

2 doctors earn highest honors in professions

Two Cass City physicians have achieved the highest honors in their professions.

Hoon K. Jeung, MD, a general surgeon, was recently notified that having completed the necessary requirements, he has been designated a fellow in the American College of Surgery.

About two years ago, he became board certified by the American Board of General Surgery.

Jeung completed four years of premedical education and four years of medical school at Korea University. He then interned one year at Yonsei University in Korea before serving as a doctor in the Korean Army for 3½ years, including a year in a mobile surgical hospital in Vietnam.

After coming with his family to the United States, he served a one-year internship and then one year of residency at Mercy Medical Center in Chicago, followed by three years of residency at Saginaw Cooperative Hospitals.

Dr. Jeung opened his practice in Cass City as a "board eligible" surgeon in June, 1976.

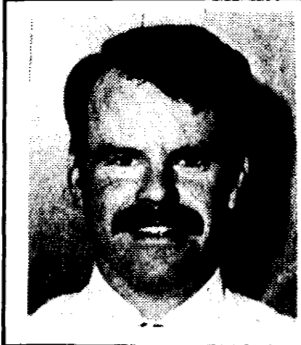

Dr. Sang H. Park, MD, has completed the requirements and been accepted as a fellow in the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, the highest designation possible. He became board certified last November.

He completed four years of premedical education and four years of medical school at Seoul National University in Korea.

Park came with his family to the United States in 1974, where he was an intern for one year in obstetrics and gynecology and then a resident for one year at St. Joseph's Hospital in Towson, Md., followed by three years of residency at Misericordia Hospital in the Bronx, New York.

He began his practice in Cass City in July, 1979, at which point in his career he was "board eligible."

Pedaling Around Sour milk

By Mike Eliasohn

It happens once a year. I can't think of anything to write about for my column. I blame it on the weather. In hot weather, my brain goes limp. (In cold weather, it freezes.)

I actually got so dehydrated Sunday night that I broke down and bought a can of soda pop.

Usually when I get thirsty, other than at meals, I drink water. It is a lot cheaper than soft drinks and doesn't rot my teeth, or whatever it is that soft drinks are supposed to do to one's innards.

Of course, not drinking Coke, Pepsi, Orange Crush, etc., does have a disadvantage. If one is to believe all the soft drink ads on television, if one drinks the stuff, one will automatically attract members of the opposite sex wearing bathing suits.

Ever notice how many soft drink commercials take place at the beach?

Of course, since I never go to the beach -- that way I avoid the possibility of drowning or getting skin cancer from sitting in the sun -- drinking soft drinks wouldn't do much good when it comes to attracting members of the opposite sex.

What I mostly drink is milk. As far as I know, it's healthy and unlike coffee or tea, I don't have to make it.

Speaking of milk, I have a suggestion for the dairy industry to help it get rid of all that surplus milk.

Figure out a way to put it in cans that can be sold in vending machines, which means it would have to be able to stay warm without spoiling until put in the machines.

Since milk is commonly sold in unrefrigerated cartons in Europe, which don't have to be refrigerated until just before use, and is available that way in a few places in this country, the task is not impossible.

What might be more difficult is persuading the vending machine companies to sell milk along with the various soft drinks. After all, the machines can only hold a few varieties.

The whole idea may sound dumb, but look at it this way. When persons are away from home and they get thirsty, unless there is a drinking fountain around, which is rare, they head for a vending machine. There, their only choices are soft drink brands, A, B, C or D.

If one of the choices is milk, certainly some persons are going to buy it.

The next step after that, which is already being examined by the dairy industry, is to persuade more persons to buy milk.

If it takes commercials featuring men and women in bathing suits (hopefully not while milking cows) or the stars of "The Dukes of Hazzard" drinking milk, then it should be done. Of course, all that costs money, which is another problem.

It's easy to criticize advertising, but it obviously works, provided there is good management to take advantage of it.

The fellow I admire is Irv Nusbbaum (the spelling may not be correct). How he manages to sell all that carpet is beyond me. It just doesn't seem like people buy carpet that often. Cars wear out faster than carpets. (His company is named after a state, the capital of which is Albany).

Nusbbaum may be in trouble if he runs out of carpet mills that go out of business to supposedly buy bankrupt stock from.

Of course, buying from him means a round trip of at least 90 miles to the nearest outlet, and that's where your money will go. Better to keep your money in your own town and help keep your neighbors working.

Now to tie this all together, I should write about how to remove milk stains from carpets.

CONCERT FROM SWEDEN -- The Anderstorp Youth Band performed in the Cass City Recreation Park Sunday before a crowd of about 100 people. They are part of the Blue Lakes Fine Arts Camp international exchange program.

Car fire victim likely suicide

Jerry J. Kuzma, 35, of Burton, whose body was found inside a burned car last Thursday near Vassar apparently committed suicide, according to Caro state police.

The car was found in a field almost a quarter mile from Ringle Road by a resident of the area.

State police said an autopsy revealed that Kuzma died from smoke inhalation, apparently after having set fire to his car.

