

New boards functioning

State test results mixed, says Cleland

Jerry Cleland, counselor at Cass City High School, presented the results of the Michigan Assessment tests to the Cass City School Board at its regular meeting Monday evening.

The results were mixed. In the reading tests the students showed an improvement in every grade over that of the previous year. In math there was an increase in the fourth grade but a decline in the seventh grade. There was a slight increase in the 10th grade math but only 61.9 percent of the pupils reached the test objectives. The student passes if 75 percent of the questions are answered correctly.

The seventh grade slipped badly in the math tests to 65.5 percent, Cleland said that there may have been an error in the grading and authorities are checking it out.

The good news for parents of students is that students in Cass City were above the expected state average in all areas except 10th grade reading which is expected to be about the same as the average.

The school curriculum also was discussed after a review of the English course at the school was presented by Yvonne Sherman and Kathy Iseler.

Trustee Dr. Paul Lockwood wanted to know why basic reading and English as taught today, including diagramming of sentences lapsed for 10 years previously. He claimed that a percentage of the students graduating couldn't read or write adequately.

The answer was that education went through a period when it wasn't deemed necessary to diagram sentences. Principal Bob Stickle challenged the assertion that many high school graduates could not read or write adequately.

NEW BOARDS

Two new boards are alive and active in the school. The board approved the agriculture advisory committee membership, officers and by-laws.

Officers are: Dave Milligan, chairman; Dick Shaw, secretary; Ron Cybulski, vice-chairman.

Members are: one-year terms, James Turner, Keith Little, Ed Ziembra, Dave Milligan; two-year terms, Dick Shaw, Arthur Severance, Robert Wischmeyer, Alan Hartwick; three-year terms, Ron Cybulski, Elwood Morell, Gary Smith, James Brown.

Cybulski told the board that the aims of the council were to show that agriculture can be more than just a person on the farm and to interest more students in agri-business.

He also said that the council wants to see better use of the land lab next to the school and better equipment for students.

Very important, he said was to get more of the community involved in agriculture.

The citizens advisory committee is also operating and officers have been elected. Louis Horner is the president. Willard Dodson is the secretary-recorder and Raymond Garey is vice-chairman.

OTHER BUSINESS

The school board voted to hold its next meeting at Evergreen School. Later in the school year a meeting will be held at Deford School.

Carol Pasant will teach second semester at Evergreen School while Mary Jo Mantey is on leave.

Tom Smith was hired as an intermediate school counselor for the rest of the year. The contract leaves the school the option of rehiring Eugene Lukshaitis if he is available next year. Lukshaitis was cut when the school was in its financial crunch and took a position at Deckerville.

At the request of Dave Lovejoy, director, the charge for students in high school completion classes but not in the high school completion program was increased from $25 to $40.

Board okays purchases

The Cass City School Board authorized the purchase of four buses, a copying machine and volleyball equipment Monday night at its regular meeting at the high school.

Three bids were received for the four buses. Low bidder was the McFadden Corporation which furnishes Wayne bodies, the same that are in use in the fleet now.

Total cost of the buses was $50,696. In a new procedure the schools asked for trade-ins of used buses. It proved to be profitable for the taxpayer.

McFadden will pay $9,755 for six used buses. When sold privately the best that the school received was a little over $1,000 per bus and most sold for much less than that.

Two other bids were higher. One made no offer for used buses and the other offered a total of $3,550.

It is expected that when the chassis are purchased, total cost for each bus will be about $25,000.

The board also approved the purchase of a copying machine for the high school office for a net cost of $4,507. The one now in use at the high school will be shipped to the Intermediate School office to replace a worn out machine there.

THUMB AGRICULTURE DAY Saturday at Cass City High School drew about 1,200 farmers from all over the upper Thumb, who viewed more than 60 commercial exhibits in the gym, shown here, and the hallways. There were also speakers and four mini-sessions offered. The annual event was held for the first time on a Saturday and at the high school. Attendance was about the same as last year. (See story below and on page 4.)

School recall fizzles as invalid signatures found

There will not be a recall election of three Cass City School Board members because petition circulators failed to gather enough valid signatures.

Petitions were circulated to recall Geraldine Prieskorn, Ben Hobart and Dr. Edward Scollon, DVM. A minimum of 818 signatures for each was required to force an election.

Petitions were turned in to county Clerk Elsie Hicks Nov. 15, who announced the results Monday of checking the validity of signatures by township clerks.

A total of 967 signatures were turned in seeking the recall of Mrs. Prieskorn, of which 803 were ruled valid.

There were 949 signatures on petitions naming Hobart, of which 793 were ruled valid.

A total of 937 signatures were obtained against Scollon, of which 790 were ruled valid.

Signatures were disqualified for three reasons, according to Mrs. Hicks. Some who signed were not registered voters and some who signed were not residents of the township in which the petitions were circulated. (Each petition could only contain signatures from registered voters in one township.)

A total of 20 signatures on two petitions naming each board member (total of six petitions) were disqualified because the person who signed them as circulator wasn't the one who actually circulated them.

THE PETITIONS WERE disqualified, Mrs. Hicks explained, after affidavits were submitted by some persons who had signed the petitions testifying the person who asked them to sign the petitions wasn't the one who later signed it.

Mrs. Hicks said the affidavits were submitted by persons at the request of the board members who were the subject of the recall effort.

Board members did have the right to challenge signatures on the petitions.

The three told the Chronicle they had checked the petition signatures and pointed out discrepancies for the township clerks to verify.

Mrs. Hicks said petition signatures were submitted from all 10 townships that are all or partially in the school district. No count was made of how many signatures were collected in each township, but most were from Elkland, Novesta and Evergreen.

THE PETITION DRIVE was organized by Victor and Shirley Beddow. Asked if she was surprised at the outcome, that there won't be a recall election, Mrs. Beddow responded, "Nothing surprises me any more."

She said there hadn't been any discussion yet by recall supporters whether any legal challenge might be made of the disqualified signatures.

The reason stated on the petitions for seeking the recall was that the board members had "refused to provide bus transportation for the students of the Cass City School District, contrary to the wishes of the electorate."

Busing didn't start this school year until Sept. 29, two days after voters approved a four-mill increase in property taxes.

HAD ENOUGH PETITION signatures been obtained, an election would have had to be held within 65 days of when they were verified.

If a majority had then voted to recall any of the three, another election would have been held within 60 days to fill the vacancies, which probably would have been in April.

If all three had been recalled, the person elected to fill the remainder of Hobart's term would have served until June, 1985, but those elected in place of Mrs. Prieskorn and Scollon would have only served about two months, because their four-year terms are expiring then.

Moderate income housing project alive in Gagetown

Apartments may be built in Gagetown.

The Owendale-Gagetown School Board Monday evening gave a commitment to Bavarian Builders of Frank-enmuth that it won't give an option on the 10 acres it owns at the corner of Bay City-Forestville Road and Fifth Street to anyone else for the next 60 days.

That will give the firm time to submit a pre-application for funding to the Farmers Home Administration (FHA).

Bavarian President Tim Zehnder told the board building 16 apartment units (eight per building) would cost about $475,000; 22 units, $675,000. The interest rate would be 11½ percent on a 50-year loan.

Having to go through conventional financing, he added, would mean an interest rate of 18½ percent, if financing could even be obtained.

Although the FHA has informed Zehnder it will probably have the funds available next year to make the loan, he cautioned the board, "I don't make any promises if you decide to give us an option on that property."

The comparatively low interest rate will allow comparatively low rents, but the FHA puts limits on how much income renters can earn to qualify to live there.

The proposed apartments, Zehnder explained, are those with moderate incomes. They won't be for low income persons or exclusively senior citizens.

After his presentation to the board, he told the Chronicle the adjusted gross income range necessary to qualify would be about $10,800 annually to $23,500.

Minimum rents, he told the board, would be $190 monthly for a one-bedroom apartment and $205 for a two-bedroom. Larger town-house apartments might also be available.

Those would be the minimum rents. Depending on what the renter earns, he or she might pay more.

Before the FHA grants the loan, Bavarian will have to conduct a survey to determine and show the need, which it will do by running newspaper advertisements asking would-be renters to express their interest.

If the units are built, they won't be finished until Gagetown's new sewer system is done in 1984.

Once done, Bavarian will turn over ownership to private investors, who will put up part of the construction cost. Investors can be local persons. Management might be by Crest Realty, which manages many of the similar apartments Bavarian has built elsewhere.

Among those it has built are the Northwood Heights Apartments in Cass City.

Depending on the number of apartments it will build, if it builds them, Bavarian will need from about 1½-3 acres. No firm price has been set, but the price talked about Monday was $1,500 per acre.

PAYLESS PAYDAYS

If the scheduled payroll Dec. 17 was met, Supt. Ronald Erickson reported, only $2,000 would be left in the treasury.

That isn't enough, so the next payday will be Dec. 31. That will mean three every-other-week paydays were missed.

The staff eventually will be reimbursed.

MEETING

Board members Ronald Good, Joseph Warack and Patrick Goslin reported on their recent informal meeting with state Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip Runkel.

He told them he does not want to merge Owen-Gage with other districts and the consolidation he has advocated is in urban areas.

I WILL BE at the Pinney State Bank Friday, Dec. 17, to collect taxes. Elkland Township Treasurer.

Good commented that some of what Runkel said conflicts with articles he (Good) has read concerning the superintendent.

Goslin felt Runkel was no different than other officials he has talked to in Lansing, so "I don't know" what he will do for Owen-Gage.

Warack commented that Runkel appeared to be sincere in his comments, so until or unless he does something negative, "we should at least give him one chance."

SUMMER TAXES

Erickson reported it appears the legislature by the end of this year will approve allowing school boards to bill property owners for half their school taxes in summer.

If a person's school property taxes totaled $500, he or she would pay $250 in winter and $250 in summer. Farmers and senior citizens would be exempt from paying in summer, though they could do so voluntarily, should a school board decide to collect summer taxes.

The advantage to Owen-Gage if it could collect $100,000 to $200,000, he explained, is that it would have to borrow that much less and therefore save in interest. This past summer, it bor-

Agriculture Day speaker says farmers need power

What agriculture needs is a Jane Fonda, Sister Thomas More Bertels told about 400 farmers at the annual Thumb Agriculture Day Saturday at Cass City High School.

Her afternoon speech was entitled, "How free is the enterpriser on the land?" "Name me a person in agriculture who has as much clout as Jane Fonda," said the outspoken nun, who is chairman of the farm labor management committee of American Agri-Women.

The actress, promoter of physical fitness and advocate of ultra-liberal causes has power, Sister Bertels suggested, and power is what farmers need, because they don't have it.

Because they don't have it, farmers must defend themselves from animal rights "fanatics," anti-pesticide lobbyists and government regulations which dictate such things as labor relations, who farmers can sell their products to and a "tax" on dairymen to make them reduce the amount of milk they produce.

The 50 cents per hundred-weight reduction in the milk support price wouldn't have been necessary, she suggested, if the government had put a lid on dairy imports.

As for embargoes, Sister Bertels said, although President Reagan removed the one imposed by President Carter on grain sales to Russia, he hasn't eliminated the policy of allowing them.

For instance, she said, when Wisconsin dairymen wanted to sell butter to the Soviet Union, which was willing to buy it at the market price, the Reagan administration vetoed the sale. "What did they think they would do with that butter, lubricate tanks?" she asked sarcastically.

