In Cass City schools

Lunch program out of red with new operator

The poster on the wall behind Dave Noonan's desk reads, "There is no such thing as a free lunch."

But for the Cass City schools, lunch is free.

During the 1980-81 school year, the district's lunch program finished $20,858 in the red. The deficit had to be made up out of the general fund, that is, taxes, to make up for the difference between what students paid for the lunches and the actual cost.

This year, the program is running slightly better than the break even point.

The difference between this year and last is who is running the program. Instead of the district running it, the school board hired Canteen Service Corp. of Grand Rapids to take over management.

Noonan is its food service manager here and he has a whole bag of tricks which result in more students buying their lunch each day.

Mainly because more students are buying lunch, the program isn't losing money anymore.

There was a five cents increase in lunch prices this year (now 80 cents for Type A meals and $1.05 for teachers), but that was due to a decrease in state aid for school lunch programs, according to Supt. Donald Crouse.

The average in February was 865 meals served per day. The average for the school so far is about 820 per day, which is about 52 percent of the students, Noonan said.

CANTEEN CAN SERVE a meal for less than it would cost the school district because the firm has an advantage in buying power.

Canteen is a nationwide vending machine company. Its food service division operates only in Michigan, in about 25 school districts, which gives it the clout to obtain the lowest possible bids from various suppliers.

One way to encourage more students to buy lunch is to give them a choice in food selection, because, "basically, the students are going to eat what they want anyway." If they have to buy something they don't want, which can happen with the full-course Type A lunch, he suggested, they will throw it out.

Students can choose what they want in the a la carte line, which is available every day. Sold are such items as pizza, hamburgers, hot dogs, cold sandwiches, French fries and dessert items. (Beverages offered in either food line are whole milk, 2 percent milk, 2 percent chocolate and juices.)

When it was running its own program, the district at one time offered the a la carte line every day, but reduced it to two days a week last year, according to Crouse, because it was losing money.

NOONAN SAID HE ENCOURAGES students to eat the Type A lunch, which especially for students on the free or reduced price program may be their only nutritious meal of the day.

The government requires Type A lunches to provide 2 ounces of protein (meat, macaroni, fish or chicken),

Brewster Shaw to speak at Chamber banquet

Astronaut Brewster Shaw will be coming home to be the featured speaker at the annual Cass City Chamber of Commerce community banquet Friday, April 16.

The banquet, which will include the naming of the citizen of the year and the junior citizen of the year, will begin at 6:45 p.m. in the Colony House on M-53. "Gallery," a band from Saginaw, will play for dancing from 9 p.m.-1 a.m. A cash bar will be available.

Shaw is the son of Brewster (Bruce) and Leone Shaw of Pringle Road, Cass City, and a 1963 graduate of Cass City High School.

An Air Force major, he joined the service after receiving his bachelor's and master of science degrees from the University of Wisconsin in 1967 and 1968 respectively. He was a combat fighter pilot in Vietnam and Thailand.

He was selected as an astronaut candidate for the space shuttle program by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in January, 1978.

During the Columbia shuttle flight that ended last week, Shaw served as an operations controller at the NASA Space Flight Center in Houston and could be heard communicating with astronauts Jack Lousma

In Goslin case

Owen-Gage seek high court rehearing

By Mike Eliasohn

The Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education Monday evening authorized its attorney to ask the Michigan Supreme Court for a rehearing of the court's approval of the transfer of the Goslin territory to the Cass City School District.

The high court, in its decision released last Wednesday, upheld the State Board of Education's 1976 vote to approve the transfer. In a 4-3 decision, it ruled state law does not require voter approval of all property transfers once more than 10 percent of the original taxable valuation of the district has been transferred away.

Owen-Gage had argued a vote was required on the Goslin territory. (The court's ruling is further explained on page 17.)

Board members made their unanimous decision at the special meeting after manning all the phones in the high school building to talk for about a half hour with their attorney, James F. Schouman of Dearborn, and after discussing their options.

ONE OPTION IT DIDN'T have, Supt. Ronald Erickson explained, was to seek a rehearing on the 10 percent law, since the court has now ruled on it and Owen-Gage lost.

In addition to that issue, Owen-Gage had also argued that the state board was "arbitrary and capricious" in approving the transfer of the Goslin territory.

The majority of the justices rejected that argument on the technical grounds that Schouman never raised it when first appealing the state board approved transfer before Ingham County Circuit Judge James T. Kallman.

It is on that issue that Schouman will request a rehearing. The reasoning, it was explained, was that he did bring up the issue before Kallman, but since the judge upheld Owen-Gage's interpretation of the 10 percent rule, he never bothered with the "arbitrary and capricious" issue.

Schouman will have to work fast, since a request for a rehearing must be filed within 20 days of when the Supreme Court's ruling was released, which means by April 20.

"His work, which will involve a lot of overtime and research, won't come cheap. Board President Ronald Good and member Duane Ziehm said after the meeting the cost will be at least $7,000, of which about $3,000-3,500 would be for printing the briefs to present to the court.

Erickson estimated after the session that Owen-Gage has spent about $250,000 so far in legal fees to keep the district intact.

IF OWEN-GAGE'S REQUEST for a rehearing is denied, it has one other legal maneuver it can attempt and apparently will.

After the state board approved the Goslin transfer, it okayed the transfer of three smaller parcels of property, the Parker territory to the Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port district and Voelker and Belk to Cass City, (See map.)

Kallman then put a stay on the transfers, pending a ruling by the Supreme Court on the precedent setting Goslin case.

Apparently Owen-Gage's request for the rehearing will delay the process, but at some point, an assistant attorney general representing the state school board will go back to Kallman and ask him to lift the stay.

"If they throw us out of Supreme Court, according to Jim (Schouman), he thinks we have a case with Kallman," Good explained Monday evening.

As the board president further explained, the attorney doubts that Kallman — who has always upheld Owen-Gage in the past — will merely sign an order to lift the stay. Schouman feels the judge will order a hearing, at which the attorney can argue the three parcels should not be transferred because the state board was "arbitrary and capricious" in approving them.

The other option discussed by the board was, in essence, to end its legal appeals and instead hope that the state school board won't be as receptive in the future to approving transfers.

It was mentioned that since 1976, Owen-Gage has built the high school addition and the school has become accredited, plus some state Board of Education members who served in 1976 are no longer there.

IT APPEARS THE state board will be hearing more transfer requests, which it receives on appeal after they have been rejected by the Huron Intermediate School District Board of Education and sometimes by the Tuscola ISD board. (The latter because some involved in the request is to transfer from Owen-Gage, which is in the Huron ISD, to Cass City, which is part of the Tuscola ISD.)

In addition to Parker, Voelker and Belk, there are also three transfer appeals that the state board hasn't heard yet. It has been waiting for the Supreme Court ruling before hearing them.

Two involve only a single parcel (one property owner) while the latter involves eight parcels.

One of the owners involved in the latter, Eldon Dietzel, told the Chronicle, "I'll go through with it," when asked if he still wanted his property in Brookfield Township transferred to Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port.

Two transfer appeals to the state board were withdrawn by the property owners in 1979 after changes in valuation made them greater than 10 percent of the valuation of the entire Owen-Gage district.

Now that the Supreme Court has ruled, the property owners could again petition to have their property transferred, the Gremel territory to Unionville-Sebewaing, and Miller territory to Cass City. (See map.) Instead of two transfer requests, there might have to be three or four, to get under 10 percent.

Will there be a new attempt to transfer from Owen-Gage? Orville Gremel said he hadn't yet talked to his fellow property owners with whom he first sought to change school districts. As for him personally, "I haven't changed my mind as far as transferring."

Delmar Miller said he would like someone else to take the initiative to get what is known as the "Miller territory" transferred to Cass City and maybe would like to see what happens with the Gremel property first.

He would like to see his property become part of the Cass City district. "I sure would. You like to be part of what you're doing." His children attend school in Cass City.

BOARD MEMBER JACK Brinkman asked Monday whether the Supreme Court ruling addressed where the taxes from the Goslin property should go during the dispute. Starting with the 1978 taxes, they have been going to Cass City.

"That's another whole issue," the superintendent responded, which will have to be answered in the court. Owen-Gage claims it should have still received the taxes until the Supreme Court rules.

In other action, the board approved the rehiring of Vicki Rayl for the rest of the school year to teach one

Lots of questions in millage campaign

Selling school millage isn't quite the same as selling clothes.

For clothes, if a person walks out the door empty-handed, the sales person didn't make the sale.

But for the upcoming Cass City Public Schools millage vote, the results won't be known until after the polls close Friday, April 30.

As part of the millage campaign, Supt. Donald Crouse, accompanied by one or more school board members, has spoken to numerous clubs and at other gatherings.

