

SPRING PASTIMES — Until this Wednesday, weather during spring vacation has been less than ideal. But despite cloudy skies and cool temperatures, youngsters have kept busy outdoors, enjoying such activities as roller skating, making a play house, shooting baskets and playing baseball.

Cass City only district without board contest

Only one candidate will be running for the Cass City School Board in the June 14 school election.

Voters in surrounding districts will have a choice.

The only candidate to file by the 4 p.m. Monday deadline for the one four-year term open on the Cass City board was Richard Wallace of 4693 N. Seeger Street.

J.D. Tuckey, who is serving his eighth year on the board, decided not to seek reelection. "It's time for somebody else with kids in school to take their turn," he told the Chronicle.

In the Owendale-Gagetown district, three candidates are running for the two seats open.

Two are those whose terms are expiring, Duane Ziehm of 7927 McAlpine Road, Owendale, who has served four years, and Jack Brinkman of 6057 N. Dodge Road, Cass City, who has served eight years.

The third candidate running is Donna Salcido, who lives in Gagetown.

Eight mills are expiring. The school board will decide in May how many mills it will request June 14.

Four candidates are running in the Kingston district for the two vacancies. They are Gary Koehler, 3850 S. English Road, Kingston, a present member of the board; Jeffrey A. Newton, 3906 S. Hurds Corner Road, Mayville; Sue Ann Savicke, 3575 Ross Street, Kingston, and Wesley Scott, 5932 English Road, Silverwood.

The other incumbent whose term is expiring, James Glassford, isn't seeking reelection.

Kingston has 15 mills expiring. Running in the Ubyli district for the two vacancies on the board are David Ruthig, N. Washington Avenue, Ubyli, who is an incumbent; Kenneth Dekoski, Polk Road, Ruth, who served on the board from 1974-78, and Alfred Grifka, Priemer Road, Ubyli.

Clarence Heleski, the other incumbent whose term is expiring, circulated nominating petitions, but didn't file them by the deadline.

Ubyli doesn't have any millage expiring, but the board has decided to ask voters June 14 to approve two additional mills for school operations for five years.

No pay until later Owen-Gage of money for salaries

The Owendale-Gagetown District has again run out of money to pay its staff, who now won't see another paycheck until July at the earliest.

The school board was informed of that fact at its meeting Monday evening, the greatest portion of which was spent in sometimes heated discussion about purchase of two bus engines.

Paydays resumed in January after teachers, bus drivers, etc., had last been paid in mid-September. After property tax revenue started coming in, each past due payroll was processed, one at a time.

Supt. Ronald Erickson reported to the board that everyone has now been paid through Feb. 26.

After payment of bills and payrolls were approved by the board Monday, that left the district with a balance on hand of about $100,000.

The superintendent expects to receive about $65,000 yet in delinquent taxes, but the total must be used to pay any pressing bills, leaving none for salaries.

Pay won't resume until mid-July at the earliest, after Owen-Gage receives permission from the Municipal Finance Commission (MFC) to borrow money in anticipation of receipt of property taxes starting in December.

However, there could be a big obstacle, Erickson warned the board.

The recent Michigan Supreme Court decision that the Goslin territory is part of the Cass City district puts into jeopardy property taxes Owen-Gage claims it should have received instead of Cass City as long as the matter was in the courts. Involved is a total of at least $280,000.

The problem, he explained, is that the annual audit includes that revenue. Without it, Owen-Gage would be in the red on paper as well as in actuality.

The district needs a plan to show how it intends to return to a balanced budget. If the state Department of Education feels the plan wouldn't get Owen-Gage out of the red, it could recommend to the MFC that it deny permission for the district to borrow the money in anticipation of property taxes.

Part of the plan will be the 3 mill increase for three years approved by voters last November, which was intended to get Owen-Gage on a sound financial footing even without the Goslin revenue by the end of the three years.

What could ease the situation is a proposal being considered by the legislature that would allow or require summer tax collections.

BUS ENGINES

Two representatives of Osentoski Equipment Inc. of Pigeon were at the meeting to discuss problems with two bus engines.

The first problem concerned a $3,705 bill from the firm for rebuilding of a bus engine, including a new block, head and carburetor. The board had tabled payment of the bill at its March meeting pending further investigation.

Board member Jack Brinkman learned that had the engine been rebuilt by a Caro firm, using the original block, the cost would have been only $1,200-1,300.

During the discussion, it was determined Osentoski had been given the go-ahead by the school administration to do the work, without checking into alternatives, so the board voted to pay the bill.

The other issue involved replacement or repair of a bus engine that was heavily damaged March 23 from overheating. A new engine is needed. The bus, purchased in 1980, had about 30,000 miles on it.

Although the warranty expired at 12,000 miles, Darrell Rievert of Osentoski persuaded the district service manager of International Harvester, manufacturer of the bus, to pay one-third of the cost for a new engine. Osentoski agreed to pay the total reimbursement to half. Owen-Gage would pay the rest.

A letter read at the meeting from the service manager, however, said the deal was off because in a telephone conversation with Erickson, the superintendent had hung up on him and had since made himself "unavailable" whenever the man called back.

Erickson denied he had hung up on the man, commenting, "If he wants to play word games, I'll play word games."

Brinkman responded, "That won't get us anywhere. What are you going to do, go to court?"

Don Osentoski of Osentoski Equipment said the new engine and installation would cost $3,729 and the board finally voted to have a new engine installed, provided it only has to pay half that.

Rievert said he would try to persuade the International Harvester service manager to restore the one-third offer, with Osentoski paying the difference between a third and a half. He will let Owen-Gage know if the representative refuses to change his mind and then the board will have to decide what to do.

OTHER BUSINESS

Former counselor Bonnie Kleinau and the district are appealing the findings of a Michigan Employment Security Commission hearing officer regarding unemployment compensation for her.

Mrs. Kleinau was pink-slipped in the spring of 1981. In August, she was offered a counseling and home economics position, but not full-time. She turned down the job.

The MESOC office in Bad Axe ruled she was entitled to unemployment compensation during the summer of 1981 until she was offered employment, but was not eligible for the period after that, since she was refusing employment.

Both sides appealed and the MESOC hearing officer ruled the opposite, so both are appealing again. The appeals will now be heard by a three-member tribunal.

A resolution was approved by the board authorizing the June 14 school election. At the May meeting, the board will set the amount of millage to be voted on. Eight mills are expiring.

Four arrested in drug raid

Execution of a search warrant at an Argyle Township home late Friday afternoon resulted in the arrest of four persons on drug related charges and seizure of suspected LSD and marijuana with an estimated street value of $13,000.

The "raid" was conducted by six police officers from the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department and Lapeer County Intelligence Unit.

Arraigned Monday before Sanilac County District Judge Richard P. Riordan, as a result of their arrests, were Gill and Glenda Lober, 26 and 21 respectively, of 1731 W. Deckerville Road, Snover, the address of the home, and Jeffery and Debra Edwards, both 30 of the same address in Port Huron.

The Labers are each charged with five counts of manufacture-delivery of controlled substances. They were released from the county jail on $10,000 surety bond each with preliminary examination scheduled April 22.

The Edwards are each charged with possession of a controlled substance, a misdemeanor, and were released on personal recognizance bond. Their trial was scheduled May 6.

A fifth person was taken into custody at the time the search warrant was executed, according to Sanilac County Chief Assistant Prosecutor James V. Young, but was released after a few hours after it was determined he was not involved with any criminal offenses.

After 41 years on Main Street, Bernard Ross decides to retire

If it hadn't been for the Depression, Bernard Ross might never have been a merchant on Main Street for 41 years.

Now, after having operated the Federated Store since 1941, he has decided it is time to retire.

Ross, 66, has been conducting a going-out-of-business sale since March 31 and expects to close his doors for the last time by the end of May.

The merchant grew up on a farm northeast of Cass City, one of 11 children, and graduated from Cass City High School in 1933. That was during the height of the Depression "and I just couldn't get a job."

He thus decided to attend Ferris State College in Big Rapids. He earned his way through college by working summers on Mackinac Island and by borrowing "a little here and there." He graduated in 1937 with a degree in business administration.

He got a job as an accountant with a Mount Pleasant auto dealer. The community at that time was booming because of an oil boom in the area.

Ross wanted to return to his home town, however, and in September of 1937, did so when he got a job with Chevrolet dealer Horace Bulen. He was originally office manager and later got into sales.

IN FEBRUARY, 1941, came an opportunity he couldn't turn down. He and brothers Fred and Horace Pinney purchased Pinney Dry Goods from the Pinneys' mother.

The Pinney brothers, who worked at the bank, were silent partners. Ross operated the business. "It looked like an opportunity for me to get into business," he explained.

Ross bought the Pinney brothers' shares of the business in 1965. He bought the building about 20 years ago.

Pinney Dry Goods at the time occupied only half the space of the present store. There was a hardware next door, which was purchased in 1946, and the store expanded to its present size.

