

NOTHING LEFT—Nothing that was inside the Mid-Thumb Suzuki Sales dealership of Steve Ziemba near Hemans survived last Thursday's fire intact. Damage may total $200,000.

Loss may be $200,000 in motorcycle store fire

BARE METAL—The only thing left of the motorcycles that burned in the Mid-Thumb Suzuki Sales fire last Thursday were the metal parts, and even those weren't salvageable. These cycles had been on display in the front of the store.

The loss may be $200,000 in a fire that destroyed Mid-Thumb Suzuki Sales on M-53 in Lamotte Township last Thursday.

The fire not only destroyed the dealership's building and everything inside it, including 17 motorcycles and two snowmobiles, based on a count Friday morning. Two camper units parked at least 20 feet from the building were also destroyed. The fire was reported at 10:50 a.m.

Owner Steve Ziemba told Sandusky state police that a fuse blew. When he replaced it, sparks flew and some landed on some fuel used to clean parts and the fire started. The fuse box was located in the service area in the rear of the building.

Ziemba called out to three customers in the parking lot, but there was nothing anyone could do.

He told the Chronicle Friday morning the bathroom was located next to the service area, but the fire spread so fast, they were unable to get water from there to try to put out the fire. "In a couple of minutes, it was completely engulfed."

He gave credit to the Lamotte Township Fire Department firemen, later assisted by the Moore Township Fire Department, for trying to save at least part of the structure, but there was nothing they could do.

Lamotte Fire Chief Art West said about all that was still standing when firemen arrived was one wall. The last of the firemen didn't leave the scene until 3 p.m.

He estimated the loss at $200,000. Ziemba thought it was in that range.

All that was saved were three motorcycles that were on display outside, Ziemba said, and even those were damaged.

Ziemba sold motorcycles, snowmobiles and recreation vehicles. The dealership, south of Deckerville Road, had been there 12 years.

Whether he will rebuild, he told the Chronicle, depends on his settlement with the insurance company. "I hope to rebuild, let's put it that way."

He had a lot of loyal customers, he added. "And I'd like to continue."

Ironically, a mobile home next door to the dealership, owned by Donald and Debra Hass, was destroyed in a fire Feb. 24.

Voters given choice

Board puts cuts on ballot, cites cuts

The Cass City School Board voted 4-3 Monday night to place three proposals before the electorate in the regular election slated for Monday, June 14.

At the same time the board also decreed cuts that will be made if none of the proposals is approved by the voters.

The three millage requests are:

- A three-mill levy for bus transportation that will raise an estimated $300,000. The levy would enable the board to restore bus transportation at a cost of $295,000 and crossing guards at a cost of about $3,000.

- A two-mill levy for basic school program. That would restore 1 1/4 teachers cut from each of the Deford and Evergreen staffs. A half teacher is eliminated from Campbell Elementary. Evergreen sixth grade will go to Cass City.

In all three schools, physical education, art, library and school nurse services now eliminated, would be restored.

In the high school, five teaching positions have been cut and library and school nurse services eliminated.

There will be four English teachers instead of five. Social study teachers are cut from 4 to 2 1/2 and science and math from 2 1/2 to 1 1/2 teachers. The industrial education-drafting staff has been cut from two to one teacher.

Four of these teachers will be rehired if the two-mills are approved. The fifth position is eliminated because of enrollment drop.

Student-teacher ratio in Deford will be 25 to one and in Evergreen, 23 to one. In Campbell, class size will be from 25 to 28 students.

In the Intermediate school a counseling position has been eliminated as well as library and nursing service.

- A half-mill for extracurricular activities.

The levy would restore all extracurricular activities, including sports.

There was sharp disagreement among board members about placing the millage proposals before the voters.

Voting in favor of the new proposals were Geraldine Prieskorn, Ben Hobart, J.D. Tuckey and Dr. E. Paul Lockwood.

Those trustees want to give the district voters an opportunity to express themselves. We've established the cuts, said Tuckey, and we have to give the voters an opportunity to express their priorities.

Against the proposals were Theresa Burnette, Dick Albee and Dr. Ed Scollon.

Albee said that the voters have spoken and said, forget about asking for any piecemeal levies. He said that the purpose of the school is to educate and he doesn't feel that three mills should be spent for transportation at the same time that basic education is being chopped.

The fear that education funds might be short-changed by the piecemeal proposal was the reason that Scollon voted against the new vote.

Bargaining Association board that represents Cass City teachers, said that speaking for himself and not the unions that the teachers are already sharing their share of the load.

He said that Cass City's cost per pupil is among the lowest in the state and teachers' salaries, in Cass City are not out of line with the rest of the districts and much less than the state average.

Jim Hobbs, another teacher, pointed out that the teachers wanted a two-year contract when the three-year pact was signed. We took a chance on inflation, he claims, and now people are asking us to give it up.

Regardless, the board unanimously voted to ask the union for concessions.

Supt. Donald Crouse doesn't hold out much hope for concessions. Tri-County has already turned down two requests for teacher pay freezes, he said.

A crowd of over 50 persons attended the session forcing the meeting from the board room into the speech auditorium.

OTHER BUSINESS

ASK FOR FREEZE

The board and most of the spectators were united on one issue. They want teachers to accept a pay freeze instead of the 13 percent increase that's included in the 10 percent pay boost and the cost of increment increases for service time that teachers with less than 11 years seniority receive.

Judging by the conversation that's not likely to happen. Bob Gengler, a teacher on the Tri-County

The remainder of the business agenda was brief and quickly settled.

Dave Lovejoy, community education director, was given permission to alter graduation requirements so that career education becomes an option for students.

George Bushong was granted permission to use the school this summer for private lessons that will not require any payment from

Eight-mill renewal to be on Owen-Gage ballot June 14

Owen-Gage School District voters will be asked to renew eight mills for two years in the June 14 school election, the school board decided Monday evening without debate.

Approval would mean the district will levy a total of 26.75 mills for school operations.

Supt. Ronald Erickson pointed out after the meeting that taxpayers will pay less than last year. The 1.2-mill levy on last year's tax bills to pay off the $43,707 that was owed to Construction Coordinators, Inc. (CCI) was for one year only, plus he projected the 3.2-mill debt levy of last year might be reduced by about .4 mill.

Walbro employees take freeze

By a two to one margin, employees at Walbro Corporation agreed to a three-year wage freeze in a vote held Tuesday night.

The employees were in the third year of a three-year contract that started April 1. The contract was to have called for a wage increase and a cost of living adjustment.

In the new contract these benefits were given up. Complete details of the significant agreement will be presented next week.

The board also approved a final transaction involving CCI, which had coordinated building of the high school addition completed in 1979.

Out of the revenue from the 1.2 mills levied, Owen-Gage withheld $5,400, which it had claimed was rent owed by the firm to the school district because it had left its construction trailer behind after the project was completed.

A compromise was reached, setting the rent owed at $1,695, which will be deducted from the $5,400, with the remaining $3,705 to be paid to CCI.

In order for the board to ask the Municipal Finance Commission (MFC) in July for permission to borrow in anticipation of receipt of property taxes, the board approved a tentative 1982-83 school year budget.

It lists projected revenue of $1,382,237 (including $152,971, from the Goslin territory, which the Supreme Court has finally ruled is part of the Cass City district) and expenditures of $1,150,836.

That means an excess of revenue over expenditures of $221,401, or $68,430 if the Goslin revenue is subtracted.

The new budget compares to the one for 1981-82, which lists $1,276,599 in revenue (including $139,065 from Goslin) and expenditures of $1,102,455.

Staff levels projected in the budget, Erickson said after the meeting, are about the same as last year. He did point out to the board that a lot of the budgeted items "are just a good educational guess."

One item listed in the new budget is $20,000 for water and sewage, compared to only $444 spent for the purpose in 1980-81.

The reason is that construction of sanitary sewer systems in Gagetown and Owendale should start next spring, which will mean the district will have to pay large hookup fees to both villages in order to connect the schools to the sewer mains.

Owen-Gage's motion to the State Supreme Court for a rehearing in order to argue that the state Board of Education's decision to transfer the Goslin property was arbitrary and capricious was filed by the April 20 deadline. The assistant attorney general representing the state board has filed a brief in opposition.

VOCATIONAL CLASSES

The Tuscola Area Skill Center has opened some classes next fall to Huron County students if enough Tuscola County students don't enroll.

The board voted that it will pay no more tuition for its students attending TASC than it will pay for the most expensive vocational education class in Huron County, with parents of the student to pay the difference.

