Astronaut Brewster Shaw—Mon... satellite could gather energy in space

By Dave Ellis
Special to the Chronicle

Future space vehicles will make it possible to construct an energy-gathering station in space, said NASA Astronaut Maj. Brewster Shaw Jr., a Cass City native who may fly the space shuttle in three to four years.

Shaw made the comments in a speech about "The Future of Space" to a Central Michigan University audience in Mount Pleasant last Thursday.

Shaw showed the approximately 750-person audience a film and slides on future space technology as part of a CMU conference on "Utilizing Space Technology."

Future space technology will make it possible to build a space structure which could collect energy from the sun and send it to earth via microwaves, he said, but a larger, more powerful space vehicle must first be developed.

The structure could weigh 50,000-100,000 tons and would send the energy to an antenna covering about 140 square miles on earth, Shaw said.

The project would not require scientific breakthroughs but would be a major engineering feat.

A full-scale space energy system could be operating by the early 2000s, he said.

However, "There's no money right now to work on this project," because of federal budget cuts, Shaw said.

SHAW IS ONE OF 80 astronauts currently working on the space shuttle program.

The space shuttle was the first spacecraft to be manned on its first voyage, Shaw said, adding all other spacecraft went on their first voyages unmanned.

With radar and cameras, the shuttle can undertake earth remote sensing experiments and with a "remote manipulator arm," satellites can be put into or plucked from orbit, he said.

Spacelab, developed by the European Space Agency, will be loaded aboard the shuttle in the mid 1980s so workers can perform weightlessness experiments in their shirtsleeves, Shaw said.

A space telescope also will be available in the mid 1980s.

PART OF A SHUTTLE pilots' training is in a specially modified Gulfstream airplane and in a shuttle simulator.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration pilots are generally hired from the military because there they get the necessary high-performance jet training to be an astronaut, Shaw said.

A U.S. Air Force major on loan to NASA, he expects to fly the shuttle more than once, but will not be able to fly it for three to four years.

"I'm in line, but it's a long line," he said, adding he also must have more training before he will be able to fly the shuttle.

Shaw currently works at the Johnson Space Flight Center in Houston, on the support crew for the third shuttle flight, scheduled for March.

As part of the support crew, Shaw must help take care of any problems the crew may have with preparing for the flight, he said. SHAW, 36, is a 1963 graduate of Cass City High School. He is the son of Brewster (Bruce) and Leone Shaw of Pringle Road.

He was selected by NASA to be an astronaut candidate in January, 1978.

He received his bachelor and master of science degrees from the University of Wisconsin, the latter in January, 1968, and joined the Air Force shortly after that. His military experience includes flying a fighter-bomber in Vietnam and Thailand.

Shaw and his wife, Kathleen, have three children.

Voters may decide next year

Board decides all bus rides to continue

For the remainder of this school year rural families in the Cass City School District can be assured that children will be delivered to their homes despite the $11,000 the policy will cost the financially squeezed district.

Next year could be a different story if present plans are followed. When it comes time for millage requests next April or June, voters are apt to see several propositions on the ballot.

One of them will be for an estimated three mills for bus transportation. If that fails bus service would presumably be discontinued.

The board haggled about the direction to take for the better part of an hour Monday night at the regular meeting.

The argument stemmed around "backtracking" by buses, the amount of travel that the state will not reimburse the district for. There is no state payment if the bus travels to a home and then turns around and returns to its regular route. For elementary students that no-pay distance is up to a half mile. For high school students the distance is up to a mile.

What several members of the board suggested was that the students be picked up in the morning and then be required to walk in the afternoon. The reasoning was that bus arrival times varied in the morning and students might be required to stand around and wait in winter weather conditions.

The worse the weather, the more likely the wait by students, it was pointed out.

That sparked a move to never backtrack the bus except when the weather conditions dictated that it be done. Bus drivers objected to being placed in the position of making that decision.

Finally, a vote was taken to eliminate backtracking at night, except for kindergarten students. That was defeated as Geraldine Prieskorn, Ben Hobart, Dr. E. Paul Lockwood and Thresa Burnette voted against it.

A check with the state, Supt. Donald Crouse said, indicates that it is illegal to accept pay from parents for backtracking bus miles.

Bus routes and evaluation of administrators and the superintendent occupied most of the attention of the board.

One of the board's objectives for the year was to have an evaluation procedure. What the majority of the board wants, really, is to meet with the administrators in private to go over evaluations made by the superintendent.

That will probably be accomplished unless an administrator feels that the evaluation is unjust and wants his side of an argument reviewed by the taxpayers.

Last year the superintendent was evaluated in public at his request. A couple of stormy issues had split the board badly at the time and the superintendent did not ask for an increase in salary.

This year he indicated that he would ask for a closed to the public meeting for his evaluation.

Evaluations will probably be conducted in February so pay raises granted will be known before the next millage election.

ATTENDANCE POLICY

For two months now the board has been wrestling with a policy governing attendance. It doesn't appear to be any closer to a decision today than when discussion started.

The snag for trustees is trying to figure a way to penalize unexcused absences without making a hardship for students with excused absences.

Several plans have been suggested but none completely solve the excused student problem, in the board's eyes.

A change in the procedure that now includes in-school detention for tardy students has been working well, teachers report. The tardy system was established at the same time the absent policy was presented.

SCHOOL BOOSTER

Dean Hoag, representing the Cass City School Boosters, reported that the club was ready to turn over to the school the $10,032 needed to run the winter sports program.

Still pending is $2,729 needed for non-athletic extracurricular activities. Hoag said that he anticipated no trouble meeting this bill but couldn't act until President Bob Tuckey returned.

Hoag also turned over $1,300 to the board as a result of season ticket sales for fall sports.

Still pending is spring sports that cost $13,963. Please turn to page 18.

RESCUE EFFORT -- It took ambulance and wrecker personnel and firemen about 50 minutes to extricate Iris Baltzer from the remains of her overturned car after the Sunday morning crash at M-53 and M-81. (Related photo, page 14.)

United Way tops 1981 goal

The Elkland-Novesta United Way has exceeded its goal of $14,000 by a comfortable margin.

As of Monday, when the drive ended, said President Jon Fahrner, contributions totaled $14,083.

However, some solicitors had yet to turn their collections in, plus the figure does not include approximately $3,500 pledged in payroll deductions by employees at Walbro, General Cable and Hills and Dales General Hospital.

In addition, the local United Way organization has yet to hear from UW organizations in other counties, particularly Saginaw county, concerning local residents who work in those counties who signed pledge cards to have their contributions forwarded here. (Such contributions go to the Tuscola County UW as a credit for the local organization.)

Fahrner is urging solicitors who still have money to turn it in.

"I was very happy," he said of exceeding the goal. "Right up until the end of the campaign, I wasn't sure if we would achieve it (the goal) or not." The campaign started Sept. 28.

The Elkland-Novesta UW board of directors will meet next spring to determine allocations to the various organizations.

Five injured in Sunday crash at M-81, M-53

Iris E. Baltzer, 61, of Harbor Beach, was reported in serious condition Wednesday morning at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw, where she was taken after a Sunday morning crash at M-53 and M-81.

She was one of five persons injured.

Sanilac county deputies reported she was eastbound on M-81 and failed to stop at the intersection, according to the occupants of the other vehicle involved. Her car was then struck in the right side by the northbound van of Luther J. Coleman, 59, of Flint.

Mrs. Baltzer was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital and later transferred to St. Mary's.

Coleman was transferred to Hurley Medical Center in Flint, where he was discharged Tuesday.

The three passengers in his van, all from Flint, were William Taylor, 38, who was discharged from Hills and Dales Tuesday, and Eddie Williams, 47, and Lewis Williams Jr., 38, both of whom were treated and released.

Mrs. Baltzer was trapped inside her overturned car for about 50 minutes following the 9:40 accident before she was freed.

It was necessary, according to Dave McNaughton, ambulance service emergency medical technician and Elkland township fire chief, to remove the right door to get her out. She was pinned between the seat and the roof.

The Huron County Sheriff's Department rescue equipment was first summoned, but the engine of the four-wheel-drive vehicle carrying it blew up on the way, he said.

The Caro Fire Department then brought its Jaws of Life equipment and the door was quickly removed.

Until then, the only tools available, which weren't adequate to remove the door, were a hacksaw and Bartnik's wrecker.

Ironically, the Elkland Fire Department conducted a demonstration the day before of the similar equipment it and the Zonta Club are raising money to buy. (See photos, page 3.)

It took at least 20 minutes for the equipment to arrive, a problem that won't exist when the Elkland department gets its own. "Some day, it (the time to bring it from Caro or Bad Axe) is going to be the difference between life and death," McNaughton said.

Elkland firemen aided in the rescue effort and stood by in case of fire. There was none.

Rites held Monday for Dr. MacRae

Dr. Kenneth Ivan MacRae, a lifelong resident of the Cass City area, died Saturday at his Huron Street home. He had been in ill health some time.

He was born July 12, 1911, in Greenleaf township, the son of Kenneth W. and Sarah (McLellan) MacRae.

Dr. MacRae graduated from the Kirkville (Mo.) College of Osteopathy and Surgery in 1937.

He married Evelyn Lafayette Aug. 10, 1944, in Cass City. They made their home in Cass City, where he practiced medicine for 46 years.

He was a member and elder of the First Presbyterian church of Cass City; a charter member and past president of the Cass City Gavel Club; a charter member of the Lions Club of Cass City; committee chairman of the Cub Scouts for 30 years; past president of the Kirkville Alumni Association, and a member of the Michigan Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, and the American Osteopathic Association.