The death remains under investigation, however, and as of Tuesday, Kuzma's late model automobile was still being examined at the state police crime lab at Bridgeport.

APPRECIATION AWARDS -- Bev Langenburg, left, was presented with a Swedish flag. She was instrumental in having the Anderstorp Youth band come to Cass City. George Bushong, band director at Cass City High School was presented with a glass paperweight. Bushong presented the band director, Sven Christiansen, fourth from left, with a wooden plaque from Cass City. The other two gentlemen are unidentified members of the Anderstorp group.

The great artist Michelangelo is known to have painted only one easel picture. He much preferred working in marble.

Two O-G students attend Blue Lake

Kendra Reehl, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reehl of Gagetown, returned home Sunday after spending 12 days at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp at Twin Lakes, near Muskegon.

During her stay, she auditioned with her flute and was placed in the symphony band, which played several concerts, including one for parents and visitors Sunday.

She was one of two Owendale-Gagetown students sponsored by the Owen-Gage Band Boosters. The other was Amy Draschil, who also had a scholarship from Marshall Music.

Kendra chose chapel choir as an elective and participated in the Chapel Hills Catholic mass, at which the choir sang.

Kendra sang "Tomorrow, the theme song from "Annie," in the unit talent show July 20 and was awarded first place.

The following day she participated with the other 12 unit winners in the all-camp talent show in front of an audience of 1,500.

Kendra is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wolschlager Sr. and Mrs. Millie Reehl. She will be starting eighth grade this fall.

Blue Lake is divided into 13 units with five cabins per unit and at least 20 campers per unit.

Amy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Draschil of Owendale, played first flute, seventh chair, in the blue concert band, which also performed a final concert Sunday before the campers returned home.

She will be a ninth grader this fall.

Exchange student Rob Albee reports

Relaxed Australia different from U.S.A.

After 11 months as an exchange student in Australia, Rob Albee would like to teach everyone what it is really like Down Under.

He wants to straighten out all of the pre-conceived ideas Americans have about Australia. And the first thing he will say is there are no kangaroos hopping down the streets of any town anywhere in Australia.

Got it? Now that that is straightened out, he will gladly sit down and tell about his trip.

The Rotary exchange student stayed with seven different host families which ranged from millionaires to plumbers.

Most of his time was spent on the Gold Coast, an area known for its tourist attractions and resort areas, in a town called Kingscliff. It is a holiday village with a population of roughly 3,000.

Some of the major agricultural products grown in the area are bananas, avocados, sugarcane and paw-paws, a tropical fruit also known as papayas.

Because the area is mainly tourist oriented, Albee said the major form of entertainment is the social clubs which everyone goes to. The clubs have slot machines, a lounge and live entertainment. Not only do tourists go there, but the townfolk also go to relax and have a good time.

The tourist industry is very important on the Gold Coast, as indicated by the examples of two towns, Coolangatta and Tweed Heads. They have a combined year-round population of 9,000 people, but during tourist season, the population jumps to 100,000.

THE LIFE-STYLE ON the Gold Coast, though, is not much different than anywhere else in Australia. "They have a different life-style than here in America," Albee said. "It is not overwhelmingly different, but it is different."

"The Australians are more easy-going than Americans are. Here in America, everything is so conservative," he said.

But Australians still look to America as the place to make a success.

In movies, television or music, the Australians are not satisfied until they have been successful in the American market.

Albee said there is a mix of English, American and Australian shows on television. The same is true with movies, but the Australian movie industry has really made some advances in the last few years.

That only applies to the home market though, as he points out that the last time he checked, only one movie from Australia is showing in any of the Detroit area theaters, and that one was one of the most popular films in Australia.

A negative aspect of the influx of American films is that the average Australian knows about the southern California life-style and thinks that is how life is everywhere in America.

THE SCHOOL SYSTEM is run quite a bit different than in the United States.

Australia has a system with 12 years of schooling, but at the end of year 10, 60 percent of the students have quit school to look for jobs or go on to an apprentice school.

There were roughly 200 students in his class at the school he attended while he was there. Only 80 of those original 200 students went on to year 11, the same year Albee was in school. Of those students, only 50-60 will graduate from year 12.

"Year 11 and 12 are like college preparatory years. Students will write many essays and have much more homework than they would have through year 10." "Up to year 10," Albee said, "schooling and the attitude with it is much like in America."

There are six 45-minute classes each day, split up by a recess period and lunch time.

Of the 200 students that began in the class, only about five or six will go on to receive a university education.

SPORTS IN THE schools are different also. Each school has a team of some sort whether it be soccer or rugby or other sport, but they play in the afternoon and only a handful of spectators show up, mainly students.

One major difference in the school system is the use of the caning system.

Teachers still use a flexible stick of some sort to hit a student across the hand if they are bad.

Driving is not taught in the schools like in America. The legal driving age is 17 and students must learn through a private company. Once a student is 16 years and nine months old, he is entitled to get his learner's permit. The driver must also get "L" plates which indicate they are learning how to drive.

When they turn 17 and up to six months after their 17th birthday, a driver must display "P" plates, which stands for provisional.

