

All area millages pass

Horner, Scollon win school board seats

In contrast to last year, when it took three tries before Cass City School District voters approved a millage by only 77 votes, the levy on Monday's ballot was approved overwhelmingly.

The 16.9 mill renewal for operations for two years was approved, 788-423, for a victory margin of 65 percent. That was the entire extra voted millage.

Cass City was one of three area districts with millage proposals on the ballot Monday and all were approved.

In addition to the millage, five candidates were running for two four-year terms on the Cass City School Board. Elected were Dr. Edward Scollon, DVM, the lone incumbent, with 569 votes and Louis Horner with 538.

The losers were Louie Salas, 517, Fred Matthews, 471, and Louis Wrona, 200.

Asked if he was surprised by the big victory margin for the millage, Scollon, the board president, responded, "Yes I was, really. That's the type of ratio you like to maintain."

During the turmoil last summer and fall over the millage and suspension of busing, a lot of criticism was directed at the school board. Scollon felt the millage approval represented an endorsement for the board. "I'd say so, yes," he commented.

"I'd like to thank the voters for the support given to the school and to me personally," he concluded, "and I'll assure the voters the board will make every attempt to use their tax money wisely."

A total of 1,211 persons voted, which is 24.8 percent of the 4,883 registered voters.

Any doubts the school board had about asking vot-

Renewal of 6.5 mills for operation for a decade was approved, 238-130, a margin of 64.6 percent in favor.

Incumbent Patrick Goslin, who was unopposed for reelection, received 322 votes.

A total of 371 votes were cast, a turnout of about 26 percent of the approximately 1,400 registered voters.

Four candidates competed for two four-year terms on the school board. Elected were newcomer Terry Haupt with 326 votes and incumbent Arthur Jahn with 276. Jahn has served four years.

Out of the money were Gayleen Lindquist with 255 votes and Carolyn Peruski with 178.

The district did not have a millage proposal.

AT LAST! -- The hot, dry weather which finally arrived last week was welcome news for farmers such as Lee Deering of Crawford Road, who was planting dry beans Saturday at the corner of Deckerville and Cemetery Roads. He noted that a year ago, bean plants were already above the ground.

Student insurance mullied

Ban Hawley from school for minimum of 2 years

Marty Hawley, the expelled student who disrupted graduation proceedings for the class of 1983, has been expelled from Cass City High School in the most stringent action on record against a student at the school.

For at least two years, and possibly much more, Hawley has been:

- Permanently excluded from any educational program at the school.
- Will not be able to earn a diploma from Cass City Schools. Correspondence courses or credits earned at other schools will not be accepted towards a diploma.
- Will not be allowed in any school building or on school property and if he does, he will be trespassing.

The action was taken at the regular meeting of the Cass City School Board Monday evening at the high school. The board did leave open an avenue for Hawley to return.

After two years, he can request reinstatement and the board will consider his record at that time.

The review stipulation came on the request of Trustee Dick Albee, who said that he has seen many young men reform as they mature. While Albee won that round he failed in another of his prime objectives - establishing written goals and objectives for each class in the high school or grade in the elementary-intermediate schools.

Albee engaged in a heated conversation with Principal Robert Stickle over the issue. Stickle and Principal Jackie Freiburger had presented a request for new texts for the English department in all schools.

The cost of the new books is about $15,000. Albee said that it doesn't make sense to purchase new books without the course objectives. The books should be purchased with the goals and objectives in mind.

Stickle said that the teachers had conferred at length for several months, reviewing all available English books and the result was the recommendation presented to the board.

Albee made a motion not to approve the new purchases before the written objectives were before the board. It failed to pass. The objectives are due by the end of the fall semester.

The problem is that the older books are worn out and some new texts will be needed to conduct classes in the fall.

The board then voted to approve the new books with the proviso that the written goals and objectives will be submitted by the end of the semester and no new books in the future will be ordered without it.

UP PRICE

There will be a price increase of 5 cents for meals for students in the fifth and sixth grades at Cass City Intermediate School.

The board approved an increase from 85 cents to 90 cents so that all students in the building are charged the same. The meals served are identical to the ones in grades 7 and 8 which paid 90 cents during the last school year.

Fifth graders in Evergreen and Deford will continue to pay the 85 cent rate which is charged in those buildings. That's the good news. The bad news is that the menu selection at these two schools is not quite as good.

The real good news is that the hot lunch program will end the year in the black. The most recent statement, Supt. Don Crouse said, showed about a $5,000 profit, but he expects it to be much less when the final audit is completed.

TARDY SYSTEM

It is likely that the school's penalty for tardiness to class will be altered. High School principal Russ Richards was instructed to come up with plans calling for penalties that would not result in expulsion, which in extreme cases could be the case now.

It will be presented at the next meeting.

SENIOR PHOTOS

Catherine Kappen asked the board to consider Tim's Photos for taking pictures at graduation. Discussion indicated that commercial photographers took pictures of seniors when hired by the student.

The photographer is not hired by the school and any attempt to designate an official photographer has resulted in student protest in the past.

REPORT DUE

Ray Garety, representing the Citizens' Advisory Committee, told the board that the organization's substance abuse survey would be available in a couple of weeks. After that, the committee will take the summer off.

NEW PROTECTION

Students at the school will be covered with a catastrophe insurance at a cost of approximately $1,000.

The insurance will provide lifetime benefits, after a $10,000 deductible, for medical expenses and payment of $15,000 yearly for lost wages for life. Cost for this protection is $1.00 per student athlete.

Also available for an extra charge of 25 cents will be insurance for students not in athletics. Both plans have not been officially approved, but are expected to be okayed at the next regular board meeting.

One of the provisions of the coverage is that persons covered agree not to sue for other than the benefits offered in the policy.

An end to Bible distribution?

Will Bible distribution be banned at Cass City High School?

It appears that it may. A recent attorney general's decision says that the distribution of Gideon Bibles at the school is unconstitutional.

The decision has the force of law for school districts. Supt. Donald Crouse explained to the board Monday night at its regular meeting.

The board appears divided on whether to allow distribution and a decision will be reached at the next regular meeting.

Present board policy allows the distribution. Trustees that would ban the Bible distribution say that as leaders in the district, they should set an example by obeying the law.

We shouldn't go on the premise that it's right to do as long as we don't get caught, was the opinion of trustees that advocate changing the policy.

Owen-Gage approves borrowing $590,000

The Owendale-Gagetown School Board Monday evening did a little bit of everything.

The most important thing it did financially was authorize borrowing of $590,000, to be repaid from next year's property taxes.

Provided no difficulties are encountered in receiving permission from the state, the school district will be able to borrow the money shortly after the start of the new fiscal year July 1.

Once it gets the money, it will be able to resume paying its staff. Supt. Ronald Erickson reported Friday will be a payless payday and they will continue until the money is borrowed.

What could change matters is receipt of approximately $65,000 in delinquent taxes from the Tuscola County treasurer's office, which would cover another payroll.

The board scheduled a public hearing on the 1983-84 budget at its July 11 meeting and a truth in taxation hearing at 8.

Without the latter hearing, the school board would have to roll back the millage 1.422 mills to offset a 4.5 percent increase in Owen-Gage's state "equalized valuation, and therefore a gain in property tax revenue for the district. "We need those mills," Erickson told the board.

Ingham County Circuit Judge James T. Kallman has scheduled a hearing July 15 regarding his stay of three property transfers from Owen-Gage that the state Board of Education approved in 1976.

Owen-Gage's attorney will argue the judge should send the three property transfer requests back to the state board for a rehearing.

TEXTBOOKS

The board approved expenditures of $2,622 for the following textbooks: 12th grade sociology, 10th grade world history, 8th grade American history, 7th grade geography and 9th-12th grade psychology.

High School Principal Wayne Wright explained that all textbooks were evaluated and social studies was the biggest need.

The sociology and psychology books will be for new courses. The others will be replacements.

Wright said the one year of American government required for seniors is being reduced to one semester in 1983-84, with sociology being required the other semester.

Psychology will be an elective.

TEACHERS

Erickson read a letter from the Tri-County Bargaining Association requesting the start of teacher contract negotiations and suggesting some dates, now all past.

His written response was that he would present the request to the board.

The board didn't take any action. Asked after the meeting about the start of negotiations, the superintendent responded, "We'll have to work on that."

The board approved the hiring of Brenda Sue Parker on a one-year contract for 1983-84. She will teach one Spanish class, for which she is certified, and the rest of the time, home economics, for which she isn't certified. She is going to take one home economics course in college this summer and could eventually become certified.

The past two years, home economics was taught by a permanent substitute and no language has been offered.

