

HOUSE FIRE — The home of Don Little suffered an estimated $30,000 damage in a blaze last Wednesday that resulted in extensive interior and structural damage. Elkland Township fire fighters were assisted by the Caro Fire Department.

Cause investigated in $30,000 house fire

The cause of a blaze that gutted a house southwest of Cass City last Wednesday morning is not known, but firefighters have been able to determine where the fire began.

The home of Don Little, at the corner of Severance and Phillips Roads, suffered an estimated $30,000 worth of damage in a fire that began in the kitchen portion of the home inside a wall above the stove, fire fighters said.

Arson is being investigated as a possible cause of the fire, according to Detective Larry Walker of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department. Supposedly a youth was seen in the area at the time the blaze started. He also said the fire may have been started because the stove was apparently left on.

The house suffered structural damage as the blaze burned through the ceiling and into the upstairs apartment. Fire fighters had to cut holes through the roof to get to the fire which was smoldering inside the roof. The rest of the home also suffered extensive fire and smoke damage.

There was one fatality. A pet dog found in the bedroom died of smoke inhalation.

Little said he only has $7,000 worth of insurance on the 12-year-old home.

Little, a rubbish hauler, said he had been in the house a half hour before the blaze was noticed by a neighbor.

His wife, Delilah, said she was outside in the yard cleaning up when she heard of the fire.

"When we leave the house, we don't leave anything on, and everything was turned off when I went outside," she said.

The Littles had just completed buying new furniture and appliances for the house. According to Mrs. Little, there was a new refrigerator, microwave oven, washer and dryer and furniture.

"I have no idea what we are going to do," said Little. "I have no idea where we are going to stay."

Mrs. Little said she, her husband, and her daughter, Donna, 16, will probably have to live either in a trailer or in a shack on their property until they find out what they are going to do.

It took about an hour for fire fighters from Elkland Township, assisted by a tanker and support vehicle from the Caro Fire Department to put out the blaze.

Fire fighters said strong winds last Wednesday were a major factor in how quickly the fire spread through the house. They said the winds drafted through windows on the west side and fueled the flames until almost the whole interior of the house was gutted.

Sp. board ok. y. activity fund raising

Before a near capacity crowd in the speech room at Cass City High School Monday the school board hammered out tough decisions caused by the financial distress of the district.

Among the key actions taken were:

- Authorized the layoff of 12 teachers, 19 bus drivers, one custodian, one nurse and three crossing guards.

- Voted, 4-3, to allow boys' varsity basketball because it pays for itself.

- Voted, 5-2, to allow any approved program not now funded to be allowed if the money is collected up front and no money is taken from the general fund.

Official layoff of the staff caused little debate as most of the persons affected were prepared for the action.

A point of interest was whether to include Carol Pasant on the list of teachers not rehired. Mrs. Pasant was hired for a semester with the agreement that she would not be rehired. She was not listed on the official layoff list.

She wished to be listed in case jobs opened up at later years she would have seniority rights. The board agreed to the request.

The board also adopted a position on shared time, voluntary retirement and leave of absence for a year.

The Cass City Teachers' Association had asked for full fringe benefits for any teacher in shared time or on leave for a year.

The board's position was to consider each request on an individual basis while granting teachers full accumulated seniority rights, but no fringe benefits while on leave. Bob Gengler, union representative, said that the union's position would be all or none and it appears like the attempts to save jobs will not be successful.

OKAY PROGRAMS

By far the most ticklish question facing the board and the one that many of the spectators came to listen to was whether sports and other extracurricular activities would be allowed.

A presentation was made in behalf of allowing programs if no money was spent from the general fund, by Don Schelke, football coach. Doug Grezeszak made a similar plea on the behalf of cross country track.

Adopting the position that the voters had said no to extracurricular activities and against allowing any activities, regardless of whether the money would be donated, were Trustees Dick Albee and Theresa Burnette.

Voting to allow any program that could be funded outside of the general tax revenues were Trustees Ben Hobart, Dr. E. Paul Lockwood, Geraldine Prieskorn, Dick Wallace and Dr. Ed Scollon.

Their reasoning was that the voters had said no to paying for any program in the election and that if the money was available the students should have a chance to enjoy any approved activity.

Bob Tuckey, president of the Cass City Boosters Club, said that his organization would help in fund projects but could not guarantee payment of any sport this year.

The vote was nearly the same for allowing basketball which pays its way to be played. On this vote Dr. Lockwood voted not to allow it, siding with the voters who were against any programs not paid for by tax dollars.

When the board laid off the bus drivers, several parents were on hand to question why buses were not running, asking that cuts be made elsewhere.

One person threatened to try to organize a boycott on the "fourth Friday" when a census is taken that determines State payment to schools.

Caro Mfg. decides to build new plant in Caro

Construction of the new Caro Manufacturing plant began Friday on E. Colling Road in Caro.

Earlier in the week, according to Plant Manager Wayne Turner, construction still could have been in Cass City.

Owners of the firm met with representatives of a Cass City bank Wednesday, July 7, and the final decision to build on the site the company already owned in Caro wasn't made until Thursday, he said.

Steel for the building was originally delivered to the site on Doerr Road in the Cass City industrial park the company was contemplating buying and later had to be moved.

Contractor for the $1 million project is Herron Builders of Cass City. The 40,000 square foot plant and 3,600 square feet of office space should be done in late September or early October.

The decision to finally build the plant in Caro, Turner said, was made after the owners of the firm reached agreement on financing with some Caro banks.

Other factors in the decision to stay in Caro, he said, were that the company already owned the site and that moving here would have required the Caro Village Council to give its permission in order for the Cass City Economic Development Corp. to issue tax free bonds to finance construction. (The bonds would have been bought by a local

Cass City board settles with Operating Engineers union

The Operating Engineers who had been working for more than a year without a contract came to terms with the Cass City School District and Monday a new contract was ratified by the board.

The terms granted the cooks, custodians and engineers a raise of 7½ percent for 1981-82 retroactive to July 1, 1981, and then froze wages for the 1982-83 school year.

Supt. Don Crouse said that the raise was granted to bring the workers up to par with the amounts paid other employees last year.

The school and the union have agreed to a four-year contract extending through the 1984-85 school year. The contract can be opened for wage talks after 1982-83 and binding arbitration can be discussed if it is still in the teacher contract in 1984-85.

The board also approved wage increases of 7.5 percent for non-union employees who generally are granted the same increases bargained by the union.

The hourly wages paid before the increases are: Mona Phillips, $5.60; Veron

Gingrich, $7.55; James Fox, $6.15; Clem Briole and Harold Ballagh, $6.15; Marcel Vatter, $4.10; Joyce Hampshire, $4.10, and Karen Turner, $3.85.

In addition, the supplement pay for transportation of $2,450 for Fox and $825 for Ballagh-Briole were increased 7.5 percent.

However, that payment will not be an expense for the district in 1982-83, as the transportation fee is eliminated with the elimination of school bus service.

SUMMER AGRICULTURE

One of the programs eliminated by the board was the summer agriculture program. Lyle Clarke, ag teacher, went before the board to protest, saying that money came from the state as "added cost" included the cost of the summer program. For working in the summer, Clarke is paid $3,597.

Clarke presented a letter to the board from Michigan Department of Education saying that the extended school year is integral to the program. Clarke said that too much money was spent for guidance and if that were not the case the extra expense of his salary and expense would come from state funds.

The question that the board wanted looked into was what extra expense the summer program would have for the taxpayers and if summer ag were cut what happens to the funds from the State?

Crouse said that he is still investigating but a call to Richard Schupe at the State Education Department, indicated that the emphasis in the department is for a summer program, but that some programs have been funded by the State without a summer program included.

A call to the department, the vocational-technical education service at Lansing, which issued the letter that Clarke presented to the board, shed no light on the subject as the person in charge and his assistant were both unavailable until after press deadline.

SPEND MONEY

The board did authorize two expenditures Monday. It will participate in the Regional Educational Media Center (REMC) program at a cost of $1.05 per student or about $1,800.

REMC furnishes film strips, educational tools and other teacher aids to the region. The board felt it would be especially valuable this year because of the closing of the library and because it is located in Cass City.

The board also authorized a new Scott Foresman Reading Series in the grades. It will replace a 1971 series now in use. The new texts will cost $3,515.51, about $1,500 more than materials necessary with the old text.

Principal Jackie Freiburger said that the purchase of the new series was delayed last year when the normal 10-year cycle for the texts was completed.

