

Police look for school vandals

Cass City police are investigating vandalism to school property that may result in at least $1,000 damage.

Two skylights on top of Campbell Elementary School were broken some time after 4 p.m. Friday. Janitors discovered the damage Monday morning, when they found pieces of the plastic skylights on the floor below. Both were over the bathrooms.

Each of the skylights, 52 inches square, is worth $300-400.

Police Chief Gene Wilson said the vandals climbed onto the roof from outside. It isn't known yet whether they entered the building through the broken skylights.

At 11:30 p.m. last Wednesday while on patrol, a village officer noticed that four school bus windows had been broken. The buses were parked east of the high school.

The rear door window was broken in three buses and one left side window was also broken on one of the buses.

MOTORCYCLE THEFT

Two men arrested July 9 on charges of conspiracy to commit armed robbery in connection with the planned holdup of the Kingston State Bank branch in Snover apparently stole two motorcycles near Deford.

Arrested were James R. Dailey and Joseph P. Nolan, both 19, who face preliminary examinations in Sanilac County District Court this Wednesday.

Linda Woodward of 7635 Deckerville Road, Deford, reported the theft of the two 125cc off-road motorcycles to the Tuscola Sheriff's Department July 9. They were worth a total of $1,400.

The department was advised last Thursday by the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department that the cycles had been found, one near the Please turn to page 10.

Car and truck collide

Four killed in area crash

Four Detroit residents were killed instantly Tuesday morning in an auto-truck accident at the intersection of M-53 and Sebewaing Road.

The car, headed east on Sebewaing Road, failed to stop at the intersection and the truck, northbound on M-53, slammed into it, according to the Huron County Sheriff's Department.

Occupants of the car, all killed, were Paul Fredrick, 75, the driver; his wife, Herta, 69; their daughter, Carolyn Fredrick, 40, and Herta's sister, Meta Schutte, 67. All lived at the same address in Detroit.

The driver of the truck, a semi-tractor, pulling two trailers, was Owam Phillips, 36, of Ontario, Canada. He was not injured.

Deputies said bright sunlight shining into Fredrick's eyes may have contributed to the crash, since the car was headed east. The accident took place at 7:10.

There were no skid marks from the car, but the truck left skid marks for about 200 feet past the intersection when it dragged a portion of the car into a ditch on the east side of the road. The front portion of the car stopped about 20 feet behind the truck.

The "Jaws of Life" cutting tools had to be used by deputies to remove the bodies of Carolyn Fredrick and Ms.

Schutte, who were in the back seat of the car.

The accident was no fault of the truck driver, deputies said.

The four fatalities brought the total number of traffic deaths so far this year in Huron County to seven. There were six deaths at this time last year.

INJURY ACCIDENT

Two persons were injured and four persons were reported to have suffered possible injuries in a Saturday accident in Wells Township.

Reported by Caro state police to have sought their own treatment for injuries were James K. Watros, 22, of 2900 Phillips Road, Cass

City, driver of one of the vehicles involved, and his passenger, Tony Miller, 22, of Central Lake.

Reported to have suffered possible injuries were Thomas W. Nowakowski, 16, and his three passengers, Roger McClellan, 15, Larry Hunter, 16, and Gary Taylor, 15. All are from Caro.

Troopers reported the Nowakowski auto was westbound on Frankford Road, stopped for the stop sign at Murray Road, then pulled into the intersection and collided with the southbound Watros vehicle.

BACK UPS

Cass City drivers had their problems backing up and parking during last week.

Cass City police reported the following accidents:

At 8:30 a.m. last Wednesday, James O. Boyce, 26, of 4334 Krapf Road, was backing eastbound out of a driveway and backed into the side of a car that was southbound on Seeger Street, north of Garfield.

Driver of the other car was Clara B. Jops of Vassar.

Robin R. Powell, 18, of 4090 Little Road, was backing westbound from a driveway onto Maple Street, south of Houghton, and backed into a car parked by the west curb.

Temporary respite

Cass City area escapes Federal mortgage ruling

By Nick Assendelft

The recent United States Supreme Court ruling on the "due-on-sale" clause in mortgages arranged through federally chartered savings and loan associations will not affect Cass City residents who have a mortgage through local financial institutions.

But according to one local bank official, state action on the decision is soon to follow.

All four financial institutions in Cass City, Thumb National Bank, Cass City State Bank, Pinney State Bank and Loan and Mutual Savings and Loan are state chartered.

State chartered savings and loan institutions, mortgage companies, and commercial banks were not affected by the ruling but Congress or the Michigan legislature may soon be asked to allow them to enforce due-on-sale clauses in mortgages.

The clause calls for repayment of the remainder of the mortgage by the holder if he chooses to sell the house or property. A new mortgage can then be negotiated by the new owner at an interest rate closer to the current rates.

Under the present mortgage system, if a seller has an outstanding mortgage on a house for sale, the buyer will take over the mortgage for the house at the interest rate originally negotiated for the mortgage.

"If a property is sold, the bank wants to be paid off," said Linda Gaymer, Mutual Savings and Loan Cass City branch manager. "With some of the old loans, the bank is stuck with eight percent interest. The banks don't make money on eight percent when they have to buy money for twice that amount."

If a homeowner sells his home on a land contract, the bank is stuck with the old interest rate the original mortgage was negotiated at, Mrs. Gaymer explained, and some mortgages are tied up for a long period of time.

The due-on-sale clause will virtually eliminate chances of a homeowner with an outstanding mortgage being able to sell a home on a land contract because financial institutions will have the option of demanding the balance of the mortgage from the seller before the house is sold. The buyer will then have to take out a new mortgage, at new interest rates, for the amount necessary to complete the sale of the home.

TWO LOCAL BANKERS feel the ruling, though necessary, will be a bad sign in the selling of homes.

"The ruling will have a major impact down the road," said Cass City State Bank Vice-president Art Randall. "It limits the buyer and the seller."

Phil Keating, Vice-president of the Pinney State Bank agrees.

"This will tend to dry up the mortgage market." With a ruling on the clause for state banks, the bank may not have to carry mortgages with low interest rates, he added.

Area bankers are also trying to protect themselves from skyrocketing interest rates with short-term loans for up to ten years.

Pinney State Bank negotiates mortgages on a one-year basis. Customers can renew the mortgage each year, but the interest rates are different each time depending on the current market rates.

Thumb National Bank and the Cass City State Bank each issue mortgages for 10-year periods.

"The new buyer gets the old interest rates," said Curt Strickland, vice-president of Thumb National Bank. "Legally, that is the way it has to be done." At the end of 10 years, a new mortgage is renegotiated at the current interest rate, he explained. He did not know if his bank would change this policy.

The Cass City State Bank will renew the mortgage after the 10-year term runs out, or the holder may pay off the remainder of the money owed to the bank.

THERE IS ONE MAJOR reason why bankers are supportive of due-on-sale clauses.

They feel strongly about the fact they loaned money to the original client, and not to the new client they know nothing about.

"Mortgages are bad without this built-in safety switch," said Randall. "Without the clause, the bank has no control over who pays back the money to the bank. We loaned money to the original client who may have a far better credit record than the new client."

Michigan financial institutions will know in November how they can enforce a due-on-sale clause on customers in Michigan.

On the November ballot, Michigan voters will have a chance to pass a law that would give homeowners a period of four years to pay off the remainder of a mortgage once a lender enforces the due-on-sale clause. But the lender may be able to order immediate payment if they feel the prospective buyer would be a threat to the security of the loan.

Due to the Supreme Court ruling, the measure, if approved, will only affect state chartered institutions.

50-50 chance for prison camp at Regional Center

Chances are 50-50 for approval of funding for the proposed prison work camp on the grounds of the Caro Regional Center, according to Senator Alvin DeGrow.

DeGrow, R-Pigeon, is a member of the Joint Capital Outlay Subcommittee which must approve funding for the work camp. It will meet in August to allocate what funds are available so work on the camp may begin.

"Whether construction will begin or not is subject to the availability of money," DeGrow said. "I am not sure of the level of tax revenues for the last month or so, but if they are coming in below the estimates of what they should be, then the money will not be available."

The funding would be for the 1983 fiscal year, and if approved, construction will begin in spring, 1983, according to the senator.

One of the biggest setbacks in the funding for the camp is an order by a federal judge that a new hospital must be built at the Southern Michigan Prison in Jackson.

"A lot of money was siphoned off for the new prison hospital. Somewhere between $20 million and $50 million dollars," DeGrow said.

BOB GROENLEER, in charge of capital outlay for the state Department of Corrections, said the problem with funding for the work camp is the state's fiscal crisis.

"Because money has been cut by the state, the prison work camp in Caro has not been pushed," he said. "It was on the back burner for a while."

The work camp is to utilize a building on the Regional Center grounds that hasn't been used in at least 13 years. The original goal was to have it open by fall, 1980.

The money for the camp was finally approved by the legislature and Gov. William Milliken in early 1980, with the camp to be open by fall, 1981. Because of budget cutting by the state and the preferential treatment the hospital at Jackson prison received, funding for the Caro camp and other capital outlay projects had to be cut or delayed, according to Sen. DeGrow.

Now it looks like inmates won't be transferred until October 1983.

"The first time money is available for operational personnel for the work camp is in the 1983 budget," Groenleer said. "In which case, remodeling work should be finished by the fall of 1983 and we will be able to open our doors."

The total project cost is approximately $2.4 million with $1.925 million for remodeling of the unused facility. Groenleer said the heating, electrical and plumbing systems will have to be replaced and a building will be constructed on the site to house vehicles and a maintenance shop for the inmates.

If the money for the project is finally approved, bids from contractors will be taken in the fall and awarded soon afterwards. DeGrow said he did not expect work to begin until the spring of 1983.

But all the money needed for the work camp is subject to the budget cutting knife should the state fiscal outlook get worse.

"Funding for the camp could be cut out again," Groenleer said. "But I am an optimist and I think funds will be available."

THE WORK CAMP IS scheduled to house 80 male inmates who are within four years of their parole dates and classified as "low risk" or "next to low risk." The original plan called for 21 civilian employees, but this number has been cut to 10 once the facility opens. The number will increase gradually as programs are added or expanded, according to Groenleer.

The inmates will be part of a public works program run by the State Department of Corrections. Any government agency will be able to request workers from the program to work on projects such as road work, park work or trail repair. Originally, the inmates were to work for the Department of Natural Resources at one of the six state parks or game areas within a 45 mile radius of the work camp.

The site for the camp was chosen because it already had an existing structure, is isolated from the rest of the Regional Center buildings, and has access to the sewer system that serves the rest of the state facility.

The site has already been cleared by inmate crews brought in by the Department of Corrections and is now ready for remodeling.

Even if funding for the camp does not go through this time, state officials will not be worried about the loss of prison space.