When they have finally completed their training without making any mistakes or receiving a ticket, they can get their license.

TWO THINGS THAT amazed Albee during his stay were the seafood and the beaches.

Seafood, which included oysters and shrimp, was what he considered the best and the freshest he has ever tasted. That is an opinion shared by many Australians, he said.

The white beaches were also beautiful. No one in Australia can own beach land and anyone can walk on the beaches for miles if they want. The sand is as soft as talcum powder and would make the sand on the beaches of the Great Lakes look like rocks, he said.

The Great Barrier Reef area, another tourist attraction, is just like Hawaii in beauty but without the capitalism and the commercialism. He said it was the best in the world with its white sand and wide surf.

The Australians are known for being friendly people, and that is what Albee would like to remember about his trip.

"The Australians are very easy-going, hospitable people, and that is what I will never forget about this trip," he said.

Rob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Albee, 4859 Spruce Street, and will be a senior at Cass City High School this fall.

Guilty pleas heard in court

Dean M. Keyser of Cass City was sentenced Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court to six months in the county jail for unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

Judge Patrick R. Joslyn credited him with nine days served.

Keyser, 19, of 4118 S. Seeger Street, Lot 17, pleaded guilty to the charge July 6 in connection with the attempted theft May 31 of the car of Eugene Otulakowski at Gene's Motel, M-81, Cass City.

Also Tuesday, Wayne A. Tabar, 33, of 7690 Canboro Road, Owendale, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of liquor (third offense).

His plea was accepted and sentencing was scheduled Dec. 6. He was arrested on the charge May 29 in Denmark Township.

Virgie Eileen Grimshaw, 41, of 2527 Blackmore Road, Mayville, pleaded guilty to conspiracy to receive and conceal stolen property, but the judge refused her plea. A hearing date will be scheduled.

She is charged with possession of watches, jewelry and other items April 20, 1981, taken from a Dayton Township store.

DISTRICT COURT

Cecil B. Jobson, 55, of Cartwright Road, Kingston, pleaded guilty Tuesday to impaired driving.

Judge Richard F. Kern accepted his plea and fined the defendant $118 plus $182 court costs. Jobson was also placed on one year probation and is to attend alcohol education classes and receive counseling, if necessary.

He was arrested on the charge July 2 in Indianfields Township.

BACK FROM DOWN UNDER -- Rob Albee displays some of the souvenirs he acquired during his 11-month stay in Australia as an exchange student. Behind him is the Australian flag. He is holding a boomerang and a sandwich spread called Vegemite which is made from yeast extract. On the table are another boomerang, a change purse made from kangaroo skin, two plastic foam cup coolers, and a miniature koala bear.

Husband seeks damages for wife killed in crash

A Decker man has filed a civil suit in Huron County Court in connection with a traffic accident July 5, 1981, that killed his wife. Lloyd E. Frederick, 59, seeks damages in excess of $20,000. The suit was filed through his Marlette attorney, David W. Hearsch. Wanchai Simon, 18, and Irene Elliot, both of Hazel Park, were named as defendants in the suit. Mrs. Elliot, then 62, was also killed in the crash. The suit charges that Simon was negligent in that he failed to stop and yield the right of way at the intersection of M-53 and Sebe-waing Road. The station wagon, driven by Simon, was travelling east on Sebe-waing Road. It collided at the intersection with the Frederick auto, which was southbound on M-53. The crash killed Mrs. Frederick, then 56. Her husband had been driving. Mrs. Elliot was also liable in the accident the suit charges, because she owned the station wagon and consented to let Simon drive. The suit is seeking in excess of $10,000, with interest, costs and attorney fees on behalf of the estate of Mrs. Frederick. Frederick is also seeking in excess of $10,000 for injuries and impairment he suffered in the crash.

Farm loan questions answered

The Michigan Legislature passed the Beginning Farmer Finance Bill (H.B. 5470) prior to adjourning for the summer recess and Gov. Milliken is expected to sign it soon. The following, provided by the Michigan Farm Bureau, are answers to some frequently-asked questions on the new program:

WHEN WILL THE MONEY BE AVAILABLE? Loan money may be available by next summer. Before then, the Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA) must write rules and bonds must be sold to independent investors nationwide.

Michigan's bond rating has been weakened because of the state's economic problems, making its bonds less attractive to investors. However, the bonds are tax exempt and could attract investment activity. If the bond rating improves, the chance for sale of low interest bonds also improves. If this happens, it is projected that farmers will pay interest rates 3 to 9 percent below prime.

WHO CAN APPLY? The legislation states that anyone with a net worth of $250,000 or less, who resides in Michigan and intends to purchase land and equipment in the state, may apply.

However, the MDA rules will specifically outline applicant qualifications. A loan committee will evaluate each of the applications. An additional requirement is that the farmland must be enrolled in P.A. 116, the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act.

WHEN AND WHERE WILL THE APPLICATIONS BE AVAILABLE? The MDA rules will spell out the distribution of applications. It is anticipated that they will be distributed throughout Michigan after the first of the year.

