

HAPPY SLIDE -- Deford Elementary School youngsters are enjoying the fruits of their labors on this circular slide. It cost them $2,800. Students during the past two years raised $3,602 from various fund raising projects, with the money used to buy the slide, library furniture and various items for classrooms. Enjoying the slide last Wednesday were members of Betty Murphy's fifth grade class.

Payless paydays resume

Owen-Gage School Board seeks 3 mills to keep district afloat

With its financial back to the wall, the Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education voted Monday to schedule a special election as soon as possible to seek an additional three mills for three years for school operations.

The election has since been scheduled Monday, Nov. 2.

What precipitated the decision was the announcement by Supt. Ronald Erickson that the district has again run out of money to pay its staff. The last payday was Friday and unless some state or federal money comes in, pay won't resume until property tax revenue starts coming in in December.

ber.

The superintendent had earlier predicted the district would be out of money in November and explained after the meeting, "My prediction was wrong."

Owen-Gage only has enough money in its treasury, about $31,000, to pay essential bills, such as insurance. Its payroll every other Friday runs about $34,000.

Teachers and other staff members went from March to late July or early August this year without pay. The district was able to reimburse them from the $395,000 it borrowed in tax anticipation notes.

In making his recommendation to the board, Erickson explained he had hoped the Michigan Supreme Court would rule in the key Goslin property transfer case before the board set the millage rates to go on December tax bills. The decision is still being awaited. "We have to do something or we will fall back so far, we can't make it up," Erickson said.

The board did set the millage rates for December tax bills: 23.75 mills for operations, which includes the 2.25 mill increase approved by voters in June; 7 for the 1967 debt levy, and 2.5 mills for the 1976 debt levy. The total of 26.95 mills is 1.55 more than levied last year. Although the operating levy went up, as did the 1967 levy by .2 mill to .7, the 1976 levy was reduced from 3.4 mills last year to 2.5.

The added three mills, if approved by voters, will go on December tax bills.

Owen-Gage is about $350,000 in debt, according to the superintendent, which would take an additional nine mills to pay off all at once. A levy of three mills for three years will allow a gradual recovery, although in the interim there will be some more periods of payless paydays, he warned.

The district's budget is about $1 million a year.

Tight money supply limits Cass City board

The Cass City School Board attempted to figure out ways to improve curriculums and improve financial reports at its regular meeting Monday at the school.

All of the plans floated across the board table, fluttered and died or were severely wounded by the restraint that hampers all systems today . . . lack of money.

Dick Albee, treasurer, before he approved the bills said that the bus repair bills presented were not complete enough. He also said that the board should receive a monthly expenditure to budget comparison each month.

The board has not received a report of this type this year, but normally, Supt. Don Crouse said, a report of the money spent to date and the money budgeted for each department is presented. Albee also wanted to see a financial report on the Cass City Boosters contributions for extracurricular activities.

The opening weeks of school are traditionally a busy time of the year and the budget report was omitted for the month.

Crouse said that the information requested by Albee would require extra help or buying shared time on a computer.

A computer would increase costs substantially. There would be a $2,000 programming fee plus an operating cost of $1.50 per pupil for the year. In the system there are just under 2,000 pupils. That put the plan on hold.

Albee also called for closer examination of bills and asked Jim Fox, transportation director, to see that the bus repair bills are more clearly itemized. He said that charges have varied for the same product on different statements.

NO CHANGE

A request by Bonnie Smerdon to enter a government class open only to seniors was denied by the board. Smerdon is a junior but could graduate after three years if she could work in the required class. She has the credits.

Principal Russ Richards said that if Smerdon were allowed into the class there were several others waiting to do the same thing and where do you draw the line?

Evergreen may lose 6th grade

Evergreen School will probably be the victim of the numbers game again next year. The declining enrollment is expected to force the moving of the sixth grade to Cass City Schools next fall.

There will be some 17 pupils in the sixth grade next year. In the sixth at Cass City class size runs from 30 to 34. By moving the Evergreen class to Cass City and dividing the five classes equally there will be about 31 students in each class.

It will be the second consolidation in two years at Evergreen. This year the kindergarten of Deford and Evergreen were combined.

The change next year will make both Evergreen and Deford offer the same number of grades . . . through the fifth.

Tragic shooting p. 82-year-old behind bars

A shooting south of Kingston Friday evening left one man dead and an 82-year-old man behind bars.

Charged with second degree murder and possession of a firearm in commission of a felony in the death of Samuel Witold Ozorowicz, 59, of 5650 Center Line Road, Kingston, is John Crawford of 6725 Cartwright Road, Kingston.

The victim's sister, Wanda Biston, said of the two men, "They were like father and son."

She told the Chronicle, "I believe in my heart it was an accident."

The shooting took place outside Crawford's home, about 1½ miles east of Kingston Road, about 6:30 p.m. The nearest neighbors live more than a quarter-mile away.

Prosecutor Artis Noel, who was sparse with details Tuesday, partially because the police investigation was still underway, said Ozorowicz was a passenger in a car driven by David Goff of Clifford. The car was apparently in Crawford's driveway or backing out.

Three shots were fired, he said. The victim was dead by the time the first officer arrived.

The prosecutor did not know who reported the shooting to the sheriff's department. Crawford was at his home when deputies arrived. The shotgun used in the shooting is now in the possession of the department.

He declined comment as to specifically what happened or a motive, partly because he did not have all the information yet.

He did say the two men were there apparently to collect some money Crawford owed to one of them.

The decision to charge Crawford with second degree murder, he explained, was based on the information given by the witness, the man driving the car, that the gun was pointed at someone.

Second degree murder is described as deliberate, characterized by a sudden or instantaneous desire to kill. (First degree is deliberate, but premeditated.) The sentence can range from one year in prison, plus a mandatory two years for the possession of a firearm charge, to life.

If the defendant were found guilty of the lesser charge of voluntary manslaughter (killing without intent to do so), he could receive from probation to 15 years in prison.

Crawford, who has been held in the Tuscola county jail since his arrest following the shooting, was arraigned Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled a pre-preliminary examination this coming Monday and preliminary examination Friday, Sept. 25. He denied bond.

Noel said the defendant was accompanied by his son, Richard, who has hired attorney William Drillock of Marlette to represent his father.

A neighbor of Crawford, Lottie Manski, told the Chronicle, "He was very mild. Everybody liked him." As for Ozorowicz, whom she also knew, she said, "That man was his best friend."

Crawford, who will be 83 Sept. 29, is a widower. He lived alone, did his own washing and cooking, and still drives a car and tractor. Mrs. Manski said. He had lived on Cartwright Road more than 16 years. Before he retired, he had been a street car conductor and taxi driver in Detroit.

Like Mrs. Biston, Mrs. Manski, who lives a half-mile away from Crawford, felt what happened must have been an accident. "Sam and Mr. Crawford, they were almost always together," she said of the two men's friendship.

Ozorowicz was born Dec. 12, 1921, in Romulus. He had lived in the Kingston area since 1937.

He was divorced. He is survived by four daughters, Lenora, Sandusky, and Barbara, all of Kingston; three sons, Donald, Andy and Curtis, all of Kingston; two brothers, Earnest of Styles, Wis., and Stanley of Empire; and two sisters, Wanda Biston, Kingston, and Gertrude Walkiewicz, Deford.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Harmon Funeral Home, Kingston, Rev. Gilson Miller of the Kingston United Methodist Church officiating, under the auspices of Kingston Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5317.

Burial was in White Chapel Cemetery, Troy.

Ozorowicz farmed and was a former employee of the Caro Regional Center.

TRANQUILITY INTERRUPTED -- Samuel Ozorowicz lost his life Friday when he was shot outside the home of John Crawford on Cartwright Road, 2½ miles south of Kingston. Crawford has been charged with second degree murder.

Ubly voters okay three-mill renewal

Ubly School District residents Monday approved renewal of 3 mills for school operations, but rejected an additional one mill levy.