OTHER BUSINESS

The new attendance policy adopted by the board for the second semester this year has increased attendance in the high school, Principal Russell Richards reported.

The new policy requires a comprehensive exam be taken for excessive absences.

To pass a grade the test must be passed and students can take the test three or more times to pass it.

This year 10 seniors have not graduated because they have yet to pass the exam.

Attendance for the second semester was up 20.84 percent, Richards said, and daily attendance was 94.13 percent. That's an increase of 1½ days per student in school. The board voted to continue the program.

A report from Canteen Co. on the hot lunch program indicated that the program ended $349 in the black. The board voted to continue to hire Canteen for supervision.

Board meetings were set for the second Monday of the month and the board reorganized. Ed Scollon was named president, replacing

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Sometimes it's amazing that big prosperous companies can be so successful. Any small retailer wouldn't last long if they operated like R.L. Polk Co.

For three weeks now, an attempt has been made to secure a list of light industrial firms for a direct mail campaign the Chamber of Commerce will use to try and lure industry to the community.

Polk has a branch in Detroit and a call there resulted in another phone number. That number put me in touch with a representative who then gave me another number that proved to be a New York phone. After three calls a catalog was promised. After a 10-day wait, another call elicited the information that the material should have come from an office in Detroit that handles the same information. Meanwhile, we wait.

It's the opinion here that the Cass City Community Education Department's campaign for donations to start a community choir under the direction of Andrea Hofmeister, Gagetown, will have smooth sailing.

The group is seeking $600 for funding and hopes to raise $300 of it from individual donations at $10 a throw.

Plans call for 60 adults and 15 children in the choir from a 25-mile radius with two concerts in late March, 1983.

Donations can be sent to the Community Education Department at Cass City High School.

At the end of the next school year, Geraldine Prieskorn will have served 20 years on the Cass City School Board and she has indicated that is enough.

Five of those years she has served as president, relinquishing the role to Dr. Ed Scollon this year.

Stepping down as president with a year left to serve has much to recommend it. She will be on the board for the first year under the new president to lend a hand in acquainting Scollon with the duties. When she leaves the board it will leave a void, but less than if she retired from the board and presidency at the same time.

For her service as president she received a vigorous round of applause from the board and the taxpayers attending. It was richly deserved.

Elkland sells truck

The Elkland Township Board sold the old fire tanker and approved election inspectors for the upcoming primary at Monday night's meeting.

The township, which is awaiting delivery of its new tanker truck sometime this month, sold the 1968 Chevrolet let tanker to make room for the new tanker.

The Village of North Branch bought the used tanker for $7,001.

Bids were received from three interests, North Branch and two area residents. North Branch plans to use the truck in its fire department.

The board approved 10 election inspectors for the August primaries.

The inspectors chosen for the positions were not contacted as of press time and no names were available.

There was also some discussion on continuation of the agreement with the Cass City Area Ambulance Service. The agreement the township has expires at the end of this year.

No official action was taken and the question will again be discussed at the next meeting of the board.

The Haire Net

Not since Al DeGraw came out of a pack of candidates to win a State Senate post has there been a better opportunity for a political novice to win a seat in the legislature from the Thumb.

With the retirement of Lorn Armbruster, the candidates have been swarming around like sharks for a bleeding bait fish.

On the GOP ticket, considered tantamount to election in the 77th district, there are eight candidates.

Several of them have tested the political waters unsuccessfully before. Others are novices. The suspicion is that the job has two lures.

I'm sure that if you asked, they would all mouth platitudes like service to the area, better representation to the voters and helping to restore responsive government in Lansing.

All noble goals. Not mentioned is the $31,000 salary or the tremendous fringe benefits that each enjoys.

I'm sure it is unfair to say that the benefits are the only reason that most are seeking the post, but it has to be one of the more important ones.

It would be nice for the small minority that really care if the candidates would take a stance on the issues facing the State.

What about financing for schools, for instance. Should local control be lost in a switch to more state financing and more state control?

What about abortion, yes or no? How about changes in the single business tax? What about unemployment rule changes? Do we need more jails, capital punishment?

I haven't heard any statements from any of the candidates about these issues, yet they are salt in the bleeding wounds of taxpayers.

I suppose it wouldn't be smart politics for any candidate to go out on a limb and alienate a segment of the voters and the answers to the really important questions will need to be ferreted out.

The best that anyone really concerned can do is study the candidates' backgrounds and judge what they would likely do in any situation.

Yet, when you think about it this could be the year that controversial positions could be taken successfully.

If you get the anti-abortion forces behind you and other special interest groups it could be enough to carry the election with the votes of

"If It Fitz..."

God bless the bomb

By Jim Fitzgerald

The New York Times asked Phyllis Schlafly where she is going to direct her great energy and talent now that she's won the fight against the Equal Rights Amendment. She said her 50,000-member organization, Eagle Forum, will turn to such issues as a campaign against a nuclear freeze.

"The atomic bomb is a marvelous gift that was given to our country by a wise God," Schlafly said.

Certainly. The United States' armaments supplier is God. But where does Russia get its bombs? God knows.

Anyway, it is comforting to be assured by Phyllis Schlafly that God is the Pentagon's associate in the war business. Lately I've been worrying about such things.

For instance, I received an unsigned note saying: "Ever since the Lebanon bloodbath began, I have been anxiously awaiting comments from you. Where is your sense of justice now? The Israelis, with unbelievable assistance from the U.S. government, plus tax-deductible American-Jewish dollars, are destroying not a village, not a city, but a whole country. And in the Fitzgerald column, light chit-chat as usual."

Attached to the note were newspaper clippings about Israeli jets bombing a Beirut hospital and about a 14-year-old boy maimed by a cluster bomb, made in the U.S.A.

My gut reaction to the bloody invasion of Lebanon is that Menachem Begin is a thug and the U.S. shouldn't sell him a popgun. I'm sure that's the reaction the unknown note-writer was looking for, instead of chit-chat.

But I might also receive a note citing PLO attacks on Israeli citizens. And my gut reaction would be that Yasser Arafat is also a thug.

My problem is I saw a German youngsters maimed in World War II, and I saw camps where Jews were exterminated. So since age 19 I've been a confirmed pacifist. I'm as opposed to fist-fights as I am to nuclear bombs.

Of course, it's a waste of time for me to preach such dreamy idealism with any hope of living to see the day when, for instance, Irish Catholics and Protestants will stop killing each other. But maybe my grandchildren will see the day when world leaders realize total disarmament is the surest way to substitute talking for killing.

There is certainly nothing unique about my noble attitude. Hell, everyone is against war. But most everyone is able to rationalize the death and destruction by claiming self defense. We have to kill them because they kill us, and they have to kill us because we kill them. Marvellous. Real statesmanship.

But sometimes the rationalizing comes hard. Cluster bombs, for example. They are designed to get the maximum kills per hit. Each casing contains 650 bomblets with serrated edges that spin away in all directions. Militarily speaking, cluster bombs make sense only when aimed at clusters of people. They are for crowded cities, not railroad bridges. When it comes to unbelievable obscenity, cluster bombs rank right up there with neutron bombs that destroy flesh but spare property.

It sickens me to know my government supplied the cluster bombs Israel dropped on innocent people in Lebanon. But, just in time, along comes Phyllis Schlafly to make me feel better. She says the atom bomb, even more horrible than the cluster bomb, is a marvelous gift to the United States from a wise God. So certainly God must approve of my government supplying Menachem Begin with the weapons a world leader needs to become a premier thug.

Obviously, God will help Schlafly and her Eagle Forum stop attempts to freeze the production of such a marvelous gift as nuclear weapons. And after that battle has been won, the New York Times may again ask, what next, Phyllis?

Well, according to the Times, members of two Eagle Forum chapters have already tried to ban books by such dangerous writers as John Steinbeck, Nathaniel Hawthorne and Mark Twain. That sounds like a noble cause for Phyllis to champion, God help her.

I would say the world is going nuts — and Phyllis Schlafly is the leading nut — except that would be light chit-chat.

Step On it!

HEALTH TIPS

Variety of foods needed in dieting

Frank Chappell
Science News Editor
AMA

There are different ways of counting calories and planning a nutritious diet at the same time.

A direct approach is to plan a day's menus by selecting a variety of foods from each of the four food groups and using a calorie counter to control total calories for the day.