Three Owen-Gage students, Principal Wayne Wright reported, are interested in enrolling in the cosmetology course in Caro this fall, which will cost more than $500 each.

Several Owen-Gage students are enrolled this year in vocational courses elsewhere in Huron County, mostly at Laker High School, such as in auto repair shop and machine shop. Their tuition averaged $300.

If $350 is the highest the district pays next year for an in-county class and the cosmetology students' tuition is $550, then the parents of the latter would have to pay $200.

OTHER ITEMS

The board approved lease-purchase of a Xerox photocopy machine for the high school at a cost of $68.70 for 60 months, for a total of $4,122. Cost of making copies, Wright said, will be about 1 cent each, versus 8 cents each for the machines presently used. At the end of 60 months, the school district owns the machine, but it can return it before then if it doesn't want to keep it.

At the April meeting, the board voted to replace an engine in one of its buses, provided International Harvester and Osestoski Equipment Co. paid half the cost. Total cost for the engine and installation was $3,729. The new engine has since been installed, Erickson reported.

The board voted to establish two committees. One will examine reorganizing and/or motivating the student council, which hasn't been very active this year, and the other will examine school curriculum.

Wright noted that the contract with teachers specified

Saturday fire destroys large pole barn

A fire of undetermined origin Saturday afternoon destroyed a pole barn in Novesta Township, resulting in a loss of more than $15,000.

The 24-by-75 foot metal covered building belonged to Michael Hayes and was located on Englehart Road, between Severance and Shabbona Roads.

The building had burned to the ground by the time fire fighters arrived, Elkland Township Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. said. The fire was reported at 3:20 p.m.

Root said Hayes discovered the fire when he looked out a window of his home and saw smoke and flames coming from near where the electric line entered the building.

It is believed the cause was electrical, according to the chief, but there was no proof.

The barn was used for horses, but there was none inside. Contents that were lost were 25 bales of hay and straw, two saddles, a lawn mower, a pot belly stove and possibly a cat.

A 50-foot section of the structure was a new addition. The building was valued at $15,000. Hayes only had insurance on the old part, Root said. Value of the contents was not available.

The Elmwood Township-Gagetown Fire Department brought its tanker to the blaze. Four thousand gallons of water were used to put out the fire.

Fire fighters were on the scene two hours.

Late Thursday afternoon, the Elkland department responded to a report of a fire on Mushroom Road. No fire was found.

"If It Fitz..."*A palace revolt

By Jim Fitzgerald

There is a palace revolt in the Sport of Kings. The owners of Gato del Sol, winner of the Kentucky Derby, won't enter their suddenly famous colt in the Preakness. This means no horse can possibly win "all three jewels in racing's Triple Crown" this year, and sportswriters, still inhaled from "sniffing the roses," will be forced to function with one less cliché than usual.

Paramount among those dismayed by Gato del Sol's defection from tradition is Chick Lang, the president of Pimlico track in Baltimore where the Preakness is run annually for the edification of thousands of dedicated horse lovers who think blacksmiths put shoes on parimutuels. "I think they (Gato del Sol's owners) owe it to their horse to run in the Preakness," Lang told sportswriters, and many of them agreed, writing that it wasn't fair to Gato del Sol to deny him the chance to wear the Triple Crown.

Certainly. Right this minute, Gato del Sol is probably telling himself how angry he is that, when the Preakness is being run, he will be stuck in his stable

50 years for bridges

It's a big year for some major engineering and political landmarks as well. The Triborough Bridge in New York and the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge are both marking their half century this year.

with no one to sit on his back and kick him in the ribs and whup him with a whip. What is the sense in owning a nice leather harness if no one will put the bit in your mouth and jerk on your reins to keep your head from becoming too attached to your neck?

His owners are skipping the Preakness because, they say, it's too short for Gato del Sol to win. They believe the farther he runs, the faster he gets. They think he can't win the Preakness because it is a 16th of a mile shorter than the Derby, which is a mile and a quarter, and Gato del Sol needs that extra 16th mile of track to get up a good head of steam, just like a railroad locomotive.

"We can run two miles... we can run forever," said Leone Peters, one of Gato del Sol's owners, while explaining to sportswriters why they were being deprived of a race for all three jewels of the Triple Crown.

Certainly. Any racehorse worth the money bet on his nose loves to run forever. Only one thing makes Gato del Sol feel better than getting up enough steam to run forever. That is if, while running forever, he can pull 150 freight cars, just like a locomotive. The only reason Gato del Sol's owners have never entered him in a race that lasts forever is they don't want to wait that long for him to return to the stables.

Fortunately for Gato del Sol, the Belmont race, the Preakness, The Belmont race, run in New York, is the third jewel in the Triple Crown. Gato del Sol's owners promise he will run in the Belmont. They won't allow him to run forever, but they will allow him to be kicked, jerked and whipped. A horse can't have every pleasure.

Most sportswriters who cover the big horse races insist it is criminal that Gato del Sol isn't being allowed to run for all three jewels in racing's Triple Crown. They say it's as tragic as Jack Nicklaus winning the Master's and U.S. Open and then not entering the PGA and British Open and going for the Quadruple Crown.

Unfortunately for the sportswriters, this argument makes little impression on racehorse owners, most of whom don't like golf because a golf ball doesn't snort when it's hit. Besides, if Gato del Sol made as many TV commercials as Jack Nicklaus, the poor horse wouldn't have time to run and race fans would have to bet on how fast he disappeared and reappeared when they switched channels.

The name "Gato del Sol" is Spanish for "Cat of the Sun." If he really were a cat, he'd be too smart to allow his owners to deny him a chance at all three jewels of racing's Triple Crown. But I don't mean to imply that horses are exceedingly dumb.

Most horses aren't as dumb as the racing fans who believe that a horse likes to be kicked, whipped, jerked and run on icy tracks just to keep a pari-mutuel from throwing a shoe.

Moral: There are more horses' rears at racetracks than you might think at first glance.

There was a communication gap with Lester K. Moench Jr., division manager for General Telephone. That's good news for some of Gen-Tel's customers.

Under the new policy of July 1, only customers with multiple lines will be charged for service and not every user as reported here last week.

That means the vast majority of homes will not notice any change. That's the way it will be in the foreseeable future, Moench reports.

There's another sinking feeling about the chances for approval of any of the three millage propositions to be presented to voters in Cass City School District. Yet, we applaud the board's decision to offer the vote.

If the harsh cuts adopted by the board Monday aren't reversed by passage of any of the proposals, at least every member of the district will be assured that every conceivable option was presented to give the people the education they feel they want to pay for.

That there is a real concern about our schools was evident Monday when 50 to 75 persons attended to learn about the board's plans.

Bill Eberline was honored Wednesday at a luncheon for 30 years' service. He's the second oldest employee at Walbro Corporation and is a genius in practical design.

He's also a darn good horseshoe player. Back in the days when we were both members of White Creek Club he was club champ.

I beat him once and then "retired" from competition, claiming the title and never answering any of his invitations for another game.

He got even by making me sweat about some of my machinery that he was helping me fix, saying that a part he showed me must be replaced at an astronomical cost.

Only a mechanical simpleton like me would not have known that it came from his work at Walbro and couldn't possibly have anything to do with a printing press.

The task before you is selecting young persons for a leadership training school. You have their grades, you talk to the candidates and you talk about them with school authorities.

From a half dozen high caliber students three would be selected.

That was the task of the committee last week but let's just talk about selecting one of the three here. We'll call them all boys, although both boys and girls were involved.

Number one is a perfect student, obviously about as intelligent as you'll ever find in our schools at anytime and his test results bear this out.

He participated in a sport, but has been relatively inactive in other phases of school life. Remember the word, relatively, for in this competition we're comparing with the best, not the average.

He has no definite aim for the future except going to college just to learn, to broaden his knowledge without concern about whether or not it will benefit him economically. He's reserved, answers questions quickly and succinctly but doesn't volunteer much about himself freely.

Number two is at the bottom of the academic list in this group although he is an above average student. He's strong in school subjects that should open some job doors after graduation. He excels at the skill center.

He makes a fine case for himself in front of the committee and school authorities have said he's a ball of fire.

Number three is an extra fine student, active in school, sports and has given of his time to help less able students.

He ranks between the other two in projecting himself to the committee.

