Pillsbury acquires Wickes Agriculture for $43.4 million

The Pillsbury Co. announced last Thursday that it has acquired the assets of the Wickes Agriculture Division.

Included are the Wickes, now Pillsbury, elevators in Cass City and Gagetown.

The reported selling price by the financially troubled Wickes Companies, Inc., was $43.4 million.

Wickes Agriculture, with 1981 fiscal year sales of $236 million, has been a domestic and international marketer of edible dry beans and grain.

It sold a wide variety of beans, including navy, pinto, and kidney, to food processors, retail grocery chains, food service outlets and export markets. Its Jack Rabbit retail brand leads all edible dry beans sold through grocery stores. It also encompasses related farm service activities, including grain handling, storage and drying.

Pillsbury is acquiring 69 facilities in the United States, including edible bean and grain originating and processing facilities and two packaging plants.

Pillsbury is a $3.5 billion corporation headquartered in Minneapolis, Minn., with major interests in agri-products, consumer foods and restaurants. Its consumer brands include such trademarks as Pillsbury's Best Flour, Poppin' Fresh Refrigerated Dough Products, Pillsbury Plus Cake Mixes, and Green Giant Canned and Frozen Vegetables.

The Restaurant Group includes Burger King, Steak and Ale, Bennigan's and Poppin' Fresh Pie Shops.

R. A. Coonrod, president of Pillsbury's Agri-Products Group, expressed "pleasure that the transaction has been completed and looks forward to our entry into the edible dry bean business. Commodity trading, processing and marketing is what our Agri-Products Group is all about, and this new area broadens our base in these activities."

Gene McDonald, Wickes Agriculture general manager, will continue in his present position as it becomes the new Pillsbury Edible Protein Division.

The 69 facilities will continue to serve the needs of their respective farm communities by providing markets for beans and grain while supplying seed, fertilizer and other farm supplies and services. Their operations stretch from Michigan, through several Midwest states, into Colorado, Idaho and Washington. Headquarters for the Division will remain in Denver, Colo.

Coonrod noted that all areas of Wickes Agriculture activity have a parallel within Pillsbury's present operations. "Bean originating, processing and marketing is similar to our operations in wheat and rice milling."

"The grain activity relates to that business generated by our Grain Division, although the regions served are new. Likewise, feed and farm service activity has much in common with our Feed Ingredient Division."

Philip Lindau, Pillsbury vice-president, will now add the Edible Protein Division to his present responsibilities for the Feed Ingredient Division.

July 4th festi scheduled two days this year

Five weeks from now, the people of Cass City and the surrounding area will turn out for a fun time at the July 4th festival.

The fourth annual celebration will feature two new groups that will participate along with returning acts.

The U.S. Marine Corps Marching Band will perform for two hours on Sunday, July 4. The Thumb Draft Horse Association will conduct a show and pull Saturday, as well as participating in the parade. (See story, page 5.)

This year's festival has been expanded to a two day celebration, the primary reason being the USMC Marching Band.

When the planning committee contracted for the band two years ago to perform at this year's festival, nobody checked the calendar to notice that the fourth is on a Sunday this year, according to Tom Proctor, advertising coordinator for the festival.

So included in this year's festival will be the Marching Band's own parade down Main Street on Sunday.

"This is the day we contracted to have them show up, and already paid $600 for them, so we had no choice," Proctor said.

The Marine Band will perform a two-hour show in the park after the parade.

The band has 110 members and is "just exceptional" according to Gloria Ouvry, co-treasurer of the festival.

"We're lucky to get them, and I think it will be a sheer pleasure for the people of the community."

The festival will unofficially begin on Friday night with a marathon run.

The parade will get underway on Saturday afternoon and will include floats, horses, bands, and antique cars.

At the park, pet shows, arts and crafts, kids' games, and concessions will be offered for the two-day program.

Also in the park, the antique cars will be available for viewing and the owners of the cars will have a parts swap meet.

A glass blower will set up shop and display the art of glassblowing. The glass objects will be on sale as will arts and crafts items.

Tentatively planned for Saturday night is a fireworks display. The profit from last year's festival, which totals approximately $2,300, will be used for fireworks, according to Mrs. Ouvry, but the committee must still purchase the supplies.

Sunday will feature the Marine Band. The parade will begin at 1 p.m. and will include dancers and vocalists. As part of the contract, Cass City must provide food and beverages for the players during their stay.

The tractor pull will follow the band's program. Throughout the weekend, the festival committee will sponsor a beer tent behind Charmont. The beer tent is

Ex-Cass Cityan killed in accident

An ex-Cass Cityan, Robert A. Larkin, 39, of Bay City, was killed Friday in a motorcycle accident in Midland County.

His wife, Mary, 31, a passenger on the cycle, was reported in critical condition Wednesday morning at Midland Hospital Center.

The Midland County Sheriff's Department reported their cycle collided with a car, went out of control and collided with a cycle that was riding alongside. It was being ridden by Mrs. Larkin's brother, Peter Zacharko, 29, also of Bay City.

The 9:05 p.m. accident took place west of Sanford. Zacharko reportedly received minor injuries and the 16-year-old driver of the car and his three passengers received superficial wounds, according to the sheriff's department.

Larkin was born Sept. 19, 1942, in Cass City.

He is survived by his wife, three children, Kristin and Shawna, both at home, and Robert Jr., of Caro; his father, Clayton Larkin, Springfield, Mo.; his mother, Donna Duncan, Caro, and three half-sisters, Nancy Duncan Thane, DeFord, Mrs. Robert (Janet) Heck, Grand Rapids, and Shelly Trisch, Houston, Texas.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at Penzien Funeral Home, Bay City. Burial was in North Branch.

Sanilac loses Tax Commission appeal, farm values up 16%

Sanilac County has lost its appeal to the State Tax Commission (STC) on an increase in valuation of agricultural property.

As a result, agriculture values will go up on an average of 16.17 percent in the county, as reflected on December, 1982, tax bills. The county had argued for an increase of 9.27 percent.

The county presented its arguments before the STC in Lansing May 17. Equalization Director Eugene Regentin and other county officials argued in favor of the lower increase on three grounds, none of which the STC agreed with.

Sellers of farmland on land contracts at relatively low interest rates have artificially raised the price of their land, so-called "creative financing," in order to offset lower income from lower interest rates. The STC said land contracts should then be used as a standard.

Depressed economic conditions have put a damper on increases in land values. The STC said sales aren't related to unemployment and the economy.

The prices paid by Mennonite families for farms in Evergreen, Argyle, Moore and Lamotte Townships didn't accurately reflect prices countywide. STC appraisers made their studies in those townships, plus Greenleaf, Austin and Custer Townships, whereas Regentin's department conducted its study of farmland values and sales countywide.