So far, Crouse, usually accompanied by board President Geraldine Prieskorn, Ben Hobart or Dick Albee, has made 22 presentations to explain the proposal. There has been at least one appearance by board members without the superintendent.

One such appearance was the Novesta Township annual meeting March 27 in Deford, which Crouse and Hobart attended. About 30 persons were present.

The board member, an Elmwood Township farmer, began the presentation by explaining that the school district's financial problem is that, "You've got more places to spend money than you've got money to spend."

The 5.5 additional mills, he said, is necessary to maintain the present school programs. "If the community is not willing to have the school we have had, we will have to address that."

Crouse explained that the schools need more money partly because expenses have increased, but primarily because of the reduction in state aid.

One of the flyers passed out at the meeting showed the state provided 57 percent of the school district's revenue in 1976-77, with local taxes providing the rest (not including federal aid). For the present school year, state aid will be an estimated 33 percent.

Crouse also pointed out the impact of declining enrollment. The loss of 109 students this school year compared to 1980-81 meant a loss of about $150,000 in state aid.

CROUSE IS OFTEN asked about cutting teachers from the payroll to make up for the loss in revenue.

He pointed out that the district has 10½ fewer teachers on the payroll than it did during the 1979-80 school year, but that cutting teachers to make up for declining revenue isn't as easy as it sounds.

Lights contract runs until '83

The street lights will stay on in Deford, at least until 1983.

Whether all the residents of Novesta Township should continue to pay the electric bill for the lights in Deford or just those who live in the unincorporated community should pay was the hot topic at the March 27 township annual meeting.

What was finally decided was the township board would look into the matter and see if the number of lights the township pays for might be reduced. There is $500 budgeted for the expense this year.

Since then, township Clerk Nurse Kloc did some research. What she discovered, she told the township board Monday evening, was that the township signed a 30-year contract with Detroit Edison in 1953 for the firm to provide and maintain the lights.

The contract specified the number of lights (but not what the electric bill would be), so there isn't anything that can be changed until 1983, according to Mrs. Kloc.

The board also discussed some minor items, she reported, and no formal action was taken.

High winds cause power blackout

Part of Cass City and the surrounding area was without electricity for about 1¼ hours Saturday, starting at 5:38 p.m.

The cause was the wind, according to George Anderson, Detroit Edison Tuscola County general supervisor, although when he talked to the Chronicle, he didn't have the information as to specifically what went wrong.

There were 348 customers without power, all served by a single circuit. The area served by the circuit north of M-81 is roughly east of the railroad tracks, south of Bay City-Forestville Road and west of Schwegler Road. South of M-81, the area is approximately east of the tracks, north of Kelly Road and extends east to M-53.

Within Cass City, much of the area north of Main Street was without electricity, as was part of the area south of Main and east of Seeger Street.

Because of interconnecting circuits, some persons within those areas may have had electricity.

Elsewhere in Tuscola County, Anderson said, about 50 customers were without electricity in the area north of Reese, extending to Quanicasee, plus there were scattered outages in other places.

One Caro resident suffered a personal loss due to the high winds. His 40-foot television antenna was blown over.

Thumb Electric Cooperative suffered scattered outages throughout the upper Thumb, according to General Manager Michael Krause.

The only outage of a significant nature was at the Akron-Unionville substation, which was due to a wind-caused problem at the Caro generating plant. Customers served by the substation were without power for a half-hour.

Most of the outages were Saturday, Krause said, with the rest Sunday.

STRONG WINDS Saturday night blew down the approximately 110-year-old barn of Jack and Ruth Esau on Milligan Road between Cemetery and Koepfgen Roads. Esau had been tearing the barn down and had already removed most of the siding. Mother Nature did the rest.

"If It Fitz..."

The executive look

By Jim Fitzgerald

This is fun. I've sparked a marvelous exchange of insults between Morley Safer, of TV's "60 Minutes," and Mortimer Levitt, owner of The Custom Shop Shirtmakers — a nationwide chain — and author of a book called "The Executive Look, How to Get It, How to Keep It."

Last January, I wrote about the puzzling instructions received with a shirt purchased at a Levitt shop. They said I should "insert collar stays and cuff links the night before" wearing the shirt. I wondered why, and while exploring this important sociological question, I quoted from Levitt's book concerning his "two-plain-one-pattern" theory of dressing properly.

According to Levitt, if a man wears a polka dot tie, his shirt and suit should be plain. If the shirt is striped, the tie and suit should be plain. And if the suit is checked, the tie and shirt should be plain.

I pointed out that if Levitt is right, Morley Safer must be wrong. Safer often appears on TV wearing three patterns at the same time. That comment brought me a letter from Levitt saying: "Morley Safer is a customer who resolutely refuses to accept my counsel, in contrast to his boss, Dan Rather (also a customer) who, in my opinion, is the best-dressed man on the air."

Levitt also sent a copy of a letter he wrote to Safer saying: "You might want to give a second thought about putting yourself together with only a single pattern... One of our customers put it rather well when he said that wearing two patterns is like eating chocolate-covered herring. Who knows, though, you might even like that too."

Subsequently, I received this note from Safer: "Listen, kid... I would no more take Mortimer Levitt's advice on how to dress, than I would Ralph Lauren's or Bugs Bunny's."

(Lauren is a clothes designer. I don't know who Bugs is. Don't let anyone tell you I'm not an intellectual.)

Safer also sent me a copy of a letter he wrote Levitt. "Dear Mortimer," it said. "I think your rules (can we really be having this silly discussion?) about plain and patterned are totally without foundation... With regard to chocolate-covered herring, it would strike me as being right up your alley. On plain rye bread, it would constitute two plains and one patterned. So eat your herring, dear Mortimer, and while you're at it, your words. I prefer clafoutie or a good country terrine... both of which have survived the years without the aid of stylists."

(A terrine is an earthenware dish in which foods are cooked and served. I think clafoutie is the noise Bugs Bunny makes when he sneezes).

Interestingly, Levitt suspects that Safer pays more attention to him than he'll admit. In his most recent letter to me, Levitt wrote: "Despite his disclaimer, it is more than a coincidence that in last night's '60 Minutes' segment (March 7) he (Safer) wore three different outfits and never a single pattern — solid suits, solid shirts, solid ties... If he had read my book, however, he would have understood the concept of dark-light and light-dark. Had he followed that concept, he would have looked much better. He is only 51, but, unfortunately, his age is beginning to show badly because he made the mistake of appearing without makeup. Arrogance is risky and not really attractive; he may be 'pushing his luck.'"

Currently, I am anxiously awaiting Safer's reaction to the suggestion that the proper combination of dark and light will improve the appearance of his arrogance.

In the meantime, I will ponder the sociological implications of the explanation that Safer gave me for the printed instructions received with Levitt's shirts.

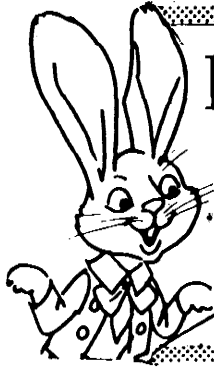

"The only reason for putting collar stays and cuff links in the night before," Safer wrote, "is that they are unfindable in the morning. Just like The Pill, a sensible precaution."

Maybe. But if I can find the clafoutie in my terrine the night before, why can't I find it in the morning?

HARD DRIVING -- It wasn't a good week last week for Crawford Road or for those who normally drive on it as a result of the heavy rains Tuesday, March 30. Just south of M-81 (above), it was flooded. About .7 mile south of Kelly Road, part of the road had washed away. Both photos were taken Thursday.

Forget all that stuff you read or see about what caused the snowstorm. Those cloud formations and high and low fronts had nothing to do with it. The real reason it snowed is that I took my snow tires off last week end.

Brewster Shaw, astronaut speaking here, will be transported to Cass City from Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, by Dale McIntosh. The Army hasn't changed much. He needed to present the Army with his car license number, time of arrival, etc. in advance.

Incidentally, Shaw will fly here from the west coast. That's a two-hour trip. He may detour a bit and fly over Cass City on his way to Selfridge. That's 10 minutes more.

Scouting is alive and well in Cass City thanks largely to Carl Palmateer, scoutmaster. He told Cass City Rotary, local troop sponsor, that he expects a couple of boys to make Eagle Scout in the very near future.

However, there's trouble at Camp Rotary, the summer camp sponsored by Rotary. The land is owned by the downtown Saginaw club which paid the taxes.

Recently the Saginaw club signed an oil lease for over $125,000, authorities report, and at the same time decided not to pay the taxes for the camp anymore.

