

16.9 mills

Entire voted millage at stake Monday

All the cards will be on the table Monday when Cass City School District residents vote on renewal of 16.9 mills for school operations for two years.

That is all of the district's operating millage except for the 9 allocated mills.

If the legislature approves Gov. Blanchard's proposed state aid funding formula without change (unlikely) and if the district has 1,800 students this fall (34 fewer than the 1982-83 school year), the 16.9 mills will raise $1.79 million in combined local taxes and state aid. Total local, state and federal revenue for the past school year totaled $3.4 million.

Voters will also be electing two of five candidates to the school board. (See story, page 16).

The voting place is the high school and hours are 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

The millage levy to be voted on includes the four mills for one year approved last September which restored busing, crossing guards, two librarians, one counselor, elementary art teacher, school nurse, and school funding of extracurricular activities.

Voters last year twice rejected 5.5 mill levies before approving the 4 mill proposal.

This year, all the extra voted millage is on the line in a single "yes" or "no" vote. "It's absolutely essential," said Supt. Donald Crouse. "We need this amount of millage to operate our current program."

What happens if the voters don't agree? "Hopefully we won't have to face that, but we would be in a situation very similar to last year," he responded.

There are some unknowns concerning 1983-84 finances, the main ones being the amount of state aid and a new contract with teachers.

TEACHER CONTRACT

With the first negotiating session not scheduled until after the millage vote, Crouse was cautious in his remarks.

New teacher salaries have been anticipated in the tentative 1983-84 budget, he said, adding, "The board consistently throughout the years has taken the position to pay a fair and equitable salary to teachers."

Board members have established firm guidelines for its hired negotiator, Al Luce, to follow, which are not dependent on the outcome of the millage election, according to the superintendent.

"I don't want people to feel passing the millage or not passing it will have an effect on negotiations," Crouse stressed, further explaining that he hopes persons won't vote "no" with the thought that if the millage is defeated, the board will give less money to teachers.

Teachers received a 10 percent pay hike each of the past three years. Greatly offsetting that, however, was a large reduction in the teaching staff, partly due to fewer students and partly for economy.

According to a fact sheet prepared by the superintendent for the election, during the 1980-81 school year, 6½ teaching positions plus one bus run and driver were eliminated for a savings of $85,158.

Five more teaching positions plus another bus run and driver were eliminated the following year.

Also in 1981-82, school funds were not used for support of athletics and extracurricular activities, field trips were eliminated, purchase of instructional materials and supplies was reduced and there were no major maintenance improvements for buildings. Total savings were figured at $248,666.

Even with passage of the 4 mills last September, seven more teaching positions were eliminated and one janitorial position

6.5 mills

10-year millage renewal on Owen-Gage ballot

Owendale - Gagetown School District residents will vote Monday on renewal of 6.5 mills for school operations for 10 years.

Patrick Goslin's term on the school board is the only one expiring and he is the only candidate running. Goslin, of Bay City-Forestville Road, Gagetown, has served on the board four years. The new term is for four years.

Polls in the Owendale Community Building will be open from 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

After considerable debate, the board decided to seek renewal of the expiring levy for 10 years.

On last December's tax bills, Owen-Gage levied a total of 26.75 mills for operation, so the 6.5 mills that are expiring raise about 23 percent of its total revenue, since the school district receives only a small amount of state and federal aid.

The 6.5 mills will raise $296,490 the first year, based on the district's present state equalized valuation.

Millage levies in Owen-Gage have usually been for two years. The reason for the 10-year request, Supt. Ronald Erickson wrote in the school newsletter, "is to send a very important message to those people who want our school to close. Having 10 years of guaranteed tax revenues for the support of our school and our children's education thwarts any plans that the dissidents have of defeating a millage request somewhere down the road."

"I personally think this important vote could easily guarantee our future existence and also guarantee that even our youngest students will graduate from Owen-Gage."

On the last tax bills, Owen-Gage levied a total of 30.25 mills, the highest of any Huron County school district. Of that, 9.25 was allocated, 17.5 extra voted including the 6.5-- all for operations -- and 3.5 was for debt retirement.

It was pointed out during the school board debate whether to ask for a 10-year renewal that the board can always levy less than 6.5 mills, that is the maximum authorized.

Of Owen-Gage's total operating levy, 3 mills will appear on tax bills for the last time this coming December. That levy was approved by voters for three years in 1981 to get the school district out of debt.

Supreme Court agrees, murder verdict rejected

The Michigan Supreme Court has rejected an effort to reverse a Court of Appeals decision that threw out Mark Emmons' 1978 jury conviction for murdering his mother and sister.

Emmons was found "guilty but mentally ill" of two counts of second degree murder in the shooting deaths of his mother, Joan, 52, and sister, Dawn, 22, in the home the three were living in in Caro. The murders took place July 8, 1977. He was age 24 at the time.

The appeals court in March ruled that during the trial, Chief Assistant Prosecutor Scott Stermer failed to introduce specific expert evidence to contradict three medical opinions offered by the defense.

The defense had three psychiatrists testify that Emmons "lacked substantial capacity to appreciate the wrongfulness of his conduct...."

The appeals court remanded the case to Tuscola County Circuit Court for entry of a verdict of "innocent by reason of insanity" and an order committing the defendant for psychiatric treatment.

Prosecutor Artis Noel authorized an appeal but in May, the Supreme Court refused to grant a leave to appeal, meaning the appeals court ruling stands.

Monday, in accordance with the appeals court ruling, Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn granted a defense motion for Emmons to undergo an examination at the state Center for Forensic Psychiatry near Ypsilanti.

If the psychiatrists there decide he has been cured, he will be released, Stermer said. He presently is in a state prison.

If they determine Emmons still needs treatment, Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr. will conduct a hearing to determine whether Emmons should be committed to the forensic center for such treatment.

Stermer said the three defense psychiatrists testified in the trial that Emmons had suffered permanent brain damage because of an automobile accident.

He contended, when he talked to the Chronicle Tuesday, that it wasn't necessary for him to offer testimony to contradict the defense experts, since the jury didn't believe them in deciding its verdict.

The jury's verdict, however, was thrown out by the appeals court.

Logger injured

Bill Woodward of Severance Road, Cass City, injured in a logging accident last Thursday near Hastings, was transferred Tuesday from Pennock Hospital in that community to St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

The transfer, according to his sister-in-law, Linda Woodward, was to make it easier for his family to visit, as Hastings is in the southwest part of the state.

She said Woodward was cutting down a tree. As it started to fall forward, it split and part fell backwards, pinning him between it and the tree behind him. His right ankle and left leg were broken.

Candidates agree on most issues except busing

The five candidates running for the Cass City School Board found much to agree about and hardly anything to disagree about when they faced each other last Thursday.

The occasion was a "meet the candidates" program organized by the Cass City Education Association and the citizens advisory committee to the school board.

The session attracted only 24 spectators.

The only point of significant disagreement during the approximately one-hour discussion was the board's decision to suspend busing during the past school year. The buses stayed parked for the first month of school, until voters approved a 4-mill tax increase.

Fred Matthews of Hadley Road, Decker, said, "I think it was a mistake to eliminate it last time." With approximately 80 percent of the school district's tax base outside of the Cass City village limits, "to eliminate busing touches a lot of people."

Louis Wrona of Froede Road, Deford, contended, "Busing is a must."

"... I think that it's very important we never cut that (busing) out," commented Louis Salas of Oak Street, Cass City.

School Board President Edward Scollon, who is seeking reelection, defended the board's decision. "I think we made a sound decision... It was either have busing or the school."

Louis Horner, of S. Seeger Street, who is chairman of the citizens advisory committee, backed Scollon. He said the decision by the board was a very difficult one to make, "but it was made after everything else was cut." If anything more had been cut, he contended, the school district would have lost its accreditation.

Supt. Donald Crouse, who spoke after the candidates were finished, about the 16.9 mill renewal on Monday's ballot, said that eliminating busing was necessary because that was the only way the school board could save $300,000.

The discussion about the busing suspension was part of a question about what should be eliminated if spending cuts must be made.

They were asked to comment about busing and also about closing of Deford and/or Evergreen Elementary Schools.

None of the candidates supported closing either school, with Scollon saying there are no plans to close them. He did suggest, however, that a survey should be taken of residents served by the schools regarding their feelings. Some farmers in the area have told him it wouldn't bother them to have their children bused to Cass City.

THE CANDIDATES were asked what they felt were the strongest and weakest parts of the school system.

Scollon spoke first and mentioned a stable and good teaching staff, good discipline and well maintained buildings. He added, "I think the people support the district well."

No one disagreed with that.

LET THE SUN SHINE — Too many farm fields looked like this one did Saturday near the M-53 - M-81 intersection - unplanted and wet. Sunshine this week gave hope to farmers that they could finally finish planting their crops and some hay was being cut. A possibility of rain, however, was forecast for Thursday.

Planting delayed

Excess rain causes problems

The seemingly never ending rain this spring has caused severe problems for farmers trying to get their crops planted, which will become even more severe without a couple of weeks of sunshine and warm temperatures.

"It went from questionable to serious to very, very serious now, I guess you'd say," commented Tuscola County Extension Director Bill Bortel.

He said Monday that 40 percent of the county's intended corn crop has yet to be planted.

Most seriously hurting, he said, are farmers with dairy cows, beef cattle or hogs, who need the corn they plant for feed.

The corn that has been planted isn't doing too well. There has been plenty of moisture, of course, but the crop also needs warm temperatures to grow.

Since it hasn't gotten it, the corn is pale and yellow. "It's just not doing anything," Bortel said.

What would solve the problem would be a lot of days with temperatures in the 80s.

Farmers probably can still plant corn up to June 15-20, and maybe later, but the delayed planting and poor growing conditions for the corn already in the ground will mean reduced yields.

