

School honors Bonnie Bruner

Through the window of her first grade classroom at Campbell Elementary School, Bonnie Bruner could look at the courtyard.

She sometimes told her fellow educators how nice it would be to some day improve it.

Last Wednesday, the newly improved courtyard was dedicated in memory of the teacher, who was killed Jan. 29 in a traffic accident near Vassar. She had taught first grade at Campbell since the fall of 1973 and was 30 years old at the time of her death.

A memorial fund was established at the school following Miss Bruner's death. Contributions totaled $741, which were used to purchase two picnic tables and shrubs for the courtyard.

Last Wednesday afternoon, students and teachers at Campbell gathered in the courtyard for a brief program of remembrance and dedication.

Third grade teacher Frances Lovejoy recalled how she and Miss Bruner liked to look at the courtyard. "The memorial was done to help us remember someone who is special to us," she said.

Reading teacher Marilyn Peters read a poem entitled "Afterglow."

Principal Jacqueline Freiburger, who served as mistress of ceremonies, also talked about Miss Bruner and how the contributions made possible something she would have liked.

The ceremony ended with the students singing, "I'd Like to Teach the World to Sing."

Present for the program were Miss Bruner's father and brother, William and Harvey Bruner respectively, of Clip; her aunt and uncle, Earl and Joan Graves, Clio; cousin Karen Veihl and son Matthew, Clio; her aunt, Evelyn Bogart, Flint, and a friend of the family, Edna Whittman, Cass City.

Since her death, her mother, who had been in ill health, has died.

In addition to the monetary donations used to buy the picnic tables and shrubs, various businesses donated gravel to go around the shrubs, a couple of shrubs in addition to those purchased.

TEACHER REMEMBERED -- Harvey Bruner, with help from his father, William, pounds in the stake last Wednesday, that holds the plaque dedicating the Campbell Elementary School courtyard in memory of Bonnie Bruner, the sister of Harvey and daughter of William.

PICNIC TABLES in the Campbell Elementary School courtyard, purchased with funds donated in Bonnie Bruner's memory, are being used by students for studying outdoors. These first graders were her students. Carol Pasant took over the class following the teacher's death.

3 candidates seek 2 open Owen-Gage school posts

Residents of the Owendale-Gagetown School District Monday will be electing two of three candidates to the school board and vote on renewal of eight mills for school operations.

Running for the board are Jack Brinkman, 6057 N. Dodge Road, Cass City, and Duane Ziehm, 7927 McAlpine Road, Owendale, both incumbents, and Donna Salcido, 6572 Lincoln Street, Gagetown.

Voting will be in the Owendale Community Building, with polls open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

Brinkman, 49, is seeking his third four-year term on the board. He has been its treasurer for the past seven years.

A full-time farmer, he and his wife, Bonnie, have two children who have graduated from Owen-Gage.

Mrs. Salcido, 51, has been president of the Owen-Gage Band Boosters for five years, during which time it has raised $53,938, of which $39,028 was given to the band and the rest for other school projects.

She worked at now defunct Automotive Industries in Owendale for 26 years, then operated Donna's Restaurant in Gagetown for six years, until closing it three years ago, and now works 15 hours a week teaching retarded adults at the Caro Regional Center.

She and her husband, Tom, have two children who graduated from Owen-Gage and one who will be a senior this fall.

Ziehm, 49, was first elected to the board in 1978. He and his wife, Jeannine, have five children, all of whom have graduated from Owen-Gage.

Ziehm is a full-time cash crop farmer and a 1951 graduate of Owendale High School.

MILLAGE

Renewal of the eight mills will give the district a total of 26.75 mills for operations. The total millage on December tax bills, if the renewal is approved, will be less than last year, when there was a 1.2 mill levy to pay the $43,707 an arbitration panel ruled the district owed to Construction Coordinators Inc. That was for one year only.

The 3.2 mill debt levy of a year ago, according to Supt. Ronald Erickson, might be reduced by about 3-4 mill.

The reduction in millage, he said, won't quite offset the increase in valuation for some, which will mean an increase in taxes they pay.

The preliminary state equalized valuation of the district is $43.08 million, an increase of about 8.3 percent from last year.

Whether a property owner ultimately pays more in school taxes than he did last year, Erickson explained, depends on how big the SEV increase was in his township. If their percentage increase in valuation was more than the percentage decrease in the total millage, then they will pay more.

Under the new state "truth in taxation" law, the school board will have to conduct a public hearing to explain why it needs to levy the entire 26.75 mills assuming the renewal is approved.

There is no question Owen-Gage will need the revenue from the full levy, Erickson

Cass City votes Monday

Last chance for school programs

Voters in the Cass City School District will have a multiple choice when they go to the polls Monday.

There will be three millage proposals on the ballot: three mills for school transportation, two mills for school programs and a half-mill for extracurricular activities. All are for one year.

Only one candidate is running for the vacancy on the school board, Richard W. Wallace of 4693 N. Seeger

The 21.9 compares to a county average in 1981-82 of 25.4 mills and a state average of 30.2.

The school board has already voted on what cuts will be made in school programs if the millages are rejected.

Each mill levied raises a little less than $100,000 in combined local taxes and state aid.

The school district does not gain from increases in property owners' valuations, since the state aid formula guarantees a certain amount of money per pupil. As revenue from local taxes increases, state aid is reduced in the same amount.

BUSING EXTRACURRICULAR

Two of the millage proposals are easy to understand.

Three mills, which would raise a little less than $300,000 is for transportation. Of that, $3,000 is for crossing guards and the rest for school busing.

Without it, it means students and their parents will be responsible for getting themselves to school each day. For some, that would mean a drive of about 15 miles one way. About 70 percent of the district's students ride buses.

The school board has decided that Deford and Evergreen Elementary Schools will remain open in 1982-83.

A half-mill or about $50,000 is for extracurricular activities. The school district did not spend any money for the purpose this school year. All sports and other extracurricular activities were paid for by the Cass City Boosters, at a savings to the district of about $53,000.

Supt. Donald Crouse said the school board hasn't decided yet whether the Boosters will be allowed to raise funds in 1982-83 for extracurricular activities if the millage is defeated and the Boosters haven't decided if it will if the board gives its okay.

The board also hasn't decided, if the millage loses and the Boosters decline to fund extracurricular activities, whether it will permit high school varsity basketball, the only sport that makes a profit from spectator admissions, and one girls' sport.

PROGRAMMING

Defeat of the two mills for basic school programs, which would raise about $200,000, will mean fewer services and subjects for students and more students in many classes.

It will mean the layoff of the elementary-intermediate school librarian, the high school librarian and the school nurse. (A second, part-time, nurse is paid with federal Title I funds. Due to a drop in that revenue, it is expected she will also be laid off without librarians, Crouse said, school libraries may be locked or they may be open only when a teacher takes a class there.

At the elementary level, one elementary teacher and the elementary art and physical education positions (two teachers) will be eliminated from the payroll.

Because of declining enrollment, another elementary teaching position is to be eliminated. If the millage passes, the money saved, $12,500, will be spent for books, supplies and building maintenance.

Because the district has to pay unemployment compensation when it lays a teacher off, the actual annual savings is computed at $12,500, which is less than what their salary is.

At the intermediate school, students will lose the services of their one counselor.

At the high school, there will be four fewer teachers (plus a fifth one will be let go due to decreased enrollment).

Positions scheduled for layoff, according to Principal Russell Richards, are 1½ social studies-math, 1½ science-math, one English and one industrial arts teacher.

Which teachers actually lose their jobs depends on seniority and what they are certified to teach.

Money saved from the layoff of one teacher due to less enrollment, $12,500, will be used for books, supplies and maintenance if the millage passes.

Also scheduled for elimination if the two mills are defeated are the summer agriculture program (savings of $2,100), one part-time secretary in the superintendent's office ($3,750) and one head custodian ($14,340).

CASH SHORTAGE

Why are 5.5 mills and almost $550,000 more in revenue needed in order to maintain present school operations?

One reason is inflation.

Another is that Cass City has been using up its savings. The district started the present fiscal year with a fund equity of $167,000. By June 30, the end of the fiscal year, that should be down to $77,000 and it would have been $27,000 had the board bought two school buses, which it normally would have done.

The major reason for Cass City's financial problems, however, has been a decline in state aid.

In 1976-77, Lansing provided 57 percent of the district's general fund revenue, with the rest coming from local property taxes.

By 1980-81, state revenue slipped to 37 percent and this year, it is expected to be only 33 percent.

One reason for declining state revenue has been Michigan's financial problems.

The state cut $5,060 from Cass City's state aid check last December and has informed the district another $11,016 will be taken out of the August check. In addition, Gov. Milliken recently trimmed $50 million from the state budget, which will probably work out to an added $6,000 cut in aid, Crouse estimated.

More serious has been declining enrollment the past few years, which is directly tied to state aid. Cass City had 109 fewer students during the school year that ends this week than it did in 1980-81, which cost it about $163,000 in revenue from Lansing.

To offset losses in revenue, the district cut a total of almost $344,000 from the budget during the 1980-81 and '81-82 school years and cut 10% teachers and two bus drivers from the payroll, according to information prepared by the superintendent for the April millage campaign.

At a glance — the 3 millage proposals

•3 mills for bus transportation and crossing guards.

•2 mills for school programs. Defeat will mean layoff of both school librarians, nurse, one elementary teacher, elementary art teacher, elementary physical education teacher, intermediate school counselor, four high school teachers, one head custodian, plus other cuts.

•1/2 mill for sports and other extracurricular activities.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Clare Mellendorf was busy buffing a car this week and remarked as I watched that the paint was really faded. That's the sun, he said. It sure is hard on cars. Quickly now, I answered, is that spelled sun or son.

The community was buzzing this week about Carrie Lautner's two state track records. It may be years before another state champion comes from Cass City. A dual championship? Maybe never.

Chances are good that this outstanding athlete won't be able to represent the school next spring because of financial problems. That's sad.

Speaking of the school and the millage votes, I keep thinking that the paper should say something about it other than the factual reporting of the event itself.

The stickler is, say what? It's all been said so many times before there's nothing left. Nothing's changed except the opportunity to approve part of the school program and not another.

We approve of them all and will vote that way again, hoping against hope that at least some of the program will be funded this time around.

Bob Stickle was in the office Tuesday talking about campaign literature and how to go about getting the most exposure for his money. Stickle is seeking the GOP nomination for state representative, 77th district.

You need that literature, I said, but nothing beats personal contact.

I know that, Stickle said, and "you know something else, I'm looking forward to it."

Spoken like a born politician.

EUROPE HOUND -- Cass City High School band members Tracy Green (left) and Chris Langenburg (center) will be participating in the 13th annual Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp tour of Europe this summer. Tracy and Conductor Donald Flickinger hold a gift from the community of Frankfurt, West Germany, received during the 1981 tour. The Blue Lake band, orchestra, choir and jazz band will leave Detroit June 21, and perform in The Netherlands, West Germany, France, Belgium and Austria before returning July 19.

Stickle seeks GOP nod for 77th district post

Cass City Intermediate School Principal Robert L. Stickle has announced he will seek the Republican nomination for the 77th District House of Representatives seat being vacated with the retirement of Rep. Loren Armbruster.

A native of Mt. Pleasant, the 57-year-old Stickle completed his education in the Mt. Pleasant area and served with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers during World War II. He was decorated with the meritorious service award for his action in Germany's Saar River Valley.

