LET IT POUR -- The wheat harvest moved into full swing this week as evidenced by the number of grain trucks flocking to local grain elevators. Two workers at the Pillsbury elevator watch as another load of wheat is dumped into storage Monday.

Farmers started bringing wheat to area grain elevators in the middle of last week. Now the wheat harvest has moved into full swing Predictions for this year's yield range from excellent to normal as more and more farmers haul truckloads of grain to the elevator. However, forecasts for corn and beans are not as promising.

$100,000 street project gets final ok

The Cass City Village Council decided Tuesday evening what streets will be repayed this year and expressed concern over the speeds being driven on Main Street

The council okayed signing agreements to borrow $100,000 through the governor's $60 million statewide transportation bonding project, to be financed by the sale of bonds, bids for which were to be opened this Wednesday.

When the council gave its tentative okay to the bor-rowing at its May meeting, it intended to spend all the money to repave Seeger Street from the south village limits north to where the four-lane pavement ends partly up the hill. Tuesday, it decided to gamble that the Michigan Department of Transporta-tion (DOT) will follow through on its verbal assurance it will pay for repaying -- probably next year -- of Seeger north of Main as part of the detour when the M-53 bridge over the north branch of the Cass River is replaced.

It decided to spend the $100,000 for repaying as follows

--S. Seeger from Seventh to Main, $42,000 estimated cost. --Virginia from Hunt to west terminus, $6,600. --Hunt from Virginia to Huron, $5,800.

--Huron from Virginia to Dale, $2,300. --Sixth and Seventh between Vulcan and Leach, total of $11,000. --Leach, West and Vulcan between Garfield and Seventh, total of $12,900.

All of the above streets except Seeger don't have man, 35 between Sherman curb and gutter. One criteria in their selection,

--Church between Sherman and Seeger, $8,500. --Garfield between Ale and Seeger, $11,500. The village's bid specifications will require the paving to be done this fall. The bonding program says they must be done by Aug. 15, 1984.

The next negotiating session between the village and the Fraternal Order of Police, which represents the four village patrolmen, is scheduled Aug. 10. A mediator will be present. The officers have been working without a contract since the old pact expired May 1.

Councilman Elwyn Hel-wig, who paid a youngster to stay at a park pavilion during the week end starting at 6 a.m. for a family reunion that started at 1 p.m., suggested persons should be able to reserve them in advance, rather than first-come, firstserved. Marlette and Caro both accept reservations he said, and one of them charges for it.

His suggestion was referred to the parks and recreation committee.

Also referred to the committee for a recommendation was how many new picnic tables are needed for the park and what type they should be. The public will probably be asked for donations to buy tables.

It was reported First Michigan Cablevision is supposed to start installing cable the second week in August in the Northwood Estates and Village subdivisions and in September along Doerr Road. More channels, including sports, are being added.

Managers of three local grain elevators are more optimistic with their predictions.

ASCS Executive Director LaVoie noted farmers taking part in either federal program can count on a definite amount of income.

The same does not appear to be true for everyone else, especially bean and corn farmers, unless Mother Nature sends some rain soon.

That's the type of ignorance columnists often must put up with when dealing with presidents. A recondite question, according to the dictionary, "deals with very profound, difficult or abstruse subject matter beyond ordinary know-ledge or understanding."

Will not only coaches the president, he socializes of interest for Will to pub-licly praise Reagan's breeding without first revewith him, and has entertained Mr. and Mrs. Reagan at his home. That's why I'm surprised Breslin or any other fellow columnist would accuse Will of deceiving the public by not announcing that when he stroked Reagan's mane, he was feeling his own oats. I think his colleagues are simply jealous that Will is close enough to the president to learn all sorts of state secrets, including whether Nancy, when asked her age, should stomp 60 or 62 times. Because there are so many columnists, the competition for readers is intense. And informative or entertaining words are not the only weapons used in the battle for runner-up to Ann Landers. There is even one columnist / - Minneapolis millionaire Percy

Ross says he "wants to share his ideas and wealth before he dies" and he invites readers to tell him their hard-luck stories and the amount of money needed to make them happy. Ross doesn't fulfill every request, but certainly lots of people are willing to wade through his Cruising along on I-75 at about 60 miles per hour was traveling slower than the normal traffic rate. Can't prove it of course, but the average speed has to be increasing from its low point when the gas rationing scare was full bloom. Another reason has to be the reduced police patrols. On the round trip from Bay City to Gaylord just three police cars were observed.

Joe McCluskey, Walbro executive, is temporarily down, but not out. He's in St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, after suffering a stroke last Tuesday.

