

Bus purchases a School board says reduced budget

The Cass City School Board adopted a revised budget for the 1982-83 school year Monday night at its regular meeting at Cass City High School.

It was for a total of $3.4 million as compared to a previous budget of $3.48 million and reflects current revenue projections, including the recently passed four-mill levy.

The budget does not include a possible $82,400 executive cut in funds.

Included in the budget are several capital improvements. It includes some $50,000 for new roofs on the Campbell Elementary and Intermediate building. Provision was also made for the purchase of four new buses at a cost that will be around $25,000 each.

The board authorized that expenditure Monday and Supt. Donald Crouse will get bids on bus bodies and the cost of the buses to present to the board at the December meeting.

To keep the fleet to State standards, three new bus purchases each year are necessary. Last year none was bought and the four units this season are a start in catching up on the three that have been missed.

Also provided for in the budget is some $3,500 for board members to attend board meetings and money for administrators to attend school meetings. These items were cut in the previous school year.

Costs for elementary and secondary instruction were less than originally budgeted because of the cut in teachers. Intermediate costs were up because a teacher from Evergreen was transferred to the Intermediate School.

POLICY DECISIONS

Two policy decisions were reached. Under discussion was a bid policy. It remained as it always has been. The district will accept the low bidder with the right to accept or reject all bids. The lowest cost to the district for the goods or services will be the determining factor, according to members.

The board also adopted permanently a policy in effect since the buses started to run again. No buses will be allowed for personal use regardless if the use results in a savings to the district.

In a couple of instances if the buses were allowed to be driven for personal use it would be a net savings in miles driven to the school.

However, the bad publicity and the lack of understanding by the community was cited as the reason to adopt the no personal use policy.

Residents may see a bus parked near the Ford garage in Cass City where one of the drivers works. That will be only if the bus is driven by the garage worker to the garage for repairs.

Trustee Ben Hobart asked for a discussion about field trips since the agriculture advisory council feels that agriculture trips would be valuable to farm students.

There have been no field trips allowed because of the financial crunch. After discussion it was decided not to modify the no trip policy.

There was some staff misunderstanding about what the policy means and it was cleared Monday. Hobart and Mrs. Jackie Freiburger, Campbell Elementary Principal, were told that trips are okay if there is no cost to the school. If groups raise the money for school related trips the school buses can be used as long as the mileage and the driver are paid from private funds.

REVERSE DECISION

The board did change one decision reached at a previous meeting. It had voted not to use the Michigan Occupational Information Service (MOIST) terminal because of the cost.

The Huron Intermediate District received a grant and the cost to the district will be about $880 instead of nearly twice that much. In addition the school may be eligible for a grant that will cut another $250 to $300 of the cost.

With this information and on the enthusiastic endorsement of Wayne Dillon, vocational director, the board authorized the computer service.

CORN HARVEST — Farmers such as Keith Beecher, driving a combine for Charles Carpenter just east of the Cass City village limits Friday, are nearing completion of this year's harvest. As of Saturday, local Pillsbury elevator manager Bob Wischmeyer estimated, 65 percent of the corn in the area had been harvested, with yields averaging better than 100 bushels per acre and in some fields, as much as 150.

Three payless paydays predicted at Owen-Gage

Payless paydays are beginning again in the Owen-Gage schools, but compared to past years, it will be almost painless.

Supt. Ronald Erickson told the school board Monday that teachers and other employees received their last paychecks Friday and that three every-other-week checks will probably be skipped until paydays resume again, after enough property tax revenue is received. Until then, the district doesn't have enough money to pay its staff and still pay its bills.

That contrasts with last year, when payless paydays began in mid-September and didn't end until January and resumed in April. The school year ended with employees lacking four checks, which they later received.

Erickson predicted "next year we'll probably wipe it (payless paydays) out completely."

Asked after the meeting if once the property taxes start coming in, whether there will be enough money to make it through the rest of the school year without more payless paydays, he responded, "maybe," that there might be enough to get through June and maybe not.

After paychecks were issued Friday, Owen-Gage had a balance on hand of about $65,000.

In another financial matter, the state Department of Education says Owen-Gage owes it money. Erickson wrote a letter back saying, in essence, come and get it.

Numerous school districts have been billed lately by Lansing for what it calls "over-payments and adjustments" dating as far back as the 1978-79 school year.

Those that don't pay will have the money deducted from their state aid checks.

Erickson didn't have the figures with him when he reported on the situation to the board, but recalled after the meeting that after the state withholds all aid to the district this year — $4,000-5,000 — Owen-Gage will still owe Lansing about $560.

INSURANCE

At the September board meeting, the board voted 4-3 to pay the Blue Cross premium of about $800 annually for a long-time custodian-cafeteria employee. The district doesn't pay for insurance for other non-academic employees.

The debate was resumed Monday when Erickson recommended the district pay half the health insurance premium for long time elementary school cook Mary McKeller. That would cost about $60 a month for each month of the school year.

Board member Joseph Warack asked how many other such employees don't get insurance. Erickson said only one would he consider eligible, that, "As we see these inequities, we try to take care of them."

"Who's the next one," Don Cummins asked. "Where's it

County '83 budget is $4.62 million

Tuscola County commissioners Friday got their first look at the proposed 1983 county budget, which calls for total revenue of $4.62 million, with expenditures projected at the same amount.

That compares to almost $4.1 million it is projected the county will spend this year, with an anticipated $318,777 fund balance remaining, to be carried over to next year.

The county enters the new year in better condition than it did a year ago, according to Ken Kennedy, chairman of the finance committee which prepared the new budget.

One indicator is that the budget projects only having to transfer $181,451 in federal revenue sharing funds into the county general fund, versus $240,000 needed from that source to balance this year's budget.

The main reason the county is better off, he explained, is because of the voluntary pay freeze taken by courthouse employees and imposed by the board on elected officials and appointed department heads. That saved the county about $75,000 this year.

There are many increases in the new budget, however, some of them unavoidable.

Caro Area Services for the Handicapped (CASH), has filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy status to protect it while it reorganizes from creditors to whom it owes more than $210,000.

Its attorney feels the non-profit agency will be able to recover financially and again serve handicapped adults.

The filing was made in U.S. bankruptcy court in Bay City Oct. 26, according to its attorney, John Hebert of Bay City, two days before Peoples State Bank of Caro was scheduled to conduct a foreclosure sale on the CASH building on Cleaver Road. Because of the Chapter 11 filing, the sale wasn't held. CASH owes the bank $70,180.

Its other big creditor is the U.S. Small Business Administration, to whom it owes $140,000-150,000. The others to whom it owes money, a relatively small amount, are various suppliers from whom it purchased various items.

Hebert stressed that, "The bank was more than cooperative," and tried to postpone foreclosure as long as possible. Due to state banking regulations, it finally had to initiate the foreclosure action, which has now been forestalled by the Chapter 11 filing.

As long as CASH is in Chapter 11 — there is no time limit — no creditor can collect.

CASH, FORMED IN 1973 as a non-profit corporation, at one time operated various programs for mentally and physically handicapped adults in Tuscola County.

Included were evaluation and training to improve work habits, counseling, occupational therapy, work activities and a sheltered workshop where furniture was produced under the name Caro Creations Group.

The latter is the only program still operating, according to CASH Director Ted Hull, and of the six persons making furniture, only two are handicapped.

"We're just trying to keep it going and turn it around so some day we can serve the community again," he explained.

THE MAJOR REASON for CASH's financial troubles, Hebert said, was the termination by the county Community Mental Health Services Board in December, 1980, of its contract with CASH, which meant a loss of about $124,000 annually and 40 clients.

That was about 25 percent of CASH's annual budget, but many non-mental health clients participated in the same programs, so the mental health money helped defray the cost of operation. The agency's operations ground to a halt prior to Christmas, 1981, were revived again in February of this year, with 15 clients financed by the Tuscola Intermediate School District, but the programs eventually declined again to its present level.

Part of CASH's problems, according to its attorney, stem from the bad economy in the same way it is affecting many businesses. Despite the recession, however, sales of Caro Creations furniture is as good as it ever was. "That's why we're confident we'll come out okay."

CASH's problems aren't due to poor management, continued Hebert, who specializes in handling corporate bankruptcies. "Based on what I've seen, Caro had good management."

THE NEXT STEP IN THE Chapter 11 procedure will be to file a reorganization plan with the bankruptcy court, which Hebert expects will be done within 60 days. The plan must specify how the creditors will be repaid.

The attorney wasn't at liberty to describe details of the plan, but did say, "We're very confident the problems are solvable."

