

Cheese giveaway attracts hundreds

FREE CHEESE -- Distribution of government surplus cheese by the Human Development Commission attracted a long line of persons to the Elkland Township fire hall last Thursday morning. There were 3,250 five-pound boxes given away. The supply ran out with four or five persons still in line. Recipients had to be receiving public assistance, receiving HDC services or otherwise meet federal poverty income guidelines. Each box of cheese was worth about $10.

Recall, bus hassles draws big crowd to school meeting

CHEESE DISTRIBUTION -- With some persons waiting in line for well over an hour, a chair came in handy. Passing out the cheese are Mike Stec (left) a Human Development Commission employee, and fireman Danny Gee. Elkland Township fire fighters assisted the HDC in the distribution. Persons getting more than one five-pound box had five or more members in their family or were also picking up a box for someone eligible who was unable to come.

Monday before the largest crowd in history for a regular meeting of the Cass City School Board, the school's financial picture was reviewed again.

The estimated 300 spectators appeared about evenly divided among those concerned only with the lack of busing and those concerned with the quality of the complete educational package.

Some of the interest was generated by recall petitions being circulated. Persons against the recall were at the meeting in a show of strength for the three board members that a group, led by Vic Beddow, wants to recall.

Letters were read from two members of the district. Two were received from Mrs. Shirley Beddow. She requested that the board supply within 10 days a complete breakdown of the costs of transportation, drivers' salaries, unit costs and other information related to transportation.

Mrs. Enid Craig, bookkeeper, told Mrs. Beddow that all of that information is available now at the school office.

The trouble is, she said, no one has ever come to my office to get the facts.

The second request by Mrs. Beddow was for a written breakdown of the superintendent's salary and fringes.

That information was presented in a fact sheet distributed at the door of the meeting. It showed that Crouse will receive $42,287 which is lower than all area similar sized districts with the exception of Martlette.

A letter written by Mrs. Delores Garety requested that an advisory committee be appointed and that communication with community be increased.

The board voted to form a committee with representation from groups with varying school interests.

In charge of organizing the committee will be Geraldine Prieskorn, Dick Albee and Thresa Burnette.

Another request was to have Dr. Bruce Dunn, Tuscola Intermediate School Superintendent, talk about the Cass City school situation.

Dunn attended and confirmed information released by local officials, saying that Cass City had the lowest operating cost per student and a tax mill rate that was also the lowest in the county. He reported that the district had lost $252,294.86 in State Aid and that transportation costs reimbursed by the State amounted to 31.9 percent of the cost of running buses.

Before these developments the report of the school auditors was heard. It indicated that the financial condition of the school was as presented, but recommended that a fixed assets group of accounts be established.

The representative from Laine, Appold & Co. said that the books were in accordance with school law, but accountants had established that the assets should be listed.

It was explained that an inventory of all assets was maintained for insurance purposes and the safeguards against fraudulent purchases outlined.

There was good news for district taxpayers in the report. The district ended the year with a little over $100,000 more than projected, equal to about one mill in taxes in the district.

While there was less spent than expected, the district still spent some $13,500.10 more than it received, Supt. Don Crouse explained.

Principal savings were earned in the transportation department where the purchase of two buses was deferred at a cost of some $50,000, a reduction in the cost of gas and reduced supply purchases enabled the district to save the money.

Several spectators asked about limited transportation in the winter months. Crouse said that it would be impossible to tell when and for how long buses could run because the amount of money coming from state aid has yet to be determined.

He also said that a decision would have to be reached as to how long buses should be operated. The state allows depreciation for seven years and that was the schedule the school followed before the money crunch. Since there are 21 buses that means three buses should be purchased each year. A bus costs about $25,000.

Deferring the purchase last year means that two of the buses this year will be 8 years old if and when transportation starts again.

Fall sports set

Board ponders new bid policy

Besides the crucial question of school finances, a full load of regular business faced the Cass City School Board Monday night at the high school.

Athletic Director Roland Pakonen presented a breakdown of the costs of running fall sports programs and the money furnished by booster groups to pay for them.

Money has been secured for football, girls' varsity basketball, boys' and girls' cross country and varsity cheerleading. A drive is underway to secure money for junior high girls' basketball but the program hasn't started yet because the money has not been received by the school.

There has been no funding for golf, junior varsity basketball, junior varsity cheerleading, band and several other extracurricular activities.

BID PROCEDURE

A question about bid policy was sparked again by insurance bids received. Bus insurance bids received included one by Farm Bureau for $3,016.00 and another by Harris-Hampshire for $3,022.76, the two lowest from among four bids received.

Since Harris-Hampshire is local and Farm Bureau is not, the question of whether to take the low bid or one $6.76 higher from a local concern was debated.

In the past the board has always accepted the low qualified bid on the assumption that if it didn't bid from out-of-district concerns might dry up if they were not accepted when low. Taking the low bid, according to supporters, also is making the best use of taxpayers' money.

Dick Albee said that he was for scrapping that policy and giving more consideration to local concerns that pay taxes in the district and help keep the schools operating.

That issue will be discussed again at a future board meeting. Because it was possible that liability insurance for the buses, if they start operating, would be considerably lower with Farm Bureau the board voted the contract to Farm Bureau.

In another insurance squabble, Bob Ashman appeared before the board because Lawrence Insurance was awarded an insurance policy for three years for $14,227 a year for multi-peril and liability.

Monday Ashman told the board that the carrier, I.N.A., would not issue the insurance for the amount that the agency had bid.

He said that a deep fat fryer without a sprinkler was one reason for the increase. Cancellation at this time would increase the cost to the school so the board voted to pay the increased cost for 14 months and then rebid the insurance.

The motion passed, 6-1, with Ben Hobart voting no. Please turn to page 18.

Money outlook brightens for Owen-Gage schools

The Owendale-Gagetown School District may be approaching the light at the end of the tunnel, but before it reaches financial stability, there could be a few bends in the tunnel.

The school board Monday evening was presented with the audit of its fiscal year which ended June 30, which depending on how the Michigan Supreme Court rules, means the district finished the fiscal year with a general fund balance of $131,433 or a deficit of $292,362.

The good news is that, provided the district watches its pennies, even the deficit is surmountable.

Later in the meeting, the board debated whether it could afford to make some expenditures for textbooks and other items.

The audit was presented by Mark Janke of the certified public accounting firm of Laine, Appold and Co. of Bay City.

The general fund budget showed the district with a surplus as of June 30 of $131,433, compared to a deficit a year earlier of $81,973.

The big reason for the change is revenue, due to voters having approved millage increases last year totaling 5.25 mills.

The result was total property tax revenue of $1,064,516, compared to $790,815 the year before. Total general fund expenditures of $1,052 million were $12,380 less than the year before.

The potential deficit involves the taxes from the Goslin territory, which the Michigan Supreme Court ruled in March was legally transferred to the Cass City district in 1976.

Owen-Gage is appealing the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners' decision in February, 1979, that 1978 and 1979 tax levies in the Goslin territory belonged to the Cass City district.

Both the Tuscola County Circuit Court and the Michigan Court of Appeals, which made its decision recently, ruled the county board acted properly, so the district is now appealing to the Supreme Court.