"The plan for the prison work camp was not urgent,"

DeGrow said, "only desirable."

Residents make GM history by 'van pooling' to work

"You're in UAW country, Local 699, Saginaw, Michigan," reads the license plate on the front of the blue and silver van driven by Ron Weippert.

The Cass City resident is the primary driver in a van pool project established by the United Auto Workers and General Motors to transport workers to and from a Saginaw Steering Gear assembly plant in Saginaw.

The workers, all Thumb area residents, are part of a General Motors "first," a van pool to provide mass transportation for some of its employees. It is the only one so far in Michigan. The program began in April.

Negotiations between the company and union in 1979 included an agreement whereby GM would help in setting up a system of mass transportation for its employees.

GM agreed to test the feasibility of the van pool idea by purchasing a heavy-duty, 12-passenger van for its fleet at Saginaw Steering Gear. This van was then to be sold to an incorporated employee group after GM used the van for the first 3,000 miles.

The van, with heavy-duty tires, special air conditioning and heating units in the front and back, AM-FM stereo and other features, was ordered for the GM fleet to van-pooling specifications. It was sold to the employee corporation for $11,000.

McGregor's Corp., the name of the non-profit organization established by Weippert and 11 fellow employees to operate the van, charges its riders $15 each week which is then put into a credit union fund to pay for maintenance and upkeep on the van. The corporation is named after its treasurer, Dick McGregor.

No money actually changes hands, Weippert said. The money is taken out of the paychecks of the 12 employees that participate in the project and put directly into the corporation's account.

"If we don't see the money, we don't miss it," he said.

The van, which is parked at Weippert's home at 6371 Houghton Street in Cass City when not being used, is kept in top shape by him. He sees to it that it is tuned, properly maintained, and has insurance.

"We even have a kid that comes and picks it up every Saturday morning to wash and clean the van. It is all paid out of our account," Weippert said.

The secondary driver is Leonard Osentoski of Uby. Weippert and Osentoski drove to work together for the last three years. Now they share the van with 10 other riders. "We switch driving every other week."

Osentoski drives from Uby every day, parks his car at Weippert's home and then they pick up the other riders in the program.

Their first stop is 2½ miles south of Cass City where they pick up one rider. Then they go to Deford to pick up

"If It Fitz..."

Some things don't change

By Jim Fitzgerald

It is traditional for children to visit their grandparents during summer vacation from school. It gives the kids a chance to breathe fresh air, jump off the barn roof into a pile of hay and see calves born.

Of course, as the blacktopping of America proceeds unabated, more and more grandparents are unable to open a milk carton without breaking their fingernails, let alone accommodate a pregnant cow without a stray hoof shattering their microwave ovens.

Nine-year-old Melissa, who lives in a small town, just spent a week visiting her grandparents' home on the 26th floor of a downtown Detroit apartment building. While exploring sylvan corridors in search of a pile of hay, she discovered a great game that can be played by any number of people and elevators except one.

In our building there are four elevators. Melissa's game is called Pick-an-Elevator. It begins when she pushes the one button that summons an elevator to our floor. One of the game rules is no one except Melissa is allowed to push the button. This rule causes considerable discussion when Melissa's little brother is also visiting. It has been my experience that debates over whose turn it is to sit in the front seat of the car are surpassed in crescendo only by debates over whose turn it is to push the elevator button.

Obviously, grandparents had it quieter back in the days when grandchildren could leave the hay loft without taking an elevator. Also cheaper. I wanted to have Melissa arrested for embezzlement until it was proven to me that, honest to God, it now costs a dime to get one gum ball out of a penny gum ball machine.

Anyway, once Melissa had summoned an elevator, the game is to guess which of the four will subsequently arrive. After watching her win five straight times, I figured out how she did it. She sneakily pressed an ear against the elevator doors to get a vibrating-audio preview. I was reminded of Indians pressing their ears against the ground to hear if the enemy is coming. Later, when the enemy is Tigers, the Indians meet them at the Cleveland city limits in a Welcome Wagon.

But yesterday hasn't been completely blacktopped. Even though grandparents now live in high rises and think calves are born stuffed with crab meat, a few things are still the way they were. Whenever Melissa rode the winning elevator, for seven straight days, some stranger always got on and asked her: "Where did you get those freckles?"

When I was little, and my grandparents had a barn, I had freckles, and complete strangers always asked me where I got them. I don't know why people ask such dumb questions. Everyone knows freckles come from sunlight. Junior can say he got his floppy ears from his father and people will think he's cute, but if he says he got his freckles from the sun, they'll think he's boring.

I never knew how to answer the freckle question. What did people think, that I stole them? So I always said I didn't know where I got my freckles. Fifty years later, Melissa said the same thing to the elevator strangers. When they appeared disappointed, I offered to tell them where I got my liver spots, but they said that would be boring.

There is another thing that hasn't changed. When I was a young father, I took my children to my office on week ends and let them tap out words on a typewriter. Last week end I took my granddaughter to my office and let her tap out words on a video display screen. The technology is different, but the message remains the same.

My kids always typed notes saying they loved Mom and Dad and asking whether Mom and Dad loved them ("check here, yes or no"). Melissa typed exactly the same note to her parents.

Little children never forget what's really important, and it has nothing to do with the difference between a barn and a high rise. Parents — and grandparents — need to be reminded, and that's what children are for. Bless them, and who cares about the soaring price of gum balls?

The Haire Net

According to an expert quoted by Bill Myers, the Chronicle's back page columnist, I'm living on borrowed time.

I'm nearly a classic example of the type of guy that gets a heart attack. I walk fast, eat fast, have difficulty sitting and doing nothing and, when I can stay awake, have nodded my head during speeches.

All of these are classic examples of heart attack prone persons.

While I am easy to classify my wife isn't, although I didn't need to check the test questions to know that.

For instance, she eats about as fast as I do and together we probably set a new track record whenever we sit down together at a restaurant. We're ready for the check when the waitress comes around and asks us if we'd like another cup of coffee.

When it comes to walking, the reverse is true. If slow walking translates to long life as the tests indicate, a new centenarian is on the way, at least.

Besides dealing a low blow to my life expectancy by putting me in a high risk classification the study conducted by Dr. Meyer Friedman also struck down a few pluses that I was counting on when considering my chances to avoid a cardiac arrest.

Factors that most authorities say are important, low cholesterol, no smoking, no high blood pressure and plenty of exercise gave me a feeling of security. These same experts say that being too fat is not good, but then you can't have everything.

I'm sure that there are plenty of experts left who cling to the old fashioned virtues when advising patients.

I read somewhere that doctors are among the leaders as a group when it comes to kicking the cigarette habit so most of them must take Friedman's research with plenty of reservations, if they believe them at all. A friend once said, only half in jest, that if you don't like what the doctor tells you, find a new doctor and keep changing until one tells you what you want to hear.

There's a suspicion here that the medical profession really doesn't have any hard and fast line on what your chances really are.

In the Friedman tests there were 100 type A (high risk) deaths to every 40 class B (low risk) deaths recorded.

That's not very much to really make a judgement on with all the variables that could be considered. It's like what causes cancer. So many foods have become suspect that most of us go along eating what we have been eating unless it is banned outright by the government.

In the same way I'll probably go on doing what I have been doing, hoping that quitting smoking was worth the effort and rejoicing over low blood pressure and low cholesterol.

And starting tomorrow to lose a little weight for sure.

Pay coming up as O-G loan okayed

Owen-Gage School District employees should start receiving paychecks again in early August as the result of action taken Tuesday by the Municipal Finance Commission.

The MFC, meeting in Lansing, gave permission to the district to borrow $530,000 in tax anticipation notes, which is half of the amount the district will receive in property tax revenue during the next school year.

Supt. Ronald Erickson said afterwards he anticipates the school board will probably be able to meet Monday, Aug. 2, to open bids from banks seeking to purchase the tax notes. The bid will be awarded to the bank charging the lowest interest rate.

After the bid is awarded, he continued, the school district should have the $530,000 within a few days and can then resume paying its staff. Teachers and other employees ended the school year lacking four biweekly paychecks.

The MFC first considered the Owen-Gage application July 13, then decided to postpone a decision one week, pending receipt of information concerning property transfers and litigation and their effect on revenues. Erickson commented Tuesday that was a stalling tactic and what motivated the MFC to grant the borrowing request was a letter sent to it after the July 13 meeting by State Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, a Republican candidate for governor, urging the commission to grant the loan okay.

Also scheduled to be on the board's agenda at its next meeting is the possible firing of high school teacher Nancy Folk because she applied for unemployment compensation.

The board first discussed the matter July 12, then postponed making a decision until after high school Principal Wayne Wright returns from vacation.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Evidently there is at least one punk in Cass City that believes that the United States is the home of the free, if not of the brave.

Missing from the utility poles on the Main stem are nine of the American and Michigan flags that were erected for the Fourth of July.

Gerald Prieskorn says it's about time for my annual report about raspberries. Never one to disappoint, here it is. Raspberries this year are big, juicy and P-L-E-N-T-I-F-U-L and I expect to do my share to reduce the surplus.

If you didn't know you may have felt sorry for the merchants in Cass City who staged sidewalk sales last week end.

After all, it did rain on Saturday. But the clouds had silver linings. Retailers reported that the rain was the best thing that could have happened for business.

When it rained shoppers stayed home from the beaches and left work in the fields and were in town to make cash registers ring.

Lifted this from Jim Sherman, publisher at Oxford. Did you hear of the new, really simplified income tax revision under consideration? On line one you fill in what you made the previous year. Line two... send it in.

Rutkowski paintings are highlight of Polish exhibit

The St. Mary's Historical Society log cabin at Parisville is the site of an exhibit showing the early history of what is the oldest Polish settlement in America.

Parisville is located 6½ miles east of Uby. The cabin is on Parisville Road, north of Atwater Road and St. Mary's Catholic Church.

The exhibit will be open Saturdays and Sundays from 1-4:30 p.m. through Sept. 5. Admission is free, but donations are accepted.

Parisville had its beginnings in the early 1850s when Polish settlers entered the area, coming from Poland and Canada.

A log cabin served the religious needs of the fledgling community until the first church was constructed in 1867.

Beth L. Walsh has been named to the dean's list at the University of Michigan-Flint for the winter semester. She obtained a grade point average of at least 3.5.

Mrs. Walsh is studying secondary education and will be returning to U-M-Flint in the fall as a junior.

She and her husband, Justin, live in Lapeer.

The 1978 graduate of Cass City High School is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Tracy of 3850 Cedar Run Road.

nently assigned to Parisville came in 1868, when the parish was named St. Mary's. The first school was started the following year.

The area was ravaged by the great fires in 1871 and 1881.

The exhibit includes drawings and paintings depicting various scenes in the early history of Parisville, all done by Marilyn Rutkowski of Maurer Road, Uby.

