For salaried personnel

County pay hikes range from $600 to $1,770.

Tuscola county department heads and other salaried employees will receive pay raises in 1982 ranging from $600 to $1,770, the county Board of Commissioners decided Tuesday.

The pay raises effective Jan. 1 were divided into two categories, according to Commissioner Donna Rayl of Akron, chairman of the board's personnel committee.

She and board Chairman Paul Nagy and Ken Kennedy, chairman of the finance committee, made the salary recommendations to the board.

They decided one category should receive the highest pay raises, because their pay was below that paid by surrounding counties for the same positions. Tuscola's financial situation was taken into consideration.

The 1982 pay for the following positions is as follows, as approved by the board, with present salaries in parentheses:

Sheriff, $25,040 ($23,540); undersheriff, $22,800 ($21,400); prosecutor, $33,820 ($32,210); chief assistant prosecutor, $23,550 ($21,940); assistant prosecutor, $21,940 ($20,330); the other two assistant prosecutors, $19,270 ($17,660); and circuit court reporter, $18,500 ($16,730).

For the rest of the employees, the committee added up their present salaries, added 5 percent to the total, then divided it by the number of employees. That worked out to an $800 per person increase, but since commissioners aren't sure how much money will be in county coffers next year, they split the pay increase into two parts.

A $400 increase will be granted Jan. 1, spread out over 52 weeks. A second increase in the same amount ($7.69 per week) for six months will take effect July 1, which means a total increase for the year of $600, an average of about 4½ percent.

Salaries as of Jan. 1 will be: treasurer, $18,800; clerk, $18,800; drain commissioner, $18,060; register of deeds, $18,060; magistrate, $17,310; chief animal control officer, $14,740; emergency services coordinator and veterans counselor, $20,940; building codes and department of public works administrator, $20,940; equalization director, $19,450; personnel director and secretary to county board, $17,310; district court probation officer, $16,770; friend of the court, $16,770; enforcement officer, $15,920; prosecutor's office investigator, $16,450; district court reporter, $13,600; construction inspector, $13,990; electrical inspector, $13,990; and plumbing and mechanical inspector, $16,130.

Half of the pay for the emergency services director ($14,200 of the $20,940 total) is paid by the federal government. The state pays part of the salary for one of the assistant prosecutors, investigator and friend of the court enforcement officer, who work in a program to track down divorced fathers who are behind in their child support payments.

The county board sets the pay for the Road Commission board, who are paid out of Road Commission funds. The chairman received an increase from $3,750 annually to $4,200 and the two members from $3,530 each to $3,900. The road board meets twice a month.

County commissioners set their pay in 1980 and are barred by state law from increasing it during their term of office. The board chairman receives $7,750 annually; the others, $6,950. In addition, for special meetings when not all the commissioners are present, committee meetings and meetings of other boards on which they serve, such as the health board and Commission on Aging, they receive $40 per meeting.

The board's contract with hourly courthouse employees expires Dec. 31. Negotiations should start about Nov. 1, Mrs. Rayl said.

JUDGES

Pay for the county's three judges next year will be as follows, because of the board's action Tuesday:

Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn -- State pay, $37,890, plus county supplement of $19,845, of which the state reimburses the county for $10,210, for a total of $57,735.

District Judge Richard F. Kern -- State pay, $34,155, plus county supplement of $10,625, all of which is reimbursed by the state, for total of $44,780.

Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr. -- State pay, $34,155, of which the county pays $6,000, plus county supplement of $10,625, all of which is reimbursed by the state for total of $44,780.

Joslyn's pay had been $47,725. Kern and Kent received pay raises in August, bringing their salaries to $39,270 each, to qualify the county for state reimbursement of county supplements, in accordance with a new state law designed to pave the way for eventual total state funding and operation of the court system.

The county will actually pay $9,635 in supplements next year, compared to $25,870 this year. The increase in the supplements, according to the board resolution, is contingent on the legislature appropriating the needed funds for its share.

Kingston, Rev. Kenneth P. Boileau officiating. Burial was in Kingston cemetery.

Mrs. Bering was born Jan. 6, 1895, in Hungary. She married John Bering Nov. 9, 1912, in Hamtramck. The family moved from there to the Kingston area 42 years ago.

She is survived by two grandchildren, Edward Grubba of Deford and Mark Grubba of Kingston, and two great-grandchildren. Her husband died in 1978 and a daughter died many years ago in Detroit.

John Bering Jr. was born Jan. 22, 1922, in Hamtramck. He was a World War II veteran of the Army Air Force and was a farmer.

DRY WEATHER the past week enabled farmers to begin to make up for lost time in bringing in their crops. Unfortunately, the forecast for the next two or three days is rain. Harvesting sugar beets (upper left) near Cedar Run Road and M-81 were Dwain Volmar, driving the tractor, and his son Randy, driving the truck. Combining dry beans (above right) near Koepfgen and Bay City-Forestville Roads was Wayne Becker. Green chopping alfalfa on his M-81 farm, west of Cass City, was Harland Lounsbury.

'Backtrack' cost $11,000

Some parents may balk to save district money

Students in all grades may be walking more in another month if a plan under consideration by the Cass City School Board is adopted.

Because of the financial squeeze in the district the board is on the verge of eliminating all backtracking of bus routes because these miles are not reimbursed by the state.

At the regular board meeting Monday night at the high school, Supt. Donald Crouse told the board that there were 11,200 bus miles that were disallowed by the state at a cost of $1.05 per mile, or over $11,000.

The state's rule is that you cannot go down a road to pick up a student that lives less than a mile from the established route and then return to the route and be paid for the distance going and returning.

That means that some students will need to walk up to a mile twice a day. The concern is for younger children in the morning who could be walking in the dark and be forced to wait for perhaps a half hour for the bus to arrive.

Fred Matthews, one of the parents that would be affected, reported that his children are picked up around 7 a.m. and would have to walk to meet the bus. He asked if a parent could pay the amount the district loses and continue the service.

The board had no answers for that or to the problem of little children waiting on cold winter mornings. There was sentiment for abandoning all non-reimbursed miles but a motion to that effect was withdrawn until the November meeting so that input could be received from persons affected.

PROBLEM PERSISTS

A problem that the board has wrestled with for several months remains unsolved. It is to devise a new policy for absences.

The present rule calls for suspension for unexcused absences and has been deemed ineffective by teachers who say it doesn't make sense to have a policy where students missing school are punished by being kept from attending school.

What was proposed is that students missing 10 days or more be required to take a comprehensive exam to receive credit for the course.

The objection to this is that it places the student who misses because of illness or other legitimate cause in the same position as the student who merely skips school.

An attempt to come up with a policy that will address this problem will be made and presented at the next meeting.

The administration had more success with a new tardiness policy. A student with four unexcused tardies will be placed in a detention period for 30 minutes. Planned isolation on the stage of the cafeteria. Each additional tardiness means another detention period. After six unexcused tardies, a parental conference will be required. Ten tardies means an in-school suspension from classes and after 11, students must have a parental conference and will not be permitted into classes until the problem is resolved.

OKAY TRANSFER

The board voted to move the sixth grade at Evergreen to Cass City in the 1982-83 school year. Matthews asked if this was the beginning of the end for Evergreen.

Crouse said that as far as can be determined in the future that both Deford and Evergreen will continue to be operated.

OTHER BUSINESS

A quote for snow removal from Hunt Construction was accepted. It calls for an increase on rental of loaders of $1 per hour each for the two sizes used. The rate now is $36 and $46 per hour for each unit. The grader rate was jumped $2 to $35.

The board authorized the use of money from the Tuscola Intermediate School District to pay conference expenses for teachers providing there is no cost to the district.

Trustees okayed the special education curriculum presented by Jackie Freiburger to qualify the district for federal funds.

Chocolate milk will be allowed in the hot lunch program not to exceed 3 times a week. The vote was 5-1 with President Geraldine Priesskorn voting no.

Bids for five buses were let at prices ranging from $1,001.01 to $251. Three buses were sold to Skipinski Garage, Uby; one to Caro Honda Sale and one to Joseph Hovey.

A report from Rehmann, Robson, Osburn & Co., school auditors, was presented and accepted.

Board chooses first two goals

The first areas that will receive attention among the Cass City School Board's goals for the year will be discipline, and evaluation of school personnel.

be made to make the system more efficient.

The two objectives are among five previously set by the board. Others will be examined after work on the first two has been completed.

The board's top priority is the passing of the millage next spring, but that is already in progress and will receive attention whenever necessary, trustees said.

As a public relations gesture, an open house will be held at Deford, Oct. 26, from 7-8 p.m. and at Cass City Intermediate School, Oct. 27, from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Owen-Gage tightens discipline at high school

The halls of Owendale-Gagetown High School won't be quite the same, due to action taken by the school board Monday evening.

The board approved two recommendations of Principal Wayne Wright, changing the lunch hours for junior high students and putting into effect a new disciplinary policy for being late to classes.

Up to now, the lunch period has been the same for all students in grades 7-12. To eliminate long waits in the lunch line, a third of the classes were let out at 12:14, another third at 12:19 and the rest at 12:24, with the order of which class getting out when being changed every six weeks. The lunch period ended at 12:51.

"We simply have a problem with all 200 kids roaming the halls for 15 to 27 minutes," Wright told the board.

Under the change, which will start with the new marking period Monday for a six week trial period, all the 10-12th graders will leave for lunch at 12:24. The period will still end at 12:51.

Junior high students will now go to lunch from 11:26-11:53 a.m., before their fourth period class instead of after it.

Instead of being free to roam the halls, the junior high students will be restricted to the cafeteria or to a limited area outside. High school students will still be allowed to go downtown to eat lunch, but inside will be restricted to the cafeteria and gymnasium.

In addition to eliminating lunchtime congestion in the hallways, Wright told the board, the change will allow better supervision; increase school lunch participation since ninth graders won't be allowed to go downtown; eliminate food packages and pop bottles from the hallways, brought in by those who eat downtown, and increase fourth period instruction time by as much as 10 minutes.

