DNR holdup delays area sewer projects

Advertising for bids for construction of sewer projects in Gagetown and Owendale are awaiting approval by the state Department of Natural Resources of construction permits for the two projects.

That approval was expected three months ago, according to Rick Knop of Edmands Engineering of Bay City, which is designing both villages' sewer systems.

If the approval is received soon, he said, construction could start yet this year, with connecting of homes to the sewer lines beginning in the fall of 1984.

The DNR has not given any indication yet when it will okay permits.

One temporary hurdle in the way of the two projects has been overcome. The state is supposed to pay 5 percent of the cost, which for Gagetown amounts to $78,520 and for Owendale, $66,000. The federal government pays 75 percent and the village residents pay the remaining 20 percent plus some non-reimbursable costs.

Last fall, the state notified the villages it didn't have the 5 percent. The reason was because the money was supposed to come from a bonding proposal approved by voters in 1968 that limits interest to no more than 6 percent. With an interest rate that low, the state can't sell any bonds, so can't pay the 5 percent owed for various sewage treatment projects around the state.

Being awaited is a Michigan Supreme Court decision whether the legislature can authorize selling the state bonds at a higher interest rate or whether that would have to be approved by voters.

Both villages asked the Farmers Home Administration, which is financing the local share through a combination of loans and grants, for additional money to make up for the loss of the state money.

THE RESPONSE OF THE FHA, Knop explained, was the villages should proceed with the bidding. If the bids come in low enough, the 5 percent wouldn't be needed immediately. If more money is needed, then the agency can increase its grant or loans accordingly.

Presently, the FHA is supposed to be giving Gagetown $345,000, to be repaid over 40 years at 11.375 percent interest.

Estimated total cost of the project is $1.96 million, of which the federal government is paying $1.18 million.

The FHA is giving Owendale $400,000 and loaning it $235,000, also at 11.375 percent to be repaid over 40 years.

Total project cost has been estimated at $1.6 million, of which the federal government would provide $960,000.

ONCE THE DNR ISSUES the construction permits, Knop said, advertisements can be placed to solicit bids.

Contractors will then have from 30 or 45 days, apparently not decided yet, to submit bids.

After bids are opened, there will be a holding period of from 2½-4 months, during which Edmands Engineering first checks the bids to be sure they comply with specifications and the low bidders are capable of doing the work. The bids must then be reviewed and approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the DNR before they can be awarded.

Once the bids are awarded, it usually takes the contractor about a month to get needed contracts, bonds and insurance in order. Once he is ready, a notice to proceed is issued, after which the contractor will then have 15 months to complete the project.

If the DNR issues the construction permits soon, construction could start yet this year, Knop said. If it's too late in the year, however, the contractor may choose to wait until spring, 1984, to start.

Conceivably, hook-ups to the sewer mains could start by the fall of next year, according to Knop.

ADDING TO THE PILE of trash at the Cass City landfill Saturday morning was Lester Battel of 6077 E. Cass City Road. It is estimated only 12 percent of the trash generated in Tuscola County is disposed of in its three landfills.

Road agency employees okay 1-year wage freeze

Representatives of the Tuscola County Road Commission and the union that represents most of its employees signed a one-year agreement Friday that provides for a continuation of wages and fringe benefits at the 1982 level.

The one change is a new clause in which the Road Commission agrees not to initiate a long-term indefinite layoff as long as revenue from the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund (state gasoline taxes and license plate fees) doesn't fall below 1982 levels.

The approximately 40 employees — mechanics, drivers and heavy equipment operators — are represented by the Service Employees International Union, Local 79, AFL-CIO.

Negotiations started about Dec. 1 and tentative agreement was reached Jan. 28. Members of the union ratified the pact Feb. 18 and the three-member Road Commission board okayed it last Thursday.

The new one-year agreement replaces a three-year one that expired Dec. 31.

The pay range for the employees, according to Road Commission Clerk Jim Miklovic, is $8.17-$8.60 per hour, plus fringe benefits. He said there is only one employee on layoff, but he was laid off prior to the new contract, so isn't affected by the no layoff provision.

The one-year pay contract, retroactive to the beginning of the year, expires Dec. 31.

It reflects economic reality, according to the two sides.

Although the two cents per gallon increase in the state motor fuel tax and increase in license fees that started Jan. 1 should mean an increase in revenue this year of 9 percent, compared to 1982, Miklovic said, the agency will still receive less than it did a few years ago.

"Their (Road Commission) funds have been going down steadily the last few years," commented Local 79 Business Representative Bryce Lane.

Garbage disposal to stay the same

Tuscola County's 20-year solid waste management plan doesn't call for any changes from the way trash is disposed of now, at least for the next five years.

The proposed plan was the subject of an intended public hearing last Wednesday evening at the courthouse annex in Caro, but with a couple of exceptions the only persons who attended were those who helped prepare it.

The 13-member committee started preparing the state-mandated plan two years ago. Among those serving on it have been Cass City village President Lambert Althaver and village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie.

The plan, which must be updated every five years, "provides for a safe and efficient disposal of all non-hazardous solid waste generated in Tuscola County for the next 20 years."

It is estimated that 12 percent of the county's refuse is disposed of in the three landfills in the county. Cass City's has an estimated life of 80 years remaining; Caro's, 10 years; and the privately owned Oliver landfill in Arbel Township in the southwest corner of the county, 25-30 years.

The rest of the trash is taken outside the county for disposal, presumably by private haulers, or disposed of by rural residents on their own property.

It is estimated that 176.4 tons of solid waste is generated in the county per day — 82.5 tons of household trash, 51.2 tons from businesses, schools, etc., and 42.7 tons from industry.

Woman dies in accident

Karen Evers, 31, of Caro, became Tuscola County's second traffic fatality in a week when she was killed in a collision at 8 a.m. Friday east of Vassar.

Her car was southbound on Sheridan Road. Witnesses told sheriff's deputies it appeared she tried to stop at the stop sign at Saginaw Road, but her car slid on the icy pavement into the intersection where it was struck broadside by a westbound wrecker, driven by Tracy W. Marsh, 22, of Vassar.

The Vassar Fire Department used its hydraulic "jaws" to tear apart the wreckage of Ms. Evers' car so she could be removed. She was taken by ambulance to St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw in a futile effort to save her life.

As of this date a year ago, three persons had died in Tuscola County traffic accidents. There were no traffic fatalities in the county from Sept. 26 of last year until Feb. 19 of this year.

WOMAN INJURED

Caroline A. Paruch, 53, of Owendale, was reported in fair condition Wednesday morning at Hills and Dales General Hospital, where she was taken following a 6:15 a.m. accident Friday on Elkton Road, near Rescue Road.

Huron County deputies said she was southbound when her car slid out of control on the icy surface and into the east side ditch.

Food distribution site still needed in Cass City

A month after most Tuscola County communities have established "food closets" to give food to the needy, there still isn't one in Cass City.

A frustrated Jim McCann, county emergency services coordinator, having gotten nowhere with village and Elkland Township officials, now hopes to establish a food distribution site in a church. McCann has no doubt one is needed, since he has been receiving calls from persons needing food, as well as from ones wanting to donate it. "The need is there... because we're having them call."

A few hungry persons from the Cass City area went to Caro, he said, which was a hardship for them.

McCann was hoping

Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie or township supervisor Jack Gallagher would find a suitable location in a village or township building, but neither did. "They've been trying to drag this out for three weeks," he commented Tuesday.

He also made an inquiry to the Cass City schools, but has given up on that idea. A food closet was set up at Reese Elementary School, but for various reasons, that didn't work out, so it's being moved. He feels there would be the same problems in other schools.

Food closets in Mayville and Millington are in churches "and those are working out great."

McCann is hoping now to establish a food closet in Cass City in a church. A woman from one of them called him and was interested but first had to talk to her pastor.

Communities which have established food closets are Gagetown, Akron, Fairgrove, Millington, Reese, Unionville, Vassar and Mayville.

"Those other sites are working just great," McCann said.

The most used is the one in Vassar, where 33 families have been helped, all with at least four children.

persons wanting to donate food and none from persons needing it.

He didn't take the food, since it wouldn't be enough to help anyone.

Help should have arrived by now, however. McCann said Tuesday he has been taking donated food — bags of dry beans, canned goods, peanut butter, etc. — to the county food closets and planned to take a load to Gagetown Wednesday. Some persons have also donated money for purchase of food.

Downing felt once he gets some food from McCann and then gets individual donations, word will get around and then he will receive some calls from persons needing it.

BREAKING UP — This winter has been mild, but the continuous freezing and thawing has been hard on Cass City's streets. At the intersection of Sherman and Garfield Streets, three spots, two of which are shown here, have turned into little chunks of asphalt.

Video games too much for some children

Parents shouldn't worry about children who spend a small part of their time playing video games, says a Michigan State University
psychologist. However, video "addiction" can cause problems, he says.

