Final completion delayed

January start seen for sewage plant

The Cass City Village Council Tuesday evening approved a six-month extension, to June 18, for completion of the wastewater treatment plant.

All but one part of the three-stage treatment plant, replacing the present two-stage operation, should be working by around Jan. 1, but it won't be until warm weather returns that some concrete work, building of roads and landscaping can be done.

The reason for the delay is that seven electric motor control centers, scheduled to be delivered last April, won't arrive until this week and next, due to a lengthy strike by employees of the manufacturer.

After first being informed at the September meeting of the needed extension, the council had its attorney, Clinton House, research what might be done as the contract specified the contractor, H.C. Weber Construction Co., has to pay a penalty of $1,000 per day if the project isn't done on time.

Village President Lambert Althaver relayed House's answer Tuesday night, that it would be difficult to enforce the penalty clause for the delay if there was a reasonable excuse for it, such as the strike.

The contractor is liable if the delay is due to its failure to perform.

Weber will have to pay any costs it incurs because of the extension, however, there will be a maximum $80,471 owed to the engineers, Hubbell, Roth and Clark, Inc., for supervising the project during the additional six months.

Funding of the $6 million project is being paid for 75 percent by the federal government, 5 percent by the state and 20 percent by village taxpayers.

Payment of the $80,471 will be in the same proportion, which means $16,094 for local taxpayers. However, funding of the total amount will come out of $140,000 remaining for contingencies.

The six-month extension still must be approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and state Department of Natural Resources.

STATE HOMES

A letter was read from Dr. Marlin Roll, director of the Caro Regional Center (CRC), that his staff is looking for appropriate sites to enable return of residents to local communities.

Three or four bedroom homes would be constructed, valued at $100,000, or old ones would be renovated for six residents plus local staff.

Roll said the letters were being sent to all communities in the four counties the CRC serves, so the letter doesn't mean there necessarily will be such a facility in Cass City.

Council members said should such a home be built in Cass City, the law does not permit the village to bar it through zoning laws.

OTHER ITEMS

The council members decided not to change the present policy of renting the Cultural Center to all comers (provided alcoholic beverages aren't consumed there), including businesses. Dorothy Stahlbaum reported she had talked to local photographer Tim Downing, who felt renting of the Cultural Center to the Olan Mills photo studio doesn't create problems for his business.

Village traffic ordinances were amended to bring it into compliance with the latest changes in the state uniform traffic code.

As of the Oct. 27 cutoff date, 96.1 percent of village property taxes, $318,212, had been paid. That compares with 97 percent paid last year. The remainder, 56 tax notices for a total of $12,866, was turned over to the county treasurer for collection.

Bavarian Builders has informed the village that tenants in its Northwood Heights Apartments, now under construction and financed by the Farmers Home Administration, must meet basic income requirements. To qualify means a maximum adjusted gross annual income of no more than $15,600. Twelve of the 22 units were rented as of Sept. 30, with 10 tenants more than Please turn to page 15.

HALLOWEEN DELIGHT -- Dee Dee Brigham, 7, had some help in carving her Halloween pumpkin but applied the finishing touches herself. She grew the 80-pound pumpkin on the farm of her grandfather, Bernard Spencer, 2034 N. Englehart Road, Deford. She is the daughter of Cindy Brigham of Englehart Road.

Owen-Gage voters decide Monday on 3 extra mills

Residents of the Owendale-Gagetown School District go to the polls Monday to vote on an additional three mills for school operations.

The outcome may be crucial to the survival of the district.

The polling place is the Owendale Community Building, which will be open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

Owen-Gage is currently out of money. Its staff was last paid Sept. 11.

Without the additional millage, all the property taxes it starts receiving in December might be quickly used up to pay the back pay to staff and other pressing bills, leaving the district again without operating revenue, its auditors said recently.

As of now, the December tax bills will have 23.75 mills for operations, which includes 2.25 mills additional approved in June, plus 3.2 mills for debt, for a total of 26.95 mills, 1.55 more than a year ago because of reduced debt millage. The three mills, if approved, will also go on those bills.

In addition, arbitrators ruled in December, 1980, that Owen-Gage owes $43,707 to Construction Coordinators Inc., the firm that managed its high school building project in 1977-79. To pay that off, there will be a court-ordered 1.2008 additional mills on December tax bills.

If the three mills is approved, plus the CCI millage, the total tax bill will be 28.1508.

The three mills additional, which will cost $3 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation, will raise $119,324 this year, if approved.

That is enough, according to Supt. Ronald Erickson, to make the district financially healthy by the end of three years.

"These three mills would not give us enough money immediately to stop payless paydays or do anything extra but in three years it would place us in a healthy financial position again," he wrote in a newsletter to district residents.

IT WAS THE HOPE OF school board members in approving the millage proposal in September that they may not have to levy the three mills all three years.

That depends on what the Michigan Supreme Court decides in the Goslin property transfer case, for which it heard arguments in November of last year, but has yet to rule.

Over the last three years, according to the superintendent, about $300,000 in property taxes has gone to the Cass City School District from the Goslin territory which otherwise would have gone to Owen-Gage. The 1981-82 taxes will add another $100,000 to that debit.

It is the position of Owen-Gage's attorney in the Goslin case, James F. Schouman, as cited in the 1980-81 audit, that "regardless of whatever ruling the Supreme Court renders... the 1980, 1979 and 1978 state equalized valuation of the Goslin transfer will ultimately be assigned to Owendale-Gagetown..."

In voting to place the millage proposal on the ballot, board members stressed that should they gain that revenue from the Goslin territory, they will reduce or eliminate the levy accordingly.

OFFICIALLY, OWEN-GAGE ended the 1980-81 fiscal year with a deficit of $81,973. Actions taken to eliminate that deficit, partially reflecting decreased enrollment, include 3 1/2 fewer teaching positions than last year, one less bus run, reduced projected expenditure for bus fuel, tires, tubes and batteries, and a hoped-for $30,000 cut in legal expenses.

What happens to Owen-Gage if the millage loses?

That's impossible to say at this point, according to Erickson. "We've got so many factors. If the Supreme Court says 'no' (in the Goslin case) and the state board takes away $40 million valuation and leaves us with the buildings... so it's hard to say."

SOME PROPERTY OWNERS won't feel the full impact of the three mills, if the levy is approved.

Farmers whose property is enrolled in the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Program will not pay the levy.

Saturday trick-or-treat time

Saturday night is the night for ghosts and goblins and kids to go trick-or-treating.

Hours for trick-or-treating in area communities, as established by the respective village councils, are as follows:

Cass City -- 6-7:30 p.m.

Gagetown -- 6-7 p.m.

Kingston -- 6-7 p.m. When the siren sounds at 7, children should go to the village hall, where hot dogs will be served and costume judging for those 14 and under will take place.

Owendale -- 5:30-7:30 p.m.

Udly -- 5:30-7 p.m. The Lions Club party for children will start at 7:30 in the old high school gymnasium.

Crawford pleads guilty in Sept. 11 fatal shooting

Eighty-three-year-old John A. Crawford pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of manslaughter in connection with the Sept. 11 shooting death of Samuel W. Ozorowicz.

He can receive a sentence ranging from probation to 15 years in prison.

Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn accepted his plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation to be conducted by the probation department. No sentencing date has been set.

Crawford has been free on bond since Sept. 15.

The shooting took place outside his home on Cartwright road, south of Kingston. He was originally charged with second degree murder and possession of a firearm in commission of a felony. Both charges will be dismissed as part of a plea bargain with the prosecution.

Crawford originally tried to plead guilty to manslaughter Oct. 5, but Joslyn refused to accept it after the defendant said the first shot he fired was accidental and the next two times he fired in the air.

The manslaughter charge read, "... did wound, maim or injure Samuel W. Ozorowicz by the discharge of a firearm pointed or aimed intentionally but without malice at said person, thereby causing his death."

What Crawford said he did didn't meet the definition of manslaughter, so the judge refused his plea.

Crawford testified Monday, according to Prosecutor Artis Noel, that he had aimed behind the car and did not intend to kill Ozorowicz. The two men had been described as close friends.

The prosecutor explained afterwards that what Crawford said Monday corresponded with what he originally told investigating officers, that it was not a "constructive plea to move a case."

He assumed Crawford had met with his lawyer, William Drillock of Marlette, after the first time he tried to plead guilty, to discuss what happened during the shooting.

According to Noel, Ozorowicz and David Goff of Clifford had gone to Crawford's home to discuss a debt the latter owed Ozorowicz.

Crawford got into an argument with Goff, who is his step-son, and Ozorowicz and Goff, knowing Crawford had a shotgun, decided to leave quickly.

Goff either threw or placed a lawn chair against the outside of the screen door, through which Crawford emerged.

The prosecutor said Crawford apparently fired the first time into the air. The car in which the two men were riding, with Goff driving, had backed out the driveway and was headed west when Crawford fired through the branches of two apple trees and missed. A pellet from the third shot hit and killed Ozorowicz. Goff kept on going, driving to the victim's sister's house in the area.

STILL WORKING -- Harvesting some lettuce from his garden is Fred Jaus, who will be 100 years old Nov. 3.

Fred Jaus turns 100 Tuesday, but hasn't stopped working

"I haven't got to retiring yet. I'm still working."

Fred Jaus can be forgiven, however, if he has slowed down a bit. He will be 100 years old Tuesday.

The soon-to-be centenarian keeps busy gardening, fishing and this time of year, raking leaves.

Until 1975, when he moved to Bad Axe to live with his daughter, Laura Lenzner, Jaus had lived his entire life in Elkland township.

An open house in his honor will be held Sunday, Nov. 1, from 2-5 p.m. at the First Presbyterian church on Port Crescent Avenue in Bad Axe, one block north of the light on Huron Avenue (M-53).

Jaus was born Nov. 3, 1881, in Cass City. When he was a few years old, he and his family moved to a farm northeast of Cass City on Daus Road. He was the son of George and Kristina Jaus and had two brothers, Sam, who was older, and John, who was younger.

He remembers working all day on Saturdays, then walking 4 1/2 miles to Cass City to see the medicine show in the opera house that night, then walking home. Sunday mornings, the family rode in their wagon to church.

Jaus didn't get much schooling. "You can learn everything on the way," he explained. "You didn't need education, but now you need it to get by."

Jaus married his first wife, Mary, in 1905, and bought a farm on Reed Road, a quarter-mile east of Schwegler Road.

His father had died in 1900. His mother died about 1927.

He and his wife had two children, Laura, now 74, and a daughter who died in infancy.

JAUS BOUGHT HIS first car, an EMF, in 1911.

He drove for the next 61 years. He finally stopped due to declining vision.

During those years, Jaus was involved in one minor traffic accident and received one ticket. Police stopped him while driving on M-53, because his windshield was cloudy. "I told them if I couldn't see, I wouldn't be driving." The authorities didn't buy his excuse, however, and gave him a ticket for driving with obscured vision.

Jaus had taken his physical in Caro for callup into the military for World War I, but never had to serve. He was plowing a field at 11 a.m. Nov. 11, 1918, when he and his horses heard the siren sound in town, marking the signing of the armistice ending the war. The horses, thinking it was noon, started for the barn, he said. "That was a happy day. I thought I would have to go in the Army." Please turn to page 20.

CASS CITY GOES WILD

THURSDAY 6 to 10 p.m.

Kelli and Chuck Hendrick

Kelli Winter and Chuck Hendrick were united in marriage Oct. 3 at Salem United Methodist church in Cass City.