Dr. MacRae is survived by his wife; one son, David A. MacRae of Fairfield, Conn.; one daughter, Mrs. Thomas (Margaret) Zorn of Flint; two granddaughters, Kari Lynn and Sarah; five sisters, Anna Marjorie MacRae of Highland Park, Christina Alexandria MacRae of Bad Axe, Mrs. Lorna Belle Karr of Grosse Pointe Woods, Dr. Thelma June MacRae of Gagetown, and Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Kelly of Detroit, and three brothers, Archibald Raymond MacRae of Detroit and Calvin MacRae and Farquhar Bruce MacRae of Cass City. One brother, Dr. Leonard Douglas MacRae, and two sisters, Dorcas Evangeline MacRae and Lela Hall, preceded him in death.

Dr. MacRae was taken from Little's Funeral Home at 11 a.m. Monday to the First Presbyterian church of Cass City to lie in state until the 1 p.m. funeral service. Rev. Harry Capps officiated.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

County cash short, do layoffs loom?

By Mike Eliasohn

Tuscola county employees may have to choose between a meager pay raise or seeing some of their co-workers lose their jobs.

Although the proposed 1982 county budget presented to the Board of Commissioners Monday doesn't call for layoffs, Commissioner Ken Kennedy, chairman of the finance committee, described it as having "weak cement and wet mortar."

Indicative of how precarious county finances appear for 1982 is that the budget prepared by the finance committee contains a contingency fund of only $25,000.

Out of that is supposed to come the pay raise to be negotiated for courthouse employees, whose present contract expires at the end of this year; the wage increase to be negotiated with Sheriff's Department employees effective July 1, the start of the second year of their contract, and money for any emergencies.

The budget also doesn't include the $80,000 the county will have to pay for Aid to Dependent Children foster care because of a proposed cutback of that amount by the state, one-fourth of the total previously paid by the federal government and Lansing. "To that," Kennedy explained, "we're putting our heads in the sand and pretending it doesn't exist."

Projected expenditures by Tuscola county in 1982 are $4,246,466. That is $577,000 less than was requested by county department heads.

Revenue is projected at $4,032,191, to which is added the county's remaining fund balance of $214,275.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

A striking advertisement appeared in the Oxford Leader, a weekly newspaper, last week. It was a tabloid page size and showed a picture of a student who required major surgery.

All the ad said was get well soon and hurry back and then it was signed by hundreds of classmates, teachers and friends.

After that free advertising for Oxford's newspaper let me take time out for a Chronicle plug. An advertiser who listed 10 tons of hay for sale in last week's paper came in and cancelled the ad.

Had 40 calls over the week end, he explained.

*****

One item often sparks another in this trivia corner. Remember when Art Paddy, former coach, was mentioned? Well, Mrs. Lewis Bishop did and she came in to tell us that Jim Bishop, her son, holds the record for the most tackles in a game, 24, at Albion College. The mark was set in 1954. Jim was one of "Paddy's boys," she said.

*****

It's the giving season. Most of the mail coming to the paper doesn't reach my desk. Editor Mike Eliasohn gets most of it and the bookkeeping department takes nearly all that's left.

One day last week four letters made it through and guess what, three of them were seeking donations. Good causes, too.

It's impossible to support them all so you make your decision depending on the way you see the need.

Sometimes that's hard. But today I received one that wasn't hard. It was from Vice-President George Bush asking for donations to keep the president's program on track.

It's easy to see that of George just doesn't read the Chronicle.

*****

Readers of comments here about current Federal policies believe that I'm a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat.

Not so. On the state level, high marks come from this corner for Gov. William Milliken, who is doing a big job in an impossible situation.

*****

Editor Mike Eliasohn plans to pay a dear price for a deer picture. Mike says that he'll be at the Chronicle at 8 o'clock SUNDAY morning to take a picture of the first hunter who reports in with a buck.

As usual the Chronicle is interested in a report from all successful hunters for the "Buck Luck" column and will take pictures of deer boasting trophy racks.

Geese 'dead ducks'

Two tame geese proved to be sitting ducks for two men who couldn't resist an easy target.

Delores Weisenbach of 2731 Bevins Road, Wells Township, reported to Caro state police at 5:20 p.m. Saturday that she was in her barn when she heard two blasts from what was apparently a shotgun.

The geese had been swimming in the creek on her property at the corner of E. Dayton Road.

She went outside and saw a noisy brown Chevrolet Vega station wagon and two men. One man threw what was apparently one of the dead geese in the back. When she yelled, he quickly got inside and the car took off, headed north.

Ms. Weisenbach found the other goose with a shot through its head.

RESCUE DEMONSTRATION -- The Elkland Township Fire Department Saturday afternoon presented a demonstration of the hydraulic rescue tool it and the Zonta Club are raising money to buy. From left are firemen Mick Kirn, using the spreader tool (there are also cutters) to remove the hinges, and Todd Alexander and the salesman, Jeff Dupilka of Allendale. $1,600 has been raised so far, with at least $5,500 needed.

Auxiliary approves donation

American Legion Auxiliary members Monday evening approved a $500 contribution to the fund to purchase the accident rescue equipment for the Elkland Township Fire Department. The regular meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Glenn McClorey. Twelve members and one guest attended.

In 1978, the unit contributed the same amount to the Caro fire department for the same fund.

The membership quota for the year has been met. The Christmas meeting will be held at the home of Rosella Cherry.

At the close of the meeting, the group heard Fire Chief Dave McNaughton explain the importance to the community of the fire department having the equipment with which to remove victims from wrecked vehicles.

Lunch was served at the close of the meeting by the hostess.

It snows more in the Grand Canyon than it does in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

PRESENTING the check for $500 to Elkland Fire Chief Dave McNaughton was American Legion Auxiliary Treasurer Marion McClorey. The money will go into the fund for purchase of the accident rescue equipment.

The windiest city in the U.S. is Great Falls, Montana, where the average wind speed is 13.1 m.p.h. Chicago, the notorious "Windy City," actually ranks only 16th among the windiest U.S. cities.

The Haire Net

Did you catch the item in the story about Fred Jaus' 100th birthday telling that he knew all but about three persons attending.

The story didn't say whether he knew them by name. If he did that has to be an even greater marvel than reaching the century mark.

It is if you are like me. Names flit away from me like the light of a firefly on a summer evening. One twink and out they go to reappear later for no apparent reason long after the need to remember has passed.

Memory experts will tell you that remembering names is simply a matter of concentration, but I don't believe it. Not entirely.

Columnist Jim Fitzgerald once told me a story about how he was sitting in a bar with his son-in-law, went to introduce him and couldn't come up with his name.

Certainly if association were the answer, he would have had something going for him there.

While he tells this story on himself, Fitzgerald also happens to have remarkable trivia recall and can give you information about old movies and movie stars till you beg for mercy.

I get a little green when I'm with Newell Harris and he starts rattling off phone numbers like a one-man directory.

If he calls you much at all he knows your number. Your name might be something else. That he could forget.

To a degree most of us can improve our memory. Association can help. When I first met Ray Spaulding I'd get a memory lapse over his name. I cured that by thinking of the big sports manufacturer by the same name. That system works for most names, unless you need to know the name in a hurry. Then, by the time the association works it's too late to use the name and the guy is half a block down the street. Don't laugh, it happened to me.

After 25 years or so, I've finally come to grips with the problem. Notice, I didn't say solve it.

What I've learned to do is not sink through the floor when I can't remember a name that I should know. The way I do is admit that I'm a klutz and say I've forgotten.

You know something? Most folks aren't terribly insulted when you ask them for help. Chances are great that they've been in the same boat themselves.

If they haven't, it makes them feel terribly superior that you have all that trouble with something they can handle with no sweat.

It proves that there's a way to flatter a person other than remembering the name.

It works. Believe me, I use it nearly every day. What other choice is there?

Anderson vs. Cosell

By Jim Fitzgerald

Andy Rooney, the pixie of TV's "60 Minutes" program, recently received a cultural shock. He heard Detroit Tiger manager Sparky Anderson talk.

People living in the Detroit area are used to the way Sparky misuses the English language. He is a frequent performer in the media, and the only time he speaks grammatically is when reading a script prepared by an advertising agency. But Anderson got national exposure last month when he did World Series color commentary for CBS Radio, and Rooney probably wasn't the only unprepared listener sent reeling.

"If CBS is going to pay Anderson to announce the game, he might pay us the courtesy of taking a crash course in English at Berlitz before he does it again," Rooney wrote in his syndicated column.

Rooney objected specifically to Sparky's reaction when Los Angeles manager Tommy Lasorda waddled onto the field to protest abuse of a Dodger outfielder.

"I know Tommy good enough so he don't let nobody throw no bottles at his players," Anderson said.

Granted, that's terrible English, and it's not surprising such a literate person as Rooney was upset to hear it on the radio. But Rooney went too far when he described Anderson as "the illiterate listener's Howard Cosell."

Rooney's point was that both Cosell and Anderson spout cliches, and the only difference is Cosell does it with correct grammar. True. But many people think Sparky's mangled speech adds to his charm as one of baseball's true characters, in the same English League with Casey Stengel and Yogi Berra. Conversely, Cosell's manner of speaking adds to his charm the same way a shark's bite makes it more loveable.

Speaking of cliches, it has become a cliché to criticize Cosell. Even those people, including me, who admire him for telling it like it is, are increasingly annoyed by the way he tells it. For example, when a Dodger was walked on purpose during the World Series, Cosell said: "The intentional walk is now effectuated."

There are worse things than poor grammar. Cosell made this point clear when he, of all people, made a pronoun bumble, saying "him" instead of "he." He quickly corrected himself, but that wasn't enough. He had to add color commentary to the correction, saying: "The copulative verb takes the nominative sense." I forget how many runs scored while he said that.

Cosell is most irritating when his ego gets in the way, and he tells it like it's nauseating. Several times during the baseball playoffs, when he sought to furnish the ultimate proof of a player's true worth as a human being, Cosell said "he plays in my golf tournament every year."