"There is no scientific evidence that video play increases violent or aggressive behavior in children," says Gary Stollak. "But if they're playing video games several hours a day, four or more days a week, I'd be concerned."

"It means they're not engaging in other important activities."

Jamie and Kristie Parrish of Gagetown spent the week end with their grandparents,
Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stilson, while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Parrish,

Retford in Lions all state band

Linda Retford, a sophomore and flutist at Owendale-Gagetown High School, has been named a member of the 1983
Michigan Lions Club all-state band, which will play for the Lions International convention in Honolulu in late June.

She is the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. William Retford of Owendale.

Miss Retford competed with more than 240 high school-age musicians, representing 91 high school bands, and was chosen as one of 160 members of the Lions band.

The young musicians will march in the world's largest parade and will give numerous concerts in the Waikiki-Honolulu area.
They will tour the Iolani
Palace, Pearl Harbor, China
Town, Polynesian Culture Center and will visit several other islands in the Hawaiian group.

This Lions youth activity project provides an educational experience for the young musicians, and helps develop leadership and self-discipline skills.
Previous all-state bands
have traveled to Tokyo,
Montreal, Chicago, Phoenix and Atlanta.

New books at the library

PATHWAYS TO THE GODS: THE STONES OF KIRIBATI by Erich von Daniken (non-fiction). Von Daniken's continuing search for traces of ancient astronauts takes him to the South Pacific's Kiribati Islands, where he examines giant footprints and monoliths as still further evidence of intergalactic visitations. Integrating this information into his larger explanation of how human life first began on Earth, the author believes these latest findings to be additional proof that godlike creatures colonized the planet in times long past. Whether considered as a piece of radical reinterpretation of world history or as a bit of unconvincing comparative hucksterism, von Daniken's book still reads like a daring and exotic adventure story.

EMERALD by Phyllis Whitney (fiction). After kidnapping her small son from her thuggish ex-husband, Carol Hamilton flees to the Palm Springs desert home of her great aunt Monica for protection. Monica, a great film star of the 1930s, now lives in seclusion, refusing to see anyone.
Once in Monica's home, Carol finds herself faced with a whole new set of problems, romance, and danger.

WHY ME by Donald E. Westlake (fiction). John Dortmunder has unsuspectingly lifted the hottest rock in town. By the time he finds out that the gaudy bit of paste he almost didn't take is the priceless Byzantine Fire, the FBI, CIA, New York City police, terrorist groups from three nations, and every crook in town are after him. With the

Hearing set on Center B Drain cleaning project

A board of determination will conduct a hearing Wednesday, March 9, on the necessity of cleaning out the Center B Drain in Elkland and Novesta Townships.

The hearing will start at 10:30 a.m. in the Elkland Township hall on Church Street.

The approximately seven mile long drain starts southwest of the Dodge and Bay City-Forestville Road intersection and runs southeast parallel to the railroad tracks until it reaches Cass City.

The drain then veers to the southwest and crosses M-81, Koepfgen Road, and Elmwood Road before it empties into the Cass River.

The drain north of M-81, just under five miles, was cleaned in 1971, according to Tuscola County Drain Commissioner Stanley Henry, but the portion south of there has never been cleaned since the drain was built in 1920.

Property owners who would benefit from a drain cleaning petitioned for the project. Proposed, Henry said, is deepening the drain to its original depth, cutting the brush along the banks by hand and leveling the dirt. Other than that, the banks would not be touched.

Notices of the determination board meeting were sent to all property owners in the drainage district. That includes some in Cass City whose property is served by a storm sewer that empties into the Center B.

The boundaries of the district within Cass City are somewhat indefinite, Henry indicated, so if the project does proceed, the engineer will have to determine exactly who is within the district.

The members of the determination board, appointed by Henry and none from the Cass City area, are Jack DeSimpelare, Fred Aven and Don Harris.

Before the hearing Wednesday, they will inspect the drain. After they have heard comments from those attending, they will decide whether the drainage project is needed. They can decide at the end of the meeting or decide later.

If they decide to proceed, Henry will then hire an engineer to do the necessary design work and then advertise for construction bids.

He expects if the go-ahead is given, work might begin this fall.

After the engineering is done, Henry said he will apportion the costs among the property owners, the two townships and the county-at-large.

Once the construction bid is awarded, so the cost is known, Henry will assess the portion of the costs among the property owners.

Property owners' assessments, he pointed out, are based on acreage, not on value of their property, so a person in Cass City, for instance, won't pay anything near what someone who owns 40 acres will pay.

Henry will conduct a day of review for property owners who wish to go over or protest their

Herschel Walker

By Mike Eliasohn

We all make mistakes. Herschel Walker made one, for which he will supposedly be paid a total of $5.5 million over three years. (Those who know for sure aren't saying.)

The now ex-Georgia player's mistake was to sign a contract with the New Jersey Generals of the new United States Football League and then change his mind.

Walker had an oral understanding with the team's owner that he wouldn't be held to the contract if he decided to stay in college, but once it became known Walker had signed, it didn't matter. According to the National Collegiate Athletic Association rules, he was no longer eligible to play college football.

There were cries of outrage and disappointment.

"This is indeed a sad day for Georgia," said Walker's college coach, Vince Dooley. "Herschel Walker has meant so much to our program the past three years." What the running back meant to the University of Georgia was winning football teams.

The National Football League is upset because the future of its rule barring signing of football players until their college class graduates is threatened.

The NFL has reason to be upset. As two law professors who authored a law review article about professional football draft policies, quoted in Sunday's Detroit Free Press, point out "The real reason for the rule is that as a practical matter, the use of college-developed talent is a more efficient and less expensive way to train new players..."

The USFL bent its rules, similar to those of the NFL, to sign Walker.

The authors, Robert McCormick and Matthew McKinnon, conclude that had the USFL not done so, Walker could have gone to court and won.

He also could have won such a case against the NFL, though it would have taken longer, they said, because the no-signing-until-class-graduates rule is part of its contract with the players' union.

Such rules, the authors said, violate anti-trust laws because they have a severe anti-competitive impact on the market for players' services. "It bars all players, regardless of intelligence or financial capability, from playing professional football... (until four years have gone by)."

Some of the critics of Walker's prematurely turning pro feel if the four-year rule ends, young men won't finish their college educations. The greater concern, which they don't want to say, is the best players won't be around to play football in college for four years.

For instance, no one that I know of has protested Anthony Carter's signing Saturday with USFL Michigan Panthers.

The University of Michigan wide receiver has completed his college eligibility, but presumably hasn't completed all the courses needed to graduate.

Walker's turning pro makes him ineligible to run in the 1984 Olympics, which he had wanted to do as he is a world class sprinter.

The medals taken from Jim Thorpe following the 1912 Olympics because he had played semi-professional baseball prior to the games were recently presented to his family.

Some members of the 1980 gold medal U.S. hockey team who later turned pro have resumed their amateur status and hope to play on the 1984 team.

Yet Walker can't be a runner in the 1984 Olympics because he plays professional football. Makes no sense to me.

To his credit, Walker has said he plans to return to the University of Georgia during the off season to get his degree.

The USFL's season runs from March to July, so the off season is in the fall.

I wonder what kind of reaction there will be come fall if student Walker goes to a Georgia football game and the team is losing.

If someone yells, "If you were still playing here, we'd be winning," Walker will be lucky to get out of the stadium alive.

Idle waste

Turn off the ignition if you expect to be idling for more than one minute. Restarting the engine wastes less gasoline than idling for a minute or more.

An idling engine can use anywhere from one pint to one quart of gasoline every 15 minutes, depending on the size of the engine. In cold weather, start the engine and drive away—slowly. Don't idle the engine to let it warm up. An engine will warm up more quickly while driving than by idling.

NOTICE OF AMENDMENT TO ZONING ORDINANCE

The Village Council of the Village of Cass City adopted an amendment to Ordinance No. 70 - the Village of Cass City Zoning Ordinance, on February 22, 1983, rezoning the following described property from RA-2 One Family Residential to RB Two Family Residential;

One half (1/2) block adjacent to Seeger Street on the East between Rose Street and the North half (N1/2) of the block between Church and Huron Streets and between Third Street and the Village Limits; and one half block adjacent to Seeger Street on the West between Huron Street and Church Street and between Third Street and Seventh Street.

The Council also amended Article III-Sec. 301-District Boundaries, to reflect the above change; Article V-Sec. 501-RB Two Family Residential District, Principal Uses Permitted, to change the Schedule of Regulations applicable to the RB District from RA-1 to RA-2 when one family detached dwellings are erected; and Article XV-Schedule of Regulations, to reduce the minimum floor area from 720 to 650 square feet per unit in a two family residential structure.