When the store was expanded, the shoe department was added and the amount of clothing offered was expanded.

The business became the Federated Store a few years after Ross started operating it. Federated was a franchise operation which had its own brand name clothes. It has long since folded but the name in Cass City remained.

OVER THE YEARS, THE veteran merchant has noticed two changes. One is that customers are now more fashion conscious. "You have to be more alert to fashion than you did 40 years ago, be alert to trends."

The other change is more recent. "Prices have really skyrocketed the last three years due to inflation. I've never seen anything like that before in my life."

When Ross started in business, a pair of overalls cost $1.98, a work shirt was 98 cents and some cheap work shoes could be purchased for $3.98.

Now the overalls are about $20, the shirt is $9 and the shoes are $36.

Although these are not the best of times, Ross said they don't come close to being as bad as the Depression and won't "unless it continues on. We've had these ups and downs (before)."

It was the death of Betty Jo Agar last September that led to Ross' decision to retire. She had worked for him for 35 years, did a lot of the merchandise buying and ran the store in his absence.

With her passing, it meant more work for him and he didn't feel like traipsing someone else.

HE DIDN'T THINK ANYONE interested in buying his business would want his merchandise or fixtures, so figured he was better off selling his stock. When it's gone, he will close.

He has had a couple of prospects interested in the building, so is optimistic it won't stay empty for long.

Ross is proud of the fact that he was one of the 10 original investors in the Cass City Industrial Development Corp., which was responsible for attracting Walbro to Cass City, and he was a charter member of the Chamber of Commerce. He served on its board of directors four years and was president one year.

ROSS AND HIS WIFE Loretta have six children: Shirley Law, Whitmore Lake; Jerry, Walled Lake; Richard, Ann Arbor; Bob, California; Sharon, who lives with her husband in Germany, where he serves with the military, and Mary, a high school senior.

Mrs. Ross helped at the store when needed and all the children worked at the store when they were growing up. Ross presently has four employees.

Some of his children returned home at the beginning of the going-out-of-business sale. Their father noted with amusement that they weren't used to standing all day, so after the first day of the sale, they all were tired, whereas he felt fine.

Free meal for good Samaritan

Belinda Mester has a free meal awaiting her at Veronica's Restaurant, courtesy of Veronica Gasczynski.

The restaurant owner lost her wallet last Wednesday morning, it having apparently fallen out of her purse while she was crossing Main Street downtown. She didn't expect to see it again.

The wallet contained cash — Mrs. Gasczynski doesn't care to say how much — and checks.

A few hours after she lost it, however, she had it back with everything still in it. Ms. Mester had found it and turned it in at the municipal building.

The good Samaritan has an address of 6551 Ritter Road, Cass City, but doesn't have a phone, so so far, Mrs. Gasczynski hasn't been able to call to thank her and offer her a free dinner, which she said will be her reward.

How did a grateful Mrs. Gasczynski feel when she got her purse back? "I would never expect that," she replied. "I was shocked when I got it back. How honest she was."

Elkland orders fire truck tank

The Elkland Township Fire Department should have its new tanker truck in about four weeks.

The township board Monday evening approved purchase of a stainless steel 3,100-gallon tank for the truck, to be constructed by Marcan Industries of Bay City at a price of $11,146.

The tank will have a 10-year warranty and was the lowest price obtained for a stainless steel tank, according to Township Clerk Carol Ware.

Marcan owner Jack McDaniel, an ex-Cass Cityan and Elkland fireman, was at the meeting, and after it was over, drove the tanker chassis to Bay City, she said. The chassis cost $24,423, which will mean the total cost of the new truck will be $35,569.

It will replace the present 1968 tanker, which carries 2,400 gallons of water and leaks.

In other action, the board discussed possible road work to be done this year but made no decisions.

Anderson, Nietzke and Co., Certified Public Accountants, of Caro, were hired to audit the township books for the fiscal year that ended March 31, at a cost not to exceed $1,850.

The board gave its okay to a Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) agreement for 80 acres on Muntz Road owned by William and Marlene Merchant.

BERNARD ROSS, who will soon be retiring, after having operated the Federated Store on Main Street since 1941.

"If It Fitz..."

"That's not sport"

By Jim Fitzgerald

"THERE GOES YOUR NO-HITTER, YOU BUM." That's what my father always hollered at a pitcher who gave up a hit to the first batter in the first inning. My father was never late for a ballgame for fear he'd miss a chance to yell that. I don't mean American League baseball at Tiger Stadium in Detroit. I mean Industrial League softball at Pine Grove Park in Port Huron. And I don't mean slow-pitch softball, for God's sake, I mean fast-pitch softball.

In sports, there have been many changes for the worse since my father died 20 years ago. Much of the worsening can be blamed on TV. A few weeks ago, for example, a TV sports program showed the exciting action of basketball scheduling, live and in color.

Honest. Thousands of yelling people sat around a basketball floor while cheerleaders begged for frenzy. There was no game. Basketball fans watched, in person and on TV, for the thrill of the draw. The drawers determined which teams would play where in the annual NCAA tournament. The breathless anticipation could be compared only to the gut-wrenching suspense usually associated with the football coin-toss.

There was even a schedule analyst saying such things as "the real surprise was the westward drift of eastern teams."

I wish my father had lived to see TV sports programming expanded to include such rugged tests of athletic ability as actresses competing for network honors in shirt stretching. It would have been fascinating to hear my dad's reaction to the split end who played college football in comparative privacy but accepted plaudits during prime time, with dancing girls in the background, while a gasping, billion-headed TV audience admired his sticky-fingered catch of a silver trophy.

My father's vocal disdain for such sports aberrations would have been marvelous to hear. Because he was born too soon, Dad's sports rooting—and razzing—was confined mostly to the playing field. He never yelled his awful no-hitter joke at a pitcher who couldn't hear him in person. But I think Dad would have adopted the increasingly 'popular' pastime of yelling at the TV set if he'd ever seen a pre-game show last longer than the game because Phyllis George had to perform in a different city than Jimmy the Greek so she couldn't tear his hair out for insulting her husband.

Every year, when baseball season returns, I remember my father getting up from the dinner table and walking out the back door, headed for Pine Grove Park, in the next block, to see the nightly softball games. Usually, I tagged along. In the early years, he'd put his hand on my little head and ask if I would someday be a big league pitcher. Later, when I was over 21 and six inches taller than Dad, he'd put his thumb on my scrawny chest and ask if I would someday get any kind of a job.

In those days, Port Huron had some of the best fast-pitch softball teams in the state. The players were young, muscular and swift. The pitchers threw curvy smoke and the final scores were usually 1-0 or 3-2. Dad liked that type of baseball because, in his youth, he'd been a low-hit hardball pitcher who almost made the major leagues. He would razz the batters joyfully for constantly whiffing, and he really was offended when a pitcher blew a no-hitter in the first inning.

Naturally, my father was outraged when slow-pitch softball began taking over local diamonds. The pitchers let the batters hit the ball! They threw looping slow-balls that old guys with huge stomachs knocked over the fence. Then they waddled around the bases. Final scores became 34-29 and 56-48.

"That's not sport—that's nonsense," he said then.

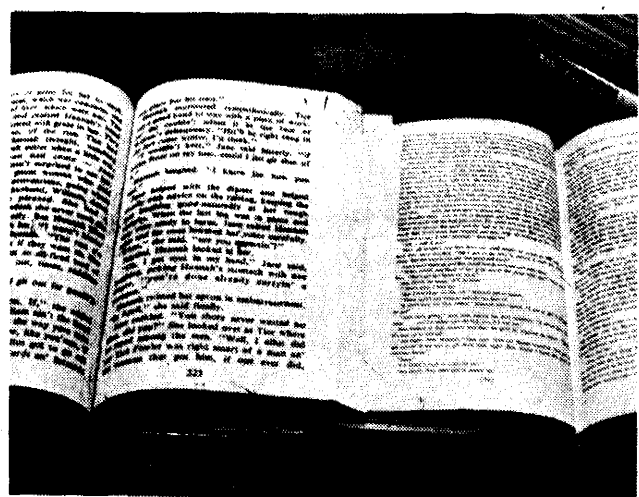

What would my father say today, at the sight of a Sunday afternoon TV show featuring the 18th round of the quarter-finals in the NCAA play-offs to determine the champion scheduler of wrist-wrestling matches between Zsa Zsa Gabor and Robert Conrad? If Dad were still alive, I'd love to hear his reactions to today's trash sports. We could talk about it while sitting in the bleachers at Pine Grove Park, waiting anxiously for the groundskeeper to throw out the first resin bag.

A TV show the other day outlined the troubles that the internal revenue department was having in collecting income taxes.

One of the big problems, according to the show, is the amount of skimming that occurs. More and more citizens are refusing to comply with our self-taxing system and paying less than their fair share.

The show said that small business, moonlighting cash-paid workers and persons like waiters and others that receive tips were the big offenders.