He indicated the plan will describe how CASH will get out of its financial difficulties without obtaining a new contract to serve county mental health agency clients.

Free Press writer says attitudes changing about handicapped

It is a "common wisdom" in the newspaper business, Jim Neubacher told his audience, that when a reporter's "legs go," he or she becomes an editor or a columnist.

Neubacher, who spoke to about 150 persons at the Tri-County Handicappers Coalition annual dinner Saturday evening at the Colony House on M-53, didn't expect to be a columnist at age 32, but he didn't expect to have multiple sclerosis either.

The writer of the column "Disabled in Detroit," which appears each Sunday in the Detroit Free Press, was first diagnosed as having the disease in September, 1979, and has been using a wheelchair since September, 1980.

MS affects the central nervous system. The cause is unknown, as is a cure. (The theories as to what causes it are a virus or a disorder of the immunity system.)

Persons who have it may be affected slightly; may be unable to walk, like Neubacher, who also can't type as well as he once did and doesn't drive a car; or may be completely incapacitated.

They may get better or they may get worse. There is no way of knowing.

Neubacher, who has been employed by the Free Press since 1971, was the newspaper's Canadian correspondent, based in Toronto, when he was diagnosed as having MS. He was reassigned to Detroit as a national correspondent in the fall of 1981 and wrote his first "Disabled in Detroit" column May 16 of this year.

IT WAS WHEN HE FIRST began using a wheelchair, he told his audience, that he first started learning about barriers for the handicapped.

The Toronto subway became unusable, there were no cutaways to get over curbs and when he would encounter something "dumb," his wife, Pam, would suggest, "Neubacher, why don't you write a story about this?"

But Michigan readers weren't much interested in a theatre that he couldn't go to in Toronto, so the idea of writing something stayed in the back of his mind until he returned to Detroit.

He discovered there wasn't much public recognition of the handicapped, and that was one of his incentives in asking his executive editor for permission to write the column.

The reaction to it when it debuted was overwhelming. He received about 100 letters the first three days after it appeared and the pace continued for about two weeks.

When he started writing it, he told the Chronicle after his speech, he thought he would spend about 1½ days a week on it, with the rest of the time being devoted to his national writing duties.

He found, however, that in answering letters and phone calls, acting as a clearing house for handicapped persons with problems, visiting places where work is being done with the disabled, that it was necessary to devote full time to writing the column.

Understandably, he had praise for his bosses for allowing him to devote the time to something for a group "never taken seriously before."

NEUBACHER RELAYED some of his experiences to his audience. There was, for instance, the man with cerebral palsy, unable to speak, studying for his master's degree in computer science at Michigan State University. A computer was developed there which enables him to type in the words he wants to say and then the computer says the words out loud.

The first words the computer spoke for him was, "My name is Mike," something he had not been able to say before. "It was an experience I'll never forget," Neubacher said.

Quadruplegics (no use of arms or legs) working as counselors and teachers working with autistic children were among other persons he has met since he started writing the column.

"Sometimes as reporters, we tend to take a skeptical or cynical view of the world," Neubacher commented, "but I have had a real chance this summer to meet some incredible human beings."

Government regulations and technological and medical advances are evidence, the columnist said, "We're beginning to open our society to handicappers."

In turn, society is learning that they can't ignore persons with disabilities, that they have something to contribute.

One result of that changing attitude, he said, is that the Reagan administration had to back off on repealing some regulations that aid the handicapped. Society wouldn't allow that any more than it would allow minorities to be forced to ride on the backs of buses.

Neubacher concluded his remarks by saying that learning to judge the handicapped as individuals, not as books by their cover, if extended to society at large in everyone's daily lives, would make everyone better and the world better.

THE MAIN PURPOSE OF the dinner was to honor three handicapped individuals, who, in the words of Doug Hall, Tri-County Handicappers board member, who made the presentations, "don't have the word

"If It Fitz..."

Hitting the target

By Jim Fitzgerald

It was in the fall of 1944 that I made my first visit to Detroit's Marygrove College, to visit my much older sister, Terrible Jean, who was then a student there. My second visit was made 38 years later, last Saturday, to attend a lovely wedding and reception. Terrible Jean was there this time, too, threatening to kill me, thus proving some things never change.

But Marygrove has changed. It used to be strictly a Catholic college for girls, staffed by nuns, and strictly strict. In the eyes of the church, a student could be legally hung for smoking on campus. On my 1944 visit, I wasn't allowed inside Terrible Jean's dormitory because, from all outward appearances, I was a man. Terrible Jean came out on the front lawn and took a snapshot that, if immediately published in Germany and Japan, might have hastened the end of World War II.

It is that snapshot, still in a family photo album, that has kept my initial memory of Marygrove College alive all these years. In it, I am wearing my Army uniform with three medals on my chest. In those days, I weighed 120 pounds and my chest was of such proportions that three medals covered it from shoulder to shoulder. I am standing beside my young, beautiful mother who, years later, confessed she always remembered that Marygrove photo as being taken at the only point during the long war that she thought our side might lose.

The medals were in recognition of my performance on the shooting range during basic training at Fort Knox. I'd never shot a real gun before being drafted and, in fact, I'd never demonstrated the slightest skill at hitting anything, such as a baseball or a tiddlywinks cup, and Mother figured if her son could win three medals for marksmanship, the average shooting ability of our troops had to be poor enough to allow the enemy to capture Michigan by simply marching sideways.

Mother didn't realize that, even way back then, it was important that the weapons of war be sophisticated enough to allow even the wimpiest soldiers to kill each other. I still remember how frightening it was to discover that even I could hit the bulls-eye with a rifle bullet. Today, of course, a "marksman" can wipe out an entire city without even seeing it. And today I realize that in 1944 I didn't know the meaning of real fright.

But back to Marygrove in 1982. Men are not only allowed inside today, but many of them are students. On a campus where smoking was once forbidden, there is now a beer pub. And the college's banquet rooms are sometimes rented for Bacchanalian parties that, 40 years ago, would have caused rampant heart attacks among the nuns assigned to keep the college pure. I liked Marygrove better the second time around.

Except for what happened to make Terrible Jean threaten to kill me. Most of our large family attended last Saturday's party, and we traveled in several cars which were parked on the tree-shaded, peaceful-appearing campus where vandals slashed two of my lovely radial tires.

But I didn't learn about it until the next day because I rode home in another car. The relatives stuck with my car had to deal with the police report, the tow truck, the bill for temporary repairs, and other grief. One of those lucky relatives was Terrible Jean. She didn't get home until after 5 a.m.

Witnesses later reported that Terrible Jean's wrath was, naturally, terrible to behold. "My stupid little brother is home sleeping in a warm bed while I stay up all night waiting for his car to be fixed. I'm going to murder him," she said, among several other pungent declarations that can't be reproduced here.

A Marygrove security officer guessed that Halloweeners ruined my tires. But the officer's name was Jim Fitzgerald (honest to God, but no relation), so what could he know? Personally, I think the slashers were some Marygrove nuns who've been checking my church attendance for the past 38 years.

COMMUNITY CHOIR — Andrea Hofmeister, director of the newly organized Cass City community choir, plays the piano as Fran Lovejoy sings a few notes for vocal placement (soprano, alto, etc.). Only seven persons came last Saturday morning. Mrs. Hofmeister is hoping that more will come for vocal placement and sign-up this Saturday, from 9-11 a.m. in the high school band room.

Higgins charged with setting fire to house

Vernon M. Higgins, charged with setting fire to his own home in Gagetown Aug. 11, was scheduled to appear this Tuesday before District Judge Richard F. Kern for preliminary examination.

Higgins, 40, officially charged with willfully burning with intent to injure and defraud insurer, was arraigned before the judge Nov. 1, who set bond at $10,000 (10 percent). As of Monday morning, he was still in the county jail.

Higgins, now living in Bay City, was arraigned after being taken into custody by deputies.

His wife, Sharon, and four children are now living in Akron. Mrs. Higgins filed for divorce Monday.

The home Higgins is charged with setting on fire was at 6462 Mill Street. The family had only been living there a month and lost everything in the blaze.

The Haire Net

Canadian Chrysler workers feel that the company is bluffing about not being able to pay any more wages than already offered.

It will be interesting to see if they are right. It's hard to believe that the company is bluffing.

Not that I would put it past big business to do so. Given the record of forcing out older employees because they cost more, you have to believe that many corporations are insensitive to the people that work for them.

The reason it appears to be no bluff is because Doug Fraser and the top echelon at the United Auto Workers were willing to accept the pact offered by the company even though it was less than GM or Ford offers.