This amendment becomes effective twenty (20) days from date of adoption. A copy of this ordinance is being published as part of the minutes of the February 22, 1983 meeting, and may be inspected at the office of the Village Clerk, 6737 Church Street, Cass City, Michigan, during business hours.

Tax checkoff to assist

abused kids

A new Michigan income tax "checkoff" goes into effect this year to help prevent child abuse.

Supporters can automatically donate $2 of their tax refunds to a special children's trust fund. All the money collected will be allocated to community prevention programs on a matching basis.

Ray E. Helfer, an expert on child abuse prevention and a member of the faculty of Michigan State University's College of Human Medicine, established the idea of a children's trust fund in the state.

"This major piece of legislation has the potential for preventing child abuse much as the 55 mph speed limit has reduced the number of car accidents," Helfer said.

Caro paving job to cost $151,974

Saginaw Asphalt Paving Co. of Carrollton was the low bidder for a highway project in Caro when the Michigan Department of Transportation took bids on 13 projects statewide last Wednesday.

The firm's bid was $151,974, which still must be approved by the State Transportation Commission and Administrative Review Board.

The project consists of realignment of approach roads to the intersection of M-81, Van Geisen and S. Colling Roads at the southwest corner of Caro and widening of M-81 to ease making left turns.

The project is scheduled for completion by June.

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT

If you are one of America's workers, an IRA may be the solution to your retirement income needs.

Even though you may plan on Social Security, for most people Social Security is a beginning, but it may not provide an adequate retirement income by itself.

All interest on an IRA account is TAX-FREE until withdrawal. You take before-tax dollars from your earned income now (lowering your taxable income) and deposit them into an IRA account. You pay no taxes on the principal or interest until you retire and start to withdraw the money... at which time your tax bracket should be substantially lower.

So, plan ahead now for your retirement years with your own IRA. It's a wonderful opportunity for you to...

- SAVE TAX DOLLARS
- EARN BIG TAX-EXEMPT INTEREST
- BUILD SECURITY FOR YOUR FUTURE

Federal Regulations require substantial penalties for withdrawals made prior to maturity. IRA regulators provide for substantial penalties for withdrawals before age 59.

Clarification

As reported in last week's Chronicle, Ronald Erickson was not elected 8th District Republican chairman, but not as implied, because he didn't get enough votes.

He withdrew before voting started, after Donald Reetz of Bay City announced he was running. Erickson said he would have been comfortable with Reetz as chairman. Reetz was defeated by Jim Larsen of Crosswell, the only other candidate.

"It is generally better to deal by speech than by letter."

Rep. Allen named to task force

State Rep. Dick Allen (R-77th District), has been appointed to the House Republican Task Force on Budget Reduction, an eight-member panel assigned to develop methods of improving the state budget.

The panel was created at the request of House Republican Leader J. Michael Busch.

Allen said the Task Force has two assignments, to develop both short-term and long-term goals toward making state government more cost efficient.

"First, we need some fresh and well-thought out ideas on where to cut the budget," said Allen. "Secondly, we need to consider long-term evaluations and performance audits of state agencies. We also need to promote the concept of sunset legislation. Programs that outlive their usefulness should not be allowed to continue year after year."

The Task Force is expected to file its initial report to Busch within two weeks.

Those who waited and went blind

Boston investigators discovered a startling fact when they examined hospital records of people blinded by glaucoma during the past 40 years.

About a third of 93 people blinded in both eyes by glaucoma were legally blind before they ever sought treatment. Another 17 had lost the sight of one eye before seeking medical attention.

Many of these tragedies could have been avoided. Glaucoma cannot be cured, but its progress usually can be halted if detected in time. The test is brief and painless.

Details of the massive study of 750 cases of blindness treated at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary appear in the current issue of Ophthalmology, official journal of the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

The report is by W. Morton Grant, M.D., and Joseph F. Burke, Jr., M.D., of the Infirmary and of Harvard Medical School.

Morton noted that glaucoma's progress is often slow and painless — yet a majority of those who went blind "had been aware of something wrong for months or years." Most had been aware of gradually decreasing vision, and about a quarter had been aware of intermittent blurring or halos around lights, or had aching or burning of the eyes.

Why these victims put off treatment for so long was not stated in their medical records.

"They might well have sought attention sooner if they had been alert to the possible significance," Dr. Morton said.

Common, or open-angle glaucoma is called the "thief in the night" disease because it steals sight painlessly, and often without the victim being aware that he is losing vision. Side vision often deteriorates, while straight-ahead vision remains good. One eye will sometimes compensate for the loss of side vision in the other.

Another less common type, acute angle-closure glaucoma, begins swiftly and can cause intense pain, blurred vision, and nausea. Unless treated promptly, vision can be lost in a day or two.

The earlier treatment is started, the better chance a glaucoma patient has of retaining sight, the study shows. This was confirmed by comparing the blind cases with 200 patients who were treated for glaucoma and did not lose their sight.

In glaucoma, damage to the optic nerve results when fluid pressure builds up within the eye. Patients who retained their sight did so because ophthalmologists provided treatment to lower this pressure. In a number of cases, treatment failed because the patient failed to cooperate, either by abandoning medical treatment or by refusing surgery.

Among cooperative patients, treatment failure was in nearly all cases related to insufficient reduction of pressure inside the eye, Dr. Morton said.

If no interior damage or vision loss is evident, some patients can tolerate high pressures for years, the study revealed. If interior damage or vision loss occurs, however, pressure must be lowered substantially.

New drugs and laser surgery "give the optimistic feeling that we are entering a new era of treatment," Morton said. "Although these advances are not yet the whole answer, they should serve as great encouragement to those who are dedicated to preventing blindness."

Unemployed
Vets may get
added benefits

Unemployed or underemployed Vietnam Era veterans may be eligible for an extension of their educational benefits, according to Gordon Clowney, director of the Veterans Administration regional office in Detroit.

The director pointed out modification of educational assistance legislation provides for the extension of the 10-year educational eligibility period for certain veterans who may wish to pursue further vocational, apprenticeship, on-the-job training or get a high school diploma.

"The benefit extension is aimed at putting unemployed and underemployed veterans into training or educational programs that will give them marketable skills so they can reenter the work force," Clowney said.

To qualify for the extension a veteran must have been unemployed or underemployed for six months and need additional training or education in order to obtain a more stable job.

Eligible Vietnam Era veterans can get additional information about the program from the regional office in Detroit.

Ending date for the extension is Dec. 31, 1984.

PIK sign up

Sign up for the federal government's payment-in-kind program for farmers ends March 11 and will not be extended, according to Jimmy LaVoie, Huron County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service executive director.

"Farmers will not have an opportunity to change their mind and sign up after this deadline," he said. "However, those who have already enrolled and those who enroll before March 11 will have the option of withdrawing or changing their enrollment without penalty provided it is done before enrollment ends."

All farmers for which a 1983 acreage base and yield has been established for wheat and feed grains under the previously announced farm programs are eligible to participate in PIK by signing up at their county ASCS office.

Around the Farm
A visit to Morocco

By William Bortel

A group of Tuscola and Saginaw County agriculturalists recently returned from an agriculture tour of Morocco on Africa's northeast coast.

Morocco has sea coasts, fertile plains, arid deserts, and two mountain ranges. Snow and rain from the mountains are transported by rivers and canals to the more arid fertile areas. Rainfall is decreasing, so irrigation is the answer.

Morocco's main income is from her food exports and agriculture. King Hassan II is very interested in agricultural research and greater production. At present, 24 dams provide power and water to Morocco. Morocco is a land of the "sleeping giant" with water playing a key role in agriculture.

The farm which has the best yields and agricultural practices is selected annually to receive a gift from the King. This year, the gift was a huge American-made irrigation system.

Farmers are encouraged by free land, minimum wages, the free expertise of agricultural and technical engineers and credit.

If a farmer cannot make the land produce adequately, it is taken from him and given to a poor farmer who in turn must prove he can care for it properly by increasing production. The more one produces, the lower their taxes. Morocco's farmers produce more than twice the foodstuffs they use.

Large farmers must provide small tracts of land for their employees to grow their own food. There are many cooperative farms as well as private. Large machinery is expensive (agricultural equipment that is imported is tax free and their gasoline is subsidized). Tractors are subsidized to individuals by the government at 10 percent. If a cooperative purchases a tractor, it is subsidized at 30 percent.

Agricultural land prices in Morocco are comparable to those found in the Saginaw Valley. Crop yields of sugar beets and wheat are also very comparable to yields in Saginaw and Tuscola Counties.

Topsoil is from 15-30 feet deep. This provides a lushness to crops when the water (natural or irrigated) is present. Phosphate appears naturally in the soil and is exported.