Owen-Gage and its attorney, James F. Schouman of Dearborn, contend it is due all taxes from Goslin until the state Supreme Court's ruling this year.

It is presumed the (Supreme Court) decision covering the 1978 levy will also be applicable to the 1979, 1980 and 1981 levies," the auditors noted.

The general fund revenue from the years in question from Goslin total $423,795 and for the 1976 debt retirement fund, $57,925. Because the money is still in litigation, the auditors included it as part of the district's assets.

Should the Supreme Court rule against Owen-Gage, that money wouldn't be counted, which would mean that instead of a $131,433 general fund surplus, there would be a $292,362 deficit. The 1976 debt retirement fund would be reduced to $84,340 surplus, which isn't a problem, according to Janke.

The general fund deficit, if there is one, also may not be a problem. It was because the potential existed for it that voters approved a three mill levy for three years last November, designed to get the district out of hock. In June of last year, they approved a 2 1/4-mill hike.

Is the three mills enough to get Owen-Gage out of deficit by the end of the three years? Supt. Ronald Erickson asked Janke Monday.

State police stakeout results in arson arrest

The string of apparently deliberately set fires in the Lamotte-Evergreen-Kings-ton Township area during the past month culminated in the arrest early Saturday of a Decker man charged with arson in the last two fires.

The investigation and surveillance that led to the arrest of Ernest Stadlberger, 19, of 6280 Moriarty Road, was primarily the work of the state police Arson Strike Force, based in Flint.

Stadlberger is charged with attempted arson of real property in connection with the burning last Thursday of the barn of Edwin Peters at Deckerville and Decker Roads in Evergreen Township and arson of personal property over $50 in the burning Saturday of a wagon loaded with straw that belonged to Steve Innes. The wagon was parked close to M-53, north of M-46 in Lamotte Township.

He was arraigned Monday in Sanilac County District Court, where he waived examination and was bound over to circuit court. Bond was set at $2,500, which has been posted.

Warrants were issued by the Sanilac County prosecutor's office Monday.

According to Detective Dan Miller of the Caro state police post, investigation is continuing to determine Stadlberger's possible involvement in some of the other fires.

He became a suspect, the detective explained, after a tip was received from a citizen regarding another individual, which then led to Stadlberger.

Most of the investigation was conducted by an Arson Strike Force detective, which led to a surveillance team being in the area in unmarked cars early Saturday. More than one car was involved, but Miller didn't want to say how many.

Officers struck paydirt when they observed the Innes wagon being set on fire, but the arsonist got away.

However, it was known the suspect frequented two places in Kings-ton so those were also being watched.

Stadlberger was arrested by Caro and Sandusky state troopers as he came out of a Kings-ton bar at 2:10 a.m.

The hay wagon fire, reported at 1:14 a.m., was extinguished by Lamotte Township firemen. Fire Chief Art West said it and the bales on it were valued at a total of $1,000.

The fire at the Edwin Peters barn was reported at 5:24 a.m. and was extinguished by Moore Township firemen. They returned to the fire station at 6:52.

Peters told the Chronicle he was told of the fire by state police, who knocked on his door. He assumed they had been on patrol and spotted the fire. "By the time I got out of bed, it was getting a pretty good start," he said.

Destroyed in the blaze were 700 bales of straw that belonged to Alan Rogers Jr., three tons of hay and straw

ARSON FIRE -- Ernest Stadlberger has been charged with attempted arson of real property in connection with the fire that destroyed the barn of Edwin Peters early last Thursday. The foundation and twisted corrugated sheets of steel were all that was left.

Chesaning, which played football in Cass City, is a throw-back to the old days. Not only did the Indians come in a school bus, but two busloads of fans also made the trip to see their team.

Not even when the money was available and Cass City had championship teams was their enough interest to run a student bus to most games.

There probably were warmer days this summer than last Sunday's, but none was more enjoyable.

A day like that on Sept. 12 is a real bonus. What's better than an 85-degree day with nights just right for sleeping? If you were out Sunday, you'd have trouble believing that the trees in northern Michigan are already well into their fall colors.

You are never too old. Dave Lovejoy, community education director, reports that the largest number of students in history are enrolled in high school completion courses.

We've got students from 18 to 74 enrolled, Lovejoy said, obviously pleased with the program's progress this season.

The high school completion program through state aid pays the freight for the program and the enrollment assures that the instruction will not add a nickel to the local tax bills.

The photo of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Frutchey and their car, taken in 1908, which appeared in the Sept. 2 Chronicle, revived some memories for Eliza Russell of Fairgrove. She remembers riding in the car when she was six or seven years old and living southwest of Cass City.

She also remembers her friend with her wouldn't get in it. They were walking home two miles from Quick School and Frutchey, headed for her parents' home, offered to give them a ride.

It was the first time the two girls had ever seen a car.

County board likely to ok full millage

The way was cleared last Thursday for the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners to levy the county's authorized 4.2 mills for operations and .2 mill for senior citizens activities.

The board's truth in taxation hearing, required by a new state law before it could levy the full authorized millages, attracted about 20 persons, none of whom specifically objected to its taking such action, according to Commissioner Royce Russell of Cass City.

One person did object, however, to increasing assessments resulting in higher taxes.

Without Thursday's hearing, state law would have required the board to roll back the two levies so that there would be no revenue gain due to increases in valuation.

The 4.2 mills would have had to be rolled back to 3.6987 mills, which would have meant $316,062 less revenue to the county. The levy for senior citizens programs would have to be rolled back .02 mill, which would mean $15,005 less revenue.

Commissioner Ken Kennedy, chairman of the board's finance committee, explained the added revenue is needed for various reasons, partly to compensate for reduced revenue from the county's share of declining state sales and income taxes and a drop in interest paid on the county's deposited funds, plus required county paybacks to the state.

Expenses next year may increase due to inflation, pending contract negotiations with county employees and a new communications system for the sheriff's department.

Kennedy pointed out there was a potential $277,000 additional in county taxes that wasn't assessed from 1978-82.

Most of the persons present at the hearing were senior citizens who asked that the .2 mill for Thumb Area Commission on Aging programs in the county not be reduced.

The board will conduct a special meeting this Thursday — the new state law also requires a seven-day waiting period — to levy the full amounts of the millages, which will appear on December tax bills.

Cranberries will keep for 4 to 8 weeks in your refrigerator. Or you can freeze them with no preparation.

Elkland board to appoint new clerk

The Elkland Township Board Monday evening accepted the resignation of Clerk Carol Ware, effective Nov. 4.

Also resigning was her husband, Ferris, the deputy clerk, whose resignation was effective immediately.

The Wares are moving to Indiana, where Ferris Ware, a Walbro executive, has accepted a position with another company.

The township board will be appointing replacements at a special meeting, probably within two weeks, in order to give the persons appointed time to work with Mrs. Ware. The person appointed clerk will serve the remaining two years of her term.

As of Tuesday, she said four persons had already expressed interest in being appointed to her or other board members. The job pays $5,000 annually.

Mrs. Ware has been clerk six years and was deputy clerk for six years before that, having switched with her husband, who was clerk six years before being the deputy.