The schedule change won't require any extra work by the cafeteria staff, Wright said, because they have always had lunch ready by 11:30.

TARDINESS

The previous policy regarding being late to class was that disciplinary measures were to fit each student. That policy, the principal said, "doesn't have the teeth in it I feel we need now."

The worst problem, he explained, is students smoking across the street prior to the

Poisonous gas leak kills mother, son

Improper installation of a hot water heater 15 years ago is blamed as the contributing factor to the deaths of Margaret Bering, 86, and her son, John Jr., 60, in Kingston township last week.

Their bodies were found on a bed in a first-floor bedroom of their Legg Road home by a relative. The sheriff's department was notified of the discovery at 5:42 p.m. Wednesday.

Autopsies were performed Thursday at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw. The finding, according to the sheriff's department, was that the cause of death was carbon monoxide poisoning. The Berings had been dead about 48 hours.

Investigating officers discovered that the propane gas water heater did not have a duct to vent carbon monoxide gases outside the home. A leak in a hot water line under the floor, which apparently occurred recently, had caused the heater to run continuously, pouring a fatal amount of carbon monoxide into the home. The heater is located on the first floor of the two-story home.

A joint funeral was conducted for the mother and son Saturday afternoon at Harmon Funeral Home in Almost weekly a survey form passes across the desk. It gets tiring and sometimes they hit the waste basket almost before they hit my desk.

A form received Monday got filled. Inside the questionnaire was tucked a crisp new $1 bill. That won't pay for the time it takes, of course, but psychologically it's great. What the firm is telling you is that they really value your time and effort even though all that is said is "to have a cup of coffee on me."

This trivia crossed my desk this week. In addition to everything else did you know that this is a poor year for apples? Yields are down in Michigan which ranks third in the nation in apple production.

What's the difference between apple cider and apple juice? Thought you'd never ask. Apple juice is cider that has been pasteurized.

This is National Newspaper Week. The theme is "A Free Press, Your Window to the World."

What it boils down to is your right to access to the news of the day without censorship and in a small town paper that's sometimes hard to do. We pride ourselves that we do it anyway.

The Tuscola County Health Department has a film about testicular cancer and it was presented at a Rotary meeting Tuesday.

It has plenty to recommend it. First it graphically shows how to find testicular cancer and the treatments for it. Second it is short and to the point. Third it was handled by a health nurse from the department that knew her subject and how to present it.

Tammy and Douglas Laurie

Tammy Sue Wissner and Douglas John Laurie were united in marriage Sept. 12 at St. John Lutheran church, Kilmanagh.

Rev. Wayne Wentzel performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wissner, Sebewaing. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Laurie, Cass City.

The bride wore a formal gown of sheer chiffonette with a V-neck of keyhole Venice lace, sheer yoke adorned with pearl accented embroidery, pearl accented fitted bodice and full bishop sleeves accented with lace appliques. The silhouette skirt fell from a lifted waist defined by keyhole Venice lace to a deep lace bordered ruffled flounce, which flowed into a chapel length train. Her rolled edge waltz length veil of English illusion was bordered with Venice lace and secured by a camelot cap defined with pearl accented Venice lace.

Nancy Buchholz, sister of the bride, Pigeon, was matron of honor. Lori Wissner, Sebewaing, Karen Talaski, Sebewaing, and Kathy Wissner, Lansing, sisters of the bride, and Dana Laurie, Cass City, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids.

Scott Wissner, Sebewaing, friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were David Laurie, Cass City, brother of the groom; Gary Wissner, Sebewaing, brother of the bride, and Darwin Sneller, Haslett, and Paul Gniwewk, Detroit, friends of the groom. Matthew Talaski, Sebewaing, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Vocalists were Karen Talaski, Kathy Wissner, Nancy Buchholz and Lori Wissner. They were accompanied on the piano by Dana Laurie. The music consisted of "We Have Love," "Song for a Christian Wedding" and "Wedding Prayer." Organist was Faye Ertel.

The bride's mother wore a jade floor length gown. The groom's mother wore a wine colored floor length gown.

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall in Unionville.

The couple went on a honeymoon trip to the Upper Peninsula for four days.

Pre-nuptial activities consisted of a miscellaneous shower given by the bride's sisters. A pantry shower was given by the groom's sister and mother.

The Haire Net

Cass City lost a rare talent last Thursday when Arlan "Arlie" Brown died.

What Arlie had was an ability to make you laugh. An ability to brighten your day.

Walk down the street with Arlie and before you knew it you were chuckling or outright laughing and when he left, you wondered just what it was that was so funny.

That was his rare talent, his genius. For him it came as natural as water running downhill.

Arlie seldom repeated jokes that someone else originated. His humor derived from the situation or the people around him.

He was forever pouncing on the personality of neighbors and acquaintances and drawing out an anecdote about them.

Before he was half done you were smiling and when he finished you were more often than not laughing out loud.

As often as I've heard him do these anecdotal sketches, there never was a time that the object of his attention of the moment resented it.

He could ease in the barb without pain and without a trace of venom.

Over the years there were plenty of times in his life when there wasn't much for Arlie to laugh about.

He drifted into alcoholism and was scraping the bottom a few years ago. He pulled himself up by his bootstraps and joined Alcoholics Anonymous.

It was typical that he told you about himself when he suffered with the disease. Told you and made you laugh while doing it. You laughed with him and at the same time rejoiced with him on his recovery.

It's impossible to illustrate with words the way he was, but I'm going to try anyway with a scene enacted possibly 25 years ago.

Arlie was farming then and we met him in a Gage-town bar just after he had been to the elevator, in bib overalls covered with dust and I mean covered.

One thing led to another and Arlie led three of us to Bay City for a steak at Rex's Bar, the in place to eat at the time.

We walked in, sat down at the table covered with linen tablecloths and the waitress walked over with silverware and cloth napkins.

Arlie picked up his napkin daintily, unwrapped it and stuck it into the top of his dirt-stained bibs and announced to the waitress, "just what I need, how could anyone eat without one of these?"

That broke up everyone at the table, including the waitress. I've told the story a dozen times and the only ones who really appreciated it were those who knew Arlie and how he was. They could picture Arlie and just how he would do it. Then it was funny.

If you never caught Arlie and his act, you've missed out on a bit of sunshine in a too grey world.

If you have, I know you, like me, are pleased to have been touched by him as he passed our way.

"If It Fitz..."

Love can cause worry

By Jim Fitzgerald

Emily Patricia Smith was born owing $4,694.20. Statisticians say that's her fair share of the nation's new $1.079 trillion debt limit. And she was born a few hours before the peacemaker, Anwar Sadat, was slain by war makers. Welcome to the world, Emily.

Emily is my fourth grandchild, the first by my youngest daughter, Ferd. I worried terribly about Emily and Ferd during the last couple of months of the gestation. My wife wondered why I worried more about my pregnant daughter than I ever worried about my pregnant wife. It was a question to ponder.

Emily's projected birth date was Sept. 17, but the doctor said indications were she would arrive early, perhaps by several weeks. The suitcase for the rush to the hospital was packed by Sept. 1, and the waiting began.

Sept. 17 came and went and no baby. So did Sept. 30. Holy Moses. The impending grandfather became more worried and cranky every day. I remembered Ferd had the same doctor a year ago, when her first attempts at motherhood ended in a miscarriage. I also remembered that, several years ago when we were old enough to know better, my wife and I tried to rust our golden years with a fourth child. Another miscarriage, same doctor.

"Maybe Ferd should get a new doctor," I suggested, minding my daughter's business from 60 miles away.

"Don't be silly," my wife said. "It's not unusual for babies to be a couple of weeks late. Our own daughter was three weeks late, and you didn't worry about that."

Ferd was three weeks late? I'd forgotten that.

When she was born, in 1956, we lived in a tiny home full of mice, a mile outside town. I remember my wife and I played a lot of Scrabble while timing contractions during the final days of that pregnancy. More than once I got the two scores mixed up and thought our baby might turn out to be a five-letter word beginning with N, such as Never.

I also remember that, for awhile, we slept in town, at a relative's home, to be nearer the maternity ward. But the baby still didn't come, and we had to move back home because if the mousetraps weren't regularly emptied and re-baited, the mice would move our home to a warmer climate.

Finally, all the forces of modern medicine were used to cause the birth of Ferd before she was big enough to go to school. Her mother induced labor by gulping castor oil. I've always remembered that because Blue Cross didn't cover the cost of the castor oil.

But I don't remember ever worrying about Ferd's delayed birth. I always knew everything was going to be all right, and it was. So why, 25 years later, was I worrying myself nuts because Ferd was going through the same thing her mother did?

After considerable pondering, I decided the difference is age. A 29-year-old father doesn't know enough to worry about anything, births or mice, but by the time he is 55, he's lived enough to know how ignorant he was when he was 29. And he knows about trillion-dollar debts and assassinations and the short supply of what the world needs most — love.

I never said it out loud, but I wasn't sure everything was going to be all right with Emily and Ferd. I felt the same way before my older daughter produced three healthy grandchildren. I knew unfortunate births sometimes happen, so why not to someone I loved? It's awful to grow old and pessimistic.

The phone finally rang Oct. 5. It was Ferd, calling from the hospital, with an eight-pound baby named Emily in her arms. No castor oil was needed, and "mother and child are doing fine." Oh boy. That's the greatest cliché in the world because it describes the greatest miracle.

I figure it's possible that my children will be giving me grandchildren for the next 12 years, by which time I will be only 68 but easily eligible to have great-grandchildren. I'm not sure I can survive such a fecund future. Love is marvelous, but it can make you worry something awful.

1982 county mental health plan and budget, most of which is paid by the state.

Johnson told commissioners the mental health board is willing to negotiate with the Caro Area Services to the Handicapped its decision last year to end its contract with CASH, which operated a work activity program for mentally retarded adults, which ended in court.

The mental health board, Johnson explained, felt the emphasis in the program should be training for daily living, with work only a small part.

