Council okays option for senior citizen apartments

The Cass City Village Council Tuesday evening approved an option to allow the Rural Housing Corp. of East Lansing to purchase three acres for its proposed 24-unit apartment building for senior citizens.

The option is good for one year and if the firm exercises it, it will pay $24,000 for the property at the south end of Woodland Avenue.

Whether RHC builds the apartments depends on if it gets the low-interest Farmers Home Administration loan it needs.

Another firm, Management Resources Development of Lansing is competing for the same loan funds to construct a three-building, 32-unit apartment complex behind the Charmont for families.

The village owns nine acres at the foot of Woodland and Ale Streets in the southeast corner of Cass City, of which RHC has an option on three.

It was originally proposed the RHC building would be at an angle to Woodland, which by making a bend, could continue past the building to the rear of the property.

The option approved by the council, which is in the form of an ordinance, doesn't contain an easement to allow the street extension. The new plan, if the structure is built, is that Woodland will become the driveway for the building and will end there. The building will be perpendicular to Woodland. Access to the rest of the property will be via Garfield and Ale.

James Hovey of RHC told the council it could be up to a year before the FHA decides which firm, if any, will get a low-interest loan for housing in Cass City.

"However, my best guess is they'll be funding some kind of project this fall."

STREETS

Paving of village streets financed by $100,000 borrowed through a state transportation bonding program was finished Tuesday. PTI Construction of Oakley started last Thursday.

Originally scheduled to be repaved were S. Seeger from Seventh to Main, plus portions of Virginia, Hunt, Huron, Sixth, Seventh, Leach, West and Vulcan.

That was done. In addition, village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie said after the council meeting, it was decided at the last minute not to "wedge" Seeger, that is to apply more asphalt to make it more level.

The money not used there was used to pay for paving of some additional street sections in need of repair. All the sections have curbs and some had last been paved almost 20 years ago.

The last-minute additions were West between Pine and Church, Leach from Church to the alley south of Main, two portions of Maple between Third and Garfield and Ale between Main and Houghton.

Partly because of the receipt of the $100,000, the council approved a revised 1983 budget, since state law requires such revisions whenever there are significant changes.

The other major reason for changing it was that revenue was less than originally anticipated. Property tax revenue was a bit less and the state reduced its payments to the village.

WALBRO REQUEST

Walbro Corp. has requested that the council establish the 7 acres on the south side of Garfield on which its plant, offices, etc., are located as a plant rehabilitation district.

It is constructing an addition to its engineering building which will be the headquarters for its carburetor group and there may be another addition if more manufacturing space is needed.

If the district is established, Walbro's new facilities could qualify under state law for a property tax reduction (from what it would otherwise be levied) of up to 50 percent for up to 12 years. One requirement to get the exemption is that the new facilities must create additional employment.

A public hearing, the first step in creating the district, will be held in the near future.

OTHER ITEMS

Trick-or-treat hours for Halloween will be from 6:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 31.

The council approved purchase of a used 1973 John Deere road grader from AIS Construction of Bridgeport for $33,000, minus $6,000 for trade-in of the village's present grader.

The one it is getting rid of is a 1958 model, for which getting parts is very difficult. Down payment will be $2,300 plus the trade-in.

John Deere still makes the same model grader, LaPonsie said, but a new one would cost $89,000.

The Department of Natural Resources has approved a six-month extension from its original deadline of Sept. 1, 1984, to either upgrade or close the landfill.

Hubbell, Roth and Clark will soon have plans completed for the lift station and sewer extension in the southeast corner of the village.

Tree falls on car, truck runs over driver

Five persons were injured in area accidents during the past several days.

The most freakish occurred to John N. Leiterman, 58, of 3626 Bay City Forestville Road, Gageton, who sought his own treatment following the 1:30 p.m. Saturday mishap south of Bay Port.

Bad Axe state police reported he was southbound on M-25, north of M-142, when the upper portion of a tree fell onto his car, damaging the hood.

The owners of the property, Samuel and Theresa Bush, told troopers they were cutting down the tree and thought there was room to do so without it falling onto the road. The tree was on the west side of M-25.

Frederick J. Horne, 35, of 5340 Downington Road, Decker, was treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital after another freakish mishap, at 10 p.m. Monday.

Cass City police reported he was northbound on Hoadley Road, north of Moriarty Road, when he stopped his pickup.

Horne left it running in parking gear and got out. When he was behind the vehicle, it slipped out of gear and backed over him.

Police said he was treated for cuts and bruises. Further investigation was turned over to the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department. Victor J. Battisti, 14, of 4625 Maxwell Road, Gageton, was released from Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, apparently Monday, where he was taken following a 5 p.m. accident Saturday.

Huron County sheriff's deputies reported he was driving a car eastbound on Rescue Road, east of Gageton Road, and lost control on the gravel surface. The vehicle went into the north ditch, knocked down a sign post and struck a tree.

Julia L. Larken, 23, of 3140 E. Deckerville Road, Cass City, was reported in good condition Tuesday afternoon at Huron Memorial and was expected to be released Wednesday.

She was transferred there from Hills and Dales following a 1:45 a.m. accident Monday.

Caro state police said she was westbound on Bay City Forestville, west of Hurds Corner Road, when her car went off the south side of the road into the ditch.

She was ticketed on a charge of careless driving.

Belinda Jo Eldridge, 17, of 4180 S. Phillips Road, Kingston, was discharged Saturday from Marlette Community Hospital, the day after she was taken there after being involved

A lofty beginning for newlyweds

Larry and Cindy Havard started married life on a high note Saturday when they started on the first leg of their honeymoon via a "Sky American" hot air balloon piloted by Kevin Veziro of Ada.

The launch followed their marriage reception at Colony House after the pair were married at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Palms.

The pair drifted about seven miles and landed at the Roth Brothers' farm, near Bad Axe.

How did this unusual wedding celebration come about? Well, said Larry, I guess last June we had a couple of drinks too many and decided it was the thing to do. Neither he nor his new wife had ever been in a balloon before.

Cindy is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hunt of Palms. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Havard of Ft. Myers, Fla.

The couple will live in Grand Rapids, where both are employed.

Ubyly area teenager killed when tractor overturns

Funeral services were held Monday morning for Gregory Pivalowski, 15, who died Friday when a tractor turned over on him.

He was the son of Robert and Kathryn Pivalowski of Bay City-Forestville Road, Ubyly.

Sanilac County sheriff's deputies reported he was driving a tractor out of a cornfield and made a turn alongside a 12-foot ditch. A right wheel or wheels went over the edge. The tractor traveled a few feet along the ditch bank before rolling over. Pivalowski was thrown off and momentarily pinned underneath as the tractor rolled over, landing on its side. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

The 12:19 p.m. accident took place off Bay City-Forestville, west of Patterson Road in Austin Township.

Pivalowski was born

Oct. 8, 1967, in Bad Axe. He was a freshman at Ubyly High School and a member of the Future Farmers of America.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by one brother, Brian Pivalowski, at home; three sisters, Laura, Kelly and Kimberly, all at home; paternal grandparents, Raymond and Grace Pivalowski, Ubyly; his maternal grandmother, June Temple, Snover; three aunts, three uncles and several cousins.

Funeral services were conducted at St. John Catholic Church in Ubyly by Rev. Patrick O'Connor, who performed a service for students and friends at 4 p.m. Sunday at the Zinger-Smigielski Funeral Home, Ubyly. He also conducted a rosary service Sunday evening at the funeral home.

Burial was in the church cemetery.

5.75% pay hike for county bosses

As its first step in preparing the 1984 budget, the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday established salaries for elected officials, other department heads and salaried non-union employees.

Pay for department heads, elected and appointed, were frozen this year at the 1982 level.

Increases granted to the 27 department heads and other salaried employees will cost the county $28,555 more, which works out to an average 5.75 percent increase.

Commissioners also set 1985 salaries, which will cost $24,300 additional, which is a 4.62 percent hike.

Some will get more than that, in 1984, some less. Commissioners decided the pay for some employees was lagging too far behind what other counties pay, so gave them an "equity adjustment" before giving everyone the percentage increase.

Those receiving the equity adjustment were the sheriff, circuit court reporter, treasurer, clerk, drain commissioner, register of deeds, magistrate, equalization director, personnel administrator and board's confidential secretary (one person), district court probation officer and friend of the court.

Salaries of elected officials for 1983, '84 and '85 are as follows: Sheriff Paul Berry, $24,290, $25,950, $26,850; Prosecutor G. Scott Stermer, $33,015, $33,965, $34,865; Treasurer Elgene Keller and Clerk Elsie Hicks (same for both), $18,800, $19,950, $20,850; Drain Commissioner Stanley Henry and Register of Deeds John Marshall (same for both), $18,060, $19,210, $20,110.

Pay for county commissioners will remain the same as this year, which has been the same as last year. They receive $6,950 annually plus $40 per diem (day) per meeting plus mileage. The board chairman gets $7,750.

