

Vassar man dies in crash

Larry L. Fabbro, 21, of Vassar, was killed Friday night when his motorcycle collided with a pickup truck south of Vassar.

He was the 11th person to die in a Tuscola county traffic accident this year, compared to 10 as of this date in 1980.

The other driver involved was Ralph S. Legue, 18, of Vassar, who was southbound on M-15. He told deputies he had slowed and signaled to turn left onto Hanes Road.

He said he saw the two headlights of a northbound vehicle about a quarter-mile away but didn't see Fabbro's motorcycle until he (Legue) had crossed into the northbound lane. The two vehicles then collided.

Fabbro was reported dead on arrival at Caro Community Hospital. Legue was not injured. The accident took place at 11:35 p.m.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Diane M. Trepkowski, 17, of Bad Axe, was treated and released from the Caro hospital following a 5:16 p.m. accident Friday in Ellington township.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Sally L. Brown, 18, of Bad Axe.

According to deputies, their car was headed northeast on M-81, northeast of Gerou Road. Ms. Brown started to pass two unidentified cars. As she was along,

HOT CROPS -- Gagetown police officer Marc Bridson found these marijuana plants, some growing in front of a house in Gagetown he saw when he drove by it Friday, and the others, discovered on a tip, by the Grant Township Cemetery. He was unable to prove ownership, so no arrests were made. Bridson, 22, has been Gagetown's full time officer since July 14. He previously worked for the Watertown Township Police Department.

Free legal aid may end as 230 wait for help

Robert Baer is wondering whether he will have a job come Oct. 1.

If he doesn't, he feels a lot of persons will be hurting in addition to himself.

Baer, 35, has been the chief attorney for Thumb Area Legal Service (TALS) since it began in January.

A second attorney, Bruce deMedici, was hired later. There are also two secretaries.

The federally-funded service serves low-income clients in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties who could not otherwise afford a lawyer. All they have to pay if they can afford it are court filing fees.

The TALS office is over Dyer's Jewelry in downtown Caro. The lawyers meet Huron county clients in the courthouse in Bad Axe; Sanilac county clients at the Department of Social Services in Sandusky.

Telephone number is 673-5651 or would-be clients can call the Human Development Commission toll-free number, 800-292-3666, and leave a message.

TALS first-year budget is about $120,000. Baer's annual salary is $23,000.

Since it began, according to Baer, it has served 465 persons. Of those, 398 cases have been closed and 67 are pending.

Indicative of the need for the service, he said, is the fact that there are 230 persons on a waiting list.

TYPES OF CASES

Cases that are put on the waiting list are non-contested divorces without any children involved and drafting of wills and other documents. "We've just got tons of divorces on the waiting list."

Federal regulations prohibit TALS from taking three types of cases: those for which the court appoints an attorney paid by the county, (criminal, paternity suits in behalf of the mother and certain ones involving parental rights) and fee generating cases (law suits in which the attorney accepts a percentage of the damage awarded).

Among priorities for Baer and deMedici are cases involving physical abuse of the spouse -- usually a woman, but not always -- and child custody cases in which court action is pending.

In cases where a spouse has been abused, Baer explained, he can help the person file for a divorce if that is their desire, seek a court order to protect the abused spouse from her or his abuser and refer the person to a shelter if necessary.

What Baer called a "classic case" involving child custody took place in Huron county. The man and woman had been divorced for several years. The mother originally had custody of their daughter, now 8, but after a few years, surrendered her to her ex-husband.

Her financial situation improved and she wanted the child back, so hired an attorney.

Baer represented the ex-husband, who wanted to keep his daughter and could not afford to hire a lawyer. The judge ruled in his favor. "If he had not been represented," the attorney commented, "he might not have been able to present his case effectively."

Another priority involves evictions where the landlord did not follow proper legal procedure or has locked the tenant out of his or her apartment.

The law requires a landlord to first give the tenant a 30-day notice of eviction and then obtain a court order.

Baer said he won't take a case where the landlord has followed proper procedure and the tenant doesn't have any grounds for not being evicted.

He pointed out that sometimes tenants don't pay rent not because they are dead-beats or don't have the money but because the landlord refuses to make needed repairs or because there is no water, heat, etc.

He sometimes represents landlords in cases against tenants. One was an elderly woman who didn't speak English who couldn't get rid of tenants who didn't pay their rent and were damaging her apartment.

ELIGIBILITY

Eligibility for TALS services is based on family income, plus assets readily available, such as a bank account.

A single person may make no more than $4,600 annually, based on 125 percent of the federally established poverty level, to be eligible. Where the household has two persons capable of earning an income, the maximum is $6,300, and for three persons, $7,700.

Exceptions to the income guidelines can be made for senior citizens, the disabled,

Murder trial may go to jury Wednesday

The murder trial in Tuscola County Circuit Court of Randy Lee Tune was expected to go to the jury Wednesday.

The jury will then have to decide whom to believe. Tune's cousin and supposed ex-girlfriend, Linda Williams, who said she was with him when he shot Tommie Lee Smith to death, or his family members who say he was with them in Saginaw at the time of the shooting.

Smith, 39, of Saginaw, was murdered June 4, 1980, while fishing at Quanicassee. Tune, 22, of Buena Vista township, outside of Saginaw, was arrested and charged with the murder in April and has been held in jail since then.

Questioning of prospective jurors took place Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. Defense attorney Patrick Brady's motion for change of venue was unneeded, with a jury satisfactory to both sides being seated.

The jury is being kept in a Caro motel for the duration of the trial when not in the courthouse.

Proceedings before Judge Patrick R. Joslyn began Thursday with presentation of opening remarks.

Prosecutor Artis Noel told the jurors the roots of the murder went back to the day before the shooting, when Tune's brother, Donald, was beaten by a gang of blacks and was hospitalized at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

He claimed Tune said to others at a Saginaw bar the night of June 3 that he was out for racial revenge. The defendant is white, the victim, black.

The next day, Noel continued, Ms. Williams and Tune would drive to Quanicassee, where he would shoot Smith with a shotgun.

Brady immediately started attacking her credibility, claiming, "She is not a person to believe."

He would produce at least five witnesses, he said, plus records to show his client spent part of the day of the shooting visiting his brother in St. Mary's and at the time of the shooting was going to a restaurant.

The chief defense witnesses Friday were Tuscola County Sheriff's Department Detectives Larry Walker and Ronald Phillips, who described the investigation and what led them to Linda Williams.

Walker said an informant in November, 1980, led them to a man in Saginaw who gave them her name. The detectives met with her in December, January, March and April.

MS. WILLIAMS, WHO has been given immunity against prosecution in exchange for her testimony, took the stand Monday.

She basically repeated the story she told at Tune's May 4 preliminary examination in district court, that he fired two blasts from his double-barrel shotgun at Smith, reloaded and fired twice more. Tune, who was driving her car, got out to do the shooting, while she remained inside.

Brady attacked her testimony, asking her why she first told the detectives that she wasn't involved.

Detective Phillips later testified to the defense attorney that three weeks before she signed her statement, she maintained someone else was driving the car.

Asked by Noel why she had changed her story, she replied, "I never had anything to do with anything like this before. I was just scared."

AN EX-ROOMMATE OF Ms. Williams, Lois Lucia, testified she had seen two long barreled guns in the kitchen of the Tune home -- the defendant lived with his parents -- but under cross-examination, told Brady she didn't remember what day that was.

Another prosecution witness was Pat Hatt, who knew both Tune and Ms. Williams. She testified Ms. Williams had told her about the shooting and when Tune found out, told her "to keep my mouth shut or the same thing would happen to me."

Brady also attacked Ms. Williams' sequence of events June 4. She said she and Tune had left his house about 2 p.m., stopped once, then drove to Quanicassee.

Detective Walker, however, testified he had driven the same route, which took about an hour, which indicated the pair arrived about mid-afternoon. The shooting took place about 5:30.

BRADY STARTED PRESENTING his witnesses Tuesday and among them were the defendant and his father, Robert, and brother, Donald.

They testified as to his whereabouts that day. Donald, for instance, said his brother and a friend, Edward Miles, came to see him in the hospital about 3 p.m., left 45 minutes later, then returned at 5 with his father. They stayed about 20 minutes, then went to a restaurant.

The trial was originally scheduled to last three weeks, but presentation of testimony has gone much faster than anticipated.

Parents accepting joint kindergarten

Kindergarten at Evergreen Elementary School isn't the same anymore. It's being held at Deford Elementary.

That's only the first semester. The second term, class will be conducted at Evergreen.

The combining of kindergartners from the two schools into one class for the first time has apparently been accepted by parents of the students.

"I talked to several the other day and it didn't seem to be a problem," said Evergreen Principal Dorland Kuntz.

Deford Principal Betty Murphy said eight or nine Evergreen parents visited her school with their children to show them the school and the classroom.

Asked if any of them had any negative thoughts about the arrangement, she responded, "If there is, they're not saying it to me."

The kindergarten teacher will be Martha Butcher, who has been at Deford several years. The kindergarten teacher at Evergreen last year, Sherryl Dillon, taught one class there a half day and another at Campbell. She will be at Campbell full-time this year.

There are 29 in the Evergreen-Deford kindergarten class this year. "As long as there are 30 or less, we can live with it," Mrs. Murphy said. Mrs. Butcher will have an aide part-time.

The Evergreen kindergartners will still ride the regular buses to Evergreen, then all board the bus to Deford.

The whole procedure will be reversed the second semester.

A mother of a kindergartner who would normally attend Evergreen, Fay Bullock, of Argyle Road, Decker, commented, "What can we do, really? We're just accepting it and going to make the best of it."

