Woman killed, 5 injured in Tuscola County crash

A Port Austin woman was killed and five persons were injured in a two-car collision last Thursday at the M-46 - M-24 intersection south of Caro.

Marion C. Ballman, 66, who was dead at the scene, was the 10th person to be killed in a Tuscola County traffic accident this year. Six had died as of this date a year ago.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Kurt, 69, who was taken to Caro Community Hospital for treatment. He was released apparently Friday.

Sheriff's deputies reported their car was eastbound on M-46 and was struck broadside by a northbound van that failed to stop at the stop sign.

Driver of the van was Baudilio Colon, 35, of Detroit, who was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw.

His passengers were Carol Miracle, 28, of Detroit, who was treated and released from St. Mary's, and her three children: Jessica, 8, was treated and released from Caro Community. Jessie, 7, was in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at St. Mary's and Eddie, 12, was in serious condition.

The 1:20 p.m. accident remains under investigation.

INJURY ACCIDENTS

Frank M. Spencer, 16, of 3880 Cemetery Road, Cass City, was treated and released from Hills and Dales following a 12:05 a.m. accident Saturday.

Sheriff's deputies reported he was eastbound on Milligan Road and his brakes failed when he tried to stop at Schwegler Road.

His car crossed the intersection and he lost control on the gravel surface east of Schwegler.

The car went sideways, struck a utility pole, went into a field, rolled over three times and came to rest right side up at the bottom of a hill.

James L. Brewer, 21, of 4701 Shabbona Road, Cass City, was discharged from St. Mary's Aug. 29, the day after he was taken there after being injured in a motorcycle accident.

Sheriff's deputies reported he was riding the cycle on his property and lost control. The accident was reported at 1:30 p.m.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Scott D. Wendling, 23, of Caro, told sheriff's deputies that when he was southbound on Cemetery Road, north of Severance Road, at 2:15 a.m. Saturday, he was forced to take evasive action when an unidentified northbound vehicle crossed the centerline.

His car went off the west shoulder, down an embankment and came to rest in three feet of water.

A similar accident was reported at 6 a.m. Friday.

Michael E. Wittbrodt, 23, of 7258 E. Sanilac Road, Kingston, was southbound on Colling Road, north of Dixon Road, when an unidentified northbound vehicle crossed into his lane.

He swerved and his car went into the ditch along the east side of the road.

Cass City police reported that at 2 p.m. Monday, Delbert Potrykus, 49, of Crawford Road, Deford, was backing from a parking place in the Hills and Dales lot and his car struck the right side of the auto parked alongside.

Owner of the parked car was Marcia Lasiewicz of Caro.

Drop in jobless benefit recipients not all good

Although the number of persons collecting unemployment compensation at the Caro office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission is the lowest it has been in years, that isn't entirely good news.

"We're right down to the lowest it's been in years and years and years," said branch manager Charles Cramer.

Last week, 572 persons were receiving regular unemployment benefits and 279 were collecting extended benefits. A year ago, for the week ending Sept. 17, there were 1,395 persons collecting regular jobless benefits at the Caro office and 275 who filed for extended benefits.

Because of a recent change, the maximum number of weeks a person can collect unemployment compensation is 34 (26 weeks maximum of regular benefits and eight of extended benefits). It had been 36 weeks.

The sharp drop in the number of persons collecting benefits, however, can't be attributed entirely to persons being recalled to jobs or being hired for new ones. "I'd say right now, we're splitting it in half," Cramer said. Half the people stop receiving unemployment benefits because they have been unemployed more than 34 weeks and the other half because they go back to work.

It's easy to find signs the economy is improving, but it's also easy to find bad signs.

A good sign can be found at Evans Material Handling Division in Gagetown, where 73 persons are producing various steel racks used in automobile factories and nine are working in the office.

In March, there were 40 hourly employees and six in the office. In June, 1982, the payroll totaled only eight.

The plant also produces railroad car doors, but Plant Manager Robert Heard said the increase in employment is "all because of the pickup in the auto industry."

Both the good and bad side of the economy were illustrated at Walbro Corp.

in Cass City, which accepted applications Aug. 22 and 24 to fill a few immediate openings and to have them on hand for future openings.

Although there was no official announcement, more than 500 persons who heard via word of mouth turned in applications. Some even came from out of state.

Michigan's unemployment rate in August was 14.3 percent, up from 13.1 percent in July. The national rate in both those months was 9.5 percent.

The Tuscola County unemployment rate for August isn't available yet, but Cramer said it no doubt will be higher than the state figure. In the 13 years he has been at the Caro office, the Tuscola monthly unemployment rate has only twice been less than the state rate.

Unemployed persons are suffering an additional blow with the reduction in extended benefits which started Aug. 22, from a maximum 10 weeks to eight.

Within the past several months, jobless benefits have been cut from 65 weeks maximum to 34, due to changes in the Federal Supplemental Compensation program and the drop in the insured unemployment rate (IUR), which is the ratio of those claiming state unemployment benefits to those who are working in jobs covered by the state unemployment insurance law.

Required use by the federal government of the IUR meant benefits were being paid for a longer period in some states that had a lower employment rate than in Michigan.

President Reagan is expected to veto a bill that would have frozen the payment of extended benefits at 10 weeks, despite any further drops in the IUR.

Cramer noted the reduction in the weeks of extended benefits paid doesn't make that much difference now, because the entire program is due to expire at the end of this month.

After that, unless Congress and the president approve a new program, jobless workers will receive a maximum of 26 weeks of unemployment benefits.

Family loses home

Pickup hits utility pole, house burns

A freakish accident at 5 p.m. Friday in Lamotte Township resulted in a fire that destroyed a house occupied by a family of five, a power outage and the driver of the pickup which caused the mishap hospitalized.

Owners of the home on Hoadley Road are Mr. and Mrs. Harold James, who have three sons.

Driver of the pickup was Raymond E. Smutek, 30, of 4321 Van Dyke Road, Cass City, who was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Sgt. William Thomas of the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department said Smutek was westbound on Snover Road, 3 mile west of Hoadley, when he lost control of his vehicle. It went off the north side of the road and slammed into a Detroit Edison pole, which broke 15 feet from the ground.

That brought down electrical lines and resulted in numerous electrical problems, one of which was that it set Smutek's pickup, a 1983 model, on fire. It was a total loss.

The accident caused electrical lines to drop onto other lines, and a primary fuse blew, which cut off electricity, according to Don Graham, Detroit Edison St. Clair district general supervisor.

There could have been a momentary high voltage situation, or bulk surge of electricity, but that isn't known.

The James home was at least a mile away, north of Snover Road. Lamotte Township Fire Chief Art West said the home is at the end of the electrical line circuit. One line contains 40,000 volts and the other, 4,800, and he figures the lines came together.

The high voltage started a fire in every room of the house. "It had to be like an explosion in there," West commented. No one was home at the time. "I think it was lucky they weren't home."

Although the walls were left standing, the interior was destroyed and the home was described as a total loss, as well as everything in it. West estimated damage at $45,000.

The fire chief said James built the home himself and apparently didn't have insurance.

Fortunately, the family's mobile home next to their house wasn't connected to the electrical circuit. They are living there temporarily.

The Lamotte Fire Department went to the house fire, while the Moore Township department extinguished the pickup fire, then assisted Lamotte firemen at the house. Firefighters were at the house about 2½ hours.

The accident also caused a power outage. A Detroit Edison official in Sandusky said 65 homes were without power for about 90 minutes in the Snover and Hoadley Road areas, until Edison workmen had power restored. West said power was out in Decker and Hemans and almost all the way to Snover. Snover Road starts at Hemans, which is on M-53, and runs through Decker and Snover.

The fire chief said he has heard of 5-10 televisions ruined because of the excess voltage.

At the Lamotte fire hall on Snover Road, the fuse box was smoking and because of the power outage, the electrically operated garage doors wouldn't open. They can be bypassed, but the driver of the first truck out decided it was quicker to back the truck out through the manually operated rear door.

There was no apparent damage to the electrical system at the fire hall, West said, and the electric doors now open.

The accident which started it all remains under investigation, Sgt. Thomas said.

Three elections Tuesday

Detroit Edison franchise elections will take place Tuesday in Elkland Township and Owendale, plus a millage election in Greenleaf Township.

Election hours in all three places are 7 a.m.-8 p.m.

The state constitution mandates that electrical, utilities' franchises be renewed by voters every 30 years. Edison pays all costs of conducting the elections.

The franchises allow the utility to operate within the township or village, for instance, giving it permission to have its power lines cross streets.

Voting places are the Owendale community building and the Elkland Township fire hall. Cass City residents can vote in the township election.

Greenleaf Township has two millage proposals on the ballot. Proposal A is renewal of 1 mill for five years (1983-87) for fire protection.

The township contracts with the Elkland Township Fire Department for fire protection in most of Greenleaf. The remainder is under contract with the Bingham Township department.

One mill raises about $9,000 and all of the money is used to pay the standby fees to Elkland and Bingham for service from their fire departments.

Proposal B is a millage increase of .3 mill for five years for support of Rawson Memorial Library, which will mean about $2,700 a year for the library.

The township's present contract with the library

Keeled over

By Jim Fitzgerald

According to the Associated Press, the president of the International Yacht Racing Union (IYRC) said it was a mistake for the New York Yacht Club to ask the International Keelboat Technical Committee to reassess the validity of Australia II, "with its secret keel," as a 12-meter yacht, because such a reassessment can be made only by the International Measurement Committee.

That's what I thought all along.