The American Medical Association's popular diet pamphlet, "The Healthy Approach to Slimming," points out that many people find it more convenient to use an indirect approach, such as a master plan or sample menu that has already counted the calories and balanced the diet to some extent.

The master plan is the skeleton; you fill in the details. After a few days of practice, you may discover that you can control calories without actually counting them.

Don't limit the variety of foods that you eat. If you have orange juice and a salad every day but seldom think about other fruits and vegetables, you need more variety in your diet.

Good nutrition is best assured by including many different items from each of the four food groups. These are: Milk group, including cheese; meat group, beef, veal, poultry, pork, lamb, fish; bread-cereal group, includes rice and spaghetti, and vegetable-fruit group.

Some fat is needed in the diet, such as salad oil, butter, margarine, but the watchword is moderation. Sweets aren't actually needed, but the craving sometimes is strong. Allot two or three teaspoons of sugar a day for special uses, such as on the morning oatmeal.

Always plan an adequate breakfast. Too few calories and too little protein (milk and meat groups) early in the day may lead to snacking or overeating in the evening.

Shed fire damage $10,000

A fire started by a boy playing with a cigarette lighter was extinguished by Elkland Township fire fighters last Wednesday afternoon.

The storage shed at the David Marshall residence, 5201 Hadley Road, east of Cass City, was destroyed by flames. Damage was estimated at $10,000 for the wooden structure and its contents.

Marshall said his son, Scotty, 10, was playing with a cigarette lighter inside the shed when some paper and oil-soaked rags caught fire.

Mrs. Marshall ran out to the shed with a fire extinguisher to try to put out the flames, but a can of gas exploded and within minutes the entire structure was on fire.

It took firefighters about half an hour to put out the flames.

Marshall had some hand tools, rough lumber and a baler machine worth $400 and other items in the 45-by-30 foot building, which was used for storage.

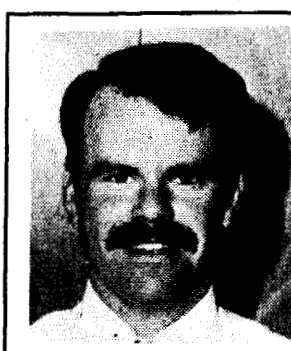

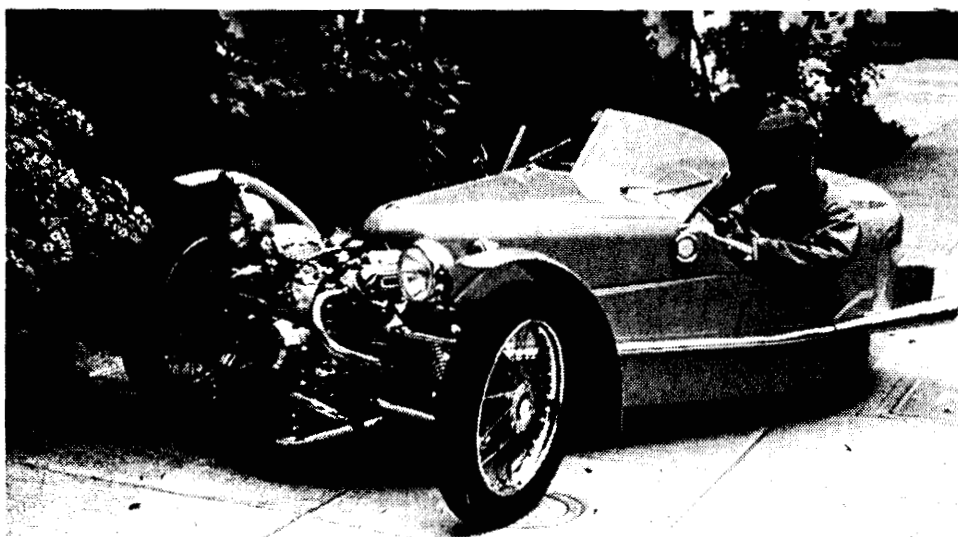

Contents within the shed were valued at $2,500 while the shed was valued at $7,500.

Strong winds last Wednesday fanned the flames, which began at the east end of the structure.

Pedaling Around Fun on wheels

By Mike Eliasohn

I haven't priced a Mercedes Benz 450SLC, lately, but $35,000 is probably a safe guess and maybe a conservative one.

Not cheap, nor was the woman driving it.

She was also VERY attractive.

Unfortunately, it wasn't me she was interested in. It was the car I was riding in.

Unfortunately, it wasn't my car.

Legally, it wasn't a car, it was licensed as a motorcycle.

But two people can sit in it, not on it, and it has a windshield with wipers, so as far as I'm concerned, it's a car.

But what a car.

At the bottom of this space is a photo of what I'm talking about. It's called a Triking. It's made in England and is an updated version, sold in kit form, of the English Morgans which were built from 1910-52.

Compared to a Mercedes Benz 450SLC, it's cheap. By the time one gets the pieces shipped to this country and gets them put together, it will probably cost them about $11,000.

Of course, one doesn't get as much for $11,000 as he or she would for $35,000.

There's no top (one is available as an option), the engine has only two cylinders, and if you haven't noticed by now, there's only one wheel in back.

But who needs four wheels? With three, it's exciting and the car attracts lots of attention, including that of beautiful brunettes — or was she a redhead? — driving $35,000 cars.

The Triking is also fast. Its Italian Moto Guzzi vee-twin engine has 71 horsepower (80 is an option), but it only has to push 780 pounds plus the weight of whoever is in it. As a result, it will do 0-60 miles per hour in 7.8 seconds and has a top speed well over 100, although the owner of the one I rode in in San Francisco has only had it up to 95 or so. Any faster and he was afraid the air would build up under the flat bottom and it would take off.

The Triking also gets good gas mileage in theory, 47 miles per gallon at a steady 56 mph, according to the manufacturer. According to the owner, however, it's impossible to get good mileage because it's impossible to drive it slow.

It is also impossible to drive it without attracting attention. In addition to the aforementioned brunette or redhead, there was a fellow on the $7,000 BMW motorcycle who followed the Triking home when the owner was giving my friend a ride and after they got home, another attractive woman stopped. (She was driving a Buick X-car as I recall, nothing fancy.)

'By now, you are probably wondering, aren't 3-wheel cars dangerous? Don't they tip over easily?

The answer is they are safe as long as the driver doesn't do anything foolish. The owner of the Triking I rode in has had it up on two wheels twice, but he admits he was doing something foolish (showing off).

There is a three-wheeler built in California called the Trihawk that is so stable — the front wheels are farther apart than on the Triking — that one can drive foolishly and not get on two wheels.

The Triking was not the only exciting car I rode in in California.

There was also my friend's Chevrolet, of 1964 vintage, as I recall, which was exciting for a different reason.

For starters, the muffler was shot, and the speedometer didn't work. The engine didn't work too bad, but the transmission was nearing death.

To make matters worse, the car was still wearing Idaho license plates, which had long since expired.

Plus my friend had lost his glasses and while he was waiting for his new ones to arrive, he was wearing a borrowed pair. He didn't see too well.

All that was bad enough, but on my first day in California, we got stuck in the San Francisco-to-the-suburbs rush hour traffic.

Fortunately the brakes worked.

I was praying we would live — they are crazy in California — but my friend said we were lucky. A half-hour later and the traffic really would get bad. At that point, it was already bumper to bumper, probably at 60 mph, but remember, the speedometer didn't work.

It could have been worse. My friend said in Los Angeles, traffic is really bad.

Sanilac dry bean tour set Aug. 5

Nitz receives probation in traffic fatality

Neta Jo Nitz was placed on one year probation Monday for attempted negligent homicide in connection with an April 16 traffic accident that claimed the life of George E. Willoughby of Vassar.

Tuscola County District Judge Richard F. Kern also sentenced her to five days in the county jail, with serving of the sentence deferred from month to month. She was fined $98 and assessed $152 court costs.

Ms. Nitz, 24, of Millington, pleaded no contest to the charge June 28.

The fatal accident took place southwest of Millington when Ms. Nitz failed to stop for the stop sign as she was eastbound on Birch Run Road and collided then with Willoughby's car, which was headed north on Bray Road.

OTHER CASES

In other cases Monday before Judge Kern:

Michael W. Groosbeck, 17, of 4308 Leach Street pleaded guilty to driving with license suspended or revoked June 24 in Cass City.

His plea was accepted and he was sentenced to serve three days in the county jail starting Friday, fined $20 and assessed $35 court costs.