The reason for the upsurge in skimming was said to be that more and more persons see the system as unfair. There's little doubt that it is. For instance, why should a press in the Chronicle be taxed and a tractor on a farm not taxed?

Or why should the Chronicle be able to write off business expenses on a car and the fellow who drives 20 miles a day to work not be able to? The car is as vital to his job as a car is to the paper's.

That's just an example of course. Everywhere you look there are exemptions. Exemptions for senior citizens. Exemptions for farm land. Exemptions for oil companies. Exemptions for corporations. Exemptions, exemptions, exemptions.

No wonder the guy that has his taxes withheld before he even sees the money is revolting.

Every year stories surface about big shots making $1 million and paying no tax at all.

In theory an income tax is a good tax. Its rationale is that it taxes according to the ability to pay. Make more, pay more.

The trouble is that one pressure group after another comes to weak-kneed politicians and they apply a patch here, a patch there and the end result is a crazy, unfair patchwork quilt of taxes.

On the television show examining the income tax problem it was estimated that the skimming of income taxes amounts to enough money to about balance the deficit budget that faces the nation.

There are no figures available to estimate the amount of revenue that is lost from big earners through legal means.

It's sure that if everyone paid the same way that the guy that draws a weekly paycheck does, based on income only, with special exemptions eliminated, the state and the nation would be awash in money.

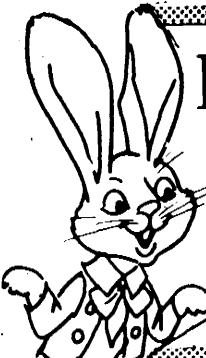

There's no realistic chance of any change for that. That's as sure as there's no real chance for the nation to have a balanced budget in the foreseeable future.

The best that we can hope for is that there will be some changes made down the road that will make the people with the ability to pay cough up a little more than they do today.

The only way that will happen is if the big trouble that the tax system is in today keeps getting worse.

If push comes to shove maybe the Washington politicians would even rescind the tax dodge they slipped through the congress for themselves last week.

But, if things get that tough, believe me, we're all in serious trouble.

Since Dick Wallace has no competition, it seems likely that he will be elected to the school board in June. While the proof of the pudding is in the eating, Wallace has a couple of things going for him. He'll be taking a seat without any preconceived bias about the school and judging by his record as secretary of bowling, golf and most every other group he belongs to, he'll be a worker.

It was surprising that there weren't more candidates for the school board this year. The regular meeting of the board has attracted more spectators this year than ever before, most with definite ideas on how the school should be operating.

Incidentally, the April board meeting is Monday, a week later than usual because of the Easter holiday.

Interest is high in the upcoming Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday, says President Tom Herron. Monday 300 tickets had been sold. That's more than usually attend and Herron feels that there will be 400 or more at Colony House when one of Cass City's most famous sons, Astronaut Brewster Shaw, comes home to speak.

Drafts are expensive

Experts say drafts are responsible for most of the heat loss (or air conditioning loss, in season) in the average home. You can combat the draft in your home if you caulk and weatherstrip all your doors and windows. Putty-like weatherstripping is inexpensive and can probably close most cracks.

Free events set at Rawson Library for annual library week

Rawson Memorial Library has numerous free activities planned next week to mark the 25th annual observance of National Library Week, April 18-24. The championship rounds of the Battle of the Books will take place Monday, starting at 7:15 p.m.

From the original 27 teams and 175 youngsters, the competition has been narrowed to the final four teams.

Competing for the third and fourth grade title will be the Mad Readers and Pizza. The Mad Readers are Ken Micklash, Steve Bills, Mike Bills, Josh Constat, Randy Johnson, Daniel Barriger, Mike Kolacz and manager Theresa Micklash. The Pizza team consists of Tim Rutkoski, Erik Erickson, Scott Davis, Sandy Lockard, Joseph Janssen and David Coe, with Rita Coe managing.

Kathy Marshall, Tanya Hatmaker, Timmy Albee, Roy Shaft, Terri Summers, Lana Harris and Lynn Weipert, with Linda Albee as manager, form the Book Worms. They will be competing for the fifth-sixth grade title against the Bookies, who are Amy Francis, Jeff Dillon, Patrick Murphy, John Merchant, Mark Albee, Michelle Koepf, Holly Wright and manager Sharon Francis.

At 7 p.m. Tuesday, the library will show the feature film, "The Trouble With Angels," starring Haley Mills and Rosalind Russell. The library will be open that evening at 6:30.

There will be a coffee hour and program Thursday for mothers of pre-school children. The story hour for preschoolers and the program for mothers will start at 10:30 a.m.

Members of Girl Scout Troop 826 have made posters for Library Week, which are on display. In addition, the library will start a new service that week. The library now has 24 large print books for the visually impaired, purchase of which was started with money donated in memory of the late Dr. K.I. MacRae.

Thanks to the assistance of the Lions Club, the library will be adding to the collection on a regular basis.

Board okays EDC for county

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday approved a resolution designating all of the county as the Economic Development Corp. project area for purposes of an agricultural and forestry enterprises program.

Once the recently formed EDC is fully operational, it will be able to sell bonds which will enable farmers to purchase equipment at a lower rate of interest.

The EDC will also be able to help finance industrial development through sale of bonds.

In other action, the board approved a one-year contract with Johnson Controls Inc. of Saginaw for $1,860, for maintenance of the courthouse, annex and jail heating controls. The amount is $500 less than was paid for the past year.

The board approved a change in the bylaws of the Thumb Area Substance Abuse Advisory Council to provide the admission of St. Clair County. Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac and Lapeer Counties are the original members of the council.

The board will meet with township supervisors at its April 27 meeting to consider the 1982 equalization report.

SERVICE RENDERED -- Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Chairman Paul Nagy Tuesday presented Dorothy Mantey of Fairgrove with a certificate from the board in appreciation of her having served as county representative on the East Central Michigan Health Systems Agency board of directors from 1968-81. Legislators mull bills to lift interest ceiling

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

Behind-the-scenes discussions on a package of bills that would allow increased ceilings on consumer loan interest rates are continuing in the Legislature.

Rep. James Defebaugh (R-Birmingham), sponsor of the bills, said whatever the discussions produce, there will almost certainly be a "floating" maximum rate on interest ceilings.

Legislation pending before the House of Representatives raising the various interest rate ceilings to 6-8 percent above the floating rate on 26-week treasury notes appears stalled until after the negotiations are completed.

Defebaugh, however, said he would not support a package that puts a float below the level set by the current package — 6 percent above the treasury bill coupon yield rate.

Opposition is coming from Democratic members through the United Auto Workers lobby, who contend the 6 percent float is too high for consumers.

The discussions are between officials of Gov. William G. Milliken's office, the office of the House Speaker Bobby Crim (D-Davison), labor groups and lending organizations.

Discussions began when it became apparent the bills would not pass the House after they were reported by the Corporations and Finance Committee.

Defebaugh said further negotiations are preferable to putting the bills up for an almost certain defeat.

Under the bills, the ceiling of loans such as auto loans could "float" no higher than 25 percent, the criminal usury level, while a secondary ceiling of 15 percent would also be in place.

Defebaugh said eliminating the secondary ceiling could be negotiable if the criminal usury level were also eliminated.

Under the package, the maximum rates on second mortgages would go from 15 to 21 percent and bank credit cards would be increased from 18 to 21 percent.

While admitting that continuous delays on passing a package will make it more difficult to pass with elections upcoming, Defebaugh said the issue would not go away.

A number of statutory sunset dates are coming up soon. The 11 percent interest rate on land contracts will revert to 7 percent on July 1 and the 16.5 percent maximum on auto loans will drop back to 12.83 percent in December.

Those sunsets will keep the issue before the Legislature, he said, as will the threat of businesses leaving the state because they are unwilling to operate under the current interest limits.

CHILD ABUSE

A child abuse trust fund paid for by an income tax refund check-off and maintained by the Department of Treasury has been proposed by Rep. Debbie Stabenow (D-Lansing).

Under the system, half the funds raised by the check-off system would be for child abuse prevention programs at the local level if matched by local funds.

The trust fund would be administered by the state child abuse and neglect prevention board which would be comprised of 14 members representing various professions and the heads of the Departments of Education, Social Services, Public Health, Mental Health and State Police.

Such funds already exist in Kansas and Washington.

Homeowners who wouldn't dream of leaving a window open during the winter are losing as much heat through openings around windows, doors and vents as they would lose through an open window.

In a session on cutting home energy loss held during Farmers' Week and Natural Resources Days at Michigan State University, agricultural engineering specialist Les Mack said a one-eighth inch opening around two door frames lets in as much cold air as a window left open 6 inches all winter.

The most common places for air infiltration are around doors and windows, dryer vents, faucet pipes and chimneys, and seams between masonry and siding. The cost of weatherstripping or caulking these areas can usually be recovered in savings on heating fuel during one season, Mack said.

Wide cracks should be filled with material such as oakum, a twisted hemp treated with tar, before caulking. A clean, dry surface is needed for caulk to adhere.

