Board finds school affairs on hold pending election

Most of the affairs of Cass City Schools are on hold pending the April 30 vote for millage and as a result the Cass City School Board skimmed through routine business in its regular session Monday at the high school.

There was debate about the transfer of credit for students from schools with uncertified teachers.

No action was taken but the board will probably decide to leave the matter to the discretion of the principals when a decision is reached.

Don Richards, director of the Regional Educational Media Center (REMC) appeared before trustees to try and collect a bill for services for $1885.

REMC provides film clips and reference material to schools.

Cass City had not allowed for payment in its school budget because Supt. Donald Crouse felt that the center was obligated to pay for service even if no payment was made.

However a subsequent ruling from the state has made this view invalid. Because the school has been using the service the payment was authorized but trustees said that before using the service in the next school year the entire program should be reviewed.

David Lovejoy, community education director, was granted permission to make a minor change in adult graduation requirements. He said that there would be 10 or 11 students graduating this spring.

The school will change auditing firms. Because the school's present firm announced an increase of some $2,000 in fees, bids were requested from area firms. Four more quotes were received and the work will be completed by Laine, Appold and Co. of Bay City for $3,750. The firm that was handling the work had requested in excess of $6,000 for the audit.

A request to hold a bake sale at the school by the Boosters Club on election day was denied. Trustee Ben Hobart said that he felt that the sale might distract from the seriousness of the election in the eyes of some of the taxpayers. What Nixon the proposal in the eyes of other board members was that the vote is slated on Friday when school is in session.

A new state law requires a special public meeting whenever school taxes are increased through millage or valuation increases. It will be held with the budget meeting in the fall.

Holly Althaver honored as citizen of the year

Holly Althaver and Scott Hobart were honored as citizen of the year and junior citizen of the year respectively at the annual Cass City Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday evening.

Guest speaker was astronaut and Cass City native Brewster Shaw Jr. (See story elsewhere on page 1.)

The banquet held at the Colony House marked the last one for Tom Herron as chamber president and the first one for new President Curt Strickland. Herron headed the organization for four years and served as master of ceremonies for the first part of the program. Strickland finished the emcee duties. About 350 persons attended the event.

Mrs. Althaver was presented with her award honoring her for service to the community by Dr. Delbert E. Rawson, the 1980 top citizen.

The honoree is founder and co-chairman of the Village Bach Festival, which was conducted for the third time in Cass City this past November.

She was co-chairman of the steering committee for the visit of the Michigan Artrain to Cass City last May.

The Artrain made its first appearance here in July, 1972, and Mrs. Althaver was chairman of the steering committee then.

Following the visit, she was asked by the Artrain staff to speak at workshops in other communities in and out of state which were to host the Artrain on how to organize activities in conjunction with the visit.

She has been a member of the Artrain board and executive committee since 1974 and is chairman of its education committee.

Mrs. Althaver helped organize the Cass City Arts Council in 1974 and was its first president.

She was also a founder of the Cass City chapter of the American Association of University Women and was its cultural interests chairman for six years. During that time, she helped organize a lecture series and several local arts shows.

Mrs. Althaver was born in Chicago, raised in Fenton, and graduated from Principia College, Elmhurst, Ill., with a degree in English literature and fine arts. In addition to her statewide work with the Artrain, she was appointed to the advisory panel of the Michigan Council for the Arts in the area of community arts development and later became a consultant at the first Michigan Arts Congress held in 1978.

The citizen of the year was a founder of the Michigan Association of Community Arts Agencies in 1977 and was elected to its first board of directors. She presently serves as chairman of the statewide organization of local arts councils.

Stemming from her chairmanship of the Bach Festival, she is a member of the Bach Tercentenary Committee for Michigan, a group which is planning the celebration of the 300th birthday of Bach throughout the state in 1985.

Her husband Lambert was the 1978 citizen of the year. In addition to being surprised by the honor, Mrs. Althaver was surprised by the appearance of friends who came from as far as New York City to be with her for the occasion.

Shaw scheduled for 1983 space flight

Brewster Shaw Jr. did not grow up with dreams of some day flying into outer space, but since the late 1960s, that has been his dream and goal and wish.

Monday, his wish was granted when the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) announced he will be the pilot on a space shuttle flight, scheduled to be launched in September, 1983.

The son of Brewster (Bruce) and Leone Shaw of Pringle Road, Cass City, was the speaker at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday evening.

Monday evening, he called his parents to tell them he had been informed earlier that day he had been assigned to make his first flight. "He's real excited," his father told the Chronicle.

According to Bruce Shaw, his son said six persons will be making the flight. The mission commander will be John Young, who was one of two astronauts on the first flight of the Columbia shuttle craft in April, 1981.

The Chamber banquet was Shaw's first appearance before a home town audience since he was selected to be a pilot for the shuttle program by NASA in January, 1978. He is an Air Force major on loan to the agency.

The shuttle and its booster rockets are the world's first reusable space craft. Once the test flights are over, the craft will carry satellites into space and release them for orbit and can be used for conducting experiments and manufacturing operations that couldn't be performed on earth.

Shaw decided he wanted to become an astronaut while he was in college, he explained to the Chronicle in a Saturday morning interview at his parents' home.

The 1963 graduate of Cass City High School received his bachelor's and master's degrees in engineering from the University of Wisconsin in 1967 and 1968 respectively.

In college, he learned to fly — he and some friends pooled their finances to buy a plane — and in graduate school, he took a course in celestial mechanics (dynamics of bodies in space), which he found very interesting.

Shaw found himself interested in the Apollo program, which ultimately was to land the first man on the moon in July, 1979.

The final factor that gravitated him toward his decision was notice from his draft board that it would no longer grant him a student deferment.

He couldn't see himself wading through the rice paddies of Vietnam with a rifle in his hands, he explained, so after he received his master's degree, he joined the Air Force.

By then, he had established the goal of being a fighter pilot and then a test pilot in order to eventually become an astronaut.

Instead of marching through rice paddies, he got to fly over them. He was a fighter pilot in Vietnam and Thailand.

ALTHOUGH SHAW made all the right moves, he still feels luck was a big factor in his being named an astronaut.

When selected, he was an instructor at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., the Air Force test base (where the Columbia shuttle craft landed the first two times).

Many of his fellow test pilots there, who were equally qualified, also applied to be astronauts, but weren't selected. "I'll never know why I ended up at Houston (the space flight center) and they didn't," he said. "I'll have to attribute that to luck, but I'm not knocking it. I'm glad to be where I am in Houston."

SHAW, 36, SAID SATURDAY — with no inkling of what would happen Monday — that he would like to be able to make his first flight before he is 40, but if he had to wait longer, he will. (He will be 38 when he makes the September, 1983, flight.)

He was one of 35 named to the astronaut corps back in 1978, five as pilots and the rest, including doctors and scientists, as mission specialists.

The six astronauts who have flown into outer space in the Columbia shuttle craft so far all were part of the space program prior to the start of the shuttle program. Of the six, only two had previously flown in space.

Some astronauts have been waiting more than 10 years.