When I was awakened much too early last Sunday morning, I thought how nice it was that the IYRC president, at a news conference held by the Aga Khan, had finally cleared up a jurisdictional dispute that worried me for several days. Certainly there is enough grief in this troubled world without having yacht keels measured by the wrong committee, for God's sake.

And as I was lying supinely in bed, looking at the ceiling (it is impossible to lie supinely while looking at the floor; did you know that?) I couldn't help thinking about another important question that needed answering: What woke me up at 5 a.m.?

It was a crime. It took me almost an hour to figure it out, and I needed a little bit of help from my wife, but it was a crime. I was awakened by a siren shrilling on the street below. At first I thought it might be an ambulance, which wouldn't be a crime, but when the siren kept shrilling, I rejected the idea. Why would an ambulance shrill in front of my home for half an hour?

For that matter, why would a police car, or a fire truck, behave so cruelly? Even for the worst sort of crime or conflagration, there was no decent reason for a public employee to torture tired taxpayers by shrilling a siren continuously in the same location early in the morning.

"I know what it is," my wife said. "It's a burglar alarm on a car."

"That's exactly what it is; thanks for giving me a little bit of help in figuring out the answer. You would never have figured it out in one minute if I hadn't been thinking about it for 60 minutes," I said. I always have to loosen jar lids before she can screw them off.

In total elapsed time, the siren kept me and probably the entire neighborhood awake for two hours and 10 minutes. By the time it finally stopped, I couldn't get back to sleep because I find it impossible to remain supine while jumping up and down and screaming.

The frustration was excruciating. I had no idea what to do about the offending siren. When my yacht needs reassessing, I know enough to contact the International Measurement Committee. But what committee has jurisdiction over car alarms that need shutting off?

The alarm was activated by a thief who, thwarted, probably sped home to a quiet neighborhood and went to sleep supinely. Looking out the window, I could see hundreds of cars parked on the street. From 26 floors away, there was no way of telling which was the noisy car. Even if I were energetic enough to go outside and track down the source, what would I do about it? There was no way I could turn off the stupid alarm.

Where was the lucky owner of the car? Just as morticians don't advertise on Vic Tanny bulletin boards, police officers have more profitable things to do than hunt down people who weren't robbed. But shouldn't the person who set the alarm come running to celebrate its success? Or did he purposely park outside hearing range of his bedroom?

I don't know the answer to those questions. Just like the Aga Khan, I know secret yacht keels don't fall within the jurisdiction of the International Keelboat Technical Committee. But I don't know what to do about a car alarm that wakes me up at 5 a.m.

It's a crime. Sleeping supinely is more important than 12-meter yachting. I need to figure out why the Aga Khan's problems get solved but mine don't. My wife will probably give me a little bit of help figuring if I jump up and down and scream long enough to loosen her lid.

Cass City class of '78 has reunion

The Cass City High School class of 1978 held its five-year reunion Aug. 27 at the Brentwood in Caro.

A family style dinner and music by "Illusion" was enjoyed.

Roland and Polly Pakonen and Steve Leith were the only faculty members present.

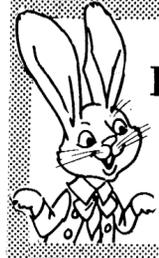

Smoked glass brandy snifters containing a burgundy carnation with an accenting white ribbon were given away as prizes. Prize winners were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hillaker and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Toner as they celebrate wedding anniversaries closest to May 25 (graduation day) and Aug. 27 (reunion day).

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lowe have the most children, two, while Mark Particka has lost the most hair. Joan Sattelberg was the shortest lady present. Cheri Martin and Al Pratt had traveled the farthest.

John Doerr and Janice Warju celebrate birthdays closest to reunion day while Mark Hutchinson and Brenda Bader celebrate birthdays closest to graduation day.

The corn may be less than good this year. The raspberries were hurt by the dry spell and the fruit crop hurt by the late spring frost.

But the cantaloupes are terrific. Big, sweet and juicy, they are as fine as any that can be remembered in any year.

It was a little windy, but he went anyway. Along with some 40,000 others, William Kitchin walked the Mackinac Bridge on Labor Day for the fifth time.

Kitchin is 81 years old.

We got the message. Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester made sure that we learned about its upcoming World of Quilts show.

The publicity department mailed three identical news releases to the editor, entertainment editor and feature editor.

They were promptly shuttled to the editor in each department...Mike Eliasohn got them all.

It's nice to be remembered. Mary Rexin sent along copies of two different papers from Texas where she and her husband, Howard, make their home now.

Mrs. Rexin was a long time employee on Cass City's main stem including stints at Ben Franklin Store and Old Wood Drug.

Another former resident, Thom Bardwell, also sent us some copy from California. It showed the usual misconceptions about rural life that prevail in the big cities, including Los Angeles.

This came in the National Safety News. Writes Thom, "I thought you'd enjoy how Los Angeles perceives farm life."

He's right, I did.

Sunday a pair of cream colored summer shoes completed the dress ensemble.

ble. These shoes of patent leather are zilch with me.

They were purchased in a weak moment several years ago and they make my feet perspire. No, they make them sweat. Let's get down to basics.

Basically, I don't like to wear them and my waste not, want not rearing leaves me feeling guilty even thinking about throwing them out.

To get my money's worth, those shoes have to be worn and summer is about over.

Summer ends, you know, the first Monday in September. Never mind the calendar. Don't be blowing smoke by telling me that there are fine days ahead, summer type days, and many of them.

Weather has nothing to do with it. Summer is a state of mind. Summer is the beach. Summer is swimming. Summer is baseball and golf. Summer is raspberries and corn on the cob. Summer is picnics. Summer is hot nights and hotter days. Summer is vacations in the sun.

Labor Day is summer's final fling. The week end before the cottages close, the boats are stored and docks removed. It's the last chance until next season.

Now we turn our backs on indolent days. It's business first again.

After Labor Day it's kids trekking off to school. It's winter preparation time. It's fall color tours. It's raiding the closet to check winter clothing and finding what's passable and what's pass-on-able.

It's Saturday afternoon and Sunday afternoon football games. It's a good season, but it's not summer. Definitely not summer.

Nobody wears cream colored shoes to football games.

Pedaling Around
New news is bad news
By Mike Eliasohn

I assume there won't be any news of teacher contract settlements in this week's paper.

I wish there were. As of when I write this (last Thursday), I have no idea what I will fill the front page with. A contract settlement would have been nice.

Kingston is the only district where negotiations are scheduled to take place before deadline, on Tuesday, so results -- settlement or not -- will be in this issue.

Owen-Gage negotiations are tentatively scheduled Thursday, Tuscola Intermediate School District negotiations take place Friday and Cass City, Tuesday of next week.

Having never observed a negotiating session, such things being closed to the public and press, I can't say what they're like.

As an outsider, labor-management negotiations seem somewhat silly to me. Both sides know sooner or later they are going to settle. Management wants to settle for as little as possible and labor wants as much as possible. So why not compromise in the beginning and get it over with?

To speed the process along, why not lock negotiators inside a closed room until they settle, which I predict would be in a hurry. Bring in meals and let negotiators out only to go to the bathroom.

And why can't teachers and school board negotiators settle during the summer? Why do they always have to wait until the start of school to get serious?

Slowing the pace of negotiations even more these days is that many school boards hire professional negotiators, with two of them seemingly having captured most of the business in the upper Thumb. With each negotiating in several districts, they can't meet as often in one district as might be desirable. Negotiating during the summer months would ease that problem.

Not being naive, I don't expect any of my suggestions to become reality.

The only reality is that settlements will eventually be reached in the abovementioned four districts, hopefully not on a Tuesday night, and especially not all on the same Tuesday night.

I still remember the Cass City settlement three years ago. School was supposed to open on a Wednesday, and with no contract settlement the day before, teachers were prepared to go on strike.

I had my story written about the strike, when at about 1:30 Wednesday morning, I received word of the tentative settlement. I had to write a new story, got to bed at 4 a.m. (and got up at 6 a.m.) and schools opened that morning as scheduled. Last minute news like that I don't need.

A few weeks ago, I asked for opinions concerning our coverage of 4-H fair results.

I received two responses. One was from a former 4-H leader, who questioned our only listing blue ribbon winners. Some youngsters, whose abilities may not be as good as others, may work just as hard but receive only a red or white ribbon, she pointed out.

She thought it would be fairer to list the names of all the members of each 4-H club who exhibited at the fairs, and not say what each had won.

The other was from a 4-H'er, one who did rather well at the Tuscola fair, who said we don't have enough coverage of 4-H activities, especially during the rest of the year.

A few 4-H clubs do send us news on a regular basis, which we publish. If others want to do so, we'll be glad to run it.

That also applies to other things, of course. If you ever wonder about why some event wasn't covered in the Chronicle, chances are it was because no one told us about it.

As for the fair coverage, I'm still debating, so if anyone else has any suggestions, I'd still like to hear them.

Cherrapungi, India has an annual average rainfall of 432 inches—36 feet.

After having been in charge of the federal government's Comprehensive Employment and Training Act program in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac Counties since June, 1975, Frank Lenard has decided it's time to start a new career.

He leaves Friday. Come Oct. 1, CETA will be replaced by the Job Training Partnership Act.

He questions the value of ending one federal program and replacing it with another. "I guess I would have to ask why we reinvented the wheel. There aren't that many changes from CETA to JTPA."

Whatever the name, he feels such programs benefit many individuals, but those individuals form only a small percentage of those adults in need of a job or job training.

CETA began in 1974. The Thumb Area Consortium, which ran the program in the three upper Thumb counties, started operation in January, 1975. The first executive director stepped down after six months and Lenard was hired. He had been chief economic planner for the East Central Michigan Planning and Development Region, headquartered in Saginaw.

