New church school opening

Classes start next week at Owen-Gage and Ubly

Where did the summer go?

Students, teachers and other school districts will soon be asking themselves that.

Two area school districts, Owendale-Gagetown and Ubly, begin classes next week on Wednesday and Thursday respectively.

The two parochial schools in the area, one of them brand new, begin classes Aug. 31.

Classes in Cass City and Kingston begin Sept. 1. Information concerning those districts will be described next week.

OWEN-GAGE

There will be a full day of classes opening day Wednesday. School hours will remain the same as past years, 8:30-2:50 p.m.

Teachers report the day before, for a full day and a staff luncheon at noon. The district will be hiring one new teacher, for music.

Bus routes will be about the same as last year. Parents and students should be on watch for a few days until a routine time is established to allow for new stops.

Lunch prices are 50 cents for those in grades 1-6; 75 cents, grades 7-12, and $1 for adults. Information is being sent to all student homes regarding eligibility for free and reduced price lunches.

Parents of kindergarten students are reminded that their children should have their immunization shots before entering school for the first time.

UBLY

An empty wallet in the Ubly School District due to the defeat of 5.41 mills Aug. 3 will mean lots of changes.

A "yes" vote Sept. 14 on renewal of three mills plus a separate vote on an additional one mill won't undo the changes, according to district Business Manager Mark Tenbusch. The main thing the added revenue will do is to allow completion of the school year and elimination of the district's deficit. Without passage of the millage, he said, there won't be enough money to allow schools to stay open until June.

Teachers report Wednesday and students on Thursday for a full day of classes. The school day runs from 8:30 a.m.-3:05 p.m.

The district will have 16 fewer teachers than it did last year, which will mean larger classes. Gone from the curriculum will be art, home construction class, and elementary music and physical education. Some elementary classes will combine two grades.

All extra-curricular activities and field trips have been eliminated.

Sports will be financed by a boosters' group, with the only ones planned being varsity football and boys' and girls' basketball, varsity and junior varsity.

The only class at Minden City will be one kindergarten section. Shared time programs at Catholic schools in Parisville and Ruth have been eliminated.

As a result, there will be "many, many changes" in bus routes in those areas, Tenbusch said.

Bus routes in the rest of the district will remain about the same.

Another change because of the financial situation is the district will no longer pay for student insurance. It will still be available for parents who wish to pay for it.

Lunch prices are up a dime from last year, with elementary now costing 55 cents and secondary, 60 cents.

Applications for free and reduced price lunches will be distributed the first day of school and must be returned within 10 days.

The district has yet to negotiate a contract with its non-teacher employees, who are not unionized, but that will wait until after the millage election, Tenbusch said.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS

The Deford Christian Academy, operated by the Deford Community church, begins its first year of classes Monday, Aug. 31. Testing of students will take place Monday, Aug. 24.

As of Friday, according to Rev. John Motter, the school principal and assistant to the church's pastor, there were 27 students enrolled. Only one does not presently attend the church.

The hope was and is for 35 students the first year.

Of those enrolled, he said, a little more than half live in the Cass City School District. The rest are from the Kingston and Marlette districts.

The church has hired Greg and Becky Reynolds, college trained but not certified, as teachers. They have been working for a church in Indiana.

The school will be offering grades K-12, although there may not be students in all grades.

It is able to do that, Rev. Motter explained, through a unique system of individualized teaching.

One of two rooms in the church will be a "learn to Please turn to page 6.

Teenager dies when car flips near Argyle

An Argyle area teenager became Sanilac county's 11th traffic fatality of the year Saturday night when he was killed in an accident about three miles west of Argyle.

Dead is Paul Michael Keller, 18, of 5987 Patterson Road.

He was a passenger in a car driven by John F. Peters, 18, of 2438 Argyle Road, Argyle, who was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

The Sanilac County Sheriff's Department reported their car was westbound on Argyle Road, west of Arnold Road, when it went off the south side of the road.

The vehicle went through a corn field for a considerable distance, parallel to the road, then reportedly hit a small ditch at the edge of a driveway and flipped over.

Keller was ejected from the car, which came to rest upside down on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold MacAlpine. No one was home at the time of the 10:36 p.m. accident.

The victim was pronounced dead at the scene. Neither he nor Peters were wearing safety belts, according to the Sheriff's Department. The accident remains under investigation.

The Elkland Township Fire Department was called to the scene shortly before midnight to stand by in case of fire while the vehicle was removed. Ubly police and Sandusky state police assisted at the scene.

Keller, a 1981 Ubly High School graduate, was born Dec. 17, 1962, in Bad Axe, the son of Carl and Barbara (Gornowicz) Keller.

He is survived by his parents; four brothers, David, Carl Jr., Gregory and Brian, all at home; three sisters, Denise and Cheryl, both at home, Roxanne (Mrs. Ivan Stine, Cass City, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gornowicz, Ubly, and Mrs. Eleanor Keller, Cass City.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at St. Joseph Catholic church, Argyle, Father Gerald Kukla officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

A wake service was held Tuesday evening at Zinger Funeral Home, Ubly, with Father Kukla officiating.

In comparison to the 11 deaths so far this year on Sanilac county roads, only eight died in all of 1980, and six as of this date a year ago.

It was the second fatal accident in a week. Of the three persons injured in the Aug. 9 accident in which Karen Mathewson of Deford was killed, only one remains hospitalized. Her husband, Gerald, was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales.

INJURY ACCIDENTS

A Kingston motorcyclist sought his own treatment after an accident at 4:45 p.m. last Wednesday.

Tuscola sheriff's deputies said Michael J. Reimelt, 19, of 3385 Harrison Road, was pulling out of a driveway, eastbound, onto Phillips Road, north of M-46.

Ruth Ann Brown, 35, of Denhoff Road, Kingston, was southbound, swerved to the east edge of the road to avoid the motorcycle, but the vehicles touched lightly.

Robert D. Hunter, 20, of 4468 Hurds Corner Road, Kingston, sought private treatment after a 12:01 a.m. accident Saturday.

He was southbound on Kingston Road, south of Chapin Road, when, he told deputies, he swerved to miss a deer. His car went off the road and landed upside

Farmers complain, too much rain

Rain is usually something farmers can't get enough of in summer.

This summer has been different, with some farmers complaining there has been too much rain.

"In general, it's done us more good than harm, as of today," said Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel Monday.

August and the end of July is usually the driest time of the year, so the rainfall the last few weeks is unusual, he explained.

Benefiting from all the water have been corn, sugarbeets, alfalfa hay and probably soybeans. A negative factor has been that possibly some farmers haven't been able to cut their hay because it has been too wet.

The question mark is dry beans. What all the rain has done is create a broad canopy of leaves, which keeps the soil underneath from drying rapidly. That creates conditions conducive to growth of mold and disease.

"We've got the potential that could cause problems," Bortel explained. "I don't think it's as bad as some people (think) ... but I don't know."

The rest of the month will be critical, as leaves start falling off, as to whether mold and disease develop.

Harvesting of dry beans should get underway in earnest about Sept. 1. Rain after that, of course, will cause other problems, as happened a few years ago.

Although the crops look good in the fields, a bountiful harvest can mean reduced market prices for farmers, and that is what is happening.

"All crops throughout the whole corn belt look good," the extension director said, "and that kind of reflects on the depressed markets right now."

General Cable top taxpayer

Cass City's top 10 taxpayers of last year are the top 10 this year.

Heading the list again this year is GK Technologies (General Cable), which paid $19,075 in real and personal property taxes.

Next is Walbro Corp., which paid a total of $12,255. Real property taxes are for land and buildings. Personal is for equipment.

The levy on village tax bills mailed in July was 14 mills for general operations and 2½ for the sewage treatment plant project, the same as last year.

The third biggest village taxpayer is Provincial House, $7,676; followed by Wicke's Agriculture, $6,524; Clare Comment (Charmont Lanes and surrounding property), $4,749; Detroit Edison, $4,642 (all but $63 of which is personal property); builder and developer Thomas Herron, $3,418; Marshall Distributing, $3,198; Cass City State Bank, $3,108 (for its building and one other parcel of property), and Donald Smith as manager of Hillside Apartments, $2,701.

The taxes paid by the top 10 total $67,348, out of total taxes assessed in the village of $329,153.

The top 10 listing was compiled by village Treasurer Joyce L. Roche, based on single-listing property owners.

Some persons may pay more property taxes than some on the list, but some of their property is listed in their names and some in the name of their corporations.

A fire started by children playing with cigarette lighters destroyed a large barn in Evergreen township Saturday afternoon. Estimated loss was $48,000.

While Elkland township firemen were fighting that blaze, an explosion at Rabideau's Bump Shop south of Cass City started a fire which was extinguished by other Elkland firemen. Estimated loss was $16,000.

Shortly before midnight Saturday, firemen were called to the scene of a traffic accident on Argyle Road which involved a fatality. (See accident story elsewhere on this page.)

The barn fire was reported at 3:40 p.m. The structure was owned by Robert Hawkins of 5981 Robinson Road and was located at the south end of his property, on the east side of Hoadley Road.

The T-shaped barn was an estimated 120-by-45 feet. A 30-by-40 foot building behind it also burned to the ground.

The owner said he was inside his home when his neighbor, Bill Hutchinson, who lives south of the barn, came and told him it was on fire.

Hawkins, his wife, and Hutchinson went to the barn to get the five pigs out, but some ran back in. Hawkins later found one burned inside and figures three others perished. The one who survived lost patches of its skin from the falling embers and had to be shot.

Removed in time was a garden tractor. An unsuccessful effort was made to extinguish the fire with a garden hose.

Lost in the blaze were 1,000 bales of hay that belonged to Mr. Doerr of Bay City-Forestville Road (Hawkins didn't know his first name), 300 bales of straw that belonged to Hawkins, aluminum siding worth $1,000, redwood siding, a gas barbecue, swing, lawn furniture and miscellaneous items.

Also lost was a 1970 station wagon, in need of a transmission, that belonged to a neighbor, Ray Davis.

According to Assistant Fire Chief Ron Pawloski, the fire was started by four children playing in a hay mow with cigarette lighters. They were ages 10, 9, 7 and 4.

Hawkins had chased them out of the barn, didn't notice anything, and went inside his mobile home. About 10 minutes later Hutchinson told him the barn was on fire.

Hawkins said Monday evening the four children were two nephews, a niece and one neighbor. He had later questioned them and they admitted what happened.

"I'm just thankful I saw the kids and chased them out of the barn," he commented, fearful of what might have happened if they had been inside when the fire erupted.

Pawloski talked to the children Monday evening. The remains were still hot then, according to Hawkins, and started a grass fire. He, his wife and a neighbor, plus firemen when they came to talk to the children, put it out. An area about 150-by-150 feet burned.

The owner guessed the barn was built around the turn of the century. His only insurance, he thought, would be $2,000 from a household policy as he had no insurance specifically for the barn.

Elkland firemen were assisted by fire fighters from Lamotte township and Bingham township-Ubly. Each unit brought a tanker to the scene. They finished there about 6 p.m.

BODY SHOP FIRE

At 5:30 p.m. Saturday, there was another fire, at the Rabideau body shop.

Fire Chief Dave McNaughton said some firemen at the station went to that fire with the department's 1968 pumper truck and the grass fire truck at the barn fire was also dispatched.

The Bingham-Ubly tanker at that time was in Cass City getting refilled, so it also went to the Rabideau fire.

McNaughton said the flash fire was caused by an explosion, which happened when a spark from a water pump located in the pit in the building ignited fumes.

An employee, Rich Patera, said Monday morning the fumes had to have been gasoline, coming from one of the four vehicles in the shop.

A pickup truck was parked on the frame alignment rack over the pit. Also in the shop were a small motor home and two cars.

The major damage to them appeared to have been a layer of soot, but Patera said one of the cars, a 1972 model, may not be worth repairing. The vinyl top was ruined and paint had bubbled.

The worst damage was to the concrete block wall along the outside of the pit. The force of the explosion blew the blocks outward into

You can Bank on it!

Q. Having just received a small inheritance, I would like to make some sort of relatively safe, return investment. I'm currently undecided between a Certificate of Deposit and money market funds. Are there advantages in a CD of which I should be aware?
A. The key word you mentioned was "safe". One of the most important advantages in a Certificate of Deposit is since you are purchasing the CD through a bank, both your principle and interest are insured through Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Money market funds, not purchased through a bank cannot carry this protection for your investment. Certificates of Deposit will assure you a safe investment with a good, consistent return. Your banker is a good source of advice regarding present and future financial plans.

“If It Fitz. . .”
Character reference

By Jim Fitzgerald

The long and short of it . . .

This is an exclusive report. The uncle of Sgt. Wojehowicz, of the Barney Miller TV show, recently spent 15 days in jail. Rona Barrett didn't tell you that, and neither did Shirley Eder. I think I'm getting more darling all the time.

Bill Gail, 64, was locked up in the Lapeer County Jail for not paying his Lapeer city income tax. He is the uncle of Max Gail, who plays Wojehowicz on my favorite sitcom, and also of Emily Gail, Detroit's best-known booster and owner of Emily's Across the Street.

Bill Gail is what is generally known as "a character." He says he can't or won't pay any income tax with paper money because only gold and silver are legal tender in the United States. He also insists that if Lapeer city claims he owes it money, it should send him a bill telling how much.