In addition to less of a crop, farmers who don't have all their corn in yet may lose money from having to buy new seed, unless they can trade their old seed in. The normal seed used, Bortel explained, is a 105-day variety, but they now need to use an 85-day variety.

Time is also growing short for soybeans, which should be in the ground by June 15.

With possibly a few exceptions, sugar beets in Tuscola County have been planted, but Bortel understands that Huron and Sanilac Counties are lagging.

Of the sugar beets that have been planted, he commented, "they're not doing anything."

Planting of dry beans usually starts about May 25 and continues through June, but hasn't started yet.

A big fear, Bortel said, is that farmers, being unable to plant all their other crops, will switch to dry beans, since they can be planted later. A big dry bean crop, however, will only add to the big surplus of beans still in storage from last year.

One crop that had been benefitting from the rain was wheat, but now it is starting to mildew because of too much moisture.

Hay is ready for the first cutting, but because of the rain, farmers haven't been able to harvest it.

"It's probably as dismal a picture as I've seen in quite a while," Bortel concluded, adding that the situation can change in a hurry. "If we can see it clearing for a couple weeks, then a lot of things can happen."

Sitting with Emily

By Jim Fitzgerald

When the clock-radio blasted me half out of bed, the stupid digits said it was 3:58 in the morning, for God's sake. What the hell was going on?

"Emily was playing with the radio yesterday," my wife explained. That's what I get for sleeping with a grandmother.

We had our last child in 1958. In 25 years, a man can forget a lot about living with children big enough to reach knobs but too small to be sent to summer camp for life. But it all came back to me when I took a week off to help baby-sit 19-month-old Emily while her mother recovered from surgery.

"Emily has locked herself inside our bathroom," my wife yelled one afternoon, "and there is no key."

That was disappointing. Little kids have been locking themselves in bathrooms ever since the invention of indoor plumbing. I would have preferred a little originality, especially from my own granddaughter.

"I can hear her in there, laughing and flushing the toilet," my wife said as visions of disappearing guest towels danced soggily in her head.

Beginning to feel like a character in a lousy situation comedy, I quickly remembered what I used to do years ago when one of my own kids became locked inside the bathroom: I always went to the Shell gas station on the corner.

"There is no need to panic," I said. "When we were poor struggling parents we had only one bathroom, but now we are wealthy struggling grandparents and we have two. Leave Emily alone in there and before you know it she'll be old enough to unlock the door herself."

But Grandmother had a better idea, which was a screwdriver. I never knew we owned one. Emily was freed before the bathroom scales were flushed, and I took her outside to play. That was a job I volunteered for because there's a city park next door and I figured it would be easy to amuse her on the swings.

However, Emily didn't like the swings, probably because she couldn't figure out how to rig them to explode in my ear at 3:58 in the morning. All she wanted to do was move into the city bus-stop shelter on the corner and live there the rest of her life.

The big attraction of the shelter was that it's transparent. Emily could sit on the bench inside and I could stand outside and make faces at her through the glass. Or I could sit inside and she could go outside and make faces at me. Also, the shelter has two entrances, one on each end, making it possible for me to chase Emily in and out, round and round, in and out, round and round, for ever and ever, till my death did us part.

So that's what we did, in a bus-stop shelter on the edge of bustling downtown Detroit, while hundreds of heartless motorists drove by. Every one of them could see I was in trouble but they all refused to get involved.

The only way I could get Emily to go home was to buy her a candy bar. I did this every day even though the kid never took more than a couple of bites before discarding the bar. Every night after Emily finally went to sleep, I searched the apartment until I found the candy and gobbled it. I may be a lousy grandfather, but I'm a master of the fiendish plot.

Some things are better than they used to be. When our kids were little, their mother wouldn't let me take them to a saloon, and I wasn't too thrilled about taking them to a soda fountain. So when Emily took me to my first Chuck E. Cheese restaurant last week, I was pleasantly surprised to learn that Chuck is no fool. Along with all the sticky food and mechanical entertainment designed especially for children, Chuck also sells cold beer. Like bread, babysitting can be leavened.

But seriously, Emily is a lovely, brilliant child. It didn't take me long to discover how easy it is to get her to behave. All you have to do is give her everything she wants. And when, for a solid week, I kept asking her to say Grandpa and she kept saying Bubububumbum, I did the only thing I could do.

I changed my name to Bubububumbum.

There were 188 entries in the poster and scrapbook contests for youth sponsored by the Tuscola Soil Conservation District, according to District Chairman Albert Ruggles of Kingston.

The 1983 theme was "Water, Friend or Foe."

The winners in Division I of the poster contest were Robbie Hogarth and Kenny Farmer, Millington; Division II -- John Jesionowski, Reese, and Nikki Bundy, Millington; Division III -- Tony Diegel and Tony Favazza, Kingston, and Division IV -- Julie Koepf, Sebawaing.

The winners have received certificates and conservation buttons and will be invited to attend the Tuscola SCD annual meeting in January and at that time will be presented with an award. Their photographs will appear in the annual report.

The Haire Net

What this town needs is a People Mover. Let's see. We could start it at 4172 South Seeger and run it to 6550 Main Street. After that we could have it run out to the park and back and scoot out to the M-81 Motel.

To do this we'll form the Northeastern Tuscola County Transportation Authority and I'll be the director.

Just to be of service to the community. Sure, the director of a prestigious outfit like this will make more than a weekly publisher. But it's crass of you to mention it.

What's important is that it will revitalize downtown. People can park their car at the park or at my house (for a slight fee) and save all the frustration of finding out where the cop is before ignoring the Main Street meters as they are forced to park uptown while shopping.

They could even leave their car at home and hitchhike to the Mover and really save. I was going to say, walk, but let's be realistic. The first step in this development is a study committee. It can take a jaunt to Dearborn's Hyatt Regency to see the Mover that operates there, taking golf clubs along just to be certain that the system will handle bulkier packages.

They have a system in San Francisco that should be visited in the winter to see how durable the system can be.

That's the way these

Novesta Township okays road work

The Novesta Township Board Monday evening authorized work on three roads.

It voted to have an asphalt mat or layer applied on three quarters of a mile of DeLong Road, west of Cemetery. Only one-quarter mile of the section had the mat applied previously.

It will only have the asphalt pavement applied, however, if the Road Commission will accept half the Township's payment this year and the other half during Novesta's 1984-85 fiscal year, which would mean a payment of $6,600 each time. Total cost of the project will be a little more than $17,000, with the Road Commission paying what the township doesn't pay, according to Clerk Nurse Kloc.

The board authorized the Road Commission to apply 1,000 cubic yards of gravel on the 2.2 miles of Kelly Road between Englehart and Lamton Roads and 500 cubic yards on the north half-mile of Englehart between Shabbona and Severance. Total cost will be close to $7,000.

Supervisor Bill O'Dell reported his findings concerning a drainage problem on Dodge Road, north of Deckerville Road. Property owner Duane Chippi mentioned the problem at the board's May meeting.

O'Dell reported that to get the drain cleaned to solve the problem, Chippi will have to get the signatures of all the property owners along the drain.

The board gave its consent to a Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) agreement between the state and Carl Kolb for two parcels he owns in Section 18, one 40 acres and the other 76.2 acres.

The board decided to have a "no dumping" sign erected on private property on Phillips Road where a lot of trash is being dumped without permission of the property owner.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

We applaud the only all-state academic teams ever selected in Michigan. The Detroit Free Press has a great idea there.

The icing on the cake for area residents is that a couple of Thumb residents were named. In class D Preston Murdoch of Caseville was honored and in Class C, Kevin Downing, Gagetown, of Cass City High School was singled out.

Here's a tip for everyone seeking help for civic projects. Try and get Susan Genovese interested. Mrs. Genovese took over the planting of the flowers on the main stem as a Girl Scout project.

Not only were the flowers planted pronto, but the boss lady sent every business a note about care for the flowers, together with a promise that she'd be back to check up on us.

It's almost as if there weren't a school millage and candidate election coming Monday. There has been virtually no talk about it in gab fests around town.

That means, I suspect, that the vote will be light. It could also mean that the will of the majority may not be expressed.

If a light vote results in a turn-down of the millage renewal it's a lead pipe cinch that another vote will be scheduled.

So why not take a few minutes to read about the candidates and their stand on the issues this week and hustle off to the polls?

There's an abundance of top candidates this year, but we endorse incumbent Dr. Ed Scollon on his record and Louis Horner because of his work on the Citizens' Advisory Committee.

Boy finishes adult class

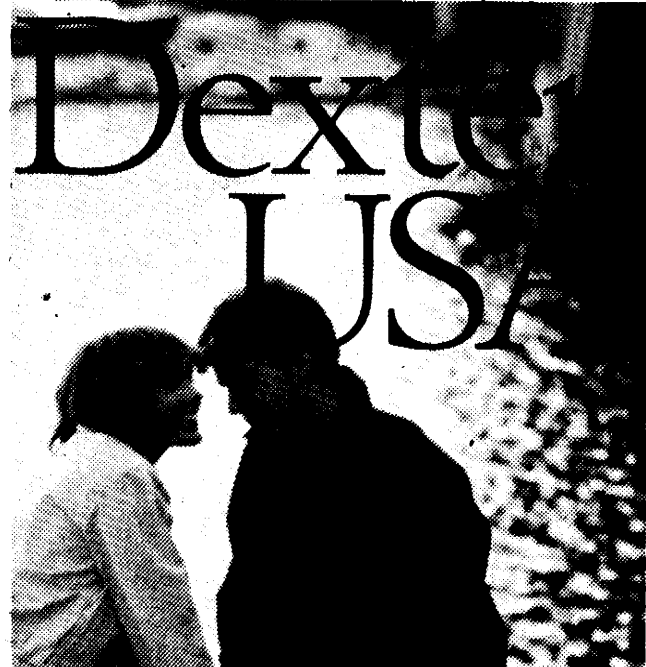

Heath Ray McDonald, 8, has been honored with a certificate of achievement in elementary computer programming from the Tuscola Area Skill Center.