The mother of another kindergartner, Carolyn Rutkoski of Lamton Road, Decker, said she had talked to a few other mothers and they agreed they would rather have their children bused to Evergreen than ride on the same bus with older students to attend Campbell. She lives within the area

Woman hurt in kitchen mishap

Carol Becker of Cass City Road, Uby, was reported in serious condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales General Hospital, where she was taken after being burned in a kitchen accident about 7 p.m. Sunday.

According to her husband, Charles, she was cooking corn in a pressure cooker. She thought all the pressure had been relieved through a vent hole, but it apparently had been blocked by a piece of corn. When she went to open it, the cooker exploded, scalding her with boiling water.

Her husband, who drove her to the hospital, said she suffered first and second degree burns. She was burned on the face, chest and one arm. She was conscious throughout her ordeal.

It isn't known yet how long she will be in the hospital.

HERE THEY COME -- A group of apparently happy youngsters came through the doorway of Cass City Intermediate School Tuesday for the first day of classes of the new school year.

Emergency services full time job, Kroswek says

Emergency services coordinators aren't just needed in times of emergencies, according to Frank Kroswek. Without them there all the time, emergencies will be disasters.

Accordingly, the retiring Tuscola county emergency services coordinator doesn't think much of the plan of the county Board of Commissioners to combine his office with that of the veteran's counselor with the present counselor, James McCann, performing both jobs.

Kroswek, who turns 63 Sept. 20, officially retires Oct. 1, but due to accumulated vacation time, his last day on the job was Friday.

Kroswek joined the sheriff's department as a deputy in 1955. When the county Board of Supervisors appointed Sheriff Bill Tomlinson civil defense director in 1958, Tomlinson made Kroswek the deputy director.

The work increased -- "You couldn't do justice to both jobs," -- and supervisors made him the full-time director in April, 1962.

"Civil defense" became "emergency services" about three years ago. The federal Office of Emergency Services is now the Office of Emergency Management, so another name change is due (to emergency management coordinator).

Whatever it's called, Washington plays a key role. Federal funds pay half of Kroswek's total annual salary and fringe benefits of $16,480. His actual salary is $13,800. "It's not enough, for what they're paying in other places," he commented.

The federal government used to also pay half the office expenses, and for seven years, Kroswek had a secretary, but the county must now pay all such expenses, and there isn't a secretary, due to budget cutbacks. The 1981 budget for his office, including his pay and benefits, is $18,500.

DURING HIS MORE than two decades of service, one storm stands clear in his mind as the worst.

That was the March, 1976 ice storm, which devastated most of the county (Cass City being an exception) and left many without electricity for days. "I think I was here 2 1/2 days before I went home."

As civil defense director, Kroswek had to locate food, shelter and generators.

The county is in much better shape now to endure such a storm than it was in 1976, when there were few generators to be found, he said. Now the city of Vassar owns five or six, for in-

(And anyone else he can get to help)

What a difference a year makes. Last year at this time Cass City was sailing along with no problems concerning sports at the school.

This year we are just now getting them ironed out (at least temporarily). Last year Lakers and Harbor Beach were in trouble and shortly before the season it wasn't sure if either would field a team.

This year Laker High had its money problem solved, Harbor Beach is playing and all the Thumb B Association schools will field varsity teams.

The last hurrah of summer comes this week end. Although area schools are already open, summer doesn't really end until after Labor Day.

The Chronicle staff will enjoy the holiday, too, and the office will be closed Monday. Because of the loss of the production day all deadlines are advanced a day.

Produce report. It's been a great year for green beans, raspberries, corn and cantaloupe. Black sweet cherries were just so-so. Strawberries? Who cares? The only way they are good is in ice cream.

Kelly Gee and Brenda Breidinger recently re-met in Boise, Idaho, of all places.

When Kelly attended Cass City High School -- she graduated in 1975 -- Brenda was a teacher and the girls' athletics coach.

Kelly recently moved to Boise, Idaho, to work at a hospital. She attended a food cooperative meeting one evening to discover, much to her surprise, the lecturer was Brenda Breidinger, now program director for the Boise YWCA.

Both women are now married but still use their maiden names.

SENIOR SERVICE -- Bridget Miller, of the Tri-County Aide Program, prepares to take the blood pressure of William Patch of S. Seeger Street.

Senior citizen aid project gets award

The Tuscola County Health Department has received an award for helping senior citizens from the National Association of Counties for its Tri-County Aide Program.

The department is operating the program in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties with an $88,900 federal grant from the Area Agency on Aging (AAA) for the fiscal year that ends Sept. 30. The three counties are contributing $3,066 each as a local match.

The aim of the program, which began in April, 1979, is to provide personal care and homemaker services for senior citizens to enable them to stay in their own homes, according to Health Department Nursing Director

Carol Hrycko. "The real goal is to avoid or delay nursing home placement for those who can manage without the 24-hour assistance of a nursing home."

Nurse Katy Smith is in charge of the program. Working under her are two aides in each county.

Ms. Smith evaluates each new patient, trains the aides and makes assignments.

The aides visit each patient from once a month to three times per week, depending on the need. They perform such tasks as taking blood pressures, giving baths, light housecleaning, shopping and laundry.

There presently are 160 homes being served a maximum of three times per week. When more funds were available, 200 homes were being served as often as each weekday. New clients with limited needs, such as baths, are still being accepted, Ms. Smith said.

Mrs. Hrycko figures $120,000 is needed to operate a full-scale program.

For the fiscal year that starts Oct. 1, she said, the AAA has said it will contribute $88,281 in federal funds and the three counties will provide a total of $4,000 each.

She is trying to obtain extra funds from the AAA, Department of Social Services and a grant from the Gulf and Western Industries Foundation.

The program is open to persons 60 and older who do not have a family available to help them and if living with a spouse, the spouse is unable to help assist them adequately.

Most of the patients, Mrs. Hrycko said, are in their 80s and some are in their 90s. Most live outside of town.

They are not charged for the service, but can make a donation. "If we generate $3,000 a year in donations, that's doing well," the nursing director commented.

Weight loss aim of FAT program

Many persons have spent energy, time and money to lose excess weight, only to gain it back again. They then lose it again and gain it back.

Catholic Family Service (CFS) is offering a 12-part therapy group experience called Food Anonymous Therapy to enable such persons to end the pattern of weight loss and gain.

FAT groups will begin at the Sandusky office Sept. 22 at 10 a.m. and the Bad Axe office Sept. 28 at 3 p.m.

For further information and/or registration, call the CFS offices in Bad Axe (269-7931) or Sandusky (648-2304). Deadline for registering is Sept. 18.

The Haire Net

If it were forced, the only way to get a job, I suppose I would join the trek to the sunbelt.

But I wouldn't like it. Like the men from Kentucky and Tennessee that moved to Detroit for jobs in the auto industry and went home at the first opportunity or at retirement, I'd hike right back to Michigan as soon as possible.

My distaste for hot weather started in North Carolina in June and was nurtured in three summers in Texas.

There could be justification in the charge that I didn't experience the real south because my visits were when I was a soldier in the Air Force.

There could be some truth in that, too. In Texas soldiers didn't rate too high even in World War II when they were treated like royalty in most areas.

But it's not the people that bugged me about the country. Sure, I never saw eye to eye with my co-workers who happened to be stationed about 20 miles from home.

They were aghast when I called the porter (a black man) by his first name and told him to call me by mine, not Mr. John, which was the custom back then.

They couldn't understand either why come December I kept telling them I wished it would snow. It always seemed to me that at Sherman, Texas, the weather went from hot to not so hot and if that's a pun make the most of it.

Persons I know now say that when I was in the south it was the dark ages, no air conditioning.

That's got to help, sure. But it's not the answer. When Michigan has three days or so in the 90s I will like a snowball in the sun. And don't give me that garbage about it's not the heat it's the humidity. Hot is hot.

There's another option that has been pointed out many times. It's the sunbelt in the winter and Michigan in the summer.

That beats year-around living in the south but it's not the answer. You may not understand this, but winter is fun. And how can you appreciate spring if all that happens is that the landscape turns from a dull grey to a dull green?

I'll confess that along about the first of March winter has lost its allure.

If you can work it out that's a good time to spend a couple of weeks basking in the sun and getting ready for the real spring and summer.

The kind that you find only in the midwest and better in Michigan than anywhere else.

"If It Fitz..."

Speaking offhand

By Jim Fitzgerald

President Ronald Reagan wrote a personal letter to the Wayne County Neighborhood Legal Services. It began with this warm salutation: "Dear Mr. Neighborhood."

That's a mistake, of course, probably due to offhandedness. According to news reports, the president sometimes says the wrong thing when he speaks offhand, and maybe that fault has crept into his writing.

White House officials have threatened to bar reporters from picture-taking sessions with Reagan if they don't stop asking questions. Reporters are supposed to attend such "photo opportunities" only as observers, but some of them ask the president questions anyway. This upsets presidential aides who worry that Reagan will be caught off guard and say the wrong thing.

"We don't think the way to make policy is by offhand comment," one top Reagan aide told Newsweek magazine.

Once I was present during a presidential photo opportunity in the White House. What happens is that dozens of photographers are uncaged and allowed to swoop into a prescribed area and take all the pictures they can in, say, three minutes. A high-level official counts off the seconds and speaks sharply to any photographer who dares linger beyond the time limit.

As a newcomer to such organized disorganization, I was stunned by the loud click-clacking-whirring of the cameras and the noisy shoving of the photographers as they vied for better angles. If President Reagan can be heard making policy under such circumstances, he can't be speaking offhand. More likely he is shooting from the hip, which is the same thing, except gun control nuts are sometimes offended.

