Decision expected shortly

Caro Manufacturing may move to Cass City

Caro Manufacturing Corp. may say "yes" to Cass City. Friday, the Cass City Economic Development Corp. (EDC) approved an inducement resolution stating its willingness to issue limited obligation economic development revenue bonds, not to exceed $1 million, to finance the project.

It is up to the company to find a buyer of the tax-free, lower interest bonds. It is negotiating with Pinney State Bank to buy them.

The company's moving here is still tentative. If it does come, plant manager Wayne Turner said, its plant in Caro would be closed and its 65 employees would have the option of working in Cass City.

Caro Manufacturing, however, plans to expand its payroll to 100 once it is in its new plant, wherever it is.

The firm, Turner told the EDC board at its special meeting, is a manufacturer of molded plastic parts for auto companies and their suppliers. Its products include window washer and radiator overflow bottles, air ducts, air conditioner hoses and seat belt housings. It is researching entering the toy market.

Its employees in its plant on Hooper Street in Caro are currently working in three shifts, six days a week.

One reason business is booming, Turner explained to the EDC board, is that it has picked up business from firms that folded during the recession. Caro Manufacturing hopes to gain a lot more business, he added.

With business booming, the firm has outgrown its present building and wants to expand. For that purpose, it owns 20 acres elsewhere in Caro. The problem is that the land is ungraded and does not have sewer or water lines.

IT BECAME INTERESTED in moving to Cass City when it learned the property owned by the Cass City Industrial Development Corp. has sewer and water and is graded and is therefore ready for the immediate start of construction.

The proposed site is on Doerr Road, south of the Marshall Distributing building.

The proposed cement block building, builder Tom Herron told the EDC board, will have 40,000 square feet of manufacturing space, plus 3,600 square feet of office space.

A final decision is a couple of weeks away, Turner indicated after the meeting. It must be made by the three Caro Manufacturing owners, who live in the Detroit area. "They're leaning" (toward Cass City), the plant manager said.

THERE ARE A FEW other things that have to fall into place before the final decision is made, in addition to the EDC financing.

One is what officials in Caro might offer to the firm. Please turn to page 10.

'Truth in taxation'

Cass City residents receiving tax break

Cass City taxpayers will receive a tax break this summer, courtesy of the village council and the state's new "truth in taxation law."

Last year, the tax levy was 13.3938 mills for operations and 2.5 mills to pay off the bonds that finance the local share of the $6 million cost of the new sewage treatment plant.

The levy approved by the council Tuesday evening will be 12.8205 mills for operations plus the 2.5. (Debt levies aren't affected by the new law or the 1978 Headlee Amendment.)

The operational levy will raise $283,020. Had the council chosen to levy the same millage as last year, it would have collected $295,674.

However, the new law says that to collect additional revenue that results from an increase in valuations, the village council, school board, etc., must first conduct a public hearing. The hearing must be advertised in newspapers as a "hearing on increasing property taxes."

Council members' big fear was that in reducing millage, they might be establishing a precedent for taxpayers to expect roll-backs in future years, which they wouldn't be able to do because of the need for increased revenue.

In fact, the council may be taking a chance this year.

The 1982 village budget anticipates $117,500 in various state revenues. Unknown yet is how much that might be cut back because of the state's financial crisis. A minor cutback might be absorbed, Village President Lambert Althaver commented, but a bigger cut might require a reduction in services.

Councilman Jim Ware said that might mean a layoff of some village employees.

There were some comments made that reducing the millage means that at best, all the street repairs the village may be able to afford this year is to fix some potholes.

What ultimately persuaded the council to approve the reduced millage was that property tax revenue for 1982 had been budgeted at $248,000, only $980 more than what the 12.82 mills will provide. "Maybe you have to take your chances one year and live with it," Dorothy Stahlbaum commented.

Property tax bills will be mailed about mid-May.

The difference between the $283,020 to be raised this year and the $280,670 last year roughly represents the gain the new law allows due to new construction during the past year.

Because the council won't be accepting any revenue beyond that, no public hearing is required.

ANNUAL AUDIT

The council continued its discussion about whether it should solicit bids from certified public accounting firms to perform the 1982 audit. Yeo and Yeo of Saginaw and Marlette has done it the last several years. Five more firms have expressed interest.

Village staff surveyed some area communities and found they paid from $5,000 to $13,000 for their annual audits, for budgets ranging from $602,137 to $1.6 million.

Cass City had a budget of $888,950 and paid $6,800 for its audit.

In terms of gaining familiarity with the village's books, there is an advantage in retaining the same accounting firm, it was mentioned, so seeking the lowest bid isn't necessarily the only consideration.

The council will continue the discussion next month.

OTHER ITEMS

The council voted to contract with Hubbel, Roth and Clark, engineers for the wastewater treatment plant, to prepare the required industrial pre-treatment plan, at a cost of no more than $4,400.

Some industries may have to pre-treat their sewage before it can be discharged into the sewer to be treated by the new plant.

The plan will include a summary of the survey made of what industrial wastes are being discharged, limitations, enforcement and equipment needed.

The new plant may begin operation by this week end, with final completion in June.

The hydrogeological study of the village-owned landfill south of town has been completed and submitted to the Department of Natural Resources.

The engineering firm that conducted it recommended continued monitoring of the eight test wells for signs of such metals as lead and chromium, which were found in making the study.

It hasn't been proven yet whether the lead and chromium is coming from the landfill, since the wells on the edges of the site show higher concentrations. They are apparently not high enough to be a cause for concern.

The DNR may make its own recommendations.

Suspect arson in area house fire

It was a busy Sunday for Elkland Township fire fighters, as they were called to three fires, a chimney, grass and an abandoned house.

The house fire, discovered by a neighbor, was reported at 9:45 p.m. The home was on Cumber Road in Greenleaf Township, between Gilbert and Leslie Roads.

Although the cause is still under investigation, Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. said, arson is suspected. One of the firemen smelled kerosene when they first arrived.

When they arrived, the fire had spread to the surrounding grass and that had to be extinguished first.

Neighbors said the home was last lived in by William Fulcher, who died about 20 years ago.

Owners of the property are Kenneth and Jean Kleim of Fraser. Root said the home had no value.

Fire fighters were there about 1 1/2 hours. The Bingham Township Fire Department assisted by bringing a tanker.

At 10 p.m. Monday, firemen had to go back there to cut down a tree with a chainsaw. The tree, close to the home had started burning Sunday. Monday night, sparks from the tree were landing on the grass, setting it on fire.

At 4:20 p.m. Sunday, the grass fire truck was dispatched to the area of Bevins and Legg Roads in Kingston Township as an assist to the Kingston Fire Department, which was finishing extinguishing a grass fire elsewhere.

The Kingston firemen soon arrived and the two departments put out the fire.

At 8:50 a.m., Elkland fire fighters went to the Arthur Battel residence on Daus Road, near Grassmere Road in the northeast corner of the township.

An extinguishing fuse and a chain dropped down the chimney were used to put out the fire.

Root said the chimney was cracked, but it may have been that way before the fire. The chimney was connected to a wood-burning furnace in the basement. There was a little smoke in the kitchen.

Two proposals on ballot

Crucial Cass City school millage vote Friday

What kind of schools the residents of the Cass City School District will be sending their children to next year will be decided Friday.

Residents of the district will be voting on two proposals, renewal of 12.9 mills and an additional 5.5 mills. Both levels, if approved, will be for one year only.

The polling place will be the high school, with voting hours from 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

Defeat of the 12.9 mills would be absolute disaster. It would mean the district would only have enough remaining property tax revenue, plus state aid, to keep schools operating for about half of the 1982-83 school year, Supt. Donald Crouse estimated.

Passage of the 12.9 mills but defeat of the 5.5 would mean schools will remain open all year, but it will also mean severe cuts in staff and services. It appears likely that no school buses will run. Half-day sessions are a possibility, but less likely.

The millage proposals must be examined from three aspects: Why such a large increase is needed, how Cass City millages compare with other districts and what happens if the added millage is defeated.

Should either proposal be defeated, it is very likely the school board will decide to try again in the June 14 school board election.

CASH SHORTAGE

The 12.9 mills to the school district means an estimated $1,229,018 in revenue; the 5.5 mills additional, $524,000. Why does the district need so much more money? Inflation is one answer. Everything costs more every year.

To help offset that, the district cut $85,158 from the budget in 1980-81 and $248,666 in 1981-82, according to an information sheet prepared by the superintendent. Included were 10 1/2 teaching positions and two bus drivers.

Athletics and extra-curricular activities are being supported by the Cass City Boosters this year, at a savings to the district of $52,583.

A bigger problem for the Cass City schools has been a reduction in state aid. In 1976-77, money from Lansing made up 57 percent of the district's general fund revenue, with the rest coming from property taxes.

In 1980-81, state aid slipped to 37 percent of the total and this year will be an estimated 33 percent.

One reason for declining state aid has been declining enrollment. Cass City has 109 fewer students than it did during the 1980-81 school year, which cost it about $163,000 in revenue from Lansing.

Because of Michigan's financial problems, there have been some cuts in state aid from what Lansing is supposed to pay. The latest cut, which is to be taken out of the August state aid check, is $11,000.

One way Cass City has kept its financial head above water has been to use up its fund equity, in essence, its money in the bank.

The district started the present fiscal year with a fund equity of $167,000. By June 30, the end of the fiscal year, the budget calls for that to be down to zero.

The declining fund balance means the district has to borrow more money each year to cover the cash shortfall each fall until it starts receiving property tax revenue in December, which means paying more interest. This past year, Cass City borrowed $750,103 at 10.98 percent interest.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Somewhere along the line we lost 26 years, heaven knows where. On the front pages under the nameplate you'll find each week a volume number and an issue number. Last week the Chronicle had a birthday and the volume number which represents the years listed 76 and the issue, numbered one signified the start of a new year.

The only trouble with that is that the Chronicle was founded in 1899 and it absorbed the former Cass City Enterprise which started in 1881.

That puts us up their in a pretty select class. Cass City State Bank is celebrating 100 years in 1982 and doubtless you'll be hearing more about that in the months ahead.

In one respect we bow to no one. That's the length of management. In the history of the Chronicle there have been only two owners, the late Herb Lenzner and me.

And never mind any cracks about who else would want it.

In our building section this week an apt picture would have been the new roof put on the LeValley home on South Seeger.

The only trouble with that was the way the work was done. A crew arrived in the morning and, presto!, when it left the old shingles had been removed, new roof boards put on and the entire roof shingled.

The sad thing about Friday's vote is that despite the massive campaign and the undoubted interest, it's almost a sure thing that only about 60 percent of the eligible voters will cast a vote.

Fancy belt stolen

Theft of a jeweled belt and buckle worth $3,000 was reported to Caro state police April 20.

Charles Zalman of 6855 M-46, Kingston, said the theft took place since April 16 and the items were apparently taken by a visitor in his home during that time.

The buckle was described as being solid silver with turquoise stones. Five diamonds were inlaid into the gold "Z" on the buckle. Mounted on the belt were seven 1921 Liberty Head silver dollars, seven silver diamonds and numerous silver studs.

Mona Wilson of 3678 E. Akron Road, Cass City, reported to Caro state police Saturday that damage had been done to her van.

The van was being driven by her son Mike, who had two passengers with him. As they were exiting Unionville, a pickup occupied by two persons started following them, according to the police report.

On Hurds Corner Road, north of Hobart Road, Wilson stopped and the pickup stopped. A passenger got out of the latter, walked over to the van and started hitting it with a bat or club.

Damaged were the windshield, driver's door window, a rearview mirror and the side window behind the driver's door. Damage was estimated at $300.

Strong winds and quick action by the Elkland Township Fire Department averted what could have been a disastrous fire Friday afternoon at the DeLong Dairy Farm on Kelly Road, a mile east of Cemetery Road.

Destroyed were 25 calf pens, worth $130 each for a total of $3,250. The pens were only a few feet away from two sides of the large T-shaped dairy barn and they were getting hot by the time fire fighters arrived.

The weather

	High	Low	Precip.
Wednesday	56	21	0
Thursday	61	37	0
Friday	67	46	0
Saturday	75	42	0
Sunday	76	54	0
Monday	72	34	0
Tuesday	54	26	0

(Recorded at Cass City wastewater treatment plant)

Strong winds blowing from west to east blew the flames away from the barn. Fire fighters got the blaze out with the only damage to the barn being to two fiberglass panels, worth $200.

The cows were evacuated from the barn just in case it did catch fire.

Don DeLong spotted the fire from his home around the corner on Englehart Road. It was reported at 12:49 p.m.

The apparent cause, Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. said, was sparks from a dormant trash fire in a nearby barrel. The trash had been burned the day before, but smoke from it was seen Friday morning.

Public Works Supt. Frank Guilds said village crews had burned brush there during the winter, which continued to smolder.

When it finally got dry enough, it burst into flames. Fire fighters were there about 1 1/2 hours.

While they were there, a call was received at 11:40 a.m. to extinguish a grass fire at the home of Wayne Dewey, two miles south of M-81 on M-53.

The fire spread from trash being burned in a barrel, Root said. About one acre burned.

LANDFILL FIRE

At 10:50 a.m. Saturday morning, Elkland fire fighters were called to the Cass City landfill south of town to extinguish a fire in the area reserved for dumping of brush, building materials and other non-garbage refuse.

Village Department of

ONLY SMOKE

Elkland firemen were called to the home of Marian Umphenbach, 4657 Schwieger Road, at 11:05 p.m. last Wednesday.