Fire victim improving

Stella Bowyer, 59, seriously injured when her Snover home exploded Sept. 24, was reported in fair condition Wednesday morning at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

She is no longer in the burn unit, where she had been in critical condition for several days.

Her husband, Joe, was discharged from St. Mary's Oct. 7.

Their home was destroyed because of a leaking propane gas line, which filled the crawl space with fumes, which were somehow ignited.

Gen-Tel projects to total $169,200

Improvements costing $169,200 will be made by General Telephone Co. in the Cass City exchange next year.

The company will spend $37,000 in the Kingston exchange.

The improvements are part of a $5.2 million program announced Friday for General Telephone's Thumb service area by Les Moench, northeastern division manager.

There will be $57,400 spent in Cass City to complete installation of specialized equipment to provide automatic number identification when private-line customers place long distance calls. An operator will no longer come on the line to request the telephone number except during extremely busy periods.

Operators will still request telephone numbers of party line users making long distance calls.

The rest of the project consists of installation of centralized automatic message accounting equipment which automatically records billing data of customer dialed long-distance calls. Engineering is already underway and including money spent for it, the project will cost a total of $61,600.

The costliest undertaking, also underway, will be installation of a local service cable to provide for exchange growth. A total of $10,700 has already been spent, with $92,200 to be spent in 1982 to complete it.

A project to begin next year will be installation of another local service cable to allow exchange growth. Of the total cost of $174,700, $16,000 will be spent next year. It will be finished in 1983.

Another project to be completed in 1983 will be installation of 200 lines and 200 terminals to provide for exchange growth. Each terminal provides one phone number; each line can serve 1-4 customers.

Specialized equipment will provide "touch calling" telephones with push buttons instead of dials. Total project cost is $39,800, of which $3,600 for engineering will be spent next year. The costliest project in Kingston next year, $22,900, will be installation of 200 terminals in the central office to allow exchange growth.

Installation of equipment to provide for automatic number identification for private line customers placing long distance calls and centralized automatic message accounting system to automatically record those calls will be completed in 1983. There will be $3,600 spent next year of a total of $32,900.

The final Kingston project, now underway, to be completed next year, is installation of additional circuits between that community and Saginaw. The total cost is $15,700, of which $10,500 is to be spent next year.

PEDALING AROUND

No ties

By Mike Eliasohn

I have no idea what made me think of it, but Hugh Hefner is getting old.

He is somewhere in his early to mid 50s.

I don't consider that decrepit, though I am in no hurry to get there.

In Hefner's case, however, he has always been identified with nubile young women and now, whenever he stands next to one, he looks like a dirty old man.

One could easily argue that ever since Hefner has started Playboy in 1954, he has been "dirty," but somehow an aging lecher seems more "unpure" than a younger one.

I wonder if Hefner has propositioned a young woman yet and was told to, "Buzz off, you old goat." If that has happened, I'll bet the women who said it never made the Playboy centerfold.

I don't want this to sound like I am a prude. On rare occasions, I have even purchased Playboy. The reason the occasions are so rare is the cover price of $2.50. Lust has its limits.

Hugh Hefner's moral standards, or lack of them, I can take or leave. What I don't like about him is the way he dresses. The Playboy publisher presents the world's best argument for wearing a tie, or at least an undershirt. He doesn't wear either.

Maybe there are a few men around who look good showing cleavage, but I don't think "Hef" is one of them. On the rare occasion I have seen him on a television talk show, wearing a leisure suit and a shirt with half the buttons unbuttoned, I thought he looked ridiculous — especially at his age. What would his mother say?

Who am I to criticize the way Hugh Hefner dresses, you ask?

You are right, I am a hypocrite. After all, I am a newspaper reporter and according to Charles Hix, newspaper reporters, along with Wall Street brokers and used car salesmen, are the worst dressed men.

The best dressed, according to the author of "How to Dress Your Man" and other fashion books, are cowboys "because they recognize that clothing must, first and foremost, be functional."

As for reporters, the former syndicated columnist said, "I've never known any other group of men who take such absolute pleasure in appearing unkempt."

"Why should anyone have confidence that a man who looks as if he can barely tie his shoelaces is savvy enough to report on matters of crucial importance?"

I strongly object to Hix's insulting remarks. I just looked at my feet and my shoes are securely tied. Not only that, but I got them tied right the first time I tried.

I not only know how to tie my shoes, I also know how to tie a tie.

Beyond that, however, I won't commit myself. I have never claimed I am a Beau Brummell. The reason my clothes look like I slept in them is because I did.

To be honest, I think Hix is right. In my close to a decade of reporting, I can't recall ever seeing a reporter who was impeccably neat. Semi-neat was the closest any ever came.

The Monroe Evening News had when I was there (and probably still has) an unwritten rule that male reporters must wear ties. All that proved, however, is that it is possible to wear a tie and still look like a slob.

Q. I will change jobs within the next month and will receive a lumpsum payment from a tax-deferred savings plan administered by my present employer. Is it possible to shelter this money from taxes until I retire?

A. Yes. Money which you have put into the plan is not taxable. To avoid taxes on your employer's contributions, you will have to reinvest or "roll over" the money in another tax-sheltered investment, like an IRA or KEOGH plan, if you are eligible. This reinvestment must be done within 60 days. Check with your new employer immediately to find out what type of retirement plan, if any, is available to you through his company. Whether the new position offers a retirement plan, or not, come in and talk with one of our financial officers. Under the new tax law, even if you are already participating in a pension plan, beginning January 1, you can deposit up to $2,000 annually in an Individual Retirement Account, tax deferred, until you withdraw the money at retirement or age 59½, and the contributions you make to the account can be deducted from your ordinary, taxable income.

Ex-exchange student dies in Holland plane crash

A memorial fund for the Cass City High School art department has been established in the name of Caroline Swart, who was killed Oct. 6 in an airliner crash in the Netherlands.

A citizen of that country, Miss Swart, 20 or 21, was a Rotary exchange student in Cass City from August, 1979, to July, 1980.

She had been employed as a stewardess by NLM, the domestic subsidiary of the national airline KLM, since April.

She was killed when the airliner on which she was working crashed eight minutes after takeoff from Rotterdam, en route to Eindhoven. The crew and all 17 passengers were killed.

Lightning apparently struck the Dutch-made Fokker F-28 twin jet engine aircraft, which knocked a wing off. Witnesses said the plane emerged from low clouds during a severe electrical storm with one wing missing. It was in a spiraling dive.

When it crashed, there were two explosions, which sent a huge fireball into the air.

"The plane just disappeared from the radar screen," an airport official said. "The pilot did not have a chance to say anything."

Weather conditions at the crash site were so bad that the search for bodies was called off until early Wednesday, Oct. 7, but a team of investigators continued working through the night.

Miss Swart was active in the art program at the high school here and money donated in her memory will be used to buy something that can be used by art students.

Donations can be given to art teacher Karen Wallace, student Tamra Heins or mailed to the high school.

Checks can be made out to Cass City High School, with a notation on them that the money is for the memorial fund.

During her year in Cass City, Miss Swart lived with the Clyde Wells, George Heins and Harry Capps families.

The Heins' daughter, Tamra, visited Miss Swart and her family in the Netherlands in June and July of this year.

Miss Swart, who spoke four languages, is survived by her mother and father, three brothers and a sister.

Her friends here were notified of her death by Rotarian Tom Proctor, active in the Rotary exchange program, who received a telephone call from Miss Swart's father shortly after her death.

Robert Leiterman

Probe continues in area death

Investigation is continuing into the death of Robert Carl Leiterman, 43, of Sebewaing, whose body was found in a drainage ditch Oct. 5 along Bach Road, 4½ miles southeast of that community.

According to Dr. E.C. Holdship, Huron county chief medical examiner, an autopsy showed Leiterman died from multiple fractures, internal bleeding and shock.

One possibility, he said, was that the victim was hit by a car and knocked into the 20-foot-deep ditch.

The sheriff's department is also investigating the possibility he fell or jumped. It is still awaiting final autopsy results.

Leiterman was last seen by a Sebewaing area resident who observed him about 6 p.m. Oct. 4 walking along Bach Road, roughly a mile from where he was found. The body was discovered at 4:30 p.m. the next day, about 17 feet from a bridge running over the ditch.

Leiterman was born June 11, 1938, in Gagetown, the son of Adam and Susanna (Petrie) Leiterman. He was a member of St. Peter's Lutheran church, Bach.

He is survived by a son, Robert Jr., Sebewaing; a daughter, Julie Leiterman, Sebewaing; five sisters, Mrs. Joseph (Johanna) Miklovich, Gagetown, Mrs. Victor (Christina) Wissner, Mrs. Walter (Marie) Menzel, and Mrs. Bert (Dorothy) Prichard, all of Sebewaing, and Mrs. John (Dolly) Ondrajka, Marlette, and two brothers, Max Leiterman, Bay City, and James Leiterman, Sebewaing.

One sister, Mrs. Barbara Parker, and one brother, Adam Leiterman Jr., preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held Thursday at the Dinkel-Juengel Funeral Home, Sebewaing, Rev. John Riske of St. Peter's Lutheran church officiating. Burial was in Grant township cemetery.

Chairs, rug stolen

Two rocking chairs and a rug were stolen from a vacant home on McGregory Road, Ellington township.

The owner of the home, Wayne Becker of 4578 McGregory Road, told sheriff's deputies Oct. 3 the theft occurred some time in September. Entry was gained by forcing open a rear door.

Stolen were a 12-by-17-foot rug, $100, and two rocking chairs worth $150 each.

Cass City High School Assistant Principal Roland Pakonen told village police last Thursday that someone took some items from the locker room of the visiting Bad Axe team.

Taken were a wallet and checkbook, $6 and two golf medals from Alexia Hordos; a softball pin belonging to Sheri Schott, and Eva Ward-hammer's volleyball pin.

The pins were removed from varsity jackets, some of which were damaged when they were removed.

Village police arrested Donald E. Hendrick, 45, of 5054 Green Road, Cass City, on a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor after stopping his car at 6:35 p.m. Monday on M-81.