Stickle graduated from Central Michigan University in 1951 and completed school administration graduate work at Michigan State University in 1968.

He taught government and economics for 12 years, one year in the Farwell school system and one year at L'Anse Cruese Schools near Mt. Clemens. He then came to Cass City where he taught 10 years before becoming an administrator.

He was principal of Deford Elementary School, assistant high school principal and for the past 15 years has been Intermediate School Principal.

Stickle also was athletic director for 12 years and served for 10 years as director of federal programs for the school system.

He is a member and past-president of Cass City Gavel Club, board member and past president of the Thumb Meet of Champions, member of the Thumb Area Reading Council and member and secretary-treasurer of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

Stickle and his family are active members of the Trinity United Methodist Church, where he has been a member of its administrative board.

Stickle and his wife, Barbara, have three children, Mrs. Diane MacDonald of Caseville, Tim of Seattle, Wash., and Pam Stickle of Kalamazoo. They also have three grandchildren.

The Haire Net

Okay, it's time for another session of answers to questions you never asked on topics of the day. Sit back and get the straight dope right here.

QUESTION -- How do you feel about the proposed addition of land to the Cass City Recreational Park?

ANSWER -- Negative, thank you. Right now Cass City simply has the best recreational facility in the Thumb, bar none.

Without going into figures, it costs taxpayers plenty to keep it going and it's worth it. It would be nice to have another 1.6 acres. Nice but not at all necessary. Spending $41,900 plus interest at this time when all taxpayers' costs are rising and many are without jobs is hard to justify.

QUESTION -- That's the way you feel. How do you know what the taxpayers really feel about it?

ANSWER -- I have my suspicions but I don't really know. The only way to tell is to put it to a vote. That's the very least that the council could do before spending our money.

QUESTION -- I see where Editor Mike Eliasohn thinks the teachers in Cass City should accept a pay freeze. How come you feel that way?

ANSWER -- That's a common mistake that many readers make. They assume because Mike in his column expresses an opinion that it reflects my opinion. It often doesn't.

In this instance it doesn't. My stand is squarely on the fence. I see merit on both sides.

Certainly teachers with one family income aren't rolling in wealth. Teachers in Cass City aren't overpaid when compared to teachers in other systems.

Freeze advocates can look at the general economy and the necessary belt tightening and say why don't the teachers do the same and they have a case.

The kicker for teachers is that the school isn't going to move away like a factory does and how many of you would feel obligated to give away hard fought gains if your job wasn't at stake?

When the contract comes up for renewal is the time for some tough economic bargaining. Until then live with it.

QUESTION -- What happened to that plant from Caro that was supposedly on the fence about moving to Cass City?

ANSWER -- My belief without any concrete facts to support it except that the plant is still in Caro is that the owners were using Cass City as a wedge to wring concession out of Caro.

Regardless of the results the men working to secure the plant deserve an A for effort and next time the outcome might be different. You have to keep trying.

"If It Fitz ..."

Sharing irritation

By Jim Fitzgerald

The husband thinks the wife is trying to drive him crazy.

He has seen several movies, such as "Gaslight," where the villain drives his spouse batty by rearranging the living room furniture after she goes to bed at night and then, the next morning, denying he did it. The poor woman thinks she must have done it herself, in her sleep, and she goes crazy from worrying that some morning she will wake up to discover she spent the previous night in a U-Haul truck moving all their furniture into a motel room with porno movies on cable TV.

The villain's motive for rearranging furniture is to get his wife committed to a group home so her new neighbors will murder her for lowering property values, thus allowing him to inherit her estate and marry the wealthy blonde who rented him the U-Haul truck and who is so rich she can afford to pay his inheritance taxes.

The husband suspects his wife has a similar motive for trying to drive him crazy. His suspicions were first aroused when, for 10 mornings in a row, he found his toothbrush in a different slot than he'd left it the night before.

There is a built-in toothbrush holder just below the medicine cabinet in the bathroom shared by the husband and wife. He knows, from reading advice columns and plumbing fixture ads, that the couple who stays together toilets apart, in separate bathrooms. But the second bathroom in their home isn't adequate because there is always an oven grill or a shag rug soaking in the bathtub. Years ago, he thought this continual soaking was designed to drive him crazy, but the wife denied it. She said sharing the bathtub with large, dirty, inanimate objects was simply the penalty he had to pay for forcing her to live in an apartment 26 floors above the swimming pool.

Anyway, half of the toothbrush holder swivels away from the wall, and it is in this half that the husband always slots his toothbrush. So, when he began getting up in the morning to find his toothbrush slotted in the other half of the holder, he at first thought his wife was brushing with his brush and putting it back in the wrong place. When she denied this, and the toothbrush continued to wake up in the wrong slot, he began to wonder if he'd gone nuts. This possibility was completely eliminated when he scored in the top 10 percent in a Cosmopolitan magazine mental test.

So he decided the wife had also seen "Gaslight" and wanted to inherit his estate.

In self-defense, he got up early one morning and peeked into the bathroom while the wife was brushing her teeth. He saw her use her own brush, but he also saw her reslot his brush. Caught with the smoking toothbrush in her hand, she claimed she was simply teaching him a lesson in sharing. She wanted him to share her irritation.

It isn't easy to remove a toothbrush slotted in the half of the holder that doesn't swivel away from the wall. The toothbrush must be pulled directly up, and cannot be pulled toward the teeth, until it is completely out of the slot. But, unless there is no handle attached to the bristles, the toothbrush hits the bottom of the medicine cabinet before it is completely out of the slot. This is awkward.

The only way to free the toothbrush is to open the medicine cabinet and push up the bottom shelf. This provides enough room to remove the toothbrush while a can of shaving cream and several bottles of medicine crash onto the sink.

"That's what I go through every morning of my life because I keep my toothbrush on the side that doesn't swivel so you can keep yours on the side that does," the wife explained. "The only reason I moved your toothbrush for a few mornings was so you could appreciate how the other half of this marriage lives. I'm not trying to drive you crazy ..."

She said more than that but the husband didn't hear her because of the awful noise he was making by blowing air through his closed mouth while strumming his lips with the fingers of both hands.

State Fair premium books set

The Michigan State Fair is offering premium books for entrants who would like to participate in this year's fair.

The fair begins Aug. 27, but many of the Michigan residents who annually participate start work on entries months in advance. The total prize money for this year is $215,000, in addition to ribbons, trophies, gifts and plaques.

The premium books contain entry forms and information about contest rules and fees.

Several premium books are available. They are Community Arts, (baking, canning and crafts); Fine Arts, (paintings, drawings, photographs, sculptures); Horse Show; Youth Division, (ages 8 through 19); Special Events, (husband calling, baton twirling); Livestock, and Poultry, Rabbits, Pigeons and Cavies which cover the agriculture, floriculture, horticulture and wine show.

Persons who have entered the fair within the last four years will automatically be sent a premium book.

Deadline for entries is Aug. 1 for all divisions except the horse show, which are due July 20. Entry books can be obtained without charge by writing Entry Department, Michigan State Fairgrounds, Detroit 48203.

Walpole sees Good times

Dear John:

For some time since the article published in the Chronicle on April 22, 1982, I have been attempting to write to you regarding Walbro Corporation and its future. As founder and Chairman of the Board, I have been deeply concerned with Walbro's poor showing in 1981 and the losses to date in 1982 as reported to our stockholders and the press in general.

Walbro, as you know, began as a dream in 1950 (it has proven to be more than just a dream) in Fenton, Michigan, where it struggled for four years to get established as a potential manufacturer of carburetors for small gasoline engines.

We were romanced, through the work of the Cass City Development Corporation, to move to this outstanding small community in August 1954. The development board provided us with a new 6,000 square foot building and even provided some capital to help this struggling enterprise.

Since moving to Cass City, the management has seen fit to enlarge facilities and to lease other buildings so that today Walbro has in excess of 50,000 square feet of plant and office facilities.

Over the intervening years we have been successful in promoting our carburetor line and in order to more fully serve our customers, we acquired other businesses, such as the Auto-pulse Electric Fuel Pump Div. now located in Caro, Michigan; Arjay Manufacturing Company, a plastics injection molding operation, now located in Bad Axe, and the Auburn Diecast Company, manufacturer of aluminum and magnesium die castings, located in Auburn, Michigan.

There followed expansion of carburetor facilities to Japan, Mexico and Singapore with engineering and sales offices in Stuttgart, West Germany.

The Company has been successful to the extent of being moderately profitable during all of the years, except the first, of operation here. It has provided substantial employment in the community and surrounding area, as well as giving support to most programs for community betterment.

The year 1981, and this year as well, produced loss of profits from operations that naturally cause us deep concern, primarily because of unemployment to many people and question of dividends to stockholders who have invested their savings in the Company. I am a confirmed optimist and while our beloved country is going through tremendous changes, I feel it is important to state that I feel certain we are nearing the end of the mis-named recession and approaching a period of unprecedented growth. Walbro and its fine family of employees are working diligently to bring this to pass quickly.

There are a number of new and exciting products coming to market. There is a greater sense of togetherness at Walbro than I have witnessed in many years. The management team sees the opportunities that lie ahead and the workers in the plants, through the United Auto Workers union, have just concluded a three-year labor contract where concessions were made that will be very helpful to the future of this Company and directly help in bringing employment back to where it has been in previous years, and hopefully even more.

We, as citizens of this great United States, have the opportunity to bless our world and the future of mankind by the fact that because we are a free nation and have always been very generous in helping others less fortunate, we can lead the world to much better times. The world is looking for our help and guidance and we must not fail in being a generous nation of good people.

Let us all work together for good. Let us be the leaders in development of making Cass City and Michigan the best in the world. Walbro pledges to do it.

W.E. Walpole

Letters to the Editor

The Chronicle welcomes letters to the editor.

Letters must include: the writer's name, address and telephone number. The latter is in case it is necessary to call for verification, but won't be used in the newspaper.

Young Author's committee lauded

Thank you members of the Young Author's Committee! Tonight I had a 20 minute discussion on authors with my son, at his initiation. Young Author's Day was a great thing for him and us.

He concluded with the feeling that even he is old enough to have his thoughts on paper. (as long as I do the writing!) Isn't it great that our kids have opportunities like this that interest them enough that they share them with us? It was a good way to end the school year.

Herbicide testing at local farms

Farmers can evaluate the effectiveness of soil-incorporated herbicides during the Herbicide-Tillage Incorporated Field Day July 1, near Reese, in Tuscola County.

Twenty-five corn plots in which three combinations of grass herbicides were incorporated with seven incorporation tools can be compared to trial plots where herbicides were not worked into the soil.

Field day activities run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Robert Kern farm. Pub parking is being provided at Reese High School. Buses will transport visitors to the site every 15 minutes. Food service will be available.

William Bortel, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service director in Tuscola County, says visitors will be able to evaluate the effectiveness of once-over herbicide incorporation and each piece of tillage equipment used in the trials.

Special photography will reveal the effectiveness of the different types of tillage equipment by showing the patterns of fluorescent dye that was used with the herbicides.

Exhibits from herbicide and tillage equipment companies will also be on display.

The field day is sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

tion with local agribusinesses and agencies. Further information can be obtained from Bortel at (517) 673-3161.