HOW MUCH CAN BE BORROWED? Young farmers can borrow up to $400,000; $125,000 can be used to buy farm equipment in Michigan. Repayment schedules will be up to 20 years.

Soil saver

A new scientific development promises protection of the soil against wind erosion, prevention of crust formation and improved conditions for seed germination. That could spell good news for farmers and lower food prices for the consumer.

The development is based on a conditioning material, made primarily from industrial wastes. Some 40 percent is based on paper industry effluent. The conditioner, developed by Professor Dan Zaslavsky in Haifa, Israel, makes dust particles adhere to each other for weeks or years, according to the amount that is sprayed on the soil.

Break-in follows vandalism of Cass City school building

On the heels of vandalism at Campbell Elementary School and to three school buses earlier this month, Cass City police last Thursday investigated a break-in at the high school.

The break-in, which took place Wednesday night, was discovered about 7:45 Thursday morning by janitors. Entry was gained, Police Chief Gene Wilson said, by prying open double doors in the rear of the building.

Once inside, the intruder or intruders tried to pry open the doors to the industrial arts classroom and to the office, but were unable to gain entry. They left behind pry marks on the door.

Nothing was missing. Apparently the damage was repairable by janitors, Wilson indicated.

Two skylights at Campbell were broken the night of July 16-17 and a total of four windows on three buses were broken July 14.

Later that day, Bridson reported that the camera kept in his patrol car had been stolen while the car was parked in the fire hall. The car is kept unlocked in case it has to be moved by firemen.

The Kodak 110 Instamatic with built-in flash and case was valued at $45. It had been put in the glove compartment July 8 and discovered missing Wednesday, July 21.

OTHER ITEMS

Jeff Spry, an employee at Cass City Games, 6535 Main Street, told Cass City police a boy had stolen $21 from a bank money bag at the business.

He noticed the money missing immediately after the boy, who had been walking around, had left on a 20-inch wheel black bicycle. The youngster was about 13 years old and had long blonde hair.

The owners of Buds and Blossoms, 6491 Main, Tuesday morning, July 20, found an air filter, air cleaner cover and brake cylinder behind their store.

A check with McMahan Auto Supply next door found the new items hadn't been taken from there, so the police now have the items in storage.

Annette M. Robinson of 6778 Third Street told village police last Thursday that while her car was parked on Seed Street the night of July 20, someone put dents in the hood, removed the right side rear view mirror and scratched the car.

Roger Reid of Caro told Cass City police Sunday morning that while his car was parked overnight behind the Station, 6432 W. Main, several scratches were made on the hood and sides with a sharp object.

Driver found not negligent in crash

One driver involved in a fatal accident was not criminally negligent, Tuscola County Prosecutor Artis Noel has decided, while another has been charged with negligent homicide.

The first is Todd D. Riev-ert, 20, of Sebawaing, driver of the car in a Jan. 31 accident in which one of two passengers, Dale A. Living-ston, 23, of Sebawaing, was killed.

Their car was being driven on Forest Road, north-west of Unionville, when Riev-ert lost control on the icy roadway when he en-tered a curve, sheriff's de-puties reported at the time. The auto went off the road and landed upside down in a ditch.

Riev-ert will not be charged with any criminal offense, Noel explained Tuesday, because investi-gation determined that he was not driving in a negli-gent manner, that is, not speeding, when his car hit the ice and went out of control. Investigation in-cluded questioning the other passenger in the car.

A blood alcohol content test did show Riev-ert had a level of .11, which is above the legal minimum (.10) to be considered intoxicated under state law.

However, Noel continued, to charge or prove a person guilty of driving under the influence of liquor, it must also be established that his drinking affected his driv-ing, in addition to his having the minimum level or more of alcohol in his blood. In this instance, it could not be shown that Riev-ert's drink-ing affected his driving.

Since there was no evi-dence to show the car went out of control due to Riev-ert being negligent, he could not be charged with a criminal offense.

The lengthy delay in de-ciding whether any criminal charge would be brought against him, Noel explained, was due to a delay in receiving the final autopsy report on Livingston and the blood alcohol report on Riev-ert. After they were re-ceived and a decision made, he said he wanted to explain his decision to Livingston's widow before speaking to the press.

That does not apply, how-ever, to Robert M. Edwards, 34, of Owosso, who was charged July 16 with negli-gent homicide in connection with the death June 6 of Steve Gutierrez, 53, of Fair-grove.

Edwards was arraigned Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled a pre-preliminary examination Aug. 2 and a preliminary examination Aug. 13. He was then re-leased on $5,000 personal recognizance bond.

Edwards is charged with failing to stop at a stop sign when he was southbound on Bradleyville Road, west of Fairgrove, and then collid-ing with the car driven by Gutierrez, who was west-bound on M-138.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Hazel Moore of S. Seeger Street received this unusual gift for her 84th birthday July 16, a twisted pine stump from her stepson, Vilas Moore of North Branch. She added the plants and animal figurines.

One brother, Frank, pre-ceeded him in death in 1981. Two sisters, Stella Peters and Cecelia Pearson, died in 1978 and 1979 respectively.