People who talk offhand or shoot from the hip are speaking before thinking. No one wants a president who makes policy before thinking, so it is probably good that Reagan's aides are determined to protect him from having to answer questions and pose for pictures at the same time. If President Gerald Ford had had similar protection, the world would never have learned that he couldn't wear a helmet and play football at the same time.

However, it is poor publicity for a White House aide to admit to Newsweek that the president can't be trusted to answer questions offhand. It would be much better for Reagan's image if he could find answers in his head instead of on his hand. The way to stop speaking offhand, of course, is to rehearse in private before speaking in public. It isn't easy to do this when you don't know what some pushy reporter might ask you while cameras are clicking. But perhaps the president could take a tip from his wife, who speaks to herself in the bathtub, which is not a photo opportunity.

Nancy Reagan told Family Circle magazine she gets into the tub and has long, imaginary conversations. "And I am absolutely sensational! Really, just wonderful! All the right words come to me, and I say exactly what I think," she said.

If President Reagan took a long bath every day, and practiced answering aloud every question his aides could think of and slip under the bathroom door, he might never have to make policy offhand again, and he would be spared the embarrassment of having to segregate reporters from photographers.

The next step should be to stop the president from writing letters offhand. His "Dear Mr. Neighborhood" letter to the Wayne County Neighborhood Legal Services solicited cash contributions to help elect Congress members who support the Reagan program. One aim of that program is to eliminate federal funding for neighborhood legal services, which provide free civil legal services for poor people.

Perhaps Mr. Neighborhood responded to Reagan's letter by mailing him an empty envelope addressed to Mr. White House. The president could spare himself such embarrassment, plus postage, if he didn't write a letter until after taking a long bath and figuring out how poor people can squeeze legal advice out of a stone policy made offhand.

Deaf can play a musical instrument

Deaf people can play musical instruments. In fact, they're playing the guitar, trumpet, flute, piano, drums, oboe and organ at Rochester Institute of Technology (RIT).

The National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID) at RIT is sponsoring the first full-scale college music program for deaf people in the country. More than 350 deaf students are now playing musical instruments.

Why would deaf students want to play music?

NTID Music Consultant Bob Mowers says, "We find most students have some residual hearing. There may be some distortion and a reduced volume at certain frequency levels, but they do hear something. And if what that student hears is enjoyable, that's all we need to develop musical skills."

Mowers says one of the reasons the students have so much incentive to play is that many of them have been told earlier that they couldn't play.

"All their lives, they've been excluded from such things, so they really try harder," he explains. "I believe they also get a great sense of accomplishment."

persons on welfare and those who cannot find an attorney. The federal requirements also allow Baer to use discretion in selecting other clients, for instance, someone close to, but exceeding the maximum allowable income.

THE FUTURE

The future of TALS is in doubt because the future of the Legal Services Corp., which funds all such legal aid offices, is in doubt.

President Reagan, Baer explained, has recommended that the federally funded corporation be abolished. Its budget for the present fiscal year is about $341 million.

The House of Representatives, however, renewed the program for the fiscal year that starts Oct. 1, but reduced the appropriation to $270 million. The Senate also renewed it, but only authorized $100 million. A joint committee of the two houses of Congress must now meet and come up with a compromise amount.

Assuming the House and Senate both approve the compromise, what isn't known is whether President Reagan will veto the legislation. If he does, that means the end of legal aid unless Congress can muster enough votes to override his veto.

Even if that happens, or the President decides to sign the compromise legislation, there won't be enough money to fund the present program, so there will have to be cutbacks somewhere.

THE NEED

Understandably, Baer feels the demise of TALS would be unfortunate. "My experience here is, we've been able to intercede and make a real difference in those cases."

Legal aid a boondoggle?

In December, 1979, when the Legal Services Corp. conducted a public hearing in Cass City concerning proposed establishment of free legal aid in the upper Thumb, only one attorney spoke in opposition.

That was Harold Pawlowski of Bad Axe, who at the time was representing the Huron County Bar Association.

He hasn't changed his mind. "I think it's nothing but a --- boondoggle," he said of the federally funded Thumb Area Legal Services (TALS). "They're defending a bunch of freeloading bums."

He said there may be some persons who do need free legal assistance, but they can obtain that from private attorneys. "There's enough pro bono (free aid) done by members of the bar that we don't need it."

As part of attorneys' professional code, they are supposed to provide free help to those in need.

Pawlowski suggested there are alternatives if free legal aid is unobtainable. "Ain't nobody needs a divorce. You can always live apart."

Huron County Circuit Judge M. Richard Knoblock commented, "I think legal aid definitely has a place."

TALS attorneys haven't appeared before him in that many cases, he said, so he didn't care to comment specifically about them.

Asked how his fellow attorneys feel, James Robert Reed of Caro, president of the Tuscola County Bar Association, commented, "There really hasn't been that much discussion about it. They (TALS) are here and that is a fact of life."

Of TALS attorneys he has met in court, he said, "They certainly know what they're doing."

When free legal aid was first proposed in the upper Thumb, Reed said he took a poll of Bar Association members and most were opposed. That isn't necessarily still true, he suggested. "Times and attitudes change."

Many of those eligible for TALS service receive welfare. In some instances, the agency's lawyers represent them before the welfare agency when they contest their benefits.

That has happened a few times, according to Tom Dillon, Tuscola County Department of Social Services assistance payments supervisor.

Clients who don't agree with DSS workers on what their benefits should be can appeal to an administrative law judge, but none of the cases in which the TALS lawyers have been involved have gotten that far.

"I think legal aid can play a role in resolving some of those conflicts before they get to that step," Dillon commented.

PEDALING AROUND

Engineered solutions

By Mike Eliasohn

I suppose almost every product we use, be it a car, appliance or even the typewriter I'm typing this on, was designed by an engineer.

We all have cause for complaint now and then, but by and large, the products we use do what they are supposed to do.

It's just the "now and then" that bothers me.

For instance, Saturday morning I had to take my still relatively new car to the dealer for what Ford referred to as "an improvement to the carburetor."

The improvement consisted of "treating" the carburetor jets "with an adhesive to prevent them from loosening."

The reason for the glue job, the letter said, was because, "We have become aware that the main and idle fuel metering jets in the carburetors of some of these vehicles may become loose. This condition can result in a substantial drop in engine power, very rough engine operation and may result in the driver having difficulty keeping the engine running and restarting it."

I'm sure before Ford discovered the problem on its new "world cars," some owners did. Fortunately, I wasn't one of them.

Ford, of course, is not alone in suffering from engineering misdeeds. Remember the Chevrolets several years ago that suffered from broken engine mounts? I'd rather have loose carburetor jets any time.

Speaking of my car, if the person who left orange paint

Brock given 90 days for violation

Terry E. Brock, 21, of 5350 Lang Road, Sebawaing, was found guilty Friday by Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn of having violated probation.

The judge sentenced him to 90 days in the county jail, with credit given for one day served.

Brock was placed on 36 months' probation Oct. 20, 1980, for unlawfully driving away an automobile. He was found to have violated it by being dismissed from employment in August.

Michigan Department of Agriculture's laboratory helps your garden grow by checking the seeds you buy. Testing for germination and seed purity are two ways to make sure you don't buy any unpleasant surprises.

from their car on my car while pulling in or backing out of the parking space in front of me on Oak Street last week would like their paint back, please let me know. Orange over yellow doesn't look too good.

Back to engineers, I've been corresponding for a few years with a fellow now living in California who is as big a fanatic about experimental bicycles as I am.

He was an engineering student in college in Nebraska when he built his first experimental bike, a prone job, with the rider lying stomach down, supported by a seat across the waist (a modified unicycle seat turned sideways) and the pedals behind the back wheel. Trust me, it worked.

As any good engineer would do, when designing the thing, he made full size drawings of the frame and did a stress analysis of the structure.

The only trouble was the first time he got on the bike to ride it, he found the seat was in the wrong position and he couldn't even pedal it. The problem was solved by moving the seat forward along the top tube to a point where it had no bracing underneath.

I had similar problems when I built my bike, but I'm not an engineer.

I first had doubts about engineers during my one and only year at the University of Michigan.

During the first semester, there was a bed race, probably held in conjunction with homecoming week. I forget. Anyway, I volunteered to help push the bed entered by my dormitory to the starting line. "Will it work?" I asked.

"Sure," someone replied. "Some engineering students built it."

Unfortunately, we got about 20 feet from our dorm when one of the castors fell out. One or two more soon followed.

I ran ahead to a dime store, bought some wire and met our "racing team" at the starting line.

The castors were wired into place, but it was obvious they wouldn't stay in place. Castors built for smooth floors won't handle rough pavement.

Those who were actually going to push the bed decided on a very non-engineering solution. Since the castors were sure to fall out, they would be disqualified anyway. Since the rules said the bed (with lone occupant) had to be pushed all the way, what our team did didn't matter.

The solution? When the starting gun sounded, the pushers picked up the bed and ran with it.

Recently sold Frutchey Bean began in Cass City

The sale of the Frutchey Bean Co. recently to Auburn Bean and Grain, Inc., of Auburn, marked the end of a firm that traced its beginnings back to Cass City in 1899.

The sale ended two years of Chapter XI negotiations in the courts to restore Frutchey Bean to solvency.

The sale consists of Frutchey Bean's two Saginaw plants, plus full ownership of Oakley Elevator Co., which was partially owned by Frutchey.

As one of the terms of the sale, the name Frutchey Bean will be retained, with the three elevators to be operated as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Auburn Bean and Grain.

The Bay county firm bought Frutchey Bean for $520,000, plus assumption of the latter's indebtedness to the John Hancock Co., Wickes Corp. and Michigan Millers Mutual, and assuming ownership and responsibility for all price later agreements and storage receipts at the three plants.