Harold McQuiston Jr., 45, of 2998 Froede Road, Kingston, pleaded guilty Monday to possession of a firearm while intoxicated. He was arrested Friday in Wells Township while in possession of a shotgun.

His plea was accepted and he was sentenced to three days in the county jail to be served immediately and three later. McQuiston was also fined $78 and assessed $122 court costs.

Jeffery Maxson, 20, of 5505 Shabbona Road, Deford, pleaded guilty to driving with license suspended or revoked (subsequent offense) June 18 in Cass City.

His plea was accepted and he was sentenced to five days in the county jail and a maximum of one year probation until his fine and costs are paid. He was fined $38 and assessed $62 court costs.

Alvin J. Messing Sr., 40, of 6840 Deckerville Road, Deford, pleaded guilty Tuesday to impaired driving May 31 in Novesta Township.

His plea was accepted and he was placed on one year probation and is to receive alcohol education and counseling if necessary. He was fined $118 and assessed $182 court costs.

Ubly vote Aug. 18

The Ubly School Board has set Aug. 18 as the date it will again ask the voters in the district to approve a two mill increase for operational costs.

The first request for the additional two mills was defeated June 14 by voters 2-1.

The board of education will have a special meeting Monday, July 26 to discuss what will happen if the millage fails.

According to Supt. David Landeryou, the district needs $140,000 to maintain current operational levels. Should the millage fail again, the district would consider drastic cuts in either operational funding or in the funding for bus transportation.

Novesta books given auditor's ok

The Novesta Township Board received good news Monday night from the auditor hired last month to audit the books.

The township books were in good shape according to a report to the board by auditor Roy Armstead Jr., CPA, of Cass City. They are in compliance with state regulations and are in good condition the report said.

The board approved a farmland agreement with Fred Knoblet. The agreement is for a total of 498 acres and includes 70 acres in Section 6, three parcels in Section 7, totaling 200 acres, 28 acres in Section 8 and another 200 acres combined in Sections 11 and 14.

The board heard a report by Lucille Stein regarding continuation of use of the Cass City Area Ambulance Service. Mrs. Stein is the board representative for the ambulance service.

The board discussed the agreement which expires towards the end of this year, but did not take any action on the matter. Mrs. Stein will take suggestions and opinions from the board to the ambulance service to work out an agreement.

Detroit Edison sought permission, which was granted, to cut trees and other obstructions in the way of power lines in the township cemetery.

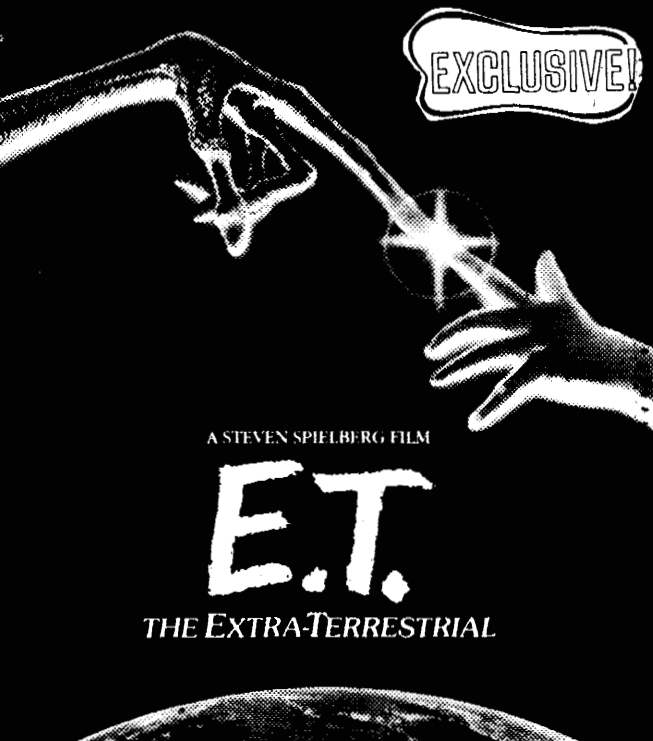

The board tabled action on implementation of new cemetery rules until they have further information on what the old rules are.

Graduate is pleased with adult program

Dear Editor,

I would like to use a few paragraphs of the Chronicle to let people know about a great program, the adult high school completion program offered free through the Community Education Program at Cass City High School.

If you quit school (as I did) and would now like to receive your diploma — GO FOR IT!

I was out of school for nearly six years before returning.

And June 15, 1982 — I DID IT! I graduated through the Cass City high school completion program.

That day was one of my most happy and exciting days. The pride I felt that day will remain with me forever.

Finishing school not only gave me the opportunity to receive my high school diploma, but it also gave me a sense of self pride and has certainly boosted my self-confidence.

I no longer have to feel ashamed or embarrassed when asked, "When did you graduate?"

And when I apply for jobs I won't be told I'm a quitter, and cannot get hired because I don't have a diploma.

Earning my diploma will without a doubt improve my life to some degree.

It's already improved the way I look at myself.

I'm no longer a quitter — but a challenger! And I've proven to myself I can be a winner if I want to be. It's a great feeling, believe me!

So why not do yourself a big favor? Go back to school and get your high school diploma.

You'll enjoy the challenge, the people you'll meet and the new friends you will make.

Also, I'm sure you'll feel a great amount of happiness and pride for yourself — as I do.

I hope I've convinced you how great it is to graduate. Remember it's never too late.

All you have to do is contact the Community Education Director David Lovejoy at Cass City High School or phone 872-4151.

Registration begins now and lasts until September. So get down there and do it today. You'll be so glad you did!

Sincerely,

A 1982 adult high school graduate - and proud of it,
Rita Bartle, Doerr Road,
Cass City

Gagetown okays pay increases

The Gagetown Village Council approved pay increases for two village employees at Monday night's meeting.

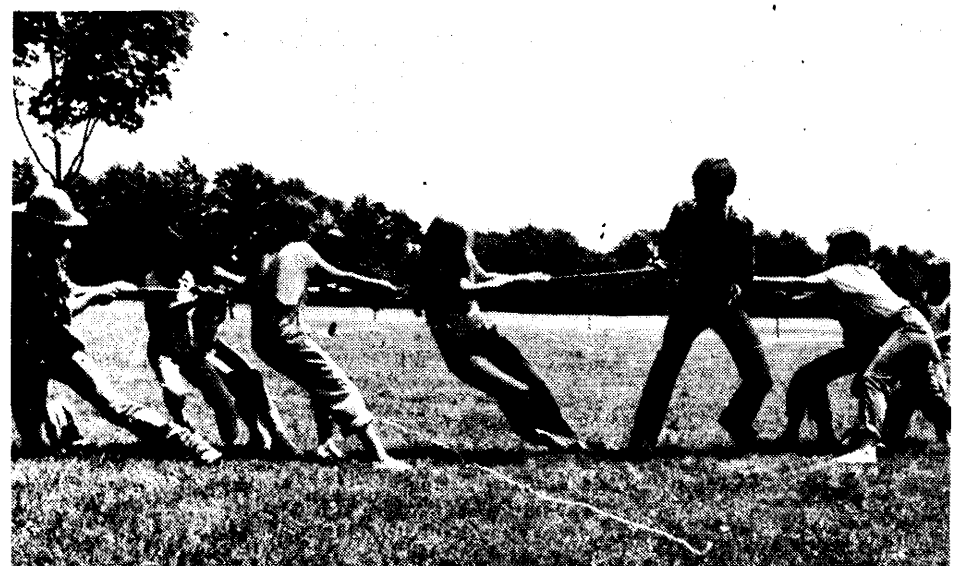

Policeman Marc Bridson and maintenance worker Bob McCreedy each were awarded a 50 cents per hour raise in their pay.

Bridson now makes $6.50 per hour while McCreedy makes $6 per hour.

The council decided to buy a new water pump for $15,000 for the south well at the pumping station. Only one pump is operative now at the station. Delivery is

Pair sentenced Monday in Tuscola Circuit Court

Two persons were sentenced Monday when they appeared before Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

Arthur L. Brinkman, 35, of 301 S. Crawford Road, Deford, was placed on five years' probation for carrying a concealed weapon Oct. 31, 1981, in Almer Township.

A jury found him guilty June 1 of the charge of carrying a pistol in his car Oct. 31, 1981, in Almer Township. Serving of a six-month jail sentence, with credit given for one day served, was deferred until the end of probation. Brinkman was also fined $300 and assessed $500 court costs.