Chimney fire loss
minor Friday evening

Elkland Township fire fighters were called to the Martin Twork mobile home on Severance Road, east of Cemetery Road, at 7 p.m. Friday because of a chimney fire.

The only damage was to the motor of the Magic Heat unit in the smokestack. Firemen estimated damage at $90.

Someone in the home climbed to the top of the chimney and poured a bucket of water down it, which extinguished the fire before firemen arrived.

The chimney was connected to a fireplace insert.

A wood stove fire in the Jim Gilliam home on Shabbona Road, west of M-53, was reported at 1:07 p.m. Saturday.

The occupants got the fire out before Elkland firemen arrived.

Here it is. The truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth as seen from this perspective.

QUESTION - How do you see the upcoming school vote?

ANSWER - With a sinking feeling in the pit of my stomach. Good schools, good housing and, if you'll pardon a little prejudicial boasting, a good newspaper are vital to economic health. Look around you and you'll find all three in any vibrant, growing community.

QUESTION - Don't you think that school authorities and school boosters are conducting a strong campaign?

ANSWER - If that group has left one stone unturned in the quest to get the information to the people and show the necessity for the millage requested, I don't know what it is.

QUESTION - Okay, so why doubts?

ANSWER - The biggest single factor has to be that valuations are going up from 8 to over 25 percent. That big tax bite doesn't help the schools at all, but people don't or won't understand it. At a time when the economic crunch is on us it's hard to dig down for a double dose of tax increases.

There's an intangible that plays a part in all of this, too. Now that teachers are represented by a union that sweeps across school district lines there's a breakdown of the school-taxpayer relationship that existed previously. It carries over to the administrators, too. The first negative reaction you hear is that they are paid too much. That's the sentiment even though the salaries of administrators are just a tiny fraction of over-all school expenses and millages won't be affected materially by what happens with them.

QUESTION - The new sewage disposal plant is really costing us. Shouldn't we have been satisfied with what we had?

ANSWER - Not if you believe that the future of the community lies in a joint farm-industrial economy. A good disposal system and water system is a must if you are talking to industry. The competition is severe for new industries and those with the most to offer will get the plants and the jobs.

The money has to come from somewhere to pay for the new service, but there's a question here about the minimum rates. For my money they could be lower for very small users and the difference made up by those that use the facilities more.

QUESTION - What's the reason for this cold, cold weather. Are we in for a long-lasting change in the weather patterns?

ANSWER - It seems like it, doesn't it? But, really, severe April winter storms are the rule, not the exception. Lou LaPonsie, village superintendent, says that in the last three years, among the most severe storms that the village battled have come in April.

That surprised me. Perhaps because those snow storms quickly melt away and sometimes during the month the weather is simply gorgeous.

It can't come too soon.

FOOD SERVICE MANAGER Dave Noonan, an employee of the Canteen Service Corp., makes sure everything is okay on the food lines.

New management pulls school lunch program out of red

a half-cup of fruit or vegetables and a quarter-cup of a fruit or vegetable.

Not only are these meals more nutritious, they are comparatively cheaper. 80 cents for a whole meal versus 65 cents for just a hot or cold sandwich in the a la carte line.

Noonan, who has a degree in food service management from Ferris State College, makes a point of varying the Type A menu more so than in the past, to avoid "if this is Tuesday, it must be hamburger."

He does that by preparing menus a month at a time and making sure that whatever is being served on a given day was not served the same day the week before.

At both the high school and intermediate school, the food service manager has established "Canteen Councils," whose six student members (in each building) talk with other students and then meet with Noonan once a month to discuss complaints and possible changes in the lunch program.

MEALS FOR ALL FIVE schools in the district are prepared at the high school. They are delivered still hot to the intermediate school and reheated in the three elementary buildings.

In the elementary buildings, Canteen operates a program entitled "Circus World and Nutrition." Noonan visits each classroom once a year and presents a program featuring such characters as "Milky the seal" in order to explain the food groups of protein, fruits and vegetables, bread and grains, dairy products and desserts.

As part of the program, the students in each class get to plan a menu for one day that he later uses.

Noonan, who is based at the high school, visits each of the other schools at least once a week. He makes a point of being accessible to students in case they have any questions or comments. "I feel students eating lunch are the same as a patron in a restaurant," he explained.

THE SCHOOL DISTRICT still pays all the bills and the staff, except for Noonan. No cafeteria staff lost their jobs when Canteen took over.

The fee which the district will pay this school year to Canteen, which includes 1 cent for each meal served, will total about $25,400.

As mentioned, even with that fee being paid, the program is slightly over the break even point.

Supt. Crouse said the feedback being received from students is that they like the program. "I feel it has been very well received."

And with the program no longer losing money, he added, "We're very happy with all aspects."

Schools had its beginning at Owendale-Gagetown High School Tuesday evening.

About 30 persons from several small school districts attended, according to Owen-Gage Supt. Ronald Erickson. Among those represented were Brown City, Caseville, Port Hope, Deckerville and a few Huron County K-8 districts.

Addressing the group was Bill Coats of Grosse Pointe Farms, editor-publisher of "Educator Press," a professor at the University of Michigan and an ex-school superintendent.

A statement of organization was adopted which says the member districts of the coalition don't apologize for being small and will oppose efforts to be consolidated with larger districts.

Erickson said it will be the first of several regional meetings around the state and that organizing the coalition was primarily Owen-Gage's idea. "It was a small start for small schools," he commented.

Change made in Social Security start

Legislation enacted in 1981 made a basic change in when a person can first become eligible to receive Social Security monthly benefits, according to Susan Ludwig, Social Security field representative in Saginaw.

Persons now becoming eligible for benefits can receive a benefit only for months they are eligible throughout the entire month. This means that unless a person was born on the first or second day of a month, he or she cannot get a benefit for the month they become 62. The first month they can receive a benefit is for the month after the month they reach 62.

This provision also applies to a wife or husband and children receiving benefits on a living person's Social Security record. The spouse or child must be eligible throughout the entire month to get a benefit.

This rule does not apply to survivor benefits. Widows and surviving children continue to be eligible for benefits starting with the month the wage earner dies, regardless on what day of the month the person dies.

A person who chooses to receive benefits before reaching 65 should remember that, in general, benefits cannot be paid for months before the month he or she applies. Applications can be made up to three months before the month benefits can start, Ludwig said.

More information about Social Security benefits can be obtained at the Saginaw Social Security office, East Genesee and North Warren Streets in downtown Saginaw. The telephone number is 771-1010.

Pedaling Around Compulsory Spanish

By Mike Eliasohn

In the summer of 1966, I took a class at Eastern Michigan University entitled "Geography of Latin America."

We had to write a term paper for it. I don't recall the reason, but I chose for my topic the Falkland Islands.

I doubt if there was more than a paragraph devoted to it in my textbook and I soon found there wasn't much more information on the Falklands in the library.

In fact, I had to go to the University of Michigan library in nearby Ann Arbor to do my research (fortunately, I owned a car), because I couldn't find anything in the EMU library.

My total resources consisted of three books, two magazine articles and one British government report.

As an aside to what I am leading up to and as a bit of advice to students who ever have to write a term paper, choose for a topic something on which there isn't much information. Imagine how much information I would have had to wade through if my topic had been Brazil.

The only reason I am writing about the Falkland Islands, of course, is that they have been in the news of late. There has probably been more written and reported on the topic since last Friday than there had been in the previous 50 years.

So far, all that Argentina has proven is that when one has several thousand troops and several ships, it is easy to overwhelm 1,800 persons living on two islands protected by 79 Royal Marines and 120 members of the defense force.

For the record, the Falklands consist of two large islands, where all or almost all the population lives, and about 200 smaller ones.

Until the Argentine government decided the world would be better off if the Falklands residents learned to speak Spanish (they speak English), I doubt if much had changed there since I wrote my term paper, except that a lot of people left.

When I wrote it, the most up to date census, in 1962, listed the population at 2,172.

The latest figure, according to news reports, is 1,800, which reflects continued emigration, which has always been a problem. With only that many persons spread across two islands about 5 1/2 times the size of Tuscola County and the nearest place one could take the once-a-month ship to Montevideo, Uruguay, being 1,160 miles away, there wasn't a lot of incentive to stay.

The only industry on the islands is raising sheep. As of when I wrote my paper, there were about 300 times as many sheep there as there were human beings.

There may be oil and gas there, which is supposedly one reason why Argentina is interested in the islands that are 450 miles off its coast.

Even without oil, Argentina would still want the Falklands, which it calls the Malvinas.

The first British settlement was established there in 1766, two years after the French established one.

The French turned their settlement over to the Spanish in 1767. In 1816, when Argentina gained its independence from Spain, it claimed sovereignty over the Falklands and took possession in 1820.