How many sports announcers own their own golf tournament? How many baseball players were waived out of the big leagues and consequently committed suicide by swallowing an overdose of resin bags because they weren't invited to tee it up in Cosell's golf tournament? Lord only knows.

Verily, for the average baseball fan, illiterate Sparky Anderson is easier to take than literate Howard Cosell. I suspect even Andy Rooney, if he thought about it, would agree with that opinion, if only to protect his folksy image from usurpation by Harry Reasoner.

Finally, in case Rooney's criticism stings Anderson into refusing to perform without a script, Sparky should be warned that even professional word-slingers sometimes let one roll between their legs. One example:

Detroit Channel 2 (WJBK-TV) has been running newspaper ads asking: "Inflation... How does it EFFECT you?"

The capital letters are mine. The proper word is "affect." When you affect someone, an effect is produced. It's a mistake commonly made by baseball managers, if not by TV stations, but never by Howard Cosell.

Cosell would ask how you were affected when inflation was effectuated. It's easier to get to first base when Sparky Anderson is coaching, and Cosell's usurpation of the base paths is obviated.

Secrets of good cooking

By Mike Eliasohn

Melva Guinther, our proofreader, keeps nagging me to use recipes occasionally when we have a space to fill.

I'm not sure why we haven't done it; I'm still trying to think of a logical reason not to.

I suppose it depends on personal tastes (no pun intended). With rare exception, I refuse to cook anything that requires a recipe to prepare.

I am not totally lazy when it comes to cooking. Excluding week ends when I go to Lansing, when I may eat in restaurants going, there, and coming back, at the most, I will eat in a restaurant once a week (always dinner) and sometimes not at all.

I cook TV dinners even less often.

Although I pride myself on preparing most of my meals, I definitely am not a gourmet. My greatest claim to fame is that I have yet to kill myself from food poisoning.

My idea of a good meal is one I can stick in the oven, broiler or a pan and forget about until it's ready to eat. Salad to me is a sliced tomato or a chunk of lettuce with dressing on top.

The fanciest meal I ever cook is roast chicken. Rinse it off, make sure the innards are taken out, sprinkle paprika all over it, stick it in the oven and in 80 or 90 minutes, it's done. The toughest part, which I hate, is cleaning the pan and roasting rack.

My favorite meal, except for the time I have to eat it, is breakfast, because I can prepare it with my eyes shut -- and at that hour, my eyes usually are shut.

I tend to be a creature of habit. Breakfast is always cold cereal, a slice of bread with peanut butter or jam on it and orange juice. I don't have toast or coffee, not only because I don't like them, but because at the breakfast hour, I don't have the energy to even turn a switch on.

For lunch, I always eat sandwiches. Remember the aforementioned chicken? I cook one of those a week, or sometimes some other kind of meat, and have enough left over for sandwiches for the next week.

Nine times out of 10 when I do go to a restaurant, fast food places excluded, I eat chicken. Not only do I love chicken, to me it is a meal almost impossible to screw up.

I say almost, because there is a fast food place in Caro that supposedly specializes in chicken. It is the worst I have ever tasted. The chicken is so soggy, I think they cook it in water.

I did make one fancy dish in my life. (I would rather take one out to a restaurant that makes good chicken.)

One of my various tasks when I worked for the Monroe Evening News was being the farm reporter. I did a story on the only farm left in the county that still grew rhubarb indoors in winter.

As a "present," I was given some rhubarb. (I have my price.) There isn't much one can do with rhubarb other than to make a pie out of it, so that is what I did.

I admit I cheated. I bought a frozen prepared crust, but the rest of the preparation was all done by me.

The result, if I say so myself, was delicious. It was so good that I haven't dared to make a rhubarb pie since, since I know it would not be as good.

Of course, there was one reason why it was so good. The recipe required 1½ cups of sugar.

MIDLAND STRING TRIO members, from left, are Coleen Bacon, violin; Lois Palen, cello, and Ann Schoelles, viola. The group will perform for Cass City elementary students Nov. 16 and 20 in conjunction with the Village Bach Festival.

String trio to play for local students

Cass City's elementary school students will be provided with a unique professional music experience in connection with the Village Bach Festival.

The Midland String Trio will be introducing the students to string instruments and their various effects, showing how melodies are developed from simple to more complicated arrangements, the development of the simplest accompaniments to the simplest harmonies and how feelings are expressed through music.

The group will bring its presentation to Campbell, Deford and Evergreen schools Monday, Nov. 16, and Friday, Nov. 20, for all students in kindergarten through sixth grade. They will present their program to small groups averaging around 100 students in the multi-purpose room of each school.

The trio is composed of three professional musicians from Midland who have been performing together for five years. They are Coleen Bacon, Lois Palen and Ann Schoelles who play violin, cello and viola respectively.

Mrs. Bacon studied at Interlochen Music Camp, the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, and the University of Michigan School of Music. She has performed with symphonies in Illinois, Saginaw and Midland and taught music in the Midland public schools for two years.

Lois Palen has a master of music performance degree from Southern Illinois University and has performed with the St. Louis and Tulsa Philharmonic Orchestras and the Midland Symphony. She and Mrs. Bacon are co-directors of the Midland Library Orchestra.

Ann Schoelles studied at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N.Y. She has performed with symphony orchestras in Colorado, Midland and Saginaw and with the Central Michigan University Chamber Orchestra. Both she and Mrs. Bacon have performed at the Cass City Village Bach Festival the last two years.

This program was arranged for by Alice Lovejoy, chairman of the festival education committee, with the major part of the funding granted by the Michigan Council for the Arts. Committee members are Marianne Walpole, Barbara Tuckey, Alice Guernsey, Arthur Holmberg and Mary Albee.

Bach festival gets statewide publicity

The Village Bach Festival returns to Cass City for its third year, Friday through Sunday, Nov. 27-29.

Ticket sales are reported to be going well, with many being purchased from out of town residents, including from the Detroit area, Saginaw and Midland.

Interest in the festival has been spurred, according to Chairman Holly Althaver, by an article in a recent issue of the Automobile Club of Michigan magazine, with calls coming from as far away as Sault Ste. Marie and Ann Arbor.

"People seem intrigued by the event and the kind of musical setting," she said.

The magazine, "Michigan Living," is mailed to the homes of more than 800,000 Auto Club members. The article was written by freelance writer Dorothy L. Yates of Midland.

The Friday and Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon concerts, as in past years, will be performed in the First Presbyterian church.

Some requests are coming in, Mrs. Althaver continued, for accommodations in homes, along with breakfast. One interested family, for instance, is from Ann Arbor and has five children.

Ex-Cass City resident

dies in Florida

Avis Benkelman, wife of Ben Benkelman, died Saturday night at her home in St. Petersburg, Fla.

The former Cass City residents moved to Florida several years ago. He is a former village president here.

Mrs. Benkelman is survived by her husband and a daughter, Bonnie, who lives in Illinois.

The family suggests memorials be made to the library fund of Seminole United Methodist church, 5400 Seminole Blvd., Seminole, Fla. 33543.

The deceased was cremated. There was no funeral service.

Persons who are interested in providing bed and breakfast accommodations for visitors are asked to call the festival office at 872-2131, ext. 288.

A few volunteers are still needed, such as for delivering festival brochures to area communities. Persons willing to help can call the festival office.

Tickets can be ordered by calling Ouvry Chevrolet-Olds, 872-4301. Brochures describing the festival events are available at various stores in the area or can be obtained by calling the festival office.

Attorney general says O-G can't pay interest

Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley has informed the Owendale-Gage-town Board of Education that it cannot pay the interest for its employees who borrow money from banks during payless paydays.

Owen-Gage had always paid the interest until the Municipal Finance Commission said earlier this year it was illegal to do so.

Kelley's "informal opinion" was in the form of a letter to State Rep. Keith Muxlow, R-Brown City, who requested the opinion in behalf of the school district.

Supt. Ronald Erickson read Kelley's letter at the school board meeting Monday evening.

The attorney general said school boards can only do what the legislature empowers them to do and payment of interest isn't mentioned in state school law. "It is my opinion boards of education lack such authority," he said of the interest question.

"That's an easy dodge," Erickson responded, feeling that Kelley avoided the question of whether school boards can do something not mentioned in the state school code.

The only choice, he continued, is to take the matter to court. He said staff members who borrowed money at 15 percent interest were paying $100 a month in interest.

"I don't think our budget (amount of money available) allows us to go to court over this," said board member Leona LaFave.

What the board decided to do is have Erickson approach the Michigan Education Association and Michigan Association of School Boards, to see if their attorneys might go to bat for Owen-Gage over the issue.

Concerning another issue, Erickson wrote to Huron County Prosecutor Karl Kraus that property owners in the Goslin territory should have to pay the special millage to pay the judgment owed to Construction Coordinators Inc. Erickson's reasoning was that the Goslin property owners voted on the original millage authorizing the high school addition, construction of which was overseen by CCI.

Kraus wrote back that the Goslin territory shouldn't be included in the judgement (1.208 mills without Goslin) unless the Michigan Supreme Court rules otherwise, but his opinion could be overruled by the county Board of Commissioners.

SUPREME COURT

A letter was read from the district's attorney, James F. Schouman.

He said he learned in Lansing Oct. 8 that an opinion has been written in the Goslin case and is now being sent to the justices for their approval or disapproval.

Thus a decision might be forthcoming shortly, he said, or it may be several months yet, as some justices take their time.

ABSENTEEISM

The board spent considerable time discussing its policy which dates to 1974 allowing students to be absent 15 days per semester without losing credit. Exceptions are allowed for medical reasons if the student arranges to make up for lost class time.

The discussion centered around senior Bonnie Wynn, who has been absent for 16 days this semester for presumably valid reasons, as opposed to skipping school.