The group visited poultry farms (egg to fryer), two of Princess Lalla Amina's farms (sheep, riding horses and studs, plus swine), the internationally famous King Ranch (Santa Gertrudis, beef cattle), research co-operatives and farms for certified seed, sugar beets, beans (dry and green), legumes, sunflowers, vegetables, wheat, oranges, apricots, olives, and almonds.

Sugar refineries were built by the Belgians, but were given to the farmers. Profits are paid to the factory engineers and technicians. The King has

Undisputed title at stake Friday

Wow! Hawks clinch Thumb B title share

Cass City was assured of at least a tie for the Thumb B Association championship when Bad Axe upset Lakers in double overtime.

If the Hawks win Friday against Marlette they will be undisputed champions. If Cass City loses and Lakers win the Hawks will tie for the crown.

Friday when the Marlette Red Raiders come to town, Cass City Red Hawk fans will be on hand to see if their team can notch a win and become Thumb B Association champions or co-champions for the fifth time in nine years.

The Hawks posted a somewhat lackluster victory over the North Branch Broncos last Friday, 54-46, at North Branch to set the stage for the coming clash with Marlette.

If the Hawks top Marlette the worst that can happen is that they tie with Lakers for the title.

Although Marlette was defeated handily by Lakers last Friday, the Red Raiders are a team that is hot and cold. On a good night they can be truly troublesome.

North Branch was troublesome enough for Cass City even though the Broncos haven't had a particularly good year and have languished near the bottom of the Thumb B all season.

Cass City went ahead midway in the first period and was never behind, but never so comfortably ahead that the outcome of the game could be taken for granted.

Although both teams were missing many shots, Cass City used a mini-rally to streak ahead 19-11 with 3:32 left in the opening quarter and spent the rest of the night protecting the lead.

At the half the Hawks were in front 25-18. North Branch made one more run at the Hawks in the third quarter, closing to 29-25, paced by Doug Filkins who pushed in two quick baskets.

That was as close as the Broncos could come to an upset. The Hawks took charge again and were ahead 42-33 at the end of the third period.

Coach Ron Nurnberger said that Rick Pobanz played a fine floor game for Cass City. He said that the Hawk defense was very good.

It had to be because Cass City was guilty of many turnovers and some miserable shooting from the field. The Hawks hit just 16 of 56 from the field for an average of 28 percent. The Broncos converted 20 of 55 for 36 percent.

Cass City wasn't all that great from the free throw line either with 22 of 36 for 52 percent while North Branch was 6 of 10 for 60 percent. The Hawks won the battle of the boards, 44 to 32.

John Meininger led Cass City with 22 points followed by Bryan Beecher with 11 and Barry Lapp with 10. Doug Filkins, the league's leading scorer, led North Branch with 15 points.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The North Branch Junior Varsity edged out the Hawk JV, 49-46, in a game where the lead changed hands throughout the game.

District pairs

Cass City faces Marlette Tuesday, O-G plays undefeated Kinde

Drawings were held for the district number 85 Class C Michigan High School Basketball Tournament Monday at Mayville and Cass City drew a bye and will meet Marlette Tuesday, Mar. 8, at 7:30 p.m.

Cass City's 12-7 record will be the best in the tournament. Marlette has a 9-10 mark and the two teams will meet Friday in the final game of the year.

The team with one of the poorest records may be one of the better squads. Sandusky (6-13), also drew a bye in the bottom bracket and will face the winner of Monday's game between Mayville (2-17) and Brown City (9-10). That game is slated Wednesday, Mar. 9.

Practically all of Sandusky's wins have come at the end of the season and the Redskins are a much better team now than the record indicates.

The championship game will be played Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets for the opening game will be on sale at Cass City High School Monday at 8 a.m.

Owen-Gage only has to win one game in the district basketball tournament next week at Caseville High School to make it to the finals.

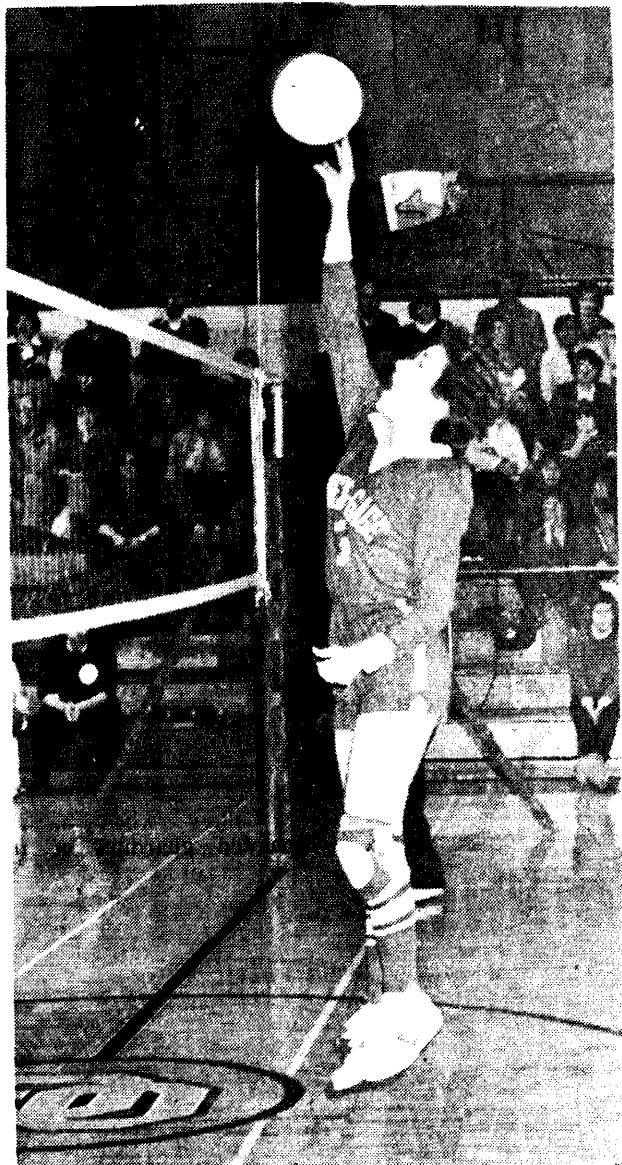

The problem for coach Claude Stevens' team is that it has to play North Huron in its first game Tuesday, starting at 7 p.m. The North Central D League champion Warriors, prior to this week's games, were 15-0 in the league and 19-0 overall.

The Bulldogs, who were 7-8 in the league and 8-10 overall prior to Tuesday night's non-league game at home against Ubly, lost to North Huron 61-54 Dec. 17 and 79-61 Feb. 1.

Host Caseville opens the district tournament against Akron-Fairgrove Monday, Wednesday, Port Hope plays the winner of the Monday game.

The winner of that game will play the Owen-Gage-North Huron winner Friday for the district trophy and the chance to advance to the regionals.

All games start at 7 p.m.

In the nightcap Wednesday the winners of the McMahan-Charmont and Colwood-Erla's games will meet. Finals have tentatively been set for Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Intermediate School gym.

Only one game was played in the regular league schedule as Colwood and Tuff-Kote both forfeited games. In the contest Erla's defeated McMahan's, in a battle of second division clubs.

The Foodmen won 82-60 taking the lead early and holding it throughout the game. At the end of the first period the score was 24-16 and at the half, 43-33.

ASK DR. COE

By Dalton P. Coe, D.D.S.

Manufacturers of dental health care products deserve both credit and blame for the promotion or selling the idea that a person is not attractive unless they have perfectly white teeth. The idea of removing plaque is, of course - excellent. This act will no doubt improve the appearance of both teeth and gums. This is desirable! But what about people who are not satisfied that their teeth are still not "white" enough.

First of all, let me state that there is a normal range of color for teeth. Teeth generally compliment the shade of a person's overall coloration - tooth color is derived from the same genetic influence as one's eye, hair and skin color. In general, it can be said that natural blondes will have the whitest teeth. Redheads will have teeth with a slight orange cast and brunettes will have a bit of a yellow cast to their teeth. Unclean teeth do detract from a person's appearance. However, stark white teeth can also be unattractive if they do not blend with a person's overall normal coloration.

