

CHEESE AND BUTTER—Distribution of free government surplus food attracted no more than 80 persons to the village-township hall in Gagetown last Thursday, who took home 600-700 pounds of cheese and 224 pounds of butter. The Human Development Commission the same day distributed 6,630 pounds of cheese and 3,040 pounds of butter to 1,000 persons in Caro and 1,860 pounds of cheese and 528 pounds of butter to 300 persons in Millington. Volunteers trucked the cheese and butter from Caro to Gagetown and handled the distribution. Future distributions by the HDC are scheduled to include powdered milk, rice and corn meal.

Slow healing ahead for Jack Brinkman

A long recovery period is ahead for Jack Brinkman of 6057 N. Dodge Road, Cass City, who was injured in a farm accident last Thursday. According to Bonnie Brinkman, her husband suffered four broken lumbar vertebrae and many bruises and sore muscles. Brinkman, who is at Hills and Dales General Hospital, was fitted with a brace Monday and was to be X-rayed Tuesday to determine if there was any damage to his kidneys. He is on a liquid diet. The brace will help him walking. The mishap occurred at 7:45 a.m. Mrs. Brinkman said her husband had towed a folding cultivator into a field near the house. He removed the safety pin from one of the two 12-foot hinged cultivator wings. The hydraulic cylinder was then supposed to lower the wing slowly to the ground. The cylinder malfunctioned, however, and the wing, which weighs between 1,200 and 1,500 pounds, fell on Brinkman. The wing fell on his back and he was pinned, face down. The incident took place close enough to the house that when Brinkman's son, Jim, went outside, he spotted him. Jim was able to lift the wing, so that his father could get out from under it. Brinkman walked to the house. He was taken to the hospital by ambulance. "He's going to make it, but it will be fall before he's out in the field again," said Mrs. Brinkman. Brinkman and his son farm 1,400 acres. In his absence, Mrs. Brinkman said, Jim probably will farm with the aid of an uncle and a couple of cousins, working back and forth on each other's farms. There have also been other offers of help. Brinkman can have visitors.

8-year-old one of two traffic fatalities in Tuscola County

Traffic accidents in Tuscola County claimed two lives, that of a 55-year-old Marlette man killed Sunday and an 8-year-old Akron boy who pedaled his tricycle Monday into the path of a car. The boy, William Bills of 239 Beech Street, was pronounced dead on arrival at Bay Medical Center, Bay City. The incident took place at 5:50 p.m. According to the sheriff's department, Kenneth H. Diener, 22, of 3670 Pine Street, Akron, was driving his vehicle westbound on Beech (M-138) when the youngster pedaled onto the street from the south side. Diener braked and turned to the left in an unsuccessful attempt to avoid hitting the boy. In addition to Diener and a passenger, there were two other witnesses to the accident. The victim was the third youngest age 12 and under to die in mishaps in Tuscola County within a span of six days. (See other story on this page.) Killed Sunday was Keith M. Cotter, 55, who was pronounced dead at the scene of the 8:45 a.m. accident at the edge of Mayville. Deputies said Cotter was westbound on Ohmer Road (M-24) when his car was struck by an eastbound vehicle that crossed the centerline. Driver of the other vehicle was Brian K. Tedford, 19, of Mayville, who was released Monday from Caro Community Hospital. Cotter's passenger, his wife, Vianna, 45, was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday afternoon at the Caro hospital. Both accidents remain under investigation by the sheriff's department. The victims were the fourth and fifth persons to die in Tuscola County traffic accidents this year, the same number as were killed as of this date a year ago.

INJURY ACCIDENT

Three persons were treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital following a two-car collision at 7:40 p.m. last Wednesday. (See photos.) They were Shannon Hilts, 9, and Hazel Docherty, 95, both passengers in a car driven by Nancy C. Hilts, 42, all of the same Mayville address, and Katie Hacker, 4 months, a passenger in a car driven by John A. Hacker, 28, of 6166 Greenland Road, Cass City. Also in his car was Marnie Hacker, 19, whom deputies said had possible injuries. Officers also reported Mrs. Hilts was injured, but she apparently didn't need hospital treatment. Deputies said the Hilts auto was northbound on Koepfgen Road, stopped at Bay City-Forestville, then pulled into the intersection and was struck in the right side by the westbound Hacker car. The Hilts auto spun around and struck a stop sign at the northwest corner of the intersection. Mrs. Hilts was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield right of way.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Michael Spencer, 15, of 2476 Englehart Road, Cass City, escaped injury Sunday, April 24, when his bicycle was hit by a car. Deputies reported Althea B. Kritzman, 71, of 5888 Bruce Street, Deford, was northbound on Cemetery Road at 11 a.m., north of DeLong Road, and attempted to pass three northbound bicyclists. One of them, Spencer, turned to the left in front of her car and they collided. A witness told officers there was no way she could have avoided hitting the bicycle rider. James H. Cooklin, 18, of Dodge Road, Cass City, was ticketed by village police on a charge of failure to stop within an assured clear distance ahead following an 11:40 a.m. accident last Wednesday. Police said he was following a vehicle driven by Deborah Lee Mitchell, 20, of Wright Road. Both were westbound on Main Street and when she started to turn right onto Weaver Street, the Cooklin vehicle ran into the rear of her car. She suffered possible injuries, police said. Cass City police reported that at 1:40 p.m. Sunday, Virginia A. Marquardt, 50, of White Creek Road, Kingston, was backing out of a parking space in the Hills and Dales General Hospital lot, turned too sharp, and her car hit the vehicle parked alongside. Police noted the other car, owned by Shirley L. Russell, no address listed, was parked in a place not marked for parking. At 4:30 p.m. April 26, according to police, Russell L. Richards, 48, of 6592 Houghton Street, was backing out of a parking place east of Scotty McCullough Drive in the park and his car hit a tree.

COLLISION—The car of Nancy Hilts suffered extensive damage when struck broadside last Wednesday at Bay City-Forestville and Koepfgen Roads. The head of one of the victims in the accident struck the windshield, leaving a bulge.

Commission proposals draw mixed reactions

By Mike Eliasohn

The National Commission on Excellence in Education came up with a new grade for the nation's schools when it issued its report last week — "M" for mediocre. The commission, saying schools are threatened by "a rising tide of mediocrity," called for a wide range of reforms, including more required courses, a longer school day and school year and more homework. How do area high schools measure up?

As shown in the chart, their graduation requirements for the most part aren't close to what the commission recommends, which probably puts them with the majority of the nation's schools. There isn't agreement that everything the commission recommended would be beneficial. For instance, the commission recommended extending the school year to 200-220 days a year, from the 180 days required in Michigan and in most states. "I see no purpose in a longer year," said Owen-Gage principal Wayne

Wright. "I think our school year is sufficient." "I suppose any time you can give more exposure (to learning), there would be some value," commented Cass City Principal Russell Richards. He cautioned, however, that a point of no return could be reached, with no value gained, if the school year is too long. Uby Principal Richard Holdship doubts the school year will ever be lengthened in rural districts like his own. Not only must farm youngsters work in the summers, a longer school year would be more costly.