Bruce Banks, 21, of Saginaw, was sentenced to 3 1/2 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson, with credit given for 80 days served, for breaking and entering an occupied dwelling.

He pleaded guilty to the charge May 24, to breaking into a home at 1775 Luder Road April 18.

Alfred J. Palmer, 21, of 332 Gaway Street, Vassar, was found guilty of violating probation.

His probation was reinstated, with serving of a 30-day jail sentence delayed to the end of probation. Palmer was placed on 36 months' probation in February for delivery of marijuana. He violated probation by failing to report to his probation agent, to make a payment on his fines and costs and to maintain regular employment.

John Tobias, 18, of Essexville, pleaded guilty to larceny in a building, to stealing a camera and clock-radio from the Tuscola County Department of Social Services May 28.

Bond was continued until sentencing Nov. 8.

One serious injury in 3 cycle crashes

The past several days were bad ones for motorcycle riders, with five of them being involved in three area accidents.

Most seriously injured was Glenn R. Niederhofer, 31, of Utica, who was reported in serious condition Tuesday afternoon at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw, where he was taken following a 1:35 p.m. crash last Wednesday.

Tuscola County deputies reported he was southbound on Cemetery Road, north of Bay City-Forestville, and started to go around a pickup truck pulling a loaded hay wagon as the latter started to turn into a driveway.

The driver of the pickup, John J. Doerr, 23, of 3197 Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown, headed south, had been waiting for a northbound auto to go by before starting to turn left into the driveway.

In trying to avoid a collision, the cycle went down sideways and slid into the left rear wheel of the trailer.

Ross O. McCallum, 18, of 3567 Sixth Street, Owendale, the driver, and his passenger, Beth M. Butterfield, 19, of 3634 Bay City-Forestville Road, Unionville, were treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital following a 3 p.m. crash July 5.

Deputies said their motorcycle dropped onto the shoulder as it was rounding the curve on Bay City-Forestville, two miles west of Unionville.

The cycle, which was headed west, went out of control and hit the guardrail along the curve on the north side.

Mark A. Stahlbaum, 21, of 6293 W. Main Street, and his passenger, Ronald D. LaMaide, 21, of 7705 Van Dyke Road, both Cass City, escaped injury in a 10 p.m. Sunday accident.

Deputies said their motorcycle was southbound on Cedar Run Road when it went off the curve at Hoppe Road into a ditch along the west side of the road.

They told officers a northbound pickup had crossed into their lane, forcing them off the road. A witness said the motorcycle had passed him at high speed and then went off the road.

Stahlbaum was ticketed for not having a motorcycle endorsement on his driver's license.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Soo Jean Yun of 4291 W. Street was to seek her own treatment if necessary after the bicycle she was riding collided with a car at 5:10 p.m. Monday.

Cass City police said Janice L. Winter, 41, of 8810 N. Van Dyke Road, was westbound on Cass City Road, east of Scotty McCullough Drive, when the young bicyclist turned into the path of her car.

Mrs. Winter braked, but the bicycle hit the right side of the car.

Village police reported that the car of James A. Johnson Sr. of 6659 Church Street was damaged by a hit and run driver about 2 p.m. July 3 while it was parked in the lot at the northwest corner of Church and Seeger Streets.

Tractor downs power line

A guy wire caught in the pads of a tractor was the cause of a downed power line on Cemetery Road north of Merchant Road Wednesday morning, according to a worker from the tiling company which was working in the field.

Elkland Township fire fighters were called to the scene at 9:30 a.m. to put out a grass fire that was started by sparks from the 4,800 volt power lines.

Steve Gangler, a member of the crew from Kemp Tiling of Sebawaing, which was installing tiling in a bean field, said the tractor was digging a trench about 35 feet from the road when it caught the wire and pulled the pole out of the ground.

Detroit Edison crews were called to replace the pole and repair the wire.

BIG BASS -- Ryan Pierce, 10, of 4563 Spence Road, Cass City, caught this very large bass, 19½ inches long, Monday afternoon in the Cass River. He used a worm for bait.

4 from area grads at Ferris

Four area students were among the graduating class of 1,643 for the spring term at Ferris State College May 15.

Scott Richards received his associate in applied science degree in ornamental horticulture. This allows him to work in a nursery or do landscaping work.

He is working on a tree farm in Disneyworld in Florida where he has worked for the last two years.

This fall, Richards will return to Ferris to work towards his bachelor's degree in business.

At Ferris, he was a member of the track team, running in distance events.

The 1980 graduate of Cass City High School is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Richards of 6592 Houghton.

Pamela Winchester graduated with highest distinction with a bachelor's degree in allied Health Education.

She received her associate degree from Delta College in 1975 in its Dental Assistant program.

Miss Winchester is living in Bay City and working for a doctor there.

She will work towards her masters degree in the near future but is still looking for a teaching job in the dental field.

The 1974 graduate of Owendale-Gagetown High School is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Winchester of 3881 Hoppe Road, Gagetown.

Karen Kubacki graduated with an associate in applied science degree in technical illustration.

She is looking for a job where she can use her schematic drawing skills making drawings for owner's manuals and layouts.

She is a 1980 graduate of Ubyly High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kubacki of 4200 Priemer Road, Ubyly.

Dawn Adam received her

Dawn Adam

associate in applied science degree in dental hygiene.

She was chosen to be the student speaker at the pinning ceremony for the graduation of her dental hygiene class.

Completion of her two-year program at Ferris has made her a registered dental hygienist.

Miss Adam is working for the Sanilac County 4-H cooperative extension service doing 4-H work.

She will return to Ferris in the fall to work towards her bachelor's degree in health teacher education. She then plans to work on a master's degree in some area in the health field.

Miss Adam is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Adam of 4150 Snover Road, Snover, and is a 1980 graduate of Marlette High School.

Manhood

In many cultures, the rite of manhood was equated with military service. Young men were called on to prove themselves by defending the honor of their village, tribe or country. Such service combined some of man's strongest sentiments: patriotism, loyalty, self-reliance and adventure.

Coaches honor

Jamie Fox

Jamie Fox of Cass City High School has been named honorable mention on the all-state softball team by the Michigan High School Coaches Association.

Miss Fox was selected as the Thumb Association all-conference first team short-stop this past season.

She was the only Thumb B player selected for all-state recognition.

Miss Fox led the Red Hawks this spring in fielding average, .988; times on base, 52, and on base average, .505.

She also finished the season in top categories for hits, 30; runs scored, 23, and batting average, .370. Miss Fox was at bat 81 times and had 15 runs batted in for the season.

In the field, she made five errors.

Miss Fox will be a senior next year.

Tuscola Commissioners OK request for $25,000 Fed start-up grant

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday authorized the Human Development Commission to apply for a federal economic development start-up grant of $25,000.

The money, to be matched by an equal amount from the HDC, will be used to conduct a study of the feasibility of constructing alternate energy system plants such as to convert grain to alcohol, solid waste to energy and manure to methane gas and carbon dioxide and of the cost effectiveness for homeowners to convert to alternate energy systems for heating.

The study, which will be conducted by the HDC in cooperation with Jordan College in Cedar Springs, is to be completed by March, 1983, provided the HDC receives the grant.

Ted Hull, director of Caro Area Services to the Handicapped, appeared before the board to discuss a proposed application to the state for $10,000 for transporting CASH clients.

The application will have to be made by the county on behalf of the agency, so commissioners decided to have Prosecutor Artis Noel examine the proposal before making a decision on whether to apply.

Commissioner Donna Rayl, chairman of the board's personnel committee, reported the next negotiating session with the Fraternal Order of Police regarding sheriff's department promotion procedures will be Aug. 12 and the next session to discuss new salaries will be the following day.

Under the present contract with the FOP, renegotiated salaries for sheriff's employees were to have started July 1.

Sheriff arrests pair

Foil Sanilac bank robbers

A planned robbery of the Kingston State Bank branch in Snover was foiled by Sanilac County sheriff's deputies after they arrested two suspects Friday following a five-day stakeout.

James R. Dailey and Joseph P. Nolan, both 19, were arrested near the bank and charged with conspiracy to commit armed robbery after they were stopped and questioned by deputies.

Both of the suspects were carrying guns when they were stopped, one a .38 caliber revolver tucked in his pants, the other a sawed-off, 12-gauge pump shotgun, in a bag over his shoulder.