Also Monday, the board approved ditching and culvert work along one mile of Wisie Road between Koepfgen and Cemetery Roads, at a cost of $5,600. The Tuscola County Road Commission may do the work yet this year.

The board gave its consent to a Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) agreement for four parcels in Sections 3 and 4 owned by Shirley Doerr totaling 279 acres.

"If It Fitz..."

Reading the signs

By Jim Fitzgerald

The language of love requires no words. That's what the husband keeps telling himself as he remains ever alert for signs signaled by the wife. Often he misses the signs, or misreads them, and sometimes, when his mood reflects the dark side of the moon, he thinks if she really loved him, she would speak to him.

He owns two pairs of bedroom slippers, both Christmas gifts. He never wears one pair because they are slippery and have almost no backs on the heels and won't stay on his feet. The other pair he wears everywhere within a two-mile radius of the bedroom because they are soft, full-shoe slippers with a fuzzy lining that is pleasing to his toes.

He keeps both pairs of slippers under his side of the bed. He always slides the slippery slippers back against the wall at the head of the bed, behind the night table, where they can't be reached unless the reacher assumes the prone position and stretches mightily. He always puts the soft, toe-pleasing slippers under the part of the bed where his feet land when he begins to get out of the bed in the morning, and where he sits in the evening when he returns home from work to shed the burdens of the marketplace and the laced, wingtip shoes his daughters can't believe he is still wearing in 1982.

But lately when he reaches down and under for the soft slippers, he grabs the slippery slippers. To reach the soft slippers he must sprawl and stretch. Who is switching the locations of his slippers, and why? Have the dust balls under the bed been somehow energized into angry poltergeists? Is the wife doing it to drive him crazy so she can have him committed to an asylum and thereby gain control of his stuffed leather chair with the great footstool?

He asked her. She said she was switching the slippers as a sign to him that the soft slippers were all scuffed up and the slippery slippers looked much better on him, especially in the grocery store. As a reasonable man, he couldn't help wondering why she hadn't simply told him that, instead of sending signs, and saved him the sleep he lost because of nightmares about being attacked from below by angry dust balls.

And then there was the evening he was resting in his stuffed leather chair and, without saying a word, she held a full-size grocery bag under his nose. Why was she doing that? The bag was open and half-full. He looked inside and saw trash. "That's nice-looking trash," he said.

She shook the bag. What sign was she giving him?

She pointed, and he finally got the message. Beside his chair is a small trash basket into which he regularly drops Snickers wrappers and mail from his congressman. She wanted him to empty his basket into her bag. Why didn't she simply say so?

"Why else would I put a bag of trash under your nose while you're sitting next to a trash basket?" she asked. He had no idea.

There was one sign he didn't ask her to translate into words until after they'd been married 27 years. He was afraid to. He'd seen this sign regularly in every home they'd lived in. It was a long-handled brush sticking horizontally out of a toilet, with the bristles just above the water and the handle held securely between the lowered seat and the bowl.

He figured she was telling him to scrub the toilet. But he gave up scrubbing toilets when he got out of the Army, so he always acted as though he never saw the brush. He used another bathroom, even when he had to go to the Mobil station on the corner.

But lately, under the influence of women's lib, he began to feel guilty. He didn't want anyone to think he married her to clean his toilets, even though she married him to change her tires. So he apologized for ignoring her sign of the protruding brush. And she said she didn't want him to scrub the toilet, she was simply letting the brush drain.

In the language of love, reading signs correctly means never having to run to a gas station.

Editor Mike Eliasohn and this writer have a friendly argument going these days.

Mike says that he feels that Vic Beddow and company will be able to get 818 signatures on petitions for an election to recall Geraldine Frieskorn, Dr. Ed Scolon and Ben Hobart. I say he won't.

What influences Mike is the number of recalls that have occurred in other school districts. If it happens in Beaverton, for instance, why not Cass City? After all Beaverton is a small, close knit community, too.

Cadillac and Alpena also recalled board members successfully.

Where Cass City differs from Alpena, for instance, is that Alpena was able to cut programs and restore bus-ing without increasing taxes.

Cass City has ALREADY cut those services that Alpena eliminated to restore buses and still hasn't enough money to provide bus service.

Because the school, under Supt. Don Crouse, has always watched expenses closely is the reason why Cass City has always operated on a cost per pupil at or near the lowest in the state.

That's why it's hard for me to believe that the petition drive will be successful.

This is being written on Friday and it may be that before it is published, the petitions will be signed and delivered to the county clerk.

The recall workers have been out pounding on doors since last Wednesday.

If 818 or more registered voters do sign the petition it will be because they are striking out blindly at a crisis school situation. There's no logical reason for recalling the board members. It won't restore any more buses than will be restored anyway and it won't change the financial picture at the school.

The real way out of the current dilemma that is polarizing the school district is to pass the four mills Sept. 27.

Given the record, that has to be considered a long shot. If taxpayers feel that the four mills is just too much to pay regardless of the need, we have to live with it.

Recalling three board members for no valid reason is another story. This writer feels that a sense of fairness will prevail and that the recall drive will probably not get the required signatures and if it does, will be defeated handily at the polls.

It will be a sad day for the community if it isn't.

HEALTH TIPS

BPD danger for premature infants

The baby was premature and experienced respiratory problems in the first few days after birth.

Oxygen therapy and good nursing care helped to save his life, but his bewildered parents soon learned that he'd have to stay in the hospital for a while because of bronchopulmonary dysplasia (BPD).

BPD is a disease that develops in premature infants — most often those born in under eight months — who have respiratory distress syndrome (RDS). These babies frequently need oxygen and respirators to assist their breathing, prevent brain damage, and save their lives.

The oxygen these premature babies need can be toxic to their lungs, however, and if they must use a respirator, the danger of BPD is increased.

BPD is diagnosed by X-raying the baby's chest while he or she is recovering from RDS. Once BPD has been diagnosed, there is no special or speedy cure. Normally, the baby's lungs will repair themselves over time, but the child will require long-term hospitalization.

Parents of BPD babies are advised to be patient, loving and careful while their babies are still hospitalized, and even more careful of their babies' overall health after the infant is discharged.

The American Lung Association is trying to help parents of infants suffering from BPD understand both the disease and what they can do.

For more information and a copy of "If Your Baby Has BPD: A Guide for Parents," call the American Lung Association of Michigan toll-free at 1-800-292-5979.

Pedaling Around

Penny pinching

By Mike Eliasohn

For many Congressmen, much defense spending is wasteful unless it is in their district. Anything in their district is vital to our nation's defense.

I remember several years ago when Bob Carr was running for U.S. representative from the Lansing area. He was opposed to big defense spending, but when Reo had a chance to land a big contract to build Army trucks, he was all for it.

As I recall, Reo did get the contract and built the trucks. Unfortunately, it wasn't enough to save the company from going out of business.

Sen. Don Riegle of Michigan, whose wife and mother were in Cass City last Wednesday, is opposed to the proposed MX missile system.

If it were going to be built in Michigan, I'm sure he wouldn't be opposed.

Then there is President Reagan, who doesn't seem opposed to any defense spending.

Unfortunately, his philosophy may hurt the nation's economic recovery and may not strengthen our nation's defenses as much as he and his supporters would have us believe.

