Council ponders landfill future; oks added sewer

NEW ROOF - Children attending Deford Elementary School will have a new roof over their heads. Tearing off the old roof over the entranceway Friday was Rick Paape. The roofing firm installed a 3-inch layer of plastic foam insulation, a layer of rubber and gravel on top. Roofing repairs have been made this summer at the Cass City Intermediate and Campbell, Deford and Evergreen Elementary Schools.

Cass City schools to open quietly

A year ago, when the Cass City schools were about to open, the big concern was how students were going to get there, because no bus transportation was provided.

This year, the schools are scheduled to open Tuesday, the day after Labor Day, and the buses will be running. There isn't a contract yet between teachers and the school board, the last negotiating session having been held Tuesday of this week.

The two sides met for about 1½ hours, according to CBA chief negotiator Fred Gerhardt, and, "We didn't make any progress."

The next bargaining session is scheduled after school Tuesday, Sept. 13, which is the earliest the school board negotiators could meet again, he said.

Teachers may meet before the start of school to discuss the status of negotiations, according to Don Schelke, president of the Cass City Education Association.

Asked if the teachers will be there for the start of school, he responded, "The board has set the starting date, so school will start the 6th."

School hours this year will be 8:25 a.m.-3:05 p.m. at all buildings except the high school, where classes will run from 8:20 a.m.-3:20 p.m.

Principals and counselors are in their offices this week to register new students, who are advised to call first to make an appointment.

Buses will be traveling the same routes as last year the first few days of school, unless parents have been notified otherwise. Adjustments will be made as soon as possible.

Lunch prices at the three elementary schools will be 85 cents, with weekly lunch tickets available each Monday for $4.25.

Intermediate and high school students will pay 90 cents per meal. Students who bring their own lunch will be able to buy milk for 25 cents.

Some teachers have returned from maternity leave and there have been some changes in assignments, but there are no new teachers in the district.

Other information about the start of school is contained in a full-page advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

The Cass City Village Council voted Monday evening to support the application for the Village of Natural Resources to give it more time to decide whether to keep the village-owned landfill open.

Trustees also approved a letter of support for a proposed senior citizen apartment building and a three-year contract with the four police officers and decided to proceed with a sewer lift station in the southeast corner of the village.

The village was informed by DNR officials at a meeting Aug. 4 that the landfill doesn't meet state permeability standards, although there are no present pollution problems.

Either the village will have to dig a new trench for dumping trash, which will have to be lined with plastic or less permeable clay, or close the landfill.

The village faced a Sept. 1 deadline to submit plans to the DNR for the landfill's upgrading or closing, but has been assured there will be no problem in receiving an extension.

One was needed, village President Lambert Althaver said, because "there was no way we could come to a decision tonight."

The village's engineers, Hubbell, Roth and Clark, have estimated it will cost $80,000 over five years to dig a new trench and line it with plastic. A DNR official didn't think it would be that costly, so that is one item that will be investigated.

Another will be the consequences of closing it.

It was pointed out the landfill is probably used more by residents of Elkland, Elmwood, Ellington and Novesta Townships than by residents of the village, since it is closed to use by commercial trash haulers.

Presumably more village residents pay to have their trash hauled away and more township residents prefer to take it themselves to the landfill. The townships pay Cass City $3.75 per resident per year for the service.

APARTMENTS

James Hovey of the Rural Housing Corp. of East Lansing explained his firm's proposal for a 24-unit apartment building for senior citizens (at least one spouse 62 or older).

He first presented it to the village Planning Commission Aug. 16, which recommended to the council that it favorably consider his request.

RHC wants to construct the building on three of the nine vacant acres the village owns in the southeast corner, south of Garfield Street.

The firm is competing with another developer's proposal, for a low-interest loan from the Farmers Home Administration. The other developer, Management Resources Development, wants to build a three-building, 32-unit complex behind the Charmont apartments. Hovey already received the "support" from the council needed for its pre-application to the FHA. It has an option to buy the land it needs, which is privately owned.

In addition to the letter of support, Hovey also requested an option to buy the three acres from the village, for which he offered $24,000, explaining the FHA generally doesn't allow more than $1,000 per apartment unit to be spent for land.

The village's attorney, Clinton House, will have to research the procedure for selling village-owned land, which might have to be sold to the highest bidder.

The council approved the letter Hovey needed for RHC's pre-application to the FHA, including an option for up to one year to sell the 3 acres for $24,000, subject to the approval of legal counsel.

The letter will also say that housing is needed for senior citizens, water and sewer are available and that the land, presently zoned for single family residential, will have to be rezoned to multiple family.

Concern was expressed by Councilman Jim Ware that the proposed apartments, at the foot of Woodland Avenue, would block off access to the rest of the nine acres. "We're going to have to think down the road how this whole parcel is going to be utilized."

In response, village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie will make a sketch of how the whole parcel might be developed.

LIFT STATION

The village's application for $37,800 in federal funds to pay part of the cost of a sewer lift station in the southeast corner of the village having been rejected, the council decided to proceed without it.

The original cost was to have been $84,000, with the village paying $46,200. LaPonsie has pared the total estimated cost to $57,200, by having the contractor only install the deepest part of the sewer, the lift station and the "forced main" running from the lift station at the south end of Sherman to where it connects with the sewer main running to the treatment plant. Village crews will install the shallower portions of the sewer main.

Ware, chairman of the public utilities committee, said the lift station is needed to serve the residents of the area and future development. He pointed out the $24,000 the village could receive from sale of the three acres in that area would defray part of the cost. The owners of the 18 homes on Maple, Sherman, and M Streets and Maple Court who will benefit pay the 2.5 mills taxes for the sewage plant, like everyone else in Cass City, but don't presently receive benefits.

The homes use septic tanks, but some pollution problems are occurring because of saturated tile fields.

After meeting in executive session for almost a half-hour with House, its negotiator, the council ap-

$714 stolen from cross-country team

A total of $714, part of the proceeds from pledges collected from the across-the-state run conducted by the Cass City High School cross country team in June, was stolen Friday from girls' cross country coach Doug Grezeszak's pickup truck.

The money, which was inside a can inside a wood box, was on the front seat of his pickup. It was taken while the truck was parked by the west side of the school between 5:15 and 6:20 p.m.

Some of the money raised was spent earlier in the day to buy running shoes for team members.

Village police said the thief or thieves entered through the unlocked rear door of the cap over the pickup bed. They then broke the sliding glass rear window of the cab in order to gain access to the lock mechanism, the window having been locked.

Officers said it appeared the culprit knew what he was after, since change, personal checks, Grezeszak's wallet and expensive camera were left alone.

Replacement value of the smashed window was $108.

Theft of a portable generator worth $1,300 was reported to Caro state police Sunday afternoon by Bruce Brown.

Stermer named new prosecutor

G. Scott Stermer was appointed Tuscola County prosecutor Monday by Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

He is scheduled to be sworn in at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, replacing Artis Noel, who departs that day for a new job in the U.S. Attorney's office in Detroit.

Stermer, 32, has been Tuscola County chief assistant prosecutor since 1977. A native of Grand Blanc, he is a graduate of Michigan State University and the Thomas M. Cooley Law School in Lansing.

While in law school, he worked for about two years as a legal assistant, first for a Lansing attorney and then for the Clinton County prosecutor's office.

His first job as a lawyer was where he is now, starting in 1976. He was the first attorney to work in the cooperative reimbursement program, with the job of making divorced fathers pay delinquent child support.

Joslyn, who was then the prosecutor, appointed him his chief assistant the following year. Stermer applied for the prosecutor's job after Joslyn was elected circuit judge in 1978, the same year he (Stermer) ran unsuccessfully for district judge. Noel was appointed and retained Stermer as his chief assistant.

Stermer will serve the remainder of Noel's term, through the end of 1984, and plans to run for his own four-year term in November of that year. "I anticipate running in 1984 under the Republican Party," he said.

As prosecutor, Stermer will be making $32,000 a year. His present salary is in the $23,000 range.

He said Tuesday he hasn't decided yet who his chief assistant will be. David Myers is next highest in seniority (to Stermer) in an office where three attorneys (including Noel) have left in a span of nine months.

Depending on whom he appoints, Stermer will either be hiring a chief assistant or assistant prosecutor shortly.

The new prosecutor said he does not intend to make any immediate policy changes. "I look at the appointment as an honor and a privilege," he added.

Joslyn was at a judicial conference Tuesday, so

New Kingston superintendent seeks more involvement, strong academics

DR. JERRY LAYCOCK

Dr. Jerry Laycock has moved from being assistant superintendent of a school district with 5,000 students to superintendent of the Kingston Community Schools, which has about 750 students.

He considers it the best of all possible moves. "I enjoy that, because in this situation here, the superintendent is situated where he's in the mainstream of things."

In Kingston, his office is in the high school, which puts him "face to face" with students, teachers and parents, "which I think I'm best at."

Laycock, 49, came to Kingston July 1 from the Clio district, outside of Flint, where he was assistant superintendent for 6½ years. There, he explained, his office was in the administration building and going to any of the district's six schools meant getting in his car and driving there.

The middle school and high school in Clio, he added, each had about 1,700 students, more than twice the total enrollment in Kingston.

Before going to Clio, Laycock worked in the Flint Beecher School District for 15 years. The first 10, he was English teacher, language arts coordinator and head football coach. He then served in various administrative positions.

Before that, he was a teacher and football and track coach at West Branch and Almont.

Laycock has a bachelor's degree from Central Michigan, where he majored in English, and master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Michigan in educational administration.

He replaces Robert Cameron, who retired after having been superintendent since 1966.

CAMERON LEFT, HIS successor pointed out, with the district in good financial condition, and with money for the first time in several years to spend on needed maintenance.

Voters in June approved a 1-mill tax increase for one year for building maintenance and energy conservation. The levy will raise about $30,000.

Some roof repairs have already been done on the high school and elementary buildings. A lot of work will be done to improve heating and boiler systems.

An architecture firm has been hired to do an audit of the buildings for energy conservation and the board is looking at possibly borrowing money for some conservation measures that will save the district money over the long run.

Possible projects are replacing old "factory type" windows and a new heating system at the high school.

The building has seven roof-top natural gas heating units, which when the building was constructed in 1969, Laycock explained, was an inexpensive heating system to install. Natural gas didn't cost much, so efficiency wasn't very important.

Asked how the high school was heated, with the anticipated response being the type of heating fuel, he responded, "Poorly."

LAYCOCK IS A STRONG believer in communication. "One of the needs of all school districts is upgraded public relations."

In the office are regular newsletters to parents from the two principals and one from the superintendent and school board.