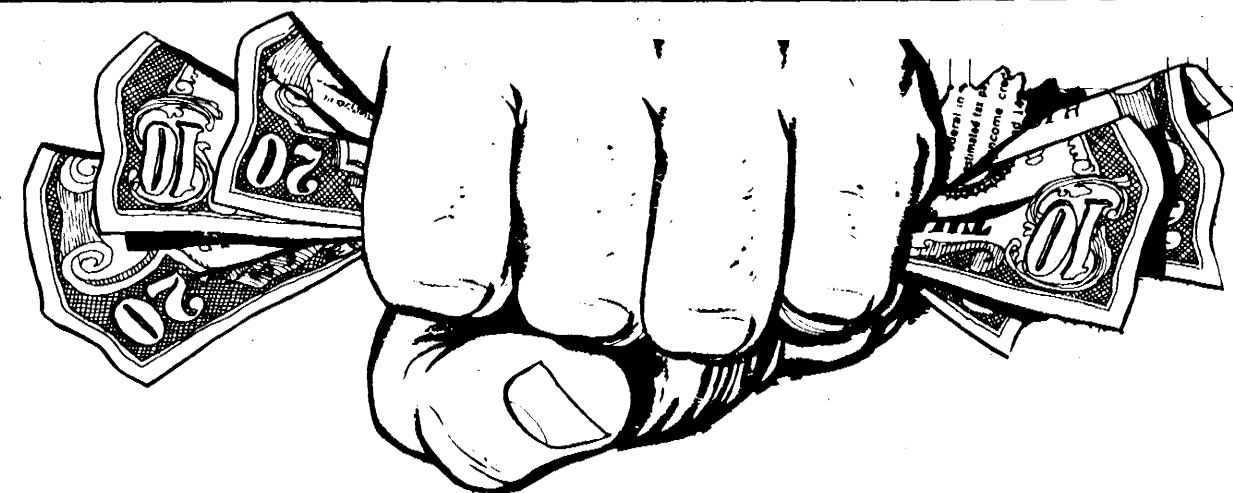

Now you know the facts. Which should be selected? Would a week's exposure to this camp develop the obvious talent of number one and enable him to better use the native ability he's been blessed with?

Should number two be selected to sharpen and hone leadership qualities now obviously possessed? Is a definite plan for a future more important than a nebulous desire just to learn?

Or is number three the one? A guy who has given of himself to others and with added training could be the leader of tomorrow that that camp is trying to produce.

Make your choice. If you are not sure it's the right one you would fit in well with the selection committee.

None of us is sure, either. How could we be?

Pedaling Around

Flying chickens

By Mike Eliasohn

Once again, the press of duties here in Cass City will force me to miss seeing an event of major significance elsewhere.

This Saturday is the 11th annual International Chicken Flying Meet (ICFM) at Rio Grande, Ohio.

To be honest, I have never seen a chicken flying meet. I have lots of company in that regard, however, I don't know if many chickens have seen one either.

Not that chickens would like to. Chickens don't really fly, as even a city kid like me knows, but they can be launched.

To get them to "fly" in chicken flying contests, they are pushed out of a rural-type mailbox many feet off the ground. I once knew the height the mailboxes had to be off the ground, but there is only so much trivia I can remember. For the sake of this article, let's say 20 feet.

The mailboxes are open on both ends, by the way, with a plunger used against the chicken's posterior to get them to fly.

The world's record, made by a chicken who shall remain nameless because the article I'm borrowing this information from didn't say, is 302 feet, 8 inches.

As far as I know, which isn't very far, no chickens, pushed out the mailbox have ever plunged like a rock. Chickens don't fly, but if forced to, they will flap.

I first heard about chicken flying contests around 1975, give or take a year or two, when among my duties at

Mike Stec graduates from Delta

Michael Stec graduated April 23 from Delta College with an associate degree in law enforcement.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stec of 4184 Maple Street is a 1980 graduate of Cass City High School.

In August, he will start attending the Delta police academy for 7½ weeks to achieve his certification, necessary for employment as a police officer.

Charles Lindbergh was the 67th person to fly across the Atlantic. He was the first to do so alone.

the Monroe Evening News was being farm editor.

How did I, a person who once called a bull a cow in print, get to be farm editor? Well, somebody had to do it and I was the only one who knew the difference between a corn stalk and a bean stalk.

Fortunately, when I left, I was replaced with someone who had actually baled hay.

The primary duty of the farm editor was to prepare the once-a-week farm page.

Across my desk one day came a news release about that year's upcoming ICFM. Being slightly warped, I ran it.

I had my motives. I figured some persons who were also slightly warped would read the article and enter.

Sure enough, some did. As I recall, there were three of them, who formed the Monroe County International Chicken Flying Team.

These three young men—all in their 20s, I think—had one problem. Being all city boys, none of them had any chickens. Not only did they not own any chickens, they didn't know anything about chickens.

Somehow, all those obstacles were overcome. They obtained the chickens legally—one of them had an aunt who had chickens, or something like that—and off they went to Rio Grande.