He was taken to the county jail, where he was released Tuesday morning after posting bond. Arraignment in district court was scheduled Oct. 26.

Rebecca Ann Nye, of 4640 Elmwood Road, told Cass City police at 10:10 p.m. last Wednesday that someone threw a pumpkin at her car while she was driving near the Houghton and Maple Street intersection. It hit behind the driver's side door, causing an estimated $20 damage.

Application made for road repair

Application has been made for $20,000 in federal funds to reimburse the Tuscola County Road Commission for repairing roads damaged because of recent heavy rains.

County Emergency Services Coordinator Jim McCann said application was submitted to Lansing Wednesday. A federal official was in the county Friday to examine some of the road washouts that occurred because of flooding.

The application will be included in a $1.6 million grant Gov. Milliken is requesting from Washington to reimburse governmental units in the state for repair and cleanup costs because of the recent rain damage.

Next time you see your independent Auto-Owners agent, ask him about our Replacement Cost Endorsement.

It just means that if you have personal possessions, lost or stolen, we'll pay you the replacement cost (up to 400% of its actual cash value) not just the original cost. And with inflation, that can add up to a big difference.

It's another reason why there's a big difference between Auto-Owners and some other insurance companies.

Tire studs still banned in state

Motorists will find no changes in Michigan's studded snow tire law as only tires equipped with soft metal studs will be allowed on state roads during certain periods of the year, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Michigan banned tires with hard studs in 1975 since studies showed they cut deep ruts into roads and increased the chance of water buildup which could lead to dangerous hydroplaning of tires.

The only soft studs which meet state standards are commercially known as "Perma-T-Grippers."

They may be used on Michigan roads north of a line from Mason to Arenac counties from Oct. 1 to May 1. Below that line, they are permitted from Nov. 15 to April 1.

Michigan motorists who violate the law could face up to a $100 fine and-or up to 90 days in jail.

Auto Club advises that Michigan drivers traveling on soft-studded tires in states where they are prohibited can be ticketed. Motorists should avoid use of studded tires in any state or province banning them, which includes Wisconsin and Ontario.

Skin rash cause not always on the surface

By Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

Ever break out in a rash? Most of us have rash now and then.

Mostly it isn't serious and clears up after a few days. But sometimes the rash is a sign of something more threatening.

A rash may stem from allergic reactions, fever or heat, infectious diseases.

Medical attention is required if blue, purple or blood-red spots appear. These may mean bleeding under the skin. If there is pus or red streaks or if itching is severe, see the doctor.

Heat rash is common in the summer. Treatment consists of staying in out of the heat. Dusting powders and soothing lotions help the itching. Wear light, dry and loose clothing in warm weather. The heat rash usually disappears in a cool environment.

Hives are an allergic reaction to something. These involve bumpy, irregular swellings that sting, burn and itch. Animal hairs, feathers, plants, fabrics dyes and viral infections may cause hives. Foods are common offenders. The best treatment is to avoid the offending substance.

A skin reaction sometimes appears with almost any medication. Most often the rash stems from the use of powerful drugs, such as barbiturates, tranquilizers or antibiotics. Usually the rash disappears when the medication is discontinued.

The American Medical Association's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care points out also that contact with plants often causes rashes. The most common offenders are poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac.

Many infectious diseases cause rashes. Among these are chicken pox, German measles, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, scarlet fever, certain forms of meningitis, infant measles.

Infants often have rashes. Diaper rash is not dangerous but can cause a lot of discomfort. Diaper rash stems from a burn when the urine that stays on the skin for prolonged periods breaks down into ammonia.

Careful cleansing and drying, coupled with super absorbent, dry diapers, changed frequently, helps prevent diaper rash.

Child safety seat law begins April 1

Beginning April 1, a new Michigan law requires drivers to place children under four years of age in restraint devices when transporting them in a motor vehicle.

As an alternative, a child over one year of age may be secured in the back seat with a seat belt.

A restraint device is a padded seat or infant carrier specially designed to provide a child under four years of age maximum protection in an accident.

Restraint devices can be purchased at most major department stores for $35 to $50 or can be rented for as little as pennies a day from hospitals and private organizations with rental programs.

In some instances, insurance companies furnish restraint devices at little or no cost as part of their coverage plans. Restraint devices also can be purchased second hand.

Your Neighbor says Square dancing is lots of fun

"We love to square dance and you meet real nice people. It's a lot of good exercise and it's not expensive."

That's Juanita and Alvin (Fin) Burk's recipe for a good time.

She and her husband started square dancing five years ago after they saw an article in the Chronicle about an upcoming Rocking Eights Square Dance Club "fun night," its first dance in September, at which the basics were taught.

"We thought it would be nice to try," Mrs. Burk said. They went, took lessons that winter, and have been dancing since.

They are members of the Rocking Eights, which holds its dances the first and third Saturdays of each month at the Sacred Heart School in Caro.

They also go to dances each month in Cass City, Marlette, Bad Axe and Freeport, an average of about twice a week.

This past summer, they drove their motor home to five Friday through Sunday campouts sponsored by the National Square Dance Campers Association. The events were near Caro, Sterling, Standish, Harrison and Alpena.

The Burks are looking forward to attending the National Square Dance convention June 26-28 of next year at Cobo Hall in Detroit. From 25,000-30,000 dancers are expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Burk live on Severance Road, Decker. She has been secretary at Campbell Elementary School for 15 years. Her husband is a Mac Tool distributor.

They have five children, all married, and 12 grandchildren. Their youngest son, Jim Burk, and his wife, Barb, of Caro, took square dancing lessons last winter and now are also active square dancers.

Around the Farm

Wet soil tillage

By Mike Score
Tuscola County
Extension Agricultural Agent

The most frequently asked question I've heard in recent discussions with local farmers is, "What type of tillage system should I use if the weather stays wet?"

Unfortunately, many farmers are faced with a real challenge due to our recent rains and our fine textured soils, and there's no easy answer to the question.

Like any other difficult question, the answer can only be arrived at by asking yourself a series of other questions and piecing the answers together to come up with "the big picture" of a soil management system suitable to your situation.

Questions to ask yourself: 1) Do the soil conditions in a given field require a primary tillage operation to insure a good seedbed (previous compaction problem exists, tillage is required to eliminate a pest problem, etc.)?

2) If a need for primary tillage exists, do time or management requirements demand that the tillage operation be done in the fall (fertilizer incorporation, too many acres to work in the spring, sugarbeets or other early planted crops will be planted in April when soil below 3 inches is still too wet to work, etc.)?

3) Is excessive soil erosion a management factor in crop production for your fields (sandy loam soils or coarser, slope, lack of wind breaks in the area, etc.)?

If you answered question 1 with a yes, you feel that a primary tillage operation is needed. If you responded no, you should start working on your planter to gear up for no-till.

If you answered question 2 with a yes, you still must choose a primary tillage tool to use this fall and you should plan on waiting as long as possible before you begin your field work.

Your tillage depth should be as shallow as you can feel comfortable with, and obviously, you should start with earliest planted ground (1982 crop) first, followed by the ground which will be planted immediately afterwards, and so on. This way, if you don't complete all necessary fall tillage operations, your field work schedule can still begin on time next spring.

If you must use a primary tillage tool and excessive soil erosion is a problem for you, use a chisel plow. If soil conditions are wetter than ideal, go no deeper than 6 inches. If excessive soil erosion is not a management factor, choose between a chisel plow and a moldboard.

Under wet field conditions, any field operations

$5,166 lost in state aid cut

The Cass City School District will lose $5,166 in state aid because of a statewide budget cut approved by Gov. Milliken Sept. 30.

As of late last week, Supt. Donald Crouse had yet to be notified of the cut officially; however, according to the Michigan Association of School Administrators, the cut approved by the governor is 3/16th of 1 percent of the total of membership state aid and local property taxes.

That works out to $5,166, Crouse said.

Only last week, it was reported in the Chronicle that because of a bigger than expected drop in enrollment, the combination of state aid and property tax revenue would be $22,500 less than the amount contained in the 1981-82 budget approved by the school board of $2,777,900. The $5,166 is a further subtraction.

Crouse was quoted in last week's article that there isn't much the district can do immediately to cut expenditures because of the unexpected decrease in revenue, with the result it may have a deficit at the end of the school year.

New books at the library

THE LAST DAYS OF AMERICA by Paul Erdman (fiction). It is now 1985 and the economic horror show of the near future is upon us, with even corporate bribery a victim of rampant inflation. In pursuit of a lucrative NATO missile contract, an American arms manufacturer travels to Europe prepared to grease a few greedy palms to ensure that his company's bid wins. He's unprepared for the double-crossing web of international intrigue and the shaky political alliances that may spell the end of the U.S. as a superpower and the beginning of World War III. A thriller of skulduggery on the highest levels that extrapolates provocative speculations from recent scandals and headlines.

BLUE SMOKE AND MIRRORS: How Reagan Won and Why Carter Lost the Election of 1980, by Jack Germond and Jules Witcover (non-fiction). This is an absorbing account of the 1980 Presidential election. Tracing events from the Iowa caucuses to Inauguration Day, the authors term the election "a referendum on Carter," who lacked credibility as an effective President, failed in his effort to "demonize" Reagan, and could not draw the voters' attention away from crisis headlines with image-building in the media. The book examines at length such matters as the Reagan "hostage watch" that anticipated a final Carter attempt to resolve the Iran crisis.

THE CLOWNS OF GOD by Morris West (fiction). When Pope Gregory is forced to abdicate because he claims to have had a vision of the Apocalypse, he turns to his old friend, Carl Mendelius, for help. A former priest, Mendelius fears the Pope's vision is merely an old man's nightmare. But his investigation of the old scriptures frighteningly coincides with evidence that the world is at the brink of total war. He realizes his friend did see the future - a future that is hurtling closer with every passing minute.

Family films at 7:30 p.m. Monday are "Wolves and Wolves" (dedicated people fight to save the misunderstood wolf from destruction by man) and "Brown Wolf" (Jack London's story about a spirited dog and the persons whose lives he crosses spotlights the conflict between the call of the wild and that of civilization).