Has Shaw found that frustrating? "I can't talk for the guys waiting 15 years," he responded Saturday, "but I've been too busy to worry about waiting."

AS HE EXPLAINED during his slide presentation Friday evening to the 350 persons in the audience, all of the 35 members of his group, in addition to receiving some preliminary training in preparation for their eventual flight, are assigned to specific projects.

His first assignment, he explained during the interview, was to work on development of an automatic landing system for the shuttle.

Automatic controls presently bring the craft to a specific elevation above ground, then the pilot takes over. The new system would enable the craft to touch down without the pilot taking control.

He added there is some controversy within the program whether such a system is needed.

SHAW ENDED HIS PRESENTATION Friday by narrating a silent film showing the flight of Jack Lousma and Gordon Fuller, which took place in late March. Portions of the same film were shown on network television news programs earlier in the week.

During the flight, the third

Vassar man killed in Friday crash

A Vassar man was killed Friday afternoon in a traffic accident southwest of Millington.

George E. Willoughby, 61, was dead on arrival at St. Joseph Hospital in Flint. His passenger, his wife Gannette, 60, was reported in fair condition there Wednesday morning.

The Tuscola County Sheriff's department reported their car was northbound on Bray Road when it was struck in the left side by a car that was eastbound on Birch Run Road.

The driver of the other car, Neta Jo Nitz, 24, of Millington, deputies said, failed to stop for the stop sign at the intersection. She and her daughter, Misti Lou, 5, were taken to Flint Osteopathic Hospital for treatment and have since been released.

Please turn to page 18.

Results of the sheriff's department investigation have been turned over to the prosecutor's office for a decision on prosecution of Mrs. Nitz in connection with the accident.

Willoughby was the fifth person to die in a Tuscola County traffic accident this year. The same number died in accidents as of this date in 1981.

At 3 p.m. Thursday, according to Cass City police, Bertha M. West, 75, of 6712 Main Street, backed from behind Coach Light Pharmacy into a car parked along the south side of the alley.

Owners of the parked car were John and Neola Webb of Cass City.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else, he can get to help)

The story about Mary McIntyre's career as cruise director on Great Lakes ships brought back memories for Russell Richards, principal at Cass City High School.

In high school at Houghton every year the school band would go to the docks when the ship arrived and play for the passengers.

Then once a year on the return voyage the band members would go to Munising and get on the boat for a free ride back to Houghton.

It was a highlight of the season, Russ says.

Most times formal programs will find me listening only if (1) I can't escape; (2) the bar has been closed or (3) I'm there to work.

Friday's Chamber program was an exception. Mike Eliashin was there to do the work, there was an easy escape into the adjacent Blue Room and the bar was open.

I stayed glued to my seat and enjoyed every minute of it.

One of the sadder results from financial turmoil that schools are going through is that the ill feelings persist.

Or at least they did in Alpena schools, which gained unwanted notoriety by being the first school in the nation to close because of lack of funds.

Ed Retherford, a former Cass Cityan, who is a veteran teacher in the system, remarked that things aren't any better now than they were. Retherford was taking time from a busy schedule to visit last week end.

Besides teaching, Retherford, an avid fisherman, now runs a fishing charter boat on Lake Huron.

Several thefts occur in area

Several thefts were reported in the area during the past several days, including two in Cass City.

Charles Damoth Sr. of 6361 Sixth Street told village police last Wednesday morning that the grill was stolen from his pickup truck sometime between midnight and 6 a.m. The truck had been parked behind his garage. The grill was valued at $100-120.

Robert J. Erla of 4705 N. Seeger Street told Cass City police the same day that the bumper mounted fog lights and the digital clock from the dash had been taken from his pickup. The lights were worth $32; the clock, $25.

They were taken while the vehicle was parked at his residence overnight.

Les Rossman of Rossman Road, Kingston, reported to sheriff's deputies last Thursday that 260 gallons of fuel oil had been taken from a tank at the home of his brother-in-law since February.

Bruno Mazur of Dearborn Heights told deputies April 11 that someone broke into the barn at his week-end home on Mushroom Road, Deford, since April 3.

Gasoline was siphoned from three tractors, one by breaking the fuel line off the carburetor. Total loss was estimated at $16.25.

The same day, according to the sheriff's department, a box was found on Milligan Road, east of Cedar Run Road, containing photographic darkroom supplies. Due to a price and description of the contents written on the box, it is believed it was lost, not stolen.

Eugene Otulakowski of 5968 Cass City Road, Cass City, reported to deputies April 10 that some items had been taken from a barn he owns on Kelly Road. They were piled outside, but who ever planned to take them was apparently frightened away.

Outside the barn were a motorcycle, several hydraulic cylinders and two air compressors.

The home near the barn was also entered, but nothing was apparently taken.

The percentage of income tax paid by the average American family has more than doubled since 1953.

"If It Fitz..."

Fighting fallout

By Jim Fitzgerald

Editor's note: The following was written by Fitzgerald prior to last Friday.

The note read: "Jim, tell your readers they don't need to cover their fallout shelter with a car. A copy of the Wall Street Journal, opened to the editorial page, will do."

By coincidence, the note arrived the same morning beautiful, 11-month-old Sarah handed me a bouquet of daisies. "Sarah is one of the grandchildren we don't want bombed," explained her mother, Judy Wachler.

Both the note and the daisies were responses to a column I wrote about the obscenity of anyone suggesting that limited nuclear warfare might be acceptable, and survivable, in a sane society.

For instance, the Federal Emergency Management Agency has instructed urban families to move to the country for a couple of weeks whenever they expect a nuclear attack. But if the Russians are rude enough to send missiles unannounced, and there isn't time to vacation in the Upper Peninsula, our government's instructions to families are to dig trenches under their cars and crawl in.

Of course, it is outrageous for any government to spend public money devising ways to survive a nuclear war. Such a war cannot be survived in any real sense of that word. If you're not yet convinced of that fact, please watch "The Last Epidemic" on Detroit TV Channel 62 tonight at 7:30. It documents the incredible devastation of even a "limited" nuclear war. The "survivors" of such a holocaust will envy the dead.

Each day, more and more people are recognizing the horrible finality of nuclear warfare and are joining the nationwide campaign to freeze testing, production and deployment of nuclear weapons in the United States and Russia. But it is disheartening to note how many so-called intelligent people still remain convinced that freeze supporters are naive dreamers too dumb to realize that the only way to prevent nuclear war is to forbid a nuclear freeze. (The only way to prevent fistfighting is to forbid hugging?)

Typical pro-nuclear rhetoric: "... the tragedy of much of the nuclear freeze and ban-the-bomb movement is that it ... is simply an emotional reaction that feeds on fear ... and a pathological sense of guilt ..."

That is a quote from a Wall Street Journal editorial. It reached my desk attached to the aforementioned note suggesting that a fallout shelter built out of the Journal's unemotional words will do you a lot of good when the big bomb falls.

Certainly the Journal's intellectual credentials far surpass mine. I don't pretend to understand all the depressing megaton-warhead statistics. I know some experts say Russia is ahead in the nuclear arms race, and other experts say the U.S. is ahead. And I am emotional fool enough to suggest that the race be declared a tie, and over, because what difference does it make who is ahead?