REQUIRED CLASSES

Principals are exploring whether there should be more required courses in certain subject areas, but they don't necessarily agree with the recommendations of the commission. For instance, Kingston Principal Joseph Peet has reservations about the value of a third year of science. Kingston requires two now. But in a different subject area, he commented, "I would like to see our school offer more math."

As for a longer school year, he said, "I'd say let's work on expectations and standards with the time we have now, rather than lengthen the school year." For college-bound students, Owen-Gage offers four years of math, through trigonometry. But for those not going to college, unless they want to take some of the advanced courses, there is the one year of business math. Some also take one year of pre-algebra. In contrast, North Huron offers general math, business math and consumer math. Having taught all three subjects, Wright said there is some overlap, so he has reservations about offering three years of such subjects. Whether more math should be required is being evaluated, Wright said.

For a small school district like Owen-Gage, there is also a problem in having enough teachers for all those courses. At one time, it offered Spanish and French. It presently doesn't have a foreign language teacher. The problem is there aren't enough students interested to employ a full-time language teacher and Owen-

Gage hasn't yet been able to find one who can teach that and another needed subject. Uby High School has a teacher who can teach Spanish, but not enough students were interested this year to offer a class. Two Spanish classes will be offered in 1983-84 because enough students are interested. All the high schools have computers or have ordered them so various computer classes are in the planning stages, though not necessarily at the high school level. Cass City and Kingston, for instance, are starting "computer literacy" training at the intermediate school or junior high level.

HOMEWORK

There was agreement about the value of homework, something the commission feels students don't get enough of. Holdship feels students who care have enough. "I believe students who are in school to learn and care about their education have enough homework every evening." Wright feels students should have a minimum of 1½ hours of homework a night. They don't always have that now at Owen-Gage, but the second year principal is aiming toward the day when teachers will be required to assign homework to their students. "I guess it's a question of whether you want to get by or excel," Richards commented. The amount of homework students are assigned varies from class to class and week to week. Students have time to do after class assignments in study hall. Cass City has a seven period day. Ninth and 10th graders are required to take six classes, so most have one study hall a day. Eleventh and 12th graders must take five classes. The average is six, which means that some have two study halls per day. Some students do take seven classes. A seven-period day, with the implication that students have seven classes per day (newspaper accounts didn't say) was one of the recommendations of the commission.

MONEY

The commission said the federal government should aid programs for "key groups" such as the handicapped, the poor and disadvantaged. Please turn to page 20.

2 children die in non-traffic mishaps

Two Tuscola County children died in accidents last week, one by strangulation and the other when the tractor he was driving overturned on him. Saturday would have been Mark Christian Loper's 10th birthday. Instead, his funeral was held that day. According to Millington Police Chief Herbert Clancy, the boy was playing Wednesday with a rope inside the family barn. He fell, was caught in a loop of the rope and was strangled. He was pronounced dead at the scene. Mark was the son of Karl and Billie Joe Loper of Barnes Road, Millington and a fourth grader at St. Paul's Lutheran School in Millington. The funeral was held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church with burial in the Millington Township Cemetery. The other victim was Matthew Pape, 12, who died Friday. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pape Jr. of Hurds Corner Road, Mayville.

According to the sheriff's department, the boy was driving a small farm tractor on his parents' farm. When going up a hill, the hitch caught on something, causing the tractor to flip over backwards. Matthew was caught underneath. The boy was pronounced dead at the scene. His father told deputies he noticed his son was missing at 5:30 p.m., but didn't find him until 6:30-6:45. He added, according to officers, there were strict rules that his son was not to use the tractor, but that didn't seem to help. Matthew was a sixth grader at Mayville Middle School. Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Mayville United Methodist Church.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Halre

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

For the first time in several years a single winner was drawn in the annual Lions Club car raffle. In other years when the 100-plus ticket holders were weeded out to the final three or four they sold out to someone who wanted the car.

This year there was no bargaining and the car was won by Tom Jackson. Maybe it was a reward for service. Tom has been one of the biggest Cass City roaring Lions in the years the club has served the community.

Jim Wynes, a coach in Cass City in the late 60's and later a principal was a surprise visitor last week. Wynes is the superintendent of schools at Atlanta.

Over the years he's returned often in the fall for a little pleasant hunting without too much success.

The first thing the personable Wynes reported was the great, big gorgeous rooster pheasant he spotted coming into town.

Each spring I go to the garage and try to crank up the worst investment I ever made... the lawn mower. With the money spent buying and repairing them I'm sure that I could have hired my lawn cut for the next 10 years and come out ahead.

New officers for two years are: Betty Hurst, president; Janet Francis, vice president; Ruth Grassman, secretary, and Florence Karr, treasurer. They will be installed at the next meeting, May 17.

Dave Reuter demonstrated the "rebound exercises". He represented the Gym Master Corp.

Walbro prospects favorable in '83

Walbro Corp. management at the company's annual shareholders' meeting April 25 in Cass City expressed a favorable outlook for 1983.

Walbro President and Chief Executive Officer Lambert E. Althaver told shareholders that "opportunities are great" for the company at this time.

He noted that 1983 has started out stronger than anticipated. In the first three months of the year, the company earned $422,669 on sales of $12,841,612, he said, indicating that the programs implemented throughout 1982 are already bearing fruit.

The first quarter profit of $422,669 compares with a loss of $228,717 for the first quarter of 1982. Walbro reported a loss of $479,000 for the twelve months of 1982.

The past year was characterized by Walbro management as "a year of transition," which required heavy outlays for new products and programs at a time when the market for the company's primary product line, carburetors for small engines, was weak.

While the small engine carburetor market is expected to improve gradually in 1983, the greatest gains for the company are anticipated in the automotive original equipment business.

Walbro management cited the success of two new products now being sold to automotive original equipment customers: rotary electric fuel pumps produced by the Automotive Products Group for use in electronic fuel injection systems, and throttle body assemblies manufactured by the Carburetor Group, also for fuel injection systems.

Markets for both products are strong, Walbro executives said, and growth is expected in 1983 and beyond.

In addition to increased automotive activity by these two Walbro groups, the company has obtained significant new small engine carburetor business, which will enable it to better utilize its carburetor manufacturing facilities.

Walbro's diecasting facility, Auburn Diecast, returned to profitability in the first quarter of 1983, Althaver told shareholders.

In addition, a shift to small, precision, injection-molded plastics parts by Arjay Manufacturing, another Walbro subsidiary, has resulted in increased profitability for that operation.

At the annual meeting, shareholders reelected Walter E. Walpole and James F. Bauer to three-year terms on the board.