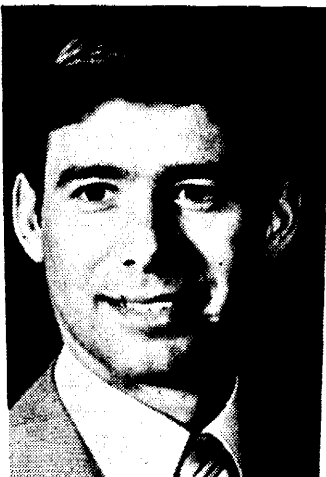

A variety of caulking materials are available, ranging from inexpensive asphalt caulk, which hardens and cracks after several years, to the more expensive silicone caulk, which lasts from 12 to 30 years.

Weatherstripping is applied around window and door frames. Metal and vinyl tube weatherstripping are more expensive than some other types but can be installed relatively easily and have the longest life expectancy.

Mack has written an Extension bulletin, "Caulking and Weatherstripping" (E-1573), which evaluates various materials on the market. Single copies are available at no charge to Michigan residents through their county Cooperative Extension Service office.

Pedaling Around Out of our pockets

By Mike Eliasohn

This column may be out of date by the time this appears, but as of the time I write this at the beginning of the week, most of our civil servants in Lansing haven't figured out there is a recession yet.

Some know, but don't care, including our state senators, who decided Friday to table action on the proposed six-month increase in the state income tax a few hours after the House of Representatives approved it and go on vacation.

I don't like the increase any more than anyone else, but the truth is that our state government is so deeply in the red that even with massive budget cuts, there still won't be enough money to get Michigan through its financial crisis.

As Gov. Milliken said when first proposed the increase, at least the income tax increase puts the burden on those who are still working.

The state is facing a $567 million deficit during its present fiscal year. The increase in the state income tax from 4.6 percent to 5.6 percent for six months should raise $295 million.

A 10-cents per pack permanent increase in the state cigarette tax has been approved by both houses, which will be a boon to those who deal in bootleg cigarettes. The increase should raise $95 million annually.

There has been a $308 million cut in expenditures from the current budget, which will mean less money for education and other programs.

The governor wants union members to take six days off without pay this year, which would save $20 million, and give up their scheduled 5 percent pay increase scheduled to start Oct. 1, which would save $60 million.

Of course, the unions have a good example to follow in not wanting to make concessions. Our legislators received a 14 percent pay increase Jan. 1, after not receiving any increase in 1981. Only a few legislators have suggested giving their increase back.

Even if they did give it back, which wouldn't be a bad idea, the total wouldn't make that big an impact on the total state budget. There just aren't that many legislators. (Thank goodness.)

What Michigan does have is a lot of state employees. Only two small unions representing a total of 3,200 members have agreed to concessions so far.

The two major unions that have been balking at concessions have been the Michigan State Employees Association, which has 28,000 members, and the smaller American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. In exchange for any benefits they give up, they are seeking job security.

The irony is that if they don't agree to concessions, layoff notices to more than 2,000 of them will be going out by next week.

In the past two years, 10,000 workers have been eliminated from state payrolls and 5,500 have been laid off.

It's too bad our legislators didn't have the courage when they had the opportunity to vote down the increase. They weren't likely to do that, however, while they were accepting their own increases.

What the legislature should have done is not only roll back the state employees' increase, but enacted a pay cut of 10 percent, either across-the-board or one averaging that amount—less for employees at the lower end of the pay scale and more than that for those at the top.

Salaries paid to Michigan's employees are 24 percent higher than the national average for all state employees.

Auto workers and many other employees in private industry and business have accepted wage concessions. Why should state employees be any different? If they don't like it, let them quit. There are thousands of other Michiganders who would like their jobs.

If eliminating their scheduled 5 percent increase will save $60 million, a 10 percent rollback should save another $100 million or so.

I would much rather see state employees take a cut—none of whom will starve as a result—than take another cut out of welfare checks.

Those at the bottom of the barrel have already suffered cuts in various aid programs. Another slice in benefits and some of them may starve—or break into your house to look for food.

Ubly. to honor Jarochs and Zingers Saturday

Honesty and good service is Lambert and Lillian Jaroch's guide for conducting business.

It served them well because for 34 years, they kept Ubly's pantries stocked and earned enough to send their five children through college and themselves a comfortable retirement.

The couple, who sold Jaroch's Grocery last July to Michael and Carla Isa of Cass City, and Ernie and Dean Zinger, will be honored at a community sponsored banquet Saturday at the Ubly Fox Hunters' Club.

The Zingers retired last September when they sold their funeral home to John and Arlene Smigielski. The Zingers were profiled in the Sept. 24 Chronicle.

The banquet honoring the two couples for their many years of service to the community will start with cocktails at 6 p.m. at the Ubly Fox Hunters' Club and dinner at 7. Members of the organizing committee, Francis Hund, Earl Longuski, William Murdock, Lana Gordon and Angus MacEachin, can be contacted for tickets.

Jaroch, 63, explained he and his wife decided to retire because they had been in business 34 years, their children are now all grown and they were financially comfortable, "so there was no reason to go any further."

Jaroch literally grew up in the store on Main Street. The business, which dates back to the turn of the century, was purchased by his father, Joseph, in 1922.

Back then, it was a meat market. Shoppers bought their meat at the butcher shop, groceries at a grocery store and bread at a bakery. The transition to stores selling everything began in the late 1920s, Jaroch said.

HE STARTED WORKING in the store when he was about 6, 7 or 8. His job was to take apart the wood packing crates and take them home for use as kindling.

He remembers the first time he cut meat: He was 11 years old and he cut some pork chops for a woman on a Sunday afternoon. The store was closed, but his father agreed to have it done as a favor. As for young Lambert's first efforts with a butcher knife, "I made a mess of it."

After graduating from Ubly High School in 1937, Jaroch worked in the store until entering the Army in World War II. He first served in the Aleutian Islands of Alaska and later in Germany.

He hadn't decided then whether he wanted to return to the grocery business. While he was in the service, his father, who was looking toward retirement and selling the store if his son didn't want it, told him he would keep it until he got back. "He really wanted me to have it," Jaroch said. He returned there after he got out of the service.

He and Lillian were married April 9, 1947—their 35th wedding anniversary was Friday—and May 1 of that year, assumed ownership of the store.

THE COUPLE LIVED IN an apartment in the store "until the fourth child and then we built a home," Mrs. Jaroch said.

She and her husband, who live on Pike Street, have five children and three grandchildren. Their children are Victor, St. Louis, Ill.; David, Ubly; Deborah Jaroch, Bay City; Joanne Jaroch, Marlette; and Pamela Harrison, St. Petersburg, Fla.

When they were growing up, their mother explained, "I gave them a choice. Be active in school or help at the store and, boy, were they active in school."

Although active in school, the Jaroch children also worked in the store and it wasn't until toward the end that the couple hired any outside help, a stockboy.

When the Jarochs started in business, there were seven groceries in Ubly. Now in addition to Jaroch's Grocery—the name hasn't changed—there is only one other, which is smaller.

"Honesty and good service" was Jaroch's response when asked for his secret to being a successful businessman for so long. "We based all our life on honesty in our family and everything else."

THE STORE WAS OPEN every day except Sunday from 8 a.m.-6 p.m. Mrs. Jaroch opened the store every day while her husband drove a school bus. He still drives a bus, which he has been doing since 1951.

Jaroch was a member of the Bingham Township Fire Department for 28 years, the last five as chief, before retiring in 1974.

Since retiring from the grocery business, Mr. and Mrs. Jaroch have kept busy in various ways, including a trip to Florida and a Caribbean cruise.

Mrs. Jaroch likes to sew and play cards.

Asked what he has been doing, her husband joked, "I listen to my wife and when she tells me to do it, I do it." Actually, he likes to hunt, fish, play golf and work around the house.

Both agree the hard thing about retiring is not having their customers around to visit with. "I miss the people greatly," said Mrs. Jaroch.

Mrs. Fleming began to work as a volunteer for the Sanilac Special Olympics in spring, 1979.

Since then, she has worked at local track and field meets, served as a chaperone to the Summer Games at CMU, served on the county Special Olympics Board of Directors, talked to various groups about her involvement, sold tickets for fund raising raffles, helped at bowl-a-thons, also to raise money, and been involved in other activities. She is chairman of the Marlette bowl-a-thon next week.

"I think there is a special need for the handicapped to grow and to feel that they are important citizens in our community," she said in explaining her involvement.

Mrs. Fleming keeps busy with other activities. She is a past matron of Decker Chapter No. 438, Order of the Eastern Star; is vice-president of the Lamotte Township Fire Department Auxiliary; was chairman last year of the Marlette First Presbyterian Church quilt show; has been a 4-H leader for 20 years, and is past guardian of Bethel 56, Job's Daughters.

She and her husband Jim, residents of the Decker-Snover area for more than 36 years, have five daughters, one son and eight grandchildren.