Pedaling Around

Joys of camping

By Mike Eliasohn

In a recent issue of Parade magazine, actress Margot Kidder rhapsodized about going home and camping-out with her six-year-old daughter.

She wrote about swimming in water "as refreshing as the first day of spring" and looking at "layer upon layer of stars."

"I stared into the sky for a long time and slowly, one by one, the various upshots in mind quieted into murmurs and then fell silent until I just sat there with no thoughts at all . . . This is what they call peace."

Ms. Kidder may have found rapture camping in the semi-wilds of British Columbia, a couple of miles from her parents' house, but that's because she never had to camp in the mud, scratch chiggers or have ants crawling in her mess kit.

Of course, she was never in the Army, Canadian or U.S.

They don't call it camping in the Army. I don't remember what it was officially called. I think the generally used phrase was being "in the field."

Being in a field probably would have been okay, but I can remember in the Army camping in mud for two weeks. A picnic it was not.

That was at Fort Knox, Ky., where rain seemed to be the norm when I was there.

Actually, it didn't rain all the time when I was there for my basic and advanced individual training. When most of our activities were scheduled inside, it didn't rain.

But if we were to be outside all day or days at a time, it rained.

My advanced individual training was as an armored reconnaissance scout.

None of us basic training graduates knew what an armored reconnaissance scout was until our first training session. The reaction of a friend of mine upon being told was typical: "We're all going to get killed."

Fortunately for me, I lived. As for my friend, the last I heard he was trying to avoid being hit by rockets in Vietnam.

As part of our advanced individual training to prepare us to be the eyes and ears of the Army, we had to spend the aforementioned two weeks "camping" in the mud.

That's when I found out what chiggers are. I never saw any of them but I sure felt them. For the unknown, Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary defines them as "a six-legged mite larva that sucks the blood of vertebrates and causes intense irritation."

Making the irritation worse is that they congregated around my waist, which was also being aggravated by the weight of the canteen belt resting on and rubbing my hips.

Now for the ants. Washing of mess kits in the field -- that's what soldiers eat their food on, for the unknown -- consists of dipping it into boiling water.

Unfortunately, that doesn't get rid of the grease from eggs, I found when I got my mess kit to eat dinner one day, that a group of ants were crawling around in the grease from the eggs.

After that, I either didn't eat eggs for breakfast or had them placed on top of a piece of bread.

The best thing I can say about my Army camping days is I never got shot at.

I got smart after I got out of the Army and went camping. I took the passenger seat out of my Gremlin and replaced it with a plywood platform on which I slept. It kept me off the ground and away from the ants and chiggers.

That's a solution that only works if you're single, however, and not for everybody who is single.

On a trip out west in 1970, I met two brothers who were returning to college in Montana from their home out east.

They had two tents because one of the brothers was traveling with his very attractive girl friend.

The one brother and his girl friend slept in one tent. As for the frustrated other brother, all he had for company in his tent was chiggers and ants.

If anyone is wondering: Although I feel Cass City teachers should accept a pay freeze, as I said in this space two weeks ago, I still plan to vote for all three millage proposals Monday.

CMU graduates 7 area students

Seven area students were among the graduating class of Central Michigan University May 15.

Paula Butler received her bachelor of science degree in public health with a minor in biology.

Miss Butler will leave June 21 to begin her field training in North Carolina. She will work as a volunteer at a clinic or hospital for the American Heart Association.

Paula Butler

At Central, Miss Butler was a member of Eta Sigma Gamma, a national health honorary and the National Athletic Trainers Association.

When she finishes her internship, Miss Butler plans to go out west with some friends to find work.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butler of Huron Line Road graduated from Cass City High School in 1978.

Scott Richards graduated magna cum laude with a bachelor of science degree in psychology with a double minor in sociology and recreation.

Scott Richards

Richards is the co-director at the Cass City swimming pool and plans to go to the University of Michigan in September to get his master's degree in psychiatric social work.

Richards was a member of the Recreation Club and the honor society while at Central. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Richards, 4642

Seeger, graduated from Cass City High School in 1978.

Barb Tuckey received her bachelor of applied arts degree from CMU in court and conference reporting with a minor in office-clerical.

Miss Tuckey graduated cum laude which means she had a 3.5 grade point average or better overall.

She is looking for a job in the Bad Axe area.

Barb Tuckey

Miss Tuckey will be married in September to Don Doerr of Cass City.

She graduated from Cass City High School in 1978 and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Tuckey of 4535 Downing Susan Caister has a bachelor of science degree in dietetics with a minor in science.

Mrs. Caister is a dietician, but will not be registered until after she takes an exam next year. She is working in St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw as a food service employee.

Susan Caister

In September, Mrs. Caister will go to Cincinnati, Ohio, where she will intern at Christ Hospital doing administrative and clinical duties.

She was married May 29 to Durrell Caister. They live at 4730 Hunt Street.

Mrs. Caister is a 1978 graduate of Cass City High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Russell of Cass City.

Colleen Truemner graduated with a bachelor's degree in social work. She has a minor in family life and human sexuality.

Colleen Truemner

Miss Truemner is looking for employment in Saginaw.

During her senior year at CMU, she was an intern at Central Michigan Community Hospital working in patient relations, her area of specialty.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Truemner, 5548 E. Cass City Road, graduated from Cass City High School in 1978.

Ross Ridenour graduated cum laude with a bachelor of science degree in business administration. His double major was management and computer science.

Ross Ridenour

Ridenour will be leaving for California this month, where he has a job in San Jose with the FMC Corp. He will work as a computer programmer.

At Central, Ridenour was a member of the Data Processing Management Association.

A graduate of Cass City High School in 1978, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ridenour, 4885 N. Seeger Street.

Dawn Erickson received a BS degree in business administration and is now job hunting.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Erickson of 3454 Sixth Street, Owendale, is a 1978 graduate of Owendale-Gagetown High School.

Mark J. Kubacki, 5, was struck by a car Sunday afternoon on West Huron Avenue in Bad Axe, city police reported.

He was listed in fair condition at Huron Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe with a fractured leg and multiple contusions.

Albert C. La Voy, 60, of Bad Axe, said he was driving east on Huron Avenue near Cleveland Street when he saw three young children approaching. He said the young boy ran out in front of his car and he applied his brakes but could not stop in time.

La Voy struck the boy who was thrown onto the hood and then slid back to the ground.

Kubacki is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kubacki of 7728 Bay City-Forestville Road.

The article in the June 3 Chronicle about the purchase of the Wickes Agriculture Division by the Pillsbury Co. incorrectly said that the Wickes elevator in Gagetown was part of the sale.

The article should have said the Wickes elevator in Owendale. The elevator in Gagetown is owned by Agri Sales Inc.

Soil, resources surveyed in Tuscola County

Tuscola County is one of 18 counties in Michigan where soil and water resource information will be collected this summer for the USDA National Resources Inventory.

Soil conservationists are collecting data from 106 primary sample units in Tuscola County.

Based on their data, the conservationists will record information on land use, land ownership, cropping history, conservation treatment and factors affecting wind and water erosion. The information is a small part of a nation-wide survey that will determine the condition of the nation's soil and water resources.

Also in Tuscola County, the Tuscola Soil Conservation District is continuing its progressive soil survey.

Strawberry Race set

The second annual Elkhon Strawberry Festival Road Race will be run Saturday, June 19, at 9:00 a.m. A 10 kilometer race along with a two mile race is planned. Awards will be given for both races. Registration will take place at Ackerman Memorial Park the morning of the race from 7:45 to 8:45 a.m. The cost of registration will be $3.00 and this will include a T-shirt. Runners that do not wish to receive a T-shirt will be charged $3.

The mapping crew is working in Denmark and Juniata Townships, and will survey Ellington, Indianfields, Fremont, Watertown, Wells, and Dayton townships later this year.

To date, 332,165 acres have been surveyed, almost 63 percent of the county.

The soil survey is an inventory of the existing soil condition which describes the type of material, its drainage, its slope and suitability for different land uses.

Any landowners who want more information can call the Tuscola Soil Conservation District in Caro.

MEMORY BOY by Victor Canning (fiction). Thirteen-year-old Peter Courtney has the unusual ability to memorize without effort, verse or prose spoken aloud. Later, if given the opening lines, he is able to repeat the entire passage word for word. Since his father has been having Peter perform before small groups, the boy's talent comes to the attention of the British Secret Service, which needs someone to retrieve important information from a French count who refuses to commit anything to paper or tape. Herein lies danger for Peter.

ANNE'S HEAD by Carol O'Brien Blum (fiction). Catherine O'Brien triumphantly manages her large Irish immigrant family, but neither she nor anyone else can save her daughter, who has taken up with a shady woman-beating lawyer. Five weeks after leaving home, the daughter is reported dead and buried in Chicago. Catherine's policeman son silently bears the knowledge of an official coverup to avoid a family scandal. It is at the 1902-45 St. Louis Fair that Catherine ultimately takes her pitiable, proud revenge.

THE BURDEN IS LIGHT: The autobiography of a transformed pagan who took God at his word (non-fiction) by Eugenia Price. Originally published in 1955, this autobiography includes a final updating chapter in which the author looks back over 20 years to the headstrong young woman she once was and to the about-face she made in her life. A successful network writer and producer who held only scorn for believers, Price met a girlhood friend who deftly and humbly helped her in the struggle toward faith and a new direction for her life. After her conversion she became writer, director, and producer of the Chicago-based Saturday night radio program, "Unshackled," which portrayed the life stories of others who had experienced conversion. There is pathos and humor in her account of life in Chicago.

Protect horses from disease

By William Bortel

Eastern equine encephalomyelitis, also referred to as sleeping sickness, has been a problem in Michigan during the past two summers.

There were 90 confirmed cases in 1980 and another 50 in 1981. Most of the cases were in Kalamazoo and St. Joseph Counties, but by 1981 the disease had spread east to Washtenaw County.

Encephalomyelitis is a mosquito-transmitted viral disease that is carried by birds. The virus is spread to horses by another type of mosquito. It bites the infected bird and picks up the virus, which multiplies in the mosquito's gut for 10 days to two weeks. It is then passed to a horse through the mosquito's saliva when the horse is bitten.

The virus invades the brain tissue and spinal cord of the horse and disrupts their functions. The horse experiences a rise in temperature, becomes depressed and develops a poor appetite. It then has trouble eating and drinking and typically goes into convulsions and then a coma before it dies. Animals that do survive this usually fatal disease suffer debilitations.

Humans can also contract the disease from mosquitoes. Though human cases are rare, the disease is fatal.

Many questions about the disease have not been answered. For example, H.D. Newson, medical entomologist with MSU, says it is not known how the virus overwinters. "We just don't know what happens to the virus at the times of the year when the mosquito is not active," he says.

There is no effective treatment for equine encephalomyelitis. The only effective means of combating the disease in Michigan's 220,000 to 250,000 horses is by vaccination.

The protection from the vaccine takes 10 days to two weeks to become effective and lasts six to nine months.

Though the disease has shown up only in the lower peninsula, all horse owners across the state should consider having their horse immunized. Because of the way horses travel around, horses from the Upper Peninsula could come to a fair in an area where the disease is breaking out.

Trial proves innocence of two charged in destruction

Two men were found innocent in Tuscola County Circuit Court and another guilty this past week.