ALTHOUGH THE Frutchey Bean Co. was organized Aug. 1, 1933, the family name was known to the bean and grain trade as early as 1899 when Amuel Frutchey, grandfather of Mrs. Irene McIntyre, purchased the Berney Elevators at Cass City.

In 1902, the Cass City Grain Co. was incorporated with Amuel Frutchey as president; Elmer A. McGeorge, vice-president, and Joseph and Herbert Frutchey, sons of Amuel, secretary and treasurer respectively.

The original main office was at Cass City and branches were maintained at Deford, Kingston and Gagetown.

In the years 1902 to 1918, branches were added at Decker, Pinconning and Greenleaf.

Irene Frutchey, now Mrs. A.D. McIntyre, joined the firm upon her graduation from Ferris Business Institute in 1918. In 1919, A.D. McIntyre, also a Ferris graduate, joined the firm as manager of the Deford elevator.

During the period 1918-22, the company purchased an elevator at 404 Congress Street, Saginaw, and sold the Gagetown elevator.

became president, and Herbert Frutchey, vice-president. Alice Nettleton, sister of Joseph Frutchey and Herbert Frutchey, became treasurer and A.D. McIntyre, secretary.

In the period 1923-1930, branches were added at Clifford, Mayville, and Millington and the Decker elevator was sold.

In 1930, the Cass City Grain Co. merged with the Michigan Bean Co. of Saginaw. At the time of merger, the nine plants of the Cass City Grain Co. were assessed at $180,000 and net current assets amounted to approximately $40,000.

AT THE END OF THE fiscal year June 30, 1933, it was determined by the principals of Michigan Bean and the Frutchey group that the merger was not resulting in the benefits expected. The Frutchey group repurchased the nine elevators formerly comprising the Cass City Grain Co. for $91,000 and were at the same time allotted $77,000.00 in inventories and cash as their share of the Michigan Bean Co. assets.

The Frutchey Bean Co. was thereupon organized with the above mentioned capitalization and named Joseph Frutchey president; Alice Nettleton, vice-president; Irene McIntyre, secretary, and A.D. McIntyre, treasurer.

A.D. McIntyre was elected president of the corporation upon the death of Joseph Frutchey in 1942. George McIntyre, brother of A.D. was elected treasurer. Mrs. Nettleton continued as vice-president and Irene McIntyre as secretary.

Joseph D. McIntyre, son of A.D. and Irene McIntyre,

Union heads local Jerry Lewis telethon effort

Helen Bartle will be the Cass City Chairwoman of the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA). The Cass City telethon pledge center in the Hahn Real Estate Building on Main street will be sponsored by the United Steelworkers Local 6222.

A fishbowl will be located outside for those driving by to drive in donations.

The television spectacular will again be hosted by Jerry Lewis, MDA National Chairman, and broadcast live from Del Webb's Hotel Sahara in Las Vegas. The telethon is a 2 1/2-hour entertainment marathon carried coast to coast by some 200 stations.

Locally, WNEM, Channel 5, will broadcast the telethon beginning Sunday, at 9 p.m. and continuing until 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Cass City area residents contributed over $3,000 to last year's record-breaking national pledge total of over $31 million.

Contributions to the annual telethon are used to fund MDA's research and medical service programs nationwide and in the cities and towns where contributions are made. The National Health Agency maintains a network of free clinics, now numbering more than 230 throughout the U.S. and in Puerto Rico and Guam.

In the Thumb area, MDA funds support the Mid-Eastern Michigan Chapter's clinic, a summer camp and research centers at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, and Wayne State University.

The first patent on the typewriter was issued in 1829, but it wasn't until Christopher Sholes' machine -- invented in 1867, patented the next year and finally produced five years later -- that the ingenious device with four rows of keys became popular with the public.

Tryouts next week for Caro musical

Auditions for the musical comedy, "The Pajama Game," will be held Sept. 8, 9 and 10 under the auspices of the Caro Arts Society Theatre Group.

The auditions, open to adult singers, actors and dancers, will begin at 7:30 each evening on the third floor of the McNair Block Building in Caro, located between Sheridan's and Evert's Card Shop.

Technical personnel desiring to work behind the scenes on this production are also needed. Those trying out for singing roles are encouraged to bring a vocal selection. Roles are available for 10 males and six females, plus chorus.

The play, under the direction of Dr. Marlin Roll, will be performed as part of a dinner theatre Nov. 19-22.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Cass City's bicentennial celebration finished in the black. Treasurer Dorothy Stahlbaum reported this week the three-day event cleared $1,464. All bills have been paid.

Ellington township residents may see agricultural land values skyrocket by as much as 53 percent if Supervisor Fred Bardwell is right. James G. Turner, 5129 N. Cemetery Road, Cass City, received a master's degree in social work during commencement exercises at the University of Michigan, Aug. 22.

Ross Miller was presented with a radio at his retirement luncheon at Cass City High School. Miller retired this year as transportation supervisor and Intermediate School building supervisor.

A Cass City trio won the annual Cass City Lions Club golf tournament Sunday at Sherwood Forest Country Club in Gagetown. The team consisted of Bill Kritzman, Rod Wright and Ken Eisinger.

The Catholics, who finished third in the Cass City Church League, were upset winners of the annual post season play-off following a victory Monday night over Deford.

TEN YEARS AGO

About 10 persons showed up at the regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council Tuesday to protest the building standards for low income homes and the proposed development codes. After an hour and 20 minute discussion, the proposed codes were again tabled for further discussion.

School officials are in a state of "limbo" due to the recent freeze on wages and prices, Supt. Donald Crouse said. Although contracts were signed prior to the freeze announcement, teachers, administrators and other school employees will not receive their pay increases until attorneys can provide school officials with a legal ruling.

Announcement of bids for the new Elkland Township Fire Hall has been postponed to allow bidders more time to determine new prices for the building's construction, Supervisor Maynard McConkey said this week.

Police Chief Gene Wilson told the village council Tuesday evening that citizens' complaints about noise have been coming too late for him to do anything.

Rev. Eldred Kelley, 32, a native of Cass City and son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kelley, was recently appointed associate pastor of the Ames Methodist church in Saginaw.

25 YEARS AGO

About 150 guests visited Walbro Corp. Thursday, when the company held open house for Cass City area residents.

Coach Mike Yedinak greeted 68 football candidates for the 1956 edition of the Cass City Red Hawks in pre-school workouts that started nearly two weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Lowe are parents of twin sons, who will observe birthdays on different days. On Sept. 2 at 8:44 p.m., seven-pound, one-ounce Donald Robert was born. Daniel Dean, who weighed eight pounds, nine ounces, was born at 12:14 a.m. Sept. 3. Dr. June MacRae of Gagetown was the attending physician at Cass City Hospital.

For the first time in the history of Cass City High School, it will have 100 students or more in each of the top four grades.

35 YEARS AGO

A total of 122 attended the 11th Striffler-Benkelman family reunion in the Striffler woods near Cass City on Labor Day.

Youthful members of the Cass City Livestock Club were successful in winning several prizes at the State 4-H show at East Lansing. Billy Zinnecker was awarded first place for his Angus heifer. Jim Turner was awarded first place for his Shorthorn heifer.

Hottest issue in the forthcoming election campaign is Proposal No. 2, the sales tax diversion amendment to the state constitution. If this amendment is adopted by the voters, Michigan schools will receive $100,000. They now receive $60,000.

Leadership workshop scheduled

The Cooperative Extension Service and Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers will sponsor a "Learn and Lead" workshop Oct. 7-8 at the Ramada Inn in Saginaw.

Specialists from Michigan State University will teach participants leadership development skills. During the workshop, participants will have the opportunity to determine their own leadership style, develop time management skills and learn new program planning techniques. The registration fee includes lodging and meals. Participation in part of the workshop is allowable. Reservations will be taken up to the time of the workshop; however, refunds will only be available until Sept. 14. Reservations and further information may be obtained from Ethyl Young, 8735 W. Gilford Road, Reese 48757.

Paul Szeliga named to Walbro post

Paul R. Szeliga has been named manager-quality control for the Automotive Products Group of Walbro Corp.

The appointment was announced by Victor M. Guernsey, senior vice-president, Automotive Products Group.

Paul R. Szeliga

Szeliga will be responsible for all phases of in-plant quality control, including receiving, in-process and final testing, as well as warranty analysis.

Prior to joining Walbro, Szeliga was quality control manager for Ferro Manufacturing Corp., Detroit. He has also served as plant manager for Remke, Inc., and has worked for Crown Fabricators and Chrysler Corp. in various supervisory positions.

Szeliga, 35, is married and has two children. He and his family reside in Mt. Clemens.

Free energy saving booklet available

Michigan's Energy Administration Clearinghouse has prepared a new publication — "It's Curtains for Heat Loss" — about energy-saving treatments for windows.

"This publication explains many techniques for reducing window heat loss," said Acting Energy Administration Director Joann Neuroth. "In Michigan, windows can account for as much as a third of a home's total heat loss, so savings from treatments like these can be really significant," Neuroth said.

The publication lists more than a dozen treatments, including thermal draperies, shutters and shades, caulking, weatherstripping and storm windows.

Two other Clearinghouse publications about windows, "Calculating Energy Savings from Window Modifications" and a "Window Treatment Bibliography" also are available for interested Michigan residents.

All three can be ordered by calling the Energy Administration toll-free hotline (1-800-292-4704) or by writing Energy Clearinghouse, P.O. Box 30228, Lansing 48909.

The Clearinghouse has more than 250 free publications ready for distribution covering energy conservation and use of renewable energy resources.