Huron leads in farmland preservation

Huron County has the most acres, 210,208, of any county in Michigan enrolled in the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act program.

Tuscola County comes next with 143,268 acres enrolled and Sanilac County is sixth with 95,775 acres, according to the latest tabulation by the state Department of Natural Resources, as of August, 1981.

The 2 millionth acre since the program began in 1974 was enrolled in February.

What is otherwise known as Public Act 116 permits owners of farmland to enter into a development rights agreement with the state for a minimum of 10 years.

In return for maintaining the land in active farming for the agreed upon period, the landowner is entitled to certain income or property tax benefits.

For the 1980 tax year, participants received an average state income tax credit or refund of $2,700 against their property tax liability.

Tigers will finish third or fourth

The Detroit Tigers finally got their season underway Friday with a 4-2 loss to Kansas City.

Harold Blehm, who was interviewed prior to the first game, expects there will be a lot of Tiger losses this year. "They'll wind up probably in third, fourth place as usual. They just don't have the pitching."

Blehm listens to the Tiger games on radio and usually goes to four or five games each season in Detroit.

His favorite baseball team does have some pluses. "I think they have a fairly decent outfield." As for the infield, "I think they're going to be good if they get their act together."

The big problem, he feels, is lack of pitching and as long as the Tigers aren't willing to spend the big bucks, they aren't going to have enough good pitchers. "Always, the good players are looking for the money; so that's where they're going to go, where they can get the best deal."

He named the Yankees as an example where spending money pays.

Blehm feels if the Tigers spent more money for good players, the team would win more games and thus draw more fans, thus it would pay off financially. The problem is, "They always want to save their money."

As for Sparky Anderson, "I think he's a good manager," but Blehm feels he may be like Tiger owner John Fetzer and general manager Jim Campbell in not wanting to spend money. "I don't think he likes that free agent business."

But if Blehm isn't too optimistic about the Tigers this season, he is optimistic for the future -- for the Detroit Lions. With quarterback Eric Hipple playing the entire season, "I look for them to be a real good contender. I really do."

Blehm is an electrician at Active Industries in Elkton. He and his wife, Martha, live in Gagetown. Their children are all grown.

Tim Tuckey student group chairman

The board of directors of the American Student Association (ASA) has announced the appointment of Timothy Tuckey of Cass City to the position of board chairman for the association.

The directors selected the Spring Arbor College (Mich.) student body president to the post when it became vacant in mid-March. The organization is the largest student group in the nation.

Tuckey, who gained a seat on the board last July, will preside over the twelve-member board until the national membership convention in late July. The board manages the affairs for the ASA, which represents the interests of nearly five million American students.

The Board reported its naming of Tuckey was based on the leadership he provided for the national student lobby. ASA President Kasey Haws accredits Tuckey's "unique style of leadership" with correcting "what the board considered 'bureaucratic shortfalls'."

Tuckey, 21, attributes his appointment to being "in the right place at the right time. I'd be lost in the crowd if I'd been born 10 years earlier." Today's lack of student leaders is the only reason for my prominence.

A senior at Spring Arbor, near Jackson, Tuckey is finishing majors in political science and English.

He hopes to continue his involvement with the organization which has undergone substantial national policy developments since his tenure. The ASA is a non-profit organization based in Washington, D.C.

Tuckey is the son of Mark Tuckey and Fonda Doyen, both of Cass City, and a 1978 graduate of Cass City High School.

HEALTH TIPS

Rapid weight loss seldom justified

By Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

For most overweight persons, there is no medical justification for rapid weight loss or a nutritionally imbalanced diet.

The American Medical Association's popular pamphlet, "The Healthy Approach to Slimming," points out that the good weight-reduction diet is one that is reduced in calories but is adequate in nutrients.

Regular meals and the four food groups (milk, meat, bread-cereal, vegetable-fruit) form the basis of a good diet that is suitable or adaptable for people with different health problems.

There are no weight reducing foods. When you lose weight, it's because you are taking in fewer calories than you're using.

Total calories, not the foods they come from, make the difference. Bear in mind, though, that fats are the most concentrated source of calories.

Reducing salons and health clubs are fine, if you can afford them. Group workouts may give moral support, but you can exercise as well at home.

Be wary of salons that promote unusual diet plans or special foods and supplements. Don't place your faith in exercise machines that require little if any work on your part.

Protein supplements are unnecessary. Most people can and should get all the protein they need from ordinary foods.

The drugs that have been misused in treating overweight people include appetite suppressors, bulk fillers, digitalis, diuretics, human chorionic gonadotropin (HCG), laxatives, thyroid preparations and vitamins (injections).

These drugs have legitimate medical uses, but their use in weight control is rarely or never justifiable.

Organizations, such as Weight Watchers, TOPS and Diet Workshop have helped many people gain control of their weights and eating habits.

Two given scholarships from EMU

Two area residents are among 412 students who have been selected to receive Eastern Michigan University $1,000 Recognition of Excellence Awards.

They are Karen A. Little, 5163 Kelly Road, Cass City, and Mark A. Davis, 3282 White Creek Road, Kings-ton.

Winners of the scholarships must have earned a minimum 3.5 grade point average in high school or community college and demonstrate outstanding leadership. One award has been designated for each high school and community college in Michigan.

The oldest known murals on man-made walls have been found in southern Turkey. They date back to 5500 B.C.

ARTICLE V
Use of Public Sewers

Sec. 501. No person shall discharge or cause to be discharged any storm water, surface water, ground water, roof runoff, subsurface drainage, cooling water or unpolluted industrial process waters to any sanitary sewer.

Sec. 502. Storm water and all other unpolluted drainage shall be discharged to such sewers as are specifically designated as combined sewers or storm sewers or to a natural outlet approved by the Village Commission and/or the SWRC. Industrial cooling water or unpolluted process waters may be discharged, upon approval of the Village Commission and the SWRC into a storm sewer, combined sewer or natural outlet.

Sec. 503. Except as hereafter provided, no person shall discharge or cause to be discharged any of the following described waters or wastes to any public sewer. Sewage discharges shall conform in all respects to the criteria set forth in this section, unless specifically excepted by the Village Commission. Future conditions imposed on the Village by federal or state agencies may require subsequent revisions and modifications to these criteria by the Village Commission. Where federal or state regulations, including but not limited to the Village's NPDES permit, require limits on parameters not covered in this Chapter or limits more stringent than those specified in this Chapter, the federal or state limits shall take precedence.

(a) Any liquid or vapor having a temperature higher than 150 degrees F.

(b) Any water or waste which may contain more than 100 parts per million, by weight, of fat, oil or grease

(c) Any gasoline, benzene, naphtha, fuel oil, or other flammable or explosive liquid, solid or gas.

(d) Any garbage which has not been properly shredded.

(e) Any ashes, cinders, sand, mud, straw, shavings, metal, glass, rags, feathers, tar, plastics, wood, wood pulp, paunch manure, or any other solid or viscous substance capable of causing obstruction to the flow in sewers or other interference with the proper operation of the sewage works.

(f) Any waters or wastes having a pH lower than 5.5 or higher than 10.5, or having any other corrosive property capable of causing damage or hazards to the structures, equipment and personnel of the sewage works.

(g) Any waters or wastes containing a toxic or poisonous substance in sufficient quantity to injure or interfere with any sewage treatment process, constitute a hazard to humans or animals, fish or aquatic life or create any hazard in the receiving waters of the sewage treatment plant.

(h) Any waters or wastes containing suspended solids of such character and quantity that unusual attention or expense is required to handle such materials at the sewage disposal plant.

(i) Any noxious or malodorous gas or substance capable of creating a public nuisance.

(j) Must not contain any explosive substance. In the case of gas or vapors, the concentrations shall not exceed 20% of lower explosive limits.

(k) Shall contain no substance with a viscosity greater than 110% of water.

(l) Shall contain no material causing coloration or light absorbency, to interfere with plant processes or analytical determinations, such as (but not limited to) dye wastes and vegetable tanning solutions.

(m) Shall contain no radioactive wastes or isotopes of such half-life or concentration as may exceed limits established by applicable state or federal regulations.

(n) May contain sludge which results from a treatment process, either potable water, municipal or industrial wastes, but only if it is completely amenable to conventional wastewater treatment without application of unusual means or expense. Septic tank sludge will be accepted from licensed operators when delivered to a designated disposal site upon compliance with the conditions imposed by the Village Commission and after payment to the Village a fee assessed by the Village Commission.

(o) Shall not contain unusual volume of flow or concentration of wastes constituting "Slugs."

(p) Shall not contain concentrations of certain "Special Wastewater Constituents" in amounts greater than set forth in Section 1001 of Article X.

All measurements, tests, and analyses of the characteristics of waters and wastes to which reference is made in this regulation shall be determined in accordance with the current edition of "Standard Methods for the Examination of Water and Wastewater," published by the American Public Health Association and in accordance with 40 CFR Part 136 entitled "Guidelines Establishing Test Procedures for Analysis of Pollutants" or as specified in Section 1001, Article X.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE—THURSDAY, APRIL 15, 1982

Sampling shall be carried out by customarily accepted methods. The Village shall determine the method of sampling to be used.