Conservative columnist James Kilpatrick wrote it well the other day. He usually sleeps with President Reagan, who insists there can be no freeze of the nuclear arms race now because the Russians are ahead, but Kilpatrick deserted his hero on the nuclear debate.

"A point was reached long ago at which both the United States and the Soviet Union had such monstrous arsenals that further accretions became senseless," Kilpatrick wrote. "These have been 37 years of lunacy, of idiots racing against imbeciles, of civilized nations staggering blindly toward a finish line of unspeakable peril ... The immediate necessity is to call a truce ..."

Amen, amen. As written previously, I would feel the guilt scorned by the Wall Street Journal if I didn't support the nuclear weapons freeze, for the sake of my grandchildren, and for the sake of little Sarah who gave me daisies because her mother gets fearful and emotional at the thought of losing her child to a nuclear war.

This is the week end for freeze parties in the Detroit area. Guests will be asked to sign petitions aimed at persuading President Reagan that there must be a freeze. If you want to host a freeze party, phone Judy Wachler at 546-7343 between 9:30 a.m. and 9:30 p.m. any day and ask her for help in planning it.

You might also ask Judy to give Sarah a hug for you, for peace.

Tuition plan no credit

By Mike Eliasohn

What the President taketh, he giveth to someone else, or so it seems.

How else to describe President Reagan's proposed tuition tax credits for parents sending their children to private or parochial schools.

Once in full operation, should Congress approve the plan, it would cost the treasury $1.5 billion a year, according to an administration estimate. The National Education Association, which represents teachers, says $4 billion.

Reagan chose the convention of the National Catholic Educational Association last week to announce his plan.

It would start with a tax credit of $100 per child in 1983 for families with an annual income of less than $50,000. In 1984, it would increase to $300 and in 1985 to $500. Families earning between $50,000 and $75,000 would be eligible for a reduced credit.

A tax credit is deducted from the tax owed, not from income. If the family income was $20,000 and the tax owed was $3,000, two children attending a private or parochial school would reduce the tax to $2,000.

The president, in announcing his proposal, said it is "fair, equitable and designed to secure the parental right to choose."

To those who would benefit, I suppose the plan is "fair and equitable," but that doesn't include most Americans.

For starters, according to the Detroit News (quoting "government sources"), federal aid to public schools presently averages $420 a year. That's $80 less than what Reagan wants to give to those who don't send their children to public schools.

Ironically, while he is seeking a benefit to non-public schools, the president is proposing a 30 percent cut over the next two years in federal aid to public schools, which amounts to a total of almost $3 billion.

Reagan says his plan will strengthen public schools by encouraging competition. In other words, if private schools are strong, that will force the public schools to get better.

"Excellence demands competition -- among students and among schools," the president told the Catholic educators. "As competition has lessened, so has quality. As taxes and inflation have ballooned, choices have evaporated. Together, we must restore pluralism that has always been a strength of our society."

Anyone who believes that it applies to education also probably believes unemployment and high interest rates are good for the country.

When public schools lose students to non-public ones, which is what will happen if the tax credits go into effect, the public schools won't get better.

Schools don't improve when they are losing enrollment, especially in states like Michigan where loss of enrollment means loss of state aid in most districts (the exception being districts that don't receive state aid).

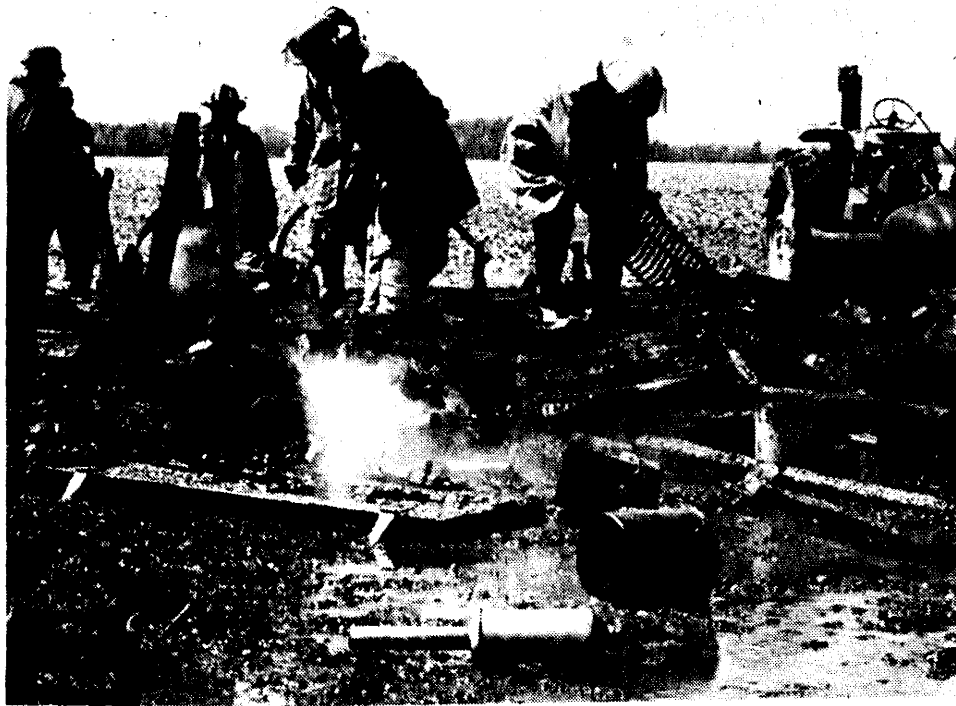

If Reagan wants the quality of education to improve in public schools, he shouldn't take $3 billion from them. Instead, let them use that money to hire more reading teachers and others involved in basic skills.

At this point, it's questionable whether Congress will go along with the President's tax credit proposal.

Many Congressmen can't see starting a new giveaway program while at the same time cutting other programs, especially education, and in a time of a $100 billion federal deficit.

Also, Reagan's proposal may be an unconstitutional violation of the separation of church and state. There really isn't any difference between giving outright aid to parochial schools, which is unconstitutional, according to the courts, and giving a tax credit to parents so they can send their children to parochial schools.

Hopefully, wisdom will prevail in Congress. It certainly isn't prevailing in the White House.

SHED FIRE -- Elkland Township firemen check through the rubble left after the shed of Harmond Nichols on Argyle Road, Decker, burned Sunday afternoon.

$6,500 damage in Sunday shed fire

Sparks from a trash fire set a storage shed on fire Sunday afternoon.

The owner of the shed, Harmond Nichols, said the drag line (excavating machine) parts stored inside were worth about $4,500 and the shed was worth $2,000. There was also oil and gas stored inside the asphalt shingled, wood shed.

Elkland Township fire fighters were called to the scene on Argyle Road, east of Decker Road, shortly after 1 p.m.

Nichols said trash had been burning in a barrel about 20 feet from the shed. He was a short distance away visiting with someone when the man saw smoke. Sparks from the fire had apparently landed on the roof, he continued, as that is where the fire started. A fire extinguisher wasn't adequate to put out the fire and the garden hose wasn't long enough to reach it.