Miss Parker has been substitute teaching the past year, primarily in Traverse City.

The board tabled acceptance of the resignation of Judy Campbell as girls' varsity and junior varsity basketball coach until its July meeting.

She said in her resignation letter that she was doing so so she could coach.

'Swing out' banned

Another attempt is being made by the Cass City Board of Education to cancel the traditional swing out of graduating seniors. The board banned future walks at its regular meeting Monday.

Principal Russell Richards told the board that the problem of rowdy marchers that has been plaguing the administrators in recent years was incurred again this spring.

Band Director George Bushong said that a couple of students threw their caps over their heads and rushed up and tipped his director's hat off.

Seven smoke bombs were ignited during the parade and students were trying to run ahead of the band.

In addition, administrators said, only about 50 percent of the class participated and many seniors in caps and gowns watched the parade from the sidewalk.

Two years ago the school board tried to end the swing out but reinstated it after student protest and promises for better behavior.

This year there were several parents helping with student control but they were unable or reluctant to report any student infractions, Richards said.

CASS CITY BOARD members and friends oversubscribed a fund for a plaque for Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn commemorating 20 years on the board. The presentation was made Monday by President Dr. Ed Scollon. Money left over is expected to be donated to a worthy local cause.

13% of applicants to get Michigan Youth Corps jobs

By Mike Eliasohn

Only about 13 percent of the 18-21-year-olds in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties who applied for summer jobs through Gov. Blanchard's Michigan Youth Corps (MYC) will get them.

Of those who do get the jobs, it appears many will be college students, even though one or both of their parents may be working.

The state-funded program is supposed to provide 25,000 jobs statewide, for 18-21-year-olds. The jobs will last up to 11 weeks and pay the minimum wage of $3.35 an hour.

The last day to apply was Friday. In Tuscola County, 433 applied for the 46 jobs available; Huron County, 221 for 40 jobs, and Sanilac County, 291 for 39 jobs.

Although technically the jobs were open to all, those who are the head of household and unemployed or are from families where the head of the household is out of work were supposed to receive top priority starting with those 21 years old, then 20 and so on.

IN REALITY, IT didn't work out that way, according to Charles Cramer, Caro Michigan Employment Security Commission branch manager, except that those getting the jobs will all be 21, since there are enough eligible of that age to fill all the job slots.

What happened was that many college students, in filling out the application form, marked "yes" to the question, "Are you normally self-supporting?"

That meant under the rules that they were an unemployed head of household, which put them in the top priority, provided they were 21.

"As much as it hurts me, there's nothing I can do about it," Cramer commented. The application form doesn't ask if the applicant is a college student and depends on their being honest in their responses.

Asked how he knew that many of the successful applicants are college students and have a parent or parents working, Cramer responded, "because I know them personally."

As for whether some getting MYC jobs might actually be from families where the head of the household is unemployed, he said, "I'm sure a couple of them might really be."

He did point out the main purpose of the MYC program is to provide jobs, and that is what it is doing.

THE JOBS, WHICH are supposed to start Monday, will last from 6-10 weeks, with the 20 in Tuscola County being coordinated by the Thumb Area Consortium lasting longer than the ones run by the Tuscola Intermediate School District.

The reason, Cramer explained, is that the TISD is allotted $150 per job for administration. The consortium, having already set up its federally-funded Summer Youth Employment Program, doesn't have to spend as much to administer the MYC jobs, so can fund each job longer.

At the Bad Axe MESOC office, employment interviewer Regina Anczewski, who is coordinating the MYC applications, said most of the applicants were recent high school graduates who can't find permanent jobs. She feels only a small percentage of those applying are college

New books at the library

SAVANNAH by Eugenia Price (fiction). In Savannah, Ga., during the early 19th Century, orphaned Mark Browning leaves his Philadelphia home to sail south and create a new life for himself, unburdened by past tragedies. On this voyage, Mark meets Robert MacKay, a well-to-do Savannah businessman who takes Mark into his own family and accepts him almost as a son. But all of Mark's experiences are not to run so smoothly: The War of 1812 interrupts some of his ambitious plans; he is confused by his love for two women, one of them MacKay's own wife; and there is the disturbing secret of Mark's Savannah-born mother to deal with.

MARY ELLEN's Help Yourself Diet Plan by Mary Ellen Pinkham (non-fiction). Mary Ellen claims she lost 80 pounds on this diet. The eating plan is a good one. It is nutritionally sound, based on calorie counts, includes a useful menu outline. Equally important, the program stresses daily exercise (in this case, a brisk walk) and behavior modification. One new twist makes good sense. As the diet progresses, the daily calorie count slowly goes up, to prevent the metabolic slowdown that often drops the body's set-point and makes it progressively more difficult to maintain the desired weight once it is achieved.

JEDDER'S LAND by Maureen O'Donoghue (fiction). Rachel Jedder, a female Horatio Alger, is a teenager, apprenticed as a dairymaid to a Norfolk farmer, when she learns that the grandfather she never knew has willed her 15 acres and a house. She walks 300 miles across England, accompanied only by a gangling gray dog, before arriving at Yellaton, Jedder's land, which is occupied by a distant cousin. Rachel must use her brains and her body to claim and keep her inheritance, though as the years pass she sometimes jeopardizes her heritage through her own mistakes. She falls in love once, marries twice and mothers six children, but lets nothing, however dear, come between her and her land.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Halre

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

There's a limit to how far we should go to save energy and here's one vote saying that we passed it Monday night at the school board meeting.

Crowding 50 or so persons in the board room and then opening two windows without screens to relieve the stifling heat is acting over and beyond the call of duty.

Especially when relief is just a switch away.

Geraldine Prieskorn spent 20 years on the school board. Over the years she has participated in many crucial decisions. The new high school, the various millage campaigns and curriculum cuts are among them.

She's done well. Her best effort as seen here was her role in settling teacher-district contracts, especially the one which resulted in a brief strike by the teachers and sent the kids from school.

That one was settled in a face-to-face meeting in a downstairs room at the Charmont.

Hendrick hog farm featured in state management tour

The hog farm of Earl and Charles Hendrick, 5318 Pringle Road, Decker, will be one of eight farms featured during the annual Michigan State University State Farm Management Tour July 13 in Sanilac County.

The Hendricks have a farrow-to-finish operation that produces about 750 market hogs annually, most of which are sold through the Michigan Live Stock Exchange. Their 700 acres produce corn, navy beans, wheat and oats. The public interview with the Hendricks will be at 9:45 a.m.

The other livestock farms featured will be those of Albert Stoutenburg, N. Stoutenburg Road, Sandusky, fed Holsteins, and Charles and Dorothy Cork, W. Mortimer Line Road, Peck, beef cattle.

Cash crop farms on the tour will be those of Gilbert Clark, Galbraith Line Road, Crosswell; Mezo Farms, W. Walker Road, Sandusky; and Wadsworth Farms, N. Sandusky Road, Sandusky.

Dairy farms featured will be those of Jack Kaufman, Freiburger Road, Sandusky; Tom Stamp and Linwood Dale, Wood Road, Marlette; and Henry, Ken and Glen Miller, McGill Road, Marlette.

Lunch will be available to tour participants at the fairgrounds in Sandusky. Tour details are available at county extension offices.

The Maya Indians filed their front teeth to points and drilled holes in them so that they could be embellished with precious gems.

ARTS AND CRAFTS - Running the arts and crafts program this summer will be Hope LaPonsie (left) and Michelle Jones, who were making posters Friday morning to publicize the program. The arts and crafts building is located northwest of the swimming pool in the Cass City Recreation Park and is open weekdays from 9 a.m.-noon and 1-4 p.m. until mid-August.

Cheese and butter giveaway June 24

The Human Development Commission (HDC) will have a free cheese and butter distribution Friday, June 24, from 10:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. or until the supply is exhausted.

Sites will be Evangelical Free Church, 4633 Weaver Street, Cass City, across from Erla's Food Center, the Caro fairgrounds and Millington Township Hall.

Individuals must report to the distribution site in person and present their surplus commodity registration card. Persons who are unable physically to go to the distribution may have someone pick up their surplus commodities only if the registration card is shown.

If an individual has not yet received this card, they must register at the HDC office in their county prior to receiving cheese and butter. The telephone number for the HDC office in Caro is 673-4121.

All households which are receiving a form of public assistance, such as ADC, General Assistance, food stamps or SSI, are eligible to receive cheese and butter.

Households which are not receiving any of these types of public assistance, but who have received services through the HDC, may also be eligible to get cheese and butter. Also, persons living on fixed incomes or unemployment benefits might be eligible, in accordance with federal poverty income guidelines.