Laycock is also looking at advisory committees in such areas as lunch program and student handbook. "I want more involvement," he said. "I want more input."

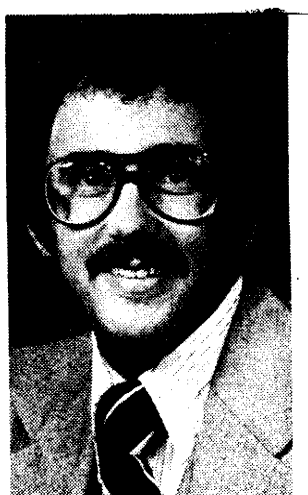

THE MAIN JOB, OF course, of any school system is to educate the children who go there, and Laycock and the board are looking at several avenues.

He wants to establish advisory committees that will examine the curriculum in all grades in continuing five-year cycles. That means all aspects of the curriculum would be examined every five years.

Serving on the committees will be parents, teachers, administrators and older students.

Testing programs are also scheduled for review. "We're trying to identify key areas of need...and zero

There is a thumb nail sketch of the former Cass Cityan's career in the Air Force. It's part of a lengthy article about the United States' space program.

Mark Cook, manager of United Parcel in Cass City, talked about driving safety before Cass City Rotary Tuesday.

He said that his statistics indicate that 90 percent of fatal accidents occur at speeds of 40 miles per hour or less.

What's more, the bigger percentage of these fatal crashes come at 25 miles per hour or less. Many, many deaths have been caused by rolling stops at intersections, he says.

Most of the deaths would have been averted with seat belts because it's the second crash after the driver loses control of his vehicle, not the initial collision, that kills, Cook reports.

DR. H.T. DONAHUE is interviewed by WJBK-TV reporter Charlene Mitchell for her series entitled, "Super Docs." Videotaping the scene last Thursday was Russ Coleman, a native of the Cass City area.

Donahue to be on TV news program

When WJBK-TV reporter Charlene Mitchell wanted to profile a country doctor as part of her series entitled "Super Docs," the cameraman assigned to the project, Russ Coleman, knew just the man.

Who better than the doctor who had removed his tonsils and appendix when he was a youngster, Dr. H.T. Donahue, who has practiced in Cass City since July, 1933.

Ms. Mitchell talked to Dr. Donahue on the telephone, and, "Within 30 seconds, I knew he was the one I wanted."

Thus, she and Coleman were in Cass City last Thursday morning videotaping the doctor at work in his Hill Street clinic and at Provincial House. After lunch, a scene was taped of him in the country.

After the morning videotaping was finished, Donahue treated the pair from the Detroit television station and 44 friends, patients, nurses and hospital board members to lunch at the Charming.

Prior to lunch, Ms. Mitchell explained that Dr. Donahue is one of seven "extraordinary" doctors being profiled in her series.

Each segment will run for about three minutes on the 5:30 p.m. news in late September. She doesn't know the date yet when the segment on Dr. Donahue will be shown. (WJBK, Channel 2, can be seen in Cass City on cable television.)

Coleman said he shot about one hour of videotape, which will be edited down to the three-minute segment that will be shown.

The 1966 Cass City High School graduate, after serving in the Army and graduating from Delta College, worked at television stations in Savannah, Ga., Fort Wayne, Ind., and Houston, Texas, before going to work for WJBK 4½ years ago.

He is the son of Myles and Geraldine Coleman of Crawford Road, Deford.

Coleman will soon have another link with this area. Sept. 16, he will be marrying Bonnie Grifka of Ubly, whom he met while filming a story for WJBK on deer hunting.

"If It Fitz..."

Darling party ideas

By Jim Fitzgerald

My friend Ralph plans to give a party at which guests will be required to dress formally and go to bed. It will celebrate the current crackdown on crime in China. Drinks will be free except for Tom and Diane who will have to pay cash or simply die of thirst.

It sounds like, a darling idea to me.

My favorite newspaper recently described a party for 600 adults at which everyone wore pajamas. But they didn't go to bed, according to the article, they mingled. I couldn't have attended that party because I don't own any pajamas.

I sleep in the nude to avoid the cloth that binds. That has been my policy ever since anyone can remember. My grandchildren now know what my children knew — if you're going to get up early in the morning and climb into bed with my wife and me, when pulling back the covers, be careful of me.

It is also my policy to never buy clothing to wear to a party that wouldn't let me in if I hadn't bought it. When someone invites me to a party, I figure they want to entertain me. I would not be entertained by being forced to buy pajamas just to mingle in. After all, according to reliable statistics, the most meaningfully productive mingling is done sans the cloth that binds.

Of course, some of today's parties are a lot different than in the old fashioned days when guests could leave home without their wallets. That's why Tom and Diane will be required to buy their own drinks at Ralph's party.

"Tom and Diane are the world's most famous party-givers and I was thrilled when they sent me an invitation," Ralph said. "But when I arrived, I discovered there was a cash bar. What kind of a party is that? It's the same as Joe inviting me to spend Saturday night at Joe's Saloon."

I explained that Tom and Diane give so many parties that there is no way they can afford to be host and hostess instead of proprietor and proprietress. Ralph said he knew that.

"Tom and Diane have made an ultimate art of finding any excuse for a party. They will give a party to celebrate anything from a sunburn to a Croatian uprising," Ralph said. "That's why my party will celebrate the crackdown on crime in China. It's the only excuse for a party I could find that Tom and Diane haven't used yet."

I'm surprised they missed it. According to newspaper reports, a crowd of 60,000 recently cheered as 30 convicts were paraded around a Peking sports stadium and then sentenced to death. What a party theme that will make! Ralph could require guests to arrive wearing kimonos and hanging from trees.

"No, I'm going to require them to wear formal clothing and get into bed. I figure that makes more sense than wearing pajamas and not getting into bed," Ralph said. "And if my party makes a lot of sense, the media will cover it. I will get my picture in the newspaper and on TV and I'll become a famous party-giver like Tom and Diane."

I had to admit that a party celebrating the execution of Chinese criminals sounded more exciting than the latest party planned by Tom and Diane. It will also celebrate Lee Iacocca's final payment on the Chrysler loan and is cleverly called "No More Red" — $1 admission, cash bar, and dinner for $7.50 plus tax and gratuity. (Incidentally, I'm withholding the date and location of this party for the same reason the surname of Tom and Diane is withheld: Because I don't work in the advertising department of this newspaper. Also because I'm surly.)

But I'm not going to Ralph's formal party, even though he urged me to come and bring all my newspaper friends and cameras. For me, buying a tuxedo is no more entertaining than buying pajamas. I realize some socially ignorant people wear underwear when the party invitation states pajamas, and it's none of my business if they want to risk having their Fruit of the Loom labels questioned at the door. But I have too much pride to get into bed wearing a brown suit.

The Haire Net

Over the week end the softball diamonds at Cass City Recreational Park were in use by the Tuscola County Department of Social Services, which held a tournament there.

Some of the participants used the camping area of the park to pitch tents.

It's great to see the park in use but maybe the time has come to get the users to pay at least a token fee for the park's use?

That's a question, not a statement. You can make a case for charging and one for not charging. The park's there to be used and the cost goes on, regardless. Maybe if the families play here they might be tempted to spend here, too.

That's one argument. Here's another. That park is paid for primarily with taxes from the village with help from area townships.

Preparing diamonds for play costs money. Lights cost money. Park upkeep costs money.

There's no suggestion here that a charge be made to make the diamonds pay their share of the total cost. Practically, no one team or group could justify it.

A token fee of $35 to $50 for field use like that last week end certainly wouldn't be out of line.

It's not a new or novel idea either. In more populated areas, non-taxpayers are charged regularly for using facilities...if they are allowed on at all.

There's a suspicion that one reason that a charge has never been levied is pride.

You just can't help but be proud of that park. Invariably, visitors are, at the very least, visibly impressed with the facility. Some are astounded.

In a sense it's your park you're showing around. You can't help but have a proprietary interest in it if you've been in the community for awhile.

That's because it's the rare resident that hasn't contributed to one of the various park projects, kicking in money, or even more important, time. If you've lived here a few years you must have leveled one of the fields, or helped build a track curb, or hammered a few nails or had a hand in creating the trail that runs through the park woods.

It's "yours" and you want everyone to see it.

Maybe the facility would be appreciated more if a nominal charge were established. It probably wouldn't change the tax bill if it were.

But it just might make the constantly increasing cost of municipal services a little more palatable to village taxpayers.

It's worth considering anyway.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

Please take notice that on September 12, 1983, at 7:30 o'clock p.m. in the Board Room at the Cass City High School, the Board of Education of the Cass City Public Schools will hold a public hearing to consider the levying in 1983 of a proposed operational millage rate of 25.90 mills pursuant to Act. 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Education has the complete authority to establish that 25.90 mills be levied in 1983 from within its present authorized millage rate. The additional millage rate would increase local revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1983 by two and eighteen one-hundredths percent (2.18%).

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the additional millage rate. Not less than seven days following the public hearing the Board of Education may approve the levy of all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

Utility pole in bad spot

Dear Editor:

Recently I was visiting Cass City.

During that time I had an unfortunate accident in the Big D Restaurant parking lot. I backed into the Detroit Edison electricity pole that is located in the center of the parking lot.

I admit I made a driving error, however, I feel the placement of the pole is deplorable.

After examining the pole, it was obvious that I was not even close to being its first victim. It is very gouged and battered and wears many different colors of paint.

The damage to my pickup was almost $800. It would be interesting to know how much total damage the pole has cost the residents of and the visitors to Cass City.

Certainly, many of our resident readers have had a similar experience. I urge that even just one of them see it as his/her civic duty to take up a petition to have the pole moved!

Marilyn E. Brown
Fenton

Editor's note: According to George Andersen, Detroit Edison Caro office general supervisor, the first step in having a utility pole moved is for the property owner to ask to have it examined by the utility.

Although sometimes one pole can be moved, often the whole line (several poles) must be moved, which would cost "thousands of dollars."

Whatever the cost, the property owner pays it, not Detroit Edison.

Andersen suspects the pole may have been there before the restaurant was.

In lieu of having a pole moved, he said the utility has no objection to the property owner putting something around it the pole or on it, such as orange paint, to warn motorists.

Growing

An average Michigan farm today is 177 acres, compared to 99 acres 50 years ago. Total farm acreage in Michigan has declined from 18.1 million acres 50 years ago to 11.5 million acres today.

W. E. WALPOLE, chairman of the board at Walbro Corporation, congratulates Leona Curtis on her retirement.

Walbro pioneer ends career

Leona Curtis goes back a long way at Walbro Corporation. Back to the time when W.E. Walpole, now chairman of the board, personally hired workers for the fledgling company.