The board, over the opposition of high school Principal Wayne Wright, voted to continue the present policy, with exemptions to be determined by it.

It then voted to let Miss Wynn receive her credits for this semester and to play sports if she doesn't miss any more days. If she does, the board can make another decision.

OTHER BUSINESS

Erickson reported four bus drivers have quit for various reasons within the past five weeks and new drivers are needed.

Official millage rates were set for December tax bills, to allow for the additional 3 mills for operations approved by voters Nov. 2. Operational millage is 26.75; 1967 debt, .7, and 1976 debt, 2.5.

The resignation of Title I aide Lorrie Dubs was accepted. She has married and moved from the district. No replacement has been hired yet.

October student of the month is senior Michelle Schwartz.

HEALTH TIPS

No special cure for chicken pox

Chicken pox is an acute general virus-caused disease and is one of the most communicable diseases of childhood, according to the Sanilac County Health Department.

Chicken pox begins suddenly and there usually are no early symptoms before the rash appears, but occasionally a child will have a slight fever.

Commonly, the first thing noted is the rash, which appears first on the face of chest and back and a little later on the arms and legs.

New lesions (blisters or pox) continue to appear over the entire body for a period of three or four days. Each lesion appears first as a flat discolored spot or patch on the skin. They are of various sizes.

These spots or patches quickly develop into small blisters, have a reddened area around them, and are filled with a clear fluid. The blister dries gradually, first becoming depressed in the center and later becoming a flat crust or scab. The crusts fall off in one to three weeks.

There are more lesions or blisters on the covered parts of the body, but may appear on the scalp, under the arms, or in the mouth. There may be so few lesions that they are not seen at all.

Anyone who has not had chicken pox may get it. Children under three months of age seldom get the disease, but usually do when first exposed after this age. Once a person has chicken pox, they are immune for life. Second attacks are rare and only if the first attack was mild.

Chicken pox is easily spread from person to person by direct contact with an infected person. The secretions from an infected person's nose and throat (as when speaking, sneezing, and coughing) and the discharge from the lesions can also spread the illness.

Chicken pox is spread mostly when the rash and blisters are forming, although they can begin spreading the disease for about five days before any rash or blisters are seen. After exposure to chicken pox, it usually takes two or three weeks before the first signs of the illness appear.

There is no specific treatment for chicken pox. Parents can help by trimming the child's fingernails to prevent scratching. Also, a paste of baking soda and water may ease the itching.

The most frequent problem of chicken pox is the lesions become infected from scratching by the child. Other complications are rare.

Children with the illness should be kept at home until all lesions have dried up, approximately 10-14 days after they appear. All clothing, linen, and articles they have used should be washed in hot soapy water and dried or dry cleaned. Disposable articles should be burned or wrapped in plastic garbage bags.

You can Bank on it!

Q. Part of President Reagan's economic recovery plan calls for a return to the gold standard. When did the U.S. go off the gold standard, and what does the administration hope will be gained?

A. Although one hasn't been able to trade a paper dollar for an equal amount of gold since 1922, President Nixon signed an executive order in 1971 which actually took the country off the gold standard. The Reagan administration hopes a return to the gold standard... which means, literally, that you will be able to exchange dollars for gold, on demand... will accomplish two things: First, it will remove the power of the Federal Reserve to create money at will. In effect, the Federal Reserve will only be able to print as much money as there is gold to back it. Secondly, the administration hopes gold backing will instill a new confidence in the value of the dollar. Both of these effects are believed may help break inflation and lower interest rates.

Pork farmers discuss Thumb Barrow Show

Pork producers in the Thumb area met recently at Cass City to discuss the Thumb Barrow Show results and to visit with judges who placed the live show and evaluated the carcasses, according to Lee Warschewsky, extension livestock agent. Representatives from Fredrick-Herrud Packing Co. in Detroit pointed out that they are looking for well muscled carcasses that have at least an inch of back fat with hot carcass weights in the 165-175 pound range. This is the kind of carcass which has a high percentage of lean retail cuts and can be processed efficiently in their automated plant.

Aubrey Schroeder, Michigan State University graduate student, explained how the carcass evaluation was conducted at Peet Packing Co. He pointed out that percent muscle and back fat were the important factors used in the evaluation; however, carcass length, dressing percentage, and hot carcass weight were also considered.

Dr. Maynard Hogberg of MSU summarized the discussion by pointing out that producers need to select breeding animals that will reproduce efficiently and will also perform well in the finishing barn and still produce a desirable market carcass. This translates into a hog with some stretch to his frame, with uniform thickness and muscling, and correct skeletal structure to perform well in confinement rearing facilities. This ideal hog would be avoiding extremes in all respects.

The producers agreed to continue the Thumb Barrow Show in 1982 and will be meeting early this winter to make plans for this event.

Cooperators needed for farm project

In 1980, Michigan State University and the Cooperative Extension Service worked with seven farmers to compare conventional and conservation tillage systems from an economic viewpoint.

This year, 18 producers put in side-by-side plots comparing chisel plows, disks, subsoilers, and no-till with conventional tillage systems to see if these conservation practices result in long and short term economic advantages.

Cooperators received token financial compensation for their efforts, as well as free soil tests and pest monitoring reports on their plot acreage.

Yield data has been encouraging producers to utilize these conservation tillage systems to greater degrees to obtain high yields at lower production costs and greater environmental production, according to Michael Score, Tuscola county extension agricultural agent.

MSU researchers are seeking additional cooperators for 1982, the final year of the three-year study comparing tillage systems. Cooperators are expected to grow crops in side-by-side plots at least 5 acres each in size. Interested farmers can call the county extension office at 673-3161 for more information. Cooperators must be farming in the special project area.

Registration starts for book battle

National Children's Book Week, Nov. 16-20, will be celebrated in a special way this year by two Tuscola county public libraries. Rawson Memorial Library in Cass City and Indianfields Public Library, Caro, in cooperation with the local elementary school libraries will be starting the "Battle of the Books" reading program Monday. Loosely patterned after the old "College Bowl" quiz show, purpose of the program is to encourage more reading among third through sixth grade students by introducing them to 25 enjoyable books. The program has been used successfully by many other libraries. All children in those grades are invited to participate by becoming a member of a team which consists of six students and one adult manager. Registration forms for the teams may be picked up at either of the public or school libraries beginning Monday and ending Dec. 15. Letters explaining how "Battle of the Books" works will be sent from the schools along with the reading lists of the books to be used. In March, the battles will begin with each team testing its knowledge against another team. Students are encouraged to register their team during Children's Book Week.

RIF book distribution conducted

The Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women held its first Reading Is Fundamental book distribution this school year Oct. 27.

Children receiving books through the program were second and third graders at Deford and Evergreen Elementary Schools.

Each child received one book and a RIF bookmark. A Halloween program was presented. AAUW members Ann Craig and Dotty Scollon were in charge of the distribution. Alice Guernsey assisted.

AAUW plans on having two more RIF distributions this school year.

The foods that pour into supermarkets come in 6,000 to 8,000 different forms, many of which did not even exist five years ago and may very well not exist five years from now. (This is attributed to the fact that Americans are attracted to newer foods with more built-in conveniences — as well as to food in attractive packages that preserve the quality.)

Teacher workshop Tuesday

Educators and administrators of area schools will return to the classroom Tuesday, which has been set aside as Professional Development Day for Huron county, Cass City and Unionville-Sebewaing teachers.

This year's meeting will be at Laker High School.

Registration will be from 7:45-8:20 a.m. The in-service day is formulated by the Huron County Professional Development Board, made up of representatives of each school, under the direction of Huron Intermediate School District Vocational Coordinator Keith McTaggart.

The committee has pulled together a wide array of topics under the theme "Education in the 80's." Elaborating on the theme will be the main speaker, Dr. Jack Minzey, of Eastern Michigan University.

Professional Development Day is conducted each year. Its primary function is to provide an arena for positive interaction between staffs as well as opportunities to update skills and learn what is new on the educational scene. Attendance this year is expected to exceed 600.

Your Neighbor says

Most television not worth watching

Dorothy Lowry may have seen some of this fall's new television shows, but if she did, she doesn't remember them. "I guess they didn't make an impression."

Few shows, new or old, make much of an impression on her because she doesn't watch much television. "I think it's a waste of time and it hinders the imagination."

Reading, working on crafts and outdoor activities have a higher priority in her family, she said. "There's so much in nature to enjoy. Why waste it by sitting in front of the television?"

That doesn't mean the TV goes unwatched. Mrs. Lowry sometimes watches the news, game shows which require some knowledge by contestants, which enables viewers to learn something, and family shows like "Little House on the Prairie."

As for what her children watch, she said, "I try and restrict their television, but I do allow them to watch other programs and we discuss things that might be controversial."

She cited as an example "Archie Bunker's Place" ("All in the Family") where if something shown is questionable, the family discusses what is right and what is wrong.

Mrs. Lowry and her husband, Allan, have four children, Kevin, 19, Leslie, 15, Holly, 14, and Shannon, 10. The family lives on Robinson Road, Cass City.

She is a volunteer with the Department of Social Services, vocational rehabilitation and Commission on Aging.

"I tell my children, kindness begins with us, and if every person did one kind deed a day, it would be a beautiful place to live," she said.

AROUND THE FARM

Grain bin safety

By William Bortel

The hazards of suffocation in flowing grain have increased sharply with increased grain storage on farms, faster grain-handling procedures and automatic restart units.

Flowing grain is a lot like quicksand. When a grain storage bin is emptied from the bottom, the grain flows toward the outlet at a rate of 1,000-2,500 bushels per hour.

A person can sink knee deep in flowing grain in less than five seconds. Once the grain is 3-4 inches above the knee, a person is essentially trapped and can be drawn below the grain surface in 20 seconds. Children can go under even more quickly. Forty percent of the grain drownings involve children under 16.