The surplus commodities have been made available to the HDC, the community action agency serving Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties, from the federal government and are intended for personal consumption by low-income and needy families. Any persons interested in transporting cheese for the agency are asked to contact the office.

The Haire Net

There is a campaign underway by pastors of four churches to ban the sale of beer by the Chamber of Commerce during the July 4 Festival.

The ban suggestion was presented in a letter to several members of the Chamber of Commerce. Parts of it were read to me.

Placed on the record is the paper's support of the ban of beer at the Cass City Recreational Park.

That makes it tougher for persons responsible for raising money to make ends meet at the Festival that is run for the convenience of home folks and their visitors. It's tougher, but not impossible. Without the beer tent off the premises, there is no way that the event can come close to paying its way.

It's probably little known but the impressive parade that is a highlight of the event is possible because merchants along the main stem have "sponsored" entries at a cost of $50, $100, $150 and $200 each.

Even with that and the $5,000 or so that the beer tent generates, it's been an uphill battle to break even.

And it's not a case of the end justifying the means. Certainly persons against

"If It Fitz..."

Waste-Not Wanda

By Jim Fitzgerald

The U.S. government is going nuts trying to figure out what to do with 4.8 billion unneeded gas-rationing coupons. The coupons should be given to my wife, who won't waste them because she is a Child of The Great Depression.

Although her given name is Pat, I often call her Wanda, which is short for Waste - Not - Want - Not Wanda. She never throws anything away because she grew up during the impoverished 1930s, watering her vegetable patch with month-old bath water.

Shortly after we were married, 28 years ago, Wanda bought a giant jar of peanut butter. She still has it. Every time I suggest there is not enough peanut butter left to cover my Saturday noon toast, Wanda says, "Waste not want not," and reaches for her rubber spatula.

This spatula makes the miracle of the loaves and fishes look like Mother Hubbard's cupboard. By simply scraping it around inside any empty container, Wanda magically, not to mention majestically, materializes enough food to feed a family of four for a week.

On a recent evening, after several minutes of shaking and pounding a 15-year-old ketchup bottle, I meekly sobbed that it might possibly be empty. "It's too bad your magic spatula won't fit inside a narrow ketchup bottle," I said.

Saving steps, Wanda immediately slid into the kitchen to get her newest anti-waste implement. It is a pencil-thin stick with several rubber prongs on one end. She bought it through the mail. Wanda buys everything through the mail so she can save the box it arrives in, in case she ever wants to send it back.

What you do is thrust the skinny spatula into the narrow bottle until it hits bottom and the rubber prongs, pointing upward, are pressed tightly against the interior of the bottle. Then you suddenly yank the skinny spatula out of the narrow bottle, causing the rubber prongs to emerge pointing downward.

This maneuver forces whatever is inside the bottle to burst out, no matter how badly it may want to stay inside, and fly through the air.

"My god, we are playing catch the ketchup," I said, completely awed.

"All you have to do now is wipe it off your face and put it on your potatoes," Wanda explained.

(The names and addresses of two independent witnesses will be furnished upon request.)

Now that you understand what Waste-Not-Want-Not Wanda is all about, you also will understand why she is the most logical depository of those 4.8 billion gas-rationing coupons. Our wealthy government paid $10 million to have them printed 10 years ago when the Arab oil embargo persuaded some top-level bureaucrats that gasoline rationing was inevitable.

Today, now that oil supplies are glutful, those same bureaucrats are busy building sky shelters for the inevitable return of Chick Little. And taxpayers are paying $20,000 annually to store 2,000 tons of gas coupons in an Army depot in Colorado.

"I just want to get rid of the damn — darn — things," Ronald Winkler, a deputy assistant energy secretary, told a reporter.

It was suggested that the coupons simply be burned and that any complaining taxpayer be told to kiss our ashes. But the government, realizing that where there's smoke there's a smoking gun, is reluctant to be that publicly wasteful.

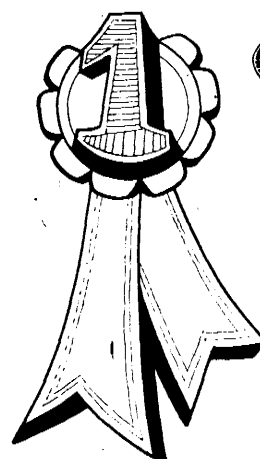

So give the 4.8 billion coupons to Wanda. As a true Child of The Great Depression, she will accept them simply so she can make sure they're not wasted. Storage will be no problem because she will put the coupons in her purse, where they will immediately become lost.

For Wanda, losing is not the same as wasting, because she knows if she ever really has to find something that doesn't appear to be anywhere in her purse, she can always scrape it out with her magic spatula.

Your neighbor says

Video games are good and bad

A University of North Carolina sociologist said at a recent symposium that video games deprive dedicated users of time they could use more productively, be it for reading, contemplation or whatever.

However, other symposium participants said video games decrease fear of machines, provide new recreational outlets for the handicapped and hospital patients and build peer acceptance that doesn't depend on physical abilities.

Ray Burleson of 6662 Seed Street feels video games have their good and bad points.

"I think they're good up to a certain extent in helping hand-eye coordination," he said, though he feels they also might be able to develop it in other activities.

Burleson has played video games in arcades, "some, but not real heavy," he said, is, "I suppose it would help them from wandering around and finding nothing to do. If the place (video game arcade) is run right, it gives them something to do."

Burleson added that such places are "not the best place for them to be, but there are worse places they could be."

On the other hand, he doesn't feel it's good for youngsters to spend all their free time in arcades putting money in machines. "I've seen kids who could hardly see over the thing who were playing better than I could, so I knew they were spending a lot of time there."

Burleson feels playing video games is okay as long as youngsters also do other things. "I think they should divide their time up...too much of anything could be bad."

Burleson, who is single, is employed at Cole Carbide and also is a part-time commercial photographer with his own darkroom.

Pedaling Around

Made in Britain

By Mike Ellasohn

Automotive miscellaneous:

Though my desk doesn't look it, I cleaned it last Thursday.

I should have done it a couple of weeks ago, but didn't have the time.

In my cleaning, I found two newspaper articles I had saved for the day I wrote an article about the not-so-good state of the local automobile repair business.

Joe Bower, our summer reporter, ended up writing the article, which appeared in the June 2 article—minus the information that I wanted included, but couldn't find at the time.

The information was this:

The median age of cars on U.S. highways, according to R.L. Polk and Co., is 6.2 years, the oldest since the 1950s. That was from Autoweek magazine, March 28 of this year.

The other article was from the June 27, 1982, Detroit Free Press. It said that the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association estimated that the average age of a passenger car as of mid-1981 was 6.9 years, up from 5.7 years a decade earlier.

The article also quoted Chris McLean of the National Automotive Parts Association that, "The same economic factors that have boosted the average age of the vehicle fleet have also caused motorists to defer, or reduce car maintenance expenditures. If you don't have the money to buy new cars, you don't have the money to put into the old ones, either."

A comment that I've read or heard more than once in the media was that it was somewhat ironic for Detroit to be hosting a Grand Prix race, since all the cars in it are foreign-made.

In contrast, there is the "all-American" Indianapolis 500. Not so.

Of the 33 cars in this year's Indy race, 32 of them used Cosworth engines, which are made in England. The exception was a much modified Chevrolet.

Twenty-six of the cars were also built in England. Of the remaining seven, five were American-made (but used the Cosworth engine) and one I'm not sure of.

That meant there was only one all-American car, the one with the Chevy engine, which also had an American chassis.

Of course, there is quite a difference when it comes to drivers. I count only five of the 33 Indy drivers as foreign, not counting Italian-born Mario Andretti, since he moved to this country when he was a teenager.

In contrast, of the 26 drivers in the Detroit Grand Prix, only two were American.

Non-automotive miscellaneous:

With a couple of exceptions, downtown stores from the front look nice. But from the rear, that hasn't been as true.

That's why it's nice to see the rear of some of the stores being painted lately.

It may seem trivial, but remember, all the parking lots in Cass City are behind the stores, so the backs of stores are seen by the public almost as much as the fronts.

Summer vacation just started and already some of the kids look bored.

4-H agent receives recognition

Peggy Breclaw, Tuscola County 4-H youth agent, was part of an award-winning area 4-H team that was recognized recently for its outstanding contributions to the Michigan 4-H Youth Program.

Breclaw, along with 15 other east central region Michigan 4-H staff members, received awards at the Michigan Association of Extension 4-H Youth Staff's annual meeting in Grayling for their efforts in planning, organizing and conducting a regional 4-H personal appearance style review.