The STC's response was that the selling price paid by the Mennonites was close to the assessed valuation.

The STC, in setting the final valuation for Sanilac County May 24, rejected the appeal.

The new state equalized valuation, the total of all classes of property, is $546.65 million, an increase of 10.87 percent from last year. (The SEV is half the supposed true cash value.)

The changes in other classes of property, as determined by the equalization department, weren't contested by the STC, thus weren't appealed.

The changes are: Residential, up an average of 6.59 percent countywide; commercial, up 4.69 percent (the figures include valuation increases, plus new construction and demolitions), and industrial, down 13.86 percent.

Part of the reason for the big drop in the latter, Regentin explained, is that properties qualifying for industrial facilities exemptions under state law -- a tax break of 50 percent for up to 12 years -- are removed from the regular industrial tax rolls.

Regentin said several other counties have appealed STC imposed increases in valuation because of "creative financing" and the poor economy, but the commission also rejected their appeals. (The STC and its staff establish what their studies indicate a county's valuation should be. Counties can then appeal to the three-member commission, which makes the STC somewhat like prosecutor and jury.)

Many of the counties are now considering an appeal to the Michigan Court of Appeals. The Sanilac County Board of Commissioners can also appeal if it decides to do so.

Genevieve Freiburger

29-year career ending for Gagetown teacher

Genevieve Freiburger never got very far in education.

The 1939 graduate of Gagetown High School became a teacher at Gagetown

Elementary School, both on the same site. After 29 years of imparting her knowledge to others, she is retiring. Her last day will be Friday.

Last Friday, Mrs. Frei-burger's students honored their retiring teacher with a surprise party, complete with refreshments and a swan-shaped birthday cake, made by a student's mother.

Thursday, her fellow teachers will bid her "good-bye" at a luncheon at Sherwood on the Hill in Gagetown. Her husband, Alger, will be there and school board members have been invited.

Students are in school only a half-day Thursday, their last day before vacation. Teachers are there Friday to finish their paperwork.

Mrs. Freiburger, 60, was born and raised in Gagetown, as one of 10 children of Wesley and Agatha Downing. She attended St. Agatha School through the eighth grade, then Gagetown High.

After graduating from there -- there were seven students in her graduating class -- she attended Tuscola County Normal School in Caro for a year, which was all one needed then to begin teaching.

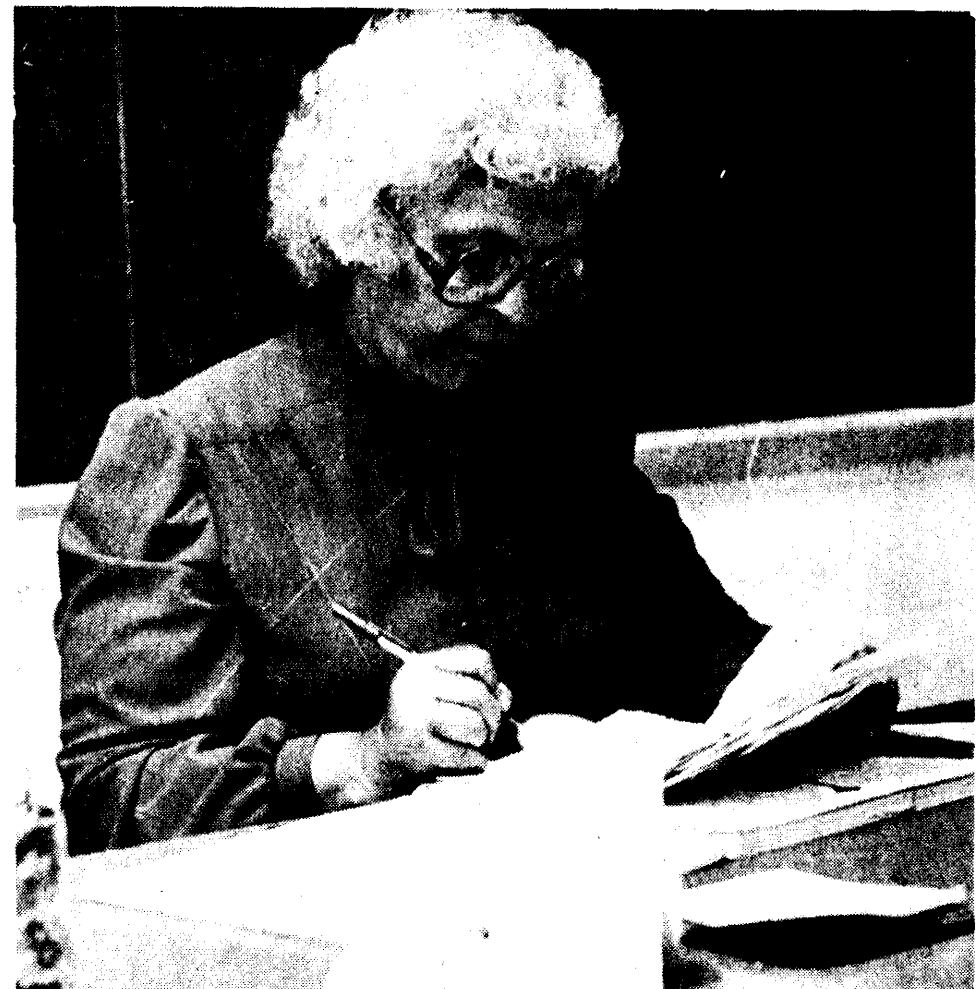

Miss Downing began her teaching career at Grace School, near Parisville, east of Uby. She was the only teacher and had 28 students in grades K-8.

She was paid $110 a month "and what you could do with $110, I'll tell you." She could do a lot more than some of her fellow Normal School graduates who only made $55-65 a month.

During the week, she lived with a local family. Her father drove her to work Monday mornings and picked her up Fridays.

The first home she lived in had no indoor plumbing and the only heat was downstairs. She remembers waking up on mornings that ALMOST FINISHED -- After 29 years of teaching, Genevieve Freiburger doesn't have too many more papers to correct. The Gagetown Elementary School fifth grade teacher may substitute there occasionally next year if Principal William Britt "gets in a pinch."

Heat from water keeps houses warm at low cost

By Mike Eliasohn
Last of three parts

Taking a shower with water at a temperature of 55 degrees would be a very cold shower.

It may seem hard to imagine, but water that cold -- and even colder -- can keep a house very warm.

The device that can extract heat from water has various names -- a geothermal heat extractor, water source heat pump, ground water heat pump -- and has been around for about 30 years. Sales have been slight until the last few years, when the increasing cost of conventional heating sources have created interest in alternatives.