That is the opinion of Murray L. Weidenbaum, who until a few weeks ago was chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

He said in an Associated Press interview released after his departure that efforts to control government spending and avoid "horrendous deficits" were doomed by an unprecedented increase in military spending.

"On balance, we really haven't cut the budget," he said. Instead, reductions in non-military programs have been offset by the increase in the defense budget.

"When you add that to the big big tax cuts, you get such horrendous deficits," the economist stated.

"What worries me (about the defense buildup) is that these crash efforts rarely increase national security. They strain resources, create bottlenecks."

Of course, not all agree. Former Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said Weidenbaum was "just plain wrong."

In a television interview, he said Soviet military power grew over 15-20 years, that, "It's going to take the United States a good period of time to recalibrate that shift that took place, if we want to have a stable and peaceful world."

"Anyone who says it's the defense budget that's causing the economic problems in this country... just doesn't know anything about economics."

The Office of Management and Budget estimates non-defense spending in 1982 and 1983 will be reduced by $46 billion, but defense spending during the same period will rise almost $45 billion.

Reagan's long range program calls for spending about $1.6 trillion between 1982 and 1987 for the military.

The share of the total federal budget devoted to defense, if Reagan's desires are carried out, would rise from about 24 percent in 1981 to 36 percent in 1987.

The two sides of the argument were illustrated last week when Congress overwhelmingly overrode President Reagan's veto of a $14.2 billion spending bill.

The President said the action was a victory for the "budget busters." In actuality, the bill included $918 million more for domestic programs than he wanted, but cut defense spending by $2.1 billion from what he wanted.

Thus if the President had his way, we would be spending almost $15.4 billion instead of $14.2 billion.

One of Reagan's solutions to our economic woes is a constitutional amendment to require a balanced budget.

That's the same President under whom the fiscal year 1981-82 deficit is expected to be a record $109 billion and the 1982-83 deficit is expected to be $115-150 billion. So much for logic.

He pleaded guilty to the charge Aug. 2. He was credited with 16 days served. Vocational training and psychological counseling were recommended.

District Judge Richard F. Kern Monday granted a prosecution motion for no prosecution against Larry J. Thane, 34, of 6342 Decker-ville Road, Deford, because he committed no criminal violations during the past year.

50-year graduates reunite

The Cass City High School Class of 1932 celebrated its 50-year reunion Saturday evening with 35 graduates attending, plus two who moved shortly before graduating.

The gathering was held at Wildwood Farms on M-53. Including spouses, a total of 59 attended.

Letters were received from 11 graduates who were unable to attend. Fifteen class members are deceased.

Still time to register

Persons living in the Cass City School District who may not have registered have been given a second chance.

A law passed Monday in Lansing gives electors in school districts a special right to register within 10 days of an election this fall instead of the traditional 30 days prior to the election.

That means the voters can register for the Sept. 27 special election for Cass City Schools millage through Friday.

Registration is done at the clerk's office in the township where the voter lives.

Field resigns as Novesta treasurer

The Novesta Township Board Sept. 7 accepted the resignation of Treasurer Everett Field due to ill health.

The resignation will be effective Nov. 20, at which time he will have completed four years in the position.

The board will appoint a replacement to the remaining two years of his term, since it is too late to elect someone in the November election, according to Clerk Nursie Kloc.

She and Connie Benitez, sexton of the township cemetery, were directed by the board to prepare some recommended policies for the cemetery in time to be discussed at the Oct. 4 meeting.

Supervisor Bill O'Dell and maintenance supervisor Mike Gleason of the Tuscola County Road Commission had gone over township roads to determine which ones might need ditching, grading and graveling. The board discussed having such work done on some roads, but made no decision.

Also at the meeting, the board gave its approval to Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) agreements between Allan Hartwick and the state for nine parcels totaling 480.5 acres.

Sugar beet, dry bean field day, Sept. 21

Dry bean and sugar beet growers will get an update on new research during the Bean and Beet Field Day at the Michigan State University Saginaw Valley research farm Tuesday, Sept. 21.

The field day will feature tours of research plots and harvest demonstrations using several new types of equipment, including a beet topper with all rubber drums.

Two types of cutter bars and two types of reels will be demonstrated on 28 and 10-inch rows of dry beans.

The plot tours will highlight various cultural practices, says Don Christenson, coordinator of the farm and a professor in the MSU Department of Crop and Soil Sciences.

Weed control, tillage, crop rotation and disease control practices will be shown, along with different bean and beet varieties.

Among the rotations being tested on the 75 acres of research plots are corn, beans and beets, and oats, alfalfa, beans and beets.

Christenson says this will be the largest and most comprehensive field day ever held at the Saginaw Valley farm. Agribusinesses will set up displays of equipment and products.

The field day runs from 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. The research farm is southwest of Saginaw on the corner of Thomas and Swan Creek Roads, two miles south of M-46. Lunch will be available.

Jones named director

200 attend NFO state meet at Ubly

Farmers who band together to sell their livestock receive better prices was the message delivered to delegates attending the Michigan National Farmers Organization (NFO) state convention Saturday at the Ubly Heights Country Club.

About 200 delegates, spouses and guests attended.

The delegates elected William Jones of 5675 Pringle Road, Decker, as one of two Michigan directors of the national organization. Jones is the Sanilac County NFO president, manager of the NFO Cass City livestock collection point on M-53 and a state board member. He will serve a two-year term on the national board of directors.

State NFO President Leonard Harrington of Dimondale was elected an alternate national director. He and Jones were the only persons elected Saturday.

The message about the advantage of banding together and selling livestock on forward contracts was delivered by Walter Hackney, NFO director of livestock at its national headquarters in Corning, Iowa.

"In 3½ years, this organization has become the largest single seller of slaughter cows on a weekly basis in the nation," he offered as one example of the NFO's growing influence as a supplier to meat packers.

In Michigan, several weeks ago, he said, an NFO representative put together a block of almost 5,000 dairy cull cows, which were purchased for 84½ cents per hundredweight. The week before, without the big block of cows, the price had been 81½ cents.

Hackney cautioned, however, that the week after the big sale, the NFO didn't supply as many cows and the price dropped again.

In Missouri, the NFO moved 38,000 hogs last year. Starting Monday of this week, the organization made the first delivery of more than 200,000 hogs it has sold on contract over the next 12 months.

"I reckon 70 percent of that block is non-member people," Hackney said, "but they decided they needed some help in marketing."

In Iowa, the NFO contracted to sell 225,000 hogs to Frederick and Herrud Inc. in Detroit.

In Montana, the organization has started selling calves for 8-10 cents more than what ranchers were getting in April. Eighty percent of the calves belong to non-members.

Hackney did say the NFO isn't always successful in finding buyers for large blocks of livestock it assembles for sale on a forward contract.

In western Illinois, about four weeks earlier, the organization assembled a block of 147,000 hogs, "but we couldn't get any shooters (buyers) ... so I can't brag that we have been 100 percent successful."

Since he is only involved in livestock sales, he couldn't say how well the NFO grain and dairy are doing in marketing, only that, "I know there is a big endeavor to make them successful. They can only be as good as you make them."