Your Neighbor says

With $1 million, I'd pay the mortgage first

Margaret Bernard of Clarkston became an instant millionairess recently when she won $1 million, paid at the rate of $1,000 a week to her or her heirs, in the Michigan lottery.

What would Virginia Wis-niewski, a lottery player, do if she won $1 million? She would put the money to good use.

"The first thing I would do is pay off the mortgage on our house," she said. "Then I would bank the rest until I needed it for anything else." She said she would pay off her bills as soon as possible and buy herself a new car. "I think I would give most of it to my children as an inheri-tance."

"I would like to pay for a vacation to Poland, not necessarily to visit relatives because I only have distant cousins there, but to see the country."

"Then I would use the money for a vacation for my husband to Samoa." Her husband, Alfred, was sta-tioned there during World War II as part of his 10 years in the Marines.

Mrs. Wisniewski buys lottery tickets, about two per week, and tries to purchase them on Sunday because she "has the best luck on Sun-day." She usually buys instant tickets and the most she has ever won was $5.

Mr. and Mrs. Wisniewski live at 6901 Leslie Road, Ubly. They have three chil-dren. Two daughters, Chris-tine and Deborah, live in Detroit. Their son Lawrence is in the military.

Ag Dept. resumes loan approvals

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will resume ap-proval of loans on farm storage facilities. Loan dis-bursements will begin after Oct. 1. Loans are available for a new facility or to remodel an existing facility, including floor and founda-tion.

Loans will not be available for drying equipment, hand-ling equipment, or bunker-type silos.

Loan approval will be subject to participation in the Acreage Reduction Program. Storage needs will be based on one year's produc-tion of wheat or feed grains on participating farms.

The maximum amount of the loan is 70 percent of the net cost of the structure and may not exceed an aggregate outstanding loan balance of $25,000.

Producers interested in obtaining a loan on a farm storage facility should con-tact their county Agricul-tural Stabilization and Con-servation Service office.

Leonard Schumacher 25th in National Bus Safety Rodeo

Leonard J. Schumacher isn't the national school bus driving champion yet, but he's getting closer.

The driver for the Uby School District placed 25th out of 101 drivers from 42 states in the 12th annual National School Bus Safety Rodeo July 19-20 in Kansas City, Mo.

Schumacher qualified to compete in the national event, sponsored by the National School Transportation Association, by placing third in the state championship rodeo June 12 in Lansing.

Last year, the Wheeler Road, Uby, dairy farmer won the state title and then finished 36th in the national event in Boston.

As state champion last year, the Automobile Club of Michigan paid his expenses to the national meet. This year, he had to pay his own way.

Accompanying Schumacher to Kansas City were his wife, Myrt, and friends Louis and Rosalie Walsh. They went by car.

The competition consisted of a written examination and a driving test. Having competed in the national championship last year, Mrs. Schumacher said, gave her husband the advantage this year of knowing what to expect, so he was more relaxed.

This year's state champion, Joe Ellyn Myers of the Fennville district, only finished about 80th in Kansas City.

Schumacher, who has been driving an Uby school bus for eight years, has participated in bus driving competition five years. He has been the regional champion three straight years.

If he qualifies to compete in the national championships next year, he won't have to drive as far to get there. The 1983 event will be in Cincinnati, Ohio.

New books at the library

EPPIE by Margo Howard (non-fiction). The author is the daughter of Esther Pauline (Eppie) Friedman, known as Ann Landers to devotees of her syndicated advice column. This is really a multiple biography, spiced by the author's tart wit and delivered with the sure hand of a pro. Howard is herself the writer of a syndicated column originating in the Chicago Tribune. The book describes the pampered but unselfish lives of Eppie and her twin Popo (advice purveyor Abigail VanBuren) from their twin careers and intense rivalry. Howard also discloses facts about her own three marriages, about the breakup of Ann Landers' marriage and much more in a lively, immensely readable text.

THEY BROTHER'S WIFE by Andrew M. Greeley (fiction). One of them is a priest, the other a politician. They are two brothers who want the same woman. These three people are desperately trying to live up to their lifetime commitments, and only one does not understand that... somehow... they must pay for their sins.

THE MAN FROM ST. PETERSBURG by Ken Follett (fiction). Mixing the ice of a thriller with the heat of consuming passion, "The Man From St. Petersburg" is the tale of a woman whose deepest secret is about to surface, bringing with it the seeds of terror and anarchy - not only for her, but also for her husband and her daughter and for England. For her love is divided between an assassin and the assassin's victim, between her old lover and the husband she now cherishes.

ates Players in Caro and Sandusky as well as supplying games to places throughout the Thumb. Trend Vendors supplies machines to Cass City Games on a 50-50 commission basis, said Khoury.

HAVING FUN

To the average player of the games, the only thing they are concerned about is the fun they get out of playing.

Jeff Kawecki, 23, works at the Rainbow Arcade in Bad Axe. While at work, he will spend roughly $10 a week on video machines.

"I get a thrill out of shooting things and killing stuff. I get a charge out of seeing things blow up," he said. He likes the space games best, such as Defender or Stargate. In these two games, alien spacecraft, when hit, blow up in a bright array of color on the screen and then disappear from view.