Salaries for the three judges in 1984 will be: Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn, $40,700 state salary plus $20,585 county supplement, total $61,285; District Judge Richard F. Kern, state salary $36,630, county supplement $11,395, total $48,025, and Probate Judge W. Wallace Kent Jr., state salary, $30,630, state mandated county share, $6,000, county supplement, $11,395, total $48,025.

Salaries for non-union clerical personnel will follow the schedule for unionized courthouse employees. The non-union positions are account clerk and general office clerk in the building codes department, circuit court secretary, and personnel department aide.

The lowest starting pay now for any of those positions is $4.72 an hour for the general office clerk. It will rise to $5.24 starting July 1 next year.

Top pay for any of those positions, for the general office clerk, at the end of three years of service, is $6.07 an hour now. It will rise to $6.59 after July 1 of next year.

"If It Fitz . . ." Who's Who' a blank

By Jim Fitzgerald

My stealthy wife snuck up from behind and took an embarrassing photograph of Emily and me playing cards. Perhaps Adele Hast, doctor of philosophy, would like to publish it in her book.

Adele Hast is editor-in-chief of "Who's Who in America." She writes to me every couple of years to say how pleased she is to inform me that I have been selected for inclusion in the next edition. I know she is a doctor of philosophy because she signs her name with PhD after it. That little conceit is not why I never answer her letters.

I am not bugged by people who like to call attention to their education. If I were a doctor of philosophy, I'd have PhD embroidered on my nose. A medical doctor can use the beeper in his pocket to let everyone in the room know that his important presence is needed in surgery immediately. But it is awkward for a doctor of philosophy to be summoned by beeper. What can he do to explain that he must leave in the middle of dinner because the philosophy of Spinoza is very sick?

So it is not because I think she is ostentatious that I regularly ignore Adele Hast's invitations to be included in "Who's Who." All types of doctors should advertise extensively, for the good of humanity. If you fell and broke your philosophy, you would be darn grateful to look up and see the embroidery on my nose.

Also, my snub of the "Who's Who" overtures doesn't mean I'm not as vain as the next guy. I'm too cheap to buy a book just to read my name, but I wouldn't mind if my neighbors bought it and were impressed by my inclusion. I know a columnist who offers readers a free bumper sticker with his name on it, so it certainly wouldn't be too egotistical for me to suggest that you run out and get the "Who's Who" with me in it. At least you would find it easier to read in bed than a bumper.

The only reason I'll never be in "Who's Who" is that Adele Hast, PhD, asks too many questions. She wants me to fill out a "biographical data form" with all sorts of information concerning such "special achievements" as my "civic and political activities, professional memberships, creative works and career-related activities." I never saw so many blanks, and I just don't have time to unblank them.

I don't feel great about saying no to a doctor of philosophy, and I get no reverse-snobbery kick out of refusing to become a who's who. I am dismayed to realize that I have automatically eliminated myself from any consideration when President Reagan thumbs through "Who's Who" in search of a press secretary without a rabbit fetish. But I have more important things to do than make an endless list of my special achievements.

For instance, on the same day Adele Hast's latest letter arrived, I had to take my granddaughter Emily for a walk on a long pier. I had to show her boats and ducks and how the water lapped directly below her feet. Most importantly, I had to show her how to spit through the cracks in the dock.

The most accurate through-the-crack spitting is done from a squatting position. Did you know a 23-month-old child can squat forever and suffer no ill effects, but a 57-year-old man who squats for three minutes can't walk properly until late the next day? It is important to know stuff like that.

Contrary to what you probably think, my most special achievement lately hasn't been spitting through cracks. It has been playing cards with Emily. That's why my sneaky wife took the aforementioned photo. She was really impressed. Emily and I hold the cards between our toes.

Sure, that's a strange way for a grown man to play cards, and should probably be listed as my most special achievement in "Who's Not." But it makes Emily laugh. You should hear her laugh.

Everybody should hear an Emily laugh. That's my philosophy, from my nose to your bumper. No charge.

KAREN AND PETER FITTANTE

Karen Marie Stine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Stine, Deford, and Peter Dean Fittante, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Fittante, Lennon, were united in marriage Saturday, Sept. 10, at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Cass City.

Rev. Allen Fruendt performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore a sheer white gown over taffeta accented with Chantilly lace and seed pearls. It had a ring band collar, long sheer fitted sleeves, and an empire waist which fell to a full skirt and chapel length scalloped train. She wore a Camelot veil with matching lace and seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of gardenias and ivy attached to her mother's Bible.

Matron of honor was Diane Lowe, Deford, sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Susan Stine, sister of the bride, Julie Moore, friend of the bride, both of Deford, and Darla Crouse, Saginaw, friend of the bride.

All were attired in rose long off-the-shoulder gowns with matching picture hats. They carried white lace fans with rose carnations and baby's breath.

Flower girl was Becky Lowe, Deford, niece of the bride. She wore a dress identical to the bridesmaids' and carried a basket of rose carnations and baby's breath.

Best man was Lyle Harter, Fibre, friend of the groom.

Groomsmen were Steve Jennings, Swartz Creek, friend of the groom, Dan Dohr, Bancroft, friend of the groom, and Mike Lowe, Deford, brother-in-law of the bride.

Ushers were Tom Jennings, Swartz Creek, friend of the groom, and Brian Stine, Deford, brother of the bride.

Organist was Ruth Balzer, Soloist was Chris Weippert, who sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's mother wore a powder blue formal length gown. The groom's mother wore a pink formal length gown.

A reception for 300 guests was held at the Dom Polski Hall, Caro.

The newlyweds are residing in Durand.

Pickup destroyed by fire

A pickup truck belonging to Thumb Pawn and Loan of Caro was described as a total loss from a fire Tuesday morning. Fortunately, what didn't burn was the propane tanks it was carrying.

Elkland Township firemen received the call at 9:25 a.m.

The truck, driven by Emory David, was at Deckerville and Dodge Roads when it started burning.

Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. said the fire was so intense, much of the contents of the engine compartment and the cab melted, including the radiator.

For that reason, firemen couldn't determine a definite cause. Root said it appeared, from gasoline found under the truck, that the fire was caused by a fuel leak.

The truck was a 1972 Chevrolet. It and its contents were valued at a total of $3,000.

CAR FIRE

Elmwood Township Firemen were called to extinguish a car fire at 8:18 p.m. Tuesday.

Their services weren't needed, however, as the persons at the home where the fire started put it out without damage before firemen arrived.

Owner of the car was Frank Spencer of 3933 E. Caro Road, a quarter-mile southwest of the M-81-Cass City Road "big curve."

Fire Chief Chuck Wright said the fire was started by a fuel leak. The car was parked when it started burning.

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

That wedding trip by balloon almost didn't happen. As late as mid-morning the pilot was ready to cancel because of a strong wind.

But true love ran smooth and by the afternoon everything was go for the unusual highlight of the reception.

Theda Seeger has been visiting in Bethel, Alaska, and she says that we don't have it too bad in Cass City. The grocery prices make you weep, she says. Bread is $2.59 for a pound loaf and 2% milk is $2.89. Other things are equally high.

It's a phenomenon that's very real and defies rational explanation. That's the way events run in streaks.

A few weeks ago we pictured a bride and groom taking a buggy ride. This week it's a balloon jaunt. It wouldn't surprise me if a pair decided on a dog sled ride this winter. That's the way it always seems to happen. All at once and for no apparent reason.

It's like picking numbers for coffee which a dozen or so residents do most weekday mornings. Persons will get "free" coffee for weeks on end. I've seen it last for six months.

Then suddenly they lose . . . and lose and lose. Three or four times in one week. These aren't isolated cases we are talking about, it happens with astonishing regularity to all who participate in the game.

This week is the last opportunity to sign a scroll to wish Brewster Shaw good luck on his upcoming space flight. The scrolls, which are at the three banks and savings and loan, will be picked up Saturday morning.

Fancy foot work

A wild rabbit's first line of defense against a predator is to lie flat on the ground and remain absolutely still, says International Wildlife magazine. If that doesn't work, a wild rabbit can jump a distance of at least eight feet, clear obstacles five feet high, and reach speeds of more than 40 miles an hour.

The Haire Net

Probably a majority of the persons that crowded the meeting room at the board meeting at Cass City High School last week were senior citizens living on social security.

Their one concern was that the increase in salaries for non-union personnel would lead to increased taxes down the line.

They shrugged aside pledges by the board that taxes would not be increased next year. You'll just make it up two years from now, one said, and others nodded in agreement.

You can relate to their concern when social security payments have to stretch to cover the ever expanding cost of day-to-day living.

Granting that, it's sad that these folks wouldn't have the same concern about the quality of education that the school is offering.

After the salaries had been decided most of the visitors departed. That special meeting was one where the board reviewed and set goals. It was an opportunity to learn what the board was trying to do and to have input into what direction education should take.

Interest in this was weak if it exists at all.

Charges that the board caved in to the administrators just don't jibe with the facts.

The easiest way for a member of the board to go is to deny pay raises. You get no heat from anyone when that happens.

It's the easiest way, but not necessarily the right way.