The review involved 4-H members from 12 counties who modeled their ensembles last year at Saginaw's Fashion Square Mall.

Two-day trips to Chicago were awarded to the top senior division entrants, and a trip to Traverse City was given to top junior division participants. Award trips were sponsored by participating counties.

The program provided young people an opportunity to meet others with similar interests from throughout the region and to gain valuable experience in modeling.

This year's event also included personal appearance, public speaking and demonstration contests.

EASY RIDERS -- The students who ride Les Kappen's school bus don't give him any problems, so he said "thanks" by driving them to his Ale Street home last Wednesday, the last full day of school, for an ice cream sandwich before taking them home. He has ended the school year with a treat for his passengers for four years. Kappen's route is primarily east of M-53.

Cass City School Board oks tentative 1983-84 budget

Students are already covered by a $3,500 deductible policy up to $50,000.

OTHER BUSINESS

A budget was adopted, identical to last year's. A realistic budget will be submitted later to reflect revenues after the state aid formula is known. The budget must be submitted by law at this time, but can, and will, be changed later.

Cost for the services of Regional Educational Media Center was sharply increased. It will cost the district $1.80 per student, up 50 cents from last year and $2.10 in two years.

The reason for the increase to the district is that Federal funding has been sharply curtailed each year. The board okayed the cost after administrators said that the service was extensively used.

The board voted to join the National Association for the Exchange of Industrial Resources for $250 in dues for one year.

For the money the district gets available surplus industrial products at no cost except freight.

A check with a neighboring district, Crouse said, showed that the school always received much more back than the $250 paid. Over 1,700 members are now in the organization.

Because cost of a compu-

Board ponders roofing repairs

According to a survey by Supt. Donald Crouse, Cass City Schools have roof problems at Evergreen, Deford, Campbell and the Intermediate Schools.

New roofs for these units will cost an estimated $75,000. Roofs are just one of many projects necessary in building and site maintenance.

Also needed are two rooms of furniture at Campbell and Intermediate schools and one room of furniture at Evergreen and Deford.

The parking lots at the high school and intermediate school need attention.

In the lengthy regular meeting Monday the project was deemed too big to tackle and a special meet-concentrate more on teaching. She taught fifth and sixth grade this past year.

Miss Campbell has coached eight years, during which time her teams won three league titles and finished second three times and once made it to the state semi-finals. She had losing seasons the past two years.

OTHER ITEMS

The board approved a 1983-84 athletic budget of $18,400.

The junior and senior high athletic program during the past school year, according to the report presented by Principal Wright, cost $16,286, which was defrayed by $4,829 in income, for a net expense of $11,457.

A motion was approved authorizing the administration to pursue the possibility of renting unused classrooms at the high school for offices. Talked about was using the east wing for doctor, dentist and/or insurance offices. It was mentioned a dentist and insurance agency are interested in renting space.

Erickson reported that at the second Michigan Department of Labor hearing last week concerning unemployment compensation paid to teacher Nancy Folk, attempts to negotiate a compromise were unsuccessful. A third session will be conducted in July.

The Michigan Tenure Commission will be conducting a hearing in the case, at the request of the Michigan Education Association, according to the superintendent. That will be June 28 and 29.

The board discussed problems with the varsity and junior varsity cheerleading squads last year and the possibility that unless an advisor can be found, there won't be cheerleading in 1983-84. The matter was then tabled to a future meeting.

Pigeon insurance agent Richard Koehler asked the board to allow payroll deductions to pay premiums for the cancer insurance policies he wants to sell to Owen-Gage staff. No decision was made.

Membership in the Michigan High School Athletic Association for one year was renewed.

Payment of $727, based on what a teacher receiving base pay would receive, was approved for Dave Good for directing the all-school play.

Old Settlers Reunion set Saturday

The 74th annual Old Settlers Reunion will be Saturday in the Deford Elementary School.

The program will include a memorial service. Those who can contribute readings or musical numbers are asked to do so.

There will be a potluck lunch at noon. Bring your own table service and a dish to pass. Beverages will be furnished.

Number of arrests up in May Tuscola County sheriff's deputies arrested 76 persons in May, a big increase from the 49 who were charged with various offenses in April.

The major reason was the number of persons arrested for traffic-related offenses, mostly drunk driving. There were 48 such violations in May, compared to 32 the month before.

Cass City police made seven arrests in May, three each for traffic offenses and liquor law violations and one for larceny.

Gagetown police arrested one person for vandalism and one for traffic. State police from the Caro post arrested 21 persons, including 14 for traffic violations and four for liquor violations.

Deputies issued 616 traffic tickets last month, compared to 453 in April, of which 259 were for speeding (176 in April) and 97 for defective equipment (75 in April).

There were 34 appearance tickets issued, compared to 20 the month before, including 11 for purchase, possession, or transporting liquor by minors.

The sheriff's department received 579 calls in May classified as "criminal," compared to 506 the month before. The greatest number, 175, concerned traffic (accidents, reckless driving, etc.), followed by larcenies, 73; vandalism, 62, and domestic problems, 41.

Patrol cars were driven 52,201 miles in May and consumed 4,438.1 gallons of gasoline (11.98 miles per gallon).

The jail took in 210 inmates, of whom 22 were female, and released 218.

The number of respective complaints received from and accidents in area townships and villages in May were: Columbia, 6 and 1; Elkland, 19 and 2; Cass City, 59 and accidents not recorded by sheriff's department; Ellington, 12 and 2; Elmwood, 12 and 6; Kingston Township, 7 and 1; Kingston village, 5 and accidents not recorded; Koylton, 8 and 1; Novesta, 12 and 4, and Wells, 23 and 4.

Livestock Club plans many events

The Cass City 4-H Livestock Club held its monthly meeting June 2.

Fair projects were discussed and dates given for the blood testing of pigs in order that they may be shown at the fair.

The group decided to make a float for Cass City's 4th of July parade.

The club set June 26 as the date for its reunion picnic for alumni members and their families as well as active members and families. The picnic will be held in the Wilbur Memorial Building on the Caro fairgrounds at 1 p.m.

The club has a new leader, Carol Stoekle, who will be teaching cooking and sewing next winter. Her husband plans to teach a class in veterinary science for the members.

Marine Lance Cpl. Richard N. Cross, son of Darlene G. Perry of 3883 Hadley Road, Decker, recently participated in exercise "Kernel Blitz 83" on the coast of southern California.

He is a member of the 5th Marine Amphibious Brigade, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Kernel Blitz was a nine-day U.S. Navy Third Fleet training exercise involving more than 7,000 Marines and sailors, 10 ships, and 40 aircraft. The exercise tested the capability of the Navy and Marine Corps to evacuate American citizens from a hostile area and project combat power ashore.

The Navy conducted training in the embarkation of Marines, live firing was conducted at the San Clemente Island range and an embassy evacuation exercise took place at Camp Pendleton. Both helicopter and surface assault forces were involved in an amphibious landing which included simulated aircraft bombing runs and artillery fire.

Kernel Blitz is one of a series of exercises designed to test and refine the abilities of Navy and Marine Corps amphibious forces.

HEALTH TIPS Most snake bites are not deadly

By Frank Chappell
Am. Medical Association

Most snakes are not poisonous and most snake bites are not life threatening. But it is important to know and recognize the poisonous snake.

In the United States these are the rattlesnake, water moccasin, copperhead and coral snake. The first three are pit vipers and are recognized by deep pits located between the nostrils and the eyes.

Rattlesnakes have sets of rattles at the end of their tails. Moccasins have a white coloring inside the mouth, and often are called cottonmouths.

The coral snake is a member of the cobra family. It has red, yellow and black rings. It is smaller than the pit vipers and has a black nose.

Try to capture and kill the snake if possible and take it with you to the hospital or doctor's office.

The venom of a poisonous snake causes severe pain, rapid swelling, discoloration of the skin around the bite, nausea and vomiting, difficulty in breathing, blurring vision, convulsions and shock.

The American Medical Association's Handbook of First Aid and Emergency Care recommends placing a light constricting band such as a belt or watchband a few inches above the bite toward the body. It should not be too tight.

Sterilize a knife or razor blade or scalpel from the snakebite kit in a flame. Carefully make a cut one-eighth to one-fourth inch deep through each fang mark. The cut should be no more than half an inch long. Do not make cross cuts.

If suction cups are available, use them to draw out venom. If not, use your mouth, if it is free of cuts and sores. Continue suction for 30 minutes.

Never use cold or ice compresses on the wound. This may freeze tissue and cause extensive damage.