The Lapeer City Commission is not thrilled with Gail, who often appears before it to explain his economic theories. At least once, a policeman had to be summoned to persuade Gail to shut up and sit down. And when he sits down at commission meetings, he sits at the press table. He is a freelance writer and does some reporting for a local radio station.

Apparently, the free-lance business isn't so good. Gail acted as his own attorney during his jury trial and, after he was sentenced, told the judge he was indigent and asked that a lawyer be appointed to represent him. The judge refused. Even in little Lapeer, population around 6,000, the fact that you can't afford a lawyer doesn't mean you're poor, it means you're not a millionaire. Gail was able to pay a $600 fine.

Emily Gail didn't know Bill Gail was jailed until I told her, exclusively. She didn't say I was darling, but surely she thought it. Emily, who feels fondly toward her uncle, was concerned. She immediately phoned him and then reported back to me that he enjoyed his terms in jail. He read some good books and feels great.

As for Sgt. Wojehowicz, I wasn't able to reach him. I wanted to suggest that his uncle would make a popular prisoner in the Barney Miller lockup. The average TV viewer would identify warmly with a man who doesn't want to pay income taxes and claims dollar bills are worthless.

Personally, I don't like the idea of my money subsidizing tax scoff-laws. But I do like Gail's idea that the taxing unit should send the taxpayer a bill for income tax owed. That is, I like it if Gail means the government should make all arrangements with H&R Block and pay all bookkeeping costs out of a fund created by slapping a special tax on the malevolent bureaucrats who create tax forms. There are few things more outrageous than the fact that our income tax forms are so inhumanely complex that the average slob citizen, who barely survives from payday to payday, must hire an accountant to figure out how much money he owes the government.

It is interesting to note that, although the Lapeer County Press has published several articles about Bill Gail, its present editor, Lynn Myers, didn't know he was Sgt. Wojehowicz's uncle. She didn't even know who Wojehowicz was until I told her. She is not nearly as dumb as the former editor—that's me—and doesn't waste her time watching TV when she could be reading deep books.

That explains how I was able to make this report on the uncle of a famous policeman being in jail truly exclusive. It can be darling to be dumb, or vice versa, but you probably knew that.

More Show Biz Stuff: Given the heat of morning competition between this area's most popular radio personalities, I wasn't surprised to read that Dick Purtan's face will soon be on my TV set. Just the other morning, when the light went on, I saw J.P. McCarthy's face in my refrigerator. I was surprised to see J.P. on my milk carton, but probably not as surprised as the guy standing in the unemployment line behind Elsie the Cow.

a convex shape, though the wall did not collapse.

McNaughton said the flash fire resulting from the explosion started various spots in the building burning.

Firemen were at Rabi-deau's about three hours, got everything cleaned up back at the station, then had to return to check out some hot spots.

According to Patera, a few tools were ruined, but all that happened to the many cans of paint was the labels appeared scorched. The front end alignment machine, also located over the pit, appeared heavily damaged.

"We looked it over and she's a mess, we know that. We're lucky it didn't all go up in smoke," he commented.

The shop was insured.

FALSE ALARM

Firemen were called to Marshall Distributing on Doerr Road at 5:30 p.m. Thursday for what turned out to be a false alarm.

An alarm in the building is connected to the fire department and was apparently set off because of telephone repairmen working on lines in the area.

It's almost a sure thing. If you polled the Cass City Village Council, most, if not all, of the trustees would endorse President Reagan's aim to get government out of business.

It's another case of agreeing in principle but not in practice.

You could call it nit picking, I guess, complaining that the village rents the Cultural Center to private business for photography.

Admittedly it's small business. A flea on the back of a dog. Irritating, but not deadly.

CAT'S QUACK -- Coiene Cooklin, "Punkin Pie" and at least some of the cat's brood of kittens and ducklings.

Ducklings have new mom

Cat adopts ducks
at Cooklin home

Those amazing animals will never cease to amaze Coiene Cooklin, especially since her cat recently adopted three motherless ducklings.

According to Mrs. Cooklin, the three baby ducks were temporarily being kept in a box in the breezeway of her Dodge Road, Cass City, home.

Meanwhile, her cat, "Punkin Pie," kept a family of three kittens in the closet of her boys' room in another box.

One day she returned home to find all three ducklings missing from their box and Punkin Pie standing guiltily nearby. She naturally assumed the cat was the culprit.

She was right, but Punkin

Pie had not done what Mrs. Cooklin thought.

After she scolded her cat, she checked the kittens. To her surprise she found the three baby ducks sleeping right along with them.

Since the day almost two weeks ago that Punkin Pie adopted the ducklings, it has been almost impossible to keep them separated.

When the Cooklins put the ducks back in the breezeway so they can eat and drink, Punkin Pie retrieves them and carries them back to her box.

The George Cooklin family doesn't know how long Punkin Pie will keep up with her newfound motherly instincts, but is enjoying it for now.

It hasn't been formally announced yet but there will be a special meeting of the school board Monday night to decide if booster money will be accepted for designated extracurricular activities.

If fall programs are to be reinstated when funded by boosters, a decision will be needed very soon. At the annual physicals at the school only 17 gridders reported.

When is economy, not economy? Usually when it's handled by the government. Robert P. Nimmo, chief of the Veterans' Administration, came on strong to the bureau's 234,000 employees, imploring them to fight "fraud, waste and mismanagement."

It's a good thing that the government offers free postage or Nimmo could be charged with not practicing what he preaches.

These objectives and 2 other publicity blurbs came to the Chronicle from the VA in three press releases, all mailed separately and received the same day.

Some of the hardest workers for fund raising programs for extracurricular activities have no kids in school. You have to be impressed by that.

I'm a great one for the change in seasons. Winter can be fun and spring and fall delightful. Summer is always a delightful time of the year.

I've had persons who have lived in Hawaii who told me that the same beautiful weather day after day got monotonous.

I found myself wondering how long it would take me to tire of the weather we experienced Monday and Tuesday.

It would take awhile, wouldn't it?

Road board waits
on more cutbacks

The Tuscola County Road Commission board, meeting last Thursday following defeat Aug. 11 of the two millage proposals it had on the ballot, has decided to take no further budget cutting steps for now.

Budget cutting steps the Road Commission has already taken including putting its employees on a 32-hour work week, not replacing retirees, eliminating equipment purchases and not resurfacing any paved roads this year.

The half-mill for bridges lost, 1,546-1,011, and the half mill for maintenance of township roads and village streets lost, 1-502-1,051.

"I guess we're not going to do anything at this time," said Engineer Robert Wellington. "We're just going to wait and see how it goes."

Divorce changes life style for men and women in Cass City

By Sheila Gruber

"...to have and to hold from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish, till death us do part..."

Sacred vows, taken sincerely and meant to last a lifetime. Yet more and more couples seem to have substituted the word "divorce" for "death."

Nationally, one of every three marriages now ends in divorce.

In Tuscola county, 520 marriage licenses were granted in 1980 and 200 divorces. In 1970, the rate was notably lower with 466 marriages and 123 divorces.

The rising rate of divorce in recent years has brought a change in attitude. What was "taboo" only 20 years ago has become accepted and in some circles, even fashionable.

But in Cass City at least some of the old stigma associated with being divorced remains, eight local "divorcees" agree.

"Small towns are cliquy, couple towns, as they should be," John Jamison said, admitting divorced people often find it difficult. Jamison, a Cass City professional, was divorced almost five years ago after over 10 years of marriage. (All names used in this story are fictitious.)

When someone goes through a divorce, changing his or her lifestyle, people think it's so negative, he said, when really it can be the best thing to happen.

Being divorced in Cass City is a "stigma, a failure because of the way we're raised," said Cathy Gillum, who was married for nine years before deciding she couldn't continue an "unhappy marriage" any longer.

"All our lives we are taught how to handle certain rituals, but we're never taught to accept divorce or how to react. You kind of have to feel your way through it," she explained.

Sue Gleason, also married for almost a decade before her divorce, said, "The tag 'divorced' is always there. Just because you're divorced doesn't mean you're not human. People 'treat you differently in a small town.'"

WOMEN ARE LABELED more than men, according to Don Milford, who has been divorced for four years. "It's not right, but people have always thought a woman's place is not in the bar," Milford and the other men admit they spent quite a bit of time drinking when their divorce proceedings began.

"Half the town thinks ALL divorced women are 'hot to trot'," Anne Jacobs said. A life-time resident of Cass City, Mrs. Jacobs was divorced several years ago and has since re-married.

She remembers going back to work to support her children and how "miserable" the men at work made her life. "Certain men think, you've been married, you're real vulnerable and you have to have a man. The 'if you're nice to me, I'll be nice to you' attitude."

The women noticed they were treated differently by married friends and acquaintances after they were divorced.

"When you're divorced, married men want to get to know you," said Ms. Gleason, adding their wives eye her more suspiciously. "I'm very careful about everything, so people won't think I'm after him (the married man)."

Old friends who were close to Ms. Gleason and her ex-husband appeared to avoid her after the divorce and she found herself afraid to visit her neighbor unless she was sure the neighbor's wife was there.

"You really find out who your friends are when you go through a divorce," Mrs. Jacobs said, admitting only one couple in her and her ex-husband's circle of friends stood by her.

THE MEN NOTICED A change too.

"You start being excluded from 'couples' things and slowly get left out by the people you were closest to. Eventually you end up moving into a different spectrum of single friends," Jamison said, claiming in many ways he misses married life.

Certain people "shunned" Ken Clayton after his divorce, but "I'm still in tune with a lot of married people," he said.

For some, the degree they felt labeled or stereotyped was dependent on whether or not they were parents and who had custody of the children.

Children seem to be the factor influencing the divorcee's financial situation. Those with children, both men and women, felt the crunch and worked extra jobs. Those without children said they had few financial problems.

"In Cass City, people watch divorced women more than men, especially if they have children. Men can go out, golf, do what they want, while a divorced woman is an incompetent mother if she goes out," Ms. Gillum said.

Steve Manning was married for a year before he was divorced in 1975 and had no children. "Kids are a big responsibility. There's no question about it. It's three, four, five hundred percent easier without kids," he said.

With children, you can't come and go as you please and people talk more, he said, adding, "I like the life I lead now."

Clayton said divorce is much simpler when no children are involved, but "if you were involved you should be responsible. A lot of men are bitter about child support, but they shouldn't be," the divorced father continued.

BALANCING A SINGLE life with parenthood is a big problem for many divorced persons.

When you're divorced, married men want to get to know you . . . you find out who your friends are.

While Ms. Gillum realizes she needs a social life and would some day like to re-marry, her children are the most important part of her life. "My kids are my prime concern. Someone I date has to understand that and accept the fact that I don't have time to put into a full-time relationship."

One of more and more men taking care of their children, Jamison said, "Kids don't want to see the single life. If I go out, they feel like I don't want to be with them or something."

According to Jamison, some divorced people become better parents after the separation. They spend more time with their kids and become more sensitive to their feelings, he said, adding, "I know I did."

Debbie Simpson, a mother of four who has been divorced for a couple of years and works full time, thinks her relationship with her children has improved since the divorce. "I know most people say it's harder with kids, but if I didn't have kids it would have been harder. They occupied my time, gave me something to live for," she said, explaining "I made up my mind I was starting a new life for my children and myself."

Mrs. Jacobs, who had two children at the time of her divorce, thinks she's a better mother since the divorce because she's happy.

HOW HAVE THE 14 children of these divorced parents fared?

That is a question dependent on hundreds of things, but according to the parents, the younger children seem to adjust more quickly and easily.

"It's been four years and my oldest still hasn't fully adjusted," Ms. Gleason said.

Divorce is hard on the kids first, and then the couple, said Jamison, describing most children with divorced parents as mature for their age. "They tend to mature faster because the break-up brings life's problems to them sooner."

In several instances the parents said their children were still bitter towards them or the other parent, or were being used by one parent to get back at another.

"It tears the kids apart sometimes when they go visit their father because all he does is put me down to them," Ms. Gleason said, admitting she and her ex-husband have a very strained relationship.

Other divorced couples who are able to talk to each other and continue with an amicable relationship seem to ease the way for their children's adjustment.

"My kids don't see him (their father) at all and don't care to. I don't care whether I see him or not," Mrs. Jacobs said, explaining her second husband is hoping to adopt the children as soon as he can.

"IT'S A VERY BIG DECISION, getting divorced," she continued, recalling how bad things were at first. "Sometimes I'd think if I'd just die, it would be much easier," Mrs. Jacobs said, explaining the first year or two, when the children were small, life was financially difficult, as well as lonely.

All seemed to agree the first few years were the worst, with their feelings going in stages that included bitterness, anger, hurt, fear, sadness, jealousy, guilt, confusion, distrust, rejection, insecurity and finally, acceptance.

Many of those feelings are buried forever. Some surface now and then and others still appear regularly.

"Time heals a lot. What I thought a year, two years after, I don't think now," Clayton said, recalling he spent a lot of time in bars at first, talking to people in the same situation.

"It's a learning experience. At first you tell yourself, 'he ruined my life,' so you sit home, stare at four walls and feel sorry for yourself. I didn't even want to go downtown, to show my face. But then you say to yourself, 'no one is going to ruin my life,' and you start over," Ms. Simpson recalls, claiming she still cannot trust a man. "I could meet the nicest guy in the world and I wouldn't trust him."