And the chairman was present when Mrs. Curtis said good-bye for the final time last week and retired.

She was hired Nov. 5, 1954, and officially retired Aug. 18.

During her years at Walbro she did most of the tasks connected with production. When I started, she recalled, Walbro had just one little line producing carburetors.

When Walbro took over Autopulse Fuel Pump she worked on pump production. For Autopulse, now Automotive Products Group, located in Caro, she did a little bit of everything and worked in shipping and receiving just before her retirement.

Mrs. Curtis is recovering from an illness and retirement plans are indefinite. Her husband, Albert, is now retired from the Tuscola County Road Commission.

The couple has five children, three in Cass City, one in Pontiac and one in Port Huron.

Diminishing

The official number of farms in Michigan in 1982 is estimated at 65,000, 2,000 less than 1981. Acreage of land in farms is estimated at 11.5 million. The definition of a farm is "a place that sells or normally would sell $1,000 or more of agricultural products" a year.

A helpful question-and-answer format is sustained through the 20 chapters, which include thorough, professional tips on how to cope with kits, choosing designs and colors, needlepoint excellence, blocking, framing, preservation, etc. Valuable information on threads, yarns, and accessories is included as well. Extensively illustrated with black-and-white photos and line drawings.

FATAL ATTRACTION by Craig Jones (fiction). Early on in this suspense story about a rapist who terrorizes a mid-western town, the reader knows "whodunit." The dramatic tension lies in discovering, through flashbacks and through the unraveling of events, what motivated a seemingly upright young man to lead a dual existence. Matt Sessions, the protagonist, is a driven television executive whose son destroyed himself in an automobile crash and whose wife and daughter blame him for his son's death. Now Matt faces losing his only daughter to a demented rapist unless he can convince her that the rapist is her fiancé.

MURDER IN THE SMITHSONIAN by Margaret Truma (fiction). Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Dr. Lewis Tunney is keynoting a Smithsonian exhibition. But before he can deliver his address, Tunney is stabbed with a sword that once belonged to Thomas Jefferson. The famed scholar is dead, a precious Harsa medal is missing, and the list of suspects includes Vice-president William Oxenbauer and Alfred Trockly, director of the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History. Captain MacHanrahan, chief of detectives of Washington's Metropolitan Police Department, and Tunney's feisty fiancée, Heather McBean, investigate the murder.

Your neighbor says

I'm looking forward to returning to school

Classes in the Kingston Corner Road, Mayville schools resumed Tuesday. Among those happy to return was Deanna Gusek, 16, "because of basketball and because I'm a senior."

She is a guard on the basketball team, which has a new coach, Mark Dost. The team was 500 last year and she predicts this year, "I think we're going to be pretty good."

Asked if she had any favorite subjects, Miss Gusek, who was in Cass City shopping Monday, responded, "Not really." She does have a least favorite subject -- math.

She is looking forward to taking a computer literacy class this year. "I just think it sounds interesting."

Another reason Miss Gusek is looking forward to her senior year is, "We have a new superintendent (Dr. Jerry Laycock) and I like the things he's doing for our school already."

Rep. Allen slates area meeting

State Rep. Dick Allen (R-Fairgrove), will sponsor the first of a series of legislative conferences in his district at the Colony House, M-53, Cass City, Friday, Sept. 16.

The initial conference will cover economic development with special emphasis on tourism and recreation and important small business issues.

The day's agenda will include registration with coffee and rolls from 9-9:30 a.m., followed by the first conference session on tourism and recreation at about 9:45 a.m.

A Dutch treat lunch will be from noon-1. The afternoon portion will begin around 1:15 with a series of special speakers discussing small business topics.

"This session is the first of a series of conferences I plan to conduct in the district during the coming months," Allen said, stressing that he is also planning an agricultural conference for early December.

"I believe that the topics to be discussed at this legislative conference will help all of us in Huron and Tuscola Counties to work together -- both government and the private sector -- in strengthening and expanding our economic development opportunities. The public's participation in this conference will greatly enhance this effort."

The morning session entitled, "Tourism and its Role in Economic Development," will be presented by Dr. Edward M. Mahoney, assistant professor and tourism extension specialist at Michigan State University.

An expert in rural development and rural planning, Mahoney has served as assistant professor of the MSU Department of Landscape Architecture and taught regional planning at the University of Massachusetts. NURSIE KLOC, Clerk

Pedaling Around

It might be useful

By Mike Eliasohn

Neal Shine in his column in the Free Press "Detroit" magazine recently wrote about how, as a "Depression kid," he still saves everything, be it straightened nails, lumber, or soft drink cans rescued from the trash in order to collect the deposits.

It isn't necessary to have gone through the Depression to be a "saver."

Many homeowners were born after the Depression, but I would guess most homes have a stack of lumber in the garage, plus a can of nails and assorted partially full paint cans, all of which may come in handy some day.

Having been born in 1945, I can't blame my saving habits on the Depression. My father would say it's because I'm cheap (I prefer the term "thrifty") and I won't disagree.

Shine mentioned, "People who wash out plastic bread wrappers against the day when they can be used to wrap leftovers."

I save bread wrappers, only I don't wash them out (why waste water?) and I don't use them for leftovers. I keep leftovers in plastic margarine containers.

I also save plastic milk bottles. I don't have a garbage disposal, so I put my garbage in the milk bottles, which when capped, keep the odors contained.

What won't fit through the necks of the milk bottles, mainly bones, goes in the bread wrappers.

I reuse aluminum foil, which is easy to wash off while I'm doing my dishes. I also save stuff that doesn't have anything to do with food.

Foremost among them are bicycle parts and stuff that I can maybe use for future bicycles I build, such as lawn chair tubing. Hubs, spokes, ball bearings, cranks, and pedals are among the bicycle parts.

Actually, I try not to accumulate too much, since I figure I will move some day and have to move all that junk with me.

In addition to boxes of bicycle parts, I also have boxes of unfinished car models, a hobby I intend to go back to some day. The unfinished models outnumber the finished ones. I keep the latter in a display case, so that they won't collect dust. (I collect enough dust elsewhere, but not on purpose.)

Being in the news business, I clip articles out of other newspapers, thinking they may be a handy reference some day for an article or column. Often the article I need is the one I threw out the week before, thinking there was no sense in saving it any more since I hadn't used it yet.

Some of my junk must be partially blamed on my father. When he remarried and sold his house, I inherited about a dozen coat hooks and half a bag of mortar mix. I think my father kept his box of light switch plates (which I have discovered make good soap dishes).

As for what I inherited, I managed to give away a few of the coat hooks, but still have most of them, plus the mortar mix.

Anyone have some gaps in their brick walls they would like to fill or coats in need of a hook to hang on?

The week including Labor Day is usually a slow one, without much happening. No guarantees, but if someone has an idea for something that would make an interesting photograph, please give me a call.

Nicholas has surgery

Roland L. Nicholas of Seed Street, Cass City, whose eye was injured in a fishing mishap last Thursday, underwent surgery in a Port Huron hospital Tuesday.

His wife, Joanne, told the Chronicle Tuesday evening that her husband might come home as early as this Wednesday, but she thought it probably would be later. Surgeons removed his left eye.

According to Huron County sheriff's deputies, Nicholas, 39, and Greg Thompson, also of Cass City, were fishing in the latter's boat off Harbor Beach.

Thompson was reeling in a king salmon and Nicholas was trying to get it in a net. The lure came off the fish and one hook went into his eye and another in his lip. "He just happened to be in the wrong place at the wrong time," Mrs. Nicholas commented. She said her husband's lip will be okay.

The pair left a Harbor Beach marina at 6 a.m. The marina owner received a radio call about two hours later from Thompson asking him to call an ambulance.

Nicholas was first taken to Harbor Beach Community Hospital, then to the Port Huron Eye Clinic and finally to the Port Huron hospital.

Nicholas is employed by General Telephone. His wife said he has no idea yet when he will be able to return to work.

Although he has lost the sight of one eye, she said, "He'll make it okay."

Four-county consortium to run new job program

How the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) will be administered in Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac and Lapeer Counties has been decided.

The new federal program gives power to run it to county boards of commissioners and to private industry councils, of which more than half the members are supposed to represent businesses. PIC members are appointed by the county boards.

Meeting in Caro last Thursday evening, the PIC chose to go along with the recommendation of a steering committee composed of two county commissioners from each county, to form a four-county consortium.

The consortium will receive the federal funds, but will contract with other agencies to run the training programs.

The PIC also decided that it wanted the consortium to be controlled by an eight-member board, consisting of four PIC members and four county commissioners, with one of each category from each county.

Appointed as the PIC members on the administrative board were its chairman, Richard Deaneau, president of the First National Bank of Lapeer, representing Lapeer County; its vice-chairman, Donald Tonti of Cass City, director of human resources for Walbro Corp., Tuscola County; James Sump, director of the Huron County Department of Social Services, and Fred Cady, superintendent of the Sanilac County Intermediate School District.

The boards of commissioners of the four counties have yet to select their representatives. A planning budget of $41,000 was authorized to cover such expenses as an attorney to prepare PIC bylaws and incorporation papers, mileage for PIC members, mailings and possible training sessions.

It was tentatively decided the PIC will meet the fourth Thursday of each month, starting at 5:30 p.m., with the meeting being rotated among the four counties. That would make the next meeting Sept. 22.

ALTHOUGH THE JTPA programs are supposed to start Oct. 1, they won't, according to Frank Lenard, ex-Thumb Area Consortium executive director, and now a consultant to it until his departure Sept. 9.

The reason is that Congress hasn't appropriated money yet for the program, except for planning.

"They're so far from a budget resolution, it's pathetic," he commented.

He doesn't expect job training programs to start until maybe mid-November.

CETA

The present Thumb Area Consortium administrative board held one of its last meetings last Thursday and didn't have much to do.

The consortium runs the CETA program in Huron,

Tuscola and Sanilac Counties, which expires Sept. 30.

Pichla reported that the consortium employed 473 youth in the federally-funded Summer Youth Employment Program (part of CETA) and 86 through the state-funded Michigan Youth Corps.

The last of the summer jobs ended that day.

The review of the MYG program conducted by Shirley Marel of the Michigan Department of Labor was presented.

She interviewed supervisors at six of the 29 work sites and nine participants. She concluded, "The findings show the program operating (by the consortium) without any apparent problems."

Ex-Cass Cityan dies in accident

A former Cass City resident, Timothy Hurley, was one of three persons killed early Sunday when the car in which they were riding ran into a freight train in northeast Lapeer County.

State police said Hurley, 24, was the driver of the car which hit the Chessie System train. The accident took place at the Peck Road crossing, about three miles east of M-53.