The best prevention would be to avoid getting in the bin at all. If you must get in the bin, make sure a lifeline-safety harness securely fastened to you is held by at least one other person.

Should you still get trapped, try to walk toward the outer edges of the bin where the grain is flowing more slowly. Keep children away from self-unloading wagons and bins.

Sometimes during unloading, a grain "bridge" forms. This occurs when the surface of the grain temporarily doesn't flow and a void develops below. Someone getting into the bin can break through and end up under an avalanche of grain. If a bridge does form, use a pole or other long-handled object to break it up.

To rescue a submerged victim, you must remove the grain from around the person as rapidly as possible. Shut off the unloading auger to prevent drawing the victim deeper into the grain and possibly in contact with the auger. Start up the bin fan to force outside air up through the grain.

To remove grain quickly, cut large openings in the metal skin at the base of the bin. But the surest way to prevent an accident from happening is to shut off the auger before entering the bin and always use a lifeline when entering.

42 attend O-G Senior Citizens

The next meeting will be held at Owendale municipal building Nov. 19 with potluck dinner.

Clara Klopp funeral Thursday

Clara Klopp, 77, of Cass City died Monday in her Huron Street home after a short illness.

She was born Sept. 27, 1904, in Pancevo, Yugoslavia, the daughter of Simon and Katerina (Greifenstein) Buchegger. Miss Buchegger married Anthony Klopp Oct. 10, 1926, in Pancevo, Yugoslavia. They came to the United States, to Bach, in 1956 and to Cass City in 1957.

She was a member of the Good Shepherd Lutheran church of Cass City and its Bible Study Group and was a past choir member.

Mrs. Klopp is survived by her husband; one grandson, Peter Kessler of Cass City; one sister, Mrs. Ferdinand Dreio of Essexville, and a number of nieces and nephews. One daughter, Hedy Kessler, three brothers and one sister preceded her in death.

Mrs. Klopp will be taken from Little's Funeral Home at 11 a.m. Thursday to the Good Shepherd Lutheran church to lie in state until the 1 p.m. funeral service. Rev. Allen Fruendt will officiate.

Burial will be in Elkland cemetery.

Elkland may buy tanker

The Elkland Township Board has tentatively decided to buy a new tanker truck for the township fire department, to replace the leaking, overloaded 1968 model it has now.

The board at a special meeting Oct. 22, according to Clerk Carol Ware, okayed purchase of a chassis located out of state for $24,000, only to discover later it had just been sold.

Purchase of a tank to go on the chassis would have cost $5,000-6,000 more, she said.

Board members, firemen and some truck dealers are on the prowl for another good deal on a chassis, new or used, and when it is found, the board will probably okay the purchase.

The township has enough money in its treasury to pay cash for a new tanker, she said.

At the board meeting Monday evening, the payment of a $5,324 subsidy to the Cass City Area Ambulance Service for 1982 was approved. That works out to $1.55 per township resident.

That compares to $8,000 paid this year. More ambulance runs and a higher rate of collections accounts for the lower subsidy needed next year.

Parish honors Father Morales

Members of St. Pancratius Catholic church honored Father Joseph Morales Sunday for his 35 years in the priesthood.

A meal was served in the parish hall and a program held in the church.

Father Morales, 63, was born in Penjamo, Mexico, and was ordained a priest Nov. 10, 1946, in Mexico City. Two sisters and a brother still live in Penjamo, 350 miles west of Mexico City.

He was a parish priest in Mexico City when he volunteered to come to the upper Thumb in 1953 to work with migrant workers and their families.

"I had in mind if I had a chance, I would stay here," he said, which is what he did, except for six months in 1958-59, when he was called back to Mexico. He became an American citizen in 1959.

In the United States, he has always served in the Saginaw Diocese, first at Elkton and later at Reese, Alma and Unionville.

He was episcopal vicar for Spanish speaking persons in Bay City for three years, before being assigned as administrator of the parish in St. Charles for three months early in 1975.

He came to St. Pancratius in June, 1975.

THE ACTIVITIES Sunday began with a meal in the parish hall, with Deacon Lambert Kuhr Jr. of St. Agatha church in Gagetown giving the blessing.

At the program in the church, Alan Kico, president of the parish council, read a letter of congratulations from Bishop Kenneth Untener of the Saginaw Diocese.

Speakers were Father Mason Vaughn of Sacred Heart Church in Caro and Father Michael Wolf of St. Francis Borgia church in Pigeon. Father Stanley Surman of St. Mary's church in Parisville sang some songs in Polish.

Each of the catechism classes performed a song. In charge of the day's activities was Florence Schell. Religious education coordinator Connie Klinkman was in charge of the program given by the Sunday school children.

ONE AMBITION OF Father Morales in his 35 years as a priest is still unfulfilled. He has yet to meet the Pope.

He thought he would be able to do that when he went to Rome in 1975 and was scheduled to have an audience with Pope Paul VI. "I was hoping I would be able to do it," he said of his visions of shaking hands with the Holy Father.

The audience, however, turned out to be with 80,000 worshippers and the closest he got was halfway across St. Peter's Square.

There have been quite a few changes in the Catholic church during his 35 years, Father Morales said. "It has changed quite a bit."

One major change, he explained, is in the democratization of the church.

Now, the parish priest has to share decision making with the parish council. "Before, the priest used to be king," he commented, explaining the priest made all the decisions.

FATHER MORALES also serves as pastor of St. Agatha church in Gagetown. Parishioners there will honor him for his 35th anniversary in the priesthood with a reception following the 11 a.m. mass this coming Sunday.

The meal and program this past Sunday were attended by about 250 persons. In his remarks to them, which ended the program, the veteran priest expressed appreciation to those who came.

"I really did not think, I did not have in mind all of you people were going to come to celebrate my anniversary."

Someone had told him, he continued, that "you will have a surprise that will live with you all your life. This will stay with me all my life."

ANNIVERSARY -- Among the presents Father Joseph Morales received Sunday in honor of his 35 years as a priest were this picture of a praying child and a cake creation of St. Pancratius Catholic church.

Car-deer crashes frequent as hunting season nears

Many deer never lived to become targets for hunters on opening day of deer firearms season Sunday, as car-deer accidents in the area were numerous during the past several days.

Not all the deer were killed however.

The most serious involved Steven R. Eyer, 29, of 4359 West Street, Cass City.

Sheriff's deputies reported he was southbound on Cemetery Road, north of Bay City-Forestville Road, at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 3 when his car collided with one of the animals.

His vehicle went off the west side of the road and rolled over onto its roof. Eyer was not injured.

The other car-deer collisions, reported by the Tuscola Sheriff's Department unless otherwise noted, involved the following drivers:

Robin Rae Marr, 23, of 3700 Cemetery Road, Cass City, while northbound on Cemetery Road, south of Severance Road, at 9:50 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 4. Cass City police investigated.

Bobette M. Ostrander, 21, of 6433 Church Street, Cass City, while headed southwest on M-81, southwest of Colwood Road, at 6:40 p.m. last Thursday. Caro state police investigated.

Robert L. Tuckey, 41, of 4738 Schwegler Road, Cass

City, while eastbound on Deckerville Road, east of Plain Road, at 7 p.m. last Thursday. Caro state police investigated.

Elaine L. Bouchard, 25, of Caro, while eastbound on Bevens Road, east of English Road, at 6:05 p.m. Friday.

Carol L. Edwards, 30, of 3585 E. Dutcher Road, Cass City, while eastbound on Cass City Road, east of French Road, at 6:18 p.m. Friday.

Linda L. Dicks, 29, of 5200 Bevens Road, Deford, while southbound on M-24, north of Bevens Road, at 2 a.m. Sunday.

Jeffrey K. MacKenzie, 27, of Caro, while eastbound on Deckerville Road, east of Plain Road, at 11:45 a.m. Sunday.

Terry Lee Randall, 21, of 2841 Froede Road, Kingston, while eastbound on M-46, near Kingston High School, at 6:45 a.m. Tuesday. Caro state police investigated.

Thomas P. Peruski, 33, of Minden City, while westbound on M-81, east of Schwegler Road, at 6:50 a.m. Tuesday. Cass City police investigated.

Parts of county in disaster area

Lieutenant and Acting Governor James H. Brickley announced last Wednesday that the Small Business Administration (SBA) has declared a portion of southeastern lower Michigan a disaster area as a result of the heavy rains that swept the state Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

The Executive Office was notified by the SBA that Genesee and Oakland counties and eight adjacent counties were covered by the declaration.

Adjacent counties are Lapeer, Macomb, Saginaw, Shiawassee, Wayne, Washtenaw, Tuscola and Livingston.

Under the declaration, eligible victims of storm damage will be able to apply for low-interest loans according to the following schedule:

Homeowners with credit available elsewhere, 15 1/2 percent; homeowners with out credit available elsewhere, 8 percent; businesses with credit available elsewhere, 19 percent, and businesses without credit available elsewhere, 8 percent.

Loan applications for physical damage may be filed until the close of business Jan. 4, 1982, and for economic injury until the close of business Aug. 3, 1982.

Under the SBA Disaster Program, persons who own homes or business facilities that were damaged or destroyed by heavy rains, as well as persons who suffered personal property losses (including renters), may apply for physical disaster loans to repair, replace or restore their properties to pre-disaster condition.

Businesses sustaining ecoomic injury as a result of the disaster may apply for an economic injury disaster loan. Such businesses are required to submit documentation showing that the economic injury suffered was directly attributable to the disaster. Funds received must be used to provide working capital and to meet financial obligations that otherwise would have been met had the disaster not occurred.

A business applying for the loans must utilize its own assets or credit available to it from the private sector before applying to SBA.