After a few years of professional counseling, Ms. Gleason is "pretty much over" her hostility towards men. "At first I hated my own father. I wanted no part of him because he was a man."

Don Milford still wonders sometimes exactly what happened to his marriage. He still harbors some bitterness towards the third party involved, but "every situation is different and you can't tell somebody that's going through a divorce what to do. You can listen and tell them what you went through, what to expect."

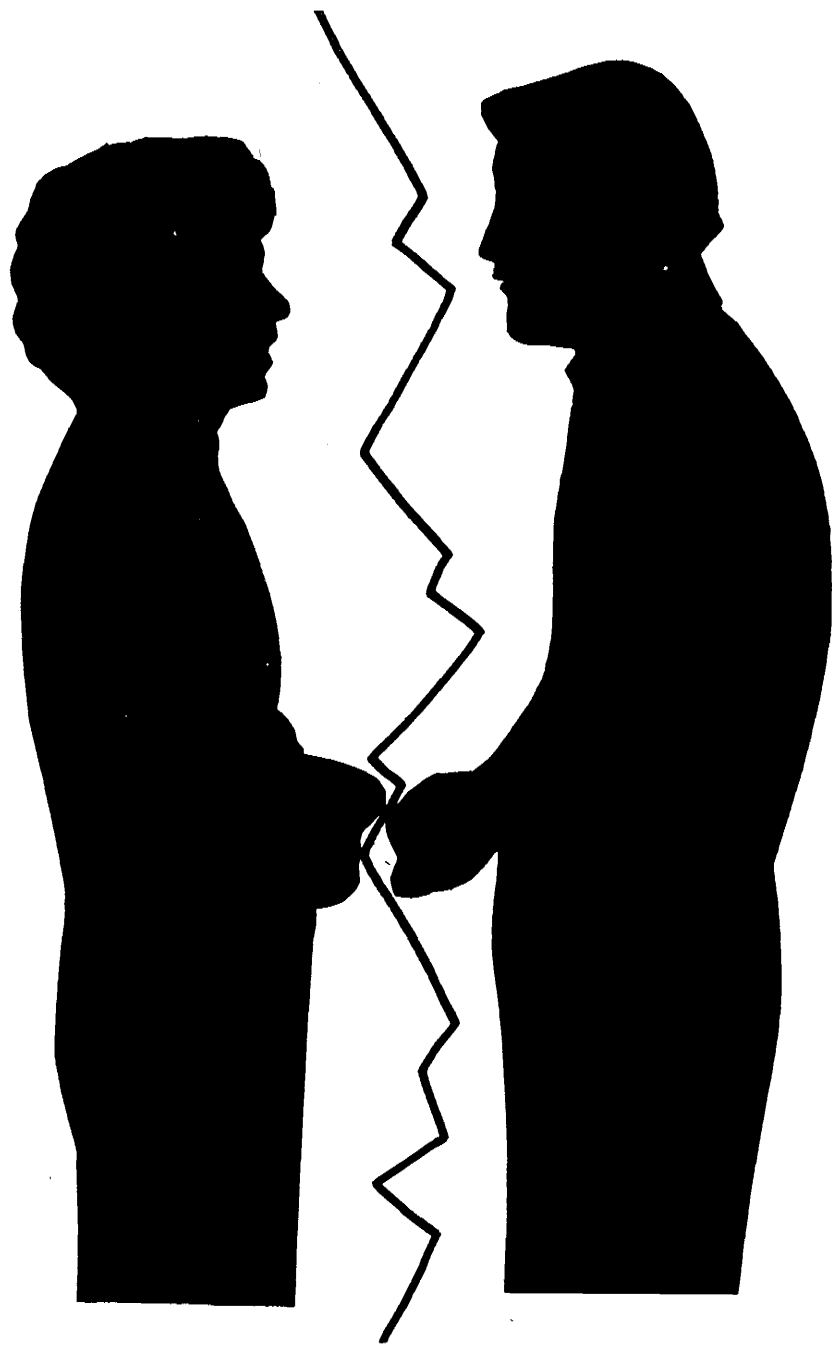

The secret to adjusting to the new lifestyle for most of those interviewed was having a friend they could confide in.

"The most important thing was having a friend to talk to. You have to have someone to lean on or you hold too much inside, there's so many pent-up emotions involved," Ms. Gillum said. Being single after a divorce is not like being a widow or widower, several explained. When you're divorced, the memories are still walking around, living in your former spouse, Mrs. Jacobs said.

"It's not like dying. This way, somebody is saying they don't want you. If there is a rate of hurt, rejection is on top, it's got to be the worst," Jamison said.

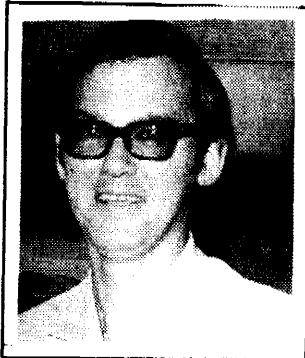

Changes in yourself are pretty noticeable after a divorce, they agreed, especially being able to define your weaknesses, becoming more independent and looking at life on a more day-to-day basis.

"When you think of divorce, you think of something ending and then you remind yourself there's good in it because it's also a beginning," Ms. Simpson said.

Super sleepers

By Mike Eliasohn

The worst part about watching the latest Burt Reynolds flick, "The Cannonball Run," Saturday evening was the clowns sitting behind me.

"That's a Ferrari," one of them said during the opening sequence. It was a Lamborghini Countach. At least both are Italian.

"That's a Jaguar," one of them said when Roger Moore drove up in his car. It was an Aston Martin. (At least they're both English.)

I'm sure if there had been a Morgan in there, the car experts behind me would have proclaimed it to be an MG. (Both are English.)

And if there had been a 1931 Chevrolet, one of them would have said, "It's a Model A Ford." (Both American.)

There really is a Cannonball Run, or maybe the correct term should be "was." There has been, I think, three so far, held every few years. What it is is an illegal road race from coast to coast.

Whoever covers the 3,000 or so miles the fastest wins. Other than getting their names published in a few places, especially car magazines, I'm not sure that the winners win anything.

What may be the most difficult part of the race is making it from coast to coast without getting a speeding ticket.

The organizer of the Cannonball Run is Brock Yates, who wrote the movie and appeared in it as the organizer. Last thing I read about him said he hadn't decided about holding another one.

The movie, of course, was deliberately ludicrous. After 3,000 miles, the competitors aren't all going to arrive at the finish together, as they did in the film.

There really was an ambulance entered one year — fitted with a monster V-8 as I recall. It broke on the way, however, and finished on the back of a flat bed truck.

Some madmen from Special Interest Autos magazine a few years ago entered a mid-1930s Ford panel truck one year. I don't remember if they finished.

Lamborghini Countaches that will go 200 miles an hour are nice and I suppose one of those Dodge Chargers or whatever they were called with the shovel nose, and three-foot high horizontal tail fin and big hemi engine, built around 1970, wouldn't be bad for racing coast to coast.

But if breaking the law by going fast is your thing, I think it's nicer to do it in something that doesn't look capable of doing the speed that you're doing.

An additional advantage is you are less likely to be stopped by the police.

Any idiot who drives fast in a Pontiac Firebird — a conspicuous car if there ever was one — deserves the same fate as hippies who drive beat-up old vans. (They get stopped for a different kind of speeding.)

Back in my Gremlin driving days, I always thought it would be nice to have one of the Gremlins modified for International Motor Sports Association road races, which they often won. They weren't the best handling cars on the track, but they could outpace anything.

British Leyland used to make a super sleeper called the Mini Cooper, 10 feet long with front wheel drive and 10-inch wheels that would do 90 miles per hour and out-corner almost anything else on wheels.

To be honest, though I have a fascination with exotic cars, I don't think much of any vehicle being driven at high speed on the highway.

Too many drivers, usually young ones, think they know how to drive fast. Then something goes wrong and they find they don't know how. The result is too often tragedy. If you want to go fast, do it on a race track.

For the $100,000 you can sink into a Lamborghini Countach, you can go see "Cannonball Run" 40,000 times.

Funeral services were held Aug. 11 at the Barter Funeral Home and burial was at Ithaca.

Stevie Wonder is better known for his accomplishments at Motown Records in Detroit, but the blind musical genius was born in Saginaw in 1950 and spent the first few months of his life there.

Duncans probably hiding in Jamaica

David and Florence Duncan may be in Jamaica, or they may not.

They are not where various law enforcement agencies, including those in Sanilac county, want them to be.

The former operators of the Thunder Road Speedway, east of Cass City, haven't been seen by those who would like them in custody since January.

According to Detective Sgt. Donald Trowhill of the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department, the last he knew, the couple was in Jamaica, but that was a few months ago.

Duncan faces a total of 18 counts of possession of stolen property, misrepresenting identity of a mechanical device (altering vehicle registration numbers), and embezzlement of mortgaged property (sale or attempted sale of property without permission of the party holding the mortgage).

All are in connection with a stolen truck parts operation conducted at the speedway, which ended with execution of the first of three search warrants there March 19, 1980. More than $150,000 in trucks, parts and equipment were seized in the first raid.

Because of the extensive investigation required to determine true serial numbers of stolen items, arrest warrants weren't issued until early May of that year. Shortly before then, the Duncans fled.

Mrs. Duncan isn't charged in connection with the stolen truck parts operation, but faces two counts of welfare fraud and one of disposal of mortgaged property, in connection with a financed pickup truck, which was driven out of state without payments being continued.

Mrs. Duncan also defrauded on her payment for purchase of Thunder Road from Tom Kostanko of Cass

City, the original owner, who regained custody of the track round the first of this year. He now has it for sale. The track is closed, except for an occasional motorcycle race, including one Saturday partially promoted by the Peck High School football team. (Kostanko rents the track out.)

The Duncans were discovered in Kentucky in August or September of last year and were arrested. They requested a hearing on extradition back to Michigan and were freed on bond. Before extradition warrants were issued by Kentucky Jan. 15, they had fled again.

Prior to that, on Jan. 1, Mrs. Duncan came to Detroit to take care of a real estate matter. Before she could get away, she was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

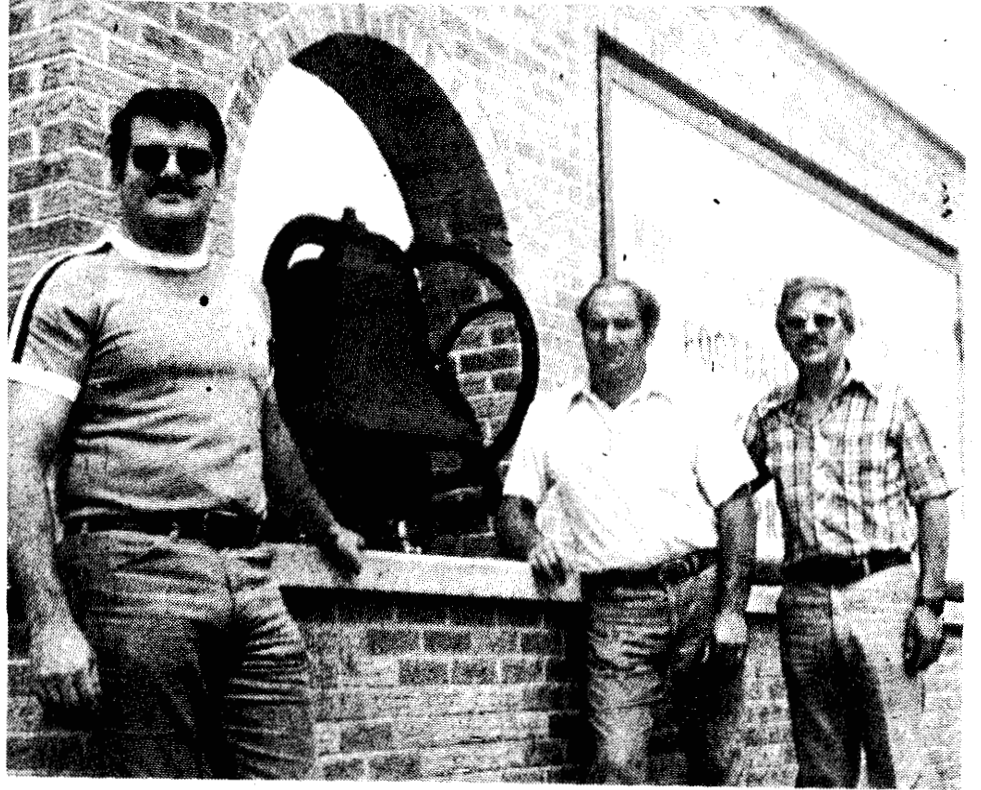

She was arraigned the next day before Sanilac District Judge Richard Riordan, who had to set bond in such cases. He set it at $15,000 and Mrs. Duncan posted 10 percent of that with a bonding company. She never returned for her scheduled Jan. 20 arraignment.

The Duncans next appeared in the Caribbean island nation of Jamaica. According to Trowhill, his department, Kentucky authorities, the FBI, U.S. attorney general's office, and bonding companies in Michigan and Kentucky have all been involved in the extradition effort. Representatives of the two bonding companies have even been in Jamaica.

Trowhill isn't sure of the reason, but extradition efforts have been unsuccessful. He hasn't heard anything new in two or three months.