Hackney spent 18 years as a cattle buyer for private companies, including the second biggest such firm in the U.S., before going to work for the NFO in 1977.

When he was about to start working for the NFO, he said, his colleagues were asking him with bewilderment what would motivate him to change employers. "Today, they're calling me to do business."

Toward the end of his talk, he told his audience, "All of these things I'm relating to you here can be yours ... if you lead an attitude toward success, not failure."

The convention began at 1 p.m. with the afternoon session consisting of the business meeting and dairy, grain and livestock commodity meetings with various NFO representatives updating those attending on the market outlook, marketing and other matters.

Among guests attending at least a portion of the NFO convention were Michigan Farm Bureau Vice-President Jack Laurie and his wife, Betty, of Cass City; Michigan Grange Grand Master Roland Winter and his wife, and S.M. Tomaszewski, assistant director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Social security ok, wife of senator tells area seniors

Senior citizens of the future shouldn't worry that when it comes time to collect Social Security, there won't be any money left to collect.

That was one of the comments made by Lori Riegler, wife of U.S. Senator Donald Riegle, to almost 30 senior citizens in Cass City last Wednesday.

She also told her audience, which is already collecting

Social Security, that they shouldn't worry, that the system isn't about to go bankrupt.

She did caution them, however, that if the economy doesn't improve so that more persons are working and putting money into the fund, there could be a cash flow shortage.

That could mean there won't be enough money at the beginning of each month for all the Social Security checks, so some of them might have to be delayed until later in the month.

As for the possibility that the Social Security fund may some day run out of money, Mrs. Riegle said, "The implication that some day the funds will just stop is inaccurate and implies Congress will just let the funds stop."

With 36 million Americans receiving Social Security -- and voting -- she suggested, "No elected official could stand it."

Mrs. Riegle spoke after lunch to almost 30 participants in the Thumb Area Commission on Aging meal program at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church.

Earlier, she had spoken at the TACA meal site in Kingston and after leaving Cass City, she spoke to members of the foster grandparent program in Caro operated by the Human Development Commission.

Accompanying her during the day was her mother-in-law, Dorothy Riegle of Flint, who was born in Caseville and grew up in Elkton.

Lori Riegle never mentioned at her appearance in Cass City that her husband is running for reelection to the Senate, which may have been because her trip was officially non-political, according to an aide from the senator's Flint regional office, who accompanied the two Mrs. Riegles.

Democrat Riegle, who has represented Michigan in the Senate since 1977, will be opposed Nov. 2 by Republican Phil Ruppe.

Although the visit was supposed to be non-political, most of Mrs. Riegle's talk concerned what her husband has done to protect Social Security from cuts or changes proposed by the Reagan Administration.

What she terms the four attacks on it were reduction in the minimum Social Security benefit of $122 a month, reduction of the 80 percent of the regular Social Security benefit paid to those choosing to retire at age 62 and a cut of $40 billion in Social Security and $20 billion in Medicare.

On the latter, she said, the Medicare cut was approved by Congress but the Social Security cut was defeated.

On the overall issue of cutting the federal budget, Mrs. Riegle said her husband agrees with President Reagan with putting a lid on spending but doesn't always agree on what should be cut.

Mrs. Riegle has worked on the staffs of the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, the Senate Subcommittee on Employment, Poverty and Migratory Labor and the Senate Finance Subcommittee on Social Security and is presently privately employed as a consultant on Social Security.

Gagetown to buy Yule candy again

Christmas is coming to Gagetown.

The village council Monday evening, as it has done in past years, decided to order candy for Santa Claus to pass out during his visit in December.

The council amended its budget in some categories to allow for spending beyond what was originally budgeted. State law prohibits expenditures in excess of the amount appropriated without amending the budget.

The council directed Clerk Elery Sontag to send a letter to Vernon Higgins telling him to have the remains of his house destroyed by fire Aug. 11 torn down and his property cleared within 30 days.

SOCIAL SECURITY was the topic Lori Riegle (standing at right), wife of the U.S. senator, talked about the most when she met with Cass City senior citizens last Wednesday. Her mother-in-law, Dorothy Riegle, is seated by the wall.

Your Neighbor says

Mandatory seat belt law bad idea

The Michigan Legislature this year has been debating a bill that if approved would require all front seat passengers to wear safety belts. The law, which would be for a three-year trial period, has been endorsed by auto manufacturers, unions, medical associations, Secretary of State Richard Austin and the state Board of Education.

Asked if he favored such a law, Wayne Becker replied, "No, because I was in an accident and if I had been wearing my seat belt, I would have been killed."

The accident was nine years ago, he explained, and he was sitting on the right side, which is where the car was hit by another vehicle. The impact threw him away from that side of the car, but if he had been wearing a seat belt to hold him in place, he was told, he would have been killed.

Becker did concede that safety belts do save lives in some instances. "In cases, yes, of front end collisions where you're going through the windshield, but that's not where I got hit."

He doesn't wear a safety belt when he is in a vehicle and, because he doesn't consider them safe, "I don't drive small cars either."

His other reason for opposing a mandatory seat belt usage law is freedom of choice. "If they want to wear them, let them wear them. If they don't, they don't have to."

Becker does feel, however, that the mandatory use of safety seats for small children that became state law earlier this year is a good idea. "I've heard of a lot of kids being saved with the child safety seat."

A full-time farmer, Becker and his wife, Marjorie, have a son, Gary, 9. They live on McGregory Road, Unionville.

Letter to the editor

Town kids don't need to worry

To the editor,
I would like to know how many people in town voted for the bus millage?

Of course, their kids don't have to worry. They are used to walking at the most a mile, one way.

But how about the people who live from 10 to 20 miles from school, one way. Would the townspeople like to pay for the gas or half of it?

Why can't teachers take a pay freeze? Everyone else is.

But not just the teachers, also how about the administrators? Crouse, Richards, Pakonen, and Crouse's secretaries? Why does there need to be three secretaries in Crouse's office?

One of my friends said one to bring in the coffee and doughnuts in the morning, one at lunch and one for the beer after work.

I watched Crouse on TV. Why didn't he look the camera "in the eye?"

I agree with Mrs. Schmidt that the parents should go to school with their children. They have to drive them up there anyway. But I don't think parents believe their kids when the parent says, "What did you do in school today?" and the kid answers, "NOTHING."

Come up and see just what we do. Or are the parents afraid???

Last of all, when you adults go to vote remember a few things:

- 1) So far, the publications class will have to raise the money for the yearbook and paper.
- 2) What's going to happen on Friday nights if no sports. PARTY TIME!!
- 3) Busing.

Sincerely,
Lee A. Curtis
3751 East Caro Road
Cass City

Editor's Note: Pay for all administrators and secretaries for 1982-83 was frozen by the school board at last year's level, according to Supt. Donald Crouse.

There is one secretary and one bookkeeper working in his office, plus one person

Dale Cleland accepted into West Point

Dale D. Cleland, son of Jerry and Theo Cleland of 7876 Germania Road, Uby, has been officially accepted into the U.S. Military Academy's Corps of Cadets as a member of the class of 1986 during the annual acceptance parade.