Rev. Eldred Kelley performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Winter, Cass City. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hendrick, Decker.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory bridal sheer organza over taffeta with pearly re-embroidered Alencon lace and satin rosebuds. It had a Queen Anne collar neckline, fitted empire bodice, long sleeves with pleated cuffs, A-line skirt graced with large lace and rose buds, and a pleated ruffle at the bottom extending around the attached cathedral train. A long matching veil of bridal illusion secured to a derby hat enhanced the gown.

She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis, ivory roses and silk bittersweet accented with ivory satin streamers.

Colleen Truemner, friend of the bride was maid of honor.

Student of the week

Tammy Iseler is student of the week for the week of Oct. 19 at Cass City Intermediate School. An eighth grader, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Iseler of Cass City.

Irl Messner, 81, of Monrovia, Calif., a native of Cass City, died Sept. 12 in Monrovia. Son of the late William and Etta Messner, he left Cass City at the age of four. His wife Kay and her son and family, Rev. and Mrs. David Lamkin and three children of Indiana, came Oct. 19 and attended the interment Oct. 21 of Mr. Messner in Elkland cemetery. The deceased was a 32nd degree Mason and life member of Ashlar Lodge F & AM in Detroit. While in Cass City from Monday until Thursday, the family were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Zinnecker.

Mrs. Donna Holm spent from Friday until Sunday at her daughter's, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gelbaugh and Emily at Plainville.

Twenty senior-high youth of Salem UM church and counselors, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Salas, and David Loomis, who provided the tractor for a hayride, enjoyed a party Sunday evening at the home of Kay Loomis. After the hayride, Mrs. Donald Loomis and Mrs. David Loomis served the group sloppy joes and hot chocolate.

Family agency serves Thumb area residents

Child and Family Services of Michigan, Inc. (CFSM), is observing its 90th anniversary of comprehensive human service programs.

The Thumb area branch, 1101 Military Street, Port Huron, will celebrate its 17th anniversary with its annual dinner this Wednesday.

Originated as a family care organization providing adoptive and foster homes for children who would have been housed in orphanages, CFSM continues to meet these needs as well as having expanded to meet the needs of a much broader scope of human services.

Core services provide adoption, individual and family counseling, foster care for all age groups as well as pregnancy counseling.

Specialized services are available consisting of residential treatment facilities and group homes for mentally retarded adults and emotionally troubled adolescent children. A debt management program is also available.

Respite sitters and foster home providers are available to provide a period of relief from the day to day responsibility of caring for a family member or friend with developmental disability or emotional impairment.

The United Way agency serves Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac, Tuscola and St. Clair counties.

Persons in need of its services can call 313-984-2647 Monday through Friday.

Guests at the home of Clara and Alma Vogel of Caro Tuesday, Oct. 20, were Mrs. Evangeline Voorheis of Troy and Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Spencer of Cass City.

Mrs. William Anker and Mrs. Howard Loomis were Sunday afternoon visitors at the home of Mrs. Homer Muntz.

Mrs. Lyle Zapfe was a Sunday luncheon guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Peasley.

Mr. and Mrs. Garrison Stine had as guests from Friday until Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Petzold and family and Mrs. Kathryn Petzold of Livonia.

Teleteaching open house Tuesday

From 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Tuesday, Saginaw Valley State College and the Cass City Public Schools community education office will demonstrate the new electronic blackboard system which links Cass City High School with the SVSC campus near Saginaw.

Location of the open house will be the teleteaching room at the high school. Visitors can watch actual classes in session at Cass City, which are connected by the electronic blackboard with "live" sections of the same courses on the main campus.

Through the system, students or instructors can write on the board in their room. Through electronic sensors, the words or diagrams are instantly conveyed to the remote classroom and appear on large television monitors.

Coffee and refreshments will be served to visitors. Classes will be in progress from 10 a.m.-1 p.m.; 2:30-4 p.m. and 7-10 p.m. Visitors may come and leave anytime.

Fourteen SVSC courses will be taught at the high school during the winter semester, which begins the week of Jan. 11. Nine will be offered via the teleteaching system. Thirteen classes are currently in progress.

Deford honor roll

Following is the first marking period honor roll at Deford Elementary School:

Crista Farnum, Robert Fetting, Darin Gomyory, Ronald Palmer, Ted Peasley, Jo Ellen Pratt, Shannon Roach and Leigh Ann Voss.

The roads between Chicago and Waukegan, Ill., were the scene of one of America's first automobile races on Thanksgiving Day, 1895. More than 80 entries showed up for the 52-mile race, but only six started and just two finished. The winner was a horseless carriage designed by Charles Duryea and built by his brother. The winning speed was an average of 7.5 mph.

Twenty-five Junior-high youth of Salem UM church, sixth through eighth graders, and counselors, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hammett and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood, enjoyed a Halloween costume party Sunday evening at the Wood farm home. Mike Kelley was awarded the prize for the best dressed. Tanya Hatmaker received the prize for the best guess on the weight of the huge pumpkin, which weighed 230 pounds. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wood.

Mrs. Gene Sickler of Grandville and Mrs. Clifford Owens of Comstock Park spent from Thursday until Saturday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Agar.

Eight members of the Art Club met Oct. 21 at the home of Mrs. Pearl Hartwick following dinner at the Fraser Presbyterian church. The November meeting will be with Mrs. Hazel Barnes.

Ten women were present Oct. 21 when the afternoon circle of Presbyterian women met at the church. The program was given by Mrs. Grant Brown. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. James A. Milligan.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martus, Lynn, Lisa and David of Flushing spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Martus, and visited Bob Martus's grandfather, Edward Mark, in Provincial House.

Funeral held Saturday for Mrs. Broecker

Elsie Bertha Broecker, 83, of Decker died Thursday at Marlette Community Hospital after a long illness.

She was born Dec. 18, 1897, in Macomb county, the daughter of William and Augusta (Pressel) Schoenberg.

Miss Schoenberg married Carl William Broecker June 15, 1921, in Fraser. Following their marriage, they made their home in Hadley township, Lapeer county. Broecker died Aug. 16, 1963. Mrs. Broecker came to Decker in 1973.

She had been a member of the Christ Lutheran church of Goodrich, Ladies Aid and the Valpo Guild. She was also a member of the Good Shepherd Lutheran church of Cass City and the Farm Bureau.

Mrs. Broecker is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Harold (Marjorie) McClelland of Howell, one son, Arnold Broecker of Decker; one brother, William Schoenberg of Cooks; eight grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. One brother, George, and two sisters, Emily and Rose, preceded her in death.

Mrs. Broecker was taken from Little's Funeral Home at 9 a.m. Saturday to the Good Shepherd Lutheran church to lie in state until the 11 a.m. funeral service. Rev. Allen Freundt officiated.

Burial was in the Christ Lutheran cemetery, Hadley township.

With money vanishing from the coffers of the Michigan Department of Transportation, every time I go by the Zilwaukee bridge I can't help but wonder how many roads could be repaired with the money wasted.

The entire project wouldn't have been necessary if it was done right when Interstate-75 was built. The cost was to be $76.8 million for the new replacement bridge. Already $1.5 million more has been paid to re-enforce pilings because of faulty soil boring data.

Now the State and the construction company are squabbling over another $5 million in added cost.

Yes, it is fun to watch the mammoth bridge under construction if you forget who is paying the bill.

Jim Moore, who worked at the Chronicle for nearly 30 years before moving to Au Gres and taking a job closer to home, was a visitor Tuesday.

He says that the big city crunch is felt in the north country, too, as many of his neighbors are laid off from the auto industry.

Every year we feel the kids that decorate the windows of main stem stores for Halloween are truly exceptional. And every year the kids that follow do it just as well. The winners, of course, are all of us and we should tell the kids so if we get a chance.

HANGING PUMPKIN -- Persons a lot older than 2-year-old Rachel Hartel have never seen anything like this. A vine from some nearby pumpkins grew up a peach tree and then grew a pumpkin, which hung 5 feet from the branch. The unusual pumpkin was growing in the back yard of her parents, Scott and Molli Hartel, 6370 Houghton Street.

No hearing, no bar license in Deford

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission's denial of a tavern license for Eugene Kaake to operate a bar in Deford will remain unchanged.

The LCC was scheduled to hear an appeal Tuesday by Kaake of its Aug. 26 denial. Kaake or a representative failed to appear, however, so the original order will stand.

according to Dan Sparks, supervisor of the LCC hearing and appeals section.

The hearing would have been relatively meaningless anyway, he explained, because state law says the LCC cannot overrule the denial of the local governing board in such instances.

The Novesta Township Board voted in August against issuance of a license to Kaake.

Township Supervisor Bill

O'Dell said he clarified the board's position with the LCC by phone Monday and was told it wasn't necessary to send anyone to the hearing the next day.

Sparks said Kaake's next move, if he wants to proceed, is to file suit against the township board in circuit court.

Kaake, when contacted by the Chronicle, declined comment.

The Haire Net

There was an item in the news the other day telling of teachers in the system going to court over the closing of the Taylor school district.

Taylor schools is one of three that have closed in Michigan because of lack of funds. The teachers' case stems from Michigan's constitution that says that the state must provide an education for children.

If the district can't come up with the money, the teachers contend, then the State is obliged to do so.

It's likely that districts in a financial bind will be happy if the court decrees that, yes, the state has to keep the schools open.

Certainly the teachers' unions will be happy.

They have been seeking for years to get the control of the fund raising process from the local level.

The reasoning is simple, the Michigan Education Association has one of the strongest, if not the strongest, lobbies in Michigan. It can apply more pressure at the State level than it can when ultimately representatives have to deal with the people paying the bills.

Sometimes that can be frustrating. Especially when teachers in some districts must put up with voters who vote against all school taxes as a general principle without regard to the need or the justification.

One of the reasons for this resentment could be that teachers have come a long way in a hurry in increased payment for services.

Teachers, naturally, say that they did because they were way behind at the start. True.

It was only human for teachers to demand more and more as they saw the power that the union was giving them.

One of the strengths of teachers in the early years of organization was the bank of good will that the dedicated earned previously. Somewhere the teachers forgot about that in the militancy and excitement of the economic battle.

The union realizes it now and a better public image has been one of the goals of the MEA in recent years.

But like a man in uniform who gives the armed forces a bad name, a poor performance by any teacher reflects on the entire staff. That's not fair, but that's the way it is.

Always an item on the bargaining table is the salaries paid in the district as compared to other districts.

Local union bargainers would be happy to see a state-wide wage scale because this district is substantially below the average, especially the big city school wages.

But teaching in Detroit is worth more than teaching in the Thumb and you'd find very few teachers who would leave if they could to get the higher wages.

The trouble now is that districts are having trouble getting enough funds from taxpayers regardless of how just the case may be.

Cass City is a case in point. All of us had better take a long look at what's happening if we want to keep the controls we now have.

We can keep control as long as we are willing to pay for a reasonable education for our children.

If we don't, the state surely will and then all of us will be sorry.

"If It Fitz..."

They're-saying journalism

By Jim Fitzgerald

They're saying the Top Loose lid loosener, coming soon after artificial insemination and the electric blanket, has ensured female independence, and the modern world no longer has any need for husbands.

"They're saying" are important words in the above paragraph. I'm not saying it, they are. This is The Washington Post's new style of writing, designed to avoid lawsuits and retain Pulitzer prizes.

A Post gossip columnist wrote that they're saying Jimmy Carter bugged Ronald Reagan's suite when he stayed at Blair House, before moving into the White House. Carter denied the accusation and threatened to sue for awhile. The Post's defense, stated in an editorial, is that it doesn't for one minute believe Carter is a bugger, and the only reason the item was published was because they're saying it.