It all may be for naught, anyway. The detective said he has been told by Mrs. Duncan's son, who lives in western Michigan, that if things get hot in Jamaica, the couple plans to go to South America.

Since the case is still pending, Trowhill wasn't at liberty to say all he knows about the Duncans, such as where they get their money from, but humorously suggested there is enough to write a book.

SCHOOL BELL -- The new announcement board in front of Kingston High School features the bell from the Kingston school built in 1902. The Kingston Booster Club raised $5,200 to pay for it. Start saving now for college degree Saving for your children's college education should begin at birth. When the time for college comes, your child may qualify for scholarships and financial aid, however, there will probably be a portion of the college expense that you will provide.

Even by saving $50 a month, at 5 1/4 percent when the child is eight, you will have $8,000 when the child is 18. However, if you wait until he's 13, you'll have to save $145 a month to reach the same goal. It is best to start your planning based on today's cost for college and increase the amount along with the annual rate of inflation.

A savings plan for a long-term goal like a college education should involve high-yield earnings and tax sheltering to get the maximum performance from your money. Money placed in a bank account should be put into term accounts, such as certificates of deposit, which pay the highest possible interest rates.

A common savings method is to shift your income to your child, who has most likely a lower tax bracket. One of these "shifts" is the interest-free loan, which under current judicial rules, has no tax consequences for the parent. Instead of buying a certificate of deposit, you lend the money to your child so the interest is his income not yours. If your child has no other income, it is likely he will not have to pay any tax on the interest.

Giving your child appreciating stock which could be sold to pay for college, is another idea. His tax on any capital gain would be less than yours. In addition, it is best to see about possible gift tax liability in any savings program that shifts tax from you to your child.

Another method is the custodian or trust accounts which earn interest and provide a tax benefit to you. If such an account is opened in your child's name, he will pay the tax on the interest or dividends at a lower rate than you and the child will control the money when he reaches the age of majority.

The Clifford (or short-term) Trust is a popular planning tool. It calls for putting cash or income-producing property in a trust and making your child the beneficiary. If the trust is set up to last 10 years and a day, the income is taxed either to the child or to the trust for a lower tax. However, before setting up a trust, it is best to know the dollar impact, the state and local tax effect and the legal consequences.

If time is short, there are other ways to get money for college including refinancing your mortgage, borrowing on your life insurance or pledging your savings account passbook for a loan. Any loan with an interest rate lower than the rate of inflation is good leverage since you repay with cheaper dollars.

GOOD TIME MUSIC -- Dee Dee and Russ Tibbits of Caro entertained members of the Cass City chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons last Thursday with a mixture of folk and gospel tunes. Mrs. Tibbits played various antique instruments, including the ukelin shown here. The Tibbits also form half of a gospel group, "The Living Truth".

Traxler to be in Caro Sept. 3

U.S. Rep. Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, will conduct office hours in Tuscola county Thursday, Sept. 3.

He will be in the Vassar City Hall from 10 a.m.-noon and in the courtroom in the courthouse annex on Grant Street in Caro from 2-4 p.m.

Persons are invited who feel the congressman can assist them with problems they are having with agencies of the federal government.

New role structure approved

A lifeline rate structure, providing rates 15 percent lower than average prices for a basic block of electric usage, has been approved for use by Detroit Edison and Consumers Power.

The rate structure was required by a 1980 state law which required a block of electric usage sufficient to meet basic household needs to be priced low enough to be affordable by most customers.

Because the price increases for usage beyond that basic block (360 kilowatt hours for a one or two member family and 510 kilowatt hours for larger families), the rate structure is expected to help induce conservation.

Edna Ferber, who won the 1925 Pulitzer Prize for "So Big," was born in Kalamazoo.

Plugging gap around damper saves energy

It is not unusual to find a gap of an inch or wider in a fireplace whose damper is closed. This can create a major air leak when the fireplace is not in use, because the chimney itself encourages a strong flow of air.

One way to stop the leak is to stuff the gap with insulation, or, if it is too large to insulate, to cover it with a board. The stuffing or covering obviously must be removed before the fireplace is used. In a cold climate, you can plug the damper and save $45 a year with electric resistance heat, $20 with gas heat, and $30 with oil heat, depending on where you set the thermostat and the size of the gap.

Area prepares for opening of schools

The principal of the school on Rescue Road, southwest of Bad Axe, Jay Parker, also doesn't feel the two schools are in competition. "We're still drawing people from down past their (Deford Christian) area." He said students come from as far as 25-30 miles away.

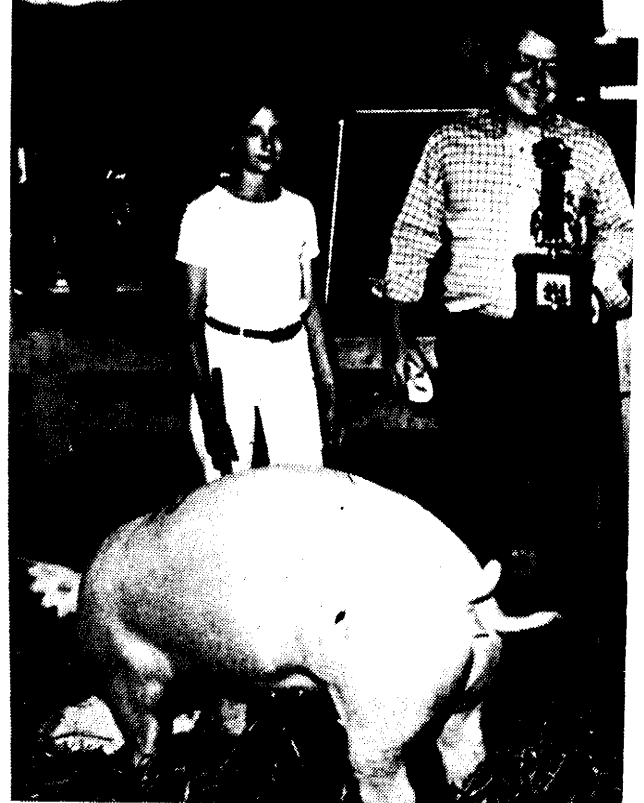

Unlike last year, when Thumb Christian provided some transportation in its vans, parents will be responsible for getting their students to school this year.

Enrollment as of Friday was about 40, the same as last year, in grades K-10. The school has capacity for 60, so is still accepting students. The school employs three teachers.

Construction of the $1.5 million sanctuary-school-gymnasium building, which began more than 14 months ago is still not complete and won't be done before sometime during the second semester at the earliest. Even if the money were available, Parker said, it couldn't be completed much sooner than that.

Until the building is ready, classes will be held in the present Faith Gospel Tabernacle, across the road. The school got in hot water for a while last year about not being in compliance with building or fire codes, but modifications have been made and the school is now in compliance, Parker said. Tuition is $90 per month.

The principal doesn't feel the new school will be in competition with the Thumb Christian Academy, which begins its second year Aug. 31. "We're not going to compete for the same group of kids."

Valentin Montelongo, 21, of 7851 Huron Line Road, Gageton, sought his own treatment for injuries suffered in a 2:30 a.m. accident Monday.

Caro state police reported he was eastbound on Dickerson Road and failed to stop where it ends at Hurds Corner Road. His car crossed the intersection, hit a road sign and went through a fence before coming to rest in a field.

Montelongo was ticketed on charges of violation of the basic speed law and no operator's license.

Sentence 3 on criminal charges

Three persons pleaded guilty and three were sentenced Monday when they appeared in Tuscola County Circuit Court before Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

James B. Nash, 26, of St. Petersburg, Fla., was sentenced to 1-4 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson for larceny in a building. He was credited with 74 days served and drug abuse counseling was recommended.

He pleaded guilty to the charge July 6, in connection with a larceny from a store June 7 in Gifford township.

Gene R. Dembowske, 35, of W. Ackerman Road, Unionville, was placed on five years' probation for criminal sexual conduct (2nd degree).

He was also sentenced to six months in the county jail, with credit given for two days served, and 60 days suspended. Work release privileges were granted. He was fined $200 and assessed $400 costs.

He pleaded guilty to the charge June 4, which involved a then under 13-year-old girl Dec. 5, 1976, in Columbia township.

Probation was continued for two years for Daniel V. Brigham, 21, of Unionville Road, Bay Port, who was found guilty July 24 of having violated probation by having possessed or consumed alcoholic beverages July 6. He was also sentenced to 100 days in the county jail and assessed $200 court costs.

Brigham was placed on 36 months' probation in December, 1980, for larceny in a building.

Terry A. Aymer, 20, of 822 Richard Street, Vassar, pleaded guilty to delivery of marijuana, to selling the narcotic to an undercover police officer March 30 in Vassar.

His plea was accepted. Bond was continued and a sentencing date will be set.

Kevin B. Aymer, 19, of 6421 Fourth Street, Tuscola, pleaded guilty to delivery of marijuana March 10 in Vassar. His plea was accepted and a sentencing date will be set. Bond was continued.

John D. Hecht, 20, of 346 S. Reese Road, Reese, pleaded guilty to attempted delivery of marijuana Nov. 13 in Reese. His plea was accepted and a sentencing date will be set. Bond was continued.

Robert F. Weber, 18, of St. Clair Shores, stood mute to charges of breaking and entering and larceny in a building.

The charges are in connection with a Jan. 28 break-in of the Cass City Gun Club on Englehart Road, in which $72 worth of returnable beer cans were stolen.

DISTRICT COURT

Earl L. Marke, 54, of 4394 Seeger Street, Cass City, was sentenced Monday by Judge Richard F. Kern to 14 days in the county jail for driving under the influence of intoxicants (first offense). The sentence may be served at the Huron Memorial Hospital detoxification center in Bad Axe.

He was also placed on probation, fined $118, assessed $182 court costs and his license was suspended for nine months except for driving to and from alcoholism education classes.

All-star Glidden: Thumb can compete with state's best

Jim Glidden never got his hands on the ball, but the game he played in will rank as one of his most memorable ones.

The May graduate of Owendale-Gagetown High School played on the East team Aug. 8 in the first annual Michigan High School Football Coaches Association all-star game.

His team won the game 6-3 in a fluke play with only 1:13 remaining. The East had the ball on its own 21-yard line with third down and a yard to go. Quarterback Steve Coulter from Sterling Heights Stevenson pitched the ball to tailback Steve Jones of Detroit Central.

Jones started sweeping to the right, but stopped and threw the ball back to Coulter. The quarterback made a one-handed catch and heaved the ball to flanker Todd Stoner, who caught it on the West 39 and danced his way into the end zone. The play covered 79 yards.

Coulter, from Bedford High School near the Ohio-Michigan state line, was the smallest player in the game at 5-9 and 160 pounds.

Glidden, who isn't much bigger at 6-1 and 170 pounds, had a few passes aimed at him, but all were over his head. Despite not being able to carry the ball, he said, "I had fun, at least being in the game." He got to play in about three-fourths of it.

As indicated by the score, the contest was mainly a defensive one. The Class D all-stater said his team only completed about 3 of 18 pass attempts and toward the end of the game, passing was kept to a minimum because it started raining.

"Our coach gambled a lot. He wanted to punch it (the ball) in, but we'd get stopped."

GLIDDEN, HEADED for Ferris State College on a football scholarship, had some apprehension when he departed for East Lansing about playing with and against players from the big city schools.

Those apprehensions disappeared.

There was some disbelief when he told his teammates he came from a high school with only about 200 students, but there were no jokes about his coming from a "hick town."

On the playing field, he commented, "It wasn't as tough as I thought it would be."

Some players were big—including one 245-pound defensive lineman on the East team—but Glidden has been tackled by players almost as big in the North Central Thumb D League.

The only times he was tackled, of course, were in practice, since he never carried the ball in the game.

He did not feel that as a Class D player, he was outclassed. "You can feel that kids from this area can compete with those kids."

THE GAME WAS DIFFERENT than what he is used to. "It's a lot different caliber of ball. It was a wide open game."

The game was different in another way. It was Glidden's first on artificial turf. He liked it for running, but when tackled, it felt like being "tackled on cement." When it started raining, it got slippery.

With 36 players from 36 schools, it took a few days for the players to get used to playing with each other. Plays were deliberately kept simple. By game time, Glidden said, "you felt really close."

Glidden, named to the Associated Press, United Press International, Detroit News and Detroit Free Press 1980 all-state Class D teams as an end or wide receiver after the 1980 season, had high praise for the East team coach, Al Fracassa.

"He makes you feel a part of the team," he said of the Birmingham Brother Rice coach, who guided his team to the state Class A football title last fall.

THE FIRST 1½-HOUR practice sessions twice a day started July 30 but it wasn't all football.