Sec. 504. Grease, oil and sand interceptors shall be provided when, in the opinion of the Village Commission and/or the SWRC, they are necessary for the proper handling of liquid wastes containing grease, in excessive amounts, or any inflammable wastes, and/or other harmful ingredients except that such interceptors shall not be required for private living quarters or dwellings. All interceptors shall be of a type and capacity approved by the Village Commission and/or the SWRC and shall be located as to be readily accessible for cleaning and inspection.

Grease and oil interceptors shall be constructed of impervious materials capable of withstanding abrupt and extreme changes in temperature. They shall be substantially constructed, water tight, and equipped with easily removable covers which when bolted in place shall be gastight and watertight.

Sec. 505. Where installed, all grease, oil and sand interceptors shall be maintained by the owner, at his expense, in continuously efficient operation at all times.

Sec. 506. If any waters or wastes are discharged, or are caused to be discharged, to the public sewers, which waters contain the substances, possess the characteristics, or exceed the limitations enumerated in Section 503 of this Article, or which in the judgment of the Village Commission may have a deleterious effect on the treatment works, the Village Commission may:

(1) Prohibit the discharge of the wastes to a public sewer, or

(2) Temporarily permit the discharge of the wastes to a public sewer subject to any conditions that the Village Commission may recommend based on their review of such factors as quantity of the waste in relation to flows and velocities in the sewers, materials of construction of sewers, nature of the sewage treatment process, capacity of the sewage treatment works, degree of treatability of the waste, NPDES Permit limitations, and any other pertinent factors, or,

(3) Require pretreatment to an acceptable condition for discharge to a public sewer, including but not limited to, the standards set forth in 40 CFR Part 403 entitled "Pretreatment Standards" and/or

(4) Require control over the quantities and rates of discharge to public sewers.

In all cases, the Village Commission shall require payment to cover any additional costs it may incur in connection with the inspection, sampling, testing, handling and treating the wastes not covered by existing sewage charges.

When the pretreatment or equalization of sewage flows is permitted, the design and installation of the plants and equipment shall be subject to the review and approval of the Village Commission and subject to the requirements of all applicable codes, ordinances and laws.

Sec. 507. Where preliminary treatment facilities are provided for any waters or wastes, they shall be maintained in satisfactory and effective operation, by the owner at his expense.

Sec. 508. When required by the Village Commission or the SWRC, the owner of any property served by a building sewer carrying industrial wastes shall install a suitable control manhole in the building sewer to facilitate observation, sampling and measurement of wastes. Such manhole, when required, shall be accessible and safely located, and shall be constructed in accordance with plans approved by the Village Commission. The manhole shall be installed by the owner at his expense and shall be maintained by him so as to be safe and accessible at all times.

Sec. 509. All measurements tests, and analyses of the characteristics of waters and wastes to which reference is made in Section 503 and 506 above shall be determined in accordance with "Standard Methods for the Determination of Water and Sewage" and shall be determined at the control manhole provided for in Section 508, or upon suitable samples taken at said control manhole. In the event that no special manhole has been required, the control manhole shall be considered to be the nearest downstream manhole in the public sewer to the point at which the building sewer is connected.

Sec. 510. No statement contained in this Article shall be construed as preventing any special agreement or arrangement between the Village of Cass City and any industrial user whereby an industrial waste of unusual strength or character may be accepted by the said Village of Cass City for treatment, subject to the payment therefor by the industrial concern.

Cass City team to beat

Veteran Hawk girls' squad ready to defend title

Cass City's best chances for a Thumb B Association title this school year undoubtedly rest with the girls' track team.

The Hawks, defending league champions, are loaded with established veterans and Coach Craig Weaver greeted a squad with all but a very few key performers back.

Not on this year's roster are Lorinda Bye, middle distance, and Shelly Rabideau, middle distance and long jump. Also missing is Theresa Harmer, one of the members of last year's record setting 880-relay team.

Heading the impressive list of girls coming back is Carrie Lautner. As a sophomore, Lautner captured the state title in the mile and was fifth in the 800 meter race.

Michelle Farhner has qualified for state finals in the 400 meter run even though she is only a junior now.

Lori Calka and Tracy Green were members of that record setting 880 relay team last year and they are both back. Calka is merely a sophomore and Green is a junior. The coach is looking for help from Lori Hurley and Renae Stimpfel, who had fine cross country seasons.

Hawk fans are looking for at least as good a record as last year when the girls were 6-1 on their way to the title.

Weaver cautions, however, that the pressure on the girls as champions will be greater this year. He also feels that there are many strong teams in the Thumb B Association this season. Sandusky and Marlette had very successful cross country teams, Weaver says, and Lakers will be helped by junior high athletes.

One thing sure. If Cass City wins the title again this season, look out for the girls in 1983. This year's club lists only two seniors on the entire roster.

THIS SQUAD is expected to challenge for the Thumb B Association title this season, according to Coach Doug Grezeszak.

TEAM TO BEAT in the Thumb B Association this year is the Cass City Red Hawks. Most of the girls that led the club to the title in 1981 are back.

Missing at the practice were Renae Stimpfel, Jeanne Marshall, Lori Calka and Coach Craig Weaver.

Hawks prep for wide open race in Thumb B track

Now that the Caro Tigers are expected to join the pack in the Thumb B Association, after dominating in 1981, Coach Doug Grezeszak figures Cass City's chances are as good as anyone's to take the title this spring.

The Hawks lost a host of fine performers from the squad that finished fourth in the league and compiled a 5-2 record in dual meets last season.

Among the losses are Bob Sawdon, Ray Kloc and Bob VanCamp, who ran middle distances, and Tom Loomis who earned points in the sprints, hurdles and long jump.

The Hawks will miss Brian deBeaubien, shot and discus, and Todd Comment, high jump and high hurdles. Also gone is Mark Mozden, mile and two-mile.

Despite the loss of Mozden, Cass City should be strong in the distances with Sophomore Greg Bliss running the events. He holds the school record in the 1600 and 3200 meter as well as the two-mile races.

Energy efficient

Contrary to what some people believe, trucks are as energy efficient as railroads for competitive movements. By participating in the Voluntary Truck and Bus Fuel Economy Program, they have reduced their empty miles traveled to one-half that of trains.

Another key performer is Scott Hobart who was the conference champion in the 440 as a junior. He also runs the 880 and a leg on the 880-relay team.

Other key performers are Chuck Erla, shot put; Tim Smith, sprints and long jump; Joe Decker, pole vault and sprints, and Mike Middaugh, hurdles and long jump.

Grezeszak says that there is a surprisingly good group of freshmen up from the junior high and he expects them to be able to fill the gaps left by graduation.

We should do well this season because none of the teams in the Thumb B Association will dominate, the coach says, and if the freshmen produce we should be one of the top three teams in the league.

True Facts

About Your Schools

Concern - Local taxpayers are funding tuition students as the taxes of the tuition students are going to another school district.

Answer - Under the state aid acts prior to 1981, we receive the full cost of educating our current tuition students from the State of Michigan.

Under a new State Aid Act enacted in 1981 there will be no state aid for new tuition students unless our district gets permission from the district the student is leaving.

As a result of this new act we are not accepting new tuition students unless we receive permission from the other district and in turn full state aid for that student.

A good suit is the ideal investment for careerists

In this era of high inflation, it is not always the least expensive outfit that is the wisest wardrobe choice.

This is especially the case for the upwardly mobile working woman, in the opinion of Lois Ziegler who, as Fashion Director for the JCPenney chain, knows both fashion and the ambiance of the large corporation.

First impressions make the greatest impact, Ziegler feels.

Therefore, for women either looking for their first job or about to make a re-entry into the job market, investing in a good suit comes high on her list of wardrobe recommendations.

"I know that a suit can be a major investment in wardrobe dollars, but any woman interested in getting ahead in the business world must look at her wardrobe in the way she looks at her education or her professional or technical skills—as a major investment to be amortized over a long period.

"If you were to purchase an outfit that you could wear only one time," the Penney executive points out, "that outfit would be costly no matter how inexpensive it was."

"But carefully chosen clothes you wear to work are certainly not in that category."

"You can wear a suit three times a week with changes of accessories, blouse or sweater, and feel good in it every time you wear it."

"And, if you select with care from the classics rather than the fads," Ziegler concluded, "you can continue to wear that suit proudly for years to come."

BOWLING WINNER - Virgil Peters, 13, holds the trophy he won at the Zone 8 sanctioned tournament in Marysville, which qualified him for the state championship finals.

State qualifier

Virgil Peters, 13, has qualified for a sanctioned state junior bowling tournament by winning his division in the zone 8 tournament April 4 in Marysville.

Virgil, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwaine Peters of Cass City, qualified for the tournament at the Mid-Thumb Bowling Association tournament at the Charmont in Cass City.