He was visited by the Rev. Harry Capps. He told Capps that he would have to bow out of the choir at the church because the stroke affected his vocal cords.

You can do something for me, McCluskey added. Sure, said Capps, what is it? Get hold of Bill Lovejoy for me and we'll do a duet, he said. (Just in case you didn't know, Lovejoy has trouble with his speech, but not his spirit.)

OUR LOW PRICE POLICY SAVES ON PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

Prices on over 100 drugs have been sharply reduced!

Coach Light continues to fight spiraling health care costs.

We realize the cost of higher priced drugs can be a serious financial burden. That's why we have added so many new drugs to our new low price schedule. Come in and ask us about it.

by a boat owner in Harbor Springs, some seven miles away, and he immediately powered his way across the bay, bucking three-foot waves, on a rescue mission.

Towing the disabled boat about three miles took some able seamanship and about three hours. It would be nice to be able to tell you the name of the Good Samaritan, but he was off again as soon as our boat reached the dock, refusing any kind of payment or acknowledgement of how grateful we were for his help. Maybe you can help me if I get into trouble, he said with a wave, as he hustled back towards his home port.

It would have been nice to be able to send a copy of this to our benefactor, to let him know how much his help was appreciated. Even when there's no apparent danger, it's uncomfortable to be stranded on the Great Lakes.

But that is not the primary purpose of telling you about the incident. It proves again that most folks are really concerned. Do care about the other means unusual. It's rare that a boat dead in the water would be ignored by another boat passing by. The same person that would think nothing of going out of his way to help a distressed boat might well never give a second thought to helping someone on land.

There is the difference in danger, of course, to account for some of it. You can be inconvenienced by a stalled car, you can be dead with a stalled boat.

But that's only part of the answer. It's harder to relate to a stalled car driver. If we knew he was a real nice guy in trouble, we'd help. A man in trouble on a boat is instinctively a good fellow. Safe to deal with. A man on the side of the road may be lying in wait to take

I made one discovery during my 2,018-mile vacation trip.

It was not that I dislike long drives. I knew that before I went, but with my sister in New Jersey, plus an aunt and uncle there whom I haven't seen in several years, plus an opportunity to visit two persons I have corresponded with for some time, but never met, in New York and Toronto, and with an opportunity to go through the bicycle pa-tents at the U.S. Patent Office in Washington (I do weird things on vacation), I went

My discovery was that there is someone on this planet who, when it comes to living conditions, is a worse slob than I am.

Cleaning is my least favorite activity. The only room in my apartment that gets cleaned on a semi-regular basis is the bathroom. I sweep the kitchen floor onc a week, but beyond t' .t, a good cleaning of my partment is at best, an annual affair.

The advantage of my weird bicycle interests is it provides an opportunity to visit fellow weird persons who have the same interests and I get to stay at their places. Throw in a few relatives, with whom I sometimes also stay, and I travel fairly cheap.

When I went to England in 1980, I had a free bed (plus a few free meals) for five of the 10 nights I was there. Last year, when I went (via airplane) to Utah, California and Arizona, I never had to pay for a motel room.

This year, I had a free bed for seven of the nine nights I was gone. One of my "free beds" was in a room with two bicycles in it. I don't even sleep next to one bike af home

But when I got to Toronto, I learned sleeping cheap has its disadvantages -- unless one is a total "pig." (Apologies to swine farmers and their livestock. I know real pigs aren't as messy as their reputation.)

I spent Tuesday night was in that category.

The house in Toronto wasn't. It was even worse inside. You've seen photos of ghetto apartments with the wallpaper peeling off, the plaster crumbling and the rats and cockroaches crawling.

This house was like that, except I didn't see any cockroaches or rats. The only thing that crawled over me was my friend's cat, which may explain why I didn't see any rats.

Maybe the cockroaches, if there were any, stayed in the kitchen, where there was plenty to eat. There were piles of unwashed dishes and pots and pans. Fortunately, we ate in restaurants while I was in Toronto.

I slept on (it was too dirty to sleep in) the "guest sleeping bag" on top of the "guest mattress," which is normally stored inside the attic, which was probably dirtier than the rest of the (I was afraid to house. look.)

you wonder, my Lest friend is a bachelor, who shares the house with another bachelor, who was sharing part of his living space with his girl friend while I was there. My illusion that no woman can stand filth was shattered.

The nicest part of my trip was the first day (July 13), when I drove through Ohio. purposely didn't drive on the Ohio Turnpike, which is a toll road. I drove on the highway south of the turnpike, much of which was four-lane, which took me through nice farm country and small towns, all very clean.