Lenard joined the consortium just before its office was moved from Bad Axe to the Hahn Real Estate Building in Cass City, where it has remained. (It hasn't been decided yet where the office will be for the new consortium that will run the JTPA program, which will also include Lapeer County, but it will probably be in Marlette.)

He stepped down as executive director Aug. 1, when he assumed the title of "consultant" until his departure. Marvin Pichla, who had been the program planner, is now running the consortium until Sept. 30, when the programs end, and then to Dec. 30, by which time close-out of all financial records is supposed to be done.

At its peak, in about 1977-78, Lenard was administering an annual budget of about $11½ million, with about 3,000 persons enrolled in public service jobs and job training. "It was a big program." His salary the last two years has been $32,000 annually.

The downturn started after President Reagan came into office in January, 1981. He eliminated the public jobs program and reduced other CETA funds.

During the current fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, the consortium has a budget of $2.58 million, for classroom, on-the-job, work experience and summer youth employment programs.

The consortium itself never had many employees -- it averaged 14-15, Lenard said -- since it contracted with other agencies to run most of the programs.

WHETHER CETA WAS A success depends on one's perspective.

In terms of having a drastic effect nationwide, despite the billions of dollars spent, the answer is "no." "I would say not at all because it didn't represent that big a portion of the federal pie," Lenard commented.

The public employment program, so called "make work," didn't have a visible impact. "If you're looking for bricks and mortar type things, no." The jobs consisted of such things as cleaning cemeteries and parks, cutting roadside brush and painting government buildings.

THE SUCCESS OF CETA, according to Lenard, can only be seen on an individual basis.

The public employment program provided jobs and gave participants a sense of worth. "I think some good came out of it."

To be eligible for CETA, persons had to be receiving some form of public assistance or otherwise qualify as low-income. Most of those enrolled in the various CETA programs were relatively young. "I would say probably 70 percent, maybe 75 percent, were under 30 years of age," Lenard said.

CETA paid for tuition, and for books and supplies for persons enrolled in classroom job training programs, at community and four-year colleges and business schools, plus those on welfare received an additional $30 a week incentive allowance.

The most popular programs have been registered and licensed practical nurses, medical assistants and secretarial-clerical.

The consortium was often paying for training for jobs that didn't often exist in the upper Thumb. Once the participants completed their training, Lenard noted, "They had to be prepared to move (to find a job)."

Lack of enough jobs was also the reason, "Our money was channeled into classroom training as our primary activity."

CETA also subsidized the wages of persons receiving on-the-job training with private employers, provided it was an addition to their workforce, but there weren't enough employers who needed an extra worker.

LENARD DOESN'T DISAGREE with critics who argue that government subsidized on-the-job training doesn't make a difference in terms of creating jobs. "There's somebody who is going to get that job when an employer decides to hire. It's not because CETA is there."

The new JTPA program will also fund classroom and on-the-job training.

Once all the bugs get worked out and it is determined who in JTPA does what, he commented, "It will work very similar to how CETA worked."

Lenard sees some potential weaknesses in the new program. Unlike CETA, JTPA won't pay an allowance to welfare recipients enrolled in classroom job training, which might discourage some from going if it means driving a long distance.

The total amount spent for the JTPA is supposed to be smaller than CETA, although Congress hasn't authorized the money for it yet, with a smaller amount allowed for administration. Lenard feels there may not be enough to properly run the new program.

In contrast to the $2.58 million this fiscal year for the three counties under CETA, the JTPA planning budget for 1983-84 for the four counties is $2.4 million.

THE CHANGE FROM CETA to JTPA isn't why he is leaving, Lenard insists. From the day he started as executive director, "I had gone as far as I could go in the system. There's no place to be promoted to."

Lenard is going into partnership with his brother-in-law, who owns a manufacturers' representative firm. His job will be to sell various building components and materials to architects, engineers and contractors. "It's a 180 degree career change."

He and his wife, Carol, and their two daughters will continue to live in Frankenthum.

The money spent by the consortium is audited. The biggest single audit was for three fiscal years, during which $21.5 million in federal funds was spent. The auditors found only $235 that couldn't be accounted for.

Asked for his proudest accomplishment, Lenard included his agency's financial clean bill of health. "I would say just having this job eight years and doing it well and leaving with clear audits."

ALL ACCOUNTED FOR -- Departing Frank Lenard stands by the boxes of the Thumb Area Consortium's audited records. The unaudited ones will all be examined by accountants to make sure all funds were spent for their intended purpose.

No one appears at tax hearing

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners gave the public an opportunity last Wednesday to comment on its intent to levy the full amount of the authorized tax levies for county operations, bridges and senior citizens.

The intended action will be tantamount to a tax increase, albeit a slight one.

No one showed up at the public hearing.

Had it not scheduled the hearing, under state law, commissioners would have had to roll the millage rates back to offset the increase in state equalized valuation since last year.

The board will set millage rates at its Sept. 13 meeting. It will presumably set the levy to fund county operations at 4.2 mills, an increase of .0877 over what it would be if they had to roll it back. It will mean additional revenue of $56,747 to the county.

The millage rate for bridges and village street repairs will be a half mill, a gain of $6,729 over what it would be at .4896 mills.

The millage for senior citizen activities will be .2, instead of .1959, for a revenue gain of $2,652.

The revenue increases amount to 2.13 percent over what they would have with the rollback.

HEALTH TIPS

Lung diseases start out mild

Chronic lung disease killed more than 800 people in Michigan between January and June of 1980, according to John C. Howell, PhD, past president of the American Lung Association of Michigan (ALAM).

The sad part is that many of those deaths may have been preventable.

Chronic lung disease, which includes such illnesses as emphysema, chronic bronchitis, asthma, tuberculosis and pleurisy, is among the 10 leading killer diseases in the nation.

Howell said that according to the ALAM, people with serious chronic lung disease almost always start out with mild symptoms.

What are the symptoms to watch for? They include chronic cough, shortness of breath, phlegm, chest congestion, wheezing, breathing difficulty and frequent chest colds.

Chronic cough or shortness of breath are not normal at any age, says the lung association. If you have been coughing for more than a month (don't exclude the so-called "cigarette cough"), you need to see a doctor. Chronic cough is the symptom of something wrong with the breathing system.

Cough medicine will only hide the cough, while the underlying illness can be getting worse.

Shortness of breath, the other most common symptom, sometimes comes on so gradually you may not be aware that it is happening. Normal shortness of breath after exercise or heavy exertion disappears after a few minutes' rest.

If shortness of breath persists after a rest, it may be a sign of something wrong whether you're old or young, out of condition or have a usually sedentary lifestyle.

Any unusual shortness of breath may be serious. If you do have any of these symptoms, the lung association urges you to get a medical check-up to find out what is causing them.

Bean group reelects officers

All officers were reelected at the recent annual meeting of the Michigan Bean Commission.

LeRoy Schluckebier of Tuscola County was reelected chairman; along with Eric Bailey of Gratiot County, vice-chairman, and shipper representative Larry Sprague, treasurer.

Other members of the commission are grower members, Carl DeGeus, Saginaw County, John Tanton, Sanilac County, Gerald Elenbaum, Huron County, and Calvin Marsh, Midland County; shipper representative, F. Dale Kuenzli of St. Johns; canner representative, Robert Turner of Bush Brothers Co., Dandridge, Tenn.; representing Michigan State University, Dr. Paul Kindinger, and the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Jean Story.

Snover 4-H'er in state 4-H horse show

Lisa Gornowicz of Snover, riding "Dawn Guy's Dawn," received several awards in the recent Michigan 4-H horse show at Michigan State University.

She received a gold medal in bareback equitation, finished fourth in fitting and showing and stock seat equitation and seventh in trail class.

She was one of 11 Sanilac County 4-H'ers participating in the show, which had 248 classes ranging from western and English riding and dressage to costume, trail and gymkhana events.

Small home business classes set

The Cooperative Extension Service will conduct a four-part small home business series on Monday nights in Caro starting Sept. 19 and Tuesday mornings in Sandusky beginning Sept. 20.

The Caro class will be held from 7-9 p.m. and the Sandusky series will be held from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Both of the series will be at the Cooperative Extension offices.

The series will cover starting up costs and procedures, record keeping, accounting and taxation, marketing and advertising of products and time management techniques.

All classes will be taught by extension specialists from Michigan State University and local professionals.

The cost for all four classes is $5 per person. All reservations are to be made by Sept. 16 by calling the Extension Service at Caro, 673-5999, ext. 228, or Sandusky, 648-2515.

90 MOST PROMISING CAREERS FOR THE 80's by Anita Gates (non-fiction). This is a descriptive listing of 90 career possibilities that, based on forecasting by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, show projected rates of growth for the coming years. A brief description of the job and its conditions, often peppered with quotes by workers in the field, precedes boxed information on educational requirements; average earnings; competition; work style; best locations; percentage of males, females, and minorities in the job; availability of part-time employment, and an address to contact for further information. The jobs run the gamut from those requiring only a high school education to those needing advanced degrees.

CHANGES by Danielle Steel (fiction). When Melanie, the sole anchorwoman on the network prime-time newscast, is looking for a heart surgeon who will operate on a 9-year-old girl and agree to be interviewed about the procedure, she approaches the best, Dr. Peter Hallam. With insight and sensitivity, Danielle Steel opens up the serene, magical world of her lovers to the boisterous, often harsh realities of everyday life. For Melanie Adams and Peter Hallam, these realities could overpower the magic.