At Marysville, he rolled games of 151, 172, 185 to win his division, which is based on the bowler's average. His average going into the district tournament was 130. His division was for junior bowlers with an average of 126-139.

The state tournament will be May 29 in Monroe.

Cruise director for 35 years

Mary McIntyre: nothing like Great Lakes

"Someone once said that a trip aboard a big excursion vessel was like living in another world. All of your real-life cares and woes are left at the dock, waiting for your return, so that for the duration of the cruise, you and the people you meet aboard this floating Shangri-la are transformed, for a few days at least, into a fun-loving, charitable, happy-go-lucky family of travelers."

For 35 years, Mary McIntyre was part of that world — a world that is no more. From 1932 until the last voyage of the S.S. South American in 1967, she was social director on Great Lakes cruise ships, mostly on the South American but also on the North American, both owned by the Georgian Bay Line.

Some winters she worked on ocean liners, mostly on South American and Caribbean cruises, and a few years she worked on the Delta Queen, the stern-wheeler that cruised and still cruises the Mississippi.

She also escorted travelers on tours of Mexico and Central America. She once lived in Mexico for six months, meeting each group of travelers when they arrived.

For Miss McIntyre, nothing beat the Great Lakes. "They're the most beautiful waters in the world. There's nothing to compare to the Great Lakes."

For that reason, she regrets there no longer are cruise ships there. "I hate to think youth won't have the opportunity to see the Great Lakes as I have seen them."

Miss McIntyre grew up in Cass City and now lives on Dale Street.

It was in 1932 that she went on a vacation cruise on the South American.

The social director asked her if she was interested in a job. She said no, but after she returned home, received a call asking her to reconsider.

She agreed to try it for a week. She went "and I just stayed right there so I guess I liked it."

FOR MOST OF HER 35 years, Miss McIntyre sailed on the South American.

The season started in May with charter cruises, including high school senior trips (including Cass City for about 15 years, to the best of her recollection), with regular cruises from late June through Labor Day. Charter cruises then resumed until the end of September.

For regular cruises, the South American departed from Detroit on Mondays, was in Houghton Tuesday and at Duluth at the far end of Lake Superior Wednesday. Thursdays, it stopped at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., returned Friday to Detroit and on Saturday went to Cleveland and Buffalo, N.Y. It stopped at Cleveland on its way back to Detroit on Sunday.

The North American sailed from Chicago and stopped at Mackinac Island, Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo.

The South American continued its cruises during World War II. The government, Miss McIntyre explained, "felt it was very important at that time to have something for people to do."

She recalled a couple from Milwaukee on one cruise who were very depressed. Just before they left the ship, they told her their two sons had been killed in the war "and this was their escape."

AS SOCIAL DIRECTOR, she was in charge of eight persons, the five band members, master of ceremonies, and two hostesses.

She also had a role in the hiring of the college students who worked as waiters, waitresses and bell hops, because they also worked in the shows for the passengers. "We tried to get them with talent as well."

Entertainment included dancing, shows, bingo, movies, hat night (prizes were given for the funniest, most original and prettiest hats made by passengers) and a horse racing betting game.

Passengers on the Georgian Bay ships were extremely loyal. "We operated practically on return passengers." Some would get off at the end of their cruise and immediately book passage for the same week the following year.

Sometimes the passengers would be "pretty upper crust," including New York bankers and well-known band leaders. Harry S. Truman was a passenger once, before he became President.

SAILING ON A GREAT Lake cruise ship wasn't quite like sailing on the "Love Boat," although Mrs. McIntyre confesses, "I think I could have written the book."

There were some ship-board romances on the South American "and sometimes it worked out beautifully and sometimes not."

Miss McIntyre sometimes watches the television show, but thinks it is a bit far-fetched. The "Love Boat's" Capt. Stubing, for instance, isn't like real captains, who don't become as involved with their passengers.

The "Love Boat" also doesn't sail in stormy seas. But in real life, Miss McIntyre can recall storms so bad, "We stood her on end." Not only were the passengers in rough shape, "we had a lot of broken dishes."

The South American, launched a year after the North American, made its maiden voyage June 13, 1914.

It was 321 feet long, carried a crew of 166 and had maximum capacity for 528 passengers. About 480 passengers were preferred in order to provide the best service, according to Miss McIntyre.

The ship was very elegant. The glass enclosed ballroom had a maple floor. The most luxurious cabins, the nine parlor staterooms, had private baths, double brass beds and mahogany furniture. The main dining room was finished in silver oak with cork tile floor. All rooms were air conditioned.

The North American came to an end in 1967. It had been sold and was being towed to Maryland. In rough seas it started rocking and was cut loose from the tow boat. The vessel sank in 220 feet of water off Nantucket, Mass.

MISS MCINTYRE'S LAST year on the South American was in 1967. "I retired because I had to. They sold my job out from under me."

It was known that year would be the last one. Instead of going as far as Buffalo, the ship's voyages were extended to Montreal, site of Expo 67, the world's fair. She made 18 trips to the fair and carried an estimated 10,000 passengers.

It was sold for $111,111 to the Seafarers International Union, which planned to use it as a training ship, but that project failed.

The ship, minus engines, was sold for scrap, but is still afloat, docked in Camden, N.J. There has been some talk of bringing it to Mackinac Island, restoring it and then using it as a floating hotel.

Miss McIntyre still remembers her last time on the South American. It departed Detroit Oct. 16, 1967, on its final passenger voyage. At Montreal, she said, "We kissed it good-bye and they took her down the stream."

Really fast

Electricity is delivered at nearly the speed of light—186,000 miles a second—equivalent to traveling 7.5 times around the earth in a second. Therefore, says the Edison Electric Institute, the association of America's investor-owned electric utility companies, electricity is used at almost the same instant it is produced.

A VOLUNTEER ORGANIZATION
"WE CARE"

Tuscola County Prosecutor Artis Noel has announced his candidacy for state representative to succeed retired Loren Armbruster.

Artis Noel

Noel, 33, has been prosecutor since January, 1979.

A native of the Detroit area, Noel has bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration from Eastern Michigan University and received his law degree from the Detroit College of Law in December, 1975.

From May, 1976, until he came to Caro, he worked in the organized crime division of the Macomb County prosecutor's office.

He was appointed to the position here to fill a vacancy, then elected in November, 1980, to a four-year term.

Noel and his wife, Dr. Justine Noel, MD, a practicing physician in Caro, have a daughter, Jill, 3.

He is a member of the Tuscola County Republican Party and Caro Rotary Club and attends the First United Presbyterian Church in Caro.

Because of his candidacy, Noel said he will withdraw as county chairman of the James Brickley for governor campaign, a position he recently accepted. The prosecutor is the second candidate to throw his hat into the ring for the Republican nomination. The other is Unionville attorney Terry Houthoofd, who ran against Armbruster two years ago in the Republican primary and lost. He is a graduate of Michigan State University and Cooley Law School in Lansing.

Armbruster represents the 84th district, which consists of all of Tuscola County and a small part of Genesee and Saginaw Counties.

The reapportionment commission and/or the courts have yet to agree on a re-mapping of legislative districts to comply with 1980 census data, so whatever district Noel, Houthoofd and whoever else decides to run in won't be the same as the present 84th and may have a different number.

Area accidents

Crash victim is recovering

An Essexville man was to be released Wednesday from Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, where he was taken following a 5:20 p.m. accident Monday west of Gagetown.

Injured was Wade F. Williston, 53, owner of a Bad Axe auto supply store.

Tuscola County deputies reported he was westbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, east of Jacob Road, when his steering failed, apparently due to a broken tie rod.

The vehicle went into the north side ditch and rolled over onto its top.

Two persons were ticketed by Cass City police following traffic accidents last week.

Kenneth L. Brown, 18, of 4350 Cumber Road, Uby, was cited on a charge of violation of the basic speed law after he lost control of his car while northbound on Seeger Street, south of Seed Street, at 11:50 a.m. Tuesday.

His car went off the right side of the street and hit a sign and utility pole.

Sharon G. Pyonk, 41, of 504 S. Kingston Road, Deford, was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield for a red light after an accident at 6:15 a.m. Friday.

Police said she was southbound on Seeger, slowed for the red light at Main but didn't stop and collided with the eastbound auto of David H. Bartnik, 23, of 6524 Van Dyke Road.

At 1:50 p.m. last Thursday, according to village police, Earl W. Kritzman, 82, of 3846 N. Uby Road, Snover, was backing from a parking place in the Erla's Food Center lot, backed into the parked car of Leslie Severance of 5899 Severance Road, Decker, and then drove away without stopping. Severance was standing by his car when Kritzman backed into it.

James H. Glassford, 51, of 3605 Phillips Road, Kingston, was westbound on M-46, east of M-24, at 7:50 a.m. last Wednesday when his vehicle collided with a deer.