Other items on display are photographs, maps and artifacts covering a time frame from the 1850s-80s.

The historical society's log cabin museum opened for the first time last year with a display about the great fire of 1881. About 1,300 persons viewed the exhibit, which was open seven week ends.

The cabin, built about 1875, was moved in 1979 from its original location about two miles away, then restored by society members.

Farm help wages must be reported

Farmers who will have hired help this year are reminded that most farm workers are covered by Social Security and their wages must be reported.

If you pay a worker $150 or more cash wages in 1982, the wages are covered. If the individual works for you 20 or more days and is paid on a time basis (by the hour, day, week, or month), that counts, too, according to Social Security Administration District Manager William T. Clynes.

It is important to employees that wages be properly reported. Entitlement to and the amount of monthly disability, survivors, and retirement benefits depend on reported earnings.

A "farm worker" includes anyone who helps plant, harvest, process, or deliver a crop. It also includes someone who does domestic work in a farm home or cooks for a farm crew.

Farm employer's responsibilities include:

1) Keeping a record for each worker - Record the worker's full name and Social Security number (copy it directly from the person's card). Keep track of wages paid and taxes withheld. If you pay on a time basis, note the exact days worked and wages for each day.

2) Collecting and paying Social Security taxes - The tax rate for 1982 (for both employee and employer) is 6.70 percent on earnings up to $32,400. Generally you pay this tax periodically during the year, using Federal Tax Deposit Form 511, available from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

3) Preparing required forms - Early next year, you must complete IRS forms 943 (Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees) and W-2 (Wage and Tax Statement). These forms and instructions for completing them are available from any IRS office.

There are special rules if you have migrant farm workers during the year. Either you or the crew leader might be the "employer" for Social Security reporting purposes, depending on the circumstances. For more information, ask any Social Security office for a free copy of "Social Security information for crew leaders and farmers."

The Social Security office in Saginaw is located downtown at East Genesee and North Warren Streets. The telephone number is 771-1010.

Pedaling Around

High living

By Mike Eliasohn

Ever want to see a European castle, but couldn't afford the trip?

Even if you can afford the trip, and even if you have seen a castle, a visit to Meadow Brook Hall on the Oakland University campus near Pontiac is worth the trip.

Meadow Brook Hall is not a castle, but it comes close. Begun in 1926, it took three years to build at a cost of $4 million. The English Tudor style home has 100 rooms.

I suppose Meadow Brook is most appealing to persons who love large old homes with lots of dark wood paneling. Persons who like everything modern (ugh!) won't be too thrilled.

In walking down the hallways and through the rooms, it is hard to imagine how anyone could live in so mammoth a "home." Matilda Dodge Wilson's bedroom is probably as large as my entire apartment and I have a good sized apartment (two bedrooms).

The house is mainly the dream of Mrs. Wilson, who was born on a sheep farm in Canada and died in 1967. She donated the house, grounds (1,400 acres) and $2 million to what is now Oakland University.

She became a secretary to John Dodge, who with his brother Horace, became multi-millionaires in the fledgling car industry.

Matilda and John fell in love and were married in 1907. When he died in 1920, at age 55, she became heir to one of the largest fortunes in America.

Five years later, she married another wealthy man, Alfred Wilson, who had made his fortune in the lumber business.

When they went on their honeymoon to Europe, they took an architect along so they could gather ideas from English manor houses for Mrs. Wilson's dream mansion.

It's hard to put into words, but for what my opinion is worth, Meadow Brook Hall is worth seeing.

To get there, take M-24 south and turn right at Walton Blvd. (The modern looking, light color fast food restaurant is at the southwest corner.) Go a mile or two, then turn south on Adams Road to the entrance.

There is an admission charge, with proceeds going towards maintenance of the hall. If you are tired of fast food places, there is a restaurant in the building, in what had been the dining room.

Hours through August are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1-5 Sunday.

A veteran came into the office recently to complain about an oversight in our July 4th festival coverage.

He pointed out we neglected to mention the veterans who marched behind the 1st Marine Band (World War I veterans understandably rode in cars) and that all veterans were recognized by the band during its mini-concert downtown and during the two-hour concert in the park.

Speaking of neglect, if any readers are wondering why there has been no mention in the Chronicle this summer of some softball leagues, it is because no one has bothered to report the games and standings to us.

With many leagues' seasons drawing to a close, if anyone connected with them would like to give us a wrap-up, stop by or give us a call.

If given adequate notice, we should be able to take a picture of the championship teams.

'Meet the candidates' night July 28 in Caro

The public will have an opportunity to hear and see candidates running for the state House of Representatives 77th district and state Senate 34th district Wednesday, July 28.

The program sponsored by the Tuscola County Farm Bureau will start at 8 p.m. at Caro High School.

All candidates for the House seat have indicated they will be there, according to Betty Laurie, the program organizer. Those running, all Republicans, are James Umphrey, Bad Axe; Robert Stickle, Cass City; John Neeb II, Harbor Beach; Terry Houthoofd, Unionville; Timothy Good, Gageton; Richard Dehm-el, Caro; James Binder, Caro, and Dick Allen, Fairgrove.

Of the five candidates running for the state Senate, three so far have said they will be there, Artis Noel, Caro, and George Johnson, Omer, both Republicans, and James Barcia, Bay City, Democrat.

Kathleen Asher of Vassar, the other Democrat running, has a prior commitment, according to Mrs. Laurie, so won't be there, and as of Monday, she had not yet been able to contact the other Republican running.

Roger Eckhardt of Bay City. She stressed that although the program is sponsored by Farm Bureau, the candidates won't be asked to address only farm issues.

Each candidate will give an opening statement, then the Farm Bureau moderator will ask each some questions. Only some of the questions will concern farm issues.

The final segment of the program will be an opportunity for the audience to ask questions.

The program should end about 10 p.m., after which there will be refreshments and an opportunity for those attending to talk to the candidates.

The 77th House district consists of all of Huron County and all of Tuscola except for Arbela, Millington and Watertown Townships.

Widow files suit in accident

A lawsuit has been filed in Tuscola County Circuit Court by the wife of a man who was killed in a July 17, 1979, traffic accident.

Plaintiff is Doris M. McClure, as representative of the estate of her husband, Lewis.

Defendants are Carole E. Tittsworth, James M. Blossom and the Vassar Building Center.

According to the suit, McClure was driving east on Millington Road, near Sheriday Road, and collided with a vehicle driven by Blossom while trying to avoid Ms. Tittsworth, who had stepped onto the roadway. Vassar Building Center was owner of the vehicle driven by Blossom.

The suit, filed last Thursday, seeks more than $10,000 in damages, plus interest, costs and attorney fees.

Blood drive Tuesday at hospital

A Red Cross blood bank drive will be conducted Tuesday from 1-7 p.m. in the Hills and Dales General Hospital ambulatory center basement.

No appointments are necessary. The drive is sponsored by the Cass City chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

There is always a critical shortage of blood. Last year 571 people were typed and cross-matched for blood at Hills and Dales. This means that these people were possible candidates to receive a blood transfusion. A total of 166 units of blood were transfused at Hills and Dales last year.

Usually 70-75 donors come to each blood drive in Cass City. The goal Tuesday is to increase the number to 80.

The Red Cross is looking for groups in Cass City interested in sponsoring future blood drives. Any group interested should contact Jane Mitchell, R.N., at Hills and Dales, telephone 872-2121.

Stove cause of $30,000 house fire

Cause of a fire that destroyed the interior of the Don Little home on Severance Road July 7 was a stove that was on, according to Sheriff's Department Detective Larry Walker.

Still under investigation, he said, is whether the gas stove was left on — Mr. and Mrs. Little say it wasn't — or someone turned it on while the Littles were outside.

Pans on the stove melted and the fire then spread to the wall. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

Swedish band plays Sunday and Monday

The Anderstorp Youth Band from Anderstorp, Sweden, will perform Sunday, in the Cass City Recreation Park at 3 p.m.

It will also perform at the Sanilac County 4-H Fair in Sandusky Monday, in front of the grandstand at 2 p.m.

Both concerts are free and are sponsored by the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp international exchange program. Host families have been found for the 56 musicians and chaperones during their stay in Cass City, according to Beverly Langenburg, but not for the music director and his wife. Anyone willing to house the director and his wife during the four days and three nights can contact Mrs. Langenburg at (313) 672-9467.

A picnic is planned before the concert for host families and band members, starting at the pavilion in the park at 1 p.m. Hosts should bring their own silverware, plates and cups; plus a dish to pass. The concert will be at 3 p.m. near the pavilion.

If it rains, the concert will be in the Cass City High School gymnasium.

The concert will be at least one hour and the band will be performing some Swedish songs, polka music, folk tunes, Broadway hits, and some pop-rock melodies.

The band will arrive Saturday at 4:30 p.m. at the high school. Car pool drivers are still needed to take band members to the Sanilac County Fair Monday. They leave Cass City at 12:30 p.m.

Some of the members of the band form a jazz group, the Pink Panthers, which can play for a fund raiser Saturday night or other suitable activity.

The group, whose musicians range in age from 14-25, is scheduled to arrive by bus from Michigan City, Ind., its first stop after having arrived by plane in Chicago July 21.

The musicians will leave Tuesday from the high school and will travel to Montague and Whitehall, north of Muskegon. They will perform in Lansing from July 31-Aug. 3.

The Blue Lakes Fine Arts Camp international band performed in Anderstorp last year.

FALL by Peter Niesewand (fiction). A Russian missile attack threatens to destroy the United States. Only two men can stop it in a daring sabotage mission. One is David Cane, a tough, experienced operative. The other is Martin Ross, a computer genius. Then one of them contracts a fatal disease and the only way the mission can be carried out is if the two men agree to become one man.

ANATOMY OF AN EPIDEMIC by Gordon Thomas (non-fiction). A small town in Pennsylvania is struck by a series of mysterious deaths... authorities trace the killer to the elegant halls of a plush hotel. The killer is identified, but cannot be stopped... It sounds like the plot of a mystery novel, but in fact is the true story of one of the greatest medical mysteries in history... Legionnaires Disease. This true life drama follows the brilliant medical detectives who in 1976 began painstakingly tracking down every clue to the cause of the Legionnaire's Disease epidemic... while day by day more and more people died, and the terror grew. It traces the paranoia and panic that haunted America in its bicentennial year, and the legacy of fear and suspicion that still accompany this deadly killer.

INFAMY by John Toland (non-fiction). Forty years have passed since the Japanese sneak attack at Pearl Harbor forced us into World War II. But only now, through the efforts of an outstanding American historian, do we have the full record of that world-shaking event - a record of bungling, duplicity and cover-ups at the highest level. Did the U.S. push Japan to the brink of war? Did the President and the Army Chief of Staff know the attack was imminent? Did they hold back what they knew?