"It is just a game, just something to occupy my time with. I try to beat the machine," he said.

Samr Khoury, 15, said he can do without playing the games if he wants.

"I am not addicted to it. But I am not sure why I like the games," he said. He spends between $5 and $10 a week on games like Berserk and Defender.

The machines have different appeal to different people.

Jim Palmateer, 15, said he likes the 3-D games such as Battlezone and Red Baron best. He spends $2 a week just "on something to do." He gets his money from mowing lawns and plays the games about four times a week.

Many wigs

Queen Elizabeth I of England had more than 80 wigs of different colored hair and more than 3000 gowns.

A 15-year-old who did not want his name used said he played the computer games every day and spends about $1.50 each time.

"A lot of kids play because there is nothing else to do." He said his parents don't like him playing the games because they think it is a waste of time.

Even though he knows they don't like him playing the games, he said he is one of the best among his friends in Donkey Kong.

Likewise, the parents of 12-year-old Jason McCallum do not like him playing the games either.

"My parents don't like the games. They think they are a waste of time." He said he plays the games almost every day, spending about 75 cents each time.

"I play them for the fun of it," McCallum said.

PARENTS

Most parents focus on the waste of money the games can be.

"I don't like it when my kids spend their allowance on those games," said Terri Groombridge. "I don't think there is any damage, but I still try to keep them from going to play."

She has a home video game for her family, but with it she can control the amount of use so she does not mind the children playing.

"I guess what I am doing is associating arcades with the pool halls when I was young, and I don't like the atmosphere."

A mother who did not want her name used said she thinks the games are wasted time and money.

"There must be some good to them, but I don't know what it is," she said. "I don't want my 15-year-old son spending his whole allowance on the games. So far it has not been a problem."

She said she allows her son to go only if he asks and only if she knows how much money he will spend. Sharon Erla thinks the machines are a waste of her children's money.

"The quarters disappear fast. I don't think it is a good habit for kids to get into."

She said she would not give her son any money to spend and the one or two times she let him go to the game room, it is only in the daytime and with his own money.

"There is a different group at night and I don't want him hanging around there."

Most of the younger kids play the games at the game room right after school, according to Khoury. He said an older crowd is at the arcade in the late afternoon and at night. During the school year, the business doesn't open until 3 p.m.

"The reason I started the business is so that there is something for the kids to do. Every kid needs a good time and they can come here not just to play the games, but also to sit down and talk and be with their friends," he said.

CHARMONT

The case is different at the Charmont where there are six video games near the bowling lanes.

"Not too many kids come to use the games here," said owner Clare Comment. "We get more adults playing these games than we do kids. Especially during bowling season."

He said he has received no complaints from customers who do not like the games. "I don't think this is a fad and I don't think it will fade out. Pinball was around 20 years ago and it is still here. There are always new machines to catch the eye."

Comment gets his machines on a 50-50 commission basis from Bannick Music Co. in Bad Axe.

TAKING OVER the controls is Joe Viney as he tries to shoot down biplanes in this game which tests one's abilities to fly an airplane and kill the opponent. Mark House, 15, looks on as he awaits his turn. The image on the screen does not show up due to the flash from the camera.

BOB STICKLE

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR 77TH DISTRICT REPRESENTATIVE

THE TIMES ARE CRITICAL! THE PROBLEMS ARE URGENT!

BOB STICKLE. . .

A man able and prepared to deal with them for you!

If you believe, as I do, that the following critical issues are important, then it is urgent that you send a man to Lansing committed to achieving them.

The man you send must not only be dedicated to them — but also have the years of personal experience, professional knowledge and commitment to make them happen.

During these difficult economic and social times, as your state representative I shall be committed to working to . . .

- Keeping property taxes from increasing
- Reducing the size of state government and streamlining its operations with no further meddling in the private citizen's affairs
- Improving the business climate in Michigan by making a change in the single business tax, and through adjustments in workmen's compensation and unemployment insurance as starters
- Bring Michigan's out-of-control welfare benefits and system in line with neighboring states
- Improving Michigan roads
- Changing the archaic and oppressive present method of financing Michigan's school system.

Trained in political science and economics, as your state representative, I can put more than 30 years of study and practical involvement to work for you. A family man who understands problems, a civic worker who knows the problems of small towns and rural Michigan, a World War II veteran and dedicated instructor and administrator of schools. . . I believe that I can bring new and forward-looking ideas to Michigan's government and can be an understanding, open-minded and committed representative for the many needs of this area.

Your vote for BOB STICKLE on August 10th for 77th District State Representative in the Republican primaries will put a committed and dedicated voice to work for you in Lansing.

FAREWELL — Walbro Chairman Walter E. Walpole congratulates Virginia Heronemus at the Friday picnic lunch on her pending retirement after 26 years with the company.