Seek medical attention promptly, preferably at the nearest hospital emergency room. If possible, have someone telephone ahead and tell of poisonous snake bite and the type of snake, so that antivenom serum can be made ready.

Despite the folklore, do not give alcohol.

Getting the victim to the hospital is the major consideration in first aid for snakebite.

Hawley good side ignored

Dear John, and all who are so willing to talk,

After once again hearing rumors around this town, I think it's time someone wrote to you about your articles about Martin Hawley.

John, did anyone on your staff have the decency to call and ask Marty his side of the story and why he did what he did, like the Caro Advertiser was nice enough to do? That's what I call good journalism, but then why would you care. He's not one of our Cass City elite, is he?

And John, front page news? Why not print something good about someone for a change?

Cass City has always been known for its gossip. No wonder it's turning into a ghost town.

Has anyone asked Martin about his test scores he's making up for his diploma? Every single one is marked excellent. Did anyone ask his friends or family how well he's liked? No - no one cares about Marty's good side, only the bad.

That's the trouble with this world today. I'm not saying everything he did was right, but I think he is being shoved into a corner.

No matter how he tries to get out, he's damned if he does and damned if he doesn't. Is the punishment this town is so willing to hand out worth him losing his scholarship and wrecking his future?

Read your welfare statistics, at least Marty is trying. Just remember Cass City, your kids are growing up too.

Respectfully yours,
Susan Taylor

Letters to the editor

Softball player protests coverage

Dear editor,

I decided to write you a letter after I finished reading your June 9 edition of the Chronicle.

When the varsity softball team won districts, we got two columns about five inches long while Croft-Clara men's softball team got bigger coverage for getting second place in a tournament.

If I remember correctly, when the boys' varsity basketball team became district champs this past winter, there was a whole section of the paper devoted to it with individual pictures of the team members. I couldn't even find one picture of the softball team.

I guess this paper is just another example of the discrimination against females.

Sincerely,

Sherri Horner

Editor's note: Miss Horner is a member of the softball team.

Researchers seek history of family

Dear Mr. Eliasohn,

My sister, Joan Miller, and myself are researching our family history.

The reason for writing and telling you this is we are going to attend the Old Settlers Reunion in Deford Saturday.

We were both born in Tuscola County. Our parents are Inis and Arthur Henderson. Our grandparents were Anson and Lottie Henderson and Abel and Hattie Koppelberger.

Briefly, great-grandfather Ralph Lewis and great-grandfather Thomas Charles Henderson, both from Tuscola County, were in the Civil War. We will have Great-Grandfather Henderson's picture in his uniform and a copy of his enlistment papers. Both are buried in Novesta Cemetery.

We would appreciate any information, old newspaper clippings, Bibles, etc. Your readers could look us up at the reunion or write us, at the following addresses.

Sincerely,

Check forger given long prison term

N. West Street, Vassar, was placed on five years' probation for driving away an automobile of another without intent to steal.

He was also sentenced to 60 days in the county jail, with serving of half the sentence adjourned without date, fined $400 and assessed $150 court costs.

His driver's license was suspended one year and he is not to consume alcohol or use unprescribed drugs.

Shelp pleaded guilty to the charge May 2, to driving away a car belonging to MY Oldsmobile of Vassar March 26.

Joslyn reversed a decision by District Judge Richard F. Kern involving Mark L. Lewis, 22, of Bad Axe, who is charged with driving under the influence of liquor last Nov. 21 in Elkland Township.

Kern had ruled that the prosecution needed to produce a certain witness for Lewis' trial.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor Scott Stermer appealed, arguing the rule requiring the presence of the witness applied only to felony trials, not to misdemeanors.

Joslyn agreed, so Lewis will now stand trial in district court.

DISTRICT COURT

Mark L. Mathews, 19, of 4630 Hadley Road, Decker, was fined $122 and assessed $128 court costs when he appeared Monday before Judge Kern, charged with malicious destruction of property under $100. He is to pay $110 restitution to Cass City.

Mathews was charged in connection with the theft of six parking meters in the village June 16 of last year. He pleaded guilty to the charge July 16, after which sentencing was delayed.

Jack W. Stahlbaum, 49, of 6293 W. Main Street, Cass City, was sentenced to five days in the county jail, to be served on week ends, for impaired driving March 27 in Gagetown. He pleaded no contest to the charge May 25.

Stahlbaum was also fined $222, assessed $228, placed on probation and is to attend counseling sessions.

JUNE 6 CASES

David H. Moore (Elenbaum), 18, of 6359 Robinson Road, Cass City, was one of three persons sentenced in Tuscola County Circuit Court June 6 by Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

Moore was sentenced for his May 9 guilty plea to breaking and entering an occupied dwelling, the home of Danny and Shirley Haag, 6275 Brenda Drive, Cass City. The break-in took place March 10.

He was ordered to serve one year in the county jail, with credit given for time already served. Vocational training was recommended.

Moore was also placed on five years' probation, fined $300, assessed $300 court costs and is to pay restitution.

Lester Bowman, 50, formerly of Vassar, was sentenced to 32-48 months in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson for felonious assault, plus an additional two years for possession of a firearm in commission of a felony. He was credited with time already served.

A jury found him guilty of the charges March 21, of an assault with a revolver on Kenneth Beall in March, 1980, in Arbela Township.

Joseph P. Kern, 32, of 2205 Tin Bill Road, Caro, was placed on three years' probation for attempted manufacturing of marijuana last Nov. 10 in Wells Township. He pleaded guilty to the charge May 2.

Serving of a 30-day jail sentence was deferred. Kern was fined $400, plus court costs.

In other cases June 6: Vernon Higgins, 41, of Wells Street, Caro, stood mute to charges of assault with a dangerous weapon, forgery and uttering and publishing. Pleas of innocent were entered and pretrial hearing scheduled July 11.

Bond of $4,000 was continued on the assault charge and $15,000 on the other charge.

Higgins is charged with an assault with a knife on Mike Foster April 8 in Akron and cashing a bad check for $150 at the Mayville State Bank May 2.

Dale M. Blazina, 35, of 101 Oakridge Drive, Apt. 1, Caro, stood mute to two counts of criminal sexual conduct April 23 with a 17-year-old girl in Alma Township.

A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled July 5. Bond was continued.

Jerry Kuzma, 24, of 3180 W. Saginaw Road, Vassar, pleaded guilty to attempted no account - check. His plea was refused and a pretrial hearing scheduled July 11.

He is charged with cashing a bad check for $152 at a Caro supermarket Jan. 20.

Sentencing of James J. Phillips, 38, of 2764 Marlette Street, Silverwood, for driving under the influence of liquor (second offense) March 2 in Dayton Township was delayed one year, during which he shall not drink. He was assessed $200 court costs.

Lester Howell, 17, of 5765 Ormes Road, Vassar, pleaded guilty to attempted grand larceny in connection with the theft of tires and rims May 27 from Vassar Parts and Scrap Co.

His plea was accepted and a sentencing date will be set. Bond was continued.

Lawrence H. Campbell, 47, of 5280 Shay Lake Road, Kingston, failed to appear for his arraignment on a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (third offense) and driving in violation of license restrictions April 25 in Koylton Township.

A bench warrant for his arrest was issued.

Noal G. Powell, 20, of 5506 E. Deckerville Road, Deford, pleaded guilty June 6 to driving with license suspended or revoked (subsequent offense), no insurance and driving an unregistered motor vehicle. The offenses took place May 21 in Caro.

Judge Richard F. Kern accepted his plea and sentenced Powell to five days in the county jail on the driving with license suspended charge, plus one year probation. Powell was assessed a total of $480 in fines and costs.

Larry E. Spiekerman, 44, of 4243 S. Hurds Corner Road, Kingston, pleaded guilty June 6 to driving under the influence of liquor April 4 in Wells Township.

Kern accepted his plea and sentenced Spiekerman to five days in the county jail, plus two years' probation. His driver's license was suspended one year.

Spiekerman was also fined $197, assessed $203 court costs and is to participate in counseling programs.

OVERNIGHT -- Wes Connolly of Deford stands by the boat in which he spent an unplanned night floating on Saginaw Bay. He crawled under the covered-over bow of the boat to sleep and used the oar to paddle to shore, which took 4½ hours.

Fisherman Connolly spends night in boat on Saginaw Bay

A Sunday, June 5, fishing trip on Saginaw Bay turned into a can of worms for Wesley Connolly of Kingston Road, Deford.

The outboard motor on his 14-foot fiberglass boat wouldn't start when it was time to return to shore. Connolly, 21, ended up spending the night on the bay and having to paddle to shore the next day.

Connolly departed from Geiger Road, three miles southwest of Bay Port, about 6 p.m., leaving his truck and trailer behind.