Boosters should raise money for athletics

The Cass City School Board, in a recent meeting, approved any form of outside funding for sports and other extracurricular activities as long as the money for each activity is paid in advance.

They also approved funding for boys' varsity basketball because it pays for itself from ticket sales. The Booster Club provided enough funds last year to fund other athletic and extracurricular activities.

Kelly Ouvry thinks they should do the same this year.

"I think the Booster Club should try to raise enough money again this year," she said. "I think there should be sports provided for the children in school because it gives students the incentive to work and excel."

Miss Ouvry also sees bigger advantages to sports programs.

"Participating in sports programs teaches the students about the outside world that they otherwise would not learn in school."

Miss Ouvry participated in track, volleyball and basketball when she attended Cass City High School.

"Sports is definitely a big part of a child's education," she said. "It develops muscles and a sportsman-like attitude in the children."

Miss Ouvry thinks the defeat of the millage proposal for funding of sports and extracurricular activities was a big letdown for students.

"Some of the students go to school just so they can participate in sports," and it is too bad they might not have them this year."

Miss Ouvry is a 1977 graduate of Cass City High School and works at Ouvry Chevrolet-Oldsmobile east of Cass City.

Auction aiding Channel 19

Tuscola County Farm Bureau Women are sponsoring a farm auction to benefit Channel 19, the public broadcasting station at Delta College.

The auction is the result of Thumb area residents wanting to get more involved in Channel 19, specifically with some fund raisers, according to Andrea Hofmeister of Gagetown, vice-president of the Farm Bureau Women.

The farm machinery consignment auction sale will be Saturday, Aug. 21 at the track at the Tuscola County Fairgrounds in Caro beginning at 10:30 a.m. Proceeds from the auction will go to Channel 19.

Assisting will be Zonta International of Cass City, Caro Exchange Club, First National Bank of Bad Axe and Osestoski Realty which will be the auctioneer. David Osestoski has agreed to donate his consignment fee, which is between 5 and 8 percent on farm machinery.

There will be a $20 registration fee, which must be paid when the item is delivered to the fairgrounds and registered. The fee will be returned if the item is sold, but if the item is not sold, the fee is forfeited.

Items may be purchased with either cash or certified checks. All personal checks must be accompanied by a letter of credit from a bank.

Items may be consigned prior to the auction by calling Osestoski Realty or Mrs. Hofmeister before Aug. 1. These items will be printed on advertising posters and handbills which will be distributed throughout the county. Other items may be consigned up to the day of the auction. Nothing will be accepted later than noon Aug. 21.

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT

If you are one of America's workers, an IRA may be the solution to your retirement income needs.

Even though you may plan on Social Security, for most people Social Security is a beginning, but it may not provide an adequate retirement income by itself.

All interest on an IRA account is TAX-FREE until withdrawal. You take before-tax dollars from your earned income now (lowering your taxable income) and deposit them into an IRA account. You pay no taxes on the principal or interest until you retire and start to withdraw the money ... at which time your tax bracket should be substantially lower.

So, plan ahead now for your retirement years with your own IRA. It's a wonderful opportunity for you to --

- SAVE TAX DOLLARS
- EARN BIG TAX-EXEMPT INTEREST
- BUILD SECURITY FOR YOUR FUTURE

Federal Regulators require substantial penalties for withdrawals made prior to maturity. IRA regulators provide for substantial penalties for withdrawals before age 59½.

Finns take life slower and quieter

Finnish life not much different than in America

Katha Cleland's 10 months abroad were not all that much different than if she would have stayed home. She spent her time abroad in Finland where she was an exchange student through the Rotary exchange student program.

She lived with three host families in the city of Keuruu in central Finland which has a population of between 6,000 and 7,000 people, and is not unlike Cass City except that there are a lot more apartment buildings.

The great American Dream is also the Great Finnish Dream, according to Miss Cleland.

"All Finns want to own their own home because it is a sign of prosperity, a sign that a family is well off," she said. "They also want to be well off because they pay so much in taxes."

The Finns, who live under a socialist form of government, pay a large amount of taxes because they receive many services in return. They are entitled to free education, medicine, hospitalization and more because of the extensive welfare system in that country.

Because of the high taxes, Miss Cleland said it is an exception when both parents don't work outside the home.

"Usually both parents work and it is hard to find homes where only one parent works," she said.

IT IS DIFFERENT FOR students in Finland.

"It is the exception to find a student that has both a job and is going to school. Only a few might have a job like delivering papers, but that is usually on the week ends. But a large number of students find work during the summer."

The students study more than they do in this country, she said.

"They all study at least two hours every night, so they cannot afford to have a job because their studies will suffer."

There are many other things students get involved in after school.

The schools have only a few activities for students to participate in, ice hockey, girls' basketball and choir. Other sports or activities are arranged through clubs or organizations in town.

"The town has more activities than the school does. They have a town soccer team, orchestra, choir, baseball team, which is played in a much different way than here in America, ice hockey team and swim team. These all are for anybody to participate in from all age groups, and they use the facilities in the city to practice," Miss Cleland said.

A lot of the students participate in these clubs after school.

LIFE IN FINLAND IS A bit slower.

"The people are quieter than here in America, they take a lot in stride and they don't make a big fuss over things. Also, they are more liberal. They do wear anything they want and no one will say anything about it. It is considered rude for anyone to say anything about how other people look or act."

Many of the students in Finland are into the punk rock look. People are more tolerant of being different."

Finns do enjoy life, which is evidenced by their leisure time activities.

Many families have cottages, even if they do not own a home. They go there for a vacation in both summer and winter. Vacations are also spent out of the country where they will go to the Canary Islands, a popular vacation area in the winter, or to Sweden or Russia during the summer.

A favorite pastime for the Finns is relaxing in a sauna. Many Finns have a sauna in their home, Miss Cleland said, and families will invite their special friends over "for sauna." That is a big social event when someone is invited over for sauna with friends.

"One thing they will do after they come out of the sauna is run outside and roll in the snow or jump in the ice water. But not everyone does that," she said.

A simple luxury in America is somewhat scarce in Finland.

Families have only one car, Miss Cleland said. One big reason for this is that it costs about $1,000 for a young person over 18 years of age to take driving lessons which are given through private driving schools.

THE AVERAGE DAY for Miss Cleland began with breakfast in the morning, the time depending on when she started school. The times were different each day of the week. Breakfast is either cereal, hot or cold, or an open face sandwich.

The morning would be spent in the classroom, where classes last only 45 minutes and there are 15 minutes between classes.

High school is set up differently than in America. Students are divided into a first, second or third class. First class is freshman students; second, sophomores and juniors, and third, seniors. These classes are then divided into three sections, a, b and c; "a" section having the students with the hardest classes.

In her time at school in Finland, Miss Cleland was in class 2a.

At school, she was able to understand the Finnish language when listening to someone talk, but she had trouble speaking it fluently and reading Finnish books or newspapers.

Lunch at school is free for everyone. It is usually a hot meal with potatoes and sometimes blood pancakes, a delicacy, which is made of beef blood mixed with the pancake batter.

By 3 p.m. all the students are out of school and they go home to a hot meal.

At this meal they will usually again have potatoes as part of the meal, boiled whole, that must be peeled at the table. This is done by holding the potato on a fork and peeling it with a knife.

After dinner, students either study or practice their sports and the parents relax by watching television or reading newspapers.

WHILE IN FINLAND, Miss Cleland took a trip to Russia with 150 other exchange students.

They spent four days in Leningrad and were chaperoned by Finnish Rotary members.

"The hotel and the food were terrible, but the ice cream and the pastries were very good. Many students sold their jeans to Russian people for about 50 rubles. This is about $75 for a pair of jeans. But the money had to be spent on consumable goods because we could not take much out of the country, especially large amounts of money."

She also visited Sweden during her stay.

The thing she will remember most from her trip to Finland is her host brothers and sisters.

"I had to adjust to my three different host families, but the Finns are very friendly people."

Katha is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cleland of 7876 Germania Road, Uby. She will be a senior at Cass City High School this fall.

Farm Bureau sponsors "meet the candidates"

The Sanilac County Farm Bureau Local Affairs Committee is sponsoring "meet the candidates" sessions Tuesday, Aug. 3, in each of the five new county commissioner districts.

Each meeting will feature the candidates running for county commissioner and an explanation of the county-wide bridge millage proposal that will appear on the Aug. 10 ballot.

The meeting for district 5 will start at 8 p.m. at St. Patrick's Hall in Palms.

The candidates are Donald Decker, Deckerville, and Eugene Foote, Argyle Township, who will face each other in the Aug. 10 primary for the Republican nomination, and Democrat Charles Izydorek of Decker.

District 5 consists of Greenleaf, Evergreen, Argyle, Lamotte, Austin, Minden, Delaware and Marion Townships and part of Forrester Township.

The session will be hosted by a Farm Bureau moderator. Each candidate will be given five minutes to outline his background and tell why he is running.

Decker and Foote are both members of the present eight-member county board. Redrawing of the districts to comply with 1980 census data and reduction of their number to five put them in the same district.

Following the presentations by the candidates, a representative of Citizens for Safe Bridges will discuss the bridge millage, which is three-fourths of a mill increase for five years.

If approved, the levy will raise about $300,000 a year, with the money to be used for county bridge work while returning a portion to villages and cities for local road and bridge work.

A recent survey showed 89 of Sanilac County's 175 local and primary road bridges are posted for restricted use, according to the Farm Bureau.

After the millage proposal is explained, the audience can ask questions about it and of the candidates.

Backing, parking result in numerous accidents

Owner of the parked car was Russell Richards of 6592 Houghton. The mishap took place at 12:40 p.m. Friday.

At 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Timothy G. Firchau, 18, of Hamtramck, stopped in the driveway at Northwood Heights Apartments, then started to back up as the car that had stopped behind him started to pull out to go around him. The two autos collided.

Driver of the other car was Marilyn Kay Truemner, 24, of 6577 Huron Street.

At 10:20 p.m. that day, the vehicles of James F. Woods, 19, of 6736 Third Street, and Douglas L. Germain, 23, of Akron, collided as they were eastbound on Main Street, west of Leach.

Woods told officers Germain was in the left lane.

started to pull into the right lane and hit his (Woods') car.

Germain said he was in the right lane, attempting to pull into a parking place, and Woods attempted to go around him on the right side when they collided.

Woods was ticketed on a charge of no proof of insurance.

A July 4 accident in the Cass City Gun Club parking lot was reported to Cass City police.

It was reported that Donald W. Wernette, 67, of 5460 Lamton Road, backed into the vehicle of Duane Peters of 4325 Woodland Avenue. The mishap took place at 11:30 a.m.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

A freak accident took place Tuesday, July 13, on M-46, west of Kingston.