If the action of the union in Canada breaks the company, Michigan's unemployment will be even greater than its 16-plus percent that it has now.

You have to feel that workers in this country are at least uncertain of the future when they delayed striking until at least after Christmas.

While they indicated they wanted those paychecks with Christmas coming up, it's ironic that many of them will be forced out of a job by their brethren across the border if the strike lasts... and it appears that it will.

There is labor unrest in other areas besides the auto industry. According to reports, teachers in St. Charles are going to strike because of money differences and three other schools in the area are struggling to get a contract.

The teachers there all want raises and the administrators all want to freeze wages at current levels. Settlements there don't touch us here of course but they will be watched closely by everyone connected with Cass City Schools.

This is the last year of a three-year pact with the Tri-County Bargaining Association. The salaries of the administrators have been on hold while the teachers received a 10 percent wage increase, plus increased pay for length of service under 11 years.

If the teachers are determined to get a wage increase at renewal time the peace at the school following the millage approval will be abruptly shattered.

Certainly a case for an increase can be substantiated as easily as one for a freeze.

But in a sense this community is like Chrysler. There has been an increase in employment locally as both General Cable and Walbro have been increasing their work force.

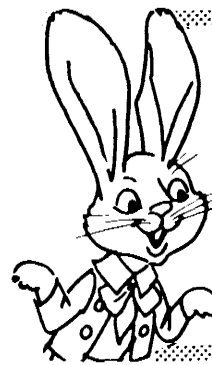

But at Walbro workers took a voluntary cutback in negotiated benefits to try and keep jobs.

Farmers are trying to cope with prices that have fallen through the basement and many of them aren't making it.

There is a mood out there that will make it difficult for the school board to agree to anything other than a freeze. Yet, teachers face the same demands on the dollar that the rest of us do.

It will be a minor miracle if we get by the crucial times ahead without more bitterness and an interruption in education.

Let's hope.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Overlooked note about Halloween. This year by all reports there were fewer trick or treaters than in any recent year.

At our house we still had the numbers but there was a difference. Most of the kids were young and virtually all of them were accompanied by an adult.

Given the conditions of doctored candy and poisoned pills that's to be expected. It does take something from it for the kids.

It was fun to see them run up to the house with plenty of false bravado and ask for trick or treats. You could see that the small fry were not too sure about it all. How proud they were when all went well and mom or dad wasn't around to give them moral support, perhaps for the first time.

As usual the Chronicle wants a picture of the first hunter to check in with a deer next Monday.

We'll take a picture of the first one and after that any that are exceptional. All successful hunters are asked to call for a listing in our "Buck Luck" column.

With great big crocodile tears Geraldine Prieskorn consoled me publicly at the school board meeting on Michigan State's loss to Northwestern in last Saturday's football game. Sometimes it doesn't pay to be an alumnus of Moo-U.

That loss to the Wildcats wasn't all bad. For the first time in a quarter century of association Geraldine initiated conversation showing she was a Northwestern graduate. I can understand that.

Pedaling Around Campaign honors

By Mike Eliasohn

Having survived the election, some awards are in order.

Dumb campaign award -- To whom else but the opponents of Proposal D, who spent at least $3.4 million unsuccessfully trying to defeat it.

Maybe big business will finally learn that the way not to defeat a proposal they don't like is to spend millions of dollars to the point of overkill. Remember 1976, when they spent millions trying to defeat the proposal to ban throwaway bottles? Maybe they have finally learned that if a proposal is dumb, the way to defeat it is to present logical arguments against it, not try to create mass hysteria about factories closing and people losing their jobs.

What is unfortunate is that the opponents of Proposal D may have been right. To quote the Citizens Research Council of Michigan, "The additional lag between a utility's (rate increase) request and the final order may necessitate additional borrowing by the utility, which could further weaken the credit rating of utilities and raise their costs of borrowing money. Interest costs become part of the rate base to be paid by customers."

Fortunately, the worst parts of D may be offset by Proposal G, which also concerns utility rate increase requests and was also approved. The state constitution provides that the measure with the highest affirmative vote (which was Proposal G) shall prevail where there is a conflict.

The only winners will be the lawyers trying to unscramble the mess, and with D and H and a state law concerning the same subject, there certainly will be one.

Dumbest campaigner award -- The winner is Dick Headlee. He could have said to the Republican women who disagreed with him on the issue of abortion and the Equal Rights Amendment that, "You're not going to change my mind on those issues and I'm not going to change yours, but other issues like getting people back to work are more important and on those issues we agree, so let's work together."

Instead, he accused those women of advocating lesbian marriages and suggested they should get out of the party.

Lie low and get run over award -- To Gov. Milliken, who not only didn't campaign for Headlee, he wouldn't say whom he voted for.

Once Milliken is out of office Jan. 1, there will be a blood bath between conservatives and moderates (is there such a thing as a liberal Republican any more?) for control of the Michigan GOP.

By never saying a good word for Headlee, Milliken and the moderates lost support from those in the middle who feel the party's candidates should always be supported.

Milliken should have campaigned for Headlee. If Headlee still lost, Milliken could have said, "I told you."

Empty promises award -- To reelected U.S. Senator Don Riegle, who campaigned on the promise that he would work against any cuts in Social Security, but never said how he would pay for the program.

Cheapskate award -- To the Vassar City Council, which won't spend the money to buy voting machines or the cheap but quickly counted punchcard system.

While the rest of Tuscola County's election results were in to the county clerk's office by about 2 a.m. last Wednesday, results from Vassar, where the paper ballots had to be counted by hand, weren't in until about 6.

If members of the Vassar council were farmers, they would still be using horses.

Good luck award -- To Governor-elect James Blanchard. With its new fiscal year little more than a month old, the state is already at least $160 million in the red, plus Michigan apparently finished the last fiscal year $40 million in the hole.

If Blanchard can get us out of that mess, he will make Lee Iacocca look like a slouch.

Corn stubble field fire extinguished

Elmwood Township-Gage-town firemen Sunday afternoon extinguished a fire in a field of corn stubble.

A person was burning grass in a ditch, Fire Chief Chuck Wright explained, and it spread to the corn field. About five acres burned before it was extinguished.

Owner of the field was Keith Goslin, who wasn't the person doing the burning.

The fire at Jacob and Hoppe Roads was reported at 3:16 p.m.

THE YEAR was 1946 or '47 and this was the staff at what was then Auten Motor Sales. From left, Cliff Champion, Walt Jezewski, Orval Hutchinson, Bill Martus, Lyle Lounsbury, Chuck Auten and Bob Keppen. Keppen and Meredith B. Auten were the owners at that time.

Jezewski retires after 38 years of fixing cars

After 38 years of keeping Fords in Cass City humming on all four, six or eight cylinders, Walt Jezewski has hung up his clipboard.

Jezewski retired Sept. 1 as service manager from Geiger-Hunt Ford after having worked there since 1944. He had been in charge of the service department since about 1957.

Jezewski turned 65 in April, so felt it was time to retire.

He could have done some auto repair work at his house for others, as a means to keep busy and earn a little extra income, but decided against it. "The garage has been good to me. If anyone wants work done, I'll refer them to the garage."

So instead of having a wrench in his hand, unless it's to work on his own car, he may be holding a broom.

Starting in July, when the custodian became ill, Jezewski has been doing janitorial work at his church, Salem United Methodist. His wife, Helen, has been helping. That takes 18-20 hours a week, "so that breaks the monotony... I couldn't stay idle."

IF IT HAD BEEN UP TO his father, Jezewski would have gone through life holding a violin and a bow to play it.

He grew up in Detroit, where his father was a professional violinist, playing for vaudeville theatre orchestras and bands. "He pulled me off the street by the ear and said, 'One hour a day, you practice.'" Walt did, but he preferred to work on cars. "Automobile work was more interesting to me than music."

He does, however, still play the violin and when he first moved to Cass City, played at some dances.

Jezewski moved to the Cass City area during the Depression, in 1935 or '36. He had been working at a gas station in Detroit, but business got so slow, he was laid off.

While working there, he had become acquainted with a milk truck driver who hauled milk from Bad Axe to Detroit. The driver told Jezewski he could get a job in the Thumb, so he moved and started working for a farmer, George King, in the Bad Axe area.

King had a brother, Russ, who lived near the farm of William and Hattie Joos, northeast of Cass City, where Jezewski started working next. The Jooses had a daughter, Helen, and in 1940, she and Jezewski were married.

They live on Ale Street and have one son, Jim, of Cass City, and one grandson. Another son, John, was killed in an accident while serving in the military.