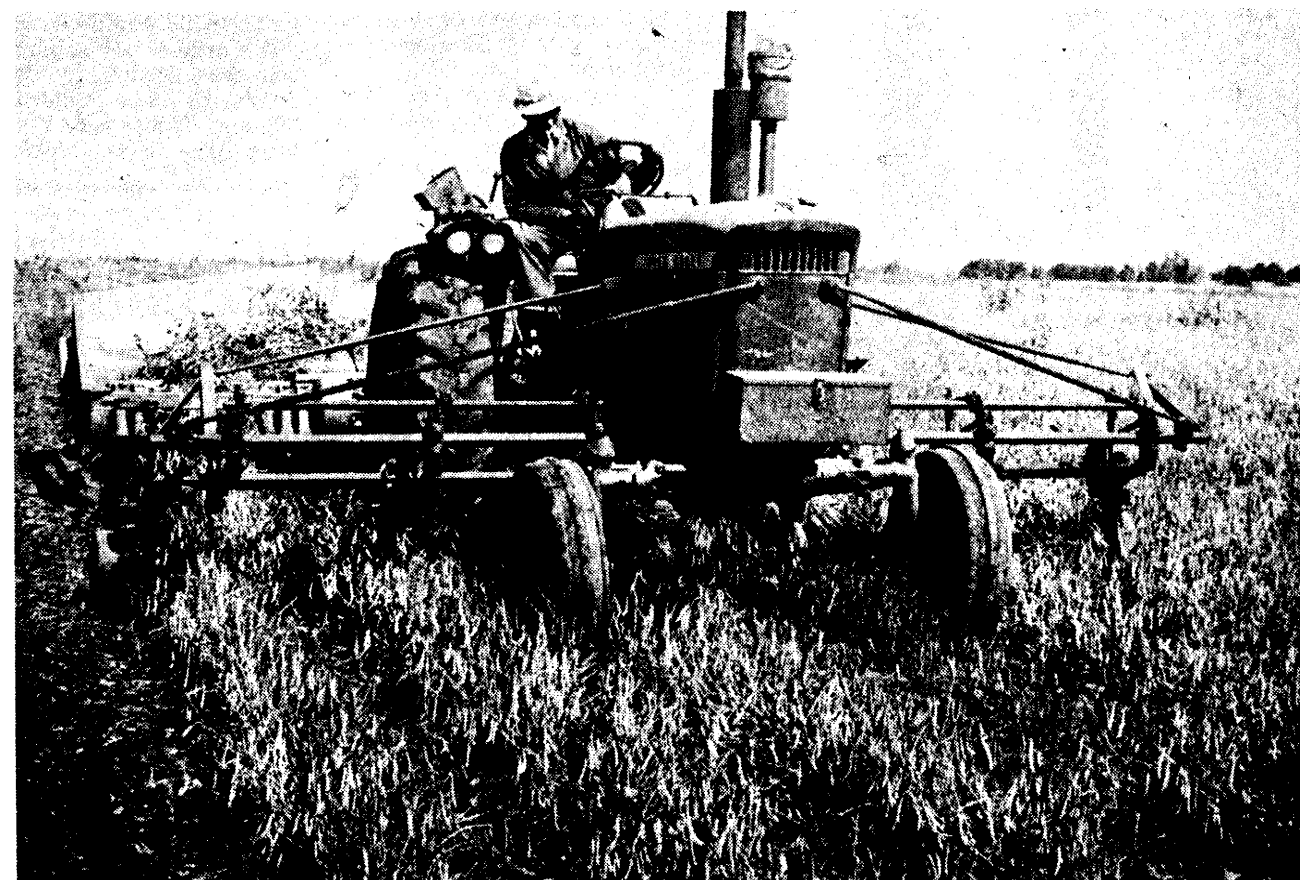

The renewal, which is for three years, was approved, 596-492. The added levy, also for three years, was defeated, 670-418. One vote was spoiled on each ballot question.

A total of 1,089 votes were cast, which is about 42 percent of the eligible voters.

"Right now, we're delighted with the three-mill renewal," said Supt. David Landeryou Tuesday. He said that will be enough to get Ubly through the present school year without further cutbacks and hopefully have a balanced budget by June 30.

The aim, he said, will be to also get the district through the 1982-83 and 1983-84 school years without a millage increase. Ubly doesn't have any millage up for renewal until 1984.

BEAN HARVEST -- Jim Reagh was pulling beans in this field on M-81, west of Cass City, Tuesday. He said the rain damaged crop didn't look too good, but as he hadn't combined any yet, didn't know the yield. (See story page 12.)

If you remember when Art Paddy was a respected, winning coach in Cass City in the 50's you're a real oldtimer. Paddy always did it his way or he didn't do it at all when he coached. The rumor mill at the time said that was the reason he was out at Orchard Lake St. Mary after piloting that school's football team to a State championship.

Now Paddy is back doing what he loves to do most. This time at Ortonville-Bradon.

Evidently he hasn't lost his touch. He took a team with a 1-8 record last season and won his opening game Friday against Capac, 38-0.

There's good news and bad news for members of the Cass City School District. The good news is that there was $8,000 more left at the end of the year than anticipated.

The bad news is that there are 37 less pupils in school than anticipated. The real bad news is that means there will be a net loss of $10,000 in funds available for school operation.

This corner has always endorsed a free exchange of complaints, ideas and information between district members and board trustees.

But there can be too much of a good thing and it may have been reached Monday night.

When the discussion arose concerning a student being allowed in a class normally closed to other than seniors all interested persons outlined their positions not once but three times.

The remarks the second and third time around offered nothing new and just dragged out a meeting needlessly.

Everyone should be allowed to speak once, and if the board needs clarification it can ask for it.

While we are at it, one more item about the school board. We were pleased to see that Trustee E. Thresa Burnette asked that a vote be clarified in the official minutes.

It read that a vote was 5-0 in favor with one abstention. She wanted the name of the person who didn't vote.

All minutes should record the results of a contested vote by name.

There's not one chance in 1000 that anyone would ever want to wade through the minutes to find how a trustee voted. But if they did the minutes should tell them, loud and clear.

Hospital honors auxiliary members

Hills and Dales General Hospital honored its Hospital Auxiliary members last Thursday at a luncheon. Fifty-two members attended. The luncheon was highlighted by presentation of pins to the Auxiliary members for hours of service. The members spend many hours of service helping the hospital in management of the gift shop, volunteer messenger service and various fund raising programs. Fifty-one women were presented with pins by hospital Administrator Ken Jensen on behalf of the board of trustees for having volunteered the minimum of 25 hours to the hospital in one year.

Six received pins for working more than 250 hours. They were Marie Jetta, 250 hours; Maxine Clara 265 hours; Georgine Jensen, 306 hours; Betty Greenleaf, 280 hours; Carolyn Martin, 400 hours, and Janet Francis, 502 hours.

The recognition luncheon has become an annual event at Hills and Dales. This was the first year pins were awarded for service. The program included a poem written about the Auxiliary by Isabelle Wright.

The organization is looking for new members, male and female. If interested, contact Mrs. Clayton Hartwick.

By Jim Fitzgerald

"You sound like Adolph Hitler," I told Marie, then added, "My God, you're the last person in the world I ever thought I'd say that to."

We were talking about child abuse. Marie was angered by newspaper articles about a mother who apparently confined her three-year-old daughter to a filthy room and refused to feed her.

"Women like that should be sterilized," Marie had said. "They shouldn't be allowed to have children."

I was surprised. Marie is a middle-aged, middle-class mother and one of the nicest persons I know. Usually, she never speaks unkindly to anyone, or about anyone. She frets about every stray child or animal she sees, and her husband has to physically restrain her from bringing them home. Her family and friends love her dearly.

But here was that lovable woman talking like Hitler. Surely she couldn't mean it.

"I do mean it," she insisted. "That woman has over a dozen children and is pregnant again. She is too ignorant or too religious to use birth control. There's no sign of a father. Taxpayers like us give her the money to buy food for her children, and then she doesn't even feed one of them. And I know wonderful young couples who want children but can't afford to have them because their taxes are too high. That's tragic."

"I'm sick to death of women like that having children only to make them suffer," Marie said. "Every one involved would be better off if those kids were never born."

Was she saying every woman on welfare should be prevented from having children?

"No," she said. "I realize many wonderful mothers are on welfare, and their children are lucky to have them. I also know that most people on welfare would rather have jobs, but can't find them. There's nothing wrong with these people having children, but they shouldn't have more than they — or the taxpayers — can afford."

How many is that?

"A woman on ADC should be told she will be paid benefits for only two kids. If she has more than that, she is on her own."

But that would cause innocent children to suffer, and that's what bugged Marie in the first place. It isn't a kid's fault if he is born the third or 12th child of a welfare mother.

"I know; that's the awful part," she conceded, "and that's why sterilization is better. Women who don't care if their children suffer, or don't know any better, should be prevented from having more children to be abused."

Who would decide which women should be sterilized, and who would enforce the decisions? Storm troopers?

Marie's resolve wavered. She conceded that using sterilization to fight child abuse could create a greater evil, reminiscent of Hitler and his super race. "But what is a better answer?" she asked.

My answer is that ignorance is the problem and education the only answer that makes sense. Among many other things, people must be taught the tremendous advantages of voluntary birth control, and how to accomplish it. And religions that teach otherwise must somehow be dragged into the 20th Century.

But education is the long-run solution. In the short run, the system must deal with the results of ignorance, and the system stinks. The best example of this stench was buried a news story about the starved three-year-old girl. A citizen had reported to a social services agency that the child was being abused, but no one did anything about it for three days, an agency official explained, because "it was a Friday."