Rawson helped with bus bill

In the middle 1940s there was a tragic traffic accident involving a school bus in which a six-year-old boy lost his life.

At that time, there was not a law requiring traffic to stop while a school bus was loading or discharging passengers.

The president of the Sanilac County Farm Bureau was contacted for help. The president immediately called a meeting of the county board of directors, at which time a resolution requiring traffic to stop was passed and forwarded to the Farm Bureau state office with a request that a copy be sent to each member of the House and Senate.

A telephone call was made to Sanilac's state representative to request that he sponsor a bill in the House requiring traffic to stop while a school bus was loading or discharging passengers. Would you believe he refused to do so?

Sen. Audley Rawson was contacted by telephone in the Senate. Sen. Rawson always gracious and patient, immediately agreed to sponsor a bill in the Senate and invited this writer to visit the Senate and lend a hand to get the bill into the legislative mill.

During this session of the legislature, there was heavy resistance to passage of the school bus law. There were three strong voices raised in opposition. The first was the state police. A visit to traffic director Capt. Scavarda's office was made. The captain was sympathetic but also, unalterably opposed because, quote, "Would you have traffic stop, say on Telegraph Hwy., and tie up traffic just to load and unload school kids from a bus?"

The second group was the Federated Clubs of Michigan. A call was made to the club president. She informed me that there would be no help coming from her organization, that the position the state police had taken was the club's position. Unquote.

The third case of opposition was from the American Automobile Association. Its position was similar to the state police position.

Since the bill was presented midway through the legislative session, Sen. Rawson was unable to bring the bill to a vote and get it on to the House.

However, during the following meeting of the legislature, the Senate bill became a law requiring overtaking traffic to stop while school buses loaded and discharged passengers. A short time later the law was changed to require traffic to stop traveling in both directions.

Note should be made that considerable help in the passage of the school bus bill came from (if my memory serves me correct), a local of the Michigan Education Association located in the Traverse City area.

This is being written as a tribute to Senator Audley Rawson. His state was made a better place to live because of him. He served his area expertly. His passing will be felt by all of us that knew him and by many that did not. I like to think that his efforts and his engaging personality was largely responsible for Michigan having a school bus law.

Lautner keys wins

Hawk cagers soar past North Branch and Bad Axe

Although she is only a junior, Carrie Lautner showed Tuesday night that she is a key performer on Coach Lloyd Schinnerer's Red Hawk cage squad. Lautner, suffering from an injury, was held out of the first half of the game against North Branch at Cass City High School and the visitors forged into a 14-9 lead in the first half.

Inserted into the line-up after the intermission, Lautner and company rallied to pull out a 34-30 decision in the Thumb B Association clash. The Hawks had a little help from the visitors in the game. The taller Broncos had a horrible shooting night, hitting just 10 of 61 shots. Many of the misses were on easy close-in rebound shots.

Cass City used a pressing defense to help overcome the North Branch height advantage effectively, Schinnerer said. Carrie Lautner netted 11 points in her two quarters of play to lead all scorers. Jill Hutchinson netted 9. Kelly Marston led the Broncos with 10.

The Hawks' rebounding woes were increased when Joy Root and Michelle Fahrner, Cass City's best rebounders, fouled out trying to stop the taller North Branch forward wall.

Cass City will play at Sandusky Thursday and return home Tuesday for a game against Marlette.

BAD AXE GAME

The Cass City Red Hawks chalked up their second victory in four starts in the Thumb B Association Thursday night with a 48-38 decision over Bad Axe at Cass City High School.

The Hawks broke open a tight game in the last quarter to register the win. The two teams played dead even for the first half. The score was tied 7-7 at the end of the first 8 minutes and 17-all at the intermission. Cass City edged in front 31-29, at the end of the third quarter and then posted a big 17-9 edge in the final frame to win going away.

It was a delightful switch from previous games when other teams pounced on the Hawks in the final 8 minutes to post decisive victories.

The Hawks were led by Carrie Lautner with 12 points, followed by Jill Hutchinson with 9 points and 10 rebounds.

The Hawks shot just 30 percent on 20 of 66 from the floor, but hit 8 of 11 for 73 percent from the free throw line.

In the preliminary, the Bad Axe JV's topped the winless Hawks, 48-30.

WHEN THE RACE started there were a horde of racers at the line but after the 5,000 meters (over three miles) had been finished, Greg Bliss, Cass City's premier distance runner was all by himself. Bliss showed little strain as he ran virtually uncontested Tuesday.

Bliss best in Thumb B meet

Although Cass City has the outstanding individual performer in the Thumb B Association in 5,000 meter cross country competition, the Caro Tigers have the best all-around team and is the league champion.

The Tigers finished first with a combined league and dual meet total of 42 points. Greg Bliss, Cass City, won the individual honors with a time of 17:03, a full 31 seconds ahead of second place Ken Campbell of Caro in the league meet held Tuesday in Cass City.

The team results were: Marlette, 2nd, 36 points; North Branch, 3rd, 30 points; Cass City, 4th, 24 points; Lakere, 5th, 18 points; Vassar, 6th, 12 points. Bad Axe and Sandusky did not field teams.

Second to Bliss for Cass City was Scott Hobart with a time of 18:34 for a 14th place finish. Other Cass City places were: Kevin Bliss, 20th; Randy Nicholas, 25th;

Tom Rutkoski, 32nd, and De Kostanko, 36th.

GIRLS' MEET

Cass City girls finished a notch higher in the final Thumb B standings than the boys with a third place finish. The girls were paced by Lorie Hurley who finished second with a time of 21:45. The race was won by Brenda Essenmacher of Sandusky with a time of 20:04.

Although the Hawks won the league meet the girls' efforts in dual meets resulted in the third place finish.

The final standings and the points earned were: Sandusky, 1st, 38; Marlette, 2nd, 36; Cass City, 3rd, 34; Caro, 4th, 22; Lakere, 5th, 20; Vassar, 6th, 8. Bad Axe and North Branch did not field complete teams.

Besides Hurley other Cass City runners finished in the following order: Renae Stimpfel, 4; Merilee Leslie, 12; Kristy Deering, 13; Bonnie Smerdon, 18; Tami Stimpfel, 26; Lisa Wilson, 34.

State campaign fails as Federal meat inspection began Oct. 5

Despite efforts to save it, Michigan's meat inspection program came to an end Oct. 2. Federal inspection began Monday, Oct. 5.

The Michigan Meat Packers Association had filed suit to stop the federal takeover, ordered by Gov. Milliken after the legislature voted to phase out the state program. Wayne County Circuit Judge James A. Hathaway ruled against the MMPA Sept. 30, stating, "The executive branch certainly has a right to determine how it's going to use funds that are appropriated."

The Meat Packers then sought an emergency injunction from the state Court of Appeals to stop the takeover, according to a Cass City meat inspector, but that was rejected. His understanding is the MMPA is still pursuing its appeal.

The ex-state meat inspector didn't want his name used because when the state inspectors were sworn in as federal employees, he said, they were told not to talk to reporters or members of Congress without permission of their supervisor or to enforce state meat laws.

Michigan's law barring use of pig snouts, ears, lips and stomachs in hot dogs and sausage was part of the controversy, since federal law allows their inclusion.

Meat packers can still choose to produce hot dogs and sausage to state standards. It will be up to state food inspectors to make sure what is inside the package complies with what the label says, but the meat inspector noted the state is short-handed in its number of food inspectors.

The changeover meant re-assignments for some state inspectors, several of whom quit, he said, "because they couldn't afford to go where they were sending them."

A Sandusky inspector was first reassigned to Detroit, and then to Holland, so he resigned. An Upper Peninsula inspector was sent to Bay City.

Of some inspectors living in the Cass City area, one retained his present assignments, another is going to Frankenmuth, one to Saginaw and the other to Caro. They have no guarantee that they won't eventually be reassigned.

They are receiving less pay than they did as state employees and they lost all their seniority. They now rank the same as any federal employee newly hired.

The inspector commented they were still better off than auto workers who have permanently lost their jobs.

There were 121 state inspectors at the end. Now there are 130-140 federal inspectors in their place. Because there aren't enough ex-state inspectors, federal inspectors from elsewhere are being assigned here for two-week periods, who must be paid for their transportation and lodging. The Cass City man has met or knows of inspectors working here from Iowa, Georgia, Minnesota and Missouri.

Since federal inspectors don't check custom slaughter houses except once or twice a year for sanitation, the state retained 10 inspectors to continue to inspect animals when slaughtered at such places.

The Cass City inspector doesn't expect that to last, however, since a person who wants an animal slaughtered for his own use can take it to a federally-inspected packing plant, since it can still be slaughtered there, but won't be checked.

Elkland board approves new base station radio

The Elkland Township Fire Department is getting a new base station radio but will wait a while longer to get a new tanker truck.

The township board Monday evening approved purchase of a new radio for $780, replacing the old tube-type unit, thought to be at least 22 years old.

Due to its age, Fire Chief Dave McNaughton said Tuesday, repairmen have said fixing it in the future would be about as costly as buying a new one. The new one should be delivered in 4-6 weeks.

The base radio is used for communicating from the fire hall to trucks at fires and with the sheriff's department in Caro, and sets off the siren on signal from Caro.

At the invitation of firemen, a representative of GMC Truck and Coach spoke to the board about purchase of a new tanker. The one he offered, using a new 1980 chassis, cost $42,000.

McNaughton explained firemen have examined five or six different truck and tank combinations and are looking for more. They hope to have something more definite to present to the board at its Nov. 9 meeting.

Alternatives include finding a cheaper version of what was offered to the board Monday or purchase of a used tanker from a local milk hauler for $1,000 less but with a bigger tank.

The present tank is mounted on a 1968 chassis, apparently purchased a year or two after that. When filled with 2,400 gallons of water, the chassis is overloaded and the only time it isn't carrying such a load is when it is being emptied at a fire.

Since spring, the tank has leaked badly, literally coming apart at the welded seams, McNaughton said. "At the July 4th parade, it looked like a Road Commission truck sprinkling a road," he commented.

