

Tornado hits Marlette, hail strikes elsewhere

By Mike Eliasohn

If there is such a thing as a good tornado, that is what hit Marlette Sunday night, as structural damage was minor and no injuries reported.

Damage has been estimated at $169,000.

In Tuscola County, during a Sunday night of wild weather, hail fell in scattered locations, including south of Cass City. There were also scattered electrical outages throughout the upper Thumb.

The tornado struck without warning in Marlette between 9:50 and 10 p.m. Village President Kenneth Babich said a village policeman stopped at his house to tell him that a severe weather warning had been issued.

No sooner had Babich gone back into his house than the tornado struck a home four doors away.

The funnel cloud, moving from the northwest to the southeast, first knocked down several trees and power lines, then hit an above ground swimming pool.

It then ripped the roof off the Sears store, two blocks from downtown. Downtown, two stores lost their plate glass windows, one store front was ripped off and a chimney knocked down.

The tornado then moved into a residential area, where it damaged 25 homes. The only severe loss was at one house, where the attached garage was extensively damaged.

Other than that, siding was damaged and antennas were blown down.

The Marlette High School athletic field suffered extensive damage, including chain link fences being knocked down, bleachers damaged and light posts bent.

ELECTRICITY ALSO went out during the period of the tornado. Detroit Edison crews had most power restored by 1:30 a.m. Monday.

Babich, who talked to the Chronicle shortly before 6 p.m. Monday, said he could see through his window Edison workmen still fixing downed lines.

Village workmen were still at work at that time, after having started clearing away downed branches and other cleanup work shortly after 10 p.m.

Assisting Marlette police in directing traffic, keeping persons away from downed power lines, etc., were Sanilac sheriff's deputies and state police from the Sandusky post.

Marlette has a disaster coordination plan and Babich said it worked without chaos or confusion. As for the tornado's impact, he commented with obvious relief, "It could have been so much more severe than what it was."

EMMETT MORRELL, Sanilac County emergency services coordinator, said damage to buildings was estimated at $81,500, to homes at $75,000, and miscellaneous damage making up the rest of the $169,000 total.

He added that so many electrical lines were downed by the tornado, it looked "like the Fourth of July at times."

About 500 Marlette customers were without electrical power and elsewhere in the county, about 4,500 were without power due to other storm-caused reasons.

Morell said the tornado only touched down in Marlette and because of the type of damage, such as store windows exploding outward, there is no doubt it was a tornado. Hail fell in and north of town.

IN TUSCOLA COUNTY, according to Warren Schimmel of the Caro Detroit Edison office, a total of 1,145 customers lost power, however, 150 of those in the Richville area lost it early Sunday morning due to lightning hitting a primary fuse.

The rest, in the Vassar area, lost power at 9:35 or 10:05 p.m., depending on the circuit. Cause of the outage in Vassar, which lasted 2 hours and 15 minutes, was wind blowing down a line. Some persons south of Vassar were without power for 3 hours and 10 minutes due to wind blowing down a tree limb, which knocked out a power line.

Thumb Electric Cooperative General Manager Michael Krause said the utility had minor outages scattered throughout the upper Thumb, usually service lines running from main lines to houses. Cause was usually wind and/or lightning.

He thought most were repaired within a couple of hours. One outage was in an area between Cass City and Deford.

ALONG WITH RAIN, thunder and lightning, the storm also brought hail, which caused some crop damage.

Some fell east of Cemetery Road, apparently primarily in the Severance and Shabbona Road area and also south of Deford.

Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel said two farmers he talked to in the area indicated some corn in the area sustained damage, but was still standing, so would probably recover. However, there could be loss of yield and the damaged plants would be more susceptible to disease and insects.

Hail also fell, he said, in the Akron-Fairgrove area (quite light), in Caro and in a three-mile wide strip east from Frankenmuth to Millington.

Damage to crops in the latter area was heavy, he said. The greatest damage was to corn, followed by grain (wheat, oats and barley). Dry beans could have been damaged, but Bortel didn't see any.

The hail was reported to be as much as 4 inches deep in that area, he said.

IN TUSCOLA, according to county Emergency Services Director Jim McCann, the severe weather warning lasted from 9:28-11 p.m. (Elkland Township firemen were summoned to the fire hall when the alert was issued.)

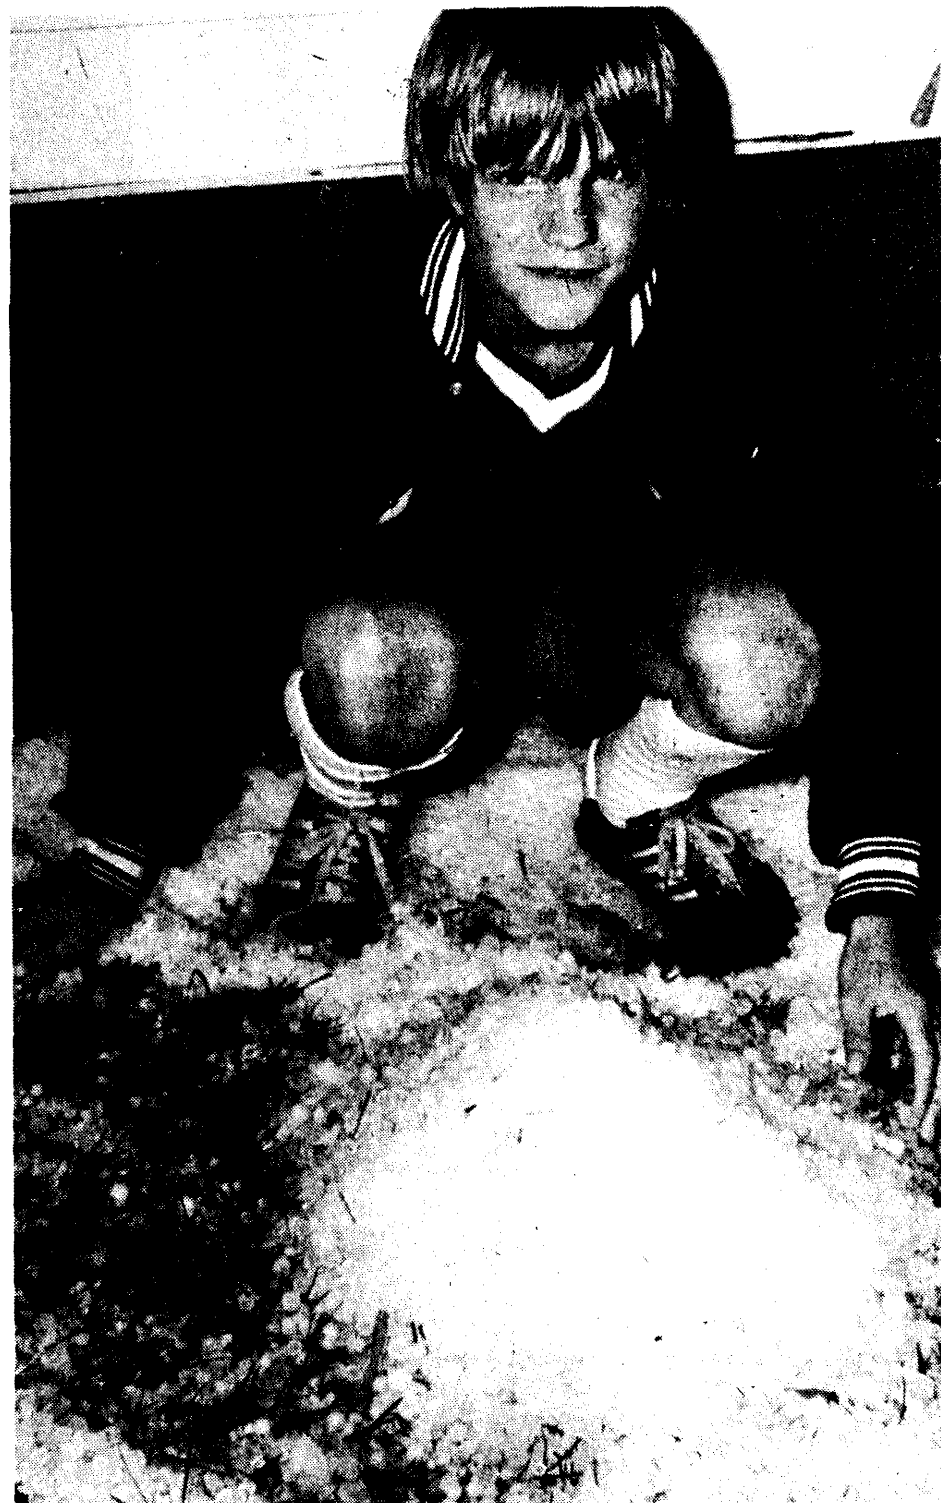

Although at least one television station broadcast there was a tornado warning in Tuscola, apparently after a funnel cloud reportedly touched down in the Birch Run area, McCann said the National Weather Service never issued such a warning for the county.

The only damage this time, he said, was to crops from the hail.

That is in contrast to Tuesday night, June 15, when a tornado touched down in the Silverwood area.

Damage has now been estimated at $313,000, far more than from the tornado that struck Marlette.

The breakdown of the loss is $115,000 to public property, including utilities and roads; $189,000 to homes (four homes and two mobile homes were damaged or destroyed), and $9,000 in agricultural losses, including destruction of four barns and damage to a couple of others.

HAIL TODAY -- A result of the Sunday night storm that swept through the area was hail that covered the ground near Deford. Robbie Nicholas scooped up some handfuls at the house of Arleon Retherford, his grandfather, at 6855 Gilford Road. The hail stones were roughly one-quarter inch in size and were one inch deep in some areas.

HAIL DAMAGE -- The hail which hit this field off Shabbona Road, about 1½ miles east of Cemetery Road, had melted by the time this photo was taken Monday morning, but the knocked down young cornstalks and the water remained.

Kingston 125th celebration begins

Kingston is celebrating its 125th anniversary this week, activities having started Tuesday and coming to an end Sunday.

The Quasqui-Centennial Committee started its work several months ago and has scheduled numerous events during the six days.

The committee consists of Rev. Gilson Miller, chairman; Douglas Kramer, treasurer; Susan Ross, secretary; Ven Stark, competitive events; Jan Barden, advertising; Don Barden, site coordinator; Jane Lalko, parade coordinator; Ed Lewicki, field chairman; Dawn Corliss and Jeff Newton, special events.

