July 22, which was, as mentioned, the first time they had been together since 1908.

What was it like to be together after all that time?

"It was great," Dillman responded. "It was something I don't suppose we thought would ever happen."

Announce Ugly school program cuts

and Parisville Catholic schools will be eliminated.

Sports, field trips and supplies will be areas for further cuts, the board had already decided, with several board members now working on a proposal for further cuts to be presented to the board Monday.

Even if both ballot proposals pass next month, the over $2 million budget approved after the first millage defeat in June will have to be cut again because the total new request is for 4 mills, compared to the most recent 5.41-mill request.

A couple of programs, such as art, may be reinstated and six teachers recalled if both of the new ballot proposals pass, Tenbusch predicted, but other action is uncertain.

THREE BROTHERS -- Together July 22 for the first time since 1908 were brothers, from left, Ed Burke, Roy Burton and George Dillman.

Filion driver pleads guilty

A Filion man, charged in connection with a July 4 accident in Cass City in which he and six others were injured, pleaded guilty in Tuscola County District Court Friday to a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicants.

The plea of Douglas J. VanValkenburg, 21, was accepted by Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled sentencing Aug. 24. Personal recognizance bond of $5,000 was continued.

The accident took place on Main Street at 1:55 a.m. when the car driven by VanValkenburg at a high rate of speed ran into the rear of a car driven by Christine Buehly, 18, of Greenland Road.

She, VanValkenburg, and five passengers in his car were injured. Only two had to be admitted to hospitals, the rest being treated and released.

VanValkenburg was originally charged with felonious driving, which carries a maximum sentence of four years in prison.

Driving under the influence carries an automatic 90 day suspension of his driver's license, plus a maximum of 90 days in jail and $500 fine, plus court costs. He may also be ordered to attend counseling sessions.

County Prosecutor Artis Noel said VanValkenburg was allowed to plea to the lesser charge because it would have been difficult in court to prove him guilty of felonious driving.

The prosecution would have had to prove willful and deliberate negligent driving resulting in injury.

The defendant's intoxicated state, Noel explained, would have made it even more difficult to prove what he did was willful.

In contrast, there was no question concerning VanValkenburg's intoxicated state, as his blood alcohol content measure after the accident was .18, versus the legal limit of .10.

2 injured in area accident

Two persons were treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital following a 1:25 a.m. accident Sunday in Columbia township.

Injured were the driver, Michael J. Loeffler, 22, and his wife, Carol, 21, of Bay Port Road, Sebawaing.

Caro state police reported their car was eastbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, west of Ashmore Road, when it went off the south side of the road into a ditch.

Loeffler was ticketed on a charge of careless driving.

Karl P. Loucks, 12, of 6632 Pine Street, was treated and released from Hills and Dales after he was hit by a motorcycle at 2:40 p.m. Saturday.

Cass City police reported he was standing on Main Street at Oak and stepped backwards into the path of a motorcycle ridden by Steven P. Buck, 19, of Cass City Road.

George M. Klinesmith, 78, of 5115 Silvernail Road, Bedford, sought his own treatment following an 8:34 a.m. accident Wednesday, July 29.

Sheriff's deputies reported he was westbound on M-46, west of Bruisee Road, when a vehicle ran into the back of his car.

Officers said the other driver, Michael W. Janes, 24, of Vassar, had been watching several persons cutting weeds alongside the road. His vehicle left 128 feet of skid marks and after the impact, rolled over off the north side of the road. He was ticketed on a charge of careless driving.

Elmer D. Hacker, 48, of 5441 Van Dyke Road, Uby, was cited by deputies on a charge of failure to yield right of way after a 4:30 p.m. accident July 27.

Officers said Hacker was exiting a driveway onto Grassmere Road, north of Bay City-Forestville Road, pulled into the path of a southbound auto and the vehicles collided.

Driver of the car was Anna MacCallum, 58, of 5360 Grassmere, Cass City.

Cass City police reported that at 9:40 p.m. Monday, Lou LaPonsie, 48, of 4658 N. Seeger Street, westbound on Main Street, attempted to turn right onto Nestles Street, turned into the path of another westbound car and the two vehicles collided.