My God. Reports of a child abuse should be answered quicker than fire alarms. A society that will tolerate a system that won't work week ends to rescue an abused child is not a civilized society.

And it's not surprising that a nice woman would become so angered by child abuse that she could, for just a few minutes, sound like Hitler. Her frustration is an accurate measure of the deep trouble we're all in up to our necks. It's way past time to get out.

Crime complaints increase to 744 in August

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department recorded 744 criminal complaints in August, a sharp increase from the 689 received in July but only one more than in June.

Traffic complaints (accidents, reckless drivers, etc.) totaled 194, followed by vandalism, 91; larcenies, 79; disorderly conduct, 58; domestic problems, 56, and burglaries, 41.

Deputies issued 246 traffic tickets, including 125 for speeding and 22 for defective equipment.

Thirty-four persons were arrested, including 15 for traffic-related offenses.

There were 18 appearance tickets issued, of which eight were for purchase, possession or transportation of liquor by a minor.

The county jail took in 129 inmates in August, of whom 12 were females, and released 133.

Patrol cars traveled 43,829 miles and consumed 3,387.2

gallons of gasoline (12.9 miles per gallon).

Cass City police made one arrest in August for obstruction of justice and one for a traffic-related offense.

Caro state police made 16 arrests, of which 10 were for traffic.

Kingston police arrested five persons, two for traffic and one each for liquor law violation, probation violation and violation of the controlled substances act.

Gagetown police arrested one person each for disorderly conduct, traffic and obstruction of justice.

The number of respective complaints received from and accidents in area townships and villages in August were: Columbia, 11 and 2; Elklund, 17 and 0; Cass City, 60 and accidents not recorded by sheriff's department; Ellington, 11 and 2; Elmwood, 11 and 2; Kingston township, 18 and 3; Kingston village, 6 and accidents not recorded, and Novesta, 24 and 3.

The Haire Net

Most things run in streaks, good or bad, and column writing is no exception.

At times good ideas abound and hammering out 300 words or so takes at most a half hour. At other times I'd rather not think about it.

Many ideas come from reading the news of the day. Others from the activities of the community.

Often you have opinions to express after reading stories, but there's a hesitancy about expressing them because they have been expressed before or they may not be of enough general interest.

Discussed here often has been the health insurance problem. It bounced into focus again when Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield was reported to be seeking a 42 percent rate hike.

That's one of those topics of general interest. Many, many of you are covered by Blue Cross. But it doesn't qualify as a subject for a full column because it's nothing new.

As pointed out numerous times before, the only real answer is to make it to the self-interest of subscribers not to use the insurance unless absolutely necessary. The way to do that is to make every policy with a deductible of $250 or so.

It would also help if the board of directors were restricted to persons without a conflict of interest running the company. Physicians and others in the medical care business have an obvious benefit in making it as easy as possible to use pre-paid insurance.

It isn't only the Blues that are at fault here, but they merit the most attention because they are by far the biggest.

A graphic example is the growing dental care insurance programs. I know a family that received dental care prior to being covered by a company plan and then received just about identical service paid for through an insurance plan. What happened? The price doubled.

That's enough about insurance for today. Any more and I wouldn't have room for a couple of other thoughts that have been waiting to surface.

The second was sparked by a story saying that the Detroit city council was reviewing the policy of issuing liquor licenses freely by relaxing zoning regulations.

The trouble was that the new stores were pushing some of the long established stores out of business. As an uninterested bystander it seems to me that it would make more sense for the city and the Liquor Control Commission to back off entirely and let the free market decide who sells the booze.

It's sure, judging by prices in other states without state price controls like Michigan has, that the price would come down.

There's a topic of more local concern that has been floating around waiting to surface that has as much interest or more than the price of insurance or booze.

That's the effort to raise money for extracurricular activities, primarily sports.

The volunteers are doing yeoman duty and already have the cash for fall and winter extracurricular activities. The prospects are bright for spring sports as well.

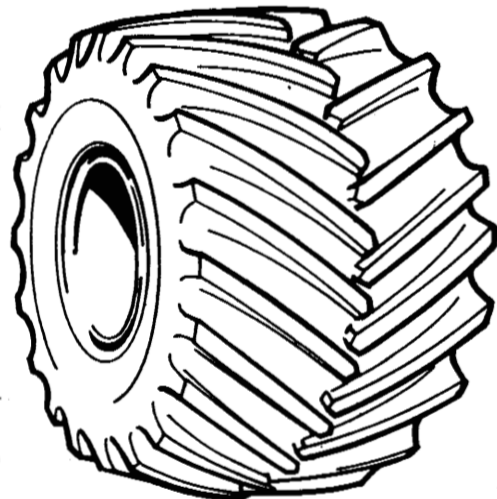

That's a wonderful effort for this year. But it's like applying a tourniquet to stop a bleeding artery.

Eventually it has to be loosened and the artery repaired.

The school tourniquet has done its job for this year. It should be regarded as a patch and if the voters say no next year that, regretfully, should end it.

A few can't pay the bills for the majority forever.

School programs have to be supported by school taxes.

Attracting business

By Mike Eliasohn

This fall's legislative session will be interesting.

When it's over, Michigan will either have improved its climate for attracting and keeping business or increased the necessity for individuals to move to the South or West, because that's where the jobs will be.

We citizens and the legislature are somewhat at the mercy of business interests, it should be emphasized, because they have what we want — jobs.

The business of business, of course, is to make money, and it is going to go where it can make the most of it. Presumably, the more money a business makes, the more jobs it provides.

Somewhere lurks a poll of business leaders that ranked Michigan as the worst of the 48 contiguous states in which to do business.

There are lots of persons — all of them in Michigan — who disagree. More important, however, is what those who make the decisions where to build the industrial plants believe. If they believe Michigan is the worst place, they will build their new factories elsewhere or close their plants in Michigan and relocate them elsewhere.

Unfortunately, the prognosis for the legislature changing those things that give business is still up in the air. Whatever business says it needs, there is someone else, usually representing labor, who says it isn't needed.

Take workers' compensation. Reforms enacted by the legislature last year haven't gone far enough, says business. The program cost Michigan businesses $600 million more a year than the average cost for compensation systems in Ohio, Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois, according to a recent Detroit Free Press article.

But Sam Fishman, executive director of the United Auto Workers Michigan Community Action Program and a power within the state Democratic Party, says the problem is the "ripoff rates" insurance companies charge businesses for workers' compensation.

Take unemployment compensation. To reduce its costs, business is proposing requiring waiting a week before a laid off worker can begin to collect jobless benefits, freezing current benefits levels and tightening other eligibility rules.

Such unions as the UAW and AFL-CIO intend to fight the proposed changes.

One of the issues the legislature plans to tackle this fall is tax reform, that is reductions for business and individuals.

Business is arguing that property tax cuts should apply to commercial and industrial property, as well as for homeowners and farmers. Also being sought is a reduction in and reform of the single business tax.

Any proposals enacted this time won't go on the ballot. Will anybody complain if they don't get to vote on a tax cut?

Other items expected to be reviewed by the legislature this fall include regulatory reform, including environmental regulations, state imposed ceilings on interest rates and a requirement that plants with more than 100 employees would have to give at least one year's notice before closing or ordering large layoffs.

Not all of Michigan's problems, of course, are of its own making.

It's tough, for instance, for our state to keep its tough environmental standards when the Reagan administration wants to turn a lot of such enforcement back to the states. That means a state that isn't fussy about what gets dumped into its waters attracts more business, while Michigan, which does care, loses it.

There may be too much regulation coming from Washington, but sometimes less isn't the best solution.

The Literary Digest, a prominent publication at the turn of the century, proudly proclaimed in its October, 1899, issue that the horseless carriage would never become as popular as the bicycle.

EVERYTHING including a kitchen sink was on sale Saturday at the Cass City Boosters Club rummage sale and auction in the ex-Damm Implement building. Proceeds totaled $1,005.

Elkland oks farmland pact

The Elkland Township Board Monday evening gave its consent to a Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) agreement between the state and David and Phyllis Bell for three parcels they own.

Two are in section 2, 76 and 75.82 acres, and the other, 58 acres, is in section 21.

Liquor commission rejects license for Deford bar

The Novesta Township Board has been notified by the state Liquor Control Commission that it has rejected Eugene Kaake's application for a tavern license to operate a bar in Deford.

Township Clerk Nurse Kloc received the letter from the LCC Saturday. It was read to the board at its meeting Monday evening.

The letter said Kaake's application was rejected Aug. 26 because of the board's vote at its Aug. 3 meeting opposing the tavern license.

The letter said also Kaake can request a hearing before the LCC within 20 days of when it was mailed. The letter was dated Sept. 9.

Kaake said following the board's decision in August that he would be filing suit against it. As of Tuesday, no suit had been filed in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

He told the Chronicle Tuesday evening the matter is in the hands of his attorney. The lawyer, Brian R.