STATE OF GRACE by Joseph Pintauro (fiction). Author Pintauro writes movingly and compassionately about a 41-year-old Jesuit and the steps by which he is drawn out of the despair in which his life has become mired. Pintauro is particularly good at portraying the plight of a priest in today's world, the agony and uncertainties of trying to serve both God and one's fellow man with the old way of doing things, for which the old creeds no longer seem viable. For Thomas Sheehan, the climactic event in his life will come when he meets and befriends a rather lonely woman. The attachment that grows up between them is portrayed most naturally and convincingly.

Lower bills from Thumb Electric

Due to lower than anticipated power costs, Thumb Electric Cooperative will be reducing its power supply recovery factor (PSCR) for September billings from .849 cents per kilowatt hour to .449 cents per kwh, a 4 cents reduction.

The reduction will result in a savings of $3.20 for TEC's average member. Thumb Electric Cooperative's General Manager, Michael Krause, stated, "TEC is very pleased that power costs have been lower than anticipated. We will be examining our power costs monthly to determine if the lower factor can be used throughout 1983."

The Michigan Public Service Commission approved of TEC's PSCR Factor in March of 1983 at a level of .849 cents per kwh for September bills and recently gave TEC the go-ahead on the lower factor.

Thumb Electric serves over 9200 members in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties.

Annual Sanilac soybean tour

The Sanilac County Cooperative Extension Service will sponsor the annual soybean tour Tuesday.

The tour will start at 9:30 a.m. with coffee and donuts, courtesy of Wolverine State Bank.

First stop will be at Mezo Farms, three miles south of Sandusky on M-19 and two miles west on Walker Road. The group will look at the overstate trials which consist of approximately 60 varieties. Also results of some different herbicide rates will be seen.

The second stop at 11 a.m. will be 5 1/2 miles west on Walker Road, at the Cass River. The Goodwine Brothers, John and Wayne, own this farm. Here the tour group will see 34 local varieties.

Rex Sieting, county extension director, says that something new this year will be a free bag of soybeans that will be given to a farmer.

Each farmer will guess what variety will produce the most and then the winner will be selected when the field is harvested. The winning soybean company will donate a bag of the variety to the winning farmer.

To keep peanuts at their munching best, store in a cool, dry place. They'll keep indefinitely frozen in a tightly closed container.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Rob Albee, Kevin Bliss, Mark and Brian Rutkoski and Jon, Dana and Doug Zdrojewski collected $194 in Cass City Monday for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy telethon.

A short in an electrical line started a fire Sunday evening at the Croft-Clara lumber yard on W. Main Street. Elkland Township Fire Chief Jack Hartwick estimated damage at $50.

Rick Damm and friend Kenny Clothier, both of St. Petersburg, Fla., spent a few days last week with Rick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Damm. En route back to Florida, they visited relatives of Kenny's in Virginia.

The annual John Y. Brown reunion was held Sunday at the Gerard Marchand farm. All five living children of John Y. Brown attended. They are Mrs. John Guinther, Charles Brown and Willis Brown, all of Cass City, and Donald Brown and Emerson Brown, both of Detroit.

TEN YEARS AGO

An era spanning over 40 years ended Friday when Irving Parsch locked the door for the last time at Parsch's Clothing Store on

W. Main Street. He and his wife began business April 1, 1933, on a borrowed inventory and came here in a rented truck.

Cass City, along with the rest of the nation, is headed for the metric system, whether it wants it or not. In about 10 years, the yardstick will be as obsolete as the running board.

Two young men from Cass City High School's championship baseball team have been offered a scholarship to Oakland University in Rochester. They are Kip Hopper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Hopper of Deford, and Gene Salas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Salas of Cass City.

Janet Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson of Yale, is a graduate intern working at Old Wood Drug in Cass City. She graduated with a B.S. degree in pharmacy from Ferris State College in June.

25 YEARS AGO

Bob Wallace was the first string end on Central Michigan College's 1958 grid squad in opening practices. Another member of the Thumb B Conference, Oarie Lemanski of Bad Axe, was singled out for his outstanding passing from the quarterback slot.

Mrs. Frank Comment of Pontiac is spending a month with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Comment of Gagetown.

The Gavel Club elected officers at its regular meeting Tuesday evening. Named president was Eli Holes, Barney Freiburger will serve as vice-president and Jim Gross is the secretary. C.M. Wallace is the treasurer.

Seven girls were dinner guests in the Warren Kelley home Monday evening when the birthday of Sue Kelley was celebrated. Guests included Eileen and Linda Hicks, IlaBelle Babich, Juanita Allen, Sharon Wright, Sue Greenleaf and Rona Venema.

35 YEARS AGO

At the close of the University of Michigan summer session, degrees were awarded to 1,120 students. Graduates residing in the upper Thumb are Harold Lyle Oatley, Cass City; James E. Frye, Owendale; and Jesse Kilpatrick, Tuscola.

Alex Murray exhibited the reserve champion steer at the junior show in which all breeds were in competition, at the Michigan State Fair this week. Jim Turner showed the grand champion steer in the polled shorthorn open class.

The Cass City American Legion junior baseball team, coached by John Muntz, won the district championship trophy in a playoff game with Caro.

Janetta M. Jackson of Howell spent the Labor Day week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Jackson, and sister, Mrs. Lloyd Finkbeiner.

Linda Adam has top hogs at 4-H expo

Linda Adam, 16, of Snover won numerous honors at the recent state 4-H livestock expo at Michigan State University.

The daughter of Wayne and Faye Adam of 4150 Snover Road had the champion and reserve champion hog and also won first place in senior individual demonstrations and pre-set camera in livestock photography.

She finished third in the senior public speaking contest and was eighth in swine showmanship.

The points she accumulated for her high placings in the various categories won her a trip to the national livestock exposition in Louisville, Ky., in November.

Some of the awards she received were accompanied by scholarships for college.

Linda's brother, Alan, had a first and fifth place hog in the state show, plus he earned fourth place in swine showmanship, sixth in livestock photography and 10th in livestock judging overall.

Mike Smith of Snover was grand champion swine showman, which required fitting and showing a hog from the MSU swine barns.

Jim Mahaffy of Snover was 14th in swine showmanship.

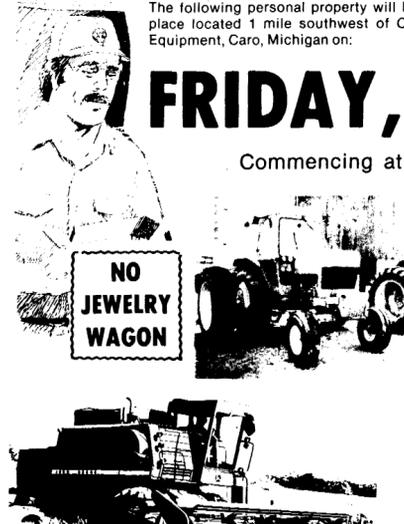

President Harry Truman was distantly related to President John Tyler.

Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Hunter spent a few days in Toledo with their son and family, John, Janelle, Tyler and Trent Hunter.
Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Comment and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kehoe visited the Bill Bliss Srs. at Oak Beach Friday evening.

Program to prepare young pupils

Third, fourth and fifth grade youngsters in the Cass City schools will be better "Prepared for Today" because of a program that will be taught to them early this semester.
The program of that name is prepared by the Boy Scouts of America. The cost of the workbooks the students will be using and iron-on patches is being paid for by the local American Association of University Women, Zonta Club, United Way and Gavel Club.
The students will receive the patches, which say, "I'm Prepared for Today," when they complete the program.
The aim, explained Dean Brown, Lake Huron Area Council Thumb District Boy Scout executive, is to prepare children for situations where they need to make decisions without the aid of their parents.
The workbooks cover such topics as being prepared when home alone (emergency telephone numbers to call, etc.), eating alone, home safety, "know your neighborhood," caring for young children and problem solving.
The program has been promoted in county schools by Tuscola County Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr. who met with elementary school principals this summer.
It will be up to each teacher how he or she will incorporate it into their classroom.
Campbell Elementary Principal Jacqueline Freiburger said, but they will probably do it early in the school year, since one aim is to help youngsters who are left alone by their parents, such as after school when the parents are at work.
The "Prepared for Today" program will be taught to third, fourth and fifth graders at Campbell, Deford and Evergreen Elementary Schools and Cass City Intermediate School.
After this year, the intent is to only teach it to third graders each year, Mrs. Freiburger said.

Although the Cass City, Owen-Gage and Kingston schools opened on time, despite lack of a teachers' contract, that wasn't true elsewhere in the state.
At the end of August, teachers in 13 districts in Michigan were walking picket lines instead of teaching students.
How could teacher strikes be avoided? "I think it would be nice if teachers could be paid through the state," Hilda Koch suggested. "Then they wouldn't have to strike, would they?"
She feels if teachers were all paid the same by the state, that would eliminate their striking to get what higher paid teachers in another district are getting.

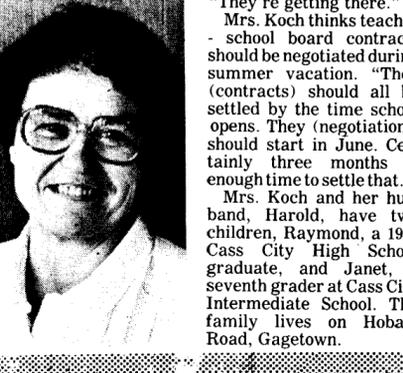

She feels teachers should realize, "There's only so much money they can get."
Teachers have come a long way in terms of pay since her father raised her and seven other children on a parochial school teacher's pay, she feels. "They're getting there."
Mrs. Koch thinks teacher - school board contracts should be negotiated during summer vacation. "They (contracts) should all be settled by the time school opens. They (negotiations) should start in June. Certainly three months is enough time to settle that."
Mrs. Koch and her husband, Harold, have two children, Raymond, a 1975 Cass City High School graduate, and Janet, a seventh grader at Cass City Intermediate School. The family lives on Hobart Road, Gagetown.