Most of the board members are successful businessmen, farmers or professional people. They are not about to throw money away for no good purpose. They all pay taxes, too.

When they authorized raises it was after evaluation and review of the job and with the realization that salaries should be in line with those paid in the area.

Certainly, there is room for disagreement about the direction board members are taking the school.

Maybe the majority wants cheaper help regardless of what it does to the school. Even less expensive than it is now when it ranks among the lowest in the state in cost per pupil educated.

I'd hate to think that this is true. If it is, there's a chance to put the dollar ahead of the kids.

Just vote out the board members who voted the salary increases when they come up for election.

It will be a sad day for the community if that election day judgement is determined by the wage issue alone when there are so many more important value judgements to assure the best persons available are directing our kids.

Pedaling Around

Come visit

By Mike Eliasohn

Last week's column should have been labeled Part I, since this one is a continuation of what I was writing about last week.

As mentioned previously, any time anyone comes to this area, even if they only stop long enough to buy gas or a meal, someone locally benefits.

Here are some suggestions on how to possibly get some more persons to come to this area.

A week-end tennis tournament -- Cass City has some excellent lighted courts. I would guess there are a lot of tennis players in the upper Thumb who are tired of playing the same persons in their own town who would welcome the chance to play someone else and see how good they are.

Farm vacations -- I think many "city folks" would like the opportunity to stay on a farm for a few days.

One farm wouldn't have to provide all the amenities. Persons might stay at one farm and visit others. Another farm might have horses, so visitors could go riding there. A visit could be made to a dairy farm. An alternative to staying in the farm house would be to provide camping.

Farm tours -- Many communities have home tours, which allow visitors to tour (mostly) large old homes. Such events are usually one day, once a year, and are often fund raisers for local organizations or charities.

How about a farm tour? See how cows are milked, how cattle and hogs are raised, and visit some in-third at

Saginaw fair

Dennille MacAlpine, a member of the Argyle Sox 4-H Club, received a third place in crafts at the recent Saginaw County Fair.

Her entry was a ceramic chipmunk with a log cabin. Dennille is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold MacAlpine of W. Argyle Road, Ubyly.

She was one of eight members of the Argyle Sox competing in the Saginaw fair and one of four 4-H'ers from Sanilac County who placed among the 4-H'ers from 16 counties competing.

Might make a fund raiser for an organization.

Bed and breakfast -- Persons pay money to stay in a home and have breakfast.

Advantages for travelers are that they are usually cheaper to stay in than a motel and provide an opportunity to meet the "real people."

In the upper Thumb, B&Bs would be nice, for instance, for bicycle tourists. Stay in one for a few days and make day trips to explore the Thumb.

A B&B opened this year in an old home in Port Sanilac.

Winter sports -- The upper Thumb isn't renowned for its hills, but there are plenty of places that would be suitable for cross country skiing if prepared and promoted properly.

The same goes for snowmobiling.

Hunting and fishing -- In June, the Chronicle received a news release about organization of a Pheasant Recovery Task Force, comprised of members of sportsman and farm groups.

Much of the reason for the decrease of more than 125,000 small game hunting licenses since 1974 is because of the big decline in the number of pheasants.

If pheasant numbers were increased, so would the number of hunters and a lot of them would be doing their hunting in the Cass City area.

Reportedly, the Department of Natural Resources is considering stocking the Cass River, possibly in this area.

More fish, more fishermen.

Fall color tours -- There must be some roads in the upper Thumb that are especially scenic in fall.

Parting thoughts: If the aim is to attract visitors, it won't work without lots of publicity.

Nothing I've mentioned is guaranteed. If I ever thought of something that was a positive, sure-fire money maker, I wouldn't be sitting here typing.

On the other hand, there is no way to know whether something will work unless someone tries it.

"LAST ACRE" -- Ken Mettert, party leader for the Tuscola County soil survey, described the different layers of soil found in the hole dug for last Wednesday's "last acre soil ceremony" on the Albert and Arlo Ruggles farm outside of Kingston. (Photo by Mary Lou Earl).

County soil survey nears completion

The end of a six-year effort to map all the soils in Tuscola County was celebrated last Wednesday at a "last acre ceremony" on the Albert and Arlo Ruggles farm east of Kingston.

The ceremony was sponsored by the Tuscola County Soil Conservation District (SCD), agent for the survey. Albert Ruggles is chairman of the district board of directors.

The SCD is one of five participants in the soil survey. The U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) furnished the party leader, soil scientist, support personnel, worksheet maps and will pay for printing of the book containing the soil survey maps.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture furnished an additional soil scientist.

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners appropriated $4,612 for each of five years to pay the local share of the cost. Vassar city and township kicked in an additional $250 a year for five years.

The SCD requested the annual funds, rented office space and provided equipment, clerical help and other services.

Maynard McConkey of Cass City, former county commissioner and member of the SCD board, began the ceremony by giving a brief history of how the survey came to be.

The need for it surfaced many times when he served on the SCD board, but "priorities rose and fell" and the survey "never quite came about."

When the county commissioners agreed to provide part of the funding and in-kind arrangements (services or facilities provided in lieu of cash), the survey became reality.

A preliminary soil survey of Tuscola County was done in 1926 and updated in 1974.

After the Michigan Soil Survey Act was passed in 1977, the Tuscola SCD started gathering support for having a detailed survey made of the soils in the county. The following year, Tuscola was selected as one of the first counties in the state in which such a survey was to be made.

The second speaker, Homer Hilner, SCS state conservationist, talked about development of soil surveys in Tuscola and elsewhere.

Ken Mettert, party leader of the Tuscola survey, then discussed the types of soils that have been found in the county. A hole had been dug to give those attending an idea of soil types.

The final speaker was

Negotiators may meet Thursday

This Thursday may be the first bargaining session between negotiators for the Cass City School Board and teachers with a state mediator present.

Fred Gerhardt, chief negotiator for the Tri-County Bargaining Association, which represents the teachers, said Tuesday evening the mediator is available Thursday. Whether the session will be held depends on whether the board's professional negotiator, Al Luce, can be there.

Gerhardt hasn't heard yet from Luce whether he can be present.

The last bargaining session, at which it was decided a mediator was needed, was Sept. 13.

In the Kingston School District, bargainers for the two sides will meet with a state mediator present Monday.

Negotiators for the two sides in Owendale-Gagetown met last Wednesday, but not for long.

TCBA chief negotiator Bob Gengler said they met for about 75 minutes. He and the other members of the bargaining team decided nothing was being accomplished so he informed Supt. Ronald Erickson they were leaving. "There has been no discussion of the issues whatsoever," Gengler said, other than that they have been rejected.

Erickson responded, "The basic issue, good faith bargaining, has not been resolved yet. They (teachers) seem to want the option of breaking the contract and not being responsible for it."

Gengler and the other members of the TCBA negotiating team will meet to decide what they will do next before getting back to Erickson about another negotiating date.

The last Tuscola Intermediate School District (TISD) negotiating session was Sept. 20. The next one will be Tuesday.

Members of the Tuscola Intermediate Education Association (the TCBA represents it in bargaining) met Tuesday to discuss the progress of negotiations.

TIEA President Wendy Rummel said some members wanted to withhold services, but it was decided the TIEA members will meet Thursday, Oct. 6, after the next negotiating session, to decide on a course of action if there is no settlement.

Before then, she said, the TIEA will undertake some efforts to inform the community of what it claims is the TISD school board's "unwillingness to bargain."

BEFORE AND AFTER -- The beaker on the left held by Nelson Willy contains wastewater as it enters the Cass City sewage treatment plant. The one on the right holds treated effluent, after which it would go into the Cass River.

MASS CONFUSION is what it looked like, but wasn't, when this photo of the sewage plant construction site was taken in November, 1980. Construction started in June of that year.

Sewage treatment

Here's how new plant operates

Once the toilet is flushed or water goes down the sink, shower or tub drain, the wastewater goes through numerous stages at the treatment plant before the effluent goes into the Cass River.

1) The wastewater enters the plant. A shredder breaks up any solids, such as paper, clothes, glasses, golf balls or peach pits, all of which have been found at one time or another.

2) A grit chamber removes heavy inorganic material such as coffee grounds or egg shells.

3) From the "wet well," the effluent flows into the 380,000 gallon equalization basin or tank, which holds about one day's flow. From the tank, the wastewater flows through the plant at a steady rate.

4) Heavy sludge settles out in the two open primary tanks. The sludge goes through a digester, where bacteria is used to break down the sludge. The sludge is stored in the second digester, then twice a year is injected into farmland as fertilizer.

The owner of the farmland, treatment plant Superintendent Rick Mohr said, "gets the fertilizer benefit of the sludge and we're getting rid of it."

5) Secondary treatment starts with the effluent flowing through either of two sets of five bio-discs, large finned drums weighing 12 tons each. A form of algae grows on the surface of the discs. As the sewage flows through the drums, the solids are consumed by the algae. Ferric chloric is added at the end to remove phosphorus.

6) As the mass gets bigger on the bio-discs, it breaks off. It and the phosphorus then settle out in the two secondary settling tanks. Sludge from the tanks goes to the digesters.