Stan and Arlene Szarapski of Kelly Road, Cass City, have switched to a geothermal heating system and are pleased with the result. "I've never enjoyed living this much as this past winter," he said. "You never had to worry about how high the thermostat was or anything." Their system was installed last October.

In simple terms, the water heat pump works like this: water from a well or other source flows through tubes located inside a water-to-refrigerant heat exchanger.

The cold refrigerant absorbs heat from the water and enters the compressor, where it is pressurized, with a resulting increase in temperature to about 180 degrees.

The refrigerant then passes through a heat exchanger that transfers the heat in the refrigerant to the circulating air for a forced air heating system or water for a hot water system, which is then distributed throughout the house.

The Szarapskis have a hot water system. The water that goes through the baseboards in their house circulates in a closed loop. It is not the same as that which comes from the well from which the heat is extracted.

It requires a lot of water from which the heat is extracted, and therein lies a disadvantage of the geothermal system. So far, the system hasn't been suitable for homeowners who live in towns with municipal water systems or those with a limited ground water supply. A possible solution to that problem will be discussed later.

Szarapski's system uses about 6,000 gallons of water a day, which comes from a 54-foot deep well. His well was checked and the flow was found adequate for both the heating system (before it was installed) and regular household needs.

For some homes it is necessary to sink a second well.

After the water is "used," in Szarapski's setup, a pipe carries the water to a pond.

The system does not run continuously. It incorporates a 300-gallon, well-insulated storage tank, which stores hot water to be circulated through the baseboards in their tri-level home and then back into the tank.

The Szarapskis have a time-of-day electricity rate from Detroit Edison. The rate for electricity used between 7 and 11 p.m., he explained, is almost half the daytime rate.

Thus during those hours, he turns on the furnace, which heats the water stored in the tank, which is then circulated through the house when needed. The rest of the time the furnace switches on automatically when heat is needed.

Szarapski also had a 200-gallon tank installed which stores water coming from the well, which cuts down on the amount of time the pump has to run.

The Szarapskis previously used fuel oil heat and in an effort to keep the cost down, the thermostat was kept

Murphys win vacation trip to Hawaii

Keith and Betty Murphy of Cass City were the winners of a free trip to Hawaii.

Murphy, parts manager for Zehnder Motor Sales in Vassar, won the annual parts incentive contest sponsored by General Motors. He sold more parts than parts managers for 25-30 other dealerships of comparable size.

The Murphys departed from Tri-City Airport May 13 on a seven-day trip. The first three days were spent on the island of Maui and the rest at Honolulu.

Murphy won a trip to Spain in the same contest, 10 years ago, but described his good fortune as a matter of being "lucky."

Mrs. Murphy is the principal and fifth grade teacher at Deford Elementary School.

Sign on the restaurant door in Boyne City on Memorial Day: Closed. Attend the brunch at Boyne City High School for benefit of high school sports."

When you consider that Memorial Day is one of the three big summer holidays in northern Michigan, you have to feel that the owner of the restaurant was going that extra mile for the kids.

Ah, New York, New York. The Dale Damms and the Roger Littles were week-end visitors in the Big Apple.

While there both of the hotel rooms were broken into. The thieves copped Little's travelers checks and a clock. They came away empty handed in the Damms' room.

A thief also struck out when he attempted to snatch a pair of shoes that Dale Damm was holding in a bag over his arm while standing on the sidewalk.

While they were in a store shopping, a thief got into a fracas with store management and the police were needed.

Other than that it was an uneventful vacation.

In July the water in Lake Charlevoix is still cold enough to make your teeth chatter after a half hour or so.

Last Saturday it was normal for the time of the year . . . numbingly c-o-l-d. That didn't stop a couple of crazies from water skiing or keep them from doing it again after a dunking.

Wouldn't surprise me if they called it fun, too.

Lightning hits pool

Lightning which struck the swimming pool in the Cass City Recreation Park Saturday night knocked it temporarily out of use.

Damaged, according to Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie, was the electrical control panel and the pump motor.

The pool was open Saturday, the first day it has been open this season, but had to be closed Sunday and Monday.

LaPonsie was hopeful Tuesday that the damage can be repaired in time for the pool to reopen this week end.

PRINCIPAL APPRECIATION DAY — Students and faculty at Campbell Elementary School honored principal Jacqueline Freiburger last Wednesday for her 15 years as principal there. They presented her with cards and a cake. The students made cards, posters, and some wrote books showing their appreciation. Mrs. Freiburger taught in Deford and Caro before she was appointed principal.

John Neeb running for Representative

Harbor Beach attorney John C. Neeb II has announced that he will seek the Republican nomination for State Representative for the 77th District.

Neeb was born and raised in Huron County and graduated from Bad Axe High School in 1967. He received a bachelor of science degree from Northern Michigan University in 1972 and in 1978 received a Juris Doctor from the Thomas M. Cooley Law School in Lansing.

Before entering law school in 1976, Neeb was employed by Active Industries in Elkton, and by Hamill Manufacturing Division in Bad Axe.

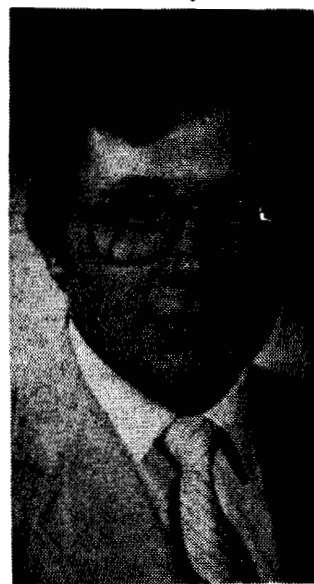

Since graduating from law school, Neeb has practiced law in Huron County and in February, 1981, opened his office in Harbor Beach.

Neeb is a member of the Huron County Bar Association, State Bar of Michigan, Harbor Beach Rotary Club, Harbor Beach Jaycees, and Verona Lodge No. 365, F & AM of Bad Axe. He serves on the Board of Trustees of the Harbor Beach Community Hospital.

Neeb is the son of Ralph C. and Kathleen B. Neeb of Bad Axe and is married to the former Maryanne Turosky, daughter of Steven Turosky and the late Florence Turosky of Harbor Beach. The Neebs are expecting their first child in early August.

The 77th district consists of all of Huron County and all but the southwest corner of Tuscola County.

Graduation from high school nearly always creates big waves and graduation from college causes only minor ripples in family life.

That's always puzzled me. Earning a college degree is a more significant achievement than acquiring a high school sheepskin.

Could it be that leaving high school is celebrated more because it marks a turning point in the lives of the students?