Willie A. Wright, 32, of 1082 Terry Avenue, Mount Morris, and Alvin Thrasher were found not guilty in a two-day trial last Thursday and Friday.

They were charged with entering the lands of Sargent Sand and Gravel in Vassar and destroying trees, timber, and wood Oct. 9, 1981.

The value of the destroyed property was roughly $25 and they were held on $5,000 bond.

The jury Friday found them not guilty and canceled their bond.

Arthur L. Brinkman, 35, was found guilty on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Brinkman, of 4349 Maple Street was stopped Oct. 31, 1981 and officers found a concealed weapon in his automobile. He was being held with $15,000 bond.

Bruce Brooks, 30, of 3234 Fulton in Saginaw entered a plea of guilty to uttering and publishing a check for $147.50.

Sentencing is set for July 26 and bond is $10,000.

A plea of guilty to unarmed robbery, assault with a dangerous weapon, and escape, has been entered for John A. Pashotte, 23, of 706 1/2 Cedar Street, Standish.

The charges stem from two incidents July 8, 1981 in Caro when Pashotte stole a revolver from David Kennard, of 5852 Pinkerton, Vassar, and then attacked Kennard with the weapon.

The third charge is for attacking a custodian in the Tuscola County jail.

Bond for Pashotte is $100,000 and he will be sentenced Aug. 2.

Leland W. Audet, 30, was arraigned on a criminal sexual conduct charge.

Audet, of 6956 Millington entered a plea of innocent. He is charged with engaging in sexual conduct with two minors.

Audet is being held on $20,000 bond and sentencing is scheduled for Sept. 7.

A plea of guilty was entered for Brenda Hildinger, 19, of 2445 W. Deckerville, Caro. She is charged with delivery of marijuana on Jan. 28, 1981.

Bond has been set at $5,000 and she will be sentenced Aug. 2.

There was a motion to set bond in the trial of David E.

King, 17, of 2774 Mertz Road, Caro, for probation violation. Bond was established at $10,000.

DISTRICT COURT

Alice LeLito, 53, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of intoxicants. LeLito, of 1609 Kingston Road, Deford, was put on one year's probation and ordered to pay a $98 fine and $152 in court costs.

The conviction stems from a drunk driving incident in Cass City where she was arrested May 26 after officers stopped her car on South Seeger Street.

Also receiving one year's probation is Charles E. Damoth. He was found guilty of larceny under $100.

Damoth, of 6437 Main Street, was charged with stealing a citizen's hand radio. He was ordered to pay a $98 fine and $152 in court fees.

English angora raised for hobby and money

The furry little creature is an English Angora rabbit.

Her name is Charlotte.

Every 10-12 weeks, her owner, Sarah Watros of 5620 DeLong Road, will harvest another crop of angora wool that will be sent to the spinner and will eventually be used in making angora sweaters.

This is only one of about 20 angoras owned by Mrs. Watros.

"I wanted to start a hobby. I saw these rabbits before, made some phone calls and finally I got one from a breeder in Augusta, west of Battle Creek," Mrs. Watros said.

Angoras cost about $20-30 each compared to maybe $3.50 for a regular rabbit, according to Mrs. Watros.

"I will get about $2 an ounce for the wool," Mrs. Watros said. "And the heavier the wool is, the more I get from one rabbit."

Gerald Hurshburger, 68, of Wilmot died Tuesday, June 8, 1982, at Caro Community Hospital after a long illness.

He was born Feb. 11, 1914, in Bannister, MI., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elgie Hurshburger.

He married Miss Ada Barrons Sept. 16, 1937, in Angola, Ind. They made their home in Wilmot where he has lived until his death.

Hurshburger was a member of the Mt. Moriah Lodge F and AM No. 226 of Caro and a life member of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Bay City.

He is survived by his wife, Ada; one son, Gerald L. Hurshburger of Bay City; one sister, Mrs. Bernard Croteau of Venice, Florida) and one brother, Floyd Hurshburger of Battle Creek.

A Masonic Memorial Service will be Thursday at 8 p.m. at Cass City's Funeral Home.

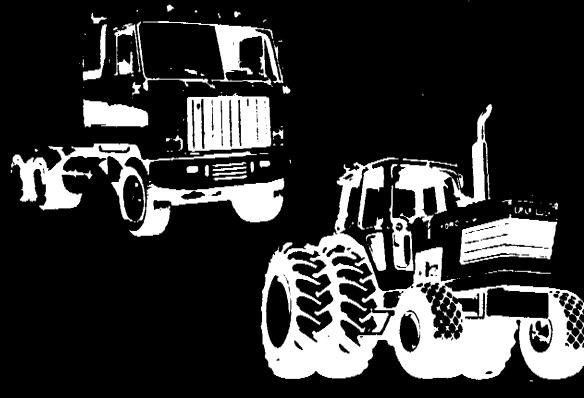

Services for Mr. Hurshburger will be conducted Friday at 1 p.m. from Little's Funeral Home with Rev. Robert Cameron, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church of Sandusky, officiating.

Interment will be in Indianfields Cemetery, Caro.

HEALTH TIPS

Home accidents often preventable

Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
AMA

Deaths and injuries in the home from accidents often result from improper equipment or the improper use of equipment. The only answer is never-ending vigilance. The so-called "freak" accident usually is not all that unusual. It most likely has happened before. In other homes, and often could have been prevented, the American Medical Association points out. More than 10 percent of home deaths result from a variety of causes, including drowning, electricity, lawn mowers and falling objects. Deaths from drowning occur in home swimming pools, bathtubs and wash-tubs and ponds. Pools should be securely fenced, and reliable adults should be present when the pool is in use. Poles, ropes and life preservers should be readily available. Young children must not be left alone in the bathtub or washtub even for short periods. Boiling or very hot water on the stove or in the laundry is a common cause of death to inquisitive toddlers. Extreme caution with power lawnmowers and other power gardening tools is important to safety. In addition to the danger from the whirling blades, stones and objects can be thrown with lethal force. Search the lawn carefully for rocks, bolts and other such objects before mowing. Power mowers should not be operated by children. Home injuries and deaths result from a mixture of factors — the individual, the environment and the particular hazard involved. Remember that home accident is usually a misnomer. What happens is predictable and almost always preventable. Your job is to anticipate and prevent.

No injuries in three accidents reported by Cass City Police

There were no injuries reported in three traffic accidents in Cass City this past week.

Melanie A. Smith, 22, of 6632 Houghton Street, was cited for failing to yield when her car struck another car on Main Street last Wednesday morning at 8:10 a.m.

The second car, driven by Robert S. O'Dell, 20, of 7510 Hadley Road was headed west on M-81. Ms. Smith stopped at the intersection of Sherman Street and M-81. A truck passed, and she failed to see the second car, and hit the left side of O'Dell's vehicle.

Arthur F. Ebert, of 2791 N. Sturm, Pigeon, struck a vehicle on Houghton Street as he was backing out of a driveway.

Ebert, 71, hit the driver's door of a vehicle that was legally parked on Houghton Street.

The parked car was owned by Joyce Spencer of Caro Road.

Ebert was cited for improper backing in the accident that happened at 2:55 p.m. last Wednesday.

A car driven by Judy D. Rabideau, 42, of 111 Christy, Pontiac, was struck by a car backing out of a driveway on Pine Street Saturday.

Ms. Rabideau and a passenger, Shannon Zuck, 2 weeks old, also of Pontiac, were driving east on Pine Street when they were struck by a car driven by Renee M. Erla, 19, of 6779 Pine Street as she was backing out of a driveway at the same address.

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department was called to the site of three accidents this past week, one in which the driver sustained only minor injuries.

Kathy L. Cosway, 17, was driving on Mayville Road at 1 a.m. Monday, when her car skidded off the north shoulder in foggy weather.

Cosway, of 6315 Wilcox, Deford, overcorrected and swung her car across the road to the south shoulder where she went into a ditch. The car rolled over once and landed on its wheels.

Cosway sustained minor injuries and sought her own treatment.

Mrs. Auvil graduated from Cass City High School in 1964.

Crash kills Fairgrove man

Steve Gutierrez, 53, of Fairgrove was killed in an auto accident on M-138 Sunday evening.

Tuscola County Sheriff's Deputies said Gutierrez, of 6099 W. Fairgrove Road was dead on arrival at Bay Medical Center.

The accident occurred when Gutierrez's car was hit broadside by a car driven by Robert M. Edwards, 33, of Owosso. Edwards was traveling south on Bradleyville Road when he hit Gutierrez who was traveling west on M-138.

Deputies said Edwards failed to stop at a stop sign at the Gifford Township intersection.

Edwards and his wife, Suzanne, 32, and their children, Daniel, 10, and Robert C., were in fair condition in Bay Medical Center, while another child, Marie, 2, was treated.

The accident was the sixth traffic fatality this year, and is still under investigation.

Driver of wrecked truck found

Sheriff's deputies have identified the driver of a pickup truck that caught fire last Monday on Severance Road.

The driver was Kirk D. Hunter, 17, of 6954 Pine Street. The passenger in the truck has been identified as Paul Bessler, 17, of DeLong Road.

Hunter is being charged with driving under the influence of liquor.

Hunter was driving a pickup truck registered to Gerald Howard, of 3275 Cemetery Road. Hunter lost control of the vehicle and ran into a drain culvert on Severance Road. The truck bounced and hit another culvert, overturned and caught fire.

Deputies arrested Hunter at this residence May 31 and issued a ticket for driving under the influence.

At his arraignment, Hunter pleaded guilty and a charge of receiving and con-

Hunter was released from

Your Neighbor says

Economy will be better by the fall

Michigan has one of the highest rates of unemployment in the nation. Its economy is in bad shape and the state is operating at a deficit.

Michigan's example is only one part of a nationwide recession whose grip on the economy is stronger than many thought it would be.

Pearl Parsell thinks there will be an upswing in the next few months.

"I think the recession is at its lowest point right now. It will be a while before it picks up again, but I think it will soon," Mrs. Parsell said.

Mrs. Parsell, of 2917 Thomas Road in Fairgrove, is hoping the upswing will come in September or October.

"I think it will be in the fall when things will begin to turn around."

Because of the recession, her family has had to do without some of the niceties in life.

"I have had to hold back on a lot of things for the children. This year, they won't be going to camp like they usually do, and I have not been able to take them to sporting events because I have to use the money for something else."

Mrs. Parsell has two children, Jeffrey, 10, and Cassandra, 12.

"Jobwise, the recession hasn't affected us. My husband Gene is still working," Mrs. Parsell said.

"The main place it hurt is in the extra amount of money we have to spend on necessities."

Irrigation tour set

Tuesday, July 6, Michigan State University is sponsoring a tour of irrigation systems near Munger in Bay County.

The tour begins at 10 a.m. at 4M Farms located on the corner of Farley and Schoof Roads. Farmers will be able to see a center pivot irrigation on beets, corn and potatoes and a hard hose traveler system on potatoes. To get there, drive one mile east of Munger on M-138 and turn north on Farley and go 2½ miles until Schoof.

The next stop will be at the K & L Schultz Farm on S.E. Boutell. This features a center pivot with cornering system on corn and soybeans. To reach the farm go one mile west of M-15 on M-138 and go one-fourth mile north on Boutell.

At both stops Dr. Maurice Vitosh, crops specialist from MSU, will discuss irrigation management and fertilization and Dr. Ted Loudon, MSU agricultural engineer, will talk about irrigation systems and water rights.

