Using sun and water

Residents use new systems to beat high energy costs

By Mike Eliasohn

First of three parts

With temperatures reaching into the 80s, winter seems a long time away.

But early last month, there was still snow on the ground and like death and taxes, winter is a sure thing. It will return.

When it returns, some Cass City area residents will have cozy temperatures without paying costly heating bills.

They are making use of two of nature's elements, sunlight and water, to keep warm.

In this article, use of solar energy for heating will be examined.

Next week's article will discuss use of solar energy to heat water.

The third article will examine geothermal heating — a device that extracts heat from water. In the summer, the process can be reversed and the system used for air conditioning.

Unlike solar energy, geothermal heating can provide 100 percent of a home's heating needs.

SOLAR ENERGY

Although sunlight is free, use of solar energy has two disadvantages.

The system only works when the sun is shining or to a lesser degree, when it isn't too cloudy, and when one takes into consideration the systems only provide supplemental heat or water heating capacity, they aren't cheap.

For instance, Gerald Polk of Woodland Avenue installed his solar hot water system himself and utilized some used materials. The only items he purchased made specifically for the project were the solar panels.

His cost was $1,800 and he figures it will take 4-5 years for his savings in electric bills to offset the cost, though the payback period will be less should electricity rates climb rapidly.

Helping to offset the cost of solar energy devices, however, are federal and state tax credits.

It cost Dave McNaughton $2,539 including sales tax to have a large solar collector installed on the side of his N. Seeger Street home last July.

But, the federal government allows a tax credit of 40 percent of the cost (deducted from the income tax owed).

The state government allows an income tax credit of 20 percent on the first $2,000 of the cost and 10 percent on anything in excess of that, plus it also gives a rebate on the sales tax paid.

McNaughton's total credits and rebate added up to about $1,550, which made the final cost less than $1,000.

His heating system, developed by a Petoskey firm, uses no mechanical devices.

The collector panel, custom fitted to each home, mounts on the south wall and is only a few inches thick.

The panel is adjacent to the first floor of the home. The installers first cut six holes in the wall. Two are at floor level and take air from inside the home into the collector. Four are higher up — two in the living room and two in the dining room. Through them flows the warm air from the collector into the home.

After the holes were cut, sheets of plywood were attached to the outside wall, which were painted black. Spacer blocks were then fitted, over which went a layer of black screen, followed by more spacers and a second layer of screen. The third set of spacers holds the glass panels in place.

Air flows through the bottom vents from inside the home into the collector, where it is heated by the sun. The warm air rises to the top of the collector and flows through the upper vents into the home.

How well does the system work? The downstairs of the McNaughton home is open, allowing air to circulate freely. Doors to the upstairs rooms are closed in the morning, so as not to draw any heat.

On a sunny day in winter, he said, the device will warm the downstairs without any heat from another source and by mid-afternoon, the doors to the upstairs rooms have to be opened to take in some of the heat.

The home has electric heat, but the main mechanical source of heat used is a kerosene space heater in the living room.

The solar heat is even more effective in the fall and spring, McNaughton said. The kerosene heater didn't have to be used until later last fall than it did in other years and his family stopped using it earlier this spring.

He was 91 years old and had been in declining health for some time.

Until about a year ago, he still went to the Cass City State Bank every day, where he held the title of chairman until 1980.

Hills and Dales General Hospital might not have been built without his fund raising efforts.

The effort began in 1941, when it was thought $100,000 would be enough to build a small hospital.

About 1955, a grant was received from the Ford Foundation and $100,000 was raised locally.

A survey conducted by the federal agency which distributed hospital construction funds resulted in a decision hospitals should be constructed in Bad Axe, Caro and Sandusky.

Caro didn't apply for the funds. Cass City did and Auten guaranteed the administrator of the agency the community would raise $500,000 and make up any deficit.

In addition to soliciting local contributions, Auten persuaded Mrs. Art Ricker to donate 1,000 shares of her stock in Michigan Seamless Tube to the hospital, which he sold for $40,000.

He tapped Frutchey Bean Co. for $10,000. The final gift was $25,000 from the Kresge Foundation.

Auten, E.B. Schwaderer, who donated 18 months of his time to supervise construction, and Henry Cooklin donated seven acres of land on which the hospital was constructed. It opened in 1960.

AUTEN WAS BORN April 18, 1891, in Caro, the son of Isaac B. and Elizabeth (Libby) Auten. His father was employed at that time as a cashier in a bank in that community.

Others purchased the Cass City State Bank from Curtis R. McPhail, so the Auten family moved to this community. The population at that time was a little more than 300.

Auten graduated from Cass City High School in 1908. He was a 1912 cum laude graduate of Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine. He won a scholarship to graduate school at Harvard, but had to return home about the beginning of 1913 to help his father at the bank after the cashier left.

Auten became a Buick dealer in 1913 and a Ford

1st year pay frozen

Walbro workers ok wage concessions

Walbro employees exchanged wage increases for job security in a new three-year agreement they approved Tuesday of last week by an approximately 2-1 margin.

It means production line workers will receive an average wage of about $6.50 an hour for the next three years, although in the last two years, they will receive a cost-of-living increase of up to 25 cents per year, based on increases in the consumer price index.

In exchange, Walbro agreed to maintain its production facilities in Cass City and Caro.

The pact affects approximately 200 employees presently working for the Carburetor Group in plants 1 and 3 in Cass City and for the Automotive Products Group at the plant in Caro, plus about 100 on layoff. They are members of United Auto Workers Local 213.

Walbro lost money in the final three months of 1981, the first quarter of this year and sales are down so far in the second quarter, compared to the same period last year.

Knowing what its labor costs will be over the next three years and because they will remain relatively low will help Walbro compete for new business, according to Lambert Althaver, the firm's president and chief operating officer.

"One of the points made is we're working on a lot of new projects and... this wage stability... hopefully will allow us to bring more employment into these plants," he explained.

He feels the new pact represents sharing by management and workers, a spirit of "we're in this together."

UAW international representative Bill Ward, who headed the union negotiating team, used different language to express a similar thought. "When you've got hemorrhaging of a patient, you try to help. We think we will succeed."

Walbro first approached the UAW about contract concessions in February or March, Althaver said, but negotiations didn't take place until Thursday and Friday, May 6-7.

As mentioned, workers voted on the pact Tuesday of last week. (Ward said the union doesn't normally issue results of such votes, only whether they are approved or rejected.)

The new contract runs from April 28 of this year through April 27, 1985.

THE FIRST YEAR OF the new pact replaces the final year of the old three-year agreement, which was to expire April 27 of next year.

The final year of the old agreement, which workers gave up by approving the new one, would have given them a pay increase averaging 5 percent, a cost of living increase of up to 25 cents per hour, a small increase in health insurance coverage, one added paid personal holiday and an increase of 1-cent per hour per employee contribution by the company into the employees' pension fund.

Instead, everything stays the same in the first year of the new pact as the second year of the old one (1981-82) except that the company will pay the additional 1-cent per hour into the pension fund for all three years.

In the second and third years, as mentioned, employees will receive a cost of living increase.

In addition, at the union's request, according to Ward, if combined sales for the Cass City and Caro plants exceed $15 million for any six-month period, the contract will be reopened to negotiate economic issues.