Instead, the government permitted the sale of butter to New Zealand, but only at a bargain price.

Sister Bertels became interested in agriculture when she wrote her doctoral degree dissertation about the history of farm organizations from 1900-30.

Congress no longer responds to its Democratic and Republican leaders, the professor of history at Silver Lake College in Manitowoc, Wis., said - "Tip O'Neil couldn't get a bunch of Democrats to do nothing," - but instead responds to pressure or special interest groups.

That is why farmers need a Jane Fonda, she said, "to fight off the freaks who are attacking you."

PROBLEMS

She then listed the reasons why farmers have trouble organizing: -TOO MUCH FRAGMENTATION. There are more farm organizations in the United States than religious denominations.

-FARMERS ARE TOO independent.

-REGIONALISM. SHE mentioned the Oregon apple grower who told her she was always glad when she heard that a freeze damaged New York state apples until she met a grower from New York and the Arizona sheep herder who couldn't stand the way sheep are raised in Wisconsin.

-IMAGE. WHEN SHE spoke in Kansas, she found her audience was insulted because she had called them "farmers" instead of "ranchers."

She finally decided that with their cowboy hats and boots and sleeveless coats, "a rancher is a farmer with a touch of class."

She then told her upper Thumb farm audience, suggesting that in the public's mind, farmers don't have a good image, "I've never seen a picture of a hog man smoking a Marlboro."

-FARMERS ARE AFRAID to have power. "The main event is power. Power isn't something to be afraid of. Right now, it's the intervenors (special interest groups) who are calling all the shots."

If her speech Saturday was typical, she predicted, she will get some letters later suggesting that she, as a nun, should be preaching love, not power. Her response: "I tried love for 20 years and I didn't get anywhere."

-ADVERSARIAL RELATIONSHIPS. Some farm groups

OUTSPOKEN Sister Thomas More Bertels. A farmer once suggested she would have made a good farm wife. "On the contrary, I saved a farmer from an early death," she told her audience Saturday.

In announcing the fourth quarter dividend, Walbro President Lambert E. Alt-haver predicted gradually improving sales for the coming year.

"Sales levels in the first quarter of 1983 are expected to remain close to current levels. However, due to increased penetration in our existing markets, as well as inroads we have made into new market areas, we expect a solid improvement in sales volume beginning sometime in the second quarter. As a result, the second half of 1983 looks strong for Walbro," he said.

Big-time sports

By Jim Fitzgerald

If new Michigan State University football coach George Perles is as good as his word, the team's future is shaky. In July, Perles signed a contract to coach a professional football team for three years. Five months later he broke the contract.

But who cares? Perles will be paid $95,000 a year. He accepted the first offer made him by MSU Athletic Director Doug Weaver, and Perles told reporters he would have taken the job for less money if Weaver had opened the bidding with a lower figure. Weaver's shrewd negotiating doesn't make him a candidate to succeed Russ Thomas as general manager of the Detroit Lions.

So what? Lions owner William Ford publicly wails that his team is lousy, thus indicating that the players, no matter how much they gripe about Russ Thomas' parsimony, are being paid more than they're worth. Because Ford is admittedly selling an inferior product, he will lower ticket prices just as surely as he will put a Lincoln Continental into the Christmas stocking of each Lions fan.

Broken contracts are a jock tradition, as much a part of big-time sports as beer commercials. If a leader of young athletes can't be trusted to keep his word, no one worries about it. Give him a fat salary and a five-year contract anyway, especially if he's hired by a tax-supported school. It's OK if the university president is paid less than the football coach, but taxpayers would be embarrassed if the coach made less than the players whose education the taxpayers subsidize.

Likewise, it is unreasonable to expect the admission price to reflect the quality of play inside the arena. That type of thinking could lead to anarchy in the bleachers. Sports law decrees that the cost of tickets be determined by the extent of the blind loyalty of fans who have nowhere else to get blind while drinking off a tailgate.

It's OK if athletes, coaches and team owners are mobile mercenaries staging their show wherever the financial rewards are greatest. But fans must stay put, trapped within the boundaries of geographical partisanship, required forever, whatever the ticket cost, to root, root, root for the home team even though all of its players are from out of town and never unpack.

That's the way things have always been in the wonderful world of big-time sports, ever since the invention of the turnstile, and always will be. So why waste time sneering about it?

Because maybe things won't always be the same. I am encouraged by a new sports statistic that, since the end of the National Football League strike, has recorded the disappearance of fans. I mean the no-shows who even though they previously bought tickets, don't show up at the games. They stay home to demonstrate how angry they are about the strike—angry enough to waste their money.

There is great satisfaction in not putting your fanny where your money is. No-showing could become fashionable, especially if it continues to be reported on sports pages along with other epochal news. People with tickets could start skipping all sorts of sports events for all sorts of angry reasons.

The message sent by no-shows is that the home team isn't worth wasting time on. Ultimately, they could decide it isn't worth wasting money on, either. They could stay home without first buying tickets, thus becoming no-pays as well as no-shows.

At that time, of course, big-time sports will cease to exist as we know them. Athletic games will be played for fun, instead of money, and fans will be blindly loyal to neighborhood sandlot teams that don't have greedy owners, overpaid players or coaches not as good as their word.

Sports will be as they were before the invention of the turnstile, and empty stadiums everywhere will echo with mournful sounds of the goose's bereft survivors accusing one another of scrambling the golden eggs. Too bad.

The Haire Net

In the news last week were a pair of stories that undoubtedly pleased all the critics of media that say the "good news" is ignored and the "bad news" reported.

The first was the results of a plea by a Detroit News columnist for funds for the annual Goodfellow Drive for Christmas funds for the needy. According to the writer the response was overwhelming.

The second was a national TV news report showing the cooperation of the entire town of Bridgeport, Conn., that rebuilt a "Christmas house" that was burned by arsonists and replaced destroyed gifts for the poor. It made it possible to continue an event that has been a tradition there for many, many years.

What's more it was done in four days with the cooperation of trade unions, interested residents and business people. In short everyone, white and black, pitched in to make it a merry Christmas for the kids in Bridgeport.

You'd have to be an awful Scrooge not to be lifted by stories like these. And these aren't isolated cases either.

Time after time folks in this community have come to the aid of stricken neighbors. When a tragedy hits here the community invariably responds. As tough as times are, the annual United Way drive in Elkland-Novesta Townships passed its goal.

It's human to feel a little self-righteous glow when you help out in cases like that. Nothing wrong with it, either.

Does it make me a Christmas grinch to feel that the actions of these good people are a paradox?

How many of them, I wonder, would shun a black neighbor if he moved in next door?

How many of them cast slurs just because of race? Religion?

Certainly a wide percentage including many of the very same persons who dug down with time or money or both to help out at Christmas.

The real truth is that as great as it was for the folks in Bridgeport, Detroit and Cass City to help out that doesn't really touch them where they live.

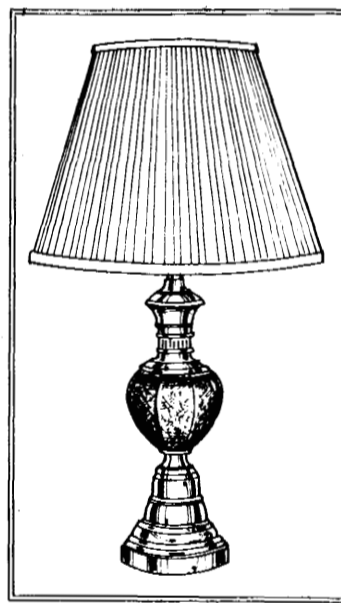

After Christmas is over each of us will go on doing whatever it is that we always do and the plight of the folks that received a helping hand will be forgotten.

It's much easier to spend a little time or money once in a while than it is to get involved on a daily basis with problems that won't be solved by a bandaid here and there.

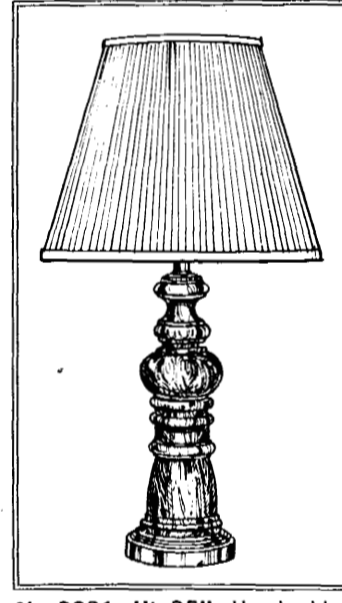

It makes nice reading at Christmas to learn about the Bridgeports of the country. When real progress is made a black will move in next door and no one will think anything more about it than they do today when any new family moves in.

We've a way to go to reach that real spirit of Christmas.

COMPUTERS were a popular attraction at Thumb Agriculture Day Saturday. James Earl (in front) of Concord demonstrates use of the computer he sells to Jim Bolton of Cass City, president of the Federal Land Bank Association in Caro. In addition to commercial exhibitors, a Michigan State University farm management specialist taught two mini-sessions on farm use of computers.

Animal welfare groups pose threat, farmers told

"We must let the 97 percent of the American population who don't farm know what we do and how we do it."

That was the warning Dr. Stanley Curtis, professor of animal science at the University of Illinois, had for his audience of about 400 farmers Saturday morning at the annual Thumb Agriculture Day at Cass City High School.

If farmers don't get their message across, he warned, non-farmers will increasingly believe the message of advocates of animal rights, some of whom believe one of those rights should be that animals won't be consumed by humans.

"We in animal agriculture have nothing to be ashamed of... though we can always improve," he said.

Curtis has studied the animal rights movement in Europe, where in some countries laws have already been passed restricting poultry and livestock practices, and in the United States.

He added that in Europe, the movement is starting to meet political resistance.

The movement in this country started gathering steam in 1975, he said, with the writing of the book, "Animal Liberation," by Peter Singer, who doesn't believe animals should be used for research or food.

Another influence he mentioned is Dr. Michael Fox, a veterinarian who writes a newspaper column about animals, whom some in the movement consider too moderate.

(After his speech, he mentioned that Fox sometimes eats meat, whereas some animal welfare groups won't even let anyone attend their meetings if they are wearing leather shoes or belts.)

ANIMAL WELFARE activists, Curtis warned, are "adept politicians."

For example, he mentioned an animal welfare bill got to its third reading in the California legislature before farm groups found out about it.

The presumably unsuccessful legislation — he didn't say — would have allowed deputized animal inspectors, appointed by local humane associations, to inspect animal farms without a search warrant.

He often spoke about the Humane Society of the United States (different from the American Humane Association). Projected on the screen behind him was one of its advertisements: "Did you think about the steer that meat from your last hamburger came from?"

It is advocating a boycott of veal ("No veal, no meal"), which has so far been unsuccessful, Curtis said, and has "very biased" workbooks being used by students in schools.

"ANIMAL AGRICUL-

2) Farmers should be more aggressive in pointing out instances of animal abuse to the abusers, "to those who have the wrong attitude about relationships between man and animal."

The implication was potential ammunition for animal welfare groups should be eliminated, lest they claim abuses are commonplace.

3) Farmers must play an active public relations role at the local level in talking to students and others.

Curtis pointed out that some of the most vocal animal welfare spokesmen have never been on a farm.

4) Those in agriculture must remind themselves that they have nothing to be ashamed of in terms of how they raise their livestock. "We were the original animal welfarists."