At 8:30, he decided it was time to go back, but his motor wouldn't start. There was "no spark in the spark plug," he explained. He tried fiddling with it for about a half-hour before giving up.

Connolly's boat doesn't have oarlocks. He did have one oar on board, so he tried paddling.

The current, however, was driving him west faster than he could paddle east to shore, so he soon gave up and dropped the anchor again.

From where he had been fishing, Connolly could just barely see a house by the Geiger Road launching area.

By the time he gave up paddling to shore, it was dark. He spotted a campfire, so attempted one last effort to be rescued. He tied a handkerchief on the end of his oar, soaked it in gasoline and lit it.

That didn't do any good, so Connolly crawled under the covered-over bow of his boat and went to sleep. He didn't have any food with him and all he had for warmth were the clothes he was wearing. He hadn't even brought a jacket and the night was cool.

Despite that, rough water and a few sprinkles, he didn't have trouble sleeping. He awoke once during the night and awoke the second time at 7:30, to discover that despite having the anchor down, the boat had drifted during the night.

He was then near Lone Tree Island, which is about 3¼ miles west of the Geiger Road launch site.

By 8, the water was calm and Connolly started paddling. He eventually reached shore at 12:30 p.m.

SOMETIME DURING the morning, his mother, Violet Connolly, started making phone calls to find her son. She knew he had gone fishing, but didn't know where.

Connolly is a self-employed logger and seller of firewood. One of the places his mother called was the sawmill near Bay Port, with whom he does business.

Tom Ruth at the mill knows Connolly and what his truck looks like, so started searching. When he got to Geiger Road, he saw the truck and trailer.

The campers there told him they had seen a light during the night and during the time they were there, no boat had left or come back.

Ruth then drove back to the mill to call the Huron County Sheriff's Department. Just as he arrived, a patrol car drove by, so he flagged it down and reported what had happened. That was at 10:30 a.m.

From what Connolly has been told, the sheriff's department pilot, Deputy Al Engler, was off-duty and at the Sebawaing airport at the time. He took off in a plane with another man and they soon spotted Connolly paddling to shore.

The Coast Guard was notified and dispatched a boat, but he got to shore before the boat arrived.

Where he landed was about two miles from his truck and trailer, so a nearby resident towed him and his boat a half-mile to a nearby landing. A deputy picked him up there and drove him to the Geiger Road landing.

CONNOLLY SAID HE never was worried during his ordeal.

The Defordite struck out in more than one way. He was hoping to catch perch or catfish, but didn't catch anything. "They weren't biting at all." He didn't fish after he first tried to go home at 8:30 p.m. Sunday, because it was too rough after that.

As of Saturday, when interviewed by the Chronicle, Connolly hadn't had time yet to find what was wrong with his outboard motor. Once he gets it fixed, he fully intends to go fishing on Saginaw Bay again. "Oh, yeah."

As for his unintended night spent on the bay, he commented, "I figured the only dumb thing I did when I got up (Monday morning) was start rowing instead of start fishing. Somebody would have got me sooner or later."

Police define legal fireworks

The Michigan State Police, in an effort to help clear up the annual confusion over what is and what is not legal so far as fireworks are concerned, offer some precautions, suggestions, and definitions that may help July 4th week end celebrants have a safe and legal holiday observance.

Not all "D.O.T. Class C" labeled fireworks are legal in Michigan for use by the consumer.

The only fireworks devices which may be sold at the retail level and used by the general consuming public are restricted to the following:

Toy paper caps, wire sparklers (size No. 14 or less), flitter sparklers, toy snakes, toy smoke devices, toy trick noise makers, cone fountains, and cylinder fountains.

Fireworks devices, other than those noted, are illegal for sale and use unless proper permits are obtained from the local governing body.

Fireworks devices which send a projectile into the air, spin, whirl, or emit an audible signal (excluding toy paper caps and toy trick noise makers) are illegal.

Local jurisdictions should be contacted to determine if there are ordinances which are more restrictive.

It is suggested that when using fireworks, the following safety precautions be followed:

Make sure that the fireworks devices are legal for use by local ordinances and state law.

Check for a manufacturer's label on all fireworks devices and instructions for proper use -- illegally manufactured fireworks rarely have either.

Carefully follow the instructions for use.

Provide adult supervision for children and do not allow very young children to handle fireworks.

Light only one device at a time.

Ignite fireworks only outdoors and away from buildings and combustible materials.

Do not attempt to alter the device or use in a manner not intended.

In Michigan during 1982, there were 219 reported fires caused by fireworks which resulted in property loss of approximately $142,461.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, during 1982 there were 8,500 fireworks related injuries treated at hospital emergency rooms throughout the nation.

82 area history buffs at meet

Thursday evening, June 9, 82 interested persons gathered in the St. Columbkille Catholic Church hall to learn about an incident in the history of Scotland that directly affected the Thumb area of Michigan.

They viewed a film entitled, "The Battle of Culloden," a fierce fight between the Scotch Highlanders (inhabitants of the Outer Hebrides, isles off the north-west coast of Scotland) led by Prince Charles of Stuart and the English forces sent by King George of England.

The bloody battle lasted little more than an hour on April 16, 1746, with several thousand Highlanders slaughtered. The survivors and their families were severely punished with persecution continuing for a hundred years.

In 1849 some 400 sailed to Canada, many dying of disease and starvation. In the early 1870s, 12 families moved to the wilds of Michigan, settling in what is now the Atwater Road area in Sheridan Township, Huron County and Greenleaf Township, Sanilac County.

Soon the first St. Columbkille Church, named for Scotland's patron saint, was built. It was a small wooden structure built on a 6-acre parcel of land purchased from an Indian for $50.

At the turn of the century the small church was replaced by the stone edifice in use today. In the nearby church cemetery are tombstones bearing the names of those early settlers: McEachin, McInnis, Cameron, McIsaacs, McIntosh, McIntyre, Ross, McDonald and others.

Those attending the program included members of the Bad Axe Historical Society, sponsors of the program: Cass City Area Historical Society; St. Columbkille Church, many of whom were descendants of those original Scotch colonists; Pigeon Historical Society, and others.

After the showing of the 80-minute film, the program continued with comments from those attending.

Jack Esau, president of the Cass City Area Historical Society, described the bleak site of the boggy Culloden moor where the battle took place, having visited there recently.

There were stories and comments by Esther McCullough, Cass City; Edna Rushton, Bad Axe, and Angus MacEachin of the MacEachin Insurance Agency, Uby, whose grandfather, John McEachin, was one of those who sailed to Canada in 1849 and who related the Highlanders' story to a New York news reporter in 1906. The story of the trek to Michigan and the terrible hardships they endured appeared in the Port Huron News that year.

The evening ended with the playing of the bagpipes by Dale Cleland of Holbrook, Greenleaf Township.

Cleland, who attended the Cass City schools, was on leave from the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.

He has studied the bagpipes for six years with bagpiper Donald Hockenberry of Marlette. He played "Scotland the Brave," "The 42nd Highlanders," "High Road to Gaerloch," "Marie's Wedding," and concluded with "Amazing Grace."

Skin is the body's largest organ, weighing an average of five-and-one-half pounds.

Thanks Dad for believing in us and for being very special every step of the way.

900 in county to lose extra benefits

Nearly 56,600 jobless Michigan workers who were receiving extended unemployment benefits lost those benefits starting Saturday because the state no longer qualifies for the federal-state Extended Benefit program, according to S. Martin Taylor, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

In Tuscola County, according to Charles Cramer, MESC Caro branch manager, that means about 900 persons will be losing their extended benefits.

The end of the Extended Benefits will mean maximum possible unemployment benefits of 39 weeks instead of 52 weeks.

Despite the loss of the program, those who were receiving or about to begin receiving Extended Benefits will not see any immediate loss in jobless benefits, Taylor said.

Most of those who were eligible for Extended Benefits will immediately move into the Federal Supplemental Compensation (FSC) program and avoid any interruption in their benefit payments.

Cramer said he was unaware of any Tuscola County residents losing Extended Benefits who won't qualify for FSC.

He pointed out, however, that unless Congress renews it, FSC ends Sept. 30. After that, without a renewal, unemployment compensation will only be paid a maximum of 26 weeks, unless Michigan should again some day qualify for extended benefits.

The EB program, which is funded by state and federal taxes, provides up to 13 additional weeks of jobless benefits to workers who exhaust their regular state unemployment benefits, which last a maximum of 26 weeks. The program triggers into effect during periods of high unemployment.

Taylor explained that because the state's 13-week moving average insured unemployment rate (IUR) dropped below the 6.0 percent EB trigger level, the program, by law, must end.