An apparent backdraft down the chimney blew smoke from the fire in the fireplace into the home. There was no fire.

ONLY CHARRED BOARDS remained after fire destroyed 25 calf pens on the DeLong Dairy Farm on Kelly Road Friday. The pens were very close to the T-shaped dairy barn, part of which is shown in the background.

Quick action keeps barn from burning

"If It Fitz..."

13 cents short

By Jim Fitzgerald

Probably the dumbest thing I do is feel guilty when there is no reason for it. For instance, I feel guilty when I don't have 13 cents or when I stay up late at night.

At the store, when my purchases total $19.13 and I give the clerk a $20 bill, he or she always asks whether I have the 13 cents. The clerk wants to give me a dollar bill in change, instead of 87 cents. But I never have the 13 cents.

"Are you sure?" the clerk presses. I'm sure, and I feel guilty. Why? I'm giving the clerk

$19.13 for his merchandise. That's a decent sum. I'm helping him remain employed in a failing economy. He should be happy to expend whatever added energy is required to count out 87 cents in change as compared to handing me a dollar bill. Why should I feel guilty about making him work a teeny bit harder for my $19.13?

The clerk never says he doesn't have 87 cents in change. He never gives me a dollar bill anyway and says I can owe him the 13 cents. After he is finally convinced I don't have 13 cents in change, he always comes up with the 87 cents. So there is no reason for me to feel guilty about trying to save 13 cents by insisting on receiving 87 cents in change from a clerk who simply doesn't have it. He has it.

Once I peeked into a reluctant clerk's cash register and saw lots of silver and copper. I asked him why, seeing he had so much small change, he didn't want to give me 87 cents. He said he didn't want to run out of it.

Of course not. He wanted to hoard it. A store should send an employee to the bank each day to get enough change to take care of everyone who makes a $19.13 purchase with a $20 bill. A store shouldn't cut the costs of bank trips by hoarding its small change while asking customers to fork over $20.13 for a $19.13 purchase.

Sometimes I get the feeling a clerk suspects I'm lying about not having 13 cents so I can get his 87 cents to feed a parking meter. Many stores hate to make change for parking meters. Some even put up signs saying they won't do it, so don't bother to ask. Clerks in these stores are particularly suspicious of customers who buy a pack of gum with a dollar bill.

I confess that I have occasionally purchased gum I didn't want simply to get change for a parking meter. And I felt guilty about fooling the clerk just so I could lawfully park in his neighborhood and perhaps buy something in his store and thereby keep him employed in a failing economy. That guilt is even dumber than feeling guilty about not having exactly $20.13 to pay for $19.13 worth of merchandise I do want.

But dumber yet is a grown man feeling guilty about doing something he has a perfect right to do, such as stay up late, simply because he wasn't allowed to do it when he was a little boy.

All my life, I've resisted going to sleep at night. My parents made me turn out the lights early because everyone needs eight hours sleep, they said. But I often cheated, reading under the blankets with a flashlight or climbing out the bedroom window onto the porch roof and down a tree. That made me feel guilty, which was natural for a little kid.

What isn't natural is that I'm now the oldest person in my home and don't have to exit via trees, but I still feel guilty about my late hours.

I never go to sleep before 2 a.m. I read or watch a late movie or lean on a piano bar. I'm a consenting adult, for whom five or six hours' sleep are enough, so there is no reason I shouldn't be an owl, just as long as my hoots don't bother innocent bystanders. They don't bother my wife, just as long as I never lean without her and go to work in the morning.

So why do I still get that guilty feeling after midnight? Why do I keep expecting to be arrested for enjoying myself, or at least scolded and ordered to turn out the lights? I'd give most anything to know. I wouldn't give 13 cents in change, because I don't have it, but I would give a hoot.

The Haire Net

Two decades ago when Meredith Auten almost single-handedly raised enough money to make Hills and Dales Hospital a reality, one of his favorite expressions was, "you only pass this way but once," and giving to the hospital was a "way to leave a little mark behind."

I've seen that argument prevail over some people that were pretty tight-fisted with a buck.

It's too bad that Meredith isn't able now to put his weight behind the problem of financing our schools. I'm sure that he'd come up with a persuasive reason for support that hadn't been really fully explored before.

There's not much left to be said about the facts concerning the millage election Friday. It's been hashed and rehashed in about every possible way.

Only the most anti-school biased could argue that everything that could be done hasn't been done to relieve the burden.

The problem is that while acknowledging this, a majority will still say that the cost is still too great.

That's where a talent like Auten's would come in.

Call it salesmanship if you like. He was able to dramatize the real worth of our schools that many of us feel but are unable to project to others.

What is needed is not more facts like the $36,000 the school lost this year in state aid just because 24 students enrolled in a private school at Deford. Or that the school runs at a cost per pupil among the lowest in all of Michigan.

What's needed is to get across that good schools are as vital to the growth and good health of this community as good drinking water.

It's important to realize that the future of the community is going to rest with a viable industrial base and in the competition for these plants, these jobs, a good school is one of the basic selling points.

Right now we have it all and any day now we could be announcing a new plant in the community. We have plenty to sell. Excellent medical facilities, outstanding recreational facilities, and a fine safe place to build homes and raise families.

It's going to be painful for our schools to keep pace, but if Cass City is to retain its edge in the competition for survival we'll all have to pay the price.

That's hard to do but it's worth doing. Really worth doing.

Meredith could have explained it to you.

Cass City slated for $2,000 grant

Allocation of $12,000 for employment generating services for seven municipalities in Huron, Sanilac, and Tuscola Counties was recommended by the Thumb Area Consortium Private Industry Council (PIC) at its meeting April 20 in Cass City.

Payments will total $4,000 in each county: Huron - Harbor Beach and Port Hope, $800; Pigeon Area Community Events Council, $1,600; and county of Huron, $1,600; Sanilac - Marlette and Brown City, $2,000 each, and Tuscola - Cass City and Caro, $2,000 each.

Cass City will use its grant for mailing of its promotional brochure, prepared by the Chamber of Commerce and Cass City Industrial Development Corp., to businesses and for placing ads in out-of-state newspapers to promote the community as a site for new business and industry.

The grants, which must be used to enhance economic development, still must be approved by the Consortium administrative board at its May 20 meeting. The $12,000 is from federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds.

Also at the PIC meeting, consortium Executive Director Frank E. Lenard said the consortium annual plan for the fiscal year Oct. 1, 1981, through Sept. 30, 1982, totals $2,879,316 for CETA training activities. The largest single expenditure is $1 million for classroom training.

Robert Conely, Brown City, was elected PIC chairman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charles Wirth, former Bad Axe banker, who moved to Lawton, Okla.

Driver cited following accident

Cass City police ticketed Wayne C. Mausolf, 22, of Harbor Beach on a charge of failure to yield right of way following a 1:15 p.m. accident Saturday.

Police said Jane M. White, 26, of 4237 Doerr Road, was eastbound on Garfield Street, west of Vulcan Street.

Mausolf pulled his soft drink delivery truck out of a private driveway, didn't see her approaching car until too late and the two vehicles collided.

Hawks split pair of doubleheaders

The Cass City Red Hawks opened the 1982 baseball season with a split of a double header with visiting Deckerville Tuesday, April 20.

Coach Don Schelke's charges lost the opener to the visitors, 7-5, as Deckerville broke open a 2-all tie in the third with five big runs on four hits and a couple of walks.

Ray Ferris started for Cass City and was relieved by Jim Adkins. Joe Langenburg banged out two hits in three tries to lead the Cass City attack.

In the nightcap Cass City rallied in the last of the fifth to pull out a 6-5 decision for Willard Burdon. Burdon pitched a four-hitter.

The Hawks jumped out to an early lead in the first inning scoring three times on two hits and two walks.

Deckerville came back with a pair of markers in the third on two walks and a single. In the next inning Burdon walked two with one away and they came around to score without benefit of a hit.

Cass City then staged a rally of its own to score three times on two walks and a two-base knock by Burdon.

SANDUSKY GAMES

Cass City opened the Thumb B Association season with a split with the Sandusky Redskins.

The first game was strictly no contest.

Sandusky scored six times on six hits in the first two innings and coasted to the win behind the three-hit pitching of Tom Kreger. Cass City's only run came on a two-base blow by Joe Langenburg with Matt Lukshaitis on base with a walk. Kreger helped his own cause with a single and double in the rallies that netted the Redskins six runs.

In the nightcap Cass City jumped off to a three-run lead in the first inning but was forced to rally in the fifth to pull out a narrow, 7-6, decision.

Burdon received credit for the win. He was very stingy with the base hits, allowing just three safeties, but six walks gave the Redskins plenty of scoring opportunities.

Lukshaitis cracked a triple to knock in a pair of runs and later scored to pace the first inning explosion.

The Hawks didn't score again until the fourth inning when two hits and two walks netted a pair of runs.

Sandusky counted a single run in the first and added four more in the fourth to move to within a single run.

In Cass City's fifth Lukshaitis' single, a walk and an error netted two more counters and the Hawks needed everyone of them as the Redskins scored twice more in the top of the fifth.

CARO TO CASS CITY -- Kimberly Asher, 17 (left) and Michelle Adams, 15, both of Caro, started jogging only two weeks before they jogged - and walked -- from Caro to Cass City Saturday, more than 14 miles. They collected pledges, with the proceeds of more than $90 being donated to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. They started at 7:15 a.m. and are shown arriving in Cass City at 12:25 p.m.

O-G softball team takes 2 from Ubly, splits in loop

The Owen-Gage softball team won one and lost one when it opened its North Central Thumb D League schedule Monday afternoon at Carsonville-Port Sanilac.

The Bulldogs won the opener, 11-9, on nine hits and nine errors. The errorless Tigers collected seven hits.

Winning pitcher Leeann Ellicott gave up seven hits and three walks while striking out three.

Losing pitcher Julie Smith walked 14, surrendered nine hits and struck out eight.

For the winners, Rita Sullivan hit three singles and drove in four runs. Bonnie Wynn contributed a double, a single and two RBIs.

Deb Dean and Michelle Cole each batted two singles for C-PS.

The Tigers roared back in the nightcap for a 16-9 win on eight hits and four errors.

The Bulldogs made 10 errors. Their three hits were all singles.

Winning but wild pitcher Dawn Regnier walked 17, struck out four and gave up three hits.

Losing pitcher Ellicott gave up eight hits and five walks and didn't strike out anyone.

Julie Smith led C-PS with two singles.

Coach Judy Campbell's Bulldogs, now 1-1 in the league and 3-1 overall, host Port Hope at the Gagetown park Thursday and travel to Kingston Thursday, May 6.

UBLY

The Owen-Gage softball team opened its season with two non-league wins at Ubly Thursday.

The Bulldogs won the first game, 5-4, on four hits, with six errors. The errorless Bearcats collected eight hits.

Winning pitcher Leeann Ellicott gave up 14 hits but didn't walk anyone. Losing pitcher was Denise Messing, who walked 12 and gave up the four hits.

Four Bulldogs each hit a single, one of them being Rita Sullivan, who also collected two RBIs.

Michelle Mazure hit three singles for Ubly. Denise Messing had a double and a single.

Ellicott also went the distance in the second game for the win, with Owen-Gage coming out on top, 11-9. She gave up 15 hits and two walks.

Dea Peplinski was the losing pitcher, giving up eight hits and five walks.

Sullivan, Karla Kretschmer and Bonnie Wynn each hit two singles for Owen-Gage. Donna Volmering hit four singles for Ubly.

Hawks drop doubleheader to Sandusky in Thumb B

Cass City High School's softball team is off to a slow start this spring, losing three of four against Sandusky and Deckerville.

The Hawks opened the season at home last Tuesday with Deckerville and lost the first game in a slugfest, 21-10. Each team racked up 13 hits but Deckerville worked Jill Hutchinson for 11 walks and that was the difference.

Jamie Fox did her best to help with 3 hits in four tries and four RBIs. Deanna Hempton added two hits. The Hawks were unable to stop Ann Muirz of Deckerville who collected 5 hits. Deckerville won with two big innings, nine in the first and seven more in the fourth.

In the nightcap Cass City bounced back to overpower the visitors, 14-4, as Sherry Stec pitched a six-hitter.

A tight game was broken open in the fifth as Deanna Hempton cracked a grand slam home run. Stec helped her own cause with three hits in four tries. Karen Nurnberger went two for three.

In the opening Thumb B Contest of the season with Sandusky Friday, Cass City bowed before the shutout hurling of Michele Knoerr. Lori Calka took the loss as the Redskins scored four in the fourth and four in the sixth to break open a tight game. Sherry Stec banged out three hits for Cass City while Treasa Stirrett did the same for Sandusky. Knoerr helped her own cause with two hits and three RBIs.

The second game was all but decided in the first inning as the Redskins romped with six runs in the first inning. After the Hawks closed the gap to 6-4 at the end of three the visitors ran up another big six runs in the fourth to settle the issue. Strangely enough, the Hawks outhit the Redskins, 6-5.

Sherry Stec took the loss and Pam Wedge went the distance for Sandusky.

Jamie Fox rapped two hits in three tries, including a double, in the losing effort.

O-G diamond 9 splits in league, loses pair to Ubly

Owen-Gage started its North Central Thumb D League baseball schedule Monday afternoon with a split at Carsonville-Port Sanilac.

The Tigers won the opener, 7-4, on four hits and three errors. Owen-Gage had five hits and four errors.