At noon the tour meets at the Char House Restaurant on M-15 just south of 22nd Street on the south end of Bay City. After lunch, Lynn Sampson, Bay County soil conservationist, will discuss soil survey, irrigation and drainage in irrigation.

The tour is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University. No reservations are needed. For more information, contact tour coordinator Warren Schauer at the Bay County Cooperative Extension Service at 893-3523 or county extension office.

Trinity women meet Monday

Thirty women attended the Monday evening meeting of United Methodist Women at Trinity UM Church. Dinner was served by group 5 with Mrs. Grant Hutchinson, chairman.

Mrs. Edward Baker was assisted by Mrs. D.E. Rawson, Mrs. Gary Christner and Mrs. Willard Dobbs in presenting the program, "Growing in Christian Faith."

Mrs. Howard Rexin presided at the business meeting.

This was the last regular meeting of the group until September. A trip to Frankenthuth for a luncheon and tour is planned in August.

Honor athletes win top awards

Top athletes were honored Thursday night at the awards ceremony at Cass City High School where Scott Hobart and Kris Proctor were selected for the highest honors.

The athletic teams were introduced and individual awards were given to the athletes by the coaches.

The Paul Smarks Award was presented to Scott Hobart by Bob Sawdon, last year's winner.

Hobart was chosen the most valuable player in basketball and was the co-most valuable player in track. He was also the co-captain of both the basketball and the track teams.

Hobart won the 440-yard run in regional competition for track and also won the quarter mile run at the Caro Meet of Champions.

He was one of the four Cass City thinclads to go to the state meets where he placed 12th in the 400 meter run with a time of 52.9 seconds.

Kris Proctor won the award for the outstanding scholar-athlete which was presented to her by last year's winner, Beth Sieradzki.

She won an honorable mention to the all-conference team in softball as a junior and was voted the most valuable player in volleyball and also voted the most spirited.

Proctor has earned seven letters in both volleyball and basketball.

HONORED FOR THEIR outstanding abilities are Kris Proctor, who received a plaque which signifies the outstanding scholar-athlete of the year, and Scott Hobart, the winner of the Paul Smarks Award. The top athletes are judged on sportsmanship, leadership, and academic capabilities.

Fox earns loop all-star post

Coaches in the Thumb B Association have selected an all-conference team that included Jamie Fox of Cass City in the infield for her play at shortstop.

The remainder of the infield includes Cyndi Long, Marlette; Kris Muentener, Lakers; Tracey Deshetski, North Branch, and Marjie Erbsch, Vassar.

The outfielders are Shelly Baur, Lakers; Maria Rogers, North Branch; Tricia Sturrit, Sandusky, and Kim Kochalka, Vassar.

The catcher is Melanie Ross of Marlette and the pitchers are Cindy Dubs, Lakers, and Mary Ann Butterfield, North Branch. The designated hitter is Michelle McGinnis, Marlette.

The second team selections include Sherry Stec of Cass City in the outfield. Others are: Penny Cook, Marlette; Diana Walker, North Branch, and Julie Pettie, Bad Axe.

The second team infield: Mary Pleunia, Bad Axe; Cindy Koehler, North Branch; Robin Diaz, Caro, and Sue Rodammer, Vassar.

Other second team selections: designated hitter, Jill

Corey, Sandusky; catcher, Theresa Braidwood, North Branch; pitchers, Janet Geason, Marlette, and Michelle Knoerr, Sandusky.

Honor mention players are: Tammy Tait, BA; Diana Ostrander, C; Linda Sanback, C; Deanna Hempton, CC; Tina Mezo, S; Barb Kelsey, C; Karen Fader, C; Rhonda Fader, CC; Lynda Brown, L; Melissa Nellenbach, NB; Lisa Draves, BA, Mary Libka, L.

Others include: Lori Johnson, BA; Teena Pangborn, BA, Laurie Mazure, BA, Kelly Cramer, C; Sue Dost, C; Shelly Gintner, L; Connie Leipprandt, L; Janet Gleason, M; Laura Miller, NB; Jill Jensen, S; Janice Kischnick, V.

TEAM HONORS

The Hawks selected Sherry Stec as the most valuable player, Kris Proctor is the honorary captain and Jamie Fox was named for the golden glove award.

Lisa Benitez was named the post season most valuable player. She was 9 for 10 at the plate and on base 11 of the 12 times she came to bat.

Hawks lose final district game

The surprising Cass City High School softball team registered an upset victory over the Lakers in the districts before bowing in the finals to Mayville Friday.

The games were played at Marlette and the Hawks won the opener, 4-3, by defeating Cindy Dubs, the top pitcher in the Thumb B Association this season.

It looked for awhile as if the Hawks were going to win the game in regulation, Cass City scored single runs in the second, fourth and fifth innings to go ahead 3-1 going into the sixth, but the Lakers scored twice in the sixth to tie it.

Neither team was able to score until the ninth when Kristy Deering knocked home the winning run. Jill Root pitched her finest game of the year to pace the win.

Kris Proctor laid down two bunts in safety squeezes that scored runs while Lisa Benitez was perfect at the plate with four for four and Lori Calka was two for three. Cindy Leipprandt led the Lakers with two hits in three tries.

Coach Gene Lukshaitis said that two outstanding defensive plays by Sherri Horner at third base and Jill Hutchinson at first helped the Hawks to the win.

The Hawks' tournament trail came to an end after a three-hour wait when they played Mayville and lost, 16-9. Despite the score, Root, trying for a double header win, pitched well for Cass City. Errors sent the Hawks to defeat.

It was anybody's game for the first five innings. The score was tied, 2-2 going into

Colony House cops tourney

Colony House of Cass City was the winner of the Cumberbund softball tournament May 31 at Cumber.

Colony House was the only undefeated team in the 15-team field. Tyll's of Uby took second place after they lost to Colony House in the championship game 8-3.

In the first round of play, Colony House beat Country-De Bar of Parisville, 12-3.

Colony House then defeated Budweiser, Bad Axe, 8-6 and Spanky's Saloon, Detroit, 20-4.

Tyll's defeated M and G Trucking of Argyle, 12-1; Jamesway of Almont 15-4, and Tyre Stroh's, 8-0, to advance to the championship game.

In the consolation game, Railroad Inn of Mount Clemens defeated Lor-Del's of Bad Axe, 24-6.

Winning pitcher in the championship game was Doug Powers. Losing pitcher was Gary Hammele.

Colony House had 10 hits in the final game with B. Warack leading the attack with two home runs. Ron Englehart hit a home run and a double; Mike Gainsforth and Ken Gremel both had two singles, and manager John Hacker and Dan Mellendorf both hit two baggers.

Tyll's had eight hits in the championship game. Clare McIntyre and Steve Osen-toski both hit a triple and a single and Al Peters hit a home run.

Bill Warack was selected as the most valuable player. He had nine hits in eleven times at bat, for Colony House including seven home runs.

Dennis Clards was voted the most valuable pitcher. He finished the tournament with a 3-1 pitching record for Railroad Inn.

No-hitter takes Owen-Gage from district play

Lee Burton of Carsonville-Port Sanilac threw a no-hitter against Owen-Gage last Wednesday to advance the Tigers to the district tournament.

C-PS won the game at Owendale, 8-0.

Burton struck out 13 Bulldogs and walked two.

Losing pitcher Randy Radabaugh struck out seven, walked six, and gave up eight hits.

Tiger Andy Washe hit a double and a triple and Chris Sibilia and Bruce Lundquist each hit two singles.

The Bulldogs made two errors; C-PS, one.

C-PS, which won the North Central Thumb D League title, was 15-2 overall with the pre-district win.

Coach Phil Gray's team ended the season at 10-11 overall and 9-7 in the North Central D League.

The big problem facing the 1983 Owen-Gage baseball squad, he said, will be replacing Radabaugh, who was the winning pitcher in eight of the team's 10 victories.

All his wins were in league games, which made him the winningest pitcher in the North Central. His overall record was 8-5.

Gray is hopeful Dan Glidden, who did some pitching this year, will be the mainstay on the mound next season.

Other starters who won't be returning next year will be Terry Muntz at first, Vince Salcido, third base, and Mark Furness, short stop.

This year's squad showed considerable improvement over the 1981 team which finished 5-9 in the league and 7-12 overall. Gray found satisfaction in his team's improvement, his only disappointment being that hitting wasn't as good as he had expected.

Although four seniors will be gone, he said several of the younger players who will be back played a lot this year.

Hawks battle USA to wire before losing

Cass City came within an eyelash of registering its second straight upset tournament victory Saturday, fighting Unionville-Sebewaing to the wire before losing, 7-6, in the final inning.

The Hawks could do little against the Patriots in the early innings as the Hawk bats were stone cold.

The Hawks didn't register a base knock until the sixth inning, although they loaded the bases in the fourth on a pair of walks and a hit batter.

Meanwhile, USA scored three in the second and single counters in the third and fifth and it looked like a laugher all the way for the Patriots.

But the Hawks exploded for three runs in the sixth and added three more in the seventh to take a 6-5 lead.

But the Patriots bounced back to score twice in the last of the seventh to win it.

Carrie Lautner and Jim Patnaude

WOW! Area produces two state champions

CHAMPIONS -- Carrie Lautner set a new state track record while winning two state Class C titles Saturday. Greg Bliss and Lautner both set new Cass City High School records.

Carrie Lautner, Cass City premier distance runner, dazzled Thumb track fans Saturday with a double victory against Michigan's finest class C performers in the State track finals held in Bangor.

Meanwhile, Jim Patnaude, the defending Class D title holder in the pole vault, made it two in a row by setting a new record in his specialty in the finals held at Caro.

Four Red Hawks qualified to represent Cass City.

Carrie Lautner, a defending state champ made All-State again this year with two first place finishes in the 1600 and the 3200-meter runs.

She now holds two state records, one set last year in the 1600 meter run with a time of 5:08.05, and one set this year in the 3200 meter run with a time of 11:19.58. The time for the 3200 meter is also a new school record. Her time in the race ranks her sixth in the state in all classes.

Lautner placed first in the 1600 meter run with a time of 5:09.78.

Greg Bliss placed second in the 3200 meter run with a time of 9:35.07. He also made All-State and set a new school record.

Michelle Fahrner placed eighth in the 400 meter run with a time of 61.1.

Red Hawk Scott Hobart placed twelfth in the boy's 400 meter run with a time of 52.9.

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs sent two team members and the state meet.

Jim Patnaude won the state title for pole vault by vaulting 13'7". Patnaude was state champ last year in the pole vault with a height of 12'10".

Dan Glidden finished fourth in the 100 meter dash.

The Owen-Gage boy's 400 meter relay came in sixth place in the state competition. The team members were Dan Glidden, Jason Reinhardt, Gary Erickson, and Terry Muntz.

Kingston High School sent three tracksters to the state meet.

Jack Barden made All-State when he came in third place in the 3200 meter run with a time of 9:56.6.

Jill Barden placed fourth in the 1600 meter run with a time of 5:15.43, and fifth in the 800 meter run with a time of 2:25.4.

Marvin Wolak took fifth place in the discus with a throw of 133 feet.

BULLDOG DAN GLIDDEN, third from left, strides to a first-place finish in the 100 meter dash.