According to Althaver, that amount is slightly better than any six month period in the history of the plants. The present sales for the past six months are running around $9 million.

THE COMPANY ALSO agreed to two other provisions. One is establishment of "quality of work life committees," composed of management and workers, whose goal will be to improve working conditions.

The other is that salaried personnel will share in "equality of sacrifice," though the specifics of that will be up to the company to implement. It might mean in order to attract or retain some personnel, they receive pay increases, while others see their pay reduced.

In return for that, the company agreed to maintain its present operations at Cass City and Caro and that they won't switch any present production to other places.

Should sales continue to decline, Walbro can lay off more employees.

Althaver and the union hope, as noted, that the three years of wage stability will help the company attract new customers for its products which means more persons will be working, not fewer.

Ward said before the UAW sat down to negotiate with Walbro, union auditors examined company financial records and union officials got the feelings of the workers as to renegotiating of the contract.

What would have happened had the union refused to negotiate or its members had voted down the new pact?

Althaver replied that the final year of the old pact would have been honored by the company, but beyond that, "I guess I don't want to speculate."

Community mourns loss of Meredith B. Auten, 91

Meredith B. Auten, whose life spanned most of Cass City's history and who had a role in much of that history, died Friday morning at his N. Seeger Street home.

He was 91 years old and had been in declining health for some time.

Until about a year ago, he still went to the Cass City State Bank every day, where he held the title of chairman until 1980.

Hills and Dales General Hospital might not have been built without his fund raising efforts.

The effort began in 1941, when it was thought $100,000 would be enough to build a small hospital.

In addition to soliciting local contributions, Auten persuaded Mrs. Art Ricker to donate 1,000 shares of her stock in Michigan Seamless Tube to the hospital, which he sold for $40,000.

He tapped Frutchey Bean Co. for $10,000. The final gift was $25,000 from the Kresge Foundation.

Auten, E.B. Schwaderer, who donated 18 months of his time to supervise construction, and Henry Cooklin donated seven acres of land on which the hospital was constructed. It opened in 1960.

AUTEN WAS BORN April 18, 1891, in Caro, the son of Isaac B. and Elizabeth (Libby) Auten. His father was employed at that time as a cashier in a bank in that community.

Others purchased the Cass City State Bank from Curtis R. McPhail, so the Auten family moved to this community. The population at that time was a little more than 300.

Auten became a Buick dealer in 1913 and a Ford dealer in 1915. He also sold Ford tractors and various appliances at one time.

Construction of what is now the Geiger-Hunt Ford building was partially completed when Auten became the first man drafted from Tuscola County during World War I.

He earned the rank of second lieutenant and became a company commander at Camp Meade, Md.

His unit was scheduled to sail to Europe Oct. 11, 1918, but embarkation was delayed because of a flu epidemic, during which many of the men at the camp died.

The new departure day was Nov. 11. The unit marched to the embarkation point but marched back that night. World War I had ended that day. Auten received an immediate discharge and returned home to the banking and car business.

He married Virginia Wilsey June 16, 1920. They had four children, Charlotte, Carolyn, Fred and Charles.

She died July 11, 1968. Auten married Mrs. Lucy Wadsworth Starbarn March 13, 1969, in Cass City.

AUTEN WAS NAMED citizen of the year by the Chamber of Commerce in 1965.

He was the charter president and a 50-year member of the Cass City Rotary Club; life member of Masonic Lodge No. 317, F and AM, and a member of the First Presbyterian Church. He was village clerk following World War I.

Auten is survived by his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Alex (Charlotte) Schmidt-Fellner, Riverside, Conn.; two sons, Frederick and Charles, both of Cass City; one stepson, John Starbarn, White Pigeon; three stepdaughters, Mrs. Thomas (Ann) Craig, Cass City, Mrs. Michael (Suzanne) Mulligan, Arlington Heights, Ill., and Barbara Starbarn, Akron, Ohio; eight grandchildren; three step-grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Jury deliberates fate of Williams in murder case

A Tuscola County Circuit Court jury Wednesday morning continued to deliberate the fate of Terry Lynn Williams, charged with two counts of first degree murder in the Nov. 13 shooting deaths of Leonard and Betty Coward of rural Vassar.

The jury began its deliberations at 2:41 p.m. Tuesday, after Prosecutor Artis Noel and defense attorney Brian Schroppe presented their closing arguments and Judge Patrick R. Joslyn gave his instructions to the jury. The judge dismissed the jurors for the day at 5 p.m. They resumed their deliberations at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The trial began Wednesday, May 5, after 1½ days of jury selection.

In his closing arguments Tuesday, Noel argued that the totality of evidence proved that Williams was guilty of murdering the grandparents of his two children. (The Cowards' daughter, Sally Evans, who was killed in a 1980 traffic accident, had two children by Williams, but they were never married.)

Schroppe's main argument was that his client was elsewhere at the time of the murders.

Several witnesses had testified they had seen Williams at various times during the evening of Nov. 13. The key appeared to be what time the murders were committed.

Schroppe contended that the murder took place about 7:30 p.m. but the two children, who witnessed their grandparents' murders, didn't go to a neighbor's until much later to tell them what had happened.

If true, Williams would have been elsewhere, based on the testimony of those who saw him that night.

Noel argued, however, that the murders took place about 8:30 p.m. and that Williams had left a friend's home three miles from the Cowards' residence after 8 p.m. The friend had testified as to when he had been there.

PERHAPS THE EMOTIONAL high point of the trial came Thursday, May 6, when the children, Lucas and Misti Evans, 5 and 4 respectively, testified.

Both said they saw "Terry" shoot their grandparents, but neither could pick Williams out when he was seated with six other men on a front-row bench in the courtroom.

Schroppe suggested in his closing remarks that someone had planted in the children's minds that "Terry" had committed the crime, but that they actually hadn't seen him.

If they had, he asked, why didn't they say when they went to the neighbor's house that "Terry" or "our father" had shot grandma and grandpa, instead of "someone." (The neighbors called the sheriff's department at 8:44 p.m., according to Noel.)

Schroppe said the children first told the police that three men riding in a pickup truck had committed the murders.

Noel obviously disagreed, arguing that the children indeed did see Williams with a long gun outside the Cowards' home. (The fatal shots were fired through a window from outside.)

THE PROSECUTOR contended the Cowards were shot with a .303 British military rifle, which Williams had obtained earlier in the day from a pawn shop.

The Mt. Morris resident, age 31, testified May 13 about what he had done the day of the shooting. He said he had done a lot of drinking, denied owning ammunition for the rifle and claimed it was stolen from him the night of the 13th by a hitchhiker he let out in Standish. He said he didn't report the theft to police because he

Fugitive Duncan nabbed in Florida

David Duncan is sitting in the Palm Beach County, Fla., jail while efforts have begun to have him extradited to Sanilac County.

The ex-Cass City area resident is wanted on a total of 12 counts of possession of stolen property, misrepresenting identity of a mechanical device (altering vehicle registration numbers) and embezzlement of mortgaged property (sale or attempted sale of property without permission of the party holding the mortgage).

He is also wanted in Kentucky on a charge of jumping bond.