Schrope of Caro, couldn't be reached for comment by press time Wednesday.

In other action, the board gave its okay to Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) agreements for five parcels owned by Ed Lebioda and two owned by Ron Patera, both of Severance Road. Lebioda's parcels total 349.5 acres; Patera's, 233.6. The agreements are between the property owners and the state.

There was discussion about the comment of Caro Village Manager Donald Duggar, chairman of the county solid waste advisory committee, quoted in an area newspaper, that Tuscola county's two landfills apparently have capacity for 20 more years of trash.

One of the two landfills is owned by the village of Cass City and is located in Novesta township.

"We're a little unhappy we have nothing to say about it," Mrs. Kloc commented.

Shotguns, shoes stolen from home

Bruce Holcomb of 4413 West Street reported to Cass City police last Wednesday that two shotguns and three pairs of shoes were stolen from his home.

Taken were a Remington 12-gauge shotgun, a 50-year-old Stevens 16-gauge double barrel shotgun, two pairs of dress shoes, one pair of cowboy boots and one pair of basketball shoes, all size 11.

The items were apparently taken between June 12 and July 12, while he was away. Value of the missing items wasn't listed in the police report.

Ray Dearing of The Station, 6444 Main Street, told village police at 12:50 a.m. Saturday that a man had broken a front window by putting his fist through it.

Dearing told officers he would not seek prosecution if the man agreed to reimburse him for the damage, which he later agreed to do.

Fifty members of Echo Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, attended the Sept. 9 meeting.

Highlight of the meeting was the annual memorial service. Lois Binder presided, assisted by Virginia Hartwick, Vera Hoadley and Glenda Wilson. The ceremony was in memory of eight chapter members who died during the past year: Leona Stevens, Gertrude Falkenhagen, Fritz Neitzel, Wallace Laurie, Harold Murphy, Ernest Beardsley, Archie McLachlan and J.C. Hutchinson.

During the business session with Worthy Matron Marian Umpfenbach presiding, 14 officers answered roll call. Betty Greenleaf reported for the sunshine committee and Virginia Hartwick for the ways and means committee.

Announcements included an invitation to a friends night meeting Sept. 28 at Uby; installation of DeMolay officers at the local temple Sept. 19 and installation of officers Oct. 24 at Sandusky.

The next meeting will be Oct. 7, one week early because of the coming grand chapter session Oct. 13-15 in Kalamazoo. Election of officers will highlight the Oct. 7 meeting.

Members signed a birthday card to be sent to Anna Krug, a resident at the Masonic home in Alma, who was marking her 85th birthday Sept. 9.

Refreshments were served buffet style in the temple dining room at the close of the meeting by Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson and their committee.

Glaucoma often goes undetected

By Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

In the United States alone, about 800,000 cases of glaucoma are undetected.

Glaucoma, a rapidly destructive eye disease, is characterized by high pressure within the eyeball, says a booklet from the American Medical Association.

This pressure causes deterioration of the optic nerve and can lead to blindness.

The latest figures show that 12 percent of all blindness in the United States results from glaucoma. With proper medical treatment, however, visual damage can be prevented.

Common forms of glaucoma usually are found during a routine eye examination because symptoms are often not present. Blurring of vision, especially if the disease worsens and spreads, indicates that the disorder is well underway.

Glaucoma occurs most often in patients more than 40 years old and is occasionally inherited.

Patients in this age group, especially those with a family history of eye disease, who suffer repeated symptoms of aching or discomfort of the eye without satisfactory relief from eye-glasses, should have a glaucoma test.

The test measures pressures within the eyeball by means of a tonometer, a device that, when pressed on the anesthetized cornea, registers the pressure within the eye.

If the tonometer shows a high reading, which is an indication of glaucoma, further testing is done with a gonioscope.

This device consists of a mirror or prism and contact lens and is used for viewing the angle of the eye chamber where the cornea and the iris are joined.

In this way, the examiner can determine what type of glaucoma a patient has. Other vision tests also will be done.

Glaucoma can be treated by medications prescribed by a physician. Surgery is used only in a relatively few advanced cases.

New books at the library

A RIVER NO MORE: The Colorado River and the West by Philip L. Fradkin (non-fiction). The Colorado is the single most unifying geographical and political factor in the West, where competition for water is an endless merry-go-round: agriculture, energy, mining, second-home subdivisions, recreation, wildlife. Fradkin examines the politics of water use and distribution. He explores the river, its headwaters and tributaries to see the effects of dams, lakes and the enormous diversion of water. His report is not encouraging. The desire, if not the need, has already exceeded present supplies.

A COUNTRYMAN'S FLOWERS by Hal Borland (non-fiction). In a series of concise, charming and informative essays, Borland describes the characteristics, habits and flowering patterns of 85 common wildflowers, some of which were found and photographed in Borland's own country yard, pasture and roadside in the Berkshires of Massachusetts. In identifying each flower, Borland includes lore about their origins, history and the possible sources of their common names. Beautiful photography.

THE YEAR OF THE CHILD by Marian Engel (fiction). An enclave in Toronto is the setting. All of the characters play fascinating roles, but Harriet Ross steals the show. She has been struggling since the death of her husband Tom and divorce from Michael Littlemore to support a household of children, three biologically hers and the others taken in and loved because they are troubled and unwanted elsewhere. Harriet's life is chaotic enough without the uninvited guest, old Mrs. Saxe, who arrives and stays on, greedily partaking of events on the street but spending most of her time in the basement with disturbed Mick. It is a feat of the strange guest and her partner Mick that crowns this joyous, funny, poignant tale, to the astonishment of everyone else.

Wheat acres to be reduced

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block announced last Thursday his intentions to implement a 15 percent "reduced acreage" program for the 1982 wheat crop to offset the effects of record supplies and depressed wheat prices.

Program operating procedures will be issued after pending farm legislation is enacted into law.

The program will be voluntary so producers can decide for themselves, based on market conditions, whether they want to participate. Program benefits, however, will be tied to participation.

"Soil conservation will be strongly stressed in this program," Block said. "The reduced acreage will have to be devoted to conservation uses."

Your Neighbor says

Death penalty is needed in Michigan

The death penalty will be instituted in Michigan if Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson has his way.

Supporters have collected more than one-third of the 286,000 signatures needed to put a proposal on the November, 1982, ballot, which if approved by voters will restore the death penalty. Execution has been barred in Michigan since 1846.

Ken Osentoski feels the death penalty should be restored, "probably to a certain extent."

He suggested the execution should be the penalty for those convicted of first degree (premeditated) murder and possibly acts of terrorism resulting in death.

Osentoski wasn't sure whether the death penalty should be applied automatically. The life of a convicted murderer, for instance might be spared if there was "something that drove them to it." He thought the jury should decide whether the death penalty should be applied.

"I think so," he replied when asked if he thought the death penalty would be a deterrent.

Osentoski feels other deterrents are needed to cut down on crimes to which the death penalty would not apply. "Some of the laws aren't strict enough, like for drugs."

Stricter sentencing is needed, that is, giving judges less leeway, he feels. "If we get stricter punishment, they (criminals) might not be doing it as bad."

Although more halfway houses or corrections camps may be needed, he doesn't think more prisons are needed. "They're not in there for vacation. They're in there for doing wrong."

Osentoski, who is single, lives at 8744 MacMill Road, Cass City, and works part-time at Winter's Truck Sales on M-53.

how to buy a waterbed

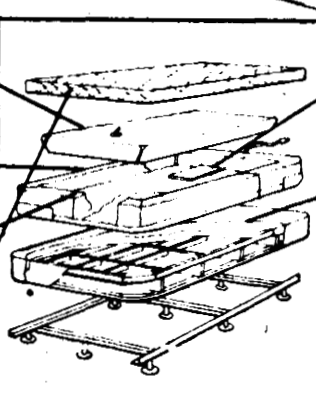

It's easy to understand why "Something Different" by Eclipse is the waterbed by which all others should be judged.

Our tough vinyl waterbag is fabricated for strength and durability. And to prevent leaks, it's surrounded by a custom contoured lap-seam safety liner. Look for it!

Our high density foam shell surrounds the waterbag assembly, to give the system a conventional appearance and allows you to use standard size contour sheets. Don't settle for less.

There's seating support at the edges thanks to the thick foam encasement. It also provides an energy absorbing shell to cut down on surface wave motion.

Luxurious quilting on a decorator designed cover adds fashion appeal to the lush sleeping surface. Sleeping should be a beautiful experience.

An optional heater is available that fits right into a protective pouch backed by a reflective heat shield. Ours is Underwriters Laboratory approved.

A specially engineered foundation supports the "Something Different" mattress and there is an available nine wide-flanged leg steel frame" to support it with perfectly balanced weight distribution.