Memory loss

A common problem suffered by elderly people is memory loss. When it is in good working order, memory tends to be taken for granted. When it is not functioning well, we find that we cannot perform many normal mental tasks.

Researchers say that memory loss can be as disabling as a physical ailment and that it is, in fact, a physiological problem to a great degree.

KINGSTON THROWER Marvin Wolak throws the discus 133 feet to take fifth place in the state meet.

JIM PATNAUDE clears 13'7" with room to spare as he vaults his way to his second state title.

JILL BARDEN, second from left, in the lead here, but she came in four in the 1600 meter run and fifth in the 800 meter run.

Will elect 2 board members

Ubly seeks 2 additional mills

Ubly School District residents Monday will elect two of three candidates to the school board and vote on an additional two mills for school operations.

Voting hours at the high school are 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

Candidates for the two one-year terms are David Ruth of N. Washington Avenue, Ubly, the lone incumbent; Kenneth Dekoski, Polk Road, Ruth, and Alfred Grifka, Priemer Road, Ubly.

Dekoski previously served on the board from 1974-78. He and his wife Patricia, both Ubly High School graduates, are parents of seven children, ages 7-19.

He is a dairy farmer, farming 500 acres in Paris Township, and is an extraordinary minister at St.

Mary's Catholic Church, Parisville, and a member of its men's club.

Grifka is a 1958 Ubly High School graduate and attended Ferris State College four years. He is a farmer and the father of five children, four attending the Ubly schools.

Grifka was the charter president of the Ubly Jaycees, is an active member of the Ubly Fox Hunters Club and previously served on the school board for St. John's Catholic School in Ubly.

Ruth is also an Ubly graduate and has served on the school board nine years. Two of his children have graduated from Ubly, one this year, and the third will start second grade this fall.

Ruth is secretary of the school board. He has been employed by General Cable in Cass City for 19 years.

MILLAGE

The two mill levy, which if approved will first appear on tax bills this December, will be for five years. It will generate about $135,000 the first year.

The last time a millage increase was approved in the district was in 1972.

The current levy for operations is 20.67. There is no debt millage.

The newsletter sent to school district residents points out that increases in property assessments do not result in increased revenue for the school district.

"The state deducts the full amount of the increase from our state aid. In fact, the Ubly schools will be out of the state aid formula next year, so the financial burden of operating our school will be through local dollars and a lesser amount from state categorical funding plus federal funding."

To cope with declining funds, the school board has made budget cuts. Last year, according to the newsletter, the board laid off 18 teachers, two bus drivers, one counselor, four maintenance workers and three teachers' aides.

In addition, all sports and extracurricular activities are funded by booster clubs.

The school board and Ubly Education Association, which represents the teachers, recently approved a three-year contract which calls for no wage increase in 1982-83, and an 8 1/2 percent increase in each of the next two years.

The board has frozen 1982-83 wages at current levels for all other employees.

Approval of the two mills, according to school district Business Manager Mark Tenbusch, won't allow the school board to do much more than maintain present programs.

The reason is that it is anticipated Ubly will finish its fiscal year June 30 with a deficit of $100,000.

Thus passage of the millage will enable the district to get out of the red the first year, but not much more.

Its defeat, however, will mean the school board will have to make $100,000 in budget cuts for 1982-83.

What those cuts might be haven't been decided yet by the board, Tenbusch said.

One reason for school districts' financial problems of late has been a reduction in state aid. (See millage election stories elsewhere in this issue.)

A new problem, however, due to Michigan's cash flow problems, is a delay by Lansing in sending out its bi-monthly state aid checks to local districts because it doesn't have cash on hand to send the checks on time.

The June state aid payment, according to Cass City Supt. Donald Crouse, normally would have been sent on the first day of the month. Instead, one-third is to be sent June 21 and the remaining two-thirds July 20, he has been informed by the state Department of Education.

That means the district is taking matters worse is that not all districts will even receive one-third June 21, since districts with the "greatest need" are to receive first priority. Crouse hasn't been informed yet what districts the state considers the neediest.

Instead of the Aug. 1 payment, half of the amount is to be sent to schools Aug. 20 and the remainder Sept. 20.

A normal state aid payment for Cass City, received every other month, is about $136,000, Crouse said.

The delay in payments causes two problems for schools, he explained.

First is that because the district doesn't have all the money it needs at the right time, it may have to borrow more in anticipation of receipt of state aid and it may have to borrow earlier.

That means the district will have to pay more in interest than it would if Lansing mailed its aid checks on time.

When school districts have cash on hand that they don't need immediately, they can deposit or invest it and draw interest.

The longer the delay in receipt of money from Lansing means the less districts can collect in interest once it is received.

Are a pair report theft of gas

Two persons reported having gas stolen this past week end, one report of gas siphoned from a truck, and one from a storage barrel.

Martin LeValley reported Someone had siphoned gas out of his truck which was parked on the west side of Erie's Food Center and Packaging at 6233 Church Street.

Cass City police found a seven foot hose hanging out of the gas tank of the truck and gas on the ground around the truck.

They also saw a set of shoe prints leading away from the truck, but could not determine where they led to.

Police estimate a loss of 20-25 gallons of gas valued at roughly $30.

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Office reported 40-50 gallons of gas stolen from a storage tank in Kingston.

Carlisle Everett, of 7961 E. Sanilac Road, reported the gas missing from the tank when he returned from a week-end vacation.

The gas was valued at $75. Cass City police also received a report of a stolen power rake Monday.

from the Alice Wasdwausing

6094 Main Street. It was not reported missing for three weeks because workers thought it might have been rented without the person signing for it.

The $640 blue Parker power rake was in front of the store, where it is usually stored when not in use.

Not everyone need pay extra authorized millage

One mill equals $1 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation. What that means in terms of what property owners will pay in school taxes depends, of course, on the value of their property and the amount of millage that is on the ballot.

For a Cass City School District resident with a home with a valuation of $25,000 ($50,000 market value), for instance, passage of all three proposals Monday, a total of 5.5 mills, will mean an additional $137.50 in property taxes over what they paid last year.

School District residents are being asked to approve an additional two mills. For someone with property with a valuation of $25,000, approval will mean

$500 additional a year in Kingston and Owendale-Gagetown both have millage renewals on the ballot, but aren't asking for increases.

Not all persons will have to pay the full amount of the increases or renewals if they are approved, because of various property tax breaks offered by the state.

Senior citizens (at least one spouse 65 or older) can receive a state income tax credit or rebate on a sliding scale. Those with household incomes of less than $3,000 annually receive a refund of all their property taxes.

Those at the top of the scale with an annual household income of at least $6,000 receive a rebate of any property taxes they pay that exceed 3.5 percent of their income.

Non-senior citizens can receive an income tax refund or credit of 60 percent of their property taxes that exceed 3.5 percent of their annual household income (versus 100 percent for senior citizens).

Renters and mobile home owners may also qualify.

Farmers whose property is enrolled in the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) program have all of their property taxes rebated which exceed 7 percent of their household income.

Commissioners okay program

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners met to discuss two major items at their June meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The board approved an agreement between the Michigan Prosecuting Attorney Association and the Michigan Department of Social Services.

The county agreed to set up a program that would help both the association and the Department of Social Services find and prosecute people who are cheating on the food stamp program.

The county would be reimbursed $250 for filing a case and $650 for a court appearance and prosecution by the federal government and the Michigan Prosecuting Attorney Association.

The program is designed to help cut the number of persons fraudulently using the food stamp program.

Annual reports for the 1981 co-op extension departments were presented to the board.

The co-op programs feature seminars, classes, and lectures given by extension agents through Michigan State University.

The program deals with agriculture, 4-H and home assistance.

Rabies risk is increasing

Wildlife rabies is increasing and along with it is an increasing risk to people and their pets, according to the Michigan Veterinary Medical Association.

Last summer a young girl in Dearborn was bitten by her own dog. The dog was confirmed as having rabies and the girl was successfully treated.

A Tucson, Ariz., man was less fortunate. The same summer he was bitten by his dog, but testing for rabies on the dog's brain was negative. The man did not undergo treatment. Subsequently, he developed signs of rabies and died.

The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta reports the incidence of confirmed rabies has increased from 3,298 cases in 1978 to over 7,000 in 1981.

Last year rabies was more common in cats than in dogs. Part of the problem is that most areas do not require cats to be vaccinated. The most common source of exposure is the growing skunk population. Other high risk wild animals are foxes, bats, and raccoons.

What happens if your dog or cat is bitten by a confirmed rabid animal? If your pet isn't currently vaccinated against rabies, you can choose between a six-months locked enclosure quarantine or humane euthanasia.

If your pet is currently vaccinated against rabies, a three-months quarantine is required. Your pet will be vaccinated at the beginning and the end of the quarantine.

You can protect yourself and your pets by:

(1) Keeping your pet's vaccinations current, (2) avoiding wild animal contact by not letting your pet run free, (3) avoiding skunks, raccoons, bats, and foxes - these are not recommended pets, and (4) knowing that rabies vaccination is available to people but is generally only given to people who are at high risk.

Appeals court considering O-G circuit court ruling

The Michigan Court of Appeals is considering an appeal by the Owendale-Gagetown School District of a Circuit Court decision that sent 1978 and '79 taxes from the disputed Goslin territory to the Cass City district.

Gagetown spending for roads

The council of the village of Gagetown met Monday night to discuss improvements to be made to village land.

The council amended the budget to facilitate the transfer of $3,000 from federal revenue sharing funds into the fund used for improvements on major streets.

They also approved a transfer of 25 percent of the last check from the state for major street repairs to the fund for local street repairs.

The pavilion in the park is in need of repairs and the council chose an inspector who will determine the extent of repair work and they will approve the funds as needed. A motion was also passed that would provide funds to paint and repair all swings and picnic tables in the park.

Money has been approved for the purchase of five cement planters and five trees for the downtown area and four trash barrels with lids.

A new closing time for the park was passed by the council. The park will now close at 11 p.m.

Meanwhile, legislation has been introduced in Lansing that would require a public vote on all property transfers after more than 10 percent of a school district has been transferred to other districts.

The amount at issue in the tax dispute is about $175,000 (figured at Owen-Gage's tax rate) which the district claims it should have received for the 1978-79 and '79-80 school years.

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners voted in early 1979 that the 1978 Goslin taxes should go to the Cass City district (which had been assessed at the Cass City millage rate).

Owen-Gage appealed, contending the taxes belonged to it as long as the Goslin matter was in the courts. In October, 1979, then Tuscola Circuit Judge Martin E. Clements ruled the taxes belong to Cass City.

He also decided that based on the then latest appeals court ruling concerning which school district the property was in, the 1979 taxes should also go to Cass City.

Owen-Gage appealed to the Michigan Court of Appeals, and briefs were submitted by the various parties in the dispute, according to Owen-Gage Supt. Ronald Erickson, but the appeals judges never officially considered the case.

He speculated they chose to do nothing until the Michigan Supreme Court made a ruling in the Goslin case.

The high court finally did so March 31 of this year when it approved the 1976 transfer by the state Board of Education of the Goslin territory from Owen-Gage to Cass City. Owen-Gage is now seeking a rehearing.

The appeals court last Wednesday in Lansing scheduled the case on its docket. Apparently, John Bauckham, representing Elmwood Township, was the only attorney to present arguments in person. The others submitted briefs (written argument). Almost all of the Goslin territory is in Elmwood Township, which is why it is a party in the case.