Also Monday, the board updated the insurance on the fire hall and the sexton's house to reflect their increased value due to inflation.

Toughman contest slated in Cass City

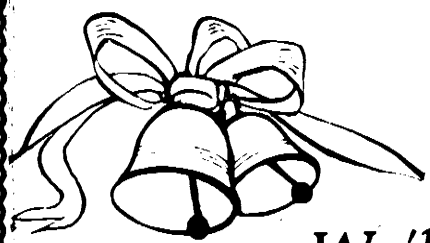

Eight brawlers from the Thumb area will share $2,400 in prize money in a Toughman Contest scheduled at the Colony House in Cass City Oct. 29 and Sunday, Nov. 1.

A new wrinkle of the contest calls for a light heavy-weight contest for men 161 to 174 pounds and a heavy-weight contest at weights from 175 pounds and over.

There will be two winners in each class and they will win $300 each and qualify for the Michigan regional tournament.

Promoters say that only amateurs will be accepted. No previous professional or sanctioned amateur fighters will be permitted to enter.

The Thumb contest is restricted to men from the Thumb.

Hatchets fall, Broncos next

Red Hawks wing way to win with long passes

Cass City passed its way to a Thumb B Association victory to make it a joyous homecoming for Hawk fans Friday as the Bad Axe Hatchets fell before the quick striking Hawks, 27-14.

Cass City has a chance to make it two wins in a row when they meet the North Branch Broncos this Friday and will reign as slight favorites in the Thumb B clash.

It looked for awhile like it was going to be a defensive struggle on a night that was perfect for football, almost windless, with temperatures around 45 degrees.

Bad Axe made a serious threat early in the first quarter to get on the board. The Hatchets moved to the Cass City three with a first down, and four plays later the Hawks took over on the 11.

The Hawks drew first blood in a drive that started on the Cass City 35. A pass to Ray Ferris covered 35 yards and Joe Decker ran for 20 around left end to the two and then dived over for the score on the next play. Jim Crickon's run for the extra points failed.

The Hatchets went in front for the only time in the game with 6:13 left in the period. A fumbled punt gave the Hatchets the ball on the Hawk 22, from where the visitors pushed over to score. Ric Aymen dashed the final 8 yards and then ran for the extra points.

Cass City didn't take long to get that one back. Crickon lateraled on the left flat to Ray Ferris and Ferris found Tim Horner 20 yards behind everyone in the left flat and the end danced in for the score. The play covered 54 yards. Darryl Hoag ran around end for the extra points. There was 3:56 left in the half.

Cass City scored again with just 1:27 left in the half. Horner intercepted a Bad Axe pass and ran it to the Bad Axe 21. There was just 2:39 left in the half.

After a running play, Crickon tossed a strike to Ferris on the two and he slipped into the left corner of the end zone.

In the second half Cass City put a little icing on the cake with another pass, this one from halfback Decker to Horner, that covered 63 yards for the touchdown.

Bad Axe made the final score a little closer when Rick Phillips ran 31 yards for a touchdown in the dying moments of the game.

Coach Don Schelke named his two ends, Ferris and Horner, as Red Hawks of the week.

Ferris tossed a 54-yard touchdown pass and was on the receiving end of a 6-pointer. Horner caught three passes for 126 yards and two touchdowns. In addition he was in on 12 tackles, recovered a fumble and picked off an interception on defense.

Dave Osentoski led all players on defense with 18 tackles, including five solo tackles.

PASSING WAS THE key to Cass City's victory over Bad Axe. One of the two primary receivers was end Ray Ferris who picked up long yardage in the second quarter on this play.

Bulldogs drop heartbreaker as A-F scores winning TD in final seconds

Owen-Gage came within 26 seconds last Friday of upsetting Akron-Fairgrove before losing, 34-27.

The loss drops the Bulldogs to 1-3 in the North Central Thumb D League, 2-3 overall, while the Vikings are now 3-1.

Leslie bags bear

Dale Leslie of Leslie Road, Decker, killed a 315-pound, 6-foot, 1-inch black bear Sept. 29 in the Keweenaw Peninsula in the Upper Peninsula.

Leslie lured the bear to his blind with fresh fish, honey and calf feed.

One shot from his 12 gauge shotgun with 00 buckshot dropped the bruin in his tracks.

Leslie was hunting with friends Mike Facchini and Mark Medos. It was the first time Leslie had gone bear hunting.

Owen-Gage travels Saturday afternoon to Peck, where the Pirates also have only one league win to their credit. The team is 1-3 in the conference and only 1-4 overall, but except for a 34-0 pasting by non-league Brown City, all its losses have been close, according to Bulldog line coach Phil Gray.

Saturday's action promises to also be close. The host Bulldogs were ahead Friday, 27-26, when Viking Mike Volk completed a pass past the enemy 25-yard line. The referees called interference, however, and the penalty moved Akron-Fairgrove to within the 10 yard line.

That enabled John Montgomery to score from one yard out with 26 seconds left. Volk then passed to Todd Aldrich for the final 34-27 score.

The game was not a defensive standstill for either team.

Ron Smith started the scoring for the visitors on a one-yard run in the first quarter. The attempted kick for the extra point was no good.

Owen-Gage got on the scoreboard on a 26-yard pass from Stan Andrakowicz to Dan Glidden. The attempted pass for two more points was incomplete.

Volk scored his first points of the night for the Vikings on an 18-yard run. The kick attempt was no good.

In the second quarter, Montgomery crossed the goal line from four yards out. An attempt to run the ball over for two points was stopped short.

Luck was with coach Arnie Besonen's Bulldogs next time they scored. Lee Gettel was close to the goal line when he was hit and dropped the ball. The pigskin rolled across the line and Mike Powell fell on it for six points. Andrakowicz then passed to Glidden for two more.

Volk scored again in the third quarter on a two yard run, then passed to Ed Aymen for two more.

In the final period, Gettel scored on a 26-yard run. Glidden's kick for the extra point was no good.

Owen-Gage went ahead with 3:12 left when Andrakowicz scored on a 1-yard run and Glidden kicked the extra point, but the lead didn't last.

Both teams gained a lot of ground.

Gettel, with 79 yards in 13 carries, was the top ball carrier. Owen-Gage advanced 116 yards in 23 carries on the ground. Andrakowicz completed 10 of 22 passes, with two interceptions, for 171 yards, for a total of 287.

Akron-Fairgrove carried the ball 51 times and advanced 233 yards, with Volk the top ball carrier with 76 yards in 11 carries. He completed 12 of 22 passes, with one interception, for 132 yards, for total offensive yardage of 365.

The Bulldogs made nine first downs, fumbled once and were penalized six times for 70 yards. Their opponents collected 18 first downs, didn't fumble and were penalized eight times for 100 yards.

Glidden made nine tackles, grabbed one interception, and was top receiver with six catches for 101 yards. Terry Muntz made 10 tackles.

Top Viking on defense was Montgomery with 11 tackles. Score by quarters:

Sutton-Sunshine celebrates

125 years of church circuit riding

Sundays used to be very long days for ministers.

It was that way back in 1856, when the first quarterly meeting of the Cass River Methodist Protestant church was conducted in a barn owned by Samuel Dean a half-mile west of Elmwood.

Members of the Sutton-Sunshine United Methodist church, which can trace its origins back to that meeting in July of that year, celebrated the 125 years of the Cass River Methodist circuit Sunday.

The celebration was held in conjunction with the dedication of the remodeled sanctuary, which was done last spring.

Speaker at the 10 a.m. service was Rev. Robert Horton, the district superintendent, from Port Huron.

There was a potluck lunch at 12:30, followed by a celebration at 2. Among those attending were four former pastors of the church, Arthur Howard, 1939-40, Willis Braun, 1964-70, Carl Shamblen, 1970-72, and Larry Whiting, 1972-75, and the widows of two former pastors, E. Ray Willson, 1927-35 and 1940-41, and Peyton Loy, 1975-78.

The present pastor, Wayne Thomas, has been there since 1978.

THE FIRST QUARTERLY meeting back in 1856 encompassed almost all of Tuscola county, with Rev. George Graham conducting the services.

Back then, Rev. Thomas explained, Sunday services were usually held in members' homes with lay ministers presiding. The ordained minister might appear once a month to perform weddings, baptisms, etc.

Rev. Graham may have served until 1863, since the church records, which are incomplete, don't list another minister until that year.

Over the years, new circuits were split off from the original one. The Cass River Circuit was formed in 1862, and basically consisted of Tuscola county north of the Cass River.

Other circuits formed over the years included Fairgrove, Cass City, Prairie, Gagetown, Tuscola and Caro.

Churches back then, Rev. Thomas explained, usually were first called "classes," because that is what they were. A group of primarily adults would meet in someone's home to study the Bible. As the gathering grew, they would eventually request the services of a pastor.

THE PRESENT SUTTON-SUNSHINE church, at Colwood and Dutcher Roads, is the result of a merger of a circuit of three churches and a charge.

One was the Sutton church, now Sutton-Sunshine, built in 1872 and in use since then. The church received its name from the Sutton family which lived nearby. An early pastor, from 1880-83, was E.B. Sutton.

The building has been in continual use since it was constructed. It was remodeled in 1914, 1939 and 1954, when indoor toilets were installed. In the early 1970s, an education wing and dining room were added.

The next oldest was the Remington church at the corner of Remington and Cass City Roads, named after the Remington family, one member of which was apparently very active in getting the church started.

Services were held there until 1945. The building was torn down about 1949 or '50.

The Remington church lives on in one regard. Its parsonage was built in 1911 by Rev. Alva Phelps, who was a carpenter and farmer as well as a minister. The home was moved next door to the Sutton church to serve as its parsonage in 1947.

The Abke charge was called that because its members never had a church of their own. Services were held in the Abke School (Columbia township No. 1), at Hoppe and Ashmore Roads. The building, constructed in 1897, is still standing.

Cecil Barriger, 71, a member of the Sunshine church from 1927 until it closed, recalls the Abke charge was still in existence in 1915, but doesn't know when it started.