Local phone service costs start spiraling next year

By Mike Eliasohn

Almost everything is changing about telephone service except the sound of the ring, though many changes won't be obvious. A change already in effect is that telephone companies are no longer the sole source of telephones. Several stores in Cass City, for instance, sell phones. The greater effect will be on phone rates, with the changes starting Jan. 1. In general, persons or businesses which make a lot of long distance phone calls will see little change in their phone bills and possibly a decrease. Those who make few long distance calls, however, will be paying more. The changes all stem from the deregulation of the telephone industry by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and the anti-trust settlement between the U.S. Department of Justice and American Telephone and Telegraph, to break up the telephone giant. AT&T will be allowed to expand its telecommunications operations, but its operating companies are being split into independent regional corporations. "The federal regulators felt the way to promote competition and new uses of technology was to deregulate certain elements of the telephone business," according to a General Telephone (GTE) of Michigan leaflet sent to customers. "The federal regulators are counting on market forces to encourage new products and keep prices at competitive levels." That means a change in the way telephone rates will be assessed. "Traditionally, the price of local telephone service has been artificially low," explained Max Preston, GTE of Michigan vice-president and general manager. "That was possible because long distance was priced artificially high and the 'excess' revenues from long distance were used to subsidize the local network." The FCC has ordered an end to the subsidy process, starting Jan. 1, but the transition will be a gradual one, taking up to six years.

ACCESS FEES

Beginning next year, the federal regulatory agency has established a $2 monthly "access fee" that each residential customer will pay. The charge will partially replace the subsidy that presently comes from inter-state (state-to-state) long distance calls. An additional $1 a month will be added in 1985 and $1 more in 1986. The access charge for businesses will be $6 a month more in 1984, '85 and '86.

Increases for both residential and business customers for 1987 and beyond will be established later by the FCC.

In addition, the Michigan Public Service Commission will establish access fees to replace the present subsidy that comes from in-state long distance calls. It hasn't decided yet how much the added charge will be, but it will be in addition to the FCC imposed access fees.

As a result, according to Preston, charges for local telephone service will increase, while long distance rates may decline as much as 20 percent.

That means that telephone users who make a lot of long distance calls may see their total bills stay about the same or even decrease.

However, persons who make few or no long distance calls will pay more. They will have to pay the added access charges even if they never make any long distance calls.

Sharon O'Malley of the Rural Electric News Service, writing in the July-August Michigan Country Lines, estimates the break-even point will be about $25 a month in long distance calls. Persons who make less than that will be paying more than they are now for phone service. One aim of the reduction in long distance rates will be to enable the regular phone companies, such as General Telephone and Bell, to compete with the companies such as MCI and Sprint, which only provide long distance service and presently offer lower rates for it than do GTE and Bell.

The advantage of continuing to lease a phone, or to rent it, is that repair charges are included in the rates. However, GTE points out in one of its leaflets, "You can purchase the phones you're now leasing at a price less than comparable new models."

Persons who buy phones from other than the phone company are required to notify it of the FCC registration number that appears on the phone, to assure that it is compatible with the telephone network.

Phone users don't have to do anything, if they so choose, which means they will continue to lease their phones. "If you move to another location, change a style or color of phone or require replacement due to repair, you may decide to continue leasing your phone...rent phones from GTE...as they become available, or purchase your own phones," according to the leaflet.

The other change comes in service, made possible because phones are now installed with a jack and a plug, instead of being "permanent."

If something goes wrong with the phone, if from GTE, customers are now asked to bring their phone, if possible, to the company's local dropoff and pickup location, which in Cass City is at Albee True Value Home Center. (GTE won't repair store-bought phones.)

Customers will generally have to pay an additional charge if the repairman has to come to their home.

If discontinuing service, the customer takes the phone with him if he owns it. Otherwise, if detachable, he must leave it off at the dropoff location.

Another option for telephone customers is they can pay a monthly 50-cent charge to cover the cost of repairs if the trouble is in the cable or wiring or they can waive the fee and pay for such repairs when needed.

HANG UP -- One result of the deregulation of the telephone industry is that anyone can sell telephones, not just the phone companies. Some Cass City stores now sell them, including the one that has this display.

Tiling adds beauty as well as saves energy

If your family spends time in the den during the winter, check that the room is efficiently heated.

Windows should be fitted with shades, blinds or curtains which are kept open during sunlight hours and closed at night.

With the fireplace, install a fitted glass screen rather than using a wire mesh type. When the fire burns, the heat will radiate through the glass into the den, but the inside warm air won't be drawn out of the chimney.

Consider using a special air vent which pulls cold, outside air in to fuel the fire. Close the damper completely when the fireplace isn't in use.

Your flooring should also keep the room warm. Ceramic tile absorbs the sun's heat and conducts it to a "collector" area below, then releases the stored heat at night when the room cools.

Tile is widely available and the variety, particularly the design selection from Italy, makes a tiled floor a beautiful and practical idea. For best results, use a dark tile in a room with a Southern exposure.

GOP unveils work related welfare plan

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

A workfare program that could affect up to 200,000 welfare recipients in Michigan by providing them with education, job training and community work experience was recently unveiled by the Republican legislative leadership.

The proposal, which would require that employable welfare recipients lose their benefits for three months if they refuse placement, would cost $39 million and is the first in the process to divide the disputed $43 million which held up passage of the fiscal 1983-84 Department of Social Services budget.

Senate Minority Leader John Engler (R-Mt. Pleasant) and House Minority Leader Michael Busch (R-Saginaw) both said that the proposal is designed to "break the welfare cycle" and "restore self-esteem" to recipients of public aid by giving help in finding work.

The program is designed to provide a "meaningful life experience" rather than short-term public work jobs, added Sens. Harry Gast (R-St. Joseph) and Robert Geake (R-Northville) and Rep. Ralph Ostling (R-Roscommon).

THE PROPOSAL would provide $4 million for staff and administrative expenses, then allocate $18 million to counties based on their population and another $10 million based on county unemployment rates.

The remaining $7 million would be allocated on a "performance based incentive formula" to counties which run the best job training programs.

Emphasis has been put on counties running the programs because they have "more information about the needs and resources of their communities and residents," Engler explained.

The legislators denied that the program was an effort to provide "cheap labor" for local governments. Funding will not go for actual jobs, they said, but for training and education.

THE PROPOSAL would require that all "employable" recipients of either Aid to Families with Dependent Children or General Assistance take placement in a program or lose their benefits for three months.

A second refusal to engage in the program would mean a loss of benefits for six months.

Engler said cutoff of AFDC funds would not affect the children in an AFDC household, as only the adult portion of the grant would be cut off.

The definition of employable would exempt children under 16, full-time high school or college students, parents of children less than six years old and persons who are ill, under medical treatment or at least 55 years old.

THE PROPOSED PROGRAM would leave $4 million of the disputed $43 million for energy programs. Busch said taking care of the immediate threat of utility services being cut off could be handled by $3.6 million of that total.

The disputed $43 million was originally proposed by Governor James Blanchard to provide a 5 percent increase in welfare grants.

The House opted for an energy need program while the Senate converted the funds to a workfare proposal. Efforts to resolve the difference failed in a joint House-Senate conference committee and the legislature agreed to put the issue on hold for the summer, passing separate legislation to divide and use the funds when it returns in the fall.

Len Schumacher 15th in national school bus 'roadeo'

Blame it on the computer, but Ubyly school bus driver Leonard J. Schumacher finally found out last week he finished 15th in the national school bus "roadeo" July 26 in Cincinnati, Ohio.

That meant he did better than 100 other drivers. Schumacher, of Wheeler Road, Ubyly, scored 541 points out of a possible 650, only 22 away from the fifth place trophy. The first place driver scored 605. The 130 drivers came from 30 states.

Schumacher, who is in his 10th year of driving a bus for the Ubyly schools, qualified for the national competition by winning the state roadeo June 22 in Lansing. He qualified for that by winning the regional event.

The bus roadeos consist of a pretrip inspection, obstacle course and written test, with drivers receiving points in each.

This was the third year the dairy farmer competed in the national event. He tied for 26th last year and 33rd in 1981. He qualified last year by finishing third in the state roadeo and in 1981 by winning the state title.

"I'm getting better at it," Schumacher said of his higher placings in each national event.

But even with the experience, he added, "You're under a lot of pressure... You still know when you're behind that wheel they're all gunning for you."

In past years, points compiled in the three events were totaled by hand and were available the day of the meet. This year, for the first time, they were figured by computer and the results didn't arrive in the mail, as mentioned, until last week.

The national roadeo is sponsored by the National School Transportation Association. Schumacher's expenses in going to the event were paid by the Automobile Club of Michigan and Michigan Association of Pupil Transportation, sponsors of the state roadeo.

Asked if he planned to compete next year, he responded, "I sure am."

announced

Traffic on M-138 between Unionville and Akron Road in Tuscola County will be detoured until the end of the construction season this fall, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation.

Three bridges on that segment of highway will be closed for bridge deck replacement.

The signed detour will direct traffic onto M-25, Quincasssee Road and Akron Road between Unionville and Fairgrove.

The detour will add about eight miles to the travel distance.

Deadline extended

The deadline to sign up for State Rep. Dick Allen's Sept. 16 economic development conference at the Colony House has been extended to Friday.

To register, call his office at (517) 373-0476.

Break-in at Kingston business

Theft of three tools from the Auto Outlet on State Street in Kingston was reported to Caro state police last Thursday.