Applications for physical and/or economic injury loans may be obtained by contacting the SBA Disaster Branch Office on the fifth floor of the McNamara Federal Building, 477 Michigan Avenue, Detroit 48226, telephone (313) 226-4030.

Still pending is Gov. Miliken's request for a U.S. Department of Agriculture disaster declaration for much of the southern half of the lower peninsula in order to obtain crop loss loans for farmers.

It is being handled separately and the final request cannot be submitted until all crops are harvested and final loss figures are compiled.

Sentence 3 in Tuscola circuit court

Three persons were sentenced by Judge Patrick R. Joslyn when they appeared Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Evelyn Kay Asher, 38, of 400 Wells Street, Caro, was placed on three years' probation for attempted uttering and publishing a forged or altered check for $833 July 23 in Caro. She pleaded guilty to the charge Aug. 24. She was also sentenced to 90 days in the county jail, with 30 days suspended and child care release privileges granted. She was also ordered to perform 40 hours of community service.

Patrick C. Hagen, 27, of 1612 E. Caro Road, Caro, was placed on one year's probation for attempted delivery of marijuana April 4 in Almer township. He pleaded guilty to the charge Sept. 28.

He was also sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, with credit given for two days served and serving of 15 days held in reserve. Work release privileges were granted. He was fined $100 and assessed $300 court costs.

Howard Palmerton, 23, of 5679 Jacob Drive, Vassar, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for probation violation, with credit given for 26 served. Probation was continued.

He was placed on 36 months' probation May 18 for malicious destruction of property over $100. He was found guilty Oct. 26 of having violated probation by failing to report to his probation officer in September.

Also Monday, Thomas P. Caruthers, 23, of Algonac, pleaded guilty to larceny in a building, to stealing a television from the Rainbow Restaurant, southwest of Caro, July 7.

His plea was accepted and a sentencing date will be set. Bond was continued.

He was originally charged with breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling, his guilty plea to the lesser charge being a plea bargain with the prosecution.

Friday, Joslyn found Karl J. Humpert, 25, of 4268 Center Street, Akron, guilty of breaking and entering, but innocent of larceny in a building.

Both charges were in connection with a June 26 break-in of the Pigeon Cooperative Elevator storage building in Akron.

Humpert pleaded guilty to supplemental information of being an habitual offender, which was accepted.

A prosecution motion for increase in bond was denied. Bond was continued at $10,000, with a sentencing date to be set.

DISTRICT COURT

James W. Helwig, 27, of 7915 Huron Line Road, Gagetown, pleaded guilty Nov. 3 to driving with expired registration Oct. 25 in Gagetown.

Judge Richard F. Kern accepted his plea and assessed $30 in fines and costs.

Robin LaFond, 29, of 3541 Ross Street, Kingston, pleaded guilty Monday to impaired driving Oct. 14 in Novesta township.

The judge accepted his plea and then fined LaFond $118 and assessed $182 court costs. LaFond was also placed on one year's probation and ordered to attend alcohol education classes and to receive counseling, if necessary.

Milestone reached

A milestone in exploration was reached Nov. 29, 1929, when Admiral Richard E. Byrd became the first man to fly over the South Pole. Byrd accomplished the feat in the "Floyd Bennett," a Ford Tri-Motor named for the pilot of Byrd's North Pole flight, which had occurred only three years earlier. The "Floyd Bennett" is now in Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn.

Rotary Club gives $220

The Cass City Rotary Club has voted to donate $220 to Cass City High School for purchase of a video recorder.

The recorder will be used in conjunction with the new tele-teaching system from Saginaw Valley State College. This will allow program recordings of instructional classes from SVSC for playback at a later date. The tele-teaching system at the high school is offering several adult education classes this fall.

The Rotary International Foundation is again accepting applications for foreign study grants. The foundation was established to allow non-Rotarians a chance to study their vocations at a foreign university of their choice. The applications must be submitted through a Rotarian. Persons interested should contact a member of the local club.

enclosed cab, diesel tractor, was worth about $17,000, but replacing it with a new one would cost $39,000, according to a local dealer. Owner was Shirley Doerr of Huron Line Road, Cass City.

Glen Deneen was driving the tractor, which was pulling a plow, about a quarter mile east of Cemetery Road, north of Bay City-Forestville.

He said the fire started in the rear. He used dirt and a rag in an unsuccessful effort to put out the flames, then got away before the fuel tank exploded. "When I got off, the whole rear end was on fire," he said. Deneen suffered slight burns on his hands.

The fire, reported at 2:06 p.m., was extinguished by Elkland township firemen. Their pumper truck didn't have trouble in crossing the harvested corn field to the fire, but it got stuck on its way back.

Another tractor had to be driven to the scene to tow it out.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Elmwood Township-Gage-town firemen were called to the John Crandall home on Hurds Corner Road, 3½ miles south of Bay City-Forestville, twice Monday night.

The first time was at 8:12, because of a chimney fire. The chimney led to a wood stove in the living room. Built-up creosote had started burning.

Firemen stood by while the fire burned itself out, Fire Chief Chuck Wright said, then checked to make sure it was out before leaving.

About 10:30, they were called back because fire was burning between the first floor ceiling and the floor above, near the chimney. It got hot in there from the first fire, he explained, and kept smoldering, until it started burning.

Firemen had to tear out flooring and paneling upstairs to get to the fire to put it out. There was water damage downstairs, plus smoke damage.

Firemen were there about two hours the second time. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

At the time of the first fire, firemen were in the fire hall, receiving their annual cardiopulmonary resuscitation training. "Needless to say, we didn't get it done," Wright said.

WHAT'S LEFT of the tires shows the most obvious damage after the fire was extinguished by Elkland township firemen, but the tractor driven by Glen Deneen suffered extensive damage in the Wednesday fire.

TRUCK PULL -- After the tractor fire was extinguished, the fire truck needed a tow from another tractor after it got stuck. The fire took place about a quarter-mile from the road.

Predict top deer season for Thumb hunters

A deer kill at least as good as last year is predicted for Michigan hunters, who take to the woods and fields Sunday.

Some Thumb area hunters may have to wait until Monday to bag their buck, however.

County ordinances in Huron and Sanilac counties forbid hunting on Sunday, except on state land. That means a hunter legally cannot even hunt on his own property.

As a result, said Department of Natural Resources area wildlife biologist Carlton (Bud) Jarvis, there are likely to be more hunters on state land in those two counties and on all hunting land in Tuscola county.

However, according to the DNR hunting guide, Sunday hunting in Tuscola county is prohibited "on the lands of another." That means a hunter can legally hunt only on land he owns or on state land.

In the upper Thumb, he continued, the best prospects are between Bad Axe and Sandusky, east of M-53. The deer population seems to be showing steadier increase there than in Tuscola county, particularly the western half.

More crop damage has been reported in Huron and Sanilac than in Tuscola the last couple of years, and Huron has recorded the greatest number of deer killed on roads.

Statewide, there were 108,250 bucks killed last year. Jarvis said the DNR is expecting at least as many bucks will be taken this year, in what should be one of the most successful hunting seasons in the past 30 years.

Two comparatively mild winters in a row have contributed to the large number of bucks.

Making the task difficult for hunters, in addition to a lot of good hunting ground being closed to them Sunday, is that a lot of corn is still standing.

That provides more area for deer to hide in, Jarvis said, and reduces the area for hunters to hunt in, since many farmers may be reluctant to let hunters into fields they haven't harvested yet.

Hunters who do down a buck can get a "successful deer hunter" patch at the DNR office on M-24, south of Caro, from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday and after that, during those hours weekdays.

The final day of firearm deer season is Nov. 30. Archery deer season then resumes through Jan. 1. Muzzleloading deer season is Dec. 4-13.

Editor Mike Eliasohn will be at the Chronicle office at 8 a.m. Sunday to take a photo of the first hunter to show with a deer. Hunters who would like to have their success listed in "buck luck" can call the Chronicle at 872-2010.

Cass City finds shooting eye to post win

Sometimes the ball bounces in and sometimes it doesn't and sometimes teams win and sometimes they lose.

That was the story for Cass City's basketball team this week. The Hawks shot a sparkling 51 percent from the field and 91 percent from the foul line to defeat Sandusky Tuesday, 46-41.

Thursday at North Branch Cass City hit a miserable 29 percent from the field and 46 percent from the foul circle and lost to the Broncos, 31-28.

Both games were Thumb B Association tilts.

It looked in the early going Tuesday that visiting Sandusky was going to hand the Hawks their second loss in a row.

In the opening six minutes of the game Cass City was guilty of defensive lapses and turned the ball over frequently.

As a result the Redskins jumped off to a 10-4 lead with two minutes left in the first period.

Right then the Hawks called a halt to the Sandusky surge. Jill Root hit a jumper and Jill Hutchinson followed with another bucket. At the quarter the Redskin lead was cut to a single bucket.

10-8.

Another basket by Root tied the score a minute into the second quarter. Sandusky surged in front again after that to lead at the intermission, 26-22.

The teams traded baskets for most of the third quarter to set the stage for the big last period rally when the Hawks' 16-9 edge gave Cass City the win going away.

Kris Proctor, 14, and Carrie Lautner, 10, led the Hawk scorers. Tricia Stirritt was high for Sandusky with 12. Both teams hit 18 field goals but Cass City was 10 of 11 from the free throw line while Sandusky was 5-10.

The story of the game at North Branch was Cass City's inability to find the basket. The Hawks made just two points in the first period and five in the second. The Broncos netted just two in the first 8 minutes, too, but in the second shot out the lights for 17 points.

That was the ball game, although Cass City made a run in the last half that fell just short.

Lautner and Jill Hutchinson scored 6 each for Cass City. The Hawks were guilty of 32 turnovers.

Cass City's record is now 7-11 over-all and 6-7 in the conference.

JOE DECKER skirted left end for a nice gain on this play Friday against Mayville.