BARRIGER WAS BORN a quarter mile from the Sutton church, later attended the Presbyterian church in the Colling area, when his family lived there, and the Remington church from 1915-27.

The Sunshine church, he said, began with meetings in the home of Mrs. Bourn on Elmwood Road. Services were later held in the Sunshine school, a mile west of where the building was constructed in 1899 at Cass City and Jacob Roads. Services were also held prior to then in the tabernacle a half mile south and a half-mile west of there.

The last service was held there June 4, 1972. With average Sunday attendance of about a dozen members, it wasn't feasible to keep it open any longer.

The building was later sold to Wally Kappen, who had it moved onto a new foundation, further from the road. Kappen, who lives nearby, had visions of turning it into an apartment building. That plan has fallen by the wayside and the structure is now being torn down. The lumber will be used for a house.

THE THREE CHURCHES and the charge always shared a pastor.

Barriger recalled the minister gave his first sermon each Sunday at the Sutton church at 10 a.m. then travelled five miles to the Sunshine church for the 11:30 service. There was time for lunch, and traveling three miles to the Remington church. The final sermon of the day was delivered in the evening at the Abke charge three miles away. By car, the distances aren't great, but on a horse, it meant long hours and in winter, cold ones.

WIDE USE OF THE automobile, Rev. Thomas explained, was a contributing factor to the demise of the small rural churches, since it was easy to drive to larger ones. The loss of population as young people moved from farms to the cities for jobs was another factor.

The Sutton-Sunshine church, formed by the merger of the two churches in 1972, has 135 full-time members.

When the churches were merged, a new circuit was created with the Bethel church at Unionville and Darbee Roads, seven miles away, which Thomas also serves.

In addition to the merge of churches, there has also been a merger of denominations. The Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal South and Methodist Protestant churches united as the Methodist church in 1933.

The Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren churches merged in 1969.

THE ABKE CHARGE of the Cass River Circuit met in the Abke school, built in 1897 at Hoppe and Ashmore Roads in Columbia township.

Echo chapter gives donation

Thirty-nine members of Echo Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, attended the Oct. 7 meeting with 15 officers answering roll call.

Following the formal opening, the charter was draped in memory of Audley Rawson.

During the business session with Worthy Matron Marian Umpfenbach presiding, the request for a life membership for Pearl Hartwick was granted.

Sunshine committee chairmen Betty Greenleaf and Bernadine Good gave a monthly report. Invitations to installation of officers at Uby and Bad Axe were read. Members voted a $25 contribution to the United Fund drive.

Annual reports were given by Betty Murphy for the auditing committee, from Thelma Graham as treasurer and from Ruth Whitaker as chapter secretary. She reported a present membership of 227, of which 62 are life members. The Chapter lost eight members by death in the past year.

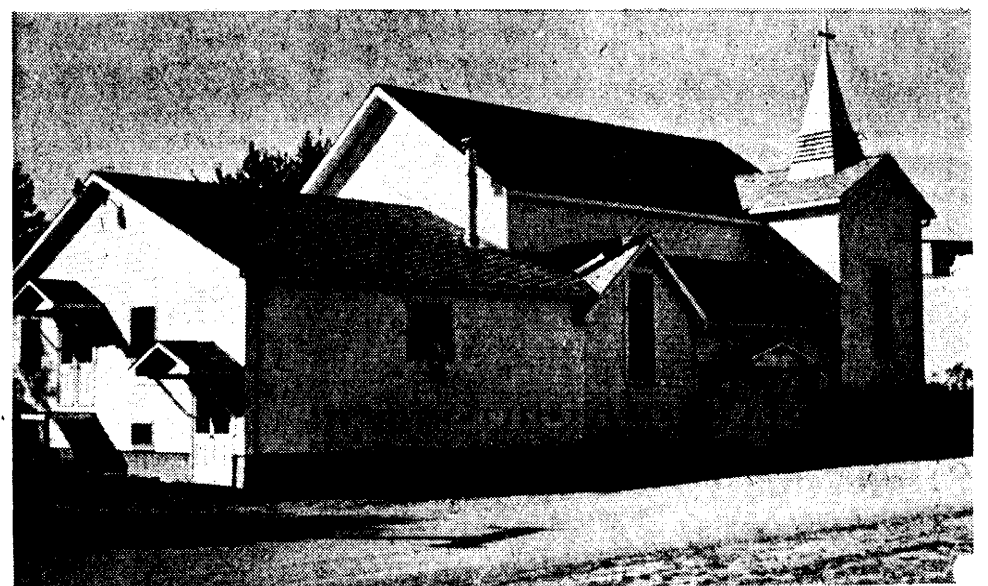

Installation of Echo Chapter officers for the coming year will take place Nov. 7. It will be an open installation.

Officers elected to serve are: worthy matron, Georgene Jensen; worthy patron, Keith Murphy; associate matron, Lena Teller; associate patron, Edward Golding Sr.; secretary, Ruth Whittaker; treasurer, Thelma Graham; conductress, Betty Murphy, and associate conductress, Glenda Wilson.

Alternate delegates to the 1982 grand chapter are Betty Murphy, Glenda Wilson and George Wilson.

Refreshments were served in the dining room following the meeting.

SUTTON-SUNSHINE United Methodist church has stood at the corner of Colwood and Dutcher Roads in Ellington township since 1872. The addition at left was constructed in the early 1970s.

Hardship for survivors

Many families fled, but not all made it to safety from flames

By Emma Ackerman

Part VII of a series

In the Deckerville area in Sanilac county, the entire Neil Erhart family: father, mother, two children, Mrs. Erhart's mother, and the hired girl lost their lives. The bodies of the father and the two children were found together near a swamp, into which they were trying to escape, while the rest of the family were found in a ditch.

Personal interviews in the Cass City community revealed the suffering and hardships endured by parents and grandparents of local residents. A few actual survivors in the area are still living today.

One such person is Mrs. Alfred Knapp of Cass City. She claims vivid memories of the fire of 1881. Five years old at the time, she lived with her parents in the small community of Cumber, about 10 miles east of Cass City. Their house was the only one spared in the neighborhood but as their new barn was burning along with the surrounding woods, the heat became so intense, it melted the curtains in the pantry.

Their home was used to house all those in the area suffering from burns and smoke blindness. Blankets were spread over the living room floor to make beds for the injured, who lay side by side. Mrs. Knapp still remembers stepping over the people as she made her rounds with a pail of cold water, offering them drinks to quench their feverish thirst.

Later, a relief was established at Tyne, over which her father was delegated relief manager. She traveled with him by horse and buggy as he distributed clothing to the burned out families in the area.

Another Cass City resident, Mrs. Ida Nique, was a baby in the crib at the time. She recalled her mother telling that as the fire approached the village from the south, she rushed from their home and pulled down the rail fence surrounding the house while the father plowed furrows around their buildings. The flames were seemingly stopped by the river, however, and the fire went to the east of Cass City.

The Samuel Vyse family, living near Ubyly, lost all of their buildings, but escaped with one horse and a wagon, on which they had loaded all their furniture and drove to the Cass River, submerging in the deepest part. Legs of chairs and tables protruding above the surface were charred. Members of the family lay in the water covering their heads with wetted down blankets. After the fire, the government gave each burned out family $10 in cash to help buy supplies. The Vyse family purchased a mantle clock with the money given to them, since they had never owned a time piece before.

The Rev. Melvin Vender reported that his father lived near Kinde at the time, and after plowing furrows around the house, took the family and horses to the Pinebog River where they remained in the water covered with blankets until the danger had passed.

The Thomas Brown family, living one-half mile west of Cumber, kept supplies of water in barrels and hogsheads for fighting the blaze, but their supply soon ran out as one building after another caught fire. Many of their cattle were badly burned and had to be slaughtered afterwards.

The family took cover in the middle of a field that was being summer fallowed. They quickly dug furrows around a stone pile for the children to lie in. At this level, a clear draft of air was blowing across the land and they were able to breathe.

Since their buildings were a total loss, their entire family was taken in for the winter months by a brother, the Joseph Brown family, who resided a short distance to the west.

Living nearby was the Henry Burt family, who also lost all their buildings and possessions. Mr. and Mrs. Burt and their six children were offered living quarters for the winter months in the home of a neighbor, the George Bond family.

1-year-old treated after Owendale van mishap

A one-year-old Owendale boy, Daniel Dorsch, was treated and released from Schuerer Hospital in Pigeon, where he was taken after being injured when he walked into the side of a van Tuesday.

Bad Axe state police reported Gene Fuerst, 20, of Sebawaing, was driving on Main Street in Owendale, east of Second Street, when the toddler emerged from between two parked cars. The driver tried to avoid him, but he walked into the side of the milk delivery van.

The mishap occurred at 2:25 p.m.

CAR-DEER

Six car-deer accidents were reported within the last several days, one involving a police officer.

Caro state police reported that Deputy Curtis Chambers, 31, was northbound on Sheridan Road, north of Denmore Road in Juniata township, at 9:35 p.m. Monday when his patrol car ran into a deer.

The front end of the vehicle sustained substantial damage.

At 7:20 a.m. Oct. 6, deputies reported, Jane C. Lester, 28, of 6557 Sadler Road, Decker, was westbound on Bevens Road when her car hit a deer. The vehicle went out of control and spun off the north side of the road backwards.

She was reported to have suffered possible injury, but apparently didn't require hospital treatment.

At 9:20 that morning, Dorland R. Kuntz, 38, of Caro, was eastbound on Decker-ville Road, east of Kingston Road, when his auto collided with a deer. Deputies investigated.

At 7:30 p.m. Oct. 6, officers said, Robert D. Lane Jr., 22, of 6360 Houghton Street, Cass City, was northbound on Cemetery Road, north of Kelly Road, when his car collided with a deer.

Cass City police reported that at 7:40 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 7, Walter E. Hempton, 36, of 8811 N. Van Dyke Road, was westbound on M-81, west of Schwegler Road, when a deer ran into the left side door of his vehicle.