Because of the bi-weekly reporting system, claimants will get their last Extended Benefit checks as early as June 13 or as late as June 24.

The drop in the state's IUR below 6.0 percent could also cause current FSC claimants to lose from one to four weeks of FSC benefits, Taylor said. For new FSC claims filed after June 5, the maximum entitlement will become 12 weeks.

The EB program had paid out over $437.9 million in benefits to jobless Michigan workers from Feb. 28, 1982, through the end of March, 1983.

Taylor explained that the state's IUR has been dropping steadily since early February due to a decline in the unemployment insurance claims. He attributed the claims drop to fewer layoffs in the state and to workers either returning to work or exhausting their state jobless benefits.

Michigan had been among 22 states paying Extended Benefits.

Cass City firm gets roofing bid

Thomas Roofing of Cass City was awarded the bid Tuesday by the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners for repair of the jail roof.

Its bid of $17,945 was the lowest of four submitted that met bid specifications.

Sheriff Paul Berry talked to the board about other needs at the jail.

A recent inspection of the facility revealed lack of compliance with a requirement for a fire detector in the kitchen. The board approved purchase of a detector for $485.

The board also okayed advertising for bids for fencing so that the exercise yard at the jail can be enlarged. Bids will be opened July 11.

Mary Ann Vandemark of the Human Development Commission requested $1,000 to help pay the cost of distributing government surplus cheese and butter. The federal government provides the commodities, but doesn't pay for their distribution. Prosecutor Artis Noel will check the legality of giving the money to the HDC.

Sheila Everts of Caro was appointed to the county health board, replacing Commissioner Ken Kennedy, who resigned from the health board.

Negotiations started this Wednesday with the union representing courthouse employees, whose present contract expires June 30.

Hawk girls bow in regionals

Cass City came to the end of the tournament softball trail Saturday, falling to Goodrich, 5-1, in the opening round of the regionals at Mayville.

We just quit hitting, Coach Jim Fox said after the game. Meanwhile, Goodrich was touching Jill Hutchinson for eight hits. The fireballing Hawk hurler struck out 10 and two of the runs against her were unearned.

But it didn't matter because Cass City was able to score only in the fifth inning when Dee Hempton cracked a single and rode home on a double by Jamie Fox.

Hempton had a big day at the plate with three hits in three tries. Fox collected two hits and Hutchinson collected a single to account for all of Cass City's offense.

Goodrich broke open a tight game in the fourth with a pair of tallies. After Cass City closed the gap to a run the winners added two more tallies in the sixth and completed the scoring with a run in the seventh.

Cass City finished the season with a 16-9 record. Goodrich moved to a 17-9 mark with the win.

SEASON'S STATS

The Hawks had four players batting .400 or over. Fox led the hit parade with a .421 mark. Also in the 400s were Hempton, 413, Jill Root, 408, and Lisa Benitez, 400. Benitez posted a perfect fielding record in left field handling 44 chances without a bobble.

Hutchinson was practically a one-woman pitching staff. She finished with a 14-5 record while striking out 100 in 104 innings. Her earned run average was 3.9.

Lori Calka posted the best earned run average on the staff, allowing just .49 runs per game in 14 1/3 innings pitched.

flight finishers in third place were Stu Amell and Kevin Hogan, both of Caro. A sudden death playoff was also needed to determine second and third place of the championship flight.

On the third playoff hole, Jeff MacKenzie of Caro dropped his 125-yard second shot in the cup to knot second place for him and his partner, Clarke Adams of Bad Axe. Their opponents, Dick Blank, Snover, and Ron Erickson, Owendale, settled for third place.

Proceeds of the event will be used for Cass City Lions Club sight and civic projects.

First flight winners were John Maharg of Cass City and Tim Straight of Unionville, who won the top prize on the first hole of a sudden death playoff against Cass Cityans Jerry Whittaker and Phil Retherford.

Rounding out the first place were Stu Amell and Kevin Hogan, both of Caro. A sudden death playoff was also needed to determine second and third place of the championship flight.

On the third playoff hole, Jeff MacKenzie of Caro dropped his 125-yard second shot in the cup to knot second place for him and his partner, Clarke Adams of Bad Axe. Their opponents, Dick Blank, Snover, and Ron Erickson, Owendale, settled for third place.

Week-end summer cage tourney slated in Cass City

The first of four consecutive summer tournaments for next year's varsity basketball team will be played Friday and Saturday at Cass City High School.

Included will be Bay City All Saints, Saginaw Saint Stephens, Millington and Reese. Nineteen juniors and seniors are participating in the summer program that will include about 16 varsity-type contests.

All teams will play four games, meeting each team in the tournament once. Medals will be awarded to the team with the best record in the four games.

This will be the eighth tournament held under the direction of Coach Ron Nurnberger. It returns after a one-year absence. Last year the squad went to a basketball camp which Nurnberger felt did not help the team enough to warrant a return.

While this is the eighth tourney, it will be the first of the round robin type where each squad meets every other squad regardless of wins or losses.

Croft-Clara second in Saginaw tournament

Croft-Clara finished second last week end in the Be-A-Sport softball tournament at Vets Park in Saginaw.

Craig Helwig pitched a perfect game Saturday morning against Lacko

Construction of Saginaw. Helwig didn't allow a base runner in his team's 1-0 win. Doug Elbers hit a homer in the third inning for the only score of the game.

Ken Martin pitched the Cass Cityans to a 1-0 decision over Auburn Fertilizer in nine innings. Martin singled home the only run after Jeff Hartel doubled in the bottom of the ninth.

Croft-Clara faced Novak Trucking of Midland Sunday morning to determine which team would go to the championship game undefeated. Croft-Clara came out the winner 2-1 despite a seventh inning threat by Novaks. Helwig got the win.

Novak advanced to the championship game via the loser's bracket and evened the score by besting Croft-Clara 8-1. Martin homered and also took the loss.

Novak's win forced another game as Croft-Clara had only one loss in the double elimination tournament. Novak scored two unearned runs in the fourth inning with Croft-Clara tying it in the fifth with a double by Jeff Hartel, a triple by Doug Elbers and a single by Jerry Toner. Novak's scored the winning run in the top of the seventh to pull it out. Helwig was tagged with the loss.

Croft-Clara downed Michigan Coni-Island of Saginaw in league action last Tuesday 7-0 and Ken Martin pitched a three-hitter in 11 innings in a losing effort Wednesday night in Frankenmuth.

Martin struck out 19. Croft-Clara had eight hits but couldn't put them together for a score. Frankenmuth put a base on balls and two of their hits together for the only score of the game, 1-0.

Tournament play takes Croft-Clara to Corunna this week end.

Elkland in junkyard crackdown

The Elkland Township Board Monday evening decided to send a letter to P.J.'s Auto Salvage, 4100 Cemetery Road, reminding the owners that their junkyard license from the township has expired.

The letter will also say, according to Township Clerk Norma Wallace, that the license won't be renewed unless the owners put all the junk cars, etc., behind the fence.

Some persons have complained, she said, about the junk there, which extends close to the road. The junkyard is just south of the Cass City limits.

The license expired in March, the clerk said, and the owners haven't asked yet for a renewal.

In other action, the board approved the county solid waste management plan.

Approval was given to a Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) agreement between the state and James A. Tuckey for 140 acres he owns in section 32 and 120 acres in section 35.

2 persons injured in Saturday brawl

A fight outside The Station, 6432 W. Main Street, early Saturday resulted in injuries to two persons, one of whom required hospitalization.

The injured persons told Cass City police they were leaving the tavern when two or three subjects, whom they didn't know and didn't provoke, started beating them up. One victim said he walked in front of one of them, said, "Excuse me," and the pummeling started.

The victims were Fred Klinkman of Robinson Road and Richard Patara of E. Cass City Road.

Klinkman was transferred from Hills and Dales General Hospital to Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, for treatment of a broken arm, and released.

Police said Patara suffered an abrasion on the elbow and a swollen elbow. He apparently sought his own treatment.

After the incident, police questioned three suspects. Investigation is continuing.

The incident was reported at 1:15 a.m. A half-hour earlier, officers on patrol discovered a car sitting on top of cement blocks in the Plaza West shopping center lot.

The owner of the car, Theresa Flowers of 7126 Mushroom Road, Deford, notified them at 3:25 a.m. that she parked her car in the lot at 8:30 p.m. Friday and that after it was removed from the blocks, it was noticed several lug nuts were loose.

Dana Laurie of 5440 Dodge Road reported to Cass City police Tuesday afternoon, June 7, that a tree limb fell on her car parked in front of Richard's Barber Shop, 6592 Houghton Street.