The parade followed six weeks of rigorous basic cadet training at the West Point, N.Y., academy. Training in military customs and courtesies, drill and physical conditioning, tactical exercises and the firing of weapons introduced the basic cadets to military life with special emphasis on leadership, duty, honor and country.

The academy is a four-year educational institution graduating men and women to serve as career Army officers. In addition to military training, it offers athletics and an academic curriculum which includes basic and engineering sciences, social sciences and the humanities.

The new cadet is a May graduate of Cass City High School.

THE BLUE EVENING GONE by Jessica Stirling (fiction). Holly Beckman becomes involved with an enchanting American dancer, Peter Freeman, risking the security of her British husband, family, and flourishing antique business. Stirling draws in most of the characters from her earlier novel (The Drums of Time), and each complicates Holly's life further. The tension evolving from the love affair and a fraudulent art racket operated by Holly's malevolent brother is convincingly developed so that the resolution is left in doubt up to the final pages.

THE UMPIRE STRIKES BACK by Ron Luciano (non-fiction). One of baseball's greatest umpires gives a personal look at America's national pastime. With the attitude of a "fan in the field," Luciano shares his enjoyment of the sport. He describes calling the shots and discusses the players, managers, and fans. Full of good yarns and insider details.

Advance Ugly millage vote

The Ugly School District millage election scheduled Oct. 15 will now be Monday, Oct. 4, as the result of action taken by the school board Monday evening.

The change is the result of a new law passed by the legislature last week that allows school districts in financial trouble to conduct elections more often than the previously required 45 days apart. To be voted on will be two mills for two years to pay for busing.

The board decided to advance the election date, business manager Mark Tenbusch explained, so that busing could be resumed earlier, should the proposal be approved.

The board also changed the wording of the election proposal. The phrase "to pay part of" the cost of busing was eliminated and "for" substituted, thus definitely earmarking the levy exclusively for student transportation.

The final day to register to vote is Sept. 24. The new state law eliminated the former deadline for registration of one month before the election.

The board's next meeting will be Tuesday, Oct. 12, one day later than usual, at which time it will conduct the required truth in taxation hearing.

Meanwhile, the organizer of a petition drive for an election to recall five board members is almost halfway toward his goal.

Hugh Roberts of Minden City said Tuesday evening he has close to 200 signatures. He needs 419.

Petitions haven't been circulated in all of the school district yet, he explained, only in all of the portion in Sanilac County and two townships in Huron County.

Roberts and his supporters are seeking to recall Bernard Puvalowski, Julia Heilig, Arthur Jahn, Allan Moses and Clarence Rutkowski.

Eighteen women of Salem U.M. Church attended the United Methodist Women's meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Tuckey.

Mrs. Ron Geiger, vice-president, presided over the business meeting and gave the lesson. Plans were laid for the year with emphasis on missions.

The October meeting will be a dinner meeting at the church.

Refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

2 bikes stolen in Cass City

Theft of two bicycles was reported to Cass City police last week.

Steven Auvil of 6678 Elizabeth Street told officers Tuesday night his bike was stolen between 7 and 7:30 that evening while parked on the east side of Kar-Mikel's refreshment stand, while he was in the Quaker Maid store next door.

The bike was a girl's orange Hiawatha 10-speed. The value wasn't listed on the police report.

Michael J. Francis of 4453 Leach Street told officers Saturday that he parked his bike behind the Players game room on Main Street at 4:15 p.m. and when he returned at 5, it was gone.

The black Montgomery Ward bike had 20-inch red "mag" wheels and cost $150 new. It was two years old.

Village police last Wednesday took Larry D. Ussery, 35, of 4118 S. Seeger Street, Lot 8, into custody on a felony warrant charging him with abandonment and desertion of his wife and two children from June 4, 1973, to the present. He was arrested at his home.

Ussery appeared Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled preliminary examination Friday. Bond was set at $20,000. As of Tuesday morning, he was still in the county jail.

James Ashmore of Owendale told Huron County deputies Sunday that the windshield of his car was smashed while it was parked on Main Street in that community from 2:30-4 a.m.

Replacement value was listed at $200, plus a sweatshirt was taken from his car.

At 7:45 a.m. Sunday, Tom Burk, an employee of Donna's Restaurant in Owendale, told deputies the business had been broken into since 5:40 that morning. Taken was the cash register and $64 in cash.

Billy Simmons of 3950 S. Phillips Road, Kingston, told Tuscola deputies Sept. 7 that his wood picnic table was stolen Sept. 4 or 5. It was valued at $160.

Alex Paladi Jr. of 345 N. Englehart Road, Deford, reported to deputies last Thursday that two farm implements were taken from a nearby barn some time since last November.

Taken were an Allis Chalmers single bottom plow, $50, and mowing machine, $100.

The owner of the barn and implements, Gordon Shell, lives in Texas.

Hawks prep for Marlette after loss to Chesaning

Cass City Red Hawk fans are hoping that the lessons learned from a rugged Chesaning football squad last Friday will pay off when the team plays at Marlette in the Thumb B Association opener for both schools.

The game is rated about a toss-up. The Red Raiders fell to Kingston and Cass City was no match for the visiting Indians, losing 41-8.

Coach Don Schelke said that the big, mobile Chesaning forward wall was just too much for Cass City's inexperienced squad that includes 8 sophomores.

The handwriting was on the wall in the first quarter. Chesaning took over on Cass City's 34 and picked up a first down in four running plays, overcoming two five-yard penalties to do it.

With a first on the 20, a run took the ball to the six from where Stuart Forsyth slammed across. The visitors ran across on a fake kick for the extra points and with 4:32 left in the first period were in front, 8-0.

The flood gates opened in the second quarter when Chesaning scored three times.

There was over nine minutes left in the second period when the Indians marched 42 yards to score. Forsyth picked up most of the yardage. He scampered around left end for 20 yards for a first on the 22.

Two line plays moved the ball to the four from where Forsyth plunged over. A run for extra points missed as Jeff Loomis made a jarring tackle right at the goal line.

With less than four minutes left the Indians struck again, starting on the Cass City 45. A pass picked up 32 yards for a first on the 13 from where Forsyth pounded off left tackle to score. The kick was good and Chesaning led 21-0.

The last Indian touchdown came after time had expired on the clock. Beating the clock was Rick Birdsley who dashed over from the five-yard line.

Chesaning pushed over an unneeded touchdown in the third quarter on a two-yard plunge by Ron Albert and finished its scoring for the day in the final period when Tim St. Gordon plunged over from the two.

The Hawks got on the scoreboard in the final period on a pass from Bryan Beecher to Barry Lapp. Lapp also accounted for the extra points, taking a toss from Joe Langenburg.

The Hawks were unable to handle the Indian line and made only 26 yards running. Forsyth rambled for 189 and Birdsley picked up 133 for the winners. Cass City's best offense was a pass to Lapp. The senior end caught five passes good for 48 yards.

JERRY CANZE was brought down on a jarring tackle by two Cass City defenders Monday. Number 11 is Bryan Beecher. Chesaning had little trouble winning the grid opener for both schools.

O-G wins opener; coach preps for tough loop race

Owen-Gage football coach Arnie Besonen is predicting a wide open North Central Thumb D League race this season based on the results of season opening games Friday against non-league opponents.