Rick C. Webb, 26, of Saginaw, told sheriff's deputies his beer delivery truck was parked on a slight hill while he was inside a store, finishing his paper work. The truck was in gear, but the engine was off.

The truck started moving. Webb ran outside but was too late to stop it.

The vehicle rolled across Hurds Corner Road and struck the rear of a pickup truck at an angle. The pickup was parked in front of Rever's Too Restaurant, 3492 Sanilac Road (M-46), and the impact drove it into the front of the building.

Deputies reported that at 5:25 p.m. last Thursday, Clayton V. Hamilton, 75, of Caro, was southbound on Chambers Road, south of Bliss Road, when a car backing out of a driveway backed into his vehicle.

The driver of the other auto, Cynthia M. Cybulski, 17, of 4865 Elmwood Road, Cass City, told officers a tree blocked her view of the approaching car until it was too late.

Robert M. Viney, 32, of 6531 Main Street, Cass City, told deputies that at 12:30 a.m. Saturday, he was westbound on M-24, west of Mayville Road, when he swerved to miss some deer. His car went into the south side ditch.

At 12:40 a.m. that day, Teresa A. Kitchen, 18, of Caro, told deputies she was southbound on Colwood Road, turning right onto Cass City Road, when her passenger bumped her arm.

Instead of finishing the turn, the car went into the south ditch.

Susan C. Corcoran, 18, of 4077 Van Dyke Road, Cass City, was eastbound on M-81, east of Cedar Run Road, at 10 p.m. July 12, according to deputies, when her car collided with a deer.

another passenger, then to Kingston for five more. Two were picked up at a stop along M-46 and the last rider gets in at Richville.

The approximately 47-mile trip takes about 45 minutes. The savings are quite impressive.

Weippert said he will save about $752 in gas money for the year if he van pools, and that is not counting insurance and maintenance costs.

The savings would be somewhat bigger for Osentoski, and somewhat smaller for the other riders, but it is still a good sized savings.

It costs roughly $60 each week for gas for the van. The van gets about 11 miles per gallon.

The experimental project, in its fourth month, is expected to be a success, according to Weippert.

"We have no problems at all, we have communication between all the riders and a system of letting people know whether to pick them up or not. The riders know we will not wait too long for them because it is not fair for the other people to wait too long," Weippert said.

Weippert expects the van to be paid off in three or four years. "By then, we should have about 63,000 miles on it (what Weippert considers to be the life of the van) then we will decide if we want to keep it or not."

GM also has an agreement with Michigan Trailways that works on the same principle. But that pooling idea is run by the bus company. The bus picks up passengers from as far north as Beaverton and takes them to the three GM plants in Saginaw.

Weippert said there is a waiting list for vans for this type of a van pool program. If this one is successful, which will be determined after about a year or so, many more projects may be set up similar to the original one Weippert is a part of.

"I would like to see more of it," Weippert said. "It is very convenient, and it saves quite a bit."

bank and one near where it was stolen, and that they had been taken by the two men.

According to the Tuscola department, they probably won't be charged in connection with the thefts since they face more serious charges in Sanilac County.

ARREST

Cass City police Sunday evening arrested Robert W. Jordan, 29, of Bay City-Forrester Road, Galetown, on charges of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (third offense), driving with license suspended (subsequent offense) and possession of open intoxicants in a motor vehicle.

After receiving reports of a reckless driver in Huntsville Trailer Park, police stopped his car on Main Street, east of Doerr Road. Jordan was arrested Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled a pre-preliminary examination Friday and preliminary examination July 30. Bond was set at $5,000 cash (10 percent) or surety. As of Tuesday morning, Jordan was still in the county jail.

1981 good year for farm exports

During fiscal year 1981, Michigan farmers exported more agricultural products than ever before, according to Dean Pridgeon, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Exports totalled $943.6 million, an increase of $256 million or 27 percent above a previous record of $687.3 million set in fiscal 1980.

"Shipments of corn, dry edible beans, wheat and soybeans accounted for nearly $240 million or 94 percent of the increase," Pridgeon said.

"By finding appropriate overseas markets for our farm surpluses, both the farmer and the state benefit," Pridgeon added.

Feed grains and products led Michigan farm commodity exports, accounting for 43 percent of the total. Approximately one-third of Michigan's corn crop, valued at $406.5 million, was sold to foreign countries.

Vegetables and dry edible beans accounted for $154.5 million -- an 85 percent increase over the previous year's level. Two-thirds of Michigan's wheat crop and half of the soybean crop were also sold to overseas markets.

In 1981 Michigan ranked 15th among all states in foreign sales of agricultural products, up from 20th position in 1980, according to Dr. Ming Wu of MDA's marketing division.

Michigan exports of vegetables and dry edible beans ranked third in the nation following California and Washington. Also, Michigan ranked sixth in export of dairy products, seventh in fresh and processed fruits and ninth in feed grains and grain products.

"Agricultural exports represented nearly 30 percent of Michigan farmers' cash receipts last year," Wu said, "with an estimated two out of every five acres harvested in the state used for export."

Patients and guests participated in the third annual Tuscola County Medical Care Facility picnic July 9. The picnic was on the front lawn of the facility located at 1285 Cleaver Road, Caro. About 123 patients, 40 employees and 30 guests gathered to participate in the festivities.

Tents were set up and relatives helped serve the patients. An accordion player provided entertainment for the crowd.

The Saginaw Federation Band put on a one-hour show July 11, which was in conjunction with an ice cream social that was sponsored by the Forget-me-not Club.

HEALTH TIPS

Older people need nutritious foods

Science News Service
AMA

Some elderly people, for various reasons, do not eat enough. Their calorie and nutrient intakes become too low to maintain health.

Decreased activity, chronic illness, loss of sensitivity to taste and smell, loss or impairment of teeth, and inadequate income can all affect the eating habits of an older adult.

The nutrient requirements of elderly adults are still basically those of younger adults, according to the American Medical Association, even though fewer calories are needed.

So, older individuals should choose foods high in proteins, minerals and vitamins to make every bite count.

Jackson and Wald families hold reunion

Thirty-five members of the Jackson-Wald families attended the 35th annual reunion Sunday at the home of Arlan Hartwick in Cass City.

Carl Jackson presented a floral bouquet for the table in memory of his sister, Laura Dotte, who died during the past year.

The eldest present was Mary Wald of rural Cass City and the youngest was Kathy Martinez, three months, of Milan, the great-granddaughter of Thelma Bogart of Caro.

Officers elected for the coming year were: President, Arlan Hartwick; vice-president, Lloyd Finkbeiner, Cass City, and secretary-treasurer, Patti Holland, Sebawaing.

The 1983 reunion will be held the second Sunday in July at the home of Lloyd and Wilma Finkbeiner.

Relatives were present from Clarkston, Caro, Owendale, Gagetown, Cass City, Sebawaing, Milan, St. Charles and Saginaw.

Many older people reduce their intakes of meat without increasing their consumption of other protein-rich foods. Calcium and iron intakes are also often too low.

Milk, cheese or yogurt should be regular features of the diet because they are excellent sources of protein and calcium. Iron needs can be met by using lean meats, egg yolks, green leafy vegetables and whole-grain or enriched breads and cereals.

Fruit and vegetables (green and yellow) are needed each day, particularly for their vitamin C, vitamin A and fiber content.

Elderly people concerned about the cost of food will find that there are many ways to obtain items high in nutrients and low in cost.

For example, canned evaporated milk and nonfat dry milk have the same protein and calcium value as that of fresh fluid milk and frequently can be substituted for fresh milk in cooking and baking.

The large packages of non-perishable items like sugar, flour, rice and beans are generally less expensive per pound than are the small packages and do not lose nutritive value during storage of several months.

Also, low-cost cuts of meat and fish are as high in nutritive value as are the more expensive items. Thrifty buys are usually available on stew meats, pot roasts, liver, variety meats and fresh fish in season.

Two attend Blue Lake arts camp

They are Tammy Iseler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Iseler, 5089 Schwegler Road, Cass City, and Laura Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunn, 4730 South Street, Gagetown.

Students attending Blue Lake's second session, intended primarily for junior high students, have the option of majoring in art, band, dance, jazz ensemble, orchestra, organ, piano or theatre.

Joint services Sunday at Salem church

As a cooperative venture with the Salem United Methodist Church, there will be no worship service at Trinity United Methodist Church Sunday.

It is a vacation day for Rev. Wachterhauser and the boards of each church have agreed that one such Sunday each year, during their minister's vacation, the congregation will be welcome at the sister church.

Worship for Salem members at Trinity will be on a future Sunday.

Offerings will be by way of envelopes, either one's own or those provided, designated Trinity or Salem. The loose offering will go to the host church for that day.

Sunday worship services at Trinity are at 10 a.m.; at Salem, 8:45 and 11 a.m. with church school at 10.

Worship at Trinity will resume Sunday, Aug. 1, with a guest speaker, R. Kenny Letherer of the Friends (Quaker) Church. He brings a peace emphasis characteristic of that church's traditional stands for peace.

93% sign for draft in Michigan

The Selective Service System has statistics showing the compliance rates for registration of young men at the national and state level. These statistics include the total results of the grace period registration granted by President Reagan and reflect registration as of March 31.

At the national level, there is a 93 percent compliance with registration for all age groups — men born in 1960-63, and the first three months of 1964.

Michigan's young men have a 93.25 percent compliance with Selective Service registration.

By law, men are required to register with Selective Service as they reach their 18th birthday — either 30 days before or after it. The registration requirement applies to all men born in 1960 and later years.

Failure to register is a felony, carrying a maximum penalty of $10,000 and/or five years in prison.

Selective Service has begun cross-referencing computer tapes containing the names of men who have registered against Social Security files to identify those who have not registered.

Those failing to register will be reported to the Justice Department for possible prosecution.

Paul D. Frakes, Selective Service director of Michigan, is urging those who have not already registered to go to the Post Office and do so.

"It's an easy process — all a young man must do is fill out a simple form which asks only for his name, address, telephone number, Social Security number and date of birth."

"He should take some form of identification with him to show the postal clerk when he signs the registration form. Late registrations are being accepted."

A committee was appointed to make plans to eat out for the next meeting Aug. 11.

Croft-Clara cops title at Akron

For the third straight year, Croft-Clara won the championship trophy in Akron, Sunday night. The eight-team double-elimination tournament was hampered by the weather causing play to be delayed for almost a day.

Croft-Clara started the tournament by defeating Munger Merchant 1-0. Ken Martin hit a home run in the first inning which held up throughout the game. Craig Helwig pitched a two-hitter and had nine strike-outs.

Rain delayed most of the games Saturday. Play was resumed Sunday morning against Prancing Pharmacy of Saginaw.

Brian Helwig was the winning pitcher in the 4-0 decision allowing only four hits and fanning ten batters. Ken Martin and Brad Hartel led the hitting attack with two hits each and Tim Severance had two RBIs.