7) The effluent then goes through a third or tertiary treatment stage, flowing through sand, charcoal and gravel filters, which removes remaining impurities, except for the most minute.

8) Chlorine is added in the chlorination contact chambers to kill bacteria.

9) The treated effluent flows into the Cass River. The effluent, Mohr said, is cleaner than the river. "By far, there's no doubt about it."

Several thefts probed by police

Numerous tools were stolen from a Hunt Construction Co. work site west of Fostoria. The firm has its headquarters in Cass City.

Ron Spaulding of the firm reported the theft to the sheriff's department Sept. 18, it having taken place some time since 4:30 p.m. on the 15th.

A padlock was cut to gain entry to the tool trailer. Taken from inside were four 50-pound boxes of nails, three tape measures, chalk line, square, 20-foot chain, two pairs of wire cutters, three hammers and one leather hammer holder, three cement trowels and two drill bits.

Taken from a backhoe were five wrenches, two grease guns, three sledge hammers and a plastic funnel.

Total value of the stolen items wasn't available.

The Tuscola County prosecutor's office Monday issued a warrant charging an 18-year-old Cass City woman with larceny. As of Tuesday, she hadn't yet been arraigned in district court.

She is charged with having stolen a ring from Paula Avuil of 8791 Grassmere Road, Cass City. The gold ring with two blue stones and one small diamond was hanging from a chain hanging from the rear view mirror in Ms. Avuil's car. She discovered it was missing after giving the woman a ride to Reese Sept. 7.

Daniel Kissane of 6484 Main Street reported to Cass City police Monday morning that the battery was stolen from a Made Rite Potato Chip delivery truck while it was parked over the week end behind Fort's store on Main Street. The battery was valued at $65.

Robert Bassett of 4434 Woodland Avenue reported to village police last Thursday morning that $50 in quarters were stolen from a container in his living room.

The thief or thieves gained entry to the home by removing a window pane from the door and then reaching in to unlock it.

Harold Whittaker of 6608 Pine Street told village police last Thursday evening that an antique milk can was stolen from his patio deck during the past month.

It was painted black and had a metal plate on it with his father's name, "Freeman Whittaker." Value was $20.

Woodrow Wilson's face adorns the front of the U.S. Treasury's $100,000 note.

A Cordial Invitation to residents of

Our Community

The Village Council of Cass City cordially invites you to attend an Open House at our new Wastewater Treatment Plant.

The new plant, using the bio-disc method of treatment, provides up through tertiary treatment and incorporates many state-of-the-art features. Built at a cost of more than six million dollars, it is an excellent example of federal, state and local participation.

The Open House is scheduled from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on October 1, 1983. Please join us any time during the day for continuing tours.

6 million tax dollars at work

Village to show off plant at open house

By Mike Eliasohn

Cass City residents who have been paying increased property taxes and sewage bills because of the new $6 million sewage treatment plant will have an opportunity Saturday to see what they are paying for.

An open house will be held from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. To get to the plant, go south on Doerr Road to the end, then turn left. Tours will start in the control building, which is on the north side of the site, and will take about an hour. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

The only place at the plant where there is a slight odor is where the water carrying the sewage enters the plant. An odor control will be used there Saturday, according to treatment plant Superintendent Rick Mohr.

"Most everybody who comes out (to see the plant) is fascinated by what the sewage goes through," he said. "They're amazed...it took so much (different operations) to treat it."

Visitors won't see raw sewage, which enters the plant through an underground pipe.

Cass City never had much choice about building the plant. The old plant on the same site, part of which dated back to 1935, wasn't in compliance with federal water pollution requirements.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) had the authority to order the new plant be built and the state Water Resources Commission could order a halt to new construction in the village if the plant wasn't built.

Total cost of the plant is $6.056 million. Of that, the EPA is paying 75 percent of the cost; the state, 5 percent, and village taxpayers are directly paying the remainder.

The village share of about $1.2 million is being paid through a 40-year loan from the Farmers Home Administration. Village residents approved borrowing the money in March, 1979.

Village residents are repaying the loan through a 2.5 mill levy. It has been that amount since it was first levied, but the village council has the authority to levy whatever is necessary to make the bond payments.

It is expected the millage will have to go up in the future. So far, it has been enough, according to Lou LaPonsie, because of valuation increases and interest earned on the money between the time it is collected in taxes and when the bond payments must be made.

The millage has nothing to do with the cost of operating the plant. Village residents pay for that through their quarterly sewer and water bills.

The new plant is more costly to operate than the old one, so starting in 1982, sewer bills increased sharply. (Water rates stayed the same, but they and sewer charges are listed on the same bill.)

The council starts working on its 1984 budget next month, which will include whether sewer rates have to be raised.

With the present rates, LaPonsie commented, "...we're coming in within budget by the looks of it."

The new plant is more costly to operate for various reasons. The old one was usually operated by two men. This one needs four and some day, maybe more.

The old plant had seven pumps. The new one has 36. That's one reason why the electric bill, according to Mohr, is $4,000-4,500 a month. The natural gas bill, to heat the digesters (part of the treatment process) and the buildings averages about $1,000 a month. Chemicals cost about $6,500 annually.

Ground breaking for the plant took place in June, 1980. The general contractor was H.C. Weber Construction Co. of Bay City.

The plant started operating May 19, 1982. After that, some parts of the old plant had to be removed to allow completion of the new one. Construction didn't end until November of that year.

After that came getting the bugs out, having warranty work done on various equipment so that it would be working properly and a final "punch list" meeting, held only about a month ago, to make sure all work had been done as required. That is why the open house hasn't been held until now.

RESULTS

The new plant is operating even better than is required, according to Mohr.

One measurement of pollution is what is called biochemical oxygen demand and suspended solids. The state allows no more than 10 parts per million of each. "We have three or less (parts per million)," Mohr said. "Normally, we have less than three."

Four hundred parts of coliform, a form of bacteria, are allowed per 100 millilitres of effluent. The count at the Cass City plant is only one per 100 ml., one-four hundredth of what is allowed.

The limit on phosphorus is 1 part per million. The plant is averaging .5-.7.

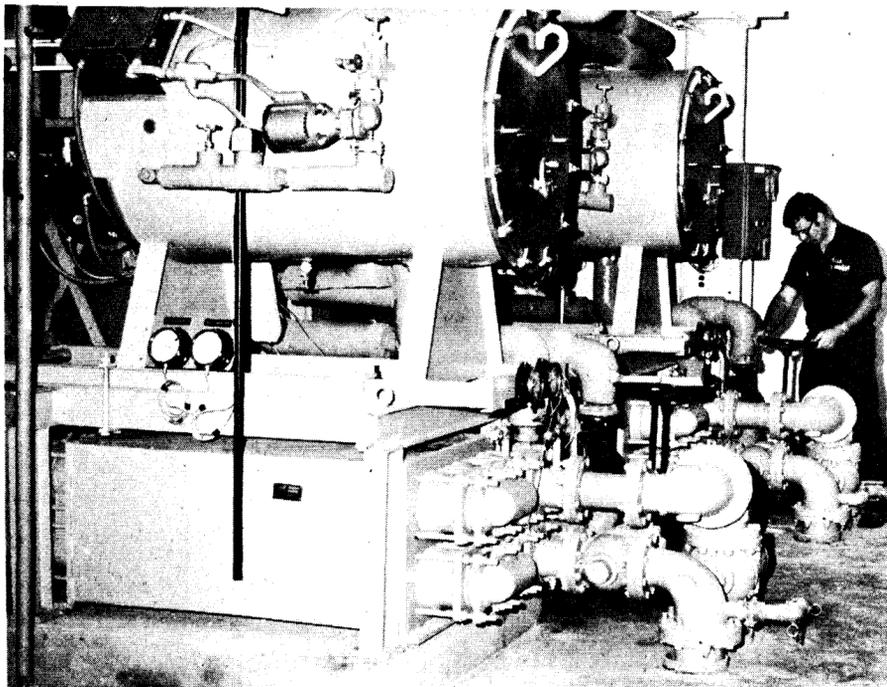

In terms of percentages, there has been 99 percent removal of biological oxygen demand and suspended solids, 100 percent removal of ammonia and nitrogen and 90 percent removal of phosphorus.

The plant has a capacity to treat 1 million gallons of waste water per day, enough to handle projected Cass City population of 3,200 residents by 1997, a federal requirement.

Presently daily flow averages about a third of that.

DIGESTERS — Rick Mohr, Cass City wastewater treatment plant superintendent, turns a valve on the heater for one of the two digesters, which must be kept at 95 degrees, in order for the bacteria to be removed from the sludge.

Accidents

in a 1:15 p.m. accident. Tuscola County sheriff's deputies reported she was southbound on Froede Road, north of M-46, when, she told them, her steering stopped functioning.

The car went straight at a bend in the road, then went sideways into a water-filled ditch and came to rest lying on its side.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

James A. Peddie, 19, of 4821 E. Cass City Road, Cass City, was arrested by Tuscola deputies on a charge of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor after a 2 a.m. accident Saturday.