His Bulldogs beat Arenac Eastern, a big Class D school, 34-6, and all the other league teams beat larger opponents except for Deckerville, which narrowly lost to Sandusky.

The first league test for Owen-Gage comes Friday at Carsonville-Port Sanilac. Besonen said the Tigers are a much improved ball club this season, very quick, and has two "super backs" in Washe and Lechnyr.

As for last Friday, the coach said the pleasant surprise of the game was the job done by his defense. "We knew we had a lot of holes to fill from last year, especially linebackers."

The Bulldogs scored in the first quarter when Jason Reinhardt picked up an Eagle fumble and dashed over the goal line. Dan Glidden kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter, George Vargo scored on a four-yard toss from Stan Andrakowicz. The quarterback then threw to Glidden for two more points.

Before the half ended, Owen-Gage picked up seven more points on a 62-yard run by Lee Gettel and an extra point kicked by Glidden.

The third period was scoreless. In the fourth, Nick Swiastyn scored on a one-yard run. The PAT attempt was unsuccessful.

The victors' final points of the night came on a 15-yard run by Glidden. The PAT attempt was again unsuccessful.

Arenac scored its lone touchdown of the evening in the fourth quarter on a pass from Craig Harrison to Ed Stange. The PAT attempt failed.

Owen-Gage picked up 16 first downs in the game, fumbled twice and recovered the ball both times and was penalized 10 times for 95 yards.

The Bulldogs gained 328 yards in 46 carries. Leading ground gainers were Gettel with 123 yards in nine carries; Swiastyn, nine carries and 55 yards, and Reinhardt, seven carries and 50 yards.

Andrakowicz didn't have to pass much. He only threw the ball 12 times with four completions for a gain of 13 yards, plus two interceptions. Glidden caught the ball three times for five yards, plus the one PAT.

Gary Erickson and Glidden each made eight tackles.

Arenac Eastern made nine first downs, fumbled the ball five times, losing it twice, and was penalized nine times for 57 yards.

It gained 80 yards on the ground in 31 carries. Mike Narvarre ran with the ball 15 times for 54 yards.

Harrison passed 12 times with three completions and one interception for an advance of 80 yards. Narvarre caught one pass for 47 yards. Jim Hively was the Eagles' defensive standout with 10 tackles.

Pirates whip Hawk cagers

The Harbor Beach Pirates showed why they are among the top rated teams in the Thumb Tuesday when they swamped visiting Cass City 60-25.

The Pirates outscored the Hawks in every period except the third but it was the final stanza that turned the game into a rout.

Cass City was able to score just two points and the Pirates burned the hoops for 27 as Coach Lloyd Schinnerer looked at his bench after the outcome of the game was decided.

Mary Beth Osentoski personally outscored the entire Cass City team from the floor with 10 field goals. The Hawks made nine. Osentoski was 2-2 from the foul circle and ended with 22 points.

Cass City hit a horrendous 9 of 46 from the field for 20 percent. Harbor Beach was 26 of 72 for 36 percent. The Pirates had all of the best of it in the rebound department, 66 to 22. Kim Wagg led Cass City with 7 rebounds.

The Hawks are scheduled to open the Thumb B Association season Thursday with a game at Marlette. Next Tuesday, USA, another powerhouse, will be at Cass City to open the Hawks' home season.

By Bill Myers

Taking stock

Dear Boss:

Your far-flung reporter got quite a ways, at that, on that miserly expense account of $10 a week. How I did it in Paris must be filed under Modern Miracles.

At the Hotel Meurice, a pretty nice place, the $10 went for a plain omelet and a cup of coffee. This shot the works for the day and I went to bed hungry.

I had planned to send out some laundry until I scanned the price list: Shirts, $6; handkerchiefs, $1; socks, pair, $1.50; pajamas, two piece, $8.

As hunger pains set in the next day, I considered living on credit and out of the miniature refrigerator-bar in the room. This contraption does let you charge things. A sack of 24 peanuts was $2. Beer was $4 a bottle. Ginger-ale, $2.

It used to be that European hotels threw in this thing called the continental breakfast.

Not at the Meurice, which prided itself on being the favorite of Alfonso, ex-king of Spain. Napoleon slept there once, too. Charges, accordingly are on a royal scale. For a Danish and coffee, $4. Dish of prunes, $4 more.

By selling my binoculars and a pair of gold cuff links, I paid the first day's room rent. I had no need for field glasses, since the room faced on a dingy court.

Cuff links were superfluous, since I had already traded my long-sleeved shirt for a loaf of French bread from a street vendor.

Mind you, I'm not complaining. There are three things overseas vastly superior to their American counterparts — beer, bread and bathrooms.

The beer has real flavor, whatever country it comes from — except the U.S.A. It is not served ice cold, but at the proper "cellar temperature" of 50 degrees. It has body and taste and color. It is not this anemic, watery, light brew foisted on us in America.

The bread, too, is better anywhere in the world than in the U.S. It has substance and flavor. It is not soft and fluffy; it's something you can sink your teeth in and relish as you would a piece of cake.

Just why you can get such bread only in San Francisco and in New York has baffled me for years.

The bathrooms beyond U.S. borders are pure delights. Kids learn to swim in these man-sized tubs in England and the Continent.

After you do a couple of laps in one you then stretch out, settle down in a lounging position against the sloping back and run water until it comes up to your chin. (The water supply, incidentally, comes out in torrents, as though from a fire hydrant.)

As you soak there in Sybaritic splendor you note there are two call buttons — one for a maid, one for a valet.

I swear the bathroom in the Ritz Hotel in Lisbon was bigger than some studio apartments being marketed in south Florida.

Actually, it has three rooms — one with a shower, one with a stool and bidet and then the central chamber with its mammoth tub and two huge wash basins.

Other furnishings included a scale, a phone, a special shaving mirror and heated towel racks.

I must close now. The credit manager of the hotel just called and said he's coming up.

Added millage brightens Owen-Gage cash outlook

"If expenses are controlled, yes," the accountant responded.

Legal expenses in 1981-82 totaled $34,881, down about $15,000 from the previous year. "That is still quite high. Unfortunately, there isn't much we can do about it," Janke commented.

The major recommendation of the auditors was that the board adjust its budget whenever expenditures in any budget category exceed the original amount appropriated.

"The district is prohibited from making any expenditures in excess of the amounts they have appropriated by Public Act 621," they wrote.

SPENDING

Janke's warning that the district had to be careful about its spending was a factor in the board's debate over purchase of some new textbooks and some other items recommended by high school Principal Wayne Wright.

Pointing out that some of the books presently used date back to 1964, he recommended purchase of new texts for English Literature and grammar (two books), general business and a three-year science series for grades 7-9.

Cost of the books plus a typewriter for the business class and some miscellaneous items totaled $6,075.

"Can we afford it?" board member Joseph Warack asked.

"There just isn't the money there," responded board treasurer Jack Brinkman. "If we start buying everything they want, we're going to be in worse shape... $100 here and $100 there and it amounts to a lot."

What ultimately changed their minds was Wright's pointing out the district normally spends $3,000 during the summer for replacement of books and workbooks and that some of the texts are so worn, they can't be rebound again. The $3,000 wasn't spent this summer.