Owner Douglas Randall said a DeValvis paint sprayer, National Detroit air sander and Chicago pneumatic air file were taken. Total value of the stolen items was $280.

Entry was gained between 12:45 and 10 a.m. that day. Damage from where the thieves broke in was estimated at $50.

Patricia Ann Duncan of Caro reported to sheriff's deputies Aug. 29 that damage was done to her car the evening of Aug. 27 while her car was parked at a residence at 3052 S. Kingston Road, Kingston Township, where she was attending a wedding reception.

The antenna was broken off and a large crease was put in the driver's door. Damage was estimated at $300.

No fire

Elmwood Township Gagetown firemen were called to a house on South Street in Gagetown last Thursday morning because of the smell of smoke inside, reported by the occupant.

All there was was fumes from the furnace, Fire Chief Chuck Wright said. Firemen pulled the breaker switch.

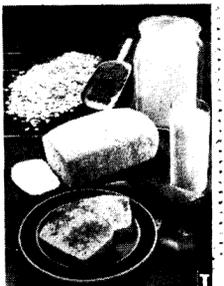

MORE WOMEN ARE DO-IT- YOURSELFS

More and more do-it-yourself home improvement and remodeling projects are being tackled by women. According to one handy-woman known as Ms. Fix-It, six out of 10 do-it-yourself projects are handled by women.

Although the fear of failure keeps a lot of women from attempting many projects on their own, instruction booklets that simplify procedures, better packaging and specially designed do-it-yourself kits for a variety of projects help boost confidence.

Two recipes

Here's a novel idea for delicious lunchbox sandwiches — English Muffins in a loaf with the fresh wheaty aroma of oatmeal. Kids love the taste of oatmeal and you'll love the ease and convenience in preparing this loaf. This bread tastes like real English Muffins and it even has nooks and crannies. It is a batter bread which requires no kneading and only one rising. It can be baked via microwave or the conventional oven in a snap! Try it with any type of sandwich or by itself with butter and jam!

OATMEAL ENGLISH MUFFIN BREAD
Makes 2 loaves

4 1/4 cups unsifted flour
1 cup old fashioned oats, uncooked
2 packages Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast
1 tablespoon dark brown sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
2 cups milk
1/2 cup water
Cornmeal

In a large bowl combine 2-1/4 cups flour, oats, undissolved yeast, brown sugar, salt and baking soda. Combine milk and water in a saucepan. Heat over low until liquids are very warm (120° F. to 130° F.). Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat well. Stir in remaining flour to make a stiff batter. Spoon into two 8-1/2 x 4-1/2 x 2-1/2 or 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf dishes which have been greased and coated with cornmeal. Sprinkle tops of loaves with additional cornmeal. Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, for 45 minutes. Microwave each loaf on high power for 6 minutes; 30 seconds. Surface of loaf will be flat and pale in color. Allow to rest 5 minutes before removing from dishes. To serve, slice and toast.

TO BAKE IN CONVENTIONAL OVEN
Stir 1 cup additional unsifted white flour into batter to make a very soft dough. Spoon into two 8-1/2 x 4-1/2 x 2-1/2-inch loaf pans that have been greased and sprinkled with a saucepan. Pizza may be Italian in origin, but over the years it has become an all-American favorite. Whether it is served as the main dish for a family meal or the centerpiece of a teenage gathering, pizza is sure to please everyone.

Perhaps the most difficult part of making pizza is deciding what toppings to put on it. With Sicilian Pizza the answer is easy—almost anything. This quick and easy recipe allows you to build your own pizza. The idea will appeal especially to hungry teenagers.

Once you have thawed the bread dough for the thick crust and allowed it to rise for half an hour, Sicilian Pizza takes 20 minutes or less to bake. And because this recipe uses Contadina pizza sauce, there is no time-consuming process of making a sauce from scratch.

Family and friends will enjoy adding their own touches to Sicilian Pizza. The best part is that everyone will be able to enjoy the results.

SICILIAN PIZZA
(Makes one 15x10-inch pizza)

Two 1-pound loaves frozen bread dough
1 cup (8-ounce can) Contadina pizza sauce
1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) shredded mozzarella cheese
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Toppings: sliced pepperoni; cooked, drained sausage; green pepper strips; sliced ripe olives; sliced mushrooms; chopped onion

Thaw dough until soft and pliable. Press into 15x10x1-inch jelly roll pan. Let rise in warm place 1/2 hour. Spoon pizza sauce over dough. Bake in hot oven (425°) 10 minutes. Remove from oven; sprinkle with cheese and your favorite toppings. Bake an additional 5 to 10 minutes or until crust is browned and cheese is bubbly.

Business prospects bright

Walbro Corporation boosts quarterly dividend

The board of directors of Walbro Corp. Aug. 26 declared a third quarter cash dividend of 8 cents per share payable Oct. 31 to stockholders of record Sept. 30.

The 8 cents per share dividend will be paid on approximately 1,168,230 shares of Walbro stock, following a three for two stock split which took place Wednesday. There are currently 778,820 shares outstanding.

At its regular meeting June 16, the board declared the split by authorizing a common stock distribution to be issued at the rate of one additional share of common stock for each two shares of common stock standing in the name of each stockholder.

New shares to be issued as a result of this action were distributed Wednesday to stockholders of record July 27.

In announcing the third quarter dividend, Walbro President and Chief Executive Officer Lambert E. Althaver noted that the outlook for the balance of 1983 continues to be favorable.

"Sales of Walbro electric fuel pumps remain at very strong levels, in both the automotive original equipment and replacement markets," he said.

"Demand for the company's small engine carburetors continues to slowly gain strength. Automotive throttle body production is also growing, although somewhat more slowly than anticipated due to delays in customer programs.

"Orders for our Plastics Group's products remain strong, and additional production capacity is now on-stream. We are continuing to implement operating efficiencies at our Die Casting operation," Althaver added.

Square dance season begins Saturday

The Rocking Eights Square Dance Club will conduct its first dance of the season this Saturday from 8-11 p.m. at the Sacred Heart School on Frank Street in Caro.

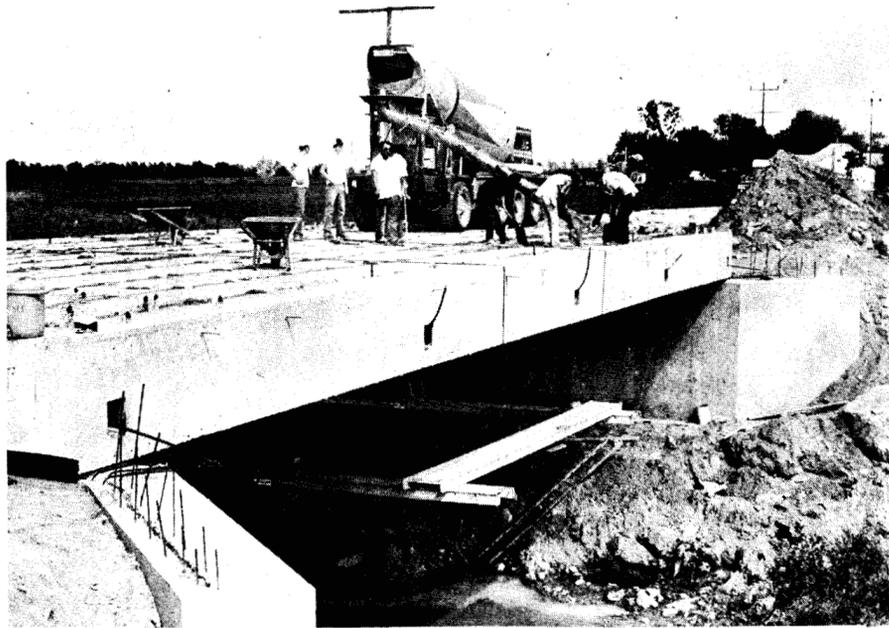

The club will hold a fun night Saturday, Sept. 17, at Sacred Heart from 7-11 for anyone who would like to learn to square dance. Club members will teach the basic steps.

Lessons will begin Sept. 13 at Schall Elementary School in Caro from 7:30-9:30 p.m. and Sept. 27 at Campbell Elementary School in Cass City, from 7:30-9:30.

Jay Elumbaugh from Flint is the caller and will be giving the lessons at Schall Elementary. Fin Burk of the club will give the lessons in Cass City.

Strong teeth

There are fish in Amazon rivers that have developed teeth with molars strong enough to crush hard nuts. They come in handy each year when the fish swim into flooded Amazon forests searching for seeds and fruit that drop from trees. Without this important source of food, the fish would probably die from lack of nutrients.

BRIDGE WORK — Work is continuing on the Snover Road bridge just west of Snover, and the nearby Germania Road bridge, both over the south branch of the Cass River. Contractor for both is A.J. Williams, Inc., of Southfield, at a total cost of $345,528. Federal funds pay 80 percent of the cost; state funds, 10 percent; county, 6 percent, and townships, 4 percent. Scheduled completion date is Oct. 15, but they may be done before that.

Spray painting wicker furniture can provide a quick colorful finish

Thinking of painting your wicker furniture? Think spray paint! Nothing beats the convenience and ease of spray paint for reaching into the nooks and crannies of wicker furniture with a colorful, protective coat of paint.

The bright collection of wicker furniture pictured was transformed easily and quickly in one afternoon with a coat of white spray paint. Although these pieces are all one color, the variety of spray paint colors available make mixing and matching a snap. Consider, for example, a light blue table with white chairs, or aqua chairs with a white sofa and plant stand.

The colorful possibilities are endless, especially when freshly painted wicker is teamed with colorful seat and sofa cushions to match!