Two recipes for Christmas

CANDLEGLOW CASSEROLE

- 8 to 10 servings
- 1 package (7 oz.) spinach noodles, cooked and drained
 - 1 cup diced, cooked turkey, chicken or ham, optional
 - 5 hard-cooked eggs*, sliced
 - 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded mozzarella cheese
 - 3 eggs
 - 1 cup (8 oz.) small curd cottage cheese
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
 - 1 teaspoon garlic salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon basil leaves, crushed

In greased 12 x 7 1/2 x 2-inch baking pan or dish, layer 1/3 of the noodles, turkey, if desired, sliced eggs and mozzarella cheese. Repeat layers twice. Beat together 3 eggs, cottage cheese, milk and seasonings until well blended. Pour over layers. Cover and bake in preheated 350°F. oven 30 minutes. Uncover and continue baking until cheese is lightly browned, 5 to 10 minutes. *To hard-cook, put eggs in single layer in saucepan. Add enough tap water to come at least 1 inch above eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling. Turn off heat. If necessary, remove pan from burner to prevent further boiling. Let eggs stand covered in the hot water 15 to 17 minutes for Large eggs. (Adjust time up or down by about 3 minutes for each size larger or smaller.) Immediately run cold water over eggs or put them in ice water until completely cooled. To remove shell, crackle it by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell, then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell.

Farmer power

feel they are better than others. All farm groups need to cooperate, as well as all components of the food industry.

OPTIMISM

Sister Bertels did see some signs for optimism.

Together is increasing, especially mergers among farmer cooperatives. "I'm not afraid of bigness."

Secondly, some commodity groups are doing a "fantastic job" of promoting their products. She mentioned pork producers as one example.

Lastly, women are increasingly being involved in agriculture in an organized way, starting with the formation of Woman for Survival of Agriculture in Michigan in 1969.

Women are interested in lobbying and promoting farm products and have more time to do it than the men on the farm, she said.

She reminded her mostly male audience — there were no more than about 15 women present — that it is females who control the demand for food and fiber. "If a broad doesn't want it, get out of business."

McDonald's became a giant in the fast food business, she offered as an example, because women didn't want to cook any more.

The agricultural spokeswoman, who has been interviewed on the "Today" television show, closed by reminding her farm audience that Adam and Eve were the first farmers and they were kicked off the farm because they couldn't take a hint.

As farmers, she said, "... you're going to have to do a lot more than keep away from apples."

Pedaling Around Last gasps

By Mike Eliasohn

The accident victim is near death as he is placed in the ambulance.

The driver is about to start on what will literally be a race for life when the victim, with what could be his last breath, gasps, "St. Mary's Hospital, please. I saw their emergency room on television."

St. Mary's, which is in Saginaw, is one of a few hospitals in the Flint-Saginaw-Bay City area that is advertising on television.

It is the only one that has advertised its emergency room. Another has advertised itself as the friendly hospital, where all the nurses cheerfully say, "Good morning doctor." What they say to the patients wasn't recorded.

There have also been ads promoting a maternity department, sports medicine department for those with tennis elbows and joggers' knees and the number of doctors on one hospital's staff.

Will some hospital some day have the nerve to promote its oncology (cancer) department?

The reason the hospitals are advertising on the tube, of course, is money. Hospitals need it, like everyone else, and they don't make money if their beds are empty.

Television isn't the only way hospitals promote themselves. Hills and Dales General Hospital, for instance, periodically sends out its "For Your Good Health" leaflets, which are a subtle form of promotion.

Hospitals are not the only institutions advertising these days. Colleges and universities are also buying television time, though not as much as Ollie Fretter.

Again the reason is money. Colleges need it and it doesn't cost any more for a professor to teach 30 students in a class than it does 25.

Fifth grade school holiday play Thursday

The fifth grade class of Peggy Flynn and student teacher Pat Vollmar will present a short holiday play, "Long Live Christmas," about the special things that make up Christmas, this Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Cass City Intermediate School gymnasium.

There is no admission charge.

Colleges have also been expanding their services and offerings in an effort to attract more students. Sometimes they even expand into other college's territories.

Michigan State University, for instance, has a graduate student facility in Saginaw and another, for business seminars and the like, in, I think, Troy.

Saginaw Valley State College's classes offered at Cass City High School in the evening and on week ends is another example of expansion.

I recently had a conversation with a college instructor who was teaching a class that he doubted really belongs on a college campus.

The reason it is offered, he said, was because the subject is popular and lots of students will take the class, so for the college, teaching the subject is a good money-maker — much better than philosophy, for instance.

I suppose one could argue the instructor is an elitist who feels he knows better than does the public what the public should know.

Some scholars do seriously argue, to get on a tangent, that the United States is falling behind the rest of the developed world because not enough persons are learning certain subjects that would help us to be more competitive.

We Americans expect the rest of the world to speak English because we are too lazy to study their languages. Few colleges and even fewer high schools require learning of a foreign language.

Our nation has few experts on the Soviet Union, our biggest enemy, because very few Americans study Russian.

We are falling behind in the sciences and technology because comparatively few students want to study math, chemistry, physics, etc.

Americans haven't lost their flair for promotion, however, and these hard economic times have seen two ailing industries band together to promote "buy a car and get a free airline ticket."

One camera company also has a promotional tie-in with an airline.

Perhaps hospitals and colleges will be next.

Some day soon on television we may hear, "Have your baby in Community Hospital and 18 years from now, he or she will be entitled to one semester's free tuition at State College."

CHALK TALK — Shirley Tuckey made a chalk drawing to illustrate the story of the birth of Jesus for children and adults who attended the 2:30 program at the Cass City Missionary Church during the Sunday Christmas tour of churches. Sherry King used a "flannel gram" to illustrate the story at 3:30 and Mary Lou Cooper read it at 4:30.

CHRISTMAS TREE — Each of the ornaments on the Christmas tree at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church has a special religious meaning. Kaye Butler (left) and Dale Rae pointed them out Sunday to the latter's children, Stephanie, 5, and Jason, 2. The church was one of the stops on the Christmas tour of churches.

Kingston home burns Tuesday

Fire Tuesday afternoon blamed on a faulty electric heater heavily damaged a home in Kingston.

The home on Kingsbury Street is owned by Richard Tuinstra. He and his wife are houseparents at Teen Ranch and they and their son live most of the time there.

No one was home when the fire was discovered shortly after noon. The Elkland Township Fire Department was called to assist at 12:30.

Kingston Fire Chief Robert Phillips said Tuinstra told him that the heat wasn't on in the house, since no one was there, except for the electric heater in the laundry room, which was to keep the pipes from freezing.

The home suffered extensive structural and smoke damage, including damage to the roof, but Phillips thought it might be rebuilt.

able. He estimated the loss at about $30,000.

Making the fire in the large old frame two-story structure hard to extinguish, Phillips said, was that it got a good start before someone discovered it and it spread quickly above the dropped ceilings and through open spaces.

Elkland fire fighters brought a pumper, van which carries air tanks, and air compressor for refilling the air tanks, which was towed by the grass fire truck.

Firemen used a lot of air bottles for breathing, noted Phillips, who expressed appreciation to the Elkland department for its assistance.

Elkland fire fighters didn't finish cleaning up at the Cass City fire hall until 4 p.m.

Kingston firemen were at the scene until about 4:30.

Pillsbury bonds approved by EDC

The Cass City Economic Development Corp. (EDC) last Wednesday authorized the sale of $300,000 in limited obligation economic bonds by the Pillsbury Co. to help it finance the purchase of the former Wickes elevator in Cass City.

Pillsbury, based in Minneapolis, bought the entire Wickes Agriculture division in May, which included the elevator here.

Its application to the EDC went through various procedural steps during the past several months, with the authorization for the sale of the bonds the last one.

The next step is for the company to sell the bonds, on which it pays all principal and interest and other costs. Pillsbury ever defaults, the bondholders foreclose on the company, thus there is no risk or cost to local taxpayers.

Buyers of the bonds don't have to pay tax on the interest, which enables Pillsbury to sell the bonds, that is, borrow money, at a lower rate of interest.

EDCs, authorized by state law in 1974, can issue bonds to finance industrial or business projects to create or retain jobs. The latter is the purpose for the Cass City bonds.

The $300,000 apparently isn't the total cost of the elevator purchase, since when Pillsbury first applied to the EDC in March, it said it planned to issue $800,000 in bonds to finance the purchase.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Christmas tour very inspiring

To the Editor,
Thank you to all the churches that participated in the Christmas tour Sunday afternoon and bravo to Joyce Loomis for organizing the tour. It was a job well done.

It was a very inspiring afternoon and the sun shone so brightly that it felt like the spirit of Christ was shining on us as we toured the churches. That truly was the meaning of Christmas.

Hope it will continue in years to come.

Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schell

Christmas church tour delightful

Dear Editor,
I just wanted to write a note thanking all the people of the churches who took part in honoring Jesus Sunday afternoon.

Not only did it remind us why we are celebrating Christmas but it was a delightful way to spend Sunday afternoon.

Thanks again,

Laurie again Farm Bureau vice-president

Jack Laurie of Dodge Road, Cass City, was re-elected vice-president of the Michigan Farm Bureau Dec. 3 at the reorganizational meeting of the organization's 16-member board of directors.

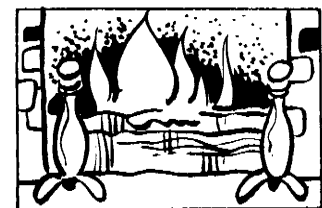

The meeting took place following the close of the MFB's annual meeting in Grand Rapids.

Laurie, a dairy farmer, is starting his seventh year as vice-president.

Also reelected by the board was Elton R. Smith of Caledonia as president, a position he has held since 1964, and Donald Nugent of Frankfort as the third member of the board's executive committee. Smith was re-elected after having been unanimously nominated by the delegates at the annual meeting.

Laurie was also reelected to the board to represent District 6, which consists of Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac, LaPeer, Macomb and St. Clair Counties.

Newly elected to the MFB board was Faye Adam of Snover, representing Farm Bureau Women.

Six deer-car mishaps in area

Deer hunting season may be over except for bow hunters, but on the highways, deer and cars are still tangling, with six such collisions having been reported in the area in the past several days.

The accidents, reported by Tuscola County sheriff's deputies unless otherwise indicated, were:

Ronald D. Parrish, 37, of 1261 Cemetery Road, Deford, while northbound on Cemetery Road, south of Van Allen Road, at 7:30 a.m. Saturday.

John B. Johnson, 24, of Caro, while southbound on Cemetery, north of Shabbona Road, at 1:05 a.m. Saturday, according to Caro state police.

Robert E. Lefler, 45, of 8254 Van Dyke Road, Cass City, while eastbound on M-81, east of Schwegler Road, at 6 p.m. last Thursday.

Ray L. Connell, 68, of Deckerville, while eastbound on Deckerville Road, east of Hurds Corner Road, at 11:15 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 8.

Daniel L. Neahusan, 17, of Caro, while westbound on M-81, east of Schwegler Road, at 6:05 p.m. Dec. 7, according to Cass City police.

Edward J. LaBelle, 40, of 6793 Third Street, while westbound on M-81, west of Crawford Road, at 5:55 p.m. Dec. 7, according to Cass City police.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Village police arrested Selma A. Schulz, 49, of 6242 River Road, on a charge of operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor after an accident at 8:05 p.m. last Wednesday.