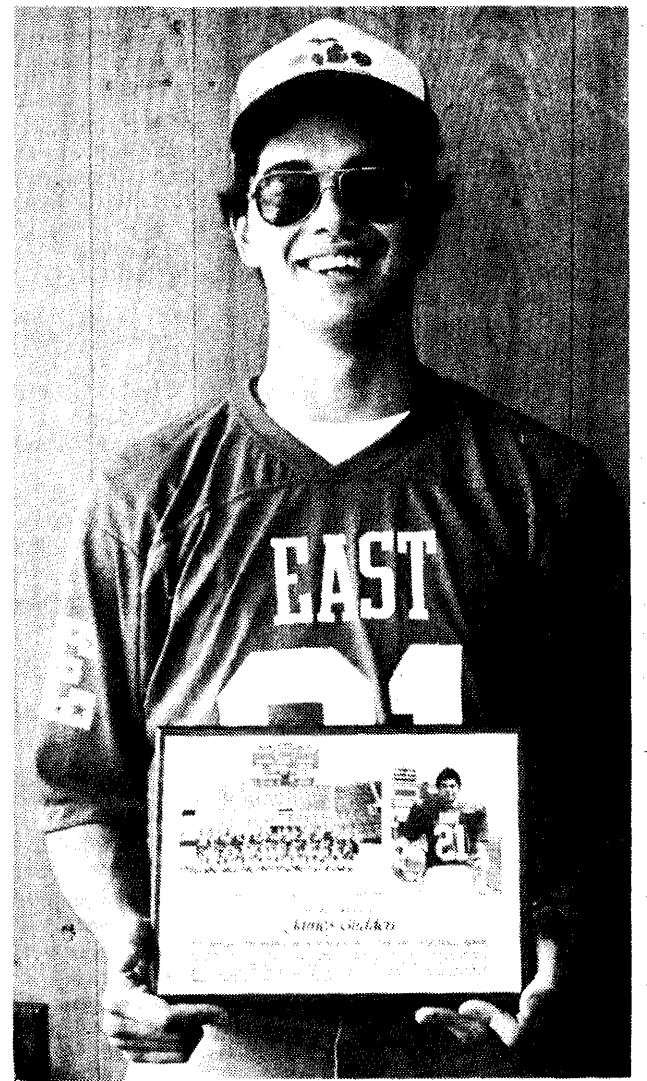

There were cookouts, sightseeing and a big banquet the night before the game.

The first ever contest attracted 11,345 fans. Proceeds will be used by the Football Coaches Association for its college scholarship fund. All the players in the game graduated this year from high school.

Among the spectators were Jim's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Glidden, his two brothers, Dick and Dan, and many others from Owen-Gage. The Gliddens live at 3602 Sixth Street, Owendale.

Glidden starts practice at Big Rapids Sept. 9. He has been designated as a wide receiver. He has not decided what he will major in at Ferris.

He feels his experience in the all-star game will help him in playing college football. "You know what your competition will be."

ALL-STAR -- Souvenirs Jim Glidden brought home from the all-star football game included his jersey, cap and plaque with the East team and his individual photo.

Osentoski cops San-Cass title

The Osentoski fast pitch softball team of Cass City captured the San-Cass league championship Monday night in Sandusky by defeating Wolverine State Bank of Sandusky, 12-2.

Osentoski had a 19-0 league record.

In the championship game, Ron Ouvry led the hitting attack with three home runs. Dean Severance also had a home run. Jerry Toner and Todd Alexander each had two hits. Tim Severance and Brian Helwig each hit a triple.

Brian Helwig got the win, giving up one hit and striking out four.

Osentoski will play in regional competition this week end in Flint at Whaley Stadium. The tournament schedule was not available at press time.

Solons eye new tax package

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

Legislative leaders are looking to the fall session to deal with the ever present issues of taxes and economic development as the summer session ended with few results in those areas.

Leaders, however, promised to continue working throughout the summer on business and other issues.

The first six months of the 81st session was marked by the development of the doomed Proposal A and a Detroit aid package. Leaders labelled the session a "difficult and frustrating one."

During the waning hours of the session, rumors filtered through the Capitol Building that a final push would be attempted to gain property tax relief prior to the summer recess.

House and Senate Republican and Democratic caucuses all had plans they thought were what Michigan citizens wanted and demanded.

A possible struggle in the House over the property tax plan did not develop as Democrats decided to appoint a special task force to work during the summer to recommend a property tax proposal for fall.

House Speaker Bobby Crim called the session extremely frustrating and predicted the fall session could be difficult as well.

House Republican Leader William Bryant said despite the emphasis on property taxes, the legislative leaders must not forget an earlier commitment to spend the summer developing ideas to improve the state's business climate.

Gov. William G. Milliken said he welcomes the legislative initiatives on taxes, without stating an endorsement of any of the tax packages.

He said a tax cut proposal "is an appropriate issue for the fall session. The most important issue is an economic growth package."

Milliken said he would have more to say on economic growth proposals as the legislature returns for the fall session.

Goodall reports theft of tools

The theft of more than $800 in tools was reported to Caro state police Saturday morning by Wilburt Goodall of 7751 Reed Road, Cass City.

He reported the theft from his barn, still under construction, at 11:10 a.m. and said it had occurred some time since 9 the previous evening.

Taken were a Homelite chain saw, worth $100; electric circular saw, $40; tool box with tools, $300; two sets of wrenches, total of $200; four adjustable wrenches, $50; two pipe wrenches, $30; small tool box containing wrench sockets, $50; hand saw, $15; three channel lock type pliers, $35, and three pairs of regular pliers, $35.

Also, a section was cut from his garden hose and possibly five gallons of gasoline were siphoned from his pickup truck.

Ron Peters of 5515 Van Dyke Road, Cass City, reported to state police last Wednesday that several chains were stolen from underneath his portable sawmill.

The mill was parked at the Kappen Sawmill, 261 N. Kingston Road, Deford, and the chains were taken sometime since Aug. 1.

Stolen were three 20-foot long chains, two 16-footers and one 19 foot long, worth a total of $200, and four chain tighteners, $100.

The following was reported to Cass City police: Roy Shaft, of 4553 Leach Street reported Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 11, that the battery had been stolen from his van, parked at his residence. It was valued at $54.

Robert Ryland of 4242 Seeger Street said Friday his magnetic-mount citizens band radio antenna was removed from his pickup, parked beside his house, during the night. It was worth $30.

Lawrence Smith of 6359 Houghton Street reported Saturday his wife discovered two holes in the window on the east side of their house. They were made with a BB or pellet gun.

Arnold Erla of 4581 West Street reported Sunday morning that while his wife was driving home from the Charmont Saturday night, she discovered both rear tires were flat due to small cuts made in the sidewalls with a knife or other object. It was parked at the Charmont from 11-11:30. Monetary damage wasn't listed on the police report.

Theresa A. Murphy of 6372 Fourth Street, Cass City, reported Monday that she never received $70 in food stamps that had been mailed to her old address on Englehart Road, Deford.

Taking Stock

A Boynton Beach, Fla., man called some time back to ask:

"What about these 'retirement annuities'? Merrill Lynch has an ad that says if I put in $10,000 now, in 20 years I can draw out around $7,500 a year for the rest of my life."

We had seen the ad, too. It sounded attractive, but my computer says it is only moderately so. If you want to play the averages you may do considerably better yourself by toggling up your own retirement plan.

Merrill Lynch offers an insurance plan through the Capitol Life Insurance Co., an old-line company in the top 10 in the U.S. in assets. No quarrel with who is handling your money.

The Merrill Lynch examples are for a man — say it's you — now age 45, who puts in a lump sum, say $10,000, and lets it sit there for 20 years.

In the year 2001, you are 65. Merrill Lynch guarantees you will have $33,270 to your credit at that time.

You can leave that with Merrill Lynch (actually, Capitol Life) and you will get at least $2,748 a year the rest of your life. And if Merrill Lynch estimates turn out right, you could get as much as $7,464. But only the $2,748 is guaranteed.

To compare apples with apples, under your own plan where you want a monthly income the rest of your life, you have to assign yourself a life span. Say that the average expectancy for a man at age 65 to 13 years. So you'll take the amount in your account at age 65 and figure how much you can take out each year for 13 years with the fund earning interest meanwhile as it dwindles down.

Now to back up a little, to the man aged 45 who wants to put in a lump sum. He is going to try his own plan. He puts $10,000 in government bonds at 10 percent (Rates actually at this writing are around 14 percent: Merrill Lynch's plan is likewise up.) He reinvests the semi-annual interest at the same rate.

Assuming he can get 10 percent on the reinvested money, in 20 years his fund will be worth $70,400.

Merrill Lynch had guaranteed $33,270, and had a "projected" or estimated figure of $67,357, depending on what interest rates were for the reinvested income.

Let's say Merrill Lynch hits its top figure of $67,357 when you're 65. Assume you're going to live an average span of 13 or more years.

They'll pay you $7,464 a year for that time.

Your own plan, which had a "projected" figure (based on only 10 percent interest reinvestment rate) will bring you in $8,508 a year for 18 years.

Aha! say the boys at the brokerage house — or the insurance company — but we will pay you our figure of $7,464 for the rest of your life if you live past this 13-year span. (And that's their top figure the low estimate was half that.)

Aha! says I. But if this fellow dies at age 66, the plan is ended. His payoff is done. Under the do-it-yourself annuity his survivors get whatever is left in the fund if death comes any time during that 13 years.

The street runs two ways. Next: The tax-advantage argument.

9-digit zip code arrives

Zip Plus 4 has arrived — voluntarily.

The Plus 4 code is the new and controversial addition of four digits to all zip codes.

Notices were sent last week to all Cass City post office boxholders notifying them of their new nine digit zip codes. Businesses which have business reply permits — in which the business pays the return postage, such as for bills — also received a Plus 4 code. Use of the added four numbers is voluntary.

All households and businesses which do not have a post office box or reply permit will receive their new codes in 1982. The full program goes into effect in October, 1983.

Members of the public don't need to worry about changing to their new zip codes to continue receiving magazines and newspapers. The work will be done by the mass mailers and the Postal Service.

The Plus 4 codes are aimed at businesses, which account for 83 percent of all mail volume. "That doesn't mean I need a Zip Plus 4 to write to Aunt Jane," explained Cass City Postmaster Grant Glaspie.

Mail sent back to businesses, such as bill payments, make up another 11 percent of mail volume, leaving just 6 percent for personal correspondence.

The aim of the new program, he explained, is to keep down postal rates — or at least slow their increase (he expects the first class rate will be 20 cents by Christmas) — and to "meet the service requirements to the public."

Costs will be reduced by cutting the Postal Service payroll. The more work machines can do, the fewer people will be needed for handling the mail. Manpower will be reduced by not replacing all those who retire or resign, Glaspie said, not by layoffs.

THE PRESENT FIVE-digit code only gets the mail to the community or area in cities with more than one code. For Cass City's zip code, for instance, 48 stands for Michigan, 7 means the sorting facility in Saginaw and 26 means Cass City. Once the mail gets here, it must be sorted further by hand.

By adding the four digits, the mail will be sorted entirely by an optical character reader at the Saginaw sorting facility so that the only mail that has to be sorted in Cass City will be that which doesn't have an added four-number code.

The first five zip code digits will remain the same. Of the added four numbers, the first two numbers will indicate the designated route (inside town or out) and the last two will indicate the address.

Conceivably, Glaspie said, mail could come sorted from the Saginaw facility in the order that each mail carrier will deliver it.

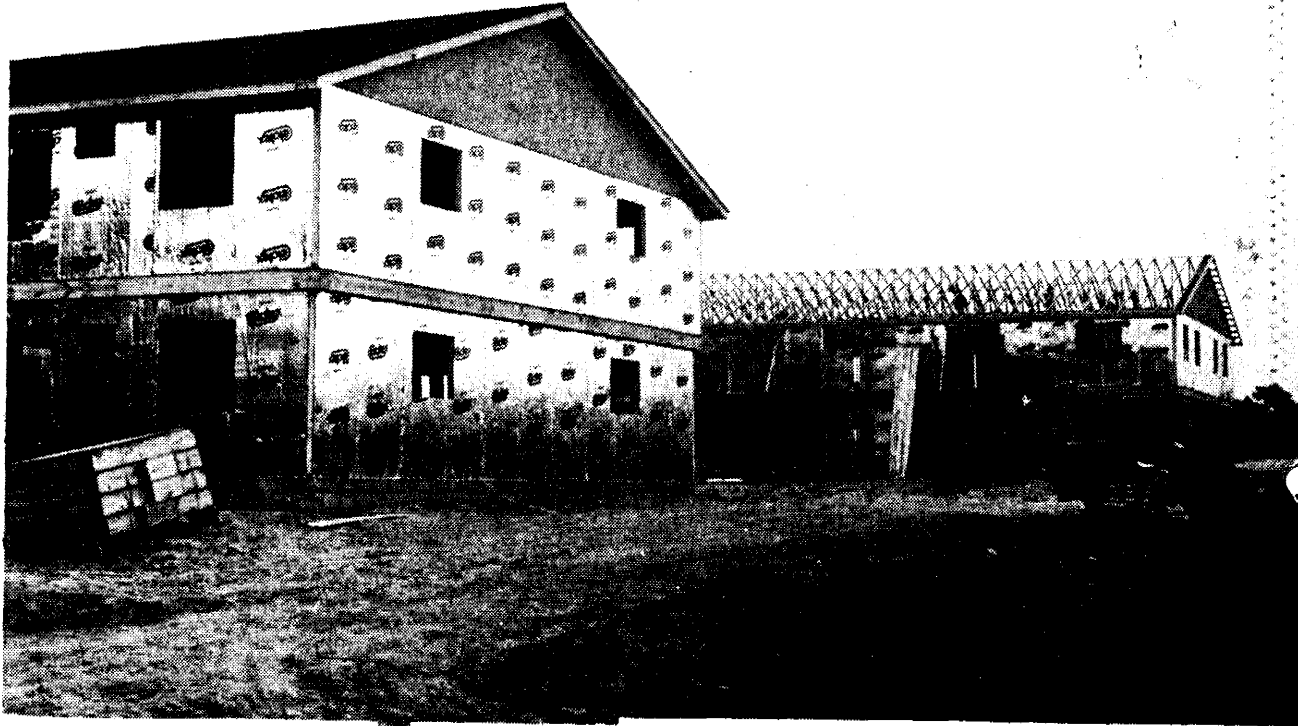

There is a possibility Cass City will get an optical character reader (OCR) of its own — cost $15,000 — which would mean the final sorting will be done here.