All were in connection with a stolen truck parts operation conducted at the then Thunder Road Speedway on M-53, north of M-81, which Duncan and his wife, Florence, operated.

The illegal operation came to a halt in March, 1980, when execution of a search warrant by various police agencies resulted in seizure of more than $150,000 in stolen trucks, parts and equipment.

Duncan and his wife have been on the lam from police authorities since May of that year.

According to Detective Sgt. Donald Trowhill of the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department, Duncan was arrested Tuesday afternoon, May 11, by the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department with the aid of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

He had been in the Caribbean island nation of Ja-

TO USERS OF VILLAGE WATER SERVICE

During flushing of the hydrants Wednesday and Thursday, May 19-20, there may be an abundance of crystallized iron (rust) in the water supplied to your area of the village.

This condition does not render the water unfit or harmful for consumption; however, clothing washed in this water will probably become discolored.

Check the color of your water before placing your clothing into it.

The village is not liable for damage caused by this condition.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

"If It Fitz..."

Desperate in Detroit

By Jim Fitzgerald

Dear Ann Landers: I don't care how many times you answer this letter. I'm having two problems with my wife, and they may kill me. If I die, she will marry again. So if you solve my problems again in 1992, her new husband will benefit from your advice, and I will have done him a favor by writing to you 10 years earlier. And he will say I damn well owed him a favor to make up for dying and leaving a widow.

Spring band concerts scheduled

The Cass City High School band will perform its annual spring concert at 8 p.m. this Thursday in the high school gym.

The intermediate school bands, sixth, seventh and eighth grade, will perform their spring concert Thursday, June 3, starting at 8 o.m., also in the high school gym.

The bands are directed by George Bushong.

Neither of my problems is romantic. I recently read this quote from Monique Van Voorhen: "I'm really not interested in middle-age love... I don't particularly like seeing wrinkled lips kiss." Monique is a pea-brain. Middle-aged love is better than young love for the same reason: veteran baseball players win more games than rookies do. A smooth complexion looks nice on the kids, but two people who wrinkle well together won't slide apart easily.

Who is Monique Van Voorhen, anyway? Why do the media quote what she says? I read that she is an actress and an author, but what did she act in and what did she write? I think it would make good sense to bury Monique and forget her. Zsa Zsa Gabor, too. They could be buried under 10 tons of People magazines.

(Ann, you are probably wondering why I'm writing all this wise philosophy instead of just getting directly to my marriage problems. It's because I can't help thinking about all the people who may be reading my letter through the years. As I'm sure you must realize, writing for the ages is a big responsibility.)

One of my marriage problems is that I like white bread better than brown bread. My wife knows this because I've told her 119,966 times. I also printed it on the refrigerator with a black crayon. There are only the two of us at home, and she is always dieting and never eats bread of any color. But she always bakes or buys brown bread. When I ask her why, she says because brown bread tastes better.

That's what kills me, Ann. When my wife used to eat bread, she liked brown best, so she says I should eat it, even though I like white better. Is she trying to drive me nuts? Or is she leaving our marriage bed at 3 a.m. to eat brown bread in the kitchen?

The other problem is that my wife embarrasses me by saying outrageous things to strangers. For example, a young couple and a little girl, maybe 10 years old, joined us on the elevator in our apartment building. We'd never seen them before. The little girl had a terrible skin condition on her face. Politely, I didn't stare at her or otherwise react to her unfortunate blemishes.

My wife looked the kid straight in the eyes and said: "You had the chicken pox, didn't you, dear?"

My God, Ann, that really killed me. That kid could have been a leper. She could have been suffering from some terrible disease that threatened to take her young life. The big man with her was obviously her father, and he could have socked my face for being married to a woman thoughtless enough to call public attention to his daughter's ugly, fatal affliction and make her cry.

My wife is not a dermatologist. She had no way of knowing for sure that chicken pox had messed up that kid's face. This time she was lucky. It was chicken pox, and the little girl and her parents laughed. By the time we reached the ground floor, my wife was showing them pictures taken of our children when they were chicken-pox age. If we lived in a taller building, she would have examined the little girl for surgery scars.

Later, when I remonstrated with my wife, pointing out the risks of diagnosing strangers' diseases on elevators, she scoffed. She said she knew chicken pox when she saw it. The same way she knows brown bread tastes better to me than white bread.

Ann, I realize my problems don't rank up there with the more important issues you regularly deal with, such as how to hang toilet paper, but please give them some attention anyway, at least once. I am... Desperate in Detroit

SAFER BABIES—The Automobile Club of Michigan has donated 10 child restraint seats, worth $50 each, to Hills and Dales General Hospital. They will be loaned for up to six months to parents of babies born at the hospital. From left are Faith Fahrner, RN, obstetrics supervisor; Al Swiderski, Auto Club salesman from the Caro office; and Christine Erla of the Hospital Auxiliary, who will coordinate the loan program. Use of such seats for children through age three has been required by state law since April 1.

Ubly teacher pact has 1-year freeze

The Ubly Board of Education and its teachers have ratified a three-year contract which specifies a pay freeze in 1982-83 and an 8 1/2 percent pay increase in each of the next two school years.

The present contract expires Aug. 31.

The board ratified the new pact May 10. Earlier in the day, teachers okayed it by a vote of 32-4.

Also at the May 10 meeting, the board voted to freeze wages in 1982-83 at this year's level for administrators and all non-teaching employees. All are non-union.

The teachers, represented by the Ubly Education Association, are the only school district employees who belong to a union. They do not belong to the Tri-County Bargaining Association, which does the bargaining for many upper Thumb Michigan Education Association locals.

Neither side was represented by an outside negotiator, according to school district Business Manager, Mark Tenbusch. The agreement was reached in only three negotiating sessions, the first one being conducted March 30.

Although teachers won't receive a pay increase next year, the board did agree to pay the entire dental insurance premium. Under the present contract, the school district pays half and the teachers pay half.

Starting pay in 1982-83 for a teacher with a bachelor's degree will be $13,239, the same as this year. The maximum pay, for a teacher with a master's degree at the top of the pay scale, will be $20,004.

In 1983-84, the pay range will be from $13,901-$23,292, and in 1984-85, $14,596-$25,272. (A teacher at the top of the pay scale that year with a bachelor's degree will receive $23,549.)

By the final year of the contract, Tenbusch said, assuming no changes in the teaching staff, 35 of the district's 41 teachers will be at the 10th or top step of the pay scale.

M. B. Auten dies at 91

One daughter, Carolyn, and one sister, Madeline, preceded him in death.

A memorial service was conducted Tuesday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, Rev. Harry Capps officiating. Burial was in Elkland Township Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to Hills and Dales General Hospital or the First Presbyterian Church.

The Haire Net

Shed no tears for M.B. Auten. He was ready, no, he welcomed the end of this life.

For Meredith, the joy of living ended when he no longer could care for himself and do any of the things that made life worthwhile.

Such as jumping in his car and driving all day to New York to visit a daughter. Or whipping over to a friend's house to spend an afternoon and evening playing bridge. Or driving to Sault Ste. Marie and back in one day on business. Driving in one of his Fords ("as good as a Cadillac") with the speedometer hanging steady at 90 miles per hour.

Speed came natural to him. Meredith spent most of his life on the fast track.

I suppose that Meredith will be remembered as a banker but not with me.