Heath is the son of Cynthia Jane Musthaler of Caro and Michael Paul McDonald of Marlette and the grandson of Elta Caverly of Cass City. He will be a third grader at Schall Elementary School in Caro this fall.

He received the certificate for successful completion of adult education course requirements.

Heath will be participating in a program for gifted students this summer at Delta College.

Four candidates, millage in Kingston

Kingston School District voters will elect one person to the school board Monday from a field of four candidates.

They will also be voting on two separate millage proposals, renewal of 15 mills for operations and one additional mill for building repairs.

Hours to vote at the high school will be from 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

The candidate whose term is expiring, Robert Wilmot of 5167 E. Sanilac Road, is seeking reelection.

Age 47, he has served on the board 14 years. A builder of homes, pole buildings, etc., Wilmot has three children who graduated from the Kingston schools and a daughter, age 12, attending now.

The other candidates for the four-year term are:

James Green, 41, of 2337 Phillips Road, who is a Kingston native and Kingston High School graduate.

He was a teacher for 12 years and he is now employed by the Saginaw schools as a school social worker, evaluating special education students to determine placement in the proper programs.

He and his wife have two children attending the Kingston schools, one a fifth grader and the other a ninth grader.

Jeffrey Newton, 23, of 3906 S. Hurds Corner Road, Mayville, is a 1978 Kingston High School graduate. He ran unsuccessfully for the board last year.

Newton is single, manages the Dairy Freeze and arcade in Kingston and is co-chairman of the Kingston Olde Time Country Fair June 17-19.

Velna Richter, 57, of 6611 E. Sanilac Road is making her third try for the board. She presently is a full-time farm wife, but has held various office jobs and has been involved in various volunteer activities.

She and her husband are both Kingston High School graduates. Three of their four children have graduated from there. The fourth now attends high school.

MILLAGE

Kingston annually seeks renewal of all of its extra voted operating millage, which is 15 mills.

The only other millage the district receives for operation is the allocated nine mills.

Each mill raises about $33,000 in local revenue, according to retiring Supt. Robert Cameron, so the 15 mills means about $495,000 in revenue.

In addition to voting on the operating millage, electors will also be asked to approve an additional 1 mill for one year for repair of roofs and buildings.

One building that needs its leaky roof repaired, Cameron said, is the bus garage, which was built in 1953.

Repair of leaks in the high school roof so far have been paid for by the bonding company that guaranteed it. The district and bonding company, Cameron said, are engaged in a dispute over whether the roof guarantee has expired. The guarantee consisted of a total monetary amount of repairs the bonding company would pay for and it claims all the money has been spent.

Even if the guarantee hasn't expired, the superintendent commented, eventually it will, and then school funds will have to be used to pay the cost of fixing leaks.

In addition to fixing leaks, some of the millage money, if approved, will be used to install some energy conservation measures. "It takes some money, but it (conservation measures) may pay off in the long run."

The need for the measures is illustrated by the fact that Kingston paid more money for natural gas and electricity this past school year, Cameron said, even though it used less of both.

An elephant may consume 500 pounds of hay and 60 gallons of water in a single day.

RESCUED -- Bernard Pilarski (at left) of Elmwood Road and his grandson, Jeffery Hatmaker of Detroit, rescued this fawn May 28 after it was chased by two dogs. Exhausted from running, it collapsed soon after they arrived. They had to pet it for a half-hour before it calmed down, then they fed it milk. A Department of Natural Resources conservation officer picked the fawn up two days later, to be raised elsewhere.

Dick Erla retires

Richard Erla, president of Erla's Food Center and Packing Inc. for 30 years, has sold his stock in the company to other family members and retired.

He was president of the firm since it began. His last day with it was May 27.

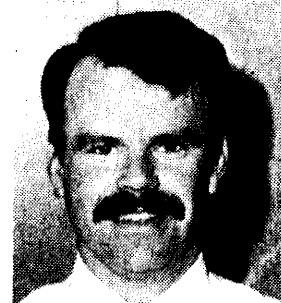

"I just felt it was time to enjoy life a little bit," said Erla, 59. Future plans for him and his wife, Christine, include traveling. The Erlass live on Huron Street.

Erla said the new president will be selected by the stockholders in the family owned corporation, but that "the company will be run as it has been."

Pedaling Around

Mario Andretti

By Mike Ellasohn

I don't remember how old I was when I first listened to the Indianapolis 500 on the radio, but I probably wasn't more than 12 or 13.

If I was 12, Sam Hanks won and the year was 1957. If it was the following year, the winner was Jimmy Bryan.

One bit of trivia I do remember from those two years is that both men were driving the same car. That's probably the only time in Indy 500 history that the same car has won two years in a row, driven by different men.

Since listening to my first 500 broadcast, the only one or ones I've missed were when I was in the Army.

I don't remember whether I heard the broadcast the first year I was in the Army, but I know I missed it the second year.

That was when I was in Vietnam. Armed Forces Radio broadcast the race, but it started at something like 3 in the morning, and the only thing that would have gotten me up at that hour was the Viet Cong or a rocket attack. Fortunately, I never had to experience either during my 10 months there.

Mario Andretti won the 500 the year I was in Vietnam, in 1969. He has had rotten luck there since. The best he has done since was the "Bobby Unser won; no, Mario Andretti won; no, Bobby Unser won," fiasco of 1981.

Andretti won in 1969 on Firestone tires. As a promotion afterwards, Firestone gave away wall posters of him in his car.

I thought that would make a rather nifty decoration for the side of my locker, so I sent away for it. After all, anyone could hang the centerfold from Playboy magazine on their locker, but how many persons had a big poster of Mario Andretti?

The answer was no one except me, which made me the subject of some jokes.

Despite the jokes, the poster stayed until our company got a new commander who ordained no pictures could be displayed in open view except for ones of family members, and I'm not sure he even allowed that.

Mario Andretti wasn't old enough for me to claim him as my father, so down came the poster.

Although I have always heard the broadcast live, with the one exception, I didn't always hear it on the radio. For a few years in the 1960s, before ABC started televising taped highlights the evening of the race, it was broadcast into theatres and auditoriums over closed-circuit television.

I always went. The picture wasn't always the best, and it was in black and white, but it was live and I enjoyed it.

I do watch the ABC broadcasts, but since I already know who won, who didn't finish, etc., before it's shown, the excitement isn't there.

Despite my affection for the Indy 500, I have never had a desire to see the race in person and after having interviewed Pat Rabideau, Francis Withey and Howard Kelley last week, who have gone many years, I still don't have a desire to see it.

Having to drive many hours to get there and back, fighting a crowd of 300,000 or so and seeing cars zip by so fast they are a blur doesn't thrill me.

I would rather watch a road race, where the cars go fast, but also go slow. I would also rather watch cars going 100 or 150 miles per hour than 200.

Unfortunately, one aspect of modern race car design makes races less exciting for spectators. Nowadays, all that can be seen of the drivers is the helmet sticking outside of the car.

In the old days, when the drivers sat upright and at least one side of the cockpit was cut away, spectators could see the drivers "working" the steering wheel.

With only the helmet showing and the precise cornering so that the cars don't slide much going around corners, if at all, the open wheel racing cars look like electric slot cars with no nose.

An element that fascinates me as much as anything about auto racing, be it Indianapolis cars or the Grand Prix cars that raced in Detroit Sunday, is that the designers each year can develop the ultimate car, faster than ever before.

Then the next year, with no change in the regulations, they can design a car that is even faster.

Life savers

Last year, about 45,000 men, women and children died in automobile accidents. During that same period more than one million people were injured. About half of the vehicle occupants killed might be alive today if they had been wearing seat belts.

In representing Michigan in her official capacity, she appeared in the Bean Commission Booth, passing out literature, new recipes, one of which is a bean pie, and generally promoting Michigan navy beans. Kelly is the daughter of Al and Lori Seurnyck.

After Thursday's graduation exercises at Cass City High School, the Al Seurnycks hosted a family party at their home in honor of their daughter Jill. July 4th, Jill leaves for seven weeks in South Africa in the Lions Club Student Exchange Program. She will be in Johannesburg, Capetown, Durbin, and will go on a safari.

The next meeting is June 16 in the Owendale Village Hall.

Mrs. Esther Werde-man spent the week of Memorial Day with her daughter and family, the Dennis Gryl-kis of Rochester. She also visited friends in Clawson and Drayton Plains.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Hunter were Mrs. Hunter's sister, brother and sister-in-law, Mrs. Lucille Johnson of Royal Oak and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Laughlin of Fraser.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Voters Monday will have a choice of two candidates for the one seat open on the Cass City School Board. J.D. Tuckey, who is seeking a second term, is being challenged by Danny B. Allen.

Floyd and Madeline Ziehm were presented a plaque at the Owendale-Gagetown athletic banquet last Thursday night for their contribution to the district. The couple has 11 children, the oldest of whom started school in the then Owendale district in the 1940s. Their youngest, Roger, just graduated.

Sawyer Transport, Inc., has announced the presentation of the American Trucking Association Safe Driving Award to George S. Hosner of Deford. The award signifies an average of 90,000 accident-free miles of driving per year.

Kim Witherspoon was the only Cass City High School athlete to place in the Class C state track meet Saturday, earning seventh place in the 880-yard run with a time of 2:26.9.