QUEEN SIZE COMPLETE SET $549

Includes: Water Mattress, Foundation, Frame, Heater, Fill and Drain Kit. Complete Full Size Unit. NOW ONLY $499.

13-year project finished

Kit car fun to drive but not to build

Garry Randall and Dean Frakes drive a car that is 17 years old and 13 years old and looks like something Detroit is designing for introduction in 1990.

The sleek sports car they built consists of a 13-year-old fiberglass body mounted on a stock 1964 Volkswagen chassis.

The two Cass City residents were partners in the project. They claim they have no arguments about who gets to drive it when. "When Garry wants it, he takes it," said Frakes, who keeps the car in the garage of his Deckerville Road home. Randall, who doesn't have a garage, lives on Milligan Road.

The saga of what Frakes' family has dubbed the "banana" (the car is bright yellow) began 13 years ago when he bought the body, called an Aztec, made by a California firm.

His original partner in the undertaking was David Wilson, who was killed in an automobile crash in January, 1980.

Over the years, the body was mounted to the chassis and little odds and ends were done, but for various reasons, the car was never finished.

Randall eventually teamed with Frakes, but nothing was done until this past spring, when the car was sitting in Randall's yard.

"I looked at Garry and said, 'What the heck are you going to do with this thing?'" Frakes explained. They decided it was finally time to finish it.

THEN CAME HOURS and hours of work, in Frakes' garage, more than they care to think about. "I wouldn't even hazard a guess," Randall replied when asked how much time they had spent. "Mentally, I've worked on this 13 years," said Frakes.

Manufacturers of so-called kit cars like to make their would-be customers think that after a few week ends of work, they can have their new machines on the road.

Not so, say the pair. "It's not quite as easy as a lot of people would think," said Frakes. For that reason, "I doubt if we'll build another one."

Added Randall, a General Cable employee, "We're starting to enjoy it now, but for a long time it was nothing but grueling work."

A LOT OF TIME WAS spent scrounging for parts, with Frakes joking, "We must have used a thousand gallons of gas just chasing after parts."

The car uses a potpourri of them. The windshield, for instance, is Chevrolet Corvette, the front turn signals are from a Ford Mustang, taillights from an Opel Cadet, and gas cap from a Dodge Charger.

The fuel tank is from a snowmobile. It only holds five gallons, but at 30-40 miles per gallon, that is enough, the owners say. They haven't checked the mileage yet, but since the car only weighs 1,300 pounds, 300 less than a regular VW, plus has much better aerodynamics, they feel 30-40 mpg is a safe estimate.

There are also some motorcycle parts in the car somewhere and Frakes, a machinist at the Walbro research facility in Caro, made a few. Some parts, for instance, the seats and outside rear view mirrors, were purchased new.

The car is extremely low. The seats are not elevated off the floor and the small steering wheel is between the driver's knees. The seating position is similar to that of a rear-engine racing car.

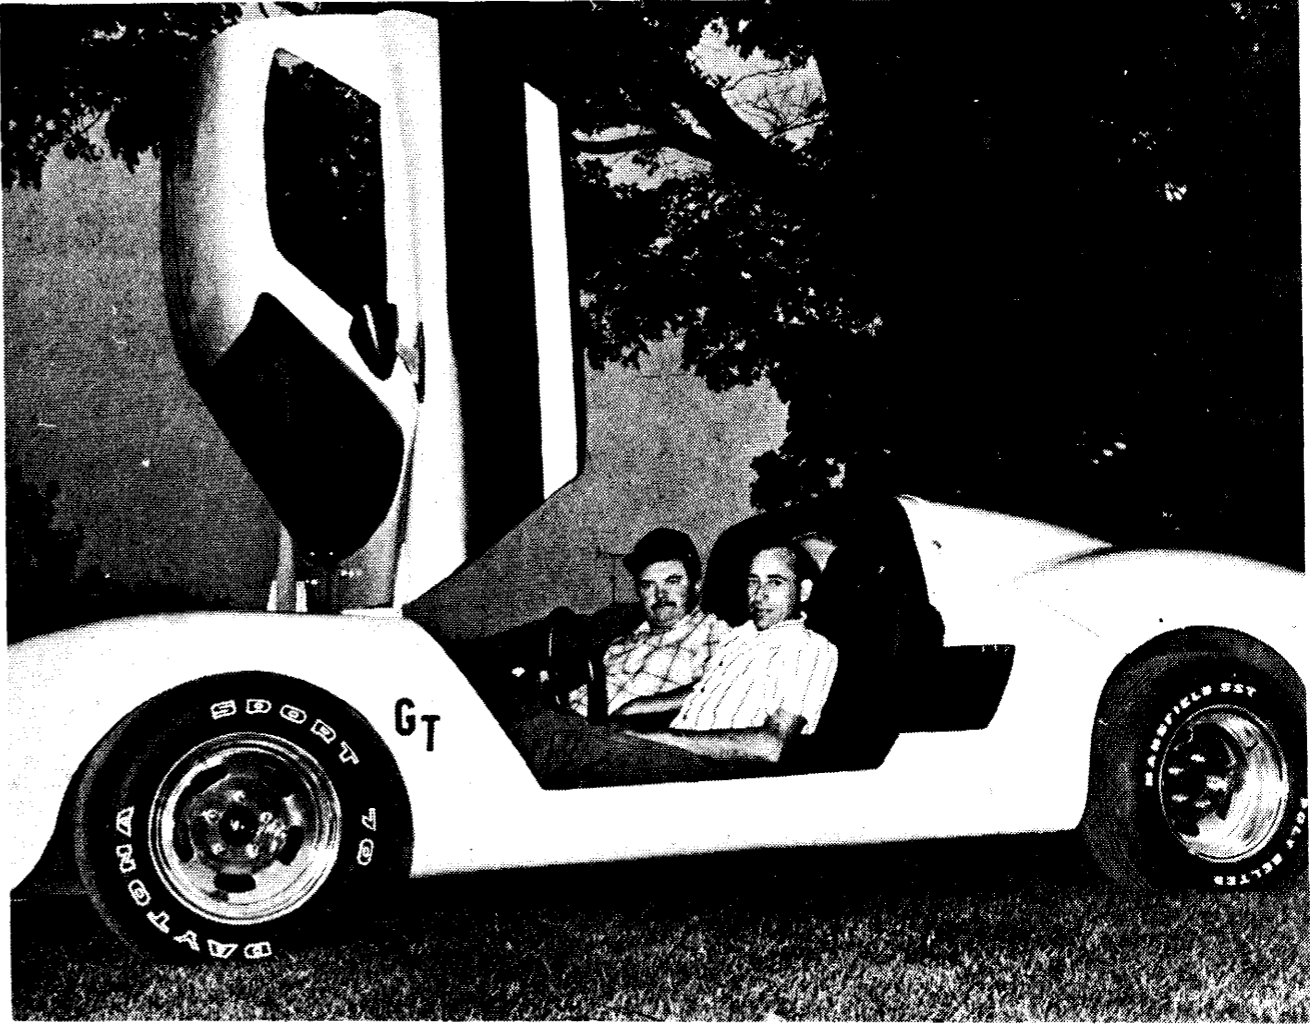

A unique feature of the car is that the doors, windshield, most of the roof and the dash are all one piece, hinged at the forward end. A hydraulic cylinder, once used for a convertible car top, raises and lowers it.

THE ONLY WORK RANDall and Frakes didn't do was the painting, done by local body repairman Al Seeley. Having sat outside for a long time, the body required a lot of puttying and sanding before Seeley painted it.

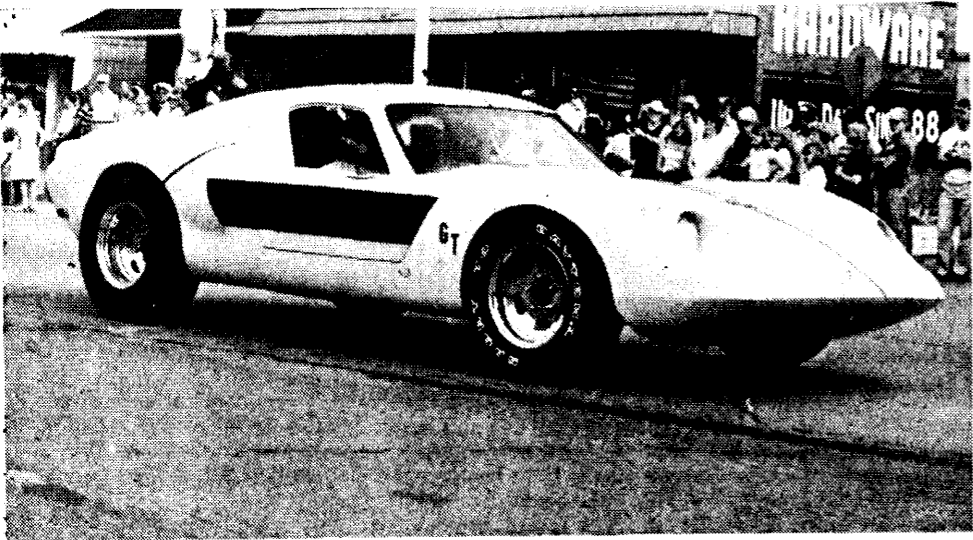

Some work remains to be done. The upholstery has to be finished, side windows installed and the fiberglass strengthened in a few places. The owners are contemplating modifying the stock (except for the exhaust system) 40 horsepower engine.