The shed had burned down by the time fire fighters arrived. They were at the scene about a half-hour.

Walbro sales down in first 3 months

Lambert E. Althaver, president and chief operating officer of Walbro Corp., reported consolidated net sales of $10,469,403 for the three-month period which ended March 31.

This compares with $11,485,390 for the same period in 1981. The company experienced a net loss for the period of $228,717 compared with earnings of $224,339 for the first quarter of 1981.

On a per-share basis, the first quarter loss was 29 cents, compared with earnings of 29 cents per share for the same period in 1981.

Althaver attributed the first quarter loss to several factors. Sales of the company's small engine carburetor line continued the downward trend of late 1981, due to reduced worldwide demand for chain saws and other power equipment resulting from general economic conditions.

As a result, the company's manufacturing facilities were operating well below capacity, contributing to the first quarter loss.

Sales of the company's line of electric fuel pumps increased during the quarter, but due to price concessions given to the automotive industry and start-up costs for the company's rotary fuel pump, earnings were not proportionate to the sales increase.

Sales of the company's aluminum and magnesium diecastings dropped considerably due to reduced automotive demand, and price concessions caused continued losses in this area as well, Althaver noted.

"It is anticipated that sales of small engine carburetors will continue at the current low levels during the second quarter," Althaver said.

"However, sales of all other products are expected to increase above last year's levels due to new applications for products like our rotary fuel pump and increasing demand for the company's aluminum diecastings and plastics parts."

Walbro's annual stockholders' meeting will be held Monday in Cass City.

Program to teach skills to impaired

A new program to help handicapped teenagers and young adults develop job skills will operate this summer in the Upper Thumb.

The Thumb Area Consortium last Thursday approved the program, which should serve 210 persons ages 16-25. Participants will include the deaf and hard of hearing, visually impaired, speech impaired, mentally retarded emotionally disturbed and physically impaired.

Total cost of the Occupational Orientation and Information Project will be $130,200, three-fourths of which is federal funds that had been allocated to the state Department of Education for vocational training of the handicapped.

The rest, $32,550, is to come from Michigan Employment Program (MEP) funds that had been allocated to the consortium for on-the-job training.

Before approving the program, some consortium board members expressed reservations that some students taking the course might not gain from it, that they might not be capable of holding a job should one become available.

Consortium Executive Director Frank Lenard responded that had also been a concern of his and that those taking the program would be a mix -- some would benefit and some never will be able to get a job.

Some board members then commented that as long as some students will gain, the program will be worthwhile.

It calls for a maximum of seven students per class in each four-week session, with two four-week sessions at the skill centers in Tuscola and Sanilac Counties (students would attend only one session) and one four-week session at local school districts in Huron County, which does not have a countywide skill center.

The Sanilac and Tuscola Intermediate School Districts will each run six classes twice, for a total of 84 students each, and the Huron ISD, six programs once for a total of 42 students. Each class will operate four hours a day, five days a week.

For each session, there will be one vocational instructor and one special education instructor. There will also be a counselor-coordinator in each county.

Most of those enrolled will be present special education students. Those out of school or their parents can contact the vocational director of the ISDs in Caro, Bad Axe or Sandusky to see about enrolling, Lenard said.

The consortium's local match is coming out of the $95,000 it is receiving this year in MEP funds, which is normally used for on-the-job training (OJT) programs. (It was announced at the meeting that the amount, which had been $100,000, is being reduced by the state by $5,000 because of Michigan's financial problems.)

ALTHOUGH THAT WILL reduce the amount of money available for the regular MEP OJT program, it will be more than offset by an increase in federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act money.

Lansing deducts 5 percent of CETA money that comes into the state for administration. It didn't spend all that money it had so has distributed what it had left to the regional consortiums.

The Thumb Area Consortium is receiving $91,000 additional, Lenard said, of which $40,000 will be earmarked for the Title II-B and VII OJT programs, $50,000 for the Title II-B classroom job training program and $1,000 for administration.

Because so few employers are adding new personnel, he expressed doubt his agency will be able to spend all the OJT money it has this year.

For the same reason, he wasn't optimistic that many handicapped students enrolled in the new summer program who are capable of holding a job will get them.

LENARD REPORTED Congress is still debating what form federally funded job training will take after the present CETA program expires Sept. 30.

Lenard predicted total funding for 1982-83 will be about $2 billion, in line with what the Reagan Administration is recommending, versus $3.4 billion to be spent this fiscal year for CETA.

As of March 31, the consortium had been allocated $2.87 million for the current fiscal year and had 503 persons enrolled in various training programs. (The figure includes money for the Summer Youth Program in which no one is working yet.)

Leach enters innocent plea

Roger F. Leach pleaded innocent Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court to a charge of manslaughter in connection with the Jan. 29 traffic accident that took the life of Cass City school teacher Bonnie Bruner.

Judge Patrick R. Joslyn scheduled a pretrial hearing June 7. Personal recognition bond of $10,000 was continued.

Miss Bruner, 30, was killed when Leach's pickup crossed the centerline on M-15, south of Vassar, and ran into her oncoming car.

The warrant charges Leach with having driven his pickup while under the influence of liquor, which resulted in her death. Manslaughter carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Also Monday, Ronald L. McIngvale, 30, of 8304 Mary's Lane, Postoria, stood mute to a charge of delivery of marijuana in his home to a teenager Nov. 21.

A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled June 7. Bond was continued.

James H. Clothier, 17, of 2750 Swaffer Road, Millington, was placed on three years' probation for unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle.

He was also sentenced to 90 days in the county jail, with credit given for 23 days served. He is to be released from jail to attend school in the evenings and a condition of his probation is that he shall complete high school.

Clothier pleaded guilty to the charge March 1, to driving away a snowmobile Jan. 27 in Arbela Township.

Telephone local rate increases

General Telephone customers in Michigan began paying 3.65 percent more for local service as of April 15, according to Richard L. Grandstaff vice-president-general manager for the company.

The increase will appear as a surcharge on bills the customers receive beginning in early May.

The surcharge was authorized by the Ingham County Circuit Court as a result of court action brought by General Telephone against the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) concerning the general rate increase granted the company in January.

The company, which had filed a request for $28.8 million in August, 1980, termed the $6.9 million award "disappointing" when it was granted in January, 1982, and in February filed with the court for injunctive action.

The court, after hearing presentations by both General Telephone and the MPSC, authorized the company to collect an additional $2,849,000 by the imposition of a 3.65 percent surcharge on almost all intrastate local services.

Hairdressers see new molded perm

Twelve beauty shop owners and hairdressers attended the April meeting at Helen's Beauty Salon in Cass City of the Thumb affiliate of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

The president of Bay City Hairdressers, Mary Ann Wilson, who is also an educator and member of Michigan Hairfashion Coiffure, and Michigan Coiffure Association, demonstrated a technique on the new "molded perm" that falls naturally into the desired style, without use of the blow-dryer.

Miss Wilson also teaches the advanced cosmetology workshop summer sessions at Ferris State College.