I'll remember him as a fascinating story teller. Time after time I've spent the better part of a day in a car with him so engrossed with the anecdotes he was telling that I failed to be nervous with his driving as the miles slipped by at 90 per.

I'll remember Meredith as a super salesman. His pitches for funds for Hills and Dales General Hospital when he invaded the biggest corporations were a joy to behold.

I'll remember Meredith for his constant battle with high interest rates and unfair taxes against the poor. He was a Democrat in Cass City when you could count them on both hands and have fingers left over.

Most of all I'll remember Meredith for his love of Cass City.

For him this town and the people in it were really all there was. He'd take a brief trip to Florida in the winter sometimes but you knew he'd be back in a couple of weeks. He just couldn't stay away.

He toured Europe and most of the United States and one of his favorite expressions was there is simply no other place like Cass City.

For him there wasn't. He could never understand why anyone would want to live anywhere else. He believed that there were untold millions who would like to live here if they could have found a job.

He's left his mark on the community he loved. There's no need to go into his many civic achievements here.

What I'd like to leave you with is that all during his long life Meredith did whatever he could to see that Cass City remained an ideal spot to live and raise a family.

Cass City was a better place because he lived here. It will be poorer now that he is gone.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

With four ballots to be counted in the regular school election in June, the Cass City School Board will switch to machines for the election.

The district will rent them from Elkland Township at $25 each and transport them to the school for the day.

Supt. Don Crouse says that the cost should be about the same and make the counting much, much easier.

That switch was decided at a special meeting Monday, May 17, a notice of which was mailed to the Chronicle in a letter postmarked May 18.

It was a slip by the mailers at the school. It didn't matter much because the special board meeting was set at the regular meeting the preceding week and the notice wasn't really necessary.

*****

After listening to Rev. Harry Capps, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Cass City, speak at the memorial service for M.B. Auten Tuesday, the thought that kept passing through my mind was that Meredith would have approved.

Mr. Capps kept it light while capturing the essence of the man and his fabulous career.

According to a postcard the name Haire is "very rare" only about one for every 250,000 Americans. This came from Beatrice Bayley a retired school teacher.

For $29.85 I can buy a book to be printed tracing the name Haire in just about every family in the United States.

That doesn't mean much to me, but I can see where it would for many and I applaud the enterprise of the author.

Do you think she would have the nerve to tackle Jones or Smith?

New books at the library

CELEBRITY by Thomas Thompson (fiction). Against the background of Texas during the 1950s, this is a blockbuster novel about three schoolmates whose high school graduation spree results in violence that haunts their march to celebrity. The story spans 25 years and includes murder, money, trials, glamour and all the elements of a Thompson triumph.

THE JOURNALS OF SYLVIA PLATH by Ted Hughes (non-fiction). Here is the emotional and intellectual private life of one of the most important writers of the century, whose novel, "The Bell Jar," and collection of poems, "Ariel," have become classics. It is a tragic story of a brilliant and tormented young woman who struggles bravely against her own demons and finally achieves an art of the highest order ... which is not enough to save her.

LOVE, ELEANOR: ELEANOR ROOSEVELT & HER FRIENDS by Joseph P. Lash (non-fiction). Her life as seen through the letters she wrote while First Lady. Here are her expressions of doubt and insecurity about assuming the role of First Lady in 1932, her affectionate notes to Ms. Hickock, her thoughts as she journeyed through Depression and World War II America, her profound sense of betrayal at Lucy Mercer's place in her husband's life, and her conviction that her husband should not run for a third term.

NOW OPEN

Pedaling Around Big spenders

By Mike Eliasohn

Like it or not, the legislature, with much neck wringing by Gov. Milliken, has decided we will all pay more in state income tax for six months.

Retroactive to April 1, 5.6 percent of our income (for those of us who still have an income) will be going to Lansing until Sept. 30, instead of the previous 4.6 percent.

For the record, State Sen. Alvin DeGrow, R-Pigeon, and State Rep. Keith Muxlow, R-Brown City, voted for the increase; State Rep. Loren Armbruster, R-Caro, voted "no." DeGrow and Armbruster are retiring. Muxlow presumably will seek reelection.

Personally, I feel the increase was unfortunately necessary.

Previously, $308 million had been cut from this fiscal year's budget and defeat of the tax increase would have meant chopping another $300. As part of the final compromise to get the tax increase approved, $50 million more will still be chopped from the budget.

Had the tax increase not been approved, one of the big reductions in spending would have been in state aid to schools and as we all know, our schools are in enough trouble already.

The tax increase will get Michigan through the present fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, but it remains to be seen what will happen in the 1982-83 fiscal year.

The unfortunate aspect is that had our "leaders" in Lansing been frugal in years past, the tax hike would have been unnecessary and our state government would not have been in such dire straits.

The Citizens Research Council of Michigan has compiled information from the 1980 census which shows how generous Michigan has been with its government employees.

There are two qualifications that must be pointed out. The information lumps state and local government employees together and the statistics are from the 1979-80 fiscal year.

With employees having been eliminated from government payrolls since then, Michigan presumably doesn't look as bad now in comparison with other states as it did then.

What is interesting is that, contrary to popular belief, Michigan state and local governments didn't have more employees in 1979-80 than the 13 other states which have a population of 5 million or more. They were, however, paid a lot more.

"In 1980," according to the council report, "state and local employment in Michigan in relation to population was 2.8 percent LOWER than the average of the 13 other states. Average earnings of state and local government employees was 22.2 percent HIGHER than the average of the other large states, while per capita personal income in Michigan was only 6.9 percent higher."

Of the 11 spending categories, Michigan spent more per resident than the average of the other states in all but one. The exception was in interest on debt, with Michigan paying 1.6 percent less.

The categories and the percentage by which Michigan spent more than the average are: Local schools, 18.7 percent more; higher education, 43.8 percent; other education, 21.2; public welfare, 52.1; health and hospitals, 24.1; transportation, 5.8; environment and housing, 22.2; public safety, 15.0; administration, 16.7, and miscellaneous, 2.2.

Savings could have been substantial had Michigan spent the average of what the other 13 states spent, including $926 million for welfare, $694 million for local schools, and $528 million for higher education.

It seems to have become popular during this recession to pick on the poor -- "Those bums on welfare are living high on the hog while we're paying for it." There is a petition drive underway that if approved by voters will require welfare recipients to be paid no more than the average paid in surrounding states.

But eliminate the minority who cheat by having an outside source of income and I think it can be safely said even Michigan welfare recipients aren't living high on the hog. They are just getting by financially. And a lot of the "bums" worked until recent hard times left them without jobs.

Rather than cutting welfare, I would rather see salaries paid to government employees be cut. According to the Research Council, if government employees in Michigan in 1979-80 had been paid the average of the 13 other states, the savings would have been $1.7 billion.

The average American man is five feet, eight inches tall. The average American woman, five feet, four inches tall.

NATIONAL HOSPITAL WEEK -- First grade students from the Cass City district toured Hills and Dales General Hospital last week in conjunction with National Hospital Week. This was Carol Pasant's class from Campbell Elementary. Speaking to the students is Jane Mitchell, RN, the hospital's in-service educator.