Shareholders also approved an incentive stock option plan to be available to Walbro management as an aid in attracting and rewarding qualified personnel.

Missionary Fellowship

Fifteen women attended the Monday evening meeting of the Women's Missionary Fellowship in the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Clyde Wells led the devotions, at which time members responded with something special they remembered about their mother. Mrs. Wells read a poem, "The Meanest Mother in the World." The prayers for missionaries were led by Rosella Kretzschmer.

In the business meeting presided over by Mrs. Arthur Fisher, plans for the mother-daughter banquet May 12 were finalized.

Refreshments were served by Lillian Hanby and Pauline McArthur.

The Haire Net

It's rare that we agree with the scripture as handed down on high by President Ronald Reagan. Old double R and I seldom see eye to eye.

Once in awhile there is a grain of wheat in the sea of chaff. Education is a good example.

Reagan's plan for aid to private schools with a tuition tax credit is a bad idea and very probably violates the constitution.

Prayer in school violates the civil rights of all non-Christians. His attempt to close down the Federal Department of Education would be fine if only the department closed and the funds for schools remained the same or are increased.

The recent report by the distinguished panel of educators and leaders said in no uncertain terms that we face a crisis in education.

It recommended among other things that schools be open 220 days a year instead of 180 and that schools stay open seven hours a day instead of 5½ or six.

The panel suggests that this country is behind all industrial nations in the quantity and quality of education, especially in math and science.

The answer isn't to pour tax dollars from Washington into school systems. There are myriad of these programs now, all tied with bundles of red tape and restrictions that bureaucracies always create.

A giant step forward would be to dish that money to local districts and let the districts use the money for education.

That would be a step forward, but catching up with the rest of the world isn't that easy.

A big hurdle in lengthening the school day and the school year is the teachers. In a panel discussion, a head of one of the unions said on national TV that the teachers need the summer months off to rejuvenate themselves.

What is needed is what she called "quiet time" to teach without interference. Reading between the lines, that means eliminating the slow learners and the discipline students from the classroom.

That's a radical suggestion for this country, but it's one that may be necessary if we are to improve. In foreign countries you earn the right to qualify for college prep courses and in these courses you earn the right to go to college. That system may be one that we will have to adopt if we are to retain our place in high technology.

Teachers will have to change. Summers off may be a luxury that we no longer can afford.

The average taxpayer will have to change, too. There has to be a realization that all of this will cost more money. It's a case of spending money to make money.

That may be an even bigger hurdle than asking teachers to adopt a new work schedule.

The taxpayers will plead poverty and blame it on the way our schools are operated. The teachers will have equally compelling reasons for saying that any lengthening of the school year is virtually impossible.

It's not impossible as our foreign competitors have shown. But it just might be impossible in the United States until things get so bad that we can no longer bury our head in the sand.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Why the beans?

By Jim Fitzgerald

In the living room, on the little table next to my chair, there was a can of yellow beans. Also a can of green beans. The two cans were full and unopened. Such an unusual juxtaposition would never occur in Alfred Taubman's home.

Why were the beans in the living room instead of in a kitchen cupboard? Where were the pad and pencil that should be on that table — in the refrigerator?

The beans hadn't been there the night before. There were no grandchildren visiting, so they couldn't be blamed. The apartment's only occupants for several days had been my wife and me, and I knew I hadn't put two cans of beans in the living room.

"It had to be you," I told her.

"Sing it," she said. "I also like 'The Nearness of You'."

We have been very close lately, because of my surgery. I don't know what I'd do without her.

It was minor surgery, performed in five minutes by a dermatologist who kept me waiting only 50 minutes beyond my appointment time. If it had been major surgery, the wait might have been much longer. The seriousness of a person's illness can be measured by the number of hours he is willing to wait beyond appointment time before snarling something nasty to the receptionist — "Dammit, my time is as valuable as the doctor's time" — and storming out of the waiting room.

My skin surgery was so insignificant that I wouldn't have waited even 50 minutes except I was reading a New Yorker magazine, which is almost as mollifying as waiting in the bar for a restaurant table. But the tiny incision was made in the middle of my back, and suddenly I needed my wife more than ever.

"If my shirts buttoned up the back, it wouldn't have taken 28 years for me to fully appreciate you," I told her the first morning she changed the bandage on my wound. There was no one else to do it.

Also, there was no one else to put canned beans in the living room. At first, I didn't demand that she reveal why she did it. It was fascinating to guess. Did she bring the cans to my chair the night before so she could sit down and read the labels?

Was she subtly reminding me to eat my vegetables? Had Andy Warhol or some other twit declared it fashionable to decorate living rooms with canned beans? Or was she using cans of beans as paperweights to keep my little table from blowing away when I sneezed?

Amazingly, that last guess was closest. Honest. Don't you love these games? My wife said anyone who knew anything could easily figure out why she had two cans of beans in the living room. I couldn't; how about you?

The answer is: The two cans of beans were ersatz dumbbells.

My wife uses them as weights, one in each hand, while exercising along with some muscle guy on TV every morning. Corn or peas work as well as beans. Usually she remembers to return the cans to the kitchen before her husband, a real dumbbell, comes nosing around.

That's not what I call class.

What I call class is the way Alfred Taubman exercises. He's the real estate tycoon who recently made a few billion dollars by selling a spare hunk of California he had lying around the house. In a recent newspaper interview, Taubman said:

"I have a gentleman that comes to my home every morning at 6 o'clock. We do calisthenics, work on the light and heavy bags, then we spar three or four rounds."

Now that's class. What I need is a gentleman doctor that comes to my home every morning to change the bandage on my back. Then I wouldn't have to sing "It Had to Be You" to a woman who needs a gentleman grocer that comes to her home every morning to deliver ersatz dumbbells.

Otherwise, there will always be the danger that someday I'll be terribly embarrassed by a phone call notifying me that my wife is lying on her back in the A&P, pumping beans.

Firemen

not needed

Elkland Township firemen were called to a reported grass fire at 10 p.m. last Wednesday.

It turned out to be Dean Hutchinson clearing land by burning. The fire was contained by a ditch dug around it and there was no need for firemen.

The fire had been called in by a neighbor. It was south of M-81 and west of Koepfgen Road.

Honor retiree Joe Gruber

Joe Gruber was guest of honor Friday evening at a dinner given by his fellow Cass City employees to celebrate his retirement.

They gave him a radio as a farewell gift. The dinner was held at Veronica's Restaurant.

Gruber started working for the village in September 1968. He worked as a mechanic, drove equipment, "a little bit of everything."

Gruber's last day on the job was Friday. Because of accumulated vacation time, his official retirement date won't be until June 1.

Before starting employment with the village, Gruber worked 16 years for the now defunct Thumb Appliance.

He and his wife, Agnes, live at 6432 Church Street. They have two daughters, Barb Merchant, Cass City, and Linda Stewart, Memphis, Tenn., and two grandchildren.