Winning pitcher Lee Burton struck out eight, walked six, and also led his team in batting with a double.

Losing pitcher Alan LeValley struck out three and walked four in his four innings. Dan Glidden pitched the final inning with no strikeouts and no walks.

Stan Andrakowicz hit a double for the Bulldogs. Coach Phil Gray's squad won the second game, 5-4, on four hits and four errors. Carsonville had six hits and made two errors.

Winning pitcher Randy Radabaugh struck out seven and walked six. Losing pitcher Scott Regnier struck out eight and walked one.

The Bulldogs trailed 4-1 entering the final inning. They won the game on Andrakowicz' sacrifice fly, which drove in men on second and third for the final margin.

Terry Muntz hit a double and a single for the victors; Vince Salcido collected two singles.

Burton and Andy Washe both batted a double and a single for C-PS.

Owen-Gage, now 1-1 in the league and 1-3 overall, host Port Hope Thursday and are at Kingston Thursday, May 6.

UBLY

The Owen-Gage baseball team began its season last Thursday with two non-league losses at Ubly.

The Bearcats won the opener, 8-6, on five hits with one error. The Bulldogs collected three hits and made two errors.

Winning pitcher Mark Jahn pitched all five innings, struck out six and walked nine.

Losing pitcher Randy Radabaugh also went the distance, walking five and striking out one.

Jahn was also his team's leading hitter, going two-for-two with a double and a single.

Stan Andrakowicz of Owen-Gage was two-for-three at the plate with a double and a single.

Ubly won the nightcap, 6-2, on only two hits. The team made two errors. The errorless Bulldogs collected five hits.

Winning pitcher Ron Sageman threw all five innings, walked eight and struck out four.

Alan LeValley started for Owen-Gage but only lasted a third of an inning as he walked six, with no strikeouts. Dan Glidden went the rest of the way, walking three and striking out three.

Five Bulldogs each hit a single.

Bearcat Brian Peruski hit a home run, driving in a run ahead of him.

TRIANGULAR MEET

The Hawks opened the season with a triangular meet with Mayville and Frankenmuth at Cass City Monday, April 19.

Cass City finished second with 52 points. The Eagles won with 84½ points and Mayville trailed with 18½ points.

Although the Hawks were soundly beaten by Frankenmuth the Hawks did have the only double winner in the track events. Lautner, taking up where she left off last year, won the mile, 5:45.88, and the two-mile, 13:25.9. Cass City's only other first was won by Michelle Fahrner. She took the 880-yard run with a time of 2:40.53.

Reinbold was a double winner in the field events with victories in the shot put and the discus for Frankenmuth. The Eagles swept every first place in the field events.

CMU RELAYS

Cass City competed in the Central Michigan Relay Saturday and Lautner ran the 1500 meters in 5:10 to finish second. Jamie LaRoche, set a new school record in the long jump with a leap of 16 feet, 1½ inches.

Also winning points for Cass City was the middle distance relay team which finished fifth in the middle distance relay with a time of 7:33. Lorie Hurley and Lautner ran the 800 meter legs, Merilee Leslie and Fahrner the 400 meter legs.

Thinclads bow in first meets

Vassar showed that it will be a team to be reckoned with as the Vulcan boys dominated the visiting Hawks Monday to register a 95-60 victory in a Thumb B Association clash.

Although the Vulcans dominated, Cass City had the premier individual performer as Greg Bliss was a triple winner, taking the mile, 880 and two-mile events.

Tom Gunnell with victories in the 100 and 220-yard dashes was a double winner for Vassar.

The first place finishers and the time and distances are:

Mile relay - Vassar, 3:59.09.

FIRST MEET

The first meet of the year for the Hawks was held Monday, April 19, at Cass City. It was a triangular meet won by Frankenmuth with 74 points. Cass City scored 64 and Mayville was third with 30 points.

Cass City won nine of the 16 events, but the Eagles made depth pay off in victory. Double winners for Cass City were Scott Hobart with firsts in the 100 and 220-yard dashes and Bliss with victories in the mile and 880-yard run.

Other firsts by Cass City were recorded by Chuck Erla in the shot put (42-6) and Mike Middaugh in the 120-high hurdles (18.91). Cass City also won the 880-yard relay with a time of 1:40.99.

INVITATIONAL

In the Saginaw Valley Invitational Saturday, Cass City's only points were earned by Bliss with a second in the 3200 meter run in a time of 10:10 and a fourth in the 1600 meter run in 4:33.

Free ride for McDonald

Western Michigan University head football coach, Jack Harbaugh, has released scholarship awards for the coming year. Among them is Mark A. McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud McDonald of the Owendale area.

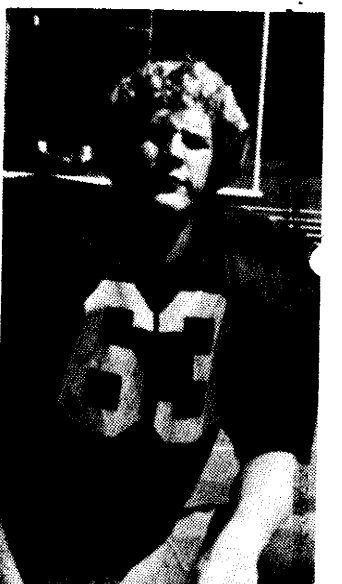

Mark will receive a full scholarship at the university, where he is studying industrial technology.

He entered WMU in the fall of 1979 but due to a summer work accident, was unable to be an active member of the team until January, 1980. He was selected second string that year and in the fall of 1981, was on the all Punt and Kickoff return teams and played occasionally as a defensive tackle.

This fall, he will be first string varsity as a defensive tackle.

McDonald is a 1979 graduate of Owendale-Gagetown High School. At Owen-Gage, he lettered in four sports, including football under Arnie Besonen.

Charcoal broiled

By Mike Eliasohn

I have never cared much for outdoor barbecued food.

The way I look at it, if our Heavenly Father had wanted human beings to continue cooking outdoors, He would have never invented electric and gas stoves.

Admittedly, my tastes for outdoor cooked food may have been spoiled by bad cooks. It always seemed to me like persons would tolerate food cooked outside and blessed by flies that they wouldn't touch if cooked indoors.

"What's the yucky black stuff?"

"What's the matter? You don't like good meat grilled outdoors?"

Having to eat food that tasted like charcoal is bad enough. Having to start the charcoal fires is worse.

I suppose there are some persons who have mastered the art of getting a charcoal fire started quickly, but no one in the Eliasohn family ever did, myself included.

It seems like it was always a case of attempting at least three times to get the charcoal lit and have it stay lit, then waiting an hour for the fire to get hot enough to cook on. "Are the coals hot enough yet?"

"Another 10 minutes and they should be ready."

In the time it took for the charcoal to get hot, the meal could have been cooked indoors, eaten and the dishes washed.

Blame my cynical viewpoint on barbecued food on the fact I never ate anything cooked by John Adams.

Courtesy of R.J. Reynolds Co. comes a story about Adams, a safety and fire protection manager for its Houston, Texas, petroleum exploration and production division. (And you thought all R.J. Reynolds did was make cigarettes.)

Adams' week-end hobby is barbecuing as the chief cook of the "Brothers-in-Laws" family cooking team.

In the course of a year, the team will cook about 100,000 pounds of meat, enter about a dozen cooking contests in Texas and Louisiana and usually capture first place.

"You've heard of finger-licking good chicken," says Adams. "Well, our barbecue is tongue-slappin' good. It's so good it'll make your tongue slap your brains out."

Part of Adams' secret to good barbecue is his recipe for sauce, which uses 22 ingredients. The recipe, which he learned from his grandfather, is so secret not even all the members of the team know it.

The Brothers-in-Laws are no slouch outfit. Started 10 years ago, their $22,000 worth of equipment includes four 16-foot cooking pits mounted on wheels, stainless steel utensils, stoves, pots, pans, tables, chairs, water tanks and a portable generator.

The team doesn't just cook in competition events.

"We'll cook for free to help programs like building a ball field, generating youth scholarships and sending the school band on a trip," Adams said. "I'm for anything that helps keep the kids off the street."

Least anyone think cooking for a hobby is sissy stuff, Adams has cooked "in rain, snow, mud up to my knees and where the mosquitoes were thicker than the people."

Here are Adams' non-secret barbecuing tips:

—Only time, temperature control and basting will properly tenderize a piece of meat, so avoid commercial meat tenderizers. Marinating gives barbecue a "false tenderness."

—For an average 7-12 pound brisket, cook at 250-285 degrees for 14-17 hours. Turn it every 2½-3 hours. Trim the fat before serving and always cut the meat cross-grain.

—Avoid using lighter fluids that can leave a hydrocarbon taste. Instead, use hardwood kindling, preferably post oak or white oak.

—To avoid burning the meat, don't put it directly over the fire and never use sugar or ketchup containing ingredients on the meat while it is cooking. Instead, baste the meat with a mixed-to-taste sauce of vinegar, garlic, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. "Barbecue sauce is an eating sauce," says Adams, "not a basting or cooking sauce."

Switching topics, some colleges are slow in sending the names of graduates to newspapers — some take three or four months — so parents or graduates are welcome to send us information right at commencement time.

Include such information as name (obviously), address, parents, high school graduated from and when, college major and minor and future plans and enclose a photo if you would like.

Third drunk driving charge sends two to jail

Two persons were sentenced to jail terms Monday when they appeared before Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn on charges of driving under the influence of liquor (third offense).

In other action, final motions were heard concerning Terry Lynn Williams prior to the start of his murder trial Tuesday of next week.

William Davis Jr., 47, of O'Brien Road, Mayville, was sentenced to 6-10 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson, with credit given for 44 days served.

In addition to pleading guilty to the drunk driving charge March 22, he had also pleaded guilty to being an habitual offender. He was arrested on the charge Dec. 23 in Fremont Township.

James J. Moore, 30, of 4887 O'Brien Road, Vassar, was sentenced to one year in the county jail, with credit given for two days served. If he is called back to work, he is entitled to work release privileges.

Moore pleaded guilty to the drunk driving charge March 16. He was arrested on the charge Aug. 29, 1980, in Vassar Township.

Williams, 31, of Mt. Morris, is charged with two counts of murder in the Nov.

13 shooting deaths of Leonard and Betty Coward of rural Vassar.

The jury trial is scheduled to last three weeks.

Joslyn granted a motion, filed in behalf of Saginaw television station WNEM (Channel 5) to quash a subpoena seeking its film, tape and other reports concerning the murder. The subpoena was sought by Williams' attorney, Brian Schroppe of Caro.

The station will now allow the attorney to view the 42 seconds of tape that was broadcast. If he isn't satisfied after that, he can go back to court in an attempt to get materials that were not broadcast, according to Prosecutor Artis Noel.

Schroppe had filed a motion that in essence would have barred the prosecutor from introducing as evidence a footprint and tire prints taken at the scene of the murder. The judge denied his motion, which means the information can be used in the trial.

OTHER CASES

In other cases Monday: Lewis D. Mason, 47, of Pontiac, was placed on three years' probation for arson of insured property with intent to defraud.

He was also sentenced to 120 days in the county jail, with credit given for two days served and serving of 60 days deferred, with work release privileges granted.

A jury found him guilty of the charge Dec. 23, of burning a motor home June 20, 1980, in Akron Township.

Kris Alan Doud, 21, of Munger, was sentenced to 120 days in the county jail for attempted uttering and publishing of a check for $50 made out to the Reese IGA Feb. 1. He pleaded guilty to the charge April 12.

Doud was credited with 75 days served, fined $100 and assessed $300 court costs. If those aren't paid within 120 days, he is to serve 60 more days in jail.

Daniel M. Schwab, 19, of 9101 S. Vassar Road, Vassar, was placed on three years' probation for joy riding. He was also sentenced to 60 days in the county jail, with credit for 21 days served, and work release privileges granted. He was fined $200, assessed $350 court costs and ordered to pay restitution.

He pleaded guilty to the charge March 1, of taking a snowmobile Jan. 27 in Arbela Township.

Raymond S. Benavides, 30, of 5326 Beach Street, Akron, failed to appear for sentencing on a charge of non-sufficient funds — check over $50, to which he pleaded no contest Jan. 25. He is charged with writing a check for $1,000 last June for which there were not sufficient funds in his account.

His bond was forfeited and a bench warrant for his arrest was issued.

DISTRICT COURT

Eugene L. Mitchell, 42, of Little Road, Cass City, pleaded guilty Tuesday to impaired driving April 1 in Gagetown.

Judge Richard F. Kern accepted his plea and fined him $118, plus $182 court costs. He was placed on one year probation and is to receive counseling.

Prosecution motions for dismissal of charges against two men were granted Monday.

Charles E. Watros, 45, of 5620 DeLong Road, Cass City, pleaded guilty May 11 of last year to allowing livestock to run at large after which sentencing was delayed one year.

The prosecution moved for dismissal as he committed no crimes during the past year.

Edward O'Dowd, 55, of 7345 Main Street, Owendale, pleaded guilty May 11 of last year to a charge of attempted chattel mortgage fraud, after which sentencing was delayed one year.

The charge was dismissed because he committed no crime during the past year and paid restitution in full of $2,500.

Healy finishes course

Sue Healy, 6309 Church Street, Cass City, quality control supervisor, Walbro Corp., completed the Unit I course Friday in Wittenberg University's management development program.

The five-day on-campus series is designed to strengthen the management competency of supervisors and to provide them with useful insights into management functions.