Ultimately, every mailing address in the country will have its own nine digit zip code.

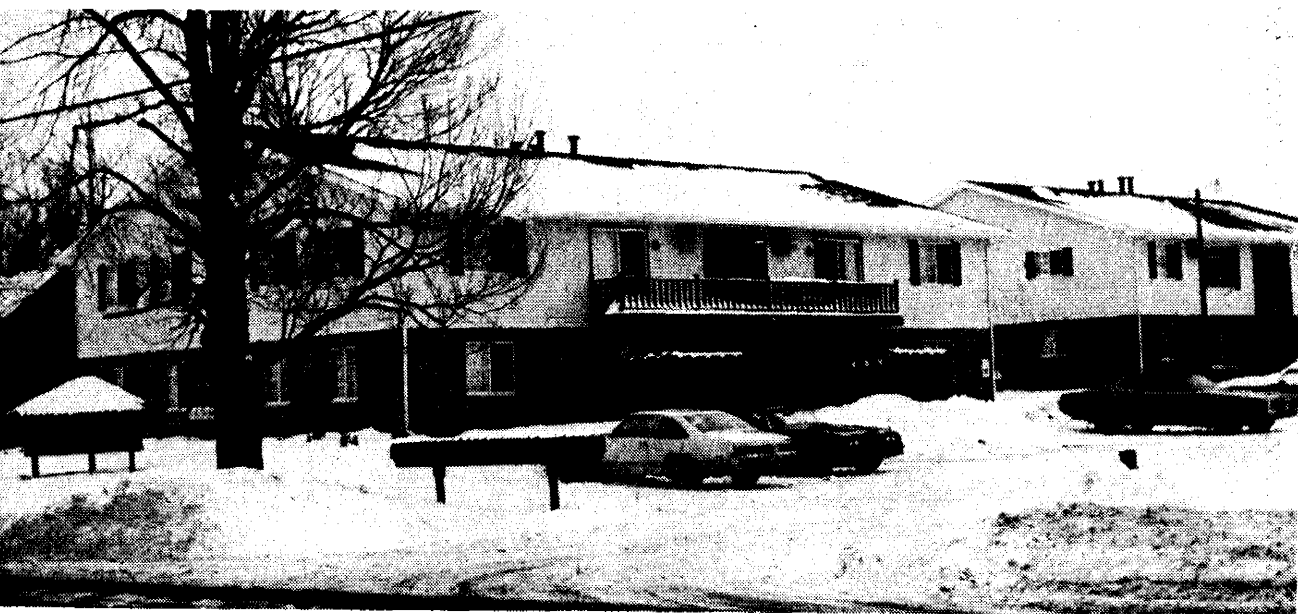

AS PART OF THE BUDGET bill signed by President Reagan last week, the program remains entirely voluntary until October, 1983. After that, assuming approval by the Postal Rate Commission, the Postal Service will be able to offer a half-cent per piece discount to those who mail at least 500 pieces at a time.

The money saved by use of the automated equipment is supposed to more than offset the cost of offering the discount.

Before the 1983 implementation date, the Postal Service will be purchasing the necessary equipment, educating businesses and the public and training employees.

NEW APARTMENTS — Construction of the Northwood Heights Apartments on Hospital Drive is well underway, with completion scheduled around Christmas. The front building has eight one-bedroom apartments; middle one, eight two-bedroom, and the one behind it, six townhouses. Contrary to what was reported earlier, rents will be subsidized by the federal government for those with low to moderate incomes.

THE APARTMENTS in Cass City will look like this when they are finished around Christmas time. These are The Orchard apartments in Millington, also constructed by Bavarian Builders.

Others lead in nuclear development

For a long time, the people of the U.S. were winners when it came to being the leaders in nuclear technology. In spite of the early U.S. lead in breeder development, however, France, the U.K.

and the U.S.S.R. have been operating Liquid Metal Fast Breeder Reactor (LMFBR) demonstration plants since the early 1970s—and we have not.

Aggressive LMFBR development and demonstration programs taking place in most foreign industrialized countries have confirmed the breeder's technical merits and constitute a strong argument for accelerating the U.S. LMFBR program. This could make us more like winners when it comes to winning our energy independence.

Prisons need more discipline

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

Inmate discipline, or the ability to demand it, was the most recurrent theme noted as the major cause of recent rioting at three Michigan prisons, according to a preliminary report issued by the chairman of a special joint legislative committee investigating the riots.

The disturbances at Jackson, Ionia and Marquette gained national attention in late June and resulted in more than $9 million in damage and other costs.

In presenting the report, Rep. Jeff Padden (D-Wyandotte), chairman of the joint committee and the standing House Committee on Corrections, said a final report would be issued prior to the opening of the fall legislative session. He added the final report would include specific recommendations for legislation to head off future disturbances.

The report cited several other factors, including the oft-mentioned unauthorized lockup by prison guards, the removal of the good-time provision from sentencing, the Department of Corrections' inadequate budget, subtle racial tensions and overcrowding at the institutions.

PADDEN SAID THERE was no effective vehicle for enforcing prison discipline. He noted interviews of both prisoners and employees pointed out that the elimination of good-time credit (removed with voter approval of Proposal B in the 1978 general election) took away the most effective management tool of the department — reduction of sentences for good and proper action during incarceration.

The report went on to say as a result of longer sentences and no good-time, a larger portion of the state's prison population is serving long, flat sentences.

It concluded that for persons in this category, there is no reason or incentive for them to adhere to institutional rules or refrain from assaultive predatory behavior.

PADDEN WAS VERY critical of the department's administration in their appearances before the legislative appropriations committees in gaining the necessary funding to properly run the institutions to protect the public as well as the prison employees and prisoners.

"It is not possible to underfund the prisons or the Department of Corrections without affecting the system," he declared.

He said the department's administration should have resisted in allowing the Department of Management and Budget to set the corrections budget figures. "There are times and situations which warrant breaking from the Milliken team in going for higher, necessary budget levels."

RESPONDING TO THE charges, department Director Perry M. Johnson declared the department had been "treated very fairly by both the executive office and the Legislature" given the need to be extremely conservative in financial matters.

Johnson added the department has had to absorb fewer budget cuts than have other state departments, given the situation at the state's correctional facilities.

The corrections director countered with his own charges that the Legislature did not fully fund his and executive office requests during the current fiscal year. He said the department budget request was $202 million, but the Legislature saw fit to appropriate only $190.2 million.

Johnson added the Legislature forced the reduction of the department's salary and wage accounts at the prisons by $1.1 million during the current fiscal year and forced the transfer of funds from that account to a retirement account as part of a forced $2 million budget lapse.

"We have always clearly articulated our budget needs to the Legislature and we have understood and accepted the reduced appropriations as the result of difficult economic times," he responded.

THE PRELIMINARY report further said that while it was not a riot triggering factor per se, overcrowding continues to pose serious problems for the department, guards and prisoners. It indicated that overcrowding removes any flexibility in dealing with prisoners "in a safe and humane" manner.

Padden concluded that the preliminary report attempted not to be an oversimplification of the issues. He said the committee was working toward an understanding before "plunging" ahead in making legislative recommendations.

He said the committee would be working for a cooperative effort by all parties involved for a mutually satisfactory resolution.

Child Safety seat law begins April 1

Gov. William Milliken has signed into law Bill 115 which will require the use of child restraints in motor vehicles beginning April 1, 1982.

The legislation will affect all youngsters from birth to age four with exceptions only for non-residents, children being nursed or those with special physical or medical problems.

Infants under the age of one year must be secured in a crashworthy child seat regardless of where they are seated in the vehicle. Those between the ages of one and four will be required to be in a child seat or be restrained by a seat belt if they are riding in the rear seat.

HEALTH TIPS Vomiting can be sign of serious illness

By Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

Ever get "sick to the stomach" and throw up? Sure. All of us have "tossed our cookies" at some time or other.

Likely the cause is a simple stomach upset that will soon pass. But sometimes vomiting is a sign of some more serious illness, says the American Medical Association's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care.

Vomiting is common with virus infections such as a cold or the flu, overeating, too much beverage alcohol and emotional upsets.

Vomiting may be present with more serious conditions, such as appendicitis, bowel obstruction, asthma, animal bites, allergic reactions to insect stings, black widow or brown recluse spider bites, marine life bites, scorpion stings, snake bite, withdrawal from drugs, heart attack, heat exhaustion, shock due to injury, diabetic coma, food poisoning and head injuries.

Any vomiting that is severe or lasts longer than a day or two needs medical attention.

Dehydration or chemical imbalance can occur. This is especially true in infants, the elderly or chronically ill persons.

Treat simple vomiting with replacement of lost fluids by frequent sipping of liquids such as carbonated beverages, tea, juice, bouillon. Avoid solid food for a day or two.

Vomiting is common in infants and children. In newborns and infants, spitting up food after eating is common and is not the same as vomiting. It is usually not serious, but be sure the infant does not choke.

If the vomitus shoots out of the infant's mouth with force, prompt medical attention is required. This could represent an obstructed intestine.

Prolonged vomiting or vomiting with diarrhea can lead to dehydration and needs prompt medical attention.

The Thumb Area Commission on Aging will be taking senior citizen identification-discount card photos Tuesday in its office in the Huron County Building in Bad Axe.

Hours will be 1-3 p.m. A small fee will be charged.

Boston may have made beans famous, but Michigan grows them! An estimated 744.8 million pounds of dry beans were harvested from 580,000 acres in 1980 to keep Michigan the Bean Capital of the World.

County crime dips in July

Crime took a dip in Tuscola county in July, at least in the number of incidents reported to the Sheriff's Department.

A total of 689 were reported, compared to 743 in June.

The greatest number, 202, involved traffic (accidents, reckless driving, etc.), followed by domestic problems, 66, larcenies, 64, vandalism, 54, and disorderly conduct, 47.

Deputies made 43 arrests during the month, including 17 for traffic-related offenses and seven for liquor violations.

They issued 249 traffic tickets, including 147 for speeding and 18 for defective equipment. There were 19 appearance tickets issued, of which 11 were for purchase, possession or transporting of liquor by minors.

Sheriff's patrol cars traveled 43,126 miles in July and consumed 3,444.1 gallons of gasoline (12.5 miles per gallon).

The county jail took in 131 inmates, of whom 15 were females, and released 136.

Cass City police made five arrests in July, three for traffic related offenses and one each for obstruction of justice and one for probation violation.

Caro state police made 15 arrests, including nine for traffic and two each for weapons offenses and assault.

Gagetown police arrested one person for disorderly conduct and Kingston police took one person into custody for a traffic offense.

The number of complaints and accidents respectively in area townships and villages were: Columbia township, 5 and 1; Elkhart, 25 and 3; Cass City, 81 and accidents not recorded by sheriff's department; Elkhart, 14 and 3; Elmwood, 7 and 1; Kingston township, 12 and 4; Kingston village, 5 and 1, and Novesta, 22 and 6.

Big increase seen in bean production

Michigan dry bean planted acreage is placed at 640,000 acres in 1981, an increase of 10 percent from a year ago, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. A survey conducted in mid-July by the agency after planting was completed, partially funded by the Michigan Dry Bean Commission, reaffirmed the June 29 preliminary estimate of 640,000 acres. Acreage expected for harvest this fall should total 630,000 acres, compared to 560,000 acres a year ago.

Total navy bean planted acreage is 430,000 acres, compared with 382,000 acres in 1980. Planted acreage for all other classes of dry beans except navies (colored) is pegged at 210,000 acres and compares with 198,000 acres last year.

Growers expect to harvest an average of 1,350 pounds per acre based on conditions as of Aug. 1. If realized, this will be a gain of 20 pounds from last year. Total production is expected to reach 8.5 million hundredweight (cwt.), a 14 percent increase from 1980 and the largest crop since 1963.

The national dry bean crop is forecast at 32.8 million cwt., 26 percent more than a year ago.

Most polled want property tax cut

A majority of those persons who responded to Sen. Alvin DeGrow's questionnaire favor cutting property assessments in half and making up for the lost revenue by cutting state and local government spending. Of those who sent in their responses, 51.5 percent favored reducing property assessments by 50 percent; 13.5 percent said 40 percent; 20 percent favored 30 percent, and 15 percent wanted some other amount.

DeGrow then asked how such reduced tax property revenue should be replaced. Reducing local government spending was favored by 82.5 percent and state spending by 90 percent.

Sixty-seven percent supported replacing lost property taxes by raising taxes at the state level and dedicating such revenue to local property tax reduction.

The senator asked constituents what they thought the state's spending priorities should be.

The greatest percentage favored keeping spending the same for university education (47.5 percent), local education (45.5), law enforcement (48.5), environmental cleanup (49), mental health (55), judicial system (46) and highway construction and maintenance (55 percent).