Croft-Clara defeated Watering Trough of Saginaw, 3-0, in a game which matched the two undefeated teams.

Scott Hartel hit a triple with the bases loaded in the top of the 7th inning to give Croft-Clara the win. Mike Rea and Jeff Hartel each had two hits. Pitcher Craig Helwig allowed only three hits.

Watering Trough came back through the losers' bracket to face Croft-Clara in the championship game. Croft-Clara came out on top defeating Watering Trough, 9-0.

Jerry Toner and Mike Rea led the way at the plate. Brian Helwig was the winning pitcher. Scott Hartel was awarded the most valuable player plaque.

Croft-Clara continues league play at home Wednesday night against Reese at 7:20 p.m. and Thursday night in Saginaw at 7:00 p.m. The team will travel to Sarnia this week end with the first game at 9:30 a.m. Saturday morning.

Big loss

Some of the world's greatest losses were recorded during the "Tulipomania" that struck Holland in the early 1600s. Tulips were so highly valued that a single bulb sold for 2,000 florins—the equivalent of 80 fat swine. The inevitable crash occurred in 1637 and the value of the tulip plunged to about one-twelfth of its previous value.

Workers face cuts or layoffs

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

State Personnel Director John Hueni has announced he will ask the state Civil Service Commission to hold off making a decision on a proposed rollback of a 5 percent pay hike for non-union state employees.

Hueni said public hearings should be held before a decision is made. "It's evident that there are additional views and information on the pay increase... and these should be heard before a decision is made," he said.

Peter Ellsworth, general counsel to Governor William G. Milliken, said he has no objections to holding a hearing on the issue, "but the key thing from our standpoint is to get a quick decision."

If the commission decides against rolling back the non-union workers' pay increase and vision care plan, the state will have to begin procedures for laying off workers, Ellsworth said.

The rollback of the increase and vision care plan for the 14,500 non-union workers is expected to save approximately $16.8 million and is part of the $60 million in concessions from state employees the governor has said is necessary to keep the 1982-83 fiscal year budget balanced.

Hueni said, however, that delaying the decisions to allow for a hearing should not affect any budgetary decisions as the pay increase is not scheduled to take effect until Oct. 1.

Ellsworth said if the commission decides against rolling back the pay increase, department heads must have an early decision to allow for an orderly layoff process.

Top officials of several large departments had indicated they would need a decision by mid-July to assure a smooth layoff process, Ellsworth noted.

Several employee groups which are not recognized bargaining units and several non-unionized employees have submitted objections to the commission, saying the requested action would violate the constitution.

Garry R. Magruder, a Department of Labor employee, headed a list of 23 employees who threatened a class action suit if their pay increase is cancelled while other employees received their rates.

That would primarily include union members whose bargaining representatives did not agree to concessions.

Edmund W. Phillips, president of the Professional Mediators and Associates Organization, argued the constitution permits civil service pay recommendations to be altered only by the legislature, which must do so with a two-thirds majority within 60 days of submission of the pay proposals by the governor as part of his budget recommendations.

That view was backed by the Michigan Society of Scientific and Engineering Administrators and the Michigan Association of Governmental Employees.

Other employees urged alternatives be used to provide the needed savings, including continued use of mandatory layoff days.

PILOT PROJECTS

Gov. Milliken is urging federal officials to select Michigan to run a pilot program under which companies would be given the chance to monitor their compliance with federal and state environmental laws.

The initial environmental auditing program would involve facilities with good compliance records and who volunteer to participate.

If accepted, the Department of Natural Resources would work with a citizen advisory group to develop guidelines for an acceptable program, under which companies would be required to show they have sufficient internal procedures to detect and correct problems.

Dead poison ivy still dangerous

A case of poison ivy or oak is not easily forgotten. Rarely serious, always acutely itchy, the memory lingers long after the attack has subsided.

The perils of these poisonous plants -- poison ivy and oak are the most common among some 75 varieties -- are well known. Yet these leafy offenders manage to inflict misery on millions every year.

Any contact -- however slight -- with the oily resin on the leaves of these plants is enough to set off an allergic reaction in humans. Contrary to popular belief, these resins remain on the leaf year-round. Even dead leaves should be avoided.

Skin sensitivity varies enormously among individuals and changes at different ages. Some grow less sensitive while others grow more so. Only a fortunate few are immune.

The hidden danger lies in the tenacity of those allergyc-causing resins. They can persist for long periods of time on clothing, tools, picnic baskets -- and even on pets. So if the family dog or cat brushes against a leaf in his or her wanderings, there's a chance that someone is going to pick up some of that resin when the animal is brushed or petted.

Symptoms usually appear within a few hours of contamination. Most common are itching and rash accompanied by small blisters. There is often a slight swelling. If you have these symptoms in exposed skin areas and you or your pet have been in the woods or out in the garden, you've probably got poison ivy or poison oak.

If you suspect poison ivy, wash thoroughly and put any clothes that may have come in contact with the plant into the washing machine. All articles of clothing -- and pets -- should be washed three times with a strong detergent.

Temporary relief from the acute itching can be obtained with ice packs or an ice-cold bath. An effective treatment is Cortaid, a non-prescription product.

If the rash persists or if it spreads over a large portion of the body, you should consult with your physician. The only way to prevent poison ivy or oak is to avoid contact. While easier said than done, it helps to learn all you can about these plants.

Poison ivy is prevalent in the eastern United States and poison oak is a major problem in the west. The leaves of both are deep green and shiny.

Poison ivy grows in several forms, as a vine climbing up trees, as trailing shrubs on the ground, and as low woody shrubs growing alone. The leaf shape varies but there are usually three leaflets on a single stem. Poison oak is an upright shrub with small woody stems rising from the ground. It is usually found in fields and along roadways.

Farmers air opinions at informal discussion

Ag tour for Levin aide highlights farm problems

How do farmers convey their opinions about farm issues to their senator in Washington?

The answer is that if the senator can't come to the farm, get his aide to come. That is what happened

Friday when Jim Turner, an aide in U.S. Sen. Carl Levin's Saginaw office, visited two farms, some experimental plots and an elevator in the area.

The visit ended with dinner and an informal discussion with five farmers and their spouses at the Hobart Road, Gagetown, home of Ken and Andrea Hofmeister.

It was Mrs. Hofmeister who suggested to a Levin aide at the latter's monthly visit to Caro that the senator needed to communicate more with farmers.

She wasn't expecting the senator to come, but he did assign Turner to make a visit.

Turner is one of three aides assigned to the Saginaw office which serves 18 counties. His duties include meeting with constituents, working on constituent problems with agencies of the federal government, working on federal grants and making arrangements when the senator visits in the area.

WHAT DID TURNER learn from his visit, which will be conveyed to Levin in the form of a written report?

The main message he received, he said after the evening gathering was over, was that the government interferes too much with agriculture. Where government help is needed is in improving export markets. When exports increase, too low crop prices will rise.

The views expressed to Turner Friday evening weren't necessarily those of a cross-section of farmers.

Most of those invited to the Hofmeisters for dinner and discussion, Mrs. Hofmeister said, are active in Farm Bureau.

For instance, she is vice-president of Tuscola County FB Women and her husband is vice-president of Tuscola County FB.

One of the guests was Jack Laurie of Dodge Road, who is Michigan FB vice-president.

THE AFTER DINNER discussion began with opinions about what federal government price supports do and don't do for the farmer.

Hofmeister commented that when the government sets a floor on crop prices, it also sets a ceiling, which keeps some farmers in business who could not make it financially in a free market.

A free market, he contended, wouldn't support such a big corn crop, which results in low prices. Although some farmers might go out of business — "Maybe I'd be one." — that would result in a smaller corn crop.

Jeff Montei didn't feel there should be price supports. He commented that when government deals in the market, it affects the price.

Was the viewpoint being expressed typical of farmers, since politicians routinely support price supports to help farmers stay in business, the Chronicle reporter asked. Don't politicians try to do what their constituents want in order to get reelected?

Laurie responded that the typical attitude of politicians is that they want to help, which doesn't necessarily reflect the viewpoint of farmers.

WHERE FARMERS DO need help, everyone agreed, was in being able to export their products to foreign countries, such as by extending credit to Communist countries.

Turner explained Sen. Levin's positions on embargoes on grain sales to Russia.

Although the senator realizes the ineffectiveness of past embargoes, the senator feels the United States should not say that under no circumstances will it cut off grain going to the USSR, that the United States

"shouldn't tell the Russians what you're not going to do."

"Government can do a lot more good by not stimulating production directly, but by providing some place where those (agricultural) products can go," he summarized what he had been told.

TURNER'S VISIT Friday began with a visit to the Hofmeister cash crop farm, where one of the things he was shown was figures on how much it costs per acre to grow various crops.

Next stop was the Pigeon Cooperative Elevator, where manager Ted Leipprandt gave him a tour and talked about the importance of good transportation, especially railroads, for grain hauling, and what the government can do to assist the railroads.

Turner then visited experiment plots on Owendale Road where various corn varieties are being tested. The plots are a project of Gagetown Farm Bureau Services Manager Paul Burdon and two farmers.

Final stop before dinner was the farm of Grover and Jack Laurie on Hoppe Road, where Turner viewed cows being milked.

When legislation authorizing foreign grain sales contains a provision allowing embargoes, Mrs. Hofmeister commented, foreign countries don't want to buy American agricultural products out of fear the supply will be cut off.

One result of past embargoes, Laurie said, is that Japan has bought much of the food it needs in South America and has also bought some grain terminals in the U.S. "because they can't depend on us."

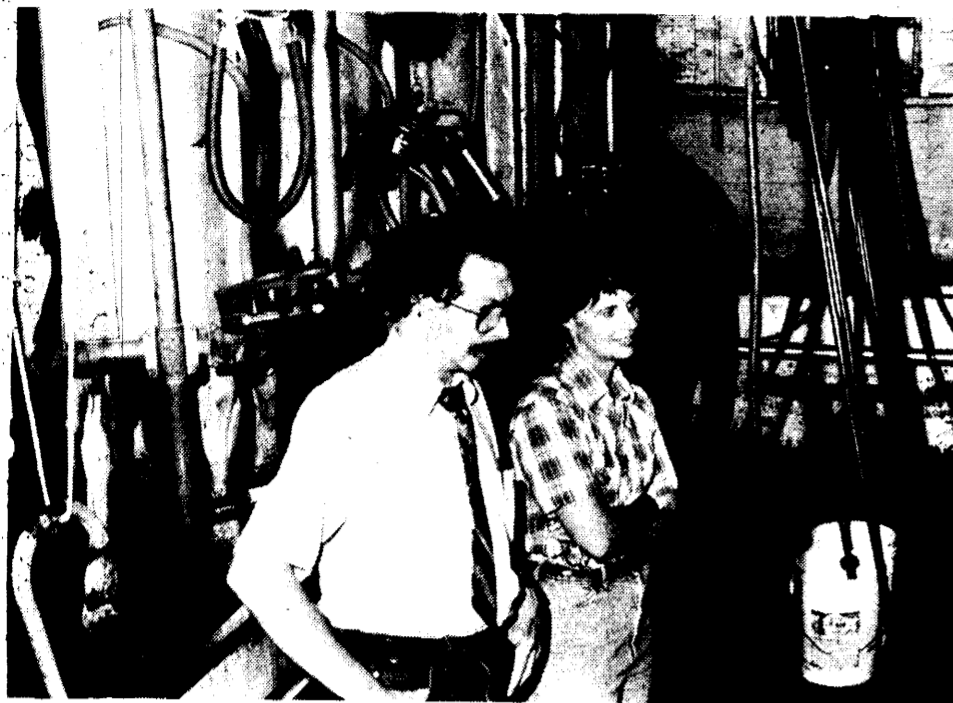

Giving food to starving countries to get rid of American surpluses, David Loomis commented, would put farmers in those countries out of business, since they couldn't sell their few crops if American food was being given away.