The first step in spray painting wicker furniture is to thoroughly clean the pieces to be painted. Vacuum out as much dust as possible. Then, go over them with a damp cloth. The furniture must be dry

Wicker furniture can be painted indoors or outside. When painting inside, the National Paint and Coatings Association recommends using a cardboard box with one side removed to shield surrounding wall surfaces.

Place the wicker piece within the box so that the three remaining sides catch the spray. Good ventilation is a must when painting indoors.

Outdoor painting should take place when the weather is mild (no chance of rain!) and calm. Spread newspapers to completely cover the work area.

Begin with the piece in an upright position and spray as much of the surface as possible. After this coat dries, turn the piece upside down and spray on another coat.

Before beginning the project, be sure to read all of the manufacturer's directions for use on the can label.

To prevent clogging, rotate the spray button one-quarter of a turn before beginning. Repeat this action several times with each can as you work.

Should the can become clogged in spite of this, turn it upside down and spray away from you for a few moments. If the clog persists, carefully remove the spray button, clean it out, and replace it.

As the contents of the can are under pressure, sharp objects should never be used when cleaning the spray button.

Leftover spray paint should be stored in a child-proof area where temperatures will not exceed 120° F. Before disposal, turn empty cans upside down and press to release leftover propellant.

Distribution of cheese Sept. 16

The Human Development Commission will have a surplus cheese and butter distribution Friday, Sept. 16, from 10:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. or until the supply is exhausted.

It will be in the merchants' building at the fairgrounds in Caro. The four-county area served by the HDC presently has a greater need for the commodities than is possible to receive on a regular monthly basis. The September distribution will be held in only one location in each of the counties due to insufficient quantities available. The commodities will be distributed on a first come, first served basis at the designated site.

Individuals must report to the distribution site in person and present their surplus commodity registration card. Persons who are unable physically to go to the distribution themselves may have someone pick up their surplus commodities only if the card is shown. If individuals have not yet received this card, they must register at the HDC office in their county prior to receiving cheese and butter.

All households who are receiving a form of public assistance or who have received services through the HDC may be eligible, also persons living on fixed incomes or unemployment benefits.

The surplus commodities come from the federal government.

Cass City cross country teams powerful

Carrie Lautner is gone, but Greg Bliss is back and coaches of Cass City High School's cross country teams feel that the Hawks will be one of the teams to beat this fall.

Lautner is the graduated all-state runner and Bliss is the state Class C champion with a time good enough to win in any class.

Both of the teams finished second in the Thumb B Association last season. The girls trailed Sandusky and Coach Doug Grezeszak, ever the optimist, feels that the Hawks will be the team to beat this fall.

He's confident despite the loss of Merilee Leslie, Lisa Wilson and Tammy Roach, who, with Lautner, were four of the top seven on last year's squad.

One of the reasons for the confidence is Renae Stimpfel. She worked hard this summer, Grezeszak said, and was eighth in the state last year. He's predicting a top three finish this year in the state and expects her to be tops in the Thumb.

Other outstanding performers back include Chris Tuckey and Lorie Hurley. Grezeszak expected the biggest challenge for the girls from Caro, Marlette and Lakers in that order.

One of the coach's worries is the lack of depth where four freshmen and a sophomore without previous experience will have to fill the gap.

BOYS' TEAM

Coach Dennis Meck feels that there will be a real battle among three teams for the league crown this season.

Cass City, Caro and North Branch all appear strong.

The Hawks should have first place locked up in every meet if Greg Bliss stays healthy.

Meck is looking for a strong contribution from Randy Jackson, a senior, and Kevin Bliss, a junior.

There's another Bliss on the squad this year. He's Kurt Bliss, a freshman, who appears to be following in the footsteps of his brothers.

After that it's anybody's guess as to who will be the essential point producers that win the conference crown.

Tom Wallace, Jim Schmaltz, and Del Kostanko, all juniors lettered last year. A senior, Mike Middaugh, is out for the first time this year. He could be a pleasant surprise as he has been a mainstay of the track team in the spring for three years.

Only John Agar among the point producers was lost through graduation from the team that posted a conference record of 60-21 last season.

All-stater leads Pirates to win over Hawk cagers

Led by all stater Mary Osentoski who scored 30 points, the Harbor Beach Pirates topped host Cass City Tuesday, Aug. 30, 64-45 in the opening game for both teams.

Although Osentoski provided the firepower, it was the pressing Pirate defense in the second quarter that ruined Cass City's chance for an upset. The Hawks' guards are inexperienced. Shannon McIntosh is a freshman and Sherri Horner has little playing experience.

Cass City jumped off to a lead in the first period, 13-10, but the visitors exploded in the second quarter to ice the game.

With the defense causing numerous turnovers, the Pirates ran up a 21-2 second period advantage and from there on in coasted to the win.

For the night Cass City shot 35 percent on 16 of 46 from the field while Harbor Beach netted 41 percent on 28 of 68. The Pirates out-rebounded Cass City 30 to 26. Joy Root led the Hawks with 7 boards.

Top scorer for Cass City was Jill Hutchinson with 20 points on 7 field goals and 6 of 7 from the charity stripe. Kim Wagg was also in double figures with 10 points. Lynette Booms scored 10 for the Pirates.

Grid season opens at Tawas Friday

Hawks' success depends on underclassmen

A rebuilding process that started last season for Cass City High School's football team will continue in 1983. Among Coach Don Schelke's nine lettermen are just two seniors, Brian Wright and Joe Langenburg. The remaining seven are juniors. The two seniors are the co-captains this year and both will be in the backfield. At quarterback will be Bryan Beecher. He's a junior with a full year of game experience behind him. Tracy Lapp and Dan

Smith are lettermen in the backfield. The return of these players make the offensive backfield one of the team's stronger areas. There's help back on the line, too. Junior lettermen there are Bill Sontag, Scott

Rockwell and Bob Walters, tackles, and Todd Sweeney, guard. The Hawks lost some premier players through graduation headed by Dave Osentoski, an all-stater, that was a terror on defense and a bruising fullback on offense. Eddie Robinson is also gone from last year's backfield. The Hawks' two ends, Barry Lapp and Rob Hartwick graduated. Other losses include Tom Lefler, Tim Smith, Jeff Loomis, Stewart Batts and Kevin

Shaw. Besides the juniors, four sophomores are expected to see plenty of action. They are Greg Erla, Steve Franks, Brian Adkins, Troy Sweeney and Bryan Toner. Coach Schelke sees backfield speed and kicking as the team's strong points while lack of depth and inexperience at the linebacker positions are weaknesses. Last year the Hawks were 3-6 over-all and 2-5 in the Thumb B Association. He sees the Lakers, North Branch and Caro as the teams that will be fighting it out for the championship this season. Tawas is a small class B school that is in a rebuilding year. The scouting report on Tawas is that they have a big, bruising fullback. The Hawks will have to stop him to win the game, Schelke feels.

The schedule:
Sept. 9 at Tawas Area 7:30
Sept. 16 at Mayville
Sept. 23 Marlette
Sept. 30 at Vassar
Oct. 7 EPBP Laker
Oct. 14 at Caro
Oct. 21 Bad Axe
Oct. 28 North Branch
Nov. 4 at Brandon, 7:30
Games start at 8:00 unless noted.

THE 1983 RED HAWKS - Front row, left to right: Scott Rockwell, Steve Franks, Bryan Toner, Bob Walters, Rod Anker, Joe Viney, Tim Brown. Second row: Todd Sweeney, Joe Langenburg, Brian Wright, Tracy Lapp, Cesar Baretta, Troy Sweeney, Brian Adkins, Dick Green. Third row: Dan Smith, Steve Fox, Bill Holdburg, Al Leslie, Gary Crickon, Greg Erla, Assistant Coach Tim Knoblet. Missing are Bryan Beecher, Bill McGrath, Jim Lapeer, Scott Hutchinson, Paul Hutchinson, Don Englehart, Jeff Stahlbaum and Coach Don Schelke.

Owen-Gage cagers fall to Caseville in tournament

The Owen-Gage girls' basketball team lost the consolation game last Thursday, 52-36, to the host Eagles in the Caseville tournament.

and increased the margin in all but the final quarter. Top scorer for the Bulldogs was Linda Reford with 13 points. Aileen Simet led the Eagles with 13 points, followed by Michelle Stahl with 10.

New Sunnig coach Brenda Parker saw her first victory in the junior varsity consolation game, 23-19, over Mayville. Score by quarters:

Fire safety course given to schools
The Tuscola County Intermediate School District is among 22 Michigan school districts to receive a costly fire safety curriculum package, credited with saving lives and property in communities throughout the United States where it is already in use.
The program produced by the National Fire Protection Association is being provided the school districts at no cost, as a public service of the Michigan State Firemen's Association (MSFA).
MSFA is a professional organization of career and volunteer fire fighters which sponsors fire education and training programs and provides media sources with fire safety information.
Intermediate school districts throughout the state are being given a teaching curriculum package entitled, "Learn Not To Burn."
The curriculum focuses on the essential fire safety and prevention behaviors deemed necessary to fulfill the basic goals of protection of individuals from fire, prevention of fire and the motivation of individuals to practice fire prevention and safety.
The fire safety course is divided into three different programs, designed for use by children in kindergarten through second grade, grades 3-5 and 6-8.

Two millages on Greenleaf ballot calls for it to pay 45 cents per capita, which means $336 this year. The library board is asking all townships it contracts with to eventually provide the equivalent of .3 mill, minus penal fines, which is the amount libraries must assess in order to receive state aid. "It wasn't a figure we pulled out of a hat," head librarian Barbara Hutchinson explained.