Jane Champagne of the Bay City Hairdressers, and treasurer of Michigan Hairfashion Coiffure, will attend the next meeting, May 10. Election of officers will take place, as well as a demonstration of the latest technique on "braiding."

The club voted to extend an invitation to join to Howard Schmitt, owner of Howard's Beauty College, located in Caro.

'Coping with Kids' classes scheduled

Am I raising my children to be responsible adults? Why won't my child behave?

To help answer such questions, the Cooperative Extension Service, in cooperation with the Tuscola Intermediate School District, is sponsoring a five-week "Coping With Kids" series.

All the sessions will be held Tuesday evenings from 7-8 at Cass City High School. The first session will be May 11 and is entitled "The Stage Rage." This class will focus on the various stages of development that children go through.

Effective discipline will be the topic of discussion during the second class, May 18. The next session, May 25, will emphasize the importance of building self-esteem in children. June 1, the topic of worrisome habits will help parents understand and deal with such behavior as bed-wetting, thumbsucking and lying.

The series will finish June 8 with a focus on emergency first aid for children.

Instructors for the series will be area child development specialists. For further information, contact the extension office in Sandusky or Caro.

Exploration Days at MSU for 4-H'ers

June 23-25 are the dates for the 1982 4-H Exploration Days on the Michigan State University campus.

Theme for the program will be "Growth Explosion."

Exploration Days is open to 4-H youth (age 12 as of Dec. 31, 1982) and volunteer leaders. Total cost will be $40 and includes all meals and lodging as well as enrollment in one of the 230 educational options conducted by MSU and Extension staff.

These options provide hands-on involvement in such diverse sessions as wilderness living and survival, cartoon wizardry, Swedish weaving, energy in agriculture and how to get a summer job.

Enrollment forms for the program are due in county 4-H offices by May 3.

HEALTH TIPS

Taking two drugs often doesn't mix

By Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

Occasionally, a person may feel adverse side effects from a particular drug. Also, says the American Medical Association, some drugs tend to produce more side effects than others.

It is important to understand what effect the medicine you are taking is to have. Is it supposed to relieve pain? Is it supposed to help you to sleep? Is it supposed to calm your nerves?

You also should ask your physician what the possible side effects of the medicine are. For example, you may experience headache, dizziness, nausea, or blurred vision.

Not all side effects are serious, but you should inform your physician of any that occur and be guided by his advice on either discontinuing or continuing the medication. Sometimes the physician will change the dosage or schedule or prescribe a different medication.

Many adverse side effects are caused by drug interactions. If you are taking medications, insulin, diuretics, even aspirin or vitamins, be sure to tell your physician the kind you are taking when he prescribes a new medicine.

You should also remember to tell your physician about any over-the-counter remedies you are using. He can advise you on whether to continue or stop.

Some drugs become ineffective or are made more powerful when certain substances, such as alcoholic beverages or milk products, are taken at the same time.

Be sure to ask your physician whether you should avoid any foods or beverages while you are taking the medicine he prescribes.

By the same token, some drugs may cause you to require more of certain substances than usual. For example, some diuretics cause an excessive loss of potassium from the body. Patients taking these drugs are often told to drink fruit juices and eat bananas or other foods high in potassium.

Be sure to ask your physician whether you will need to supplement your diet while you are taking a drug he prescribes.

4-H Spring Achievement Saturday

McComb Elementary School in Caro will be the site Saturday of the 1982 4-H Spring Achievement.

Spring Achievement includes a morning session where the participants are evaluated on their ability to work within groups of 4-H'ers in their own age category and an evening session where they have an opportunity to model their sewing, knitting and crocheting projects.

This year's morning sessions will include plastic needlepoint, demonstrated by Faye Stoll of Silverwood; self esteem, taught by Dawn Harris, Extension Home Economist, and modeling techniques, demonstrated by Karen Raymond of Karen's Town and Country.

During the morning session, the participants will be judged by Kathy Jewell, Doug Hunkins, Jim Welke, Helen Kernstock, Judy Doerr, Penny Pierson, John Posselius and Dolores Duetsch.

The top 12 senior models will be eligible for participation in the regional style show in Saginaw. The top 10 percent will receive dress revue pins.

The style show will begin at 7 p.m. Along with the modeling, there will be entertainment provided by the Tuscola County Performing Arts Troupe. The public is invited.

Nationally, March milk production totaled 11.6 billion pounds, up 1 percent from the year before. Production per cow averaged 1,059 pounds, 1 pound above last year. Total milk cow numbers remained up 1 percent.

Your Neighbor says

U.S. should aid Britain if need be

Should the United States continue to tiptoe along the tightrope stretched between Great Britain and Argentina over the disputed Falkland Islands?

Not if the Russians are involved on the side of Argentina, says Ken Harris.

Reports surfaced last week that the Soviet Union, a major buyer of Argentine grain, was providing intelligence information to the Argentine government on the whereabouts of the British fleet sailing to the Falklands. Argentina has denied it.

"If Russia does that (provide intelligence), we can't stand by and watch Britain be without an ally," Harris said.

When the United States placed an embargo on sale of grain to Russia and boycotted the Moscow Olympics to protest the latter's invasion of Afghanistan, Great Britain supported the United States, but Argentina started selling grain to the Soviets.

"I really believe if it comes out (that Russia is helping Argentina), we should be a strong backer of Britain," Harris said.

If war does break out between the two countries over the Falklands, he doesn't feel the United States should become directly involved in the fighting. However, he feels we could help Britain by using our cargo planes and furnishing intelligence information.

At stake for Britain, should it not regain the Falklands, Harris said, are possible deposits of oil and gas there, but more importantly, a lot of pride.

Harris and his wife, Sharlene, live on Greenland Road, Cass City. He is employed as a custodian at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Boyl takes seminar

Wesley Boyl, 3039 Kingston Road, Kingston, plant supervisor at Walbro Corp. in Caro, completed the two-day seminar on effective grievance intervention April 6 in Wittenberg University's Management Development Program.

The course is designed to assist supervisors in the handling of grievances. The program examines the importance of systematic ways of handling, recording, and resolving grievances in addition to the supervisor's role in labor relations.

Wittenberg University is located in Springfield, Ohio.

Volunteers needed for cancer drive

"Share the Cost of Living" is the theme of the 1982 American Cancer Society Crusade to be observed this month in Tuscola County.

The drive is just beginning in the Cass City and Elkland Township areas, according to Ione Perry, and volunteers are needed for the door-to-door campaign as well as contributors.

The fund drive, she said, is important because, "Statistically speaking, you are a rare person if you do not know someone close to you who had cancer or who is waging a personal fight against this dread disease."

Persons interested in helping with the fund drive or who would like more information can call Mrs. Perry at 872-3016 or Helen Lorentzen at 872-2727.

A soldier who leaves the Active Army for private industry can keep most Army benefits, by enlisting in the Army Reserve.

AROUND THE FARM

Check grain for spoilage

By Don Kebler

Don't wait until you start to unload your stored grain to sell it and find it bad.

Reports are starting to trickle in that indicate there is more grain going bad in farm storages than imagined.