They reported her car was southbound on Seeger Street, south of Third Street, crossed the centerline and collided with the northbound vehicle driven by Ellis C. Karr, 51, of 3508 N. Cemetery Road.

Ms. Schulz was later released from the county jail after posting bond. Arraignment before District Judge Richard F. Kern is scheduled Monday.

At 10 p.m. Dec. 8, village officers said, Rocky L. Dibble, 21, of Caro, was going to turn right from southbound Seeger onto Sixth Street and lost control on the icy pavement.

His car spun around, ran head first into a tree off the east side of the street, bounced off, spun again, and the rear end of the car smacked into the tree.

At 10:20 p.m. last Thursday, deputies reported, Sherry C. Robles, 31, of 6394 River Road, Cass City, was eastbound on Elmwood Road, east of Cemetery Road, when she failed to negotiate the right turn onto the bridge over the Cass River and her car became lodged against the bridge guard rail.

Cass City police reported that at 10:35 a.m. Friday, Ruth M. Peasley, 56, of 7625 Shabbona Road, Deford, was backing away from a parking place alongside the Pinney State Bank and backed into a parked car owned by Louis S. Nauka, 6, 2603 Hadley Road, Deford.

At 3 p.m. Dec. 7, according to deputies, Marion M. Gilmore, 29, of 3382 Pine Street, Kingston, was starting to back out of a parking place in front of Barden's Hardware in that community.

She turned too sharply and her car struck the left side of the car parked alongside owner of which was unidentified in the police report.

Tell rules for driving snowmobiles

Youngsters between ages 12 and 16 may operate a snowmobile in Michigan under only two circumstances:

If they have in their possession a snowmobile safety certificate or if they are under the direct supervision of a person 18 or older. Operators between 12 and 16 may cross highways or streets only if they have a valid snowmobile safety certificate.

Youngsters under 12 may not cross streets and highways and may drive snowmobiles only under the direct supervision of an adult.

Safety education classes are offered by volunteer instructors and by some local sheriff's departments. Your Department of Natural Resources district office will have a list of available classes.

Although a certificate is required only of operators between 12 and 16, safety education classes are recommended for individuals of any age who are new to snowmobiling.

There were 20 deaths involving snowmobiles during the 1981-82 snow season, 20 during the 1980-81 season and 28 during the 1979-80 season. Last winter four of the deaths occurred when snowmobiles went through the ice.

Other deaths occurred in accidents involving cars or trucks on the highway. Snowmobiles may be operated on the right-of-way of state highways but not on the plowed shoulder except to cross a river on a bridge. State law provides for counties to allow snowmobile operation on the right-of-way of county roads if the county chooses to do so.

All snowmobiles must be registered except those operated exclusively on lands owned or under control of the snowmobile owner or those used entirely in safety education and training programs conducted by certified snowmobile safety instructors.

Machines used in special events of limited duration also are excluded from registration requirements, but these events must be prearranged and held under permits issued by the Department of Natural Resources.

Registrations, which can be acquired at your local Secretary of State office, are $15 and are valid for three years from the date of purchase.

New books at the library

SPEAKEASY by Nathaniel Benchley (fiction). The most popular speakeasy in New York in the 1920s is the focal point for Nathaniel Benchley's new novel. Started as a friendly, family-type club, soon the famous, the infamous, as well as the ordinary folk gather at Nick's... a home-away from home. Into Nick's in its early days comes a young teetotaler named Butterworth, and as the speakeasy grows in size and savvy, so does he... until one day, a casual conversation at the bar changes his life forever.

PROMISES by Catherine Gaskin (fiction). As an abandoned child in a turn-of-the-century English mill town, Lily's future looked bleak. She was too young, and too distraught, to entertain visions of becoming the mistress of a grand manor, the wife of a dashing war hero and eventually hostess of a glittering salon in America. Yet, the generosity of a stranger was to make all this so.

THE POSITIVE FAMILY by Arvella Schuller (non-fiction). The wife of the famous reverend Dr. Robert Schuller shows how a positive mental attitude can make all the difference in family relationships and offers thoughtful, explicit advice on how to give the family top priority in the lives of all its members. Included is a chapter on team marriage and a discussion of how best to meet crisis as a family, as the Schullers had to do when their youngest daughter lost a leg in a motorcycle accident.

Police investigate 3 thefts

$2,000 in cash, jewels heisted

Cass City police investigated three thefts last week, the largest of which involved the taking of a safe containing approximately $2,000 in cash and jewelry.

Maxine Smith of 6325 Main Street reported Friday morning that a small safe had been taken from an upstairs bedroom of her home the previous day between 11 a.m. and 11 p.m.

In addition to the cash, it contained two rings and one necklace, all with diamonds, a silver coin collection and some other silver and some important papers.

Police Chief Gene Wilson said Tuesday that the value of the items taken, other than the cash, hadn't been determined yet. Investigation is continuing.

Michael W. Jones of 5676 Pringle Road, Decker, told village officers late Saturday night that the window of his car was broken in order to gain entry to his car.

Taken from it were a Kenwood combination

AM-FM radio and cassette players, two Craig speakers, a case and 19 cassettes and a Sun tachometer.

Value of the stolen items and broken window wasn't listed on the police report.

The car was broken into between 9 and 11 p.m. Saturday while it was parked in the lot of Leach and Pine Streets.

Dewain Jones of 4182 Pringle Road told police his car was entered while it was parked behind the high school from 12:45-1:35 p.m. Friday.

Taken were two Clarion speakers, worth $165, a cassette box and 85 cassettes, valued at $8 each.

Ralph Retherford of 4646 Hunt Street told Cass City police Monday afternoon that someone kicked a dent in the door of his car while it was parked behind Fort's store Saturday. The kick apparently knocked the chrome molding off the door.

Kathlene E. Eschtruth of 4511 Phillips Road, Kingston, reported to sheriff's deputies Dec. 2 that the camper top was stolen from a pickup parked in her driveway.

It was valued at $150 and was taken between 7 and 9:30 p.m.

LIBRARY TREE -- Children such as Kristina Albee (left) and Jackie Younglove helped make ornaments and other decorations Saturday afternoon for the tree at Rawson Memorial Library. Children are invited to come to the library and make their own ornaments for the tree, which have their name on it and the name of their favorite book or author.

Cass River work to cost $175,000

Horatio Pardy and Sons of Snover was awarded the bid last Wednesday for excavation, clearing and leveling of the south fork of the north branch of the Cass River in Austin and Minden Townships.

The bid was the lowest of 11 opened that day, according to Sanilac County Drain Commissioner Stuart Armstead, and was about $35,000 less than the estimate.

The firm will try to start work immediately, he said, weather permitting. The project must be done by Nov. 1, 1983.

Total cost of the project, including the contracted work plus engineering fees, inspection, restaking and inspection, will be $175,000. Armstead said Friday he was just starting to determine what percentage of the costs the benefitting owners, townships, county and highway department will pay. That is to be completed by Dec. 29.

The 8.8 miles of drain to be cleared runs west from the

Elkland tables bid for money

The Elkland Township Board was presented Monday evening with a request for $6,000 for the Rawson Memorial Library for 1983.

The request, which is for $500 more than the township gave this year, was presented by library board member Maynard McConkey.

The board, whose new fiscal year doesn't start until April, didn't act on the request.

Reappointed to the township planning commission was Jack Laurie of Dodge Road.

Greenleaf-Austin Township line to 1 1/4 miles east of the Austin-Minden Township line. It is all within the area from Bay City-Forestville Road south two miles.

The section of the river, Armstead said, was first established as a drain in 1902, when it was deepened and widened, and nothing has been done to it since.

The project this time will consist of cleaning the drain out, clearing the ditch banks and seeding. There will not be any straightening.

It was initiated by a petition signed by property owners who would benefit from it and authorized by a board of determination.

The proposed project created "minimal controversy," according to the drain commissioner.

The determination board's first meeting, held last February, attracted 57 persons. There was concern expressed about whether there would be an adequate outlet for the cleared drain and some persons had questions about what was going to be done, Armstead said.

Crash victim seeks damages

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce, the Charmont and its owner, Clare Comment, are among defendants in a lawsuit filed by a passenger injured in a July 4, 1981, traffic accident in Cass City.

The suit recently filed in Huron County Circuit Court seeks "fair and just" damages in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of the court, which is $10,000.

Plaintiff is Tim Chappel of Huron County, then 18, a passenger in a car driven by Douglas J. Van Valkenburgh, which at 1:55 a.m. on that day slammed into the rear of a car driven by Christine Buehrly on Main Street.

She, Van Valkenburgh, Chappel and four other passengers in the Van Valkenburgh auto were injured.

In addition to the Chamber of Commerce, Comment, the Charmont, and C and H Lanes (another name for the bowling alley and restaurant), the suit names as defendants Van Valkenburgh and Jeffrey Matelski, owner of the car he was driving.

It claims that Van Valkenburgh, then 21, from Fillion, had been a customer in the beer tent operated by the Chamber in connection with the July 4th Festival, which was located on property behind and owned by the Charmont.

It further claims that he was served despite being "visibly intoxicated, which was a violation of state law."

A jury trial has been demanded. Chappel is represented by Detroit attorney Lisa Gleicher.

Van Valkenburgh eventually pleaded guilty in Tuscola County District Court to driving under the influence of liquor in connection with the accident and was sentenced to 20 days in jail and one year of probation.

Mobile home fire cause unknown

Cause of a fire that destroyed a mobile home in northern Kingston Township early Wednesday morning, Dec. 8, will remain unknown, according to Detective Ron Phillips of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

There wasn't enough left of the home except charred metal to enable a cause to be determined, he said.

One possibility was electrical, since electricity was still on to run the water pump. The propane tank was empty.

The home was owned by Barbara Hettler. The person who was renting it was out of state at the time. The fire was extinguished by Elkland Township fire fighters.

Reward paid for road sign damage info

The Sanilac County Road Commission has given a $200 reward, split among three persons, whose information given to the sheriff's department led to the conviction of a person for damaging road signs.

The Road Commission, Engineer-Manager Jack Kineman explained, has a standing policy of a $200 reward to persons who furnish information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone destroying road signs or other road agency property.

Information furnished by the three persons, whose names are being kept anonymous, resulted in the eventual conviction of Paul G. Dybilas of 4320 Holbrook Road, Uby, for malicious destruction of property for damaging road signs July 4 along Germania Road between Cumber and Holbrook Roads.

He was sentenced to 10 days in jail and ordered to pay $200 restitution.

Tschirhart funeral held Saturday

Susan M. (Deachin) Tschirhart, 69, of Uby, died last Wednesday at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, following a long illness. She was born June 2, 1913, in Bingham Township, the daughter of Frank X. and Theresa (Gwisdalla) Glaza.

Susan Glaza and Robert J. Deachin were married June 18, 1934 at St. John's Catholic Church, Uby. He preceded her in death in May, 1958.

She married Reynold J. Tschirhart May 6, 1967 at St. John's Catholic Church, Uby, and a former officer in the church's Altar Society and Christian Mothers Society.

Mrs. Tschirhart was a 48-year member and 1981 chairperson of the Bingham Home Extension Study Group, secretary of the Uby Senior Citizens Club and a former clerk at Glass Fashions, Bad Axe.