Gruber, 64, said he has no special plans for his retirement, other than gardening, repairing lawn mowers and a "little fishing."

6 teachers' cars damaged

Theft of bumper-mounted fog lights from two pickup trucks was reported to Cass City police Friday.

Edward Nizzola of 4371 West Street reported his lamps were unbolts between 2 p.m. Thursday and 5:30 p.m. Friday while his pickup was parked at his residence. They were valued at $27.

Robert Kitchen of 4661 Oak Street said his fog lamps were removed by breaking the mounting brackets. They were taken between 11 p.m. Thursday and 8:30 a.m. Friday.

The cars of six Cass City Intermediate School teachers were damaged during an open house at the school Tuesday, April 26.

School authorities caught two boys, ages 12 and 13, at the scene, and turned them over to police. Both are students at the school.

Police turned the boys over to their parents and are consulting with the Tuscola County prosecutor's office about possibly petitioning them into probate court.

The boys used a nail to scratch the paint on the cars, with the cost of repairing the damage estimated at $54-170, depending on the car.

The teachers whose cars were damaged were Thomas Smith, Peggy Flynn, Sally Milholin, Mike Gogola, Linda Edwards and Michelle Anscamb.

Amor Hewitt of 4181 Sherman Street told village police April 25 that vandals had broken a rail of her fence.

145 attend Methodist banquet

A total of 145 guests attended the mother-daughter banquet of Salem United Methodist Church Saturday evening in the dining room of the Masonic temple.

Following grace by Iris Tuckey, men of the church assisted with the serving of the salad buffet.

The program, "A Christian Clown," organized by the Horning family of Fenton, was presented with 10 clowns taking part.

Preceding the presentation, a toast to the mothers was given by Deb Otulakowski, the toast to the daughters by Sandra Walter and to the grandmothers by Carolyn Tuckey.

Awards to various mothers were given by Betty Kirn.

Aim for $2,000 in annual St. Jude bike-a-thon

The annual bike-a-thon in Cass City for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., will take place Sunday, May 15, from 2-6 p.m.

Riders must obtain a sponsor sheet and bring it to the event registration table, properly filled out with sponsors and pledges. This year, the inside portion must also be filled out, including parent's authorization for riders under 18.

Although one may ride as much as he or she wishes, the route is a five mile, with check points at every mile to verify the number of miles actually totaled. Riders can chalk up one mile, five, or as many as possible in the allotted time.

Refreshments will be available, furnished by local merchants, throughout the ride at Trinity United Methodist Church, which hosts the event. The route is new.

St. Jude serves children with major illnesses, such as cancer, leukemia, sickle cell anemia, and does so free of charge to their families, thanks to rides such as this one.

As many as 1,600 bike-athons will take place in the region alone, to raise over $750,000 for the hospital.

In the past two years, Cass City has raised $1,500 and $1,800 respectively. This year, chairman Tom Wachterhauser wants to top $2,000. Sponsor forms are available at Trinity and in the schools.

Persons may register to ride at any time, between 2 and 6. Prizes will be awarded to the bigger earners: T-shirts to those who collect $25 and up and tote bags to those who collect $75 and up.

Sunday, May 22, is established as a rain date. Children fourth grade and under must ride with a parent, authorized teen or adult.

$30,000 fire

Damage was estimated at $30,000 in a house fire southwest of Kingston early Tuesday.

Cause of the fire at the home of William Eldridge was not immediately determined, according to Kingston Fire Chief Robert Phillips. It was reported about 2:45 a.m.

He said the two-story frame dwelling is probably rebuildable. Most of the damage was to the roof, with water and smoke damage below.

The home is located on Phillips Road, about 1 1/4 miles south of M-46.

There were at least four occupants of the home, Phillips said, one of whom, a daughter, cut her arm when escaping through a window. That was the only injury.

Kingston firemen were at the scene four hours. They were aided by the Caro and Mayville Fire Departments each of which had a tanker at the scene.

TO USERS OF VILLAGE WATER SERVICE

This condition does not render the water unfit or harmful for consumption; however, clothing washed in this water will probably become discolored.

Check the color of your water before placing your clothing into it.

The village is not liable for damage caused by this condition.

Automation, part II

By Mike Eliasohn

After my last week's column about automation appeared in print, I read David Halberstam's article, "Robots Enter Our Lives," in the April 10 issue of Parade magazine. (I am obviously behind in my reading.)

He used the same story I did concerning the late Walter Reuther, though the details differ.

According to Halberstam's version, the then president of the United Auto Workers was visiting an auto plant in Cleveland and a "young manager began to talk excitedly of a new process they had for automating the line."

Reuther finally interrupted. "And tell me," he asked the manager, "these wonderful robots — will they go out and buy cars from your company?"

That was probably 20 years ago. Reuther would probably spin in his grave if he knew about the new Nissan (Datsun) truck plant in Smyrna, Tenn. — 2,000 employees, none of whom belong to the UAW, and 220 robots.

Halberstam's outlook for the future of blue collar employment is gloomy. "A factory job in the new era may be more pleasant than in the past, but it will be a much harder job to get."

Not only will American workers lose jobs to automation, he writes, many American firms will build their new highly automated plants in Asia, "which means, finally, fewer and fewer industrial jobs at home."

He quotes a Massachusetts Institute of Technology research associate who fears "that a vast and once-prosperous core of the nation — Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and western Pennsylvania — will become a new Appalachia."

Halberstam mentions two other experts, from Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh, who predict that by 1990, "robots — in conjunction with other automation — could, by attrition, internal shifts and retraining, affect some 3 million

Ladies Aid has meeting

jobs in American industry."

The author concludes gloomily, "A generation of blue collar workers may be stranded on their own shores. A new, exciting economy beckons, but who will be able to enter it? Our education system is hopelessly ill-equipped to prepare people already on the margin for a place in the new economy."

A more optimistic outlook comes from a study prepared by H. Allan Hunt and Timothy L. Hunt for the W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research in Kalamazoo.

"Futurists and others compete for media attention with wild projections of the impacts of robotics — 800,000 people making robots, 1.5 million technicians maintaining robots, and millions of workers displaced — with little or no consideration of the practical issues involved," they write.

Instead, the Hunt and Hunt study predicts a "1990 U.S. robot population of 50,000-100,000 units, representing an annual growth rate of 30-40 percent. From this it is estimated that 100,000-200,000 jobs would be eliminated directly and that 32,000-64,000 new jobs would be created."

Out of the total American work force of perhaps 85 million (my guess), a loss of 68,000-168,000 jobs isn't that much percentagewise.

However, Hunt and Hunt are somewhat in agreement with Halberstam about who will be hurt by the new technological revolution.