They reported he was westbound on Joshua Road, east of Green Road, and ran into the front end of an improperly parked car that was partly over the centerline.

Driver of the parked car was Kenneth L. Guilds, 22, of 6178 Shabbona Road, Deford.

Peddie was later released from the county jail after posting bond, pending arraignment in district court Oct. 3.

Scott C. Phillips, 23, of 1544 N. Graf Road, Caro, was arrested by Caro state police on a charge of operating under the influence of liquor following a 6:50 p.m. accident Sunday.

Troopers reported his vehicle ran into the rear of another car on Gilford Road, west of Purdy Road, forcing it off the road.

Driver of the other car, which was moving, was Connie D. Tetrick, 24, of 1300 E. Caro Road, Caro.

Phillips was later released from the county jail on bond, with arraignment in district court scheduled Oct. 10.

At 2:50 p.m. Saturday, according to state police, Douglas W. Gilley, 27, of 6355 Legg Road, Kingston, was exiting his driveway and collided with a westbound auto driven by Steven S. Ensign, 17, 5305 Dorrance Road, Kingston.

The accident took place west of Cemetery Road.

John Churchill of 4131 Krapf Road reported to Cass City police Saturday that a hit and run vehicle damaged his car while it was parked at the Charmont.

Police said it appeared the other vehicle was parked on the left side of Churchill's. The driver turned too sharply when backing out and the right front of the auto hit the left side of Churchill's car, leaving lime green paint on the damaged auto.

The mishap was reported to have taken place at 12:30 a.m.

CAR-DEER

Pamela Ann Volante, 21, of 6635 Third Street, Gagetown, was eastbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, west of Lapak Road, at 8 p.m. Sept. 18 when her car hit a deer, according to deputies.

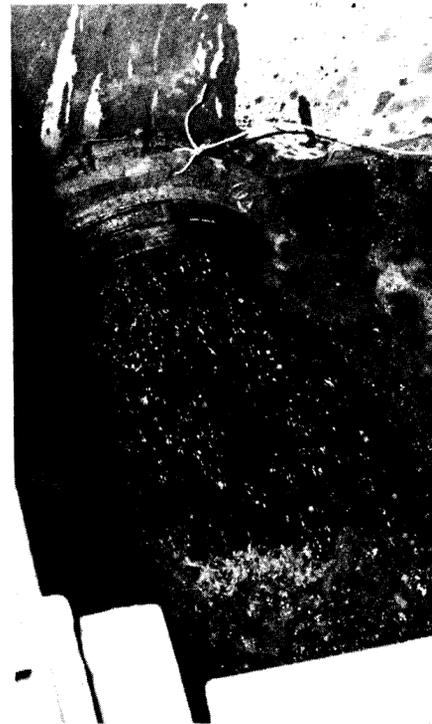

Dawn M. O'Conner, 18, of 5907 Reed Road, Deford, was eastbound on Decker-ville Road, west of Plain Road, at 11:45 p.m. last Thursday when her auto collided with a deer.

Cass City police reported that Jennie M. Osentoski, 53, of 6301 Bay City-Forestville Road was headed southwest on M-81, west of Green Road, at 7:10 a.m. Friday when a deer ran into the right side of her car, damaging both doors.

Caro state police reported John A. Warju, 20, of 5043 Severance Road, Cass City, was northbound on Hurds Corner Road, north of Deckerville Road, at 2:15 a.m. Saturday when his car hit a deer.

Joseph E. Howey, 33, of 7850 Kelly Road, was northbound on Cemetery Road, south of Kelly, at 12:45 a.m. Monday, Cass City police reported, when his vehicle collided with a deer.

Other car-deer accidents were reported Friday morning on M-81 near Ellington and Saturday evening on Seeger Road, west of M-53, but further information wasn't immediately available.

NOT A PRETTY PICTURE, but a long awaited one, was when the first sewage flowed into the new treatment plant May 19, 1982.

Junior Wranglers Club says thanks to retiring leaders Al and Donna Seeley

Members of the Junior Wranglers 4-H Club, their parents and past members said thank-you Sunday to long-time leaders Al and Donna Seeley, who have retired from the club. The Seeleys were guests of honor at a potluck picnic, moved into the Cultural Center because of rain. The Junior Wranglers were officially organized in 1959, but existed on an informal basis before that. Seeley became sole leader in 1966, having been a co-leader of the club before that. His wife has been a leader for 12 years.

Other early leaders were Lloyd Bryant, Lee Smith and Dale Iseler. Seeley took over the sole reins when Smith stepped down in 1966. Iseler has continued to assist over the years.

The picnic was a reunion, as well as a thank-you, with several of the original members, plus Smith and Iseler, present.

One of the original members, Carol Turner Long, is the new leader of the Junior Wranglers.

Following lunch, most of the approximately 50 persons present said a few words about themselves and their remembrances of the club and some added personal thank-yous to the Seeleys.

"This is something we love to do," Seeley told the Chronicle, but he and his wife decided it was time to let someone else take over.

The club meets monthly year-round. In addition, the Seeleys worked with the youngsters and their horses in the ring outside their Kelly Road home from April until the Tuscola County Fair in August each Thursday from 6 p.m. until dark and Sundays from 1 until 4-5 p.m.

Seeley feels the youngsters in the club gave him as much as he gave them. "Just one look from one kid was enough to keep me going," he told the gathering Sunday.

The Seeleys own two horses and two ponies. Although they are no longer leaders, they aren't divorcing themselves from the club completely. If a 4-H'er has a problem, he said, they're willing to help.

Seeley, the auto body repairman at Geiger-Hunt Ford for 32 years, said with his increased leisure time, he wants to spend more time fishing and just "sitting around."

Some of that sitting will no doubt be done on horses, but they aren't the only thing he likes to ride. He also owns a motorcycle.

DONNA AND AL SEELEY, who were honored Sunday by the Junior Wranglers 4-H Club for more than 40 years combined of service to 4-H.

Conservation tillage study almost finished

A three-year investigation in part of Tuscola and Huron County studying crop production on conservation tilled fields is nearing completion.

The project, funded by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has been working with demonstration comparison plots of five acres or larger comparing (under true field condition) conventional tillage (moldboard plowing) with some form of conservation tillage.

John Posselius, the project agronomist and extension agent, indicated that the different tillage practices have been stressed in different parts of the county. No-till has worked out very well in the Vassar, Milington area.

Last year, with the aid of Phil Dakin, U.S. Soil Conservation Service and the district conservationist, and the Tuscola County Soil Conservation District, the eight no-till fields out yielded the conventional plots in virtually all cases.

This year, there are over 650 acres of no-till corn and soybeans in the project area. Posselius pointed out that the wet spring prevented area farmers from timely spring plowing and that no-till had a better chance of getting planted.

He also said that the no-till crops had an advantage this summer because the undisturbed crop residue that the no-till crops were planted into helped conserve moisture during the dry weather of July and early August.

Some of the other tillage practices emphasized during the past three years of the project have been dry beans and sugar beets planted into chisel plow, ground and ridge-till farming in the flat heavy soils in the west and northwest parts of Tuscola County.

Posselius summarized some of the project's finds as follows:

--In most all cases actual time in the field was reduced. Operating costs were also reduced.

--Yields have been maintained and no additional fertilizers or chemicals have been required, except in the case of no-till where a burn-down herbicide is used instead of primary and secondary tillage.

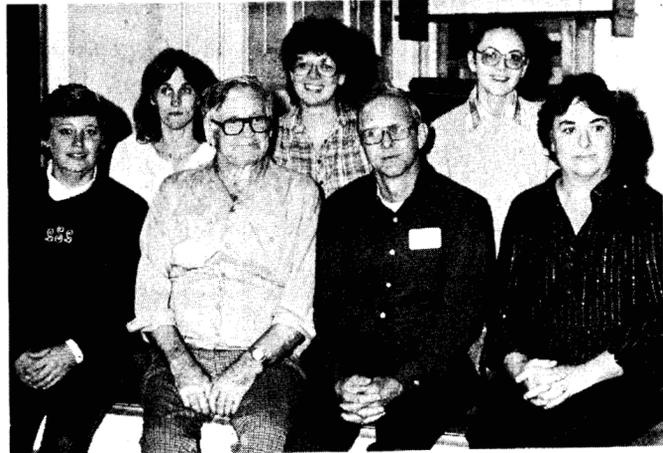

--Insects, weeds and diseases have not been significantly different on any one of the tillage systems studied.

Posselius concluded that no one tillage practice is the perfect system year in and year out, and that all systems including fall and spring moldboard plow practices are not without problems.

The project, however, has shown that conservation tillage practices are very competitive and definitely have or should have a major role in Tuscola's agriculture.

For more information on the special agriculture conservation project or on conservation practices contact the Cooperative Extension Service or Soil Conservation District offices in Caro.

1983 marks the centennial of the invention of artificial silk.