Other members are Ron Barron and Jan Peter, history; Delores Peter, concessions; Richard Peter, hot air balloon; Ray Wolak, carnival; Arlo Ruggles, promotion and memorabilia; Douglas Kramer, horse pulling; Father William O'Shea, community vespers service; and Edward and Janice Herron, sponsors of honored pioneer couple.

The celebration began with a talent show Tuesday evening at the elementary school. This Wednesday, photographs of the 1957 centennial celebration were to be on display at the Methodist Church starting at 7:30 p.m.

Events for the rest of the week and locations are as follows (h denotes high school):

TOOLS OF HIS TRADE -- Dr. Edwin C. Fritz, DDS, won't be using his dental instruments much longer as his final day at work will be June 30. This cabinet was first used by his father, Dr. Isiah A. Fritz, DDS.

45 years in Cass City

Dr. Fritz ending long dental career

Dr. Edwin C. Fritz, DDS, has fixed countless teeth during his 45 years of practice in Cass City.

But after Wednesday, June 30, he will be content to let the four other dentists in Cass City say, "Open wide." That will be his final day of practice before starting retirement.

At age 72, he could have retired several years ago, but, "I wanted to hang in there a while."

As for why he has finally decided to take it easy, he said there was no special reason. "I just decided it's time."

Not that he plans to sit and do nothing starting July 1. "After being busy all these years and active, I just can't sit around and waste away." More fishing and golfing are on his agenda of retirement activities.

Fritz' office is on the second floor over the Coach Light Pharmacy and his retirement will mark the end of an era.

His father, Dr. Isiah A. Fritz, was also a dentist. His son believes his father may have had his practice in the building starting when it was first built, which was in 1898.

The younger Fritz graduated from the University of Michigan School of Dental Surgery in 1934, after which he worked two years in the dental department at the University Hospital, then was in practice for one year in Saginaw before joining his father July 12, 1937.

If his father did start practice in the Coach Light building when it was new, that means Dr. Fritz' office was a dental office for more than 82 years.

THE ELDER DR. FRITZ practiced dentistry until his death in 1946.

He had started practice in Cass City in 1882, after apprenticing with his older brother, Dr. William Fritz, in Caro. (Dr. William also had three sons who went into dentistry.)

When Dr. I.A. Fritz started dentistry, it wasn't necessary to attend dental school. He did take a practitioner class at the Chicago School of Dental Surgery, from which he graduated in 1890.

A photograph of his graduating class still hangs on the office wall, along with one of all the dentists in Michigan in 1907, apparently made in conjunction with organization of the Dental Society of Michigan, and one of Dr. E.C.'s graduating class.

The old photos will be given to Fritz' son, Michael, who is administrator of Harper Hospital in Detroit and a resident of the suburb of Beverly Hills.

Fritz and his wife, Doris, have one other son, Jim, studying for his doctoral degree in education at Michigan State University, and two grandchildren (both Michael's).

Once Dr. Fritz closes his office, the only furnishings he will be moving to his Hill Street apartment will be a rocker, a chair on casters, and a cabinet for dental tools that was first used by his father.

The dental chairs and related equipment will be reclaimed by a dental supply salesman, though they may be too out of date for continued use.

"If It Fitz..."

Sport remembers Dad

By Jim Fitzgerald

It's been almost 20 years since I had a father to honor on Father's Day, but I still think of him often. I thought of him last week, when I read that Jim Jordan is still alive at age 85.

Jordan was Fibber McGee of "Fibber McGee and Molly," a popular radio show when I was a little boy, in the 1930s. Fibber made my father laugh until he cried. The only radio program that made him laugh harder was "Amos and Andy." If you are too young to remember Fibber and Amos and Andy, I don't care. I don't care if you fall into your TV set and get run over by the Dukes of Hazard.

Forty-five years ago, people listened to the radio as intensely as they watch television today. I always sprawled on the floor, snug between the radio and my father's chair, with both ears pressed against the fiber screen covering the loudspeaker. Obviously, I was an unusual child. In those days, as today, it was a rare boy who had both ears on the same side of his head.

I had a valid claim to the best radio seat in the house, much to the chagrin of my much older sister, Terrible Jean, because it was my radio. I won it — a Philco floor model — in a raffle at Hess & Son's grocery store.

My family purchased all its nourishment from Hess, two blocks from our home. My mother phoned in her daily order in the morning; one of her children picked it up in the afternoon, and my father paid up in person once a month. Dad would sit at Tommy Hess' desk, pull out the Fitzgerald account, total up his own bill and write a check. Try that at your neighborhood supermarket someday.

During the months that Hess & Son distributed one radio raffle ticket for each $1 purchase, I magnanimously volunteered to tote home as much groceries as Mother could order. This allowed me to print my name on the ticket stubs, a just reward for unusually unselfish magnanimity. I remember carrying my own pencil to the store in preparation for printing. I carried it behind my ears.

When Tommy Hess phoned to say my name was drawn out of the box, Terrible Jean's wrath was fearsome to behold. She insisted that, because I hadn't paid for the groceries attached to the winning ticket, the radio belonged to the whole family, including her! I said only the holder of the winning ticket could claim the radio, and if she didn't shut her dirty rotten mouth I would leave my radio at Hess & Son's and listen to it there, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon. thru Fri. and until 9 p.m. Sat. nite.

Because Terrible Jean was bigger than every kid in our neighborhood — and most of the trees — I was the object of much sibling brutality. But no father likes to see his only son pounded into the ground up to his neck to have his ears boxed one-handed. So I was also the object of much parental pity, and Dad ruled that the radio was mine. I couldn't put it in my bedroom, but I could sit closest to it in the living room. I couldn't prevent Terrible Jean from listening to it, but I could stick my tongue out at her and say nyaaaah. Life can be beautiful.

It was most beautiful, in those days, when I sprawled on the floor between my radio and my dad and tried to laugh as hard as he did at Fibber McGee and Amos and Andy. A lot of the time I didn't know what I was laughing at, but he didn't care. Dad would reach down and rub behind my ears and call me "Sport." It never occurred to me that he wanted a dog.

Most of my memories of my father are associated with laughter. He never told jokes, but he was the funniest man I ever knew. Once in a while I get lucky and a reader who knew Dad will tell me I'm almost as funny as he was. For me, that is the supreme compliment.

Whenever my children ask what I want for Father's Day, I answer nothing. I guess what I really want, ultimately, is what my father got — to be remembered with laughter. That's probably why I don't mind walking lopsided in the winter because both earmuffs are on the same side of my head.

GOING TO KANSAS CITY -- Ugly school bus driver Leonard J. Schumacher, left, accepts his third place trophy in the Michigan Championship School Bus Roadshow from Arthur Gibson, Automobile Club of Michigan community relations director. The third place qualified him to take part in the national roadshow July 19-20 in Kansas City. (Auto Club photo).

Schumacher 3rd in state bus 'roadshow'

Defending state champion school bus driver Leonard J. Schumacher, 40, of Ugly, lost his crown June 12 to Jo Ellyn Myers, whom he beat last year by only one slim point.

She drives for the Fennville district, near Holland. Schumacher finished third in the state bus driving roadshow in Lansing, but he still qualifies for the national competition which will be in Kansas City, Mo., July 19-20. He will compete against other drivers from all over the country.

A total of 900 drivers from all over the state joined the competition which is a practice in driving skills, precision maneuvers, and a written test. The top three in the 13 regional contests took part in the state contest.

Last year, Schumacher placed 36 out of 100 in the nationals in Boston. He said he just had one of those days. He hopes to do better this year, though.

This is his fifth year in the competition. Last year, he won the regionals at Ugly High School and then went on to win the state title. He has won the regional title three straight years.

Schumacher and his wife, Myrt, and three children live on a farm near Ugly. He has been driving a bus for the Ugly schools for eight years.

The state competition is sponsored by the Association for Pupil Transportation and the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Thirty attend Old Settlers' reunion

Thirty persons attended the annual Novesta Old Settlers' reunion Saturday at Deford.

Officers for the coming year were reelected. They are: President, Audley Horner, Cass City; vice-president, Scott Kelley, Caro, and secretary-treasurer, Charlotte Horner.

The eldest attending was Goldie Martin McLaughlin of Detroit who is 89.

Mardell Ware was in charge of the memorial service. The list of the deceased during the past year is Helen Little, Bill Spencer, Mary Englehart, Frank Englehart, Edward Anthes, Leverett Barnes and Milton Gelatt.

Others were Harold Bidle, Gordon Englehart, Lester Tedford, Floyd Collins, Frank Nemeth, William Patch, Earl Parker and Ernest Ferguson.

Next year's reunion is to be held the third Saturday in June at the same location.

The Haire Net

Last week more often than not television programming was interrupted by weather bulletins or tornado watches.

Or was it tornado warnings? I never can get it straight. Is it a warning that means a funnel cloud has been spotted? Or is that a watch?

The terms are almost as confusing as the town whistle warnings. I had to check the record to find out that a warning means a tornado has been sighted and is signified by a 3-minute sustained 2-tone blast.

Where I live it's hard to hear the whistle anyway and a tornado better not strike around noon or 5 p.m. when I automatically assume that it's the regular daily blast anyway.

A case can be made I suppose for keeping up with the violent weather if it happens to be of major concern.

I wouldn't want to be on Saginaw Bay in a 20-foot boat without being able to tell that a storm was moving in fast so I could move out fast.

I spent a night on that lake once and that was more than enough, but that's another story and nothing to do with the topic at hand.

The question under consideration is what good a warning (watch) really does. I suppose that some families use it and move to the area deemed safest and sweat it out until the all clear sounds. (How many whistle blasts is that?)

A dime will get you a dollar that nine out of 10 react the way it goes in the Haire household.

Hey, there's a tornado watch. I wonder if they spotted one around here? Why do announcements occur in the last of the ninth with the Tigers a run behind and runners on second and third?

Okay, you say, if what you say is right, how come the television stations interrupt programs to announce it?

The answer is that maybe it does a smidgen of good here and there, but the primary reason is entertainment. Entertainment? Sure.