O-G ends football year with win

For the 1982 football season, Owen-Gage football coach Arnie Besonen would like some bigger players and 47-minute games.

The Bulldogs ended their 1981 season at home Friday night with a 31-24 win over winless Michigan School for the Deaf, which gave them a 4-5 record overall. They finished 2-5 in the North Central Thumb D League, good for sixth of eight teams.

It was Besonen's first losing season in his 13 seasons at Owen-Gage, "but it could have been the other way around, but for 46 seconds in two games." Without the two losses in the closing moments, it would have been a winning season.

"It was an interesting season," Besonen said of coaching his youthful squad. "Those kids were so young and raw."

The good news for 1982 is that most of those players, with another year's experience under their belts, will be back.

The team will lose only four seniors, starters Mark Furness at right tackle and end Randy Radabaugh, plus flanker Terry Muntz and utility lineman Ed Rievert. The latter made a comeback after knee surgery last year.

The big question mark for next year continues to be the defensive line, because of lack of size. This year's line averaged only 152 pounds. The coach has prescribed a weight training program and weight gaining in preparation for next year.

The start of practice in 1982, he noted Monday, is only 281 days away. "We're gonna be ready."

As for Friday's contest, he commented, the final score would not have been so close had he chosen to keep his starters in longer. The coach emptied his bench for about half the game.

Lee Gettel started scoring for the Bulldogs on a 33-yard run in the first quarter. Muntz' kick for the extra point was no good.

In the second quarter, Gettel scored again, on a 32-yard run. Muntz' kick was again no good.

The Tartars got on the scoreboard on a 64-yard run by Harry Sharrell. Marty Gallentine ran the ball in for two more points.

Stan Andrakowicz then fired a 16-yard pass to Dan Glidden, for a TD. Glidden then kicked the extra point.

Sharrell then scampered 35 yards for six points for MSD, with Gallentine running the ball in for two more.

The final TD in the second quarter came on a bomb from Andrakowicz to Glidden, the play totaling 60 yards. The extra point attempt was unsuccessful.

Neither team scored in the third quarter. In the fourth, Muntz scored on a one-yard run, then missed the extra point kick.

Gallentine scored the final TD of the night on a 32-yard run for MSD, then ran the ball over for his third successful two-point conversion.

Owen-Gage gained 12 first downs, fumbled twice with one turnover, and was penalized six times for 50 yards.

The team gained 300 yards on the ground in 36 carries. Gettel was the top ball carrier with 15 carries for 221 yards. For the season, he carried the ball 111 times and gained 841 yards, for an average of 7.6 yards per carry. Muntz advanced 58 yards in six carries Friday.

In the air, Andrakowicz completed eight of 19 passes, with one interception, for 129 yards. Total offensive yardage was 429.

During the season, Andrakowicz completed 54 of 142 passes, with 19 interceptions, for a total of 1,115 yards gained and 17 touchdown passes.

Glidden caught six passes for 106 yards against the Tartars. For the year, he caught 48 passes for 805 yards and scored 15 TDs.

Nick Swiastyn made eight tackles for the Bulldogs. Gary Erickson and Craig Enderle each had seven.

The Flint school made 11 first downs, rushed for 288 yards in 41 carries and gained 60 yards in the air on three completions of 13 attempts, for total offensive yardage of 348.

MSD lost the ball once in three fumbles and was penalized seven times for 52 yards.

Gallentine was the top ball carrier with 22 carries and 134 yards. Daryl Gordon made six tackles.

Score by quarters:
O-G 6 19 0 6 31
MSD 0 16 0 8 24

Bulldog cagers lose a pair

A scoreless second quarter spelled the difference for Owen-Gage in girls basketball Tuesday evening as it lost to visiting Akron-Fairgrove, 33-32.

Joan Mosack led the Bulldogs with 12 points and 11 of its 36 rebounds. The team shot 16 of 43 from the floor, 37 percent, and missed its one free throw.

Linda Rutkowski had 12 points for the Vikings and 11 of its 26 rebounds. The team connected on 14 of its 50 field goal shots, 28 percent, and was five of 12 from the charity line, 41 percent.

The Owen-Gage junior varsity won, 24-12.

Owen-Gage is at Decker-ville Thursday for its final league game and hosts Uby Tuesday to end the regular season.

Kingston cracks 30-game loss skein Friday

"We've been so close so many times and came out on the short end," said Kingston football coach Michael Rea.

After coming out on the short end for 30 consecutive games -- not a state record -- the Cardinals ended their long dry spell Friday night in a big way, smashing visiting Dryden, 42-0.

The last team Kingston had defeated was Port Austin, which has since merged with North Huron, in September, 1978.

Although Dryden also hadn't won a game all season, Rea noted the Class D school plays in a tougher league and its players are bigger.

"We just played great. Everything we did, we did right," said the coach, who saw his team win for the first time in his three years at the helm.

Among those playing great Friday were fullback Greg Wenzlaff, who gained 181 yards, and tailback Ron Mouton, who carried the ball 153 yards.

The victory was a happy one for the fans, players and coaching staff, and hopeful.

NORTH HURON

The Warriors breezed past visiting Owen-Gage last Tuesday, 57-39.

Joan Mosack collected 11 points for the Bulldogs and Julie Enderle contributed 10. The team shot 20 percent from the floor, 12 of 59, and 56 percent from the charity line, 15 of 27.

The team outrebounded North Huron, 47-42, with Mosack grabbing 11 of them.

Barb Irwin was top shooter for the winners with 12 points, followed by Joan Koth with 10. The team shot 25 of 80 from the floor, 31 percent, and seven of 20 from the free throw line, 35 percent.

Irwin's six rebounds were tops for her team.

North Huron also won the junior varsity game, 25-20.

Cass City grid year ends

Mayville bows in overtime, 12-6

The Cass City Red Hawks played in their first overtime game in history Friday, defeating the visiting Mayville Wildcats 12-6, to end the grid year on a positive note.

The win pushed the Hawks to a 6-3 mark for the season. The season ended was a nothing game and Cass City played like it. During the first half the Hawks marched up and down the field between the 20-yard lines but were unable to put it together when it counted.

Meanwhile the defense was having no trouble containing the Wildcats. The Cass City forward wall handled Mayville all night and the Wildcats got nothing on the ground.

The visitors had a golden opportunity to score when Cass City fumbled on their own 13, but four plays gained nothing and the Hawks took over.

That's why it appeared as if Cass City would win in regulation time when the Hawks moved 56 yards to score early in the fourth quarter.

Dave Osentoski crashed over from seven yards out. The pass for points was missed.

That TD looked big until Mayville got its air arm oiled and tossed its way to a tying touchdown with 7½ minutes left in the game.

The crucial kick for point was no good and the game remained scoreless the rest of the regulation distance.

Mayville was awarded first shot at breaking the deadlock and went to the air four times in a row without success.

Cass City took the ball and in two plays bounced into the end zone for the win. Joe Decker took a handoff and scored.

The play ended the senior's high school grid career on a high note.

For the second week in a row, Brian Moore was singled out for his work on the line. Last week he was co-Red Hawk of the week; this week he was named lineman of the week by Coach Don Schelke. Jim Adkins, who also wound up his career for Cass City on the gridiron, was named Red Hawk of the week.

Cass City home vandalism loss may total $10,000

Vandalism and theft totaling possibly $10,000 was reported at a home south of Cass City Friday.

Owner of the home at the corner of River and Cemetery Roads is John Mulrath Sr., who lives next door. The damage was done between Oct. 14 and Nov. 4, he told deputies.

Among items reported stolen were a refrigerator-freezer worth $500; water pump, $107; flood lights, $10; electric fireplace, $50; shelving, $50, and five carpets, worth a total of $691.

A lot of the wall paneling was also taken.

Paneling that wasn't removed had holes knocked in it. A lot of the ceiling tile was torn off. A stove was damaged with a sledge hammer and the vent over it was pulled from the ceiling. Some windows were broken and a shotgun was fired through the wall in one place. Wiring was pulled out, heater control boxes smashed and cupboards torn down. One toilet was pulled loose, there were pipes loose and holes were knocked in the bathtub.

Mulrath said the destruction was done by the former occupants. The incident remains under investigation.

OTHER ITEMS

Henry Bastien of 3090 Cemetery Road, Kingston, reported to sheriff's deputies Nov. 1 that a 17-foot aluminum canoe was stolen from the pond across the road from his house sometime since Oct. 24. One side was badly dented. The canoe was worth $300.

Lyle Trueman of 5548 E. Cass City Road, Cass City, told deputies Nov. 2 that three "suitcase" tractor weights, worth a total of $300, were stolen from outside his shed, probably on Oct. 26.

Cass City police are seeking a warrant charging an 18-year-old man with larceny from a building for stealing a coin operated pencil dispensing machine Oct. 29 from Cass City Intermediate School.

Principal Bob Stickle reported the theft, which took place in the evening, last Wednesday, after he found out who was responsible.

The money and pencils were removed from the machine after it was taken out of the school. The dispenser was then reported to have been thrown into the Cass River from the Cemetery Road bridge.

Vandalism to a car parked behind the intermediate school was also reported to police last Wednesday.

The car, which did not have an engine in it, was owned by Arthur L. Zimmerman Sr. of 7513 Gilbert Road. It was parked at the school so his son could work on it in shop class.

The windshield, one headlight and one taillight were broken, a hole was punched in the right door with a hammer or tire iron and wiring for the lights was removed. The damage was done after 5 p.m. the previous day.

Geraldine Suzor of Third Street reported to police Nov. 3 that damage was done to the home of Betty Crandell, 4438 Seeger Street, while the latter was away.

A dining room window and inside light and outside bird bath and light were broken. The damage was done sometime after noon Oct. 31.