TEN YEARS AGO

Free trips from Cass City IGA Foodliner seem to run in the Stoutenburg family. Six years ago, Ed Stoutenburg won a free trip to California, Disneyland and Boone Farms. This spring, the winner in the contest was his brother, Earney Stoutenburg, 11. He leaves later this month, all expenses paid.

Two Cass City men attended a day-long conference concerning rescue techniques sponsored by Mid Michigan Community College, Harrison, June 1. William McKinley, representing the Cass City Police Department, and Nelson Willy, representing the village, were among 200 persons to attend.

Yvonne L. Erla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Erla, Cass City, received a two-year associate degree in fashion merchandising from Northwood Institute in graduation exercises May 26.

The weatherman has not been kind to Thumb farmers this spring and indications are that conditions will not improve in the near future. While some areas of Tuscola County are being planted near normal times, the eastern part, including the Cass City region, finds itself about two weeks behind schedule.

25 YEARS AGO

The Women's Department of the Shabbona RLDS Church sponsored a father and son banquet Friday night. A short program was enjoyed by those present. James Groombridge gave a toast to the sons and Ronnie Gregg responded with a toast to the fathers.

Mrs. Fred Neitzel, Mrs. A.N. Bigelow, Mrs. Arthur Kettlewell, Mrs. D.A. Krug and Mrs. Alfred Fort attended the dinner and meeting at Fairgrove Friday evening, honoring the 50th anniversary of Fairgrove chapter, Order of the Eastern Star.

Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Perry and Mrs. Arthur Little attended the reunion of the class of 1923 at Caro High School Saturday evening. Donahue, Perry and Mrs. Little were members of the class.

Janet Russell was named president of the West Elkland 4-H Club at the first summer meeting of the club, held at the home of William Rexin Monday evening.

A group of youngsters helped Joyce Ann Agar celebrate her birthday Saturday with a party at the Willard Agar home.

The names of 1,258 candidates for bachelor degrees from Michigan State College at the end of the spring term were announced recently. Among the graduates were Delbert Henry, Kathryn Price, Carl Reagh and Shirley Surprenant, all of Cass City.

Leroy Kilbourn, treasurer of Novesta Township, has been appointed a deputy sheriff by Sheriff Jules Goslin.

Levin aide to be in upper Thumb

Hours and places will be the same both days.

Blood pressures at the low end of "high" blood pressure (90 to 104 mm Hg diastolic) are often called "mild."

Yet pressure in this range, if untreated, can still result in the complications associated with high blood pressure: heart disease, kidney disease, and stroke.

In fact the risk of many heart problems and early death for people with so-called mild high blood pressure is more than twice that for those with readings below 90 mm Hg.

Fortunately, however, recent studies show that treatment can make a big difference in reducing early death and illness for people in this group. It can also prevent pressures in this range from going to even higher levels where a patient's chances of developing serious complications are even greater.

One study, the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute's Hypertension Detection and Follow-up Program, recently reported specifically on the effects of treatment on stroke. "Mild" high blood pressure patients treated systematically in special HDPF centers had 31.8 percent fewer fatal and nonfatal strokes than others in the program who received routine care in their communities.

Other studies, such as the Australian National Blood Pressure Study and the U.S. Public Health Service Study of Mild Hypertension also show major benefits for treating levels characterized as "mild."

Treatment for pressure in this category often involves dietary changes such as losing weight and cutting down on sodium. Drugs may also be prescribed, particularly if patients have a family history of heart problems, high cholesterol levels, diabetes, or other factors that increase their risks of developing complications.

Until the recent studies, most of the medical community had not been treating "mild" high blood pressure because the benefits of treatment had not been clearly established.

In 1980, the Joint National Committee on Detection, Evaluation, and Treatment of High Blood Pressure revised earlier national recommendations to include treating pressures in this range.

The committee also suggested a new term for diastolic levels between 90 and 104 mm Hg, stratum 1, because they believed that the word "mild" was an inappropriate way to describe a serious condition.

The new recommendations mean that high blood pressure patients, as well as the health professionals who treat them, need to pay careful attention to blood pressure elevations at any level.

Sheriff's deputies reported their car was northbound on Colwood Road, north of Bay City-Forestville Road, when an unknown southbound vehicle crossed the centerline, sideswiped their car and continued on.

Rusty A. Hoag, 21, of 4137 Vulcan Street, was advised by Cass City police to seek treatment following a 2:40 p.m. accident last Thursday.

Police said he was westbound on Main Street on his motorcycle and had to turn right suddenly onto Brooker Street to avoid hitting a car northbound on Brooker that pulled out in front of him. The driver of the car, who wasn't identified, didn't stop.

Hoag managed to avoid that car, but his motorcycle hit a car, headed south on Brooker, that was stopped behind another car at the stop sign. Driver of the car that was hit was Deborah Kay Harbec, 33, of 2567 Cemetery Road.

John Brock, 24, of Caro, sought his own treatment following an accident at 9 p.m. last Wednesday.

He was one of two passengers in a car driven by Ken R. Sommerfield, 19, of Caro. Caro state police reported their vehicle was northbound on Colwood Road. Sommerfield said because of dips in the road, the car veered onto the right shoulder and struck a parked car. Owner of the car was Ronald Tinney.

Caro troopers reported William Eldridge, 50, of 4180 S. Phillips Road, Kingston, sought his own treatment after a 2 a.m. accident Sunday.

He was a passenger in a car driven by his wife, Betty, which was eastbound on E. Dayton Road, near Boy Scout Road. Troopers said she fell asleep and the car went straight ahead on a curve and then down an embankment.

Maurice D. Evans, 43, of 5581 Hurds Corner Road,

Gagetown, was ticketed by deputies on a charge of failure to stop within an assured clear distance ahead following a 7:28 a.m. accident Sunday.

Deputies said he was following a car driven by Barbara J. Gray, 21, of Fairgrove. Both vehicles were westbound on M-25, west of Quincasssee Road.

Ms. Gray slowed to turn right into a snack bar. Evans didn't realize she was slowing until it was too late, turned to the right but was unable to avoid a collision.

There was a difference of opinion concerning an accident at 8:40 p.m. Friday.

Deputies said the car driven by Lawrence R. Farnum, 34, of 1105 S. Kingston Road, Deford, was southbound on Kingston Road, south of Barrett Road, when it went off the west shoulder of the road into a deep ditch.

Farnum said the passenger in the right front seat grabbed hold of the steering wheel and in his trying to regain control, the car went off the road.

The passenger, Charles R.

Durr, 33, of Bad Axe, said Farnum lost control when an animal ran onto the road.

Peter L. Hurford of 4215 Maple Street told Cass City police Sunday morning that when his car was parked in the Fuelgas lot on M-53, south of M-81, a hit and run vehicle damaged the driver's door.

The mishap took place Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Police probe thefts

Opal Crumby reported to the sheriff's department May 29 that her riding lawn mower was stolen from a building on property she owns on English Road, Kingston.

The 5 horsepower Lawn Boy was valued at $300.

Cass City High School Assistant Principal Roland Pakonen reported to village police Friday morning that two digital stopwatches and a 200-foot tape measure were stolen from teacher and track coach Doug Grezeszak's room.

Total value of the items, taken from a table, was $80. They were taken since 1 p.m. the previous day.

Village police arrested John H. Krug, 65, of 6119 Schwegler Road on a charge of driving under influence of liquor after stopping his pickup on Schwegler near M-81 at 5:20 p.m. Saturday.

He was later released from the county jail after posting bond, with arraignment scheduled in district court June 20.

George Clara of 4797 Hospital Drive told Cass City police March 31 that five 4-foot tall trees had been damaged. The trees were on the north side of the Northwood Heights Apartments parking lot. It appeared a car went from the lot into the hedge trees and then backed out.

Reports of gypsies being in Tuscola county last week swindling persons with paint jobs that washed away in the rain included two in the Kingston area.

A woman on Rossman Road reported to the sheriff's department Friday that her grandmother had hired them to paint a barn and shed roof. The woman's grandson stopped them when they were half done. They demanded payment and settled for $100 cash.

A man on Froede Road reported later that day he had hired the gypsies to do some painting and was satisfied with the work they did.

Ellen M. Phillips of 5920 Bruce Street, Deford, reported to sheriff's deputies Saturday that some kindling wood from her wood pile had been stolen. It was worth $10.

Letters to the editor

Cumber story stirs memories

Dear Mr. Haire:

"Memory is more indelible than ink."

My dad, Stanley Soule, is at Provincial House. In Peoria, I read the Chronicle for hometown news. The current happenings and worries there are amazingly similar to those here in Peoria: Memorial Day parade, school problems, job concerns, rain —. This however is not what prompted me to write. It was the article "Nothing left in Cumber except softball."

My mother, Jessie Soule (deceased, 1980) was a teacher at Cumber School for six years. Pa took her by sleigh from Tyre to Cumber when the snow was bad.

She took me the first year of my school (1930) with her to Cumber.

The names of many of those ball players I still remember.

The spirit of that community is like yesterday. Probably the seed planted in that community took root so that I can feel a success as a person. The memories of the working together and kindness through cooperation were there.

Our school life was caring, inspiring and challenging. The community sense of feeling worthwhile and working to enjoy good in each and every fellowman was there.

Like Lincoln's thoughts in his Gettysburg Address "The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here."

So do my fond memories for the Cumber community radiate that change may be, but the seeds of memory grow faith and understanding that remain with us for a lifetime.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Eloise Soule Nielsen

90th year brings back memories

Dear friend John,

Very soon after you became owner and editor of the Chronicle you received a letter from me which was very critical of a policy you were introducing contrary to what Mr. Lenzner's had been. Through the years (how many have they been?) there have been other times when we've not seen eye to eye and yet you have graciously printed my letters.

This should have been written earlier but a week in the hospital with bronchial pneumonia takes some of the pep out of a 90 year old.