The British, who were forced out by Spain in 1770, retook possession in 1832.

Even if the British Armada now sailing toward the Falklands is successful in reclaiming them, it seems hard to imagine how they can keep them, unless they want to drop an atomic bomb on Buenos Aires.

The British can ill afford to keep a big fleet stationed 8,000 miles away from England. Once the ships leave, the Argentinians will return.

I hope the British knock the Argentinians' socks off.

As a footnote to all this, after I wrote my term paper, I met someone from the Falkland Islands, which was somewhat of a thrill, since there aren't too many Falkland Islanders in the world to meet.

He was a student at a British university and was attending Eastern Michigan for a semester as an exchange student. Unfortunately, we didn't meet until the night before he returned to England, so our visit was brief.

Law suit filed in cycle death

A law-suit has been filed in Tuscola County Circuit Court by the mother of a Rich, Ill. boy killed in a July 3, 1981, traffic accident.

The plaintiff is Ruth Ann Hecht, as representative of the estate of her son, Timothy Berlin, who was 11 years old when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a van as he pedaled along M-46, northwest of Vassar.

Defendant is Gerald Dunn of Marysville, driver of the van.

The suit asks for damages in excess of $10,000, together with costs, interest and attorney fees.

The suit, filed last Thursday, requests a jury trial.

The body is made up of about 60 percent water.

COLD FEET and everything else was the rule Saturday afternoon as 113 runners completed the 5.4 miles from Wilmot to Kingston despite bitter cold temperatures and snow, which started about the time the race did. Tim Brown was first overall in a time of 32:11.

Venue change sought for murder trial

3 plead guilty Monday in Tuscola Circuit Court

Three persons pleaded guilty, one attempted to plead guilty and another withdrew his guilty plea when they appeared Monday before Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

Jack L. Putnam, 17, of 4186 Mushroom Road, Deford, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering of Dan's Super Market in Caro Feb. 10.

His plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled June 14. Bond was continued.

Stanley R. Brinkman, 33, of 6691 S. Vassar Road, Vassar, pleaded guilty to unlawful use of a motor vehicle. His plea was accepted and sentencing was scheduled June 14. Bond was continued.

He pleaded guilty to using someone else's snowmobile Dec. 22 in Vassar Township.

Craig J. Berlin, 17, of Caine Road, Millington, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling, a building in Millington Dec. 27, and unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle with intent to steal. The latter charge involved taking a snowmobile Jan. 26 in Arbela Township.

His pleas were accepted and sentencing was scheduled June 14. Bond was continued.

Kris Alan Doud, 21, of Munger, pleaded guilty to attempted uttering and publishing, but his plea was rejected. He is charged with uttering and publishing, writing a bad check for $50 to the Reese IGA Feb. 1.

Joslyn granted the motion of Vernon N. Hughes, 66, of 9521 Seyforth Road, Silverwood, to withdraw his Dec. 14 guilty plea to felonious assault.

A two-day trial will now be scheduled. Bond was continued.

He is charged with the July 18, 1981, assault with a pistol on Marvin Lee Jones in Koylton Township.

MURDER TRIAL

A motion for change of venue to move the scheduled trial of Terry Lynn Williams to another community was taken under advisement Monday by Judge Joslyn until the scheduled start of the trial.

Williams, 30, of Mt. Morris, is supposed to stand trial May 4 on two counts of first degree murder in the Nov. 13 shooting deaths of Leonard and Betty Coward of rural Vassar. A three-week jury trial is scheduled.

Joslyn did approve three procedural motions, continued one and will hear another April 22 in connection with the case.

A stand of bristlecone pines in California's White Mountains is an estimated 4,000 years old.

Restaurant, southwest of Caro, and the following day found him guilty of supplemental information, of having been convicted of three prior felonies.

Under Michigan's habitual offender law, because of the three prior convictions, he could have been sentenced to life in prison.

113 finish Wilmot to Kingston race

Fears of rain during Saturday's fourth annual Wilmot to Kingston road race proved unfounded.

Instead, what was falling was snow flakes. That combined with strong winds made conditions miserable for the 5.4 mile event, but despite that, 113 runners finished and no one became ill.

Finishing first was Tim Brown, age 25, in a time of 32:11, with Kingston High School senior Jack Barden coming in second at 32:20, and Jim Finlayson, 42, third at 33:22.

Top woman finisher was Kingston senior Jill Barden at 41:43. She was 15th overall and the only woman in the top 25.

Most of the participants in the event were Kingston High School students. Male and female winners in each division were as follows:

Seventh grade, Jeff Barden, Sarah Stoll; eighth, Tony Bruce, Deb Kasdorf; ninth, Larry Smith, Lori Smith; 10th, Mike McRoberts, Denise Hauxwell; 11th, Ron Ensign, Julie Galubenski; 12th, Jack Barden, Jill Barden; age 18-24, Curt Copeland, Lisa Thomas; 25-32, Tim Brown, Helen Crane; 33-40, Robert Parrott, Mary Ann Megge; 41-49, Jim Finlayson, and 50 and up, Phyllis Silvernail.

HEALTH TIPS

Breathing difficult for asthma patients

By Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

Asthma means a physical condition in which the sufferer has a very hard time breathing.

Asthma, says the American Medical Association's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care, results from the narrowing of the airway bronchial tubes.

Often, but not always, an attack results from exposure to something to which the victim is allergic. Infections, colds, changes in the weather or emotional factors also can lead to an attack.

Symptoms of asthma are difficulty in breathing out, or exhaling; a wheezing or whistling sound as air is expelled; nervousness, tenseness and fright; coughing; heavy perspiring; nausea and vomiting; bluish tinge to the skin due to lack of oxygen; victim finds it's easier to breathe sitting upright and/or a choking sensation.

If it is the first episode of suspected but undiagnosed asthma, seek medical attention. If a doctor cannot be reached, take the victim to the nearest hospital.

Comfort and reassure the victim, particularly a child who may be frightened by the experience, since emotional stress may make the condition worse. Keep the victim sitting upright.

If attacks have occurred before, give the victim the prescribed medications according to his doctor's instructions. Do not give the victim anything else without physician's advice. Report the attack to the physician, even if the victim seems better after a day.

Some asthma symptoms demand immediate medical attention. This happens if the medication fails to improve breathing; if breathing can barely be heard; inability to cough; increased bluish tinge to skin; pulse rate more than 120 beats per minute; increased anxiety; victim tries to pull up shoulders and chin to get air.

These symptoms mean the victim is near collapse from respiratory failure, and needs help at once from the doctor or nearest hospital emergency room.

Lutheran rally Tuesday

Dr. Eric von Fange of Concordia College, Ann Arbor, will be speaker for the annual spring rally of the Thumb Zone of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League Tuesday at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Caseville, beginning with registration at 6:30 p.m.

Those attending are asked to bring an unused bar of soap for Lutheran World Relief.

Von Fange, a professor of education and psychology, traveled through the areas of the ancient world and the Holy Land and brought back a large collection of slides with which he illustrates his talk. The rally will also include a short business meeting, presentations by various committees and a skit.

New books at the library

THANKSGIVING by Terry Coleman (fiction). This is the story of two generations of strong-minded women in colonial North America. Wolsey Lowell, a well-educated young woman, is a member of a group of Puritans who in 1620 settled in Massachusetts. There, Wolsey marries Francis Wheaton, a preacher, and has children, but she runs against the grain of the colony's strict sense of morality. After her husband's disappearance, she takes her twin daughters and flees with a sea captain to New Amsterdam, a place she finds much more fulfilling. Her daughters grow to womanhood. Wolsey suffers the pain of their separation as they venture to remote parts of the continent.

A BUZZARD IS MY BEST FRIEND by Margaret Anne Barnes (non-fiction). Barnes and her family moved from the suburbs to a farm expecting a simpler life but weren't quite prepared for the complexities Mother Nature had in store for these naive homesteaders. As the animal corner rises, the farm population is supplemented by the appearance of outsiders - foxes, a buzzard, and turtles - who also settle down. Almost every animal presents a story to be told, with the peal of laughter or the distress of tears as the result.

Long distance telephone rates increase

General Telephone customers who place long distance calls to points outside of Michigan are affected by the new interstate long distance rates approved for the American Telephone & Telegraph Company (AT&T) by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) which took effect Friday.

According to Richard L. Grandstaff, vice-president-general manager for General Telephone of Michigan, the new interstate rate structure includes a larger "evening rate" discount, cost increases in most mileage ranges, lower costs for using calling card service, and higher costs for most services utilizing the operator.

Local service rates and rates for long distance calls placed to other points within Michigan are unaffected by this increase, he pointed out.