Cass City graduation activities begin with prom

Cass City High School seniors got into the graduation spirit Saturday, May 8, at the annual junior-senior prom at the Colony House.

Since then, it has been back to the books in preparation for final examinations Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Before then, this Sunday, will be the baccalaureate service, starting at 2 p.m. in the high school gym.

The processional and recessional will be performed by the high school band, conducted by George Bushong.

The invocation and benediction will be given by Rev. Dale Bird of Holbrook Baptist Church.

After the invocation, the high school choir directed by James Hobbs will sing "We've Only Just Begun" and "Fame."

Rev. Edward A. Francis of the Mizpah Missionary Church will give the Scripture reading. The band will then play "Prelude and Fugue in G-minor" by Bach.

Rev. Wayne Thomas of the Sutton-Sunshine United Methodist Church will offer a prayer for the graduates. Rev. Harry Capps of the Cass City First Presbyterian Church will give the address.

The traditional swing-out will follow the baccalaureate service.

Seniors will assemble at the Intermediate School and follow the high school band south on Seeger Street, west on Church Street, south on West Street, east on Main Street, and north on Oak Street back to the Intermediate School.

School administrators are interested in community reaction to this activity, particularly whether it should be continued as a part of graduation week.

Graduation exercises for the 157 seniors will begin at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 27, in the gym.

The band will perform the processional and recessional. Rev. Gilson Miller of the Deford and Kingston United Methodist Churches will give the invocation and benediction.

Supt. Donald Crouse will give the welcome. Student speakers will be Julie Vargo and Timothy Horner.

The band will then play "Concert Overture" by Robert Johnson.

High school counselors Jerry Cleland and Wayne Dillon will present the honors and awards.

Principal Russell Richards will present the graduates and Crouse will award the diplomas.

Officers of the class of 1982 are: President, Karla Wischmeyer; vice-president, Willard Burdon; secretary, Karen Little, and treasurer, Bobbi MacKay. Sponsors are Lloyd Schinnerer and Nancy Weippert.

Valedictorians, all with perfect 4.0 grade point averages, are Crystal Gallaway, Kris Proctor and Julie Vargo. Salutatorian is David Lockwood.

The class motto is, "Do not follow where the path leads. Rather, go where there is no path and leave a trail."

Undergraduates will take their final exams June 9-10 and will pick up their report cards Friday, June 11, from 2:30-3:30 p.m.

The Boston Latin School, the oldest public school in America, was established in Boston, Massachusetts on February 13, 1635.

Teachers elect new officers

Cass City Education Association members elected new officers after school Tuesday. They will begin their terms at the start of the school year this fall.

Elected were Don Schelke, president; Russell Biefer, vice-president; Geraldine Tibbitts, secretary, and Marilyn Mastie, treasurer. Mrs. Mastie was the only one presently serving in the office.

Not discussed at the regular monthly meeting, according to current CCEA President Bob Gengler, was the school board's recent request to the Tri-County Bargaining Association (TCBA), which represents Cass City teachers in bargaining, for contract concession. Teachers are scheduled to receive a 10 percent pay hike in 1982-83, the final year of their present contract.

Gengler said teachers have informally discussed the matter with each other, but never formally at a meeting.

The TCBA board -- one representative from each of the 17 upper Thumb teacher locals -- will conduct its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, May 26, in Cass City and presumably will discuss the Cass City board's request.

Donation aids Young Author Day

The efforts of budding authors at Campbell Elementary School have received a boost, thanks to a $100 anonymous donation.

Reading teacher Marilyn Peters received the $100 bill in the mail last week with a typed note that said "to be used for Young Authors fund."

The third annual Young Authors Day for youngsters at Campbell and fifth and sixth graders at the intermediate school will take place June 7 in both buildings.

Two professional authors will be present to talk to the students about their craft. There will also be workshops on various topics.

In preparation for it, students are writing books, which will be judged. The writers of the best ones will be honored at the Young Authors Day.

The purpose of the event is to encourage creative writing, Mrs. Peters explained.

The $100, plus more than $700 raised at a fun fair May 7 at Campbell, she said, will more than pay the expenses for Young Authors Day, including paying the two professional authors, and "we'll have a good start for next year."

HEALTH TIPS

Heat illness can be summer health risk

By Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
American Medical Association

With the return of hot days and vigorous outdoor activity, once again comes the danger of sunstroke or heat exhaustion.

Sunstroke, or heatstroke, is a life-threatening emergency, says the American Medical Association's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care.

It is a disturbance in the body's heat-regulating system caused by extremely high body temperature due to exposure to heat.

The body temperature can be 106 degrees or higher. The skin is red, hot and dry, and there is no sweating. Pulse is rapid and strong. The sufferer may be confused, or lose consciousness.

If the body temperature is 105 or higher, undress the victim and put him into a tub of cold water (not iced). If no tub is near, spray the victim with a hose, or sponge the bare skin with cool water or rubbing alcohol, or apply cold packs. Continue until temperature drops to 101 or 102, checking temperature constantly to avoid over-chilling.

Get medical help promptly. Do not give alcoholic beverages, or stimulants such as coffee or tea.

Heat exhaustion can occur after prolonged exposure to high temperature and high humidity. This can occur indoors as well as out.

Body temperature may be normal or only slightly elevated, the skin is pale and clammy, there is heavy sweating. The victim is tired and weak, dizzy and has a headache, and may be nauseated and have stomach cramps. He may faint.

Move the victim into the shade or a cooler area. Have him lie down and raise the feet 8 to 12 inches. Loosen clothing. Place cool wet cloths on forehead and body. Use an electric fan, or, if possible get the victim into an air conditioned room.

If the victim is not vomiting, give clear juice or sips of cool salt water (1 teaspoon of salt per glass). Give half a glass of liquid every 15 minutes for one hour. Stop fluids if vomiting starts.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

It's been a dry year in Cass City so far, judging by rainfall records kept by Nelson Willy at the wastewater treatment plant. For the first 16 days of May, just .11 inch of rain has fallen on Cass City — barely enough to wet the dust. Last May, 3.22 inches of rainfall were recorded.

Veteran mushroom hunter John Krug dried some of the morels he recently picked near his home on Schwegler Road. Krug has been stalking the elusive morel for over 50 years and says hunting them is half the fun.

A summer community theatre is being planned in the Owendale-Gagetown area. Anyone interested in summer theatre should contact Shelly Rocheleau.

A 36-by-50-foot addition to the Leonard Damm Implement store at the corner of Main and Oak Streets is nearing completion. The addition will increase the first floor space by about two-thirds.

START SAVING ON YOUR HOME HEATING BILLS TODAY! With The Hydro-Pulse® Gas Boiler.

Kenneth Barbo saved an estimated 73% for heat and hot water.

Prior to installing the Hydro-Pulse boiler, Mr. Barbo of Nassau County, N.Y., was using an average of 930 gallons of oil per year. During the first six months, the Hydro-Pulse boiler only used 495 units of oil. He claims a 73% reduction in overall total fuel cost.

The Hydro-Pulse boiler can significantly reduce your heating bills, too. This winter you're going to be hit with monthly heating bills that will be higher than ever before — unless you replace your present heating system with the Hydro-Pulse gas boiler. It's the most efficient hydronic heating system you can buy.

