Dangerous M-53 bridge slated for replacement

The narrow and dangerous bridge on M-53, 2.6 miles north of M-81, is scheduled for replacement tentatively in 1984.

It is one of several highway projects in the Cass City area and the upper Thumb that will be undertaken this year or next as the result of increased funding for such purposes. Included will be repaving of five miles of M-53 and 60 miles in Huron County.

More money is available because of a 5-cent per gallon increase in the federal motor fuel tax and a 2-cent per gallon increase in the state tax which went into effect this year and a $100 million state bond issue for highway, road and street work.

The bridge over the north branch of the Cass River, built in 1922, is one of eight or nine such camel back bridges remaining on state trunklines, according to Peter H. De Camp, Michigan Department of Transportation (DOT) senior district engineer. All are scheduled for eventual replacement.

What makes them dangerous is that the abutments are just off the edge of the pavement, which makes it hazardous when two vehicles pass each other while on the bridge, especially if one of them is wide.

The M-53 bridge claimed one life in June, 1978, and another in June, 1979. A Pigeon woman died in 1978 after the car which she was driving rammed a farm implement being towed by a truck. The fish-tailing implement had bounced off the west abutment wall into the path of the car.

A Cass City man died the following year when the van he was driving crossed the centerline and rammed the end of one of the abutments head-on.

Replacing the bridge will cost an estimated $170,000, De Camp said, of which federal funds will possibly pay 75 percent.

In addition to being wider, the new bridge will be capable of supporting a bigger load. He did point out that the present bridge is structurally sound.

ALTHOUGH THE bridge is scheduled to be replaced next year, whether it is, De Camp said, depends on whether the DOT engineering staff gets it designed in time. Because of the influx of highway building funds, the staff has a lot of projects on its drawing boards.

During the time the bridge is being built, traffic will probably be detoured through Cass City, the route being M-81 to Seeger Street and Cemetery Road to Bay City-Forestville back to M-53.

De Camp said the route was selected after consulting with the road commissions in Tuscola and Sanilac Counties. "It's definite we want it through town," he commented.

Negotiations haven't started yet between the DOT and village, but the Cass City Village Council indicated at its May meeting it will be agreeable to the detour through town if the state pays the cost or part of it of laying a coat of asphalt on the portion of Seeger that will be used in the detour.

Also at that meeting, the council decided to borrow $100,000 through the state program to repave Seeger Street from the south village limits to where the four-lane pavement ends near the north end. If the state picks up part of the cost for the detour, some of the borrowed money can be used for new pavement elsewhere.

A PROJECT TO BE done this year will be repaving of the five miles of M-53 from M-81 north to the Huron-Sanilac County line. Saginaw Paving of Carrollton was the successful low bidder at $312,157. Federal funds are paying part of the cost.

According to De Camp, it is up to the contractor when he will start, but the project will probably get underway in July or early August and take a month or more to complete. It must be done by October.

The asphalt will be applied one lane at a time, so traffic will be routed onto the other lane, which will slow it, but no detour will be required.

The contractor can work six days a week, but on busy week ends, such as Labor Day, all work will be halted.

M-53 MAY NOT BE the only repaving done this summer. The Huron Co. Road Commission has asked to borrow $2 million through the state's $100 million bond program in order to repave 60 miles of county roads at an estimated cost of $35,000 per mile.

Included will be the eight miles of Sebewaing Road between Owendale and Sebewaing and six miles of Hard times for

Insurers, hospitals in tussle over costs

By Mike Eliasohn

Hills and Dales General Hospital had more patients in 1982-83 than it did the year before and made a small profit, but when the hospital was busiest, early this year, that was no guarantee it was making money.

On the surface, the hospital did better financially during the fiscal year that ended March 31 than it did for the 1981-82 fiscal year, but appearances can be deceiving.

At the hospital's annual meeting Tuesday, June 14, Administrator Ken Jensen announced the hospital had a net income for 1982-83 of $17,923, compared to a loss of $55,484 the previous fiscal year.

He pointed out, however, that the profit worked out to a return of less than 1/2 percent of 1 percent on investment. "...business could not survive on this, neither can we," he warned his audience.

Although the hospital is a non-profit corporation, Director of Finance Keith Adelberg explained in a Chronicle interview a "profit" is necessary in order to maintain the building and buy needed equipment.

Right now, it isn't making enough money to do that.

Hills and Dales, he explained, is managing to pay its bills and employees by using money that had been invested for future capital improvements, that is, for buying new equipment, and by spending revenue as it comes in without setting any aside for future capital improvements.

Come September, depending on whether some expected revenue arrives, it may have to borrow money for a short time to pay employees and operating expenses, something it hasn't had to do in several years.

HOSPITALS, UNLIKE retail stores, don't get their money directly from their customers for the most part.

Of Hills and Dales' gross revenue of $5.93 million in 1982-83, 41 percent came from Medicare, 25 percent from Blue Cross and 11 percent from Medicaid, for a total of 77 percent. Much of the remainder comes from private insurance companies.

Medicaid is funded equally by the state and federal governments and pays for health care for the poor. Medicare is entirely federally funded and pays health care costs for the elderly, and disabled. Blue Cross is the state's largest insurer.

The problem facing Hills and Dales and all other hospitals in Michigan, Adelberg explained, is threefold: the "big three," in an effort to limit increasing health care costs, no longer reimburse hospitals for the total cost of patient care; the financially strapped state is delaying scheduled Medicaid reimbursements to hospitals, and the cost of needed equipment is skyrocketing.

The latter is easiest to explain. Adelberg used as an example the hospital's X-ray machine, which when purchased 10 years ago cost $73,000. It will have to be replaced soon and a new machine will cost $175,000.

Michigan presently owes Hills and Dales $125,000 in Medicaid reimbursement, but in order to balance the state's books, the hospital won't get the money until sometime after Oct. 1, which is the start of the state's new fiscal year.

Budget shuffling isn't confined just to state government. Medicare will owe the hospital about $120,000 in September but not pay it until October, thus shifting the payment from the federal government's 1982-83 fiscal year to 1983-84.

THE BIGGEST PROBLEM facing the hospital is what are called non-allowable costs. What it means is that Medicare, Medicaid and Blue Cross reimburse the hospital for what they consider allowable costs for the patients they insure, not what the hospital should charge to provide the services.

It cost $5.2 million to operate Hills and Dales in 1982-83, of which the "big three" disallowed $200,000. Had it received the revenue, the hospital would have had a healthy "profit."

Hills and Dales' total "deductions from revenue" last year were $799,327, which consists of the non-allowable costs and program adjustments, uncollectable debts and charity cases, that is, hospital services provided for persons who can't afford to pay and don't have insurance.

The rationale of the insurers is that non-allowable costs on medical bills save by forcing hospitals to be more efficient.

UNDERSTANDABLY, Adelberg doesn't agree.

For instance, starting last Sept. 1, the state began making Medicaid payments to hospitals on the basis of a "fee for service," for out-patients, instead of the hospital's cost or charge. (Out-patients don't stay overnight in the hospital; in-patients do.)

For an out-patient lab charge of $10, the state set the fee it pays at $2.38. Asked how the fees are figured, he responded, "I don't know what they use, what rationale or anything."