The series concentrates in four areas — management methods, organizational behavior, communications and economics.

Wittenberg University is located in Springfield, Ohio.

School vital for next generation

Dear Editor,

There is a brief article in the March 22 issue of Newsweek which was authored by Lester C. Thurow.

I thought I would highlight a few of his points which seem to be applicable to our school millage debate. I think he does a nice job of putting it into the broader perspective -- broader than the perspective of our own individual December tax bill.

Thurow points out the fact that as a nation, the average test score on the Scholastic Aptitude Test has fallen for 18 consecutive years, until 1981 when it was unchanged. Many schools are becoming very weak in the areas of math and science because qualified teachers are being recruited in "droves" into better-paying industrial jobs.

In order to effectively compete with Japan, we need to be developing a larger number of capable young students and workers, but instead the tax support at every level is being eroded, so that as a nation, the skill level of our workers is declining.

"Functional illiteracy seems to be increasing among both those who drop out of school and those who finish," Thurow wrote. "Last year in New York City one out of every two people who took the examination to see whether they were fit to be telephone operators flunked...."

"One can be hard-nosed about illiteracy but the hard-nosed fact is that the functionally illiterate are going to be a part of our society for the rest of their lives. Without enough engineers and strong science education in our school systems, none of us is going to have a successful economy in the high-technology era ahead of us. Social welfare programs are essentially a matter of ethics and generosity, but education and training are not. I am willing to pay for the education of my neighbor's children not because I am generous, but because I cannot afford to live with them uneducated." (Thurow, p. 67).

We all need for the Cass City School system to remain viable in order to continue to educate capable workers among the next generation.

Yours truly,

Carol Hrycko
6037 Green Road
Gagetown

Open house Sunday for Rev. Holmes

Dr. Alexander Holmes, minister of First United Presbyterian Church, Caro, since 1966, received an honorary Doctorate of Divinity Degree at the Alma College commencement April 17.

He graduated in arts and theology from Manchester University, Lancashire College and London University in England. Through preaching, lectures, recordings, radio and television appearances, his ministerial work has extended beyond the pastorates he has served.

Dr. Holmes has been a guest preacher in the Netherlands, Canada and the United States, and has been a guest lecturer at medical schools in England and theological seminaries in Northern Ireland, Wales, England, Canada and the U.S.

He and his wife Dorothy have two sons, Gavin, an assistant professor at the University of Maryland, and Ewen, a recent graduate in divinity from Princeton.

The elders and members of the Caro Presbyterian Church, Almer and Lincoln Streets, are giving a reception for Dr. and Mrs. Holmes Sunday from 2:30-4:30 p.m.

Invention

Early in the 19th century, a French doctor making his hospital rounds, happened to think about some children he had seen making noises at one end of a hollow tree while playmates listened at the other end. Rene Laennec rolled a sheet of paper into a tube, applied it to a patient's chest and invented the stethoscope!

Mrs. Dorland refuses to pay union dues; appeals loss of job

Friday will probably be the last day of work for Cass City school bus driver Donna Dorland, who has been discharged by the district for failure to pay union dues.

Mrs. Dorland is appealing to the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which will first try to negotiate a compromise between her and the International Union of Operating Engineers, AFL-CIO, Local 547, which represents the district's drivers, cooks and custodians.

Mrs. Dorland, a driver since 1974, told the union in 1979 she would no longer pay her union dues. In lieu of paying a service fee instead, she has chosen to since donate an equal amount to a church other than the one to which she belongs.

The union, claiming the district was failing to implement the union security provision of its contract with the school board, appealed to the Michigan Employment Relations Commission.

Last month, MERC ruled in favor of the union. It did not say that the district had to fire Mrs. Dorland but did say that on request from the union, it had to implement the union security and dues check-off provision of the contract.

Supt. Donald Crouse said the request was finally received from the union, so a letter was sent to Mrs. Dorland stating that April 30 (Friday) would be her last day of employment unless she wanted to make arrangements with the union to pay her dues.

Before writing the letter, Crouse said the union was contacted to make sure a contract provision still applies that makes the union responsible for any costs to the district resulting from an appeal in a case like Mrs. Dorland's.

Union members are working under provisions of the pact that expired after the 1980-81 school year while on-and-off negotiations over a new contract continue.

MRS. DORLAND RECEIVED the letter Tuesday and doesn't intend to pay the union dues. "As of Monday (May 3), I'm on vacation," she told the Chronicle.

She is, however, appealing, with advice -- so far, only over the telephone -- from the National Right to Work Foundation in Virginia. Its attorneys first advised her to appeal to the Michigan Department of Civil Rights. She did so, but was told the commission's policy is that it would not become involved unless her refusal to pay union dues was a tenet of her religious faith.

Although she feels paying union dues violates her personal religious convictions, Mrs. Dorland explained, it is not a tenet of the church to which she belongs.

THE RIGHT TO WORK attorneys then advised her to appeal to the EEOC, which does not have such a policy.

She said an EEOC representative will meet with her and a union representative May 12 in Detroit to try to work out a compromise without going to court. (She wasn't sure if a representative of the school will also be there.)

If no compromise is reached, but the EEOC feels she has a strong case, the Right to Work attorneys have told her, the organization will then decide whether it will represent her for a court appeal, she said.

So far the only assistance she has received from Right to Work is free advice and letting her call collect.

Mrs. Dorland isn't about to give up. "I've gone this far and I'm going to fight it all the way,"

Charge Schoch for aiming gun

A rural Cass City man has been charged with pointing or aiming a firearm without malice and reckless driving in connection with an incident Aug. 29, 1981.

Duane F. Schoch, 37, of 2835 N. Dodge Road appeared Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern on the charges. The judge scheduled a pretrial hearing May 25 and continued $4,000 personal recognizance bond, set by Magistrate Donald Smith when Schoch appeared before him April 16.

According to Caro state police, the incident involved Rodney L. Wakefield, then 18, of 4091 Crane Road, Cass City, and Werner H.F. Schulz Jr., 20, of 6242 River Road, Cass City. The latter was the driver of the vehicle the two were riding in.

The account of the incident the youths and Schoch gave to troopers was basically the same.

There had been trouble between them in the past. When the pair drove past the Schoch home, Schoch was standing next to his pickup. The youths gave him an obscene gesture. Schoch then got into his pickup and gave chase. They were northbound and near Kelly Road, Werner lost control and the car went into the ditch.

Schoch stopped. When the youths started to walk away, he got the shotgun out of his truck, which he told officers was unloaded, and told the pair to get inside.

He then drove back to his home, where he called state police. He kept the two youths there until troopers arrived.

Assistant Prosecutor Eric Proschek, who authorized the warrant against Schoch, said the delay was due to the time needed to determine what had happened and the appropriate charges.

The complaint against the defendant was signed by a state police trooper based on his investigation.

Investment classes scheduled

The Cass City Department of Community Education has scheduled an investment class.

It will be taught by James Szewc, investment manager for Thompson-McKinnon Securities, Inc., Bad Axe.

The course will be offered beginning May 6 for four weeks from 7:30-9 p.m. in room 202 at the high school.

The course will provide answers on how to make your savings do more for you and give hints on how to fight taxes and inflation. Subject areas will include what the investor should know, types of investments, inflation, investments and possible yields, individual retirement accounts, Keogh and retirement plans and pension plans.

To register, contact the community education department, 872-4151. A small fee will be charged.

CHILD'S PLAY TOURING THEATRE, the five adults in the rear, appeared at Cass City Intermediate School last Friday to entertain youngsters in grades K-6. The group performs plays and skits adapted from stories submitted by children. Cass City youngsters who got to see their stories performed were, in front, from left, Mark Copeland, Melissa Perry and Andrea Isard. Seated on benches, Julie Loomis, Becky Smerdon, Krista Nurnberger. The Cass City Arts Council, American Association of University Women and Saginaw Valley Community Education Association paid for the visit of the Champaign, Ill., group and transporting students from Evergreen and Deford Elementary Schools to see the program.

Forensics team ends season

Cass City High School was represented in the Michigan Interscholastic Forensics Association this year by six students. The students participated in a practice tournament at Garber High School in Essexville, and the regional tournament in Sandusky. The only student with past forensic experience was Tami Heins, who made it to the regional finals before losing.

The first-year students were Sheryl Evans, Kim King, Julie Vargo, Lee Curtis and Ray Hrycko.

Although none placed in the state division this year, they should present some stiff competition in tournaments next year, according to the coach, Cheryl LaBean.

The only forensics team member graduating will be Miss Heins.

HEALTH TIPS

Drug accidents can be prevented

By American Medical Association Science News Service

Accidental overdose, taking the wrong medicine, and poisoning are tragedies that can occur when medicines are treated carelessly in the home.

When medicine is taken correctly, though, the exact dose is taken at the proper time under conditions that insure against error.

Here are a few useful guidelines from the American Medical Association:

Discuss with your physician any medicines prescribed for you. Be sure you understand the amount and frequency of the dose and what side effects you may expect.

Self-treatment with over-the-counter remedies can be effective in some instances. However, using these preparations without medical supervision can also delay correct treatment or even aggravate the condition they were supposed to treat.

Never give a drug prescribed for you to another family member or friend. Never take medicine prescribed for someone else.

Keep only medicines currently in use. Destroy old prescriptions because most drugs lose potency with the passage of time. Some drugs may undergo chemical changes that make them toxic.

Read the label in a good light before opening the bottle or box.

If you have more than one type of medicine to take, be sure one container is closed before opening the other. By doing so, you can avoid confusion and the possibility of accidentally taking more than necessary.

Keep medicines away from the bed. Make it necessary to get up to take them. Placing drugs and medicine by one's bed is dangerous because an overdose may occur if the medication is accidentally repeated while a person is sleepy.

Keep medicines in the original labeled container. If you carry pills in a pocket pill box, identify each variety of pill with a label.

Store medicines in a cabinet, preferably locked, out of the reach of children. Never tell a child that medicine is candy.

Levi Helwig funeral Thursday

Levi Helwig, 86, of Cass City, died Monday at Hills and Dales General Hospital after a long illness.

He was born Nov. 3, 1895, in Lancaster, N.Y., the son of Jacob and Christina (Muck) Helwig. He came to Cass City as a small child.

Helwig married Marion Mellendorf Nov. 21, 1928, in Uby. She died July 9, 1955. He married Catherine Kruse in Cass City March 23, 1957.

A retired farmer, Helwig in his later years hauled livestock in the Thumb area. He was a member of the First Baptist Church, Cass City.

He is survived by his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Vernon (Lenora) Gingrich and Mrs. Robert (Joyce) McArthur, both of Cass City, and Mrs. Robert (Wenola) Lowe, Snover, and two sons, Elwyn and Maynard Helwig, both of Cass City.

He is also survived by five stepdaughters, Mrs. Stephen (Frieda) Schwartz and Mrs. Nathan (Esther) Joles, both of Gagetown; Mrs. Howard (Ella) Beutel, Pinconning; Mrs. Walter (Margaret) Beutel and Mrs. Eldon (Helen) Arbuckle, both of Bay City; one stepson, Donald Kruse, Cass City; two sisters, Mrs. Glen (Ella) Profit, Cass City, and Mrs. Arena Lavigne, Detroit; 16 grandchildren; 18 step-grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; 42 step-great-grandchildren, and 16 step-great-great-grandchildren. One brother, Howard, preceded him in death.

The deceased will be taken from Little's Funeral Home at 11 a.m. Thursday to the First Baptist Church to lie in state until the 1 p.m. funeral service. Rev. Timothy Teal will officiate.

Burial will be in Elkland Township Cemetery.

Scott Stine

Through the school's placement service, both found full-time employment. Randy is working for WNBX AM-FM in Newberry in the Upper Peninsula. Scott is working for WAXC-FM in Wapakoneta - St. Marys, Ohio.

Both are working as disc jockeys. They were previously employed part-time at WKYO-WIDL in Caro.

The brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Garrison Stine of Cass City and 1981 graduates of Cass City High School.

Two proposals on ballot

Cass City school millage vote Friday

formula, the schools do not receive more money as valuations increase. The formula guarantees so much per pupil, so as the amount of property tax revenue from increased valuations increases, the amount of state aid decreases accordingly.

IF MILLAGE LOSES

The school board hasn't decided specifically what cuts will be made if the additional millage is defeated.

Supt. Crouse has outlined what cuts might be made and the board has decided what cuts will not be made.

The board at a recent meeting decided to rehire all administrators, for the 1982-

83 school year, which includes the three elementary principals.

All have had their wages frozen by the board for the 1982-83 school year.

The significance of the action is that it means Deford and Evergreen Elementary Schools will stay open next year. Closing them would have saved an estimated $78,500.

One reason the board decided the way it did, Crouse explained, is that it looks like a casualty of a millage defeat would be transportation.

Expecting parents who live in the outlying parts of the district to have to drive their children to Cass City to school, it was felt would be a double penalty.

Although the newsletter that has been circulated in support of the millage says that state law requires busing, the law has been changed so that districts no longer have to provide it. The law is being challenged in the courts.

Eliminating transportation would save about $300,000 annually, according to the superintendent.

A potential cost saving measure would be going to half-day sessions, which must be approved by the State Board of Education. Before it will do that, its policy has been, a school district must make all other cost saving measures, including transportation, Crouse said.