The savings with the Hydro-Pulse boiler can pay for the cost of the installed Hydro-Pulse boiler in about three years or less — when switching from oil or electric.

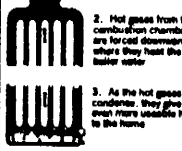

You're paying more for heat than you should. Even if your conventional system is brand new, it's wasting a tremendous amount of energy and money — up the chimney. But the Hydro-Pulse boiler doesn't use a chimney. That means more of the gas burned goes to heating your home.

It's over 80% seasonally efficient. No other hydronic home heating system can offer these incredible savings — because no other hydronic system is as fuel efficient as the Hydro-Pulse gas fired boiler. And the savings get better as energy costs rise.

Tax hike needed, but should not have been

After a long struggle in the legislature, an increase in the Michigan income tax from 4.6 percent to 5.6 percent from April 1 through Sept. 30 became law last week.

Carl Stafford feels the tax increase was necessary, but should not have been, had officials in Lansing acted sooner.

"I think it was (necessary)," he said. "They had to get the revenue some place."

The tax increase should raise $300 million and help make unnecessary $326.4 million that would have had to be cut from the state budget if the tax hike hadn't been okayed. (Budget cuts will make up the difference.)

Stafford doesn't feel the legislature's action in approving the boost will solve the state's financial difficulties. "They thought by passing it, it should solve all their problems, but it's not that easy."

He suggested that if the legislature and Gov. Milliken had acted sooner to solve Michigan's financial troubles, the tax increase would not have been needed.

"I think they just let it go too long, which put it in a bind." He feels state government needs to make some more budget reductions in spending, but wasn't sure what cuts should be made.

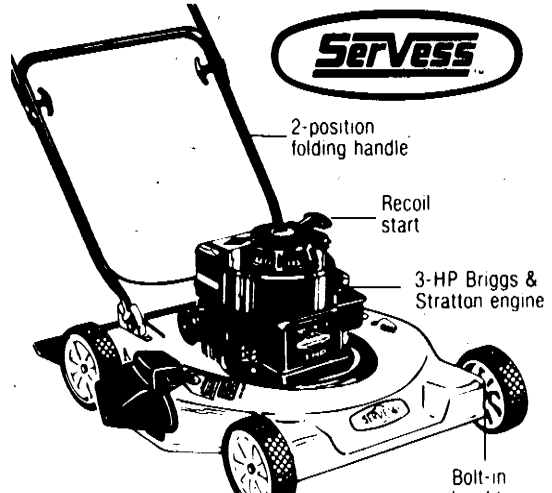

Stafford worked for the Nestles Co. in Cass City, Uby and Granite City, Ill., before retiring in 1968.

He and his wife, Lucille, live at 6433 Garfield Street. They have two daughters, who live in Granite City and Vermilion, Ohio, and five grandchildren.

Parenting class Tuesday

In order to develop into mature, capable adults, children must grow up with positive feelings of self-worth. In order to build self-esteem in children, parents must first learn and use certain communication skills.

Lengthy wait for passport applications

Michigan residents planning overseas trips could face delays from 8-10 weeks in the processing of their passport applications, according to U.S. Senator Donald Riegle.

The Michigan senator said that since the Detroit passport office was closed last year, passport applications from Michigan have to be processed in the Chicago passport office, which is experiencing a tremendous backlog -- resulting in a nearly two month delay in approval of passport applications.

Riegle offered other suggestions that will expedite the passport process:

--Allow at least three months for a passport to be processed whenever possible. Visas may take even longer. Contact the appropriate consulate for details.

--For a new passport you will need an application, two 2-by-2-inch color or black and white photos and a birth certificate or naturalization papers. Parents should note that family passports are no longer available. Each person must have a passport, regardless of age.

--Those who have had a passport within the last eight years can renew it directly by mail. Office addresses are listed on the application form.

Passport applications are available at all U.S. post offices and should be available at county clerks' offices as well.

Riegle said his seven regional offices in Michigan will continue to assist with emergency passport cases.

Wheat prospects are poor

Based on conditions as of May 1, Michigan's winter wheat production is expected to drop sharply from last year.

Production is forecast at 27.5 million bushels, a 34 percent decrease from last year's near record crop, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

This is a result of late plantings last fall, extreme cold during the winter, a late start this spring and a lack of moisture since mid-April. Acreage for harvest is currently estimated at 640,000 acres. Abandonment is expected to total 55,000 acres this year which will be the largest loss since 1972. Abandonment appears to be more evident in the Thumb and southeastern Michigan where about half the crop is rated in poor condition. Presently yields are expected to reach 43 bushels per acre, seven bushels below last season's record yield.

Nationally, production of winter wheat is forecast at 2.06 billion bushels, based on conditions as of May 1. This is down 3 percent from the December 1, 1981 forecast and 2 percent less than last year's record high production of 2.10 billion bushels.

Yield per harvested acre is forecast at 35.7 bushels. Producers expect to harvest 57.7 million acres for grain, 1 percent less than last year.

Hunter of Grosse Pointe were overnight guests of the W.C. Hunters Monday.

Deacon and Mrs. Bud Kuhr have returned from a two-week vacation in Florida and announce an outdoor mass at 9:00 a.m. Memorial Day at St. Agatha in honor of the area's dead. A coffee hour will follow.

Bull may have started blaze

A bull that may have bumped an electric fence wire may have been the cause of a fire that destroyed a shed Monday afternoon.

Owner of the open shed, used to house a bull, was Lee Beyette of Voss Road, north of Cass City.

Elkland Township fire fighters were at the scene about an hour. The Elmwood Township-Gagetown Fire Department brought its tanker.