The change cost Hills and Dales $30,000 for the first seven months it was in effect.

Medicare and Blue Cross now reimburse the hospital for the cost or charge, whichever is less, for in and out-patients. Medicaid does the same for in-patients only.

The cost of providing a service, Adelberg explained, is about 90 percent of what the hospital charges. The 10 percent "profit" is what is needed for maintenance costs and equipment purchases.

THE FINANCE DIRECTOR doesn't feel the "big three" insurers are realistic in their expectations regarding hospitals' ability to control cost increases.

Hills and Dales buys Blue Cross hospitalization insurance for its 173 employees. Two years ago, its premium went up 40 percent and last year it went up another 15 percent.

But while premium rates went up that much, Blue Cross was "holding us to a limit of 10.3 percent" increase in costs in 1982-83 and to 9.7 percent in the current fiscal year. Medicaid was figuring reimbursements to hospitals on the basis of 8.6 percent increase in costs last year and 7 percent in 1983-84. Medicare doesn't have a limit yet.

But while Blue Cross and Medicaid were putting those limits on how much they would allow hospital operating costs to increase in terms of figuring their reimbursements, Hills and Dales' costs went up about 18 percent in 1983-84.

The reason, Adelberg explained, stemmed from an increase of patient days of 11 percent in 1982-83 over the previous year, which required added staff, some of it temporary, and purchase of more supplies.

The hospital admitted 2,231 patients in 1982-83, an increase of 117 from the previous fiscal year, who stayed a total of 14,310 days, an increase of 1,465.

The "big three" provide an additional reimbursement when hospitals' costs go up, but the addition doesn't cover the entire increase. The rationale is

Walbro directors okay stock split

The board of directors of Walbro Corp., June 13, declared a second quarter cash dividend of 10 cents per share payable July 29 to stockholders of record June 30.

Following the declaration of the cash dividend, the board declared a three-for-two stock split by authorizing a common stock distribution to be issued at the rate of one additional share for each two shares standing in the name of each stockholder.

New shares to be issued as a result of the action will be distributed Aug. 31 to stockholders of record July 27.

The directors indicated that the action was taken in order to broaden the distribution and marketability of Walbro common stock. Presently there are 778,820 shares outstanding.

In announcing the board's actions, Walbro President and Chief Executive Officer Lambert E. Althaver noted that the outlook for the second half of the year continues to be favorable.

"Sales of the company's electric fuel pumps remain strong, in both the automotive original equipment and aftermarket," he said.

"Demand for the company's small engine carburetors, while still below previous levels, is gaining strength. In addition, automotive throttle body production, a relatively new area of activity, continues to grow steadily, allowing better utilization of our facilities and increased sales and profitability."

"Sales of the company's Die Casting Group are increasing, and, combined with improved operating efficiencies, suggest a good year for the subsidiary," according to Althaver.

"The outlook for the company's Plastics Group is also quite favorable, with strong orders and an increase in production capacity scheduled for the third quarter."

REPAVING PROJECT — Work began last week on preparing Huron Street for installation of curb and gutter and new pavement on Huron Street, which will all be done this summer. Huron between Seeger and West Streets, as well as one block each of West and Rose Streets will be rebuilt.

SAFER BRIDGE — The narrow M-53 bridge, 2.6 miles north of M-81, is scheduled to be replaced by the Michigan Department of Transportation, probably in 1984.

Kingston area crash sends two persons to Caro hospital

A Wednesday, June 15, accident northeast of Kingston sent two persons to Caro Community Hospital.

Injured were the two drivers involved, Sandra E. Dereszynski, 33, of 7230 Collins Road, Kingston, who was released from the hospital Friday, and Jeffery G. Moore, 17, of 2140 Clothier Road, Deford, who was treated and released.

Sheriff's deputies reported Ms. Dereszynski was southbound on Clothier, failed to yield at Legg Road and collided with the westbound pickup driven by Moore.

After the impact, her car hit a ditch embankment, bounced up and came to rest partially on top of the pickup bed. The accident took place at 10:15 p.m.

Steven D. Shotwell, 17, of 7405 Bevans Road, Deford, sought his own treatment for injuries following a 4:10 p.m. accident Monday.

Caro state police reported he was southbound on Clothier, north of Legg, when he lost control as he was going downhill on the gravel road. His vehicle went off the west side of the road and rolled over.

Shotwell was ticketed on a charge of violation of the basic speed law.

Troopers ticketed Earl A. Limberger, 44, of Sebewaing, on a charge of unsecured load after a 6:10 p.m. accident Saturday.

They reported he was westbound on M-81, east of Koepfgen Road, when the motor riding on the trailer his vehicle was towing fell off.

The motor landed on the pavement and a piece of it broke loose and hit the hood and windshield of an eastbound car driven by Daniel J. Miller, 35, of Caro.

A similar mishap took place at 3:48 p.m. last Wednesday. Deputies said Milford E. Short, 29, of Redford Township, was headed southwest on M-81, northeast of Caro, when some boards fell off the flat bed

"If It Fitz..."

Good gossip

By Jim Fitzgerald

It was no surprise that several people asked why I've made no comment on the judge who led a double life. But I was surprised to learn that someone wondered why I didn't write anything about seeing a married man check into a hotel with a woman who wasn't his wife; the woman was an old friend of mine.

The subject for today is gossip. Pay attention and you'll learn the disadvantages of being Zsa Zsa Gabor.

It was almost midnight when my wife and I boarded the elevator on our way to the restaurant on the top of Detroit's Montchartrain Hotel. In blatant defiance of the laws of probability, two other elevator passengers were from the little town where we used to live. We knew the woman well, and we knew the man just well enough to know he wasn't with his spouse. The woman blushed and the man looked glumly certain that the Fitzgeralds would never believe he and his companion were going to the Top of the Pontch for a late supper carrying two suitcases.

That was several months ago, and I'd forgotten the incident until last week when it was reported to me that the wayward husband was overheard discussing the accidental meeting. He said he'd read my column nervously for several days after, afraid of seeing his name. Why had I ignored such juicy gossip?

Because the gossipees were only ordinary people, of course. Just as gossip has to be nasty to be redundant, it also has to be about well-known people to be worth wide circulation. His neighbors might be interested in learning about the straying husband, but everyone else would be bored — unless he strayed with Zsa Zsa Gabor.

This is an opportune time to use Zsa Zsa as an example of how published gossip is one of the penalties of fame. She recently received much publicity for allegedly demanding the removal of a group of brain-damaged people who paid $20.05 each to sit near the stage upon which she was performing in Philadelphia.

Because Zsa Zsa is well-known for being well-known, a nasty gossip columnist might write that a person has to be brain-damaged to pay $20.05 to see Zsa Zsa Gabor perform.

That wouldn't be nice, of course, and Zsa Zsa would be justified in protesting. But that's the price of divorcing a lot of millionaires. If Zsa Zsa were a simple usher, she wouldn't get her picture in a thousand newspapers for simply displaying her monumental ignorance while seating her intellectual superiors.

As for Judge William Beer, who received nationwide publicity for fathering nine children by another woman while still married to the mother of his three other children, I don't have much to add. Obviously, if he weren't a well-known member of the Michigan judiciary, I wouldn't be writing about Beer at all, even if he'd boarded my elevator accompanied by both mothers and all the kids.