Burning permits required

Burning permits are now required for certain types of outdoor burning.

State law, according to Elkland Township Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr., requires persons to obtain permits if burning is done in or close to woods, except for domestic purposes, whenever there isn't snow on the ground.

That applies to burning things like brush and grass. Burning anything that especially pollutes the air, such as tires or treated building materials, requires a special permit.

Permits are not required for campfires, burning in an approved debris burner or "on agricultural lands under production," according to the state law.

Permits, good for four consecutive days, can be obtained within the area served by the Elkland Township Fire Department from Root, Elwyn Helwig at Croft-Clara Lumber, Jack Hartwick at home or at Wickes Agriculture or Roger Hurley at home or afternoons at Bigelow's Hardware.

In areas served by other departments, check with the fire chief or a fireman.

Specified on the permits is that "no fire shall be set at a time when a high wind is blowing. An adequate fire line shall be made around the area to be burned and a force of men, sufficient to control the fire, shall be on hand at the time of burning. Permittee shall be liable for all damage to property which may result from burning done under this permit."

Scholarships available for 4-H'ers

Some scholarships are being offered to present and-or former 4-H'ers, according to Tuscola County 4-H Youth Agent Peggy Breclaw. The Edwin T. Meredith Foundation is offering two $1,000 scholarships for present or former 4-H'ers who plan to enroll as freshmen at an accredited college or university this fall.

Winners will be chosen by the Cooperative Extension Service on the basis of interest in pursuing a college education, financial need, high school grades, leadership abilities and 4-H background.

DeKalb AgResearch, Inc., is offering one $500 scholarship in Michigan to a 4-H'er interested in an agricultural career.

The Chicago and North Western Transportation Co. is offering a $600 scholarship to a former 4-H'er majoring in forestry, agricultural business or agricultural economics.

Candidates must be enrolled in college this fall as juniors, seniors or graduate students and must submit a study on some phase of the marketing and transportation of agricultural commodities or forest products.

For more information, contact Miss Breclaw at the extension office in Caro, telephone 673-3161.

Your Neighbor says Cigarette tax, yes; income, no

If cigarette taxes are raised in Michigan to help ease the state out of its financial crisis, that wouldn't bother Don Childs. "I don't smoke. They can raise that all they want," (A boost from 11 cents to 21 cents is being proposed.)

But the idea of raising the state income tax -- the latest proposal is a temporary 1 percent hike until Sept. 30 -- does bother him. "I don't go for that myself," Childs commented. "We pay enough income taxes, I think."

What is needed in Michigan? "I think something has to be done to promote more business in the state."

That would mean more persons working, obviously, and more paying taxes. "Having more people working is the key."

That, however, is a long range solution. In the short run, he supports Gov. Milliken's proposals to freeze the pay and benefits of state employees. They are scheduled to receive a 5 percent pay hike and benefit improvements worth a total of $80 million starting Oct. 1. "Let's not give it to them until we're out of the bind," Childs suggested.

And cutting welfare benefits, as some have suggested, would "definitely give people more incentive to look for work."

Childs, a machinist for Walbro, and his wife, Donna, live at 6467 Main Street, Cass City.

WASHINGTON VISIT -- Jack Laurie, left, of Cass City and Andrea Hofmeister of Gagetown, legislative leaders for the Tuscola County Farm Bureau, visited with Congressman Robert Traxler (D-8th District) during a breakfast meeting with Michigan's congressional delegation in Washington, D.C. The meeting was part of a four-day seminar, March 29-April 1, during which 115 Michigan farmers discussed issues of concern with their elected representatives and government officials in the capital. The Michigan Farm Bureau Women's Committee sponsored the trip. (Farm Bureau photo).

Kingston completing plans for 125-year celebration

The village of Kingston is making preparations for its quasiquintennial celebration (125 years) to be observed June 25-27.

According to Chairman Gil Miller, a variety of activities are in the planning stages.

They will include what is hoped will be Kingston's largest parade ever, a variety of old-fashioned demonstrations and displays, a carnival complete with a dozen rides and concessions, country music, tennis tournaments, road race, horse pulling contest, arts and crafts display and sales, horseshoe pitching contest, snake dance and community dance, children's games, greased pig contest, and fireworks.

In addition, a booklet honoring the quasiquintennial is to be published. A special appeal has gone out for historical information and photographs of businesses, homes, etc.

Because of funding obtained, printing of family histories in the booklet will now be done for free.

Families who did not have their history in the 1957 centennial edition or who wish to update their history should submit the information by April 21 to Mrs. James Daily Jr., 3160 E. Sanilac Road, Mayville 48744, telephone 673-4067; or Mrs. Richard Peter, Box 68, Kingston 48741; telephone 683-2711.

When mailing the histories, persons should include their phone numbers. Mrs. Daily and Mrs. Peter reserve the right to edit.

The listing of family names, also free, will be in the back of the historical booklet and include present and past residents. Specify any who are deceased and include maiden names, for instance, "John and Mary (Brown) Smith (Mary deceased) and children Tom and Mary.

The deadline is also April 21 and the telephone number should be included. Mail family names to: 125th family names; Kingston Village Hall, 3655 Ross Street, Kingston.

Anyone wishing to participate in an old-fashioned demonstration or to set up an arts and crafts display should call 683-2018 or 683-2120.

The tour group will visit and perform in Paris, Lucerne, Lugano, Milan, Venice, Innsbruck, Salzburg, Berchtesgaden, Wiesbaden, Amsterdam, Windsor and London.

Rep. Armbruster to end career

State Rep. Loren Armbruster, R-Caro, who has served 10 years in the Michigan House of Representatives, has announced he will retire at the end of his fifth term to "enjoy my family, my home and to pursue the many interests I have put aside for so long."

Loren Armbruster

Armbruster was first elected to office from the newly created 84th District in 1972. He won the four-way Republican primary by winning nearly 50 percent of the vote and was re-elected each successive year.

"I have sincerely enjoyed serving the people of the 84th District and I am sure I will miss public service when I am gone," Armbruster said. "But 10 years in Lansing is a long time for anyone, and I feel a responsibility to my wife and family to devote more time to them in the future."

Armbruster is Republican vice-chairman of the House Committee on Public Works, and also serves on the Agriculture, Liquor Control, and Conservation, Environment and Recreation Committees.

He counts as one of his accomplishments in office the establishment of a state police post in Caro. He was a strong opponent of the state's wetlands act and mechanics' licensing law.

Armbruster graduated from Michigan State University in 1941 with a degree in agriculture, was executive vice-president of the Michigan-Ohio Sugar Beet Growers Association for 22 years, and was with the Cooperative Extension Service for five years. He was an officer in the Air Force during World War II and was recalled during the Korean War.

He has been active in numerous civic, church and professional organizations throughout his career. He has been a member of the Tuscola County Republican Party for 20 years. "Although I am retiring from public service, I intend to remain active in the Republican Party," he said.

Armbruster said he will remain neutral in the Republican primary election in the 84th District.

PITCHING IS the strength of this year's Hawk baseball team and the team will go as far as the hurlers can carry it.

Hawks to depend on pitching in Thumb B league title chase

If pitching is 75 percent of the game, Don Schelke, Cass City High School baseball coach, should be able to make a strong run for the Thumb B Association title this spring.

Starting his sixth year at the helm, Schelke points to pitching as the strength of his club. With three starters back the Hawks should at least improve on the 1981 record of 4-9 in the TBA and 4-15 overall. The mound corps will be anchored by Jim Adkins. He had the best earned run average on the team as a junior.

He also was the leading hitter and plays first base when not on the mound. He'll be earning his third letter this season.

Willard Burdon is another of the hurlers. He has good speed. He plays good defense from his third base slot when not pitching.

Ray Ferris is the team's leading power pitcher. He plays center field, too, and has the ability to hit the long ball.

Another veteran with a strong throwing arm is catcher Jim Crickon.

Four players who saw plenty of action and will be hard to replace are Craig Tonti, Brad Hartel, Randy Severance and Randy Stine.

It may be that the Hawks will have the same problem this year as last, finding enough power to win the games when the pitching is off.

Last year as a team, Cass City hit .230.

There are nine seniors on the squad this season. Six juniors are listed and two promising sophomores, Joe Langenburg and Matt Lukshaitis, are on the roster this spring.

Schelke sees the Lakers, Marlette and Caro as the teams to beat in the Conference.

The opening game—with Reese Tuesday was snowed out. Now the Hawks' first scheduled game is at Frankenmuth April 20.

Rebuilt Hawk softball team ready to open season players.

First team all-conference players Beth Sieradzki and Shelly LaPeer have graduated as have second team selections Tena LaRoche and Shirley Fleming. Beabe McLachlan, honorable mention, also graduated.