Driver of the other car was Dennis M. Faust, 29, of 5906 Hoadley Road.

Mark E. Conely, 21, of 4595 Oak Street, Cass City, was westbound on M-46, west of Cemetery Road, at 7:25 p.m. last Wednesday, according to deputies, when his car hit a deer.

At 9 p.m. last Thursday, Cass City police reported, Lewis D. King, 59, of 3031 White Creek Road, Kingston, was westbound on M-81, east of Schwieger Road, when his car collided with a deer.

Double elections Tuesday

Two elections in two places the same day is rare and may be confusing but there is a reason for it, according to Tuscola County Clerk Elsie Hicks.

Cass City School District residents who live in Tuscola county will have to go to the high school to vote on the school millage Tuesday and to their township hall to vote on the two Road Commission millage proposals. (Elmwood township has two proposals of its own on their ballot.)

The reason for the situation, Mrs. Hicks explained, is that state law forbids having two elections within the same territory within 30 days of each other. They can be on the same day, however.

Thus when the Cass City School Board and Road Commission board both wanted an election about the same time, the only alternative was to schedule them both Tuesday.

This is still more about tax shelters, and this column will end the discussion for a while. Even in Boca Raton, there is a limited number of people in a 50 percent tax bracket.

If your income doesn't put you up there, the subject will be only academic interest.

At a seminar sponsored by Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., of Boca Raton, one of the biggest brokerage houses in America, a group of us heard about investments in housing projects backed by the U.S. government with a 90 percent subsidy.

The apartments are rented to those with sub-average incomes, and the government pays up to 75 percent of the rent to people who can't afford the going rental price.

It is the only investment which the IRS will let you write off more than your original investment. This makes it interesting.

Such projects in the past have enabled an investor to write off double his investment by the end of five years.

Say he was in a 50 percent bracket, and put $10,000 in the project. At the end of five years, he has written off about $20,000. Since it has saved him $10,000 in taxes, he has gotten his investment back.

Whatever comes in after that is profit, or income, however you wish to label it. Of course, when you charge off these amounts, it decreases your book value of your original investment, so there is a capital gains tax to be paid sometime in the future when you sell your interest.

If you are looking at such an investment for only five years, consider:

1. Can I sell my holding after five years? What is the market for such an investment? To put it kindly, the market would be "thin."
2. What might I have realized with the same $10,000 in five years, after taxes?

To answer question No. 2 it just happened that the day of the seminar there came to market a $14 million issue of tax-exempt bonds of a nursing home in Naples, at a 14 percent rate. (The bonds are a cut above securities of most nursing homes with an experienced and successful management team.)

So you put $10,000 in this tax exempt specialty housing project. Compounded for 5 years at 14 percent, your investment in 1986 will have become $23,890.

In the government subsidized housing project, your investment will have brought you back $10,000 in taxes saved. So you have a zero investment base. Assume the savings came in at $2,000 a year. The first $2,000 you get in 1983 works for three years. And so on.

Putting these tax savings to work at the tax-free rate of 14 percent we used for the nursing project, you will have earned $7,178 on the $10,000 in tax savings. Total: $17,178, compared to the $23,890 from an investment in 14 percent tax-free bonds.

After five years there could be extra gains from the government housing deal. How much is anybody's guess.

For the first five years, though, it doesn't appear too attractive. But then, I'm simply a country boy.

These comments have hit only the high spots. If the idea intrigues you, see your broker. Source of the facts on which this column was based came from Rick DePuis of Dean Witter Reynolds.

TOUCHING UP the paint job on the new tennis courts are village superintendent Lou LaPonsie, left, and Frank Guilds, head of the department of public works. Lines were painted on the courts last week and should be dry enough to use the court Thursday. Tennis players interested in meeting other Cass City players should meet at the courts from 7-8 p.m. Friday or Saturday from 2-3 p.m. A list is being made of players in the area, ages and skill level to help players locate each other and possibly start a league. Anyone interested but unable to sign up this week end can call Stan Guinther at 872-3284.