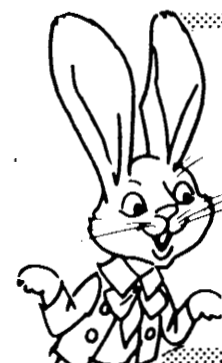

There is a thrill in danger. It's like attending one of those horror movies with the remote possibility that it could be for real adding the zing that makes you want to listen to every bulletin.

While there's little real help from weather bulletins here that's not the case in seaside communities where advance notice of hurricanes can get the threatened to safety in time to save lives.

Hurricanes hit over large areas and do not touch down capriciously like the even more destructive tornados.

It's the theory here that since there's no really telling what might happen you might as well sit back and enjoy it.

So I do.

Kingston celebrates this week

Kingston Main Street — 1901

Blacksmith Shop On Main Street

Area history recorded in special book

The following article was prepared by the historical committee which compiled the quasqui-centennial book to commemorate Kingston's 125th anniversary celebration. Some editing has been done by the Chronicle for space considerations.

The book includes the histories of Kingston, Wilmet and East Dayton, plus information about Kingston, Koylton, Dayton and Wells Townships, family histories and many photographs.

It is on sale during the quasqui-centennial celebration this week through Sunday, June 27, and at the Kingston State Bank.

Alanson K. King with his son, Philo L., are believed to be the first settlers of the Kingston area.

In January, 1858, they came and built a log house. His family moved into it in March.

The country was so wild at the time that Mrs. King didn't see a white woman for more than five months after her arrival.

A mail route was established from Vassar to Port Sanilac in the same year that the King family settled in their new home. King and his two sons, Philo and Wallace, carried the mail over the route until 1860.

BECOMES VILLAGE

Kingston is generally accepted as having its beginning in the summer of 1866 when John Kingsbury and his sons bought a tract in section 32 and made preparation to build a sawmill, which they got running in the fall of 1867.

In the fall of 1866, Elder Johnson put up a small building on the same tract and opened a store, with James Perry as clerk.

This was the beginning of the Village of Kingston which was then known as Newberry or Newbury. (It was spelled both ways in past records.) Sometime during the next winter, Philo King bought the store from Johnson.

In April, 1868, Joseph A. Pepon, M.D., came to town from Ohio. Until then, the people of the area had to go to Watrouville or North Branch for medical care.

At this time, the east and west road through town was completed for a short distance (now M-46) with the ones from the north and south just logging trails.

The village which sits on the hill was bordered on two sides (east and west) by tagalder swamp. The roads were built across the swamp with tagalder brush.

NEW BUSINESSES

John Kingsbury erected a grist mill in 1874, located just north of Collin's gas station.

There were two hotels. One was Lyman's Hotel which was located where the Kingston Tavern now stands at the blinker light on M-46. Jim McInnis' Hotel stood where Ed Kaminski's Plumbing Shop is now located near the corner of Washington Street and M-46. This was the first hotel in town.

George Veit's father had a store which is now the east part of Beagio's Pizza Place located at the blinker light on M-46 on the north side of the street. Harlo Pelton's General Store was located on the corner of Washington Street and M-46 where Barden's Hardware is now located.

In 1875, there was also a second store, a school and two blacksmith shops. In 1877, a post office stood where Walter Legg's Market is now located. Logging and lumber operations were at their peak and agriculture was fast becoming a major activity in the area.

In 1880, Kingston village had a population of about 200. Businesses were three general stores, hardware, drug store, harness shop, meat market, saw mill, grist mill, an elevator under construction, millinery store, post office, two hotels and a livery stable. There were two churches, the Methodist Episcopal, which had dedicated its house of worship in 1873, and the Baptist. The latter was holding services in the schoolhouse.

The Pontiac, Oxford and Port Austin Railroad was completed in 1882 and ran through the village, after which Kingston grew more rapidly.

DISASTROUS FIRE

In 1886, the town was nearly destroyed by a fire. Twenty-two buildings burned and only three large buildings were left standing on Main Street: Lyman's Hotel, Harlo Pelton's general store and the Ol Stevens combined store and house.

The fire started in a building south of one of the hotels. All the buildings were built with pine logs or boards and the roofs were made of cedar shingles and were easily ignited. The town was quickly rebuilt after the fire.

NAME CHANGE

It is not known exactly when the name of the village was changed to Kingston. It is known it was changed to prevent confusion with a village in the Upper Peninsula that also had the name of Newberry. It is believed that the name Kingston was chosen to reflect the names of the original land owner, Alanson K. King, and one of the first postmasters, John Kingsbury. Records do show that a plat was recorded late as 1891 under the name of Newberry. The first village council minutes are dated April 17, 1893, and the village is referred to as Kingston. The village was incorporated in 1893.

A major problem of the newly organized village was the problem of fire protection. The replacing of board sidewalks that were in front of all the business places with cement walks was a project that lasted a number of years.

At the same time, road improvement began and subscriptions were taken to build roads in both directions from town. Previous to this the roads east and west from town (M-46) were narrow and rough and much of the time in the spring they were impassable.

RECENT HISTORY

The village of Kingston has updated the water mains and added a new well with a building in 1963. Another well and building were added in 1974.

The old fire hall was located on Ross Street, near the corner of M-46.

A new building erected across from the elementary school on Ross Street houses the fire department, maintenance, office, and conference room. It was completed by the winter of 1973.

In 1972-73, a sewer system and treatment lagoon was constructed. Property was assessed and everyone in the village was required to hook into the sewer system. Sewer installation caused the necessity of re-surfacing village streets.

In 1974, Kingston borrowed money to build new streets and also borrowed money to purchase a new and updated fire truck.

Kingston is now a small, pleasant farming community with a population of 4.

Pedaling Around

A tough decision

By Mike Eliasohn

Since the majority of Cass City School District taxpayers have decided they don't want to pay for athletics and other extracurricular activities with their taxes, the decision whether there will be any come fall and beyond is now up to the Boosters Club and the school board.

The Boosters Club, which was organized with the intent of raising money for only one year to support extracurricular activities, has yet to meet to decide whether it wants to undertake the task for a second year.

If the Boosters decide to raise money again, the school board must then decide whether to accept the offer.

It won't be an easy decision to make by either.

The Booster Club is to be complimented for raising enough money to support all extracurricular activities. Some booster groups in other school districts in the same financial leaky boat chose to raise only enough money for certain popular sports.

Left out were the sports that don't draw spectators and non-sports activities. I recall reading about an upper Thumb athlete who was unable to defend his title at one of the all-star track meets because his school didn't have a track team this year.

The same situation may exist in Cass City in 1982-83, which would be sad.

Wouldn't it be a shame if all the boy and girl athletes are robbed of a chance to participate, to always wonder what the year would have been like. Maybe they would have won a championship. Maybe they would have been the star of the team.

Maybe they would have impressed a college recruiter and won a scholarship. Not too many Cass City athletes do win such scholarships, but a few do.

One Cass City athlete has won state track championships two years in a row. Wouldn't it be unfortunate she couldn't defend her title next year? Few athletes have been state champions three years in a row.

Most students don't participate in interscholastic sports, but a large percentage do go to football and boys' basketball games to watch. Certainly that is better than having them wander the streets Friday nights.

That having been said, let's look at the other side.

For starters, it took a lot of work by the Boosters and their supporters to raise the approximately $53,000. I doubt if they would like to have to repeat the experience.

Some parents donated more money in various ways than they ever would have paid in taxes for extracurricular activities.

The ultimate answer, of course, is for the taxpayers of the district to support all school programs -- busing and a full curriculum, as well as sports through their taxes. (Increased state aid would help.)

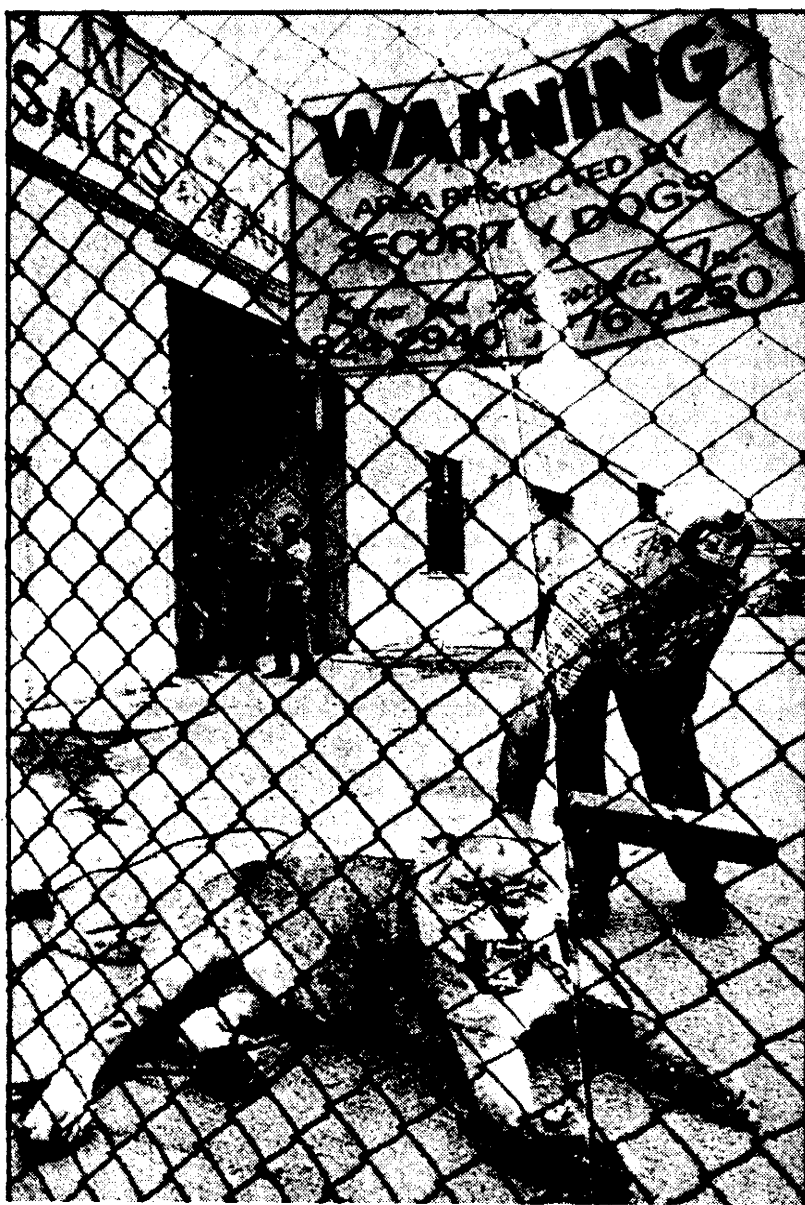

Granted, some persons cannot afford the tax increase, but some spend more money for coffee and cigarettes than they would ever pay in increased taxes. But if the Boosters continue to finance an athletic program, some of the latter are going to say, "Why pay more taxes when the Boosters will pay for it?"