Marian Withey dies

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon for Marian Withey, 68, of Bad Axe, who died Saturday at William Beaumont Hospital in Troy after a long illness.

She was born Oct. 26, 1914, in Cass City, the daughter of Arthur and Mabel (Murphy) Helwig.

She was a cook at Bad Axe High School for 28 years, retiring in 1975, a member of the Retired School Employees Association, and a member of the First United Methodist Church, Bad Axe.

JEZEWSKI STARTED working at Frank Borgess' gas station in Cass City between J & C Service and the Hahn Real Estate Building in 1940. He kept working on the Joos farm, before and after work at the gas station.

That lasted until 1944. "I thought I wanted to get into more mechanical work than pumping gas, so I put my application in at the Ford garage." A couple of months later, he was hired at what was then Auten Motor Sales. He kept working on the farm when he wasn't at the garage.

He was a mechanic until appointed service manager when the previous one left.

Jezewski has high praise for the persons he worked for over the years at the garage. "All the people I worked for, you did your part and they would do more than their part."

Later in the interview, he added, "You couldn't ask for any better people to work for... If the job wasn't that good, I wouldn't have stayed that long."

DURING HIS 38 YEARS at the Ford garage, Jezewski saw a lot of changes in the cars he worked on.

When he first started there, there weren't any new cars. The auto companies didn't start producing cars until after World War II ended in 1945.

Cars back then were simple, compared to what mechanics work on today.

The days of turning some screws to adjust a carburetor are over. Carburetors now are computer fed, Jezewski explained, and an electronic machine is used to determine if a component isn't working.

Front wheel drive makes cars more complicated because the transmission and differential are joined together and the engine gets in the way of both. "You got to take off so much stuff before you get to the things you want to repair," Jezewski said of today's cars.

Because of the numerous changes the last few years, partly Detroit's effort to make cars more fuel efficient, he had to go to factory schools to learn how to repair the latest equipment. "As old as I was, I was still going to school and they (mechanics) are going to keep going to school."

Although some motorists argue Detroit doesn't build cars as well as it used to, the veteran service manager disagrees. "The cars are better built. Every year, they come out, there's an improvement in them."

Although Jezewski understandably has always driven Fords -- "I always stuck to the full size cars." -- "I'd say one (make of) car is as good as another."

RETIRED -- Walt Jezewski, who retired from Geiger-Hunt Ford after working there 38 years, enjoys going through a scrapbook of memorabilia.

Programs slated at Bach Festival

In addition to the three concerts at the Village Bach Festival in Cass City Nov. 26-28, there will also be lectures, a music program for students, an art fair, some Christmas-related activities, a luncheon and a brunch.

The educational aspects of the festival this year include pre-concert lectures by Dr. Byron Hanson, resident conductor of the Interlochen Arts Academy Orchestra and a slide-tape program, "Bach's Towns," by Dr. Ward Woodbury, conductor of the Winter Park, Florida, Bach Festival. Woodbury has traveled extensively in Europe to study where Bach lived and composed, in order to produce this one-hour program.

The week preceding the festival, a two-day music residency will take place in the Cass City elementary schools. Three of the Bach Festival musicians from Midland will conduct programs for the children and demonstrate their stringed instruments.

A holiday art fair, at which artists will demonstrate china painting, weaving, fibre art, stained glass, gourmet food, pottery, quilting, etc., will be held from 12:30-4 p.m. in the high school Saturday, Nov. 27, co-sponsored by the Cass City Arts Council and the Cass City Community Education Department.

Other events are an exhibit of toys and trees of Christmas past for children at the Cultural Center; a lighting of Christmas decorations in the downtown with carols sung by church choirs, a Saturday luncheon at the Lutheran Church, and a brunch at the Masonic Temple Sunday.

Ticket information for the festival can be obtained by calling 872-4301. Reservations for the brunch need to be made before Nov. 15 by calling 872-2484.

That, of course, is our point. Lots of people in other businesses are suddenly getting into IRAs—brokers, insurance salesmen, even retailers—but few of them, if any, have as much business being there as we do.

We're your First American Bank, and we're uniquely qualified to help you plan an IRA.

Besides our vast experience with retirement accounts (we've offered them for years), we also offer one of the most competitive IRAs around.

And when you set up an IRA with us, you'll have the convenience of dealing with someone you know at a bank down the street, not some obscure address on Wall Street.

You'll also have the security of FDIC insurance, which is something no brokerage house or insurance company can say.

Let's get together soon. Since an IRA is a combination tax shelter and high interest savings plan with considerable long and short-term tax benefits, there are lots of details and investment options we'd like to discuss with you one-on-one.

Teacher training day Friday

Huron County and Cass City schools will be closed Friday while teachers and administrators from the various districts attend an in-service day on "Education - The Continuing Challenge."

The day-long professional development session will start at 8 a.m. at the Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port high school and junior high.

It is hosted by the Huron Professional Development Advisory Board (HPDAB), a group of eighteen professionals from various educational systems in the county.

The K-12 districts involved in the in-service day are Bad Axe, Caseville, Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port, Harbor Beach, North Huron, Owen-Gage, Port Hope, Uby, and Cass City.

The day will consist of two main sessions and five mini-session periods.

The main session speakers are Dr. Thomas Pagel, associate professor, Department of Communication Arts and Sciences, Western Michigan University, who will speak on: "Getting Plugged In: Communication Technology for the 80's," and Dr. Kenneth R. Wahl, professor of education, Saginaw Valley State College, who will speak about "Loneliness in the school."

Purpose of the in-service day is to provide an arena for positive interaction between staffs as well as opportunities to update skills and learn what is new on the educational scene.

Members of the Huron County Professional Development Board include Kathleen Jackson, Cass City Public Schools; Kenneth Micklash of Cass City,

Argyle Sox hold awards banquet

Trophies, checks and year pins were handed out.

Contestants for queen consisted of Jeanette Nagey, Lisa Spaetzel and Marcia Ingels, with Miss Spaetzel being selected as the queen for 1983.

Bill Brown of the Argyle grocery, a 4-H friend, received a certificate. The most involved leaders are Bonnie Rohrer and Kent and Carol Janowiak. The top salesman was Danny Brown.

The club will conduct its Christmas party Dec. 6, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Eye On Your Child's Vision

Your child may be giving you clues that his or her vision is abnormal. These include excessive rubbing of the eyes, shutting one eye, difficulty with close work, frequent blinking, squinting or frowning, undue sensitivity to light, inflamed or watery eyes, and recurring styes.

Icelandic literature, beginning about the 9th century A.D. was the only Scandinavian literature that flourished in medieval times.

Your Neighbor says Economic recovery is on the way

A survey of Michigan voters exiting the polls Nov. 2 found the largest percentage were optimistic that the economy is starting to improve.

Forty-nine percent felt the recession isn't over, but recovery has begun; 40 percent felt the recession will get worse before improvement begins; 4 percent said the recession is over, and 7 percent had no opinion.

Les Nicholas is among those who feel the economy is starting on its way up. The sale of cars and real estate has been increasing, he said he has been told, and United Parcel Service, where he works, has been delivering more packages, a sign to him that people are starting to spend money.

Nicholas, who drove the Caro route, has been off work for a few months because of an injured knee, but is hoping to return soon.

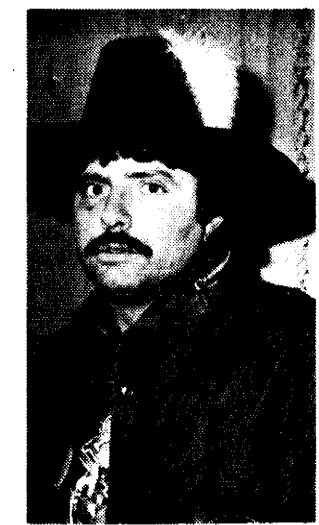

Another reason he is optimistic about the future is the attitude of the American people. "Basically, we're not quitters."

Business in Cass City, Nicholas feels, would be aided by competition in some areas, which would increase selection, improve prices and encourage more persons to shop here. Once the economy starts to improve, he feels some new businesses might open here. One spur to the economy, Nicholas said, will be when persons who have money start spending it. "There are a lot of people with money out there and they're hanging on to it to see which way the economy is going."

Although recovery is still on the way, Nicholas feels it will reach a point where all depressed parts of the economy will experience rapid recovery at the same time. "When it does break, I think it's going to break all at once."

Nicholas is divorced and has two children, Shelley, 15, and Missey, 9. He lives at 6505 Main Street.