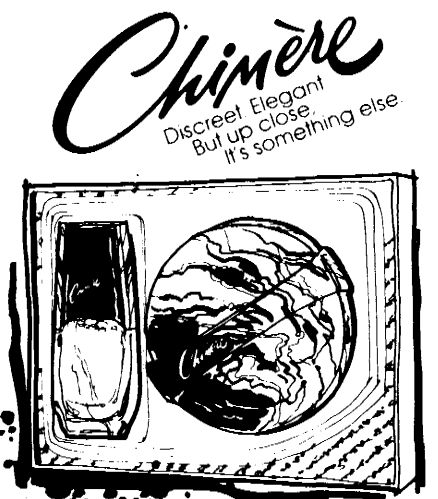

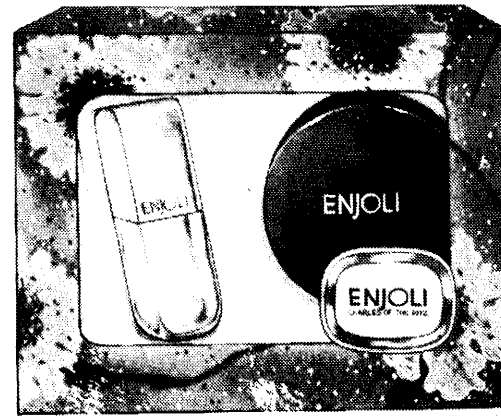

Surviving are her husband, Reynold; one daughter, Mrs. Gil (Jean) Maurer, Elkton; three sons, Robert D. Deachin and Ronald C. Deachin, both of Lake Orion, and Staff Sgt. Carey D. JOE LANGENBURG made a crisp pass in the second quarter that resulted in a Hawk score but bright spots were few as USA rallied to overpower the Hawks Tuesday.

Hawks need win in first home game to break losing streak

Maybe the friendly confines of its home gym Friday when Sandusky comes to town for a Thumb B Association clash will be the tonic that the Cass City Red Hawks need to start winning.

The Hawks lost to the USA Patriots Tuesday night when they went stone cold dead in the last quarter and a half to blow a 10-point lead and lose 53-50.

It was the third defeat in four road games for Cass City which has yet to perform in front of the home folks.

Cass City had trouble early in the first quarter as the Patriots' full court press caused numerous turnovers. The Hawks fell behind 15-10 with two minutes left in the period.

The team adjusted and came roaring back to close within a point at the quarter, 15-14.

Cass City finally tied the game for the first time with 6:58 left and stayed on the heels of USA until midway in the period when coach Ron Nurnberger's charges took a 23-22 lead for the first time since the opening basket of the game.

The Hawks ended the half ahead, 26-23, mainly through a fast break down the floor led by John Meininger. The big center scored 15 points in the first two quarters.

Things looked bright for Hawk followers immediately after the intermission. Cass City came roaring out and quickly boosted its margin. With some crisp passes and close in shots, the Hawks were ahead 36-28 with a little over half the quarter gone.

Right here Cass City went stone cold dead. By the time the quarter ended USA had forged in front, 38-36.

With 6:07 left in the game the Patriots widened the margin to 44-38 behind the ball handling and outside shooting of Dave Simmet.

The Patriots continued to pour it on, outbounding and outplaying Cass City. The lead stretched to 10 points with about two minutes left and the winners just coasted in after that.

The game was not as close as the final score indicated. A pair of buckets and two free throws by Meininger closed the gap in the final seconds but there wasn't enough time left on the clock to win it.

Meininger scored 26 points for Cass City and Rick Pobanz netted 10. For USA Simmet netted 16 and Kirk Scharich scored 14, mostly in the last half.

JV LOSES

The Patriots made it a clean sweep with a 45-38 decision in the preliminary.

BAD AXE GAME

Wayne Copeland, new head coach at Bad Axe, said before the game that his team was ready to take on highly favored visiting Cass City Friday night and he proved to be a prophet. The Hatchets jumped out in front in the first half and held on for a 57-56 decision.

Actually it was the second quarter that spelled disaster for Cass City. Using a fast break that was beating the Hawks down the floor and a pressing defense that caused several turnovers, Bad Axe spurted from behind to take the lead.

Early in the first quarter behind some good shooting by guards Bryan Beecher and Joe Langenburg, Cass City spurted to a six-point lead.

John Meininger helped in that spurt and kept Cass City in the game when the Hatchets rallied with eight quick points. But that wasn't enough to keep the Hatchets from forging in front, 19-18, at the end of the first eight minutes.

That rally continued into the fatal second period and with 3:57 left, Cass City trailed, 28-23.

That set the stage for a blistering Hatchet attack and when the smoke cleared at the half, Bad Axe had a commanding 38-25 lead.

Whatever Coach Ron Nurnberger said to his charges at the half must have had an effect. With a tightened defense and good ball handling Cass City cashed three unanswered baskets to move back into the game. The Hawks kept plugging away during the period and with 2:48 left trailed by just three points, 42-39.

That's when Bad Axe stiffened and started trading baskets with Cass City. In the crucial fourth period the Hawks moved to within two points three times only to fall back. With 66 seconds left the score was 55-53. Terry Pangborn was fouled and the steady senior calmly made both ends of the one and one to move the margin back to four points.

With 18 seconds left the Hatchets clung to a three-point lead and Meininger's basket as time ran out just made the margin closer.

For Cass City, Meininger was the offensive show with 25 points and the bulk of the rebounds. For Bad Axe, Pangborn netted 13, Dave Schmitt collected 14 and Mike Epperson scored 12 points.

JV WINS

The Cass City Junior Varsity reversed the role of the varsity. Behind by two points with 20 seconds left, the young Hawks rallied to pull out a 58-54 decision.

JOHN MEININGER led all scorers with 25 points but it wasn't enough as Bad Axe came on to win, 57-56, for its first victory over Cass City since 1975.

Suggest best way to deal with teenage drinking

Few subjects generate as much concern—and sometimes conflict—between parents and teenagers as the subject of drinking beverage alcohol. Studies have shown that today's teenagers are likely to experiment with drinking and driving. Your reaction as a parent is extremely important. How should you handle it? What should you say?

All too often, parents and teenagers avoid talking about drinking and driving, yet open and frank discussion about the subject is vital in order to develop healthy and safe practices about alcoholic beverages—and to keep your child from contributing to the grim statistics that result from this dangerous combination.

Here are some things that have helped in talking with teenagers about drinking, according to the liquor industry's trade organization, the Distilled Spirits Council of the United States:

- Honestly explore your own behavior when drinking before you talk with your teenager.
- Be honest in expressing your feelings and in stating your own values and preferences. Encourage the same from your son or daughter.
- Be calm, firm and consistent. Remember that you're sharing ideas and information. Don't put your teenager on the witness stand or demand a confession.
- Tell your teenager you want to hear what he has to say and to learn what he knows about drinking. Be a good listener, even when you may not agree.
- Keep to the point. No matter where the discussion leads, and no matter what kind of reaction you may get or feel, keep forcefully in mind that this discussion concerns only the question of drinking.

• Emphasize that you are concerned with the preciousness of your teenager's life. For a free booklet on this subject, write: "Straight Talk About Alcohol," Box 1197-P, Washington, DC 20013.

Bulldogs fall to pair of league rivals

Owen-Gage proved no match for the visiting Eagles Friday night, as it opened its North Central Thumb D League schedule with a 62-42 loss.

Deckerville pulled out to a 20-6 lead by the end of the first quarter and was never headed after that.

Owen-Gage did pull to within nine points midway through the fourth quarter, but then 6-4 Stan Andrakowicz and 6-2 Mike Powell fouled out and the Eagles widened their lead again.

The Bulldogs had trouble penetrating the Eagle defense as well as getting the ball through the hoop and only managed seventeen field goals for the evening. At the charity line, they sank eight of 22 shots, 36 percent. Andrakowicz and Alan LeValley each scored 11 points and Dan Glidden contributed 10.

Jerry Allard led Deckerville with 19 points, followed by Tim Decker with 15 and Kyle Bowling and Steve Ernst each with 10.

The team sank 20 field goals and tossed in 22 of 33 free throws, 67 percent.

Deckerville won the junior varsity game, 55-47.

Colwood, Shetler's in battle for cage league title again

It looks as if a repeat of last year's battle for the title in the Cass City Basketball League will be waged again this season.

After two weeks of competition, two teams, Colwood Bar and Shetler's, are undefeated.

Colwood Bar, last year's champions, notched its third win of the season behind Tom Koch's 26 points, Wednesday, Dec. 8, enabling the Bar five to coast past Erla's, 94-75.

The winners jumped out in front, 18-10, in the first quarter and pulled steadily farther ahead throughout the game.

Besides Koch, Mark Gainforth, 13, and Brent Mowry, 12, were in double figures for Colwood. Leading all scorers was Ken Pichla, 28 points, while Roy Calahan, 20, and Paul Battel, 16, were also in double figures.

Shetler's kept its record perfect in the nightcap with an easy 71-59 decision over Holmes & Walpole. The winners broke open a tight game in the second quarter after the Lawyers trailed by just three points after the first 10 minutes.

But in the fatal second Shetler's roared to a 21-7 lead and that was the ball game. Holmes & Walpole did cut the deficit by three points in the last two quarters but that was too little, too late.

Leading Shetler's were Ross Voelker, 22 points; Jack Paul, 11, and Paul Beachy, 10 points. Ken Martin scored 21 and Rick Tuckey, 17, for the losers.

In the first game Monday, Dec. 6, McMahan's chalked up its first victory of the year with a 68-55 decision over Elkton.

It was close all the way. At the end of the first quarter the game was knotted, 16-16. At the half, McMahan's jumped in front 34-31 only to have Elkton tie it all going into the last quarter, 47-47.

A last quarter surge won it for McMahan's. Dave Doerr, 22 points, and Mike Stec, 13 points, led the winners while Jim Schramski, 14, and Jim Quinn, 12, led Elkton.

In the nightcap Colwood Bar stayed undefeated with a 78-54 decision over Charmont. The Bar five used a balanced attack to overcome the scoring efforts of Todd Comment for Charmont. Comment scored 29 points, but it wasn't enough as Dennis Dunkel, 18, A.J. Strieter, 17, and Keith Strieter, 14, paced the winners' attack. Rusty Hoag scored 10 for the losers.

Colwood went in front in the first quarter with a rugged defensive and inside game to outscore Charmont in every quarter. The winners led 18-14 at the end of the first quarter then rallied to decide the game with a 38-24 advantage by halftime.

Your Neighbor says MX isn't answer to world peace

The debate in Congress over the future of the MX missile continues, even though the House of Representatives last week voted to delete almost $1 billion in first-year production funds for the missile.

Opposition centers around the $26 billion total cost of the project and President Reagan's "dense pack" plan to put all the MX missiles in underground silos in Wyoming.

"I don't think that's the way to go," is Barney Hoffman's opinion of the MX.

"I think they're adequate," he said of our nation's present defenses. "The bombs we have can blow up everything. I think it's ridiculous."

Furthermore, Hoffman doesn't feel the Soviet Union will launch an attack against the United States. "I don't think Russia wants any kind of a war."

"Psychologically, I think they have more fear of us than we do of them."

What is the best way to ensure peace between the United States and the Soviet Union? "I think if we bombarded them with Christian teaching and more 'love thy neighbor,' that would be the best way," he responded.

Hoffman would bring that about through more exchange programs and meetings of citizens of the two countries, trade to help fill each other's needs and having their leaders discuss how they can help each other's country "and forget about tearing the place apart."