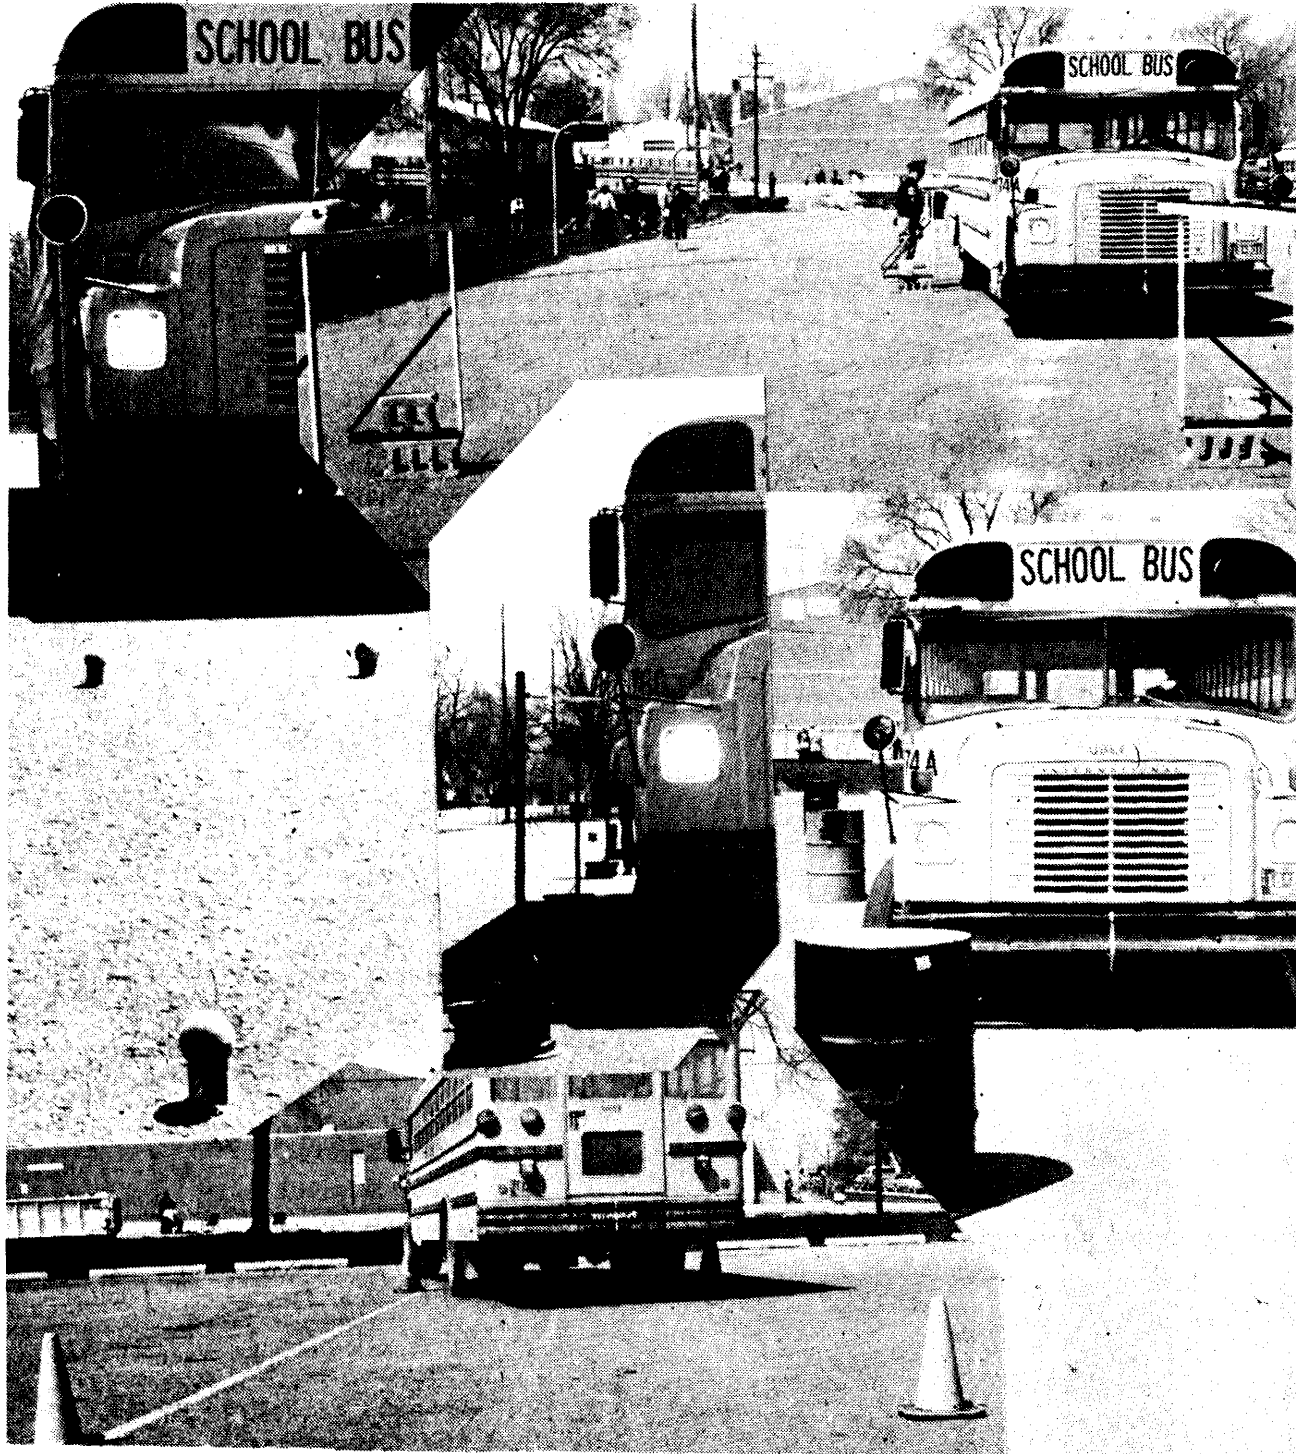

(Pronounced ri-o grand, by the way, not re-o grand. It's located in southeastern Ohio.)

If this were Hollywood, the story would have a happy ending. The novice chicken flyers and their novice chickens (are their any chickens who are professionals?) would have emerged victorious. Alas, the chickens were also-rans, finishing far back in the money—so far back, they probably didn't win any money.

For those interested, first, second and third place Saturday will pay $25, $10 and $5 respectively in each of the four weight classes: Featherweight, bantam-weight (I like those), medium-weight and heavy-weight.

A chicken which sets a new world's record will win $500.

If I were that chicken, once I set the world's record, I would keep going. What's more important? $500 or avoiding becoming chicken soup?

BUS ROADEO—The 27 drivers participating in the four-county bus safety roadeo at Ubly Friday had to maneuver in and through these obstacles. Clockwise from upper left: The wheels had to go between the rows of balls without knocking any off the stanchions; after going through one set of barricades, the driver then had to go through the second "alley," offset from the first one; a serpentine path had to be driven in and out past the three barrels; the four cones marked a parking space which the driver had to back into without hitting any of the cones. Center photo: The driver had to drive between two rows of posts, with each set closer together than the ones before it. If the bus touched the sprung crossarms, points were deducted.

Ubly hosts school bus drivers, Schumacher wins

Ubly school bus driver Leonard J. Schumacher won his third straight regional school bus safety "roadeo" Saturday over 26 other drivers.

The event was held at Ubly High School and was sponsored by the Michigan Association for Pupil Transportation and the Automobile Club of Michigan's safety and engineering division.

Of a possible 525 points, Schumacher scored 484. Second place with 461 was won by Joan Rank of Peck and third with 439 was Dan Pollum, also of Ubly.

The three trophy winners will compete in the Michigan School Bus Safety Roadeo June 12 at Harry Hill High School in Lansing.

Last year, Schumacher also won the state title and then competed in the national roadeo, where he finished 36th out of 100 contestants.

The national competition this year will be in Kansas City.

All drivers received 525 points Saturday. Points were then deducted for each error they made. They were judged on a written examination, a pre-trip bus safety inspection they made and on a drive through the obstacle course.

The obstacle course had six different maneuvers: making a proper stop at a fake railroad crossing, backing into a narrow parking space, driving a serpentine course past three barrels, driving through an alley, followed by a second alley offset from the first one, driving straight without the wheels knocking any balls off their stanchions and driving down a lane with each set of posts closer together.

The competition was for drivers from Huron, Sanilac, St. Clair and Lapeer Counties. Ubly furnished the buses the drivers used.

School districts and the number of drivers they had competing were: Ubly, four; Owendale-Gagetown, one; East China, eight; Memphis, five; Peck, five; Deckerville, two; and North Huron and Lapeer, one each.

Donahue honored by fellow MDs

Dr. Harold T. Donahue, MD, of Cass City, is among 76 physicians who graduated from medical school 50 years ago and was honored by the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS), Saturday, May 1, at the Westin Hotel, Detroit.

Donahue was among those honored for his outstanding contribution throughout the past half-century in a special reception and ceremonies before the 200 assembled delegates attending the annual MSMS House of Delegates.

Collectively the doctors represent 3,800 years of service to Michigan residents through the vital role they have played in medicine. Their careers began during the Great Depression and its economic immobility, and when infantile paralysis (polio) was a major medical fear of the nation.

Donahue received his medical degree from the University of Michigan in 1931 and has practiced in Cass City since 1933. He was honored at a community banquet in March.

Elkland Twp.

At a brief meeting Monday evening, the Elkland Township Board gave its consent to a Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) agreement for land owned by Kenneth and Susan Erner.

The agreement, which will be the property owners and the state, is for 124.12 acres in section 2 in the northeast corner of the township.

Chorus to perform

The Pigeon Community Men's Chorus will perform a concert at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Cass City.

The group was formed in 1979 and performs gospel, spiritual, contemporary and secular music. The public is invited.

Your Neighbor says

I like all sports, but football best

Laurence Hyatt likes to watch all sports, but football is his favorite.

Watching football, he said, is a "good clean way to take your hostility out, to get it out of your system."

Hyatt's formal education ended with high school, but his favorite football team has long been the University of Michigan since long before the days of coach Bo Schembechler.

"I think Bo does a great job with those kids," he said. They end up as "better men" and many go on to play professional football. "He just seems to be a great man."

Hyatt thinks the Wolverines will be Big 10 champions this fall.

He is also optimistic about the chances for the Detroit Lions, despite a tough schedule this fall. They did better in the recent draft of college players "than I thought they were going to do." He feels they have the personnel to win the league title. "If they don't win this, (Lions owner William Clay) Ford will be looking for a new coach," he predicted.

Football season is still a few months away, but waiting doesn't bother Hyatt. He listens to or watches Detroit Tigers' games "every chance I get" and usually goes to Tiger Stadium a couple of times a year.

He isn't as optimistic however, about the Tigers' chances as he is about the Lions' and Wolverines. "I think they're probably a second or third place team."

Hyatt is a maintenance man at the Sanilac County Medical Care Facility in Sandusky. He and his wife, Peggy, and sons Tom and Dennis live at 4733 W. Decker Road, Snover. A third son, Doug, is married and has a Decker address.

Hospital honors its auxiliary

Hills and Dales General Hospital last Thursday honored its hospital auxiliary.

More than 55 members attended a luncheon in the hospital dining room.

The program consisted of a short history of the hospital and auxiliary, presented by Jane Mitchell, RN, in-service director, and presentation of awards by hospital Administrator Ken Jensen.

In order to receive an award, the auxiliary member gives 25 hours in a year or 50 hours in two years of volunteer time. Volunteer time can include working in the gift shop, messenger service, auxiliary committee work, at the blood bank, on tag day, etc.

This year, 10 women received their auxiliary award pin and 12 received award pins for giving 250 hours of volunteer time. Those receiving award pins for 500 hours of volunteer time were Betty Greenleaf, Frances Golding, Georgine Jensen and Carolyn Martin.

Janet Francis received an award pin for 750 hours of volunteer time.