The Hawks will miss Fleming on the mound. She was a flame throwing hurler before injury slowed her down in mid-season last year.

Lukshaitis sees defending champions Caro, North Branch and Lakers as teams to beat in the Thumb B this spring.

Lukshaitis has a little more time now to assess the talent on the team as Tuesday's opening game with Reese was cancelled because of snow, snow, snow.

If the club had been on the field for the scheduled opener the coach figures that Jill Root would have been on the mound with Kris Proctor catching.

Third base duties would be handled by either Deanna Hempton or Sherri Stec with the girl not on the hot corner playing in the outfield. The keystone combination features Karen Nurnberger at second and Jamie Fox at shortstop while Jill Hutchinson will play first.

Other outfielders will be Sherry Horner and Kristy Deering.

Lukshaitis may be hard pressed to better last year's 6-8 conference and 16-11 overall record. That's because he lost a host of good

True Facts About Your Schools

Concern: The school is wasting money and not operating economically. Too many frills are offered to our students.

Answer: This year our school is operating on 21.9 mills which is the lowest in the Tuscola Intermediate District and 3 mills less than the average in the same district. Had we been operating at the Tuscola County average, we would have spent an additional $300,000.00.

Many people talk about waste, but the facts point out that your school district is operating on a tight budget.

Farm Bureau adds play-off title to regular season championship

Farm Bureau proved that winning the regular season championship in the Cass City Recreational League was no fluke by adding the post season play-off championship to its regular season crown.

Form was followed in every game of the one-game elimination tourney. Farm Bureau took the crown with a narrow, 53-51, decision over Shetler's Saturday afternoon in the finals.

Shetler's was runner-up in regular season play.

It was close all the way. The Farmers jumped off to a 14-8 first period lead but the Plumbers came roaring back to lead by a point, 23-22, at the intermission.

It was anybody's game all through the final two quarters with neither team able to establish any kind of a lead. At the end of three quarters Farm Bureau led, 36-34, and then hung on in the last period to score the win.

Tom Koch, 21 points, and Brent Mowry, 16, led the winners, while Jack Paul netted 17 and Paul Beachy, 11, for Shetler's.

Farm Bureau worked its way to the semi-finals with a 72-59 decision over Charmont Monday, March 29, in the first round. Farm Bureau led all the way and used a big second quarter advantage to jump ahead, 37-22, at the half, and then protected the lead in the final two periods.

Koch with 23 and Mark Gainforth, 16, led Farm Bureau while Norm Stephens, Dale Rieck and Dirk Sutherland scored 11 each for Charmont.

Farm Bureau got to the finals with a second round decision over Elkton Merchants last Wednesday, 70-59.

To win, the champions had to come from behind. Elkton jumped out to a 17-16 first quarter lead and the score was tied at the half, 28-28.

Farm Bureau took command in the third quarter with a big 18-4 advantage and then coasted in for the victory.

Randy Adlam, 22, Koch, 18, and Dennis Dunkel, 12, were in double figures for Farm Bureau while Todd Weisenbaugh, 19, and Aaron Deering, 12, paced the scoring for Elkton.

Elkton got to the semi-finals with an 83-67 decision over McMahan's.

After an even first quarter, Elkton outscored McMahan's, 26-16, in the second period to lead by 10 at the half. After an even third period Elkton rallied to put the game out of reach.

Jim Schramski, 32, Deering, 26, and Weisenbaugh, 10, led Elkton while Leon Kaniszewski, 28, and Jason Koehler, 11, topped McMahan's.

Shetler's got to the finals with wins over Stevenson's, 70-65, and Erla's, 86-52.

Shetler's and Stevenson's split during the regular season and a close game was expected. It turned out to be exactly that as Stevenson's jumped in front, 18-17, after one period only to see Shetler's bounce back for a 37-34 lead at the intermission.

At the end of the third quarter it was a two-point game, 52-50, but Shetler's had enough to hold off Stevenson's in the crucial final period to score the win.

Jack Paul led the winners with 24 while Tim Bates and Jeff McKenzie each scored 15 for Stevenson's.

Erla's got to the semi-finals with a forfeit over Holmes and Walpole. The Foodmen were no match for Shetler's, which jumped out to a first quarter lead and increased it to 37-26 at the half and coasted to the win.

Paul Beachy scored 20 points and Kent Shetler, 16, for the winners while Roy Calahan led Erla's with 21 points.

RUN FOR CASH -- Conditions were less than ideal last Wednesday as approximately 70 Cass City High School track team members ran an average of five miles each. The pledges they received for each mile run raised about $1,500 for the Boosters Club. Kevin Bliss and Scott Hobart ran the most miles in one hour, eight. Top female runner was Carrie Lautner with seven miles.

Leach faces manslaughter charge for Bruner death

Roger Leach, charged with manslaughter in connection with the Jan. 29 traffic accident that took the life of Cass City school teacher Bonnie Bruner, was bound over Friday to circuit court for arraignment.

Tuscola County District Judge Richard F. Kern at a preliminary examination ordered Leach bound over on the manslaughter charge.

The defendant, 26, of 5688 Hugh Drive, Lot 50, Millington, will be arraigned before Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn April 19. He is free on $10,000 personal recognizance bond.

Leach is charged with having committed manslaughter because he was driving under the influence of liquor when his pickup crossed the centerline on M-15, south of Vassar, and crashed into her oncoming car, which resulted in her death.

Farmers to be aided by new law

A deregulation proposal that will save Michigan cattle farmers an estimated $100,000 a year has been signed into law by the Governor effective immediately.

Sponsored by State Rep. Keith Muxlow (R-Brown City), the bill eliminates the required tuberculin test before cattle are sold or transported within the state.

It is the first of 11 bills designed to cut back on needless government regulations, ferreted out by a Regulatory Review Task Force assigned by Governor William Milliken.

Muxlow said there has not been a single case of tuberculosis identified in Michigan cattle in the past 15 years. "This requirement is one of many out-dated state restrictions that need to be removed from the books," he said. "It did the job that it was intended to do, now we can remove it because it is no longer necessary."

"Farmers will save because they will no longer be required to pay veterinarians to test their cattle before being sold," Muxlow said. Approximately 2,500 animals are presently checked per month.

The representative said that the state's high meat standards will not be affected by dropping the TB test. "Animals will still be inspected when they go for slaughter," he said, "and that will give us a back-up check in event the disease crops up again. Cattle that are exported beyond Michigan's boundaries will still require the test, and that's an additional check."

Fishing info available toll-free

Anglers planning to go steelhead fishing in Michigan this spring can find out where they are biting, what they are biting, and even if they are biting by calling the Michigan Travel Bureau's toll-free, recorded conditions report line.

Fishing buffs can dial 800-292-5404.

The recorded message will give current fishing conditions, popular bait information, "hot spots" throughout the state, and a word or two about festivals and events taking place in Michigan. The report is updated as often as conditions demand and available 24 hours a day.

Walbro honors 3 retiring employees

Three veteran employees at Walbro Corporation retired on the same day, Thursday, and have nearly the same plans for the years ahead.

Orval Hutchinson, Phyllis Pelton and Theda Seeger all say that travel and catching up on things around home are on the retirement agenda.

Hutchinson, who retires after 10 years because he is

The ancient Greeks tried to make rain by dipping oak branches in water.

65, can see time spent in Florida as well as other trips ahead.

Mrs. Pelton said that she plans to sleep to 8 a.m. every morning and do all the things that have been let slide at home.

I'll probably do a little travelling, she says, as well as have more time for my three grandchildren. Mrs. Pelton worked in five different departments at Walbro during her 26 years with the company.

Mrs. Seeger plans to do a lot of travelling. "You name it and I'm ready," she says. Right now her plans call for "doing the States" as she already has logged a trip to Europe.

Mrs. Seeger has 27 years at Walbro where she worked in the factory, as pre-assembly foreman and with manufacturing personnel.

A box of candy was presented to the retirees at the retirement luncheon held at the plant last Wednesday.

W.E. Walpole, chairman of the board, lauded the work of the three retirees and told about the prospects at Walbro.

He said that plans are underway that should provide a new impetus forward for Walbro in the very near future. He also told of his recent trip to the Far East and showed pictures taken while there.

2 sent to hospital after Friday crash

Two Cass City area residents were treated and released from Caro Community Hospital following a 9 p.m. accident Friday.

They were Kathy J. Stevenson, 17, the driver, and one of three passengers, Fredrick M. Stevenson, 14, both of 4774 Lamton Road.