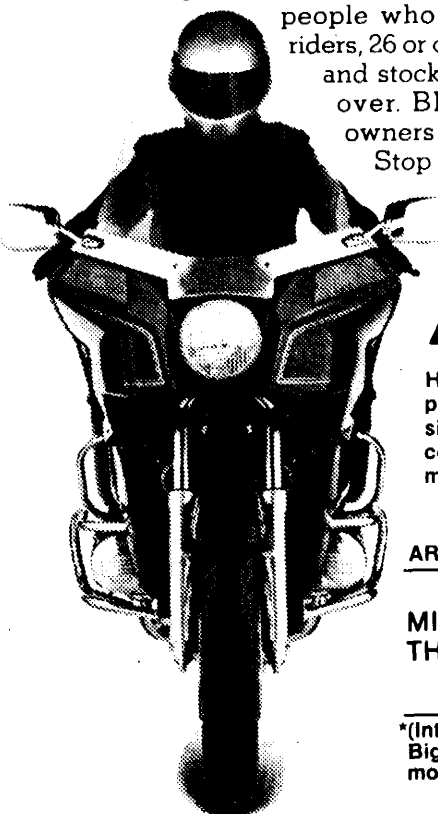

But what about discoloration of teeth which is not part of a person's normal color scheme? Intrinsic staining, that is discoloration of tooth substance as it is formed, is another matter entirely. The wide spread use of certain types of antibiotic of the tetracycline group to treat childhood diseases a few years ago is now evidenced in some of our population by gray, green, brown or yellow discoloration of the teeth. Pitting and staining can also occur as a result of high fever in children, from unusually high amounts of dietary fluoride and from certain congenital diseases. There is hope, however, in severe cases of intrinsic staining. A short term solution involves the painting or placing of a plastic veneer over the front teeth. Long term solution usually includes the construction of porcelain jackets to cover the front teeth. In either treatment, the attempt is made to create a tooth color which is in harmony with the rest of the person's skin, eye and hair color.

Seek damages for 3 injured in fatal crash

A law suit has been filed in Tuscola County Circuit Court by the guardian of three children whose mother was killed in a March 22, 1981, traffic accident.

Defendant is Richard K. Duke, 38, of Akron, who was involved in the accident.

The plaintiff is Florence McCollum, who was appointed guardian of the children of Laurel C. Miller, who was 36 years old and a Unionville resident when she was killed. The children are Scott, David and Pamela Miller.

The suit claims that David and Scott were injured in the accident and all three children suffered psychological injuries as the result of the death of their mother, plus loss of love, society and companionship.

It seeks damages of more than $10,000, together with costs, interest and attorney fees.

The accident took place on Bay City-Forestville Road, east of Unionville, when Mrs. Miller started to pass Duke's pickup and the vehicles collided.

David was a passenger in her car at the time; Scott was riding in Duke's pickup.

Jan. 5 of this year, a circuit court jury found Duke innocent of a charge of negligent homicide in connection with the accident.

The prosecution charged he and Mrs. Miller had been drag racing at the time of the crash and he was therefore negligent. A police officer who interviewed Duke after the accident testified at the trial that the defendant had told him he and Mrs. Miller were friends and had been racing, but he had stopped and she hadn't.

The victim was divorced.

New car expenses deductible

Taxpayers combing their 1982 auto-related expenses may find a $1,318 tax deduction if they purchased new cars last year, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Motorists who itemize deductions on their 1982 federal income tax forms can claim state sales tax on car purchases plus interest paid on auto loans," explained Stan O'Connor, Auto Club Tax manager.

"Typically, a person who bought a $9,000 car at the beginning of the year financed $7,000 for 48 months at a 15 percent annual interest rate," said O'Connor. "That person could deduct the 4 percent state sales tax of $360 and $958 in interest paid over 12 months, or a total of $1,318."

Motorists who itemize also can deduct casualty or theft losses over $100 which were not covered by insurance, certain moving expenses and 9 cents per mile for medical or charitable travel.

Tuscola jury finds no cause for action

A Tuscola County Circuit Court jury last Thursday decided there was no cause for action against Clarke and John Haire, defendants in a lawsuit filed against them by Marie T. Male. All are from Cass City.

The jury ruled Clarke Haire was not negligent in a July 15, 1976, collision involving a car driven by Gerald Briggs of 4195 West Street has nine more dogs than he would like because of an amorous stray dog.

His dog, "Lady," gave birth to nine puppies in late January. Lady is a mixed breed, but primarily collie. Its puppies — six black and white, one brown and white, and two blonde — appear part beagle.

What upsets Briggs is that he always keeps Lady chained up when outside. Not so for the father, whoever it was. "If I wanted it (Lady) bred, I would have taken it outside and let it enjoy herself."

He would like to see persons voluntarily keep their dogs tied up, which would reduce the need for enforcement.

For a while, he said, there were four or five stray dogs hanging around his yard on a steady basis, and one even took over Lady's doghouse until she became pregnant, then left.

Briggs said the county animal shelter was called more than once, but no officer was ever seen, though they have been there.

County Animal Control Director Geoffrey Quinn said he or Deputy Control Officer Donald Willis go on all calls they receive. The problem is, "Lots of times we go, but by the time we get there, it (the stray dog) is gone or went home."

They are the only two animal control officers in the county.

BOTH COUNTY AND Cass City ordinance permit persons to tie up stray dogs until they can be picked up by the county officers. The village ordinance says, "It shall be the right of a private citizen to pick up any and all stray dogs running at large... and turn over said dogs to the village police or the county dog warden."

That isn't always a viable solution, however. "A lot of dogs won't let you tie them up," Briggs commented. "One growled at my wife. She's not about to go near it."

Some persons don't like to tie up stray dogs for another reason. "A lot of people figure that's our job," Quinn said.

Neither county or village ordinance requires dogs to be tied up or on leashes. What they prohibit is allowing them to run loose.

As expressed by the village ordinance, "It is

Walbro sets dividend

The board of directors of Walbro Corp., at a regular meeting Feb. 23, declared a first quarter dividend of 10 cents per share payable April 29 to stockholders of record March 15.

The first quarter dividend continues a six-year trend of 10 cent quarterly dividends.

In announcing the first quarter dividend, Walbro President Lambert E. Althaver noted that the outlook for 1983 appears significantly improved compared with the past year.

"Increased orders for Walbro products, generally improving economic conditions, and the results of programs undertaken in 1982 to improve operating efficiency and enhance the company's position in its various markets, combine to make 1983 look like a promising year for Walbro," he said.

Walbro's annual shareholders' meeting will take place Monday, April 25, in Cass City.

him and one driven by Mrs. Male. The accident took place at Elmwood and Dodge Roads.

Mrs. Male had asked for $250,000 in damages. John Haire was a defendant because he was the owner of the car driven by his son.

Judge Patrick R. Joslyn presided over the two-day trial. The lawsuit had been filed in June, 1979.

New pups at Briggs home reflect problem with area dogs

unlawful to permit dogs to run at large at any time on public or private land... other than on land owned by the owner or custodian of the dogs or on land where permission to allow the dogs to run has been obtained. Dogs on a leash or accompanied by owner shall not be deemed to be running at large."

CASS CITY POLICE prefer that stray dogs be taken care of by the animal control officers. "Basically, we try to stay out of picking up dogs," said Police Chief Gene Wilson.

The only place to put a dog he or his officers pick up, he explained, is in the back seat of the patrol car, plus they have no place to tie them up until the animal control officers arrive.

They prefer, if possible, for the homeowner to keep the stray tied up until picked up, which if on the weekend, means waiting until Monday.

In certain cases, such as an injured, sick or vicious dog, police will take it. On weekends, they put it in Willis' animal shelter truck, since he lives in Cass City and keeps the truck here.

Wilson said there have been times when the stray dog problem became bad enough that he asked one of the animal control officers to spend a day or half-day in town patrolling for strays.

The village ordinance, in addition to prohibiting dogs from running at large, also makes it "unlawful to keep or harbor any dog which by loud or frequent barking, yelping or howling shall cause annoyance to the neighborhood or to people passing to and fro."

Such dogs can be taken by police or the animal control officers.

MOST DOGS TAKEN to the animal shelter, Quinn said, do not carry a license or other identification. In those instances, if the owner doesn't call within four working days, the animal can be sold or shipped out.

(Of the 4,807 animals handled by the shelter in 1982, 113 were returned to owners, 639 were sold and the rest were shipped out. The person who takes them sells some for medical researchers, but must kill most, which is done by needle injection.)

Owners of animals carrying identification are notified. They then have 14 days to retrieve their animal.

To get an animal back from the shelter costs $10 the first time, an additional $5 for each time after that.

In addition, violation of the village ordinance is punishable by a $50 fine for a first offense, $100 for the second and imprisonment up to 30 days and a $100 fine for subsequent offenses.

Persons found guilty of violating the county ordinance can be fined $100, plus costs, and-or be sentenced to up to 90 days in jail.

However, Quinn said it is rare that someone whose dog is taken to the shelter is also given a citation for violating the ordinance, thus all they usually pay is the fee to get their pet out of the shelter. He and Willis issue few tickets. Last year, they wrote 27.

As for Briggs and his nine puppies, he said he will keep them until they grow a little bit. Those that nobody else wants will go to the animal shelter.

"I'm kind of kind hearted, I guess," he said. "It no doubt will be inevitable for the majority of them (that they will go to the shelter). They're kind of cute at this stage and they don't eat much."

4 face driving under influence charge in court

Cass City police arrested four persons last week on charges of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor.

Jimmy Lee Anderson, 22, of 6551 Ritter Road was charged with that and also with fleeing and eluding.