Spoilage from high moisture is destroying by rotting and molding this grain, and this moisture is not all caused by grain insects feeding.

All producers with on-farm grain storage should check their grain now. Check for moisture.

Pull some samples from various areas in each bin. Be sure to check around the bin perimeter. Look for places where bin bolts may be out or cracks where moist air could get into the bins and contact the grain at these areas. Smell the samples while you are making moisture checks. If it smells musty, you know you have a problem.

If you find a problem with spoiling grain, you have several alternatives which you already know if you have had this problem before.

Depending on the degree of problem, you may need to sell immediately. Under certain conditions, aeration may work.

Moving your grain from one storage container to another with some aeration may suffice or you may have to aerate with artificial heat because the natural outside air is too high in humidity to blow thru the cold grain in the storage.

While you are in the process of inspecting for problems, think seriously of adding grain fumigant. This little bit extra can pay dividends.

Criminal complaints increase

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department recorded 525 criminal complaints in March, a sharp increase from the 454 received in February.

Deputies arrested 62 persons in March, including 33 for traffic violations (mostly drunk driving), six for liquor law violations and five for violation of probation.

There were 309 traffic citations issued during the month, including 85 for speeding and 72 for defective equipment.

Deputies issued 23 appearance tickets, including nine for purchase, possession or transporting alcoholic beverages by minors.

Officers traveled 43,980 miles in March, with their patrol cars averaging 11.7 miles per gallon.

The county jail took in 180 inmates during the month, of whom 24 were female, and released 180.

Cass City police made three arrests in March, two for assault and one for larceny.

Michigan state police from the Caro post arrested 19 persons, including 10 for traffic violations. Kingston police arrested three persons for traffic violations.

The number of respective complaints and accidents recorded in area townships and villages in March were: Columbia Township, 5 and none; Elkland, 18 and 5; Cass City, 48 and accidents not recorded by sheriff's department; Ellington, 16 and 1; Elmwood, 8 and 2; Kingston Township, 18 and 5; Kingston village, 2 and accidents not recorded; Novesta, 23 and 6, and Wells, 26 and 5.

Milliken says recession makes tax necessary

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

Although Gov. William G. Milliken will have served 14 years as the state's chief executive, he may best be remembered for his last few months in office as he has asked the Legislature to approve a hike in the state's income tax rate.

In an effort to keep both the current fiscal year budget balanced and prevent problems in the upcoming fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, Milliken is calling for an income tax increase to 5.3 percent (up from the current 4.6 percent rate), further budget cuts of $450 million this year and the elimination of a state employee pay raise for 1983.

Milliken said in a statewide television address to the people that Michigan's continuing fiscal crisis has made it impossible to abide with his plan in January, when he said there would be no need for a general tax increase this year.

The governor blamed two consecutive national recessions and high interest rates for plunging the state into depression.

He said the situation of extraordinary cuts and the tax increase was necessary and "if not met forcefully and courageously will cripple this state for years and years to come."

The governor's chief fiscal advisor, Management and Budget Director Gerald Miller, further warned that if a program is not adopted to balance the current year budget and a 1983 budget is not adopted by July, Michigan probably will not be able to borrow $500 million needed to meet state payments Oct. 1.

That, he said, "would bring on the greatest chaos this state has ever seen."

Miller said the executive office would be willing to compromise in any way to get a package, except in terms of a temporary tax increase.

That, he said, would not solve the problem for the 1983 fiscal year budget, nor would it deal with maintaining the transportation system or eliminating a cash flow deficit.

The tax hike will not come easy. It will have to be enacted by the legislature, which faces the voters this year as all 148 House and Senate seats are up for grabs.

It is expected, however, that the legislature will muster the necessary votes to carry the tax hike which Milliken would like to see take effect by April 1.

Additionally, the legislature will have to act to rescind the 5 percent state employee pay raise scheduled to take effect Oct. 1. That 5 percent pay raise translates to around $55 million during the next fiscal year.

The Senate and House Appropriations Committees will have the final say on the budget-cutting executive order. They can only accept or reject the order. If they reject it, negotiations will follow for a revised order.

The 7 percent income tax increase would generate another $160 million for the remainder of the current fiscal year. Of the total, $135 million would go to the general fund and $25 million would go for cash restoration to solve the state's cash flow problems.

The executive order would eliminate fourth quarter payments to state colleges and universities ($136 million), community colleges ($30 million) and local governments ($58 million).

Fourth quarter school aid payments would also be eliminated for a savings of $35 million.

Also, a part of the executive order will be a $3 million cut in payments to physicians, $50 million in departmental cuts and $70 million in employee layoffs or savings.

These extraordinary measures are being proposed by Milliken at a time when he could coast through the remainder of his term and then leave the problems for the next administration.

Milliken has always faced problems head on and has chosen to continue doing so for the rest of 1982. Unfortunately, the first 13 years of the Milliken administration will be overshadowed by one of the last major acts of his administration — raising taxes.

That is probably how he will be remembered.

Expect 1,000 to hear Dick Enberg Friday

Nearly 1,000 Thumb area sports enthusiasts, high school track participants past and present, coaches and celebrities are expected to descend on Cass City's Colony House banquet center this Friday evening to mark the 10th anniversary of the Thumb Track & Field Meet of Champions.

Dick Enberg, America's No. 1 sportscaster from NBC Sports, will be the featured speaker at the 7 p.m. dinner event.

Other celebrities will include Michigan State University head football coach Frank "Muddy" Waters, who will serve as toastmaster for the evening, Bishop Kenneth Untener of the Saginaw Diocese, and media representatives Marc Wesley of WJEM-TV in Saginaw and Hal Schram of the Detroit Free Press.

The birthday fete will include toasts from a number of individuals representing coaches, track and field participants, parents, the media and the state athletic department which will be presented by Vern Norris, Director of the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

Guests will enjoy a buffet meal served by the staff of the Colony House, the organ music of Caro's Dale Hunt, and decorations arranged by members of the games committee, the volunteer group which oversees the annual track extravaganza.

Each guest will receive a colorful, 40-page souvenir program containing a year-by-year history of the meet, the names of all high school medal winners, and pictures of the meets and the people and athletes those track events have honored.

Enberg is expected to speaking for about 30 minutes on a variety of topics including his own sports experiences, the great and not-so-great moments of his career, vignettes and anecdotes about national sports figures.

Special guests are expected to be available for autographs and to greet other guests and fans after the program.

Conclude 6 Methodist meetings

Six meetings held in Trinity United Methodist Church sponsored by United Methodist Women of the church under the direction of Mrs. Edward Baker were completed Tuesday, April 13.

The series endorsed and promoted by the Methodist Church was titled "Where Faith Meets Faith" and was a study of various religions of the world.

The presentations given by various women representing churches in the area pointed out that morals and ethics of the five religions are basically the same and also that no one religion can assure world peace.

Speakers were Mrs. Mike Weaver, Mrs. Lou LaPonsie, Mrs. Ivan MacRae, Mrs. George Moslander, Mrs. Grover Hulbert and Mrs. Donald Richards, who discussed Hinduism, Buddhism, Islam, Judaism and Christianity.