Richard Langlois of 6121 McGregor Road, Gagetown, told village police early Sunday that the rear window wiper of his car was bent out of shape while the car was parked in the alley behind The Station tavern, 6444 W. Main Street, after 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Floyd H. Morrish of 8020 Grassmere Road, Cass City, told Caro state police last Thursday that an alternator, $10, and radiator, $25, were stolen from a pickup parked on his property, that he used for parts. The car radiator was lying in the bed of the truck.

Homemaker program underway

The Human Development Commission (HDC) has been awarded a contract, through the Michigan Department of Labor, to operate a Displaced Homemaker's Program in Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac and Tuscola counties.

Displaced homemakers are previously full-time homemakers who have lost their income that was provided by someone else, usually another member of the family or a government assistance program. Loss of that support, as a result of divorce, separation, death or the disability of the provider, has made it necessary for them to support themselves. The homemaker's children must be 16 years or older to qualify.

This program has been designed to help remove barriers which stand in their way of employment and thus help each participant become self-supporting. The program will also deal with other problems that displaced members frequently encounter.

Generally, people are eligible for this program if they are no longer being supported as a full-time homemaker by a family member or a public assistance program, and lack the skills necessary for employment outside the home. Those currently receiving general assistance may also be eligible if this assistance is due to stop within two years. People working part-time may also qualify. Persons not meeting the income eligibility guidelines may obtain the program services available on a sliding fee scale.

Those who wish to enroll should call the HDC office in their county for an appointment with an intake interviewer or Bonnie Kleinau in the Caro office at 673-4121. Mrs. Kleinau is the staff person hired to implement the services of the program.

Management computer class begins Tuesday

One of the American Management Courses, "Computer Basics for Managers," is being provided for local management supervisory and business personnel at Cass City High School.

This workshop is sponsored by the conference office at Delta College and arranged through the efforts of A.E. (Bud) Ellinger of General Cable Co., and Kathleen O'Donnell, director of community education for the Cass City Public Schools.

Individuals wishing to learn the fundamentals of equipment, programs, and computer operation as well as how a computer program is written and run on a computer and the various uses of a computer in the modern corporation will find this class beneficial.

The instructor, Patrick A. Race, B.S.E. and president of Bliss, Inc., Bay City, will conduct the class beginning Tuesday, Nov. 17, from 6:30-9 p.m. for three weeks. The remaining sessions will be as follows: Nov. 18, 23, 24, 30, and Dec. 1.

Registration in advance is necessary. A fee will be charged. For further information and registration, contact the community education office, 872-4151. There is a group discount of 10 percent for three or more persons employed by the same firm.

Taking Stock

A Delray Beach reader offered to bet that we didn't know what the word meretricious meant.

We took the bet and said anybody should know that it means something with merit.

We lost. From Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary (we don't have room in the apartment for anything bigger):

MERETRICIOUS — adj. 1. Of or relating to a prostitute. 2. Tawdry and falsely attractive; b. based on pretense or insincerity.

We offered Miss Smarty a return wager, betting that she couldn't come within 15 the number of definitions of the word run.

It was a sucker bet. She guessed 22. There are 175 definitions of this little word. In most any dictionary there are at least two columns of meanings.

A sticker for word usage of 75 years ago was Ambrose Bierce, who wrote a delightful book, "Write It Right," which is now out of print. He insisted that the adjective dilapidated since it was derived from the word lapis, for stone, should be applied only to masonry buildings.

He also said you shouldn't say all of something. His argument was that "All" couldn't be "of" anything since it was already the total.

I suggested this to the noted word merchant of San Francisco, Fred Bold, and he asked if the words of the song should be changed to "All me — why not take all me?"

Bierce also said it was wrong to state that one was "born and raised" somewhere. Born and reared is the correct phraseology. Wheat is raised. Persons are reared.

I was about to say "People are reared," but that, too, is improper, according to Bierce. He said (in those days) people was a body of persons with a common culture and language. Now that is the No. 5 definition of the word. No. 1 is just "persons."

If you want to be classy and impress others, drop in a Latin phrase now and then, as the lawyers do. Here are some swiped from an airlines magazine, the TWA Ambassador.

Ad hoc -- To or with regard to a given thing. An ad hoc committee is formed to consider a specific matter.

Corpus delicti -- Refers to material evidence of a crime, literally, the body of a crime. If the act is murder, the corpus delicti is a corpse.

Flagrante delicto -- If they catch you "while the crime is blazing," they've got you red-handed.

Ne plus ultra -- Perfection. Period.

Persona non grata -- Literally, a person not pleasing. In the parlance, a stinker.

Sine qua non -- An essential element. Literally, without which, none.

Class dismissed.

Commissioners approve budget

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday unanimously approved the proposed 1982 county budget without change from what was presented Monday. (See above story.)

Approval is still tentative. The final okay will be given after the public hearing Nov. 24.

The tentative approval was preceded by some controversy. The budget as presented had cut in half the 1982 pay raises granted to department heads and other salaried employees approved by the board Oct. 13 (except for judges, whose salaries are regulated by the state).

Tight Tuscola county budget may avoid layoffs

Included in the revenue is $103,430 transferred from the Medical Care Facility debt retirement fund into the general fund and $241,676 in federal revenue sharing, budgeted for the Sheriff's Department.

This year, the law enforcement agency is receiving $314,000 from that source.

The budget projects $357,547 to be received in federal revenue sharing (plus $100,924 left over from this year), but that doesn't take into account the 12 percent cut proposed by President Reagan.

Of the federal money, $75,000 is to go to the Road Commission for snow plowing and the same amount to the Health Department for its home health nursing program, plus the $241,676 for the Sheriff's Department, which leaves a reserve of $66,797.

However, if the 12 percent cut is made and the above expenditures remain the same, that leaves a reserve of only $23,891. Congress could even decide not to renew the federal revenue sharing program for next year.

Libraries in the county, which got $9,835 this year, won't get anything in 1982.

REVENUE CUTS

Only about 60 percent of county revenue comes from property taxes, Kennedy pointed out.

Although Tuscola county will collect $172,000 more from property taxes next year, total revenue will decline. "It's the other ones where we're taking a beating," the Millington commissioner commented.

Much of the decline is due to a decrease in state support, due to Michigan's precarious finances.

The requirement that the county pick up $80,000 for foster child care, as mentioned, is one example. State revenue sharing will be cut about $50,000.

The county should be getting $120,000 from Lansing for the Health Department, in accordance with the cost sharing formula prescribed in state law. Instead, it is receiving $55,000.

The county for the last three years has budgeted $205,000 for the Health Department. It is reducing that in 1982 to $190,000.

SHERIFF LOSES

Receiving the biggest cut over what was requested is the Sheriff's Department. Sheriff Paul Berry wanted $1,153,244, but may get $956,084, which is $2,801 less than it will probably spend this year.

Among the "cuts" are $50,000 for a new radio dispatching system (nothing is budgeted), $28,200 for three new patrol cars instead of twice that for six cars and $60,000 for overtime instead of the $120,000 sought.

All requests for office equipment, furniture and machinery by all county departments were deleted, with the only expenditures for such purposes being for emergencies.

Department heads and other salaried employees, who in October were granted pay increases ranging from $600 to $1,770, had their increases cut in half.

EXPENSES INCREASE

Although many expenditures are slashed in the 1982 budget, county expenditures should actually increase $155,400 over what will be spent by the time the clock strikes midnight Dec. 31.

The reason is there are some expenditures commissioners have no control over.

For instance, the county must pay the cost of caring for its mentally retarded and ill citizens who reside in state institutions. There will probably be $70,000 spent for that purpose this year, but the amount is budgeted at $96,000 in 1982.

The premium for employee hospital insurance will jump from $118,385 to $136,150. Insurance for vehicles, buildings, etc., and bonds, increases from $95,600 this year to $110,000.

Retirement benefits should cost $126,000, up from $96,813. Social Security will cost the county $137,800, up from $125,200.

PAY AND TAXES

Unanswered in the presentation Monday were the questions of pay increases for county employees and the future of county finances.

Kennedy said the budget tries to provide the present level of county services without layoffs or closing county departments, though he pointed out the many "ifs" involved.

Board Chairman Paul Nagy didn't see how eliminating persons could be avoided. "I think we reached the point where the barrel became empty... I feel we're going to have to lay people off."

As for the future, Kennedy said -- and no one disagreed -- that Tuscola county government cannot continue to survive on the 4.2 mills it receives in property taxes, the lowest of any county in the state.

That means commissioners either must seek a millage increase from voters in 1982 or a change in the allocated millage formula. However, if the county got more of the latter, it would mean reduced millage for schools and/or townships.

Nothing in the budget presented Monday becomes official until approved by the county board after the public hearing Nov. 24.

School bus users sure of ride — for this school year

The school board has decreed that money must be in the bank before activities begin.

Another person working with the Boosters is Mike Shaft, who is interning in community education at the school.

Shaft, who ran a paper in Indian River at one time, has volunteered to write a newsletter for the Boosters to be distributed once a month to district residents.

OTHER BUSINESS

The board made official guidelines followed by the school for the administering of prescription medication. Key proviso was that anyone other than the school nurse must administer medicine in the presence of another adult.

A request by Sandy Nicholas for the use of a school area and mats to provide her daughter with private gymnastic instruction was refused.

While stressing that the school is available at cost or less for group activities, the board said the policy does not extend to private use. It was suggested that the community education department check to see if a class could be run in the evening.

An auditor's report was submitted suggesting changes in procedure but tabled as not practical for the district.

A special meeting will be held Nov. 23 to discuss better discipline and other goals of the board.

At Luce, professional negotiator for the district, was signed for another year. His salary was raised from $4,500 to $4,800.

JIM FOX, bus superintendent, talks about proposed routes while many of the drivers listen. The school board discussed changing routes and then did nothing when a majority voted against any change.