Caro state police reported their car was eastbound on Deckerville Road, west of Hurds Corner Road, when she lost control. The vehicle went off the north side of the road and traveled about 120 feet, rolling over in the process onto its top.

Miss Stevenson was ticketed on a charge of driving left of center. She told troopers she didn't remember why she had lost control.

Yvonne M. Schultz, 54, of 4741 N. Seeger Street, was ticketed by Cass City police on a charge of failure to yield following a 3 p.m. accident Monday.

They reported she was westbound on Huron Street, failed to yield at the yield sign at Oak Street and her vehicle struck the right side of a northbound car.

Driver of the car was Cathy A. Smith, 34, of 5074 Schwegler Road.

At 3 a.m. Monday, according to village police, Robert L. Biebel, 32, of 7537 Bay City-Forestville Road, was northbound on Cemetery Road, north of Milligan Road, when his vehicle went off the west side of the road and struck a utility pole. He told officers he had fallen asleep.

Village police said that at 6:50 p.m. Monday, Linda Sue Mika, 32, of 4021 Decker Road, Decker, was eastbound on M-81, east of Krapf Road, when her car collided with a deer.

Caro state police reported that at 5:30 p.m. Monday, Donald W. Stewart Jr., 18, of Caro, was westbound on Muck Road, east of Hurds Corner Road, when he lost control of his car after swerving to miss a deer.

The vehicle traveled sideways for 40 feet, hit a tree stump off the south edge of the road and rolled over.

At 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 30, according to troopers, Kevin L. Woodward, 19, of 6950 Severance Road, Cass City, was northbound on Lamton Road, north of Deckerville Road, when he slowed for a dip in the road.

The road caved in and the front wheels of his vehicle dropped into a broken culvert tube, resulting in front end damage. There was heavy rain that evening.

State police said Richard W. Remmert, 30, of Gladwin, was eastbound on M-46, east of Kingston, at 7:40 p.m. Sunday when his auto collided with a deer.

Sheriff's deputies reported that at 1 a.m. last Thursday, Edward Periso, 40, of 6206 Barrett Road, Kingston, and Ray Periso, 46, of 4617 State Street, Gageton, were both westbound on Deckerville Road, near Hurds Corner Road.

Ray Periso told officers Edward was trying to run him off the road. Edward Periso said he was passing Ray when Ray ran into him. The vehicles sideswiped each other.

Gagetown seeks bids for trash

The Gagetown Village Council Monday evening decided to solicit bids for trash pickup in the village.

Its present contract with Crve Sanitation Service of Bad Axe expires in June. Village property owners are billed $11.25 every three months for the service.

During the week of May 3-7, village workmen will pick up branches, old furniture, and other discards to be disposed of for free. No garbage will be accepted.

The council decided to pay the cost for village police officer Marc Bridson to take emergency medical technician's training on week ends.

A motion was made to have Layne Northern Co. of Lansing inspect one of the two village water well pumps and make any needed repairs.

The village will buy some needed tools for its maintenance men. There was some discussion about the park.

CORRECTION

The article in last week's Chronicle about Gagetown's 1982-83 budget incorrectly said $25,956 listed in revenue as charges for services was rental payment for use of village-owned equipment.

The bookkeeping procedure actually represents reimbursement to the general fund for wages paid from it for work done in projects budgeted in separate accounts, according to Village Clerk Elery Sontag.

For instance, if a village workman works on major streets, the general fund is reimbursed out of the major street fund for the work he did on the streets, since his pay comes out of the general fund.

Owendale-Gagetown property transfers

Goslin damage suit settled out of court for $90,000

An out-of-court settlement has been reached in the law suit filed by Keith Goslin as administrator of the estate of his daughter, Marsha, who was killed in a Nov. 7, 1977, traffic accident.

The settlement was presented to and signed by Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn March 30, the day a trial of the suit was to begin. It calls for the estate of Marsha Goslin to receive $90,000 in damages. Goslin filed suit against the Tuscola County Road Commission and a paving contractor, Frank Strausberg and Son of Oakley, after his daughter, then 11, was killed in an accident on Bay City-Forestville Road, west of Gagetown.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her sister, Brenda, which went out of control and struck a tree.

The suit claimed that as a result of just completed repaving done by Strausberg for the Road Commission, the road surface was 5-8 inches above the shoulder on the north side of the road and when the right front tire of the Goslin auto slipped off the edge of the pavement, the driver lost control, which resulted in the accident.

The suit originally sought a total of $654,000 in damages from the two defendants.

It became more complicated when the Road Commission sued Strausberg, and the contractor and the Road Commission sued Goslin on the grounds that he was negligent in entrusting his daughter to drive the car, according to Goslin's attorney, Robert E. Kleeb of Howell.

As part of the negotiated settlement, all the parties agreed to drop the cross-suits and Joslyn dismissed the matter "with prejudice," meaning none of the parties involved can ever go back to court in the matter.

Kleeb said it is up to the Road Commission and Strausberg and Son to determine what share each will pay as part of the $90,000 settlement. The money will actually come from their insurance companies.

As the suit involved a death, Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr. also had to approve the settlement, Kleeb said, which he has done.

Once the settlement has been paid, the attorney must submit a document specifying how the settlement will be split among the heirs, which Kent must also approve.

According to the court record, of the $90,000, there is $25,538 in fees due to the law firm of Barley and Kleeb, plus reimbursable costs of $847, leaving $63,614 for the estate.

Although the state law governing transfer of property from one school district to another may not have been intended by the legislature when it approved it as a means of dissolving a school district, lawmakers did not intend to require a public vote on all property transfers.

That, in essence, was what the Michigan Supreme Court ruled in its 4-3 decision released last Wednesday upholding the 1976 vote of the state Board of Education to transfer the Goslin territory from the Owendale-Gagetown to the Cass City School District.

Owen-Gage's long and now unsuccessful struggle to keep the territory, almost all in Elmwood Township, with a very small piece in Columbia, is understandable in terms of what its loss means in revenue.

Had the Goslin territory remained part of the district, it would have meant $139,065 more in property tax revenue for operations during the present school year from the owners of the 42 parcels in it.

Owen-Gage last collected revenue from the Goslin territory for 1977.

The high court did not answer two questions that remain. Owen-Gage's annual audits, citing the opinion of the district's attorney, James F. Schouman, have said that Owen-Gage is entitled to the revenue as long as the matter was in court, regardless of whatever the Supreme Court decided.

The other question is whether the Goslin property owners are liable for the bond issue approved by district taxpayers in 1975 that paid for the high school addition completed in early 1979.

Their position is that an agreement signed in 1976 exempted them from paying the debt millage, in exchange for which they agreed to drop further legal action to try to stop the sale of the bonds.

The attorney for the Goslin property owners, Robert E. Kleeb of Howell, disagrees with Schouman. He said that Owen-Gage must repay to the property owners any operational or debt levy money it collected from them in property taxes after the state board approved the transfer.

Following is the summary of the Supreme Court's decision, written by its reporter of decisions, with some minor revisions by the Chronicle, outlining the history of the case, the majority opinion and the dissenting opinion:

HISTORY

In May, 1975, the State Board of Education approved the request of certain citizens of the Owendale-Gagetown School District to transfer property constituting 8.4 percent of the latest available taxable valuation to the Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port (Lakers) School District. (This was the Elenbaum property.)

In May, 1976, the state board approved the request of other Owen-Gage citizens to transfer property from the district comprising 9.2 percent of the latest available taxable valuation, to the Cass City School District. (The Goslin property.)

The Owen-Gage district brought action against the state board challenging the approval of the transfer to Cass City on the grounds the combined total of the latest available taxable valuation of the Lakers and Cass City transfers was 17.6 percent and thus exceeded the limit provided in the School Code of 1955 on property transfers without approval by the electors of the district.

Ingham County Circuit Judge James T. Kallman reversed the state board's order, determining that the valuation limit provided in the code was cumulative, that the total valuation of the properties exceeded that limit and that approval by Owen-Gage voters was required.

The Michigan Court of Appeals reversed Kallman's decision.

Certain individual electors of the Owen-Gage district were added as plaintiffs and certain Goslin property owners intervened as defendants.

Kallman again reversed the state board's approval of the transfer and again the appeals court reversed his decision, thus upholding the transfer.

Owen-Gage then appealed to the Supreme Court.

MAJORITY DECISION

The decision of Chief Justice Mary Coleman, joined by Justices G. Mennen Williams, John W. Fitzgerald and James L. Ryan, held that:

The provision of the School Code of 1955 which required approval by the voters of a transfer of school district territory valued in excess of 10 percent of the latest available taxable valuation of the entire district must be construed as only requiring approval of single transfers in which the areas to be detached exceed the 10 percent limit.