The suspects were taken to Sanilac County District Court that day where Judge Richard P. Riordan set preliminary examination hearing for July 21. They are both in the county jail on $25,000 bond each.

Both Dailey and Nolan, former Marlette area residents now residing in Pinellas County, Florida.

Sheriff's deputies received information over the July 4 week end that a robbery of the bank was being planned.

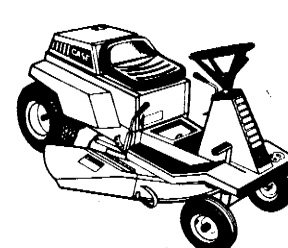

For several days, deputies staked out the bank and bank area and collected information on suspects, according to the sheriff's department.

Friday at 8:20 a.m., deputies stopped Dailey and Nolan and questioned them as possible suspects after observing them near the bank.

Brooks' patience and skill bring miniature world to life

Ask Oscar Brooks if he can build something and he will ask, "What do you want me to make? I can build anything."

And that he can.

In a crowded shed in his backyard, Brooks, who is a carpenter by trade, is in the middle of finishing a number of projects.

On a workbench lie some wind chimes which use different metal thicknesses to produce different tones. On another workbench is an unpainted wall chair with a storage compartment under the seat.

On the floor is a half-finished wooden swing similar to the one he already has set up in his back yard, which he built.

Oscar Brooks also builds dollhouses in his crowded shed.

and a half wide.

"That is about six weeks' worth of work on my spare time. I can easily spend 40 hours sanding all the pieces of wood I use in the house."

Each piece must be sanded, glued, and painted individually.

Brooks builds his dollhouses in sections. He works on the whole front section, then the sides, the back, and then the floor. Everything must be perfect when it all fits together or else all the work up to that point is wasted, Brooks said.

"One mistake, like the windows not lining up, or the corners of the siding not mitred just right, and it can throw hours of work down the drain."

His houses are not built in the usual way. Brooks uses very few nails and all the rest is put together with industrial type glue.

"In one house, I will use about $55 worth of wood, $10-15 worth of other materials, and I don't know how many sheets of sand paper."

THE GOING PRICE FOR a Brooks' original is $450-500 for a three-story house and roughly $300 for a two-story house. The difference is the amount of labor he puts into building the house.

Brooks has only built three houses and admits he has not sold any of them. He attributes this to the economy. People don't have the extra money right now to just go out and buy one of these for their kids, he said.

"If someone were to come to me and ask me to build them a dollhouse, I would build it just like they want. I could copy it from a sketch, or a picture they bring in, or I can make it from scratch."

"If they want the inside done, I will fix it up just the way they want it. I will even build some furniture for them."

The next house Brooks makes will have a veranda all the way around it.

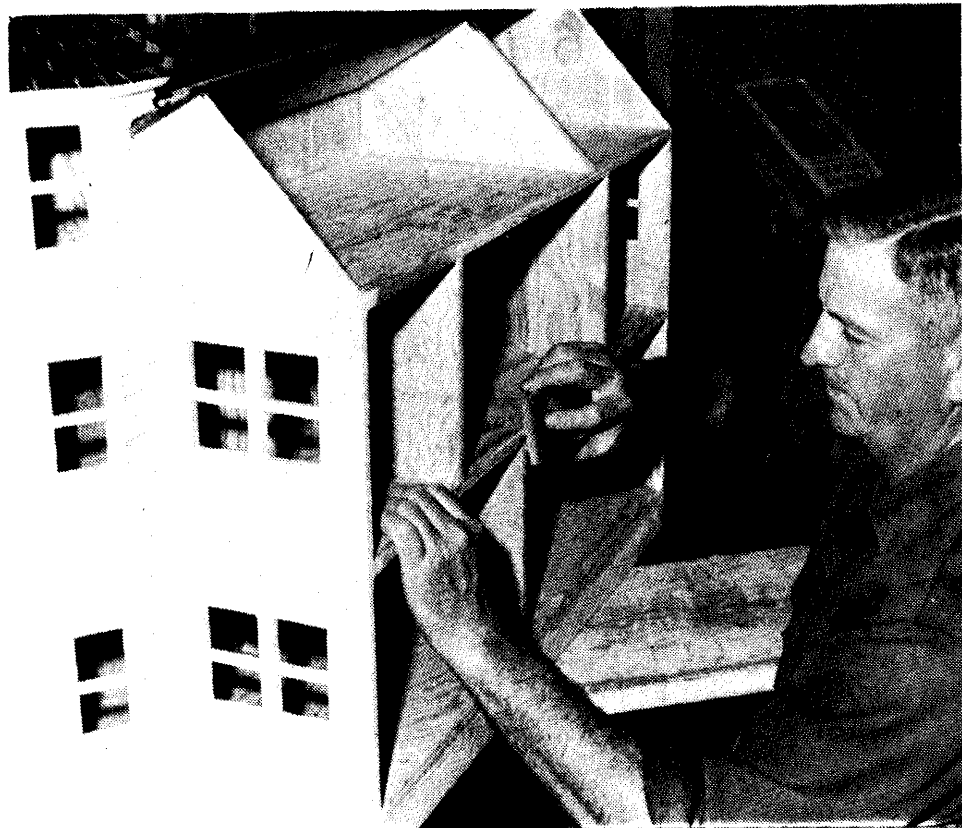

THE HOUSES ARE built really solid even with the lack of nails. Brooks claims they will last a lifetime.

"These are built really solid. Ones that are advertised in the paper, that are built commercially, run for $500-600 but are nowhere near as solid as the ones I make."

"It takes a lot of time and patience. The first one was the hardest. I learned from that one how to do things better the next time around. I had three-quarter-inch thick pieces under the porch posts, and proportionally, those are too big for the house. So the next one I built, I put half-inch blocks, and it looks much better. Everything has to be in proportion."

Brooks, of 6398 S. Seventh Street, Cass City, said of his model homes, "I started to build one just to kill time, but now it is a hobby, and I really enjoy the work."

OSCAR BROOKS puts the finishing touches on the outer shell of one of the dollhouses he builds in his spare time.

Board acts to help Pillsbury Co.

The Cass City Economic Development Corp. (EDC) board of directors Tuesday evening approved a resolution that will eventually enable Pillsbury Co. to sell bonds to finance purchase of the former Wickes elevator in Cass City.

The board adopted a resolution that specifies the project area -- the boundaries of the property being purchased -- one of the necessary steps in the law regulating EDC projects.

The village council next will have to appoint two temporary members to the EDC board during the duration of the project.

The board must then approve a project plan specifying the amount of the bonding proposal and how long it will take Pillsbury to pay it back.

The next step will be for the council to conduct a public hearing, probably in late August, after which the council must okay a final resolution. Then Pillsbury can then sell the bonds.

The Minneapolis based firm bought the entire Wickes Agriculture division in late May for $43.4 million.

Speculation at the EDC meeting was that perhaps Pillsbury financed the purchase by borrowing money over a short term at high interest rates.

Refinancing purchase of local elevators through EDC financing will enable the firm to save money.

Pillsbury must pay all principal and interest and other costs and if it ever defaults, the bondholders foreclose on the company, thus there is no risk or cost to local taxpayers.

The advantage to Pillsbury is that the buyers of the EDC bonds don't have to pay tax on the interest, thus the firm can sell the bonds (borrow money) at a lower interest rate.

When the firm first applied for EDC financing in March, it was stated Pillsbury plans to issue $800,000 in bonds to finance the local purchase.

EDCs, authorized by state law in 1974, usually issue bonds to finance industrial or business expansion in order to create new jobs.

In this instance, however, the bonds will be sold in order to retain present employment.

Also Monday, the EDC board approved its first set of bylaws.

One of the bylaws requires three additional officers, so appointed were: vice-chairman Bill Kritzman; treasurer, Gloria Ouyry, and deputy secretary, Elwyn Helwig.

The president, elected in March, is Lambert Athavay, and the secretary, Lou LaPonsie.

IT WAS SLOW WORK, but the barn on the Severance farm finally began its journey across the corn field. Below, a workman places planks under the wheels of the trailer because of soft sand. The truck pulling the barn was pulled by a winch to make the movement steadier.

Barn moving is slow work

There was something else moving across Lloyd Severance's corn field other than a tractor last Wednesday and Thursday.

It was an old barn that was being moved from its original position to a new spot closer to the farm of his son.

Severance, of 6003 Severance Road, Decker, hired Mike Davis of Brown City to move his barn from his field closer to his son Art's farm, a distance of about a half-mile.