Also, I suspect some persons who don't have children in school, only are aware of schools through sports. They may never realize the doors to the school libraries are locked, but they may realize something is wrong if there are no football or basketball games Friday nights.

Only then will they maybe vote for more school mileage.

There is also the moral question. When doors to libraries are locked because the school district cannot afford librarians, when there is no school nurse to check a youngster who has become sick, when some subjects are no longer taught because there isn't enough money to pay the teachers, is it right to still have sports and other after-school activities?

Lion's share of attention focuses on Winter's pet

MARVIN WINTER, 45, of Cass City, Mich., usually uses a dog to guard his used truck business in Detroit but decided to use Sue Ellen, his two-year-old pet lioness Tuesday because his employees wanted to see her. However, Detroit police would have preferred that he keep his pet at home on his six acres of enclosed land in the Thumb area of Michigan. They issued a citation for bringing a "wild, ferocious or undomesticated and untrained animal" into the city.

Omer mayor announces candidacy for state senate

George Johnson

George Johnson, mayor of the city of Omer, has announced his candidacy for the new 34th District State Senate seat.

The 47-year-old mayor, who has been personnel director for Magline, Inc. of Pinconning for the past 12 years, filed on the Republican ticket.

Johnson said he has spent the last 20 years serving his communities in both the private and public sectors as a volunteer. "They told us we couldn't organize a YMCA in Walled Lake 20 years ago," he said, "and I chaired a group that had one going in two months."

Prior to serving as Omer's mayor -- he has been mayor three terms -- Johnson was a member of the city council.

He was chairman of the Arenac Board of Social Welfare, served on the Arenac County Tax Allocation Board, chaired the Arenac County Housing Commission, is president of the Northeast Michigan Arts Council, served on the Region 7B Industry Council, is a member of the board of directors of the Huron Shores Tourist Alliance, former secretary of the Pinconning Chamber of Commerce and is active in the Lutheran Church.

He is married and has six children, with one just having graduated from Central Michigan University, two at Ferris State College and three at home.

The new 34th does not have an incumbent senator and covers Bay, Arenac, Gladwin, Tuscola and Huron Counties.

Walbro declares dividend

The board of directors of Walbro Corp., at a recent meeting declared a second quarter dividend of 10 cents per share payable July 30 to stockholders of record June 30.

The second quarter dividend continues a five-year trend of 10 cent quarterly dividends.

"Sales are expected to remain at low levels well into the third quarter," Walbro President Lambert E. Althaver said in announcing the dividend. "We anticipate a gradual improvement toward the end of the third quarter, as general business conditions improve."

"In addition, we foresee strong opportunities for the company in the automotive original equipment market, beginning later this year and growing throughout 1983."

The first electric shavers were ready for sale in 1931.

Need help for 4th Festival

Organizers are hoping for help and participants in various activities for the Cass City July 4th Festival. The five-mile Fun Run is scheduled Friday, July 3. There will be five classes of runners from under 18 to over 45-year-old participants.

Pre-registration for the run will save participants one dollar. Registration on the day of the race is $6. The money will cover the cost of awards and T-shirts.

To register, contact Curt Strickland at the Thumb National Bank in Cass City. Make checks payable to the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

Veterans are asked to participate in the Sunday parade of the First Marine Band.

They will follow the band to the park. Uniformed service organizations and individual veterans are encouraged to march. They are also urged to wear uniforms if possible.

Groups and individuals interested in marching should contact Jack Esau at 872-3063. The parade begins 1 p.m. Sunday.

Anyone interested in helping with set-up before the festival or clean-up afterwards is urged to show up at a meeting Wednesday, June 30, behind Charnont in Cass City. Tom Herron, festival coordinator, will be present to talk with the volunteers about jobs that must be done to help the festival go smoothly.

Hughes gets job in Washington

Department of Energy Assistant Secretary for Conservation and Renewable Energy Joseph J. Tribble has named two-time Congressional candidate Norman R. Hughes of Metamora to be his assistant, effective June 7.

Hughes will be responsible for the development, implementation and management of a program to assist in the transfer to the private sector of federal development technologies, federal demonstration facilities, and initiatives for private sector activities in lieu of federal investment. Hughes received his bachelor of science degree in architecture from Lawrence Institute of Technology. He had post-graduate studies at Eastern Michigan University, University of Michigan and University of Wisconsin in engineering and construction technologies, and at the University of Detroit School of Law.

For the past 10 years, he owned and operated N.R. Hughes and Associates, a construction management and design-building firm in Metamora.

Hughes twice served as a national Republican delegate and was the Republican candidate for Congress in 1978 and 1980, losing both times to Bob Traxler.

County preps for union talks

Formal action was limited at the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners' meeting Tuesday.

Two county representatives were appointed to the Human Development Commission sub-board which oversees the five county alcohol abuse program run by the HDC.

They were County Commissioner George W. Clark Jr. of Vassar and LeeRoy Clark (no relation) of Millington.

Commissioner Ken Kennedy of Millington was given permission to attend the National Association of Counties convention in Baltimore July 9-14.

Kennedy is a member of the NACO rural affairs committee. The Michigan NACO affiliate will pay most of his expenses and Tuscola will pay the rest.

The contract between the county and Fraternal Order of Police, which represents sheriff's department employees, calls for renegotiation of wages, with the new salaries to take effect July 1.

No negotiating sessions have been scheduled yet, according to Commissioner Royce Russell of Cass City, a member of the board's personnel committee.

HEALTH TIPS

Hay rarely cause of hay fever

Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
AMA

Why do they call it hay fever?

This discomfiting disease was named by a London physician who noticed that people experience the symptoms (sneezing, runny nose, itching, swollen eyes) during the haying season in England.

Americans have adopted the name, despite the fact that the misery is caused by many things besides hay and is rarely accompanied by a fever.

Hay fever is an allergic reaction to some ordinarily harmless substance in the air, the American Medical Association points out.

Most of the 10 million American victims are allergic to the pollen from various trees, grasses and weeds, especially ragweed.

The hay fever season for a particular person occurs when the plants to which he is sensitive are pollinating.

For most sufferers, the season is between early spring and late fall.

Those allergic to house dust, mold spores, and animal fur may sneeze all year round. Most discomfort is temporary, but one third of the untreated cases will develop into asthma.

Let your family doctor help identify the cause of your hay fever.

For temporary relief he may recommend antihistamines and eye drops, air conditioning and air purifying devices, or a vacation in another part of the country.

In some cases your doctor may suggest desensitization. After a series of tests to identify the offending allergen, the doctor administers a graded series of injections containing minute amounts of the substance. If the injections are started before the hay fever season begins, it is possible to build up an immunity.

If all else fails, you can make a permanent move to a new climate, but other allergies may await you in the new location.

Avoid the cause of your allergy if you can. Have it treated if you can't.

Don't attempt to doctor yourself with non-prescription remedies.

Avoid getting overheated and exhausted. Fatigue can trigger a hay fever attack.

Lennon firms low bidder for marking

Two Lennon firms were the joint low bidder to mark pavement on federally designated routes in Tuscola County, when the Michigan Department of Transportation opened bids in Lansing last Wednesday.

General Pavement Marking Co. and L.G. & E. Leasing bid $21,478 for the project, which is to be completed in October.

Tentative budget outlined

Tentative budgets totaling $2,319,500 for programs under the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 were approved by the Thumb Area Consortium Private Industry Council June 15.

Frank E. Lenard, consortium executive director, emphasized that the programs depend on decisions of Congress on the federal budget and continuance of the programs after the present expiration date of Sept. 30. The programs are funded 100 percent by the federal government.

Lenard said council action on these budgets was necessary at this time as a normal procedure. The totals are based on current fiscal year programs.

The figure of $1,811,500 for Title II-B, which is employment training, consists of: Classroom training, $1,453,500; on-the-job training, $70,000, and work experience, $288,000.

The figure of $283,000 for Title VII, which is private sector initiative programs, consists of: on-the-job training, $271,000, and economic development services, $12,000.

Administrative costs for the consortium would total $225,000 or 9.7 percent of total budget.

TIM LEIPPRANDT OF ELKTON TALKS ABOUT SUMMER TILING:

"The best time for tiling is during June and July"

What prompted you to install a drainage tile system through your crops?

It was a toss-up when we made the decision. However, the extremely wet soil conditions through the fall season made us happy with our decision.

Did you anticipate any crop damage as a result of doing the installation through the crops?

Yes, we anticipated it because the corn was knee-high and because the contractor told us there would be some damage.

Did you grow any of the same type of crops on untilled ground?

Yes, about 33 acres of corn — an equal amount of acres to those we tilled in June of 1981.

Did the drainage tile installation drain any land that was previously too wet to grow crops on?

No. All our land was in use.

How many acres do you farm?

1,500 acres, and this included owned or rented land.

How many acres are tilled?

1,460 acres now.

When did ETL Farms install their first tile drainage system?

20 years ago.

When will ETL Farms complete the tiling program?

Very soon, and in the summer season.

What crops do you usually grow?

Corn, navy beans, wheat, oats and sugar beets.

Was harvesting normal and easy over the newly-tilled ground?

Harvesting was done across the rows and was relatively easy compared to harvesting on the untilled ground where the water was two feet deep in some areas.

How were yields affected on the crop you tilled through this year?

7% loss, which was a cost of 6 bushels to the acre.

Was there any difference harvesting with the rows or across the rows?

Across the rows worked better for us and reduced the damage to about 2%. We tried going with the rows, and the damage was 7 or 8%.

Was the crop damage caused by going over the crops worth it in terms of harvesting ease and cost savings?

Yes, time and fuel savings more than made up for the crop damage.