They're saying the Post's executive editor, Ben Bradlee, is presently kicking himself for not thinking of they're-saying journalism earlier this year during the Janet Cooke fraud. You'll recall that the Post was forced to return the Pulitzer prize when it was revealed that Cooke won it by writing a phony story.

They're saying Bradlee is now saying if he'd only written "They're saying" at the beginning of every third paragraph in the Cooke story, the Post would still have that Pulitzer.

So, they're saying women no longer have to come out of the kitchen and admit male superiority by asking husbands: "Will you open this jar for me?"

They started saying this when Top Loose began advertising on TV. The Top Loose is a V-shaped strip of metal easily secured to the underside of a kitchen cupboard. The idea is to slide a jar, lid end up, into the Top Loose until the jar is stuck firmly in the crotch of the V. It's then a simple matter to remove the lid by turning the jar.

The great thing about the Top Loose is it fits all size containers, from wide mouthed Mason jars to closed-mouth ketchup bottles. They're saying the only drawback is that, in some kitchens, the cupboard underside is only a few inches from the floor. This means that, in order to slide a jar into the Top Loose, the wife must chop a large hole in the kitchen floor and stand on a chair in the basement. In these kitchens, the price of feminine independence is high.

Also, they're saying that in some kitchens with low cupboard undersides, and no basements, the Top Loose has been installed on counter tops. This means the jar must be slid into the V with the top down, and the only way to remove the lid without spilling anything is to make sure there is nothing inside the jar.

But in most cases, the Top Loose is attached to the cupboard underside a foot or so above the counter top. This leaves room to slide a jar into the V with the top side up, as long as the counter top isn't too cluttered. They're saying that, in order to put the Top Loose in this location, my wife had to remove a toaster, two gallons of vodka, several crocks and platters, a ham-mock and assorted left-overs, including two dinner guests, from the counter top. I didn't say that.

They're saying the important thing is that the Top Loose fulfills a great need. They're saying that in a world where women no longer need husbands to have babies or to keep warm, it is ridiculous that they should need husbands to remove balky lids.

Even in states that haven't approved the ERA amendment, thanks to the Top Loose, it's now possible for a woman to open jars without marrying or establishing a meaningful relationship with a man. That's what they're saying.

Who are they? The Washington Post says they are "estimable public figures." An estimable figure is someone an editor considers worthy of enough esteem to be quoted in the newspaper no matter what dumb thing he or she says.

As for the estimable public figures who said Jimmy Carter bugged Ronald Reagan, they're saying Ben Bradlee won't identify them for fear an investigation will reveal they have a screw loose, which is different than a Top Loose.

RED CROSS — Vera Bearss and the two vases her grandfather, Rev. William T. Rawson, received for heading the Red Cross American relief effort in the upper Thumb following the 1881 fire.

Cass City residents flee to clearing on nearby hilltop

Part VIII of a series

Many Cass City residents sought safety in a clearing on a hill at the north edge of the village, according to Delbert Landon, a local carpenter. As the smoke came rolling in that day, his family, together with neighbors and other townfolk, took with them what household goods and clothing that they could carry, and stayed throughout the night listening to the howls and cries of the wolves, the bears, and other animals that did not escape the treacherous inferno. They had a good supply of water and with soaked blankets, were able to withstand the heat and sparks that floated in on them.

John Gallagher, working as a hired hand on a farm northwest of Cass City, in company with other men in the neighborhood, tore down rail fences, plowed furrows around farm houses, backfired where possible, and did whatever else could be done to aid in fighting the fires.

When it was apparent that the farm home where he lived could not be saved, he lowered his clothes and belongings into the well. By nighttime he was one of many people suffering from smoke blindness and spent the night at the Seed home at the north edge of Cass City, where Mrs. Seed had set up quarters to treat sufferers with coldpacks.

A few days later, the Red Cross supplied the owners of the farm with enough lumber to build a "shed" to live in for the winter months. John Gallagher later bought the farm which still remains in the family. When an addition was built to the present house in 1937, ashes and debris of the home destroyed by the 1881 fire were uncovered in the excavation.

Such are the stories, some recorded as history, others passed on verbally from one generation to the next, typical of the tragedies and distress emerging from these great fires. The Cass City Enterprise summarized the thoughts and feelings of stunned victims in the community as they went to press Sept. 8, 1881:

"We write amid smoke and cinders of the most terrible ruinous fire that ever visited the Huron peninsula of Michigan. Ten years ago, a conflagration swept through this region leaving in its wake a charred and blackened country, but with all its hideous terrors, it was not so terrible in its destruction of property and life as the fire of this week. . . . The thought of the untold sufferings accompanying these deaths from burning, suffocation, and starvation is too awful to think of. . . ."

Following the two great disasters, relief measures were promptly effected. Immediately after the inferno of 1871, Gov. Baldwin appointed relief committees of responsible citizens in Detroit, Grand Rapids, Saginaw, and other localities. Gifts of money, supplies, clothing, and materials for rebuilding homes were speedily offered. An estimated $250,000 worth of clothing and supplies were contributed. The United States War Dept. contributed 2,000 pairs of blankets, 400 overcoats, and 1,000 pairs of men's socks.

The Great Fire

Likewise, following the 1881 fire, the generosity of the American people was quick to respond to appeals for help. The American Red Cross, organized earlier that year, through the historic decision of its leader, Clara Barton, designated the Thumb district of Michigan as a national disaster area, thus marking the first time this great organization put into operation the machinery of its national group in answer to a call of distress. Through Miss Barton's direction, food and clothing were funneled into the area.

This first nationwide effort by the Red Cross was received with such gratefulness and created such an impression, that the future role of the organization in major disasters was secure.

United Way campaign extended

The Elkland-Novesta United Way campaign, originally scheduled to end Monday, has been extended to Nov. 9.

Many solicitors haven't turned in their collections yet, plus some business contributions and payroll deductions are still being awaited, said President John Fahrner, hence the decision to extend the campaign.

Part of the trouble, he explained, has been the weather, which has deterred some solicitors from completing their rounds.

So far, a little more than $6,000 has been turned in. The goal is $14,000. "I am hopeful the extension of the campaign means that we will meet our goal," Fahrner said.

It will be possible to keep track of the donations during the rest of the campaign by checking the "thermometer" erected on the side of the Oseoski Realty (ex-bank) building this week at Seeger and Main.

Vollmar is injured

Dale Vollmar, 26, of Cedar Run Road, Cass City, was reported in fair condition at Hills and Dales General Hospital Wednesday morning, where he was taken after being freed from a sugar beet harvester Tuesday evening.

According to his mother, Helen, he was harvesting sugar beets with his father, Dwain, and brothers. They were removing a stone from the harvester rollers when it slipped into gear and Vollmar got his right foot caught.

Neighbors used a cutting torch to remove the rollers, to free his foot.

His mother said he broke his leg near his ankle. Elkland township firemen assisted. Vollmar was taken by Cass City Area Ambulance to the hospital.

The incident took place after 7:30 p.m. Firemen were called at 7:50.

The Vollmars were harvesting off Cedar Run Road, about a half-mile south of M-81, when the mishap occurred.

Vera Bearss' grandfather lost in great fire of 1881

The Great Fire of 1881 has special meaning for Vera Bearss of Downing Street, Cass City.

Her mother's father, William Ronald, lost his life in the fire and her father's father, Rev. William T. Rawson, was in charge of the Red Cross relief efforts to aid victims of the fire.

Rev. Rawson, born in England in 1824, helped organize the First Presbyterian church in Marlette in 1863 and served as its minister for various periods until 1886. He organized Presbyterian churches in Unionville and Fairgrove during 1871-73.

He was back serving the church in Marlette when he was appointed to be in charge of the relief effort. It was the first relief effort undertaken by the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Bearss, 82, speculates her grandfather was appointed because as an itinerant minister, he knew the upper Thumb well. He first worked for the Red Cross in Marlette and later in Grindstone City.

More than $250,000 was sent from all over the United States, plus carloads of provisions, grain for seed, hay, etc., clothing, bedding, furniture, stoves and other necessities. Not all was furnished by the Red Cross.

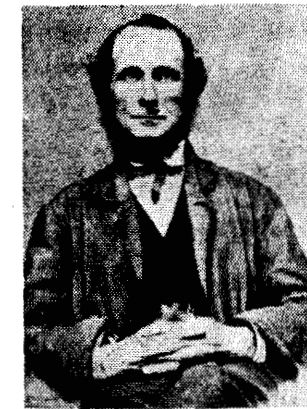

Mrs. Bearss doesn't know whether Rev. Rawson was paid for his efforts — "We don't know the details too well," — but he was given two single-flower vases in appreciation by the Red Cross.

Her mother and father had them after he died, they gave them to her, and a few years ago, she gave them to her nephew and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Delbert E. Rawson.

The morning of Sept. 5, 1881, he traveled 18 miles from home to clear some land he owned and was apparently surrounded by the fire.

His horse escaped and returned home. His neighbors started a search and found his charred body three days later.

Rev. William T. Rawson

After Rev. Rawson's efforts for the Red Cross ended, he organized churches at Central Lake and East Jordan in Grand Traverse county, returned to Marlette, later preached at Brockway and Fremont, and died in Marlette in 1889. William Ronald, born in Canada in 1835, who was an elder in the Marlette Presbyterian church, settled with his family two miles north of Marlette.

Seek ideas for July 4 Festival

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July Festival Committee met at the home of Aime and Gloria Ouvry Oct. 20. Twelve members were present.

The committee would like to see three people working on the parade with one member going off each year and a new one coming on.

The meeting was open for ideas of activities for next year and future years. The following ideas were discussed: horse show, adult games (competition between towns) waterball battles between area fire departments, Civil War battle reenactment, special newspapers commemorating events of the past, taking of old-fashioned looking photographs, horse and buggy rides around town sight-seeing historical places, raffle tickets, glass blowing display, mud wrestling, area of the park denoting families of Cass City past and present, horse shoe pitching contest, cooking contest, bicycle motocross racing, baby crawling contest, horse pulling contest, wheel chair race (open to anyone, handicapped or non-handicapped), tennis tournament, selling of helium balloons and a fireworks display.

The committee would like to call the festival the 4th of July Heritage Festival. It was suggested that the adult education offer a class on clowns for the festival and other parades or events.

Those involved with the antique car display of the festival and parade are happy with their success and feel it is growing.

It was suggested that the outlying towns of Argyle, Deford, Shabbona and Decker be included in activities.

Because July 4 is on a Sunday next year, it may be necessary to make a two-day event out of it. The parade will be Saturday, July 3.

The committee discussed the possibility of no longer having the Chamber of Commerce sponsor the festival but felt it necessary to be sponsored and involved with the Chamber. Committee members would like to see all townspeople involved in the planning and participation, not just Chamber members.

A form letter will be sent to all civic groups seeking their involvement, including senior citizen groups, student council and Cass City Booster Club.

Meetings will be held the second Monday of each month, starting in January.

Wilsie Road work may cost $3,100

Removal of some brush, trees and stumps along Wilsie Road between Koepfgen and Cemetery Roads may be done by the Tuscola County Road Commission this fall.

No objections were made to the proposal at a public hearing conducted by the Road Commission board last Thursday, according to Clerk Jim Miklovic.

Estimated cost for the clearing is $3,100, with Elkland township to pay all costs except fringe benefits of the Road Commission employees doing the work.

No estimate has been made yet, Miklovic said, on the cost of further improvements, including graveling, with the cost partially depending on how much the township board wants to pay for.

If the board wants the Road Commission to proceed, the additional road work will be done next year.