Other cost cutting measures that have been suggested by the superintendent are layoff of eight teachers, the two school librarians, the intermediate school counselor, four custodians, school nurse, crossing guards and a secretary, eliminating driver education and the summer agriculture program; not reinstating the athletic program, and eliminating the part-time transportation supervisor position, for a total savings of $238,700.

The rest of the needed savings would have to come from eliminating transportation and/or half-day sessions.

Teachers are scheduled to receive a 10 percent pay increase in 1982-83, the third year of their contract.

The superintendent estimates a pay freeze — keeping 1982-83 pay at this year's level — would save about $200,000.

Such a pay freeze would have to be negotiated with teachers. "I'm not aware of any Michigan Education Association group in the state that has done this,"

Crouse said.

Asked if teachers would consider a freeze if the school board suggested it, Cass City Education Association President Bob Gengler responded, "Our understanding is we have a contract and we haven't negotiated in-between years in the past."

He added that teachers living in the district will be paying higher taxes like everyone else if the millage increase is approved, so freezing their pay would mean they would be making a double sacrifice.

OTHER DISTRICTS

Cass City schools on last

December tax bills levied 21.78 mills for school operations (a mandatory rollback from the 21.9 authorized), plus 1.2 mills for debt.

The 21.9 compared with a county average of 25.4 mills for 1981-82 and a state average of 30.2.

Crouse didn't have the latest figures available, but in 1980-81, Cass City had the lowest debt millage of any of the nine districts within the Tuscola County Intermediate School District.

In 1979-80, the latest year for which statistics are available, only three districts in the state spent less per pupil than Cass City.

practice, has donated $1,500 for the summer recreation program.

Wednesday and Thursday, May 12-13, were established as clean-up days, during which time village crews will pick up spring cleaning discards for free.

Winter proved costly to the village coffers. The 1982 major street fund allocated $9,600 for snow removal; $8,687 has already been spent. There was $8,500 in the local street fund allocated for the purpose; $5,025 has been spent.

An estimated 60 inches of snow were removed from village streets from Dec. 21 to April 20. There was 105 tons of salt used during the period.

Fourteen water lines had to be thawed during the winter and 41 residents were told to keep their water running to prevent freezing.

What will the additional 5.5 mills, if it is approved, cost Cass City School District taxpayers?

For those with property with a valuation of $25,000 ($50,000 market value), for instance, the increase will cost them $137.50 more than last year's school taxes.

One mill equals $1.00 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation.

However, some may not have to pay that much, because of property tax breaks offered by the state of Michigan. In addition many persons can deduct property tax payments on their state and federal income tax returns.

Senior citizens, at least one spouse 65 and older, receive a refund or credit on their state income tax depending on their income and amount of property tax paid.

If they have a household income of less than $3,000, all of their property taxes are refunded by the state. There is a varying scale for those with incomes between $3,000 and $6,000. Those with household incomes of more than $6,000 receive a refund or credit for any taxes in excess of 3.5 percent of their income.

A similar system is in operation for non-senior citizens, except that the refund or credit on income tax is only 60 percent of the property taxes that exceed 3.5 percent of their household income. (It's 100 percent for senior citizens.)

Renters and mobile home owners may also qualify.

Farmers whose property is enrolled in the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) have all their property taxes rebated which are in excess of 7 percent of their household income.

County board oks valuations, freezes pay

PAY FREEZE

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday approved an approximately 10 percent increase in the county's equalized valuation and ordered a pay freeze for all non-union county employees.

With two dissenting votes, the board approved the equalization department report establishing the county's 1982 equalized valuation at $630.485 million.

That compares to $572.799 million last year, an approximate 10 percent increase, which will have an effect on December, 1982, tax bills.

Voting "no" were Commissioners Ben Collon of Caro and Margaret Wenta of Fostoria.

The 10 percent is an average, with actual increases varying from township to township.

In Elkland Township, where Supervisor Jack Gallagher chose not to increase assessments, the equalization department imposed factors (percentage increases) to bring them up to what its studies determined to be 50 percent of true cash value.

Nine townships had factors imposed for the above reason or because their assessed valuations were too low. In addition to Elkland, they were Novesta, Kingston, Ellington, Koylton, Almer, Dayton, Gilford and Millington.

The percentage increases in Elkland and Novesta compared to 1981 valuations, were (Novesta in parentheses): Agricultural, 4.26 percent (2.44); commercial, 14.73 (4.97); industrial, 19.2 (none), and residential, 7.92 (2.05).

Before accepting the equalization report, the board went over each figure for each township with its supervisor, if he was present.

Most of the supervisors' complaints, according to Royce Russell, chairman of the board's equalization committee, were in general about the equalization process.

One such complaint was that the assessed valuations, based on the study of property that is sold, doesn't reflect what all property is worth.

"These sales are not true cash value and we know that," Novesta Township Supervisor Bill O'Dell commented as the session was drawing to a close.

Russell said there haven't been any inklings so far that the State Tax Commission will add any valuation to the amount approved by the board Tuesday.

Last year, the STC tacked on $21 million to the amount approved by the board as recommended by the equalization department (thus bringing the final figure to $572 million). Commissioners appealed to the STC, but lost.

Prosecutor Artis Noel explained at the meeting why such appeals are of little value. The STC agrees with the findings of its staff when counties appeal.

Decisions of the STC can be appealed to the courts, but state law only allows appeals on the basis of error or fraud. A difference of opinion with the STC on the method of determining what property is worth (the law allows such discretion) isn't grounds for an appeal.

The freeze for all elected officials, appointed department heads and non-union personnel, means 1982 wages and benefits will remain the same in future years until the freeze is lifted.

Part of the resolution approved by commissioners asked that county agencies over which it does not have direct control enact a similar "equality of sacrifice." Those are the Road Commission, Health Department, Medical Care Facility and Mental Health Services.

The resolution cites the "severe economic recession (which) has brought state and county government to the brink of fiscal instability" and that "the perpetual escalation of wages and fringe benefits, in both the public and the industrial sector of employment, is being recognized by both labor and management as a major obstacle to economic recovery."

Contracts with the unions representing sheriff's department and courthouse employees call for renegotiation of wages as of July 1.

The courthouse employees' union, Russell said, has notified the county board it won't ask to renegotiate wages. The new contract that took effect Jan. 1 for 1½ years granted them a 20 cents per hour wage increase.

In other action, the board appointed the county Department of Public Works as the managing agency for the 20-year solid waste management plan now nearing completion.

Caro Mfg. may build plant here in an attempt to keep it there. They haven't been happy about the prospect of it leaving, Turner indicated.

In addition, explained Lambert Althaver, village president and EDC chairman, state law requires a community losing employment to another community to give its okay to the EDC financing.

He commented that if the Caro Village Council is reasonable, it has nothing to gain by refusing to grant such permission.

If the company moves here, it plans to apply for a 50 percent tax break up to 12 years on its proposed new building under the state Plant Rehabilitation and Industrial Development Districts Act, Althaver said.

If all goes well, Turner said after the meeting, the new plant in Cass City could be ready in 2-3 months.

Induct 41 into High School National Honor Society

Forty-one students from Cass City High School were inducted into membership of the National Honor Society in a ceremony Thursday evening.

The induction program, planned by Karen Wallace and Kathleen Jackson, Honor Society advisors, was held in the high school gymnasium.

Purpose of National Honor Society is to recognize those outstanding students who are very involved in the school and community.

Additions to the society's membership are made each spring by a faculty council from a list of students who meet the scholarship requirement.

To be eligible for membership consideration, sophomore students must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.2, juniors must have a 3.1 average, and seniors must have a 3.0 average. Additionally, potential members must meet high standards in leadership, service, and character.

Membership is based on the student's participation in two or more community or school activities or election to an office. To meet the service requirement, the student must be active in three or more service projects to the school or community.

Character is measured in terms of integrity, behavior, ethics, and cooperation with both students and faculty.

Those who were already Honor Society members are: SENIORS -- Willard Bur-

don, Dale Cleland, Brenda Eria, Charles Eria, Raymond Ferris, Sheryl Franks, Crystal Gallaway, Tamra Heins, Darryl Hoag, Scott Hobart, Tim Horner, Michelle Jones, Karen Little, David Lockwood, Bobbi MacKay, Sandra McDonald, Ellen Palmer, LeAnne Potrykus, Kris Proctor, Mary Ross, Kimberly Sangster, Brian Schember, Wayne Schram, Ruby Sherman, Rebecca Speirs, Steve Steely, Martha VanCamp, Julie Vargo, Kirk Winter, Karla Wischmeyer.

JUNIORS -- Kevin Downing, Jamie Fox, Scott Geiger, Cort Hartwick, Mary Kappen, Carrie Lautner, Kay Loomis, Rochelle Peters, Chris Polk, Martha Remsing, Lori Sawdon, Sally Severance, Kathy Stevenson, Susan Stine, Kippen Wills, Brian Wright, Fred Zawilinski.

Principal Russell Richards presented Crystal Gallaway, Kris Proctor, and Julie Vargo with honor awards recognizing their 4.0 grade point averages compiled over the past four years. These averages represent perfect achievement in their high school careers.

The National Honor Society ranks as one of the oldest and prestigious national organizations for high school students. Chapters exist in three-fourths of the nation's schools, and since 1921 more than six million students have been selected to membership.

More than $2 million in scholarships have been awarded to senior members since 1945 by the sponsoring organization, the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Zonta Club gives $545 to firemen

The Cass City Zonta Club held its monthly dinner meeting at the Charmont Tuesday, April 20.

Plans were discussed for the July 4th celebration.

The nominating committee reported the officers for the new year, who will be installed at the May meeting.

Vice-president Betty Hurst attended the workshop for District 15 held at Sardis Center, Mott Community College, in Flint Saturday.

With the accident rescue equipment completely paid for, the club presented the Elkland Township Fire Department with a check for $545, the balance of the money raised. It will be used to purchase a mobile radio unit to be installed on the truck that carries the emergency equipment.

The next meeting will be May 18.

Levin aide to be in Caro and Bad Axe

A member of U.S. Sen. Carl Levin's regional staff will be in Bad Axe and Caro Wednesday, May 5.

He will be in the commissioner's room of the Huron County Building from 11 a.m.-noon and the Caro Municipal Building on State Street from 2-3 p.m.

Persons are invited to stop by if they are having a problem with an agency of the federal government or would like to make their views known to the senator.

Persons unable to attend can contact Levin's regional office at 500 Federal Street, P.O. Box 817, Saginaw 48606, telephone 754-2494.

The first representative assembly in America convened at Jamestown, Virginia, July 30, 1619.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters

A cute six-year-old has been without a male companion for most of his life. He enjoys bike riding and fishing. He would be an enjoyable experience for any man. He is from Millington.

This 12-year-old from Caro has been waiting for a Big Brother for a long time. He is a very nice boy and he enjoys all sports, bike riding, fishing, archery and swimming. Why not give this child a try?

This 10-year-old boy from Fairgrove enjoys building things with his hands and loves the outdoors. You may be able to bring a little sunshine for this little boy. Give us a call, let's find out.

Having to grow up without a father has been difficult for this shy little 11-year-old. He lives in the Vassar area and would like a Big Brother to "teach him things." He likes active things and enjoys the outdoors.

Class to help parents cope with children

Many times parents explain a child's behavior by saying that it's a stage he or she is going through.

A five-part series, "Coping With Kids," designed to give parents an understanding of what stages children go through and at what age, will begin Tuesday, May 11, from 7-8 p.m. at Cass City High School. The first session will be entitled "The Stage Rage."

Instructors will be Katie Rozniak and Linda Cunningham, school psychologist and occupational therapist respectively for the Tuscola Intermediate School District.

There will be a $1 registration fee, which includes class materials and baby sitting service. To register, call the Cooperative Extension Service office in Caro, 673-3161, or Sandusky, 648-2515.

Fertilizer suggestions

By Don Kebler

There are several commercial soil testing services whose soil test results are accepted by MSU. Their identity can be obtained by contacting your county extension office, your county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office or MSU Crops and Soils Department.

In order for me to make a fertilizer and/or lime recommendation, I must not only have the soil nutrient test results but also the buffer pH or lime index for lime recommendation as applicable to cash and legume crops.

I must also have the soil type or soil management group number to make any fertilizer recommendation. Michigan State University soil test results contain the soil nutrient tested, buffer pH, pH, and soil management group. Some of the commercial soil testing services do not print out the buffer pH, and/or soil management group number on their test reports.

If you want me, your extension office, or MSU to make fertilizer recommendations from soil test results you obtain from a commercial soil laboratory, be sure to request the laboratory to include the test result items I mentioned above on the report they send back. All ACP cost sharing programs requiring fertilizer and/or lime recommendations must have these recommendations made by your county extension office.

If the above information is not provided in the soil test reports from accepted laboratories, no recommendation can be made and no ACP cost share obtained.

Your Neighbor says I like to be outdoors, but only when it's warm Spring has finally arrived and that makes Sue Kappen happy.

"It's just a nice time of year," she said. "There's a lot more to do in the spring and summer."

In warm weather, Mrs. Kappen likes to swim, jog, go bicycle riding and help her husband, Jack, when he cuts firewood, which he sells. (She stacks it.)

Starting soon, however, her activities may be a bit limited. She is due to give birth to their first child May 15.

"I like the outdoors," Mrs. Kappen continued. "I'd rather be outside than inside. Not in the winter, just in the nice weather."

Winter is definitely not her favorite season. "I like it when it first gets here, but after a month, forget it."