Retires from Walbro Mrs. Heronemus feted for 26 years on job

When Virginia Heronemus first applied for a job at Walbro, she wasn't sure she would like it. But after 26 years of employment at three of its plants in Cass City, it is apparent she liked it. This Thursday will be her last day on the job. Her first was May 23, 1956. Since January, 1965, her job has been as a final inspector of assembled carburetors. Mrs. Heronemus, 62, was guest of honor at a company picnic last Friday noon outside the Garfield Street plant and headquarters. After a farewell from Walbro Chairman of the Board W.E. Walpole, she told her fellow workers about how she applied for work there when her husband was laid off from General Motors. Having never worked in a factory before, she figured she would quit if she didn't like the job. "So I guess it wasn't that bad." Her husband, Norman, now retired from GM, was present at the picnic. Also there was their daughter, Sharon Zielesch of Lapeer and her two sons, Adam and Chad. Mr. and Mrs. Heronemus, who live on Downington Road, Decker, have one other child, Gerald, of Cass City, a total of eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Asked by the Chronicle why she decided to retire, Mrs. Heronemus replied, "because I'm old enough to retire and young enough to enjoy it."

Not having to go to work will leave her more time to pursue two activities she enjoys, quilting and baking, she said, to get caught up on a lot of things she didn't have time to do during the past 26 years. Her husband has been telling her she has to learn how to fish. She may be learning in Florida, as that is where Mr. and Mrs. Heronemus plan to spend this coming winter.

Richard Dehmel
has experience in GOVERNMENT

RICHARD DEHMEI is DIRECTLY INVOLVED IN GOVERNMENT. While other candidates say they have "observed", RICHARD DEHMEI IS PART OF GOVERNMENT. He has been a member of the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners for 4 years, a member of the Columbia Township Board, and has worked on key committees as finance, personnel and equalization at county level. He is the chairman of Tuscola County Planning Commission, he is vice-chairman of the Tuscola County Economic Development Board. He represented Tuscola County on ECM-PDR Commission. He is today a member of the Greater Saginaw Bay Fishing Consortium, which will probably have more involvement in the development and promotion of sport fishing in Saginaw Bay than any other single outside body. He is a member of the Human Development Commission, serving the Thumb. RICHARD DEHMEI is much more than an "observer" - he is a "do-er", and he is active today. Still doing for the people of the Thumb. He will DO it for them, too, in Lansing, as State Representative of the 77th District.

The Candidate Who Can and Will - Do the Job

An Open Letter To All Democrats

Throughout our proud history the Democratic Party has been the party of diversity. Our membership has included farmers, students, homemakers, factory workers, businesspeople both big and small, doctors, lawyers and even Indian Chiefs. We've welcomed differences among ourselves because we realize that these differences are the heart of our Democratic Party and our nation's democracy.

But now there are some who would change our party. They demand that all Democrats think and act as they do, without any concern for the common good.

Because Jim Barcia has refused to put the interests of this small group of Lansing lobbyists ahead of your best interests these narrow-minded lobbyists have set out to defeat Jim and rob you of an independent effective voice in the Legislature.

If you believe, as Jim does, that the Democratic Party belongs to all of us and not just to lobbyists in Lansing then now is the time to act.

Help keep Michigan's Democratic Party democratic. Cast your vote for Jim Barcia for State Senator in the August 10th Democratic primary.

1882-1982 — Our 100th Year

By Bill Myers

Taking stock

My mother had a word for a miserable sort of day, one that was cold and drizzly and dark: Chizzly.

It was a common term in Ontario, where her family had come from. It was even more appropriate in that cheerless period from November to April in Michigan.

Hornswoggle was another word I don't hear in the South. It means to defraud.

Out West preachers are often referred to as sky-pilots.

Professor Frederick Casidy has been working on his "Dictionary of American Regional English" since 1965. He has come up with some dandies in the course of this project, which is due to be completed in 1989.

He started the dictionary by hiring five students, equipping them with camper vans and vectoring them to different areas of the United States. The results of this research plus years of additional toil by Professor Casidy and his staff is told in the April issue of Smithsonian magazine.

His staff would seek the answers to such questions as:

"What is the word for soft rolls of dust that collect on the floor under beds or other furniture?"

A. Bunny-tails, house moss, woolies, rats, moots, dust kittens, dufflewuzz, collywobbles (and 168 more terms).

Each interview consisted of 1,847 questions like the above, and this one:

Q. What other names do you have around here for jack-in-the-pulpit? (That wild flower of the orchid family.)

A. Devil's ears, dragon roots, pepper turnip, swamp cherries, memory roots, preacher jacks, bog onions (and 35 more).

By this time I know that the ears of Stan Goodman, the word-merchant of the Boca Raton News, have perked up. He loves this sort of thing.

Another example:

Q. Names and nicknames for a rustic or country-fied person.

A. Apple-knocker, clod-hopper, country jake, hayseed, mossback, pumpkin husker, rail-splitter, stump-farmer, swamp angel, goober-grabber (and 342 more).

The interview would sometimes take a week. Usually the elderly were the best source of definitions. Often the neighbors would be called in to help, as when Question No. 1486 was asked:

"The table was nice and straight until he came along and knocked it . . ."