How much is the car worth? They haven't added up the bills, and their time is certainly worth something. "If we got paid a decent wage for the hours we put in," Frakes commented, "we could go out and buy a Ferrari."

As mentioned, if the pair had it to do over, they might not. Now that it is done, however, Randall said of their unique vehicle, "It's something to pile in and to go down the road and feel good."

SUPER SPORTSTER -- Behind the wheel is Garry Randall. Co-builder Dean Frakes is in the passenger seat. A hydraulic cylinder raises and lowers the top.

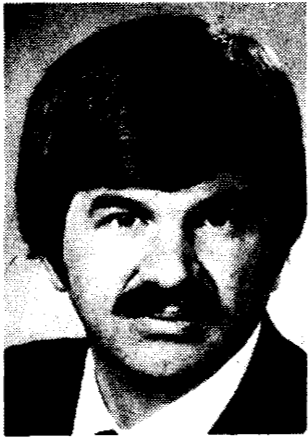

DEBUT -- The home-built sports car of Garry Randall and Dean Frakes made its debut during the July 4th parade in Cass City with the latter at the wheel.

18,000 left homeless in 1871 fire; 2nd fire worse

Part III of a Series

by Emma Ackerman

Although no information was furnished for other counties, scattered reports indicated that many homes and other buildings were destroyed in Tuscola, Lapeer, and St. Clair counties. One source stated that in the area between Saginaw Bay and Lake Huron, 50 people burned to death.

Governor Baldwin, in a message to the legislature in March, 1872, reported that nearly 3,000 families, or about 18,000 persons, were rendered homeless and deprived of the necessities of life.

Without doubt, many of the Thumb residents still harbored vivid memories of the 1871 fire when the next great conflagration struck 9 years and 11 months later. Due to the increased population at this time, however, the fire of 1881 was much more deadly. As to the exact number of lives lost, this remains a controversial issue. One source reported, "No fewer than 169 lives were lost."

The Great Fire

Quoting the Cass City Enterprise, which by coincidence started publication the very week of the fire, "From all directions reports of finding the blistered and charred remains of men, women, and little children have continued to come in, until it is thought that within the burned district of the three counties, no less than 300 lives have been destroyed."

According to another source, "About 282 lives were lost, 15,000 people were homeless, and more than 3,400 buildings were destroyed." A fourth source of information stated, "About 200 persons died, and thousands were left homeless."

One writer of a report summarized his findings as follows: "In Tuscola, Huron, and Sanilac counties, where the fire centered, there were reported lost 1,521 homes, 1,480 barns, 3,231 families burned out, 14,438 individuals sought aid, total property losses estimated at $2,346,943, and the dead estimated at 125 to 300 persons."

On Monday, Sept. 5, a wind with the force of that 10 years before began to blow from the southwest and fan the smoldering embers into roaring flames.

It could not be described as a fire that starts in one place and moves forward as it feeds on new material such as a grass fire. "It seemed to go all at once, as if the entire Thumb District was a match, and at a signal, a giant hand struck the head against a stone and it ignited." Although the fire burned for three days, the most damage was done in the first four hours of its furious onslaught, due to the extreme force of the wind.

One newspaper indicated that Huron and Sanilac counties suffered the greatest amount of devastation. The villages of New River, Huron City, Port Hope, Sand Beach, Center Harbor, Rock Falls, White Rock, Elm Creek, and Forrestville were burned, most of them in their entirety.

In the interior, farmhouses as well as crops, fences, and cattle were completely swept away.

It was also in this area where there was the greatest loss of life. A report on the various losses in Huron county made by the Rev. O.C. Thompson, an agent of the relief distributing committee, listed the following: 339 dwellings, 18 schoolhouses, 1 church, 4 hotels, 10 stores, 17 mills, 7 wharves, 1,674,000 feet of lumber, and produce valued at $401,021. He also listed 19 persons killed.

For Sanilac county he noted the following losses: 102 dwellings, 10 schoolhouses, 2 hotels, 4 stores, 4 mills, 2 wharves, and produce valued at $116,585.

"BURNING CROSSWAY IN PARISVILLE" is the title of this pastel on paper by Marilyn Rutkoski of Ubly. It depicts a true incident during the 1881 fire in which a family was trying to make it across this log road through the burning woods to a clearing. The wagon tongue broke. The men carried the women and the older children carried the younger ones to safety. Some of the group were scorched, burned and blinded. Anthes is top racer

Aaron Anthes of Dodge Road, Gagetown, became season champion for the third year in a row at Auto City Speedway, Mount Morris, by winning the final point race of the season Sept. 5.

For winning the title, he received $700 from the track, $1,000 from Winston Cigarettes and $525 from the sanctioning National Association of Stock Car Automobile Racing, plus a racing champion helmet from Winston, his second.

Anthes, driving a new Grand American (super stock) car this year, wiped out two front ends in early season mishaps, but came back strong in the late season. He needed to win the final points race to win the title, which he did by passing Bob King of West Branch, who was second in points, on the final lap of the 50 lap race.

Anthes continued his winning ways by taking the checkered flag in the feature Saturday night at Auto City, making it five of the last features he has won.

He is hoping to continue his streak Sunday when Southern drivers take on Michigan drivers at the track in the annual Mud-linger 100 (100 laps of the half-mile oval) for open class super stock cars. Qualifying is Saturday.

deBeaubier on Alma grid squad

Brian deBeaubien, a former all-conference quarterback at Cass City High School, is one of 71 players on the 1981 Alma College football squad. A freshman he will play quarterback this year for the Scots.

Alma, a member of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA), opened at home Saturday with a 31-0 win over Illinois College.

The Scots play this Saturday in the Pontiac Silverdome against Michigan Tech in the second annual Michi-Dome Football Classic. That game is the second of a double-header and starts at 3:30 p.m.

Brian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard deBeaubien of Koepfgen Road, Cass City.

AL auxiliary meets Monday

Eight members attended the Monday evening meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Members voted to pay $61.25 to the Department of Michigan ALA mandatory funds.

Door prize went to Elgene Keller.

Nine 1982 memberships have been renewed. Dues paid prior to the November meeting are $4.50, after which they increase due to National and Department of Michigan raises.

The October meeting will be at the home of Elizabeth Stine.

Bean harvest underway, rain cuts yields, quality

Dry weather the past several days came as blessed relief for dry bean farmers.

It allowed them to finally get harvesting underway in earnest and hopefully prevented further damage.

At the Wickes Agriculture elevator in Cass City, Manager Bob Wischmeyer described the incoming crop as "good for what they went through."

Yields are averaging 20-25 bushels per acre, versus a more normal 25-30.

Pick (percentage of bad beans per 100 pounds) is running 10-15 pounds, with some as low as 5 pounds.

Kale Bradley, manager of the Blount Agriculture elevator in Gagetown, said yields are mostly 11 (100-pound) bags (18.3 bushels) per acre, versus a usual 15-20 bags. Pick is running 16-20 pounds.

He estimated half the crop is off, with another 10 days of dry weather needed to complete harvesting.

The Michigan Bean Shippers Association, which surveys county extension agents each Monday morning, reported 20 percent of the Navy beans have been harvested in Tuscola county. Yields were put at 11 hundredweight (cwt.) per acre. Fifty percent of the pintos were harvested, with yields averaging 14 cwt. Forty percent of the black beans are under cover, with yields pegged at 20 cwt. per acre.

In Huron county, 20 percent of the navy beans were harvested, which were averaging 12 cwt. per acre. About 20 percent of the black and pinto beans were also under cover, with blacks running 16 cwt. per acre; pintos 15 cwt.

In Sanilac county, which may have received the most rain, 15 percent of the navy beans were reported harvested. Yields have been averaging 11 cwt. Ten percent of the colored beans were off, with yields running 14-15 cwt.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Friday reported Michigan will have 630,000 acres for harvest, with potential yield of 12.5 cwt. per acre, for a total crop of 7.875 million cwt. Aug. 1, it had forecast a crop of 8.505 million.

The U.S. crop is expected to total 32.07 million cwt., with an average yield of 14.37 cwt. per acre.

The U.S. has approximately 2.3 million farms. This number is less than previous years, continuing a downward trend that started in 1936.