Hurley, the father of two, and one other victim, Joseph Young, 23, were from Brown City. The third person killed was Randolph Rowley, 27, of Marlette. All were pronounced dead at the scene.

Troopers said the accident took place at 2 a.m. in heavy fog.

Hurley was born Nov. 20, 1958, in Detroit, the son of Helen (Spewak) Hurley and the late George Wellington Hurley.

He married Linda Kay

Putman Oct. 8, 1976, in Sandusky. They made their home in Killeen, Texas, Bay Port and Cass City before moving to Brown City.

Hurley served with the U.S. Army during the Vietnam war.

He is survived by his wife; one son, Shawn, and one daughter, Dawn, both at home; his mother, of Port Huron; four brothers, Roger and Dennis Hurley, both of Cass City, Donald Hurley, Mt. Clemens, and George Hurley, East Detroit; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Flossie Frantz, Largo, Fla., and eight nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Deacon Lambert Kuhr of St. Agatha's Catholic Church of Saginaw officiating.

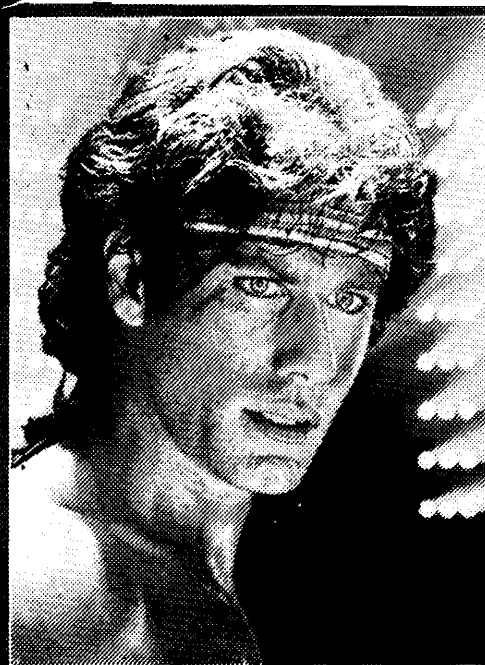

Burial was in Oakview Cemetery, Royal Oak.

HEALTH TIPS

Once-a-year vision exams important

One out of every two Americans wears glasses and chances are a good many of them are walking around with outdated prescriptions.

"I've seen patients come up with some ingenious ways of adapting to subtle changes in their vision," said Dr. Owen R. Dueweke, former president of the Michigan Optometric Association.

"Some hold their newspaper at arm's length. Others sit two or three feet from their television set or squint to read street signs. Some tip their glasses to see better. Then there are those who claim restaurant lighting is too low when what they really need are prescription lenses to read the menu," he said.

Most people wear glasses to correct nearsightedness, farsightedness, astigmatism and presbyopia (a loss of focusing ability for close work).

These conditions can change without warning and without being immediately noticeable. This is one reason why annual vision examinations are important.

The doctor of optometry can pinpoint vision changes and prescribe proper lenses before squint lines become permanent "crow's feet" or the person begins experiencing early fatigue or headaches.

Dr. Dueweke said consumers should be wary of quickie vision examinations.

"You can't do a thorough, accurate examination in five or 10 minutes," he said. "If you haven't been examined for a year, expect the examination to take from 30 to 60 minutes, depending upon your vision problems."

That time is spent not only in correcting your vision but also in examining your eye health and determining whether your vision skills—such as being able to see "out of the corner of your eye"—are up to par.

During the examination, the doctor of optometry may also find signs of certain health problems, like diabetes or high blood pressure, that are not directly related to vision but that show up in the eye.

Optometrists routinely refer patients with signs of disease for appropriate care.

Nutrition program

Thumb Area Commission on Aging Executive Director Robert E. Brown has announced a new nutritional outreach program for Huron, Sanilac, and Tuscola Counties.

The program will consist of visiting senior citizens age 60 and over, by township and roads, in the respective counties.

The Commission on Aging presently serves well over 2,000 senior citizens at 20 meal sites in the three counties.

For the nutritional outreach program, the citizens commission hopes to identify seniors eligible for home delivered meals as well as inform them of the various meal sites and the activities at the meal sites.

"By doing this," said Cindy Maurer, Huron County nutrition outreach worker, "we feel that the isolation of many senior citizens will be reduced while at the same time increasing their independence."

Ask for mediator in Tuscola Intermediate negotiations

Services of a state mediator have been called for in Tuscola Intermediate School District (TISD) negotiations with its professional staff. Negotiators met last Wednesday from about 1-7:30 p.m.

According to TCBA chief negotiator Penny Letts, she and the other teacher negotiators were willing to talk further. "We were ready to go until midnight."

However, according to her, Al Luce, the TISD board of education's hired negotiator, said there was no point in further discussion, since they weren't getting anywhere, so wanted to set another meeting date.

She then responded she wanted a mediator.

Dr. Bruce Dunn, TISD superintendent, who agreed with her account of what happened, questioned whether a mediator is needed. "I'm not sure we had exhausted discussion of the issues to the point where we needed to go to mediation," he told the Chronicle.

Only one side in negotiations has to request a mediator, however, for one to be called in.

The mediator will be Gordon Lee, who is tentatively scheduled to meet with the two sides, Friday, Sept. 9.

The TISD is also involved in negotiations with the union that represents its aides, bus drivers, secretaries and custodial workers.

Dunn said there have been several sessions with the Michigan Educational Support Personnel Association, but not much progress.

The next negotiation session in the Kingston School District is scheduled Sept. 6.

In Owendale-Gagetown, Superintendent Ron Erickson said Wednesday morning the TCBA has been sent a letter setting Wednesday, Sept. 7, for the next bargaining session.

TCBA chief negotiator Bob Gengler hadn't seen the letter yet. The union bargaining team had sent a letter to the school board after the second negotiation session Aug. 5 after it didn't respond to some dates suggested by the TCBA for a third session.

Cheese give-away to start again

The Human Development Commission will probably resume distributing government surplus cheese, butter and powdered milk in September.

There wasn't such a distribution in August.

Based on government assurances, HDC Executive Director Mary Ann Vandemark explained, it issued cards last spring to those eligible to receive the commodities, with a space to be punched each month.

Monthly distributions were held by the HDC for two or three months in various communities in Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac and Lapeer Counties, including Cass City. The agency made its last distribution in July.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture then cut back on the amount of commodities to be distributed, apparently because of protests from the cheese industry that the give-aways were hurting its business.

The USDA later changed its mind. "Public sentiment forced them to release it, I'm sure," Mrs. Vandemark said.

The HDC didn't have enough commodities to give some to everyone eligible which is why it didn't have a distribution in August. What it has is being stored in Lansing.

Mrs. Vandemark said her agency is attempting to find enough cheese, butter and powdered milk not needed elsewhere so there can be a full distribution in September. If the attempt is unsuccessful, what the HDC has will be passed out, presumably on a first-come, first served basis.

She doesn't expect the increased commodities promised by Secretary of Agriculture John Block to be available until November. Full shipments have been requested for that month and December.

There probably won't be a distribution in October.

Theresa Hurley reported "fair" after accident

Theresa M. Hurley was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw, recovering from injuries suffered when she was hit by a car in Cass City Friday evening.

Cass City police reported Lonnie J. Schember, 17, of 2077 Huron Line Road, Ubyly, was turning right from northbound Ale Street onto Main Street and ran into Mrs. Hurley, who was crossing Main from south to north. She was 20 feet from the south curb when she was hit.

Schember was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield to a pedestrian in a crosswalk and no proof of insurance. The accident took place at 9:08 p.m.

Mrs. Hurley, 27, of 4222 Seeger Street, was transferred to St. Luke's Saturday from Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Two persons were treated and released from Caro Community Hospital after a 1:55 a.m. accident Saturday.

Injured were Terri Kay Stratton, 16, of 1706 S. Kingston Road, Deford, and her passenger, Thomas

A. LaFave, 17, of 5240 S. vernail Road, Deford.

Sheriff's deputies reported their car was northbound on Plain Road, south of Bevens Road, when it went left of the centerline, then swerved, went off the east side of the road and struck a tree.

Ricky D. Ryles, 30, of Mayville, was injured in a 3 a.m. accident Sunday.

He told deputies he was traveling on M-46, east of Clothier Road, when he swerved to miss a deer. He lost control of his motorcycle, which ran off the north side of the road and he fell off.

The accident report said he was taken to the Caro hospital, but it had no record of him being treated there.

Marie J. McCreedy, 29, of Gage Street, Gagetown, sought her own treatment after a 1 a.m. accident Aug. 21.

Caro state police said she was southbound on Gagetown Road, was unable to slow enough when she attempted to turn left onto Huron Line Road and her car slid into the ditch on the south side. She told officers her engine wouldn't slow down when she attempted to turn.

Ms. McCreedy was ticketed on a charge of violation of the basic speed law.

Caro troopers reported that at 12:15 p.m. Saturday, Crystal J. Forster, 16, of 6929 Schwegler Road, Cass City, was northbound on Schwegler, south of Huron Line Road, when her car collided with a deer.

Cass City police reported that at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 23, Marilyn J. Peters, 47, of 5822 Cass City Road, was backing up at Frank's Service Station, 4083 Cemetery Road, and her vehicle struck a filler pipe.

At 11:30 p.m. Saturday, officers said, Vickie L. Willett, 27, of 3576 Ross Street, Kingston, was backing from a parking spot in the lot next to 4790 Hospital Drive and the left side of her car collided with a fire hydrant.

The sheriff's department reported that at 11:30 a.m. last Thursday, the parked car of Ernest Campbell of Kingston slipped out of gear and into the right front corner of the parked car of John Crosby of Kingston.

The drivers were not in their cars, which were parked in a driveway at 5070 Riley Road, Kingston Township.

Esther M. Buehrly of 6415 Garfield Street, injured in an Aug. 19 traffic accident north of Cass City, remained in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

Croft-Clara in regional tournament

The Croft-Clara softball team will be one of three teams competing in Midland this week end for a chance to advance to the Men's Major League Fast Pitch National Finals Tournament in Decatur, Ill.

The Cass City team earned the chance to compete in the regional tournament by finishing third in the Michigan Major Tournament, also in Midland, Aug. 5-7.

Croft-Clara, which has a season mark of 54-27, will play The Farm team from Madison, Wis. The Farm is led by Peter Meredith from New Zealand, recently rated as one of the top five pitchers in the U.S.

The winner will play Chelsea Big Boy at 4 p.m., with the two losers for the day playing at 6. The winner of that game plays the winner of the Croft-Clara - The Farm game Sunday afternoon. All games will be in Emerson Park.