The greatest percentage favored less spending for social services and poverty programs (57.5 percent), mass transit (57.5 percent), and low cost housing (urban development) (75 percent).

There was no category where the greatest percentage favored more spending.

Other questions:

Should Michigan have a presidential primary? 72.5 percent said no.

Fifty-five percent said state income tax credits for financing of election campaigns for governor should be abolished. Seventy-three percent preferred making candidates match, dollar for dollar, any public campaign funds received.

Asked what ballot proposals they would like to see on the ballot in 1982, 75 percent wanted a vote on establishment of the death penalty, 75 percent on whether public service commission members (they approve utility rates) would be elected and 78 percent wanted to vote on limiting the number of years a legislator could serve. (Thirty-five percent want it limited to eight years and 25 percent, four years.)

As for limiting the number of months the legislature is in session to four or five months, 47.5 percent favored the idea and 52.5 percent didn't.

Eighty-five percent opposed a constitutional amendment to allow the governor to appoint judges, state board of education members and members of controlling boards of state universities.

There was 43.5 percent who felt oil drilling royalties and severance taxes should be earmarked for education and 20 percent who felt it should go into the general fund for spending among all departments.

July milk output up 2 percent

Michigan's dairy herds produced 436 million pounds of milk during July, up 2 percent from last year, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

Cow numbers, at 393,000 head were down 2,000 from a year ago. Milk per cow during July, at 1,110 pounds, was up nearly 3 percent from a year earlier.

Producers received an average of $13.60 per hundredweight (cwt.) for their milk during July, 90 cents above the July, 1980 price. The cost of replacement milk cows averaged $1,300, up $60 from last year. Slaughter cow prices, at $43.20 per cwt., were down 4 percent from a year ago.

U.S. July milk production totaled 11.3 billion pounds, up 3 percent from the previous year. The nation's 10.9 million milk cows averaged 1,039 pounds per cow for the month, 19 pounds above July, 1980. Cow numbers continue to run nearly 1 percent above a year ago.

Banvel® herbicide NOW between cropping for cleaner crops next season.

Banvel herbicide can now be applied after harvest to help control tough broadleaf weed problems before next cropping season. New label clearances allow you to put Banvel's control of tough annual and perennial broadleaf weeds to work for you against the toughest broadleaf weed problems: field bindweed, Canada thistle, blueweed and many more.

Apply Banvel as a broadcast or spot treatment to broadleaf weed problems after harvest but before a killing frost. Do not disturb treated areas for 7 days following herbicide application to give Banvel herbicide time to tackle problem weeds. A follow-up program of Banvel herbicide should be applied later in the season to control regrowth and newly germinated weed problems.

Banvel herbicide can also be tank mixed with 2,4-D and Roundup herbicide for between cropping control of troublesome grasses and additional broadleaf weeds. Follow label directions for application rates and crop rotation instructions.

Ask your agricultural chemical dealer about the Banvel herbicide between cropping program for your broadleaf weed problems. Banvel herbicide from Velsicol.

Banvel herbicide cleared for between cropping use only in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, Indiana, Michigan, North Dakota, Oregon and Utah.

Your Neighbor says

Both sides wrong in air controllers strike

Both sides have been irrational in the airline traffic controllers strike, which began Aug. 3, is the feeling of Marilyn Truemner.

"He was too quick at getting rid of the union," she said of President Reagan.

As for the members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, "They did break the law by striking."

"I think they have the right to fight for what they want, but they could have done it without striking," she continued.

Both sides, Mrs. Truemner feels, could have negotiated longer before the controllers walked off the job and the president ordered their firing.

The mother of two has never been up in an airplane, but even with the 12,000 controllers on strike, she feels the skies are still safe with the supervisors and military controllers in the airport towers. "I don't think I would be afraid to fly."

Mrs. Truemner, husband Dana, and children Gary, 5, and Laura, 1½, live on Huron Street, Cass City. She presently works at Provincial House but soon will be doing baby sitting in her home.

MEETING GOD AT EVERY TURN by Catherine Marshall (non-fiction). Twelve encounters with God provide the focal points for Catherine Marshall's extraordinary walk in faith. At each major step in her life - romance, marriage, widowhood, single parent, career, remarriage, and grandmother - Catherine finds the spiritual help she needs.

SURVIVE AND WIN IN THE INFLATIONARY 80's by Howard J. Ruff (non-fiction). Failure avoidance strategies for the dangerous decade ahead. A common sense approach to the confusion of economic problems in today's inflation-ridden society - from personal loans to food prices, from mortgage terms to credit cards.

TRADE WIND by M.M. Kaye (fiction). This story takes place in mid-19th century Zanzibar. Captain Frost is a renegade Englishman, tough, a rogue, at bottom honorable. He combines friendship for the island's effete but personable sultan with defiance of the British authorities, who want him for slave trading and other nefarious activities. Hero Hollis, fresh out of Boston, is bent on reforming the world, in particular Zanzibar, but finds herself reformed by reality, particularly in the shape of the dashing captain. Before finally converging, the destinies of this seemingly unlikely duo touch and touch again in the course of such disasters and excitements as a palace revolt and a devastating cholera epidemic.

Collector keeps old engines humming

Maurice Evans was born the year his father got his first tractor, in 1940.

The two events may not be related, but he has been long fascinated with engines.

He presently owns four antique tractors, the oldest dating from 1919, and about 30 antique gasoline engines, the oldest dating to 1905.

Evans (his first name is pronounced "Morris") lives at 5581 Hurds Corner Road, Gagetown.

Tractors and engines, as well as being a hobby, are also a living. He works as a mechanic for Janson Equipment Co. in Caro. In addition, he farms 260 acres of cash crops with help from his father, LeRoy, who lives nearby on Hoppe Road.

"I guess I've always had an interest, but I didn't know how to get started," he explained about his hobby. About 10 years ago, he asked a customer at work about antique engines. The man said he owned one and by the time Evans returned home that day, he was the new owner. The engine was a 1933 1½ horsepower John Deere.

The first tractor he bought was also a John Deere, a 1936 model purchased six years ago for his son, Maurice Jr., who is now age 6. "He really enjoys it," the father said of his son, who isn't quite old enough to drive it yet.

The rest of the family is wife Liz and daughters Sheryl, 15, and Gail, 14. Each of the daughters has rebuilt an old engine and the entire family likes to go to the old engine and tractor shows.

If one wanted to, and could go to the warm weather states in winter, it would be possible to go to one every week end of the year.

Evans and his family usually go to eight shows a year, including ones in Canada, Ohio and Indiana. He normally shows an old engine, it being too impractical to tow a tractor a long distance.

THIS WEEK END. However, is the annual show of the Thumb Area Old Engine and Tractor Association, and Evans will have lots of items on display.

The show runs Friday through Sunday at the Caro fairgrounds and should be bigger than ever because this is the first time it hasn't been the same week end as a show at Buckley, northwest of Cadillac (where he was last week end). Exhibitors are expected from as far away as the Upper Peninsula and southwest Michigan.

Included will be threshing and saw mill demonstrations, feed grinding, corn shelling and parades each day at 1 and 4 p.m.

At the show, Evans will have his 1919 Huber tractor, a gas engine-driven stone mill for grinding corn, a half dozen gas engines and a 1924 Ford Model T he purchased this summer on Grosse Isle, south of Detroit.

The car has never been restored, yet is in running condition. He plans a complete rebuilding, however, and also has a 1931 Ford Model A awaiting restoration.

Antique cars are something new for Evans. One reason he has gotten interested in them is that gas engines are getting more expensive as interest grows. Tractors also aren't too practical for going on family outings.

An engine that could be purchased 15-20 years ago for $20 now sells for $500 unrestored, he said.

EVANS PRESENTLY has four tractors, and isn't planning to buy any more.

The Huber was purchased five years ago in Linwood and was "rough, real rough." He found a 1920 model, which he used for parts, and now plans to sell.

The others are the John Deere and a 1923 Case with a sideways mounted engine.

Evans is still in the market for more engines and on occasion will sell one. He especially wants to find a New Holland engine from about 1905. The half-horsepower ones are worth $3,000 and up, with the bigger engines worth less.

The rarest engine he owns is a 1912 Appleton. "Of all the looking I've done, I've seen one more."

There are still engines to be found. "If you could drive through the countryside and see through buildings, you'd probably see scads of them, but that's impossible."

It's perhaps easier to find engines than parts. "If you need something, you make it." For that purpose, Evans has a lathe, milling machine and drill press, plus other tools in his crowded garage.

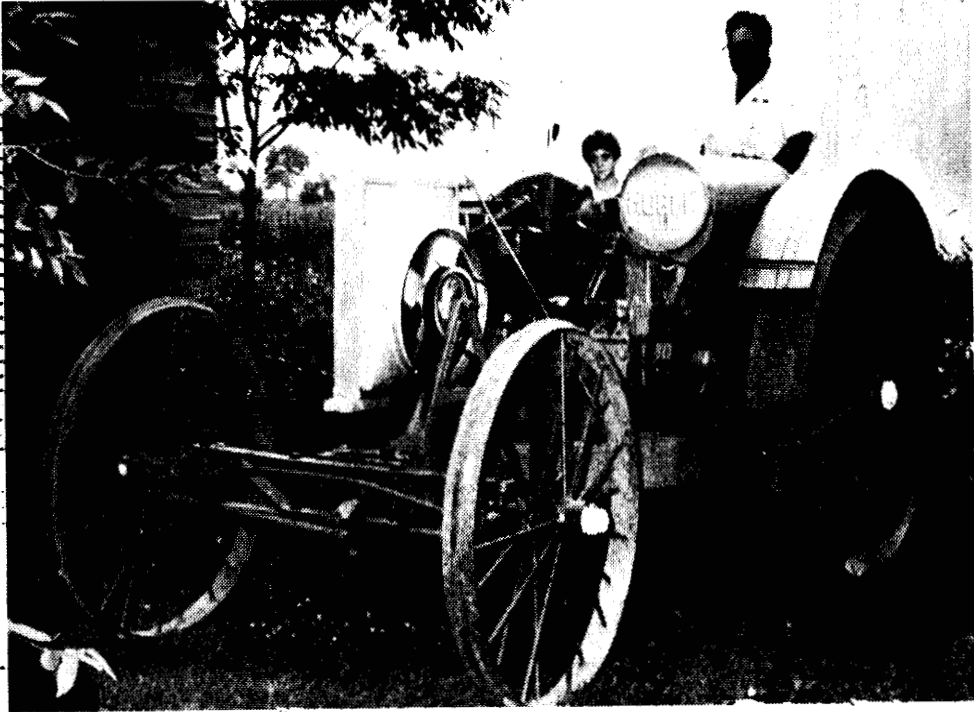

THE FIRST GASOLINE

tractors, incidentally, date to about 1895 and were used mainly for thrashing. Gasoline engines for pumping water and running equipment (grinding mills, cream separators, etc.) also came in existence about that time.

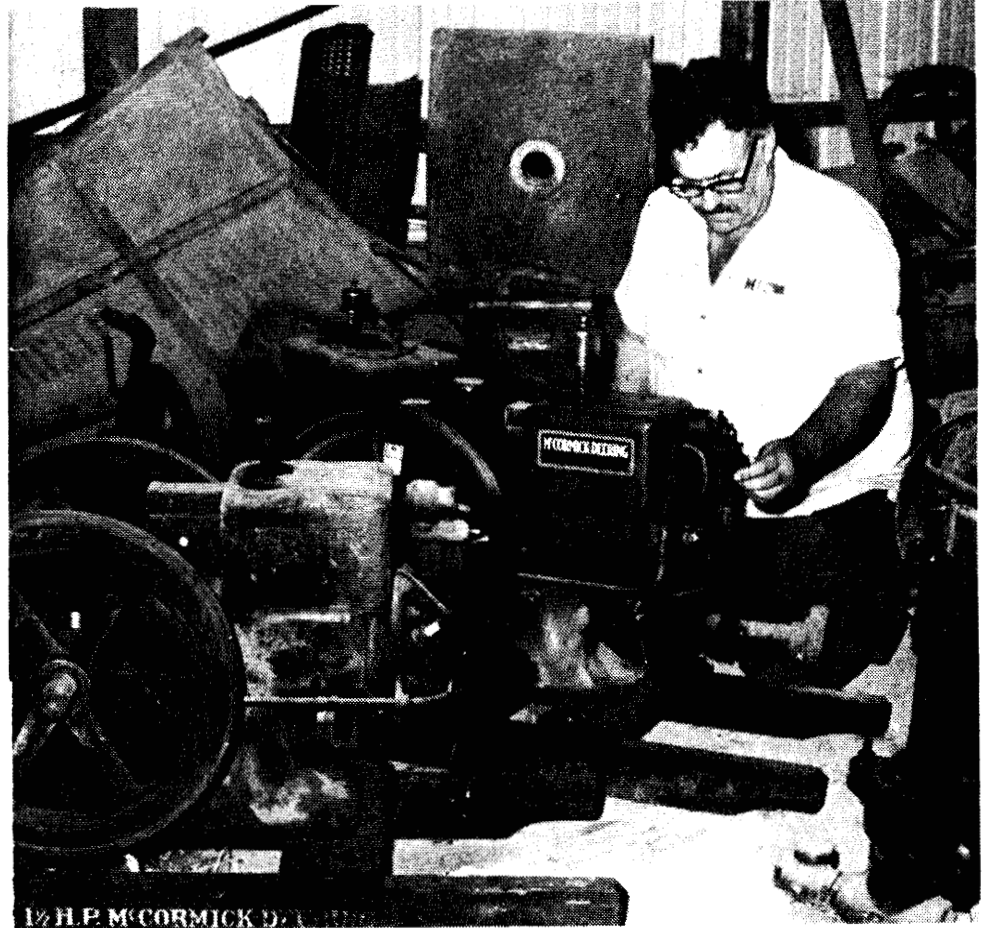

The last of the big steam engines were produced about 1925. Gasoline engine tractors, by then, were coming into wide use.