Thorp at Navy base

Navy Airman Michael F. Thorp, son of Frederick E. and Jennie P. Thorp of 4571 Sebewaing Road, Owendale, has reported for duty with Helicopter Combat Support Squadron 16, Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

A 1980 graduate of Cass City High School, he joined the Navy in June of that year.

HEALTH TIPS

Peptic ulcers hurt millions in America

By Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

Peptic ulcer is one of the more common causes of ill health in man.

Ulcers occur when small areas of the digestive tract become unable to withstand the action of the digestive juices secreted by the stomach.

Ulcers occur most often in the first eight to ten inches of the small intestine (the duodenum). They also occur in the stomach and sometimes in the lower portion of the gut.

All ulcers are much more likely to affect men than women.

Each year, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association, more than three million Americans develop ulcers. More than 15 percent of the population will have an ulcer at some time in their lives.

The true cause is believed to be an excess of gastric juice that, in effect, burns a hole in the membrane lining of the duodenum or stomach. Heredity may be a factor.

Environmental stress and emotional upsets are involved. Many rheumatoid arthritis patients also have ulcers, as do individuals with chronic pulmonary diseases.

Most ulcers bleed, sometimes so profusely that surgery is required.

The first symptom is pain, a gnawing, burning or dull ache. There also is heartburn, nausea, vomiting, a feeling of fullness and weakness.

Pain is worse when the stomach is empty and subsides when food or an antacid is taken. Alcohol, coffee and nervous tension aggravate ulcers.

Treatment involves neutralizing the acids, plus counseling to help the sufferer cope better with emotional stress. Surgery is performed for ulcers only as a last resort.

There isn't much the individual can do to prevent ulcers, other than "stay calm," and your doctor is well aware that this sometimes is difficult or impossible.

Most to pay for Sanilac flu shots

The Michigan Department of Public Health will not be supplying free flu vaccine to the local county health departments this year.

Therefore, the Sanilac County Board of Health has decided to purchase vaccine for the Health Department to administer to selected persons, anyone over 60 years and others with certain chronic health conditions.

Since the Health Department must purchase the vaccine, there will be a small charge to persons receiving flu shots. Clinic dates and locations will be announced later.

Reunion draws 59 at Davison

The 39th annual Hendrick-Downing families reunion was held Sunday at Richfield Park near Davison with 59 in attendance.

Officers elected for the coming year were: president, Elnora Sonnenburg, Lansing; vice-president, Mrs. Don Whittenburg, Cass City; and secretary-treasurer, Maxine Blackmer, Eaton Rapids.

The 1982 reunion will be at the same location.

The eldest present was Theo Hendrick, who will be 89 this Thursday. The youngest was 7 months old Tammy Bolz of Willis. Attending from the greatest distance was Mrs. Lilah Bullock, whose home is in Arizona.

Those from Cass City who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Don Whittenburg, Theo Hendrick, Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Don Finkbeiner and children Jim, Clark, Donald and Sally, and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas O'Dell and Erin.

New books at the library

MR. AMERICAN by George MacDonald Fraser (fiction). Mark Franklin arrives in England in 1909, a handsome mystery man out of the American West, equipped with pistols, saddle and money, and in search of the place from which his ancestors emigrated. He is in search of much else besides, not the least being an escape from a past that includes Butch Cassidy and the Hole-in-the-Wall gang and a notch or two on those pistols. The whole panorama of British society moves through these pages as war comes closer, the past catches up with Franklin and he proves that when the last card is to be played, "Mr. American" can win.

HOW DO THEY DO THAT? by Caroline Sutton (non-fiction). Author Sutton answers some questions we are mildly curious about: How do they turn regular coffee into instant? How does the IRS decide whom to audit? Some it never occurred to us to ask: How do they get a whole pear into a bottle of pear brandy? (The answer is fascinating.) Other topics range from the trivial to the profound. How do they: Rate movies? Spice genes? Tune a piano? Collect caviar? Measure the speed of a fastball? Measure the size of the universe? How do they determine the cause and time of death from an autopsy? She conveys even complicated scientific explanations in easily understood terms.

A SAVAGE PLACE by Robert B. Parker (fiction). Boston private eye Spenser flies to Hollywood to act as bodyguard to Candy Sloan, a TV reporter investigating the mob's takeover of Summit Films. Hired enforcers beat Candy and warn her she will die if she doesn't quit "snooping," but she doesn't give in. Spenser is at her side while she meets with Roger Hammond of Summit and, later, with Peter Brewster, president of the conglomerate that owns the studio. Denials and threats of libel suits are the lofty executives' responses, followed by murders to show they mean business.

Your Neighbor says

Nation's economy will get worse

Four University of Michigan economists recently predicted the nation's economy will improve next year.

By mid-1982, they expect there will be increased employment and reduced inflation. Housing construction will be on the upswing, more credit will be available, business will increase their investments and consumers will have more money to spend.

Joan Hendrick doesn't share their enthusiasm. "I think we're in for a depression," she commented.

"I got two sons who just came home from the Navy and no way. They just can't find work at all."

To add to her pessimism, her son-in-law and sister-in-law are both laid off.

Mrs. Hendrick doesn't think President Reagan's tax cut and other programs will boost the economy. "The only thing I got to say about Reagan is he is a darn good actor."

She feels people will keep the money they gain from the tax cut at home in case of a depression, should the banks close like they did in 1933.

Also depressing the job market, she said, are too many immigrants coming to this country. "They're bringing in too many people and we don't have jobs for our own."

What is needed to turn the country around? A new president, she responded. "I wish we had Carter back. At least he helped the poor."

Mrs. Hendrick and her husband, Thomas, live at 4250 W. Deckerville Road, Cass City. She has three children, Scott and Mark Atkin, who were in the Navy, and Doris (Mrs. Martin) LeValley, Cass City, and two grandchildren, Greg and Mark LeValley.

Safe grain handling

By William Bortel

As grain-handling systems on Tuscola farms get larger and more complex, the risks of grain suffocation, lung damage and mechanical injury appear to be increasing.

Shut off unloaders before entering a bin. It takes only three or four seconds to become helpless and about 20 seconds to be buried in flowing grain. Never enter a bin of flowing grain.

Lock out switches or remove fuses and put them in your pocket before entering a bin so that no one can start the grain flowing while you're inside the bin.

Always be cautious when working with grain that has gone out of condition. Molds, blocked flow, cavities, crusting and grain avalanches all pose dangers.

When it's necessary to enter a bin, use a rope or safety harness. Have two extra people standing by in case something happens -- one to hold the rope and one to get help.

To reduce hazards, install ladders in each bin and learn how to "walk a bin down."

Another hazard present when storing grain -- especially spoiled grain or grain in poor condition -- is dust. Use a filter respirator to remove fine dust particles. Either a disposable dust mask or a washable filter is acceptable.

Injuries and deaths also occur when farmers are operating elevators and augers. The primary dangers are moving parts and contact with overhead power lines.

Keep hands and feet away from moving parts and wear reasonably well fitted clothing when working around elevators and augers. Such clothing is less likely to be caught in the machine than loose, floppy clothing. Open nylon jackets are especially hazardous.

Use care when transporting elevators and augers. Transport only in a lowered position with the safety lock in place. Check for power lines when positioning a raised elevator.

Augers and conveyors are among the most hazardous types of farm equipment. Injuries often involve lacerations and fractures but occasionally may lead to loss of a hand or foot. The best way to prevent getting feet or hands caught in the auger is to use gates or guards over auger intakes. If you remove shields for repair or maintenance, replace them immediately.

Many accidents involve transport equipment. Most of them occur when the victim falls into or off the wagon. One way to prevent such accidents is to keep riders off the wagons.

Permanently mount the slow moving vehicle emblem on any wagon or other implement used on public roadways. Keep the emblem clean and replace it every 2-4 years.

Load wagons in accordance with the size of the tractors pulling them. Avoid overloading.

Two on honors list

Two Cass City students have been named to the academic honors list at Ferris State College for the summer quarter.

They are Anna M. Osen-toski and Becky J. Whitaker.

To be named to the list requires a minimum 3.25 grade point average and at least 14 credit hours of graded work.

Gibbard funeral held Saturday

Nina Loretta Gibbard, 69, of Ubyly died Wednesday, Aug. 26, at Provincial House, Cass City.

She was born Dec. 27, 1911, in Marlette township, the daughter of John and Emma (Hunt) Gruber.

Miss Gruber married Thomas Gibbard Feb. 13, 1929, in Cass City. Following their marriage, they made their home in Austin township. He died Sept. 1, 1978.

Mrs. Gibbard attended the Holbrook Baptist church. She was the owner and operator of a foster care home for over 15 years.

She is survived by three daughters. Mrs. George (Donna) Barber of Royal Oak, Mrs. Robert (Mildred) Trusler of Flint and Mrs. Obert (Ruth Ann) Regal of Plymouth; two sons, Evans Gibbard of Cass City and Carl Gibbard of Ubyly; two brothers, James Gruber of Drayton Plains and Donald Gruber of Metamora; two sisters, Mrs. Edward Gerber of Marlette and Mrs. W.G. Lee of Ortonville; 12 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren. One son, Gerald, and three brothers preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Luke Yoder of the Pigeon River Mennonite church and Rev. Milton Gelatt of Cass City officiating.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Terminal reports $2,000 equipment robbery

Equipment worth more than $2,000 was stolen from the Thumb Area Commodity Cooperative office south of Cass City Monday night, Aug. 24.

Terminal manager Earnest Cook, who reported the break-in to the sheriff's department shortly before 8 a.m. the next morning, said an industrial air compressor worth $1,275; tool box and tools, $850, and a grinder, $150, were stolen. A three-quarters full drum of Vertifume was tipped over, with the lost liquid being worth $250.