Officers Phillip Klaus and Robert Moore were westbound on Main Street at Maple at 10:20 p.m. Friday when a car doing about 50 miles per hour passed their patrol car.

They activated their siren and flashers and gave chase. The pursued car turned right onto Seeger Street and then turned left into the parking lot.

The driver got out, ran south on Leach, then east on Main, crossed the street near Seeger, then ran back across Main, and started running up some stairs in the middle of the block. Klaus, who was pursuing him on foot, caught the suspect when the man slipped on the steps.

Anderson was taken to the county jail in Caro. He appeared Monday before District Judge Richard F. Kern, who set bond at $3,500, which was later posted. A pretrial hearing was scheduled March 22.

Deborah Sue Barker, 20, of 6316 Pine Street, was arrested by police at 2:45 a.m. last Thursday, after her car was observed signaling a left turn onto Brooker Street from Main and it then turned right.

She was later released from the county jail after posting $100 bond. Arraignment in district court was scheduled March 14.

14. Rodney L. Wakefield, 19, of 6204 Lakeside Drive, Lot 35, was arrested at 1:55 a.m. Friday after police observed his car being driven west on Pine Street in the eastbound lane, then veer sharply into the eastbound lane.

He was later released from the county jail on $2,000 personal recognizance bond, with district court arraignment scheduled March 7.

Richard L. Patera, 29, of 4178 Cass City Road, was arrested by police at 3:40 a.m. Saturday after his vehicle was observed weaving on M-81, west of the village.

He was released from the county jail after posting $100 bond, with district court arraignment scheduled March 14.

FIGHT

A three-way argument early last Thursday resulted in one man being punched in the nose.

According to Cass City police, the three men were inside The Station tavern and started arguing over a debt one owed to one of the others. They went outside and the man who owed the money was punched in the nose by the friend of the man who owed it.

The victim fled and was found about a block away by police, who took him to Hills and Dales General Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Officers later questioned the other two men. Information about the incident was turned over to the prosecutor's office and the victim was told he would have to sign a complaint if he wanted the person who hit him charged.

As of Tuesday, no complaint had been signed.

OTHER ITEMS

Marv Winter reported to Bad Axe state police early Friday that the tailgate of his pickup truck was stolen while it was parked at the Colony House, which he owns, on M-53, Cass City. He discovered it missing about 1:50 a.m.

State police broadcast a "be on the lookout" and a short while later, Elkton Police Chief Duane Alexander stopped a pickup in his community with three occupants inside and the missing tailgate in the bed of the pickup.

They were released pending further investigation. As of Tuesday, issuance of arrest warrants was still pending.

Cass City Intermediate School Principal Robert Stickle reported to village police Feb. 21 that a Hitachi cassette tape recorder was stolen from room 25 of the building the previous day. It was valued at $70.

Dennis Rieck of Rieck's Used Auto Parts, M-46, Kingston, reported to Caro state police at 8 a.m. last Thursday that his building had been entered during the night by cutting through a window.

Taken were no more than $10 from a cash register and three seat belt wrenches.

Roy M. Corlis of 6049 Wilcox Road, Deford, told deputies Friday afternoon that two chain saws were taken from his home on the Bevens Road Jan. 25 or 26 after a fire there.

The Homelite saw was valued at $100; the Poulan at $175.

Farmers plan to plant less this year

The February prospective plantings survey shows Michigan farmers plan to decrease acreage for corn, dry beans and oats.

Soybean acreage is anticipated to be unchanged from last season. Expected increases in acreage were noted for hay and barley, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

Michigan corn growers plan to reduce acreage 17 percent to 2.6 million acres during the coming crop year. If these intentions are realized, corn acreage will be the lowest since 1974.

Soybean acreage is expected to be slightly over one million acres, equal to last year's record. Dry bean acreage is expected to continue its downward trend with 450,000 acres intended for the coming season.

Oats acreage is expected to decline 12 percent to 420,000 acres. Acreage of hay and barley is expected to be up 2 percent and 18 percent respectively.

Nationally, corn growers intend to plant 69.6 million acres in 1983, down 15 percent from last year. Soybean prospective plantings, at 68.8 million acres are down 5 percent from 1982. Dry edible bean farmers intend to plant 1.5 million acres in 1983, down 22 percent from the previous year.

The report is based on voluntary responses from about 1,000 Michigan growers and 40,000 growers nationwide.

Damage slight in car fire

Elkland Township firemen were called to Thumb Home Service at M-53 and Severance Road at 8:27 a.m. Tuesday to extinguish a small car fire.

Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. said owner Tim Spry was welding inside the fender well of a car and the insulation behind the dash caught on fire.

Damage was confined to the dash area and wiring. The loss was estimated at $250.

Spry unsuccessfully tried to put out the fire.

Owner of the car, a 1980 Chevrolet Citation, was John Terril.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Youth service council taking referrals

Elkland Township firemen were called to a chimney

The Tuscola County Youth Services Council headed by Probate Judge Wally Kent is now ready to receive referrals through its Intervention Service Committee.

Any person or agency knowing of a youth in need who desires assistance may contact Kent at 673-5999 or Cliff Baird, chairman of the Intervention Service Committee, at 673-7977 for further information.

For purposes of this committee, the term "youth" is defined as anyone under 19 years of age or who is enrolled in high school.

The main function of this committee is to identify the youth's needs and to search out the appropriate county or local agency and set up a procedure for meeting those needs.

fire at 9:50 p.m. Saturday at a home at the corner of West and Houghton Streets.

The fire was out by the time they arrived. Two firemen climbed onto the roof to check the inside of the chimney.

Owner of the home is Ray Williams and tenant is Ron Allor.

Sue county for faulty storm drain

The board of the Tuscola County Road Commission and the Tuscola County drain commissioner are defendants in a suit filed in circuit court in connection with an incident that took place Feb. 16, 1981.

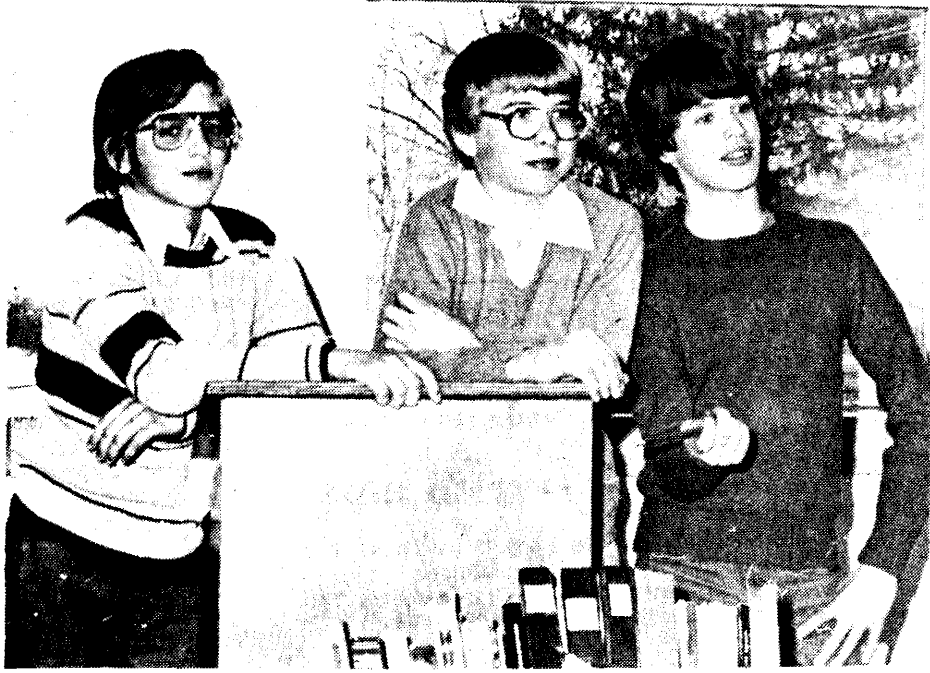

Plaintiff is Alfred H. Janos, address not given.

The suit says that on the above date, Janos went to get his mother who lived on S. Ringle Road, Vassar. Because the drain had overflowed, her yard and the road in front of her property were flooded.