L. Brooks Patterson

By Mike Eliasohn

My past opinion of L. Brooks Patterson had been rather negative.

To me, he has been a demagogue, defined in Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary as "a leader who makes use of popular prejudices and false claims and promises in order to gain power."

For the Oakland county prosecutor, the issues he has ridden to popularity have been court ordered busing and crime. To me, he has been quick to vocally attack the problems without offering real solutions.

Thus it was an interesting experience for me to be able to meet the Republican candidate for governor prior to his speech last Wednesday at the Colony House.

Fortunately, there were only two other reporters there, so it was more of a conversation with the candidate than a press conference and I was able to get all my questions answered. With a large number of reporters and one person being interviewed, it becomes a contest to get recognized and a reporter is lucky to get one question answered.

My impression of Patterson is that he is very sharp, and I mean that in a complimentary sense. He can back up what he advocates with facts and figures and what he doesn't remember, he quickly finds in one of the big notebooks he carries with him.

I like that, that he admits he doesn't know everything and sometimes has to look something up. That's much better than Ronald Reagan's approach of citing facts and figures from memory that he often remembers incorrectly.

I didn't stay for Patterson's speech, but it is obvious he is a very polished speaker. The cynic might say even his off-the-cuff remarks sound like speeches. My concern about Patterson is the concern I have about all politicians.

It is easy to say what the problems are and what we need to do. My worry is whether he will be able to carry out what he says he will do if he is elected.

I hope Gov. Milliken does not choose to run for reelection, that he instead decides to retire or run for the U.S. Senate. After he has served Michigan so well for so many years, it would be a shame to see him defeated. I feel the chances are strong that he will lose if he again runs for governor.

Michigan's problems are very serious and the blame has to be put somewhere, so Milliken is an easy target.

The unfortunate thing is that most of the blame should fall on the legislators, and come January, 1983, most of the turkeys responsible will probably be back in Lansing.

The problems in keeping businesses in and attracting them to Michigan because of the high costs of unemployment and workers' compensation have been known for years, yet for other than a minor reform of the latter, nothing has been done.

In his televised speech last Thursday, Gov. Milliken urged the legislature to approve his economic revitalization proposals by Christmas, including the above two mentioned items, but I am skeptical whether our solons will do much of anything.

Too many of them listen to labor union bosses who think the problems are all business' fault and that the state doesn't need to do anything.

The initial response of House Speaker Bobby Crim to Milliken's speech was not, "Let's work together," but, "The governor shouldn't set deadlines for the legislature."

I should add that in years of hearing politicians' speeches, invariably the problem is always someone else's fault, not their own.

As for L. Brooks Patterson and the others who seek the governorship, I hope whoever wins can do what he promises.

The obvious issue in the campaign during the next year (it seems the candidates start earlier every four years) will be jobs.

Let us hope that more jobs are created out of all the debates we will have to endure than those of the candidates' campaign staffs.

The laurel leaf is said to symbolize victory; olive leaves, peace; oak leaves, strength, glory and honor.

SUPER PUMPKINS -- This has been a good year for growing pumpkins, according to Robert Wood of E. Caro Road, Cass City. The blue moon variety pumpkin in front of him weighs 245 pounds. The large ones to each side weigh about 100 pounds each.

Jobs Michigan's biggest need, Patterson says

Jobs are what Michigan needs, according to L. Brooks Patterson, who is seeking a new job for himself.

The Oakland county prosecutor is campaigning for the Republican nomination for governor in 1982.

Patterson was at the Colony House on M-53 last Wednesday to speak to more than 100 Republicans at a dinner sponsored by the Thumb Area Republican Caucus. Prior to the dinner, he met with members of the press.

He has one opponent for the nomination so far, State Sen. Jack Welborn of Kalamazoo. He predicted Gov. Milliken will run for the U.S. Senate, instead of seeking reelection.

"The primary issue... clearly is jobs," said Patterson, 42, who announced his candidacy for governor Aug. 12.

There are 496,000 persons out of work, he continued, and the number "is growing daily as businesses move out of the state." The number also doesn't reflect the number of persons who moved to other states to find work.

He rattled off the standard list of reasons why Michigan has "created a climate which has to be termed hostile" to business: The cost of workers' and unemployment compensation is too high, the single business tax is "one of the most onerous" in the nation and property taxes are too high.

WHAT WOULD PATTERSON do to get such reforms approved by the legislature that Gov. Milliken hasn't done?

"You do not do what the governor did," he responded, in reference to Milliken's introduction of an economic recovery program to the legislature in September. "Since then not one piece of legislation has been introduced and the governor feels his leadership ends when he presents his program... I'm willing to work with the leadership."

He also said if he were governor, he would set a 60-90 day timetable for the lawmakers to act and if they didn't, he would ask the public to exert pressure on their legislators, as President Reagan has done.

(The legislation needed to enact the governor's proposals was introduced Thursday, the day after he appeared on radio and television statewide urging citizens to tell their legislators to approve the legislation, which he stressed he wants approved by Christmas.)

Patterson, dressed in a blue pin-striped three-piece suit, also had harsh words for the legislature. The Oakland county prosecutor since January, 1973, led a petition drive in 1978 that resulted in the public voting that convicts must serve their minimum sentences. He is backing another drive this year to restore the death penalty. He said the 10 or 11 petition drives currently in circulation indicate legislature is unresponsive to the public will. "That tells me something, that the legislative system in this state is bankrupt."

WHAT WOULD PATTERSON do to end the state's financial crisis, which required Milliken last week to lop $270 million from the 1981-82 budget.

One of the first things he said he will do if elected governor in November, 1982, is to put a freeze on state hiring, then reduce the payroll through attrition, consolidation of some departments and eliminating some services.

His biggest reform, however, will be in drastically reducing welfare expenditures.

He supports a petition drive being conducted by a Berrien county commissioner that would limit welfare payments to the maximum paid in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota and Wisconsin. That would save, he said, about $200 million a year. (The organizer estimates $178 million.)

Some Patterson views on other topics:

PROPERTY TAXES -- He feels the state can afford a property tax reduction. He suggested a cut of 25 percent, with a cap to prevent rising assessments. (Gov. Milliken recently withdrew his property tax cut plan, stating the state presently cannot afford it.) Patterson feels a simple way to administer a cut is that property owners would pay their property taxes in full, then claim the 25 percent cut as a credit on their state income tax.

SCHOOLS -- Part of the problem for such school districts as Alpena and Taylor, which have or are shutting their doors, he said, is that the state has been reducing its funding for education. Money that could go for education is instead going for welfare.

In the short run, bankrupt districts might have to borrow money to get by, with the state guaranteeing repayment. In the long run, he hasn't ruled out scrapping the property tax as a means of supporting schools. He is forming an advisory committee to research options for funding education.

CRIME -- As mentioned, Patterson is backing a petition drive to establish the death penalty. It would apply to persons convicted of first degree murder. The jury in each case would decide whether the person found guilty will be put to death.

To relieve prison overcrowding, he said, the state should increase the capacity (presently 640) of the prison at the former Kinchloe Air Force Base in the Upper Peninsula and convert suitable buildings elsewhere in the state to prisons, not build expensive new prisons.

ABORTION -- He opposes Medicaid-paid abortions (for the poor) and all abortions except in cases of rape, incest or to save the life of the mother. He mentioned the case of the 11-year-old girl in Kalamazoo, raped by her mother's boyfriend, as an instance where it should be allowed. (The probate judge who had jurisdiction ruled Friday she could not have an abortion.)

FARMERS -- Property taxes hurt farmers as much as anyone else, he commented, the suggestion being cutting such taxes would aid farmers.

Caro area man dies in fire

A faulty wood stove has been blamed as the cause of a fire that claimed the life of a Caro area man early Friday.

Killed was Otto Netmop, 67, an Indian who lived on the Indian reservation on state land off Wireline Road, south of Caro.

According to the sheriff's department, the fire apparently broke out during the middle of the night and the roof of the 12-by-15 foot shack fell in on Netmop. He was dead when neighbors discovered the fire about 8 a.m.

Netmop was born May 12, 1914, in Fairgrove. He was an Army veteran of World War II, having served in the North Atlantic, Mediterranean and southwest Pacific theatres.

He was single and was survived by two nephews. Funeral services were Monday at the Colton Funeral Home, Caro, with burial in the Wisner township cemetery.

It was originally thought Netmop may have been the victim of arson, with vanals thinking the structure he was sleeping in was vacant. Three other fires, all abandoned homes, were reported in Tuscola county early Friday.

The Clifford Fire Department extinguished a house fire on Kingston Road. About an hour later, at 5:49 a.m., two close-together fires on Phillips Road in Koylton township, were reported to the Kingston Fire Department.

Owen-Gage business club at conference

Tuesday, Oct. 20, the officers of the Owen-Gage High School Business and Office Education Club traveled to the Intermediate School District office in Marysville to attend the 1981 BOEC fall officers' training conference.

Workshops were presented for each of the respective chapter offices. Each school entered a name-tag competition based on significance to BOEC and originality. The Owen-Gage officers placed first and were awarded T-shirts bearing the BOEC emblem and motto.

Individual chapter presentations were also held. Owen-Gage presented its "BOEC Shield" depicting individual and chapter goals and qualities.

Those attending were Kim Diebel, president; Karla Kretzschmer, vice-president; Lori Jo Wissner, secretary; Chris Zaleski, treasurer, and teacher Peggy Randall, advisor.

Your Neighbor says One-hour TV news shows a good idea

NBC has petitioned the Federal Communications Commission to expand its evening news program to one hour.

If permission is obtained, it is expected CBS and ABC also will examine the possibility of expanding their news shows to one hour.

The final hurdle will be persuading the local stations to carry the longer news programs.

Allyn Hartwick feels one-hour news programs are a good idea, especially since they are his main source of news.

The longer programs, he said, "should be able to balance it out more, giving every part of the news a fair turn."

He feels sometimes both sides of an issue aren't presented fairly now because there isn't enough time.

Overall, he feels news coverage by the networks is "pretty fair" but doubling the length of the broadcast would enable them to give more in-depth reports on the issues.

Hartwick prefers to watch the ABC news because he likes the way it is delivered.

He does not have a favorite among the local stations for local news, so switches from one to the other.

He feels the local stations do a good job of covering the news, but added, "I imagine there's always room for improvement."

Hartwick said he would like to see more documentaries on television, focusing on one topic.

He and his wife, Karen, have a daughter, Stephanie, 3. They live at the corner of Huron and Ale Streets.

Hartwick is in his third year of a four-year apprenticeship with Plumbers and Fitter's Local 816, AFL-CIO, Bay City.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Gov. William G. Milliken was present to officially open the Michigan Artrain visit to Caro. A host of local and state dignitaries also attended.

Ron Keegan, long-time employee of General Cable Corp., received a matched set of luggage during a retirement party held in his honor Friday.

Winners in the fire prevention poster contest held earlier this month are Susie Scollon, first; Kim Pettinger, second; Matt Woody, third; Kris Clara, fourth, and Jerry Kocan, fifth.

The Cass City varsity football team lost a heartbreaking to Caro, 14-13.

Robert Hennessey is one of 77 students named to the dean's list for academic achievement at Saginaw Valley State College.

A group of property owners in the so-called Goslin territory has filed suit in Tuscola County Circuit Court seeking to have their tax payments go to the Cass City School District.

TEN YEARS AGO

The Cass City Village Council's safety committee reported Tuesday night it is investigating the purchase of a blinking sign to be placed at the north end of Seeger Street by the high school which would be timed to flash at crucial hours and warn approaching motorists of the school.