The regional champion advances to the national finals Sept. 9-17 with 30 other teams from across the nation.

EXPERIENCE - Arnie Besonen, starting his 15th season as head varsity coach at Owen-Gage, gives some pointers to Alan LeValley, who will be a starter for his fourth season.

O-G cagers lose close nod to Port Hope

The Owen-Gage girls' basketball team came close Monday evening to giving new coach Brenda Parker her first win.

The Bulldogs led until the third quarter in their season opener before bowing 29-27 to Port Hope in the Caseville tournament.

Owen-Gage led at the three-quarter mark, 22-16. Miss Parker said her team was unable to cope with the Blue Stars' press in the second half, but was satisfied with how her team played in their first game. "They did a lot better than I thought they would."

Top Bulldog scorers were Sheila Engelhardt with seven points and Linda Reford with six.

In double figures for Port Hope were Cathy Reinke with 12 and Sandra Gaffke with 10.

The Blue Stars also won the junior varsity game, 21-16.

Owen-Gage plays in the consolation game at Caseville Thursday against the loser in Tuesday's Mayville-Caseville game. Both the varsity and junior varsity play.

Besonen's 14 seasons at O-G great

Owen-Gage coach Arnie Besonen is starting his 15th season at the helm of the Bulldogs, which makes him the dean of upper Thumb football coaches.

During the past 14 seasons, his teams have compiled a record of 98 victories, 27 losses and two ties. During their 10 years in the North Central Thumb D league, the Bulldogs have been champions or co-champions five times.

Besonen shares credit for the winning record with his assistant coaches, who have been there almost as long as he has. He and assistants Phil Gray, Dean Roller and John Osterland have a total of 55 years of coaching experience at Owen-Gage. "A head coach is only as good as his assistants," he points out.

Besonen, a Northern Michigan University graduate, where he played guard and linebacker on the football team, taught one year at Port Austin before coming to Owen-Gage, where he teaches history and government.

He and his wife, Nadene, and their three children, live in Port Austin. He is a trustee on the village council, an emergency medical technician for Thumb Ambulance - the night before the Aug. 25 football team press day, he went on two ambulance runs - a member of the Port Austin Township Fire Board and Port Austin Lions Club and a delegate to Huron County from the township.

Mostly on Saturday nights, Besonen plays electric guitar with a band called "Lighthouse," which has been together for about nine years.

Last March, he purchased Alert Tree Service, which keeps him busy during the summer. He has two employees to help him.

In addition to all that, Besonen is first vice-president of the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association and will serve as its president next year, starting Jan. 25.

Bulldogs lift curtain on fall sports

Besonen's gridders rebuilding after loss of outstanding '82 players

This will be a rebuilding year for the Owen-Gage football team.

After guiding his team to a 6-1 North Central Thumb D League record in 1982 and a tie for first place, and 8-1 overall, veteran coach Arnie Besonen isn't predicting a repeat.

Not that he is predicting a disaster. "We'll win some ball games."

The 1983 Bulldogs are minus nine starters from last year, including quarterback Stan Andrakowicz, all-stater Dan Glidden and such consistent performers as Mike Powell and Craig Enderle.

Handling the quarterbacking duties this year will be Reid Goslin, a 5-7, 140-pound junior, who played a lot at wide receiver last year, but only a little at quarterback. "He is a good all-around quarterback," Besonen said. "He's a fleet-footed quarterback."

When Goslin is throwing, his likely targets will be John Shope, Scott Wright or Earl Harris. Shope, a 195-pound, 6-2, tight end, and Wright, 6-foot and 172-pounds, are two of the few returning starters from the 1982 season. Wright started until breaking his thumb partway through the season.

Expected to lead the Bulldog ground attack will be Alan LeValley, a starter for his fourth year, and Ron Susalla, a 6-foot, 150-pound sophomore. LeValley, 6-2 and 198 pounds, in addition to fullback and defensive tackle duties, will be doing the kicking.

Besonen is also looking for good things from junior Matt Ricker, a "stop and go" running back. "I think he's going to surprise people."

Returning starter Gary Erickson, a 5-10, 185-pound senior, is probably the team's best runner, according to assistant coach Phil Gray, but is needed more on the line, where he will be a guard. He is a middle linebacker on defense.

Another player Besonen and his staff are high on is senior guard Joe Lopez, who played on the golf team last year, but this fall will tackle both sports.

The team will be relying heavily on center Kellin Kretschmer. He only weighs 145 pounds, but, Gray points out, "He's been doing the job."

Other promising players are Billy Ashmore at tackle, linemen Dave Peters, Paul Thompson, and Ed Doring, and Angelo Battisti and Billy Ricker in the backfield.

With 32 players on the squad, Owen-Gage is planning to also play a junior varsity schedule this season.

Besonen is expecting Deckerville, which shared the league title last year with his Bulldogs, to repeat this season, with Kingston and Peck breathing down the Eagles' necks.

As for Owen-Gage, "We'll be in the pack somewhere."

How well the team does, he said, will depend on how quickly the young players develop and how well they avoid injuries. "We don't have a backup for anybody. Our depth is very weak."

Although its depth is weak, its desire isn't. "Our desire is exceptional. It's going to win some games for us," Besonen said.

Games start at 7:30 p.m., unless noted. The schedule:

Sept. 9 Arenac Eastern (non-league)
Sept. 16 Carsonville-P.S.
Sept. 24 at Caseville (1 p.m.)
Sept. 30 North Huron (homecoming)
Oct. 7 at Kingston

Bow hunting class starts Sept. 6

The Cass City Community Education Department is offering a bow hunting class beginning Tuesday, Sept. 6.

State certified bow hunting instructor Mike Otulakowski will teach safety equipment, tracking, and shooting techniques.

The three-week course will be from 7-9 p.m. at the high school, room 300. The cost for the class is $12.50. A hunting manual will be offered from the instructor at an additional nominal cost.

Register for the class by stopping by the community education office in the high school or call 872-4151.

O-G girls open year with new coach, new line-up

"New" is the best word to describe the Owen-Gage girls' basketball team this season.

The Bulldogs have a new coach, Brenda Peters, with limited coaching experience, who has only two players who played on the 1982 varsity squad, Sheila Engelhardt, a senior forward, and Linda Retford, a 5-11 junior who will probably play at center.

The 1982 squad under Judy Campbell, who decided to retire from coaching basketball after six seasons, finished 5-11 in the North Central D League and 6-14 overall.

Engelhardt is one of only two seniors on this year's team. The other is Cindy Emmons, who is playing her first year.

With practice not even two weeks old, probable starters will be Engelhardt and Dena McDonald at forward, Shelly Ellicott and Kim Olszak at guard and Retford at center.

Based on what she has observed so far, Miss Peters describes the 5-6½ Ellicott as the best all-around player. Olszak and Ellicott provide speed, McDonald is quick around the basket and with her height, Retford should prove valuable at the basket.

Miss Peters, who also coaches the junior varsity, describes her squad as a "young team, very young." For that reason, she has been spending a lot of time working with them on fundamentals.

The strongest teams in the North Central Thumb D League, she said, are supposed to be Caseville and North Huron.

The Bulldogs started the season Monday in the Caseville tournament, and depending on the result, play again Thursday or Friday. The rest of the schedule is as follows, with junior varsity games starting at 6:30 p.m., followed by the varsity game:

Sept. 8 at Bad Axe (non-league)
Sept. 13 Akron-Fairgrove
Sept. 15 at Port Hope
Sept. 20 at Peck
Sept. 27 at North Huron
Sept. 29 Carsonville-P.S.

Green Hawk cagers will battle to better dismal '82 season

Coach Lloyd Schinnerer is starting his seventh season as coach of the Cass City High School Red Hawk basketball team and hopes to bounce back after suffering through the worst season since he took over the girls' cage program.

While it won't take much to improve on last year's 2-12 Thumb B Conference and 3-19 overall season, Schinnerer will still have his hands full filling the holes left by graduation.

Tops on the lost list is Carrie Lautner. She was a four-year veteran. A good shot and excellent ball handler, she teamed with Jamie Fox to give Cass City a strong backcourt tandem. Fox is also gone.

Gone, too, is Michelle Fahrner, who was a top rebounder when she was well. The Hawks' season went down the drain last year when she missed much of the season and was never at full strength all year.

Laura Richards was a tough rebounder for her size and is another regular that ended her career last season.

The team's most valuable player and 2nd team all-conference performer is back. Jill Hutchinson, a senior, is a potent point producer when she gets the ball in the pivot.

She'll be a marked girl for every Hawk opponent this season. Finding persons to take the heat off Hutchinson will be one of the primary tasks for Schinnerer. One of the girls banked on to do this is Kim Wagg. She was the team's most improved player last year. Schinnerer calls Joy Root, senior, the best all-around athlete on the team and he looks for offensive firepower from her. Cathy Britt, a junior, is expected to add board strength off the bench and Shannon McIntosh is a freshman, good enough to jump to the varsity without any time on the JV squad.

Sherri Horner, Barb Craig, Lori Calka and Susie Scollon are seniors with experience and all are expected to see action this season.

One of the obvious weaknesses of the team this season is the same as it was last year. There is very little height for rebounding in the tough Thumb B.

Schinnerer sees North Branch and Lakers as the teams to beat, with the rest of the league fighting it out for runner-up honors.

Cage fans should have a better line on the team's prospects this season following the game that was played at Harbor Beach Tuesday.

The schedule:

Golf trophy winners told

The Rolling Hills Ladies' Golf League ended its season Tuesday, Aug. 23, with a scrambles tournament, banquet and presentation of awards.

Receiving Rolling Hills gift certificates were the league flight winners: Mary Rabideau, first flight; Colleen Krueger, second flight, and Verna May MacRae, third flight.

The winners of the 18 hole match play tournament also received gift certificates: Nelle Maharg, first flight; Pat McIntosh, second flight, and Marilyn Carpenter, third flight.

League officers were chosen. Newly elected were Dotty Scollon, president, and Linda Helwig, vice-president. Re-elected were Norma Wallace, secretary, and Verna May MacRae, treasurer.

Deford Blue cops tourney

The Deford Community Church blue team won the Cass City Church League post-season tournament last Thursday with a 12-9 win over Colwood United Brethren.

It was the third time Deford had defeated Colwood, the first two wins coming during the regular season. The blue team, which finished second in the league standings, defeated Novesta Church of Christ in the opening post-season round, Thursday, Aug. 18.