Funeral held Sunday for Vern Bigham

Vernon Norman Bigham, 74, a lifelong resident of the Cass City area, died Friday at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, after a brief illness.

He was born March 16, 1908, in Evergreen Township, the son of Herbert and Celia (McCool) Bigham.

Fire victims plan to build new house

Larry and Sue Kidney, who lost their Phillips Road home in a lightning-caused fire Nov. 2, are planning to build a new home at the same location.

Mrs. Kidney said Sunday that construction can begin yet this fall. She and her husband had insurance on their old home.

Until the new house is ready, they and their two children are living with Mrs. Kidney's mother, Virginia Zawilinski, in Cass City.

Mrs. Kidney said the family doesn't have any immediate needs in terms of clothing or furniture and expressed gratitude to those who have assisted them in various ways.

"They've been wonderful," she said. "We're really overwhelmed with it. We really appreciate everything everyone has done for us."

ASK DR. COE

By Dalton P. Coe, D.D.S.

Nitrous oxide sedation has regained a strong foothold in modern dentistry. Once popular in the early part of this century Nitrous Oxide slipped from general use because of unwanted side effects which resulted from its use without the use of oxygen at the same time. State of the Art equipment found in dental offices today delivers oxygen at the same time as the nitrous oxide in a mixture which would usually not exceed seventy percent nitrous oxide and thirty percent oxygen. The air we usually breathe contains around twenty-one percent oxygen. The usual mixture of about thirty-five percent nitrous oxide and sixty-five percent oxygen provides about three times as much oxygen as we would normally breathe in room air.

This sedative mixture of gas is delivered to the patient by a small nasal inhaler. The patient's mouth is obviously never covered.

The indications for the use of nitrous oxide sedation are many, but the primary use is for control of anxiety. A patient breathing the nitrous oxide oxygen mixture remains conscious at all times. The patient is able to respond to questions and directions - they are simply more relaxed. The phrase "Vaporized Vallium" has been coined to describe the effect of this agent. The nice part about nitrous oxide oxygen sedation is that once administration stops the patient returns to normal within minutes. There is seldom any aftereffect. There are certain health reasons that would make the use of nitrous sedation undesirable. Among these are, upper respiratory tract infections, eustachian tube blockage, chronic obstructive lung disease, debilitating heart disease, and the first trimester of a pregnancy. Provided there are no medical reasons not to use it, nitrous oxide-oxygen sedation provides modern dentistry with still another means of providing dental care comfortably without fear or discomfort.

Osentoski paces Hawks to victory over Mayville

Cass City spotted winless Mayville a safety in the first quarter and then roared back to score the next 22 points to win its final game of the year, 22-10.

In fact the game was not as close as the final score indicated. The Wildcats didn't score again until the last minute of the game when Brad Moss ran seven yards for the marker and then ran over for the extra points.

Host Mayville got on the score board first with 10:30 left in the initial period. Bryan Beecher faded back into his own end zone to pass and was tackled before he could get the ball away.

After that Dave Osentoski and crew took over. The bulldozing Hawk fullback made his final game another good one.

The score came with 2:36 left in the first half when the Hawks capped a drive as Osentoski bulled over from the one. He ran for the extra points to give Cass City an 8-2 halftime margin.

It was another short running play by Osentoski that capped a successful Cass City march. He ran it over from the one. Tore Tollersrud kicked the first of two good extra points and Cass City had breathing room for the first time in the game.

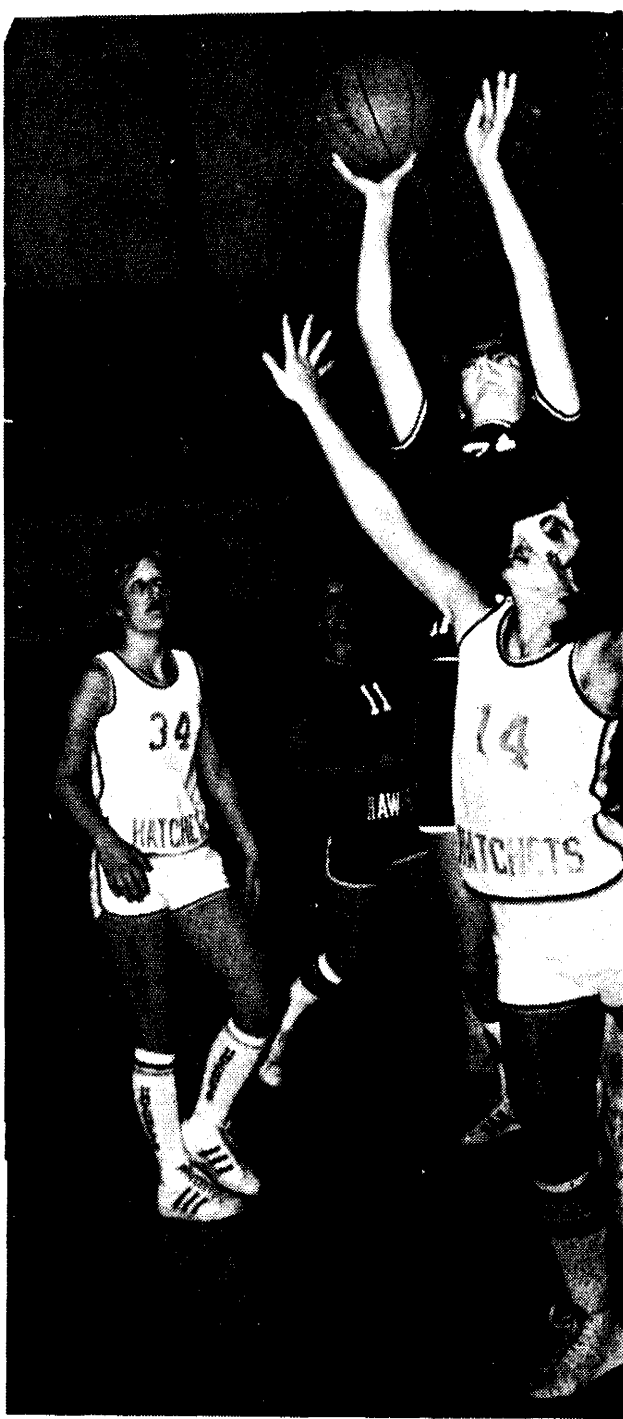

With 3:03 left in the final period Osentoski scored again to widen the final victory margin.

Mayville countered that one with its only score of the game and it came after most of the fans had hit the exits and there was 44 seconds left in the game.

Osentoski was the workhorse of the Hawk offense. He carried the ball 35 times and racked up 144 yards. Although the Hawks dominated the scoring the statistics were close. In total yards Cass City had only a 12-yard advantage over the losers.

The statistics:

	CC	M
Rushing plays	50	39
Rushing yards	200	244
Passes complete	7-13	3-10
Passes int.	1	0
Passing yards	72	16
Total yards	272	260

Fumbles lost	1	2
Punts	1-40	1-29

Poor shooting costly in loss to Bad Axe

Cass City did everything right against the Bad Axe Hatchets Thursday night except for one thing... putting the ball through the hoop.

As a result the Hawks dropped another Thumb B Association game, 43-36.

The girls started the game just stone cold in the shooting department. In the first eight minutes Cass City was held to a lone field goal by Jill Hutchinson and a free throw by Laura Richards.

Despite this the game was close as the visitors were only a little better in the shooting department. At the end of the first quarter the score was 6-3. Bad Axe jumped out to a five point lead early in the second period, but Cass City closed the gap to a single point midway in the period and that was as close as the girls were to get.

At the half Bad Axe was in front 14-10 and at the end of three quarters the margin was eight points. The teams played on just about even terms in the final period, but that was not good enough to challenge the winners.

The Hawks featured balanced scoring led by Laura Richards and Michelle Fahrner with 10 points each. In addition Fahrner picked off 12 boards and Hutchinson, 10.

Teena Pangborn, 16 points, and Eva Wardhammer, 13 points, were the Hatchet offensive leaders. Laurie Mazure picked off 11 rebounds for Bad Axe.

Lions Club helps 10,000 in 1981

Last year, more than 10,000 people had their sight partially or fully restored in corneal-transplant operations using eyes provided by eye banks throughout the world sponsored or supported by Lions Clubs.

In the United States alone, 65 Lions eye banks reported a total of 10,176 transplants. In this operation, clouded corneas are replaced with clear ones taken from eyes donated by concerned individuals.

Eye banks are usually supported by a group of Lions Clubs in a locality, state or region. Lions ask their neighbors to sign a donor card that will ensure that their eyes, upon death, will be available for transplant, research or other uses.