For many, that walk across the stage on graduation day marks the end of formal education. For every one it means leaving the close protection of the family.

It's probably true that half of the parties are held because the parents want them. If Mary Jones had a party when she graduated last year, by George, Susie Smith will have one this year.

The kids feel that social pressure, too. If friends are holding parties, they will hold parties.

Most of all being 17 or 18 without a care or responsibility in the world has to be another reason why grad parties are popular.

Add four or five more years when Susie graduates from college and the picture changes.

First off there are the numbers. Instead of 100 plus there may be a couple of dozen graduating.

That teen-ager is now a young adult that has been out flapping his wings away from home. Those high school friends have for the most part drifted away through marriage, through jobs, through different spheres of interest.

Most of the new college grads have been living hand-to-mouth to get that degree. What they want is to get on with the business at hand... get a job or an advanced degree to get a better job.

There's a suspicion here that families do regard college graduation as greater than high school.

It was that way when the two eldest in our family graduated and will be the same when the third one makes the grade.

Yet we had small celebrations at the end of high school days and nothing formal when college undergraduate days were finished.

There was a time when I figured that when the last of the trio finished college that there would be a major celebration at the Haire household.

I know different now, of course. Finishing college is just one in a series of events that keep parents on edge when the kids are concerned.

That problem ends and another takes its place.

That's not a complaint, mind you. I wouldn't have it any other way and suspect that most of the parents reading this wouldn't either.

"If It Fitz..."

Least likely

By Jim Fitzgerald

In an earnest attempt to resolve one of the most important questions perplexing the world today, Monthly Detroit magazine and Dr. Sonya Friedman joined forces to find and identify the Detroit area's 10 most-eligible bachelors.

Friedman is a psychologist who is the host of a morning TV talk show. Because of my work schedule, I've never seen her show, but I've read a lot about her. Lately, I've read she had a face-lift and her show won an Emmy award she accepted at a fancy banquet while her producer sat in the audience and simply fumed, darlings, because she (the producer) thought the award should have been accepted by the producer (she). Snippy TV critics agreed with she.

Because of my work schedule, I don't know whether the 10 winners of the most-eligible-bachelor contest receive any award other than sheer glory and easy dates. If they are awarded a framed certificate of extreme eligibility on the Friedman show, it would be amusing if they didn't show up in person but instead were represented by their producers who would accept the awards while standing on their heads for face-lift purposes.

That suggestion, of course, raises the question of who produces most-eligible bachelors? The obvious answer would seem to be their parents. But Monthly Detroit published interviews with the 10 winners, and not one of them mentioned his mom or dad. Instead, in explaining what made them so eligible, they typically said such things as:

"Perhaps they (women) like me because they see something in me that I don't."

"I like something that's kind of free-flowing and off-the-wall."

"I think that women probably enjoy my company because basically I'm myself all the time."

"I enjoy me, and I can be alone without getting paranoid about it."

End of quotes. Apparently the winning bachelors did it all by themselves, so they have no producers to accept their awards for them. Too bad, although my suggestion may be too late, anyway. It could well be that the bachelors' awards ceremony has already been held on the Friedman show. Because of my work schedule, I don't know. More and more I've come to realize how impossible it is to be darling and also work for a living. If the Phil Donahue show is canceled before I retire, I'll probably never know who gets custody of a test-tube baby when a homosexual marriage is broken up by a singing fish.

Regardless, I have another suggestion. This is selfish. Dr. Friedman or Donahue or someone should choose the 10 least-eligible married men. The most-eligible bachelor is the one with the qualities most likely to get him married. So the least-eligible married man is the one with the qualities least likely to get him divorced. That's a contest I would win.

The reasons my wife is extremely reluctant to divorce me are similar to the reasons that single women want to marry the 10 most-eligible bachelors. For example, I am always doing things off the wall. Sometimes, because that's where my wife keeps our only non-paper dinner plates, I eat off the wall.

For another thing, I am always me. We've been married for more than 27 years, and never once has my wife accused me of being somebody else. In fact, I couldn't count how many times she has sighed deeply and said, "You never change."

I enjoy me, and I like being alone. I like to laugh at my own jokes and give myself standing ovations. I find that this is a good way to become alone.

My wife sees something in me that I don't. She often says I am full of it. I imagine I can't see it myself because I enjoy me so much, and love is blind.

Obviously, I am qualified to be one of the 10 least-eligible married men, and I'm willing to appear on Sonya Friedman's show. I'll have to rearrange my work schedule, but the inconvenience will be worth the opportunity to resolve what may be the most important question perplexing the world today.

Or maybe the most important question is: Should a singing fish get a gill-lift before appearing on TV?

4 from area receive degrees

Four area residents graduated from Saginaw Valley State College.

Valerie Ann Jamieson graduated with top honors with a bachelor's degree in accounting. Students graduating with top honors must finish their schooling with an overall grade point average between 3.8 and 4.0.

Mrs. Jamieson recently took the certified public accounting exam and is now waiting for the results.

VALERIE ANN JAMIESON

She has interviewed with local business firms as well as businesses in Bay City and Saginaw hoping to find a job as a CPA.

Mrs. Jamieson graduated from Unionville-Sebewaing High School in 1978 and lives with her husband Ronald at 4170 Rescue Road.

Avery Kaplan received his master's degree in educational administration and supervision.

The one-year program has increased his knowledge in the areas of finance, administration, and supervision of schools.

Kaplan also received a master's degree in 1971 from Wayne State University in Detroit in special education. He graduated in 1961 from Wayne with a liberal arts degree.

Kaplan is an assistant principal at the Tuscola Intermediate School District's Highland Pines School, Caro.

Kaplan and his wife Joyce live at 6915 E. Gilford Road, Deford.

Cheri Lynn Martin received a bachelor of science degree in medical technology.

The degree will allow her to become a medical technician in a laboratory at a hospital testing blood and other samples from patients.

The daughter of Kenneth and Carolyn Martin, 4180 Hurds Corner Road will begin work in August as an intern at Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne, Ind. Afterwards, she hopes to return to Cass City and find a job in a local hospital.

Miss Martin graduated from Cass City High School in 1978.

Hannah Sweeney has received a bachelor of science degree in nursing after completing a five-year nursing program.

Miss Sweeney is now a graduate nurse, and will take her state board exam in July. If she passes this exam, she will become a registered nurse.

Miss Sweeney has several job offers in the area as well as in the Saginaw and Port Huron areas. She has not made up her mind yet where she will work.

The 1977 graduate of Ubyly High School is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Sweeney, 2331 W. Morrison, Ubyly.