NON-FARMING TOPICS discussed included defense spending, entitlement programs that don't need an annual appropriation from Congress (for instance, Social Security) and interest rates.

Laurie also entered a plea to change tax laws to allow farmers and other self-employed persons to deduct the cost of health insurance premiums they pay.

Employees don't have to pay taxes on what their employers pay for their workers' health insurance, but farmers have to pay income tax on all their income and pay their health insurance premiums out of what's left.

FARM VISITOR -- Explaining some of the problems of owning a dairy herd to Jim Turner, an aide to Sen. Carl Levin, is Andrea Hofmeister of Gagetown. They were visiting the milking parlor of Grover and Jack Laurie.

Soybeans and oats lead list for acreage increase

The 1982 mid-year planted acreage estimates for Michigan show major increases for soybeans and oats.

Farmers planted slightly less corn and significantly reduced dry bean acreage, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

Soybean growers planted 1,050,000 acres, an increase of 7 percent from last year and a new state record, exceeding the previous record established in 1979 by 3 percent.

Corn acreage at 3,150,000 acres declined 2 percent from last year's record acreage. Acreage intended for grain is unchanged from a year ago.

Dry bean acreage, at 570,000 acres, dropped 12 percent in response to lower export potential. Sugar beet plantings decreased slightly and are estimated at 96,000 acres.

For small grains, winter wheat seedings, at 695,000 acres, are down 17 percent and harvested acreage, at 640,000 acres, is 23 percent below last season. Oat seedings, at 475,000 acres, increased 32 percent and are the largest since 1970. Barley producers increased acreage 11 percent to 30,000 acres. Rye producers intend to harvest 21,000 acres for grain, up 11 percent from a year ago.

Acreage cut for hay at 1,250,000 is reduced 2 percent from last year. Alfalfa acreage is expected to decline 5 percent while all other hay is up 11 percent.

Nationally, corn planted for all purposes is estimated at 82.1 million acres, 2 percent below the 1981 planted acreage. Growers plan to harvest 73.6 million acres for grain, down 1 percent from last year. Soybean plantings are estimated at a record high 72.2 million acres, up 6 percent from 1981 and 3 percent above 1980.

Dry beans at 1.92 million acres are down 17 percent from last year but 2 percent above 1980. Acreage of winter wheat, oats, rye, summer potatoes and hay showed increases while acreage for barley and sugar beets declined.

Crop stocks up 48 percent for grain

Stocks of Michigan's four major grain crops stored in all positions June 1 totaled nearly 152 million bushels, 48 percent more than a year earlier.

Stocks of corn were up sharply from last year, while wheat, soybeans and oats were lower, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

Slightly over 22 million bushels of corn moved from storage this past quarter, leaving nearly 132 million bushels on hand June 1. Of the corn in storage 79 percent was stored in on-farm facilities. Low corn prices continue to discourage large quantity sales.

Wheat stored in all positions totaled about 9 million bushels, down 5 percent from the same time last year. The majority of the wheat holdings were in off-farm positions.

Soybeans were down 19 percent from last year with over 8 million bushels in storage. Stocks of oats totaled nearly 3 million bushels, down 22 percent from the same time a year earlier.

Nationally, corn stored in all positions June 1, totaled a record high 3.85 billion bushels, 39 percent more than last year's level of 2.77 billion bushels. Indicated disappearance from all storage positions during April and May 1982 totaled 1.22 billion bushels, up 1 percent from disappearance during the comparable quarter a year ago.

Wheat stored in all positions totaled 1.16 billion bushels, 17 percent greater than the 989 million bushels on hand a year earlier.

Soybean stocks in all positions totaled 658 million bushels, down 3 percent from a year ago. Oat stocks in all storage positions, totaled 152 million bushels, 14 percent less than a year earlier.

More than 60 persons attended a reunion of the Dunlap families Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Murphy and Mrs. Mary Kritzman.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. William D. Evo and family, Royal Oak; Mr. and Mrs. William B. Evo, Royal Oak; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Hall and family, Kalamazoo; and Jeffrey Hall, Bloomfield Hills.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Kritzman and Gretchen, Millersburg, Ind.; Brian and Dana Czaplak and friend Melinda, Plymouth, and Lillian Dunlap, Caro.

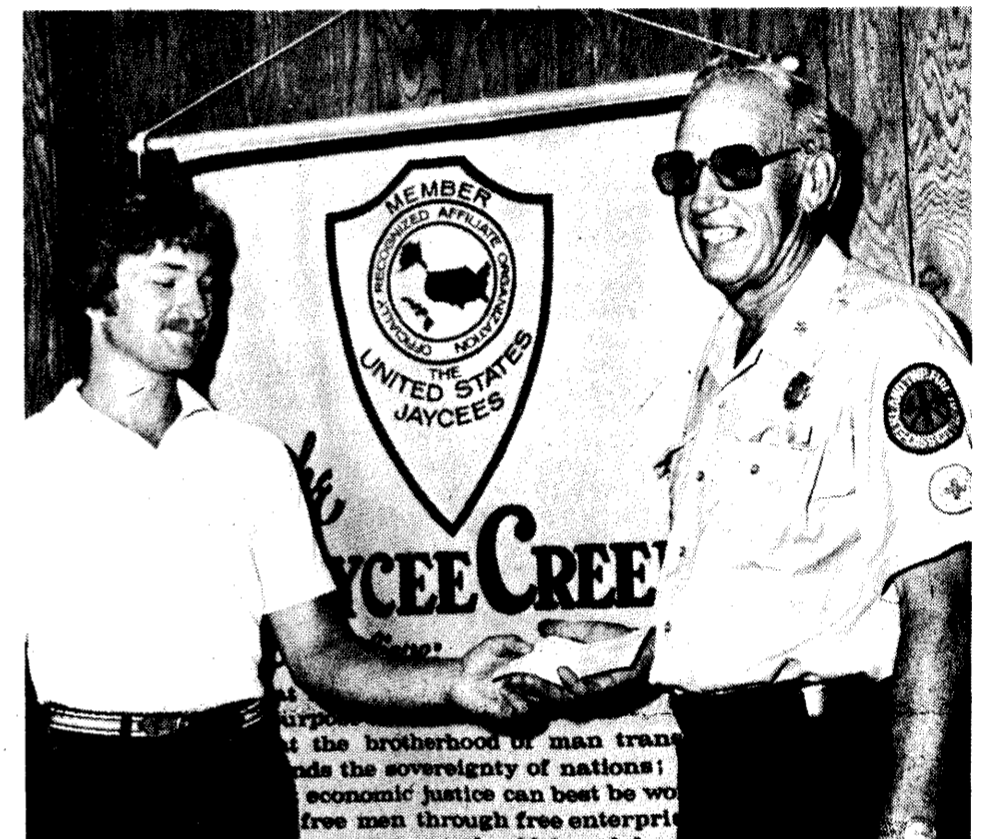

Others included Mr. and Mrs. Ray Burkell, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Moore, and family, Snover; Peter Kritzman and daughter Petrina, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith and family, Decker, and Brian Schember.

Others of the Murphy family attending were Scott and Patrick who live at home, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Murphy and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas O'Dell and children, all of Cass City.

Callers in the afternoon were Mrs. Linda Kritzman and children, Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Kritzman, Decker, and Mrs. Sandra Moery and children of Kingston.

The gathering was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Warren of San Diego, Calif., who are visiting relatives here.

The first English Prince of Wales later became King Edward II. He was born in Caernarvon, a town on the northwestern coast of Wales.

DONATION — Dave Bartnik, left, Cass City Jaycees internal vice-president, presented a check last Thursday for $307.80 to Jerome Root Jr., Elkland Township Fire Department chief. The money, proceeds from the Jaycees Jelly Week sale this spring, will be used to construct a portable canvas dump tank for holding 3,000 gallons of water at fires while the tanker is refilled. A total of $1,900 is needed. The Zonta Club, firemen through fund raising projects, and the township are also contributing.

LAY SPEAKER — Loraine and Bill O'Dell, in front of the Colfax United Methodist Church near Bad Axe, where he has been certified lay speaker six years.

Church thrives under lay speaker O'Dell

This week completes six years for Bill O'Dell's serving as a certified lay speaker at the Colfax United Methodist Church on M-53 near Bad Axe.

He was asked to conduct services for a couple of weeks until a regular pastor could be supplied by the Methodist Conference. He recently received a letter from the district superintendent requesting him to continue this pastorate for the coming year.

O'Dell, who is Novesta Township Supervisor and a retired building contractor, said the experience has been a great opportunity for him to conduct a Christian service in the Colfax area and that it has challenged him and his wife Loraine to serve the small country church as pastor and pianist respectively and to see the growth that has gradually developed.

During their ministry, the small church has been remodeled completely and carpeted, a contrast to the old plaster walls and ceilings. The new carpeting covers the old wooden floor of the sanctuary, the front platform and the main entry.

The congregation has taken on a broader scope as far as age is concerned. Where there were mostly retired farmers, now there is a growing attendance of youth and middle-aged couples. Sunday attendance has been increasing over the past six years and now averages 25-30, O'Dell said.

Colfax Church originally was located on old M-53 at Popple and was moved to its present site about 1910.

The church itself has had its problems in keeping its doors open in the past, but the membership has endeavored to keep operating in spite of efforts to close it by the Methodist Conference, O'Dell said. That determined spirit continues to keep it operating as a one service per week country place of worship.

Cattle drink water pumped by wind

WIND POWER -- a windmill has replaced a gasoline engine to pump water for dairy cattle owned by Jim Linderman.

GTE workers get new 3-year contract

General Telephone Co. of Michigan management has been advised by International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers local 1106 that union members have ratified a new three-year contract for the company's 2700 bargaining unit employees.