In addition, damage was done to the distributor, spark plugs and oil filter of a tractor parked outside. A battery worth $50 was stolen from a truck parked on the scales and the instrument panel glass broken.

A clock had been pulled from the office wall. It stopped at 11:45, so presumably that was when the break-in took place.

When Cook arrived at work on the 25th, he found the cable normally strung across the driveway entrance down and the lock missing.

Entry to the office was gained by prying the dead bolt lock out of the door. A window of the building was broken.

OTHER ITEMS

George Ellesin of Decker-ville Road, Cass City, reported to the sheriff's department Aug. 25 that a Homelite chainsaw worth $175 was stolen from his unlocked granary some time since Aug. 22.

Cass City police arrested Michael R. Corl, 23, of 1920 N. Dodge Road, Deford, on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor after they stopped his car at 2 a.m. Monday on Cemetery Road, south of River Road.

He was taken to the county jail and later released on bond, pending appearance in district court.

Donald F. Bilicki of 4260 Curry Road, Kingston, reported to Caro state police Thursday that someone fired a shotgun at his mailbox the previous evening, leaving numerous buckshot holes. Damage was listed at $8.

George M. Klinesmith of 5115 Silvernail Road, Deford, told Caro state police Monday morning that someone had put two large dents in the top of his mailbox. Damage was listed at $10.

Methodist women hold meeting

Thirty women attended the dinner meeting Monday evening in Trinity United Methodist church, when monthly meetings of the United Methodist Women of the church were resumed after summer vacation.

The meal was served by group 3 with hostesses Margaret Czekai and Marie Jetta.

Donna Wachterhauser as program chairman introduced the speaker, Rev. Gilson Miller, pastor of the Kingston and Deford United Methodist churches. The title of his message was "Hooks to Hang By."

Plans were announced for a mother-son banquet Oct. 10. The annual bazaar will be Nov. 7.

The next regular meeting will be Oct. 5.

T-shirts highlight at reunion

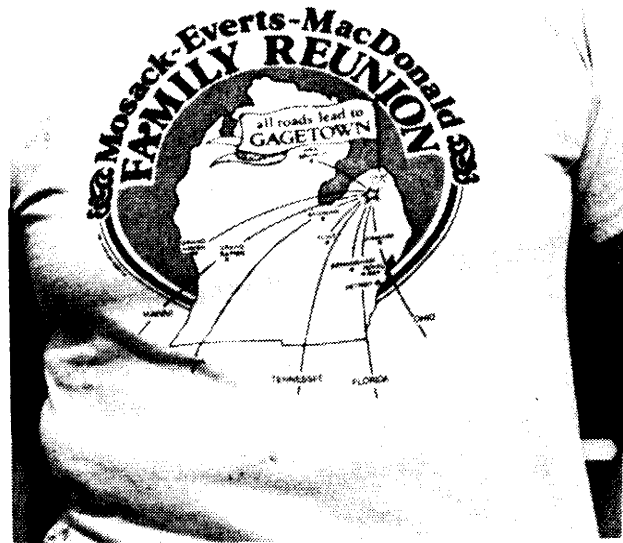

The 13th annual Mosack-Everts-MacDonald reunion was held at the home of Mildred Mosack in Gagetown July 25-26.

In addition to the upper Thumb, relatives came from the Cleveland, Ohio area, St. Cloud, Minn., Flint, West Branch, Saginaw, Birmingham, East Grand Rapids and Royal Oak.

The annual family volleyball competition was held with the Ohio contingent taking home the traveling trophy on the strength of a four games to nothing shut-out. Several games of bocce ball were enjoyed by friends and family of all ages.

The highlight of the reunion was when the MacDonald family members showed up with custom made T-shirts for the entire family. The T-shirts were designed with a map of Michigan, highlighted by Gagetown in the Thumb area, with all of the home towns of the family members indicated on the map. Over 100 T-shirts were provided.

Next year's reunion will again be the last Saturday in July at Mrs. Mosack's home in Gagetown.

REUNION SHIRT -- Mary Kerbyson of Cass City models the T-shirt received by family members who attended the Mosack-Everts-MacDonald reunion in Gagetown.

Jewetts seek crash damages

A lawsuit was filed Friday in Tuscola County Circuit Court, seeking damages in connection with a Sept. 2, 1978, traffic accident west of Cass City.

Plaintiffs are Ida Jewett, driver of one of the vehicles involved, and her passengers at the time, her husband, Charles, and their daughter, Samantha, then 12. The Jewetts live in Cass City.

Defendants are Stuart James Venema, driver of the truck involved, and Hessel Venema, the truck's owner, both of Deford.

The suit seeks damages in excess of $10,000, together with attorney fees, costs, and interests, for each of four counts.

One count seeks damages for claimed injuries sustained by Ida Jewett, a second count is for Charles Jewett, the third for Samantha and the fourth for Mr. and Mrs. Jewett for claimed deprivation of comfort and happiness since the accident.

The collision between the Jewett and Venema vehicles took place on M-81, near Crane Road.

A jury trial has been requested.

Emergency services full time job, retiring Kroswek says

stance, Caro has one or two and Unionville owns one large generator.

Kroswek applied for and received about $340,000 in federal emergency disaster funds to help pay for the cleanup. There was also $44,347 that came into the county from the American Red Cross. He has also obtained federal aid to help pay for snow storm cleanup costs.

IT WAS DUE TO HIS filling out the forms that the county has a civil defense center.

The original plan was to build a small basement under the new jail. Receipt of somewhere between $50,000-60,000 from Washington allowed a full basement to be constructed with shielding for protection from radiation in case of nuclear attack.

Although some of the rooms are used by the Cooperative Extension Service and the sheriff's office, the intent is to have room for an infirmary, sleeping quarters for 35 persons at a time, operations room and meeting room when the need arises.

THE COMMON CONCEPTION of his job, Kroswek explained, is that when there isn't an emergency, there isn't much to do.

That isn't a true picture, however, and for that reason, he commented, "I don't know how a part-time man can do it without running into difficulty."

Pulling some of his many loose-leaf binders from the shelf behind his desk, he pointed to the lists of fire departments and officers, police departments, departments of public works, private contractors, schools and churches and the number of persons that could be housed in case of emergency, school buses available and other such information.

All that, he said, must always be kept up to date in case of disaster. "This is what you're doing all the time, updating."

There are also the various federal disaster plans Kroswek must prepare, which require many meetings with local government officials.

THE LATEST WAS THE Crisis Relocation Plan which calls for millions of persons to be evacuated from large metropolitan areas to rural areas in case of imminent nuclear attack.

Tuscola county is supposed to host 160,000-170,000 persons from Macomb and St. Clair counties. (There would be 16,500 coming to Cass City in 5,510 cars.)

Kroswek originally had a low opinion of the plan, but has since changed his mind. There were 150,000 persons evacuated from within a 10-mile radius of the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant and 250,000 have been evacuated from the path of hurricanes without mishap.

"I guess this is maybe the only way we could save lives," he said of the nuclear evacuation plan.

A secondary advantage, he said, is "if you've prepared for nuclear attack, you'll be prepared for everything."

For instance, Kroswek has maps showing buildings where evacuees can stay and the number each will hold, eating places, reception centers, etc.

McCann, the new emergency services coordinator, will have to finish the plan.

NEXT WILL BE PREPARATION of a hazardous materials contingency plan in case of chemical spills, potential spills or similar mishaps, the federal manual for which recently arrived in the mail.

Kroswek won't be leaving all preparation for emergencies behind when he retires. He will continue to serve as the volunteer coordinator for the Michigan Heart Association cardiopulmonary resuscitation classes in the county.

He and his wife, Pat, who plans to keep working at the Caro Regional Center have two children, Larry, of Atlanta, Ga., and Marilou, who will be moving shortly from Caro to the Detroit area.

ON THE PHONE during his last day on the job Friday was Frank Kroswek, Tuscola County emergency services coordinator.

McCann to attempt combined 2-jobs-in-1

Does Tuscola County Veterans Counselor James McCann feel he can also handle the job of emergency services coordinator?

He thinks so, but there are a few "ifs."

The county Board of Commissioners voted Aug. 11 to combine the positions as a cost cutting measure, effective Sept. 28 for a six-month trial period.

McCann hasn't officially said he will accept the combined job. As of Friday,

Four graduate from Ferris State College

Four Cass Cityans have graduated from Ferris State College, Big Rapids.

Kimberly Hartwick Smentek received a B.S. degree in health services management. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Hartwick of 6823 E. Main Street.

Miss Hartwick married Thomas Smentek in June. The couple is now living in Danville, Ill., where she is seeking employment.

Sharla L. and Susan L. Hartwick both received B.S. degrees in pharmacy. They are now registered pharmacists and working at Voight's Pharmacy in Owosso.

The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Hartwick of 6653 Seed Street are 1970 graduates of Cass City High School.

Robert L. Brown II of 6420 Bay City-Forestville Road received an associate degree in architectural drafting technology.

position, he feels, didn't have any problem until he became ill.

He pointed out, however, that person has three secretaries. He has one, although the board has indicated he will be able to hire part-time help. "I think everything will work out fine if the board of commissioners sticks to its side of the bargain."

At the end of the six months, McCann said he will write a report to the board containing his recommendation whether the combined job should be continued.

He might not be around after that. The veterans counselor has started a videotaping business in Bay City (weddings, court depositions, etc.) and probably will make that his full-time occupation after the six months, he told the Chronicle.

normally served by Deford school.

The bigger concern, she continued, is the future of Deford Elementary.