The purchase was finally approved.

Perhaps more controversial was Erickson's recommendation that the district start paying the Blue Cross premium for custodian-cafeteria worker Latheria Roe because she had asked for it and had been a good employee of Owen-Gage for at least 16 years. The premium will be about $800 annually.

Since apparently no one else on the non-academic staff is having their insurance paid for by the district, Brinkman and Warack objected.

Brinkman warned a precedent was being established. "You're opening it up."

The motion to pay the premium was approved 4-3, with Brinkman, Warack and Don Cummins opposed and Ronald Good, Donna Salcido, Leona LaFave and Pat Goslin in favor.

OTHER ITEMS

Erickson told the board, "We may just get through November before we go on payless paydays."

Millage rates were set at 26.75 for operations and 3.5 for debt. The total will be about 1.2 less than 1981 because of the special assessment in that amount levied last year to pay off the assessment owed to Construction Coordinators Inc.

After considerable debate at the last two meetings concerning high school teacher Nancy Folk's application this summer for unemployment compensation, the board voted to have the $1,292 she received in compensation — paid by the district — deducted from her pay checks.

Erickson said if the Michigan Education Association chooses to challenge the board's decision, "then we go to court."

Pay increases for Title I employees totaling $11,192 were approved, less than the amount budgeted. One Title I employee who was full-time last year is part-time this year.

Student of the month is Jennifer Wood, a senior.

Girl dies in mishap near Ubyly

An 11-year-old Bad Ax girl died last Wednesday as the result of injuries suffered in an accident Sunday evening, Sept. 5, about six miles south of Ubyly.

Kelly Rae Flannery died at 2:45 p.m. in the neurological unit at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

The Sandusky state police post wasn't informed of the accident until two days after it happened, according to an officer at the post.

The family told troopers that Kelly was riding on a three-wheel off-road vehicle being driven northbound on the shoulder of M-19 by Carrie Franzel, 12, of Ubyly.

The machine hit a rut and the girl fell off, striking her head on the pavement. The girl was wearing a helmet according to the family. She was taken to the hospital by private vehicle.

Funeral services for the daughter of Pat and Sharon Flannery were held Saturday morning at the Bad Axe Free Methodist Church with burial in Colfax Cemetery.

Miss Flannery is survived by her parents, two sisters, her maternal grandparents and several aunts and uncles.

Board ponders new bid policy

because he wanted to see if something could be done to meet the safety objections of the insurance carrier and keep the cost at the bid price.

Albee voted for the new pact because of costs, but said that he felt that Lawrence Insurance had signed a contract with the school and if the price went up the agency, not the school, should make up the difference.

LAWSUITS

The district faces two possible lawsuits. Ralph Hastings in a letter to the board said that he has filed a complaint against the district because his two children, special education students, have been denied transportation to the school.

Crouse said that he investigated the matter and school authorities have told him that for the students in question the school is not in violation of the law.

The school has been informed that Owendale-Gagetown is taking legal action to recover taxes from the "Goslin" parcel for 1978-79 tax years. Clinton House will continue to represent the school in the case.

The Findley property request that was denied by Cass City Board was also denied by the Intermediate School District, Trustee Albee, who attended the meeting, reported.

The board made its decision, Albee said, because of the school's financial condition that could prompt many requests from fringe area taxpayers.

Hobart reported that an agricultural advisory committee has been formed as required by the Michigan Department of Education to be eligible for special state aid.

OTHER BUSINESS

The school has been authorized to borrow up to $607,314 at an interest rate of 8.74 percent from Thumb National Bank, the low bidder.

Permission was also given to borrow $250,000 if needed against anticipated taxes.

A Michigan Occupational Information Service computer service that gave printouts of career opportunities for students was dropped.

The service costs were set at 50 cents per student plus communication costs of $75 to $100 per month. The same information is available on micro-fiche without a print-out.

Principal Russell Richards was reappointed to the Professional Development Policy Board for a three-year term.

An agreement was reached with Tri-County Bargaining Association allowing teachers to take a leave for the 1982-83 school year without losing seniority rights.

The school will save because the teachers taking the leave option will be replaced by teachers lower on the longevity service payment scale. Several adult education teacher contracts were approved.

A truth in taxation hearing will be held Oct. 4 and at the same time the board will discuss goals for the school. The meeting is open to the public.

Revenue sharing totals $330,621

Tuscola County should receive $330,621 in federal revenue sharing funds during the fiscal year that starts Oct. 1, the county Board of Commissioners was informed Tuesday.

That is about $15,000 more than the county received during the present fiscal year.

The increase is due to increase in population, the last distribution having been made based on the 1970 census, the 1982-83 one being based on the 1980 census.

Six bids were opened by the board for reroofing of the health department building southwest of Caro. There was some variance in specifications between the bids, so they were referred to the building and grounds committee for a recommendation at the board's Sept. 23 meeting. Two of the bidders are from Cass City.

The board approved a resolution authorizing sale of county Economic Development Corp. bonds by Pillsbury Co. to finance its purchase of the ex-Wicks elevator in Fairgrove and an industrial facilities exemption certificate was approved for Midwest Rotary Forms in Caro.

A letter will be sent from the board to telephone companies in the county expressing support for inauguration of the 911 telephone number for emergencies (police, fire, ambulance).

Jo Ellen O'Conner was hired as an assistant prosecutor, replacing Eric Proschek, who is now working in another county.

Lease-purchase of a photocopy machine for the sheriff's department, replacing an old one, was approved at a cost of $3,415.

The sheriff's sale of unclaimed merchandise will be Saturday, Oct. 9, time to be announced.

Driver ticketed after Cass City accident

Cass City police ticketed Dennis F. Francis, 29, of 6577 Deckerville Road, Deford, on a charge of violation of the basic speed law following a 5 p.m. accident Friday.

Officers said Tressa M. Tank, 75, of Sandusky, was eastbound on Main Street and starting to turn north on Nestle Street when the westbound Francis vehicle ran into her car.

Three 16-year-old girls sought their own treatment following a 7:30 p.m. accident Friday near Owendale. Injured were the driver, Julie E. Kretzschmer, Bay Port and passengers Debra Weiss, Elkton, and Jennifer Gayari, Owendale.

Huron County deputies reported their car was westbound on Rescue Road, west of Owendale Road, when the right front tire blew. The car went out of control and into the north ditch, where it flipped over onto its roof.

Robert A. McIntosh, 33, of Unionville, sought his own treatment for injuries following a 6:10 p.m. accident last Thursday.

Tuscola County deputies said he was westbound on Dickerson Road, west of Colwood Road, when he crossed the centerline to go around a jogger running west.

As he did so, a dog ran out of the ditch. He attempted to avoid it but lost control of his car, which went into the south ditch.

Tuscola deputies reported that at 6:30 a.m. Sept. 7, Richard W. Dicks, 54, of 3660 Deckerville Road, Cass City, was eastbound on Deckerville, west of Cemetery Road, when his car hit a deer.

At 8:15 a.m. last Thursday, according to Cass City police, Richard E. Doerr, 24, of 6622 N. Cemetery Road, was southbound on Cemetery, south of Wilsie Road, when his vehicle collided with a deer.