Hoffman, of 4907 N. Cemetery Road, Cass City, retired a year ago from a career of managing various grain elevators and for the last three years, managing the statewide warehouse for a manufacturer of farm chemicals. Now semi-retired, he is the manager of the Northwood Heights Apartments.

Mallory funeral this Thursday

Eva Pearl Mallory, 85, of Cass City died Monday at the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility in Caro after a long illness.

She was born Oct. 12, 1897, in Novesta Township, the daughter of Frank and Cora (Bartlett) Deneen.

Miss Deneen married Jem Mallory Sept. 20, 1918, in Caro. They made their home in Cass City. He died Feb. 4, 1964.

Mrs. Mallory is survived by three sons, Orville Mallory and Richard Mallory, both of Cass City, and James Mallory, Kingston; three daughters, Mrs. Robert (Dorothy) McLellan, Auburn, and Mrs. James (Wilma) McLellan and Marjorie Mallory, both of Cass City; two sisters, Mrs. Leo Kirkpatrick, Cass City, and Mrs. Anna McComb, Caro; 14 grandchildren, and 24 great-grandchildren. One sister and one brother preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. this Thursday at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Eldred Kelley of the Salem United Methodist Church of Cass City officiating.

Burial will be in Elkland Township Cemetery.

Criminal complaints total 642

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department received 642 calls regarding criminal matters in November, a slight drop from the 687 recorded in October.

The greatest number, 214, concerned traffic matters (reports of drunk drivers, reckless driving, etc.), followed by vandalism, 60; game law violations, 52; larcenies, 48, and domestic problems, 45.

Sixty-eight persons were arrested by deputies last month, of whom 32 were for traffic related violations (Mostly drunk driving) and six each for family offenses and larceny.

A total of 340 traffic tickets were issued, including 143 for speeding and 52 for defective equipment.

Patrol cars were driven 47,560 miles in November and consumed 4,092.3 gallons of gasoline (11.62 miles per gallon).

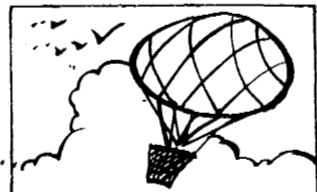

The county jail received 174 inmates, of whom 19 were female, and released 177.

Cass City police made seven arrests in November, four for traffic related offenses and one each for larceny, liquor law violation and assault.

Kingston police made one arrest for a liquor violation and one for uttering and publishing.

Caro state police arrested 13 persons, of whom nine were for traffic violations.

The number of respective complaints from and accidents in area townships and villages last month were: Elkland, 24 and 3; Cass City, 56 and accidents not recorded by sheriff's department; Ellington, 21 and 5; Elmwood, 15 and 7; Kingston Township, 22 and 5; Kingston village, 2 and accidents not recorded; Novesta, 39 and 8, and Columbia, 3 and none.

The first balloon flight occurred in 1782, when Jacques and Joseph Montgolfier of Annonay, France, sent up a small smoke filled balloon.

Dry Bean production increases

Dry edible bean production in Michigan during 1982 totaled 7.4 million hundredweight (cwt.), 3 percent above last year.

Favorable weather during most of September and October enabled growers to harvest an excellent quality crop of beans, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

Harvested acreage during 1982 totaled 550,000 acres, 7 percent below 1981. Average yields for all dry beans at 1,350 pounds per acre were up sharply from last year's yield of 1,220 pounds per acre.

Navy bean production at over 6.1 million cwt. was up 51 percent from last season. This year's large navy bean crop is attributed to an increase in harvested acreage of 23 percent combined with higher yields that averaged 1,350 pounds per acre.

The lack of an export market for black turtle and pinto beans dropped output to pre-1980 levels. Production of kidney beans increased 10 percent and cranberry bean production increased 12 percent.

Nationally, dry bean production totaled 24.3 million cwt., down 25 percent from 1981, and 8 percent below 1980. Most of the reduction was caused by less acreage being planted when the Mexican government did not renew contracts to purchase beans from the 1982 crop year.

Navy bean production increased 36 percent and red kidney production increased 32 percent from 1981. Production of pinto beans fell 51 percent while black turtle output fell 89 percent.

Michigan, the leading producer of dry beans, accounted for 31 percent of the total U.S. crop.

CHRISTMAS PARTY — Eighty students from the Highland Pines School made their annual visit to the Cass Theatre Monday to be greeted by Santa and to see a movie, followed by lunch at the Charmont paid for by General Telephone. Bauer Candy provided the candy. Among those greeted by Santa were Cindy Opanasenko and Dennis Fox, both of Cass City.

School okays purchases

The board also approved the purchase of 8 computers for student use. The computers cost $1,250 each and will be purchased from Franklin Micro Computers Co. A Federal grant will furnish $9,000 of the costs and the school will pay $1,000, plus $500 for text materials and blank discs.

One request for funds was delayed. It was for a new wrestling mat for $4,721.88. Athletic Director Roland Pakonen said that he felt that the mat could be bought from funds that are within the athletic budget.

The board was about to approve the request when Dick Albee said that he wanted to be sure that it could be purchased with budgeted funds before proceeding.

We have many needs at the school and teachers are on layoff, he said, and we should not take a chance on buying anything unless we know the money is available.

After that the board decided to wait until later in the year when it would be absolutely certain that money within the budget would be available before proceeding. With that in mind the motion to purchase was withdrawn.

New volleyball standards were authorized at a cost of $388 which Pakonen said will come out of the athletic budget.

O-G school board

rowed $530,000 at 12.4 percent interest.

He doesn't feel that more than $200,000 could be collected. The district received almost $1.2 million in property taxes during its last fiscal year.

OTHER ITEMS

The board agreed to rent to the Huron County Men's Basketball League use of the high school gymnasium for Sunday afternoon games.

Conditions are that it can't be used more than every third Sunday, and league treasurer Gene Schuett of Port Hope, who presented the request to the board, must be present during games, as well as a custodian or other school representative.

Rent will be $50 per afternoon.

Repeating what he asked last month, Owen-Gage Education Association President Manuel Thies again asked why teachers hadn't received their individual contracts yet for the school year. They are usually ready at the start by September.

Warack then asked if they could be given out as they are prepared and Erickson said he wanted to give them out all at once.

The board officially congratulated football coach Arnie Besonen for being named Michigan High School Football Coaches Association Region II Class D coach of the year.

Student of the month is senior Joan Mosack.

Rotary hosts party

An estimated 200 retired persons and newcomers to the community were entertained by Cass City Rotarians and RotaryAnn's Thursday at Cass City High School.

It was the traditional buffet dinner party sponsored by the club each December. Under the direction of Fritz Olson the guests were introduced and a community sing held.

Slides of the great Thumb fire of 1881 were shown and brief comments by Rotary President Tom Proctor concluded the program.

Now is time for home safety tour

Now is the time to take a home safety tour. You can update your family on safety and prepare them for emergencies. Statistics show that Americans are involved in over three million accidents every year — in their own homes. Here are some tips to help keep your family safe.

- Make sure household and gardening tools are handled properly. When not in use, they should be stored safely.
- Check on poisons. This includes cleaning agents and insecticides. Even dish-washing detergent is a hazard. Keep all such items out of sight and use safety latches on cupboards.

• Keep pot handles turned inward on the stove to avoid knocking them over and causing dangerous burns.

• Establish rules about leaving toys and playthings unattended. The unexpected can often cause an accidental fall.

• Check your first aid kit. Supplies should be fresh and clean.

It's a good idea to post emergency numbers, including the poison control center, near the phone.

When falls and scrapes do occur, be prepared with quick first aid treatment. CLEANSE wounds gently with running water, mild soap and a sterile pad. TREAT with first aid cream or antibiotic ointment.

Remember: accidents often result from carelessness or lack of supervision. Safety awareness in your family will result in fewer accidents.

Taking stock

1. Remember the 11th Commandment: "Thou Shalt Not Invaide Thy Principal."

2. Don't chase an eighth — use market orders ordinarily, except in thin stocks. If you want to buy or sell — do so.

3. Stick to one broker, or maybe two, if you need an additional one for some specialized service, such as bonds or options.

4. For the same reason as using one broker, use one bank, one insurance agent. You'll get better service.

5. Read tax books and get as much information as you can on income tax — but get a good tax firm to make out your return. This is not a do-it-yourself job.

6. Inside information may be useful in buying, but no insider is going to tell you when to sell. If he told you to sell he'd find himself an outsider.

7. Remember the compound factor: 70 * No. of years to double Rate of return in percent.

8. Don't wait for a stock to (a) come back to what you paid for it or (b) return to its one-time high. Champion Homebuilders (now 3) has no more chance of going back to its high of 25 than any other stock has of 1250 percent gain.

9. Cut your losses, and let your profits run — an old adage — but watch the multiples. No tree grows to the sky — another adage.

10. Don't be afraid to pay capital gains, and don't let "short term" or "long term" influence but slightly in a decision to sell. You can never spend this asset until the tax is paid.

11. In reflecting "What if I had only bought real estate," consider the example of seven percent compounded since 1937 — a span of 45 years:

1937, $50; 1947, $100; 1957, $200; 1967, $400; 1977, $800; 1982, $1288. (10 percent since '77)

This is the story of good farm land in southern Michigan. In 1937 $50 would have bought you an acre of land; today that same land is worth $1,000.

12. Don't get sucked into a minority interest in a closely-held corporation, where you're at the mercy of the majority. This is the most illiquid investment I can think of. And don't get into a partnership either.

13. Beware of investments in new, struggling companies and in new products. (Average time for new product's concept-to-market: eight years.) When they say, "But look at General Motors," remember there have been 500 automobile companies started in the U.S. Four remain. Two are shaky.

14. When interest rates are high, buy long bonds. When they're low, get short ones — two or three years to maturity, or Treasury Bills.

15. Avoid foreign investments. Exception: Canadian bonds that pay in U.S. dollars. Remember Cuba, Mexico and Argentina.

16. After working and saving all your lifetime, don't let it be frittered away by poor estate planning. Talk with a lawyer who doesn't expect to outlive you; create a living trust, and save up to 90 percent of fees that would go to lawyers and executors under the usual probate system. In a million-dollar estate we're talking of a $50,000 saving.

17. Keep flexible. Don't get married to bonds, or to stocks, or to real estate, or to commodities, or to business investments, or to life insurance annuities. Keep an open mind in these changing times. It's the net dollars you keep after taxes that count.

18. Don't let your personal tastes color your investing — for example, tobaccos, liquors, fast food restaurants, mobile homes, South Africa.

19. Look for companies that have pricing elasticity if they need it — such as IBM and newspapers.

20. Look for a record of increasing dividends, and at same time note if book value is increasing.

21. Have a reason for buying a stock or bond. Write it down; then look at the note occasionally.

22. Don't depend on a broker making a periodic review of your findings unless you prod him.

23. And don't depend on your broker telling you when to sell a stock. All his customers are prospects for buying suggestions. If he has a sell recommendation, then he has to find a customer who owns the stock.

24. Don't own too many stocks. A full-time analyst can properly keep tabs on only 20 stocks.

25. Don't buy a mutual fund just before it goes ex-capital gains dividend. You'll pay tax on the capital gain, even if you take it in shares.

26. Disregard original purchase price in making a decision to sell or to keep. It's worth only what today's market is. The cost is only a book entry.