The hospital auxiliary has not only given volunteer time to the hospital, but has also given financially. Some of the recent gifts include a new isotope for the obstetrical department, suctioning equipment for the remote monitoring room, and a special freezer for the bacteriological lab.

Anyone wishing to join the auxiliary should contact Betty Greenleaf or Virginia Hartwick. The Auxiliary meets the fourth Monday of every month at Charmon for lunch.

CAR-DEER

Daniel V. Smith Jr., 20, of 1205 Phillips Road, Deford, was westbound on M-81, just west of Greenland Road, at 5:30 a.m. last Thursday, according to Cass City police, when his car collided with a deer.

At 3 a.m. Saturday, according to Caro state police, John A. Broecker, 25, of 3066 Hoadley Road, Decker, was southbound on Cemetery Road, north of Deckerville Road, when his auto struck a deer.

Murrell Kilburn, 40, of 6695 Bevans Road, Deford, was southbound on Kingston Road, south of Rossman Road, at 9:44 p.m. Saturday, according to deputies, when his car hit a deer.

CORRECTION

An April 29 accident was incorrectly reported in last week's Chronicle because of wrong information on the Cass City police report.

The report should have said that Samantha Jewett, westbound on Main Street, failed to see the car of Michelle K. Jones stopping in order to turn left onto Leach Street. Her car then ran into the Jones vehicle.

Diet tips

When preparing meals, don't sample. The end result will be that you have eaten twice. Use a salad plate instead of a dinner plate. This will make portions seem larger. Serve foods from the kitchen counter or stove rather than from the table. This will make second helpings a more conscious decision.

Cancer crusade starts in county

Board members of the Tuscola County Unit, American Cancer Society, met April 26 in the conference room of the county Health Department.

Vice-president Helen Rogner presided. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Joanne Wendling. Betty Kochalka gave the treasurer's report. She also reported that the unit is providing services to 79 people. She acknowledged the gift of a walker and other items for the loan closet.

Betty LaFave, 1982 crusade chairman, announced that the crusade was well underway in most areas, with several already working toward completion. Mrs. LaFave would appreciate hearing from anyone who would like to help. Her phone number is 673-2106.

Other reports included education, Anita Harrard and Jane Mitchell, and Reach to Recovery, Helen Lorentzen.

Jean Gibson announced that the Cancer Prevention Study is underway in Tuscola County. Cheryl Cleland of Vassar is the chairman.

Bar Bucks are being distributed and are to be used during the month of May. A golf tournament and auction are being planned as special events.

It was announced that the ski-a-thon brought in $1,505 in spite of a very stormy day. The annual Bowl Down Cancer added $2,908 and memorials added $4,240 to the crusade fund. Cookbooks are still available from any of the officers.

Hutchinson betters mound performances

The next meeting is planned May 24 at 7:30 p.m. in Caro.

Hutchinson betters mound performances

Cass City dropped three of four softball games during the week in Thumb B Association competition.

Tuesday, May 4, the Hawks started the week right with a 12-3 decision over the Caro Tigers.

Jill Hutchinson continued to show improvement on the mound. The sophomore chucker hurled a one-hitter against the Lakers in her previous start and tossed a two-hitter against the Tigers.

Cass City actually won the game in the first inning with a six-run splurge.

Rhonda Fader with two hits and four RBIs and Karen Nurnberger with two hits and five runs-batted-in, paced the Hawks. Hutchinson was helped by an error-free Cass City defense.

It was a different story in the nightcap. Caro lashed out 13 hits against Lori Calka and Jill Root, who took over in the third, to post a 17-4 decision.

Errors hurt the Hawks and made things easy for Caro's Barb Kelsey on the mound. Deanna Hempton lashed three hits in as many tries to lead Cass City. Robin Diaz collected four for five for the Tigers.

Owen-Gage still in race for league softball crown

Owen-Gage retained a share of second place in the North Central D. League softball standings Monday, despite splitting with visiting Caseville.

Coach Judy Campbell's Bulldogs are now 6-2 in the league, tied with Peck and North Huron for second place. Caseville is 3-7.

The Eagles won the opener, 8-3, behind the hot pitching of Kathy Briesmeister, who struck out 12. She gave up six hits and four walks.

Losing pitcher Leeann Ellicott surrendered seven hits and two walks while striking out seven.

The Bulldogs hurt their cause by making nine errors. Caseville didn't make any.

For the losers, Rita Sullivan hit a double and a single. Mary Warren and June Kretschmer each hit two singles for Caseville.

Thumb B Association

Hawks split double headers

The Cass City Red Hawks split a pair of double headers in Thumb B Association competition last week with Caro and Bad Axe.

Tuesday, May 4, the Hawks lost the opener, 5-1, as Darin Billot pitched a six-hitter. Billot was helped by Mark Sochock who cracked a long home run over the left field fence in the second inning.

Willard Burdon started, went four innings and was charged with the loss. Cass City scored its only run in the third when Matt Lukshaitis doubled and was chased home by a double by Joe Langenburg.

In the nightcap Jim Adkins pitched the distance and was touched for eight hits in posting the win, 6-5.

The Hawks spotted the Tigers two runs in the first inning on three singles. It looked like a double loss for Cass City as Caro made it 4-0 with a pair of tallies in the third.

Cass City bounced back with two runs on three hits in the third and scored four big runs in the fourth on two hits, a walk and an error.

Ahead for the first time, Adkins limited Caro to a single run and three hits in the last four innings to claim the win.

Lukshaitis, with two singles, was the leading sticker for Cass City. Darin Billot was charged with the loss.

BAD AXE GAMES

Cass City got off on the right foot with the Bad Axe Hatchets Thursday, scoring three times in the first inning and then coasting to a 6-3 decision behind the four-hit chugging of Adkins.

Bad Axe closed the gap to a run in the third with two runs on two hits, but Cass City put the game out of reach with two runs in the fourth. Burdon walked and rode home on Joe Kappen's triple. Kappen scored a moment later.

Cass City collected only four hits but made them all count. Shaw went the distance for Bad Axe to take the loss.

It was a different story in the nightcap. Cass City could do nothing with the slants of Morell as the Hatchet chucker chopped down the Hawks with a neat two-hit shutout, 1-0.

Victim of the whitewash was Burdon who pitched a one-hitter. The hit followed a walk and then an error allowed the game's only marker. Cass City's hits were collected by Gary Robinson and Langenburg.

walks, while striking out three.

Mosack led the Bulldog batters with a single, triple and a home run; followed by Vicki Alexander, double and a single; Sullivan and Jackie Kain, two singles each, and Carol Zimmer, home run.

Bastian was also the losing pitcher in the second game. She gave up 14 hits and 11 walks while striking out five.

Cardinal Faith Campbell batted a double and a single. Diane Borek hit two singles.

Nearly 20 years in submarines

Jim Wilson: Navy retiree returns home

In June, 1960, six new graduates of Cass City High School enlisted together in the Navy.

Only one of the six, Harland James (Jim) Wilson made a career out of it. Now, 22 years later, he and his family have returned home to stay.

Wilson, 40, his wife, Darlene, and children, Colleen, 16, Daniel, 14, and Bonnie, 11, are renovating a home on Severance Road, west of M-53, which he purchased four years ago for when he retired.

Wilson officially retired April 1 from the Navy base at Charleston, S.C., but actually got out 35 days before then because of accumulated leave.

Part of their home is at least 100 years old. Renovation work began last year when the house was raised to construct a new cement basement underneath, to replace the crumbling foundation. A contractor was hired to do that part of the job.

The rest of the work Wilson and his family are doing themselves. Included is installation of insulation, new drywall inside, carpeting, linoleum and some doors. A porch will be built outside.

The family is living in a trailer until they can move in shortly, although the home won't be finished yet.

The outside isn't being ignored, either. On their 2½ acres last year were planted apple, peach, pear, plum and cherry trees.

Last Thursday, the family planted 73 pine, nine black walnut and two red oak trees. More landscaping is in the offing.

WILSON ENLISTED IN 1960, along with Richard Kloc, Wesley Ball, Kenneth Mathews and brothers Gerald and William Gage.

The classmates had gone to the Navy recruiting office individually, he explained. When they learned of each other's plans, they decided to enlist together on the buddy program, which enabled them to stay together through boot camp.

All got out when their four-year enlistments were over. Wilson went to work at the now closed seat auto belt plant at Uby.

There, he met his wife to be and they were married. A salary of $2 an hour wasn't enough to make a living on, so Wilson decided to reenlist. He did so in February, 1966.