"The jobs eliminated are semi-skilled or unskilled," the Kalamazoo researchers point out, "while the jobs created require significant technical background. Any increase in unemployment is likely to be felt by new labor market entrants, by the less educated and the less experienced part of the labor force."

Colleges are starting to send in their lists of graduates, but some won't get around to it until 2-3 months after graduation is past.

Proud parents and graduates don't have to wait until the Chronicle receives notice from the school.

What we need are name, (obviously), school (it can be a trade or business school, as well as a college or university), parents' names, address, major and minor, high school graduated from and when, future career plans, and, if you'd like, a photo.

Novesta upset over valuation change

Novesta Township officials aren't pleased with the factor added to boost agricultural valuations in the township.

Supervisor Bill O'Dell reported to the township board Monday evening that he had sent out 125 notices to agricultural property owners lowering their valuations a total of $240,000.

He felt the decrease was justified due to economic conditions and farm prices, according to Clerk Nurse Kloc. The reduction was approved by the board of review.

The county equalization report approved April 26 by the county board of commissioners, prepared by the county equalization department, imposed a factor (percentage increase) of 1.3114, which brought the agricultural values almost to where they were, "and we're very unhappy about it," Mrs. Kloc said.

The factor was based on equalization department studies, needed to bring values to 50 percent of true cash value, which were in disagreement with O'Dell's figures.

In other action, the board decided to have the county

Road Commission apply 1,000 cubic yards of gravel on Dodge Road, north of Decker Road, at a cost of approximately $3,000 for the gravel, plus labor.

The board also approved payment of $4,500 to the Road Commission as the first installment for repair of the one mile of Gilford Road between Cemetery and Englehart Roads.

The township board signed the contract for the project at its April meeting. Cost is supposed to be $8,750, plus labor and equipment charges.

Cass City Oil and Gas owner Duane Chippi appeared at the board meeting to discuss two drainage problems, one at his firm's fuel oil storage yard on Cemetery Road, where water accumulates.

O'Dell will check with the Road Commission about having the property drain into the roadside ditches or with the drain commissioner about having it drain into the Spencer Drain at the rear of the property.

The supervisor will also check into the drainage problem on property Chippi owns at Dodge and Decker Roads.

Cass City to test own water supply

Testing Cass City's drinking water for purity is going to be cheaper and quicker.

Gundega Ozols, laboratory certification officer from the Michigan Department of Public Health (DPH), inspected the village's sewage treatment plant laboratory last Thursday to determine if it could meet the standards for testing of the village's water supply.

It met the requirements and she has now recommended to her superiors that the lab be certified. Approval is expected in about two weeks.

The lab is normally used to conduct tests to determine if the sewage plant is operating properly in removing pollutants from wastewater before the effluent is poured into the Cass River.

During the planning stages, village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie explained, it was decided to add equipment for testing the drinking water supply, so that was included in the total $6 million cost of the plant, paid for with federal, state and local funds.

School board in Kingston being sued

The Kingston Board of Education is the defendant in a lawsuit filed April 20 in Tuscola County Circuit Court concerning an incident that supposedly happened almost nine years ago.

Plaintiff is Tony Lee Crittenden, now living in Caro. The suit says he was a student at Kingston Elementary School on or about Oct. 14, 1974, when he fell from a piece of playground equipment and hit his elbow and arm on the concrete foundation.

It claims that the injuries were "permanent to the degree that plaintiff will never again enjoy the same state of well-being as before the incident" and therefore, is suffering from the ability to earn as much income as he could have had he not been injured.

The suit seeks at least $10,000 in damages, together with interest, costs and attorney fees. A jury trial has been demanded.

"Time is the wisest counselor of all."

Drinking water always has been tested, but to do so has required sending five samples a month to the DPH lab in Lansing. It then takes 7-10 days to get the results back.

By testing the samples at the sewage plant lab, results will be known within 24 hours.

The advantage, in addition to saving time, is that if bacteria are found in one or more of the samples, the public can be warned immediately to not consume the water, and the problem can be corrected.

With the samples going to Lansing, the public may be drinking polluted water for at least 7-10 days before the results are known.

The only financial advantage currently in doing the testing here will be in eliminating the cost of mailing the water samples to the DPH. (Results will still have to be mailed there.)

However, LaPonsie said, the state has been considering charging for such tests, which it now does for free, so doing the tests here eliminates any concern about that happening.

The five samples tested each month are drawn from the village's two wells, at the village water softener, Hills and Dales General Hospital and at Geiger-Hunt Ford.

ASK DR. COE

By Dalton P. Coe DDS

"Uncle George hasn't worn his plates since the day he got them." "Aunt Millie swears they are better than her own." Statements similar to these are heard almost daily in our dental offices. What could account for the different experience between Uncle George and Aunt Millie?

First, Aunt Millie. As a young woman, Millie was considered attractive. She took great pride in her appearance. For some unfortunate reason, Aunt Millie lost her natural teeth. For her, dentures are a minor inconvenience. Any trouble they might cause her is a small price to pay for having her appearance restored.

Uncle George, on the other hand, had never met a horse he couldn't ride. As a young man, George was noted for his physical abilities and athletic skills. But Uncle George has a dresser drawer full of dentures and none in his mouth.

These days Uncle George is a lot more grouchy than he used to be. The mere mention of dentures causes him to mutter about 3 or 4 "fool" dentists who couldn't fit him properly with "fool" plates.

The difference, of course, between Aunt Millie and Uncle George is the type of pride which they displayed. Aunt Millie's pride was constructive. It caused her to have the patience to develop the skills necessary to successfully manipulate the artificial teeth.

Uncle George's pride was destructive. When he couldn't immediately master the dentures, it literally stuck in his craw. In Uncle George's mind, the "manly" thing to do is blame the dentist or the dentures. But deep inside, he feels defeated for the first time in his life and it sure makes him grumpy. If Uncle George is ever going to successfully chew with his dentures, he's going to have to swallow his pride first. Time and patience are essential to developing the motor skills needed to successfully wear dentures.

In my next article, I will suggest specific techniques to improve Uncle George's chances for success.

HDC holds annual meeting

The Human Development Commission's (HDC) 17th annual meeting was held April 22.

A special award was presented to former Michigan Community Action Agency Association Executive Secretary Henry Altig, in recognition of his continuing support of the services of HDC and community action agencies all over Michigan. Also given special recognition were HDC's new board members: Albert Thoms, Huron County; Della Wright, Sanilac, and Bob Russell, Tuscola.

State Representatives Dick Allen and Keith Muxlow, state Sen. James Barcia and Jane Richardson, representing U.S. Sen. Don Riegle, expressed their support for HDC and its credibility. The director of the state Bureau of Community Services, James Norman, also expressed appreciation for HDC's effective services. His agency helps fund HDC.

Because of HDC's involvement in economic development in its service area, Benjamin Goldstein was asked to be guest speaker. He travels the U.S. as a consultant for businesses and recently, for community organizations.