Lions Clubs have long been known for their assistance to the blind and sight-impaired. At their 1925 Convention, Helen Keller urged the Lions to become "Knights of the Blind in the Crusade against darkness."

Drawings for the district Class C basketball tourney were held Monday and Cass City has drawn Reese and will play Thursday, Nov. 18, at 6:30 p.m. at Reese which hosts the tourney.

In the bottom bracket of the drawings Mayville will play Brown City at 8 p.m. the same night.

Saturday, Nov. 20, the winner of the Cass City-Reese game will play Marlette at 6:30 p.m. and the winner of the Brown City-Mayville clash will play Sandusky at 8 p.m.

These two winners will meet in the finals Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 7:30 p.m. Brown City, a state ranked team, is the favorite.

THE JUNIOR VARSITY football team at Cass City started slowly and then came on strong in the last four games. These players will be helping the varsity win in the years ahead, coaches feel.

Missing from the picture are Brian Green and Rod Rockwell, manager, and Sam Sangster.

JV grid squad improved steadily

Playing with freshmen and first-year sophomores, Cass City High School's Junior Varsity football team got off to a slow start losing four of its first five games.

Coach Larry Robinson said that the green team showed plenty of improvement as the season progressed and it was evident in the results.

The Hawks won their last four games to end the season with a five-win, four-loss record.

Robinson said that the volunteer help provided by Ernie Teichman and Rod Rockwell and Sam Sangster, serving as managers, was a great help for the program.

The results:

Best hunting may be right here at home

Firearms deer season starts Monday and for hunters in the upper Thumb who choose to stay home, prospects look good for bagging a buck -- or for those with Hunter's Choice permits, a doe or fawn.

Huron and Sanilac Counties join Tuscola this year as areas where hunters with permits will be allowed to shoot antlerless deer.

Hunting this year, said Carlton (Bud) Jarvis, Department of Natural Resources biologist at Caro, "should be as good if not better than last year."

Deer in this area made it through last winter okay, he said.

The best areas, according to Jarvis, are in Huron County, the northern part of Sanilac and the northeast part of Tuscola from Kingston north.

Hunting in the upper Thumb the last few years, he said, has been as good as any other areas of southern Michigan. The best area remains in counties in the northern part of the lower peninsula.

Statewide, the Department of Natural Resources is predicting the number of deer taken will be 150,000-160,000, which will be 7-11 percent less than in 1981.

Last year, however, was a record, with 123,690 bucks, 49,430 does and fawns (taken with permits), 310 camp deer permit kills, 1,970 taken with muzzleloaders and 33,320 shot by archers (another record), for a total of 208,720 deer killed.

It is expected fewer deer will be shot statewide because the severe 1981-82 winter lowered the fawn survival rate. Despite that, this year could still be the second best on record.

Hunters who go home with a deer can obtain a "successful deer hunter" patch at the DNR office on M-24, south of Caro. It will be open from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The last day of firearms deer season is Nov. 30. Bow season then resumes until Jan. 1 in the lower peninsula (until Dec. 15 in the U.P.) and muzzleloading season is Dec. 3-12 statewide.

OUTSTANDING PERFORMERS for Cass City High School's outstanding cross country team pose with the certificates they received for performances in the state cross country meet held at Watervliet Saturday. Greg Bliss won the team championship with the best time of any runner in Class C. Renae Stimpel, right, finished eighth and Carrie Lautner was sixth.

O-G draws bye in tourney

Owen-Gage drew a first round bye in the post-season girls' basketball district tournament at North Huron High School.

The first game will be Thursday, Nov. 18, with the host Warriors playing Case-ville. The following evening, Port Hope plays Akron-Fairgrove.

Monday, Nov. 22, the Bulldogs play the winner of the North Huron-Caseville game.

The winner of that game will play the Port Hope

Eight and one lot of fun, says O-G coach after final game

"Eight and one was a lot of fun" was Owen-Gage football coach Arnie Besonen's summation of the 1982 season, which ended last Thursday afternoon with an easy 42-28 win at Michigan School for the Deaf in Flint.

The Bulldogs finished the season 8-1 overall and 6-1 in the North Central Thumb D League -- their fifth championship or co-championship in the 10 years of the league -- marred only by the Oct. 29 loss to Deckerville.

"It was a downright shame that we blew last week's game against Deckerville," Besonen commented Friday, "because we would have made it into the playoffs (with a win)."

Even with the one loss, the Bulldogs did much better than many anticipated. "This team wasn't expected to go very far by many people, but we had a lot of hitters and big hearts to work with," Besonen said.

The School for the Deaf hadn't won a game this season and didn't provide much competition. Substitutes played more than half the game for Owen-Gage and not only did all nine seniors play, they all got to carry the ball, no matter what their normal position.

It was the final gridiron contest for Stan Andrakowicz, Craig Enderle, Lee Gettel, Dan Glidden, Paul Lopez, Mike Powell, Jason Reinhardt, Nick Swiastyn and George Vargo.

Among them are the team's top offensive players and rebuilding the offense promises to be Besonen's biggest challenge next year. He noted optimistically, "I think we're going to be a little quicker in the backfield than the past few years."

Four key linemen will be returning, which will aid the defensive effort.

Besonen, who will be coaching his 15th season at Owen-Gage in 1983, noted Friday that there was only 282 days until the start of practice.

The Bulldogs' first touchdown last Thursday came on a 74-yard pass from Andrakowicz to Glidden. The latter then kicked the extra point.

Jason Reinhardt then carried the ball in from one yard out. Glidden kicked the extra point.

Andrakowicz scored his team's third touchdown of the first quarter on an 11-yard run. The extra point attempt was no good.

The Tartars did all the scoring in the second quarter, first on a 55-yard pass from Harry Sherrell to Steve Sink and then on a 40-yard run by Sherrell. Sherrell ran the ball over for two points after the first touchdown. The second PAT attempt was unsuccessful.

The third quarter again belonged to Owen-Gage, with Andrakowicz first scoring on a 10-yard run and Glidden kicking the extra point. Alan LeValley then scored from seven yards out, followed by his carrying the ball in for the two-point conversion.

In the fourth quarter, MSD's Sink ran 44 yards for a touchdown. The conversion attempt was unsuccessful.

Bulldogs lose 2 cage games

Owen-Gage played catch up at Uby last Thursday night but never was able to catch up all the way, losing 42-37.

With the non-league loss, the Bulldogs slip to 4-9 in the league, 5-11 overall.

Owen-Gage trailed by five points at the end of the first period, three at the half, and nine at the three-quarter mark.

Joan Mosack led Owen-Gage with 14 points and 13 rebounds.

Teresa Messing scored 10 points for Uby and pulled down 11 rebounds.

The junior varsity score was unavailable.

Coach Judy Campbell's Bulldogs were to play this Tuesday at Kingston, host Akron-Fairgrove Thursday two passes. MSD rushed for 233 yards in 30 carries and Sherrell completed four of 11 passes for 87 yards gained.

Leading rushers for Owen-Gage were Lee Gettel with 75 yards in 11 carries and Andrakowicz, six for 35 yards. Sink's 103 yards in seven carries was tops for the Tartars.

Owen-Gage's Andrakowicz' favorite target was Glidden, who caught two passes good for 92 yards.

Owen-Gage made 14 first downs, fumbled and recovered the ball once and was penalized six times for 51 yards. The host team gained six first downs, fumbled and recovered the ball once and was penalized four times for 35 yards.

Defensive standouts for Owen-Gage were Glidden and Gary Erickson, each with eight tackles, Matt Ricker with five and Swiastyn with four.

Bob White was responsible for 10 Tartar tackles and Brian Wittington had eight.

Girls finish fourth

Bliss state cross country team champ

Greg Bliss is the state champion harrier for the team competition at the state meet held at Watervliet Saturday and had the best time overall of any Class C runner in either the team or individual competition.

Led by Bliss, Cass City finished 13th in the finals with 320 points. Charlevoix with a third and fourth place finish was the easy team winner. The state champions scored 73 points. USA was 12th with 303 points and the Lakers 17th with 392 points.

Bliss took the lead at the first turn and was in front the entire race. His time was 16:43. Other Cass City runners finished in the following order, with the top seven runners figuring in the team totals.

Randy Jackson, 38, 18:07; Kevin Bliss, 56, 18:21.2; Tom Wallace, 110, 19:17.8; Randy Nicholas, 115, 19:27.7; Dickie Green, 125, 19:42.7; John Agar, 138, 20:32.9.