Do you think you received a better quality installation as a result of going through the crops instead of going through the mud and rains of spring or fall?

We believe that the ground is in better condition to do the digging, make the connections and settle properly by fall in the usually drier summer season.

Do you feel that contractors damage soils when the installation is done in the wetter season?

Yes, definitely, and many farmers agree with us. Most of the farmers believe summer tiling is best for their land.

Drainage tile contractors are usually extremely busy before and after crop harvest. If there was an incentive in terms of cost to farmers who install drainage tile systems through young crops, such as corn, beans, oats and sugar beets, would you recommend this procedure?

We recommend that the best time for tiling is during the months of June and July.

What date and crop would you recommend cover?

All crops except wheat.

How difficult was harvesting in 1981, on your untilled ground?

Very difficult, in fact, miserable. We had to harvest through water two feet deep at times. We used a 4-wheel drive combine and that saved the day. The fuel cost was at least 60% more and the time increase was about 75% more.

Summer tiling makes sense for YOUR farm!

Your Neighbor says I like summer, but spring is better

If anything else, people love the month of June simply for its 21st day. That is the first day of summer.

And the same goes for Janis Sealey.

"I think that summer is just great, I really like it," she said. "But I like spring a little better because it is not as hot as summer."

Miss Sealey said she likes to be outside on nice days. "I like to bike ride on a nice day," she said. "I also like to drive around the lake. I go up by Caseville and down by Port Huron to enjoy the nice weather and the scenery around the lakes."

If there is one season Miss Sealey likes best then there is one she likes least. "Winter is the season that I don't like that much because it is so cold and I don't like to shovel snow either."

"In the summer it is just right. I like to walk downtown and I don't have to put on a coat before I go out of the house," she said.

She said she doesn't mind fall, but that is when it begins to get cold, and it leads into winter.

Miss Sealey, 39, lives at 4344 Oak Street.

Rites held Sunday for Mrs. Pena

Guadalupe Pena, 88, of Cass City died suddenly last Thursday at her home.

She was born Dec. 31, 1893, in Gerro, Mexico, the daughter of Emilio and Rafaela (Martinez) Leal.

Miss Leal married William Pena Oct. 14, 1912, in Pearsall, Texas. They came to Cass City in 1937 from Texas. Pena died in April, 1944.

She was a member of the Novesta Church of Christ.

Mrs. Pena is survived by two sons, William Pena of Battle Creek and Ernest Pena of Cass City; five daughters, Mrs. Leila Martinez of Pontiac, Mrs. Joseph (Stella) Leyva of Gagetown, Mrs. Herbert (Genevieve) Rodriguez of San Antonio, Texas, and Mrs. Joseph (Alice) Lopez and Mrs. Otis (Amelia) Brian, both of Saginaw; one brother, Amilio Leal of San Antonio; one sister, Mrs. Frank Diaz of San Antonio; 24 grandchildren, and 12 great-grandchildren. One son, Robert, and one brother, Joseph, preceded her in death.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Vern Lockard of the Novesta Church of Christ officiating. Burial was in Elkland Township Cemetery.

New books at the library

TILLY ALONE by Catherine Cookson (fiction). Tilly Trotter returns from Texas with her two children to her English estate and mines. Resettled as lady of the manor, Tilly's main concern is to protect her children from the evil that has been awaiting her return — and not one of the villagers wishes her well. Trapped by a promise made to her dying husband, she can expect neither happiness or rekindled love. But fate works beyond Tilly's expectations.

OLD WORLD, NEW WORLD by Mark Dintenfuss (fiction). Like thousands of others at the turn of the century, Jacob and Sophie Lieber cross the ocean to find a new life. But the gap between the two worlds is more than geographical. The world they leave is filled with fear and superstition, but it is familiar and secure; the world they travel to is filled with hope and opportunity, but it is confusing and strange. Their children will confront the new world, each in his own way; Sam is a natural leader who will found a financial empire... Walter is an idealist who will fight for the oppressed... and Molly will blossom, embracing life — and love — with almost reckless abandon.

A LAND BEYOND TEARS by Barry Neil Kaufman (non-fiction). Sam Miller is 17 and he is facing what we all must eventually face — a death in the family. His mother is dying and no one is prepared. Barry Neil Kaufman, the man who developed Option therapy, tells the moving and uplifting story of how Sam dares to break the pattern of denial, fixed smiles, and lies of assurance to reach out to a woman who, in sickness, has been denied the humanity she once lavished on those around her. By facing the truth, Sam profoundly changes the people around him. Young as he is, he becomes a teacher to every member of his family, helping them to touch and to love one another. By learning to accept death, the Millens learn to live.

Diocese collection drive lags

The Catholic Services Appeal of the eleven county Diocese of Saginaw reached $1,485,731. The total is based on pledges received by June 15.

The target for the drive which was conducted in all 105 parishes and 14 missions was $1,694,950, the same as last year. It is anticipated that additional revenues will be reported to the diocese during the next few weeks.

"It is unfortunate that the targeted amount was not achieved by this time," said a diocese spokesman, "But economic conditions in the area are a major factor in not reaching the target."

Area parishes and the amount they pledged (target in parentheses) were: St. Pancratius, Cass City, $6,181 ($10,012 target); St. Agatha, Gagetown, $5,620 ($6,627); St. Michael, Wilmet, $3,517 ($5,756), and Sacred Heart, Caro, $17,290 ($21,260).

The Catholic Services Appeal is the sole means of support of all diocesan services. It also includes most collections which are taken up separately in other dioceses.

Only three additional collections are requested of pastors and people in the Diocese of Saginaw, National Bishops' Relief, National Campaign for Human Development, and the annual collection for foreign missions.

Determination of how to conform diocesan budgets to the revenues will be determined by the diocese within the next few weeks.

E. A. Wanner dies Thursday

Erwin Allen Wanner, 80, of Cass City died last Thursday at the Ferguson Convalescent Home in Lapeer after a long illness.

He was born March 17, 1902, in Lapeer County, Burnside Township, the son of Allen and Marion (Barstow) Wanner. He married Florence Parker March 27, 1922, in Elkland Township. They made their home in the Cass City area.

Wanner was a member of the Gideons, Cass River Camp and the Lott Baptist Church of Glennie. He was also a lay minister for many years in several Baptist Churches in the state.

Wanner was the owner of a plumbing and heating business in Cass City for many years.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Edward (Mary Lou) Sprague of Bay City and Mrs. Phyllis Mark of Cass City; one sister, Mrs. Clair Tuckey of Cass City; five grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren. One brother, Carmen, preceded him in death.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Dr. Randall Robinson of the Memorial Baptist Church of Arlington, Va., officiating. Burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

Immunization, family planning clinics slated

The Tuscola County Health Department conducts immunization clinics each Thursday at its office on M-81, southwest of Caro.

Hours are 9:30-11:30 a.m. and 1-3:30 p.m. The first clinic each month has hours which extend into the evening.

Family planning clinics will be conducted Monday, June 28; Monday, July 19, and Thursday, July 29. Hours will be 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Dr. Martin will be the attending physician at the first and second clinics and Lois Mickus will be the nurse practitioner at the third clinic.

WASHINGTON TRIP

Sally Severance and Debra Loeding of the Evergreen 4-H group and 4-H leader, Mrs. Jim Doerr, were among a group of 47 Tri-County 4-H members who participated in a week's trip to Gettysburg, Penn., and Washington, D.C.

They toured George Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, saw the graves of John and Robert Kennedy and the changing of the guards at Arlington Cemetery. They also visited a Beltsville agricultural farm.

Wednesday, Congressman Bob Traxler met the group and took them on a VIP tour of the capitol and held a question and answer session.

The group visited the Supreme Court, Library of Congress, White House, Ford Theatre, Smithsonian Institute and Washington Memorial.

Citizenship Washington Focus was a week-long experience in citizenship and leadership training at the National 4-H Center. In workshop sessions at the National 4-H Center, the young people discussed contemporary issues and concerns and ways in which skills and knowledge gained during the week could be applied to the local 4-H program.

Second millage vote was unnecessary

Dear Editor,
The school millage was again defeated. I wonder if in another two months we will have to vote and defeat it again.
Do people have to speak out every two months by vote to let the school administration know they hurt with taxation?
To vote for millage should be allowed only once a year, not spend all that time and money trying to tell the people what they should vote for. We know what we want.
Conservation of money available is the object.
Every year our valuation on real estate is upped from 5-20 percent. That brings more taxes, but the schools are never satisfied.
Every school has a lot of extras that are costing a lot of money that are not teaching reading, writing and arithmetic. The basics are most important. People come out of high school that cannot read, write, or figure simple problems.
For a school to hire extra people like athletic coaches for junior high school kids is unfair to the taxpayer.
Some schools take pupils to bowl during school hours, some go swimming. Some schools even take kids during school time to teach them to golf.
One school I read about in Florida has a Frisbee coach on the payroll.
School administrators will find a way to spend our tax money if we give it to them.
I think that if we have football teams, etc., we should have about three counties competing with each other and at the end of the season, the champ of the three counties would compete for state championship.
The way it is now, local teams will play Alpena one week end and maybe Lansing the next week end, etc.
What a waste of gas, buses, etc. That's not conservation. Things are too expensive and too many people are not working to pay for luxury.
The state, they say, is broke. When things were better and things were going up, what did they do with the extra money inflation brought in?
Just for an example, when gasoline was 30 cents a gallon, we paid 4 percent sales tax. Now a gallon costs $1.30 and we are paying 4 percent tax on that, which is about seven times more tax.

Same way with all the things that we pay sales tax on is at least five times higher than a few years ago.
They tell of all the millions the state lottery brings. Then there is the state income tax. The wages went up with inflation, so the revenue is much greater. What's happened to all the tax income?
With proper management of all the extra money coming into the state because of inflation, there should be plenty of money without asking for more income tax, sales tax or school millage.