The weekly meetings were well attended. At the close of the last meeting, sandwiches and coffee were served.

GRASS FIRES are an unfortunate sign of spring. The Elkland Township Fire Department fought three of them last Wednesday and Thursday. This one was in the Cass City Industrial Park, behind the Walbro and General Cable plants on Garfield Street. About two acres burned.

It's spring! Elkland firemen quell 3 area grass fires

Elkland Township fire fighters extinguished their first grass fire of the spring last Wednesday, followed by two more Thursday, interrupted by a chimney fire.

All the grass fires started with persons burning trash or lawn debris, which spread to the surrounding area.

The first was reported at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday. About three acres burned behind the home of Larry Harper on Little Road, west of Keilitz Road in Ellington Township, before fire fighters got it out.

The chimney fire at the home of Bud Peasley on Shabbona Road, 2 1/4 miles east of Cemetery Road, was reported at 7:45 a.m. Thursday.

Firemen used an extinguishing fuse and a chain dropped down the chimney to put the fire out. The chimney, connected to a wood burning furnace, was cracked, according to Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr., and would have to be replaced. He estimated the loss at $500.

A grass fire reported at 3:45 p.m. that day was behind the Walbro plant on Garfield Street, having spread from burning of leaves and twigs at the Dean Hoag home, 4137 Vulcan Street. About two acres burned.

Assistant Fire Chief Ron Pawloski said there could have been an explosion had the fire, sparks or even excessive heat reached a storage building behind the General Cable building on the south side of Garfield. Inside were highly explosive 55-gallon drums of a cleaning solvent and thinner.

At 6 p.m., fire fighters were called to the George W. King residence on Severance Road, west of Phillips Road.

Fire spread from burning trash into the grass and was spotted by a neighbor, who called the fire department.

Pawloski, who lives in the area, was the first fireman on the scene and he and someone at the house stomped out the grass fire.

However, the fire had spread to two sheds and those fires were extinguished after the fire trucks arrived.

The sheds were scheduled to be torn down, so the minor damage they sustained wasn't considered of any consequence.

The world's greatest migrators are birds called the Arctic terns. They travel each year to the Antarctic. The round trip totals about 25,000 miles.

Arrest 2 for Saturday pranks

Two teenagers have been charged with opening two fire hydrants in Cass City early Saturday that resulted in loss of 178,000 gallons of water.

Arraigned before District Judge Richard F. Kern Monday on charges of tampering with a fire hydrant were Michael J. Adkins, 17, of 4700 Shabbona Road, Snover, and William R. Lawrence, 18, of 6853 Deckerville Road, Decker.

Both were released from police custody on $3,000 surety bond. The judge scheduled pre-preliminary examinations for both Monday, April 26, and preliminary examinations May 7.

A night of mischievous behavior that Cass City police tried to deal with began at 10:30 Friday when officers found barricades from the Village Service Center placed on West Street.

A group of 12-15 young males were walking around the downtown area. Shortly after 11 p.m., they got in cars and drove around.

Between 11:30 p.m. and 2:10 a.m., police reported, numerous tires from the Service Center and L. & S. Standard Service were rolled in the street and beer bottles were thrown onto the pavement.

Four subjects were observed continuously riding around in one vehicle. At 2:10, they switched to another vehicle.

About that time, officers were informed that a hydrant was open at Seeger and Houghton Streets.

At 2:30, officers stopped the car the four were riding in after they spotted it turning south on West Street at high speed and without signaling.

The four occupants were questioned separately by officers, which resulted in the admission that two of them had turned on the hydrants. The other one opened was on Ale Street near Rose.

One of the other occupants of the car had stood watch while the hydrants were opened, while the fourth stayed in the car.

The prosecutor's office declined to charge those two, ages 15 and 17, with having committed a criminal offense, Police Chief Gene Wilson said.

All four were released Saturday after questioning. Adkins and Lawrence were arrested by police Monday after warrants were issued by the prosecutor's office.

Police were unable to catch anyone or determine who was responsible for throwing the tires and beer bottles into the street, Wilson said.

Election effort almost over

School millage campaign aimed to attract voters

Most of the campaign to get the two Cass City school millage proposals approved April 30 is over except the shouting.

On the ballot will be renewal of 12.9 mills and a request for 5.5 mills additional.

What remains, according to millage campaign chairman Doty Scollon, is making sure those who need absentee ballots get them and phoning persons on election day to encourage them to vote.

In addition, there will be a public meeting at 8 p.m. this Thursday at the Trinity United Methodist Church for persons who have questions about the proposals. Supt. Donald Crouse and some board members will be there.

The Millage Committee-Booster Club campaign, Mrs. Scollon said, had three aims, to get persons registered to vote, encourage them to attend open house that all schools conducted and to make them aware of the issues.

By checking school lists of parents' names with the master list of voters, it was determined about one-third of the parents in the district were not registered.

Those not registered were sent letters encouraging them to do so. A total of 357 letters were mailed and in most instances, both the husband and wife were not registered.

An effort was also made to encourage 18-year-olds in school to register. Under a state law approved in 1979, they could register at the high school.

The Chronicle welcomes letters, for and against the millage proposal, for publishing in next week's issue. The two proposals will be explained in that issue.

Letters must include the writer's name, address and phone number and must be received no later than noon Monday.

How successful was the effort to encourage persons to register?

In Elkland Township, Clerk Carol Ware said, about 100 persons have registered since the school millage and countywide bridge millage elections last August, including high school students. Most of those have registered in the past few months.

In Novesta Township, according to Clerk Nurse Kloc, 40-45 have registered since February, including those who did so at the high school.

Evergreen Township Clerk Otis Dorland said 20-25 new names have been added to the voter rolls in the last few months.

The Cass City School District extends into 13 townships, of which only Novesta and Evergreen are entirely within the district.

A MAJOR COMPONENT of the millage campaign was printing of 10,000 copies of the "Cass City School District Newsletter," which was paid for by the Chamber of Commerce, which donated $250. Boosters Club, Cass City Education Association (teachers) and private individuals.

Members of various clubs donated their services to help distribute a copy to every house in the district.

Copies were also made available at businesses and at meetings where Supt. Donald Crouse and board members spoke. As of a couple of weeks ago, they had addressed 22 gatherings.

The newsletter attempted to answer questions citizens have about the millage proposals, some of which have been expressed in a survey conducted earlier, response to which was meager. There were 3,000 questionnaires sent out in an earlier newsletter, of which fewer than 200 were returned.

Weekly newspaper ads have been running in the Chronicle explaining the millage proposals.

Mrs. Scollon feels the millage campaign tried to avoid use of threats. For instance, the newsletter did not list cuts in school programs the school board has said it will make if the millage is defeated.

"We always will be accused of making threats, but I don't think we can be (rightfully) accused of that," she commented.

AS FOR HOW MRS. Scollon feels the voters will respond election day, she replied, "I think it will be close. I wouldn't be surprised either way."

She feels the public has been informed of the need for the millage and of those who vote "no," most will do so for economic reasons, not because they doubt the need.