GIRLS FOURTH

Coach Doug Grezeszak was very pleased with his team's fourth place finish and reported this week that the girls might have been as high as second behind Benzonia Central.

The coach said that Carrie Lautner, who finished sixth, was on crutches Friday and had her injured leg packed in ice to just before the race. A healthy Lautner would have finished better, the coach feels. As it was, Lautner, who holds the state title in the mile and 2-mile, ran the distance in 20:40.9 after just participating in four meets all year.

Renae Stimpel also was a key performer for Cass City, finishing eighth with a time of 20:49.6.

Cass City finished fourth with 119 points. The runaway winner, Benzonia Central, finished with just 60 points, far ahead of second place DeWitt, 98 points. Just ahead of Cass City was Bath with 108 points. Fifth place Kalamazoo Hackett was far behind Cass City with 162 points. Sandusky finished sixth with 168 points.

Other Cass City runners finished in the following order: Lori Hurley, 22, 21:44; Chris Tuckey, 39, 22:23; Merilee Leslie, 44, 22:37. Also participating for the Hawks were Lisa Wilson and Tammy Roach.

Pair attend seminar on sex abuse

Janet Bryant, Cass City school nurse, and Jacqueline Freiburger, Campbell Elementary principal, attended a seminar on child sexual abuse in Caro Wednesday, Nov. 3.

The morning session was conducted by a police officer on the use of the polygraph machine to question the abuser. It is now against Michigan law to use the polygraph machine on a victim.

Lt. Richard Lothian also reviewed interviewing techniques with special emphasis on children. These techniques were especially helpful because they can be adapted to many different circumstances at school, not just child abuse cases.

The afternoon session was conducted by a self-help group called Parents United, with a therapist from Lutheran Child and Family Service of Bay City. The local chapters try to meet the needs of spouses, perpetrators (abuser), adults who were sexually abused as children, and children sexually abused by a parent or stepparent.

There are two groups for children, ages 11-14 and 6-11.

The first Michigan chapter, designed after similar programs in California, is still in its growing stages. It receives referrals through protective services, the judicial system, and individuals.

Information on Parents United or Daughters United can be obtained by calling Lutheran Child and Family Services, 892-1539.

Information on self-help groups for parents who physically or emotionally abuse their children can be obtained by calling toll-free 800-482-0747.

Faulty lights blamed in Saturday Main Street crash

A Unionville teenager was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales General Hospital, where he was taken following an 8:40 p.m. accident Saturday in Cass City.

Injured was Dennis Dillon, 18, of 2010 Dickerson Road, a passenger in a car driven by Steven J. Kamrad, 17, of 2682 E. Hoppe Road, Gage-town.

Village police reported their vehicle was eastbound on Main Street and as it was turning north onto Sherman Street, collided with the westbound auto of Harold R. Talaski, 31, of Bad Axe.

Kamrad and Dillon said the other vehicle did not have its lights on; Talaski said he was having alternator trouble and the lights were very dim. Talaski was ticketed on a charge of driving without lights on.

private treatment following a 12:05 a.m. accident last Thursday.

Sheriff's deputies said he was eastbound on Kelly Road, west of Cemetery Road, and when he attempted to stop, the vehicle slid off the south side of the road sideways, its left rear tire dug into the sod and it rolled over onto its top.

Hartwick said he had been trying to avoid hitting a deer and the brakes grabbed. He was ticketed on charges of being unable to stop within an assured clear distance and improper registration plates.

Cass City police reported a collision at 8:30 a.m. last Wednesday in the high school parking lot.

They said Lari Don Tonti, 17, of 6876 Herron Drive, was northbound and Kenneth L. Osentoski, 17, of 5301 Van Dyke Road, who was intending to back across the lane into a parking spot backed into the Tonti vehicle.

Vandalism, too

Police report minor thefts

Tools worth $200 were stolen from a Cass City man last week.

Larry Turnbull of 4965 Little Road told sheriff's deputies Nov. 1 that the assorted tools and tool box were taken from a vehicle parked at his home some time since 11 p.m. the night before.

Harold E. McQuiston of 2998 Froede Road, Kingston, told sheriff's deputies last Wednesday that a four-foot wide snowplow blade was stolen off a garden tractor parked in front of his tool shed. It was taken since 9 p.m. the day before.

The blade, worth $75, belonged to Howard Causley of Wilcox Road, Deford.

Helen Agar, owner of Helen's Beauty Salon, 6449 Main Street, reported to village police Saturday morning that she had been having problems with persons climbing onto the roof of her building, which caused it to leak.

She put two "no trespassing" signs on the roof and one of them was torn down. In addition, there are numerous cigarette burns on the carpeting on the steps leading to her business.

During the investigation, police found a sign attached to the side of the building at 6473 Main Street had been damaged.

Susan M. Mester of 5270 Shabbona Road, Deford, told police an unknown vehicle struck the left rear of her car and then left. The incident took place while her auto was parked at the Charmont from 6:30-10 p.m. Nov. 2.

Diane Nicholas of 4488 Leach Street reported to village police Saturday that a rock was thrown through a window of her home Oct. 30 at approximately 2:30 a.m.

Police were called to the Charlene Erickson home, 4779 Hospital Drive, last Thursday. They were told the mailbox and post had been pulled out of the ground Oct. 30.

Sign-up begins Monday for battle of books

Rawson Memorial Library, in cooperation with the Campbell Elementary and Cass City Intermediate School libraries, is sponsoring the third annual "Battle of the Books."

The program is designed to encourage children to read and to give recognition to those who do like to read.

All children in grades 3-6 are invited to participate. There are two divisions, one for third and fourth grades and one for fifth and sixth grades.

The students read from a selected list of 25 books and then participate in battles where they will compete against other teams by answering questions about the books.

Each team must have a team name, six team members, an alternate member if they wish, and an adult team manager.

The adult team manager will act as the contact person between the team and the library, arrange for transportation for the battles, and help with time-keeping and scoring at the battles.

Registration forms may be picked up at Rawson Memorial Library or at the school libraries, beginning Monday. Letters will be sent home to parents next week.

This year there is a permission slip to be returned. All children in grades 3-6 are invited to participate. There are two divisions, one for third and fourth grades and one for fifth and sixth grades.

New books at the library

THE GOD PROJECT by John Saul (fiction). Something is happening to the children of Eastbury, Mass. Something that causes healthy babies to turn cold in their crib. Something that awakens a parent's horrifying, nearly unspeakable, suspicion that somehow he may have passed on to his child some terrible, life-taking flaw. Something signaled by a single, innocent-looking word stamped on a school record. John Saul weaves medical fact and ingenious scientific speculation into a fabric of fear.

JANE FONDA'S WORKOUT BOOK by Jane Fonda (non-fiction). Fonda's program, cleverly dubbed "The Workout," relies heavily on dance exercises and other stretching drills. In Fonda's behalf, she does stress cardiovascular fitness as opposed to just developing a svelte figure. The exercises are photographed capably and presented intelligently. As an introduction, the reader is treated to Fonda's physical history complete with Dextrodine addiction and diuretic overuse.

SPACE by James Michener (fiction). The story of America's explorations and discoveries in space begins in October 1944 and is told through the lives of Stanley Mott, U.S. engineer; Norman Grant, naval hero; John Pope, football star and astronomy student, and rocket engineer Dieter Koiff. Based on the activities of NASA, the novel shows the scientific planning, the political and personal rivalries, astronaut training, and most of all, the excitement and anxieties of the flights of Gemini, Apollo, Viking and Columbia.

Sign-up begins Monday for battle of books

Permission slips should be attached to the registration form and be taken either to the school libraries or to

HEALTH TIPS

Head lice increase is nationwide

Have you recently been notified by a note or telephone call that your child has head lice?

If so, you are not alone. There has been a significant rise nationally in the incidence of head lice. Anyone can get lice. Having them is no disgrace, but doing nothing about them is a disgrace, according to the Sanilac County Health Department.

Following are some tips regarding lice that may be helpful in finding and also treating them:

1) Tell children not to share combs, brushes, hats, scarves, coats, and other clothing.

2) Watch to see if your children scratch their head frequently or complain of itching of the scalp.

3) Wash and check your children's heads frequently. Head lice are difficult to spot but they leave a definite trail - nits. Nits (eggs) are oval shaped, grayish white in color and are "glued" tightly to the hair. They cannot be easily removed like dandruff. These eggs hatch in 3-21 days and the cycle continues. Frequently the scalp and neck are bitten.