Had the .3 mill minus penal fines formula been in effect in Greenleaf this year, it would have been equivalent to $2.65 per capita, Mrs. Hutchinson said.

In lieu of immediately receiving the .3 mill minus penal fines, the library board is asking townships to contribute $1 per capita in 1984 and then increase that amount by 25 percent each year until it reaches the higher amount.

Greenleaf Supervisor Gerald Bock said the township board, rather than gradually increase its contribution each year, decided to let the people vote on the subsidy right away. "They (the library) wanted more money and we can't see how we can afford to take it out of our budget... If people want it, I guess they'll vote for it."

Although it isn't possible to say exactly how many persons from Greenleaf Township use the library, Mrs. Hutchinson said, "many do," adding that "everyone from the township can use the library."

The amount Greenleaf is being asked to pay isn't excessive, she continued. Elkland Township voters (including Cass City) last November voted to pay .75 mill starting with this December's tax bills, which works out to $9.27 per person.

Of the .3 mill minus penal fines, Novesta Township has agreed, starting next year, and Ellington Township already pays for the one-fourth of its area contracted to the Rawson library and the three-fourths contracted to the Indianfields Township Library in Caro. (All townships that contract with the Indianfields library in Caro already pay the .3 mill minus penal fines, Mrs. Hutchinson said.) Elmwood and Evergreen are considering the proposal.

The increased subsidies are being sought, according to the head librarian, in an effort to keep up with rising costs and to provide a stable source of income.

Penal fines are collected from circuit and district courts for criminal convictions and civil infractions, which are distributed to libraries based on their population within their service delivery areas. The amount varies from year to year.

In addition to money from the townships and penal fines, Rawson Memorial also receives a smaller amount of state aid and some years, federal revenue sharing funds appropriated by the Tuscola Board of Commissioners.

Mediator sought in Kingston

Negotiators for the Kingston School Board and teachers met for about 1½ hours Tuesday, with about the only decision made being to request the presence of a state mediator at the next session.

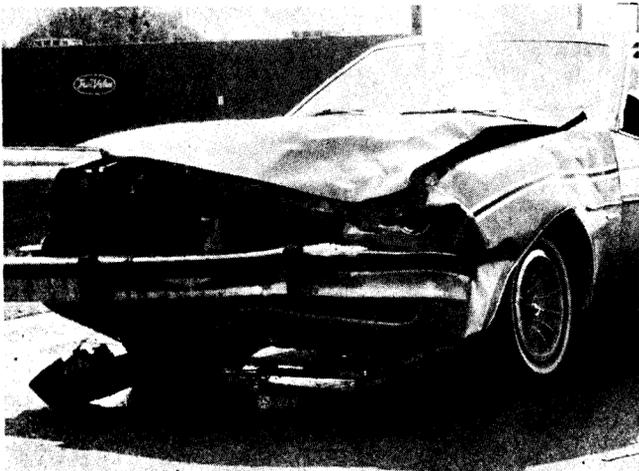

"I believe it was a joint decision," Supt. Jerry Laycock said.

The date of the next bargaining session will depend on when the mediator and negotiators are available.

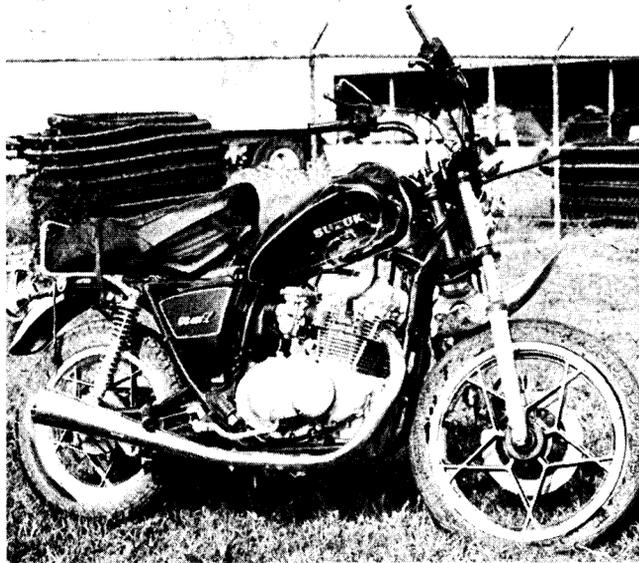

Laycock indicated money is the major issue yet to be settled. "At this time, I would say the financial package is the hold up," he commented.

In the Owendale-Gagetown District, Tri-County Bargaining Association negotiators have suggested four dates to the school board, Friday of this week and three next week, for the next negotiating session, according to TCBA chief negotiator Bob Gengler.

The school board had proposed this Thursday, but two of the teacher negotiators were unavailable then, Gengler said, after which the four new dates were suggested.

THE COLLISION Sunday between the car driven by David Wilson and the motorcycle ridden by Tony Samons resulted in extensive damage to both vehicles. Samons was in fair condition Tuesday at Bay Medical Center.

Motorcyclist hurt

A Sunday accident in Cass City sent a motorcyclist to the hospital.

Injured was Tony L. Samons, 18, of Van Dyke Road, Cass City, who was transferred from Hills and Dales General Hospital to Bay Medical Center, Bay City, where he was reported in fair condition Tuesday afternoon.

Cass City police reported he was westbound on Main Street and tried to avoid hitting a stopped car waiting to turn left onto Comment Drive, with its turn signal on.

His cycle skidded, crossed the centerline and was struck by an eastbound auto driven by David E. Wilson, 16, of 6365 Third Street.

The driver of the auto that was stopped, Sally R. Vandembosche of New Baltimore, told officers Samons' helmet came off before he hit the ground.

Although two witnesses said it looked like his motorcycle first hit the Vandembosche auto, there was no evidence that they had made contact.

A sheriff's deputy and trooper from the Caro state police post assisted in the investigation, which is continuing. The accident took place at 3:51 p.m.

Jails overcrowded

Although prisoner sentences have been cut under a prison overcrowding order in effect since March 22, state officials are facing the prospect of having to declare a second overcrowding emergency order while the first is still in effect.

An overcrowding emergency cannot be declared over until prison population drops to 95 percent of capacity. The early paroles granted since March have not yet reduced inmate levels close to that mark.

The state's prison population is currently at 12,904 or 143 prisoners below the 13,047 rate capacity of the system, said Gail Light, Department of Corrections information officer.

She added that is about what the population count has been running through the summer and is about 500 inmates higher than the 12,400 mark that represents the 95 percent capacity level that would permit the overcrowding order to be rescinded.

During the overcrowding emergency, prisoner minimum sentences are reduced 90 days. Another 90 days would be cut if a second emergency is declared on top of the current one.

With September and October constituting months when a "higher than average" number of persons are imprisoned, Ms. Light said another order may have to be declared while the current one remains in force.

September and October tend to be higher commitment months, she said, because many trials which

It was not the vengeful Lord of the Old Testament who created Crystal Lake. It was a smiling, kindly Almighty who thought that man should have some beauty and joy in his life.

In this lovely spot in northwestern Michigan we look out each evening on glorious sunsets at the other end of this nine mile stretch of sparkling, sapphire water.

Pines and maples ring this jewel, and the little cottages are so modest they do not intrude on nature. They are only shelters for those who come to enjoy Crystal Lake, and not mansions for their owners to show off their wealth.

It's ideal for sailing, with breezes straight off Lake Michigan, separated from our lake by only a big ridge.

Once it was a sand dune, and before that Crystal was part of Lake Michigan. It's even warm enough now, by August, for a sissy like me to enjoy swimming.

Nearby are the Piatte and Betsie Rivers. The Betsie, especially, is good for canoeing. A few cottages perch along some of the stretches, but mostly it's wild as a hawk.

A century ago, white pine logs were floated down to the mills at Frankfort. The old pine forests are all gone, but in their place are sugar maples, which to me are prettier than pines.

There are quite a lot of pine and spruce, too, some planted back in days of the CCC under Roosevelt. Ask your grandpa about those days.

This is great fruit country. Lake Michigan acts as a temperature stabilizer, delaying the buds of spring and prolonging the warm days of early fall. Cherries and peaches and apples don't get nipped in the spring, and the fruit has time to ripen in the fall before the frosts.

Berries — and I drool into the typewriter as I write this — are the way they were before we had supermarkets and tasteless imports from California.

Strawberries and blueberries and red raspberries and black-caps (ask your grandmother what they are) and later, honey rocks. That is a term for a special kind of muskmelon that Publix and Winn Dixie and A&P and Kroger never heard of. They're simply delicious — soft and juicy and full of flavor.

Twenty minutes by blacktop through the forests is Interlochen, the National Music Camp, quite possibly the finest summer music camp in America. Last Sunday, we heard the Cleveland Symphony there.

Almost every night there are concerts in an auditorium where you look through the open sides through the oaks and pines to a lovely lake. The New World string quartet that performed at Boca Raton last winter, played the other night in the smaller, indoor auditorium, a handsome place.

There are some sporty golf courses here, and a summer theater at Traverse City. There we saw the President's daughter, Patty Davis, play in "Vanities." Out of respect to her parents, we withhold comment.

We started this column in a rather bad mood. We have been bugged with the antics of those sharp-shooting at Henry Kissinger and George Will and the White House.

We snorted to read in our old home town paper of the once-frugal country folk of Lapeer County running a public bus company that takes in $1,400 a month and pays out $11,300. It is done under excuse of social benefits — and a state subsidy.

A fellow could get wrought up by such things, in another setting. But the I look out across the lake, and see our sailboat bobbing at the mooring, and a breeze coming up out of the northwest, and I call out, "Jeanie, get your sailing clothes on. I've done enough typing."