Asked when the appeals court might rule, Erickson responded, "I imagine between a day and a year."

PROPOSED LAW

In 1980, then State Rep. Quincy Hoffman introduced a bill that would have required a public vote to approve all property transfers after 10 percent of the original district had been transferred to other districts.

The state Supreme Court in its March 31 ruling upheld the state law that says that as long as the property to be transferred is less than 10 percent of a district's current valuation, no public vote is required. (The state Board of Education has the final authority to approve transfers.)

Hoffman's bill was approved by the house, 76-6, but never got beyond the Education Committee in the Senate.

A new version of the bill has been introduced in the House by Rep. Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, and in the Senate last Wednesday by Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, a candidate for governor.

Erickson said Cropsey has a special interest in the issue because of the plight of the 200-student Palo School District which is in his legislative district.

The state board was apparently about to approve transfer of 9.38 percent of the Palo district to the larger Ionia district, despite denial of the transfer request by the Ionia County Intermediate School District Board of Education and the recommendation of the state board's hearing officer that the transfer be denied. Two other transfer requests from Palo are pending.

In a news release issued in conjunction with his introduction of the bill in the Senate, Welborn said, "I personally agree most with Supreme Court Justice Blair Moody Jr. in the case lost by the tiny Owen-Gage Schools vs. State Board of Education when Justice Moody wrote 'we cannot agree with an interpretation which permits a continual piecemeal dismemberment of a school district without the approval of the voters.'"

Erickson feels the bill will easily be approved in the House again and has a better chance of approval in the Senate. He suggested that since Sen. Alvin DeGrow, R-Pigeon, is retiring, he won't have as much influence as he did when he opposed the first version of the bill.

Erickson also said that since a law can't apply retroactively, if the Cropsey-Welborn bill becomes law, it won't undo past property transfers from Owen-Gage but should help it in the future.

Kingston graduates 46

Kingston High School graduated 46 students at commencement exercises May 30 at the high school.

The ceremony opened with a prayer by Father William O'Shea of St. Michael Catholic Church in Wilmot and was followed by the class song sung by two graduating seniors, Barbara Walker and Diane Catlin.

The Rev. Steven Wilson of the Kingston Wesleyan Church delivered the ministry of the Word.

The salutatory address was given by Martha King and the valedictory address by Marvin Wolak.

Scholarships were presented by Principal Joseph E. Peet and diplomas were given out by Louis Wenzlaff Jr., president of the board of education. The ceremony closed with a benediction by Rev. Larry Schwark of the Dayton Center church.

The 1982 graduates are: Scott L. Anger, Jack E. Barden, Jill E. Barden, Scott Boyle, Gregory A. Campbell, Diane P. Catlin, Christine K. Creason, Mark

Four seek two open Kingston school posts

Kingston School District voters Monday will have a choice of four candidates for the two spots open on the school board.

They will also be voting on renewal of 15 mills for operations for one year.

Voting place is the high school cafeteria and hours are 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

The candidates are Gary Koehler, 3850 S. English Road, Kingston, the only incumbent seeking reelection; Jeffrey A. Newton, 3906 S. Hurds Corner Road, Mayville; Sue Ann Savicke, 3575 Ross Street, Kingston, and Wesley Scott, 5932 English Road, Silverwood.

Koehler, 49, has served on the board about 20 years. A farmer, he has two children still in school and two who graduated.

Newton, 22, graduated from Kingston High School in 1978, is single, and manages the Dairy Freeze and arcade in Kingston. He is involved in preparation of the 125th anniversary celebration and organizing of a Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

Sue Ann Savicke, 45, has three daughters who graduated from Kingston. She was employed by the schools as a custodian for five years, until laid off March 31 as a money-saving measure by the district. For three years, including some of the period during which she was a custodian, she also drove a Kingston school bus.

Scott is making his third try for the school board. He lost in 1980 by 16 votes and last year by one vote.

The 1964 graduate of Kingston High School has worked at Pontiac Motor Division in Pontiac for 18 years, where he is a supervisor. He has three children, ages 9, 12 and 14.

MILLAGE

The school board for many years has placed all of its extra voted millage on the ballot every year.

The philosophy is that it gives residents a voice every year in how they feel the district is being run.

An added advantage, Supt. Robert Cameron explained, is that since it is renewed every year, the Headlee Amendment rollback doesn't apply.

Such a rollback does apply to the nine allocated mills, which continue from year to year.

The renewal and allocated levies total 24 mills for school operations. Last year, Kingston also levied 5.4 mills for debt retirement. Cameron anticipates that will be reduced some this year.

One mill raises about $31,000, so the 15 mills will raise about $465,000.

Cameron pointed out that Kingston doesn't gain when property valuations increase. For every dollar gained for that reason, state aid is reduced a dollar.

Complicating the district's financial picture have been reductions in state aid because of Michigan's financial problems.

Lansing will be taking almost $5,000 out of Kingston's August state aid check and the superintendent is waiting to hear how much another cut will be. The latter is the result of Gov. Milliken's recent $50 million reduction in state expenditures.

Kingston has also been losing state aid because of the decline in enrollment the past few years.

During this past school year, the district dropped one custodian and one bus driver from the payroll. It also didn't have an assistant high school principal this year, a change from the past, and had one fewer teacher.

This fall, Cameron said, he is anticipating eliminating another bus run because of declining enrollment. Asked if there might be a reduction in the teaching staff, he replied it was too early to tell.

The contract with teachers expires at the end of this school year. Several negotiating sessions have already been held, according to the superintendent, but there hasn't been an agreement yet.

Custodians, the only other employee group that is unionized, will be in the second year of their contract in 1982-83.

Declining state aid the last few years, Cameron commented, has meant an increasing problem absorbing those cuts.

His summary of the district's financial situation was, "I guess everything depends on the money we get and the result of negotiations."

FIRST CUTTING of alfalfa hay began last week for Elmer Nitz, an employee of the Osentoski dairy farm on M-53, Cass City. This field, which he was cutting last Wednesday, is at the corner of M-53 and M-81.

For primary election

Candidates meet filing deadline

Tuesday was the last day for filing for candidates in the Aug. 10 primary and for ballot proposals.

Two county commissioner posts in Tuscola County are unchallenged. In District 1, incumbent Donna Rayl, R, and Royce Russell, R, in District 2, also an incumbent, are running unopposed.

David C. Myers, the assistant prosecuting attorney in Tuscola County, will be challenging incumbent Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr. for the probate judge position in Tuscola County.

The road commission is asking for a 1/2 mill increase for the years 1982-86 for road improvements and bridges.

In Sanilac County, both Districts 3 and 5 have heavily contested county commissioner races.

Three persons in District 5 are seeking the commissioner position. They are incumbent Don Decker, R, incumbent Eugene Foster, R, and Charles Izydorek, D. There are two incumbents due to redistricting.

Five newcomers are vying for the position of commissioner in District 3. They are Les Kraft, Carol Bale, Wayne Laursen, and V.J. Donaghy, all Republicans, and Democrat Walter Tereschuk. George E. Benko is running unopposed for county probate judge.

Running unopposed for the county surveyor position is Charles Getz, R.

There is one county proposal in Sanilac County. It requests a three-quarter mill increase for five years for bridges.

Running for county commissioner in District 1 in Huron County is incumbent Bruce W. Kuhl, R. He will be challenged by Jerry L. Stirrett, R.

In District 2, incumbent Republican commissioner Calvin W. Reibling will be challenged by Democrat Vernon L. Kretzschmer.

Peter J. Ney, R, and incumbent, will battle George J. Kanks for the position of county commissioner in district 3.

Incumbent Probate Judge

Neil K. MacCallum will run unopposed.

There are four millage renewals and one proposal for new millage on the ballot in District 1.

The renewals are one mill for four years for fire protection in Fairhaven Township. Fairhaven is also asking for a renewal of two mills over five years for street lighting.

Two proposals in McKinley Township are for 2 1/2 mills over five years for roads, and a renewal of the Detroit Edison franchise in McKinley Township.

asking for three-tenths of a mill on property taxes for the Clinton Township in District 1.

trict 2 is asking for two new mills over two years for roads.

Three mills over five years is being proposed in Grant Township. The new money will be used for main roads and dust control.

Sheridan Township is asking for a renewal of two mills for four years for road work.

60 attend Evergreen reunion

The Evergreen Township School Reunion took place Saturday, June 5, at the Evergreen School in Shabbona.

There were 60 persons present.

Mrs. Clark Auslander was in charge of registration. Mrs. Arlie Gray was in charge of the dinner and was assisted by Mrs. Fred Emigh and Mrs. Clara Bond.

The food table was centered by a decorated birthday cake made by Mrs. Ryerson Puterbaugh and decorated by Mrs. Larry Puterbaugh. The secretary-treasurer, Marie Meredith, was celebrating her birthday.

After dinner, the 'meeting' was called to order by Edsel Connell, president. Secretary and treasurer's reports were read by Marie Meredith and also letters from those who couldn't attend. The flag pledge was led by Roy Severance. The group was led by Louis Severance in singing God Bless America. Readings were given by Mrs. Arlie Gray. An antique roll record player entertained the group and was demonstrated by Leroy and Ruby Evans of Gagetown. A duet was presented by Clare and Franklin Turner.

Election of officers was held with all the current officers being reelected.

Gifts were presented to the oldest man, Jason Kitchin; oldest lady, Avis Youngs, coming the greatest distance, John Bullock; teacher present who taught the most years, Jason Kitchin, and door prize, Grant Smith.

Former teachers present were: Mr. Kitchin, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Youngs and Mrs. Earl Harris.

Plans were made to meet again the first Saturday in June 1983.

AROUND THE FARM

Fight back at termites

By Don Kebler

We know termites have been found in Caro. So what can the homeowner do?

Every homeowner can check the foundation wall around the structure for fine mud-like tunnels that run from the soil surface up the outside foundation wall and disappear under the siding. Examine all wood posts that are in direct contact with the soil, whether inside or outside the basement or crawl space. An ice pick or drill will soon tell the soundness of the wood.

Wood sill-plates and floor joists can be checked the same way. Houses with Michigan basement walls are far more difficult to check for mud tunnels compared to concrete block walls.

If termites are found, extermination is a professional matter because the homeowner is neither equipped nor has the knowledge to do it himself.

If no termites are located, an owner can take the following preventative measures around the outside foundation walls of the structure.

Chlordane is available and registered for subterranean termite control. Chlordane is known to kill termites that at least 17 years after recommended dosages have been added to the soil. Anyone can purchase chlordane 44 or 45 percent liquid, and use it as prescribed on the label.

The label has instructions on rates of mix and how much of the mixture to apply per lineal foot of soil trench around the foundation wall. Even a two to three inch deep trench about six inches wide will be a barrier against queen termites that might enter the impregnated soil alongside the basement wall.

After applying the chlordane in the trench, back-fill the trench and apply additional chlordane solution to the back-fill soil. A half gallon of 44 percent chlordane will provide enough protection for 50 lineal feet of trench or one ounce per foot of trench.

If I were building a new house today, I would provide a termite shield and add chlordane to the back fill soil along the outside wall from the bottom of the footing to the top of the ground.