Besides, several esteemed lawyers assured me that Judge Beer's colleagues have known about his two families for many years and it's unfair for the media to suddenly make a front-page scandal out of a life-style that is really the judge's own personal business. The legal profession apparently expects sympathetic recognition of the unique predicament faced by a judge who believes in judge not, lest you be judged.

I certainly don't want to write any gossip that might offend the American Bar Association. So, despite reader pressure for more cogent comment, all I have to say about the Judge Beer case is that I felt a special pang for one of his children, Matt Beer, who, by wild coincidence, is a Detroit gossip columnist who often demonstrates a great appetite for peeking through transoms.

Because of his unique predicament, gossip columnist Beer felt constrained to make "no comment" on the juiciest hunk of gossip to hit Michigan in many years. That was the same as a baseball writer being unable to comment on Don Larsen's perfect no-hit World Series victory.

Onward and Upward, ironically, but don't tell anyone.

The Haire Net

It's easy to understand why Americans, when they reach Senior Citizen status, are showered with benefits denied the rest of its citizens.

It's not because this country reveres the aged. Far from it. In contrast to countries in Europe and Asia, we tend to disdain the aged. Seniors receive special consideration because they have developed a potent lobby. Strong and getting stronger as its ranks swell.

There's no rational reason why a person should receive discounts because of age. Really, a good case could be made for charging more to the aged than to the young.

After all, most folks when they join the Seniors club have fewer expenses and more disposable income than at any other time.

Younger persons have homes to pay for. Children to care for. Debts to polish off. They really need whatever discounts can be offered.

About the only expense that Seniors have that increases when age comes creeping up is medical. You can make a case for discounts on drugs, I guess.

However Medicare and Medicaid have virtually eliminated the health burden load.

Certainly, discounts to Seniors are used as a promotional gimmick. Many recreational firms, including golf, bowling, and movies, offer special rates but do so only at off-hours when business stinks anyway.

Better to have someone on the golf links at half price when no one else plays anyway than to have no income at all.

Seniors can play on Tuesday mornings as easily as they can Saturday at 10 a.m.

In those cases, it baffles me why owners just don't lower the rate and open the attractions to everyone.

Many restaurants these days have Senior Citizen discounts that apply anytime. The same meal that may cost $5.00 is reduced to $4.00.

It's not because Seniors eat less. That's hogwash. Some do, some don't. The discounts are established because Seniors watch carefully for the bargains and patronize the ones that discount, ignore the ones that don't.

Like many things in this crazy old world, that's not fair, but that's the way it is. And it's not going to change. Unfortunately.

Elmwood seeks millage

The Elmwood Township Board last Wednesday evening decided to seek a two-mill levy for five years for road construction and maintenance Aug. 23, the date of the Detroit Edison franchise renewal election.

The board approved a resolution establishing the election date for the franchise vote, presented by Edison General Supervisor George E. Andersen of the Caro office.

The county election scheduling committee will now have to approve conducting the millage vote at the same time.

If the millage is approved, according to Supervisor Roy Messer, the millage will raise about $40,000 a year.

In other action, Mike Ormstead of the Kalamazoo insurance firm of Burnham and Flowers reviewed the township's insurance policies.

The board will investigate further before possibly making changes in coverage, Clerk Joanne Sattelberg said.

Installation of a safety railing along the sidewalk and outside stairs on the South Street side of the township-village hall was approved.

The board gave its approval to Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116) agreements, between the state and Lawrence Diehm, Earl Hutchinson and Richard Colling.

Eight adults, not young adults, mind you, were up and at 'em Tuesday morning at about eight to get in a morning swim in the special time reserved for the foolhardy at the Cass City Pool. Again the names are withheld to protect the guilty.

The guys had the fun and the gals did the work. In the Harold Isard Memorial golf tourney for members of the Cass City Golf League hot dogs and drinks are served. The dogs are prepared and served by a few of the wives.

All are veterans on the job since the tourney started a few years ago. The workers: Margo Donahue, Lois Harris, Mary Lou Erla, Linda Marshall and Norma Wallace.

Say what you will about Michigan weather. There is no way, positively no way, that Thursday, Friday and Saturday could be beat anywhere.

Maybe it's because we have plenty of the other kind... the hot, muggy days or the cold, rainy ones, that the great ones are so great.

Editor Mike Eliasohn spotted a car Saturday south of Detroit with Ohio license plates which was carrying a "Say Yes to Michigan" bumper sticker.

Mike was returning from the wedding of the reporter who replaced him when at the Monroe Evening News six years ago.

He brought back one item of interest to those looking forward to their retirement. Maud Rye, who worked half-days at the Evening News as a social news writer, is retiring Aug. 1 — at age 93. She didn't start her newspaper career until she was 65.

Dirty socks

By Mike Eliasohn

I don't go to many weddings.

It's probably because I remember comedian George Gobel's word of advice he offered to bachelors one June: "Remember, the wedding you go to may be your own."

I knew I was safe at the one I went to Friday, however, because it was the groom who was the friend of mine. I had never met the bride before.

To extend George Gobel's joke a bit further, bachelors should be cautious about attending weddings when it is their old girl friend who is getting married.

Not that women getting married often invite their ex-boy friends. I think the only time that ever happened was when Lynda Bird Johnson married Charles Robb and invited George Hamilton.

To those of you reading this to whom that means nothing, stop by the Chronicle and I will give you a history lesson. It starts, "Once upon a time there was a president named Lyndon Baines Johnson and he had a not-so-beautiful daughter named Lynda Bird who met an actor from Hollywood...."

Lynda Bird owed a lot to George, who with the help of his friends, changed her appearance for the better.

I don't know how the couple whose wedding I attended met, but I suspect they owe me a lot, not that I plan to send them a bill.

My friend who got married was the fellow who replaced me when I left the Monroe Evening News six years ago.

I mentioned him once before in this space. Part of his job, as was mine, is being farm editor and in contrast to me, whose practical experience in farming is non-existent, Dean has actually baled hay.

I should add that I owe Dean a lot. When I left Monroe, he helped me pack, which with all my junk, isn't easy.

Dean married a local girl, from Ida. (That's the name of the town, what there is of it, not her name.)

Had I not left Monroe when I did, Dean wouldn't have gotten my job and presumably would have ended up working for a newspaper in another town, that being preferable to staying home and baling hay for a living.