DURING HIS FIRST tour, Wilson originally served on an aircraft carrier, but volunteered for submarine school and ended his first tour as an engineman on a diesel submarine. "I didn't care much for the surface Navy," he explained. "It was too much spit and polish."

The sailor didn't care much for taking care of diesel engines, so when he reenlisted, he received training as a sonar (underwater radar) technician, which he considered more challenging.

Wilson's first assignment with his new ranking was at a submarine under construction at Newport News, Va. He then served 1½ years on a nuclear sub based at Charleston and five months on a diesel submarine.

By then, Darlene was expecting their third child and Wilson decided it was time for his family to establish some roots.

In October, 1969, he again left the Navy. The family settled in Caro and Wilson got a job selling cars for Buell Motors in Cass City. But Wilson found he wasn't satisfied working as a car salesman, plus the car business wasn't very good at that time, so in May, 1970, he rejoined the Navy.

WILSON'S FIRST assignment was to be in charge of the sonar crew on a sub based at New London, Conn. He was there two years.

He was then enrolled in an advanced sonar course at Key West, Fla. After the three-month class ended, he was made an instructor there. He did that for 1½ years.

The school was then moved to San Diego, Calif., where he and his family spent 18 months.

Then it was back to Charleston, where Wilson was assigned to the USS Tunny. He was there three months when an incident occurred that almost caused him to "cash in my chips." The sub was on the surface when he was bitten by gnats, to which he had a bad reaction.

After a stay in the hospital, he was assigned to a surface submarine repair ship, where he ran the sonar repair shop for two years.

IT WAS DURING THAT stint that he earned the Navy Achievement Medal for supervising a repair job that saved the Navy $2 million. There were 457 sonar transducers, that had to be replaced. The transducers go through the hull so obviously have to be installed so there are no leaks.

Normally, such a job would have been done in shipyard, but the shipyard didn't have room to do the job when it needed to be done. Wilson supervised a crew, which by working around the clock had the job done in 14 days.

That was half the time it would have taken in the shipyard and at the aforementioned savings in cost. "It was one of the high points of my career," he commented.

Wilson finished his career with three years on the submarine Henry Clay, a missile carrying submarine, as chief of the boat. The title meant he was the top enlisted man, in charge of 137 men. He ended his career with the rank of senior chief petty officer.

THE LONGEST THE Wilsons were in any place during his 20-year career was in Charleston his last six years and that illustrates one problem with Navy life. The average stay in the Navy is 2.3 years, according to Mrs. Wilson. Their oldest child has attended eight schools.

Navy families probably have it the hardest of any military families, since the men are often at sea for several weeks at a time and submarine families have it toughest of all.

When Wilson was on the Henry Clay, he was away from Charleston as much as 3½ months at a time and underwater as much as 76 days straight. When underwater, the men could receive a message from their families only about once a week and a maximum of 40 words. No messages could be transmitted out.

As a result of such long absences, many submariner marriages end in divorce. "You'll find marriages that do work are pretty strong," Wilson commented.

"They're tested."

NOW THAT IS BEHIND

them. "This is home for us. This is where we were both born and raised," he said. (Mrs. Wilson is a native of Uby.)

Now Wilson has to find a job.

His Navy pension is $825 a month, half of his highest base pay, which isn't enough to support a family on. He has a distributorship for Amsoil, a synthetic lubricant, but sees that as only a part-time venture.

Thus after the family is settled in their house, Wilson plans to go job hunting and despite the poor economy, is confident he will find something.

He would like a job in management. "I'd like to find something challenging, ... something I can sink my teeth into."

Area young authors attend conference in Cass City

Elementary students from 11 upper Thumb school districts or parochial schools attended the fourth annual Young Authors Conference Saturday morning at Cass City High School.

About 120 youngsters, usually 10 from each school, attended the conference, sponsored by the Thumb Area Reading Council.

They saw a presentation by Flint author Zane Spencer. Most of her books are about American Indians.

The students, from grades 1-6, were also able to attend the following workshops: Art, conducted by Cass City elementary art teacher Trudy Muszynski; creative dramatics, Beth Miller, Kingston, and "stretching your imagination," Cass City elementary and intermediate school librarian Donna Emerson.

In addition to the workshops, the students were also treated to lunch. Luncheon speaker was Reading Council President Sharon Tebo of Brown City.

Cass City teachers who helped organize the event were Kris Deering, intermediate school; Barb Kilmer, Evergreen, and Marilyn Peters, Campbell. Chairmen were Wilma Reamy of Vassar and Maureen Richards of Caro.

Students were selected at most schools to attend the event after writing books, which were judged. For Cass City students, mostly retired teachers did the judging, with the 10 best entries being able to attend the conference.

During one of the sessions, students had an opportunity to talk with each other about their books.

Schools or school districts sending students to the conference, in addition to Cass City, were Kingston, Our Lady of Lake Huron (Harbor Beach), Elkton-Pigeon Bay Port, Zion Lutheran (Harbor Beach), North Huron, Vassar, Mayville, Akron-Fairgrove, Caro, and Harbor Beach.

Those attending from Kingston Elementary were Kristen Hewitt, Jeff Zajac, Trevor Baer, Harold Dandron, Stephen Scott, Nicole Cassie, Jennifer Ernst, Cindy Adamczyk, Jim Fourman and Missy Ernst.

GRAND Help Us Celebrate OPENING in Cass City

START SAVING ON YOUR HOME HEATING BILLS TODAY! With The Hydro-Pulse® Gas Boiler.

Kenneth Barto saved an estimated 73% for heat and hot water.

Prior to installing the Hydro-Pulse boiler, Mr. Barto of Nassau County, N.Y., was using an average of 930 gallons of oil per year. During the first six months, the Hydro-Pulse boiler only used 495 units of gas. He claims a 73% reduction in overall total fuel cost.

The Hydro-Pulse boiler can significantly reduce your heating bills, too. This winter you're going to be hit with monthly heating bills that will be higher than ever before... unless you replace your present heating system with the Hydro-Pulse gas boiler. It's the most efficient hydronic heating system you can buy.

The savings with the Hydro-Pulse boiler can pay for the cost of the installed Hydro-Pulse boiler in about three years or less... when switching from oil or electric.

You're paying more for heat than you should. Even if your conventional system is brand new, it's wasting a tremendous amount of energy and money... up the chimney. But the Hydro-Pulse boiler doesn't use a chimney. That means more of the gas burned goes to heating your home.

It's over 90% seasonally efficient. No other hydronic home heating system can offer these incredible savings... because no other hydronic system is as fuel efficient as the Hydro-Pulse gas-fired boiler. And the savings get better as energy costs rise.

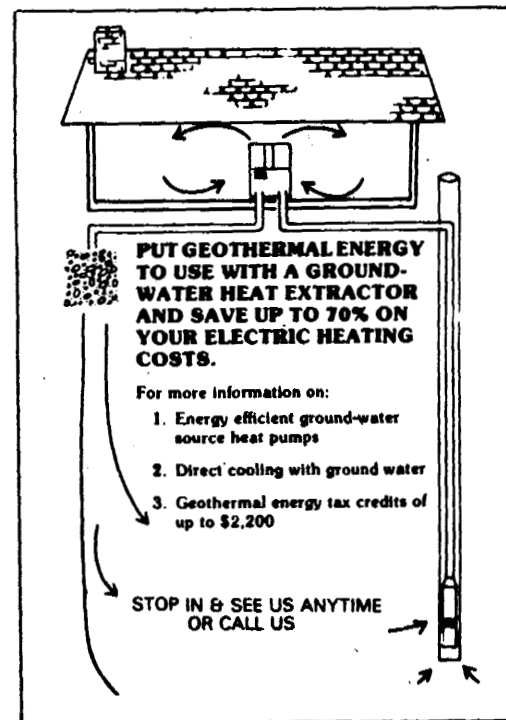

How the Hydro-Pulse unit works to save you money. 1. Hot gases from the combustion chamber are forced downward where they heat the water. 2. As the hot gases cool, they rise and are exhausted through the chimney.

Little interest displayed in chain saw safety class

"You can bleed to death in two minutes."

That was the warning David Andersen issued at a chainsaw safety class last Thursday evening at the Cultural Center in Cass City. Andersen is coordinator of logger safety training programs at Michigan Technological University in Houghton.

The class, attended by only seven persons, was sponsored by MTU, Bay de Noc Community College, Escanaba, and the Michigan Association of Timbermen, with funding from the Michigan Department of Labor.