DOWNTOWN SPRUCE-UP -- Three Cass City Girl Scout troops planted flowers downtown last Wednesday in conjunction with the Keep America Beautiful program. The Cass City Chamber of Commerce donated the flowers. This is the first year the Girl Scouts from Troops 221, 644 and 826 planted flowers, a change from their traditional litter clean-up.

Draft horse show slated at annual July 4 Festival

A lot of very large horses will be in Cass City Saturday, July 3, as part of the annual July 4th Festival.

Members of the Thumb Draft Horse Association, organized last July, will conduct their first draft horse show and pull that day.

The organization covers an area east of Bay City and north of Detroit and its 93 members own Clydesdales, Belgians and Percherons.

At this point, said event chairman Dick Enos of Cass City, there is no way of knowing how many horses will be brought to the day's events, but, "I'd be disappointed if we didn't have 50 horses, but we could have 100 or 150."

Rites held for Richard Beach, 21

Funeral services for Richard Beach, 21, of Lowell were held Wednesday, May 26, at Lowell, with burial there.

He was the son of Richard and Eileen Beach of Lowell and grandson of Mrs. Ernest Beardsley of Cass City.

Death was due to an auto accident in Lowell Sunday evening, May 23.

He graduated from high school in Lowell in 1978 and had attended Michigan State University. He was employed at the golf course in Alto.

Surviving besides his parents and his maternal grandmother are two sisters, Sharon and Marsha; one brother, David, and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Beach in Indiana.

Activities will take place in a fenced off area in the northwest corner of the park, in the vicinity of the sledding hill. Admission will be charged.

The first event, starting at 10 a.m., will be judging of mares and geldings at halt. The horses are judged on the basis of conformation (build) and appearance.

Members of the association will be participating in the parade down Main Street, which starts at 2 p.m.

After the parade is over, events will resume in the park about 3:30.

The first event will be a farmers team hitch class, in which the big horses will pull wagons through an obstacle course.

Can one large horse out-pull a 13-horsepower three-wheel all-terrain vehicle? The first time such an event was tried was in Nova Scotia. The horse and ATV will be hitched back-to-back to see if two wheels can outpull four legs.

After that will come four-horse team driving competition, followed by judging of the best matched team.

Then comes six-horse team driving competition, followed by judging of the best dressed team in its harness.

That will be followed by the horse pull, with the horses pulling a "stone boat," a sled loaded with sandbags. There will be lightweight and heavy-weight divisions, with the teams that can pull the greatest weight the farthest the winners.

The final event will be single horses pulling two-wheel carts.

Noel seeks GOP nod for 34th district senate post

Tuscola County Prosecutor Artis Noel has announced his intention to seek the Republican Party nomination for the 34th State Senate District, which consists of Huron, Tuscola, Bay, Gladwin and Arenac Counties.

Noel, 34, has served as Tuscola County prosecutor since his appointment in January, 1979. The following year he sought and won election to a four-year term, which he began serving in January, 1981.

A Detroit native, the prosecutor earned his bachelor and master's degrees from Eastern Michigan University and went on to earn his law degree from the Detroit College of Law in 1975.

From 1976 until he assumed his present office, Noel served as an assistant prosecutor in Macomb County, specializing in the organized crime section.

He is a member of Rotary International. His wife, Justine, is a doctor practicing with Caro Family Physicians. The couple has one daughter.

Noel announced in April he was running for state representative. Back then, he explained, it was thought State Sen. Alvin DeGrow was going to run for reelection.

The senator's decision to retire was one reason for Noel's decision to instead run for the senate. The other, he said, was he feels he can do more in such areas as tax reform as a senator than as a state representative.

$150,000 suit

Hercliffe seeks damages

A lawsuit has been filed in Tuscola County Circuit Court which seeks $150,000 in damages in connection with a June 2, 1979, traffic accident.

Plaintiff is Brenda L. Hercliffe, a Tuscola County resident, who is suing Richard T. Maltby, representative of the estate of Thomas W. Jacob, who was killed in the crash.

According to the suit, the car driven by Jacob on M-81 crossed the centerline and collided with the Hercliffe auto. The accident took place on the curve at Green Road, 4½ miles west of Cass City. Jacob, 21, was a Caro resident.

The suit, filed May 26, claims Ms. Hercliffe suffered severe injuries, including permanent disfigurement.

In addition to damages, she is also asking for costs, interest and attorney fees.

Gas and hot air

By Mike Eliasohn

I have heard the story twice, the second time only a few weeks ago, and both times from persons who heard it from someone else.

The story goes something like this: A man buys a new car and finds it delivers fantastic mileage, say 80 miles per gallon. (I don't remember the figures I was told.)

The man learns the factory made a mistake and sold him a car that had an experimental carburetor. When the owner takes the car to the dealer for service, the carburetor disappears, having been replaced by a regular one.

There is nothing wrong with the experimental carburetor, of course. The reason it disappeared is that the automobile companies and the petroleum industry are engaged in a conspiracy. If cars are sold that get 100 miles per gallon, the oil industry will be ruined and, I suppose, drag the car industry along with it.

The two men I heard the story from were both honest men, but as for the story, don't believe it.

In simple terms, it just isn't possible to simply switch carburetors and triple or quadruple a car's mileage or better.

There is a company promoting a book for $4.95 called "Secrets of the 200 MPG Carburetor" and some others are selling patent drawings of the same device.

It's a rip-off. The supposed 200 mpg carburetor is the Pogue carburetor. It was patented in the U.S. by Charles Nelson Pogue of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, in 1936.

In simple terms, what it did that other carburetors didn't do at the time was to completely vaporize the gasoline prior to its being injected into the engine's combustion chambers and control the injection so as to be optimally suited to engine operating conditions.

According to the March-April issue Experimental Vehicle Newsletter (EVN), the only "evidence" of the carburetor's fantastic performance are three letters written in 1936, two by Winnipeg auto dealers and one by a Winnipeg resident.

The letters claim Pogue carburetors were installed on Ford V-8s which then delivered 212 miles per Imperial gallon or about 170 per U.S. gallon.

In fact, there is no evidence that Pogue ever built a carburetor since the U.S. Patent Office doesn't require a working model before issuing a patent.

Also, Pogue never made fantastic mileage claims for his invention.

According to the Detroit

Free Press, the U.S. Department of Energy's Office of Vehicle Engine Research and Development has been unable to substantiate the claims made in the "Secrets of the 200 MPG Carburetor" book. "There is no basis to believe reliable scientific tests were involved," its chief said.

Casting further doubt on the claims is that according to EVN, modern day carburetors on cars produced today "already do a fairly good job of vaporizing fuel."

Claims for the Pogue carburetor, the article says, have to be viewed with a "healthy skepticism" since the mileage claims have never been duplicated.