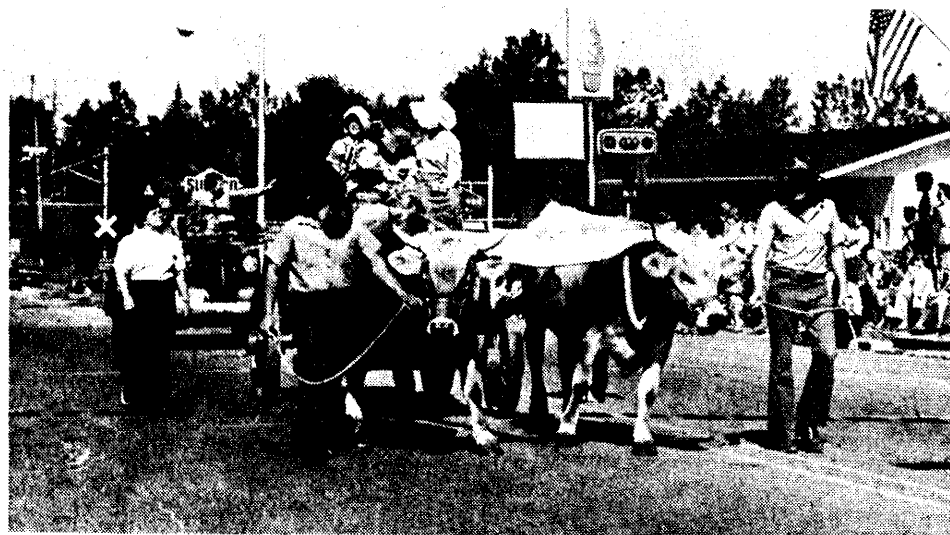

Had he gone someplace else, I figure he probably never would have met his wife-to-be, so for that, he should be grateful.

On the other hand, one person I knew before and after he got married told me a big difference concerned his dirty socks. When he was single, when he took his socks off, he left them on the floor wherever he dropped them until he got around to doing his laundry.

After he got married, his wife wouldn't let him do that any more. There was a place for everything, including dirty socks.

It's nice knowing when my friend Dean throws his dirty socks on the floor and his wife Coliss tells him to pick them up, he'll think of me.

Added $70,000 gives summer jobs to 50 18-21-year-olds

An additional 50 18-21-year-olds will get summer jobs because of an extra $70,000 in Michigan Youth Corps (MYC) funds received by the Thumb Area Consortium.

The consortium initially received $72,000 from the state, enough to provide 20 jobs in Tuscola County, 16 in Sanilac and 14 in Huron (allocation based on population).

In reporting on the MYC program to the consortium administrative board last Thursday morning, Executive Director Frank Lenard predicted his agency would be receiving more money for more jobs. "I think that's just the beginning....I think the name of the game is putting kids to work."

Only a few minutes later, he received a call from the Michigan Department of Labor in Lansing, notifying him that the agency was slated to receive an additional $70,000, enough to provide 50 more jobs, although the official authorization wouldn't come until this week.

Lenard predicted the consortium will receive even more money, so the board authorized him to accept and use any additional MYC cash.

Of the $42.2 million the legislature authorized for the MYC, only $5 million was originally allocated to agencies like the consortium, which run the federally funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program (including the CETA Summer Youth Employment Program). The rest was supposed to go to the state natural resources, transportation, agriculture and education departments.

The extra MYC money the consortium is receiving, Lenard explained, is coming from those departments because they couldn't provide enough jobs to use all the money they were allocated or couldn't fill the jobs quickly enough.

Filling the 50 or more additional jobs in the upper Thumb won't be a problem.

A Chronicle survey, reported last week, showed a total of 945 18-21-year-olds applied for the 125 MYC jobs originally allocated in the three counties, before the consortium received the extra $70,000. (The 125 consists of jobs funded through the education and agriculture department, as well as the consortium.)

LENARD REPORTED that as of June 13, 345 youth ages 16-21 had been put to work in CETA summer jobs and that 415 should be at work by June 30 -- 175 in Tuscola, 125 in Sanilac and 115 in Huron. There are 46 work sites in Tuscola, 44 in Sanilac and 47 in Huron.

The federally-funded program employs youngsters 16-21, who must be from economically deprived families. The state-funded program is, as mentioned, for 18-21-year-olds and regulations regarding their economic backgrounds aren't as strict.

Youngsters employed in both programs receive the minimum wage of $3.35 an hour.

MYC regulations require the consortium to buy a hat and insignia for each youngster enrolled in the program, at a cost of $2.50 per participant, which they are supposed to wear while working.

The hats and insignia must be bought from the state, with the money coming from the MYC funds. The aim is to make the MYC participants easily identifiable by the public. "There's a lot of political hype on this one," Lenard said of the program promoted by Gov. Blanchard.

OTHER ACTION AT the meeting concerned the phase-out of the CETA program, which will be replaced Oct. 1 by the new federally-funded Job Training Partnership Act.

With new enrollments in the various job training programs ending, the first of the consortium's 14 regular employees will be laid off effective June 24. Her job was to process applications from would-be CETA participants.

Bike-a-thon raises $481

The May 15 bike-a-thon in Cass City raised $481 for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Rev. P. Thomas Wachterhauser announced the total last Thursday, after all pledges had been collected and turned in.

Sixteen riders took part and rode a total of 240 miles.

Those who collected more than $75 each, which earned them a St. Jude T-shirt and a tote bag, were Eric Wachterhauser, Steve Jackson and Marjory Tuttle.

Receiving a T-shirt for having collected more than $25 each will be Jimmy Sellers, Lee Roy Sellers, Kathleen Bolton, Patrick Murphy and Jane Dickinson.

The total collected was down sharply from 1981, when about $1,800 was collected, and last year, when the total was about $1,500.

Wachterhauser said St. Jude officials have told him proceeds from bike-a-thons all over the country have been down this year, which they attribute partially to the state of the economy.

State wheat prospects favorable

Prospects for Michigan's 1983 winter wheat crop remain favorable although development is about two weeks behind normal.

Production from this year's crop is expected to total 36.4 million bushels, an increase of 48 percent from last season's disappointing harvest, but 12 percent below the 1981 record, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service.

Yields for this year's crop are expected to average 52 bushels per acre. Based on conditions as of June 1, yields are expected to be 11 bushels above a year ago and 2 bushels above the previous record attained in 1981. Recent warm weather will benefit the crop and speed up development.

This year's crop is expected to be harvested from 700,000 acres, an increase of 17 percent from a year ago.

Nationally, winter wheat production is forecast at 1.86 billion bushels, 11 percent less than the 1982 record high production.

'Right-to-die' bill deserved its defeat

The Michigan House of Representatives recently defeated a bill that would have allowed persons to designate someone to make medical decisions on their behalf if they become incapacitated or terminally ill.

The issue concerning so-called "right to die" legislation has been a hot topic nationwide for some time.

In Michigan alone, three similar bills have been denied passage during previous years.

Mrs. Loretta McLaren of 5785 Snover Road, Decker, believes any more such bills which would make it easier to "pull the plug," should suffer the same fate.

"I think that as long as there's life, there's hope," she stated. "As long as there is a small chance for survival, it (removing a patient from a respirator) should not be done."

"However, if after a reasonable amount of time and after talking with a physician and there is no hope, it would be fine."

(The bill that was defeated would have required a person making medical decisions for an incapacitated person to consult the patient's doctor and family as well as consider the patient's expressed wishes.)

Mrs. McLaren's opinion stems partly from a past experience she and her family (husband Leonard and their two children) encountered.

"My brother was in the hospital in a coma for a long time and lived," she explained. "He was hooked to a machine for a little while and came out of it and lived for another year."

If circumstances were different and the bill had been passed, her brother could have designated someone to make medical decisions for him while he was on the respirator. That appointee could have told doctors to stop external life functions, thereby preventing Mrs. McLaren's brother from recovering.

"We were just thankful for having him that extra year," she added.