YOU CAN BANK on it!

Q. What will happen to Individual Retirement Accounts under the new economic measures? And, with the tax cut, will they still be an attractive shelter?

A. Both the Administration and Congress feel Individual Retirement Accounts should be expanded - both in the amount of allowed contributions and in the kinds of people able to participate. Under the new bill, for the first time, people who are already in tax-qualified pension plans (for example - through their employer's pension plan) can have their own Individual Retirement Account to enable them to increase their retirement savings while at the same time receiving valuable tax deductions. Also, the new bill increases the maximum allowance to be deducted from taxable income from $1,500 to $2,000. For persons with non-working spouses the limit has increased to $2,250. And, yes, Individual Retirement Accounts are as attractive, if not more so - both as savings instruments and as tax shelters.

Face improved Caseville Friday

O-G scores early to take opener

With a win over Arenac last Friday night, 13-8, Owen-Gage begins its North Central Thumb D League schedule Saturday afternoon at Caseville.

The Eagles have traditionally been a pushover, but Bulldog coach Arnie Besonen expects it will be different this year. "They're not going to be easy this year, I'll guarantee you that."

Caseville only won one game in 1980, but the coach describes the team as "big overall and returning Mike Stahl at quarterback gives them the added dimension they need in the backfield to go with (fullback Mike) Kelly and (halfback Brian) Siegfried." Caseville won its opener Saturday against Marine City Holy Cross, 29-0.

Game time is 2 p.m. Owen-Gage scored all of its points Friday in the first quarter. Dan Glidden scored on a pass from Stan Andrakowicz, the play totaling 47 yards. Alan LeValley then kicked the extra point.

LeValley added six more points when he scampered 61 yards after intercepting a Craig Harrison pass. LeValley's extra point kick attempt was blocked.

Arenac's lone touchdown came when there was only one second left in the game and when Besonen had all reserves on the field. Mike Navarre scored on a 22-yard pass play from Harrison. The quarterback then tossed to him again to score two more points for the final 13-8 margin.

"We looked good at times and very bad at times," Besonen said in reviewing the game. Arenac, Class C last year but D this year, finished 7-2 in 1980 and he figures it will probably be at least a .500 team this season.

Owen-Gage collected seven first downs for the night, gained 49 yards on 30 carries on the ground.

WINNERS OF THE ANNUAL Cass City Golf League season-ending tournament Sunday were these best ball partners Herman Umpfenbach, left, and Lyle Truemner. The outing was held at Scenic Golf Club, Pigeon.

DISPLAYING THEIR TROPHIES for winning the regular season championships were, left, Gene Kloc, Division A, and Dana Truemner, Division B.

Vassar test is next

Defense sparks Hawks to grid win in first game at Standish

There's plenty of work ahead for the Cass City Red Hawks before they travel to Vassar Friday for the opening of the Thumb B Association title chase.

That was apparent Friday when the Hawks played at Standish-Sterling Central in the curtain raiser for both teams.

The Hawks won, 8-6, with a last quarter surge but neither team was impressive.

Coach Don Schelke must have been satisfied with his defensive squad. That's where the bulk of the veteran linemen returning from last year's title team plays.

The defense completely smothered Central's attack all night and the Panther offense didn't threaten to score.

Even though the defense was great it looked for awhile as if the Hawks might be the team that the Panthers would use to break last year's season-long losing streak.

That's because the defense used a fumble by quarterback Jim Crickon to score. It came off the "shot-gun" offense, a new wrinkle for the Hawks that backfired.

Cass City used it once after the fumble and it lost about eight yards. On the touchdown play Darrell Cousineau snagged the ball and ran it untouched into the end zone. The play covered 35 yards and came with 4:47 left in the first period.

That ended Central's scoring threats.

Meanwhile Cass City was knocking at the end zone all night, only to have the Panthers hold with their backs to the goal.

Early in the second quarter the Hawks had a first on the Panther 10 and were stopped cold in three plays and then missed a field goal try.

The Hawks received another chance when a pass from center on fourth down went over the punter into the end zone.

The kicker picked the ball up and ran it to the 15 after narrowly being missed in the end zone by a horde of Red Hawks.

But the Hawks couldn't negotiate that 15 yards and at the half Central was ahead, 6-0.

The Hawks took the second half kick-off and ran it steadily down the field as Joe Decker slashed around left end and tackle and Greg Hutchinson bulled for big yardage inside from full-back.

But it was the same old story. Just when it appeared that the Hawks would cash in something stopped the drive. This time it was a 15-yard holding penalty.

Later in the third period the Hawks were driving again only to be stopped by a fumble after picking up a first on the Panther 28.

Early in the fourth quarter a drive was stopped again. Cass City moved on the ground for a first on the Central six-yard line. Four plays gained nothing and it looked as if Cass City might never score.

Right then the game changed. Another bad snap over the head of the Central punter resulted in a safety for Cass City with 7:48 left in the game.

The Hawks took the free kick after the safety and roared in for the winning marker. The drive started on the Hawk 40-yard line.

A penalty resulted in a first down. Crickon passed to Joe Kappen for a first down. Another first down moved the ball to the 15. From there Hutchinson scored on runs through the middle, bulging over the left side for the final yardage and the touchdown that won the game.

HONORED

Red Hawk of the week honors went to Hutchinson who picked up 119 yards in 27 carries and made important contributions on defense. Decker was also effective on offense with 106 yards in 21 carries.

Steve Steely made 11 tackles on defense and was lineman of the week. Top tackle honors went to Chuck Erla with 13, including 2 solo efforts.

O-G cagers lose a pair

Owen-Gage lost its third basketball game of the season Tuesday evening, 45-35, at home against Decker-

CARSONVILLE

The Carsonville-Port Sanilac gym must have felt like the Titanic for Owen-Gage last Thursday night as the Bulldogs were blown away by the Tigers, 53-14.

Owen-Gage only sank six of 70 field goal attempts and two of 10 free throws. Vicki Alexander and Lori Jo Wisner each had four points.

Joan Mosack collected 16 rebounds for the Bulldogs, but also collected three fouls early in the game and didn't score a point.

Carol Draggoo scored 18 points for the victors.

The junior varsity game wasn't quite as painful. C-PS won, 25-21.

Mausolf leads Pirates past Hawks, 59-42

Harbor Beach, one of the strongest, if not the strongest, team in the Thumb, defeated Cass City Thursday night, 59-42, behind the 26-point scoring spree of ace Sue Mausolf.

The visiting Pirates dominated the boards to win going away.

It was the third straight win for Harbor Beach. The visitors showed early why they deserve their high ranking. They busted out to a 20-point first quarter to lead by eight points and stretched it to 32-21 by the intermission.

The Hawks held their own in the third quarter but Harbor Beach turned on the heat again in the final period with a 17-11 advantage to add to its margin.

Cass City shot well from the floor connecting on 18 of 34 but was able to hit only 6 of 14 from the charity stripe.

Besides Mausolf, Bev Wolschleger, 10, Mary Osen-toski, 13, and Tammi Braun, 10, were in double figures for the Pirates.

For Cass City Jill Hutchinson netted 12 and Joy Root, 10.

board voted to send a second letter to Attorney General Frank Kelley asking for an opinion on whether it can reimburse its employees for interest they paid on money they borrowed from banks during payless paydays. The Municipal Finance Commission has said it cannot.

The board voted July 13 to request the opinion and Erickson signed the letter notifying Kelley of the board's request. The attorney general wrote back, stating he couldn't respond to a request from an individual, but only from governmental bodies.

The board will send a new letter back, worded the same, but signed by Leona LaFave as board secretary.

PERSONNEL

Resignations were received from elementary special education teacher Alice (Smith) Chapman, who has moved with her new husband, and Gagetown Elementary secretary Vernita Comment, who resigned due to ill health.

Bonnie Kleinau, who was high school counselor, refused to accept teaching three periods of home economics and one hour per day of counseling.

Hired as home ec teacher for three periods per day was Joan Helwig. The new special ed teacher is Sonja Zook. Retired principal and counselor Charles Ellis is being paid for one hour per day as counselor, though he is volunteering additional time, with his wife, Zora, working as his secretary.

The new band teacher is Cliff Westby, who is being paid for five periods per day (normal is six). Hired as elementary aide was Lorrie Dubes, who replaced the aide promoted to replace Mrs. Comment, Marge Schwartz.

Erickson is trying to hire a foreign language teacher for one hour per day.

Richard Glidden was rehired as a custodian for about six hours per day. He will be paid what Owen-Gage would otherwise have to pay in unemployment compensation if he were laid off.

OTHER ITEMS

Lunch prices were increased as follows: Elementary, from 50 cents to 55; high school, from 75 cents to 85, and adults, from $1 to $1.25.