Donation made in name of pharmacist

A $750 check has been presented to Ian Mathison, dean of the Ferris State College School of Pharmacy, from the Burroughs Wellcome Pharmacy Education Program.

The money is intended to establish a revolving loan fund for deserving pharmacy students in the name of Steven Eyer of Cass City, one of 156 winners in the 1981 program. A total of 35,000 pharmacists entered from all 50 states plus the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

In a letter of appreciation to Eyer, Mathison said, "It gives me a great deal of pleasure to express my sincere thanks to you for your support of our school in this most tangible manner."

The Burroughs Wellcome Pharmacy Education Program is a part of the Company's partnership with pharmacy in helping to assure the future of the profession through education.

Sanilac GOP meets May 6

The Sanilac County Republican Committee will meet Thursday, May 6, at 8 p.m. in the county conference room, 37 Austin Street, Sandusky.

According to a recent study, benefits paid to employees of private industry average about $6,000 per person a year. That's about 37% of total payroll each year.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR ACQUISITION OF THE PINNEY STATE BANK, CASS CITY, MICHIGAN, BY CHEMICAL FINANCIAL CORPORATION, MIDLAND, MICHIGAN.

Notice is hereby given by Chemical Financial Corporation, 127 Townsend Street, Midland, Michigan 48640, that it will apply to the Federal Reserve Board pursuant to Section 3 of the Bank Holding Company Act for acquisition of 100% of the 40,000 issued and outstanding shares of The Pinney State Bank, 6522 Main Street, Cass City, Michigan 48726.

The public is invited to submit written comments on this application to the Federal Reserve Board at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, 230 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois 60690. The comment period on this application will not end before May 31, 1982. Call Franklin D. Dreyer (phone: (312) 322-5322) at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago to find out if you have additional time for submitting comments on this application or if you need more information about submitting comments. The Federal Reserve will consider comments, including requests for a public meeting or formal hearing on the application, if they are received by the Federal Reserve Bank during the comment period.

Students face cut in aid

"Students 18 to 22 getting Social Security checks are reminded about important recent changes that will reduce or eliminate future benefits by Susan Ludwig, Social Security field representative in Saginaw.

How students are affected will depend primarily on the type of school they are in and when benefits started:

1) If you attend college (or other post-secondary school) -- Payments can continue until you finish school, reach age 22, marry, or through April 1985, whichever comes first, provided you meet both of these conditions:

You were entitled to a Social Security check for August, 1981, when the law was changed; and you were attending (not just enrolled in) a post-secondary school full-time before May, 1982.

However, be aware of these changes:

--You will receive no checks for May, June, July, and August even if in school full-time.

--You aren't eligible for cost-of-living increases that are given most Social Security beneficiaries each summer.

--Your benefit will be reduced 25 percent each year, starting with the September, 1982 check (due Oct. 3).

If you attend post-secondary school and first became entitled to a Social Security check for a month after August, 1981, benefits can be paid only for months of full-time attendance through July, 1982 (including May, June, and July if you are in school or intend to return to school). You are not eligible after that, Ludwig said.

2) If you attend high school --Starting August, 1982, payments generally can continue only up to the month you are 19 or until the end of the semester or quarter in which you reach 19, if later. If your school is not on a semester or quarter basis, checks will be paid until you complete the course or for two months after the month you are 19 whichever is first.

By now, you should have received an end-of-school-year report from the Social Security Administration, Ludwig said.

If you have not already completed the top of the form, do so right away. Then ask your school registrar or other official to complete the bottom and return the form. If the form is not promptly returned, benefits will stop.

If you have any questions about changes in student benefits or about completing the form, contact the Social Security office in Saginaw, located downtown at East Genesee and N. Warren Streets, telephone 771-1010.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

A slumping area birth rate is reflected in a proposal by a hospital in Tuscola County to reduce the number of beds in its maternity department. The state has been asked to approve the revision in the facility's bed complement. Caro Community Hospital is proposing to close two beds, lowering its capacity to 48 beds.

Despite a Supreme Court decision last week saying in effect that students have no constitutional rights when it comes to getting paddled, don't look for a sharp increase in at least one Cass City Public School. Deford Elementary teachers see padding as the last resort in punishment.

Kim Witherspoon was the top jumper in a track meet against Mayville that Cass City won, 94½-40½, last Wednesday.

Martin Twork, 34, Cass City, won $10,000 playing the instant lottery game Monday afternoon. "I never hit it big until now," Twork said.

TEN YEARS AGO

The 13th annual Harold Ferguson Memorial Award was presented to Becky Loomis Friday night by band director George Bushong at the Band Boosters awards banquet.

Miss Loomis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Loomis of Cass City. She plays the piano and is first trumpet in the high school band.

Rain quickly boosted the Cass River to the flood stage recently as the river overflowed its banks at several locations. As quickly as it rose, the river receded and was well within its banks the next day.

The annual sign-up for Little League, Minor League and T-Ball is scheduled Friday at 7 p.m., J.D. Alexander, president, announced this week. Mark Tuckey was named Minor League commissioner.

25 YEARS AGO

Two persons were stricken from the excitement caused by a grass fire at the Frank Cigan farm, three miles west of Cass City Sunday.

Five Cass City students at Central Michigan College received an average of B or better last semester. The students are Sharon Seeger, Phyllis Copeland, Donna O'Dell, Wilma Finkbeiner and Alice DesJardins.

Several members of the Greenleaf Extension Club went to Bad Axe Thursday afternoon to see a demonstration of electronic cooking.

The junior-senior banquet and prom are slated for Friday evening with a theme of "An Evening in Gay Paree," Ballroom dancing is scheduled from 9:30 p.m.-1 a.m. Alumni and adults of the community are welcome at the prom.

Funeral for Mrs. Luthi, 94, in Ohio

Jessie Louise Luthi, 94, of Cass City, formerly of Lakewood, Ohio, died Saturday at Provincial House after a long illness.

She was born Feb. 14, 1888, in Brooklyn, Ohio, the daughter of John and Louise (Carle) Frommeyer.

Miss Frommeyer married John Luthi March 16, 1914, in Cleveland, Ohio. Following their marriage, they made their home in Cleveland. Luthi died in 1971. Mrs. Luthi came to Cass City in 1973.

She had been a member of the Lakewood Order of the Eastern Star and the Grace Presbyterian Church of Lakewood.

Mrs. Luthi is survived by two daughters, Mrs. James (Jessie) Miller of Santa Barbara, Calif., and Mrs. James (Dorothy) Ballard of Cass City; nine grandchildren; 11 great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. John Thompson of Vermilion, Ohio. One sister, Lula, and one brother, Howard, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at the Jenkins Funeral Home, North Olmsted, Ohio, with Rev. William Montgomery of the Rocky River Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial was in Sunset Memorial Park in North Olmsted.

Wetters, Maharg and Captain Dillman, won the second schedule in the Cass City Bowling League.

Wanted: Place for 11-year-old boy to work for room and board on a farm. Call New Gordon Hotel or No. 40.

Katherine Crane was in Chicago from Monday until Thursday of this week where she attended the Gossard School of Corsetry. Miss Laura Bigelow accompanied Miss Crane.

The Presbyterian Guild Society met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Lyle Koepfing. During the business meeting, a contribution of $7.50 was voted to the cancer control fund. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Clifford Martin and Mrs. Claud Karr, served angel food cake and coffee.

Families needed as hosts

Tuscola County 4-H families wishing to host a Japanese youth this summer should contact the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service office as soon as possible, according to Peggy Breclaw, county extension 4-H youth agent.

Sixty-two Japanese young people will travel to Michigan through the Michigan 4-H Japanese LABO exchange program this summer and spend a month living with 4-H families to learn more about American culture and increase their understanding and proficiency in English.

"The 4-H/LABO exchange program was initiated in 1974 and is coordinated jointly by the LABO International Exchange Foundation and the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth Program," Miss Breclaw explained.

In an effort to help Japanese youth develop a command of English at an early age, the young people are tutored by instructors at the LABO Teaching Information Center.

Japanese youths visiting Michigan are paired with 4-H members of the same age and sex. Host families are encouraged not to change their daily routines, in an effort to give LABO participants a chance to experience daily American family life. The LABO youth will arrive July 23 and depart Aug. 23.

"So far, only 30 host families statewide have applied to host Japanese exchanges," Miss Breclaw said.

For more information, call Miss Breclaw at 673-3161.

Eastern Star chapter has ceremony

Decker Chapter No. 438, Order of the Eastern Star, held its regular meeting by special dispensation April 13 with 27 members present and Worthy Matron Irma Ross presiding.

Bike-a-thon slated May 15

Sponsor forms are now available for children and adults who want to ride in the Saturday, May 15, St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital "Wheels for Life" bike-a-thon in Cass City.

Forms are available at the Trinity United Methodist Church, whose pastor, Rev. P. Thomas Wachterhauser is the chairman, other churches, schools and some businesses.

The 1981 bike-a-thon raised about $1,800. Registration will start at 9:30. Persons can register whenever they want to start riding. The event ends at 2 p.m.

The route, all in town, is five miles around, the same as last year, with a check point at each mile. Youngsters in fifth grade and under must ride with an adult or responsible teenager or have written permission to ride alone, which must be presented at registration.

Registration will be at the Trinity Church. At that time, riders will receive a map of the route, lap card, collection envelope and other pertinent information.

Rev. Wachterhauser recommends that riders give sponsors an idea of how far they plan to pedal, so the sponsors have an idea of how much to pledge per mile. Sponsors may choose to give an overall sum instead.

Cyclists who raise $25 or more will receive a T-shirt; $75 or more, a windbreaker jacket and the T-shirt.

All donations are due at the Trinity Church by May 30. Only checks or money orders made out to St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital can be accepted.

Various merchants will be donating hot dogs, potato chips, donuts and beverages for the riders.

Dangerous or careless riding will disqualify the participant immediately.

St. Jude's was established by entertainer Danny Thomas and is now a world-famous cancer research facility in Memphis, Tenn. It operates mostly on public contributions and treats its patients free of charge.

Eugene Comment spent the week end with his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Arvo in Owosso, and Saturday evening they attended a retirement party for Eugene's brother, Raymond, in Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. Muri LaFave attended the wedding reception at Colony House, Cass City, following the 6 o'clock wedding of Debra Lenda and Eric Frederick Friday evening.

The Misses Deb Hunter and Patty Goslin spent the week end in Ohio visiting their brother and sister, respectively. They visited the Phil Baders in Findlay and the John Hunters in Toledo. Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pisarek Jr. last Friday were Mr. and Mrs. Roly Duse, Barry and Jason of Linden.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carroll flew to New York last week end for the wedding of Tim Rabideau and Dottie Wynn, both of Lansing. Tim is the son of Mrs. Carroll and the late Chick Rabideau. Tim's brother, Dan, of Queens, N.Y., was best man and Lou Wynn of Lansing, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. After the quiet wedding, a small reception was held at El Enca Club, New York City.

Rev. Father Paul Rause, head of the Liturgy Commission of the Diocese of Saginaw, visited St. Agatha parish for the Wednesday evening Parish Council meeting and was an overnight guest of Deacon and Mrs. Bud Kuhr.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Karr were their sons, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Karr and Eric of Syracuse, Ind., and Dr. Kurt Karr of South Lyons, and Miss Cyndy Somers of Wixom. Saturday callers were Mary McKellar and granddaughter, Tanya, Kerry McKellar, and Sue Penrod.

New visiting hours set at hospital

There have been many changes in the obstetrical department at Hills and Dales General Hospital recently.

New interior decorating, special meals by candlelight for new parents and now a change in the visitation policy.

Siblings may visit with their mother in the department and view their new brother or sister through the nursery window from 1:30-4 p.m. and from 7-7:30 p.m. The siblings must be accompanied by an adult, should have an appointment, and be free of infectious symptoms.

Grandparents may visit anytime from noon-8 p.m. when the babies are in the nursery. Friends and relatives over 12 years of age may visit from 1-1:30 p.m. and from 7:30-8 p.m. Only two visitors are allowed at one time.

Fathers may still visit the department at any time and may hold their new offspring after gowning and washing.

Recent studies indicate that siblings suffer from being separated from their mother during this time and often resent the newborn when he is brought home. The changes will help bind the new family together, according to the hospital.

Area builders see boom for interest rates come down to

By Mike Eliasohn

Local builders are expecting business to boom — when interest rates drop.

The problem is, no one knows when that will be and whether they will drop enough.

The good news, of which there isn't much, is that for those persons who have money now and want a new house, now is a good time to build. They should be able to get a good price from contractors and for building materials.

As for how business was in 1981, builders contacted by the Chronicle had various comments, none of them complimentary.

Elmer Francis described last year as mediocre. "It's looking up some," he said in describing the present situation, "but it's not going to be any big stuff. There may be, but there isn't any now."

Francis, who normally does a lot of commercial construction and some new homes, said his business now consists mainly of remodeling and building additions — "little stuff."

D & D Construction owner Dan Ulfig also is doing similar type work. He added that some farmers are still having pole buildings constructed and "wood heaters are creating a lot of work." The latter are repair jobs due to damage caused from chimney fires resulting from burning of wood.

New homes, he commented, are "only for a few."

Tom Herron of Herron Builders said 1981 "wasn't good. We were just fortunate. We had enough to keep busy but would have been more busy if interest rates had been lower."

Herron does have three homes under construction in his Northwood Village and Estates subdivisions, of which two have been sold, and may be the builder of the Caro Manufacturing Corp. plant if the firm decides to relocate in Cass City. (See story, page 1.)