It's interesting what a difference of 150 miles makes. In Ohio, farmers were harvesting wheat, whereas around here, wheat harbegan only revesting cently.

Everywhere I went, it was hot and dry, so farmers here aren't the only ones in need of rain.

Ninety-seven family members met at the Arlan Hartwick home at 6675 Seed Street, Cass City, Sunday for a potluck dinner. It was the 25th annual reunion. Family members came from Caro, Lapeer, Davison, Fairgrove, Bad Axe, and Otisville. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mellendorf came the longest distance, from Grove City, Pa.

The young folks spent the afternoon in the village park, playing softball and in the swimming pool. Two-year-old David Mellendorf was the youngest family member attending. Miss Stella Jackson, 84, of Caro, was the oldest.

Older family members reminisced and looked at pictures of past reunions. The reunion ended with ice cream served to everyone.

Produce more milk in April

Milk production on Michi-gan farms during May, at 477 million pounds, was up 5 percent from April production, according to the Michigan Agricultural Re-porting service.

Milk cow numbers increased to 404,000 head during May. Milk output per cow averaged 1,180 pounds, up 50 pounds from May, 1981.

Comparable data on May 1982 milk production are not available as estimates were on a quarterly basis during the April-December period

Milk producers in Michigan received an average of $13.40 per hundredweight (cwt.) for their milk in May, up 10 cents from a year earlier. This increase can be attributed to seasonal factors including the higher butterfat test for May, 1983. This year's fat test of 3.60 percent com-pares with 3.55 percent a year ago.

Milk prices have generally been averaging below year earlier levels. Slaughter cow prices averaged $45.20 per cwt., up 2 percent from May, 1982.

Nationally, May milk production totaled 12.5 billion pounds, 5 percent more than April. Production per cow averaged 1,129 pounds during May and milk cow numbers averaged 11.1 million head.

Tips for teeth care

Here's a fact about children's teeth that you might like to think about: a decaying baby tooth can seriously damage the permanent tooth that is forming underneath.

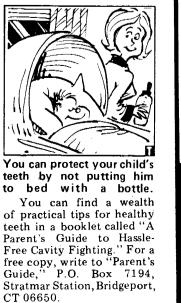

Nevertheless, some parents let their infant's teeth soak in sugar every night for two years. That's what happens with "nursing bottle syndrome." Its effects on a baby's teeth can be very harmful.

When a baby falls asleep with a bottle, bacteria feed on the sugary residue of milk (or formula or juice) left in his mouth. These bacteria produce acids that can then eat away at the child's teeth all night long. This kind of decay often begins invisibly on the back of teeth and it may not be noticed until it has reached a critical stage.

Dentists recommend that you not put your baby to bed with a bottle of anything other than water and that you wipe his teeth regularly with a bit of gauze.

When his teeth really start coming in, your child will need regular brushing with a fluoride toothpaste.

Tammy Iseler, Chris Langenburg Students say 'lots to see' on European band trip

Tammy Iseler and Chris Langenburg spent the four weeks from June 20-July 18 touring Denmark, Norway and Sweden with a 103-member band from Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp lo-cated north of Muskegon.

Since 1968, the camp has been participating in the in-ternational exchange program which gives high school musicians ages 14-18 the opportunity to travel and perform in Europe. In 1982, the Anderstorp Youth Band from Sweden was participating in the program and one of its stops was Cass City. Langenburg, 17, went with the band last summer when it visited Holland, Belgium, Austria, Luxem-burg and West Germany. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Langenburg of 4320 Germania Road, Snover.

For the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Iseler of 5089 Schwegler Road, this was the first and possibly only time she will go to Europe with the band, which was

They also met for a weeklong practice session in June before embarking the trip. "We would arrive in

He added that the band members could do whatever they wanted in their free time and they never ran out of things to do.

"THERE WAS A LOT to see," said Miss Iseler. "Everything is so much older than it is here." Students had time to take in the sights of the three countries. The pair said they particularly enjoyed touring old castles and churches that have stood for many centuries.

Copenhagen, Denmark, and Oslo, Norway, w two favorite cities for the Cass City High School students. Langenburg will be a senior this fall; Miss Iseler, a sophomore.

In Copenhagen, the group visited an amusement park called Tivoli Gardens which featured rides, a la Cedar Point in Sandusky, Ohio, and concerts by bands.

They had the chance to sample "ox burgers" and reindeer meat.

Eight members of the Disabled American Veterans, Chapter 50, of Caro collected about $600 from the sale of forget-me-nots Friday at the intersection of Main and Seeger. According to Andrew Kozan, chaplain of the group, the money will be sent to veterans hospitals throughout Michigan for purchase of various equipment.