I want to thank you for advertising the open house for my birthday. (The picture? No that wasn't taken yesterday. That was a school picture and I retired 33 years ago.)

Scores and scores of people came from as far away as Indianapolis to the south and Petoskey to the north. The guest register listed 38 towns and cities.

There were over 30 of my former pupils. Especially pleased to have Florence Tuckey who was one of my pupils in 1911. The only one there older than I was Isaac Gingrich. I boarded with his folks the first two years that I taught. Board $10 per month. Wages $35. Sounds unbelievable. As I remember some of my high school teachers were paid $45.

It was a never to be forgotten time. Friends meeting friends they had not seen for years.

The 150 cards and letters received contained messages which brought tears of joy.

My heart goes out in sympathy for the old who have few or no relatives or friends and more so for those whose minds are gone.

The friends of my youth are gone but having served the Lord since early in life my mind is filled with precious memories and I'm rich in relatives and friends.

The promise in Ps. 91:16 is already fulfilled. "With long life will I satisfy him and shew him my salvation."

Monday evening, women of the church gathered there for a salad buffet supper at 6:30 for an organizational meeting. Guest speaker was Mrs. Dowdy.

7-year-old suffers gun shot wounds

A 7-year-old Caro area boy is in University Hospital in Ann Arbor, recovering from wounds suffered Sunday when he was accidentally hit by pellets from a shotgun fired by his mother.

The boy is Shawn Grannell, whom deputies said had puncture wounds in the neck area, chest, abdominal area and possibly his leg.

His father, John, was hit in the right leg with pellets from the same gun. He was treated and released from Caro Community Hospital.

According to the sheriff's department, the boy's mother, Jean, was shooting at rats under the chicken coop with a 16-gauge shotgun. She fired two shots, then realized her husband and son had been hit.

She and her husband told officers their son had been told to stay near the barn while she was shooting. When Grannell saw his son start to walk out into the barnyard, he went to get him and both were hit.

Reportedly, it is believed the pellets ricocheted off the ground.

The boy was first taken to the Caro hospital, transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw and reportedly flown to the hospital in Ann Arbor by helicopter.

The Grannell family lives on Gilford Road, Wells Township.

23 attend Missionary Fellowship

The monthly meeting of the Baptist Missionary Fellowship was held Monday evening at the church with 23 persons present.

Devotions were given by Mary Hanby, at which time she told of her work with the girls in the Baptist Bible College in California. Prayer time for missionaries was led by Rosella Kretschmer.

In the business meeting with Mrs. Art Fisher presiding, plans were announced for a special meeting July 2. Speaker will be Mrs. Jim Evans, currently at home in Indiana on furlough from Argentina, where she and her husband are missionaries.

Refreshments of ice cream sundaes were served.

Cass City's changes are for the better

As time changes, so do towns.

Sylvester and Virginia Osentoski saw a great deal of change in Cass City during their lifetimes here. However, they became part of change when they left and moved to Florida.

After many years in which they often "worked day and night like horses" on their farm outside of Cass City, they retired in 1975 to Florida. The Osentoskis settled in the small town of Hudson just north of Tampa.

Even though they live 1,500 miles away, once a year they make the trek north to take care of business and visit friends and relatives here.

In the eight years since they left, they have noticed many changes in Cass City.

According to Osentoski, the changes are for the better.

New construction, better care of the roads and new businesses are beneficial additions to the community.

The town is becoming "more modern." He also believes Michigan's sagging economy will shortly improve.

"Cass City has improved a lot and I think that's great," his wife added. "It used to be so 'farmerish' when we lived here but now the town is showing great improvement. It's got modern banks and stores. The style of the buildings is nicer and the store facades are much improved."

How does Cass City compare with Hudson, Fla.?

Osentoski said they both have a great deal in common and that made moving there easier. "The only difference is the weather there is nicer."

"People are just as nice there as they are here," Mrs. Osentoski noted. "Everyone is very pleasant. There is no difference as far as the people are concerned."

Both hope that is one thing that won't change.

RICK POBANZ (right) received the Paul Smarks Award from last year's winner, Scott Hobart. The award is based on sportsmanship, leadership and academic capabilities.

Kevin Downing named all-state scholastically

Cass City High School's 1983 valedictorian Kevin J. Downing has been selected to the class C academic all-state team by a panel of 11 high school principals from across Michigan.

To commemorate his achievements he, along with other first-team scholars, was pictured in the Detroit Free Press June 5 Sunday supplement magazine. "It was quite an honor," Downing noted. "I was told the night before graduation and it really surprised me."

He was chosen to the elite company over seniors from every class C school in the state based on his grade point average (a perfect 4.0), college entrance exam scores, extracurricular activities and community involvement.

Downing participated in many activities during his four years at Cass City. They included delegate to Rotary Leadership Camp, varsity golf, computer club, National Honor Society, and computer class teacher for the community education program.

He had been granted many academic honors and was recipient of a $1000 National Merit Scholarship sponsored by Xerox Corp. He was one of 5,300 winners out of more than 1 million high school juniors who took the first qualifying test last year.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Downing, 6116 Walsh, Gagetown, plans to continue his education at Cornell University next fall where he will major in physics. He chose the Ivy League school in Ithaca, N.Y., over six other schools that had accepted him including Michigan State University, University of Michigan and University of Notre Dame. Both Michigan schools had offered him prestigious scholarships.

"Cornell is the better school for what I want to go into," he said. According to Downing, it is a "well-rounded" institution.

He chose to study physics simply because he enjoys it. "It's a middle-of-the-road subject," he added. "It's not strictly engineering and not strictly sciences."

By taking physics courses, Downing believes he will be leaving many options open for when he finally decides upon a career to pursue.

Hawks cop district title

The Cass City High School softball team captured the state district trophy Monday on its home diamond by defeating Bad Axe, 9-4, and Unionville-Sebewaing, 12-8.

Jill Hutchinson picked up the first game win for coach Jim Fox's Red Hawks by striking out eight and giving up four hits and five walks.

Losing Bad Axe hurler Sharon Voelker yielded five hits and three walks while collecting one strikeout.

Jill Root led all hitters with a double and a triple.

USA edged Mayville 4-3 to advance to the championship game, however, its luck soon ran out.

Hutchinson again took the mound for the Red

Hawks and again came through with a winning effort. She struck out eight Patriot batters, walked only three and gave up six hits.

The pitching combination of Kelly Adam and Kelly Cramer was not enough to stifle the Cass City hitting attack. They gave up nine hits and 10 walks while recording six strikeouts.

Root continued her torrid hitting by going three for three with four RBI's, a double and two singles. Lisa Benitez hit two singles, which drove in two runs.

The Red Hawks hope to continue their winning ways when they travel to Mayville Saturday for regional play where they will challenge the winner of the Goodrich district.

Sunny California beckons

Cass City's track champion

During her four years at Cass City High School, Carrie Lautner has been somewhat of a cornerstone in girls' athletics.

She carried the demanding burdens of five sports on her slight shoulders, earning numerous awards, honors and medals, particularly in track.

Partially through her efforts, Cass City has become a respected name in girls' track throughout the state.

A listing of her track accolades reads like that of a whole team: Outstanding Cass City athlete of the year, team most valuable player, silver and bronze medalist and girl athlete of the Thumb B League meet in 1983; state champion in the 1600 and 3,200-meters, the latter in record time, and girl athlete of the Meet of Champions in Bad Axe in 1982; state champion and record holder in the 1600-meters in 1981. The collection seems endless.

It's easy to understand why track coach Doug Grezeszak is sorry to see Lautner go. This fall she will enroll at the University of California, Los Angeles, and will try to compete on the Bruin cross-country and track teams.

"You can't replace her," he said. "She is an athlete with the kind of determination and natural ability it takes to be a champ. Athletes like Carrie come along once every 50 years."

Lautner has become Cass City's premier girl distance runner by steadily improving every year since 1980 when she met with immediate success. "I just tried out and I won the state mile," she said of her first year in track.

SHE WAS WELL ON her way to topping her dazzling season of a year ago until she competed at the state meet Saturday. Lautner had the misfortune of rubbing shoulders with someone who was to have a better day.

Donna Donakowski of Dearborn Heights Riverside shattered both of the Red Hawk distance star's state records. Lautner earned a third place in the 1600-meters and finished second in the 3200-meters after taking a tumble which dropped her all the way into last place. She gallantly fought back to pass everyone except Donakowski. "Maybe falling down made me try harder," she suggested.

"Her two bloody knees and hands (after falling) were characteristic of her four years here," said Grezeszak. "When she fell down she always got up and came through in a tough situation."

A SILVER AND bronze medal in state competition is an exceptional achievement for most thinclad performers, but people look upon Lautner differently.

"I've been under pressure to do good since my sophomore year," she said. "It's kind of nice to be going to UCLA without a scholarship since no one will be expecting me to do well."

Class C track in Michigan and its UCLA counterpart at the major college level are literally and figuratively miles apart but Grezeszak thinks Cass City's premier distance runner can bridge the gap.

"If she wants to, there is no doubt she can compete at UCLA," he said. "It will take at least a year of adjusting but she could do well."

A MODEST LAUTNER is not as optimistic. She points out that the top runners complete the two-mile distance somewhere in the nine minute range and the mile in approximately 4½ minutes. Her best is 11:19.6 and 5:08.5 respectively.

"Once in college the training is so intense, if your times can come down, they will there," she noted.

Lautner stated she has a spot on the team but is not certain whether she may compete her first year because only runners with the five best times enter meets and she has not received a scholarship.

Other schools had contacted her concerning her running talents and Central Michigan University offered her a scholarship. However, she turned them all down for sunny California where her two brothers and sister live. Besides, "UCLA is a good school and they are ranked right up there in track," she added.