The statute cannot easily be read to require approval of transfers which cumulatively with previous transfers exceeded the limit, nor does a literal reading produce an absurd or unjust result, clearly inconsistent with the purposes and policies of the school code, sufficient to justify a departure from such reading.

The plaintiff's assertion that the state board's approval of the transfer was arbitrary and capricious so as to constitute an abuse of discretion was not briefed on initial appeal to the circuit court. The appeals court determined that the issue had therefore been abandoned in the circuit court.

The plaintiffs (Owen-Gage) have not provided any reasons to conclude that the appeals court erred in holding that the issue was abandoned.

MINORITY OPINION

Dissenting from the majority opinion upholding the transfer were Justices Blair Moody Jr., Thomas Giles Kavanagh and Charles L. Levin.

Their opinion was that the provision in the school code which requires voter approval of a transfer of school district territory valued in excess of 10 percent of the latest available taxable valuation of the entire school district must be construed as requiring voter approval of any transfer which cumulatively with prior transfers exceeds the 10 percent limit.

This interpretation gives effect to the spirit and purpose of the statute, which is to permit minor alterations in school district boundaries to be accomplished in a simple manner without a vote of the people, but to protect the territorial and fiscal integrity of school districts by preventing piecemeal annexation or destruction of a district without a vote.

Other provisions of the school code show a legislative policy of requiring a vote whenever a school district is scheduled to disappear or whenever there is to be a significant alteration or detachment of property. A literal reading of the 10 percent statute would lead to a result incompatible with the legislative intent.

Cass City police ticketed a man on a charge of disorderly person in a public place after he was stopped while walking naked along Pine Street Tuesday night, March 30. Police took him home.

The matter was turned over to the prosecutor's office, Police Chief Gene Wilson said, which will apparently attempt to have the man receive counseling and foster care.

Police investigated a reported assault involving two teenage boys at Cass City High School, reported at 5:36 p.m. last Wednesday. A report was turned over to the prosecutor's office, but as of Wednesday morning, no decision has been made whether there will be any prosecution.

LIGHT CLASSICAL MUSIC was the theme of a concert Friday evening at the First Presbyterian Church. Performing, from left, were Janice Roll, piano (Sherry Schwartz turned the pages), Andrea Hofmeister, soprano; Annie Eichler, flute; Laura Witzak, flute, and Susan Reim, cello.

THE CATHEDRAL QUARTET inspired several hundred persons who heard the gospel group perform last Thursday in the Cass City High School gym. The Cass City Laymen's Club sponsored the appearance of the Stow, Ohio, group.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS -- Cass City School Supt. Donald Crouse as he talked about the April 30 millage proposals at the Novesta Township annual meeting.

For starters, the loss of 30 students means a loss of about $45,000 in state aid. But to pink slip one teacher for those 30 students, however, would mean a savings of only about $15,000, so that still leaves $30,000 to be made up.

Also, 109 fewer students this year works out to about nine per grade, or about two or three per classroom, which isn't enough to get by with fewer teachers. "You just can't lay off teachers for every youngster you lose," Crouse commented.

The superintendent was asked about half-day sessions. That would save on teacher salaries, since in theory each staff member could teach twice as many students, but transportation costs would increase with two shifts of students per day.

WHY ISN'T SOMETHING being done about reducing teacher pay, asked another questioner.

Crouse explained the school board doesn't negotiate directly with its teachers but with the Tri-County Bargaining Association, with the majority of the members of the negotiating team being non-Cass City teachers.

There is one year to go on the present contract with teachers. They are scheduled to receive a 10 percent pay increase the final year.

In reply to another question, Crouse responded the school board would have to ask the TCBA to negotiate if the board wanted a pay freeze or cut.

Hobart said he had talked to a board member of a nearby school district the day before who said his board was contemplating asking teachers to accept a pay freeze. The board is anticipating the teachers will say "no."

Hobart's conclusion was that it isn't easy to say do something about teachers' wages and then do it.

Why not make some cuts at the top, someone suggested, for instance, the high school assistant principal or a counselor.

Compared to other school districts, Crouse responded, Cass City's administrative costs are low. He added that University of Michigan accreditation standards set certain criteria, one of which is for a school the size of Cass City High School, there should be an assistant principal.

A QUESTION ASKED AT the Novesta meeting and at the Cass City Village Council meeting March 30, where Crouse and Mrs. Priessorn appeared, concerned what happens should the millage fail.

The legislature during the past year changed the law that required school districts to provide busing. Now they don't have to. (The newsletter being circulated by the Boosters Club and other groups says busing must be provided, which is no longer true.)

Crouse said if drastic cuts are required and he is given a choice, he would rather go to half-day sessions than eliminate transportation, because the latter would upset a lot of persons. "If we had to discontinue transportation, we're going to have real problems," he said at the council meeting. About two-thirds of Cass City students ride buses.

However, he and the school board may not have a choice.

The superintendent explained that the state board of education must approve half-day sessions. Its position is that all other possible cuts should be made first, plus it requires for half-days that inequalities be spread throughout the system. That would mean no half-days for elementary students, for instance, and full-days for secondary students.

Thus, the school board may have to eliminate busing before it can get approval for half-day sessions.

Editor's note: The Chronicle will explore the millage proposals in depth prior to the election.

Taking stock

Dear Boss:

In the last letter I was pretty harsh on the island of St. Thomas in the American Virgins in the Caribbean.

Believe me, it was well-deserved. Refer the squawks from the Chamber of Commerce to me.

If carnival midways such as St. Thomas are not your cup of tea, the Caribbean fortunately offers other islands that are nice.

While many are not what they used to be, there are some here and there quite improved over days of yore.

One place I had expected nothing of was Guadeloupe, the French island once among the richest of the Caribbean.

My memory is a little hazy, and I wasn't there at the time, but I think it was at a treaty signed between England and France at Vienna that England was given clear title to all Canada, and in exchange gave up its claims to Guadeloupe.

I had always referred to Guadeloupe as "a real nothing" after three visits there over the years. This time was serendipitous. We had a grand day at the capital, Pointe a Pitre, and a beautiful drive out to the eastern tip of the island, Des Chateaux.

There at the rocky headland was the rip-roarin' est surf I had ever seen. Swells from a 3,000-mile stretch of the Atlantic thundered into a little bay, turning it into a cauldron of foam and spray. It made me twitch to think of being set onto this coast in a sailboat as you tried to claw away from this lee shore.

It was one of the great sights of the whole trip that took us to 10 islands in the lesser Antilles.

Another island that had improved over the years was St. Kitts, the one Columbus liked so well he named it after himself. It always was majestically handsome from the sea, but the port of Basse Terre was crummy. No more. It had been spruced up, painted up, and tidied up after a no-litter crusade.

We found some of the best stores of all the islands, indeed smarter than the ones in big and highly-touted Barbados.

And of course, there's the famous Fort Charles atop Brimstone Hill. Called modestly enough the Gibraltar of the West Indies, there's nothing else to compare in the Caribbean. It has been restored to quite an extent, and the grounds and buildings are clean and ship-shape.

The views of course were wonderful, but the real thrill is from the sense of history you feel. The place calls up the great admirals of two centuries ago, Rodney and DeGrasse.

This fortress was the key to control of the riches of the West Indies and there were some bitter battles fought over it. The last time around, the English were on top, but like the other isles, St. Kitts changed sides as often as a Ping-Pong ball.

St. Kitts will be on our list next time we go back to the area.

Antigua is another we'd like to see more of. The famed Nelson's Dockyard now full of yachts, but it still maintains its character.

Fig Tree Drive around the southern part of the island was one we found delightful. While there are too many tourists, Antigua seems to be able to handle them without becoming honky-tonk in the process.

Leaving the Caribbean at its southern end, we sail up the mighty Orinoco, fifth largest in the world. For 150 miles from the mouth, we saw little that had been changed since it was first discovered five centuries ago. The dugout canoes of the Indians now have outboards.

At the first sign of civilization, at Ciudad Guayana, a city built in the past 20 years to serve steel and aluminum industries of the interior, we boarded a DC-9 to fly to Angel Falls, highest in the world — 3,200 feet, mind you.

So remote are the falls that they weren't known to the white man until 1935, when a bush pilot, Jimmy Angel, crashed his Flamingo plane on a plateau nearby, survived and made it back to civilization to tell of his discovery.

Our pilot of the DC-9 handled the plane like a Piper Cub, threaded it through the canyon, its rocky walls within spitting distance, except my mouth was too dry.

Besides Angel Falls there were a dozen others in view at the same time, all many times as high as Niagara. It was a sight still not many have ever seen.

It was a notable part of a trip that was mostly cruising over some 2,000 miles of ocean south from San Juan.