The article concludes, "All things considered, the Pogue seems to have been a well researched carburetor in its day... but time has since caught up with the design, and it's now possible to approach the efficiency of the Pogue with a factory-made package that's much simpler, more practical and... less costly to manufacture."

A copy of the Pogue patent, by the way, can be purchased from the patent office, for 50 cents, a lot less than what the 'ripoff artists' are selling the information for.

In the April 1 issue, I wrote about efforts to attract industry to Marlette and Brown City.

Marlette had hired an economic development coordinator on a six-month trial basis and had applied for two federal grants, one for $1 million and the other for $750,000, to purchase and develop a site for an industrial park.

Since that was written, the village council decided to terminate the coordinator's job at the end of the six months, because the village could not afford to make the position permanent, and the application for the $1 million grant was rejected.

The application was rejected because of lack of a financial commitment from the intended developer of the keystone project in the park, a plant that would have burned trash to generate steam and electricity.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

It's official. There are 2,436 residents in Cass City. Those are the figures compiled in a special village census early this year.

According to librarian Barbara Hutchinson, Rawson Memorial Library currently houses 12,000 volumes. Circulation in the past 12 months hit an all-time high of 43,127. When the library opened in 1970, there were 6,500 volumes with an annual circulation of 21,114.

Arlen Hendrick, of Peck, a former Cass City resident, and his wife, Beverly, took first place in mixed doubles competition at the recent Bay City Times tournament in Bay City. They received trophies and a check for $2,000 after compiling a score of 1,084 with a 228 handicap, 60 pins ahead of their nearest competitor.

Winner and runner-up in the Rotary sponsored euchre parties were Newell Harris and Bill Kritzman respectively. Harris finished with 314 points, Kritzman with 313.

TEN YEARS AGO

Drum major and majorettes were chosen for the 1972-73 school year. Drum major is Ken Hampshire. Majorettes are Deb Loomis, LaDonna Brown, Sandy Eisinger and Evelyn Merchant.

William Dobbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard (Tom) Dobbs of Cass City, will be the speaker challenging the high school graduates at Trinity United Methodist Church this Sunday morning.

Hot sunny weather and clear skies greeted the annual Memorial Day parade marchers. World War I veterans riding in the parade were Arthur Little, Edward Buehly, Vern McConnell, Earl Moon, Rev. Melvin Vender and Stanley Wojtowicz.

David M. Bulen, 23, has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal for meritorious achievement against hostile enemy forces in Vietnam. He was also awarded the Combat Infantryman's Badge. E-5 Bulen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace M. Bulen of Cass City.

25 YEARS AGO

Lyle Clarke, vocational agriculture instructor at Cass City High School, will receive his MA degree in vocational agriculture education at Michigan State University, Sunday, June 9. Clarke joined the Cass City School system during the 1953-54 school year.

Capacity crowds attended this week's commencement exercises as Cass City graduated its record class of 113 members. Seating facilities in the school's auditorium were taxed as crowds estimated at more than 1,000 persons attended the program.

Vacation Bible School is being well attended, according to Rev. S. R. Wurtz, director of the school conducted by the Cass City Council of Churches. He reports 107 children are enrolled.

Cass City High School will have one of five outstanding high school marching bands at Central Michigan College's fifth annual Band Day Sept. 21.

35 YEARS AGO

Don C. Anker, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Anker of Cass City, has received word from the War Department that he has fully qualified to enter the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

The class night program of the 59 seniors of the Cass City High School on Tuesday attracted a large number of friends and relatives of the graduates with the results that the auditorium was well filled. Edward Wegrzyn was named salutatorian and Keith Little, valedictorian.

A Memorial Day parade, described as the largest and best in years, was witnessed by an unusual number of spectators Friday. Many placed their cars on both sides of the business section of Main Street and occupants held "reserved seats."

"Summer's Festival of Praise," a pageant with local adaptations, will be given Sunday at 10:30 a.m. at the Presbyterian Church. There will also be songs by the younger children's departments. Mrs. Frederick Pinney, Mrs. A. J. Knapp and Mrs. Alfred Goodall will be in charge.

Exploration Days set at MSU

Sixty-four Tuscola County young people and adults will travel to East Lansing June 23 to participate in 4-H Exploration Days at Michigan State University, says Peggy Breclaw, Tuscola County 4-H youth agent.

The group will spend three days learning about new career opportunities and enhancing their knowledge and skills in such areas as computer technology, Michigan government, international cooking and developing employability skills.

"Exploration Days is the only program of its kind in the country," Breclaw says. "Participants have a chance to learn new skills, meet new friends and sample college life at a Big 10 university," she said.

Nearly 5,000 young people and adults are expected to participate in this year's event. Delegates will also attend a number of evening entertainment offerings, including performances by the Michigan 4-H Performing Arts Troupe.

For more information about 4-H Exploration Days, or any other 4-H activity, contact Miss Breclaw at the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service office in Caro.

Laurie Louis in Teenager pageant

Laurie Louis, 16, has been selected to be a state finalist in the 1982 Miss United Teenager pageant July 22 at Adrian College.

LAURIE LOUIS

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garry Louis of Gagetown and a student at Owendale-Gagetown High School. Her activities and hobbies include cheerleading, music and swimming.

Contestants must be 14-18 years old and have at least a B average in school. They will be judged on scholastics, civic achievements, beauty, poise and personality. Each one will write and then recite on stage a 100 word essay on the subject of "my country."

The winner will receive an all-expense paid trip to compete in the three-phase Miss United Teenager national finals, to be conducted in Hollywood, Calif., Honolulu, Hawaii, and Washington, D.C. Among the prizes will be $15,000 in scholarships.

AAUW branch elects Wallis new treasurer

The Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women met May 25 in the high school library.

Sharon Dunn presided over the business meeting in which Emma Wallis was elected treasurer for a two-year term.

Mrs. Dunn presented carnations to outgoing board members Barbara Stickle and Marilyn Peters.

Highlight of the evening was a performance of the Presbyterian Bell Choir under the direction of Mrs. Peters.

The evening concluded with refreshments being served by hostesses Martha Putnam, Iva Profit and Donna Wachterhauser.

Ambassador Bridge between Detroit and Windsor opened in 1929. The Detroit-Windsor tunnel opened to traffic in 1930.

New books at the library

THE OLD PRIORY by Norah Lofts (fiction). Set in Suffolk, England, during the 16th and 17th centuries, this is the tale of an abandoned and supposedly cursed priory that becomes the home of Arthur Tresize and two generations of his descendants. The story begins in 1590 with Arthur, then a young seaman, obliging, in exchange for an enormous sum of gold, a beautiful and recently widowed lady who needs an heir to retain her title and station. Arthur uses the gold to buy an old priory. Although rich and respected, Arthur is cursed in love. His first wife dies of the plague; his second runs off; his third goes mad. The tale comes full circle when Arthur's grandson marries a girl who has been cruelly rejected by a lord who can be none other than the son Arthur sired so many years before in exchange for gold.