To earn a scholarship, she must match certain pre-established times, but, for now she is going to take everything in stride.

"First is cross country," Lautner noted. "I'll wait and see how that goes. If everything's ok then I'll give track a try."

IF CARRIE ENJOYS the success like she had in high school, she will definitely keep running. If she doesn't, all will not end. Track has provided enough pleasant memories such as last year's double state crowns in the 1600 and 3200 meters — the highlight of her career.

"I'm going to miss the people quite a bit," she said about her leaving in August. "You get to meet a lot of neat people. I've become good friends with some of the people I've competed against."

Next fall could be the start of a new and busy athletic career for Carrie Lautner. Cross country and track equal a year-round commitment, but if anyone can carry the load she can. She has proven it.

CARRIE LAUTNER — Cass City's top girl distance runner holds some of the medals she has collected during her three-year varsity track career.

Thinclads do well at State

Four Cass City thinclads turned in efforts at the state meet in Bangor Saturday that earned them the honor of being recognized as some of the top class C tracksters in Michigan.

Coach Doug Grezeszak had visions of his girls' track team capturing the state title but soon abandoned them when Red Hawk entrants in seven events were eliminated in the qualifying heats.

"Our performances just weren't good enough," he offered, "but we did the best we could."

That "best" resulted in 19 points which tied Cass City with host school Bangor for a seventh place finish. Carson City-Crystal won the meet with 39 points.

Leading the Hawks was senior standout Carrie Lautner who collected 14 points in the 1600 and 3200-meter runs. Surprisingly, she was not in her usual first place in the standings at the races' end. She finished third in the 1600-meters (5:13.2) and second in the 3200-meters (11:23.3).

Donna Donakowski of Dearborn Heights Riverside established new records in both events that were previously held by Lautner and also won the 800-meter run.

Jamie LaRoche leaped 16-3 in the long jump which was good enough for seventh place.

Michelle Fahrner added three points for Cass City with her time of 2:23.0 in the competitive 800-meter run drawing praise from Grezeszak.

"I was really pleased with Michelle in the 800," he said. "She ran the quarter in 62 seconds and then held on with a super effort to finish."

Fahrner's time after one lap was only one second slower than the eighth place finisher in the 400-meters.

The Red Hawk coach cited the girls' 100-meter dash as the turning point which eliminated his team from the race for the state crown.

"Tracy Green was in a photo-finish in the semis," he explained. "An inch and a half separated first and fifth place. She had to wait on the track for 15 minutes before the results were finally announced and was really discouraged which brought the team down."

Greg Bliss' performance at the meet was another Cass City bright spot. His effort in the boys' 1600-meter run showed signs of the winning form he has displayed in past cross country and track seasons. He completed the race in 9:31.8, good for second place behind Unionville-Sebewaing's Kirk Scharich's record-breaking run of 9:23.3.

"Greg did really well," conceded Grezeszak. "He was eight seconds back but did pretty good. He managed to close the gap on Scharich to 10 or 15 yards with two laps to go after being boxed in at the beginning."

O-G, Kingston earn points at State

Owen-Gage and Kingston High Schools each had a member of their track teams score points at the state class D meet in Traverse City Saturday.

Frank Abfalter earned five points for the Bulldogs with his fourth place finish in the 1600-meter run. The junior distance runner's time was 4:29.7.

"I thought Frank would place but I thought it would be lower," coach Dick Glidden said. "He was quite pleased and this is going to help him a lot."

Glidden expected his 400- and 800-meter relay teams to make the trip north, however, Stan Andrakowicz, a member of both, unexpectedly left for California. According to Glidden, adding a substitute runner was not feasible, so the school couldn't send the teams to the state competition.

Debbie Cummings made her mark in the high jump final standings for the Cardinals. Her effort of 5 feet even was good for eighth place.

Girls post wins at Caro meet

The Cass City High School track squads had another impressive showing at the Thumb Track and Field Meet of Champions in Caro, May 31.

Carrie Lautner competed in the 1600 and 3200-meter runs and came away with two first place finishes of 5:18.4 and 11:25.9 (a new meet record) respectively.

Michelle Fahrner earned the other Red Hawk gold medal with her 2:24.46 victory in the 800 meters.

Silver medal winners were: Greg Bliss, 1600 meters, and Tracy Green, 100 and 200-meter events.

Bliss also took home a bronze medal in the 3200-meter run as did Jamie LaRoche for her effort in the long jump.

Other area medal winners of the nearly 400 athletes who competed at the invitational were Owen-Gage's Dan Glidden, third in the 100-meter dash, Kingston's Debbie Cummings, second in the high jump, and Chris Landeryou of Uby, second in the 300-low hurdles and third in the 100-lows.

VENTRILOQUISM

"These dummies are smart!" "Except the big one," quips one of the smaller ones. At any rate they all talk. Gary Collins operates and speaks for all three even though the wooden ones, Herkimer Hickory and Sydd Sycamore don't want to admit it.

Gary's first exposure to the fascinating world of ventriloquism was when he heard Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy on radio. His older and wiser brother informed him that Bergen did the talking and Charlie was a wooden doll. This sparked the desire in Gary to become a ventriloquist.

Since that day Gary Collins has not only become a ventriloquist but has won the Paul Stadelmeier trophy for Excellence in Ventriloquism.

During the five night series of meetings at First Baptist Church, 6420 Houghton Street, Cass City, Michigan on June 12 at 8:30 p.m. and June 13-16 at 7:00 p.m. you will see Herkimer Hickory and Sydd Sycamore brought to life.

"This program" Pastor Wood says, "has magic and ventriloquism and appeals to the whole family. Grandparents as well as children enjoy Collins with the Great Gospel Message."

Board candidates answer school

Five questions

5 candidates give their answers

Cass City School District residents will have a choice of five candidates for two vacancies on the school board when they go to the polls Monday.

They will be also voting on renewal of 16.9 mills for school operations for two years, which is the district's entire operating levy except for the 9 allocated mills. The millage proposal is explained on page 1.

Voting at the high school will be from 7 a.m.-8 p.m. The two persons elected will serve four-year terms. The candidates are Dr. Edward Scollon, DVM, the lone incumbent, Louis Horner and Louie Salas, all of Cass City; Louis Wrona, Deford, and Fred Matthews, Decker.

Geraldine Prieskorn, who has served on the board 20 years, decided not to seek reelection.

To help voters make their choices, the Chronicle asked each of them to submit written responses to five questions.

Below are the questions. The candidates' responses appear under their names and photographs.

1) Personal background: Name, age, address, family, occupation, experience (organizations of which you are a member, boards served on, etc.).

2) The teachers are negotiating a new contract. If elected, will you support a raise in salary or do you feel that no raises should be granted. Would you accept a strike over your position?

3) Supt. Donald Crouse has not had a pay raise in two years. He now ranks fifth in salary among six area schools that belong to the Thumb B Association. Would you support a raise in salary?

4) Administrators' salaries were frozen for 1982-83 while the teachers received a pay raise of 10 percent plus increments for those with less than 11 years' service. The overall cost increase to the district was about 13 percent.

Administrators have said in a public meeting that they are waiting to see whether they should form a union until after the salary question is decided.

Would you support a pay increase for them or freeze wages with the knowledge that the action will probably result in unionization?

5) What do you feel your major contribution to the school district will be if you are elected? In what areas do you feel your training and experience will benefit the taxpayers in the district?

Louis R. Wrona

1) Age 38 years, of 1570 Froede Road, Deford (Wells Township). I have been married for 18 years to my wife Shirley and have two children, Robert, 16, and Julie, 12.

I previously lived in Sterling Heights and Hamtramck. After high school in Hamtramck, I attended an electronic engineering school. I have worked for 19 years as a meat technician for major food chains, such as Farmer Jack's, Great Scott, and Wrigley's, and currently for Hamady Brothers Foods.

I have worked with the Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts in many capacities (assistant scoutmaster, Webelos leader, Cub Scout leader and treasurer for both Cub and Boy Scouts.) I have coached senior league baseball and was equipment manager for the Fraser School System.

2) Qualified teachers should be paid according to their job skills. If there is no money for such increases, all school employees should understand and work together for all concerned.

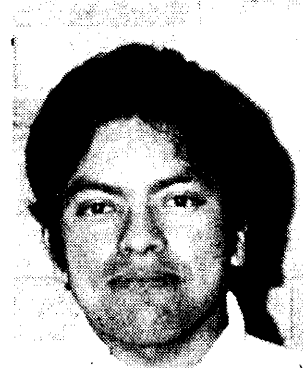

3) Administrators should be paid according to their performance.

4) Without proper administration we have no school system. If the taxpayers of our community feel we have proper administrators, then they (taxpayers) should approve or deny such raises. As far as unionization of administrators, every person should have the right to decide whether he or she should organize.

5) My contribution to the board will be my experience in running a major business, the dollars and cents of controlling purchases and the wise decisions in earmarking tax monies for purposes best suited for a better education for our children.

able. 5) I feel my major contribution to the school district would be the 12 years on the board I have attained. I feel my board experience would benefit the taxpayers by helping to avoid costly errors in the operation of the school.

Louie J. Salas

1) Age 29, of 4266 Oak Street. He and his wife have two children, not yet in school. Salas is a lab technician at Walbro Corp. and a youth coordinator and administrative board member at the Salem United Methodist Church.

2) The Cass City schools must operate within our own financial means. If elected, I will look at both sides objectively and I would assist in any way possible to resolve differences so that a strike does not occur.

3) Mr. Crouse's performance evaluation should be what warrants a salary increase or decrease. What the Cass City school district pays our superintendent is what matters, not how he ranks among others.

4) A pay increase for administrators should also be based on job performance. The possibility of them unionizing must not hang over the board's head when determining whether to increase or freeze salaries.