UNDER AGE AND WATER — The 14-year-old driver of this car and his 5-year-old brother were treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital after their car flipped into the water-filled ditch at 4:25 p.m. Friday. The accident took place on Warner Road, south of Kelly Road. The driver told sheriff's deputies he lost control after going over a small bridge. Officers said it appeared he was driving too fast.

Fire destroys car

A car owned by Christopher McFarlin of Standish was destroyed by fire Monday afternoon on Englehart Road.

McFarlin was trying to restart his vehicle when he noticed black smoke pouring from beneath the hood. His efforts to put out the flames with a rug were not successful.

"It was totally engulfed in flames when we got there," Root said.

McFarlin told the fire chief he had been having trouble with the car during the day.

The car was valued at approximately $3,200.

Saginaw man killed in 2-car collision

A Saginaw man became the sixth person to die in a Tuscola County traffic accident this year when he was killed Sunday northeast of Reese.

Dead at the scene was Earl M. Johnson, 37.

Deputies reported he was southbound on Van Buren Road and struck the left side of a pickup truck eastbound on Gifford Road, driven by William L. Palm, 31, of Reese.

Palm was reported in serious condition Tuesday afternoon at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw. His vehicle rolled over following the impact.

Officers reported the stop signs on Van Buren had been painted over by vandals, but noted that the shape of the sign was still recognizable and since it was an unobstructed intersection, the drivers should have seen each other.

It is believed Johnson had been drinking. The accident took place at 12:40 p.m. driven by their mother, Hazel A. Spencer, 44, of 6559 Kelly Road. Their auto was northbound on Oak and collided with a car eastbound on Huron Street driven by Ronald R. Matthews, 18, of 1605 Crawford Road, DeFord.

Matthews was ticketed by police on a charge of failure to yield.

Paula Harper, 19, of 4090 Little Road, Cass City, was treated and released from Hills and Dales following a 12:50 p.m. accident Sunday.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Lawrence C. Harper, 22, of the same address.

Caro state police said their car was westbound on Little Road, west of Keilitz Road, and stopped to avoid hitting a deer.

Their car was then rammed in the rear by one driven by Eric M. Hendrickson, 23, of Warren, who told officers that because of the dust, he didn't see the Harper auto until it was too late.

Hendrickson was ticketed on a charge of violation of the basic speed law. He sought his own treatment for minor injuries. Lawrence Harper was reported to have suffered possible injuries.

Sheriff's deputies reported Stewart W. Batts, 18, of 3375 E. Cass City Road, Cass City, sought treatment for injuries following a mishap at 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

They said he was driving on Jacob Road, north of Cass City Road, when, he told them, he swerved to miss a dog. His car went off the road and across a lawn at 4765 Jacob.

fender that fell off a boat trailer.

Driver of the car towing the trailer was Jerry Opczynski, 37, of Burt.

At 12:45 p.m. Sunday, troopers reported, Nicholas Nagy, 73, of Caro, was westbound on M-81, east of Crawford Road, when the left wheel came off the small utility trailer his car was towing.

It rolled down the road into the side of an eastbound vehicle driven by Frank A. Horning, 28, of 3833 S. Cemetery Road, Cass City.

James C. Wise Jr., 17, of 6751 Lapak Road, Gageton, was ticketed by deputies on a charge of improper passing after a 12:40 p.m. accident Friday.

Officers said Kevin R. Doneth, 25, of 5800 Ritter Road, Cass City, was turning left from westbound M-81 onto Koepfgen Road when Wise started to pass him and their vehicles collided.

Deputies reported that at 5:40 p.m. last Thursday, Ruth Ann Widdis, 44, of 3535 E. Cass City Road, Cass City, was headed northeast on M-81, north of Decker-ville Road, when her vehicle went off the right side of the road and struck a mailbox.

Cass City police reported that at 4:30 p.m. Monday, Mary A. Porritt, 53, of 6181 Cedar Drive, was attempting to pull out of a parking space on Main Street, east of Oak, and backed into a parked car.

Owner of the parked car was Lambert Althaver of 4618 Kennebec Drive.

At 11:15 p.m. Monday, according to village officers, the car being driven by Marcia Kay Lasiewicki, 29, of 1549 E. Caro Road, in the General Cable parking lot was struck by another vehicle.

The other driver involved, John W. Eschtruth, 25, of 3070 Phillips Road, Kingston, was attempting to pull out of a parking place when he struck the Lasiewicki auto.

Taking stock

When the International Gold Bullion Exchange of Fort Lauderdale went defunct recently, a list of the biggest losers was printed. The top victims dropped a total of $4.8 million.

Guess who lost the most? A Dr. Lam. Wouldn't you know it? I tell you, as a group, the doctors are the unluckiest people when it comes to investments that I know. I wonder why?

There have been some notable disasters on the investment scene the past year -- the Gold Bullion Exchange of Fort Lauderdale mentioned above, the devaluation of the Mexican peso and freezing of assets in the banks south of the Rio Grande, Penn Square Bank bankruptcy, and lately the Biscayne Federal Savings and Loan.

In the Bullion Exchange deal, people should have known better than to buy gold except through a bank or broker. The price is essentially the same with these reputable concerns, so why speculate with the high-flying operators?

In the Mexican debacle, shed no tears for those victims. Most were stashing money in Mexican banks for the sky-high interest rates, and more particularly because the interest was not reported to the IRS.

Well, they got the high interest all right, but there was one catch: they didn't get their principal back.

Americans who speculated in land in the Bahamas a few years ago got clipped, too. Land went up in price, but the Pindling government decreed that it must be sold to Bahamians. And the islanders, except for the Forty Thieves along Bay Street in Nassau, are notoriously short of money.

The Penn Square Bank that folded cost big city banks a bundle. They all should have known better than to buy shaky loans from Penn Square just because the interest rate was high. Again, they got the high interest, but none of the principal.

An officer of an Ohio bank that didn't get clipped told me that the loans were poorly documented and the Chicago and New York banks that bought this paper were both negligent and greedy -- a bad combination.

Then there was the Biscayne Federal Savings and Loan that the Feds closed up and are now in the process of reorganizing. Gracious, there were stories six months ago of the sorry shape that Biscayne was in. Plenty of time for depositors to get out, and even the shareholders could have salvaged some of their investment. But they hung on.

While the deposit insurance will pay off the smaller depositors the big ones may have to wait a while on the reorganization. The shareholders, meanwhile, have stock worth nothing.

Today we see ads on the financial pages for 12 1/2 percent tax exempt bonds. Usually when you get to the smaller type you find it's for a nursing home or retirement center. Those places so often have financial problems and this big premium on interest rates on their bonds clearly reflects it.

Nowadays, if a bond is sold to yield over 9.5 percent, look out. There's a catch in it somewhere.

As for foreign investing, most of us find there are enough problems here at home. Let the Bahamians and the Mexican politicians get their fingers in the pie, and you'll be eating at the second table -- if at all.

INJURY ACCIDENTS

Joey and Jay Spencer, 12 and 13 respectively, were treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital following an 8:30 a.m. accident last Wednesday.

Cass City police said they were passengers in a car students.

Of the 40 MYC jobs in her county, 14 will be coordinated by the Huron Intermediate School District, 12 by the consortium and 14 by the Huron County Soil Conservation District. (Of the $42.2 million being spent for the MYC program, $2.9 million is allocated for soil conservation projects and work at county fairgrounds.)

HAROLD JOSTOCK, supervisor at the Sandusky MESC office, also felt that college students aren't getting a majority of the MYC jobs. "I don't think it's that heavy," he commented. "I can't see where lots of college students applied."

One of the requirements of the MYC law was that General Assistance (welfare) recipients, 18-21, had to apply if they weren't already enrolled in a job program.

Jostock said the 15 persons referred to the Sanilac County Soil Conservation Service to be interviewed for 10 job openings were all General Assistance recipients. (Cramer commented the MYC law doesn't give precedence to hiring GA recipients; it only requires them to apply.)

Of the other MYC jobs in the county, 14 are being coordinated by the Sanilac Intermediate School District and 15 by the consortium.

Monday, Jostock was still expecting a request from the Department of Natural Resources to employ some of the MYC applicants, since the DNR is receiving $22.3 million of the state job money. That would be in addition to the 39 jobs presently allocated.

Neither Cramer nor Ms. Anczewski as of Monday had received any requests from the DNR for jobs, nor had any of the three received any requests from county road commissions.

The MYC legislation allocated $7 million to the state Department of Transportation and county road commissions for roadside cleanup projects.