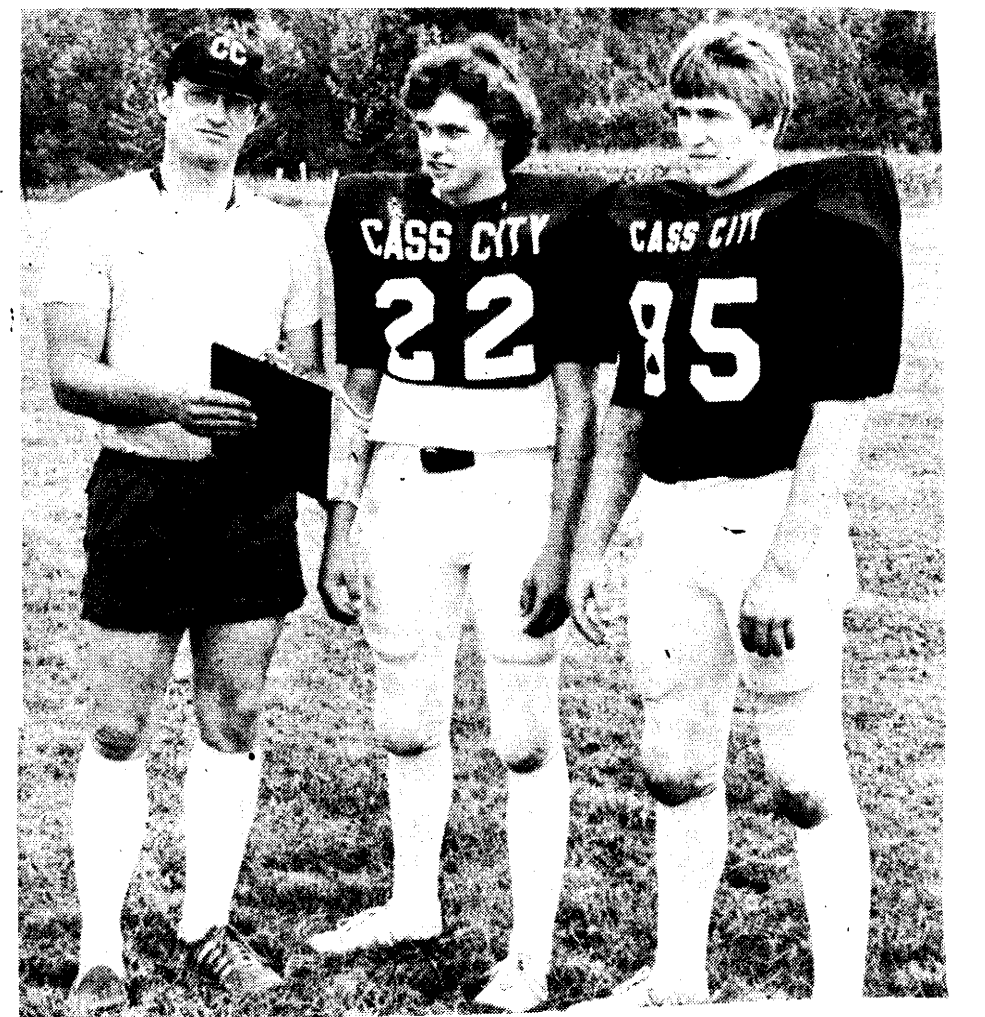

The other opening round winners were Cass City Catholics over the Deford Community Church green team; Colwood over Lamotte Missionary, and Evangelical Free Church over Mizpah Missionary-Shabbona United Methodist.

The league champion Catholics bit the dust in the second round, Tuesday, Aug. 23, with an 8-3 loss to Colwood. Deford blue made it into the championship round with a 25-6 shellacking of the Evangelical Free Church.

Final regular season standings were:

THANK YOU SAGINAW VALLEY
FOR YOUR SUPPORT
DURING OUR GRAND OPENING

TIEMPO is the original all season radial. The built-in traction edges (over 10,000 of them) give the tread plenty of bite rain or shine. You'll also enjoy the gas savings of steel belted radial construction, plus the sidewall protection of a scuff rib that really works. Made only by Goodyear, and now sale priced.

RADIAL CHOICE SALE
Sale Deadline: Sat., Sept. 3.

Choose Tiempo Or Custom Polysteel

CUSTOM POLYSTEEL is the tire that keeps its feet even in the rain. The sure-footed wet traction tread is muscled by double belts of strong steel cord. You also get the smooth ride of resilient polyester cord sidewalls, and the dependable long wear of radial ply construction. A great value at regular prices — an even greater value during this limited sale offer.

CLIFFORD EICKHOFF

Clifford John Eickhoff, 80, of Caro, died Saturday at the Tuscola County Medical Care Facility in Caro after a long illness.

He was born May 3, 1903, in Detroit, the son of Whilmer and Bertha (Tessman) Eickhoff.

Eickhoff married Leona Coulter June 16, 1925, in Detroit. They made their home in Warren, Hazel Park and California and finally Arizona before moving to Caro in 1970.

He was a 33rd degree and life member of Ferndale Lodge No. 506, F. and A.M., and a member of Ferndale chapter No. 180, R.A.M.; Scottish Rites Body of Detroit, and the Low Twelve Club of Ferndale.

Eickhoff is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Myra Jordan of Caro and Mrs. Daniel (Kathleen) Martin of Madison Heights; eight grandchildren; 12 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandson. One son, William, three grandsons and two great-grandchildren preceded him in death.

Beans yield well with less tillage

One trend observed in the three years of the Saginaw Valley Agricultural Conservation Project, funded by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, is that dry beans yield as well or better when planted in chisel plowed corn ground as compared to beans grown in fall moldboard plowed ground.

Production costs are lower in the conservationally tilled beans also. It looks as though these trends will be the same this year, the fourth year of the project.

The observed trends, says John Posselius, Tuscola extension agricultural agent, are based on 16 comparison plots throughout Tuscola and the southwest corner of Huron Counties.

The highest yielding plot of five acres or more was 27.5 hundredweight (cwt.) per acre or about 46 bushels per acre on chisel plowed ground. The poorest yield was 8.1 cwt. per acre or 13.5 bushels per acre.

It will be another month or so before it is known what this season's comparison plots will yield. Posselius doesn't think there will be as many of those high 20 cwt. per acre yields but does feel the trends will follow the last three seasons.

The plots were scouted weekly and there were no significant differences in insect, disease or weed problems. He pointed out that two concerns that have to be dealt with are incorporating chemicals and the first row cultivation.

With the right equipment neither of these concerns will cause any problems. Posselius also said the trends seen in this area have been supported by research in other areas.

In particular, some work at Michigan State University showed a direct relationship between lower yields and increasing the amount of secondary tillage. The less field work, the higher the yields.

Reducing the field work will also reduce production costs, time and labor spent on those beans.

For further information on dry beans grown in chisel plowed ground call or stop by the Cooperative Extension Service office in Caro.

Memorial

IN LOVING memory of my dad, Laurence O. Campbell, who passed away 12 years ago, Aug. 1, 1971. Even though you've been laid to rest, you seem so alive to me. When I was a little girl, we laughed and played together. As I grew older, you taught me the difference between right and wrong. I always had clothes to wear, was fed and always warm. You'll always be in my heart. I never will forget the fond memories as life goes on yet. One of your loving daughters, Debbie. 13-9-1-1

Card of Thanks

By Bill Myers Taking stock

All during 1981 and 1982, I pleaded with investors, in this column and privately, to keep out of short-term stuff like money market funds and three and six month treasury bills.

These short rates were usually high, and like the songs of the sirens, they were hard to resist. In fact, I'm not sure I convinced anybody to "go long" except my spouse and she did it just to humor me.

Looking at some figures in a Paine-Webber statement:

	May '82	May '83
3 month treas. bill	12.27	8.18
Municipal average	11.82	8.87
10 yr. U.S. Gov't.	13.58	10.51

When three month T-bills were yielding 12.27 percent, why go out 10 years and get a government bond yielding only 13.58 percent? That was the reaction I always heard.

Well, a year later, namely, now — the short treasury bills have long since matured, and if you stayed in them, rolling them over into new ones, you'd be getting 8.18 percent on your money.

If you had bought 10-year government bonds at 13.58 percent, you'd still have the bonds. And on your original investment, they'd still be yielding you 13.58 percent.

Since they are not callable, the yield is locked in for another nine years. In 10 years the long bonds return you $1,358 per $1,000. Short stuff, like T-bills at current rates return $818 in 10 years.

If you wanted to sell them and take your capital gains, the 10-year bonds you paid $100 for a year ago to yield 13.58 percent would now be worth 117.6.

That's a total return of 13.58 percent plus 17.6 percent capital gains to net you 31.2 percent. Not bad for stodgy, old, dull government bonds, safest investment in the world.

One of the oldest rules in bond-buying is to "go long" — buy long maturities when yields are high and the prices are low. When rates are low, you buy short maturities. That's where a lot of us made mistakes 15 years ago.

In 1968, for instance, tax-exempt bonds due in 20 years were selling to yield 3.5 percent. Those due in five years brought in only 2.5 percent. Stretching for that extra one percent between 2.5 and 3.5, we found in the next few years we had locked ourselves into low yields for a long time.

Those were the days we should have been satisfied with low yields, and just sat tight and waited for rates to go up. Meanwhile, we would have passed up only one percent a year.

It goes against natural instincts to "go long" when yields for short bonds are practically as good. But that's the very time to grab off the bargains, and lock up the juicy rates.

I like to look at the bond market in historical terms rather than try to guess where it's going. A year ago we saw the highest rates in history, when tax-exempts were yielding around 12 and 13 percent.

Whether the market was going still higher, none of us, including Henry Kaufman, knew. Point was, the yield was very high, by any measurement.

It's as though beefsteak had fallen to 40 cents a pound. There'd be those who would advise you to wait until it was 30 cents, and meanwhile just get enough for tonight's supper.

When it hits 40 cents a pound, I say, stock up. No matter if it goes lower, you still got a bargain. During the past year, the bond equivalent of that 40 cent beef went to 65 cents — and so many of you are still buying it one meal at a time. There are few, though, who filled the freezer at 40 cents.

Laycock explores new ideas at Kingston

in each year to upgrade the quality of instruction."

There are now three or four computers at the elementary school and three or four at the high school.

"Computer literacy" will start at the elementary school this fall, so that all students get used to using them.

Computer literacy classes will be open to all high school students. Classes incorporating computers as a learning tool, and to learn more advanced uses of them, such as in math, will come later.

Laycock can point to his oldest daughter, Kathleen, as an example of the benefits of computer education. She first became interested in computers in school in Clio. A CMU graduate, she is now employed as a computer programmer analyst at the Chrysler Corp. proving grounds at Chelsea.