Robert G. McLellan, 45, of 5830 Main Street, Deford, was southbound on Kingston Road, north of Bevens Road, at 6:30 p.m. last Thursday when his auto collided with a deer.

No charges in traffic fatality

No criminal charges will be brought against a Cass City man who was involved in an Aug. 9, 1981, traffic accident which claimed the life of a Deford woman.

Killed in the collision was Karen L. Mathewson, then 33, who was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Gerald.

Their car was southbound on Lamton Road and collided with an auto headed east on Shabbona Road, driven by David Hutchinson of N. Cemetery Road, Cass City.

According to Sanilac County Chief Assistant Prosecuting Attorney James V. Young, the Sheriff's Department investigation indicated Hutchinson was at fault in the accident, but he did not commit "culpable negligence."

The decision that there was no cause for criminal prosecution, Young said, had to await completion of the Sheriff's Department investigation, which wasn't finished until recently.

Walk for hunger April 25

Preparations are underway in Tuscola County for the Sunday, April 25, CROP Walk.

Walkers are getting in condition and collecting sponsors who will pledge so much for each mile they walk.

Others are making arrangements for rest and check points, rides for the weary and first aid. The longest route possible is 13 miles. Shorter routes are designed to accommodate all.

The CROP Walk is a community wide effort to increase awareness of the critical nature of world hunger and to cooperate in reducing the problem. Local churches, community organizations and individuals are sponsoring the CROP-Church World Service walk event as a fund raiser to help fight hunger.

The money raised will be used to feed the hungry and to help them build wells and give them tools and expertise so they can make better use of their land and thus be a part of any solution to their problem. Twenty-five percent of the money raised will stay in Tuscola County. An emergency food pantry is being established.

The walk will begin and end at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Caro. Sponsors' sheets can be obtained from Terese Hunter, 673-4470 and Rev. Bonnie Welch, 673-2246.

Sebewaing Road to be resurfaced

Repaving of Sebewaing Road east of Owendale is one of 47 projects on which the Michigan Department of Transportation will be taking bids in Lansing April 21. The road is to be resurfaced from the Owendale village limits east 3.9 miles to the Elkton Road intersection. The project should be completed by September.

Death and dying should be faced openly, not hidden, expert says

GERALD WOOLEVER

Death is something that everyone faces, both their own death and the death of others.

Because death is something that everyone must deal with, it is not something that should be hidden. "We can't cure the mortality rate that is 100 percent."

That was the message delivered last Wednesday evening by Gerald M. Woolever, nationally known expert on death and related topics, who was the final speaker in a four-part series offered at the Trinity United Methodist Church in Cass City on the topic of death and dying.

Woolever is president of Ware Smith and Co. of Midland, which operates three funeral homes, is immediate past president and board chairman of the Michigan Funeral Directors Association and is a lecturer and consultant to the National Funeral Directors Association.

During the past four years, he has given more than 2,500 lectures across the country on the topics of death, aging, separation and related subjects.

Hearing his talk was not the only way to learn about the topic, Woolever pointed out early in his two-hour presentation.

"If you want to know about death, you could probably go to a funeral. If you want to know about dying, you could go to the nursing home over there."

"A funeral," he suggested, "is not an event, but is part of a process."

IN RECENT TIMES, SOCIETY has developed a "death denying mentality." That wasn't always true.

Around the turn of the century, the recent recipient of the Distinguished Funeral Director of the Year award explained, women didn't become pregnant, they became "that way" or in a "family way" and the baby came from the "cabbage patch" or was "delivered by the stork."

In contrast, dying was an open thing. There was no modern technology to keep persons alive, so when they became sick or old, they died and they did so in their own homes.

Nowadays, however, there are newspaper columns devoted to improving one's sex life, but death is hidden. Persons no longer die at home, but instead die in nursing homes, extended care facilities, hospitals, etc.

What is necessary, Woolever exclaimed, is to make death become real again. "We're here to learn we can still have a hands on experience with dying and death."

MUCH OF HIS TALK dealt with grief.

"When you love something and lose it, you will grieve always," he said, thus the question becomes how to handle grief.

He mentioned the importance of not hiding one's emotions. "I would consider it an insult if you didn't let me know when you hurt if you were my friend."

Unhindered grief can kill you, he said, "and you can die of a broken heart." The funeral director mentioned an elderly woman who died two days after her husband did. After he was gone, she had no reason to live.

THE LAST PORTION OF Woolever's talk was devoted to what should happen for the living after a death occurs.

Intertwined in them is that four needs should be met — psychological, spiritual, emotional and social.

First is what he referred to as "valid death." Irreversible proof that the person has died. An example of this not happening is when a soldier is listed as missing in action. Is he alive or dead?

"Notification" comes next. How do the immediate survivors tell others that the person has died?

"Confrontation" means that the survivors must face the fact the person has died.

Woolever cautioned against the attitude of trying to remember the deceased the way they were when they were alive. "If I want to remember him like he was, we should keep ironing his underwear or fixing his lunch pail."

Except in extreme cases, the mortician doesn't like closed caskets. "Those people who say (when they are alive), 'You can come by to my funeral, but my casket will be closed,' I'd like to punch in the nose."

Open caskets allow the survivors to confront death and to say good-bye.

"GROUP SUPPORT" means bringing ham and cookies to the immediate family, but it also means showing support to them in their hour of need.

Woolever feels it is important that no one be excluded from funeral activities. "Everybody gets to do something, even the kids, even if they have to be quiet for an hour." If a mother or father died who still had young children, he suggested, they might help pick the burial plot.

Nursing homes should include a day care center for children, he suggested, so that children can learn what death is about. "No children allowed is a crock."

The "religious service" is another part of the process of death — getting someone to read the right words that what we got from God, goes back to God — as is the "committal to earth," that what belongs to earth goes back to earth.

Taking stock

Dear Mr. Myers:

In a recent column on "Zero Coupon bonds," you state:

"As a hedge against interest rates falling and reinvesting being a problem at 12 percent, I get deep discount bonds where much of the yield is based on a reinvestment formula."

In other words, you buy them to average a yield of 12 percent to maturity over the life of the bond.

My question: Why is a deep discount bond more of a hedge than just buying a bond with a 12 percent interest rate?

Thank you. I enjoy your column very much.

William J. Giovanni
St. Louis, Mo.

Anyone who ends a letter on that note deserves my best efforts in replying.

Let's take the conventional bond, yielding a straight 12 percent each year — in other words, with a 12 percent coupon. You have $10,000 invested. So you get $1,200 a year.

Unless you're going to spend that $1,200, you have the problem of re-investing. Say a year from now interest rates for that sort of bond are down to 10 percent. When you re-invest, you earn only 10 percent on the $1,200, or $120.

Another year goes by, and you get another $1,200 interest on your $10,000. Interest rates now are back to the 1978 levels and you get 8 percent on the reinvestment of $1,200 or $96.

After two years, then, you've had $1,200 earning 10 percent for 2 years and $1,200 earning 8 percent for one year. Skipping the compounding to keep it simple, you've got a total of $240 plus $96 for a total of $336.

Let's now compare this with a zero bond, which was sold on a basis to yield you an "average" of 12 percent a year over the life of the bond. So in the same two year period, you've earned 12 percent on $1,200 for two years, and on $1,200 for one year. The total is $360.

With the usual "current coupon" bonds, you got $336 when interest rates dropped when you reinvested. The zero-coupon way, you got $360.

Recently two noted economists, Walter Heller and Paul McCracken, told a group of us at the Security Investors Association conference they expected long-term interest rates to drop 1 to 1½ percent in the next year. I'll string along with these experts and try to lock in present high yields.

Beef facts

It's said that each American consumes an average of 109 pounds of beef a year. In fact, one survey among teenagers listed steak as the favorite of 36 percent of them.

Time was when the American housewife bought a three- or four-pound sirloin, complete with tail and filet intact. She then cut it up herself. Now, sirloin is almost always sold minus the less tender tail. The filet is usually sold separately as well, as filet mignon.

Environmental law changes recommended

A series of proposals to streamline environmental regulations — some requiring legislation — that supporters say will not weaken protection, has been submitted to Gov. William G. Milliken for review and approval.

Lieutenant Gov. James Brickley, head of the regulatory review task force, said if Milliken approved the proposals, the Department of Natural Resources will begin instituting them either through the administrative rules process, drafting proposed statutes or changing internal policies.

The proposals deal with a number of environmental quality areas, including water and air pollution controls and waste disposal rules.

Some of the changes would cut back on requiring filing of water discharge reports, streamline the permit process, allow the Air Pollution Control Commission to set reasonable emission limits on "less stringent sources," eliminate the licensing of non-toxic waste transfer facilities, eliminate dual regulation of some waste hauling firms and eliminate or modify rules dealing with municipal junk car centers.

The recommendations also call for a new codification of the state's environmental protection laws.

Milliken called for such a re-codification in his State of the State address in January.

Brickley said the proposals will "contribute in a significant way to easing regulatory burdens while sustaining Michigan's nationally recognized environmental protection efforts."