Vandals knocked over six tombstones in Elkland cemetery this week, Police Chief Gene Wilson reported. The Elkland Township Fire Department will again offer free popcorn for youngsters Halloween night, fireman Fritz Neitzel announced this week.

Tuscola county commissioners were still mulling a new budget for 1972 at their regular session this week. Commissioner Ed Golding said salaries were not yet settled.

25 YEARS AGO

Al Krueger, chairman of the Cass City Area Pageant

Association, announced this week that National Geographic magazine has contacted him for the right to publish a story and pictures about Christmas in Cass City.

Village President James Bauer appointed a committee at the village council meeting to pick a site for the proposed Cass City Community Hospital.

Cass City rolled to three first half touchdowns and then protected its lead in the last half to register its fifth Thumb B Conference victory at Sandusky, 18-0.

The classic six-shooter of the Wild West was surpassed in firepower by Richard J. Gatling's invention of Nov. 4, 1862: the Gatling gun. The weapon had a cluster of 10 barrels which fired up to 250 rounds per minute as the cluster was turned.

Anna Krug dies at 85 in Alma Mrs. Anna G. Krug, 85, of Alma, formerly of Cass City and Florida, died Saturday, at the Masonic Home in Alma.

She was born Sept. 9, 1896, in Gageton, the daughter of Elias and Mary (Gill) Morrison. Following the early death of her mother, Miss Morrison was raised by her aunt and her husband, Edwin and Jesse Pettit. Miss Morrison lived most of her life in Cass City, moving to Eustis, Fla., in 1958, and to Alma in 1980.

She married Dougald A. Krug July 1, 1927 in Toledo, Ohio. The Cass City businessman died July 20, 1959.

Mrs. Krug was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Eustis, Fla., the Women's Club of Eustis and was a life member and past matron of Echo Chapter No. 337, Order of the Eastern Star, Cass City.

She is survived by several cousins and a number of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday morning at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Harry Capps of the First Presbyterian church of Cass City officiating.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery, Cass City.

An Eastern Star memorial service was conducted Tuesday evening at the funeral home.

Free testing for diabetes Tuesday

Free blood tests to help detect diabetes will be offered at Hills and Dales General Hospital Tuesday from 9-11 a.m. in the large meeting room in the basement.

For best results, a meal high in carbohydrates with large amounts of starches and sugars should be eaten two hours before the test. Breakfast could be fruit or juice, cereal with milk and sugar, two slices of buttered toast with jam, and coffee or tea. The meal should be eaten within a 15 minute time period and nothing else except water should be taken before the test.

If the test indicates that a person may have diabetes, he will be advised to see his own physician for further evaluation.

No appointment is necessary. The testing is for persons over age 18.

Persons interested in the free testing who cannot come during the scheduled hours can contact Jane Mitchell, R.N., at Hills and Dales, telephone 872-2121, for a scheduled appointment.

An estimated 200,000 persons in Michigan have diabetes and don't know it. Persons who run a high risk of developing diabetes are over 40, overweight and related to diabetics. They should be checked once a year for diabetes.

Diabetes is a serious disease that is a major cause of heart attack, kidney failure, blindness and death. The symptoms of diabetes, when present, may include frequent urination, abnormal thirst, unusual hunger, rapid weight loss, itching, fatigue, blurred vision, and slow healing of cuts and scratches.

The testing is being done in conjunction with Diabetes Detection Week, Nov. 1-7, sponsored by the American Diabetes Association, Michigan Affiliate.

HEALTH TIPS

Choking can be a Halloween danger

Halloween brings ghosts, goblins and, sometimes, real danger.

The American Lung Association of Michigan warns about one danger for children -- the risk of choking on holiday treats such as hard candy and peanuts.

At Halloween, children go door-to-door "begging." Parents should insist youngsters bring the goodies home for inspection. For the youngest -- two, three or even four years old -- some of the candy can be divided or mashed before eating.

The chewing and swallowing muscles of young children may not be sufficiently developed to cope with certain treats.

Choking can result. Halloween goodies also may "go down the wrong way" and lodge in the lung instead of the stomach. This is called aspiration. A "foreign object" of any kind in the lung can cause life-long problems. At times, surgery for removal is required.

The best warning is: Be sure children are old enough to chew and swallow correctly before trusting them with small, hard bits of food. Parents should always be on guard against "small objects" getting into the hands of children, particularly those young enough to want to put everything into their mouths. Choking, blocked air passages, even aspiration into the lung can result.

Some other Halloween safety tips: Check all treats and discard any that have been unwrapped or appear to be tampered with in any way.

Accompany your child on trick-or-treat rounds, if possible.

Make sure costumes and masks do not reduce vision. Dress children in light-colored clothes or add reflective tape to dark clothes so drivers can see them.

Face make-up or certain foods can cause allergic reactions. Be especially careful if your child has an allergy.

Use a flashlight to light a jack-o-lantern. If candles are used, be sure an adult is present. Guard against costumes coming in contact with flame. Let small children draw the jack-o-lantern's face, but let someone older do the carving.

After adult Halloween parties, make sure all alcoholic beverages have been removed. A few sips of alcohol can make a small child very ill.

You can Bank on it!

Q. I think there is a simple answer to my question but I want to make certain. I plan to remarry in a month and, of course, will change my surname. Under my present name, I have an excellent credit record and want to protect it. How can I go about this?

A. Whether your credit rating is in your name alone or you and your previous husband's, there should be no problem. The best procedure is to write each company with whom you have established credit. Tell them you want to continue the account but the name should be changed. Also, contact your local credit bureau to update their records. This is the same procedure to use for a woman marrying for the first time and who has already established credit in her maiden name. Your creditors should also be notified of any other significant change of information such as change of mailing address, etc.

Fed cattle at twelve year low

Michigan cattle feeders had 120,000 head of cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market as of Oct. 1, down 8 percent from a year ago, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

This is the lowest Oct. 1 inventory since 1969. Continued high interest rates and poor profit prospects for fed cattle have discouraged cattlemen from filling their feedlots to normal levels. Problems with this fall's silage harvest, due to adverse weather, may have caused producers to delay placing feeders in their lots. Placements during the July-September quarter at $8,000 head, were off 17 percent from a year earlier and were the lowest placements for this period in 20 years.

In the 23 major producing states, cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market totaled 9 million head, 9 percent below a year ago. This was the lowest Oct. 1 number on feed since 1967. Cattle feeders expect to market 3 percent fewer head during the October-December quarter of 1981 than they marketed during the same period last year.

Meal program moves

Monday in Cass City

The Thumb Area Commission on Aging meal program in Cass City is moving.

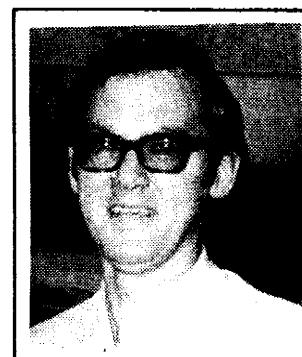

Meals will be served in the Good Shepherd Lutheran church starting Monday.

The Monday, Wednesday and Friday program had been meeting in the First Presbyterian church, which has stairs leading to the basement where the meals were served. Good Shepherd does not have any stairs.

The church will be open from 10:30-2, with serving of the meals about noon.

The program is open to all persons 60 and older and their spouses even if under age 60.

"SAVE $100"

The height you seek, the oak you love and a pendulum you can see from three sides.

Half the fun of owning a clock like this is watching the gleaming brylcreme pendulum swing to and fro. So, a total of three glass panels are provided to assure your pleasure. A deeply embossed carved pediment design overlooks the handsome Tempus Fugit dial, with its individually mounted Arabic numerals and elaborate corner ornaments. The weight driven movement plays the beloved chimes of Westminster each quarter hour and counts on the hour. Being 77 1/2" tall, this clock will be easy to find when you visit our store. Criminal complaints total 629

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department recorded 629 criminal complaints in September, a sharp drop from the 744 counted in August.

The greatest number, 192, involved traffic (accidents, reckless driving, etc.), followed by larcenies, 78; domestic problems, 54; vandalism, 51; disorderly conduct, 47, and burglaries, 42.

Deputies made 47 arrests during the month, including 18 for traffic related offenses, six for larceny and five each for family offenses and obstruction of justice.

They issued 227 traffic tickets, including 101 for speeding and 26 for defective equipment. Fourteen persons received appearance tickets, of which six were for purchase, possession or transportation of alcoholic beverages by minors.

The county jail received 160 inmates, of whom 21 were females, and released 148.

Patrol cars traveled 41,572 miles and consumed 3,327.8 gallons of gasoline (12.5 miles per gallon).

Cass City police made eight arrests in August, all for traffic related offenses. Gagetown police arrested three persons, one each for disorderly conduct, traffic offense and obstruction of justice.

State police at the Caro post arrested nine persons, including three each for traffic related offenses and violation of the controlled substance act.

The number of respective complaints received from and accidents in area townships and villages in August were: Columbia, 10 and 2; Elkland, 15 and 3; Cass City, 41 and total accidents not recorded by sheriff's department; Ellington, 14 and 6; Elmwood, 15 and 1; Kingston township, 16 and 6; Kingston village, 7 and accidents not recorded, and Novesta, 20 and 5.

Golden Rule class meets

Thirty members of the Salem United Methodist church Golden Rule class met Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Luke Tuckey.

Following a potluck supper and calling to order of the business meeting, members answered roll call with a Bible verse.

Mrs. Clayton Turner gave a memorial to Lawrence Buehrly and Mrs. Sena Bassett. Cards were signed to be sent to ill members, Maud Palmer and Edward Buehrly.

Games were played under the direction of Mrs. John Zinnecker and Clayton Turner.

The next meeting will be the Christmas party Dec. 19.

Rites held for Rev. Didier, 81

Rev. Ralph H. Didier, 81, of Bay City, died Oct. 20 at Blodgett Memorial Hospital Medical Center in Grand Rapids.

He was born May 13, 1900, in Mt. Forest township, Bay county, the son of George Clement and Jennie (Westbrook) Didier. In 1919, he married Mary Frances Ferguson of Flint, who preceded him in death in 1956.

Their seven children survive: Rev. Bernard F. Deerfield, Ill.; Elizabeth M. Osbeck, Grand Rapids; Rev. Calvin W., St. Paul, Minn.; Margaret L. Berry, Kalamazoo; Rev. Ralph H. Jr., Anaheim, Calif.; Leone A. Koepke, Tulsa, Okla., and Charles S., New Town, Conn. Also surviving are 25 grandchildren and two great-grandsons.

His surviving sisters are Florence Cady, Glendale, Ariz.; Nell McInnis, Royal Oak, and Hazel Sparks, Detroit, and one brother, Cecil, New Smyrna Beach, Fla. Three brothers preceded him in death. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Rev. Didier married Wilma Wentworth of Cass City, Saginaw and Lansing in 1958. She died March 10 in Deland, Fla.

His education in accounting and law led to management positions in the dairy industry in Ferndale, Flint and Pinconning. In mid-life he prepared for and entered the ministry, serving congregations in Flint and Saginaw for 17 years. For years, he conducted a weekly radio ministry over WMPG in Lapeer.

In 1950, he retired and moved to Lansing. For the past 25 years, he lived in Florida and Point Wenonah, Standish, Mich., a lake-front development he began in the 1950s following its use as a church conference center.

Funeral services were held Friday at the Kawawlin Community church, Kawawlin. Burial was in Mt. Forest cemetery. The family suggests memorials be made to a Christian ministry of choice.