Sincerely,
Sylvester Bukowski

Letters to the editor

Don't buy extra park property

Dear Mr. Haire:
I am writing to voice my objections to the proposed property purchase by the village.
The biggest objection involves (of course) money. In the same article in the Chronicle dated April 27, where the village council first brought up the subject of the property purchase, there were at least three references to the village needing money for other reasons:
(1) There will be a $1,387 reduction in state aid due to cuts in state expenditures, besides a possible delay of quarterly payments.
(2) A new requirement that samples be taken every three months from the landfill and tested will cost about $4,000 per year.
(3) When discussing patching of the many potholes in village streets, it was said the primary problem is shortage of funds.
In the Chronicle dated April 29, Mr. Althaver said a minor cutback in state aid might be absorbed, but a bigger cut might require a reduction in services. How can they in good conscience be in favor of spending this money when we may end up not having enough for current operations?
As far as using this land for expansion that will be needed down the road, if 1.6 acres were used out of the approximate 80 acres owned, it would only amount to a two percent loss in park area.
The last reason I have for not buying this property involves the loss of property tax revenue. Not only will the village lose income for both the general and sewer funds, but so will the county, schools and anything else that gets its funds from property taxes.
Call your council members or, better yet, go to the next council meeting. They intentionally delayed making a decision on this to get your input.

Sincerely,
Shari Schott
Cass City

Letters to the Editor

The Chronicle welcomes letters to the editor. Letters must include the writer's name, address and telephone number. The latter is in case it is necessary to call for verification, but won't be used in the newspaper.
Names will be withheld from publication upon request, for an adequate reason.
The Chronicle reserves the right to edit letters for length and clarity.
We will not publish thank you letters of a specific nature, for instance, from a club thanking merchants who donated prizes for a raffle.

Why didn't council buy land earlier?

Dear Editor,
To the village council:
We can't understand when you say expansion of the park. If you had the foreseeable future as you say, why didn't you buy the Bauman property plus the surrounding when each was selling in their teens.
You would have had a very desirable piece of frontage plus it would have been park and would stop business from coming any closer.
You feel now is the right price but will you feel that's enough. I have commercial property on the one side and in the residential area.

Since the road opened, it's a place for the young from 11 p.m.-3 a.m. To my neighbors and myself, we are boxed in and it is not fair. Try and sell your place or live by it today. It's the same line, "I don't know. It's so close to the park."
Disgusted,
Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sattelberg
6734 Church Street
Cass City

Let a taxpayer buy the property

Dear Mr. Haire,
I'm strongly against the council buying more property or selling some other land to buy it! Let a taxpayer buy it.
It is time the village board began to cut back! I wonder if people realize that the fringe benefits of the village employees top the fringes of the factory, school, or hospital employees? (They also got an eight percent raise this year).
Their fringe benefits include full medical, vision, 75 percent dental, life insurance equal to salary, long term disability, 120 sick days, retirement benefits, and money if they leave their employment before retirement.
The vacation time varies, a person with 15 years gets three weeks and 11 paid holidays. Some receive clothing allowances and others get their college work courses paid for. I do not believe that the village employees should have their coursework paid for. In your paper, it also stated that the village allowed Police Chief Wilson the use of a police car to attend classes at college.
My husband and I paid the costs of our children's education and I do not feel the village should use our tax money in this fashion. We should not be buying police cars to be used out of Cass City and doing county business. We pay taxes to have county police and state police. Cass City does not need five officers.

help it. I have to pay my other bills!"
Too bad. Cass City is a nice town but it is getting too expensive to live in it.
I heard that the village council is discussing building a bigger municipal building. Is this a rumor or fact? What are they going to do with the old one? Maybe provide a meeting place for our senior citizens? I doubt it. We spend thousands of village dollars on the youth but little on the aged.
Sincerely,
Cass City taxpayer
(Name withheld upon request)

Editor's note: According to Village Clerk Joyce La Roche, the highest annual salary paid to any of the last three employees hired is $15,495, which is for a Department of Public Works employee.
All three were hired early this year, two as replacements. The fifth policeman, hired eliminated a lot of overtime hiring of part-time officers.
The letter writer's comments about fringe benefits was essentially correct, except that the village does not pay tuition for employees to attend college. Mrs. La Roche said. It does pay for work related courses they take.

RECOGNIZED for her 30 years of service as a licensed practical nurse was Bertha Hildinger, right, of Provincial House in Cass City. Administrator Marti Hunter presented her with a plaque at a ceremony Monday evening.

Fete 30-year nurse Bertha Hildinger for long career

If cloning were easy enough to do, Marti Hunter, the new administrator at Provincial House, would have her wish and more.

She was the master of ceremonies at a program Monday evening commending Bertha Hildinger for her 30 years of service as a licensed practical nurse in Michigan and for her nine years at Provincial House.

"I wish I had three more workers like her," Mrs. Hunter said. "She is just a fantastic senior citizen."

Mrs. Hildinger, 77, was given a small plaque at a gathering in the dining room of staff and residents of Provincial House.

Mrs. Hildinger will be presented with another award this Thursday, at a ceremony at Boyne Mountain. She will be guest of honor at a special dinner given by the Michigan Licensed Practical Nurses' Association to honor her for her long service as a nurse.

"This lady is really active, and a super senior citizen. She really works well with the residents, she's just super," Mrs. Hunter said.

Mrs. Hunter has been the new director at Provincial House for four weeks.

She received her bachelor's degree from Roosevelt University in Chicago in business administration. She then went to Columbia Pacific University in California to receive her master's degree in health care.

She has traveled all over the country, spending most of her time on the west coast, because her husband, Alan, was in the Navy for 22 years. He retired in June, 1979, from Great Lakes Naval Base in Illinois. Mrs. Hunter also has two children, David, 18, and Dawn, 14.

A resident of Frankenthum, Mrs. Hunter has been in the medical profession for nearly 18 years.

"I am a certified paramedic in the state of Michigan and an emergency medical technician instructor. I don't do any teaching anymore, but I am still on the roster of instructors," she said.

Before coming to Provincial House, Mrs. Hunter was the director of nurses at Marion Hall in Flint and an ambulance volunteer before that.

As an administrator, Mrs. Hunter wants to make Provincial House more community oriented.

Dr. Fritz ending long dental career

DURING HIS 48 YEARS of practicing dentistry, Dr. Fritz has seen a "tremendous" number of changes. The most significant one, he feels, is the "emphasis on prevention and preservation of teeth."

What that means is preventing teeth from becoming decayed, such as by emphasizing proper brushing of teeth, and if they do the Royce citizens band radio was stolen from his car while parked in the Salem United Methodist Church lot from 10 p.m.-midnight Wednesday. No value was listed for the 40-channel unit.

Early Saturday, Reva Little of 6219 Main Street told police stones had been thrown through her bedroom and living room windows. Two regular and two storm windows were broken.

Witnesses driving by said they saw two males throwing something and then get in a car and drive off.

Tuesday, June 15, Doris Jones of 6809 Herron Drive reported to police a yellow crawler lawn sprinkler was stolen from outside her home early June 2. It was worth $100.

Owen-Gage Brownies fly-up

Brownie Troop 671 from Owendale and Gagetown and Junior Troop 659 from Owendale had a fly-up ceremony Thursday, June 10, to honor Brownies being transferred into the Junior Girl Scout troop.

Brownie leader Vickie Merchant officiated, assisted by junior leader Mary Ellen Miller and by Violet Grassel of Owendale.

The girls that were in the fly-up ceremony were:

Kathleen Kirby, Connie Miller, Ami Wilson, Michele Metzger, Gina Grassel and Vickie Ricker.

Marilyn Abfalter and Michele Peters were also eligible for the Junior Troop, but were not at the ceremony.

All the Brownies, Junior Scouts and Cadettes present earned badges, pins and awards.

Shirley Ashmore of Owendale was the top badge earner, being the recipient of 12 badges.

Afterwards, a potluck supper was served.

become decayed, doing everything possible to preserve them.

In contrast, when he first became a dentist, the emphasis was on extraction. "When in doubt, take it out," he said.

Fritz doesn't think the primary cause of tooth decay, eating sweets, is more prevalent today than when he was growing up. "I remember as a kid having a penny and going down to get a stick of candy."

There have been some other changes over the years, some of them no longer new, such as high speed drills, new antibiotics, new impression materials and better anesthetics.

OUTSIDE OF DENTISTRY, Fritz was a charter member of the Cass City Gavel Club in 1943, served as its president, and is still a member. He was also active for many years, along with his wife, in the Cub Scouts.

He bowled until five years ago and still displays on his office wall a photo of the team of which he was a member which was the league champion in 1940-41.

Fritz has had the same office assistant for almost 20 years, Esther Guinther.

Some of his patients have been with him since he started practice here in 1937 and some even started with his father.

He stopped taking new patients a couple of years ago in order to cut down his working hours.

Asked if he will miss dentistry, he replied, he will. Asked how his patients feel about his retiring, he replied some are sad, then joked, "I suppose maybe some are relieved."

Mark urges sharing ideas

The need to share ideas and become innovative in public works, particularly when faced with reduced budgets and resources, was stressed by Archie Mark when he addressed the 28th annual conference of the Michigan chapter of the American Public Works Association.

The Cass City native is the supervisor of public works of the city of Flushing, near Flint. He became president of the Michigan APWA chapter in January and is serving a one-year term. He has been an officer of the organization for several years.

Mark went to Flushing in 1958 as a treatment plant operator and shortly after that was named the DPW supervisor.

At the conference at Shanty Creek, he cited high rates of unemployment, industrial plant closings, the dropoff in commercial trade, inflation, a decline in public revenues and high interest rates as some of the realities facing Michigan municipalities and citizens.

"As we look to the next year, it appears that little relief is in sight, and it is incumbent upon us as we gather together to share our professional experiences, to be innovative, to take a fresh look at finding new ways and means to continue to deliver the kind of sound public works management and administration that helped build many of our cities and this great state," Mark told his peers.

He noted as budgets are being prepared for next year, public works departments will be asked to do the same or better job with fewer dollars and fewer employees, with older equipment and with less money for new construction projects.

He concluded his remarks by stating it was an honor to serve as president and that, "I am confident that we will successfully meet the burdens that have been put upon us during these difficult financial times."

Survey sees 40 percent find jobs

A survey by the Tuscola Area Skill Center (TASC) of its 1981 graduates shows 40 percent have found jobs.

Forty-six percent are pursuing further study, joined the military or got married. The survey was of seniors who had completed a training program offered at the center near Caro.

Of the 326 students contacted, 302 or 91 percent participated in the survey.

The survey showed 26 percent of the students have found work in the same field they were trained in at the skill center and 14 percent have found work in other fields.