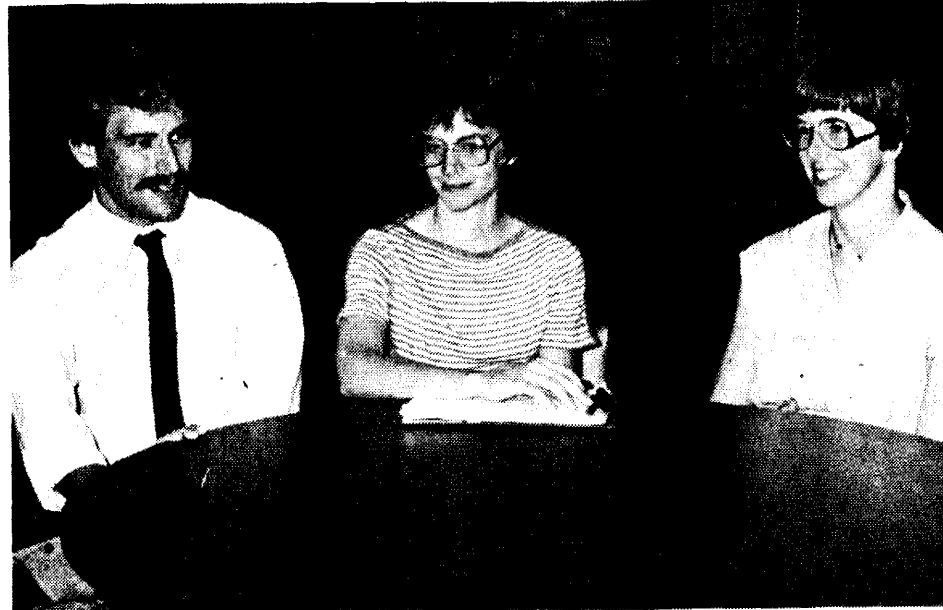

He and his wife, Marilyn, have two other daughters, Charlene, a senior at CMU majoring in broadcasting, who holds several records there in track, and Karen, who will be a senior at Kingston.

IN ADDITION TO THE computers, the school district has also purchased some electronic typewriters so students will have the latest in office equipment to work with, and an improved duplicating machine for making classroom handouts, etc.

"We want to have a strong academic program. That's what my aim is," Laycock said.

A secondary goal, he continued, is to see that the Kingston schools continue to have a well-rounded extracurricular program that all students can participate in if they so choose.

"We are running a very complete total program and we want to continue that," Laycock said, adding, "I'll tell you, most kids are involved in something."

Council oks 3-year pact with police proved a three-year contract with the Fraternal Order of Police, retroactive to May 1, when the old pact expired.

The four officers represented by the union will receive a pay hike of 5 percent per year, which means pay for officers at the top of the scale in the final year of the contract will receive $22,571. Three of the four presently are at the top of the scale.

The contract contains two minor language changes and no changes in fringe benefits.

House received a letter from the FOP dated last Thursday stating the officers had approved the contract.

OTHER ITEMS

For a one-year trial, starting Jan. 1, reservations will be accepted for the park pavilion closest to the woods for $12.50 for village residents and $25 for non-residents. Proceeds will be used to buy picnic tables.

Parks Committee chairman Lynda McIntosh, who made the recommendation, said a survey was made of several Thumb area villages. Only Marlette and Caro accept reservations. The rest said it wasn't worth the hassle.

Marlette and Caro's problems include persons wanting to make reservations a year in advance, village residents complaining about non-village residents making reservations and "reserved" signs at pavilions being torn down.

One aluminum picnic table and two wooden ones will be purchased at a total cost of $500-600, one purpose being so groups or individuals can see them if they are interested in buying a table for the park.

Prior to the meeting, the council toured the wastewater treatment plant. (See photo elsewhere in this issue.) At the meeting, it approved the final payment, $66,560, to H.C. Weber Construction Co. of Bay City, the general contractor.

An open house will be scheduled to enable the public to tour the $6 million plant.

Wes Raven of Detroit Edison told the council an election will be conducted in Cass City Jan. 10 to renew the 30-year franchise with the utility. The election is required by the state constitution. Edison pays all costs.

Edward Ratz, high bidder Aug. 15 for purchase of the Bauman house at $280, withdrew his bid. The council accepted the next highest bid of Gary Czekai for $257 and gave him an additional month, to Oct. 31, to tear down or remove the

Special meeting of Cass City Village Council

As advertised a special meeting was held Aug. 15, 1983 at 7:00 p.m. at the Municipal Building. All Trustees were present. In the absence of President Althaver, James Ware, President Pro-tem, chaired the meeting.

Bids were received and opened Aug. 11, 1983 for bituminous resurfacing and then reviewed by Hubbell, Roth and Clark. After discussion a motion was made by Trustee Helwig and supported by Trustee McIntosh to accept the low bid of $85,393.90 from PTI Construction Co. subject to the availability of funds from the Department of Transportation and to the recommendation of H.R.C. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

Four bids were opened on the Bauman house. A motion was made by Trustee Helwig and supported by Trustee Weaver to accept the high bid of $280.00 from Ed Ratz, Cass City Road, Cass City. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays.

A letter was read from Thomas and William Breakey requesting a letter from the Village concerning 6.67 acres of property located behind Charnott for a proposed 32 unit apartment building. (attached) A motion was made by Trustee Stahlbaum and supported by Trustee Hampshire to reply to this request. Motion carried 5 yeas, 0 nays. (attached)

Theft losses top $2,000 at school, home

He said the Ajax generator was taken from the garage of the home he has under construction on Cemetery Road, south of Cass City. It was discovered missing the day before. Brown hadn't been there in a week.

Charges of malicious destruction of property may be brought against two men who damaged numerous mailboxes and ran over some lawns, some in the Kingston area Tuesday morning, Aug. 23.

One of the two men was taken into custody that day after the license plate of his pickup was reported by a witness. He was questioned and then released, but was advised the prosecutor's office would be contacted.

The other person believed to be involved wasn't immediately located by deputies.

As of Tuesday this week, no warrants had been issued yet by the prosecutor's office.

By following tire tracks the morning of the 23rd, deputies found a total of seven mailboxes, two newspaper delivery boxes and two lawns damaged on Livermore, English, Dorance, Rossman and Plain Roads.

The person questioned said they damaged 10-20 mailboxes and on Aug. 14, damaged five mailboxes on Murphy Lake Road south of Vassar and five more on roads south of the Cass River.

L & S Standard Service owner Floyd Luettke reported to Cass City police last Wednesday morning a rear light off a two-wheel trailer was stolen during the night. The trailer was parked behind the station and the light was valued at $20.

Phyllis Mark of 6447 Houghton Street told village police Tuesday evening, Aug. 23, that a hub dust cover was stolen from a four-wheel drive Ford Blazer within the previous four days.

New Zealander finds 10-month stay on Broecker farm rewarding

Stuart Sanders has come a long way in farming -- about 7,500 miles.

The 21-year-old New Zealand farmer has been working on the cash crop farm of Arnold and John Broecker, father and son respectively, on Hoadley Road, Decker, since the end of March.

He is a participant in a work exchange program run by the Future Farmers of America and its New Zealand equivalent, the Young Farmers Club. He plans to leave in mid-November, once harvest season is over, and tour the United States for a month before arriving home at the end of December.

Sanders chose to come to the United States, he said, to see different ways of life and farming and to see how people do things.

Not that life is that much different in New Zealand. Asked for an example, he responded, "The only difference I've noticed with a dairy farm is they carry most feed to the stock, whereas at home, they'll graze out most of the summer and if it's a dry winter, they'll graze out, too."

There are other differences, of course, some due to size.

New Zealand has a population of only 3.17 million, spread out over the two islands totaling almost twice the size of Michigan. (Michigan's population is about 9.2 million.)

SHEEP AND DAIRY-ING are the main types of agriculture in New Zealand.

Sanders farms 400 acres with his father. Their biggest cash crop is 70-100 acres of barley.

They also have 1,600 breeding ewes, which are either sold for slaughter or used for breeding. Lambs are kept 3-4 months, and then sold to other farmers or for slaughter. The sheep graze, except in winter when they are fed alfalfa hay and silage.

Winters are fairly mild in New Zealand. The coldest it usually gets at night is about 25 degrees and on the rare occasions when it does snow, it lasts a day or two and then melts. On the average, the hottest it gets in summer is 75-80 degrees. Seasons are the opposite of here. It's winter now in New Zealand.

The Sanders farm is on the South Island, about 18 miles from Christchurch, which has a population of 317,000. There is a small town eight miles away, where routine shopping is done. Although much of New Zealand is hilly, the farm is in a flat area.

A little corn may be grown on the South Island, but with that minor exception, it's confined to the North Island, which is warmer.

Based on what he has observed here, Sanders may try to grow corn at home. He is hoping to find a variety to take home that will grow on the South Island climate.

The farmer figures corn could be chopped and fed as silage to livestock or used as poultry feed.

The latter would be useful, since the Sanders' farm is part of a three-prong operation. In addition to the farm operated by him and his father -- they also do custom work -- there is a poultry and stock feed mill run by an uncle and a broiler chicken farm run by a manager. When necessary, they all help each other.

Sanders chose not to work on a sheep farm during his time in the United States. He has milked cows a few times on another farm.

WHEN HE LEAVES THE Broecker farm, he plans to visit a "bloke" in Kansas who spent two weeks last November on the Sanders' farm. Sanders also wants to visit Nashville, to visit some farms and take in some country music.

Country music is played in New Zealand and some American country singers have performed there.

Being a small country, a lot is imported into New Zealand in addition to country music, including farm equipment.

No tractors are manufactured there, although Japanese, Russian and Italian makes, plus John Deere, are assembled there.

Sanders belongs to a vintage farm equipment club and some of the antiques owned by members are American Caterpillar and English-made John Deere.

Some farm equipment is manufactured in New Zealand, including for handling round hay bales and cultivation. One manufacturer of direct seeding drills has exported its product to Australia and the United States.

Sanders feels his stay in the United States has been a worthwhile one and recommends the experience to other young farmers. "I think it's worthwhile to anybody who can get away and see the way things are done (in other countries), and the way they live."

$8,000 yearly and rising

Various programs may help ease spiraling college education costs

For most families, the cost of sending offspring to college increases faster than their ability to accumulate the money to pay for the education.

Average costs at private colleges have already climbed past $8,000 per year and past $4,000 at state colleges. Experts expect a 10 percent increase next year.

You may be able to cover the cost of college in a combination of ways, without drastic measures like selling your house. The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants suggests considering the following financial planning:

- Low-interest deferred-payment loans.
- Work-study programs.
- Installment tuition plans.
- Reduced interest pay-as-you-go loans.
- Aid from local governments, private and professional organizations.
- Tax benefits.