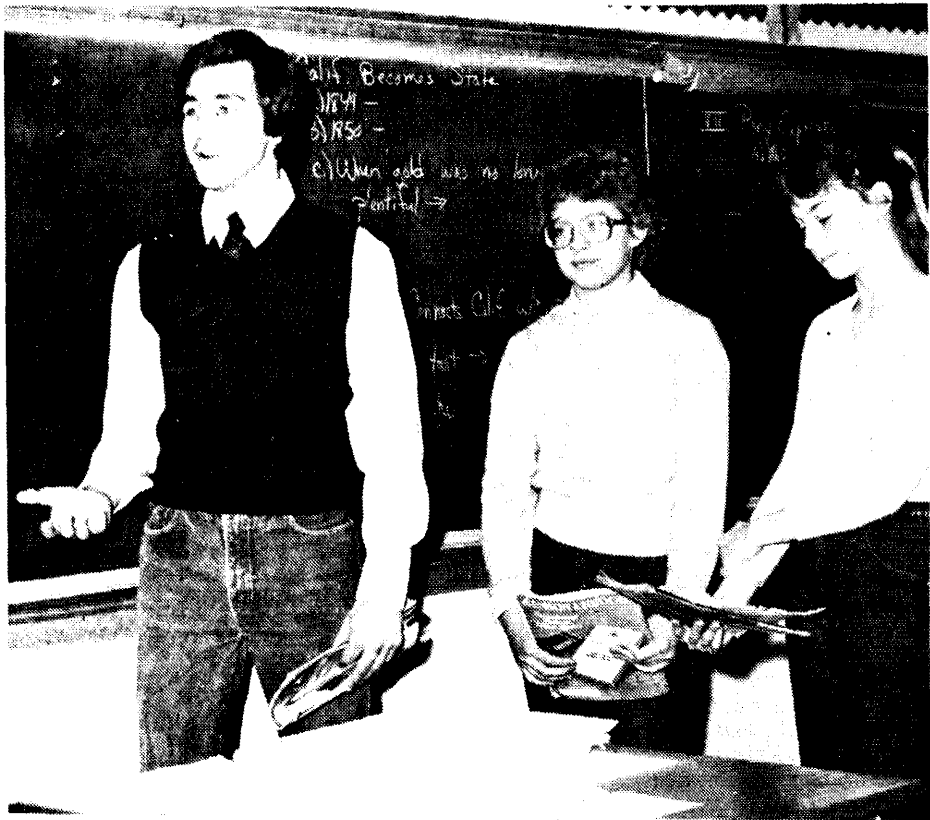

In attempting to "clear and/or enter" his mother's property, the suit claims, Janos slipped into the drain and suffered cuts and scrapes, which later became infected and developed disease.

The suit argues the defendants were negligent because the water that overflowed the drain had been allowed to stand for several days, "becoming stagnant and becoming unsafe for the public."

Sought are more than $10,000 in damages, together with costs, interest and attorney fees.

Set soil district poster contest

The Tuscola County Soil Conservation District is sponsoring soil and water conservation poster and scrapbook contests for children again this year.

Rules for the scrapbook contest are as follows:

Divisions are: I, third and fourth grade students; II, fifth and sixth; and III, seventh and eighth.

All pictures, drawings, charts and graphs must have appropriate explanations and/or captions and sources noted. Photos taken by participants are encouraged.

3 plead guilty in circuit court

Three persons pleaded guilty to various charges when they appeared Tuesday, Feb. 22, before Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

Randy M. Bliss, 21, of 7702 W. Deckerville Road, Fairgrove, pleaded guilty to attempted felonious assault with a club on Ralph Bills Feb. 2 in Akron.

His plea was accepted and a sentencing date will be set. Bond was continued.

Timothy S. Piazza, 22, of Huron Avenue, Vassar, pleaded guilty to attempted breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling, the Teen Haven in Vassar, Oct. 18.

His plea was accepted and a sentencing date will be set. Bond of $10,000 was continued.

Larry L. Hunter, 17, of 2168 Wagner Road, Caro, pleaded guilty to larceny in a building, to stealing a package of peanut butter cups Oct. 28 from the Caro Kroger store.

His plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled April 25. As a condition of his bond, which was continued, he is to attend school every day.

In other cases Monday: Sentencing was delayed one year for Ralph S. Legue, 19, of 5289 Hanes Road, Vassar, who pleaded guilty Jan. 21 to negligent homicide in connection with the Aug. 28, 1981, traffic death of Larry Lee Fabbro. He is to pay $100 court costs.

The accident took place south of Vassar on M-15, when Legue's pickup collided with Fabbro's motorcycle.

If Legue complies with all provisions of his probation during the next year, the charge against him can be dismissed.

Paul E. Tappert, 36, of 4311 Beech Street, Akron, stood mute to a charge of criminal sexual contact with a minor under 13 years of age Aug. 7 in Akron.

A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled March 28. Bond of $15,000 was continued.

Gerald Keilitz, 45, of 619 Gibbs Street, Caro, was sentenced to eight months in the county jail for receiving money under false pretenses. Four months of the term were suspended.

He was also placed on three years probation, fined $250, assessed $300 court costs and ordered to pay $450 restitution.

Keilitz pleaded no contest to the charge Dec. 27, regarding an insurance claim for a citizens band radio he claimed was lost in a fire in June, 1981, but wasn't.

Conservation District" must be attached to the back of each entry.

Entries will be judged at the district level and two in each division will be selected as winners. Awards will be presented at the district's annual dinner meeting.

Your neighbor says A mild winter is okay with me

For persons who like to ski, snowmobile or go ice fishing, this has been a terrible winter.

But for Virginia Gibas, "I think it's great." Not that she is a winter hater. "I like winter, but it makes it hard for people to get around, heat bills and all that."

She has had her regrets. "Christmas wasn't Christmas. It was terrible," she said of the day when the temperature reached 64 degrees.

If a Christmas day that warm wasn't typical, nor is winter without at least one snow storm. For that reason, Miss Gibas said, "I'd like to have one good snow storm."

During normal winters, she likes to go snowmobiling and, "I used to like to go ice fishing with my dad." She also likes to walk through the snow, provided it isn't too deep. She has never skied, but would like to try it.

When the threat of snow is gone and nice weather is here to stay, Miss Gibas said she will be ready.

She likes to swim, go bike riding and play tennis and describes herself as an outdoor person "when I'm not working, which isn't very often."

Miss Gibas has been a nurse aide at Provincial House for almost three years. She is single and lives in an apartment on Main Street.

Books given to elementary pupils

Last Wednesday and Thursday, the Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women held its second Reading is Fundamental book distribution of the school year.

Wednesday, all second and third grade students at Deford and Evergreen schools received one RIF book of their choice and a cookie from the Cookie Monster.

Thursday, all second grade students at Campbell Elementary received a RIF book and a visit from the Cookie Monster. The children sang songs to the Cookie Monster, gave him valentines and told him about some of the important events in February.

Michelle Zdrojewski and AAUW members Ann Craig, Dotty Scollon and Evelyn MacRae were in charge of the distributions.

A total of 146 books were distributed.

Soil district conducting tree sale

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District is taking orders for tree seedlings for spring planting.

The following species are available: White pine, red pine, Scotch pine, Austrian pine, Colorado blue spruce, Norway spruce, white spruce, Carolina Poplar, black walnut and autumn olive, a shrub.

The trees may be used for windbreaks, reforestation, erosion control, restocking woodlots, wildlife cover and Christmas trees.

The trees come in bundles of 50. Black walnut and Carolina poplar may be ordered in smaller quantities.

Plant red pine on sandy, gravelly to medium loam soils. Austrian pine do well on heavy clay soil. Plant Scotch pine, white spruce and Colorado blue spruce for Christmas trees.

Autumn olive is a shrub that grows 12-15 feet high, has shiny green leaves, a blossom in the summer and a red berry in the fall. Song birds and pheasants especially like the berries. If the shrub is planted 5-7 feet apart, it will provide a solid hedge row which may serve as a barrier, windbreak, wildlife food and cover and will also beautify the area. Order can be placed at the Tuscola SCD office, 852 S. Hooper Street, Caro, phone 673-8174.

Outline new dairy plan for farmers at annual meeting of Deford MMPA

Dairy farmers who have expanded their herds during the last two years would be penalized under a program that has been proposed by the National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) to correct the milk surplus problem.

Details of the plan were outlined Saturday afternoon to members of the Michigan Milk Producers Association Deford local at their annual meeting at the Shabbona United Methodist Church by MMPA President Elwood Kirkpatrick.

The Kinde dairy farmer, who participated in the preparation of the plan in Washington, commented, "To my way of thinking, the plan we have at this time is the fairest we've seen."

He first outlined what had happened to the U.S. government's plan to try to get dairymen to produce less milk.

A 50 cents per hundred-weight (cwt.) cut in the federal support price that started Dec. 1 was halted shortly afterwards by a federal judge in South Carolina, who ruled Secretary of Agriculture John Block hadn't followed proper procedure in implementing the reduction.

Other lawsuits are pending challenging the law itself.

Kirkpatrick said Block, with whom he met three weeks ago, is appealing the court ruling and also is following the proper procedure to implement the 50 cents reduction, plus the second 50-cent reduction authorized by law to start April 1.

But win or lose in the courts, he pointed out, "We're not correcting the problem..."