TO LIVE AS FAMILY: An Experience of Love and Bonding by Joseph and Lois Bird (non-fiction). Never has the family been subjected to more hostile forces than now. Joseph and Lois Bird explain why this is so and how, through love and bonding, this can be changed. During the past 30 years, social institutions gradually took over more and more of the functions traditionally performed by the family. Parents began to turn increasingly to experts for answers to basic human problems. Now, according to the Birds, is the time for the real experts - the parents - to reclaim their primary responsibility, the raising of a family.

THE LONG MASQUERADE by Madeleine Brent (fiction). Emma, an English girl who has been orphaned and is now living in Jamaica, is married to a local aristocrat - much to the relief of her guardians. Despite her girlish hopes, her marriage is a crushing disappointment, for her husband has a dreadful secret. With the help of a servant, who has a few secrets of his own, Emma escapes from the great house, adopts a new identity, and embarks on her "long masquerade" as a sea gypsy in the Caribbean.

First aid class slated

Parents must have a basic understanding of how to react when children are seriously hurt.

"Focus on first aid" is intended to provide basic skills to deal with emergency situations.

The class will be conducted Tuesday from 7-8 p.m. at Cass City High School.

Millie Feigner, Tuscola County public health nurse, will be the instructor. The $1 registration fee includes class materials and a baby sitting service.

To register, contact Dawn Harris at the Cooperative Extension Service office in Caro at 673-3161 or 648-2515 in Sandusky.

Read-a-thon raises $830 in Gagetown

Gagetown Elementary School students raised $830 at their read-a-thon May 21 in the gym.

Each student collected pledges for each hour they read. Those who collected enough pledges were allowed to read the entire day.

The money raised will be used to purchase books and other materials for the library.

Shabbona Area News

Marie Meredith
Phone 672-9489

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Arnott of Grand Blanc were Sunday evening, May 23, callers of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith. They had spent the week end with her father, Ernest Hyatt.

Shabbona United Methodist Women met Wednesday, June 9, for a cookout at the home of Mrs. Theda Seeger of Cass City.

The RLDS Women's Department conducted a birthday party last Thursday at Provincial House, Cass City. There were nine residents who had birthdays and received gifts.

Julie Smith returned home Tuesday after being a patient in Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Mrs. Dorothy Puterbaugh and Mrs. Mary Lou Pallas of here, Mrs. Eunice Pallas of Marlette and Mrs. Helen Sprague and Mrs. Shirley Sprague of Bay Port visited their mother in Detroit Monday, May 24.

EXTENSION GROUP

The Shabbona Extension Group met Monday evening, May 24, with Mrs. Dan Masten. Mrs. Clark Auslander was co-hostess.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. Arlie Gray. The flag pledge and the women's creed were repeated in unison. Secretary and treasurer's reports were given by Marie Meredith. Roll call found nine members and one guest, Mrs. Frank Pelton, present.

Mrs. Gray gave a report of the last council meeting. The lesson on herbs and spices was given by Miss Meredith. Each one took part and it proved to be a very good lesson. A white elephant silent auction was held, which netted $11.50.

Lunch was served by the co-hostess. The group won't meet again until September, when it will meet with Mrs. Elmer Fuester at Cass City.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kritzman of Bridgeport spent Friday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Kritzman.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dobson and Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Kritzman called on Mr. and Mrs. Dean Kritzman of Deckerville last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Kritzman of Deckerville have purchased the Frank Chippi farm in Shabbona.

The Decker-Shabbona-Argyle United Methodist Churches will hold a farewell party for their pastor, Hayden Carruth, June 11 at the Evergreen Township Hall in Shabbona. A potluck supper at 7:30.

The Evergreen School Reunion is Saturday, June 5. The school will open at 11:00 with dinner at 12:00.

L. Chapin completes training

Marine Pvt. Lane E. Chapin, son of Helen Hubbard, Rossman Road, Kingston, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

LANE CHAPIN

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill.

A 1977 graduate of Marlette High School, he joined the Marine Corps in January.

Circus slated at Bad Axe

The Bad Axe Rotary Club will sponsor the appearance of the Royal Hanneford Circus July 21 in a tent on the fairgrounds outside of that community.

There will be an afternoon and evening performance of the three-ring circus, which will feature elephants and a riding act with horses.

Your Neighbor says More should be done for veterans

Monday was Memorial Day, a day to honor America's veterans who fought in the name of freedom and democracy.

Many Vietnam veterans were angry that the nation gave the American hostages returning from Iran a resounding welcome when the Vietnam veterans, who fought for the country, did not get such a reception on their return home.

Mrs. Estella Leyva thinks there could have been a lot more done for our war veterans.

"I think our boys should have gotten more," she said. "They were sent over there (Vietnam), sent there to do a job they were forced to do."

Mrs. Leyva, who had two sons fight in Vietnam, is not happy with the way our veterans are treated.

"The damage is done. Whatever we did, should have been done then, (when the veterans returned from Vietnam). Now all we want to do is forget about it," she said.

"I think they should have been recognized for the job they did, and I think they should be recognized more," Mrs. Leyva said.

Mrs. Leyva's two sons, Ralph and Paul, both served in Vietnam from 1968-71. Ralph was killed on the return trip home. A sailor, he was washed overboard during a storm and drowned.

Mrs. Leyva and her husband Joseph have seven children and five grandchildren, and live at 4770 Gifford Road, Gagetown.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters

This 9-year-old boy from Mayville is very interested in the "male" role in life. Being without his father, he has a definite need for male companionship. He enjoys, fishing, playing with cars and electrical trains.

This 14-year-old girl from Sebawaing would enjoy having a special person to spend time with.

Her interests include dancing, skating, tennis, swimming, and just about anything.

This 16-year-old from Caro is in need of a one-to-one male relationship. His main interests are hunting, fishing, camping and basketball.

This 10-year-old boy from Caro is very anxious to have a Big Brother to share a lot of time with him. He enjoys swimming, fishing, playing ball, watching TV, camping, and watching sports. Why not give him some serious consideration?

Tuscola County Big Brothers-Big Sisters is located at 129 E. Burnside, Caro 48723, telephone 673-6996.

Around the Farm Herbicide field day

By William Bortel

A state "herbicide-tillage incorporation" field day will be held on the Robert Kern farm north of Reese Thursday, July 8.

Individuals will be able to see the results of different herbicides which were incorporated with different tillage equipment.