INTEREST RATES

Two local financial institutions, when contacted by the Chronicle, quoted interest rates on new mortgages of 16 percent. At one, the interest rate is renegotiated after three years; at the other, four years.

What must interest rates be before interest picks up in new home construction?

Herron and Ulfig ventured 12-13 percent would do the trick; Francis said 12 percent.

All felt the building business will take off once interest rates do drop. "There would be a real boom," Ulfig commented.

If interest rates drop, is the demand there? Francis was asked. "Sure, just like with new cars," he replied.

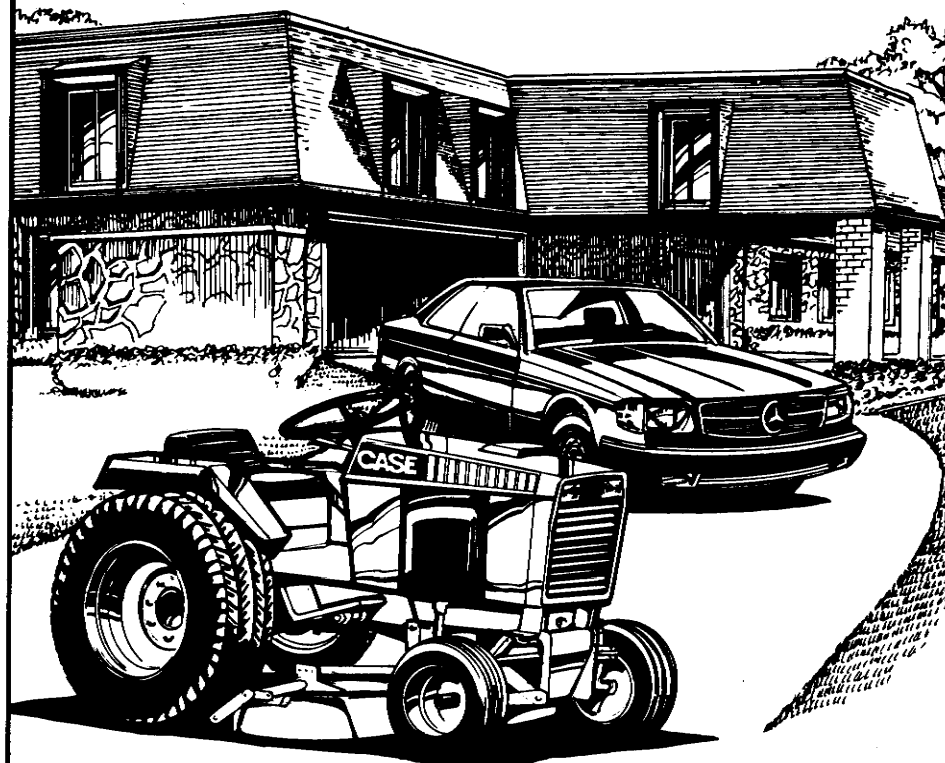

When new homes are built again, Herron predicted there will be interest in use of passive solar energy — homes built to take advantage of heat from the sun without use of mechanical devices.

Paul Lefler, Tuscola County building codes administrator, feels home construction will pick up even when interest rates drop to only 14 percent.

His office has been receiving a lot of inquiries about building homes, but when interest turns into action depends on the economy and interest rates, he said. As of a couple of weeks ago, permits had been taken out for construction of only five new homes in the county so far this year.

The number of inquiries concerning construction of commercial buildings is about normal for this time of year, he added.

To reduce house painting, add aluminum soffits and fascia

Painting the underside of your roof overhang (the soffit) and the trim along the edge of the roof (the fascia) is a back-breaking chore if you do it yourself, and an expensive one to have done professionally.

Instead, consider installing aluminum soffits and fascia, whose finishes withstand the roughest weather conditions and eliminate painting.

Properly installed, they are warranted for 20 years and more, thus paying for themselves with a short time through reduced painting costs.

Aluminum soffits and fascia are appropriate on any style house from landmark status to modern, and improved finishes baked on at the factory, along with new application techniques, make it possible to duplicate the lines and curves of original wood trim.

The color story

Although white and brown aluminum soffit panels are currently the most popular, soffits come in colors to match or blend with wood, masonry, aluminum, vinyl or brick siding.

Installation is fast, easy and economical, and the aluminum permanently covers up old wood soffits which have deteriorated.

Aluminum soffits also come in a variety of widths and lengths and in solid or ventilated panels.

Contractors use aluminum coil stock — long lengths of aluminum which they bend to shape—to accommodate special contours of old wood trim. Matching fascia and other trim are also available.

Advance knowledge

Soffit and fascia systems are relatively simple installations, but it helps to know some basic facts before signing a contract with an installer.

For instance:

If the existing wood soffits are vented or louvered for attic air circulation, be sure your home improvement contractor specifies ventilated aluminum soffit.

If the vents are small, have him check attic ventilation to make sure it is adequate.

As a rule, the soffit panel should run at right angles to the house, and external corners should be mitered for a better appearance.

Seal off attic opening

When the old fascia board is being covered, aluminum should extend up to the roof shingles in order to seal off the opening to the attic. This helps to keep out squirrels and other pests. It also seals out moisture behind rain gutters.

The new aluminum fascia should be securely fastened to the house with aluminum nails, because this part of the building is particularly vulnerable to winds and heavy rain storms which can rip the trim loose.

Since the old rain gutters will probably have to be taken down to install the soffit and fascia properly, consider adding new aluminum gutters at the same time. This will eliminate another tough paint job.

A new aluminum rainware system should also include downspouts of the same material to achieve maximum benefits from the installation.

All these components are designed to work together. They are lightweight, durable, rustproof, and won't shrink, swell or rot. Long lengths can be assembled with fewer joints, and there's less weight on hangers and eaves.

NORTHWOOD ESTATES—This executive-type home is under construction by Herron Builders in the woods in the Northwood Estates subdivision in the northwest corner of Cass City.

Key ways to secure financing

Finding money for home improvement projects isn't always as easy as homeowners might like. High interest rates and tight money have limited conventional financing, but there are other ways.

If you're considering a small project, you may have the tools to finance it right at your fingertips, according to the National Home Improvement Council (NHIC).

"There are four methods of financing limited-cost projects," explains NHIC Executive Vice President John Hammon. "passbook loans, life insurance loans, credit union loans and bank card loans."

In each of these cases, the homeowner is utilizing credit he or she has already established.

In the case of passbook loans, you can borrow up to 95 percent or more of the amount you have in your savings, at rates slightly above what your money is earning. Although you must leave your money in your account, it will continue to earn interest, further lowering your loan cost.

Borrowing money against your life insurance is done in a similar fashion. You may borrow up to 95 percent of the total cash value of the policy. However, it should be noted that while the loan is outstanding the face value of your policy is reduced by that amount.

Credit unions, just like other lending institutions are tightening their lending policies, but they are still making loans. Check with them for their conventional lending or passbook arrangement.

The rates are high on bank card loans, but if you need to borrow for a short time only, they can be quite beneficial. For current rates, check with the bank which issues your card.

Low-grade wood yields high-quality furniture, thanks to new technique

Shop for furniture and you'll wonder whether high quality wood furniture is going the way of the hardwood floor—beyond the buying power of most Americans.

One reason: Large hardwood logs of the species preferred for furniture are in short supply. But logs of cherry, walnut, oak and maple are especially scarce, say specialists with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Service.

Forest Service specialists say only about 40 percent of the hardwood lumber produced in the United States is of high enough quality for furniture manufacturers. Two-thirds of the total hardwood sawtimber supply is only 11 to 17 inches in diameter at breast height.

"Clear wood from these low grade trees can be glued together and used for exposed furniture parts, but much more cutting must be done in the mill on lower grades, their parts yield is lower, and perhaps only one-fourth of the long cuttings needed can be obtained," said Charlie Gatchell, a researcher at the Forest Service's Forestry Sciences Laboratory in Princeton, W. Va.

To overcome these objections, Gatchell helped perfect a new technique for gluing to gether the ends of these smaller pieces. It is called "Sem"—short for "serpentine end matching."

In Sem, the joint is almost impossible to see. This, say researchers, overcomes the objections furniture manufacturers have to conventional joining techniques such as dovetail and "finger joints," both considered aesthetically displeasing.

Why can the Sem joint fade into the woodwork, so to speak?

One answer is its shape. Similar to the curve of a long fingernail, the Sem joint approximates the grain pattern of flat-sawn wood. To the human eye, it appears to be part of the grain pattern rather than a glue-line.

Another reason for the joint's low visibility is that the glue-line is only .001 of an inch or less thick. Such precision is possible because of a machine called a numerical controlled router.

It can be programmed by computer to machine one side of the glue line on one piece of wood and the other side of the glue line on another piece, so the two pieces can be made to join precisely.

Because the Sem joint blends into the wood so well, its adoption by industry means high quality solid wood furniture can be made with trees once considered undesirable.

New window booklet helps you save energy

The various ways you can update your home and conserve energy by adding replacement or storm windows are detailed in a free new booklet available from the Aluminum Window Information Bureau.

In "A Homeowner's Guide to Choosing Windows," you'll learn why double-glazing is important, how much fuel you can expect to save with different windows, their maintenance-free advantages, and other pertinent information.

There's also a quick reference chart comparing the most popular types of window materials.

If your home needs reroofing,

Don't put off reroofing because of a tight budget. That's false economy. Once an old roof starts leaking, patching won't help. Reroofing won't help, either. Some homeowners gauge the need for reroofing solely on the presence or absence of the first leaks are harboring more to come. And nothing downgrades a home's appearance so much as a shabby roof. it's false economy to delay!

Repaired, the roof may have many years of service left. Conversely, an old roof that may appear intact may have many hidden leaks. The roof deck and structural beams may be sustaining unnoticed water damage.

Helpful advice

- Age is the best determinant of roof condition. All roofs have a design life. Standard asphalt shingles, for example, have a life expectancy of about 15 years. New, five-dimensional asphalt shingles have a design life of 25 years or longer.
- Don't wait for the roof to wear out before reroofing because it may force you to make hasty decisions about materials and installation. Careful planning is the best way to assure satisfactory reroofing.
- Professional roofing contractors will inspect your roof and give estimates if reroofing is needed. A professional goes top side to check the roof. He knows how to walk on the roof without damaging the shingles.
- You should inspect the underside of the roof from the attic, and the roof itself from a dormer window or from ground level using binoculars.
- In the attic, use a flashlight to search the underside of decking and rafters for wet spots that indicate leaks.

Outdoors, circle the house at ground level checking the roof through field glasses. Look for broken, warped or blistered shingles, which indicate aging.

If you decide to reroof, consider three-dimensional asphalt shingles. Their rugged design gives the roof a dramatic, textured appearance. Available in distinctive earthen colors, including rich browns and tan beiges, they serve to blend a home with its natural surroundings. Multi-layered asphalt shingles may be more economical in the long run because they can be amortized over a much longer period of time.

housing only if 12-13 percent

STATISTICS

In 1981, permits were taken out for construction of only four new homes in Elkland and Novesta Townships, of which two were in Cass City.

In contrast, the year before, permits were taken out for 10 homes in the two townships, of which four were in the village, and that was a slow year for builders. Back in 1972, the peak year since issued for construction of 16 homes in Cass City alone.

The average value of the four homes constructed last year was $45,728, with the most expensive being valued at $53,456.

As of mid-April this year, a permit had been taken out for only one new home in the area.

Mobile homes were a more popular -- and more affordable -- means of housing last year, with permits being taken out for nine mobile homes in Elkland and Novesta Townships.

The county building codes included as part of additional provisions for mobile homes were a more popular -- and more affordable -- means of housing last year, with permits being taken out for nine mobile homes in Elkland and Novesta Townships.

department doesn't obtain a value for each one installed, but estimates the value for statistical purposes at $12,000 for single-width mobile homes and $25,000 for double-wides.

There was one large construction project in Cass City last year, the Northwood Heights Apartments, which do their own inspecting.

In the area in which the county department does inspect, it issued permits for 60 new homes last year at an average cost of $61,023 per home. That compares to permits for 79 new homes in 1980 and 138 in 1979.

Although fewer homes were built last year, their total value was up 9 percent over 1980, which reflects an increase in building costs.

There were also permits issued for 20 commercial additions, 21 commercial and industrial buildings, 102 mobile homes and 353 miscellaneous (storage buildings, garages, swimming pools, remodeling, etc.)

The one big drop last year was in the first year.

Rehabilitating historic properties pays off. As a result of the 1978 Revenue Act, reports the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, those involved in such work can realize a return of up to 30 percent of initial equity investment in the first year.

was in commercial and industrial buildings, with their total value being 25 percent less than 1980.

The total value of all 1981 construction was $8.81 million, an increase of 9 percent over 1980.

ENERGY USE TRIMMED BY HOMEOWNERS

American homeowners are making excellent progress in their efforts to conserve energy. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, the average home has trimmed its energy use to the equivalent of 995 gallons of oil currently from 1,146 gallons in 1974. If made more energy efficient, the department says, private housing could save 50 percent more energy.

Textured paint gives you color which is beautiful to the touch!

For walls with luxurious textured character, give your home the three dimensional advantage of textured paint. Easy to apply and as varied as your imagination, textured wall paints are an inexpensive way to express your design personality.

To give the bedroom, the den- or even the bathroom color you can feel, simply follow these directions from the National Paint and Coatings Association.