5) If elected, I will strive to continue to improve the academic program in our system and to help carefully control the funds the taxpayers have allocated to the school. I also feel that taxpayers without children in school such as retirees must be better represented.

My experience in working with the youth of my church should be of benefit to some degree during my term on the board.

Frederick Matthews

1) Age 50, of 4871 Hadley Road, Evergreen Township. A dairy farmer and a 1951 graduate of Cass City High School, Matthews and his wife have three children, all of whom attended Evergreen Elementary School this past year.

A member of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, he has been elected a church officer the past nine years. Matthews is a member of the citizens advisory committee to the Cass City School Board and the Evergreen School advisory group.

2) I believe both bargaining sides have an obligation when nearing agreement to bring before the public the cost of said agreement. As in the case of the past contract, little did the public know that millage would need to be raised. Little did the public understand that if millage wasn't raised, programs would have to be cut, positions eliminated and things we took for granted eliminated like building maintenance, school nurse, elementary librarian and busing.

As long as the economy remains as flat as it is, I would encourage the teachers to extend the present contract. I would go on record in favor of enhancing classroom conditions and discipline.

Certainly, when economic conditions improve, teachers need to be rewarded for their considerations.

3) I think Supt. Crouse has in most part done a commendable job with maybe a few exceptions. Perhaps on occasion Don has had to carry the ball rather than punt. I know that at times the voters haven't given him the most knowledgeable board members to work with. Naturally the man on top always takes the fire.

However, there is an upper plateau that a small community can afford. I believe Supt. Crouse should be living quite comfortably on his present salary.

4) The disadvantage of having employee contracts coming due at different times is the employees tend to gather in a circle and argue, you got yours last time, now it's our turn.

The comments I am hearing from the public are: "Let's see a little proof of performance from some."

Any arrogant threats of unionism by administrators is going to kill the chance of the millage passing.

5) I have been a long time advocate of changing the method of electing board members. The spoils system of the present needs to be replaced by a system of electing on the basis of state equalized valuation and the one man-one vote concept.

We can no longer ignore the fact that over 80 percent of our tax base is outside the Cass City village limits. We can no longer ignore that about 70 percent of the students come from the country. In our austere cuts of last fall, busing was among those to go. I believe board members should come from districts and be accountable to communicate with the people of that district.

If elected, I plan to be knowledgeable with the people in my area. I think it would be unfortunate to see the demise of the Evergreen School just because no one cared. Until recently, the system's attitude has been, "Send us your money and your students, but don't ask for much in return." This I want to correct.

Editor's note: Portions of Matthews' responses were deleted due to their length.

Library plans reading club

Rawson Memorial Library invites all children ages 5 and up to join the summer reading club.

The club theme will be "Read and the World is Yours." Participants must read 10 books by July 30 to be eligible to receive a certificate and book bag. A picnic will be scheduled during the first week of August for those who complete the required 10 books.

The library will also be hosting a storybook film time every Thursday in July. The movies will include, "Summer of the Swans" July 7.

For further details, call 872-2856 or stop at the library, 6495 Pine Street.

Edward C. Scollon

1) Age 47, of 4849 N. Seeger Street. He has served 12 years on the Cass City School Board and is currently its president.

Scollon is past president of the Cass City Lions Club and a past member of his church council.

A veterinarian, he and his wife have five children. Three of them, ages 12, 13 and 17 attend the Cass City schools. The other two, ages 20 and 21, attend Michigan State University.

2) I would support a teacher contract that is comparable with the school districts which border our district.

3) Supt. Donald Crouse's contract is a negotiable item. As a member of the school board, I feel I cannot comment further on his contract without jeopardizing the board's position.

4) The administrators' salaries are also negoti-

questions

Louis E. Horner

Age 40, of 4410 S. Seeger Street, Horner is director of operations, Carburetor Group, Walbro Corp.

He is chairman of the citizens advisory committee to the Cass City School Board and chairman of the board of the Novesta Church of Christ.

Horner has a B.S. degree in engineering from the University of Michigan, an M.S. degree in industrial administration from Purdue University and has 18 years of management experience.

He and his wife have five children, three in the Cass City schools and two in college.

2, 3 and 4) It is not good management practice to indicating negotiating positions until formal negotiations begin. Consequently I will not comment specifically on questions 2, 3 and 4.

However, I feel that the fact that the teachers have continued to receive raises during the past two years while the administrators and many people in the community have had wages frozen must be taken into account in determining salary adjustments for all school personnel. Whether this results in salary increases can only be determined when the financial and competitive effects are evaluated in detail.

It is obvious our school system cannot afford salary increases without further cuts in school programs since we are only seeking renewal millage for the next two years. I feel any further program cuts will be very damaging to our present minimally acceptable curriculum.

5) My financial analysis and management knowledge and experience will be very beneficial in analyzing expenditures and helping to get maximum use of available funds.

My participation on the Citizens Advisory Committee and other civic and church activities give me a good understanding of the citizens' desires for our school system. I therefore feel I have a good basis for representing the community on the school board.

Candidates mostly agree

There were various responses concerning weaknesses.

Scollon said more computers are needed -- "If we had the funds, we could get them." -- and more emphasis on English and math.

Horner felt the biggest weakness of the district is its financial condition. He also supported a broader and a little more demanding curriculum. He said later in the discussion, "I think we need more programs."

Salas suggested that spending, the band and the disciplinary point system all need evaluation.

Matthews, a dairy farmer, said that although the vocational agriculture program has improved recently, it needs more help.

Wrona said the biggest weakness in the school system was lack of participation and used the poor turnout for the candidates' night as an example. "I think that's a disappointment."

THE CANDIDATES' goals and priorities was the next question.

Horner responded by citing the results of the advisory committee's survey, which showed that citizens are most concerned about lack of financial support for the district, followed by lack of discipline, interest and community involvement.

He later suggested that new ways have to be found to support schools, some of which would require solutions by the legislature. Salas said one of his goals would be to see that retirees and young couples who don't have children be better represented in school affairs.

Matthews suggested that with 80 percent of the district's tax base outside the Cass City village limits, there needs to be more representation from outside the village on the school board, which might result in more community involvement. (Four of seven board members live in Cass City, and two of the other three live within a few miles of town.)

Wrona said his first priority if elected will be "...to spend our tax money for the best advantage of our children."

Scollon's main goal is to improve the quality of education "without costing taxpayers money." He offered the school board's current effort to correlate all curriculum from kindergarten through 12th grade as an example.

SOME TIME WAS DEVOTED to questions from the audience. One person asked if busing will again be suspended if the millage loses.

Matthews replied it would be only natural for the board to try again, but commented that some persons have suggested that the schools should be operated until the money runs out, which would maybe open the public's eyes to the need. Earlier, he had said, "I hope the people will see we need a renewal the first time."

Horner pointed out that with 16.9 of the school district's 25 mills being voted on, "If we don't have that millage, there will be no school."

Scollon said if the millage loses, "We'll just have to cross that bridge when we come to it."

Logger injured

His brother, Delbert (Linda's husband) was there and used Bill's chainsaw to cut away the section of the tree on top of him. The handle on the chainsaw broke during the incident, so Delbert had to use it without the handle.

He then drove in the log skidder to get his brother's son-in-law, Dan Gubbard. They then drove back in a pickup truck to get Woodward and took him to the hospital.

Mrs. Woodward said Tuesday evening it isn't known yet how long it will be until her brother-in-law gets out of the hospital. She guessed he will have to recuperate at least two months, though not all that time will be spent in the hospital.

R. Wright promoted

Marine Warrant Officer Randall R. Wright, son of Harry V. and Isabel Wright of 7351 Greenland Road, Cass City, has been appointed to his present rank.

He is serving with the 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing, Marine Corps Helicopter Air Station New River, Jacksonville, N.C., and will be attending the Marine Corps Basic School at Quantico, Va.

16.9-mill renewal on Cass City ballot was eliminated. The ban on school district funds for field trips was continued, for total estimated savings of $103,500.

Thus in three years, 17 1/2 teaching positions were eliminated.

STATE AID

Regarding 1983-84 state aid, Crouse said, "It's in a state of flux. No one knows yet."

Gov. James Blanchard has recommended an increase.

The Michigan Association of School Administrators is suggesting to superintendents that they plan on no more than a 6 percent increase in combined state aid and local taxes per pupil, plus a 5 percent hike in transportation aid.

The number of students attending the Cass City schools won't be known until fall, but Crouse sees no reason to expect that the recent trend of losing 30-40 pupils each year for the last few years will be reduced.

If the legislature were to adopt Gov. Blanchard's state aid formula without change, the superintendent figures the district will lose $1,856 in combined state aid and local revenue for each student it loses.

Thus although state aid per-pupil basis may increase, it may be offset by fewer students, so the district won't gain anything.

LOCAL TAXPAYERS

The aforementioned fact sheet points out that the state's share of funding the Cass City schools has been dropping steadily, which means local taxpayers have had to pick up a bigger share of the burden.

In 1976-77, combined state and federal aid (mostly state aid) totaled 57 percent of the school revenue, with the rest coming from local property taxes.

By 1981-82, the state and federal share had dropped to 33 percent, so local taxpayers had to pay 67 percent.

In 1981-82, Cass City spent an average of $1,751 per pupil from all sources. Only 25 of the 529 school districts in Michigan spent less, according to state Department of Education figures. Of the 10 districts it shares borders with only three spend less per pupil.

Cass City used to rank lower on the state list. One reason it has climbed, Crouse said, is that some school districts have had to drop some programs because of millage defeats, so have less money to spend per pupil than they once did.

The superintendent is paid $42,287 annually, which he was also paid in 1981-82.