A black light was used to see the results of the incorporation and the photos and black light will be on display.

Also, one will be able to view the major herbicide and tillage equipment companies' exhibits and tour the herbicide incorporated demonstration plots where seven different tillage tools were used.

The field day will be from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. Parking will be in the Reese High School lot, which is a half-mile north of M-81 on VanBuren Road at the east village limits of Reese.

There will be two buses taking persons to and from the demonstration area every 15 minutes.

The objectives of the field day are: 1) to look at the practicality of once over incorporation and how each piece of tillage equipment performs; 2) to look at different herbicides and how they perform under once over incorporation; 3) to compare surface applied vs. incorporation herbicides, and 4) to demonstrate dye and how the herbicides are incorporated.

The field day is sponsored by Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service in cooperation with Tuscola County.

Further information may be requested from Dr. Mike Barrett, MSU weed control specialist, or myself or Don Kebler in the county extension office in Caro.

Food service and rest facilities will be on the grounds.

Seaman Craig Carolan is spending two weeks' leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Goslin, after which he will be on active duty at Norfolk, Va.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Munro Tuesday were their son and wife, Jim and Carlene Munro of Pontiac.

M.M. Downing attended business meetings in Saginaw Thursday and Friday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson arrived home by plane Saturday, May 22, from Arizona, where they have spent the past few months on a working vacation at Grand Canyon National Park. They attended graduation exercises at Cass City High School for their son Leigh and they returned to Arizona last week end. Leigh and Lonnie accompanied their parents and all will spend the summer in Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arvay and sons of Owosso spent the Memorial week end with her father, Eugene Comment.

Week-end guests of Mrs. Mildred Mosack were her son and family, the E.

James Mosacks of Flint.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Reehl and son Pat of Dunedin, Fla., visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reehl Friday and Pat stayed for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reehl and family attended graduation exercises at Kingston

High School Sunday, when their niece, Dawn Reehl, graduated. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Reehl of Kingston. They hosted a graduation open house for her Sunday.

Robin Sullivan, student at Michigan State University, spent the holiday week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sullivan.

Guests last Wednesday of Mrs. Arthur Carolan were her daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Connors, her sister, Mrs. Mabel Day, and Mrs. Beatrice Langley, all of Caseville.

HEALTH TIPS

Helping drowning victims survive

Frank Chappell

With the return of warm weather the pools and beaches reopen for swimmers. Inevitably some of these swimmers will drown.

In trying to help someone who is in trouble in the water, remember to be careful of your own safety.

The drowning person can pull the rescuer down with him. Keep calm and do not overestimate your strength, says the American Medical Association's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care.

If the victim is near a pier or edge of the pool, hold out your hand or foot. Or toss a life preserver, or extend a pole, board, rope, towel, chair or anything handy.

If the victim is unconscious and you suspect a neck or back injury from diving, place a board under head and back while he is still in the water to prevent further damage. Lift him out on the board. Use a boat if the victim is some distance from the shore.

Start artificial breathing at once, before the victim is entirely out of the water. Use the mouth-to-mouth technique. Continue resuscitation on the bank.

First clear the mouth and airway of foreign matter. Tilt victim's head back, pinch his nostrils shut, cover the victim's mouth with your own and give four quick breaths.

Then give approximately 12 breaths per minute, until you see the victim's chest rise.

If the victim's stomach is bloated with swallowed water, put him on his stomach, place both hands on the stomach and lift.

Once breathing is restored, keep victim comfortably warm with blanket, coat or towels. Do not give food or water.

Call an ambulance, or take the victim to the nearest hospital with an emergency room.

If he is still unconscious have someone else drive so you can continue artificial breathing if necessary.

If there is no pulse, cardiac compression should be started. To be effective, this requires someone trained in the technique. It must be done at the same time as artificial breathing.

If the rescuer is alone, give 15 chest compressions, then two quick breaths. If two rescuers are present, one of them gives five chest compressions for each breath from the other.

People who have been submerged in cold water (below 70 degrees) often can survive without brain damage. Some victims have been under for as long as 38 minutes and still lived.

Mouth-to-mouth breathing and heart compression must be started as soon as possible and continued for several hours even if the victim appears dead.

Ministers reassigned

Pastors of local United Methodist churches have been reassigned for the coming year: Rev. P. Thomas Wachterhauser to Trinity church for a fourth year and Rev. Eldred L. Kelley to Salem church for a ninth year.

Rev. Wachterhauser and Mrs. Stuart Merchant as lay delegate from Trinity and Rev. Kelley and Mrs. Walter Jezewski, delegate from Salem church left Monday for Adrian to attend the annual church conference being held this week.

Announcement awaited for teacher group

The Tri-County Bargaining Association last Wednesday discussed the Cass City Board of Education's request for renegotiation of the teacher contract for 1982-83, but the decision won't be made public for a while yet.

The board voted at its May 10 meeting to ask the TCBA for "modification of the financial terms" of the contract, which presently calls for teachers to receive a 10 percent pay increase in 1982-83, the last year of a three-year contract.

The TCBA representatives at their monthly meeting in Cass City directed its executive director, Lee Longfield, a Michigan Education Association representative, to respond to the school board.

She told the Chronicle Friday she will be writing a response to the school board, possibly this week, explaining the TCBA's decision and won't make it public until the board is notified.

Mrs. Longfield stressed no TCBA decision is made without concurrence of the members of the MEA local.

The Millington and Tuscola Intermediate School Districts previously have asked the TCBA to renegotiate their contracts, but with the agreement of the teachers in those two districts, the requests were denied.

Funeral set Thursday for Ruth Ziehm

Ruth Louise Ziehm, 72, of Gagetown died Sunday at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw after a brief illness.

She was born Oct. 14, 1909, in Duplain Township, Clinton County, the daughter of George and Ruth (Lung) Morrice.

Miss Morrice married Basil Ziehm Oct. 27, 1928, in Alma. They made their home on a farm near Gagetown.

She was a member of Echo Chapter No. 337, Order of the Eastern Star, Cass City; the Gagetown United Methodist Church and the United Methodist Women.

She is survived by her husband; one son, Richard Ziehm, Gagetown; one daughter, Mrs. Dennis (Georgia) Condon, Okemos; two sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Henderson, Lansing, and Mrs. Dorothy Gilbert, Bloomingdale; three brothers, Charles Morrice, Lake Odessa, James Morrice, Imlay City, and Dr. George Morrice, of Newark, Ohio; six grandchildren, and one great-granddaughter. One brother, Alexander, preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. Thursday at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Myra Sparks of the Gagetown United Methodist Church officiating.

Burial will be in Elmwood Township Cemetery, Gagetown.