At 7:30 p.m. Friday, deputies reported, Sherry Kay Dereszynski, 18, of 5627 E. Sanilac Road, Kingston, was westbound on Bevens Road, west of Hurds Corner Road, when her car collided with a deer.

REFUGE -- The Huron county courthouse in Bad Axe was the only solid brick structure in town and became a refuge for many persons, who fought to save it. Two hours after the fire swept through town Sept. 5, 1881, it and only 14 other buildings were standing. (Copyrighted painting by Marilyn Rutkowski reproduced by permission of the artist).

Computer newsletter available

Low to moderate commodity prices are forcing agricultural producers to increase their operational efficiency. Computers will play a significant role in farm management over the next decade.

A recent newsletter, available through the Cooperative Extension Service office in Caro, lists computer programs from around the country which may apply to Michigan farm systems.

Also listed are computer seminars available to local producers including a Purdue small computer use show, a workshop designed to analyze financial management of participants' own operations, and a workshop which will help producers understand the economic impacts of several soil management systems. For a copy of the newsletter and more information on computer management, contact the Caro extension office at 673-3161.

Group now may protest interim rate increases

The Michigan Public Service Commission (PSC) has adopted a new policy to allow consumer groups and others to oppose utility companies who ask for interim rate increases.

The plan, however, was opposed by Commissioner Edwyna Anderson on grounds, she said, that it makes it easier for utilities to get interim rate hikes.

The policy was adopted following an Ingham County Circuit Court order that intervenors in interim rate cases be permitted to challenge any request.

Previously, the PSC prohibited intervenors from taking part in interim rates relief cases.

The policy will only be in existence until a definitive ruling from the Court of Appeals is issued, according to Chairman Daniel Demlow.

Anderson, the only Democrat on the three-member commission, said changes made by the majority in the requirements that a utility must show before getting interim relief means "participation (by consumer groups) may be meaningless if all a company is required to show is an immediate revenue deficiency to justify interim relief."

College benefits to be curtailed

"Social Security benefits to students 18-22 attending colleges and other post-secondary schools will be sharply curtailed under a recently enacted law," according to Susan Ludwig, Social Security field representative in Saginaw.

Children who become eligible for Social Security benefits after July, 1982, will not receive post-secondary student benefits.

Post-secondary students who first become eligible for benefits in the period September, 1981-July, 1982, will only receive benefits through July, 1982 (one month for some students).

Students currently receiving benefits (or child beneficiaries who begin their college or post-secondary education before May, 1982) will receive limited students' benefits.

"Benefit rates for students who are eligible for continuing benefits will be frozen at the July, 1981 level," Ms. Ludwig said. These rates will be reduced 25 percent each year starting with August, 1982, and benefits will not be paid to students during May, June, July or August, starting in 1982.

As a result, no further student benefits will be paid after April, 1985.

Beginning August, 1982, elementary and secondary school students can be paid for months in school terms after a child reaches 19. Benefits to children who are not students will end at 18 as before.

More information about student benefits and other changes in the law can be obtained at the Saginaw Social Security office, located at East Genesee and North Warren in Saginaw. The telephone number is 771-1010.

Owen-Gage tightens school discipline

start of school and the first class period after lunch, who are late to class.

Under the new policy approved by the board, the first two times a student is tardy during each marking period, the teacher will record it in the class book. The third time, Wright will be notified and he will call the student's parents.

The fourth time will result in a one-day in-school suspension and a conference with parents. The fifth time means a one-day out-of-school suspension and another conference with parents if deemed necessary.

Teachers will still have discretion in deciding whether a student has a legitimate reason for being late to class.

Wright also said he has eliminated wood hall passes in favor of written ones, on which the teacher must write down the time the student left. That has cut down on the amount of traffic in hallways during classes.

VANDALISM

The board approved a resolution that it will support any staff member who is harassed or terrorized in pursuit of their school duties.

The motion was in response to vandalism done to the lawn of Wright's rented home in Owendale about the time of the end of the football game Friday night. Four vehicles did "doughnuts" on the lawn, resulting in an estimated $200 damage.

The incident was reported to the sheriff's department.

Wright, in his first year at Owen-Gage, said he knows who the four drivers are, some of whom are Owen-Gage students, and, "I plan on pressing charges."

PERSONNEL

The board accepted the resignations of kindergarten teacher Linda Brookins, who had taught two years, and new home economics teacher Joan Helwig. Both said in their letters they were resigning because they weren't being paid.

Hired to replace them were Sandy Parks, kindergarten (half-day) of Owen-Gage, who taught in the school part of last year, and Karen Mayes of Port Austin, who has eight years' experience teaching home economics, for three periods per day.

Wright told the board a Bad Axe teacher may be hired to teach French for one period per day and journalism (newspaper and yearbook) for one period if enough students sign up for French.

Hiring of David and Wendy Eberline was also approved. They will be paid with federal Work Incentive program funds at no cost to the district. He will be a custodian at the high school. She will be a custodian and aide at the elementary school.

OTHER ITEMS

Supt. Ronald Erickson reported a balance on hand of $9,545, which should be barely enough to pay insurance premiums and other essential bills until property tax revenue starts coming in in December. "I hope no one turns off our lights," he added.

The consolation for board members was the situation in Alpena, which they talked about, where school doors close Friday because the district is out of money.

Employees were last paid Sept. 11.

Erickson said his feeling is that Attorney General Frank Kelley won't issue a ruling, requested by the board, on whether it can reimburse its staff for interest they pay or lose during periods of payless paydays. The Municipal Finance Commission says it can't.

The superintendent said he has talked to two state legislators about their requesting Kelley to issue a ruling in the case, but they haven't done so yet.

The board had a request from a mother to let her daughter immediately transfer to the Cass City district as the family is moving to Cass City in mid-November. The 16-year-old presently isn't attending school.

The board decided to let Erickson check to make sure the family is moving before giving its okay, by which time it may have moved.

On a trial basis, there will be a spectator bus to all future away games for students and adults that cheerleaders attend.

September student of the month is Jim Patnaude, an 11th grader.

Taking Stock

Word experts who tell executives how to write clearly have gotten attention from a measure called the "fog index."

It's a way to figure how much schooling a reader needs to understand what you've written.

It's a simple yardstick. Only two factors are involved, the average sentence length and the percentage of words with over two syllables. Add these two numbers together and multiply by 0.4 and you have the fog index—how many years of school the reader needs.

We applied the formula to a memo from the Department of Energy to a congressional committee. In the memo was this sentence:

"The Department's program of commercialization of fusion will be governed by a structure of sequential decision points to select candidate technologies and to initiate construction of large facilities."

The fog index of the memo was 19.4, which means you needed 12 years of lower schooling and 7.4 years of college to understand this bureaucrat author.

A notable newspaperman of this country is Gene Worrell, who headed up the chain of Worrell newspapers in the South before he turned it over to his son, Tom.

Once I was talking with Gene about the Coppolino trial and the matter of Colonel Farber, a post mortem. "The colonel was disinterred . . ." I was telling Gene, when he interrupted. "You mean they dug him up."

Recently I read a two-page bulletin the school board of another town sent out to the citizens about a teachers' strike. The fog index was 14.2. That meant only those with two years of college understood it.

Half the community didn't know what the school board was talking about. You can bet the union never put out a piece of prose like that.

Jumping from fog indexes to clear sailing, I recall an old sailing shipmate of a week in the Bahamas, one

Irv Horwitz. It was at one of these bashes of Steve Colgate's, when sailboaters from all over the U.S. came to the Bahamas to race in Solings.

My other shipmate, Bill Seitz of Atlanta, was as impressed as I was when Irv showed up as the third member of the crew.

He came to Nassau with two airline hostesses in tow—one from Pan Am and one from Air France. In a remarkable demonstration of youthful virility, he raced sailboats all day and kept the gals happy the rest of the time.

Irv was a landlord from Denver. He built rental apartments.

"I thought everything was condos," I said. "Didn't know anybody built apartments just to rent. Don't you have a lot of headaches—such as collecting rents?"

"No," said Irv. "I got a system. I have the front doors built special with hinges on the outside. If the fellow doesn't pay his rent on time, I take the front door off."

"Great idea—but don't you get sued?"

"Oh, a couple of times they took me to court. But I won."

I just hope my own landlord doesn't read this and get an idea.

77 volunteer for Cass City Red Cross blood drive

The Red Cross blood bank was held at Hills and Dales General Hospital Wednesday, Oct. 7. There were 77 potential donors, of whom eight were deterred because of colds, blood pressure elevation, etc. Six were first time donors.

The Red Cross is looking for groups in the area interested in sponsoring a blood drive. Representatives of groups interested in sponsoring a blood drive can contact Jane Mitchell, RN, at Hills and Dales.

The drive last week was sponsored by the Hospital Auxiliary. It was originally scheduled to be held in the St. Pancratius parish hall, but had to be moved to the hospital at the last minute because of a funeral.

Beets arriving at Caro plant

Slicing of sugar beets began Monday at the Michigan Sugar Co. plant in Caro.

The sugar content so far, according to Davis Sunderland, Michigan Sugar vice-president for agriculture, has been 14½-15 percent. That will improve if the dry weather holds. (The forecast is for more rain.) Seventeen percent is considered "good."

Yields have been averaging 20 or more tons per acre. The average last year was 19.6.

The first load of beets came in Oct. 5. As of Tuesday, the busiest day so far had been the day before, when 468 loads were brought to the plant. At full steam, farmers bring in as many as 2,000 loads per day.

Soil, water appraisal available

The 1980 appraisal of the nation's soil, water and related resources has been received by the Soil Conservation Service office in Caro.

District Conservationist Phil Dakin states, "The appraisal is the most comprehensive inventory ever conducted of the nation's soil and water resources and it is available for public review."

The appraisal presents data on soil, water and related resources and shows projected future consequences if current practices continue.

Interested persons may review the appraisal at the Soil Conservation Service office at 852 S. Hooper Street.

A recommended conservation program of the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture will partially be based on the appraisal.