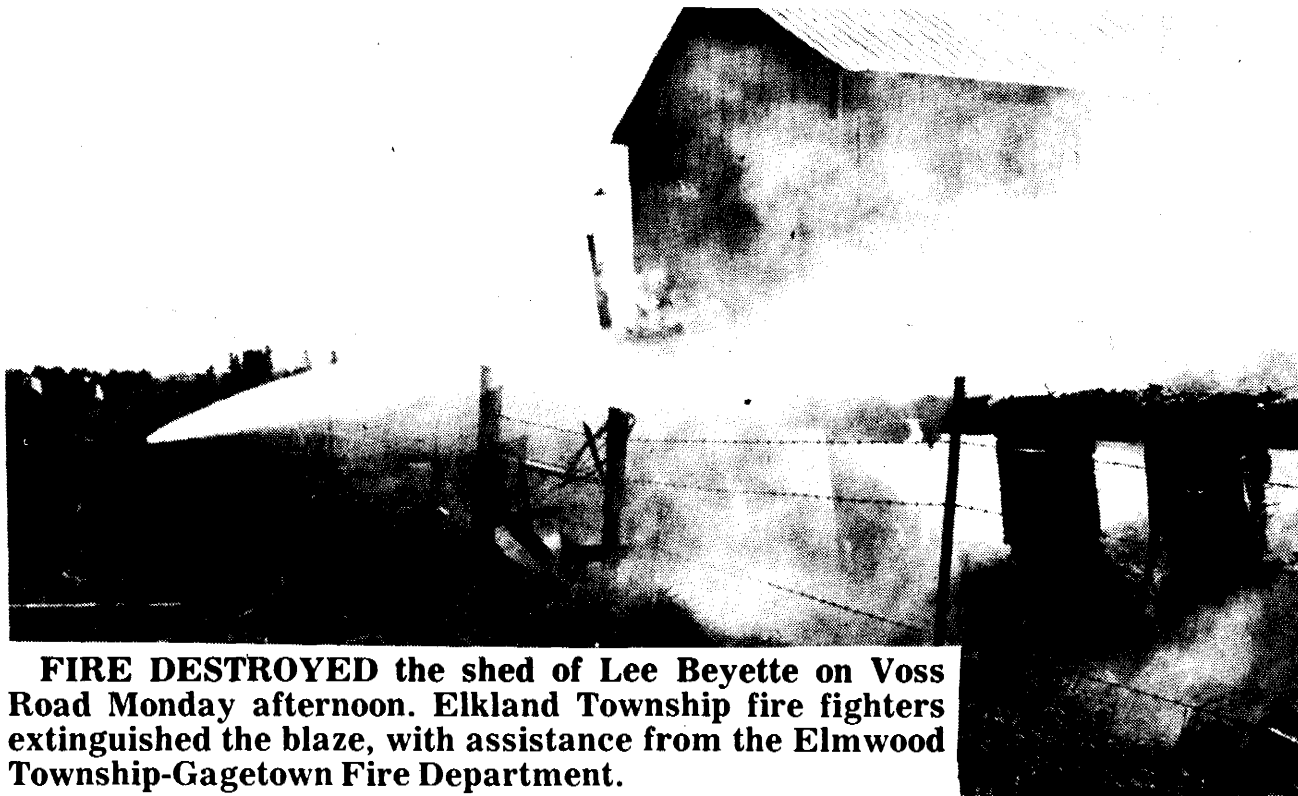

A neighbor, Robert Vargo Jr., spotted the blaze and called the fire department. It was reported at 3:40 p.m.

Beyette, who was at work at the time, later speculated that a bull may have pushed an electric fence wire against the shed and the resulting spark started the structure burning.

The bull that was inside the shed -- a different one -- escaped and apparently wasn't injured.

In addition to the shed, three large round bales of hay outside also burned. They were worth about $100 each. Total loss was estimated at $2,500.

The old wood shed was about 16-by-36 feet in size.

FIRE DESTROYED the shed of Lee Beyette on Voss Road Monday afternoon. Elkland Township fire fighters extinguished the blaze, with assistance from the Elmwood Township-Gagetown Fire Department.

50-mile walk set in Sanilac

The 1982 anniversary of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Walk will commence Monday, May 31, at the intersection of Shabbona and M-25 on the lake shore of Sanilac County.

The route across the Thumb takes a river ford and the most part is on a dirt road where vehicular traffic is light. The walk will end in Akron.

Sanilac County walkers will be a maximum of 19 miles to complete the walk. The 50 mile walk will be completed by the end of the day. Certificates of participation will be given to all walkers who do not

The best time for the 50 mile course was made by Ron Fritz, a Unionville High School athlete in 1964, who ran the course in 11 hours and 55 minutes. Fritz, now 35, is participating, and will attempt to set a new record.

The Party Store in Akron, operated by Rocky and Norma Ryan (telephone 691-5732) has route maps and registration information. There is no entry fee.

Other members of the 1982 committee are Fritz, 12847 Rathdun Road, Frankenth, 652-9340, and Louis Severance, 3944 W. Akron Road, Akron.

In the event of a cancellation due to unfavorable weather, Severance may be called at 691-5484 up to midnight for the committee's decision to hold the event or postpone it.

Participants may meet at the starting point, or at the Akron Village Park at midnight for ride sharing to the lake shore for the 2 a.m. rendezvous.

Registration forms can be obtained via mail by calling any of the organizers or participants can register at the starting point on the 31st.

The event has not been held each year since 1963, according to Severance, and hasn't always used the same route. This will only be the third year the lake shore to Akron route will be used.

Thief takes $350 camera

A $350 camera was stolen from a car in Cass City last Wednesday.

Stanley Kloc of 6195 Severe Road told village police at 11 a.m. that day that the camera was taken while his car was parked behind the Pinney State Bank for a half-hour. The driver's door was unlocked and the camera was under the passenger seat.

The 35 mm camera was a Canon AT-1.

Bonnie Walrod of, 6404 Third Street told village police Saturday morning that her Doberman dog was stolen the previous day between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. It had been attached to a chain outside the garage when taken.

The 4-5-month-old dog, black, wearing a brown collar, and 1-1/2 feet tall, was valued at $175.

Two boys, one 16 and one 17, may be charged with tampering with a motor vehicle, following an incident early Friday morning.

Cass City police first noticed the boys riding bicycles at 12:15 a.m. that day. Three hours later, while checking at the intermediate school, they found the two bicycles parked on the south side of the school.

The officers could find no sign of forced entry of the school, but then found the two boys inside a school bus.

One of the boys said later they had gone inside in order to sleep. Officers found, however, that a seat pad had been ripped and some pens and pencils taken that belonged to the bus driver.

If the prosecutor's office authorizes warrants charging them with tampering, the 16-year-old will be petitioned into probate court. Betty Billings of 4675 Shabbona Road, Cass City, reported to sheriff's deputies last Wednesday that the previous evening, a pickup truck was driven into her driveway.

The driver then made a wide turn on her lawn, bending three small trees and leaving tracks.

Taking stock

Of the 100-odd columns (and some have been odd indeed) that I've written in the last two years for the Boca Raton News, none drew so much mail as the one on South Africa.

The theme of the article was that America is hardly the one to criticize South Africa on its race relations, since we've had a rather shameful record in this respect, which is only now being rectified.

I expected to be lambasted, for this is a touchy subject. If you value your hide you don't speak out defending South Africa. Instead of brickbats, I received many bouquets, from all over - from Arizona, where it was reprinted in some publication, from people in South Africa, from people in the Midwest, and from several in Florida.

Now come belatedly comments from Wayne Parrish of Washington, D.C., who is also a resident of Jupiter Island.

Mr. Parrish is just back from South Africa, and his views are based on more up-to-date information than mine, which goes back three years to my last visit to that country. Here are excerpts:

Dear Mr. Myers:

My wife and I returned a month ago from a six-week trip which included 2,700 miles of driving in the Republic of South Africa.

So in catching up with my mail which included over three feet of magazines, I ran through all issues of the South African Digest which I read religiously, and came across your column in the Sept. 25 issue.

I've been to South Africa about five times, the first in 1946 and the remainder in the late 1950s and during the 1970s and then this new one.

Congratulations on that column. I'm ready for rhetoric battle with anybody who starts talking about South Africa but who has never been there.

During our whole trip we never experienced nor witnessed a single unpleasant incident, only the most friendly atmosphere, black or white.

I got a better idea of what the homeland project is all about and while there are silly things going on, as you described it, the main thrust is progress all along the line.

Economics is the key factor and the blacks, with the highest standard of living in Africa, are becoming an increasingly important consumer factor which bodes for good in the decades to come.

Problems, there are aplenty, as you know, but I'm most sympathetic to the efforts being made and you are so very right in saying "who is pointing fingers?"