New books at the library

SHADOW OF CAIN by Vincent Bugliosi and Ken Hurwitz (non-fiction). Ray Karmac is the convicted murderer of seven college students. Now he is out on parole, but Dr. Richard Pomerantz, to whom Karmac must report on a regular basis, feels Karmac still belongs behind bars. Karmac seems rehabilitated, but Pomerantz knows the former convict is unable to find a job or make friends. All the social pressures that drove him to kill once are ready to explode into violence again. Then, when Pomerantz's pet dog is bizarrely killed, he knows that Karmac's violence will be aimed at him and his beautiful fiancée.

THE LEGACY by Howard Fast (fiction). The latest best seller of the turbulent saga of the Lavette family, begun in "The Immigrants, Second Generation" and "The Establishment." In the changing society of 1960s America, Barbara marries a man nine years her junior and reluctantly leaves the Lavette mansion. Amid the political upheavals of the decade, she and the rest of the Lavettes suffer through personal and public triumphs and failures.

AN EASTER EGG HUNT by Gillian Freeman (fiction). The setting is Fairweather House, a boarding school for young ladies in an English village. In 1915, the chief reminders of the Great War are an encampment of RAF flyers nearby and Madeleine, a beautiful refugee, a favorite of the other students. On Easter Sunday morning, when the girls have hidden decorated eggs on the grounds in preparation for a fete, Madeleine vanishes. Madame Pennington, head of the school, organizes a search, later widened by local authorities, but Madeleine is never found. Years later, Ann Oxford arrives at what was once her school, now an evacuee center, to help care for displaced children during World War II. Obsessed still by mystery of the vanished Madeleine, Ann searches for clues in an old desk and, at last, finds an answer that readers will long remember.

Historical Society to meet

The final meeting of 1981 of the Cass City Area Historical Society will be Monday at Rawson Memorial Library at 7:30 p.m.

There will be a film shown about gunsmithing as it is done in historic Williamsburg, Va. Muzzle loading enthusiasts will find it of special interest. The meeting is open to the public.

There will be a business meeting and distribution of the quarterly newsletter, "The Way It Was."

REDUCE EROSION • INCORPORATES TRASH

With the NOBLE "chop n' chisel" you can follow your combine and cut up stubble, to give you the ultimate for trash control. The chisel incorporates most of the residue, and opens deep moisture-catching grooves. Properly mixed trash and topsoil helps prevent winds from carrying your topsoil away.

The "chop n' chisel" features: • 20-inch coulters mounted on spring-loaded straight disk gang, to properly slice and mix trash ahead of chisels. • Full hydraulic depth control of the entire "chop n' chisel", lets you control the amount of trash you incorporate. • Models available in 7, 9, and 11 shank models, to meet your acreage and power requirements.

Telephone directory changes due

General Telephone is now compiling information for the new telephone directory.

"Telephone customers in Caseville, Cass City, Elkton and Kingston who want to make corrections or additions to the directory must contact the company's service office before Friday, Nov. 20," said Les Moench, division manager.

Most changes can be handled by telephone.

Distribution date for the new directory will be announced later.

Zonta Club greets new members

Thirty-two Zonta Club members and guests attended the club dinner at the home of Edith Little with Joy Anthony as co-hostess, Tuesday evening, Oct. 20.

Special guests for the evening were Dr. Jerry Purcell, area director, of Flint and Joan Reed, Zontian of the Flint club.

Full committee reports were given for the style show Nov. 17 in the high school cafeteria with proceeds to be used for the "Jaws of Life" project. The beef raffle ticket winner will be drawn at the show with the proceeds going to the cause. The fire department will have a booth explaining the use of the rescue tool. A public demonstration will be given in November.

Five new members were initiated by Esther McCullough, membership chairman, with the area director presenting the Zonta pins. The new members are

Yun Jeung, Janet Hurley, Joanne Merchant, Ruth Grassmann and Lois Chisholm. Seven new members have joined the club since September. The new members were presented with a rose by President Florence

Karr. Following the meeting, the annual auction was held with Toby Weaver and Donna Wernette as auctioneers. The auction netted $374. The next dinner meeting will be at Charmont Nov. 10.

Donation to buy hospital new Fetone

When Sue Smith, treasurer of the Tuscola County March of Dimes, contacted Ken Jensen, administrator at Hills and Dales General Hospital, to see if there was something needed at the facility, it didn't take him long to say, "yes."

Ms. Smith said that the March of Dimes likes to use money locally whenever possible and that was the reason she asked if the hospital could use a little financial aid from money collected.

The most urgent need for the use of the funds available was for a Fetone.

That's a machine that measures fetal heart tones to determine if there is distress before birth. One of the big advantages to the machine is that it is portable.

The machine will cost $300 and delivery is expected in 4 to 6 weeks, Jensen said.

HAPPILY ACCEPTING a $300 check from the Tuscola County March of Dimes is Ken Jensen, Hills and Dales Hospital administrator. The presentation was made by Sue Smith, treasurer.

Circuit Court cases

Sentence Early to prison

In cases Monday before Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn:

Michael D. Early, 19, of Rochester, was sentenced to 36-60 months in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson for attempted breaking and entering. He was credited with 77 days served.

Early pleaded guilty to the charge Oct. 19 of attempting to break into Kitchen's Heating May 16 in Koylton township.

Charles Lay, 20, of 4145 Vassar Road, Vassar, pleaded guilty to attempted delivery of marijuana April 4 in Vassar.

His plea was accepted and a sentencing date will be set. Bond was continued.

Howard Palmerton, 23, of 5679 Jacob Drive, Millington, was found guilty of violating probation by failing to report to his probation officer in September. He is being held in the county jail, awaiting sentencing.

He was placed on 36 months' probation May 18 for malicious destruction of property over $100.

A Tuscola County Circuit Court jury last Wednesday found Frederick J. Profit, 54, of 6976 Schwegler Road, Cass City, innocent of a charge of criminal sexual conduct (fourth degree).

He was charged with a supposed incident in Cass City in December of last year.

The verdict came at the end of a two-day trial.

Oct. 13, Joslyn granted a prosecution motion for execution of the sentence previously imposed for Bryan S. Huizar, 21, of 4195 Elmwood Road, Akron, and dismissal of his motion for a new trial.

In February, a jury found Huizar guilty of larceny in a building, of stealing $112 in cash and checks from an Akron bar in August, 1980.

He was sentenced March 17 to five years' probation, six months in the county jail with credit given for nine days served and fine and costs of $550.

County budget crunch seen

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners will unveil its 1982 budget at a special meeting Monday, Nov. 9, at 10 a.m.

According to Commissioner Royce Russell of Elmwood township, as of now there is a big gap between anticipated revenue and expenditures. "It doesn't look very bright."

The regular board meeting will be the next day, with the public hearing on the budget and federal revenue sharing expenditures set Tuesday, Nov. 24.

At the board meeting Tuesday, commissioners raised the mileage payment for employees using their own cars from 23 cents to 26 cents as of Jan. 1. The higher figure is what the state will be paying next year to its employees.

Advertising for bids for a new boiler at the Medical Care Facility was approved.

The one-year contract with the Arbel Township Police Department was renewed. The township contracts with the sheriff's department for the service.

Robert W. Genaw, 73, was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital for treatment, then released for treatment by a doctor in Port Huron.

He told sheriff's deputies that he and Loren Ackerman, 56, of Flint were hunting together. The latter shot and wounded a duck, which landed and was swimming in the water.

The two men got on opposite sides to retrieve it. Ackerman fired at the duck to kill it. The pellets ricocheted off it or the water and one lodged in Genaw's eye. The incident took place at 10 a.m.

Letters to the Editor

Dodson: don't cut bus routes

Dear Editor,

The most disturbing thing heard in Cass City recently is that the school board may cut bus service to little kids living off the big bus runs.

This means suffering and deprivation and danger to their safety or even their lives. It is argued that we can save $11,000 this way — big deal.

Foys aid Cass City Boosters

Dear Mr. Haire:

We have enclosed a donation to the Booster Club. Please forward it to President Bob Tuckey and commend him and the entire community for a job well done!

We know what you are going through in the difficult economic struggle to keep our schools afloat.

We have both been active in our Booster Club and know the fine accomplishments that these groups can make to the athletic programs. We are also more acutely aware of these helpful projects as Bob is president of our district's school board.

Much success in your continued efforts to support our public education programs.

Sincerely,
Dr. and Mrs. Robert B. Foy
Holt

Editor's note: Dr. Foy is a former resident of Cass City.

The fact is that we are losing any chance of more millage. I've battled to get the millage passed — many others have too. I even planned to give a donation to keep some activities going like the Booster Club.

As of now, I'm actively opposed to any more millage unless the resolution authorizing it specifically states that all busing will be kept or increased.

This is some more Reaganomics — hit the weakest and poorest. I'm not in this category yet, but I get angry when I see anyone doing this to others.

All the rural people at Cass City had better rise up before ALL busing is stopped.

There is less help from Washington and Lansing. The place to start trimming is in the fat, not the lean.

With short money, Cass City may have to stop increasing salaries and fringe benefits to the top paid people in the school system.

I recently heard drums beating out in the park. Was it the school marching band? Does it cost more or less than the busing of the kids on isolated roads?

I'd like to keep both, but if it ever goes to the courts the busing will win. All over America, kids are forcibly being bused. Cass City can't fight the federal government.

To quote Ann Landers, wake up and smell the coffee. The pot is boiling over.

Sincerely,
Willard L. Dodson

Bushong: band alive and well

To the Editor,

Considering the concern for the Cass City High School Band expressed by your paper and the citizenry of Cass City, I would like to take this opportunity to answer a few anticipated questions.

First, let me say the band is alive and well. Thanks to the Band Boosters and the Cass City Boosters Club, we do not expect any curtailment of the band program in the 1981-82 school year. We are planning a full schedule of performances and festivals.

By now, you should be aware of the Marching Red Hawks' participation in the Tuscola County Pumpkin Festival in Caro Sunday. That brings us to the questions and answers.

Q.) If the school and its programs are in a financial pinch, with no field trips, etc., how could the band travel to Caro?

A.) The costs were funded by the Pumpkin Festival, so there was no cost to the school.

Q.) Why perform out of town at something like the Pumpkin Festival?

A.) For exposure, to instill some pride in the band and indirectly the school and community, to represent Cass City in a county-wide festival and hopefully, by appearing elsewhere, the Cass City Band will encourage other bands to appear here in our festivals.

Q.) How come the Cass City Band can march in a parade in Caro and not in our own 4th of July Festival last summer?

A.) The answer is one of timing and attitude. The Caro parade was in the middle of "marching season" whereas July 4th is in the middle of summer vacation. Only 22 band members felt the performance was important enough to report July 3 for practice. We do not anticipate this problem in the future.

Sincerely,

George L. Bushong

The Cass City Lions Club has donated $500 for the tennis courts. Donations so far total more than $7,500.

The "November" meeting will be Dec. 1, at which the proposed 1982 budget will be unveiled. The federal revenue sharing use hearing will take place at 7 p.m.

As part of Gov. Milliken's $270 million budget cut, local revenue sharing is to be cut $18 million in 1982. Village officials don't know yet how much Cass City will lose.

Hawks edge Sandusky to even league record for year

Cass City edged to a 3-0 Thumb B Association victory last Friday at Sandusky

THE difference in Friday's game was provided by Paulo Leme, Brazilian exchange student who kicked a 33-yard field goal.

despite the use of a pair of new faces in the Red Hawk backfield.

The win will probably enable the Hawks to finish behind Caro and the Lakers in the league race this season.