It also showed 27 percent went on to higher education in the same field, excluding the military, and six percent went on to higher education classes in a different field.

Six percent of the students who responded had gone into the military and seven percent said they were homemakers.

The skill center recorded an unemployment rate of only 14 percent compared to the April county-wide unemployment rate of 20.1 percent.

The information from the first survey of skill center graduates has TASC officials very pleased.

"We are doing our job. We are very pleased with the figures and with our results," said Steve Ley, placement coordinator. "Our figures are better than those for other vocational programs around the state."

The survey also showed the majority of the graduates are staying in the area. The majority of the graduates are in the state of Michigan, with the bulk of those near home, Ley said. He estimated Tuscola County is retaining roughly 80-85 percent of the graduates.

"We are most definitely pleased with the results. When talking with the students, we received very positive feedback," Ley said. "I would say about 98 percent of the comments were positive. I heard good things and was pleased with the reaction."

The skill center provides vocational training in 24 skill areas for students in high school. They attend the skill center a half-day in 11th and/or 12th grade and their home high school the other half-day.

Students graduate from the programs with a certificate that proves the student is knowledgeable of skills necessary for a specific job field. TASC has approximately 730 students.

This was the first survey of the first group of seniors that completed training programs at TASC.

Cass City man guilty of larceny

A Tuscola County Circuit Court jury last Wednesday found a Cass City man guilty of grand larceny over $100. Daniel Lee Cooper, 27, of 6258 Schwegler Road, was found guilty of having stolen a tool box, leather pouch and tools May 1, 1981, from Ray Fleenor of Cass City. The stolen items were worth $175.

The verdict came at the end of a two day trial. Judge Patrick R. Joslyn scheduled sentencing Sept. 13 and continued Cooper's bond until then.

SENTENCING

Monday, Joslyn sentenced six persons.

Rodney Lee Caughel, 26, of Saginaw, was sentenced to 5-14 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson, to be served concurrent with a sentence in another case.

He was sentenced for uttering and publishing a forged check for $25 at Ted's Market in Vassar July 23 of last year. He pleaded guilty to the charge May 24.

Martin J. Stockmeyer Jr., 24, of 9988 Overton Street, Reese, was sentenced to 2-14 years at Jackson for uttering and publishing a forged check for $40 at the Reese IGA Feb. 6 and a concurrent 2-10 years for breaking and entering. The latter involved break-in of a store in Gilford Township June 7, 1981.

Stockmeyer pleaded guilty to both charges May 17. He was credited with days already served in the county jail.

Michael L. Androsuk, 18, of 366 Froede Road, Cass City, was placed on four years' probation for attempted breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling, Dan's Super Market in Caro.

Feb. 10. He pleaded guilty to the charge May 3.

Androsuk was also fined $200, assessed $400 court costs and ordered to pay $13.76 restitution. Work release privileges were granted during his jail term.

Eleanor M. Hillaker, 29, of 3280 W. Gilford Road, Caro, was placed on five years' probation for delivery of LSD Dec. 3, 1980, in Caro. A jury found her guilty of the charge April 6.

She was also sentenced to 180 days in the county jail with credit given for two days served and serving of 35 of them deferred. Ms. Hillaker was fined $200 and assessed $400 court costs.

Michael R. Calligaro, 25, of 9776 Saginaw Road, Reese, was sentenced to 61 days in the county jail for delivery of cocaine Jan. 27, 1981, in Reese. He pleaded guilty to the charge May 3. He was credited with one day served and serving of 30 days was deferred. Calligaro was fined $300 and assessed $300 court costs.

Michael G. Jones, 31, of Detroit, was fined $200 and assessed $400 court costs for carrying a concealed weapon (a pistol) July 3, 1980, in Indianfields Township.

A jury found him guilty of the charge in 1981, after which sentencing was delayed a year.

If the fine and costs aren't paid within 60 days, he is to serve 15 days in the county jail, with credit given for five days served.

Sentencing was delayed one year for Michael A. Miracle, 23, of 5149 Shay Lake Road, Kingston, who pleaded guilty May 10 to larceny in a building, to stealing from a garage at 724 Shay Lake Road March 2.

Restitution was held in abeyance.

OTHER CASES

Also Monday, Wayne S. Dinsmore, 25, of 9414 W. Akron Road, Fairgrove, stood mute to a charge of criminal sexual conduct. A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled Aug. 2. Bond was continued.

He is charged with having sexual relations with a girl under 13 years of age Feb. 11 in Wisner Township.

Richard A. Digard, 24, of Davison, pleaded no contest to a charge of malicious destruction of property over $100, of damaging a car May 9 in Wisner Township. His plea was accepted and sentencing was scheduled Oct. 18.

He stood mute to charges of larceny in a building, malicious destruction of property over $100 and assault and battery, all occurring May 9 in Akron Township. A plea of innocent was entered, however, in a plea bargain agreement with the prosecution, those charges are to be dismissed upon sentencing in the other case.

Bond was set at $5,000 cash or surety. Kurt L. Zachman, 17, of 5260 S. Kingston Road, Kingston, pleaded guilty to grand larceny, to stealing four trailer axles with wheels and tires Dec. 12 in Dayton Township.

His plea was accepted and sentencing was scheduled Oct. 4. Bond was continued. A prosecution motion to dismiss the appeal of C.B. Morden Brown of Bad Axe was granted due to a brief not being filed in his behalf.

He was appealing an April 2 conviction in district court for speeding.

CORN IN RYE CLOVER -- That is the combination Ken Hofmeister uses in his fields as part of a no-till project coordinated by the Tuscola Soil Conservation District. Hofmeister's farm on Hobart Road in Elmwood Township was the first stop Tuesday of an all-day tour sponsored by the district of area farms using no-till to limit erosion. Above: Hofmeister, left, answers questions by area farmers. At right, corn grows through rye clover stubble.

Agency gets good review

The Thumb Area Consortium administrative board last Thursday at its meeting in Cass City received a good review of one of the agency's programs and a preliminary good report about a review of all of its programs.

The latter concerned an audit being conducted of all of the consortium's federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) programs and Michigan Employment Program conducted during the 1979, 1980 and 1981 fiscal years.

The firm doing the audit, Deloitte, Haskins and Sells, has been hired by the Michigan Department of Labor to audit all CETA agencies in the state for those three years.

Two accountants from the firm told the board they had been in Cass City for five weeks and hoped to be done by June 24. They said the only problems they had had were that some agencies the consortium contracted with did not have all the necessary documentation of expenditures.

They cautioned that doesn't mean that such "questioned costs" were improper, only that so far adequate documentation hasn't been found.

An effort is being made to obtain copies of some needed cancelled checks from bank microfilm records.

Consortium Executive Director Frank Lenard said results of the audit so far indicate his agency may only have to reimburse the federal government for about $200 of disallowed costs out of $22 million spent by the consortium during the three fiscal years, which ended Sept. 30, 1981.

The other review was conducted by a senior analyst from the state labor department's Bureau of Employment and Training. He examined the consortium's CETA Title IV Youth Employment and Training Program (YETP) the week of May 24.

His written report, presented at the meeting, said, "Programs are managed successfully and effectively" and that the program "appears to be very successful."

The one problem uncovered was that the Air Force radar station at Port Austin did not have adequate job descriptions for its YETP participants, which is now being corrected.

The CETA program is scheduled to expire Sept. 30, but Lenard reported it looks like it will be extended for another year, though how much money will be appropriated is still a question mark.

Congress is still haggling over the size of the 1982-83 federal budget, which doesn't give it time to establish a new CETA program and get it in operation by Oct. 1, the start of the 1982-83 fiscal year. Thus it appears Congress will extend CETA another year in order to give it time to debate its future and format for 1983-84.

Caro hosts Summerfair art exhibit

Three Cass City artists will show their works at the Summerfair art exhibition Saturday and Sunday at the Caro fairgrounds.

They are Marilyn Biefer, 6620 Third Street, the art teacher at Kingston High School, who will be displaying water colors; Laurie Cramer, 351 Hurds Corner Road, water colors, and Basil Quick, 4585 Oak Street, who is a silversmith.

A total of 39 artists, from as far away as Ann Arbor and Marshall, will be showing their works in such mediums as oils, weaving, porcelain, copper and brass, stained glass, pottery and sculpture.

Summerfair is sponsored by the Caro Arts Society. Hours will be 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday and noon-6 p.m. Sunday.

The adult artists' works will be judged, with $600 being divided among the winners. Tuscola County students in grades 9-12 will also be exhibiting and dividing $200 in prize money.

In addition to the art exhibits, various entertainers will be performing. The Saturday schedule is guitarist-singer Jim Metevia, 10 a.m.; "The Hat Lady," 11; children's production of "Peter and the Wolf," noon; children's games, 1 p.m.; Jay Round and Friends (folk music), 2 p.m.; Loose Caboose (blue grass), 3, and Denny Cox and the Country Gentlemen, 4.

The Sunday schedule will be: Bell Family Singers, noon; children's games, 1 p.m.; Sacred Heart handbell choir, 2, and Glen Eastham and the Saginaw Jazz All-stars.

Unscheduled performers will include a barbershop quartet, Jeannie Jayo and the Imperials. Refreshments will be available and the Lions Club will conduct a chicken barbecue Sunday.

Minor injuries in numerous auto accidents

Traffic accidents in the area were numerous during the past several days. None resulted in anything worse than minor injuries.

Sherri R. Powell, 23, of 2091 N. Kingston Road, Kingston, was ticketed by Caro state police on a charge of failure to yield after a 5:30 p.m. accident Friday in Kingston.

Troopers reported she was southbound on River Street. After stopping at the stop sign at State Street (M-46), she pulled into the intersection and collided with the eastbound auto of Dianna V. Billicki, 23, of Caro.

Caro troopers cited Gregory D. Kuck, 18, of 4767 N. Cedar Run Road, Cass City, on a charge of improper lane use after a 2:40 p.m. mishap Wednesday, June 16.

He was northbound on Cedar Run, north of Hoppe Road, he told them, when he dropped a cigarette on the floor. When he looked down to find it, his vehicle crossed the centerline.

He jerked the steering wheel to get back into the proper lane, troopers said, and lost control. The vehicle went off the east side of the road into a ditch and rolled over.