His presentation emphasized the need to change "economic illiteracy" into economic knowledge and the importance of developing a "readiness to invest" in ourselves in order to change economic problems into economic prosperity.

Soil Week observance May 8-15

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District will join the nationwide celebration of Soil Stewardship Week May 8-15, according to district Chairman Albert Ruggles, of Kingston.

The theme of this year's celebration is "Living Waters."

The National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) has sponsored Soil Stewardship Week since 1955, in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 soil and water conservation districts.

"If our water management practices in the past have been adequate, we may ignore the rising population, the increased industrialization, and expanded irrigation, all of which require more water from our reservoirs," cites NACD in the 16-page Soil Stewardship Week booklet.

"One of our more compelling social and economic needs is for full appreciation of the true value of our abundant supply of water. It is time to think seriously about conservation, pollution, priority usage and our dependence upon it."

The district has given over 6,000 bulletin inserts and booklets to 27 Tuscola County churches to be used for this year's observance.

The term pekee, in reference to tea, refers only to the size of tea leaf—not to a variety or type.

It's worth it to go to college

Does it pay to go to college?

According to the recently released U.S. Census Bureau study, it does.

Based on 1979 data, the bureau reported that men and women completing four years of college can expect lifetime earnings nearly 40 percent higher than high school graduates.

"I'll agree to that," said Janice Warju, although she hasn't had time yet to find out whether the Census Bureau findings are true.

She received her bachelor's degree in education from Central Michigan University in December and divides her time between substitute teaching, working part-time at the Mutual Savings and Loan office in Mount Pleasant and taking classes at CMU for her master's degree.

With her first baby expected in June, she isn't planning to look for a full time teaching job, but would like one some day in the future.

She and her husband Gary live in Ewart (45 miles from Mount Pleasant), where he is employed as a draftsman at the Hitachi plant, which manufactures magnets.

Both are 1978 graduates of Cass City High School. They have been married 2½ years.

Warju received an associate degree in drafting from Ferris State College, Big Rapids, and is now working part-time on a bachelor's degree in industrial supervision and management at CMU.

Although financial gain is one reason for their earning college degrees, Mrs. Warju said, she and her husband feel that is not the only reason. "We look at education as something you do for the rest of your life. You're always learning something."

According to the Census Bureau, men with a college degree can expect lifetime earnings of $1.19-2.75 million, compared to male high school graduates, who will earn $860,000-1.87 million. Female college graduates can expect lifetime earnings of $520,000-$1.12 million. Women with only high school diplomas will earn from $380,000-800,000.

Many activities planned for Hospital Week

Hills and Dales General Hospital joins hospitals across the nation in celebrating National Hospital Week May 8-14.

The theme for this year is,

"We Are Family." A hospital is like a family with each employee having unique knowledge and skills. The employees must work together like a family to serve the community.

Hills and Dales has always prided itself on being a member of the community, according to Jane Mitchell, RN, in-service educator. Some of the things it does on a regular basis are free blood pressure readings in the emergency room; free diabetic testing every fall; health fair; diabetic, prenatal, sibling, babysitting, cardiopulmonary resuscitation and first aid classes; a speaker's bureau and loan of free infant car seats.

During Hospital Week, Hills and Dales will have tours of the emergency room and treats for the first grade students from Campbell, Deford, and Evergreen Schools.

The Hospital Auxiliary will give a free infant seat to the first-born child during Hospital Week.

The Auxiliary will have Tag Day May 12. Proceeds from sale of the tags will go toward the purchase of cardiac equipment.

HEALTH TIPS

Children don't always follow parents' drinking

Contrary to popular notion, the children of problem drinkers are unlikely to follow their parents' drinking habits, says a University of Michigan public health researcher.

His findings are based on a detailed study of the drinking habits of adults and their parents in Tecumseh, southwest of Ann Arbor.

"The conventional wisdom is that the parents' behavior sets the course of a child's drinking career, especially in the case of the problem drinker," says Ernest Harburg, Ph.D., research scientist of epidemiology and psychology and director of the Urban Health Research Program. "But this study counters that idea."

Harburg and his colleagues, Deborah Davis, MPH, and Roberta Caplan, Ph.D., found that children tended to follow their parents' drinking behavior except when their parents were at either extreme of the drinking spectrum — either abstainers or very heavy drinkers. In those cases, the number of children imitating their parents' behavior fell off.

The researchers suggest that the children of parents who either abstained or were problem drinkers broke away from their parents' behavior "because in both cases their parents' drinking style was a source of stress. Children of abstainers were at odds with the community norm. Children of very heavy drinkers appear to have been responding to the stresses of alcohol-caused problems within the family."

The respondents labeled their parents as abstainers, or rare, light, moderate, heavy or very heavy drinkers.

They labeled their own drinking, and calculated how much beer, wine and liquor they consumed each week. From this information, the researchers were able to determine the community norm. That is, what the community considered to be light, moderate or heavy drinking.

The researchers analyzed the information for relationships between mothers and daughters, mothers and sons, fathers and daughters, and fathers and sons.

Children tended to follow their parents' drinking behavior except at the extremes. Children of light drinkers drank lightly, children of moderate drinkers drank moderately and so on. This imitation was most apparent for the behavior of the same-sex parent — like father, like son.

But children of teetotalers usually drank and children of very heavy drinkers did not drink as much as their parents. This inverse relationship was especially true in response to the opposite-sex parent. For example, daughters of heavy drinking fathers tended to drink only rarely.

Children's reactions to their parents' drinking have important implications for public health programs aimed at controlling abusive drinking, says Harburg.

First, it is clear that adults raised in families where alcohol was consumed follow their parents' drinking habits, except children of very heavy drinkers.

Parents need to be made aware that how much they drink will influence how much their children drink, says Harburg, and that even moderate alcohol users can have alcohol use problems. Moderate drinking by a pregnant woman, for instance, can lead to fetal alcohol syndrome, a leading cause of mental retardation in infants.

A special group at risk may be children of abstainers. "Problems may occur because they have not been taught moderate drinking habits; they are pressured by norms and attitudes outside the family to drink and carry with them a standard of drinking as an 'all or nothing' affair," suggests Harburg.

The good news, says Harburg, is that many children thought to be at risk of becoming alcoholics, based on their parents' drinking habits, will in fact likely turn away from the drinking style that causes distress within the family.

200 at church banquet

About 200 attended the mother-daughter banquet Saturday evening in the fellowship hall of the Deford Community Church.

Last inning rally nets Hawks split

For a long while it looked as if the Cass City Red Hawks were on their way to a double header loss to Marlette when the Hawks hosted the Red Raiders Tuesday, April 26.

In the opening game the visitors exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning and then coasted in to an 8-1 decision.

In the nightcap Marlette was sailing along with a 5-1 lead going into the last inning when the Hawks exploded for five runs and the win.