The faces were new in the backfield but certainly not new to Hawk fans. They were Dave Osentoski and Jim Adkins, mainstays of the team in the line all season.

They replaced Tim Horner and Jim Crickon, who won't see action again until the Mayville game.

When the Hawks face Marlette this Friday it's likely that the same duo will be called on again for double duty.

The Hawks will reign as heavy favorites to top the Red Raiders who are in the midst of a rebuilding season.

Again it was the defense that carried Cass City to the win, helped by a little lend lease aid from Paulo Leme, exchange student from Brazil. Both teams made just one serious threat to score. Cass City moved to the 33 from where Leme just cleared the uprights with his soccer style kick.

In the third period the Redskins moved to the Hawk 34-yard line but Sandusky's try for the three-pointer was blocked by Darryl Hoag.

It was a new type football for Hawk followers. Instead of the wide-open, big play game that Cass City used in earlier games, Friday's style was power football.

The Hawks found a weakness in the Sandusky line and kept pounding away at it for short yardage. As a result Osentoski carried the ball on 41 plays, more than the entire Sandusky backfield.

There was a scary moment for Hawk fans in the first half when a Redskin back broke into the clear and appeared headed for a touchdown only to have Gary Robinson pull him down from behind. Chuck Erla led the defense in tackles with 16, including 2 sacks, while Terry Sweeney was named lineman of the week with 9 tackles, including 2 sacks.

Waste demos set at farms

Animal waste handling can be integrated into the farm management schedule so that it augments crop yields without becoming a burdensome chore.

How farmers can do this will be seen during demonstrations at six farms — four dairy, one hog and one beef operation — in Huron county Wednesday, Nov. 4.

The farms will be open to visitors from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. The event is being sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, the Soil Conservation Service and commercial equipment suppliers.

The farm stops and manure handling systems to be seen are:

—Les, Jim and Paul Roth (dairy), W. Wadsworth Road near Ivanhoe, southwest of Bad Axe. Manure is held in an earthen basin and is distributed through traveling big gun sprinklers.

—Alfred Block (dairy), E. Canboro Road, Owendale. The system consists of an earthen basin, agitation pumps and tank wagons.

—Dale Oeschger (beef), 2129 Bay Port Road, Bay Port. Manure is held in a concrete pit under slats. Pit agitation pumps, along with field application with tank wagons, will be demonstrated.

—George Swartzendruber (hogs), 9744 Geiger Road, Bay Port. Agitation of concrete pits with high pressure pumps using conventional pump-out ports will be shown. Application demonstrations include use of soil injection tankers and broadcast spreading with tillage incorporation.

—Bill McPhee (dairy), Etzler Road between Grassmere and Pinnebog Roads, west of Kinde. The system consists of picket-drained storage and semi-solid handling equipment. A fast auger-type loader and spreader designed specifically for semi-solid manure will be demonstrated.

—Bruce Protzman (dairy), N. Maxwell Road, Caseville. The system involves broadcast spreading and soil injection of manure from an earthen basin.

Flyers and maps detailing the location and features of each farm stop are available from all county extension offices.

O-G cagers no match for Port Hope and Caseville

Owen-Gage proved no match against Port Hope at home Tuesday evening, losing 48-34.

Leading scorers for the Bulldogs, now 1-11 in the league, were Joan Mosack and Julie Enderle, each with 10. The team shot 15 of 56 from the floor, 27 percent, and sank four of six free throws, 66 percent.

Debbie McTaggart and Vicky Lawrence each collected 12 points for the Blue Stars. The team made 17 of 46 field goal attempts, 37 percent, and 14 of 22 from the charity line, 66 percent.

The Bulldogs outbounded their opponents, 33-27, with Mosack grabbing nine of them.

The Owen-Gage junior varsity won its third game of the season, 28-25.

Owen-Gage is at Peck Thursday, has Tuesday off and resumes play next Thursday at North Huron.

It was neck and neck in the first quarter but downhill after that for Owen-Gage, as it lost Thursday night to Caseville, 51-40.

The teams were tied 12-12 at the end of the first quarter, but the Eagles opened up a seven-point lead in the second and were ahead to stay.

Julie Enderle and Jackie Kain each scored 10 points for Owen-Gage. Joan Mosack had nine points and 12 rebounds.

What Bliss!

Hawk teams on way to state

Cass City will send both its boys' and girls' cross country teams to the state meet Saturday at Watervliet, both having qualified in the regional meet last Saturday.

It is the first time either team has qualified for the state meet.

Red Hawk Greg Bliss paced all runners in classes C and B with a time of 16:28.9 for the 5000 meters (slightly over three miles).

Cass City hosted the meet. The course ran over the school grounds, Rolling Hills Golf Course and village park.

The top three teams in each division qualified for the state meet, plus the top 10 individual runners not on the teams that qualified.

In the Class C boys' race, in which 88 runners from 13 schools competed, Marlette was first with 56 points, followed by Mount Clemens Lutheran North, 113, and Cass City, 124.

Coming in second behind Bliss was Dan Clark of Montrose at 16:40.2.

Times and placings for the Red Hawks behind Bliss were Scott Hobart, 18th, 18:10.9; Kevin Bliss, 25th, 18:22; Randy Nicholas, 43rd, 19:00.1; Brent Szarapski, 45th, 19:09.3; Tom Rutkoski, 56th, 19:34.4, and Del Kostanko, 57th, 19:40.3.

The top three Class C girls' teams were Harbor Beach, 65; Cass City, 89, and Mount Clemens Lutheran North, 93. Sixty-four girls from 10 schools competed.

Michelle Volmering of Harbor Beach finished first at 20:02.5, followed by Sandusky's Brenda Essenmacher at 20:24.1.

Cass City team members, their placings and times, were: Lorie Hurley, 6th, 21:36.5; Renae Stimpfel, 7th, 21:38.2; Merilee Leslie, 20th, 22:37; Bonnie Smerdon, 29th, 23:07.6; Kristy Deering, 34th, 23:26.9; Lisa Wilson, 50th, 25:37, and Tami Stimpfel, 26:34.1.

Top Class B boys' teams were Flint Ainsworth, 69; Caro, 81, and Essexville Garber, 82. Charles Trese of Orionville-Brandon was first in a time of 16:40.

Top three Class B girls' teams were Flint Powers, 49; Yale, 101, and Mt. Morris, 107. Diane Devereaux of Powers was first at 20:02.9. Eleven schools and 67 runners competed.

The Cass City runners will depart after school Friday for Watervliet, which is in the southwest corner of the state.

FIRST PLACE winner in the Class C boys division of the regional cross country meet Saturday was Cass City's Greg Bliss. In the background is Dan Clark of Montrose, reportedly undefeated all season, who never got closer. He finished second.

ANCHORING the Cass City girls cross country team in the regional meet Saturday were Renae Stimpfel (left) and Lorie Hurley, who finished seventh and sixth respectively.

Stone cold shooting

Hawks drop 2 loop cage tilts

When the team is short, the shooters had better be sharp or it's very likely that when the firing stops you'll find that the game has been lost.

That happened to Cass City Tuesday night at Laker High. The Hawks shot only 23 percent hitting just 11 of 47 shots from the floor and were beaten by the Lakers, 42-34.

Cass City goes into most games in the Thumb B Association with a height disadvantage and the Laker game was no exception.

The taller Lakers controlled the boards most of the night and when Michelle Fahrner left the game early in the fourth quarter the Laker superiority was increased. Although playing about three quarters, Fahrner still led Cass City in rebounds, with 9.

It was a bad night all around for Cass City, Coach Lloyd Schinnerer reported. Usually reliable Carrie Lautner, Cass City top scorer, was just one for 10 from the field.

Some of the slack was taken up by Kris Proctor with 10 points. But her team high total couldn't match that of the Lakers' Eva Sturm, 17 points, and Tracy Hoag, 12.

The loss dropped Cass City's record to 4-5 in the conference and 5-9 overall.

VASSAR GAME

The Cass City Red Hawks staged a last period rally last Thursday but it fell just short of overtaking visiting Vassar Vulcans who went home with a 39-37 victory in the Thumb B Association clash.

The game was close all the way. The Vulcans jumped off to a two-point lead in the first period and the Hawks rallied to lead by a point at the intermission, 15-14. The Vulcans used a big 14-8 third period advantage to salt away the win. Sue Rodammer, 15, and Mary Harper, 14, led the visitors while Cass City used balanced scoring with Carrie Lautner, Kris Proctor and Jill Hutchinson with 8 points each.

Cass City hit 15 of 41 from the field for 37 percent and 7 of 11 free throws. Michelle Fahrner led the rebounders with 8.

Duck hunt hours special meeting topic at USA

Wildlife Division personnel from the Department of Natural Resources met with hunters at an Oct. 10 public meeting near Sebawaing and Unionville to hear comments on waterfowl hunting hours in Wildfowl Bay.

Another meeting with hunters to discuss the 4 p.m. closure issue has been scheduled at 8 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 7, at USA High School cafeteria, on M-25 between Sebawaing and Unionville. DNR representatives will be present to listen to public comments and to answer questions.

Waterfowl Specialist Jerry Martz of the DNR's Lansing office said his office receives requests from individual hunters every year to consider a daily hunting closure of the bay at that hour.

The theory behind a 4 p.m. closure time, which was used in years past, is that providing a "rest period" from hunting each day encourages more ducks to use an area, which may improve hunting opportunities over a period of time.

About 40 waterfowl hunters expressed their views for and against the proposal at the meeting.

Martz said the DNR does not have a position supporting or opposing the 4 p.m. closing time for Wildfowl Bay, a popular east Saginaw Bay hunting area stretching from Sebawaing northeast to Sand Point, just below Caseville.

Some hunters at the recent meeting felt that a 4 p.m. closure time would add to the complexity of waterfowl regulations and would restrict hunting for many people, including high school students.

Others suggested that the Middle Grounds Marsh, located within Wildfowl Bay, has "thinned out," due in part to persistent high water levels, and that this has been detrimental to waterfowl hunting success.

Some hunters asked about the difficulties of posting boundaries of a large closed area, and asked whether small game and deer hunting would be affected by a closure.

Board President Ronald Good, a dairy farmer, feels well over half of the farmers in the district are in PA 116. Of those he knows, he said, only one will have to pay more taxes if the three mills are approved. For the rest, the three mills will be in excess of 7 percent of their household income, meaning a total rebate.

Senior citizens (at least

Those with an annual household income of $6,000 or more must pay their property taxes equal to 3.5 percent of their household income, but receive a rebate or credit on their state income tax of 100 percent of their property taxes in excess of the 3.5 percent, to a maximum of $1,200.

Non-senior citizens are eligible for a credit or rebate of 60 percent of their property taxes in excess of 3.5 percent of their household income, to a maximum of $1,200.

League leading Deckerville uses defense to stop O-G

The Deckerville defense proved hard to penetrate last Friday night, as Owen-Gage lost to the league leading Eagles, 27-6.

The Bulldogs, now 1-5 in the North Central Thumb D League and 2-5 overall, close out their conference schedule at home this Friday against Carsonville-Port Sanilac.

Line coach Phil Gray, who has scouted the Tigers, said they play a good defense, but don't score many points.

The Bulldogs' lone touchdown, at Deckerville came in the first quarter on a nine-yard run by Lee Gettel. Stan Andrakowicz's pass for an extra two points was incomplete.

Before then, Jeff Tanton tackled Gettel in the end zone.

Against the stout Deckerville defense, the Bulldogs managed only 47 yards in 20 carries. They did much better in the air, with Andrakowicz completing 11 of 27 passes, with two interceptions, for 111 yards. The team made 11 first downs.