Two students earn Merit commendation

Cass City High School and Owendale-Gagetown High School have each been notified that one of their students has been designated a Commended Student in the 1984 National Merit Scholarship Program.

They are Kevin Hobart, Cass City, and Gary Erickson, Owen-Gage.

They placed in the top 5 percent of the more than 1 million participants in the 29th annual Merit Program.

Although Commended Students will not receive further consideration for Merit Scholarships, each has demonstrated unusual academic promise and will be honored with a letter of commendation.

All participants in the current Merit Scholarship competition entered by taking the PSAT-NMSQT test in the fall of 1982. Although the scores of the 35,000 Commended Students throughout the 50 states were very high, they were slightly below the level achieved by the 15,000 who obtained semi-finalist standing.

Kevin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hobart of Hobart Road, Gagetown. Gary is the son of Supt. and Mrs. Ronald Erickson of Sixth Street, Owendale.

Osentoski tops Charmont for Slo Pitch league championship

Charmont's hopes for a perfect Thumb Slo Pitch League season were dashed by Osentoski Realty and Auctioneering in the rain at the Cass City Gun Club Sunday. The Bad Axe team defeated the Cass City squad

two games of three to win the league championship. Charmont had won its division title with a win-loss record of 16-0, the first team in the history of the league to go undefeated. It also won the league tournament in June, during which it defeated Osentoski twice.

Osentoski, which was 14-2 during the regular season, won the first game Sunday, 18-10, with 24 hits to Charmont's 10. Winning pitcher was Jim Apley. Doug Powers was the loser.

Going into the bottom of the seventh inning of the second game, the Cass Cityans trailed, 14-12, but won 16-14. They picked up one run, then Walt Harrison hit a three-run homer.

The winners had 17 hits; the losers, 18. Ken Gremel took the win. Dave Soper was the losing pitcher.

Osentoski had no trouble taking the rubber game, 16-6, behind the pitching of Mike Semp. Gremel took the loss. Osentoski had 25 hits; Charmont, 16.

The outcome was the reverse of last year, when Osentoski lost the playoff finals to what was the Colony House team last year, Charmont this year.

Charmont finishes the season at 35-9 overall.

Cross country teams rack up wins

It was a busy and productive week for Cass City's cross country teams as the first league duals were held at Vassar and invitational meets held at Akron-Fair-grove and Frankenmuth. In the league meet, the girls finished first and the boys second.

Among the boys Caro is the leader at 4-0, Cass City is 3-1; Marlette, 2-2; North Branch, 1-3; Vassar, 0-4.

In the over-all individual placings Greg Bliss was first, 15:58, more than a half minute ahead of Ken Campbell who was second in 16:20.

Steel rails used by railroads in the early 20th century often weighed less than 60 pounds per yard. Today they weigh more than 150 pounds per yard.

CLUB CHAMPIONS at Rolling Hills Golf Course were, from left, Dale McIntosh, men's champion; Jason McCallum, junior high; Randy Teichman, high school; and Mary Rabideau, ladies. Absent was Elwyn Helwig, men's first flight. Participants played 36 holes to qualify. The best two in each division then played 18 holes match play to determine the champions.

A-F INVITATIONAL

The Hawks won both the girls' and boys' competition in the Akron-Fairgrove Invitational Saturday. The boys won easily, defeating second place Sandusky, 29-48. Capac was third and Harbor Beach fourth.

The first five places count in the team scoring and the runners for the Hawks were: Greg Bliss, 1st; Kevin Bliss, 3rd; Kurt Bliss, 6th; Randy Jackson, 7th, and Randy Nicholas, 12th.

The girls' competition was much closer. At the end of the race, Cass City was tied with Sandusky with 52 points each.

That left the meet up to the tie-breaker and Jeanne Marshall, who finished ahead of the sixth Sandusky runner and provided the points to give the Hawks the win.

Lisa Salyers of Sandusky was the winner.

Cass City was paced by Renae Stimpfel, third. Other Hawk finishes were: Chris Tuckey, 4th; Lori Hurley, 12; Ann Leslie, 16; Dana Zdrojewski, 17; Marshall 19.

Finishing third was Capac and fourth, Harbor Beach.

The Hawks also won the Frankenmuth Invitational Thursday. The boys were paced by Greg Bliss, Kevin Bliss, Randy Jackson, Kurt Bliss and Mike Middaugh.

A highlight of the meet was a record breaking effort by Greg Bliss. His time in the five-kilometer event was 16:45, breaking the course record of 17:00 set by Kyle Rambo of Essexville Garber in 1982.

For the girls, Renae Stimpfel was first and Ruby Bryant, 2nd.

Tips for car buffs

A car didn't have to be a success in its own time to be considered desirable today. For example, the 1958 Edsel was a major disappointment to its makers when it first came out, yet it's highly sought-after by collectors these days. Studebakers are also valuable though the Studebaker company was bankrupted in 1966. Very popular are the 1955-57 Chevys, which have the reputation among serious car collectors as the best cars Chevrolet ever built.

Hawks eliminate turnovers in last half win surge

For at least one week the Cass City Red Hawks are perched with the elite of the Thumb B Association. Friday's victory was the first league and home game of the season and the Hawks made it a good one, topping Marlette, 18-7.

The odds makers say that it will all end Friday when Cass City plays at Vassar, one of the three league powerhouses this season.

The Vulcans are undefeated in the league and come into the game fresh from an 8-3 decision over Bay City All Saints.

To stay in the game Cass City will have to play the way it did the last half against Marlette. For the first time this season the team eliminated many of the costly turnovers that have plagued them in their first two games.

In the first half it was a turnover that led to Marlette's touchdown. A Bryon Beecher pass was intercepted and ran back 45 yards to the Cass City three from where Rod Armstrong pushed across for the marker. The kick was good.

Neither team did much for the rest of the half.

The opening second half kickoff was the turning point in the game, Coach Don Schelke said. The Hawks tried an on-side kick and it was recovered by Al Leslie. Cass City promptly took advantage of the recovery by marching 48 yards to score. Brian Wright went the last 7 yards with 9:50 left in the period.

The Hawks completely dominated the final quarter paced by Joe Langenburg who had the best running night of his career.

Wright intercepted a pass and the Hawks had a first down on the Marlette 28. From there they moved to score as Langenburg ate up the final 12 yards to get the marker with 8½ minutes left in the game.

With time running out, Cass City made sure of the victory by marching 60 yards for a touchdown. There was just 1:20 left in the game when Langenburg cracked over from four yards out.

Dan Smith was the workhorse among Hawk backs. He carried 17 times for 88 yards. Langenburg added 63 yards on just 8 carries.

Smith proved to be a very valuable two-way player. He led the team on defense with three tackles and seven assists. Wright had a solo and six assists to go with his interception.

Hawks drop pair of cage games

The Cass City Red Hawks lost a pair of games during the week bowing to Marlette Thursday, 45-37, and to USA Tuesday, Sept. 20, 49-43.

Cass City simply died on offense in the middle two quarters to let the visiting Red Raiders post their second win in the Thumb B Association. It was Cass City's first conference game.

The teams traded baskets in the first period and Marlette edged out a 14-12 lead. The next 16 minutes were ones that Cass City fans would like to forget. In each of the periods Cass City scored 4 points while Marlette countered with 14 points in the second period and 7 in the third quarter.

After that the Raiders merely coasted to the win. Jill Hutchinson continued to pour in the points with 18 points on seven field goals and four of five foul shots. Marlette had a pair in double figures as Sue Byrnes scored 11 points and Shari Gikerson 12. Cass City shot 26 percent and Marlette 34 percent from the field.

The Hawk record is now 2-4 overall and 0-1 in conference.

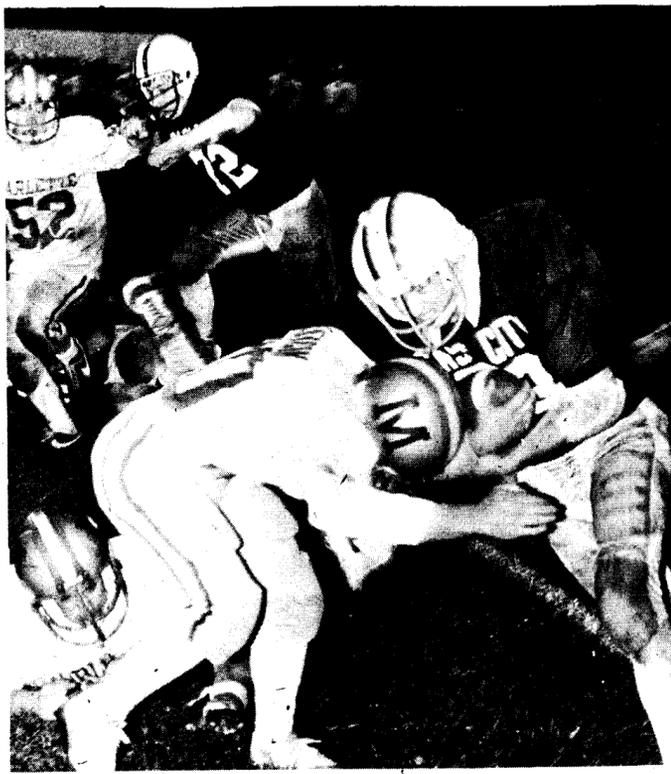

The JV squad lost a heartbreaker in the preliminary as the Marlette JV won in overtime, 30-27.