4) If you find lice or nits,

Transit (nonbusiness) rates. 15 words or less, $1.00 each insertion; additional words 5 cents each. Three weeks for the price of two - cash rate. Save money by enclosing cash with mail orders. Rates for display want ad on application.

Tentative 1983 Tuscola budget $4.6 million

The biggest hike, to offset declining state aid, is for the county medical care facility, with spending projected at $75,000 this year and $190,000 next year. (The county may actually spend more than $75,000 this year, once a funding dispute with the state is settled.)

Other big increases include employee hospital insurance, up from $148,700 this year to $171,000; insurance and bonds, up from $76,000 to $110,000, and drains at large, from $7,233 to $63,150 in 1983.

MOST ITEMS IN THE budget are the same as what was requested by the individual departments.

One that isn't is for the sheriff's department. Sheriff Paul Berry requested $1.14 million for 1983, up from $936,087 his department will probably spend this year.

He wanted more money to hire five female dispatchers so that the sergeants who presently do most of the dispatching could perform other duties. The budget finance committee rejected his request, although the department will receive more than it did this year, $989,836 in 1983.

There was $222,872 requested for the medical care facility, which was reduced to $190,000, although, as mentioned, that is considerably more than this year. Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn asked for money to hire a secretary, law clerk and part-time court reporter, but his request was rejected.

THERE ARE SOME "ifs" in the new budget. Commissioner Royce Russell of Cass City pointed out that the new wage schedule for sheriff's department employees, scheduled to be negotiated by last July 1, is in arbitration and the contract with courthouse employees expires July 1 of next year.

Money for pay raises will have to come out of the contingency fund, budgeted at $175,000 next year, compared to $25,000 budgeted for contingency this year.

Pay for elected officials and appointed department heads will remain the same in 1983, he said.

The contingency will also have to pay for the county's 50 percent share ($45,000) of a requested federal grant, if received for a new communications system for the sheriff's department, any additional money due the state for the medical care facility, plus other unanticipated expenditures, Kennedy said.

The county does have an additional reserve in that the proposed federal revenue sharing budget anticipates $147,361 to be left over at the end of the fiscal year, to be carried over into 1984.

THE PROPOSED 1983 revenue sharing budget consists of an anticipated $159,560 carried over from this year and $330,621 in new money from Washington next year.

Anticipated expenditures are $75,000 to the road commission and $75,000 to the health department, the same as this year; $181,451 as mentioned, to the general fund; $11,369 to county libraries, and the $147,361 fund balance.

Commissioners eliminated the subsidy to libraries this year, after it had been in effect for several years. The 1983 subsidy works out to the equivalent of 20 cents for each person in the areas served by each library, which is what they received in 1981. The libraries had asked for a 35 cents per capita subsidy.

The budget figures are all tentative, pending the outcome of a public hearing conducted Tuesday afternoon of this week at the board's regular meeting.

Payless paydays at Owen-Gage

going to end. Over a year, it adds up.

Warack then suggested payment of insurance should be taken care of at contract time.

Jack Brinkman protested, "I don't ask anyone to pay my insurance."

When Erickson then said if there was someone he thought should have their insurance paid for, he would bring it to the board, Cummins responded, "That's what I'm afraid of."

But when it came time to vote to pay half of Ms. McKeller's insurance, the protestors were in the minority.

Ronald Good, Patrick Goslin, Donna Salcido and Leona LaFave voted "yes," Brinkman and Cummins voted "no" and Warack abstained.

DICK HEADLEE

Dick Wallace reported on the first meeting of the citizens' advisory committee. Details appear in another story in this issue.

Don Shagene was hired to remove snow from school parking lots, replacing Hunt Construction which did not desire the job this year. The amounts will be about the same as last year, Crouse estimated. The cost per hour is lower but the equipment is smaller. The small loader will be $30 per hour. The big loader, $35 per hour, and the pickup with blade $30 per hour.

An evaluation form for the superintendent and the administrators was adopted and will be presented to the board before the February meeting.

Special board meetings will be held with administrators, bus drivers, and high school, intermediate and elementary staffs. The first will be with the administrators Nov. 29 from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Meetings will be arranged with the cooks and custodians and the secretaries.

When the Republican candidate spoke at the Huron County Farm Bureau annual meeting in early October, about 20 Owen-Gage band members, mostly junior high, played. Headlee took a turn at the drums.

Headlee was obviously pleased because a check for $200 from the Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. bearing his signature (Headlee is the firm's president) has been received, made out to the Owen-Gage junior high band.

The board decided the money will be used to buy a musical instrument.

It accepted the resignation of band director Clifford Westby, effective Nov. 24. He is starting a computer business.

Hired as his replacement, effective Nov. 29, was Joel Shaner of the Detroit area, a recent Central Michigan University graduate. He will work and be paid for five periods a day (normal is six).

OTHER ITEMS

The board authorized any members who want to, to go to the American Association of School Administrators convention in Atlantic City Feb. 25-28, which means the district will pay for lodging, meals and transportation. Last year, no one went to the AASA convention, including Erickson.

A letter was read from the Owen-Gage Education Association asking why teachers haven't received their individual contracts yet, which state their pay. The reply was they are being prepared.

OGEA President Manuel Thies said after the meeting he wasn't pleased with the delay, but there wasn't much that could be done about it. The contracts are usually ready by the beginning of the school year, he said.

A resolution was approved commending the 8-1 football team for its accomplishments and sportsmanlike conduct.

Student of the month is senior Craig Enderle.

Advisory committee meets

The first meeting of the citizens advisory committee or school steering committee was held at Cass City High School in the agriculture room Monday, Nov. 1. Supt. Donald Crouse, high school Principal Russell Richards, and agriculture teacher Lyle Clarke represented the schools' faculty.

School board members present were E. Thresa Burnette, Geraldine Prieskorn, Dick Wallace, and Dick Albee.

Committee members present were Ray Fleenor, Willard Dodson, Delores Garey, Ray Garey, Terri Groombridge, Arthur Holmberg, Beverly Langenburg, Fred Matthews, Roger Root, Robert Tuckey, and Beverly Potrykus.

The theme of the informal gathering was the beginning of a plan for better communication between all parties interested in having a first class school system in the Cass City area.

One of the first problems to be tackled is what has been called the polarization of the community - the struggle between the farming section and those living in the village.

The committee is inviting members of the community to help it work on the problems. Persons are invited to call the following members of the committee to make suggestions for improving the schools and if possible preventing any more battles over the way to keep the schools operating and the buses running:

Roger Root, 872-3718; Beverly Langenburg, (313) 672-9467; Fred Matthews, 872-2870; Beverly Potrykus, 1-683-2939, or Willard Dodson, 872-4136.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled at 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 6, at the high school.

Roger Root will be serving as chairman of the committee and Willard Dodson as reporter.

School board reduces budget

NEW CONTRACT

Alan Luce, the school's professional negotiator, was rehired with a $200 raise in salary. The 1982 calendar year salary was $4,800. The 1983 salary is $5,000.

The district received an unexpected windfall from Canteen, Inc., the concern that runs the school hot lunch program. Because the manager charges last year were $1,586.97 more than budgeted, the firm rebated that amount. It is Canteen policy, according to a letter, not to charge more than budgeted regardless of actual cost and to charge less than the amount budgeted if the costs are actually less.

OTHER BUSINESS

Marilyn Peters presented details of the remedial reading program at the school in accordance with the board's goal of having a report at each meeting concerning one phase of school activities.

Passport fees are slated to increase

Sanilac County Clerk De-lene Schultheiss has received information from the U.S. Passport Office regarding the proposed increase in passport fees and increase in validity period of passports.

The President has signed Public Law 97-241 which gives the U.S. Secretary of State the authority to regulate the passport fees.

Utilizing this authority, the Secretary has determined the passport fees should be raised to a proposed $35 for adults and $20 for minors under 18 years of age.

Presently passports cost $10 for all, regardless of age. Also, it is proposed that the fee for execution of the passport application be increased from the present $5 to $7.

The proposed fee changes have been published in the Federal Register. Following this publication, persons wishing to comment on the proposed fee changes will then have 60 days in which to do so. Should any objections arise which cause a reevaluation of the fee levels, they may be revised. Otherwise, they will become effective no earlier than Dec. 1 and possibly as late as Jan. 1.

At the same time, the proposed fee changes go into effect, the validity period for new passports issued after that date will be increased to 10 years for persons 18 years of age and above, but will remain at five years for persons under 18 years of age.

Passports are processed through the county clerks' offices. Mrs. Schultheiss urges persons that desire to obtain a passport, or those that need to renew theirs, to do so before December to avoid the proposed increase in fees.