Cass City rapped out six of its 10 hits in the inning. With two out, Paul Hutchinson rapped a single that chased in the tying and winning runs for Cass City.

Terry Czekai and Joe Langenburg were other big stickers for Cass City with two hits each.

Rick Pobanz went the distance for Cass City and was touched for seven hits while recording the win.

In the first game, Randy Nicholas took the loss and was the victim of some very shoddy fielding by his teammates.

Nicholas limited Marlette to four hits, but Cass City was charged with nine errors in the game.

That made it easy for the Red Raiders who collected three of their hits in the fourth when they staged their seven-run explosion.

Barry Lapp and Ed Robinson cracked doubles and Czekai collected a single and that was all the offense that Cass City could muster.

Softball team drops twin bill

The Cass City Red Hawk softball team opened its Thumb B Conference schedule Tuesday, April 26, with a double loss to the Marlette Red Raiders.

Playing in the best weather conditions of the season, the Hawks fell behind early and then rallied before losing 17-15.

The Hawks fumbled and misplayed themselves into a deep hole in the first three innings and were behind 14-7 going into the fourth. The Hawks were charged with five errors in the three innings.

Paced by Dee Hempton with three hits in four tries and Rhonda Fader, 2 for 3 with a triple, Cass City tied the game at 15 all in the fifth.

Marlette scored a pair in the sixth to win it. A pair of walks and an error made Jill Hutchinson the losing pitcher.

Marlette touched Hutchinson for six hits and Coach Jim Fox calls the Raiders one of the better hitting teams in the Thumb.

In the second game, Marlette combined lusty hitting with tough pitching by Penny Cook to win easily, 10-1.

Cook allowed just one scratch hit and struck out 8. She is a power pitcher and her only trouble in going the distance was control. She issued 10 walks while going the full six innings.

Cook led Marlette at the bat with three hits and three runs-batted-in.

The Hawks' game with Vassar was rescheduled to Wednesday, May 18, and the Hawks were to have played Lakers Tuesday and will meet Caro Friday.

To stay in contention, Fox says that the team's defense will have to improve. Three wins in the four games are needed, Fox believes, after the double loss to Marlette.

Cass City band plays at State

The Cass City High School band performed Saturday in the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association

Croft-Clara rained out in tourney

The Croft-Clara softball team entered its first tournament of the season last week end in Coldwater.

The eight-team double elimination tournament was ended prematurely Sunday because of rain with four teams left in competition: Croft-Clara; Battle Creek; Cary Trucking, Bronson, and Quality Photo, Jackson.

The Cass City team played three games: Friday, it defeated Battle Creek, 5-2. Saturday, it lost to Cary Trucking, 2-1. Sunday, it downed Marshall Merchants, 3-2.

Craig Helwig had a 1-1 record and Kenny Martin had a 1-0 record. Jeff Hartel led the team in hitting.

The other three teams competing were from Coldwater.

state band and orchestra festival at Perry High School.

The band, directed by George Bushong, received a I rating (excellent) in sight reading and a II rating (above average) in performance.

For performance, the band played music previously rehearsed. For sight reading, band members had seven minutes to prepare, without playing their instruments, to perform a song they hadn't seen before.

The band qualified for the state festival by receiving a I rating at the district festival. It was the first time it qualified for the state festival in three years.

Sun damage

Excessive exposure to the sun may permanently damage your skin. It may prematurely age it, wrinkling it and giving it a leathery look.

Sun damage may be more than merely cosmetic. Exposure over many years, especially by light-complexioned people, may lead to a condition known as solar keratoses, which in some cases can become malignant.

O-G nine splits with Caseville

Owen-Gage picked up its first win in baseball Monday when it split with Caseville.

The host Eagles won the first game, 8-6, with Brian Gembariski pitching the entire game. He struck out nine, issued one walk and allowed 10 hits.

Losing pitcher Stan Andrakowicz gave up eight hits and eight walks and struck out seven.

He led his team at the plate with a single, double and a triple. Dan Glidden and Gary Erickson each contributed two singles. Brian Siegfried batted a double and two singles for Caseville. Dan Osentoski hit a double and a single and Wayne Simmons contributed two singles.

Dan Glidden pitched Owen-Gage to a 9-5 win in the nightcap. He held Caseville to three hits, walked six and struck out 10.

Aiding the cause was Mike Powell with a double and a single and Gary Erickson with two singles.

Mike Duffy started on the round for the home team, with Chris Murdoch taking over in the fourth inning. They allowed eight hits and seven walks and struck out six.

Siegfried blasted a home run and a double.

Coach Phil Gray's team, now 1-5 overall and in the North Central Thumb D League, hosts Kingston Thursday, plays in the Huron County Tournament at Caseville Saturday and travels to Peck Monday.

Hawk track stars aim for State

Coach Doug Grezeszak has a theory about conditioning his athletes for track. He starts them slowly in the early spring and then brings them to a peak when the chips are down in the key meets at the end of the school year.

That's the way it worked last year when Carrie Lautner won state titles in the 1600 and 3200-meter runs.

Meanwhile, Hawk aces have been suffering in the big meets in mid-Michigan. At Central Michigan Relays Saturday, Lautner finished second to Jennie Hunter of Freeland in the 3200 with a time of 11:41.2. Hunter posted an 11:34.5.

In the 1600-meter run, Lautner trailed Penny Pennington of Carson City Crystal. Pennington ran in 5:22.04 and Lautner in 5:26.07.

The girls tied for fifth in the meet with 18 points. Burton-Bentley won with 44 points.

Besides Lautner, Cass City earned points by finishing fourth in the 800-meter relay and fifth in the spring medley relay.

Jamie LaRoche was second in the long jump with a leap of 16-4/4 behind Sue Kofenko of USA with 16-5.

Cass City's other track champion, Greg Bliss, also has not peaked for the season. He finished second behind Kirk Scharich of USA, running 9:36.3 to Scharich's 9:25.7.

Bliss finished fourth in the 1600 meter run, a long ways down from him. Scharich also won this event in 4:28.53. Bliss posted a very respectable 4:31.81.

Cass City finished ninth among the 22 teams with 17 points. The meet was won by Flint Hamady with 50 points.

In addition to Bliss, Cass City earned points by Mike Middaugh who was third in the long jump and the 200 and 100-meter relay teams which finished fifth.

Double loss for O-G girls

Owen-Gage dropped two games to Caseville in North Central Thumb D League softball Monday.

The host Eagles won the first game, 6-4, with Kathy Briesmeister going the distance for the win. She allowed four hits and six walks and struck out nine.

Losing pitcher was Sheila Engelhardt, who surrendered six hits and three walks while striking out two.

Briesmeister was also the leading hitter for her team with a double. In the 16-8 nightcap, Sandy Johnson started for Caseville and was relieved by Briesmeister. They combined to issue four hits and 12 walks. They struck out four.