Members worked in shifts collecting donations at the downtown intersection from 6:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Kozan said the sale is an annual veterans' fund raising event.

Two area parishes have new pastor

Just over two weeks ago, Father John Ederer began serving as pastor of St. Joseph Catholic Church in Argyle and St. Ignatius at Freiburg. It is his first pastorate since being ordained six years ago and, despite still being in the process of moving in, things have gone

holds reunion

The Mitchell Holik family met Sunday for the third year at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Schneeberger, at Caseville. Sixty-seven family members and five guests attended the reunion. Dale Holik, of Altus, Okla., Air Force Base, came the farthest distance. Mrs. Muriel Holik, 78, of Cass City, was the oldest and her great-granddaugh-ter, Nicole Holik, 6 months, daughter of David and Connie Holik of Indianapolis, was the youngest.

The group plans to meet again next year.

rather smoothly while he adjusts to his new surroundings.

"The people have been very friendly," he said. "I've experienced a really warm welcome here.'

Fr. Ederer received his high school education at St. Lawrence Seminary in Mt. Calvary, Wis., where he also took two years of college courses.

He went on to study philosophy at Capuchin Seminary of St. Mary in In-diana and theology at Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C.

He also has a master's degree in religious educa-tion from Central Michigan University.

The Saginaw native spent 10 years teaching at schools in inner-city Milwaukee and Swan Valley before finally deciding to enter the priesthood. Because of his training he was able to bypass three years of formal seminary training.

Four years ago he was assigned as associate pastor of St. Stanislaus in Bay City where he stayed for 22 months before being named associate pastor at St. Michael and St. Mary's Churches in New Lothrop and St. Charles respec-

In the short time he has been at the two Sanilac County churches, Fr. Ederer has already established some personal goals. He said he hopes to lead parishioners in learning the Word of God, following the Divine Liturgy, and de-veloping their communal and prayer life. "I'm trying to basically be a pastor according to what I believe the Scriptures call for," he added. He enjoys football and softball and is a member of the churches' softball team.

Other interests include listening to music, watching sports, having "good, conversations in-depth" and stamp collecting.

FUTURE JANET GUTHRIE -- Bobbi Fischer, 11, was the winner of this miniature replica of Rick Mears' Indianapolis race car out of "thousands" of entries in a drawing conducted by a Saginaw discount store. The daughter of Robert and Karen Fischer, 6369 Pine Street, drove the car on the street for photographic purposes, but in the future will be driving it on her grandparents' property, safely off the road.

State seeks bids on shipping operation

By Warren M. Hoyt Mich. Press Association

In another effort to get construction of the controversial tug barge system back in operation, the state Department of Transporta-tion (DOT) has started searching for purchasers for both the tug barge sys-tem and the Ontonagon shipyard.

The move is apparently not being challenged by the beleaguered Upper Penin-Shipbuilding sula (UPSCO), which is now having proposals developed for the reorganization of the corporation.

The department has sent letters to more than 24 companies interested in the system and asked for proposals back by mid-August.

The state is not taking bids for either the shipyard or the tug barge system, assistant attorney general Jim Stropkai said, adding selves have not been damaged," the court said. item which is "An cleaned has not been repaired. Nor has that item been damaged," the threejudge panel continued.

The consumer protection act also prevents tenants losing security deposits for cleaning purposes, the court held. The act requires that consumers are entitled to receive any deposits back "promptly, thus we hold that a landlord who retains part of the tenant's security deposit for cleaning violates the consumer protection act," the court held.

The court also ruled that landlords could not try to get around the holding by including costs on a damage list they are required to furnish a former tenant and hope the tenant misses the notice requirements to reply to the list.

U.S. STUDENTS IN BRAzil attend school for 11 years. After graduating they have the opportunity to further their education at colleges and universities.

If that is their choice, they must enroll in one more year of "high school" in order to study for a 99question test which, ac-cording to House, compares to American college aptitude tests.

If a student scores high enough, he or she can enroll in a tuition free college paid for by the government.

Competition for these "free" schools is fierce.

Two other types of college-like institutions are also available for advanced education.

At one, the government pays part of a student's tuition and at the other, students pay their own way. DIFFERENCES THE House encountered in Brazil, however, far overshadowed the similarities. They are what made the trip so enlightening for the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton House of 6320 Virginia Drive. "The people are much "The poor are really out in the open," he com-mented. "In my town it was a common sight to see people begging. After a while, you get accustomed to it, but it's hard. You realize you just can't help them.