The Eagles gained 13 first downs. Their offense gained 220 yards on the ground in 52 carries and 40 more in the air, with one completion of five attempts.

The Bulldogs fumbled one and were penalized four times for 29 yards. Deckerville also fumbled once and was penalized five times for 45 yards.

Gettel was Owen-Gage's top ball carrier with 70 yards in 11 carries. Dan Glidden was top receiver with nine scored the first of his three touchdowns for the Eagles on a two-yard run. Kyle Bowling kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter, Tanton scored again on a two-yard play. The extra point kick attempt missed. Jerry Allard passed to Kyle Bowling, the play totaling 40 yards, for six more points. The kick attempt missed, making the half time score, 19-6.

A blocked punt in the third quarter enabled Deckerville to score two plays later on a one-yard run by Tanton. The extra point kick attempt was no good.

The Eagles scored their final two points in the third quarter when Sean Parady catches good for 106 yards. Top defensive players were Gary Erickson and George Vargo with 11 tackles each.

Top ground gainer for the Eagles was Tanton with 112 yards in 28 carries. Their top tackler was Ralph Lentner with six.

Driver charged after striking bicyclist

Bryan Guthrie, 9, of Bradleyville Road, Reese, was reported in fair condition Wednesday morning at Bay Medical Center, Bay City, where he was taken after the bicycle he was riding was struck by a car Friday evening southwest of Fairgrove.

The driver of the car involved, St. Clair William Young, 62, of Saginaw, was later charged with felonious driving and leaving the scene of a personal injury accident.

He was arraigned Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled a pre-preliminary examination Nov. 2 and preliminary examination Nov. 13. He was released from the county jail after posting 10 percent of a $5,000 bond.

A witness told deputies the boy was riding his bicycle southbound along the shoulder of Bradleyville Road, south of Gilford Road, when the car hit his bike. The boy and the bike fell under the car and were dragged 200 yards. The driver didn't stop, but the witness wrote down the car's license number.

The boy was reported to have suffered head and back injuries.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

At 10:45 p.m. Friday, deputies reported, Terry L. Martin, 24, of Unionville, was westbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, east of Jacob Road.

He sounded his horn when he saw a tractor pull onto the road, then tried to go around it, but the two vehicles collided. Martin was driving a semi pulling a tanker of liquid propane gas.

The tractor driver, Lynn

D. Louis, 41, of Bay City-Forestville, Unionville, was using the front end loader on the tractor to remove dirt from the road.

Deputies said that at 8:20 a.m. last Thursday, Karen E. Gilmore, 43, of 5932 Rossman Road, was backing a Kingston school bus on Ross Street into the bus garage.

A northbound car driven by Debra L. Wilson, 26, of 4501 Phillips Road, Kingston, then ran into the bus.

At 4:25 p.m. Oct. 18, according to deputies, Oliver J. Patterson, 48, of 6316 Pine Street, was backing up in front of the M&R Grocery, 4119 S. Seeger Street, and backed into a parked car.

Owner of the parked car was Leslie L. Profit, 61, of 6382 N. Cemetery Road.

At 12:20 a.m. Saturday, according to Cass City police, Durwent J. O'Connor, 63, of 2488 Argyle Road, Argyle, pulled in to park by the south curb on Main Street, east of Leach Street.

He turned too sharply and his vehicle hit the car parked behind him. Owner of the other car was Roxanne Ehlers of Caro.

Another mishap was reported at 12:40 a.m. Saturday. A motorist backed into the front of the car of Roger Reid of Caro, parked by the south curb on Main, west of Leach, then drove off.

Tammy Lynn Roach, 16, of 7305 E. Gilford Road, Deford, reported to the sheriff's department that a hit and run driver damaged a door of her car while parked in the Cass City High School lot Oct. 17.

CAR-DEER

The following car-deer

accidents were reported by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department unless otherwise noted:

Thomas A. Crickon, 47, of 3918 Cemetery Road, Cass City, was headed northeast on M-81, southwest of Jacob Road, when his auto struck a deer at 7:25 p.m. last Wednesday.

Caro state police reported that Patrick F. LePage, 29, of Lake Orion, was headed northeast on M-81, southwest of Gerou Road, at 3 a.m. Friday when his car collided with a deer.

At 7:20 a.m. Saturday, Joseph R. Placek, 41, of Sterling Heights, was westbound on Bevins Road, west of Cemetery Road, when his auto struck a deer.

Lynn D. Chard, 16, of 2300 Decker Road, Decker, was westbound on M-81, west of Schwegler Road, at 8:05 p.m. Saturday, according to Caro state police, when his vehicle collided with a deer.

At 8:29 p.m. Saturday, D.D. Lipe, 19, of 4001 Decker Road, Cass City, was westbound on Decker Road, west of Hurds Corner, when his car hit a deer.

Caro state police reported that Kenneth W. Stoves, 49, of 6885 E. Sanilac Road, Kingston, was headed northeast on E. Dayton Road, southeast of Albin Road, at 6:10 p.m. Sunday when his auto collided with a deer.

The car of Earl J. Fortin, 44, of Clarkston, hit a deer while northbound on Crawford Road, south of Elmwood Road, at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Sheriff Stokan pledges crackdown in Owendale

The next person who drives across a lawn in Owendale may find himself in jail, Huron County Sheriff Richard Stokan told about 15 residents of that community Monday evening.

He promised he will be sending some officers to Owendale during times of potential trouble, sometimes in unmarked cars, in an effort to stop the vandalism.

He didn't make any promises, but felt after the first person is caught and punished in court, would-be vandals will think twice. "We'll give it a whirl and see what happens."

The meeting in the Community Building was the outgrowth of many instances lately of cars being driven across and damaging lawns and complaints about the situation at the last village council meeting.

The sheriff was invited to the special public meeting to discuss what might be done. The problem hasn't lessened of late. Village President Walt Howard, after checking with those present, said five lawns were run over Saturday night.

ONE OF THOSE WAS that of Owen-Gage High School Principal Wayne

Wright, whose lawn was heavily damaged after the football game Oct. 9, when four vehicles did "doughnuts" on it.

That case is still under investigation by the sheriff's department. Wright said most students in the school know who did it Oct. 9 and the suspects have been questioned by deputies, but have yet to confess.

One option for increased police protection was quickly dismissed by Stokan. "I'd be the first one to tell you you can't have (afford) a police officer 24 hours a day, seven days a week, in Owendale."

When an incident of vehicle vandalism is observed, it helps to know the license number of the vehicle and ultimately, who is driving, he said. "When it comes to the court case, there's no assumption."

A QUESTION WAS asked about putting some obstacles on lawns to prevent vehicles from being driven over them.

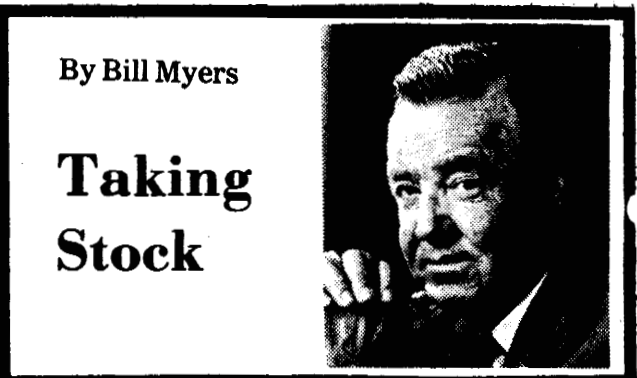

The sheriff responded that the property owner isn't liable if the obstacle is on his own property, but that "no one in the village should be put into the position of putting up obstacles."

He urged his audience not to chase after persons who vandalize their lawn, which can end in confrontations and accidents.

If following a vandal, he said, and the vandal stops and gets out of his car, all that is necessary is to identify the person and then drive away and call the sheriff's department.

ULTIMATELY, TWO courses of action were discussed, one to be undertaken immediately and possibly one later.

The sheriff said he will send cars into the village, some unmarked, at times when there might be trouble

Taking Stock

This is E.F. Hutton talking in an ad in the Wall Street Journal: "Money market funds? The decision is no longer yes or no. It's what kind."

When E.F. talks, I listen. But I don't have to agree with him, such as now.

This simple country boy thinks that the decision to plump your cash into a money market fund at this time is not a good one.

First of all, let's set some ground rules for the argument. Assume we're talking about funds you want to produce income, not for a month or two or even a year — but for several years.

If you're going to be spending that $10,000 you have for a car this fall, then the money market fund is the place for the cash. No argument, Mr. Hutton, and probably your fund is as good as any.

But I'm not going to be needing that $10,000. Just the income from it. And while the money market rate is now around 17 percent, I can remember a year ago when it was 9 percent. It could well hit 9 percent again soon. Where do I turn then?

As for me, I want to lock in these sky-high yields. I don't want to have the rug pulled out from under me when rates come down.

So I am going to look at the bonds of the U.S. government, or some of its agencies. For example, these issues:

The 14.375 percent U.S. notes of May 1985 at par, or 100.

Or some 10 year bonds, the 14.5 percent notes of May 1991, at 102.7 to yield 14 percent.

Or a government agency (Fed. Nat'l Mortgage Agency) of similar maturities:

15.25 percent FNMA bonds, maturing May 1985, at par.

Or some 6 1/2-year FNMA's 14.4 percent due February 1988, priced at 97.25 to yield 15.07 to maturity.

The bonds are non-callable. You are assured of those rates from now until maturity. The commission costs are low, and should you sell before maturity, the "spread" or difference between bid and asked prices is small.

You may never see the likes of these yields again. Go back only to the end of World War II. Bonds like the ones mentioned here were yielding 2 and 2 1/2 percent.

As late as 1958, there was a new issue of governments that came out at 2.625 percent. The prices were so high and the interest rate so low they were referred to as Idiot's Delights, and bought and sold by that nickname.

Today one of the current issues is nicknamed "the Bo Deresks" because they have a 10 percent coupon. Incidentally, you can buy the Bo's for 77 cents on the dollar, to yield you over 13 percent to maturity in 2005, and nearly that much currently.

And you may even find vicarious pleasure in owning something named Bo Dere.

NOTICE

TO USERS OF VILLAGE WATER SERVICE

During flushing of the hydrants Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 28-29, there may be an abundance of crystallized iron (rust) in the water supplied to your area of the village.

This condition does not render the water unfit or harmful for consumption; however, clothing washed in this water will probably become discolored.

Check the color of your water before placing your clothing into it.

The village is not liable for damage caused by this condition.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

IN THE FALL OF 1926, Jaus sold his farm and the family moved to a home at the corner of Maple and Main Streets, which stood until a couple of years ago.

He worked a while at a grain elevator, then went to work for the H.O. Paul Co., a farm implement dealer in Cass City and Pigeon, about 1929 or '30.

"I had to do everything that came along." That included repairs, collecting bills and unloading tractors from the train and then driving them to the dealership.

The latter was hazardous, he recalled, as it involved backing the tractors over two planks running from the rail car to the ground. "You're up a long way. It was a dangerous job."

Jaus' first wife died in 1933. He married Olive Wright Frahm, in 1941. She died in 1976.

AFTER JAUS "RETIRED" from the H.O. Paul Co., he worked with a mason building basements. At age 85, he was cutting wood with a buzz saw without mishap — "I got all my fingers." — and selling it.

Jaus has always been healthy. The only time he has been in the hospital was two years ago, when he had an operation on his hip.

In his garden this year he grew lettuce, cabbage, carrots, broccoli, cucumbers and Texas onions.

He raked all the leaves in his daughter's yard, though he had some high school