In the Upper Peninsula last year, Andersen said, four persons died from chainsaw accidents.

A 1974 survey of major pulpwood and log producers in the Great Lakes states found 50 percent of accidents were due to unsafe use of chainsaws and 20 percent due to falling trees and limbs.

Some safety tips offered by Andersen included:

1) Hard hats, safety-toed boots and safety pants or chaps should be worn by saw operators (especially commercial loggers).

2) Always start the saw on the ground, not on your knee or in the air.

3) When carrying the saw any distance, carry it by the handle with the motor stopped and guide bar to the rear in such a manner that it may be thrown clear in case of a stumble or fall.

4) Adjust idling screw so chain stops when motor idles.

5) Let motor cool before refueling. Refuel only in a cleared area with soil exposed and well away from any fire and the log felling site. To prevent a spark from static electricity when refueling, bend the gooseneck of the can to the saw. Wipe gasoline spills off the engine.

6) Keep first aid kit and fire extinguisher handy.

7) Keep left thumb tightly wrapped around the front handlebar, not resting on top of the handlebar.

8) Hold the saw with your wrists as straight as possible and keep the bar and chain in a plane that is not in line with body. Don't cut overhead with a chainsaw.

9) Place your feet in such a way as to provide for good balance in case of a kick-back.

Taking stock

This column is for the younger people if they want to act directly or for the parents if they have the notion they might influence slightly the habits of their offspring.

It's the simple old story of compound interest, old as mankind itself, but now we resurrect it because it has new meaning. Why? Just because interest rates are so bloomin' high, and look as if they'll stay at least pretty high for a while to come.

A generation or so ago, in the 1940s, banks paid interest on savings at 1 percent and 1 1/2 percent. Even certificates of deposits which tied up your money, as they still do, paid only 3 percent.

Government bonds sold at 1 1/2 percent - that's right, 1 1/2 percent. As late as 1958, there was a new issue that came out at 2.625 percent. Idiot's Delights, they called them. A lot of us idiots bought them.

In my home town of LaPeer, we sold tax-exempt school bonds for the Irwin school in 1947 at 1.625 percent. Today that issue would fetch at least 12 percent before it could be sold.

Giving up pleasures of the moment for the sake of savings didn't mean all that much in the '40s. Say you didn't put a radio in the new car you bought, saved $100 and put it in the bank.

In the best ethical tradition you sought future benefits instead of gratifying today's wants. At 1.5 percent in 20 years, the $100 would have amounted to $126.94. No big deal.

Do the same thing today when government bonds are yielding 14 percent. Put aside the $100 you save by leaving off some little gimmick on the new car.

In 20 years, in the year 2002, that $100 tucked away now will be $1,374. The rate on a government bond at 14 percent is guaranteed because it is noncallable. The reinvestment, or compounding, is up to the gods, or politicians who also control

Sentence 2 in Tuscola Circuit Court

Two persons were sentenced when they appeared Monday before Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

Thomas M. Bradley, 19, of 728 E. Brown Road, Mayville, was placed on three years' probation for larceny in a building. He was also sentenced to 90 days in the county jail, with credit given for 15 days served, with the sentence to start June 7. He is to pay a $400 fine, $350 court costs and $197 restitution.

Bradley pleaded guilty to the charge March 15, of stealing from a house Aug. 15, 1981, in Dayton Township.

James D. Putnam, 43, of Van Dyke Road, Marlette, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail for driving with license suspended (2nd offense) April 3, 1981, in Watertown Township. He pleaded guilty to the charge March 16.

He was credited with four days served. If he pays a $200 fine and $200 costs before serving 60 days, the final 30 are to be deferred.

Sentencing was delayed one year for Stanley R. Brinkman, 33, of 6691 S. Vassar Road, Vassar, who pleaded guilty April 5 to unlawful use of a motor vehicle, a snowmobile, Dec. 22 in Vassar Township.

He was assessed $200 court costs and $230 restitution.

Also Monday, Michael A. Miracle, 23, of 5149 Shay Lake Road, Kingston, pleaded guilty to larceny in a building, a garage at 724 Shay Lake Road, March 2.

His plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled June 21. Bond was continued.

A motion in behalf of Kris Alan Doud, 21, of Munger, to revoke his appeal bond was approved.

Doud was sentenced April 26 to 120 days in the county jail for attempted uttering and publishing, with credit given for 75 days served.

He was free on bond pending appeal of a sentence in another case.

Granting of the motion means that time served on his new sentence will also be counted for the other offense if he loses his appeal.

DISTRICT COURT

Michael J. Adkins, 17, of 4700 Shabbona Road, Snover, pleaded guilty Monday to malicious destruction of property under $100 in connection with opening of two fire hydrants in Cass City April 17. It resulted in the loss of 178,000 gallons of water.

Judge Richard F. Kern accepted his plea and scheduled sentencing March 24.

William R. Lawrence, 18, of 6853 Deckerville Road, Decker, pleaded guilty May 3 to the same charge in connection with the same incident and will be sentenced this coming Monday.

Keith W. Pobanz, 21, of 6787 Houghton Street, Cass City, pleaded guilty Tuesday to impaired driving March 28 in Indianfields Township.

Judge Richard F. Kern accepted his plea and fined him $118, plus $182 court costs. Pobanz is to serve one year on probation and attend alcohol education classes and receive counseling, if necessary.

John L. Crandell, 21, of 5315 Hurds Corner Road, Gageton, pleaded guilty April 27 to larceny under $100 in connection with the Feb. 27 theft of a car battery from Martin Torres of Gageton.

Monday, he was sentenced to four days in the county jail, to be served on week ends, fined $68, assessed $107 court costs and ordered to pay restitution. He will serve one year of probation and is to take alcohol education classes and receive counseling.

Cooklin on elevator council

Henry Cooklin of Kentland, Ind., a native of Cass City, has been elected to the National Country Elevator Council.

There are 11 members on the board from throughout the United States. They serve three-year terms.

Cooklin graduated from the elevator management course at Michigan State University three years ago and has been employed by Demeter Inc. of Kentland as its manager for most of the period since then.

He and his wife Debbie (Loomis) have one daughter, Amy.

Tea held

Seventy attended the annual mother-chum tea Monday evening in the First Presbyterian Church.

Circles 2 and 3 of the Women's Association were in charge. Flowers and butterflies decorated the tables. Dessert was served at 6:30.

The tribute to mothers was given by Stacy Capps and to daughters by Mrs. Harry Capps.

Entertainment was by the Muppets from the Novesta Church of Christ.

ALL-SCHOOL PLAY - The Cass City High School all-school play, "Spirit," will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the cafeteria. The drama, which takes place in a nursing home, deals with the need for respect for persons of all ages. Playing poker are nursing home residents from left, Becky McLaren, Jon Zdrojewski, Malcolm House and Jennine Sutter. Watching are Lori Begeman, the nursing home manager; policeman Aaron Lefler; lawyer Sue Hammond, and aide Colleen Whittaker. Director is teacher Cheryl LaBean.

Commissioners seeking grant

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday authorized Emergency Service Coordinator James McCann to apply for a federal grant to pay half the cost for a new well at the county jail and civil defense center.

Cost of a new well, if the present one can't be refurbished, McCann told the board, will be $8,000, of which the federal government will pay half and the county half.

The present well isn't deep enough and is full of sand.

The building gets its normal water supply from the Caro water system. The well is needed in case of emergency.

Also Tuesday, the board received a report from Undersheriff Paul Megge that the cost of housing prisoners in the county jail in 1981 was an average of $25.89 per inmate per day.

Based on that, commissioners voted to charge $26 per day to other counties housing inmates in the Tuscola jail. The fee had been less than that. In line with the board's recent pay freeze for all elected officials, appointed department heads and non-union personnel, a resolution was received from the county Road Commission board that as of May 6, it had frozen wages and benefits of all non-union personnel. The action affects 14 employees.

• PLAYING GAMES -- Owendale-Gagetown High School sophomore Peter Sparks plays the computer treasure hunt he designed. Devising the game is more difficult than playing it, he said.

Purchased by Band Boosters

Students at Owen-Gage like to work with 6 new computers

By Mike Eliasohn

The Owendale-Gagetown schools have entered the computer age.

Although it's too early to tell for sure, preliminary results appear encouraging, according to principals and staff, that the computers are helping students learn regular subjects and also learn about using computers.