Do rabbits enjoy your garden vegetables more than you do? If so, there is a new repellent Michigan State University is recommending for vegetable gardens and is called Hinder. For flowers and ornamentals, MSU is recommending the repellent called Thiram. Thiram cannot be sprayed on the edible parts of vegetables. Hinder can. Thiram can injure new growth on some plants.

County-wise, I do not know where either repellent can be purchased. I have the name of an Indiana Distributor of Hinder. People around Clare, Hart, Traverse City, Conklin and Taylor, Michigan, can get Hinder locally.

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT --
After nearly 16 years at the Eat Shop, Dick and Maxine Haney (at right) have decided to retire. The new owners, Dale and Faye Bullock (left) took over Tuesday.

Haneys sell out, set for leisure

Nestled between a barber shop and flower shop on Main Street in Cass City is the Eat Shop, a small restaurant with a counter that can seat maybe a dozen people at the most.

Behind the counter for almost 16 years have been Dick and Maxine Haney.

"It has been 15 years and five months since we bought this place from Mr. and Mrs. Frakes," said Mrs. Haney. "Now it is our turn to sell the business."

The new owners, who took over June 1, are Dale and Faye Bullock of Decker.

Now a widow, Mrs. Mildred Frakes lives on Decker Road.

Since the Haneys acquired the business, they have modernized and replaced just about everything.

"We want to retire to fish and hunt," said Mrs. Haney. "We have a boat and a camper and we're going fishing."

"If we can find a place up north somewhere, maybe in Canada, we'll buy it and just take it easy. I hope we won't have to work," Mrs. Haney said.

The Haneys, both in their early 50s, and their son Joseph, live on Phillips Road.

"I hate to leave in a way, but we had to drop the business somehow," Haney said. "The business has been really enjoyable. It's been awful good."

"We are really looking forward to the rest," Mrs. Haney said.

The Haneys have been the only workers in the Eat Shop for the last five or six years. They have managed an occasional vacation though to such places as the Bahamas, Hawaii, California, and Wyoming to go hunting.

The Haneys open the doors to their restaurant in the morning at 10 minutes to five and close at two in the afternoon. The business was open every day except Christmas, and because of that, the Haneys have built a faithful clientele.

"We've had lots of fun. A lot of good people, a lot of faithful people come in here to eat," Mrs. Haney said. For the new owners, owning a restaurant has been a lifetime dream.

"We have always wanted to own a business where we could work together," said Mrs. Bullock. "We both really like and enjoy people."

Her husband will be leaving his job as an orderly at Hills and Dales Hospital to help run the new family business, but he will keep his job as a substitute mail carrier for the Cass City post office. Mrs. Bullock has been a beautician.

"The only changes I think we will make are add some summer salads, like potato salad, and possibly some diet plates," Mrs. Bullock said.

"This has been a good town," Haney said. "It's been awful good to me."

"The people have always been very friendly," said Mrs. Haney. "It is a lot easier than working in a factory or on a farm."

Taking stock

The tide of high interest rates runs both ways. If you're buying a house or car, 17 percent hurts.

If you have cash and put it into money market funds or certificates of deposit or corporate bonds or tax-exempts, the 12-17 percent you get is a real pleasant sensation.

In the rural area of Michigan I still think of as home, farmers are selling their homesteads at $1,000 an acre, retiring and moving to Florida.

With land at $1,000 an acre, the average return (nationwide, too) on the investment is around 3 percent. Why all farmers don't sell out is a puzzle, but not our topic today.

Point is, the $1,000 worth of land was bringing the owner $30 a year. Plow the $1,000 into a Michigan Bell triple-A bond and you get $160. If you had a 240-acre farm you netted $7,200 a year.

Sell it and do nothing and Michigan Bell bonds fetch you $38,400 — enough for comfortable retirement in Florida, where taxes are low.

To look at the plight of the young married couples who want to own a home: They aren't going to be satisfied with living quarters costing less than $60,000. At 17 percent, that's $10,200 in interest. If both man and wife are working, their combined income, take-home, is $30,000, say.

So they're paying a third of their income in interest on the mortgage. Other housing costs, taxes, maintenance and so forth could tilt that to 40 percent easily. Too much. The old rule of thumb was that housing's part of the budget shouldn't be more than 25 percent.

Mortgage subsidy plans such as the FHA and VA low-rate loans made it easy in the past for so many to own homes that it became the rule rather than the exception to own rather than rent. Today we renters are looked on as second rate citizens. We slink down side streets as we carry our savings to the bank.

Easy loans with a few hundred dollars down boomed the housing industry. The demand is infinite for a nothingdown loan. So prices went up, and then inflation boosted them still more.

The inflation angle seduced many into speculating in home buying, going in over their heads with what looked like a sure thing — values going up 15 to 20 percent a year.

Borrow the down payment from ma and pa, get a mortgage and deduct the interest from your income on your federal tax, wait the value go up twice what your outlays were a year. A sweet deal, as the flies said when they spotted the open honey jar.

Any solution for the youngsters just married who want to become part of the landed gentry? If they'll be a little patient as their elders were a generation ago, they, too, can own a house. Here's how:

Shorten their years ... college to three instead of four or more. Go to summer school, and get it over with by age 20, and get earning money. Boy and girl out of college ought to have combined incomes of $30,000 take-home. Save $3,000 of this, come hell or high water. Put off child-bearing for 10 years.

Put $3,000 into bond funds, tax exempt, yielding 13 percent. Let the earnings be reinvested. Do this for just 10 years, and the couple will have $62,442, enough to buy a condo or a small house. They're still only 30 years old, and their parents still refer to them as "the children."

And then they can buy a place, own it free and clear and start plans for the extra bedroom for tiny Tim, waiting in the wings.

and engraved brass plaques, one per table and one on a sign.

The plaques are engraved, "In memory of Miss Bonnie Bruner, first grade teacher from September, 1973 - January, 1982."

Miss Bruner had taught Sunday school class at her church, the Wayside Spiritualist Church in Davison. Her students there made a birdhouse which has been placed in the courtyard and her nieces and nephews also made one.

Much of the labor in assembling the picnic tables and placing the shrubs and other work was donated by husbands of Campbell staff members.

School officials report

'Aidcuts will affect students

By Nick Assendelft

The prospect of sending their children to college has left many would-be proud parents in a state of shock when they realize how much a college education will cost.

With recent cuts in state and federal tuition aid, the amount students are expected to pay for their education is even higher.

Many students rely on some form of financial assistance to help them pay for their college education. At Saginaw Valley State College (SVSC), 80 percent of the students receive aid, according to Paul Gill, director of scholarships and financial aid.

The total effect of the cuts in aid have yet to be felt, and has left many students wondering how they will fund their future education.

"The effect of the cuts will not be so hard this (coming school) year," said Jerry Cleland, Cass City High School counselor. "Next year (1983-84), when the cuts begin to take effect, it will be much worse."

State competitive scholarships and tuition grants as well as federal Social Security education funds have been cut by 25 percent for the 1983-84 school year. Federal Pell grants, though, which are not appropriated on a yearly basis have been increased to $1,600 per student.

There has also been a shift in how money is given to students who do qualify for state aid.

The emphasis is now on self-help money, where the student works on campus, is paid by the university, and in turn uses that money to pay for college costs. The emphasis used to be on grant money that the student did not have to pay back, according to Gill.

Gill feels more major cuts will not take place because of the effectiveness of lobbying actions on both the state and federal level.

Even with the gloomy outlook, students are still opting to go to college.

A survey of 1982 Cass City High School graduates showed 66 percent of the 185 seniors plan to go to college, for two or four years, according to Cleland. The survey also showed 12 percent are looking for work, 7 percent plan to join the military, and 18 percent already have full-time jobs.

Students planning to go to college are looking for ways to cut costs.

EARLY COLLEGE

In an effort to continue to receive some federal funds for education, 30 area students participated in a program which enabled them to take college courses at Cass City High School.

Social Security educational funding has been eliminated for all students who did not register for a full-time college work load as of May 1, 1982.

SVSC and Cass City High School set up a program so students could take 12 credits of college classes, a full-time load, while they were still high school seniors, thus making them eligible for Social Security funds.

The courses taught were English, psychology, political science, and humanities. Credit could be applied to both the students' high school and college records.

"I entered the program to keep my Social Security," said Sandy Novak, a 1982 Cass City graduate. "The work was a little harder, but it was a good experience."

Miss Novak will transfer her 12 credits to Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Oklahoma where she will study elementary education.

"The program helped me to prepare for college," said Mary Ross, who also just graduated. "But I entered the program so that I could keep my Social Security funds." Miss Ross will transfer her credits to Ferris State College.

Social Security educational funds will still be cut over the coming years. Funds will be cut 25 percent this year, 50 percent next year, 75 percent the following year, and will be eliminated four years from now.

TWO-YEAR COLLEGES

Cleland sees a definite shift in the number of students who choose to attend college four years in favor of students choosing two-year college programs.

"Students see that after attending college for four years, job placement is down, so they are moving to specialized course offerings," said Wayne Dillon, Cass City High School counselor and vocational career education director.

The reasons for the switch are many. Students choose a two-year program because of a general lack of interest in liberal arts classes, the amount they have to pay for their education is cut in half, and the courses are concentrated in the area the student is specifically interested in.

Julie Vargo, a 1982 Cass City High School graduate will be attending Michigan State University this fall. She hopes to complete a two-year program and receive her associate degree in animal technology.

"Finances were a part of my decision, but I also have an interest in the field that I am going into," Miss Vargo said. "It would have been hard for my family and for myself to have paid for four years of college."

A survey at Cass City High School showed a large shift in the number of students choosing two and four-year programs, according to counselor Jerry Cleland.

In 1981, 51 students were committed to a four-year college program while only 25 committed themselves to a two-year college program or a trade school.

Of the 1982 graduates, only 33 plan on taking four years of courses in college while 46 chose a two-year program.

1982 Cass City graduate Jim Smithson is enrolling in a two-year program so that he can start right off in the career he plans on going into.

"This way I won't have to take any of the courses I won't ever use," he said. "Plus, it is cheaper because it is only half the cost of the four-year program."

Smithson is going to ITT in Fort Wayne, Ind., where he will study electrical engineering.

Cleland does see one bright spot for college

"There are a lot of good people out there, and if we approach the problem, correctly, I think people will come through. Not all of the cuts can be made up, but I think we can supplement the difference with private funding," he said.

MSU offers course in solar energy

A passive solar energy heating shortcourse is being offered at Michigan State University Saturday, June 19.

To be held in 147 Communication Arts Building, the course runs from 8:30 a.m. through 4:30 p.m., costs $15 per person and requires advance registration. Register by sending the fee to Barbara Brochu, 217 Agricultural Engineering Building, MSU, East Lansing, Mi. 48824, or call (517) 356-3477. Make checks payable to MSU.

"It's a misconception," says Robert Ofoli, MSU Cooperative Extension Service agricultural engineer, "that solar energy in Michigan is impractical and that homes built prior to the 1970s can't substantially benefit from solar heating."

Topics will include solar energy and Michigan's climate, economics of passive solar heating, retrofitting structures for passive solar heating, solutions to window heat losses and gains, and the design of new homes to take the greatest advantage of the sun.

The session is intended for the homeowner who intends to make home improvements to minimize heating costs.

The course is the first in a series being planned by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service that will explore alternatives to current home heating practices and home structural design. Others will examine superinsulated homes and earth-sheltered housing. They will be conducted on campus in late summer or early fall.