What's needed is more time - one more generation moved up. The integration of blacks into stores and hotels is somewhat painful, but it's on the move.

Ah, well, who am I to tell you what it's all about - you've been there and you spelled it out beautifully. So this is to say how much I enjoyed your column.

From Editor Jean McKenna of South Africa Digest, of Pretoria, S.A., comes a letter:

"I read your article from Boca Raton News with great interest as your views are a refreshing change from the usual type of whipping South Africa receives.

"I must point out there has never been a law about separate lines at supermarkets, and there have never been separate lines. In fact, most of the cashiers all over the country are black. Separate windows at post offices no longer exist. You would be surprised at the number of blacks working as tellers in banks and as shop assistants.

"Why not come to Africa again - I think you would find there have been many changes in the past three years."

Bill Eberline still going strong after 30 years

Walbro Corporation's most senior employee, Bill Eberline, was guest of honor at a luncheon last Wednesday to celebrate his 30 years with the company.

The only person who has been with the firm longer is its chairman and chief executive officer, W.E. Walpole, who hired Eberline in May, 1952, as its first engineer. Walbro was located in Fenton then. It moved to Cass City in August, 1954.

The luncheon, held at the Cultural Center, was attended by members of the engineering staff, representatives of other departments and the company's top executives.

Walbro only had 8-10 employees when Eberline was hired. "I was the truck driver, the janitor, the engineer and the sales manager," he said. "We did it all."

The Flint native came to Walbro after working seven years in that community as a project engineer at the Marvel-Schebler Carburetor Division of Borg Warner.

That's where he learned his engineering. His formal education ended with graduation from high school. He served in the Army Air Force after that.

He started at Marvel-Schebler as a stock handler, but after a few months, a personnel cutback eliminated his job. He obviously had made a good impression on his bosses, because to keep him from being eliminated from the payroll, he was transferred to the engineering department.

Walpole had been secretary-treasurer of the Marvel-Schebler division before leaving to form Walbro. When it came time to hire an engineer, he went back there, to the division's chief engineer, who recommended Walpole hire Eberline, whom he (Walpole) already knew.

EBERLINE'S FIRST JOB at Walbro was to develop a front wheel alignment machine for cars and an emergency parking brake system for vehicles that would lock all four wheels. "I'm sorry to say, I had to report to Mr. Walpole they didn't seem to be the right things for us" (to produce).

The first carburetor he designed was for Reo lawn mower engines. The Lansing firm (now defunct) gave the production job to another firm, however.

Eberline was then involved in the design of the first carburetor that Walbro produced for a customer, for Clinton Engines in Iowa. Walbro is still making that model for lawn mowers and small industrial engines.

Over the years, in addition to carburetors, he has also designed fuel pumps, plastic gas tanks and air cleaners.

Now Walbro makes carburetors in all shapes and sizes for numerous engines, and that is one change Eberline has seen since the first carburetor. "There's so many models now I can't even remember them all."

FOR THE PAST FIVE years, Eberline, who has the title of senior project engineer, has been assigned to Mercury Outboards, working with the company to develop carburetors for its outboard boat motors ranging in horsepower from 4-300. (The latter uses six Walbro carbs.)

Working with Mercury means trips to its Wisconsin headquarters and to winter tests of its engines in Florida.

To Eberline, developing a carburetor to work with an engine is "like a marriage between two products."

That's what he likes about his job. "That's quite an accomplishment to take an engine that doesn't have a brain in it (the carburetor) and make them compatible with one another."

Eberline and his wife, Marge, have three children: Bill Jr., who works for Caseway Products in Caseville; Dave, employed by Trend Vendors in Cass City, and Sharon Francis, also of Cass City, and three grandchildren.

At age 57, he isn't planning to retire yet. "I've enjoyed working for Walbro for the past 30 years and the good Lord willing, I'll work for them as long as I can."

Duncan found in Florida

maica and it is believed Mrs. Duncan is still there, Trowhill said.

Monday, the Sanilac County prosecutor's office sent an extradition application to Gov. Milliken's office.

Since Duncan has refused to voluntarily return to Michigan, the governor now must send a request to the governor of Florida to order the defendant extradited here.

Since he disappeared from his mobile home on the speedway grounds (the property has now reverted to its original owner), Duncan resurfaced only once until his arrest in Florida.

He and his wife were arrested in Kentucky in August or September, 1980. They requested a hearing on extradition back to Michigan and were released on bond. Kentucky finally issued extradition warrants in January, 1981, but by then they had disappeared again.

Mrs. Duncan isn't charged in connection with the stolen parts operation, but is charged in Sanilac with one count of welfare fraud, one of disposal of mortgaged property (driving a pickup truck out of state without continuing payments) and one of absconding on bond.

She was arrested by the FBI in Detroit Jan. 1, 1981, where she had gone to take care of a real estate matter.

She was arraigned the next day by Sanilac District Judge Richard Riordan, who had to set bond in such cases. He set it at $15,000. Mrs. Duncan posted 10 percent of that with a bonding company and never returned.

The couple next appeared in Jamaica.

was intoxicated and didn't want to lose his driver's license. The rifle has never been found.

Noel contended that of the various witnesses who testified they had seen Williams during the day in question, only one said he appeared to have been drinking and that was after the time of the shootings.

THE PROSECUTOR reminded the jurors that a live cartridge had been found at the scene of the murders and for heat.

Stuart and Joan Merchant have two solar panels at their home. One mounted on the ground outside the south wall heats the downstairs. The other is mounted on the second story wall to heat the upstairs.

The collectors were installed by an Akron firm last November.

On a cold winter day, as long as the sun is shining, Mrs. Merchant said, the solar energy keeps the house warm without the furnace (which burns bottled gas) being on.

Unlike the system at the McNaughton home, the Merchants use blowers to push the heated air into the home.

Other than the cost of electricity to run the blowers, once it's paid for, Mrs. Merchant commented, the heat won't cost anything. "I think it's the energy of the future."

The Merchants paid $3,800 for the system and installation but will receive much of that back in tax credits.

on it was found Williams' fingerprint, according to the testimony of a fingerprint expert.

Schrope questioned whether the fingerprint was actually that of his client.

He also questioned the significance of some other pieces of evidence.

One was whether plaster casts and photographs of tire tracks made at the scene matched those of Williams' pickup. The tires were seized the morning after the murders and were displayed as evidence at the trial.

Noel said the tires were similar in size, pattern and wear to those which left the tracks at the murder scene. Schrope said they weren't identical.

An impression was also made of a boot print at the murder scene, which Noel said was probably that of the defendant.

Williams' attorney said that because of some stitching in one and not the other, the impression wasn't made by his client's boot.

NOEL ONLY TOUCHED on Williams' supposed motive for shooting the Cowards.

The lawyer who had represented the Cowards in the custody proceedings after the death of their daughter testified Williams fought hard to win custody.

The reason for the murders, the prosecutor told the jury, was "vengeance, pure vengeance."

An ex-sister-in-law had testified that Williams had said in October, 1981, that he had threatened to kill them. The defendant when he was on the stand denied he had said that and claimed he hadn't seen the woman since April of last year.

He further testified that he got along with the Cowards and that the only fight he had with them had been several years earlier.

Witt ticketed for failing to report car accident