The Band Boosters, which raises money at Saturday evening bingo games in the Gagetown Elementary gym, paid the entire $4,800 cost for the six micro-computers and 40 programs to use in them.

"We're pleased with them," said high school Principal Wayne Wright, who first proposed the purchase. The first goal, which has been met, he said, was "just to make our kids computer literate."

Four of the computers, two each at the high school and elementary, arrived in late January. The final two were delivered to the high school a few weeks ago.

In the high school, two are in the library, one in the learning resources (special education) room and one in the business classroom. The latter is the only one with a printer, which records information from the computer onto paper. The rest can only display the information on the video screen (which the business computer also has).

In the elementary building, each classroom, including the special ed room, gets one of the computers a week at a time, which means they have it about once every fifth week.

Having the computers has been a learning experience for both students and teachers. Other than Wright, who used them in his previous position as a math specialist in the Romulus schools, one teacher has taken a couple of computer classes in college. The rest had no experience.

THE COMPUTERS USE a typewriter type keyboard and to make learning to use them easier, Wright wants to conduct an introductory nine-week typing class for seventh and eighth graders next year.

Most of the programs at the high school are for language arts, math and business, but the number is being expanded. A program is stored on a regular cassette tape, on which is recorded a series of sounds which make sense to the computer.

Although it's too soon to tell positive results in terms of learning, one advantage noted so far is that it makes learning enjoyable.

If she assigns her students a page from the math book, special education teacher Cindy Smigill explained, the normal reaction is, "Oh, I got to do this." But if she assigns a student to do math on the computer, the reaction is a more enthusiastic, "Okay."

MANY OF THE COMPUTER programs are based on typing in an answer to a question and then it tells the student if he or she is right or wrong. Sometimes, the lesson is in the form of a game.

For instance, Carol Wildman's first graders last week were sometimes playing an electronic version of the old blackboard game of "Hangman."

The game is in conjunction with a textbook and the aim is to teach use of words.

If the student types in the right answer, he or she goes on to the next question. But a wrong answer brings such admonitions from the computer as, "You're not thinking," or "think, think."

First jump

The world's first parachute jump from a balloon was made by Andre Garnerin of France in 1797.

In addition, for each wrong answer, a portion of a hanged man appears on the screen. Enough wrong answers and the student is "hanged."

THE COMPUTER PROGRAMS have safeguards to prevent students from guessing the answers.

For instance, on the arithmetic test Mrs. Wildman's class was also using, if a student correctly subtracts 1 from 16, the computer says on the display screen, "Nice job." If the answer is wrong, it says to "Try another problem."

If there are too many "incorrects," the teacher can have the student do the program over again.

An obvious side benefit is that in following the instruction, the computer helps the students learn to read. The computer programs for kindergarten use symbols.

Although the teacher does have to keep an eye on what the students are doing at the computer and sometimes has to work with them, much of the time can be spent working with other students on other subjects.

ALTHOUGH FOR MOST students, use of the computer is a tool to help them learn other subjects, for students in Peggy Randall's business classes, learning to use the computer is of direct benefit, since more and more businesses are using them.

Businesses use computers, in one form or another, for purchasing, billing, inventory control, typing form letters, keeping track of hotel registrations, etc.

One business use has already been made of the computer and printer, in printing address labels for non-rural routes for sending out the school district newsletter. Once the names and addresses were recorded on a computer program, it's only a matter of punching a few buttons to have the printer make the labels.

Wright can foresee even more business uses for the computer at the school.

For instance, once the program is obtained, all old school records could be entered onto a computer tape. If a former student needed a copy of his school record, his or her name could be typed into the computer and it would print the transcript.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL, other than the business and special education students, classes have to go to the library to use the computers.

When not being used by classes, students can use them on their own during lunch periods and after school.

Some of them have been doing that, according to Wright, buying computer books and writing their own programs.

One is Peter Sparks, who among other things has designed a game incorporating a grid, with the object being to guess where the buried treasure is on the grid.

"I can do all sorts of neat things with it," he commented.

Students as young as ninth graders have written their own programs.

Elementary Principal Bill Britt said students from third grade up can completely set up the computer on their own. The teachers do it in grades K-2.

"I would say it's a very good motivator," he commented. The principal would like to have a computer in every classroom some day. "That would be super."

WHICH WORD? -- Gagetown Elementary School first grade teacher Carol Wildman works with Matthew Mandich as he types in the answers to a game that helps teach word usage.

HEALTH TIPS

Exercise necessity for weight loss

By Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

Overeating is the major cause of overweight, but physical inactivity contributes greatly to the problem.

The American Medical Association's popular pamphlet, "The Healthy Approach to Slimming," paints a word picture of an overweight, sedentary young woman who has discovered that she will remain overweight on a diet of only 1,800 calories.

If she has an extra 125 calories (one doughnut) every day, she will gain 13 pounds in a year!

A major part of her problem is low energy expenditure. To actually lose weight and keep it off, more exercise is essential, not only to lose pounds but also for improved vitality and physical fitness.

There is a growing awareness that a sedentary way of life can contribute to degenerative disease of the arteries and to obesity and its potential complications, most notably, diabetes.

There is a growing preference for a healthy-physically fit appearance. Emphasis is on condition. Body, skin and hair that are in good condition are widely regarded as necessary for good looks.

You may feel too lazy to get started on a physical fitness program, but it's probably lack of exercise that makes you feel that way!

You may think of yourself as active or energetic because you are always busy — too busy to take time out for vigorous exercise. Some of the busiest people in the world have found time for jogging, tennis or morning calisthenics. So can you.

If you are over 30 or are unaccustomed to vigorous exercise, consult with your physician before starting a program.

Moderate speed walking or bicycling burns 200 to 220 calories an hour. Golf and bowling, along with heavy housework and brisk walking, consume 250 to 300 calories each hour. Volleyball, skating, jogging, dancing, tennis and moderate swimming expend 350 to 400 calories an hour.

Strenuous competitive sports such as running, fast swimming and rowing burn up 600 or more calories for each hour of participation.

Beware of fake IRS personnel

Persons posing as employees of the Internal Revenue Service occasionally attempt to harass taxpayers or collect money for what the imposter claims are unpaid taxes, the IRS says.

Taxpayers should request to see the credentials of any individual claiming to represent the IRS. Every IRS employee who makes contact with the public is required to carry distinctive identification and must show this when conducting official business.

In almost every instance, taxpayers who owe money to the IRS will receive written notification before being contacted in person.

Taxpayers who are unsure of the identity of the person presenting IRS credentials, who doubt the validity of the credentials offered, or who suspect the use of nonstandard procedures, should call the IRS's Internal Security Division, Office of Regional Inspector, collect at (313) 226-7340.

125 troops in 19 counties, comprising the Lake Huron Area Council, will take part in a camporee May 14-16 to help observe the 75th anniversary of world Scouting.

The worldwide anniversary is following the theme, "Footsteps of the Founder," because 1907 also represents the 125th birthday of Sir Robert Baden-Powell, who founded the Scouting Movement in 1907 in England.

The camporee will involve unity games, patrol competition in firemen skill areas, as well as a final evening arena show honoring the beginning paths of scouting Saturday.

Baden-Powell was recognized as a military hero at the turn of the century and recorded his experiences in a book titled Aids to Scouting. Upon returning to England, Baden-Powell discovered that boys were using his book to play scouting games. He was encouraged to form a new movement for boys based on ideas set forth in the book.

In 1907 the world's first Scout Camp was held at Brownsea Island off the coast of England. This experiment was a success, and the movement spread worldwide.

Scouting came to America in 1910, and the Boy Scouts of America received a Congressional Charter in 1916.

The public is invited to attend the camporee.

Mail renewal begins for licenses

Michigan motorists who are eligible to renew driver licenses by mail have begun receiving license renewal applications this week, Secretary of State Richard H. Austin has announced.

To be eligible, motorists must have a clean driving record without points, convictions or accidents for the last four years and must be under 71 years of age. Approximately half of Michigan's 6.5 million drivers are expected to be eligible.

Austin said all eligible drivers will be notified 45 days before their present licenses expire. Driver's licenses expire on birthdays. Drivers who are not eligible to renew by mail will be instructed to visit a branch office for renewal.

A new law, effective June 15, permits the Department of State to renew licenses by mail for one time only. Renewing licenses by mail is expected to save an estimated $500,000 annually, Austin said.

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District will join in the nationwide observance of Soil Stewardship Week May 16-23, according to district chairman Albert Rugles of Kingston.

Soil Stewardship Week has been in existence since 1955 in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts.