Despite tighter restrictions on the Guaranteed Student Loan Program (GSLP), the largest source of federal aid to college students, loans are available to those who can demonstrate their need for government aid. Last year $6.2 billion in low-interest loans were granted to 2.75 million students.

If you have more than one student in college, have few material assets, or incur unusual expenses such as support of a sick or elderly relative, you may qualify even though your family income is over $30,000.

With an income slightly above the $30,000 limit, you might think about investing in an Individual Retirement Account. That would drop your adjusted gross income, offer you a tax break, and at the same time qualify you for financial aid, CPAs say.

Besides the requirement of need, you must pay an "origination fee" on guaranteed loans, which mean $125 up front on the maximum yearly loan of $2,500. Loan repayment does not begin until six months after leaving college, with up to 10 years to repay. Interest rates vary, but usually lag a few points beneath the 91-day Treasury-bill rate. Through September at least, the GSLP interest rate is nine percent.

An even cheaper loan, at five percent interest, is the National Direct Student Loan (NDSL). However, less can be borrowed and the loans are restricted to low-income families.

If you should qualify for both these loan programs and borrow $2,500 and $1,500, respectively, you could theoretically put off paying half that $8,000 school bill.

When you do repay it, you will be using cheaper dollars, which is a wise use of money, CPAs note. For up-to-date information on loan aid programs, call the federal government's Student Information Center toll-free at (800) 638-6700.

A talk with the college financial aid officer could pinpoint other sources of aid. For instance, the work-study program, subsidized by the federal government, might provide a part-time job for the student, and cover another part of the costs. Apply early, because jobs go fast.

Some colleges allow families to pay tuition in installments during the year with a one-quarter to one-third down payment, often with little or no interest.

Your state may offer low cost loans, scholarships, or tax benefits.

Another federal program, PLUS loans, is available to parents of undergraduate students, regardless of income. Parents may borrow up to $3,000 a year from local banks, credit unions or savings and loan associations.

Although repayment must start 60 days after receiving the loan, you can budget for part of college costs this way.

For example, by borrowing $2,000 at 12 percent through the PLUS program, your 12 monthly payments would be about $187. The $240 interest is tax-deductible, so calculate the true interest rate according to your tax bracket, your real rate of interest is more like 6 percent.

The PLUS interest rate is the same as the 91-day Treasury-bill rate and is subject to change. Graduate students may qualify for their own PLUS loans under a deferred repayment plan, paying only interest while in school.

Community groups, churches and professional organizations sometimes offer financial aid to students in particular subjects such as music or science.

Immunizations

Act 299, Public Acts of 1975, authorized the Director of the Michigan Department of Public Health to specify, by regulation, the immunizations and tests required of all children enrolling in Michigan schools for the first time. This year the following immunizations are required: Diphtheria, Tetanus, Rubella, Pertussis, Measles, Poliomyelitis.

In addition, each new school entry must have had a vision screening test.

The parent or guardian who, because of religious or other convictions, does not want his child protected from these diseases must submit a signed statement to that effect.

As part of our school admission procedure for your child, we must enforce the law stated above. We must have the health record or a similar statement in order to admit your child officially to school.

If you have questions about this, please consult your local school, your doctor, or the Thumb District Health Department.

Guidance and Counseling

The school guidance program is designed to assist students who have personal and social concerns, and to help students design academic programs to meet their individual needs and abilities. College admission and financial aid assistance is provided for students interested in continuing their schooling after graduation. One of the programs designed to benefit both the student and the community is the co-operative education program. Under this program, some students are placed in on-the-job work situations for part of each school day. Students and parents desiring more information are encouraged to contact the guidance offices.

Emergency School Closing

Special announcements concerning school closing will be made through the following public service facilities: Radio WKYO -- Caro, Radio WMIC -- Sandusky, Radio WLEW -- Bad Axe.

Announcements will be made as soon as a decision is reached.

School Calendar

The school calendar is subject to negotiations and will be published when agreement is reached with the Tri-County Bargaining Unit.

Free Student Lunch Policy

The Cass City Board of Education has adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch, Special Milk Program, and U.S.D.A. Donated Foods Program.

Total Family Size	"A" Scale for Free Meals and Free Milk	"B" Scale for Reduced Price Meals
1	6,318	8,991
2	8,502	12,099
3	10,686	15,207
4	12,870	18,315
5	15,054	21,423
6	17,238	24,531
7	19,422	27,639
8	21,606	30,747
Each additional family member	2,184	3,108

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free meals or reduced-price meals.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. This information may be verified at any time during the school year. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

For the school officials to determine eligibility, the household must provide the following information listed on the application: Names of all household members; social security numbers of all adult household members or a statement that the household member does not possess one; total household income, and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct. Households are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size.

To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application forms contain a statement above the space for signature certifying that all information furnished in the application is true and correct. An additional statement is added to warn that the application is being made in connection with the receipt of Federal funds, that school officials may verify the information in the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable State and criminal statutes.

In most cases, foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals for them, it should contact the school.

Children of unemployed parents may qualify for free or reduced price meals if total family income including welfare payments, unemployment compensation and sub-pay benefits fall within the prescribed family income guidelines.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, creed, color national origin or handicap.

Area steelworkers union to help Muscular Dystrophy campaign

United Steelworkers Local 6222 will again be participating in the Jerry Lewis Labor Day week end telethon for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The union will have a fishbowl by Main Street, in front of its hall in the Hahn

Real Estate Building, next to Veronica's Restaurant, for persons who would like to drop in donations. The bowl will be there Monday from about 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

In past years, in addition to the fishbowl, the local has had three or four telephones inside the hall for taking pledges, staffed by union members and other volunteers.

Union President Dan Lackowski said the MDA decided for financial reasons it won't pay the phone bill this year for any pledge centers with fewer than 12 phones, which eliminated Local 6222 from taking telephone pledges.

Last year, the local, which represents workers at General Cable, raised about $3,000 in telephone pledges and from the fishbowl to combat the neuromuscular disease.

This year, Lackowski said, it is hoping to raise about $150 from the fishbowl, plus about $350 it has already collected from card parties and bake sales.

The telethon, which in this area will be carried on WJMN, Channel 5, will run 21½ hours, starting Sunday evening.

Employer

Michigan's farmers employ about 100,000 full-time workers. Food businesses, which are agriculturally-related, employ another 350,000 and forest product firms employ about 60,000 full-time workers. Farmers paid $197 million in wages in 1981.

There's a new wrinkle in telephone Calling Card fraud, according to John Russell, General Telephone security manager for Indiana and Michigan.

"It started on the west coast," Russell said. "An individual impersonating a telephone company service office employee calls a customer and, during the conversation, obtains his or her Calling Card number."

"This individual then informs the customer that the number is being re-issued, gives the customer a fictitious new number and proceeds to use the customer's valid number to place calls to points all over the world."

Russell said one victim received a bill totaling over $18,000, after giving his Calling Card number to a "phony" caller.

"Calling Card numbers are the customers' private property," Russell pointed out, "and should not be shared with anyone they wouldn't trust with a signed blank check."

REEHLS HONORED

Troy and Norbert Reehl, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reehl, received a letter of commendation from the Bad Axe Chamber of Commerce for their act of good citizenship displayed during the recent Bad Axe sidewalk sales.

They turned in a wallet they found containing a substantial amount of money. The grateful owner was from Mt. Clemens.

Guests last week end of John Stochla were his mother, Mrs. Rose Stochla, and his brother, Butch of Detroit.

Carl Weber and Holly of Frankenmuth, the Harold Kochs and Janet, the Franklin Kochs and Karen spent several days camping at Higgins Lake. Sharon and Randy Seder of Birch Run joined them for a few days.

The Gagetown Women's Study Club will meet Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 8:00 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Vera Hoadley in Cass City.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold

Deputies arrest 79 in July

Tuscola County sheriff's deputies arrested 79 persons in July, of which 50 were for traffic related offenses, mostly drunk driving.

Next came eight persons arrested for larceny.

Cass City police arrested or brought charges against five persons, two for vandalism, and one each for traffic, liquor and animal law violations.

Kingston police arrested two persons for traffic and one for assaulting a police officer.

Michigan state police from the Caro post arrested 14 persons for traffic law violations, and one each for liquor law violations and assault.

Deputies issued 533 traffic tickets in July, including 190 for speeding, 79 for defective equipment, 39 for driver's license violation and 34 for registration violations.

There were 33 appearance tickets issued, including 22 for transporting or possession of open containers of intoxicants in motor vehicles.

Deputies drove their patrol cars 47,269 miles in July. The cars consumed 3,466.3 gallons of gasoline, for an average of 13.6 miles per gallon.

The county jail received 209 inmates during the month, of whom 24 were female, and released 210.

The number of respective complaints received from and accidents in area townships and villages in July were:

Columbia, 5 and 0; Elkland, 10 and 0; Cass City, 78 and accidents not recorded by sheriff's department; Ellington, 13 and 1; Elmwood, 16 and 3; Kingston Township, 22 and 2; Kingston village, 1 and 1; Koylton, 8 and 0; Novesta, 14 and 1, and Wells, 23 and 2.

Blehm were recent weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Suzor of Pontiac and they attended the Lions-Buffalo Bills football game at the Silverdome.

Kathy Kirby spent the week with her grandmother, Mrs. Jacqueline Andreae of Potoskey. Kathy's mother, Mrs. David (Chris) Kirby, accompanied by Linda Batie, spent Saturday at Mackinac Island and Sunday at Potoskey when they went to bring Kathy home.

Mrs. Harold Claque of Ann Arbor and Arnold Karr and son Eric of Syracuse, Ind., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Karr the week end of Aug. 20. Before reaching their destination, they were involved in an auto accident and suffered minor injuries. The Davenports are the parents of Mrs. John (Janelle) Hunter.

Last Tuesday visitors at the home of Les and Mildred Munro were Mildred's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Thering of Mt. Pleasant. The Thering's visited another sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roberts, in Harbor Beach Wednesday.

Jobs needed for high school pupils

Employers seeking part-time help are invited to contact Wayne Dillon at Cass City High School.

Students are available to work in co-op jobs in the morning or afternoon and for after-school jobs and on week ends.

Students interested in finding jobs can also contact Dillon, vocational-career education director and counselor, although he cannot make any guarantees.

In 1982-83, Dillon said, about 90 students had off-farm co-op job and another 20 worked on farms through the co-op program, usually on their family's farm.

He figures there will be about that many jobs available this year and maybe "five or six" more than that.

"It seems a little more positive," he said of the outlook for student employment.

However, because of the still poor state of the economy, many former co-op students stayed in those jobs after graduating from high school, rather than try to find employment elsewhere.