USA GAME

Although the Hawks played well against USA, the Patriots played slightly better to register the win. The game was a scoring duel between two fine players. Hutchinson for Cass City netted 19 and Kelly Adam for USA poured in 25 points. Adam had a little more help and USA outscored the Hawks in three of the four quarters. At the half it was 25-18, Patriots. The Hawks chopped two points from the margin in the third period and actually outscored their hosts, 25-24 in the last half.

Cass City shot 40 percent and USA 41 percent for the night. Joy Root grabbed 8 rebounds and Hutchinson added 7.

In the preliminary, USA had little trouble topping the Hawk JV, 48-19.

Face North Huron Friday

Offense blamed as Eagles hand O-G first loss, 24-0

If a fund drive is ever started to buy lights for the Caseville High School football field, the Owen-Gage Bulldogs may be the first to contribute.

The Eagles won their third straight Saturday afternoon game of the season this past Saturday at the expense of Owen-Gage, 24-0.

The Bulldogs, now 1-1 in the North Central Thumb D League and 2-1 overall, must now prepare for Friday's homecoming clash against North Huron, which has yet to win in the league.

"We'll rebound this week," Owen-Gage coach Arnie Besonen predicted. "We're confident, however, we'll have to be careful not to get too involved with the homecoming activities and neglect the task at hand, the Kinde Warriors."

"We have to cut these costly mistakes or we're going to be in trouble."

His team was in trouble from the beginning at Caseville.

"The Saturday game gives us fits every year," Besonen continued. "We fumbled the opening kickoff, hiked the ball over punters' heads, fumbled three times and had three intercepted passes which all led to Caseville scores."

"Our defense didn't lose the game, our offense did. I'll take the blame for not being better prepared."

The Eagles scored one touchdown in each quarter and were unsuccessful in all their extra point attempts.

Jerry Winkler Jr. scored the first TD on a two-yard run, the scoring drive taking four plays and 23 yards.

Dan Osentoski scored from one yard out, the drive consuming 22 yards in six plays.

Wayne Simmons raced around right end and then broke a tackle to score from 13 yards out in the third quarter.

Winkler, son of Eagle head coach Jerry Winkler, scored the final six points on a 15-yard run to cap a 68-yard, six-play drive.

The junior Winkler had a hot day, intercepting two Bulldog passes, rushing for 102 yards in 25 carries and catching one pass.

Caseville rushed for 162 yards in 43 carries and gained 46 more on four completions of eight Osentoski passes, with no interceptions. It made 10 first downs.

Owen-Gage, which made nine first downs, gained 40 yards in 26 carries. Reid Goslin threw 18 times, completed seven passes for 106 yards and had two tosses intercepted. Ron Susalla's one pass was intercepted.

The Bulldogs fumbled three times and were penalized five times for 25 yards. Their opponents fumbled once and were penalized eight times for 50 yards.

Matt Ricker was top ground gainer for Owen-Gage Saturday, 30 yards in 12 carries.

Behind Winkler for Caseville was Simmons with 14 carries and 57 yards.

John Shope caught five Goslin passes for 76 yards. Frank Abfalter's one catch was good for 25 yards. Brian Gembariski caught three passes for Caseville, good for 45 yards.

Gary Erickson was a defensive standout for Owen-Gage with 14 tackles. Joe Lopez and Matt Ricker each stopped Caseville ball carriers six times.

Shawn Sarka made eight tackles for the Eagles.

Important potholes

Each year, almost 50 percent of all North American ducklings are born in and around potholes, says the National Wildlife Federation; not those potholes you might see on a typical highway, but around the millions of scattered depressions left in the wake of melted glaciers in the Dakotas, Minnesota and central Canada.

October best to plant wheat

Farmers can substantially reduce wheat pest and disease problems by planting the crop after Oct. 1 but before the end of the month.

"Wheat that was planted before Sept. 24 last year was hit very hard by barley yellow dwarf virus (BYDV), which is transmitted by aphids," says Everett Everson, Michigan State University research agronomist. "In several hard-hit areas we estimated yields at 20 bushels per acre. In neighboring fields, which were planted in October, the yields were about 70 bushels per acre."

Because of BYDV threat, Sanilac County Extension Director Rex Sieting recommends farmers plant wheat 10-15 days after the local Hessian fly-free date.

MSU research conducted during the past six years shows that yields are the highest for wheat planted between Oct. 5 and 15.

Wheat does not have to emerge this fall to establish a suitable stand in the spring, but wheat planted on rolling ground in late October is susceptible to soil erosion, which will damage the crop. If at all possible, plant rolling cropland between Oct. 1 and 10 to enable the wheat to develop a good root structure before fall rains begin.

There is still time to soil test before planting. Fertilizer should be applied according to soil test results. If soil testing is not possible, the county extension agricultural agent can make a general fertilizer application recommendation that is compatible with area wheat production.

Wheat should not follow wheat in the crop rotation because of the potential for carryover of root rot. Wheat can be planted after soybeans, barley, oats, navy beans, or a summer fallow. Unless special precaution is taken, wheat should not follow corn because herbicide residue can kill the seedlings.

Sieting recommends planting certified wheat varieties. First choice for white varieties for Sanilac County are Augusta, Frankmuth or Fredrick. The red variety is Titan.

HEALTH TIPS

Tips for preventing and treating head lice

Have you recently been notified your child has head lice? If so, you are not alone.

There has been a significant rise nationally in the incidence of head lice. Anyone can get lice. Having them is no disgrace.

Following are some tips from the Sanilac County Health Department regarding lice that may be helpful in finding and also treating them:

1) Tell children not to share combs, brushes, hats, scarves, coats, and other clothing.

2) Watch to see if your children scratch their head frequently or complain of itching of the scalp.

3) Wash and check your children's heads frequently.

Head lice are difficult to spot but they leave a definite trail - nits (eggs) are oval shaped, grayish-white in color and are "glued" tightly to the hair. They cannot be easily removed like dandruff.

These eggs hatch in 3-21 days and the cycle continues. Frequently the scalp and neck are bitten.

4) If you find nits, don't panic! Numerous products are available for treatment. Your physician or pharmacist can suggest or prescribe a suitable product. Be sure to follow the manufacturer's directions.

5) Check and treat all family members affected.

6) Thorough cleaning of rugs, upholstered furniture, bedding, etc., as well as all articles of clothing, brushes, combs, hats, and jackets, is essential for control.

7) To prevent mass infestations, affected persons should be isolated until adequate treatment is given.

8) Your county health department can answer your questions.

Your neighbor says Adults should watch for little children

Theresa Sugden wishes adults would be more watchful for little children. She and her husband Jerry have two of them, Marie Lynn, 4, and Anne Elizabeth, 2. The family lives on Little Road, southwest of Cass City, which is a gravel road.

Mrs. Sugden uses a red children's wagon when gardening to carry her harvested produce. She recalled an incident in the summer of 1982, when the wagon was by the edge of the road while she was gardening.

Of six cars that went by, the driver of only one slowed down, thinking that children might be close by. "They just go barreling by," Mrs. Sugden commented. "It was me out working, but who's to say, it couldn't be a kid."

Another time, she and a friend and three children were walking along the edge of the road. The cars didn't slow down that time either.

In shopping malls, Mrs. Sugden continued, if small children get in the way, adults "just walk right over them. They just don't care anymore."

Her own children, she said, have been told not to go onto the road without an adult and to play in the back yard. "You have to set a limit on how far they can go."

Mrs. Sugden, who operates a sewing business in her home, feels the state law requiring use of safety seats in cars for small children "is the best law they ever made."

Not only does it protect children, she feels it encourages adults to use their seat belts. "I can't tell them (her children) to do one thing and I myself not do it."

Her opinion of a proposed state law that would require all motorists to "buckle up" is that it would be beneficial, "but it should be up to the individual" whether to use their seat belts.

Mrs. Sugden feels all adults should use their safety belts. "What's the use of saving your child's life (with safety seats) if you're not going to be around to help them grow up?"

Farm Bureau elects officers, honors 3 board members

Barbara Mohr of Mayville was elected president of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau last Thursday by the organization's board of directors.

The directors conducted their organizational meeting following the Farm Bureau's annual meeting in the Caro High School cafeteria.

Chosen as vice-president was Barry Hedley of Unionville, with Michael Proctor of Mayville being selected as the third member of the executive committee.

Loretta Kirkpatrick, county FB office manager, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Mohr, who serves on the board of directors as an at-large member, replaces Kenneth Hofmeister of Gageton, who served one year as president and prior to that served as vice-president and third executive board member.

He and other retiring board members were presented with plaques. Also stepping down from the board were Keith Little, Cass City, District 1 (Elkland, Ellington, Elmwood and Novesta Townships); Joyce Loomis, Cass City, Women's Committee representative; Mark Shiefer, Vassar, vice-president and District 4 representative, and David Goodchild, Caro, Young Farmer Committee chairman.