The problem is government warehouses stocked with well over a billion pounds of surplus milk, cheese and dry milk and a dairy support program that cost taxpayers $2.3 billion last year and without changes, will cost an estimated $2.7 billion this year. Four years ago, buying surplus dairy products to maintain prices to dairy farmers cost the government only $38-40 million.

DETAILS OF THE NMPF plan were only completed the week before and haven't been presented to Congress yet.

If ultimately adopted by Congress, he explained, all dairy farms would be given a "history" or base based on the daily average of the amount of milk they produced from Oct. 1, 1980, to Sept. 30, 1982.

If the plan is implemented, dairy farms could produce up to their base and receive the support price for milk, currently $13.10 per cwt. However, for any milk produced in excess of that, they would only receive $1.10 per cwt. for whatever percentage Block deems to be surplus.

For instance, if the agriculture secretary declares 7.6 percent (the expected figure) of all milk to be surplus and a farm's history was 1,000 pounds of milk per day and it produced 1,100, it would receive $1.10 per cwt. for 7.6 percent of its total production ($1.10 for 83.6 cwt.).

"What it tries to do is put the cost on those who have been expanding," Kirkpatrick said.

In addition, the plan contains incentives for dairymen who reduce their output or decide to retire. They could reduce their production 5-30 percent of their history and receive $8-10 for each cwt. not produced. Retiring farmers could receive the subsidy for up to one year.

Histories could not be transferred to other dairy farmers.

The program would last until government purchases of surplus dairy products declined to less than 2.5 billion equivalent pounds of milk annually (it's now buying about 14 billion) or until Sept. 30, 1985. Milk production will have to decline about 7.6 percent to get to the 2.5 billion mark.

ANOTHER PART OF

the plan calls for a nationwide checkoff of 15 cents per cwt. from farmers' milk checks to pay for a promotion program, which would raise about $200 million annually. The promotion would result in sales of an estimated $2-3 billion more of dairy products per year.

Michigan dairymen are presently paying 10 cents per cwt. for promotion, so would only have to pay 5 cents more.

Kirkpatrick said the Reagan administration likes the plan better than previous ones proposed by the dairy industry, but hasn't endorsed it.

After the meeting, he said the earliest Congress might adopt the program, if they adopt it, is August, so the two 50-cent cuts in the support price, if they get past the court challenges, would be in effect until then.

ON ANOTHER TOPIC, Kirkpatrick said the MMPA board has given a tentative go-ahead establishing a hard cheese plant that would convert 300,000 pounds of milk a day into 30,000 pounds of cheese.

What is now a butter plant in Remus, west of Mount Pleasant, would be used.

It would require an investment of $1.5 million and the cheese produced would be in barrels only, to be sold to food processors. Installing cutting and wrapping equipment, so the cheese could be sold directly to consumers, would be too expensive.

To encourage more milk consumption closer to home, delegates voted to have a three-member committee examine paying for second glasses of milk for customers at a Kingston restaurant in June, which is National Dairy Month. A maximum of $100 will be spent.

Some other MMPA locals have already implemented such a program. Kirkpatrick said one Grand Rapids area local tried it and the restaurant sold so much more milk, it is now paying for the free second glass.

Reelected officers of the local by the 22 members present were Les Severance, president; Gerald Hicks, vice-president; and Maynard Stine, secretary-treasurer.

Local dues will remain at $3 per year.

Taking stock

Suppose you were an investor with money and a smooth-talking young man told you:

1) If you had some bonds bought at a higher price than today's, he could swap them for you for bonds essentially just like them. It wouldn't cost you anything and you could take a tax loss.

2) If you had some bonds (or stocks) bought at 100 and the market was now 120, you should sell them to increase your principal.

3) If some deep discount bonds with say a 5 percent coupon were bought at 50, (or half of par of 100), you could "control" twice as many bonds with the same amount of money. Twice as many, that is, as if you bought bonds with 10 percent coupons at par, or 100 each.

4) If you bought 10 of these half-price bonds at 50, or $500, you'd have an investment of $5,000. But you could borrow 70 percent of this from the broker, or $3,500. For this $3,500 you'd pay 13 percent a year to the broker, or $455. However, you'd get a current return of 10 percent on the $5,000 worth of bonds ($500 "coupons" or interest on 10 bonds bought at $500 or half of par). So you'd be $45 ahead. You pay out $455 in interest and take in $500.

5) Bonds bought at 50, say, will go up about twice as fast in price as those bought at 100. In other words, point for point, but, of course, you have twice as many of the half-priced ones, so you double your gain.

Believe it or not, these statements were made by a registered representative of one of America's largest brokerage houses.

The promises were not made at a cocktail party, but at a so-called seminar for adult investors interested in municipal bonds.

Take the claims one by one:

1) When swapping bonds, somebody has to get paid commissions or a salary. You're either going to pay out some money, or you're going to wind up with a less desirable bond - one with a longer maturity, or a smaller coupon, or less marketable for some reason or other. Swapping is often a good idea, but there's no such thing as a free lunch.

2) If you own something bought at 100 and sell it 120, you have not increased your principal.

Your principal is what the market value is. Whether you sell the stuff or keep it, you have a profit of 20 points. If you don't sell it the fact it's on paper doesn't change its value. Almost everything you own except your house and car is "on paper."

Aside from the timing of your sale, which could be smart or not, you would have a capital gain of 20 points in this case to pay. If you owned the security less than a year, the gain would be taxed as regular income.

3) Whether you buy five full-price bonds at $1,000 each or 10 half-price bonds at $500 apiece, you control only $5,000 worth of bonds either case. I'm still shaking my head over the salesman's claim.

4) You can't borrow money at 13 percent and take in only 10 percent and make a living.

The salesman overlooked the 30 percent or $1,500 you put up yourself. You had the alternative of investing this $1,500 of your own funds at say 13 percent. That's $195 you're passing up.

Recap:

You pass up $195
You pay broker interest $455
TOTAL OUTGO $650
You take in interest $500
You're behind $150

All well and good to talk about the leverage of the loan from the broker. Even this simple country boy knows if bond prices go down you can lose it as fast as you might have made it. The lever works both ways.

5) If bond prices go up, the prices of bond bought at 50 will go up in essentially the same ratio as those bought at 100. Oh, there's a little difference - the discount ones gain slightly more in an up market, lose slightly more in a down market. They insist they will go up twice as fast as this fellow did, is balderdash.

In the farm country where I grew up, we have another word for it.

Plan sees no change in county trash disposal

THE PLAN EXAMINES recycling of such waste materials as glass, cans and newspapers and also burning it in a boiler, with the steam generated used for heat, industrial purposes or to generate electricity.

An average ton of household waste, it points out, contains approximately 600 pounds of recoverable paper, 140 pounds of recoverable tin (cans) and 120 pounds of recoverable glass.

It concludes, however, that "in a rural area, except for some specific examples, it may not be economically feasible to develop recycling centers or energy producing incinerators unless there is a stable market for the products that would pay for itself."

Part of the problem is the distance to places that can use the waste materials. The only place in Michigan that recycles glass, for instance, is in Charlotte, near Lansing.

Caro Village Manager Donald Dugger, chairman of the solid waste planning committee, reported that the Caro Girl Scouts are starting a glass recycling program, but the only way they are making money is because no one is being paid. "If we had to pay the Scouts to do this, we'd lose," he said.

THE COUNTY DEPARTMENT of Public Works is charged with overseeing the plan.

If a significant change occurs, for instance, one of the landfills in the county or one outside of the county that receives a lot of Tuscola's trash closes, the DPW would reappoint the 13-member committee.

The committee, after a public hearing and with approval from the townships and villages in the county, would change the plan and then submit the revisions to the state Department of Natural Resources for approval.

Closing of landfills is possible, since Act 641, which requires the 20-year plans in each county, also establishes stricter requirements for landfills (some say stricter than necessary) to lessen the danger of pollution.

The Oliver landfill has been given until 1984 to make modifications to bring it into compliance. Dugger said it is his understanding the necessary changes can be made by then.

Caro's and Cass City's landfills are presently licensed, so are in compliance.

Even if the landfills stay open and nothing else unanticipated occurs, the law says the participating townships and villages that appointed the present committee must appoint a new one every five years to examine and update it.

THE NEXT STEP FOR the present plan is for the Human Development Commission planner who prepared it to go over it and make any necessary corrections or revisions.

That should be done within 30 days and the committee will meet again to approve it.

After it does that, the plan must be approved by two-thirds of the 34 governing bodies (villages, townships and one city) in the county.

If the necessary majority isn't obtained, it goes back to the committee, which must respond to the objections raised, then return the plan to those units.

After the two-thirds approval is finally obtained, it must be submitted to the DNR for its okay.

The state agency has already seen preliminary copies of the plan. "As far as I know, the DNR is still happy..." Dugger said. "I expect the plan to be approved by them."

The DNR has provided $12,000 to the county for preparation of the plan.