New books at the library

PONTIFF by Gordon Thomas (non-fiction). An intimate portrait of the three most recent popes: Paul VI, John Paul I and John Paul II -- their lives, their characters, their relationships with the cardinals. It also brings us an equally revealing view of the deliberations in the closely guarded conclaves which elected the two popes in 1978. Even more remarkably, it penetrates several major stories dominating the news, the assassination attempt and the truth behind the Vatican's tangled financial dealings.

LEAD TIME: A JOURNALIST'S EDUCATION by Garry Wills (non-fiction). "We did not expect Ford to be perfect; just not to tell unnecessary lies. There was no economy to Nixon's lying." "Muhammad Ali is the supreme marksman. Time after time he touches the target, so fast it is hard to count the blows." This collection of 38 pieces by journalist Garry Wills is a sort of light fantastic, shooting out luminous beams on myriad topics: Martin Luther King, Beverly Sills, Charles Colson, Pope John Paul II, Raymond Berry, Alger Hiss, etc. Written from 1968-82 for 13 different publications, these essays are unrelentingly moral, perceptive in their baring of historical half-truth, ever challenging the mighty.

A CRY FOR HELP by Mary Griffin, M.D. (non-fiction). Statistics show an increase in teenage suicide of 150 percent in the past five years. Griffin, medical director of a Chicago mental health clinic, points out. Most suicide attempts are to call attention to a person's desperate need. The author maintains that the child in trouble invariably gives definite clues, which if observed and acted upon, could prevent many tragedies. This important and useful manual also presents clear descriptions of the various therapies available and lists agencies and clinics equipped to deal with this problem.

Riegle aide to meet with constituents

U.S. Sen. Donald W. Riegle has announced that staff assistant Carl Osen-toski from his eastern regional office will be in Huron and Tuscola Counties Thursday, June 30.

He will be in the commissioners' room of the Huron County Building in Bad Axe from 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m. and the council chambers of the Caro Municipal Building from 2:30-3:30.

Persons who would like to express their views on issues facing the country and state or are having problems with a federal agency are invited to meet with Osen-toski.

No-till meeting

The first no-till soybeans have been planted in Tuscola County, according to John Posselius, extension agricultural agent.

Four area farmers have tried planting soybeans in undisturbed corn residue this season.

Some of the advantages, he said, are savings of labor, fuel and moisture during drought conditions. The no-till system also helped some farmers get their crops in this spring where the weather prevented conventional planting techniques.

There will be a meeting at 7:30 p.m. this Thursday, at Ken Hofmeister's soybean field. The location is 1 mile west of Cedar Run Road on Hobart Road, southwest of Gagetown.

Information on planting techniques, weed control and equipment will be presented and no-till crop production questions answered.

$670,000 available for low income house repair

Gov. James J. Blanchard announced Friday that the Human Development Commission is the recipient of a $250,000 federal Small Cities Community Development Block Grant for rehabilitation of owner-occupied single family housing in Tuscola and Sanilac Counties.

The HDC is also recipient of a $420,000 loan from the Michigan State Housing Development Authority for the same purpose.

"These housing grants will serve a twofold purpose by helping low and moderate income households to upgrade their dwellings through loans and grants," Blanchard said, "and by creating a significant economic benefit for the state in terms of jobs and sales of building supplies and energy conservation materials."

The Small Cities grant was one of 31 housing grant awards totaling $5.8 million statewide.

To be eligible for the loans, homeowners must have an annual income of no more than $15,000, according to HDC agency planner Dick Smith.

The minimum loan will be for $1,500 and the maximum, $16,500.

The agency won't start taking applications for about a month, Smith said, since it must first conduct an environmental review and meet with the two counties' Boards of Commissioners and with banks.

There will be a public announcement when homeowners can start applying. The loans will be available to those eligible on a first-come, first served basis. Persons receiving the loans will hire their own contractors to have the rehabilitation work done.

The Small Cities fund loans will be made available at zero interest. The MSHDA rate will be 3-12 percent.

In making the loans, the HDC will combine the funds. For example, a homeowner with an income of no more than $6,000 borrowing $1,500 will receive $1,000 at zero interest in Small Cities funds and $500 at 3 percent in MSHDA money, for an effective interest rate of about 1 percent.

At the top of the scale, a person with an income of $15,000 borrowing the maximum of $16,500 will receive $1,500 in Small Cities funds at zero interest and 10 times that, $15,000, from the MSHDA at 12 percent, for an effective interest rate of about 11 percent.

Depending on various factors, the maximum time to repay the loan will be 15 years. The Small Cities portion of the loan will be repaid when the home is sold or the owner dies and the home changes ownership.

Of the $250,000 in Small Cities funds, $40,000 will be used to administer the program. The remainder plus the MSHDA grant of $420,000 will be enough to rehabilitate 126 homes if the average loan is $5,000.

Smith said the MSHDA authority has given assurances more money will be made available to the HDC if the initial $420,000 is used up.

Traxler aide to make stops in Tuscola

An aide to U.S. Rep. Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, will be in Tuscola County Thursday, June 30, to discuss problems and concerns of constituents.

He will be in the Vassar City Hall from 10 a.m.-noon; the court room in the courthouse annex on E. Grant Street, Caro, from 1-3 p.m., and the Unionville fire hall from 4-5.

Year after year the "500" is very special for 5 area fans

Their names aren't well known, like A.J. Foyt's, but when it comes to the Indianapolis 500, all are veterans.

Rabideau and Withey, both of Cass City, first went to the 500 in 1965. Withey hasn't missed a race since; Rabideau has missed one.

Bader, also a Cass Cityan, has seen every race since 1971. Walker, from Caro, has attended since 1972.

Latest to join the group which travels to Indianapolis together is Howard Kelley of Cass City. This year's race was his fourth.

Also part of the group, though he meets the others there, is Munfield, who was from Chicago when the annual trek began and now lives in San Francisco. He has missed two or three races, including this year's, since they saw the first one.

A.J. Foyt, the only four-time winner of the Indy 500, has raced there every year since 1958.

The annual trip started because Withey was friends with Munfield and Bill Lopez from when they attended military school together.

Lopez lived in Chicago, but his parents lived in Indianapolis, and he invited Withey to attend the race in 1965.

Munfield, Rabideau and some friends of the Chicagoans went along. Lopez only attended three or four years, but the Cass Cityans were hooked. Withey said it's common for persons, after seeing the race the first time, to return year after year. "It seems like once people start coming, they continue to go."

WITH 18 YEARS OF experience, the Cass City group has going to the 500 down to an exact science.

They depart via motor home from Cass City Thursday evening and stay overnight in Fort Wayne, Ind., where they stock up on groceries.

They arrive in Indianapolis, actually in the town of Speedway, about 1 p.m. Friday and park their motor home in the same spot (under a tree) in the same parking lot each year. The lot is across the street from the speedway.

What do they do besides sleep and eat until the start of the race Sunday?

For starters, there is "a lot of euche," according to Rabideau.

The other chief activity is people watching. The men like to sit in their lawn chairs, by the curb and watch the people go by on the street, which is closed to traffic before the race.

In addition to seeing all the pre-race action, there is another reason for coming early. If they waited until Saturday, "it would be just a hassle," Withey said.

He, Rabideau and Kelley, who were interviewed by the Chronicle, estimate that noon Saturday, 90 percent of the spectators for the race are already there.