The barn stood in the corn field not close to anything, as the house which originally stood near it burned down years ago. Lately, the Severances have used the barn only for storage.

"It just wasn't useful out here," Severance said.

In its new location Art will use it to house livestock.

THE COST OF MOVING the 65-year-old structure one-half mile is estimated at about $4,000, according to Severance.

"It will cost at least that much to restore the barn," he said.

The Severances cleared a space for the barn to be placed on once it finished its slow journey.

"The company will get the barn there, but they will just drop it off and then it is up to us to reset it with cement posts and restore it," Severance explained.

"The barn has been there as long as I can remember, and I'm 66 years old," he said.

Argyle Sox 4-H club still booming after 18 years

The Argyle Sox 4-H Club, the Sanilac County 4-H Club of the month, traces its roots to a time when members still made their projects in school.

Mrs. Dur O'Connor was the administrative leader of the club in 1964 when the club was known as the Argyle Angels. The main projects at that time were woodworking, sewing, foods, and horticulture.

The club functioned for a few years before becoming almost extinct due to the changing ages of its membership.

The club joined forces with the Holbrook Helpers in 1972 with Mrs. Spencer as leader. There were only 13 members from the Argyle area at that time.

In 1974, Mrs. John Ingles resurrected the Argyle Angels with the help of Barb Doerr, Dolly Baird, Julie Foote, Arla Eckenswiller, Tom Foote and Gordon Patterson.

In the ensuing years, the club started to roll, linking with the Laing Superstars. Meetings were held at the Argyle fire hall and the homes of George Romzek and Dale Berden. Enrollment increased to 30 members.

In 1978, it was decided to consolidate the club in Argyle. A general meeting was held and membership voted on a new name to signify the move back to the roots. The winning name was the Argyle Sox.

Over the past four years, the club has had annual banquets, bake sales, a bike-a-thon, rock-a-thon, and yard sales to raise money for ribbons and trophies for first through sixth place for the club's mini-fair.

This year, the club is having a mini-fair for sewing in July. Members have conducted bake sales and a roller skating party and are planning picnics and ball games for the summer. Currently, club members are selling rose stick-pens to raise funds for the fall banquet.

The 1981-82 club has over 60 members participating in some 18 project areas. Fall achievement winners in 1981 were: Achievement, Marlene Janowiak; flowers, Colleen Hunt, and swine, Jeff Janowiak. The president is Colleen Hunt and the administrative leader is Ralph Simmons.

If interested in joining or learning more about the Argyle Sox 4-H Club or 4-H in general, contact Ralph Simmons or the 4-H office in Sandusky.

Meetings are held the second Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the St. Joseph Hall in Argyle.

Marlene Janowiak, club historian, compiled its history.

New law regulates flare guns

New laws regulating the sale and ownership of flare guns have gone into effect. Basically, the new laws exempt retailers and purchasers of flare gun pistols from the handgun purchase permit and registration requirements, however, at the same time restricts sales to boaters or pilots who are 18 years or older.

The purchaser is required to present a boat registration, bill of sale or airplane pilot license to the retailer in order to purchase a flare gun pistol. Possession and transportation of the devices is restricted for use in conjunction with boating and aircraft emergencies.

While traveling between home and boating use, or purchase and home, etc., the device has to be unloaded, enclosed in a case and carried in a trunk of the vehicle. If the vehicle does not have a trunk, it should be transported in an area not readily accessible to the occupants of the vehicle.

Anyone selling, purchasing or possessing a device not in compliance with these provisions is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $200 or imprisonment for not more than 90 days, or both.

A person who uses a device in violation of the act is guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $200. Additionally, a person using a device is held strictly liable for any damages caused by that use. State Police also warn that the flare gun pistols are by law still classified as firearms and anyone using one in commission of a criminal act would be subjected to the penalties prescribed for violating the particular criminal law.

Your Neighbor says

No vacation cutback plans

The recession has forced many families to cut back on expenses to save money for the more necessary things.

One area that could be sacrificed to save money is the summer vacation, but for Norm LaVerge, the bad economic times will not affect his vacation plans.

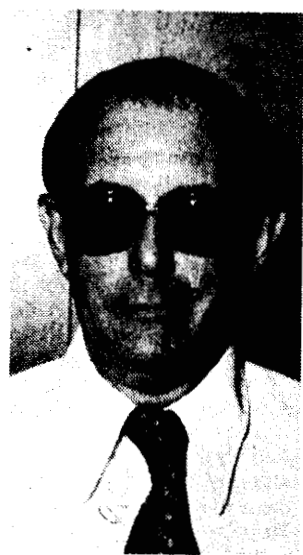

"The bad economy will not really make me switch any of my vacation plans," he said. "We still plan to go on vacation this summer."

He said his wife is leaning towards spending some time in Cape Cod in New England while he said he is more satisfied with saying yes to Michigan.

"I would like to travel around Michigan and spend some time in the Upper Peninsula," he said. "When we go on vacation we mainly do sightseeing."

The plans for the family vacation have changed somewhat, but not because of the recession.

"My daughters are getting older, and they want to do something different."

New books at the library

STRATHGALLANT by Laura Black (fiction). When old Countess Selina, her second-best red wig askew and her fuzzy carpet slippers peeking from beneath her gown, announces that her ward, 17-year-old Perdita Sinclair, will inherit the estate of Strathgallant if she marries one of her four handsome cousins, she unwittingly sets in motion some nefarious schemes. As these cousins arrive for Perdita's coming-out ball, the previously isolated girl falls in love with each in turn. The prize of Strathgallant proves so attractive a lure that two of the competitors are murdered. Perdita endures an abduction, an attempted rape and a near-murder, all with resiliency and curiosity undiminished.

THE INVISIBLE BANKERS: Everything the Insurance Industry Never Wanted You to Know by Andrew Tobias (non-fiction). Tobias is a genius of the kind who can transform a billion dull dollars into a million loud laughs. The author of "The Only Investment Guide You'll Ever Need" takes on the insurance industry and makes it, if not comprehensible to the potential client, incomprehensible as to why anyone should buy an insurance policy in the first place. He says if you put $1 into a savings bank, you take out $1.05, whereas if you invest it in insurance you receive progressively less, depending on the type of policy. Tobias considers flight insurance a sort of a term life policy purchased on an hourly basis, like toothpaste bought by the brushful.

EDEN BURNING by Belva Plain (fiction). Violence, political upheaval, and clandestine love provide the setting for this novel, which takes place on the tropical island of St. Felice, Francis, young scion of the family that has owned Eleuthera Estate for over 300 years, shares a dark secret about the past with fiery black prime minister. Francis' beautiful socialite wife grows restless in the stagnant island culture; Kate, the spirited newspaper editor loves Francis. Tender, determined Teresa shapes the lives of all around her. The author's previous novels were "Evergreen" and "Random Winds."

PERHAPS YOU sang a lovely song, or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers. If so, we saw them there. Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words. Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day. Perhaps you prepared some tasty food, or maybe, you rendered a service, unseen, near at hand or from afar. Taking stock

Would you say that these are the most important factors in setting you up for a heart attack?

- 1) Excessive cholesterol.
- 2) Cigarette smoking.
- 3) High blood pressure.
- 4) Being too fat.
- 5) Lack of exercise.

You're probably wrong. A world renowned cardiologist is our authority. He is Dr. Meyer Friedman, director of the Recurrent Coronary Prevention project at the Harold Brunn Institute, Mount Zion Hospital and Medical Center, San Francisco.

His scholarly summary of 25 years of research into causes of heart attacks appeared in a recent issue of "Executive Health." The magazine has given us permission to reprint parts of the copyrighted article.

In the early 50s, Dr. Friedman and his associate, Dr. Ray Rosenman, found that most of their coronary patients didn't have all these risk factors listed above.

In the case of cholesterol they found a significant number had a low level of cholesterol, the substance that clogs arteries when there's too much of it.

A third of their patients had never smoked. Over two-thirds had never had high blood pressure.

Indeed a sizable portion had none of the factors commonly regarded as causing heart attacks. Over half had no family history of the disease. For them, rule out heredity.

What Dr. Friedman and his associate found in studying thousands of cases was that there was a common behavior pattern — call it Type A — in the majority of heart attack victims.

This is a behavior pattern that displays these signals: (We list only a few for the sake of brevity.)