Compared to other area districts of similar size, Bad Axe, Caro, Laker, and Vassar pay more; Marlette pays less.

Other administrators' pay was also frozen by the board this year at the 1981-82 level.

Benjamin Franklin was the first head of the U.S. Post Office.

LAROCHE, husband and wife, as Mortgagee, and MUTUAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION, a Michigan Corporation, as Mortgagee, and recorded on March 27, 1981, in the office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Tuscola, Michigan, in Liber 512, pages 1110-1111, on which Mortgage there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice, Forty-Three Thousand Four Hundred Fifty and 38/100 ($43,450.38) Dollars principal, and Six Thousand Eight Hundred Forty-Six and 38/100 ($6,846.38) Dollars interest, no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt, or any part of the debt, secured by said Mortgage, and the power of sale contained in said Mortgage having become operative by reason of such default.

Some receive tax rebates

Three of four area school districts -- Cass City, Twendale-Gagetown and Kingston -- have millage proposals on the ballot Monday.

All are asking for renewals. Kingston also has a separate additional one mill on the ballot for building repairs.

One mill equals $1 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation. For a home with a valuation of $30,000 ($60,000 market value), for instance, Cass City's 16.9 mill renewal means $507 annually in taxes.

However, the state offers various property tax breaks based on income and the amount of property tax paid.

For senior citizens (65 and older or one spouse 65 or older), if they have a household income of $3,000 or less, all their property taxes are refunded by the state.

There is a sliding scale between $3,000 and $6,000. Those with household incomes more than $6,000 receive a refund or credit for all of property taxes which are in excess of 3.5 percent of their household income.

The system is similar for non-senior citizens except that the maximum refund or credit is only 60 percent of the property taxes that exceed 3.5 percent of their household income.

Renters and mobile home owners may also qualify.

Farmers whose property is enrolled in the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) program have all their property taxes rebated which are in excess of 7 percent of their household income.

Planning starts for job program

Planning for the new federally funded Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) got underway in earnest at a May 31 meeting in Cass City.

Attending were two or three county commissioners from each of the four counties that will be jointly administering the program -- Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac and Lapeer.

St. Clair was originally supposed to be part of the service delivery area, but the state ultimately merged it with Macomb County.

Those attending the meeting took two main actions, according to Frank Lenard, executive director of the Thumb Area Consortium, which runs the federally funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program, which ends Sept. 30. It will be replaced by the JTPA, which starts the next day.

The first decision was that the new program will be set up by an executive committee to consist of two commissioners from each county, plus one alternate. Each county will be equally represented.

The committee will draft a consortium agreement outlining operating of the program, which will have to be approved by each county's board of commissioners.

The other decision concerned composition of the Private Industry Council (PIC), which will oversee operation of the JTPA program along with an administrative board composed of county commissioners.

The PIC will have 30 members, it was decided, with representation approximately proportional to the population of each county.

Federal regulations say more than half the members must be from business and industry, so there will be five each in that category from Lapeer and Tuscola and three each from Huron and Sanilac, for a total of 16. Local Chambers of Commerce will be asked to make recommendations.

The regulations also say what other segments must be represented.

The allocations are as follows: Education, one representative from each county; Michigan Employment Security Commission, one from Tuscola; labor, one each from Huron and Lapeer; community based organization, one from Tuscola (from the Human Development Commission); rehabilitation program, one from Lapeer; economic development corporation, one each from Lapeer and Sanilac, and Department of Social Services, one each from Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola.

Lapeer County will have a total of 10 representatives on the PIC; Tuscola, eight, and Huron and Sanilac, six each.

Nominations from each county for PIC members will have to be approved by the county commissioners. Huron has set a deadline of June 10 to receive nominations; Tuscola, June 13; Lapeer, June 15, and Sanilac, June 21.

The nominations are all supposed to be approved by the time the executive committee meets June 24.

The PIC will then help the executive committee decide whether an existing agency or a new one will run the JTPA program in the four counties.

New library books

ASCENT INTO HELL by Andrew Greeley (fiction). Hugh Donlon, son of a prominent Chicago judge, enters the seminary despite the amorous yearnings of his high school sweetheart, Maria Manfredy. As a local parish priest, Father Hugh displays qualities of sensitivity and compassion. Unfortunately, he also shows a marked proclivity toward good old-fashioned lust, a trait that leads to an affair with a nun. Marriage follows, and Hugh pursues a series of secular activities, is unjustly imprisoned, and returns finally to the priesthood.

THE ROAD TO NOWHERE by Elisabeth Ogilvie (fiction). Set in Maine, the novel's protagonists are two girls who were brought up as sisters on a remote island. They have a wicked stepmother and a wispy father, wholly dominated by his wife. As young adults, the girls escape from the island to lead separate lives, but they experience violence and mayhem when they try to establish their parentage, and attempt to claim a substantial inheritance to which one of them is entitled.

THE MOGHUL by Thomas Hoover (fiction). Hawksworth, an English adventurer, leads the East India Company on an expedition into Portuguese India. Laden with gifts for the Moghul from King James, Hawksworth arrives in Surat. There he must deal with slippery officials, as well as face his feelings for the beautiful wife of the leader of Surat. Meanwhile, the Moghul is becoming more and more degenerate with the use of drugs and the right to the throne is being severely disputed.

OUT OF THE MUD -- The 25-by-100-foot play area at Evergreen Elementary School will enable youngsters to play outside, even when the ground is muddy. The students so far have raised $1,400 for the project. (Another photo, page 1.)

Students, parents help at Evergreen

Evergreen Elementary School students, thanks to their efforts and those of their parents, now will always have a place to play outdoors and it won't be in the mud.

The problem has been that because of heavy clay soil, many days, after it had rained, children haven't been able to have recess outside because the ground was muddy. (The school has a gym, so they could play indoors.)

The solution was a 25-by-100 foot cement slab, which was poured Saturday morning.

The students raised $1,400 for the project by selling candy and Christmas ornaments. That won't cover the entire cost, but they hope to raise the rest of the money at a yard, craft and bake sale July 4 at the Terry Nichols home on M-53, a quarter-mile north of Deckerville Road.

Some money for the project also came from out-right donations. Some sand was also donated.

Those weren't the only donations. Fourteen men of the area donated their time and labor to prepare the site and then aid in the pouring and leveling of the cement.

Aiding in the leveling with his bulldozer was Bernie Pine. George Sangster hauled in much of the sand and gravel.

Men working Thursday evening, when the stakes and mesh were put in after the sand was raked, and-or Saturday morning, were Larry Osentoski, who directed the work since he was experienced, Fred Matthews, Dorland Kuntz (Evergreen principal), Jack Burns, David Dorland, Tom Dorland, Les Severance, Otis Dorland, John Broecker, James Nichols, Terry Nichols, David Marshall, Stuart Sanders, Art Wright, Norm Gable and Jerry Heronemus.

The slab will be used for such activities as basketball, volleyball and hopscotch.

The school in Shabbona has a recently formed parents' advisory council, which is planning future projects and ways to improve the education of their children.

Hawley charged

The Tuscola County prosecutor's office, at the request of Cass City police, issued a warrant Monday charging Marty Hawley with disturbance of a lawful meeting.

Hawley was a Cass City High School senior who was expelled by the school board at its May 9 meeting for disciplinary infractions, which made him ineligible to graduate. He is charged with interrupting the May 26 commencement ceremonies.

Police Chief Gene Wilson said Hawley will appear June 20 for arraignment in district court. If found guilty, the misdemeanor carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and-or a $100 fine.

Gagetown council

Other than a request by a woman to ban consumption of alcoholic beverages in the village park, action was routine at the Gagetown Village Council meeting Monday evening, according to Clerk Elery Sontag.

The council has discussed an alcohol ban before, he said. It took no action Monday.

Softball team finishes second

Croft-Clara finished second in an eight-team double elimination fast pitch softball tournament in Reese last week end.

The Cass City team defeated Tri-County Sports of Reese, 6-0, in the opening game Saturday afternoon. Jerry Toner had three hits. Ken Martin threw the shut-out, allowing only one hit and striking out 15.

Saturday night, Peppermint Lounge of Flint put Croft-Clara in the loser's bracket with a 1-0 defeat. Jerry Toner and Scott Hartel each had two hits. Craig Helwig took the loss.

Sunday, five games stood between Croft-Clara and the championship trophy. Munger Merchants went down, 7-0, in five innings against Martin's two-hit pitching. He struck out 10 batters and also led the way at the plate with two hits.

Frankenmuth Black Label took a 1-0 lead in the second inning of the second game Sunday, only to have Croft-Clara come back in the bottom of the sixth inning to score two runs on three hits. Craig Helwig got the win.

Martin Chevrolet of Saginaw was the third victim of the day, going down 1-0 when Croft-Clara scored in the first inning on a single by Doug Elbers, a sacrifice by Jerry Toner and a single by Mike Rea. Martin threw a no-hitter, striking out nine batters.

The Cass Cityans faced Peppermint Lounge again, needing to take two games from them for the championship. Peppermint scored two unearned runs in the second inning of the first game. Croft-Clara could not get any key hits with men on base and went down 2-0. Craig Helwig took the loss.

Martin was named the most valuable player of the tournament for a fine pitching performance and a .412 batting average. In league play last Wednesday, Croft-Clara defeated Heck's Bar of Saginaw, 4-1. Martin got the win. Mike Rea doubled in two runs with bases loaded and Jerry Toner singled in a run with bases loaded in the bottom of the sixth to break a 1-1 tie.

Croft-Clara will take its 17-5 record to Saginaw this week end to play in a round robin tournament at Vets Park.

COREY HARMON, 15, of Leslie Road, Decker, caught this 30-inch 6-pound pike last Thursday evening in a branch of the Cass River using a spinner with a minnow trailer.