(The speedway never releases the number of spectators, but news media estimates are about 300,000 see the race.)

ALTHOUGH GATES open at 5 Sunday morning, camping across the street from the speedway enables the group to have a leisurely breakfast and arrive in their seats about an hour before the race starts at 11 a.m. Indianapolis time, (noon Eastern Daylight).

They sit in the same seats every year, at the top of the grandstands across from the entrance to the pits. From there, they can see third and fourth turns and the pits. Their seats cost $30 each. "We've got the best of the cheap seats," Withey said.

No one at the track can see the entire course.

AMONG THE THINGS they didn't see this year was when winner Tom Sneva passed Al Unser Jr. and then Al Unser Sr. on the back stretch in the final few laps. "Then he just flew," Withey said.

They had a good view last year when Gordon Johncock narrowly edged Rick Mears on the last lap for the closest win in 500 history. "That was unbelievable," Withey commented.

Their most memorable incident may have been in 1976 when it started raining on the front part of the track before it started raining on the back stretch.

When the drivers hit the rain, many lost control. They had a clear view when one driver spun out and then his car was hit by another.

The first driver gestured in anger at the one who hit him, but the second driver put his hands in the air to gesture back. "I couldn't do anything,"

WHICH LEADS TO THE question of do auto racing fans go to races to see the crashes?

"It adds to the excitement, but you don't like to see anybody get hurt," Withey responded.

What if there were no crashes? "It would still be a good race," Rabideau said, pointing out, "We didn't see a crash this year." (There were some accidents, but not where they could see them.)

When a car driver crashes, Withey added, "You have more of a tendency to feel sorry for the guy" after he worked so long and hard to get into the race.

After the race, which takes a little more than three hours, the men return to the motor home, eat dinner while the crowd departs, then leave about 6 p.m. and drive straight home, which takes about seven hours for the approximately 380 miles.

GOING TO THE INDIANAPOLIS 500 each year is something special. "Really, I don't think we'd care if we watched the race or not," Rabideau said.

Withey joked they only watch the race because some persons always ask them afterwards who won.

"I think the idea behind our group is comradery, like (going) deer hunting," he explained seriously.

It has become somewhat of a tradition, he jokingly added later in the conversation. "... it keeps the same group together and at least you're sure of four guys coming to see you at the funeral home."

There is no doubt the group will go again next year, because they have already ordered their tickets.

"If we're all still living, we'll go," Rabideau said, to which Withey added, "and if one of us dies, we're taking his ashes."

Hawk track team girds for across state fund raiser

Members of the Cass City High School cross-country teams are about to embark on their longest run ever.

While competition races which usually cover about 3 miles present no problems, one that stretches 205 miles is obviously quite different.

That's how far coaches Doug Grezeszak and Dennis Meck think their thinclads will have to run in order to cross the state.

The run is a unique approach to raise money for shoes, running camp, a week-end excursion to Sleeper State Park, girls' uniforms and orange juice the team drinks before competition.

The runners will sure work for the pledges they have collected during the past week.

"Before we just ran around the track to earn money," Grezeszak said. "But we wanted to do something different."

Up to 19 (7 girls and 12 boys) hand-picked runners may make the trek, but Grezeszak cautioned, "If they're not ready to do it, I won't let them go."

He added, "Each kid will run either half a mile or a mile. We have to average 7:36 per mile to do it in 24 hours but I'm pretty confident we'll be able to make it."

They will start Wednesday evening on the shores of Lake Michigan at Montague (just north of Muskegon) and finish Thursday evening in Forestville.

Their course will mainly follow secondary roads which Grezeszak mapped out and drove along by car earlier this month.

Making money is not the only reason behind this "different" undertaking.

"We need to accomplish something that we can sit back and look at," Grezeszak explained. "We have superior athletes and we wait on everyone in the Thumb, but we have a mental block when we get out of the Thumb. We don't perform up to our potential. I'm hoping this will be something we can be proud of."

The three van Red Hawk caravan will be passing through Cass City on Main Street around 4 p.m. Thursday.

Croft-Clara bows in finale of fastpitch tournament

Some of the state's best fastpitch softball action was played last week end in Corunna at the Mitchell Corp. Invitational Tournament.

Some of the teams featured in the ten-team double elimination tournament were Borden's of Flint; Mitchell Corp. of Corunna; Irish Pub of Lansing; last year's Class A State champs, Auburn Fertilizer, and Cass City's Croft-Clara.

In Croft-Clara's first game, Coni Island of Saginaw scored first but the Cass City team collected three runs in the fourth inning to take the lead. Coni scored another in the sixth inning to come within one run, but could not score the tying run. Craig Helwig got the 3-2 win.

Doug Elbers hit his eighth home run of the year in the first inning of Croft-Clara's second game against Borden's. Mike Rea added another run with an RBI single to take an early 2-0 lead. Borden's scored once in the bottom of the seventh and had a runner on third with no outs, but Helwig shut the door to secure the win.

Ken Martin got his first win of the tournament against Heck's Bar of Saginaw. Doug Elbers provided the offense with a grand slam in the fifth inning for the 4-3 win. The grand slam was Elbers' fourth home run of the week.

Croft-Clara entered the championship game with no losses. Mitchell Corp., after losing their first game of the tournament Friday night, had to defeat Croft-

Clara twice in order to win the title.

Mitchell took the first game, 2-1. Helwig suffered the loss.

It took 11 innings to decide the winner, but Mitchell bested Croft-Clara 3-2 for the championship. Helwig again took the loss.

With two wins in league play last week, Croft-Clara finishes the first half of play with a 5-2 record, with two rain-outs to make up.

The Cass Cityans will play in Midland this week end in a 12-team round robin tourney. Croft-Clara's schedule is: Friday 8:30 - Office Supply of Midland; Saturday 10:00 a.m. - Al's of Midland; 2:00 p.m. - Portage Lake Hardware; 6:00 p.m. - a rematch with Mitchell; and Sunday at 12:00 - Vandenberg Furniture of Kalamazoo. All games will be played at Emerson Park.

Golf winners

Thirty-four seniors braved the roughs and tees Tuesday at Sherwood on the Hill for a round of best ball. Top honors were taken by the team of George Clara, Jim Baur, Jim Aumock and Ed Schnepf with a score of 30.

Second place tie went to the foursomes of George Kerr, Don Martin, Joe Verschoore and Harold Phillips, and Clark Boylan, Oland Dunckel, Bob van-steenhouse and Dick Patnaude.

Free religious program set

A free religious program, "Break-a-Way '83," will take place from noon-8 p.m. Saturday at the new city park on Washington Street, Sandusky.

Featured speakers will be Gary Wilkerson, son of evangelist David Wilkerson, and Pastor George Bogel, a television and radio minister.

Musical groups and musicians performing will include Bread of Life, Tim Kaiser, Tom and Jenny, Full Circle, Doug and Diane and Judy Willet.

Leach jury trial in car crash death of Cass City teacher set

The trial of Roger F. Leach, charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the Jan. 29, 1982, traffic accident that took the life of Cass City school teacher Bonnie Bruner, is scheduled to begin in Tuscola County Circuit Court Tuesday, June 28.

The jury trial is scheduled to run four days. Monday of this week, Judge Patrick R. Joslyn granted a prosecution motion to allow it to see the results of a test made of the defendant's blood alcohol content following the accident.