- 1) Characteristic facial tension or hostility.
- 2) Rapid blinking of eyes, and jiggling of knees.
- 3) Rapid finger-tapping.
- 4) Lip-clicking during speech, and tick-like drawing back of corners of lips, baring teeth.
- 5) Head-nodding during speech.

6) Interrupting others who are talking.

7) Tense body posture.

8) Frequent use of four-letter obscene words.

Physiological signals:

1) Excessive forehead and upper-lip perspiration.

Biographical signals:

1) Awareness of impatience.

2) Fast walking and eating, and non-dawdling at table after meals.

3) Irritability.

4) Difficulty in sitting and doing nothing.

Dr. Friedman studied a group of 3,000 healthy persons, about half of whom fit symptoms of the Class A people; the other were Type B, or those who didn't behave that way.

For every 40 of Type B who suffered heart attacks in the year of the study, there were 100 in Type A.

Where post-mortems were conducted of the subjects who died (from any cause) there were six times as many in Type A who had a severe clogging of the arteries.

Here is a factor, obviously a great one, in heart attacks that few of us are doing anything about. It could well be much more important than fiddling around with low-cholesterol diets.

Sure, it's easier said than done, to school yourself to avoid irritating situations, to slow down a bit, to become less impatient, to simplify your life and throw out the garbage of trivia cluttering up your life.

How many committees have you served on, for example, that accomplished nothing?

Try to stop interrupting others when they are talking. Take an occasional break when you're working and just look out the window at another of these gorgeous days. It might just let you live longer to enjoy even more of them.

bank.) The owners were pleased with what Cass City offered, Turner commented, "but had to decide what was best for them."

Caro Manufacturing, which makes plastic parts for auto companies and their suppliers, presently employs 65 persons, but plans to expand its payroll to 100 when the new factory is finished. Its present plant is on Hooper Street.

The firm does its hiring through the Michigan Employment Security Commission, Turner said, so job seekers should go to the MESO office in Caro.

Owen-Gage ponders firing teacher for seeking unemployment comp

Is application by a teacher for unemployment compensation tantamount to a resignation?

That was the question facing the Owendale-Gagetown School Board Monday evening as it conducted a hearing to decide whether to fire high school English teacher Nancy Folk.

The board was also informed the Michigan Supreme Court has rejected Owen-Gage's request for a rehearing of the court's approval of the transfer of the Goslin territory to the Cass City School District.

The sometimes stormy hearing, which lasted 45 minutes, stemmed from Mrs. Folk's application to the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESO) June 11 for unemployment compensation, which is paid by the school district.

Owen-Gage Education Association President Manuel Thies explained she did so after being told by high school Principal Wayne Wright that she probably would not be rehired come fall because of economic reasons.

Wright was on vacation Monday and the board ultimately decided to table action whether to terminate the teacher until the next board meeting at which he is present.

Supt. Ronald Erickson said he didn't believe Wright had told Mrs. Folk she probably would be pink slipped.

After receiving notification from the MESO that she had applied for unemployment compensation, he sent her a letter dated June 14.

Citing state law that says a teacher isn't entitled to such benefits during the summer if he or she expects to be employed by the school district come fall, he wrote, "... in lieu of a formal resignation and on advice of legal counsel, I will treat your application for unemployment benefits as a legal and binding resignation."

Mrs. Folk then wrote a letter to Erickson, dated June 18, stating that she had not resigned and did not intend to do so.

Her letter, copies of which were presented to the board, concluded, "Should the Owendale-Gagetown Schools choose... to provide me proper assurance of assignment to a full-time teaching assignment for the 1982-83 school year, I will be most happy to immediately terminate any further pursuit of unemployment benefits with the MESO."

Thies charged that all Erickson had to do to stop the application was inform the MESO office in Bad Axe that Mrs. Folk had not been issued a termination notice. "You should have stopped it at this level... that this was a misunderstanding," he said.

The superintendent countered it wasn't his responsibility to do so. "You're telling me I have to correct something that was erroneous to begin with," he commented.

Board President Ronald Good asked Mrs. Folk who had verified to the MESO that she had been laid off. "Mr. Erickson must have verified it," she responded, "otherwise I would not have received one thin dime." She has received two unemployment compensation checks so far, but wouldn't say if she had cashed them.

Although no vote was taken, board members who commented sided with Erickson. For instance, when Thies asked why Erickson didn't attempt to stop Mrs. Folk's application for benefits, board member Leona LaFave asked, "Why was it begun?"

Good and Patrick Goslin said Mrs. Folk's applying for unemployment was a violation of the contract between the teachers and school board, which specifies the board must give at least 30 days' written notice to teachers before laying them off.

The board did that Monday, by pink slipping elementary teacher Sandra Parks. She is being "bumped" by high school teacher Judy Campbell, next lowest on the seniority list, who is taking college classes this summer in order to be certified to teach elementary grades.

The board also accepted the resignation of high school special education teacher Cindy Smigil, who has accepted a position as supervisor of a group home for impaired persons in St. Clair County.

MONEY

Erickson said he has been informed by the district's attorney, James F. Schouman, that the Supreme Court has rejected Owen-Gage's request for a rehearing in the Goslin case. If granted, the district would have argued the state Board of Education was "arbitrary and capricious" in approving the transfer of the Goslin territory to Cass City in 1976.

The high court upheld the transfer in early April.

Still pending in the Michigan Court of Appeals,

Erickson continued, is Owen-Gage's appeal to recover about $175,000 in taxes from that area for the 1978-79 and '79-80 school years. A Circuit Court judge in 1979 ruled they belong to Cass City.

The superintendent explained the significance of the ultimate outcome of the tax issue, since the annual audit the last few years has said Owen-Gage was in the black financially because of pending taxes from the Goslin territory.

The audits have said, based on the opinion of Schouman, that Owen-Gage was due revenue from the Goslin territory until the Supreme Court made a final ruling, even if the school district lost.

Without that listed income, Owen-Gage would have been in the red legally as well as in actuality, which could get it in hot water with the state since school districts are not supposed to run deficit budgets.

Erickson and Goslin met earlier Monday with Schouman and auditors from Laine, Appold and Co. to discuss potential problems and solutions if the district can no longer claim past revenue from the Goslin territory.

Laine, Appold was hired by the board to audit the district's books for the fiscal year that ended June 30.

REORGANIZATION

Officers selected at the reorganizational meeting were Ronald Good, president; Joseph Warack, vice-president; Leona LaFave, secretary; Donna Salcido, assistant secretary; Jack Brinkman, treasurer; Pat Goslin, assistant treasurer, and Don Cummins, legislative liaison.

The only changes were assistant secretary and assistant treasurer.

Board meetings will remain the second Monday of each month, starting at 8 p.m. and alternating between Gagetown and Owendale.

Depositories for school funds will remain Farmers and Merchants State Bank, Owendale and Gagetown; Community Bank, Bad Axe, and First National Bank, Bad Axe.

OTHER ITEMS

Erickson reported the hookup fee to connect the high school to the new sewer system to be constructed in Owendale will be $12,000. It will be the same amount at Gagetown Elementary for the new sewer in that community.

In addition, it will cost an estimated $3,000-4,000 per building to have the piping installed to connect each school with the sewer mains and remove the old septic tanks.

"We're talking $30,000," he commented, versus $20,000 that was originally listed in the 1982-83 budget for the purpose.

New board member Salcido was given permission to proceed with organization of Sunday afternoon bingo games in Owendale, to be run by parents of 11th and 12th graders, to raise money for the senior trip.

Seniors will receive two-thirds of the proceeds and juniors, one-third.

Vote delayed on loan permission

The Municipal Finance Commission in Lansing Tuesday decided to wait a week before voting whether to grant Owen-Gage permission to borrow $530,000 in anticipation of receipt of property taxes.

In the interim, MFC Deputy Director Tony Presecan explained, the agency's staff will compile information regarding status of property transfers and litigation, since that affects how much property tax revenue Owen-Gage will receive in 1982-83.

State law says a school district can borrow up to half of what it will receive in property tax revenue. After the MFC gives permission to Owen-Gage to borrow money, the school board plans to conduct a special meeting to open bids, with the money to be borrowed from the financial institution offering the lowest interest rate.

Receipt of the loan money will enable Owen-Gage to begin to resume paying its staff employees, who ended the school year lacking two bi-weekly paychecks.

Also at the meeting, the school board decided Monday evening, it will conduct a "truth in taxation" hearing. State law requires such a hearing before the board can accept increased property tax revenue resulting from increased valuation.