Tentative agreement had been reached July 4.

H.M. Preston, state vice-president and general manager for the company, said the new contract, which will cost the company an additional $11.5 million over its three-year life, is equitable under the present economic circumstances for both labor and management.

Wage increases on the top labor wage schedule will amount to 7.5 percent for each of the first two years and 7 percent the last year of the three-year contract.

Some other significant contract changes include medical and dental plan improvements; improvements in group life insurance for future retirees; improved lay-off allowance, and improvements in vacation scheduling.

"Even though our present financial situation is not what we'd like it to be, we are still able to provide our employees with some economic recognition for the job that they've done and that they will continue to do," Preston said.

The contract, which expires June 29, 1985, is retroactive to July 5 for basic straight time hourly pay.

General Telephone has approximately 3,700 employees in Michigan, 2700 represented by the IBEW. The company has more than 730,000 telephones in service in the state.

It is a lot quieter and does the job just as well as the old gasoline engine.

The job is pumping fresh water for dairy cattle and a windmill is doing the work now.

James Linderman has installed a windmill in his 40-acre dairy pasture to pump fresh water from a well for his cattle. He used to use a gas motor, which needed roughly 15 gallons of gas per month. Now he gets his water for free.

"It doesn't cost much to run the engine, but I had to get here to pump the water," Linderman said.

The field, which is located on Gilbert Road, is approximately two miles from the Linderman home on 6039 Robinson Road, four miles east of Cass City.

"I could have hooked up an electric motor, but then I would have to pay for the electricity even during the months when my cattle are not out in the field," Linderman said.

He usually keeps 20-25 head of dairy cattle in the pasture.

The windmill cost Linderman over $1,000, but he will get 40 percent of the price back from the federal government and 15 percent back from the state in tax credits, plus, his sales tax and labor costs will be reimbursed.

Figuring the cost of gas to be $1.30 per gallon, the windmill will pay for itself in roughly four years.

But it is four years of not having to worry about going out to make sure the cattle have enough fresh water.

"My cattle like fresh water better than ditch water, and it is better for them," Linderman said.

Linderman bought the windmill from Dean's Windmill Sales in Mount Clemens. The windmill itself is from Argentina.

Linderman said he had replacing the gas pump with a windmill in mind for some time, and priced different models. He said prices ranged from one to two thousand dollars just for the head, which is mounted on a tower and connected to the pump by wheels and shafts.

"When the wind blows really hard, the wheel will automatically disconnect and the tail will turn to the wind," Linderman said.

There is always wind, so Linderman said he doesn't have to worry about going out to make sure the cattle have enough fresh water.

"I've heard of more and more farmers using windmills for this type of thing (pumping water for cattle). Plus, it looks better to have something on top of that old stand," he said.

The new windmill head was placed on top of an old windmill stand that was put in the field back in 1944. Now the stand has a new job, and Linderman has one less headache to worry about.

CETA program funding in limbo unless approved by Congress

The Thumb Area Consortium's 1982-83 budget keeps shrinking and it may shrink to nothing at all.

The administrative board of the agency which runs the federally funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program in the upper Thumb last Thursday approved a tentative budget of $1.68 million for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1. That consists of $1.53 million in new money, and $155,000 carry-over in consortium funds for this year.

Consortium Executive Director Frank Lenard explained the figure is based on the local share of the $1.8 billion CETA nationwide budget that the Reagan Administration is recommending that Congress approve for 1982-83. That compares to $3 billion for the job training program being spent this year.

The $1.68 million estimated for Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac Counties compares to $2.33 million being spent this year, not including $550,000 for summer youth employment programs this year, which is providing jobs for 448 youths (There may be a summer youth program in 1983, but not as part of CETA.)

Instead of $1.68 million, however, there could be nothing at all.

Lenard told board members Congress still hasn't approved either a continuing resolution authorizing CETA to continue spending next year or a specific appropriation for next year.

If it does neither by Oct. 1, CETA and the consortium will be out of business.

Even if Congress does give CETA money for one more year, it is expected to be the last year for the program, as federally subsidized job training programs will take some other form after that.

The tentative budget approved last Thursday compares with $2.319 million that was projected only a month earlier.

Provided the consortium ultimately does have $1.68 million to spend in 1982-83, $925,000 will be used for classroom training, $325,000 for on-the-job training, $186,000 work experience, $9,000 for employment generating services and $237,330 for administration.

Other than for administration, the money goes for participant wages or allowances, fringes, tuition costs for classroom training and services.

Lenard reported that the consortium will start the new fiscal year -- if there is one -- with 350 participants, "a very high level," who will be completing their training.

That means more than half of the projected enrollment slots for the year will already be filled.

Under the projected phase-out of CETA in 1982-83, the number of persons enrolled in the training programs is supposed to be down to zero by Sept. 30, 1983.

The state Bureau of Training, which regulates the CETA program in Michigan, has established benchmarks that the consortium is supposed to strive to meet next year.

Of those persons enrolled in CETA programs, 41.1 percent are supposed to be female; 4, black; 2 Indians and Asians; 4.7, Hispanic; 8.2, handicapped, and 4 percent, workers 55 and older.

Lenard said the only guidelines presently not being met are for Hispanics and older workers.

Two plead in fraud charge

A Caro husband and wife have pleaded no contest to a charge of welfare fraud.

Ora and Marlene Keltner, 47 and 44 respectively, of 2045 Mertz Road entered the plea at a pretrial hearing before Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

The judge accepted their pleas and scheduled sentencing Dec. 20.

The Keltners were charged with having fraudulently accepted a total of $3,825 in general assistance from June, 1979, through October, 1980.

In other cases before the judge Monday:

Brenda Hildinger, 18, of 2445 W. Deckerville Road, Caro, was placed on two years' probation for attempted delivery of marijuana Jan. 28, 1981, in Caro. She pleaded guilty to the charge June 7.

Ms. Hildinger was also sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, with serving of 15 of those days deferred until the end of probation. She was credited with two days served.

She was fined $200 and assessed $200 court costs.

Sentencing of Kurt L. Zachman, 17, of 5260 S.

Kingston Road, Kingston, was delayed one year.

He pleaded guilty June 21 to larceny over $100, to stealing four trailer axles with wheels and tires Dec. 12 in Dayton Township. Zachman is to pay restitution and $300 court costs.

A circuit court jury last Thursday found Ervin Schmandt, 58, of Frankmunth, innocent of a charge of driving under the influence of liquor (third offense) Jan. 15 in Vassar.

The trial had begun Tuesday.

Taking stock

A Washington columnist a while ago listed some assuming sayings issued by The Murphy Center for the Codification of Human and Organizational Law.

One of my three readers added her own comments after them, which made the original ones doubly funny.

For her contribution, Jennifer Birdsong is being sent a one-week subscription to this column.

Here they are, with the comments in parentheses:

— An expert is like a eunuch in a harem — someone who knows all about it but can't do anything about it: Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

(The only smart thing he ever said.)

— I'd rather have a bottle in front of me than a pre-frontal lobotomy: Fred Allen.

(I think he did.)

— One can get just as drunk on water . . . as one can on land: Edward Schwab of Ojibwa, Wis.

(Ojibwa? No wonder he said that.)

— If the people don't want to come out, there's no way you're gonna stop them: Yogi Berra.

(That's my boy, Yogi, I wonder where he is now?)

— If it looks too good to be true, it is too good to be true: Howard Chodas of Marquette, Mich.

(Rats!)

— You can get more with a kind word and a gun than you can with a kind word: Prof. Irwin Corey.

(Bang!)

— Lemmings know something we don't: Alvin Quinn of Arlington Heights, Va.

(Don't ask!)

— Things are more like they are now than they have ever been before: Dwight D. Eisenhower.

(THAT'S what confused Hitler.)

— "Be yourself" is about the worst advice you can give some people: Tom Mason, American humorist.

(Especially some people I know.)

— You don't learn anything the second time you're kicked by a mule: Author unknown.

(Obviously, he didn't.)

— Caesar doesn't want Caesar's. Caesar wants God's: Sally Hass of Sleepy Hollow, Ill.

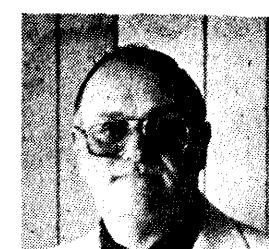

(Huh?)

— And finally, I always drink standing up because it is much easier to sit down when I get drunk sitting up than it is to get standing up when I get drunk sitting down: Ralph Woods, in book, "How to Torture Your Mind."

(He is right — that tortured my mind.)

Lambert E. Althaver, president and chief operating officer of Walbro Corp., has reported consolidated net sales of $10,514,324 for the three-month period which ended June 30.

That compares with $11,331,603 for the same period in 1981. The company posted a net loss for the period of $172,091 compared with net earnings of $125,628 for the second quarter of 1981.

On a per-share basis, the loss for the period was 22 cents, compared with earnings of 16 cents per share for the second quarter of last year.

For the first six months of 1982, Walbro's sales totaled $20,983,727, compared with $22,816,993 for the same period in 1981.

The company lost $400,808 during the period, compared with earnings of $349,967 for the first six months of 1981.

In announcing the second quarter results, Althaver noted that sales of the company's small engine carburetors remain at low levels due to reduced worldwide demand resulting from generally poor economic conditions.

Sales of Walbro's electric fuel pumps have increased substantially with the introduction of its new rotary pump to both the automotive original equipment and aftermarket. However, price concessions given to the automotive industry and continuing start-up costs have combined to reduce earnings levels from these products.

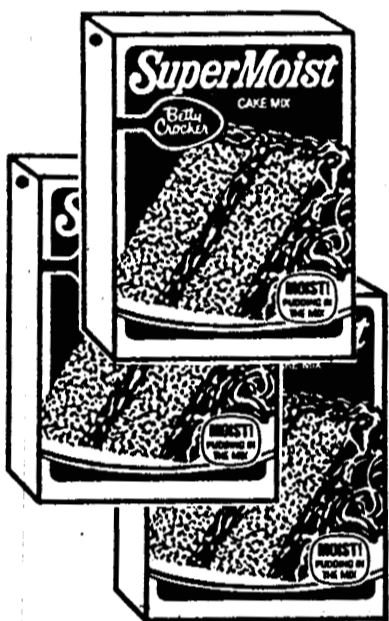

The company's sales of aluminum and magnesium diecastings were down considerably, Althaver noted, due to reduced demand in the automotive and chain saw industries. Sales of plastics parts have been somewhat higher, he said, in anticipation of new model applications within the automotive industry.

"Sales of small engine carburetors are expected to remain at low levels for the remainder of 1982," he said.

"However, sales of all other products of the company are expected to attain higher levels during the second half of the year than were achieved during the same period in 1981, due to new applications and increased demand by the automotive industry."