"I think people have been supportive of the school and if they are voting against it, it's because of the economy."

Total cost of the millage campaign has been less than $800, all of it donated, according to the campaign chairman.

Nicholas finishes Army basic

Army Pvt. Kevin Nicholas finished basic training April 17 at Fort Dix, N.J.

Kevin Nicholas

He has been assigned to Fort Knox, Ky., for mechanical training.

The 1981 graduate of Cass City High School is the son of Ruth Shamka of Owendale and Richard Nicholas of Cass City.

Cleland nominated for West Point

Cass City High School senior Dale Cleland has been nominated to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

He reports to the Army academy July 1, he said, and if he passes a final physical test, he becomes a cadet.

The son of Jerry and Theo Cleland was notified Feb. 24 by the academy that he was accepted, contingent on continuation of his excellent school record.

Although Congressman Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, didn't announce his nominations to the service academies until Monday, Cleland was actually notified of the nomination by the Congressman's office before he was notified by the academy of his provisional acceptance.

Traxler nominated a total of six high school seniors to West Point.

His acceptance, he explained, was based on grades, American College Test scores, a physical aptitude test he took in Bay City and a physical examination he took at Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda.

Cleland said there were various reasons why he decided he wanted to go to West Point. One is, "I like the school. It's a really good one."

As of now, he is interested in studying civil engineering at West Point and then serving his five-year tour of duty after he graduates with the Army Corps of Engineers, though that may change, he said.

He examined a lot of college engineering schools, he explained, and finally decided, "I like what West Point and the Army has."

Hospital, doctors are sued

Hills and Dales General Hospital and two doctors are defendants in a suit filed in Tuscola County Circuit Court last Thursday.

Plaintiff is Rosetta Nell Weisenbach of Huron County.

Being sued in addition to the hospital are Dr. R. June Havey, D.O., who maintained a practice in Sebawaing, and Dr. Harold T. Donahue, M.D., of Cass City.

The suit charges that Ms. Weisenbach received prenatal care from Dr. Havey starting in 1978, then entered Hills and Dales May 14, 1979, to deliver her child.

The two physicians agreed the plaintiff should have a caesarean section, instead of natural childbirth. The operation was performed by Dr. Donahue and the child was delivered May 15.

Ms. Weisenbach claims in the suit she later learned the caesarean operation had been unnecessary and that as a result, she suffered damages, some of them permanent.

She seeks an award in excess of $10,000.

Memorial

IN MEMORY OF Warren Lee Erickson, who died April 21, 1976. The blow was hard, the shock severe - To part with one we loved so dear. Sadly missed by his wife and children. 13-4-22-1

IN LOVING MEMORY of my husband, our father, John Somerville, who passed away two years ago, April 24, 1980. Our father was a farmer, a strong good man. Straight were the furrows where his sharp plow ran, and straight from the Scripture was the life he led. Gnarled were his fingers from lifelong toil, but mellow was his heart that loved the soil. Close after God in his soul came labor, and an equal feeling for every neighbor. Our father was a farmer who knew the worth of kinship with the planted earth. Sadly missed by his wife Gladys, and children, Gary, Cathy, Roxy, Maryann and Jim and grandchildren. 13-4-22-1

Astronaut speaks at Chamber dinner

The pilots in the shuttle program have to fly their T-38 jet trainer planes 15 hours a month to maintain proficiency. Shaw flew one to Selfridge Air National Guard Base, Mount Clemens, Friday, and flew back to Houston Sunday, all of which counts as part of his required flying time.

As for flying in outer space, he said during the interview, "I think space flying is the best flying there is. After you've flown in space, what can you do? . . . not to use a pun, but space flight is as far out as you can go."

THE FATHER OF
three children -- he met his wife, Kathleen, in college --

Village President Althaver presented his annual state of the village address. He reported the state equalized valuation of the village is no more than $22 million -- "a dubious figure perhaps to those of us who pay taxes" -- and that new

The American people, he commented, need a national goal and the shuttle program comes along at the right time. "We need something to

Michigan prime tornado country

During the past six years, the state's 128 twisters have killed 14 people and injured nearly 300 more.

WHEN A TORNADO watch is announced, MAIC advises preparing for the worst by gathering a first aid kit, flashlight, portable radio and extra batteries. Stay tuned to radio and television weather reports.

If a warning is announced, move to a place of safety immediately. Head for the basement if the building has one. If not, go to the center of the lowest floor and take shelter in any small room or closet, well away from windows. Stay low and, if possible, under heavy furniture.

side, and if caught in the open during a tornado warning, seek shelter in a ditch, ravine or other place below ground level and stay as low as possible. If driving, move at right angles away from the path of the approaching storm.

BUCKLES ALSO SUG-gests that property owners review their insurance coverage to make sure it's adequate. "Many homeowners in Michigan don't have enough protection for a total loss," he said.

The $6 million sewage plant, soon to start operating, he said is indicative of the growth of the community and the growth "we think will come."

Althaver announced that be proud about."

He referred to the more than $10 billion shuttle program Friday night as "your country's space program," and made a similar comment to the Chronicle. "This program belongs to the people of the country, not those of us who work for NASA."

Most property losses, of course, aren't "total." Even with partial losses, however, many homeowners could have financial difficulties if underinsured.

Most policies require the insured to maintain coverage levels equal to at least 80 percent of replacement cost. If the insured does not, the company won't pay the full cost of repairing, replacing or rebuilding for such partial losses.

"Another thing we suggest is to maintain an up-to-date inventory of personal property," Buckles adds. "A tornado can destroy possessions or scatter them beyond recovery. The inventory will help speed up any insurance settlement."

A homeowners policy will cover a family's personal belongings, such as furniture, appliances, rugs, clothing, jewelry, etc., as well as the home itself. The amount of insurance protection for personal property located on the premises is usually 50 percent of the amount of coverage on the dwelling. Policies generally provide only limited amounts of coverage for certain types of personal property which are especially susceptible to loss, such as cash, securities, jewelry, furs, manuscripts, and stamp and coin collections. Coverage for cash has a $100 limit, while coverage for other valuables varies between $500 and $1,000.

SIGNATURE -- Astronaut Brewster Shaw autographed everything Friday evening, including this table centerpiece awarded as a door prize. The centerpiece is fashioned after the space shuttle with the two booster rockets as it is ready for takeoff.

CHANGING OF THE GUARD -- Curt Strickland (left) assumed the presidency of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce Friday evening, taking over from Tom Herron, who served in the position four years.

CMU station?

More than one million listeners in the tri-cities and Thumb area may be able to listen to National Public Radio in the near future. Central Michigan University is planning to purchase a radio receiver for the campus.

sity has filed an application with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to begin operating a station which would broadcast from a studio in Bay City or Saginaw, said Thomas Hunt, manager for CMU public radio. The signal would reach a ten-county area including Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac Counties.

If all goes on schedule, the station may be on the air by the summer of 1984, said Hunt.

CMU will apply for $100,000 in federal funds, which would cover about 75 percent of the construction costs for the new station. The remaining 25 percent would be raised locally.