Leach, 27, of 5688 Hugh Drive, Lot 50, Millington, was treated following the accident at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw. In papers filed in support of his motion, Chief Assistant Prosecutor Scott Stermer argued that the law says that when a blood sample is drawn for medical treatment, the results shall be admissible as evidence.

Defense attorney Brian R. Schrope of Caro argued that the sample was withdrawn at the request of a police officer; that it hadn't been taken by a doctor, nurse or medical technician, and that such involuntarily made evidence isn't admissible except for driving under the influence of liquor and impaired driving cases.

Although Joslyn granted Stermer's motion, he will decide later whether the results of Leach's blood alcohol test can be admitted as evidence.

Miss Bruner, who was 30 at the time of her death, was killed when the pickup truck driven by Leach crossed the centerline and ran into her car, sheriff's deputies reported at the time. The accident took place on M-15, about four miles south of Vassar.

She had taught first grade at Campbell Elementary School for 8½ years.

In other cases Monday: The guilty plea of Noel Powell, 20, of 4090 Little Road, Cass City, to violating probation was accepted.

A sentencing date will be set. He was released on $400 personal recognizance bond.

Powell was placed on 36 months' probation Jan. 3 for attempted felonious assault. His probation violation was due to his guilty plea in district court June 6 to a charge of driving with license suspended (second offense).

Douglas D. Zinn, 19, of Mt. Morris, was sentenced to 40-60 months in prison for entering without breaking into a store in Vassar Dec. 24. He pleaded guilty to the charge June 1.

The sentence is to be served concurrently with a sentence he received in Genesee County for another offense. He was credited with 164 days served.

Karl J. Humpert, 26, of 4268 Center Street, Akron, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail for driving under the influence of liquor last Nov. 13 in Fairgrove Township. The jail term is to run concurrent with another sentence.

He had pleaded guilty to the charge.

Anthony M. Allen, 24, of 2280 Wells Road, Caro, pleaded guilty to criminal sexual conduct (third offense) with a woman Jan.

23 in Fremont Township. His plea was accepted and a sentencing date will be set. Bond was continued.

Tony Welch, 21, of 2010 W. Caro Road, Caro, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of larceny in a building and to being an habitual offender.

He was originally charged with breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling in connection with a break-in of a restaurant on W. Caro Road, Indianfields Township, last Oct. 30. A speaker, tools and money were taken. Welch has two prior felony convictions.

He was remanded to the county jail to await sentencing.

Steven J. Matzke, 18, of 8451 Irish Road, Millington, and Edward Carlisle Jr., 19, of 5063 Sanilac Road, Vassar, both pleaded guilty to larceny in a building in connection with a May 21 break-in of a house in Vassar in which a stereo, handgun and cash were stolen. The charge was reduced from breaking and entering an occupied dwelling.

Their pleas were accepted and a sentencing date will be set. Bond was continued.

Raymond Benavides, 31, of 4326 Beach Street, Akron, was sentenced to 162 days in the county jail for violating probation by failing to report to his probation officer April 7 or thereafter. He pleaded guilty to the charge May 16.

Benavides was credited with 72 days served. His appeal bond was set at $5,000, cash or surety.

He was placed on 36 months' probation in April, 1982, for non-sufficient funds - check over $50.

Alfred Palmer, 22, of 332 Gaway Street, Vassar, was sentenced to six months in the county jail for violating probation, serving of which is to be delayed one year unless he loses his job or reports late for work. He was credited with 75 days served and fine and costs were dismissed.

Palmer was found guilty of violating probation by failing to report to his probation agent last Dec. 20. He was placed on 36 months' probation in February, 1982, for delivery of marijuana.

50 attend annual reunion

The 74th annual Old Settlers Reunion was held Saturday at the Deford Elementary School. Nearly 50 persons who lived or are still residing in the area attended the get-together.

"The reunion started as a picnic way back in horse and buggy days," Audley Horner said. "People are now all over and this gives them the chance to get together with people they used to live with."

He added the people today are second or third generation descendants of the original reunion goers in 1909, but they carry on the tradition with just as much enthusiasm.

Jason Kitchin and Goldie McLaughlin, who are both 90 years old, were the oldest persons present.

Ardis Kaphengst and Joan Miller, daughters of Arthur Henderson, came from Dearborn and Pontiac respectively. Basil and Viola (Quick) Colton attended from Rochester. Others came from as far as Snover and Montrose.

The program consisted of readings, harmonica music by Luella Smith, a song by Donna Little, a slide show given by Graham Crawford and reading of a poem entitled "Novesta," written by Arleone Retherford.

Memorial services for 10 members who died during the past year were conducted by Mardell Ware.

New officers were also elected. Albert Englehart was elected president and Leta Gelatt was named secretary-treasurer.

Stolen safe found in river

A stolen safe was recovered last Wednesday from the Cass River.

Sharon Ray Williams reported to Cass City police the day before that it was taken from a home he owns at 4408 West Street. It is believed the safe was taken some time June 9 or after.

The 200-pound safe was valued at $200 and contained photo albums, personal papers and some foreign coins. It had been pried open.

It was found by three boys, the location being near River Road, west of Cemetery Road. It was retrieved by a sheriff's deputy by the time village police arrived.

It appeared the safe had been pushed down the hill from the road to the river and then the culprits threw it in the water.

Helen Peters of 4325 Woodland Avenue reported to Cass City police June 8 that various articles of clothing, worth a total of $223 were stolen from her car while it was parked at the Charmont.

Cass City police arrested Craig M. Ryland, 30, of 4242 S. Seeger Street, on a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor after stopping his car at 1:10 a.m. Saturday on Garfield Street, near Woodland Avenue, after it was seen being driven with no lights on and then weaving.

Ryland was later released from the county jail after posting $100 bond, with arraignment scheduled in district court June 27.

Jack Wallace of 6464 River Road reported to sheriff's deputies last Thursday that an engine was stolen from a barn he owns on Schwieger Road. The 3½ horsepower Briggs and Stratton was valued at $100.

James Findlayson of Birch Drive, Kingston, reported to Caro state police theft of four aluminum lawn chairs, one lounge chair and his dog, a Chihuahua-Scotch terrier mixed breed. Total value was listed at $65.

trailer his semi-truck was pulling.

The boards hit the auto driven by Lyle Truemner, 49, of 5548 E. Cass City Road, Cass City, which was headed northeast.

Deputies reported that at 9:45 p.m. last Thursday, Jean E. Lawrie, 24, of Caro, was eastbound on Gerou Road, west of Jacob Road, when her car hit a deer.

At 9:50 a.m. Sunday, deputies said, Tamara Sue DeWald, 21, of Unionville, was eastbound on Cass City Road, east of Dosser Road, when her car collided with a deer.

Prison movie to be shown at church

"God's Prison Gang" will be shown at 6 p.m. Sunday at the Cass City Church of God at the corner of Sixth and Leach Streets.

The film, shot at New York's Attica Prison, features four criminals who have become Christians: George Meyer, Al Capone's getaway driver; Floyd Hamilton, the last of the Bonnie and Clyde gang; Jerry Graham, the "robber king" of California; and Ted Jefferson, convicted of various crimes including murder.