A special meeting will be held Monday, Sept. 21 starting at 8 p.m. in the Gagetown cafeteria to hear the report of the auditors for the 1980-81 school year.

The board gave approval for six seniors to attend classes part time and work the rest of the time, due to economic necessity. All will have credits to graduate.

High School Principal Wayne Wright explained that he strengthened the requirement for seniors who had enough credits to graduate without a full load of classes. Except for the six given an exemption, all seniors will have to take a full load of classes.

Homecoming activities, he announced, will be next week, culminating with the Friday game against North Huron.

Owen-Gage Education Association President Manuel Thies read a statement to the board explaining the teachers' rationale in deciding to seek court action to ensure they won't be the last ones paid should Owen-Gage fold.

He felt what happened since would not have been "blown out of proportion" had there not been so much time between when they voted (Aug. 25) and when the board met, when he intended to explain their decision.

He said after the meeting teachers will meet again this week to discuss what has happened since then. No court action has been initiated yet and teachers may reconsider.

Wright read from state school law that said when a district is absorbed by another district or districts, the successor ones are responsible for the old one's debts, such as back pay.

Student of the month is Julie Enderle, a senior, who has a 3.806 grade point average, is a National Honor Society member, has been in band four years, a cheerleader four years, basketball four years, and softball three years.

Movies set for senior citizens

Rawson Memorial Library will present the first of its monthly film programs for retired persons Thursday, starting at 1:30 p.m.

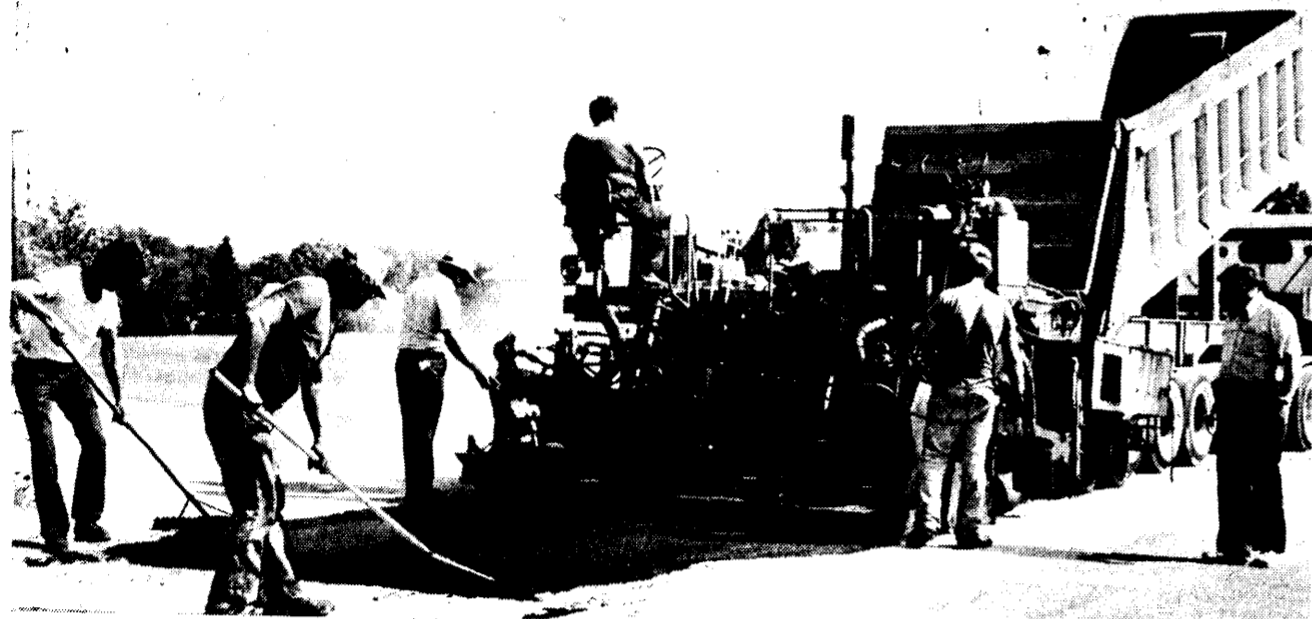

Films to be shown are: "A Day in the Life of Bonnie Consolo," an inspiring film about Bonnie Consolo, a woman born without arms who lives a normal life. She has an upbeat philosophy of life.

"Michigan in Motion," the effect of industrialization on Michigan from early 20th century to now, including early auto giants and rural life.

"Rails Across the Summit" captures the distinctive sounds and scenic grandeur of the Cumbres and Toltec Railway.

Refreshments will be served.

In the future, the program will be on the third Friday of each month.

PATCH JOB -- Workmen from Frank Strausberg and Son of Oakley paved patches on Seeger and Hill Streets last Wednesday and Thursday where the old pavement was in especially bad condition. They returned Tuesday to fix a couple bumps. The project cost $12,350, including the cost for village crews to remove the old pavement.

Taking Stock

It's the silly season in Michigan.

Maybe that's too polite a term for some of the foolishness going on in this old home state of mine.

Witness: Detroit, hovering on the edge of insolvency, votes a $2.1 million increase in pensions for retirees already on the rolls. Mayor Coleman Young rightly vetoes it; the city council overrides the veto 8-1.

Observe: The city of Ypsilanti passes an ordinance forbidding shipments of nuclear material through its hallowed precincts. For those not familiar with this town with the odd name, this is the site of a teachers' college, next door to the University of Michigan. For well over a century, Ypsi has withstood the ravages of the randy males from Ann Arbor, and now it gets skittish over a little thing like fissionable material.

Ypsilanti also is talking about a law to forbid mail carriers from walking across the lawn. City fathers say it makes paths. How one stroll per day across a lawn can make a path is something only bureaucrats understand.

Look at this one: State lottery sales are up this year. William Nugent, commissioner of the state gambling enterprise, explains it:

"As factories have closed, illegal bookies find it harder to do business. As a result people have come over to us.

They see the numbers game as a good investment."

(One division of the lottery, the $1 ticket, will take in $22.5 million this year. It will pay out $9 million, or 40 percent. You invest $1 and you get 40 cents back.)

In Lapeer, Mich., my hometown, the city fathers a while ago pass a law that all swimming pools had to be enclosed by a four-foot fence.

Apply the same law to Fort Lauderdale and its equally-hazardous canals and you'd have 196 miles of fences residents there would have to put up.

Meanwhile Lapeer county has 300 small lakes with an average shoreline of a mile apiece. The county fathers have found it unnecessary, somehow, to fence in those waters.

The Lapeer city law passers also put one on the books that every kid must buy a license for his bicycle.

Practically every town in Michigan also has plumped for a law forbidding parking on city streets from 2 a.m. to 6 a.m. The idea is to make it easy for the snow plows, which might possibly operate 12 nights out of the 365.

There was also some town in Michigan, which back in the days of more trains passed a curious law: "When two trains are in the station at the same time, neither shall leave until the other has departed."

There has been one cheering note in all this bureaucratic behavior — and that has been the abolition of the car inspection program in Florida. That truly was one of the biggest time-and-energy-wasters ever devised by man. Let the money that is saved be spent on more highway patrolmen.

Baptist mission group meets

Eighteen women attended the meeting Monday evening of the Baptist Missionary Society at the church. It was called to order at 7:30 by the president, Mrs. Clyde Wells.

Members voted to contribute $100 to Rev. Earl Dannenberg, a missionary in Central Africa. The amount is to be used, with a fund being raised, to purchase land to build a church. Members decided to dis-

Board eyes committee to lead drive for millage

In the very near future look for the Cass City School Board to appoint a committee to start working towards a successful millage vote next spring.

The board is waiting only to find out if the committee that worked in the last election will spearhead the next drive.

It's certainly not too early to get started, said Dotty Scollon, co-chairman of this year's drive.

Scollon was present to report to the board the results of the last drive and the work the committee did that narrowed significantly the margin by which the millage was defeated.

The reason a committee is needed, she said, is to start to work now to register 18 and 19-year-old voters.

We started too late to get these people registered for the last election.

Scollon suggested that a seminar be held for senior citizens outlining the various tax breaks available to them and to offer assistance in the paper work.

Money crunch hurting

money not immediately needed.

The interest rate received on the borrowed funds is sure to be higher than the amount the school pays to get the money. That's because the interest received by lenders from schools is tax free.

OTHER BUSINESS

Mike Shaft, Cass City, was granted permission to work as intern assistant community education director at no cost to the school district.

A policy of sending certified letters to parents concerning pupil truancy was abolished because it cost the district $500 yearly and was, according to Richards, of doubtful value.

A special meeting to come up with five or six attainable goals at the school will be held Monday, Sept. 21.

Gymnastics as a school sport was dropped by the board. It cost $3,000 and the closest school that has a program is Vassar. Other than that Cass City was forced to travel to large Class A schools to play and the team was not competitive.