From the number of pregnant women she has seen, she expressed hope enrollment at Deford will be increasing in a few years, which should increase its chances of survival.

Fred Matthews of Hadley Road, Decker, who ran unsuccessfully twice for the school board from the Evergreen area, commented the board's decision to consolidate the two kindergartens "sort of took me by surprise. I never expected anything like that."

Should enrollment continue to decline, he said, the alternatives would be either altering bus routes to send more students to the two rural schools or close one.

If the latter, he commented, "It isn't something they (the school board) would do very easily."

Ex-Kingston lumber man dies at 91

A Kingston native who became well known in the lumber industry, Lloyd A. Milliken, died Friday in a Southfield nursing home at age 91.

Milliken left Kingston in the early teen years and moved to Bay City, where he worked as a lumber grader on the shipping docks. He moved to Flint in 1920 and became a lumber buyer for the Dort Motor Co., which used wood in its car bodies.

About 1930, Milliken moved to Detroit and became the Midwest sales representative for several west coast lumber companies.

He and his son, Thomas, founded their wholesale mill work company, Milliken Millwork, Inc., in Detroit in 1953. The company now employs 25 persons and sells moldings, window and door frames and jams and mill work to lumber yards in the Detroit area.

He is survived by his wife, Jane, one daughter, four sons, 12 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday, with burial in White Chapel cemetery, Troy.

hicle was Thomas A. Kelly, 33, of 5491 Hartsell Road.

Mary Billow of 6809 Walsh Road, Gagetown, reported to village police at 3 a.m. Sunday that a car backed into her car while it was parked at the Charmont, then left.

Deputies reported that at 7:50 a.m. Monday, Carol Lynn Edwards, 30, of 3585 E. Dutcher Road, Cass City, was headed northeast on M-81, northeast of Hurds Corner Road, and her car struck a deer.

Driver of the other vehicle was Thomas A. Kelly, 33, of 5491 Hartsell Road.

4-team scrimmage set Thursday

Veteran line to key Hawk grid squad

If the Cass City Red Hawks can get by the first few games, Coach Don Schelke feels that there is a chance to repeat as champions of the Thumb B Association. That's a big if because the Hawks lost plenty from last year's team that shared the title with North Branch. Big loss was in the backfield. You can start with Tim Sontag, an all-stater who was a crushing defensive back and punishing runnerblocker at fullback. The rest of the offensive backfield is also gone. Brian deBeaubien at quarterback and Bob Sawdon and Phil Zawilinski at halfback gave the Hawks a talented crew that got better in every game and was devastating by the end of the year.

Besides the backs, there are some other holes to fill. Bob Leslie and Randy Severance were the ends and linebackers last year. Shawn Papp was a tough hitter and Clayton Harmer played guard.

There isn't a lot of size available this fall but there is some quickness and a cadre of experienced talented linemen headed by a pair of tackles, Jim Adkins and Chuck Erla, two of the three team captains.

Most of the other 12 lettermen are also linemen.

All are seniors except Dave Osentoski who earned a letter as a sophomore. From Osentoski and Terry Sweeney, Schelke is looking for big things. Around these veterans the team will rise or fall.

In the backfield, start with Captain Joe Decker. After that the positions are up for grabs.

At quarterback, Rick Pobanz is challenging Jim Crickon. Crickon was the back-up signal caller last year. Pobanz is a 6-2 junior who has shown promise.

It may be that Crickon will see double duty. He's definitely our safety man on defense, says Schelke.

At fullback will be Greg Hutchinson, who was shifted to the position late last season.

The other position is wide open and you'll probably see plenty of faces there in the early games.

Besides Pobanz, another junior who appears to be a football natural is Barry Lapp. He'll be at end. Jeff Loomis may have found a home at outside linebacker. The only sophomore on the team, Matt Lukshaitis, will see lots of work on defense.

There doesn't appear to be an outstanding favorite in the league this season. With four new coaches in the league anything can happen, Schelke feels. The Hawk mentor gives the edge to Lakers and Caro in his preseason estimates.

SCRIMMAGE GAME

Hawk fans can get a preview showing of the 1981 team Thursday at 7 p.m. at Cass City Recreational Park. Competing in a scrimmage will be Brown City, Uby, Akron-Fairgrove and Cass City. Everyone is invited and there is no charge.

Golfers qualify for state match

Four Cass City golfers qualified for the state finals in the annual Scramble Golf Tournament by winning a regional tournament held at Riverwood Golf Club Saturday in Mount Pleasant.

The golfers finished with a 9 under par 63 to top two teams tied for second with 64. Competing were Kurt Proctor, Tim Johnson, Mike Richards and Kim Glaspie.

The team qualified for the regionals in a tournament held at Scenic Golf Course at Pigeon. The finals will be held Sept. 19 at Arbor Hill Country Club.

Cross country team to run for dollars

The Cass City High School cross country team, male and female, will be running for money Friday to raise funds for the athletic program.

The run-a-thon will be conducted from 3:45-4:45 p.m., with each runner collecting pledges for each lap of the quarter-mile track run.

Boys' cross country coach Dennis Meck hopes everyone will complete at least four miles.

The money raised will go either directly to the cross country teams or to the Boosters Club.

Champion Hawk girls in cage rebuilding year

Defending Thumb B Association champion Cass City Red Hawks face a rebuilding year as the girls who powered the team to the title last season were primarily seniors.

The biggest shoes left to fill are those of Padgett Randall, the sweet shooting all-stater who played on the varsity for four years and holds all of the Hawks' scoring records.

That's just for starters. Gone is Beth Sieradzki, the aggressive play making guard. Gone is Shelley LaPeer, the aggressive forward who liked to play defense. Gone is Kelly Seurynck, the forward who helped turn the tide in several close games.

Also gone are Brenda Izydorek, Sharon Wells, Shelly Rabideau and Beabe McLachlan.

There are four girls back with experience. Carrie Lautner, a junior, moved into a starting position last year as a sophomore. She's lightning quick, a good ball handler, and Coach Lloyd Schinnerer says her shooting is much improved.

Michelle Fahrner will be called on to do yeoman duty around the boards. She logged lots of playing time last year at both center and forward and that's where she will be a fixture for Cass City in her junior year.

Those are the only two girls returning who chalked up lots of playing time. Two other girls earned letters. Kris Proctor, the only senior on the team, is a forward who showed flashes of fine play as a junior, and Jill Root was good enough to play on the championship squad as a sophomore.

Schinnerer will have to find a starting quintet from these four and five other girls who moved up from the junior varsity.

The coach sees the Hawks in a spoiler role this fall. He gives the nod to Marlette as the strongest team in the league. Sandusky ranks close and could be the surprise team in the loop, he feels. Lakers and Bad Axe are bracketed with Cass City as teams that will be involved in big upsets during the year.

Working out with the letter winners are Jamie Fox, a guard; Deanna Hempton, forward-guard; Laura Richards, forward-guard; Joy Root, forward, and Jill Hutchinson, forward-center.

Missing are Jim Cooklin, Ed Hewitt, Scott Albee, Scott Hurford.

Cass City team to beat in cross country races

If bigger is better, it should be a very good year for the Cass City High School cross country team.

This will be the fourth year coach Dennis Meck has been in charge and his 18 runners are the most yet.

I just think it's an accumulation over the years," he said in explaining the big turnout. "Cass City just might be coming into its own in cross country."

With only three seniors, the coach commented, "It's a young team, but it looks like a promising team."

Meck foresees improvement for the team's top runner, sophomore Gregg Bliss, who finished 15th last year in the state Class C finals.

No. 2 on the team should be senior Scott Hobart, back for his fourth year.

The coach is looking forward to his team improving on its fourth place finish in the Thumb B Conference last season. The Red Hawks had a 7-7 league mark and were 11-11 overall.

Home meets are conducted in the village park. Meets start at 4:30 p.m. unless otherwise noted:

Osentoski set for fast pitch finals

It's off to Coldwater Saturday for the Osentoski fast pitch softball team of Cass City which will play in the state Class C finals.

The team's lone game Saturday is at 3 p.m. The double-elimination tournament ends Monday.

The team, winner of the Class C regionals Aug. 22-23 in Flint, has a 60-16 win-loss record. During the season, it won the San-Cass League title and tournaments in Flint, Akron, Cass City and Freeport, finished second in one and third in two others.

Osentoski Realty and Auctioneering sponsors a slow pitch team in Bad Axe, which will be competing this week end in the state Class BB finals in Cadillac.

Coleman featured in article

Patty Coleman always liked to cook, according to her mother.

The daughter of Edward and Naida Doerr of Cass City was one of 12 apprentice chefs featured in an article in Sunday's Detroit Free Press Detroit magazine.

The article concerned completion of the first three-year American Culinary Federation apprenticeship program sponsored by its Michigan chapter, Michigan Chefs de Cuisine, and Oakland Community College. Twenty-five started the course, which according to the article was "marked by ridiculously long hours, hard physical work, low pay and copious logging of all foods handled."

The 12 graduates are now certified cooks. Mrs. Coleman, 28, served her apprenticeship at the Detroit Athletic Club and is now employed there. Her goal, according to her mother, is to own her own restaurant.

One of only two women to complete the course, she was quoted in the article that, "You experience a lot of sexual innuendo when you work in an occupation that's mostly men. But I've done everything at the DAC and I hope I've proven myself." She and her husband Bill live in Sterling Heights.

Singles club to meet

The New Life Singles Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Elkton United Methodist church auditorium.

There will be volleyball, games and refreshments and an opportunity to meet other singles in a "sharing and caring environment."

The club is open to persons who are 25 and older who are single, widowed or divorced.