The film, hosted by Art Linkletter, tells the work of the International Prison Ministry.

A free will offering will be received.

More money for road repaving

S. Bad Axe Road between the Bad Axe city limits and Atwater Road.

The Sebawaing road project will complete the repaving of the road, which was resurfaced from Owen-dale east to Elkton Road last year and from Elkton Road east to M-53 in 1980 and '81.

Road Commission Engineer-Manager Robert Tufts said an asphalt surface is expected to last 17-18 years and all 60 miles to be repaved are at least 18 years old.

In recent years, the agency has fallen behind in its repaving schedule, due to lack of funds, and about 110 miles need new asphalt, so the $2 million program will allow it to catch up on more than half the backlog.

THE ROAD COMMISSION board, Tufts explained, has decided to borrow the money through the state only if the interest rate comes in at 9.6 percent or less. The bond sale will take place July 27.

If the interest rate isn't to its liking, the board will proceed with what it had been planning to do before the state bonding proposal had come along -- sell its own bonds.

Because Huron County has a better credit rating than does the state, Tufts said, the Road Commission may be able to sell its own bonds for 7.6-7.7 percent.

However, selling its own bonds will mean having to pay legal fees and other costs, which will be avoided by borrowing through the state program, so there may be a cost savings even with a higher interest rate with the state's bonds.

If the money is borrowed through the state program, the paving contract must be let by Aug. 15 and all 60 miles must be done by Aug. 15 of next year. Tufts figures about half the mileage will be repaved this year and the other half in late spring and early summer next year.

If the Road Commission sells its own bonds, however, the repaving will all be done next year.

A paving project that won't be paid for out of the bonding program but out of the Huron Road Commission's regular funds will be four miles of Bay Port Road (Colwood Road in Tuscola County) from Sebawaing Road south to the county line.

THE TUSCOLA COUNTY Road Commission Board pondered borrowing $3.5 million through the state program for resurfacing or other improvements on 113.57 miles of county primary roads.

Its board decided earlier this month, however, not to participate. One reason, Clerk Jim Miklovic explained, was that the interest over the 15-year payment schedule would probably have totaled more than $3 million.

Another was that it felt it didn't want to be committed for that long. "It would have been an obligation (to pay) before we did anything else," he explained.

The Sanilac County Road Commission, having borrowed a large amount of money in 1980 for a repaving program, decided to borrow only $40,000 through the state program, according to Engineer-Manager Jack Kineman. The money will be used for repair of some of its garages and a mobile communications center.

Cost squeeze at hospital

that as the number of patients increases, hospitals should be able to control their costs better.

Lack of full reimbursement when costs go up is why Hills and Dales wasn't making money early this year when its beds were all being used and it had to hire some additional nurses temporarily.

ADELBERG FEELS THE insurers need to do more to control costs, instead of putting all the burden on hospitals.

"If you're looking at the other side," he said of Blue Cross as an example, "are they putting a limit on usage (of hospitals) by their users? They expect the hospital to do that."

The finance director said the hospital is doing what it can to control costs -- a conversion to natural gas heat three years ago has already paid for itself, for instance -- but feels it is limited in what it can do.

Salaries and fringe benefits paid to employees make up 53 percent of the total budget. "We can control them," Adelberg said, "but what about the other 47 percent?" Included are such things as heat, electricity, water and sewer, food and supplies.

Employees received an 8 1/2 percent pay hike in 1982-83, with total salaries and fringe benefits going up 13 percent because of the necessary increase in staff.

JENSEN NOTED IN his speech at the annual meeting that "it was 'other income' which held us in the black for fiscal year 1982-83. Our goal in the future, indeed our mandate for the future, will be to significantly expand this 'other income' area."

Although "other income" includes such things as television and telephone rentals to patients and meals sold in the cafeteria, the hospital administrator later explained to the Chronicle, a committee is examining corporate reorganization as the long-term solution to Hills and Dales' money troubles.

Reorganization would mean formation of a profit-making subsidiary which could buy equipment for the hospital and make money from selling consulting services and other ventures, such as possibly owning real estate. All profits would be used to subsidize the hospital.

Such reorganization, he said, is anywhere from 1-5 years down the road.

Directors reelected

Carolyn Martin, Keith Goslin and Gerald Prieskorn were reelected to three-year terms on the Hills and Dales General Hospital Board of Directors at the hospital's annual meeting Tuesday, June 14.

Officers were then reelected to one-year terms. They were: Prieskorn, president; Lee Rabideau, vice-president; Mrs. Martin, secretary; and Dr. Robert F. Green, DDS, treasurer.

By Bill Myers

Taking stock

It may not be your cup of tea, but personally, I prefer to leave this world comfortably, if and when that day comes.

Please note the "if." I don't intend to die.

With my personal dislike of pain in mind, I have left instructions with everyone who might be involved in my final illness. I even obtained a pamphlet from the American Euthanasia Society, 95 N. Birch Rd., Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The essence of the brochure: In America, forget it. Euthanasia, a word from the Greek meaning "good death," is illegal in this country. And the law is not apt to be changed because of church and American Medical Association opposition.

"The Catholic Church says that life is a gift of God over which man has no proprietary right," says the Euthanasia Society.

"Euthanasia, therefore, is morally equivalent to murder."

The doctors for the most part oppose the idea, for many reasons -- scientific curiosity concerning prolonging life, fear of lawsuits, and sometimes just personal feelings on the subject.

So, putting aside the idea of "a good death" by letting a person depart this earth with dignity, it looks as though the next best thing is to convince your doctor to make it as painless as possible.

And to forget the "heroic measures" of oxygen tanks, tubes, forced feeding and all such when there is truly no hope for recovery.

Some think a "mercy will" will assure that. It won't. A "mercy will" is no legal standing. It is only a request. It could be helpful, though, if your family and the doctor are faced with a decision about prolonging life that has no future.

Condensed a bit, this is the "mercy will" which the Euthanasia Society suggests:

"I do not wish to be subjected to any life-sustaining surgical operations or to be kept alive by artificial applications which would include all manner of tube insertions, organ transplant, and respirator to prolong my life."

"It is my strong desire to depart this life in peaceful dignity without suffering excruciating and intractable pain. No participant in this action whether it be my physician, lawyer or person in or out of my family shall be held responsible for the program I now seek."

It should be signed, witnessed and dated. Remember, it has no legal standing. Best to discuss it with your doctor and get his views on giving pain-killing drugs, even those dosages that might be so heavy it would shorten your life.

Your family, too, might have different views, and believe that a dying person should be kept alive week after week, month after month.

The time to settle the matter, to the extent that you can settle it, is when you are well and frisky, and are able to argue.

I knew a doctor who ordered his own death. He was Herbert Best, a county medic loved by all, who practiced in Lapeer.

The nurse who worked with him on his serious cases was Blanche Larry, R.N. She told me of Herb's directions.

Some years before his terminal illness, Dr. Best told Blanche: "When I get to the state where I'm not going to recover, you know what to do, don't you? Well, then, I want you to do it." "Did you?" I asked Blanche.

"Certainly."

So Herb Best died peacefully and without undue delay. Unfortunately, not all his patients could be accommodated.

The first railroad station in the U.S. was the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad depot in Baltimore, Maryland.