A 16-year-old Clifford boy was ticketed by Caro state police on a charge of violation of the basic speed law (too fast) following a 6:45 p.m. accident June 15.

Officers said Floyd J. Brief, 72, of 7120 Brief Road, Kingston, was southbound on S. Kingston Road, south of Mayville Road, when he started to turn right into a driveway.

As he was doing so, the southbound auto driven by the teenager struck his car in the side.

Terry Turner of Wireline Road, Caro, was treated and released from Caro Community Hospital following a 10:30 p.m. incident June 13 in Ellington Township that is still under investigation by Caro state police.

"Turner told officers he was at a party on property on the east side of Colwood Road, north of Deckerville Road.

He was sitting on the tailgate of a pickup truck when another vehicle backed into the rear. Turner got his legs out of the way in time, but the impact threw him to the front of the pickup bed.

He told the driver he wanted to call police and wanted officers to come to the scene, rather than drive to Caro to report the incident. While Turner called the Caro post, the driver left.

Caro troopers arrested Jack W. Witkovsky, 41, of Plain Road, Caro, on charges of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor and leaving the scene of an accident after a 3:50 p.m. mishap June 9.

Officers reported he was eastbound on E. Dayton Road, west of Ryan Road, when his car crossed into the westbound lane.

Charles R. Hartman, 55, of 5630 Van Dyke Road, Cass City, who was headed west, crossed into the other lane to avoid the oncoming car, which then crossed back into the eastbound lane.

The two vehicles collided and Hartman's came to rest against a tree off the south side of the road.

Witkovsky was stopped by troopers 1½ miles east of the accident. Hartman was reported to have suffered possible injuries, but didn't need hospital treatment.

CASS CITY ACCIDENTS

At 3:10 p.m. Friday, Cass City police reported, James Foster, 37, of 5891 Cass City Road, backed from a parking place in the Thumb National Bank lot into the side of a car parked parallel to Main Street. Owner of the car was David Bliss.

Village officers said that Joseph H. Lorencz, 61, of 4339 Maxwell Road, Gagetown, was eastbound on M-81, west of Crawford Road, at 5:50 a.m. Wednesday, June 16, when his car collided with a deer.

Police cited Steven D. Hicks, 16, of 4010 Lamton Road, Deford, on a charge of no operator's license after a 2:30 a.m. accident June 12.

They said he was northbound on Maple Street when his car went off the east side of the road and hit the stop sign at Garfield Street.

COUNTY ACCIDENTS

Tuscola County deputies reported that at 5:30 p.m. Monday, Kathy L. Whitaker, 19, of 1746 N. Kingston Road, Deford, was southbound on Cemetery Road when her car collided with a car that was westbound on Kelly Road.

Driver of the other car was Stephen L. Kolacz, 16, of 2951 Warner Road, Deford.

At 7:50 p.m. Friday, according to deputies, Donald K. Russell, 19, of 5087 Koepfeng Road, Cass City, was backing out of his driveway and his bumper scraped the side of a car parked along the north side of the drive.

Owner of the parked car was Sharon A. Wood of 6580 Mill Street, Gagetown.

Russell H. Mayer, 59, of 6660 Center Line Road, Kingston, was southbound on Clothier Road, south of Mayville Road, at 5:30 a.m. June 15, according to county officers, when his car hit a deer.

At 4:15 p.m. June 14, deputies reported, Luis M. Peyer, 47, of Bad Axe, headed east on M-46, was stopped behind another car, waiting for a dragline (excavating machine), northbound on Cemetery Road, to cross M-46.

Frank J. Wolak, 68, of Clothier Road, Kingston, who was eastbound, was about to pass when he noticed the dragline and a man in the road stopping traffic.

He was unable to stop in time and clipped the rear of the Peyer's auto before going off the south side of the road.

Wolak's wife, Josephine, 61, sought her own treatment for minor injuries.

Nitz charged in death of Vassar man

The Tuscola County prosecutor's office has issued a warrant charging Neta Jo Nitz, 24, of Millington, with negligent homicide in connection with an April 16 traffic accident that took the life of a Vassar man.

Killed was George E. Willoughby, 61.

Issuance of the warrant, signed Friday by Magistrate Donald Smith, had to await receipt of the autopsy report and for Ms. Nitz to get out of the hospital, Chief Assistant Prosecutor Scott Stermer explained. She was hospitalized for reasons other than the accident, in which she received minor injuries.

Ms. Nitz is scheduled to appear Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern for arraignment.

Negligent homicide, a high misdemeanor, carries a maximum penalty of two years in jail.

The defendant is charged with having failed to stop for the stop sign at Bray and Birch Run Roads, southwest of Millington, and then colliding with the Willoughby auto, which resulted in his death.

Her car was eastbound on Birch Run; Willoughby's was northbound on Bray.

Rev. Teall leaving for Iowa college

Rev. Timothy W. Teall, pastor of the Cass City First Baptist Church since October, 1977, is leaving to become dean of students and representative of Faith Baptist Bible College in Ankeny, Iowa.

His last sermon here will be July 11.

At Faith Baptist, he will maintain a chapel ministry with students as well as have administrative responsibilities. The college has 500 students and is accredited by the Regular Baptist Association and an association of Bible colleges.

A native of Bay City and graduate of Spurgeon Baptist Bible College in Florida — the church here was his first pastorate — Rev. Teall and his wife, Sharon, have two children, Jason, 3, and Justin, 8 months.

By Bill Myers

Taking stock

Stan Goodman, friend and fellow columnist, and a notable word merchant, takes some swipes at investment writers.

The jibes are well deserved, and they've helped me be wary of using such jargon.

Stan picks out such gems from an investment letter of a major broker: "Option traders should increase to 100 percent puts on any short-term upside bounce."

Investors should hold that ratio with the intent of raising the equity portion on any significant decline from current levels."

Picking such talk apart neatly, he took the comic aspects of short-term upside bounces and left for me such prosaic questions as How do you know when any "bounce" is short-term? What's the definition of a "significant" decline?

Some firms with an excellent research reputation grade their "buy" recommendation as Buy 1 and Buy 2. Why would anyone consider a Buy 2 stock when there are Buy 1s on the list?

And what, pray tell, kind of advice is that which classifies a stance as "neutral"? Either you like a stock or you don't.

And we might nitpick, too, on a recommendation to only "hold" a stock. I'd argue you either ought to buy more or sell it, instead of trying to weasel.

Incidentally, how often does your broker ever call you up and tell you to sell anything?

The late George "Doc" Dillman, who ran the Harri-man Ripley office in Detroit for over 30 years, explained the reason.

"Look, Bill," he told me, "when I start calling my list of customers, I've got to have some reason. Say today I figure Travelers Insurance is a good buy. That means everybody on my list is a prospect. I go right down the sheet, touting it to one and all.

"But suppose Travelers has gotten so high I think it ought to be sold. Then I can call only the people who own it. Maybe four people on my whole list have got it. I just don't have the prospects."

There's another angle that occurs to me. Suppose Travelers is in the pits, and the price has been going down, down, down. It's time to dump it and cut your losses.

Who wants to call a customer and tell him to get out of a stock that six months ago you had been urging him to buy? Brokers are human, too.

Along the line of writing on the markets, it continues to bug me when such great papers as the Wall Street Journal seek to explain market ups and downs, the day after.

For example, on Feb. 24, the Dow averages went up 13.79 points. Two days before, it had dropped almost exactly as much.

Said the Wall Street Journal: "The upsurge was helped by falling interest rates."

Well, interest rates had been falling over the past week. Why the 13-point drop two days before?

In June, 1981, the Dow averages topped 1,000 several times. The prime rate was around 20 percent. After eight months of lower interest rates "helping" stocks we find the prime at 16 percent and the market at 826.

Three more years of such splendid assistance and the market will be at zero.

Point is, the pundits have no more idea of what makes the market move than does this simple country boy.

Early in my career some wise teacher explained that for such explanations to be worth anything, they have to be made in advance.

In other words, if you really think falling interest rates will push up stock, then you promise that the next time interest rates go down, stocks will go up. Anyone want to go on record and say that?

If you have said that some recent fall in the market was because of "growing Mid-east tension," then you should also say that next time there's a flare-up, stocks will go down. Will you make such a promise?

Or will you, like all the other big-league writers, wait until after the last flare-up in the Arab countries, note that the market went up instead of down this time, and write:

"Investors ignored the growing Mid-east tensions as the market went up 12 points yesterday."

Horses need vaccination for deadly sleep sickness

The death of a 13-year-old boy from St. Joseph County from Equine Eastern Encephalomyelitis (EEE) that he had contracted in 1980 is a sad reminder of the need to vaccinate all horses for this deadly disease, according to the Michigan Veterinary Medical Association. EEE, or sleeping sickness, as this disease is also known, is a rapidly fatal viral disease that primarily affects horses but can affect man as well.

Last year, 54 fatal cases of EEE were confirmed in horses in Michigan. The disease is spread to horses by mosquitoes and is not considered to be spread directly from horse to horse or from horse to human. Waterfowl, such as ducks and geese, serve as the source of the virus each year.

Michigan has an abundance of lakes and streams and consequently, an abundance of waterfowl and mosquitoes. Therefore, the state's horses are threatened each summer by this disease.

Once transmitted to the horse by a mosquito, the virus affects the brain and spinal cord of the horse, leading to high fever, staggering, convulsions, and painful death.

There is no effective treatment for EEE and most horses that demonstrate these signs of EEE are humanely destroyed before they can die of the disease.

Fortunately, there are very effective vaccinations available to prevent horses from getting EEE. The best time to protect the horse is in the spring just prior to the beginning of the mosquito season.

Fuses smoke, but no fire

Elkland Township fire fighters were called to the Bernard Wutzke home, 4692 Ale Street, at 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Due to a loose contact or faulty wiring, the fuse box in the home was smoking. There was no fire and the only damage was to the fuse box.

NOTICE

Due to circumstances with Caro landlord Richard's will remain in Cass City at a new location on Main Street. Richard's will continue to sell remaining furniture at our store. A very good selection of sofas left drastically reduced. Richard's has received a new shipment of refrigerators, ranges, freezers, washers, dryers and stereos. Prices slashed on televisions and some stereo equipment; we want to move some selected items!