Flames reach 100 feet

Fire destruction nearly total

By Emma Ackerman

Editor's note: This is the first of a series of articles about the Great Fire of 1881, originally written by Emma Ackerman of Cass City as a term paper for a history class at Central Michigan University in 1968. It has been condensed slightly.

To this day, it is difficult to determine which of the two great fires that swept the Thumb region of Michigan, in 1871 and 1881, was the more devastating.

It is safe to conclude, however, after examining the records, that both are considered among the worst conflagrations this nation has ever known.

The fire of 1871, according to a study made by a former Cass City resident, covered the Thumb more extensively and "except for small islands which the fire jumped, the destruction was complete."

Another source of information described the fire of 1881 as "raging with the violence of that 10 years before and with even more disastrous results, because at this latter date, there was a greatly increased population and more valuable improvements in the way of buildings, orchards, fences, and bridges than formerly." It is reasonable to assume that the fire of 1871 destroyed a greater amount of timber, but that the fire of 1881 took a greater number of lives and a greater loss of homes and property.

Records also show that the fire of 1871 started in the western part of Michigan and spread across the entire state, working its greatest havoc in the Thumb area, particularly Huron, and Sanilac counties, whereas the fire of 1881 was confined to the Thumb alone, including Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac, and Lapeer counties.

Looking first at the causes of these two fateful events, the 1871 calamitous fire was made possible by the "cut and get" Maine lumbermen who harvested the forested area. The cork pine, a high grade of white pine, which originally flourished throughout the Cass River Valley, as well as other areas in the central portion of the lower peninsula of Michigan, was unequaled in quality anywhere in the country and a rich prize for the lumbermen.

Records indicated that some sawmills were in operation in the Thumb area as early as the 1830s and that by the 1850's, considerable lumbering was taking place. The first shipment of Saginaw white pine reached to Albany, N.Y., by way of the Great Lakes and the Erie Canal in 1847.

So extensive were their operations that by the early 1870's they had fairly depleted the area of the white pine, leaving behind huge stumps, discarded trees, and endless heaps of slashings.

These conditions combined with the extreme hotness and dryness of the summer of 1871, set the stage for the first holocaust, which began Oct. 8. Brush fires were prevalent in many parts of the state as the tinder dry slashings were being burned in the clearings.

A peculiar atmospheric condition swept over Michigan in the form of a hot wave, bringing a southwest gale that reached the proportions at times of a tornado. It was described as a "gigantic blowpipe which fed oxygen to flames that withered and consumed everything."

The city of Holland in Ottawa county was completely destroyed in but a few hours. At about the same time, a blaze starting at a saw mill on the Manistee River nearly wiped out the city of Manistee. It also quickly destroyed Grayling and raged through Big Rapids. From here it followed the slash-loaded timbering trail through Isabella, Midland, and Bay counties before it was temporarily halted in Gratiot county where there was little or no lumbering.

Later that evening, the fire again came to life, jumped the Cass River and started racing upstream feeding on the brush and cuttings along the way. It followed a rather narrow strip until it reached Caro, from which point it spread out to cover a vast area.

Probable explanation for this was the fact that settlers on new farms in the Thumb area were firing their fallows in the usual custom, to prepare the land for cultivation, so that fires were already burning in the clearings or quietly smoldering in the old stumps or trunks of decayed trees. As the powerful winds swept in the new blaze, all those already in progress burst forth with such rapidity spreading the conflagration in all directions. Flames reached a height of 100 feet and formed a solid wall for miles.

Thirty hours from the time the inferno started at Manistee, it reached the Thumb area, where for two days and two nights it raged mercilessly. Finally on Tuesday morning, gentle rains began to fall, putting an end to one of the nation's worst fires.

By coincidence, the great Chicago fire started also on the night of Oct. 8 of the same year, and for the following two days and nights destroyed most of the city. Chicago at the time was built largely of Michigan white pine, a highly inflammable wood. While the people of Michigan were responding to the governor's call for relief to the stricken city, word came drifting downstate of the terrible calamity within their own borders.

CAR FIRE -- Fireman Todd Alexander and another one lost in the smoke attempt to extinguish a fire Monday evening in the engine compartment of the car of W.E. Walpole.

Damages set at $1400 in Cass City car fire

Damage was estimated at $1,400 to a car that burned on Main Street Monday evening.

Owner was W.E. Walpole of 4621 Seeger Street, who had parked the 1980 car by the Quaker Maid store. When he returned from the store, the car was smoking. He tried to start it and it started burning.

First on the scene was village police officer Michael Pine, who used a fire extinguisher to try to extinguish the blaze. He and some bystanders were unable to get the hood open all the way because it was too hot to reach in and release the safety latch.

Elkland township firemen got the hood open and used an extinguisher and high pressure hose to put out the fire.

They believe the fire started from the engine backfiring, which presumably happened before Walpole went into the store. They received the call at 7:56 p.m.

Damage was confined to the engine compartment and hood.

Taking Stock

What about money market funds — are they safe? That's the question I get every day.

The callers remind me that money market funds are not insured, such as deposits under $100,000 in banks and savings and loans.

This column does not defend money market funds categorically. With 100 or so funds in existence, there are likely some scaly ones.

Basically, though, the "money markets" have two built-in features of safety — their type of investments and the soft maturities. They invest roughly about half in U.S. Treasury bills and short-term government obligations. The other half is in the CDs of large banks, and the "commercial paper" or short-term notes of the top corporations. Changing interest rates have little effect on short-term obligations, because the security has to return to par at maturity time. The money markets average around 30 days at the maturity of their investments.

A year ago the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons contracted with Federated Securities Corp., of Pittsburgh to run a money market fund which invested in only government securities.

In one year, the fund has attracted 400,000 depositors and $1.7 billion in deposits — an average of over $4,000 per investor.

Federated Securities has been around for quite a while, and has managed other mutual funds. They're not a Johnny-come-lately in the field. My own fears that AARP had tied up with some amateurs seem unfounded.

A recent yield quoted me by Joe Gaetano of the fund was 15.76 percent and the average maturity of obligations was 22 days.

Original investment must be at least $500. Additional investments must be $100 or more. Checks ($500 minimum) may be written without limit.

If your account gets below $500, you have about 60 days to get it back to the minimum.

Technically, you should be a member of NRTA or AARP. However, Federated isn't fussy about this, and with 400,000 investors I'd guess they aren't spending much time enforcing this requirement.

One employee in Federated suggested an applicant who is a non-member just put in the space about membership "Application pending."

Since the fund is all in government securities, you get 1 to 1½ percent less return than in most other money markets. That's your cost if you want this extra safety. It's still a whopping big return on your money.

You can Bank on It!

Q. I think I may have a problem. During a recent country move, several of my Series E Savings Bonds were misplaced. I have no record of their serial numbers or any other record of them. Can they be traced?

A. Your problem may be solved by the government which, fortunately, registers savings bonds under the name or social security number of the buyer. Your next move is to write to the Claims Department, Bureau of the Public Debt, 200 Third Street, Parkersburg, W. Va. 26101, giving your name, social security number, and if possible, the approximate dates of purchase and denominations. The Bureau will send some forms which you complete and return, after which replacement bonds or the cash equivalent will be sent to you.

FREE STUDENT LUNCH POLICY

The Cass City Board of Education has adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility for children unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch and U.S.D.A. Donated Foods Programs.

Total Family Size	"A" Scale for Free Meals	"B" Scale for Reduced Price Meals
1	$ 5,600	$ 7,970
2	7,400	10,530
3	9,190	13,080
4	10,990	15,630
5	12,780	18,190
6	14,570	20,740
7	16,370	23,290
8	18,160	25,840
Each Additional Family Member	1,790	2,550

These are the income guidelines effective September 1, 1981.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free meals or reduced price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

If you have applied for free or reduced price benefits in other school years, you will note some changes on the application form. The application now requires the name and social security number of all adult family members.

To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application forms contain a statement above the space of signature certifying that all information furnished in the application is true and correct. An additional statement is added to warn that the application is being made in connection with the receipt of Federal funds, that school officials may verify the source of information in the application, including family composition and income, and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable State and criminal statutes.

In certain cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If you have foster children living with you and wish to apply for such meals for them, please notify us or indicate it on the application.

Children of unemployed parents may qualify for free or reduced price meals if total current family income including welfare payments, unemployment compensation and sub-pay benefits fall within the prescribed family income guidelines.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, creed, color, or national origin.

Under the provisions of the policy the school principals will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Donald Crouse, Superintendent of the Cass City Public Schools, for a hearing to appeal the decision.

Ten members of the Owendale High School Class of 1951, plus their spouses, held their 30-year reunion Saturday evening at Sherwood on the Hill in Gagetown.

Also attending were Oscar Dondeau, who was a class member but didn't graduate with them, and his wife, from Birch Run, and three of the class's teachers, Victor Forman and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis.

A moment of silence was observed for the two deceased members of the class, Albert Brining and Bill McCallum. Jeanette McDonald gave a reading called "Memories in Memory" for both of them and read a poem written by her and Mrs. Donald McCallum called "Bill" in memory of McCallum.

Numerous prizes of a humorous nature were awarded to each person present. Everyone also received a gift wrapped brick from the original high school building constructed in 1913, which had been torn down since the last reunion to make way for the new addition.

It was voted to have another reunion in 1986 with the same committee in charge.

Popular books

William Holmes McGuffey, well-known educator and author of the famous "McGuffey Readers," was born near Claysville, Pa., Sept. 23, 1800. Eventual sales of his "Readers," popular as a standard text for almost a century, topped 122 million. McGuffey's birthplace is now one of the historic structures at Greenfield Village in Dearborn.