- Clean the surface of all dirt and grease. Large cracks should be patched and glossy surfaces sanded to remove any sheen. Primers are not necessary with textured paint, but wallpaper and paste should be removed prior to painting.

- Spread the textured paint using a trowel or brush. For best results, limit your work area to one square yard at a time. This allows you to make sure the paint is evenly spread and gives you better control over the design.

- Swirl it, curve it, stripe it! Using a comb, sponge, piece of cardboard, or any utensil of your choice, imprint your design into the paint. The wall pictured here was created using textured paint and a wide toothed comb. A stucco appearance can be achieved using a textured paint roller.

- Available in red, green, gold, tan and white, and in a variety of grains from coarse to fine, textured paints can be covered with flat latex wall paint to achieve the color particular to your design scheme. A paint roller designed for textured surfaces will ensure complete painting coverage.

- Seal bare spots or areas of pattern irregularity with extra applications of the paint.

To prevent paint build-up, applications should be limited to 1/4" deep.

- Team your new walls with accessories that complement the textured finish. Mix rattan and wicker furniture with a stucco styled wall or complement a vertically striped wall with an oriental bedspread and light colored, highly polished wood furniture.

YOUR HOME: COLOR IT ELEGANT!

A properly color-coordinated home can communicate a sense of elegance.

Experts say that the choices ought to be limited to three basic colors; for the roof, the siding and the trim.

Vinyl siding, for example, comes in a variety of colors that improve the curb appeal of any home.

THE NEW HOME of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Walsh is located on Cumber Road in Austin Township.

Examine inside and out area

Tips for best use of small space

Small space living—currently a popular subject and somewhat frustrating to those who cannot afford a new house and the high mortgage rates that go with it—can be expanded by carefully examining the areas that you have inside and outside for enlargement. Perhaps you can create additional living space that will fit your needs perfectly.

There are many home-expansion ideas to fit every budget. They range from knocking down a wall between two rooms, to adding a full room with foundation, a roof and heating system.

One of the best low-cost ways to increase living space is to open a wall of a small bedroom and install a sliding glass door to open the room to the out-of-doors.

A concrete patio of generous proportions forms the foundation for the outdoor room. The next important step is to combine the indoor and outdoor areas through flooring, carpeting, fabrics, colors and furnishings.

Because the newly-expanded space in the illustrated project was to be used for year-round entertainment, bringing the outdoors in and the indoors out was an important consideration.

The linoleum flooring of the inside area and the outside concrete patio were brought together with a fresh, lawn green carpeting of durable, tough turf of Chevron "Polyloom" olefin fiber. Its ability to withstand all kinds of weather and clean up easily with clear water or vacuuming makes maintenance a breeze.

Bringing the inside out is done with color and a cheery, floral fabric in bright yellow, green and pink. Flowers and plants are potted in the outside area on the grass carpeting—the manmade fiber withstands sprinkling and mildew and resists sunfading.

In selecting furniture for two spaces that are to be drawn together for common use, one's first inclination is to match the furniture styles and fabrics.

A more interesting design approach is to blend styles and coordinate fabric patterns, using cozy, white wicker inside for year-round use and blending it with sturdy aluminum tubular furniture for all-weather use. This kind of imaginative expansion fulfills many families' physical and emotional needs for more spacious living.

SPACE SAVER -- This home, photographed in an early stage of construction in late March, has 1,000 square feet of living space to save on heating costs. It is being constructed in the Northwood Village subdivision.

Do-it-yourself Rutkoskis spend lots of time to erect beautiful home while saving $20,000

Do-it-yourself home building is a good way to save money, but don't be in a hurry. LaVern and Carol Rutkoski started construction of their home in September, 1979.

Although they and their children — Lisa, 13, Christy,

9, and Matt, 7 — moved in at over what went into the water, fixing it doesn't require turning off the water for the whole house.

The Rutkoskis started with a drawing of a Cape Cod style home that they liked. Rutkoski, a process engineer at General Cable, drew his own plans.

In winter without using the hot water heater. A trap door in the inside garage wall leads directly to the basement so logs can be directly deposited by the furnace without having to carry them through the house.

finished a couple of weeks ago. The banister along the stairs from downstairs to upstairs is yet to be made. The cubbyhole storage areas in the children's rooms upstairs (there are also closets) aren't finished yet.

ONCE THE INSIDE IS done, he may add a deck onto the rear of the home. With five acres of property, there is lots of landscaping to be done. Someday, Rutkoski would like to build a storage shed.

Health Department, replied, "I don't think so. I'm very happy with it."

Her husband said the only thing he would do differently is to spend more time on the plans before construction started.

Some changes were made as construction went along, but that was perhaps inevitable. "You always see something that looks better," he said.

For instance, Rutkoski installed a shut-off everywhere there is a water outlet, including clothes and dish washers and toilets and for hot and cold water. That contractor to build their way, if anything goes wrong with anything that uses Rutkoski hired someone for a few days to help him install the plumbing and heating and about half the carpeting was installed by a professional.

ENERGY SAVING WAS A big consideration in construction of the home. There is one inch of plastic foam and 3½ inches of fiberglass insulation in the walls and 12 inches of insulation in the attic.

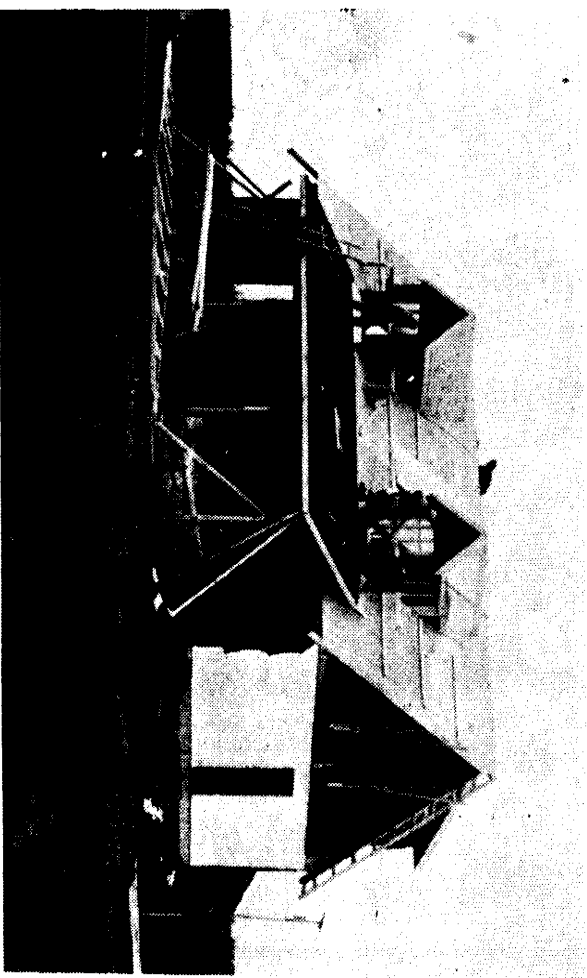

From December through March of this winter, Rutkoski figures he burned about 50 gallons of fuel oil. An added touch in the basement is a separate fruit cellar and storage area.

Before moving to their new home, the Rutkoskis lived in Cass City, in a home they completely remodeled themselves.

In addition to that experience, Rutkoski has done various home repair jobs for other persons.

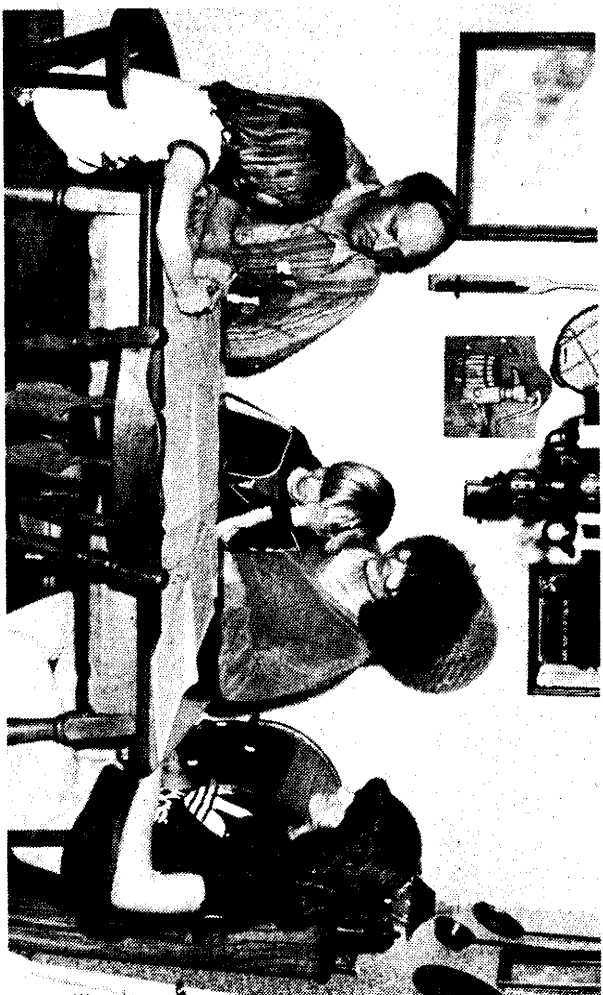

AS MENTIONED, there are a few things that have to be done before the home is done.

The upstairs banister around the stairwell was

THE HOME OF TIMELESS BEAUTY

Your Home Should Be, First and Foremost, An Expression of You ... An Extension of Your Outlook and Lifestyle. Choose Your Decorator Carefully, To Insure That Your Wishes and Hens Complement Each Other. And, As A General Rule, Follow These Guidelines of Good Taste:

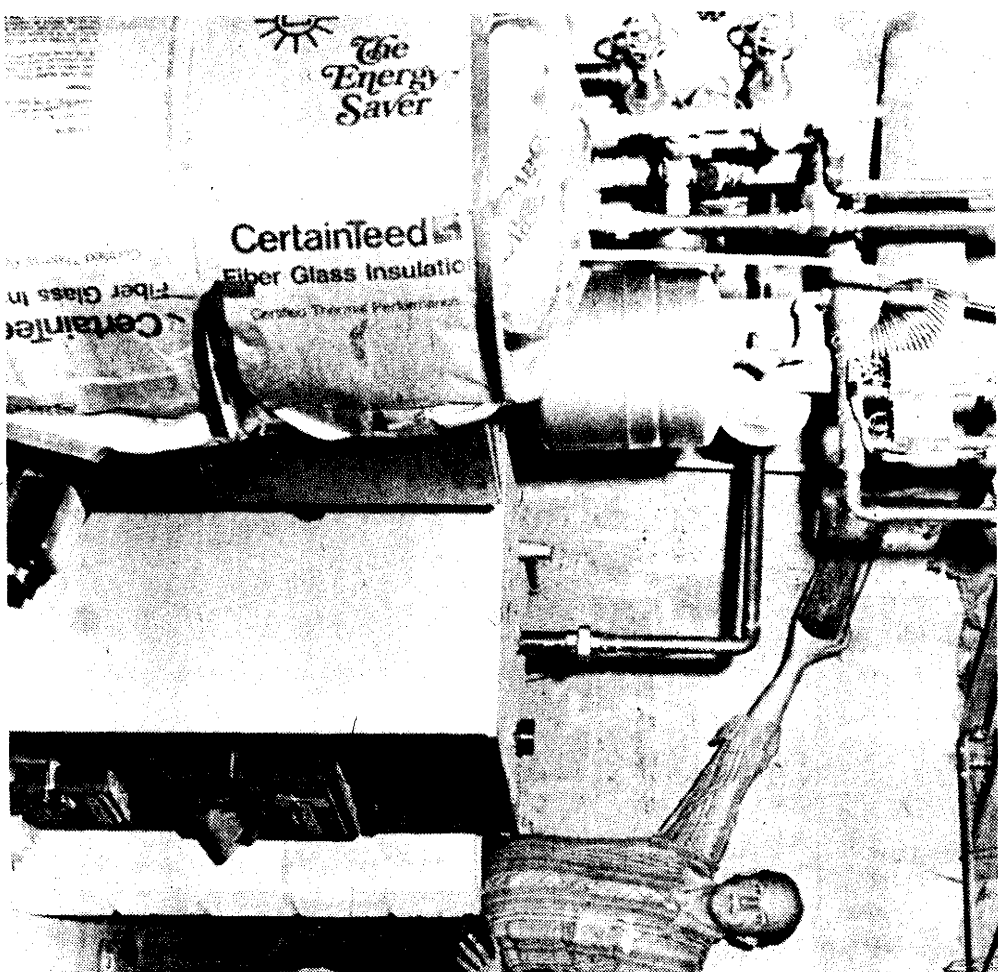

1. Live in A Colorful Home ("Let There Be Light"), But ...
2. Choose Colors Wisely, Not Purely On An Emotional Basis
3. Limit Color Selections To Three, Then Vary The Tones of These
4. Use Accent Colors To Vary The Appearance of Base Colors, Thus Avoiding The Creation of Monotony
5. When Selecting Furniture, Don't Mix Heavy With Delicate
6. Strive To Make Your Living Room "Comfortable", Your Family Room "Rugged", Your Kitchen "Happy", Your Bath "Beautiful" and Your Bedroom "Restful".
7. Use Your Ideas, Not Those Borrowed From Fads Or Neighbors
8. Obey The Law of Intensity: The Larger The Object, The Less Intense Its Color Should Be
9. Maintain A Pleasant "Rhythm" Through Whole-House Coordination