Jackie Kain started the mound duties for Owen-Gage and was relieved by Engelhardt. They allowed 11 hits and 10 walks and only struck out one.

Kain hit two singles.

May Warren had a hot time at the plate with a grand slam home run and a triple. Gela Kretzschmer added two singles.

Owen-Gage, now 0-6 in the league, hosts Kingston Thursday, and is at Peck Monday.

Induct 34 into Cass City High School National Honor Society

Thirty-four students were inducted into the National Honor Society in ceremonies last Thursday evening in the Cass City High School gymnasium.

To be eligible for membership consideration, sophomore students must have a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.3; juniors, 3.2, and seniors, 3.0.

Potential members must also meet high standards in leadership, service and character.

Leadership is based on each student's participation in two or more community or school activities or election to an office.

To meet the service requirement, the student must be active in three or more service projects to the school or community.

Character is measured in terms of integrity, behavior, ethics, and cooperation with students and faculty.

Purpose of the National Honor Society is to recognize outstanding students who are very involved in the life of their school and community and exhibit consistent, above average performance.

Additions to the society's membership are made each spring by a faculty council from a list of students who meet the scholarship requirement.

Following the induction, Principal Russell Richards presented Kevin Downing and Jamie Fox with honor awards recognizing their perfect 4.0 grade point averages compiled over the past four years.

The induction program was planned by Karen Wallace and Kathleen Jackson, Honor Society faculty advisors.

Susan Scollon played the processional. Tammie Stimpfel gave the welcome, and Scott Geiger gave the invocation.

A selection was then played by the high school band, directed by George Bushong. Speakers were Angie Saldana, Jamie Fox, Chris Polk, Paula Burdon and Kevin Downing.

The roll call of old members was read by Martha Remsing. Tammy Roach then administered the oath to the new members. Counselor Wayne Dillon presented the membership certificates.

Present Honor Society members who were inducted in 1981 or 1982 are:

Seniors - Kevin Downing, Sheryl Evans, Jamie Fox, Scott Geiger, Donna Gracey, Tracy Green, Cort Hartwick, Dawn Hartwick, Mary Kappen, Carrie Lautner, Merilee Leslie, Kay Loomis, Debbie Overy, Rhonda Palmer, Rochelle Peters, Chris Polk, Kathy Pringle, Martha Remsing, Tammy Roach, Jill Root, Lori Sawdon, Angie Saldana, Sally Severance, Kathy Stevenson, Tammie Stimpfel, Susan Stine, Kippen Wills, Brian Wright and Fred Zawilinski.

Juniors - Paula Burdon, Libby Dickinson, Kevin Hobart, Sherri Horner, Jill Hutchinson, Gerald Kocan, Randy Nicholas, Loyal Roach, Paula Rockwell, Diane Russell, Pam Sawdon, Susan Scollon, Susan Sheldon, Julie Smithson, Marsha Taylor and Tom Tuckey.

The National Honor Society ranks as one of the oldest and prestigious national organizations for high school students. Chapters exist in three-fourths of the nation's high schools. Since 1921, more than 12 million students have been members.

More than $2 million in scholarships have been awarded to senior members since 1972 by the sponsoring organization, the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

CAR-DEER

At 6:40 a.m. Tuesday, according to Cass City police, Gary L. Wichert, 35, of 4216 Maple Street was eastbound on M-81, west of Schwegler Road, when his car hit a deer.

The remaining accidents were reported by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department:

Thomas R. Sharko, 21, of 4845 Phillips Road, Kingston, when southbound on Phillips Road, north of Centerline Road, at 11 p.m. Wednesday, April 27.

James B. Gardner, 44, of James Street, Ubyly, while northbound on M-81, north of Elmwood Road, at 9:15 p.m. that day.

David M. Lalko, 30, of 6017 State Street, Kingston, while eastbound on M-46, east of Plain Road, at 12:10 a.m. that day.

Leon J. Burlingame, 50, of Akron, while westbound on Deckerville Road, west of Plain Road, at 9:05 p.m. April 25.

Farm share is 35 percent

The farmer gets an average of 35 cents of each dollar spent for domestic foods purchased at the supermarket, according to the Michigan Farm Bureau.

He only gets 28 cents of the overall food dollar, which includes fish and imports and food purchased away from home as well as at the supermarket. That's well below the 32 cents paid for labor after the food leaves the farm gate.

A further breakdown shows that 8 cents of each food dollar goes for packaging, 5 cents for intercity transportation of the food, 4½ cents for rent and depreciation, 4 cents for fuels and electricity, 2 cents for advertising, 2 cents for interest, 1½ cents for repairs and 8½ cents for "other costs." That last item includes property taxes, insurance, accounting and professional services, promotion, bad debts and other miscellaneous items.

Survey reveals school problem

One reason the increase was needed was because of declining state aid as a percentage of the total school budget.

For the federal government to increase its aid to schools, it will have to reverse its trend of decreasing aid.

In 1980-81, the peak year, Cass City received $169,000 in federal Chapter I funds for remedial reading and math and teacher aides, according to high school Assistant Principal Roland Pakonen, who coordinates the federal programs.

This year, the district will receive $132,700 in Title I funds. For the 1983-84 school year, it is anticipating $112,200.

Because of the reduced aid, the district dismissed five of its nine teacher aides.

The only other federal money received this year was $11,000 in Chapter II funds, most of which was spent to buy eight computers for the intermediate school.

Chapter II is a consolidation of 28 previous federal education programs. The $11,000 was more than was received from the various programs last year, Pakonen said, but it isn't known yet whether Chapter II will be continued next year.

The Cass City schools, of course, have had their financial difficulties, with a millage increase being passed on its third try last year.

Pupil reaction is mixed

More homework, more math and science, fewer electives, a longer school year.

It's what the National Commission on Excellence in Education recommended.

How do students at Cass City High School feel about the prescription?

Of those surveyed by the Chronicle, their reactions were mixed.

For instance, Marty Willsey, an 11th grader, feels a longer school year would benefit younger students, but not those in high school.

The commission recommended a school year of 200-220 days a year, versus the present 180 days.

Brian Kitchen feels a longer school year would help high school students, that they would learn more. "It would be alright. It wouldn't bother me a bit."

The commission recommended fewer electives and more required courses.

But, said Tami Stimpfel, a senior, "You need electives to keep school interesting."

If students take too many frivolous courses, she suggested, some of the fault lies with the school and counselors for allowing it.

Students see a need for more subjects. Joseph McCluskey, a 12th grader, said colleges want students to study calculus in high school, but at Cass City, it's only offered as an independent study program.

Some of the students said computer classes are needed, but admitted they may be, in a sense, ahead of their time. The school district is launching a computer program, with most of the computers at the intermediate school.

Willsey doesn't see a need for more required science classes, as the commission suggested, but, "I'd say more math (classes are needed) because you use it every day."