27. Use today's market price in figuring return on stocks or bonds you hold. Holding a stock is only an alternative to using its dollar value to buy something else.

28. A vital statistic to watch in these inflationary days: the margin of income to sales.

29. The wisdom of the ages is contained in this adage: THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS A FREE LUNCH.

Taught by classical musician

Rock 'n' roll invades college classroom

It's one o'clock, two o'clock, three o'clock rock. We're gonna rock, around the clock, tonight.

Rock and roll music in schools used to be confined to gymnasiums, where it was played at dances. Now it's being studied in the classrooms — for college credit.

One of the Saginaw Valley State College off-campus classes taught at Cass City High School this fall was Music 112 - History of Rock. If that seems like an unlikely college subject — it counts as part of the humanities requirement for a bachelor's degree — the instructor is also unlikely.

Eric Nisula is a member of the music department faculty at SVSC, with his specialty being choral music. He conducts the SVSC Concert Choir, Chamber Choir and the Early Music Collegium. The latter plays medieval and renaissance music on old-style instruments.

The Essexville resident isn't a stranger to Cass City as he is in his fourth year as director of the First Presbyterian Church choir here.

He is also a member of the Early Music Ensemble, based in Grand Rapids, which performs old music using old-style instruments, some of which were used before the birth of Christ.

Nisula's training is strictly classical. He has a bachelor's degree in trombone and a master's in music theory from the Hartt School of Music, Hartford, Conn., and a doctoral degree in choral music from the University of Southern California, Los Angeles. He has studied choral conducting in Germany.

So what's somebody with his background doing teaching the history of rock? It's not because he is a closet rock and roll freak. The reason is he was asked to teach the course by the person at SVSC who arranges off-campus classes. "Initially I was hesitant and had misgivings," Nisula admitted. "I knew nothing about it (the subject)."

Well, it's, one for the money, two for the show. Three to get ready, now, go cat go.

But don't you, step on my blue suede shoes. Nisula began studying the subject and recorded on cassette tapes for this class the important rock records from an historical perspective. The records were borrowed from Dr. Charles Brown, a fellow faculty member who teaches the rock history class on campus and wrote the textbook used.

In preparing for the course, Nisula admits, "I found I enjoyed a lot of the music." "I like the Beatles, definitely." The British group's compositions, he explained, have melody and indicative of their flexibility and durability, have become standards sung by "conventional entertainers."

The instructor also has found he likes jazz-oriented rock and gentler rock, such as by Crosby, Stills and Nash.

Overall, however, he doesn't find much of value in rock music. "I don't think it would survive if it were to only survive on its musical values."

Accordingly, Nisula feels, "I think rock is more interesting as a study of cultural phenomena than as music."

Yesterday, all my troubles seemed so far away. Now they look as though they're here to stay.

Oh, I believe in yesterday.

The course, which ran for three hours each Thursday, started Sept. 9 and ended Dec. 9. Nisula began with music sung by the slaves in the south in the 17th and 18th century, the origins of which could be traced back to Africa. The blues and later the rhythm and blues music of the 1930s and '40s, which was performed by and for black persons, influenced the first rock and roll music.

Disc jockey Alan Freed is credited with inventing the term "rock and roll," and the first music group he applied it to was Bill Haley and His Comets. Their first hit was "Rock Around the Clock," in 1956.

Elvis Presley also became a star about that time. His early style was imitative of black singers, and in turn, he was an influence on the Beatles, whose first hit was in 1964.

"You have to attribute his (Presley's) popularity to his singing talent," Nisula said, combined with his style and charisma.

Other keystone figures in the history of rock, according to him, include the Beach Boys, who began the California sound about 1960; the Rolling Stones, scruffy hard rock about 1965; Jefferson Airplane, psychedelic rock, 1966; Bob Dylan, folk-rock, middle 1960s; Crosby, Stills and Nash, late 1960s, and Herbie Hancock and George Benson, jazz-rock, early 1970s.

Nisula ended the course with the punk rock of a few years ago, which he described as the last word in rebellion and non-conformity.

Nisula, 39, was growing up in the early days of rock and roll and one thing that was interesting in the course to him was how songs popular from when he was in high school fit into rock's history.

As for those who would argue that rock and roll is too frivolous a subject to be taught in college, he won't disagree, though he notes, "I think there is historical perspective on any subject that is worth pursuing." As mentioned, he feels rock history would fit in better with a study of culture.

What he would like to teach would be a course tracing the history of music from early classical to modern jazz.

He did sneak some of that into his course by devoting one three-hour session to music history of the non-rock variety.

Perhaps the high point of the course for him was when he played (on tape) Samuel Barber's classical "Adagio for Strings" and about half the class wanted to know if it was available on record.

He noted that only about a third of the dozen students in the class were of normal college age and some may have taken the class not because they like rock music, but because it was the only humanities class offered in Cass City this fall.

You ain't nothing but a hound dog. Crying all the time. You never caught a rabbit And you ain't no friend of mine.

Some experts estimate that the first dogs were tamed over 12,000 years ago.

Letters to Santa

Jason Willcocks

Dear Santa, My name is Jason. I am going to be seven real soon.

As you know, our family comes up north for Christmas every year to spend Christmas Eve with my grandma Rutkoski, but you can be sure that we will be home on Christmas.

Would you please bring me a monster set and some Star Wars people.

I have been real good. I will leave you a picture that I will draw just for you.

Love, Jason Willcocks Mount Clemens

Sheila Guilds

Dear Santa, I am 7 months old and have been a good girl sometimes, so please bring me lots of toys. And bring mommy and daddy something nice too.

Also take Uncle Ken a present in Germany. I'll leave you some cookies.

Sheila Guilds 3392 Cemetery Cass City

Brad Deering

Dear Santa, My name is Brad Deering. I am 2 years old.

Mommy and Daddy told me I've been a very good boy all year long. For Christmas, I would like some Hot Wheels, and a big new toy box.

Also, please don't forget my cousin, Derek Hill. He's been a real good boy too.

I love you, Brad

P.S. I will leave you some cookies and milk.

Joshua Willcocks

Dear Santa, My name is Joshua. I am 3 years old. I have been a real good boy. For Christmas all I want is Wampa! Wampa! Wampa!

I want to give you a hug and so does Jacee.

Love, Joshua Willcocks Mount Clemens

Gasoline bid okayed

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday awarded the bid to supply gasoline to the sheriff's department for one year to Car-Go Oil Co. of Caro, which is the present supplier.

Car-Go's bid of $1.00.3 cents per gallon for no-lead was the lowest of four submitted. The price will fluctuate, depending on the price charged by its supplier, Marathon. The sheriff's department uses about 40,000 gallons of gasoline a year.

In other action, Prosecutor Artis Noel briefed commissioners concerning the drug enforcement program since 1980 as to the amount of money spent, number of persons arrested and disposition of cases.

Shabbona Area News

Marie Meredith
Phone 672-9489

The Shabbona RLDS Church will hold its Christmas program Sunday evening, Dec. 19, at 7:30 p.m. The choir will sing, under the direction of Mrs. Jerry Cleland. The church school also takes part, under the direction of John and Janice Mika, assisted by the teacher.

The Shabbona Extension will meet Monday evening, Dec. 20, at 8 p.m. with Mrs. Ryerson Puterbaugh with a $1 gift exchange. Mrs. Frank spent from Thursday till Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith and family. Mrs. John Dunlap joined them for supper Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Voyle Dorman were Friday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Groombridge of Cass City. Ralph Smith was a patient in Marlette Hospital from Thursday till Sunday.

Kathy Puterbaugh of Almont, Lana Puterbaugh and Mrs. Ryerson Puterbaugh were Saginaw shoppers Sunday.

Mrs. Frances Krause and Mrs. Janet Tibbitts and sons attended a surprise birthday party Sunday in honor of Mrs. Catherine Fredericks at the home of Mrs. Trudy Berden. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Geister of Marlette.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hamilton and the latter's sister and husband of West Branch were Thursday morning callers of their sister, Mrs. John Dunlap. They all had dinner in Caro and later visited their brother-in-law, John Dunlap, at the Caro Medical Center.

4-H

The Evergreen Guys and Gals 4-H Club will meet Monday evening, Dec. 20, at 7:30 for a Christmas party at Evergreen School. Please bring a finger lunch and 50 cent gift for exchange.

WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT

The Shabbona RLDS Women's Department held Pelton and Mrs. Clair Auslander are in charge of the evening's entertainment.

The Shabbona United Methodist Church's program will be Sunday evening, Dec. 19, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday evening, Dec. 18, youth will go Christmas caroling at 5:45 p.m. Adults can join in.

HILLTOPPERS

Monday evening, Dec. 6, the Hilltoppers of RLDS Church held a cooperative supper in the church annex. The blessing on food was by Mrs. Nina McComb.

After supper, the meeting was called to order by Marie Meredith. The worship was in charge of Mrs. Marie Snell and prayer was offered by Mrs. Mary Kritzman. Recreation was in charge of Miss Lillian Dunlap, assisted by Mrs. McComb. Gifts were exchanged.

The next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson Puterbaugh and Dalton Puterbaugh Feb. 14. Worship will be by Marie Meredith and recreation by Mrs. Curtis Cleland.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Behr of Argyle and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Leslie spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Troy Rhinehardt of Pontiac.

Wednesday evening, Dec. 8, the Shabbona United Methodist Women were guests of the Argyle United Methodist Women. A cooperative supper was served at 6:30. The ladies from Decker United Methodist were also guests.

Gene Czapl of Plymouth their Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Ryerson Puterbaugh.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Dean Smith, women's leader, who also had charge of the worship service with prayer given by Marie Meredith.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Don Smith, program chairman. Gift exchange was held and lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter Lana and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Larry Puterbaugh.

The Jan. 20 meeting will be with Miss Marie Meredith. A potluck dinner will be held at noon and the time will be spent cutting carpet rags and quilting pieces.

Cattle can now be registered

Around the Farm Winter driving

By William Bortel

A new identification system that uses registered numbers as brands can increase the chances of recovering stolen livestock.

The system used for cattle identification is similar to that used by law enforcement agencies for machinery identification. The new method assigns producers a number that is filed in the secretary of state's computer system. This number is then used to brand the cattle.

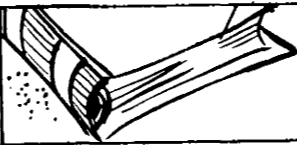

Ron Nelson, Farm Bureau legislative counsel, says the number identification system clearly identifies the owner of the cattle and thus increases the chances of recovering stolen animals. Branding cattle with a registered number may also prevent cattle theft because cattle thieves tend to steal animals that are not easily identifiable.

Harlan Ritchie, extension beef specialist at Michigan State University, says the number of cattle thefts tend to increase when retail beef prices are high.

"Cattle thefts are most likely to occur during the spring, summer and fall," he says. "Calves and cows are the animals most likely to be stolen."

Ritchie says the use of a registered brand is particularly important when cattle are not attended regularly or are generally out of sight. Producers who observe their cattle frequently or who keep their cattle confined may not need to use a registered number for identification. Cattle producers located near urban areas are likely to find the new system worthwhile.

It costs $50 to obtain a registered number to use for branding. Applications are available from the Michigan Department of State, Livestock Registry, P.O. Box 30330, Lansing 48909.

Leather-bound books will benefit from periodic applications of saddle soap, neat-foot oil or petroleum jelly.