A. Antigodlin, catawampus, cranksided, whopper-jawed, skew-gee (and 186 more).

One of the editors was stumped once when the term "a fade barn" came in from the field staff. She sought help through a newspaper. Replies swamped her; all boiled down to the same thing:

"A fadebarn," wrote a man from Southern Pines, N.C., "is whar you stow fade for the livestock."

This called to mind the time that Eric Shopton, a great explorer from England, put me on.

"Bill," he said. "What's the real name of that animal in America you improperly call the buffalo?"

"A bison," I said, proud of myself.

"No, it isn't," said Eric. "A bison is what an Australian washes his face in."

Owendale teen charged

An Owendale youth charged last January in connection with a breaking and entering at the Owendale Market Dec. 17, was arraigned Friday before Huron District Judge John T. Schubel in Bad Axe.

Rolla M. Kretschmer, 17, waived preliminary examination on the charge and is scheduled to appear in Circuit Court Friday.

Kretschmer, formerly of Brown Road, Owendale, voluntarily surrendered to local authorities. At the time the warrant was issued, Huron County Sheriff's deputies believed Kretschmer had left the state.

An accomplice in the break-in, Alain K. Mosack, 17, of Sebewaing Road, Owendale, pleaded guilty Jan. 14 in Huron County Circuit Court. He was sentenced to 120 days in the county jail and two years' probation. He was also fined a total of $702.

The two took a .357-caliber revolver (later recovered), $400 in cash, nearly 20 cases of beer, 14 gallons of milk, about 30 cartons of cigarettes, 25-30 cigarette lighters and an undetermined amount of pre-packaged pizza and hot sandwiches, Duane Moore of Cass City, the owner of the market, told deputies after the break-in. The market is located at 7338 Main Street.

Injured motorcycle rider seeks own treatment after accident

An Attica motorcycle rider sought his own treatment after an 11:30 a.m. accident Saturday, south-east of Kingston.

Sheriff's deputies said William C. Warpup, 21, was southbound on White Creek Road and when he braked to avoid a collision with a car eastbound on Center Line Road, his motorcycle went on its side and slid through the intersection.

The driver of the car, Robert J. Patrick, 18, of 4975 White Creek Road, Kingston, told officers her vision was obscured by a bush at the northwest corner and didn't see the approaching motorcycle until the last moment. When she did see it, she accelerated across the intersection in an attempt to get out of the way.

Similar circumstances resulted in an accident at 8:30 p.m. last Wednesday.

Deputies reported Linda Kay McAlpine, 19, of 6943 Cemetery Road, Cass City, was eastbound on Milligan Road, didn't see the car approaching on Greenland Road, and the vehicles collided.

Driver of the other car, which was northbound, was Lester J. Auten, 20, of 7110 Greenland Road, Cass City.

Patrick D. Weidman, 25, of 2325 Huron Line Road, Ubyly, was ticketed by deputies on a charge of violation of the basic speed law after an 11:20 p.m. accident Sunday.

Officers said he was westbound on Kelly Road, east of Dodge Road, and approached a curve too fast. He lost control of the car, the rear end swung around and the auto went into the ditch.

Caro state police reported that Roland W. Cahoon, 58, of Dunedin, Fla., was westbound on M-46, east of Phillips Road, at 10:10 p.m. Monday when his car collided with a deer.

Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie reported that local paving contractor Jack Stahlbaum and Sons will be doing the street repairs the council approved last month.

Cost will be about $18,000, versus the original estimate of $17,450. The only other contractor contacted, Frank Strausberg and Son of Oakley -- which will be selling Stahlbaum the asphalt -- had bid $22,000.

LaPonsie said Stahlbaum will probably start next week, depending on when the asphalt is available, and take 1-2 weeks to do the job.

Council members discussed with Alan Kleo of Harris-Hampshire Agency an insurance policy to cover all accidental failures of village mechanical equipment, mainly at the sewage plant. (Vehicles aren't included.)

For an annual premium of $3,904, with a $1,000 deductible, the policy would cover losses of up to $2 million per occurrence.

Kleo was asked to see if he could come up with a higher deductible and a lower maximum loss covered in order to lower the premium.

Having decided in June to buy the Bauman property on Main Street by the park, the council authorized soliciting bids for sale of the house and 16-by-20-foot storage building on the property.

Both are to be removed and whoever buys the house will have to remove everything from the basement (furnace, etc.), have the top two feet of the walls of the basement knocked over and the basement floor broken up to allow drainage and have the hole filled in.

Bids will be open at the Aug. 31 meeting.

Walbro develops fuel filter

A high-capacity in-tank fuel pick-up filter with a dual fuel filtration system for use in chain saws and similar applications of up to 80cc engine displacement has been developed by the Carburetor Group of Walbro Corp.

Walbro's new filter incorporates a wool felt primary filter element and a woven stainless steel screen in order to provide the most efficient filtering possible.

Easily disassembled for quick cleaning or replacement of parts, the filter is resistant to most chemicals, stale gasoline, city water and 30 percent methyl alcohol.

The new filter weighs a half-ounce and is designed for use with eighth-inch inside diameter fuel line.

There is also a smaller version for engines of up to 30cc displacement.