Steam engines are also a dying breed at the old engine shows, according to Evans.

In addition to being very expensive to haul by trucks to shows, the state requires annual inspections, boiler repairs must be made by licensed boilermakers and they must be insured in case of an explosion.

ANTIQUE TRACTOR -- Maurice Evans and son Maurice Jr., 6, on his restored 1919 Huber tractor, purchased five years ago. It originally sold for $975.

WATER PUMPER -- Evans starts his 1922 McCormick Deering gasoline engine. An unrestored one is at left. They were mainly used for pumping water.

Jordan funeral Thursday

Frank Joseph Jordan of Caro died Sunday at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Saginaw.

He was born Feb. 7, 1921, in Lefor, N.D., the son of Anna Jordan Dickinson of North Dakota and the late Marcus Jordan.

He married Mrs. Myra Eickhoff Wakefield Aug. 10, 1946, in Hazel Park. They came to Greenleaf township in 1957 and to Caro in 1973.

Jordan served with the Air Force during World War II in the European Theatre.

He attended the Deford Community church. He was a member of the Royal Order of Moose No. 1049 of Caro and a member of the Disabled American Veterans, Matthew Labrie Chapter No. 50, Caro.

He is survived by his wife, Myra; one son, Robert Jordan of Kinde; one daughter, Mrs. Delbert (Nancy) Wright of Cass City; one step-daughter, Mrs. Lloyd (Judith) Montreuil of Cass City; one brother, Arthur Jordan of Sacramento, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Nick Hensel of Lefor, N.D.; his mother, Mrs. Anna Jordan Dickinson of North Dakota, and 11 grandchildren. One son, Frank Jr., two grandchildren and two brothers preceded him in death.

Funeral services for Jordan will be conducted Thursday at 1 p.m. at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Gerald Rodgers of the Deford Community church officiating.

Burial will be in Elkland cemetery, Cass City. A military memorial service will be conducted under the auspices of DAV Chapter No. 50.

Registration set for dance classes

Ballet, tap, tumbling and jazz dancing will get underway Sept. 8 as the Caro Arts Society opens its second full season of classes.

Registration will be Aug. 27-28, from 5-7 p.m. on the third floor of the McNair Building, 194 N. State Street, Caro.

Courses will be offered on the following schedule: ballet, Monday and Tuesday after 5 p.m., once per week for 45 minutes, students age 5 and up; tap, jazz, jazz-exercise and tumbling, Wednesdays and Thursdays after 3:30 p.m., once per week for 45 minutes, tap ages 5 and up, jazz 10th grade and up; jazz-exercise (10-week course only) ages high school and up, tumbling ages 5-13.

Exact times for all classes will be decided at registration.

Instructors will be Sue Putman in ballet, Mary Doerr of Cass City in tumbling, and Sally Doerr of Cass City in tap, jazz and jazz-exercise. Sally Doerr will also serve as coordinator of the dance program this year.

For more information, call 673-5266 from 1-5 p.m., 673-2640 or 673-3383.

GOOD YEAR

NATURAL GAS IS COSTING US MORE TOO.

To Customers of Southeastern Michigan Gas Company:

We, like other utility companies, hear complaints from customers about the amount of their heating bills.

What many customers fail to realize is that it's a long way from the source of natural gas to your furnace and many costs determine the "amount due" on a monthly gas bill.

The "cost" actually begins with the producers which are companies that explore and drill for natural gas. Pipeline transmission companies (suppliers) then buy the gas from the producers, either at the wellhead or at a gas processing plant. The suppliers transport the gas thousands of miles from its source in order to sell it to distribution companies like Southeastern.

Since the enactment of the 1978 Natural Gas Policy Act, natural gas wellhead prices have escalated more than 150% from what they were just 10 years ago. These rising wellhead prices have resulted in increased natural gas costs for Southeastern... and higher gas bills for you, our customers.

You see, when Southeastern sells the natural gas to you, our price is based on what suppliers charge us for the gas plus a reasonable amount to pay for our operations and maintenance expenses, taxes, interest on borrowed capital, and a fair return on the investment of shareholders to cover dividends and retained earnings.

Just 10 years ago, Southeastern paid 40 cents of a customer's gas bill dollar to our suppliers. That left 60 cents per dollar for our operations and maintenance, taxes, interest, dividends, and retained earnings.

In 1980, 67 cents per dollar of customer revenue was paid to our suppliers. That left ONLY 33 cents per dollar for our operations and maintenance, taxes, interest, dividends, and retained earnings.

Look below and you'll see how we used each dollar you paid us in 1980 compared to 1970. The price we had to pay for the natural gas to serve your needs took a much larger part of your gas bill dollar last year than it did in 1970... obviously leaving less for our other expenses, dividends, and retained earnings.

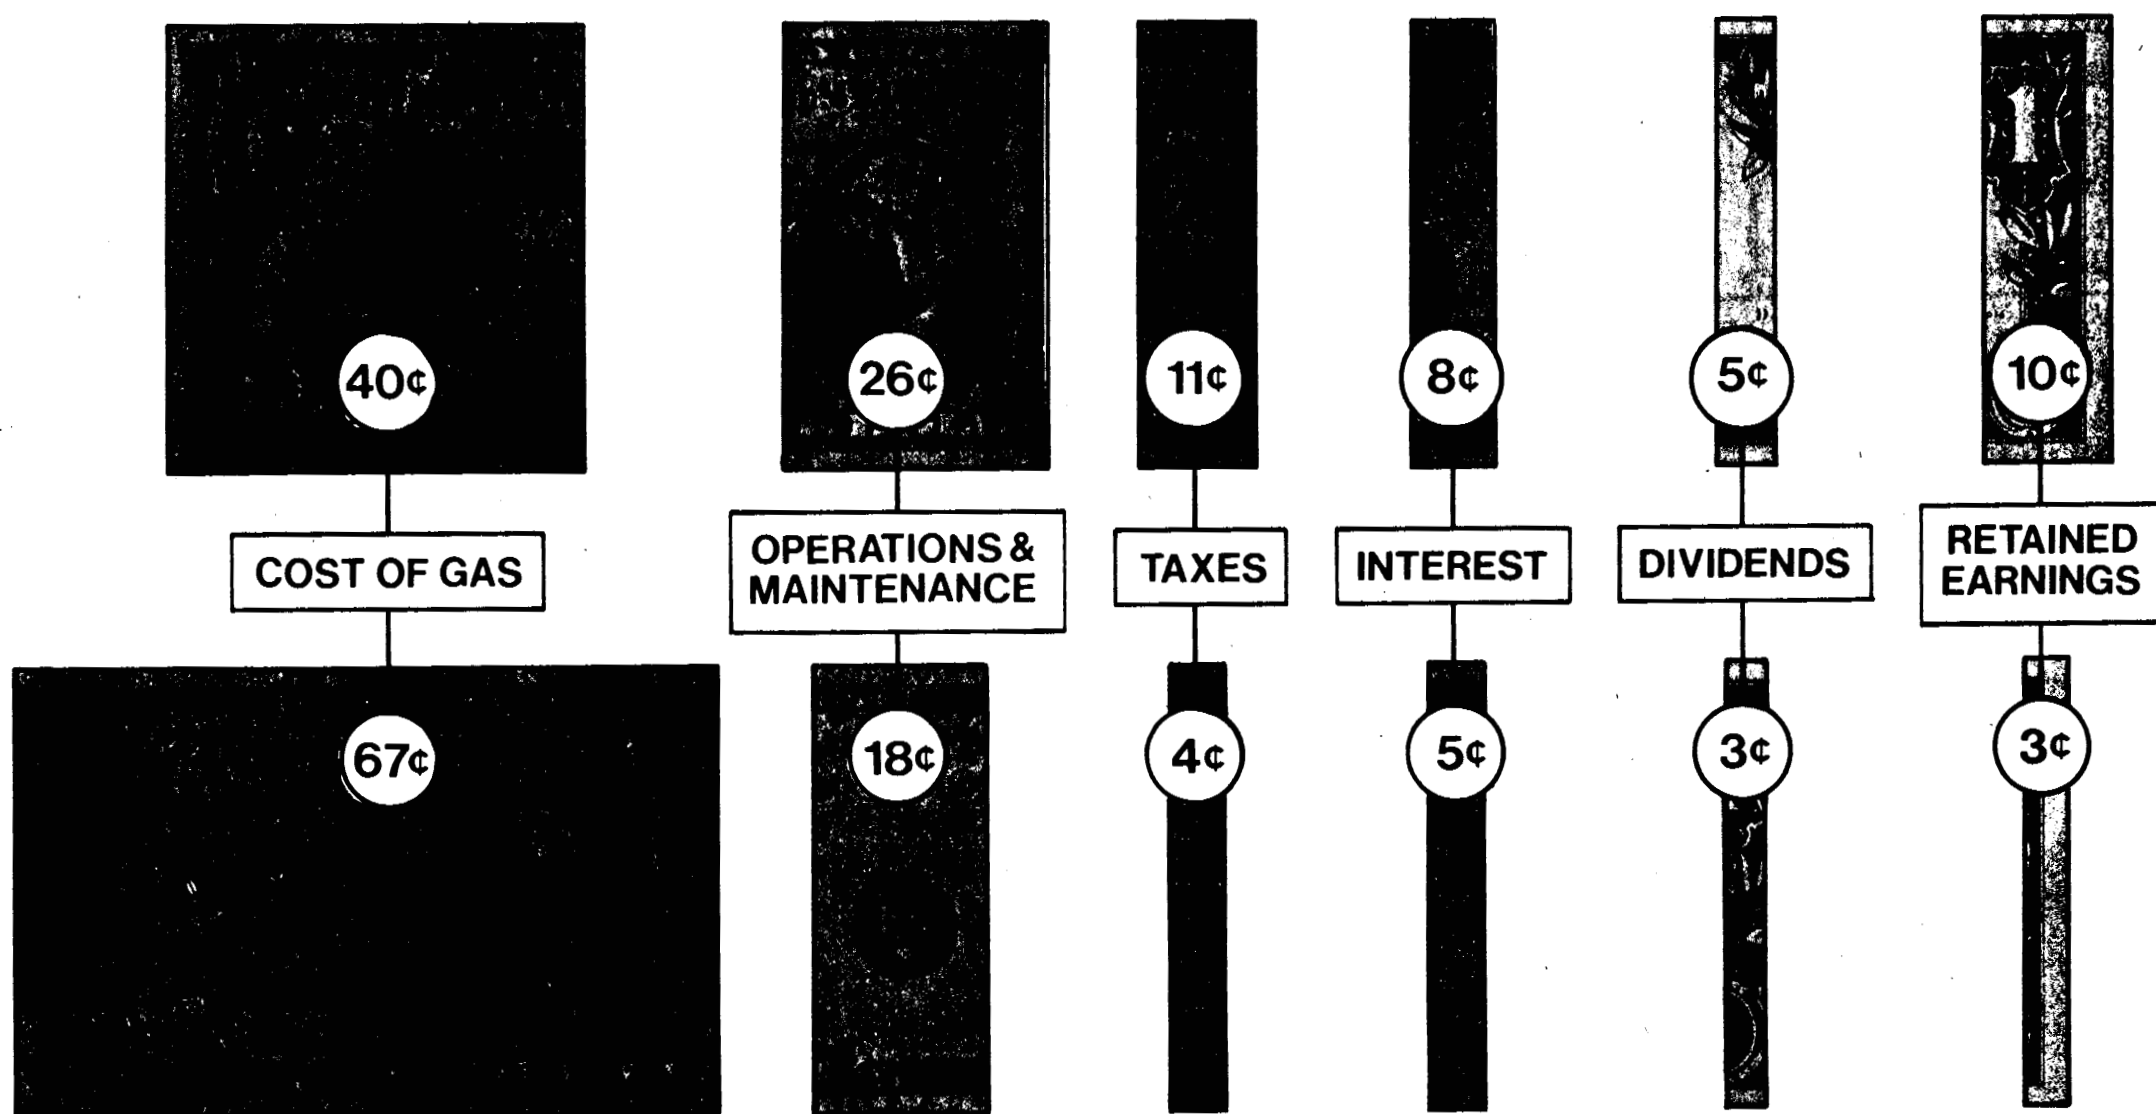

We are doing everything feasible to keep your gas bills low so that natural gas will continue to be your best energy buy. We wish we could do more, but so much of the dollar you give us goes to purchase the gas you use... and we have little control over that cost.

As high as these costs are, without higher costs Southeastern would not have enough natural gas today to serve the daily needs of each and every one of you, our customers! In spite of the higher cost, natural gas is by far your best energy buy.