When you travel in the snow and sleet, be sure to prepare ahead of time.

Here are a few preparations you can make:

- 1) Check your battery. Eighty percent of the 1 million emergency road service calls were because of weak batteries in 1981.
- 2) Remind yourself to turn off your lights when you leave the car.
- 3) A car battery delivers peak starting power at approximately 80 degrees F. As the temperature lowers, battery starting power decreases. At 32 degrees, starting power drops 15 percent, and at 0 degrees, starting power drops 35 percent. At -20 degrees, starting power drops 55 percent.

TIRES

Air pressure is usually reduced during winter temperatures. For every 10 degree drop in temperature, air pressure in tires drops from 1/2 to 1 pound per square inch. Under-inflated tires waste gasoline and increase tire wear.

SURVIVAL SUPPLIES

Suggestions for your survival, should you get stuck in snow for a period of time, are as follows:

- 1) Coffee can with candles. You can use the candle for light or warmth to melt snow to drink. You cannot live long without water, but you can live quite some time without food.
- 2) Boots and warm socks are needed to keep feet from getting frostbite.
- 3) Flares and reflectors will help make you visible to other cars and people.
- 4) Flashlight (check batteries often).
- 5) Food such as chocolate bars or hard candy will give energy. Of course, fruit or vegetables would be even better.
- 6) Blanket to keep warm is important.
- 7) Newspaper makes good insulation when placed between skin and clothing.
- 8) Shovel, sand (or cat litter), jumper cable, tools,

AT LAST, A BANK GETS THE BEST OF THE MONEY MARKET FUNDS.

Frankly, we're impressed with the money funds.

So much so that you'll find all their best features in our new, FDIC-insured money market account.

It's the newest Cash Investment Service from your First American Bank.

Right off, it's very rate competitive with any money market fund or account on the market. So you know you'll be earning money market rates.

It gives you immediate access to your funds in any amount. So it goes without saying, your money isn't locked up for any set period of time. And, of course, there are no fees or penalties for early withdrawal.

But we also wanted to improve on a good thing. That was easy, because there are some features only a bank like ours can offer.

The security of FDIC insurance, up to $100,000 per depositor, and the convenience of dealing with people you know at a bank down the street.

We also added a $2,500 minimum, the lowest the law allows. And we threw in a simple monthly statement that makes it easy to keep track of all your account activity.

Now, if you'd like to get the best of the money market funds along with the best a bank can offer, you know where to come.

CALL FIRST. 1-800-222-1983

Top dairy farms feted at banquet

Thirty-eight dairy farms were honored as members of the 17,000-pound club (annual average milk production per cow) at the 47th annual Sanilac County Dairy Banquet Dec. 4.

Almost 400 persons attended the event at Marlette Middle School.

Among the farms honored were Leslie Severance, Decker; Don Chard and Gary Best, Snover; Jim and Paul Wheeler, Snover; Fred Peruski, Snover; Leland Hirsch and Boyd King, Decker, and Pat and Lora Harmon, Snover.

A highlight was the tribute to Marv Smith, who retired this year after almost 13 years as a Dairy Herd Improvement Association technician.

Recipient of the Jim Frey Award for outstanding leadership and service to the community as well as to the dairy industry was Dorothy Sanford of Deckerville.

Basil Morse honored as top Mason

Basil Morse of Argyle Road, Uby, was recently honored by Decker Masonic Lodge No. 0479 as its Mason of the year for his outstanding service to the fraternity.

He has been a member of the lodge since April, 1947.

The dinner honoring Morse was held at the Masonic Hall in Decker.

HEALTH TIPS Frostbite painful wintertime danger

Frank Chappell
Science News Editor AMA

Frostbite can be much more than just uncomfortable. It can be a painful and potentially serious injury.

True frostbite means the tissues are frozen, says the American Medical Association. Crystals of ice form between the cells. Nerves, muscles and blood vessel tissues are most susceptible.

The wind plays an important part in frostbite. The chilling effect of air at 20 degrees moving at 45 miles an hour is the same as 40-below-zero air on a still day.

One of the dangers of frostbite is that you often don't feel it. First thing you know someone else notices that your nose or cheek or ear is turning white. The frozen part becomes hard to the touch and loses feeling. Many sport leaders advocate a buddy system for outdoor winter sports.

Two persons are paired off, each watching the other for signs of frostbite.

To prevent frostbite, first be certain you are properly dressed for the temperature.

Avoid overexertion and excessive perspiration. Avoid contact of bare flesh on cold metal. Don't smoke or drink alcohol.

In first aid for frostbite, thawing and rewarming is the first procedure. Forget the old saw about rubbing the affected part with snow. This merely delays rewarming. Don't rub or massage the frozen spot. Don't touch it at all.

Begin rewarming as soon as possible. A hot bath is excellent, but avoid scalding. Hot wet towels will help, changed frequently and applied gently.

If no fire or hot water is at hand, place the patient in a sleeping bag, or cover with coats and blankets. Hot liquids help raise the body temperature.

For any frostbite, even a mild case, prompt medical attention is important. The depth and degree of the frozen tissue cannot be readily ascertained, and the treatment will vary with severity of the injury.

deBeaubien wins college scholarship

Before her death in 1971, Meda Graham established a scholarship trust fund to help students finance their educations at Alma College.

Among the 45 Alma students designated "Meda Graham Scholars" for 1982-83 is Brian deBeaubien, a sophomore from Cass City.

As an employee of the F.M. Sibley Lumber Company in Detroit for 42 years, Mrs. Graham wrote many checks payable to the college for her boss. When Mrs. Graham, a widow with no family, made out her will, she recalled Sibley's interest in Alma and established her scholarship trust fund.

The income from the trust of approximately $350,000 has provided scholarships for almost 160 students since the annual awards were first made during the 1972-73 academic year. Each year's recipients are invited to a Meda Graham memorial dinner, which this year was Dec. 7.

Criteria for selection of Meda Graham scholars include academic performance, recommendations from instructors and financial need.

Brian, a 1981 graduate of Cass City High School, is the son of Richard and Nancy deBeaubien, 4122 Koepfgen Road. He is majoring in biology at Alma.

TEN YEARS AGO

Approximately $10,000 worth of highly advanced equipment has been moved into the cardio-pulmonary therapy department at Hills and Dales General Hospital. The new equipment provides modern treatment for heart and lung patients.

Director Dorland Kuntz announced that the 48-voice Cass City High School choir will present a cantata, "The Wonder of Christmas," at the high school gym.

Airman First Class Janise K. DelRossi, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Frankowiak of Kingston has arrived for duty at Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, S.C.

It was a critical game for Cass City and the Hawks rose to the occasion with a hard earned, 71-65, victory over Caro Friday at Cass City High School. The victory was a must win for Cass City if the team was to stay in Thumb B title contention.

Baptists list holiday activities

The children's departments of First Baptist Church, beginners through juniors, had a Christmas banquet Friday evening, Dec. 10. Thirty students and teachers attended the event at the home of Pastor and Mrs. John R. Wood.

Mrs. Wood is superintendent of the primary department. She was assisted by teachers John Shagena, Judy Cobb, Karen Ouvry, Stan Gunther, Celeste Bader, Lorraine Enos and Geri Perry.

After the turkey dinner, the group went Christmas caroling.

Other holiday activities scheduled at the church include packing baskets and caroling for shut-ins Wednesday, Dec. 15; the cantata, "Love Transcending," by the adult and youth choirs Sunday evening, Dec. 19, at 6:30; and a children's cantata, "Christmas Around the World," Wednesday evening, Dec. 22, at 7:30. A Senior Saints Christmas banquet is scheduled Thursday evening at the church under the direction of Pastor and Mrs. Wood.

Pastor Wood will be speaking at all the regular services of the church.

Tyler Lodge installs 1983 officers

Officers for 1983 of Tyler Lodge No. 317, F and AM, were installed Saturday evening at the Masonic temple in Cass City.

Installed were Robert Hunter, worshipful master; James Karr, senior warden; Merton Hendershot, junior warden; Charles Wright, treasurer; Edward Golding, secretary; Albert Griffen, senior deacon, and James Ashmore, junior deacon.

Also installed were Harold Prong, chaplain; Clarence Merchant, associate chaplain; Royce Russell, marshal; Arlington Hoffman and Edward Mellendorf, stewards, and Harold McGrath, Tyler.

The ceremony was performed by Edward Golding, grand installing officer; Leslie Profit, grand installing marshal; Chester Muntz, grand installing chaplain, and John Marshall, grand installing secretary.

Fifty persons attended a ham dinner preceding the installation.

Rockwell funeral held

Milton J. Rockwell, 69, of Brown City, died last Thursday in Lapeer County General Hospital.

Eastern Star chapter has meeting

More than 40 persons attended the Dec. 8 meeting of Echo Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, which began with a potluck supper. Tables were decorated for Christmas and the meeting concluded with a gift exchange.

Following the opening of chapter with Worthy Matron Lena Teller presiding, the altar was draped in memory of Past Grand Worthy Patron Lavern Courtney. The charter was draped in memory of Nora Hughes, past worthy matron.

Secretary Ruth Whittaker reported that 20 members were lost this past year by death or transfer. Members approved a contribution of $15 to the Salvation Army.

Barbara Jackson and Marie Jetta will visit or contact the shut-ins of the chapter before Christmas.

He was born July 12, 1913, in Flynn Township, Sanilac County. He married Marguerite Chard March 25, 1939, in Wilmot.

Rockwell farmed in Flynn Township and worked as a carpenter.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Rex (Pat) Tanton, Sandusky, Pam Cummings and Lynn Rockwell, both of Brown City; three sons, Dean Rockwell, Marlette, Clinton Rockwell, Dansville, and Mitchell Rockwell, Brown City; five sisters, Pearl Meredith, Snover, Mildred Hensey, who was a twin sister of the deceased, Silverwood, Betty Ball, Cass City, June Spittler, Royal Oak, and Jean Bednork, Trenton; a brother, Morris Rockwell, Snover, and 12 grandchildren. A daughter, Pauline, and four sisters, Dorothy Newkirk, Ariel Brown and Eleanor and Mary Jane Rockwell, preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the Carman Funeral Home, Brown City, Rev. James Keller of the Lamotte Missionary Church officiating. Burial was in Evergreen Cemetery, Brown City.

NOTICE REGARDING POSSIBLE CHANGES IN AVAILABILITY OF ADVERTISED GOODS AND IN QUOTED PRICES Because this piece is not prepared by this retail dealer, but by its wholesaler (HWI), which has warehouses at Cape Girardeau, Missouri; Dixon, Illinois; Medina, Ohio; and Waco, Texas and because this piece is prepared several months in advance of the actual sale period, some items may not be immediately available on demand at this store due either to sales above reasonable demands, or other circumstances beyond this retailer's control. Therefore, this store will gladly issue a "raincheck" for any advertised item not available on demand, which will be good for purchase of the particular item at the advertised price when additional inventories of the item are received. Due to unforeseen circumstances certain items may not be available at all, or a substitution will be suggested. This store and the HWI warehouses endeavor to avoid any such changes whenever possible, but sometimes they have no control over manufacturers and their problems. All the prices stated are HWI suggested. Each HWI store sets its own prices. The prices quoted herein are subject to change due to possible printing errors or circumstances unforeseeable at the time of printing. The right to limit quantities is reserved by this retailer. Early shoppers will find the best selection.