The approximately 165 persons attending the annual meeting elected Maynard Stine of Deford as the new District 1 representative on the board of directors and Gary Marker of Fairgrove as the new at-large member, replacing Hofmeister.

The board will appoint a new District 4 member, since no one was willing to run. The district consists of Denmark, Gilford, Juniata and Tuscola Townships.

Donna Sting, chairman of the Women's Committee, and James Sattelberg, chairman of the Young Farmer Committee, were confirmed as board members.

RESOLUTIONS

Those attending the annual meeting approved 12 county, state and federal resolutions. The state and federal ones will be considered at the Michigan Farm Bureau (MFB) annual meeting at the end of November.

Among them were: --Support for a ban of use of Banvel for roadside and ditch spraying. Several hundred acres of dry beans were severely damaged this summer when a contractor, hired to spray township ditches, used the herbicide, according to the resolution.

--The county Board of Commissioners was urged to "move forward with a building site" for the county Cooperative Extension Service, now housed in the basement of the sheriff's department building.

--Support for allowing 102-inch wide trucks and trailers on all state and county roads, not just on those specially designated by the state.

--The Michigan Agriculture Commission system should continue to appoint the director of the state Department of Agriculture, as opposed to having the governor directly appoint the director.

--It was advocated that the present procedure for cleaning and maintaining drains by petition be abolished because too many small property owners, owning 1-10 acres, aren't interested in agriculture, so can delay drain work for 2-3 years under the present system.

The resolution supports giving county drain commissioners power to order drains be cleaned, possibly with the consent of a three-member board, but without property owners having to petition to have the work done.

--Embargoes on agricultural exports was opposed, as was proposed legislation that would require all commodities exported from the United States to leave from U.S. ports and on U.S. ships.

--Reform of workers' compensation, business taxes, property taxes and state regulatory agencies was urged, in order to attract agricultural businesses to Michigan.

--The only suggested resolution defeated concerned a proposed formula to eliminate the over-supply of milk.

Members did approve a resolution urging the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) "to work with and give their support to the National Milk Federation in drafting a combined policy" to eliminate the dairy surplus problem.

SPEAKERS

Michigan Farm Bureau Vice-president Jack Laurie of Cass City spoke about various topics.

With a state representative having proposed legislation to eliminate all tax exemptions, including several of value to farmers, he urged his audience to make sure their legislators know "how important to the production of food these exemptions are."

Laurie said the Michigan Agriculture Commission has accepted the MFB executive committee's suggestion that it (the commission) screen a number of names before selecting a new agriculture director, following its accepting the resignation of Dean Fridgeon.

Concerning the difference in dairy policies advocated by the AFBF and the dairy surplus industry concerning how to eliminate the surplus, Laurie, a dairy farmer, commented, "Basically, they're not that different, but there are some areas that are incompatible."

State Sen. James Barcia, D-Bay City, reported the Senate Agriculture Committee, of which he is chairman, reported out of committee that day two bills designed to protect farmers who have grain stored in elevators which have financial difficulties.

He also mentioned that Gov. James Blanchard may be making a one-day tour of Tuscola and Huron Counties in the near future, including some farm stops.

Regional Representative Bernie Bishop reported the Tuscola County FB has 2,547 members and the MFB, 81,368, both records.

Ed Powell of Farm Bureau Services reported on the FBS reorganization plan filed with federal bankruptcy court, which will involve forming a new company with a new name and board of directors.

Certificates were presented to high school students who attended the MFB Young People's Citizenship Seminar last summer: Kevin Hobart and Gail Evans, both of Gageton, and Audra Keinath. Wendy Kemp was absent.

Communicator of the Year awards were presented to James McLoskey, WKYO Radio; Brett McLaughlin, Tuscola County Advertiser, and Robert Compeau and John Hauptrecht (absent) of WNEM Television (Channel 5).

Pair face sex charges

Two persons appeared Monday before Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn on sexual conduct charges.

The guilty plea of James R. Marshall, 39, of 249 N. Van Dyke Road, Marlette, to attempted criminal sexual conduct (fourth degree) with a woman June 19 in Juniata Township was accepted.

Bond was continued and a sentencing date will be set.

Roy J. Klinesmith, 20, of 425 W. Lincoln Street, Caro, pleaded no contest to criminal sexual conduct (second degree) with a boy less than 13 years old Jan. 28 in Indianfields Township.

The judge took his plea under advisement. A sentencing date will be set if the plea is accepted. Bond was continued.

Also Monday, Christopher L. Gilmour, 18, of 6372 Fourth Street, Cass City, was sentenced to one year in the county jail for attempted breaking and entering of the Cass City Missionary Church on Koeppgen Road May 25, 1982. He pleaded guilty to the charge Aug. 9.

Gilmour was credited with five days served. He was also placed on five year probation, fined $300 and assessed $400 court costs. Restitution is to be determined. Psychological counseling was ordered.

16-person staff proposed for new job program

The new federal Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) in the Thumb area may be operated by a 16-member staff, according to a proposal outlined Monday by its tentatively hired new director to the joint executive committee.

The program will serve Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac and Lapeer Counties.

The committee, which met in Cass City, is composed of one county commissioner and one Private Industry Council (PIC) member from each of the four counties. It agreed to hire Marvin Pichla of Uby as the JTPA director.

Pichla is executive director of the Thumb Area Consortium which has been running the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, which ends Friday.

He was authorized to have the attorney representing the four county boards of commissioners and the one representing PIC draft an agreement outlining how the new JTPA program will operate.

Pichla told the Chronicle he hopes the attorneys, one from Lansing and the other from Saginaw, can meet by this Friday and have the draft agreement written by next week.

The agreement must then be approved by the four county boards and the PIC for it to become official. Among its provisions will have to be one giving the joint executive committee the authority to hire a director. Only then can it officially hire Pichla.

He outlined to the committee a proposed staff to run the JTPA program. There will be four persons in a main office, including himself, with the office probably in Marlette.

Located in an office in each county would be a training services interviewer, education training specialist and employer services liaison.

The interviewer would process applications of persons wanting to enroll in JTPA programs, the specialist would work with participants and schools for classroom job training programs and the liaison would work with participants and employers for on-the-job training programs.

The committee will meet the third Thursday of each month at 10 a.m. Its next scheduled meeting will be in Marlette Oct. 20. Pichla said he hoped by then the county boards of commissioners and the PIC will have approved the agreement under which the four-county program will operate.

Walbro opens testing center

Walbro Corp. has announced the opening of its fuel systems test center in Caro.

The facility houses an array of specially-designed test equipment to allow in-process and durability testing of Walbro fuel system components.

"Walbro's new Fuel Systems Test Center is an example of our commitment to advancing the state-of-the-art in fuel systems technology," according to Walbro Executive Vice-president Robert H. Walpole.

"Our goal is to ensure that Walbro continues to offer the most innovative products that meet the highest quality standards."

Walbro is an original equipment supplier of electric fuel pumps and fuel injection throttle bodies to automakers in the U.S. and overseas.

The company is also the world's largest independent manufacturer of carburetors for small engines and is a major manufacturer of electric fuel pumps for the automotive replacement market.

The new center is capable of testing up to 300 electric fuel pumps simultaneously.

Tests can be performed with a wide range of fuels, including leaded and unleaded gasoline, diesel, methanol, ethanol and gasohol.

Test cycles are programmable, offering various voltages, operating pressures and on-off cycles, to duplicate a wide range of real-life conditions.

The facility incorporates hot and cold environmental testing areas which provide ambient test conditions from -40 degrees F. to +180 degrees.

Salt-spray testing facilities and shock and vibration test equipment are available for product reliability studies. Sound test facilities allow monitoring of product noise levels.

The center also has a sheltered bay area for installation of components and instrumentation on test vehicles.

Taking stock

The Juno Beach investment guru, Charley Redfield is now loafing in South Harwich, Mass., where he has nothing to do but nitpick the writings of this hard working country boy.

We had expounded the virtues of zero-coupon bonds, where you invest a little, let it alone, and reap a lot in years to come.

We had suggested it would be a nice thing for old coots like Charley to give some of these bonds to his grandchild for college expenses.

"What about inflation?" shrills Charley. Lying in a hammock, it is hard to speak in formal tones.

"Inflation at 7 percent — what will that make tuition at Stanford in 2001? It is now $11,000 a year," he continued.

To reply, tuition in 2001 will then be $37,179 a year, assuming seven percent inflation.

Backtracking a bit, tuition at Stanford 53 years ago was $422 a year, and that included football tickets.

It has since increased at an annual rate of six percent compounded. Maybe it will continue at this pace in the future, for the field of education, like medicine, doesn't march to the speed of the same drummer as the rest of us.

So I sent word up to my supine friend that he could still give the little feller $10,000 in zero-coupon tax-free bonds earning 10 percent. There would be $55,599 available for college in 2001.

That would meet the sky-high tuition of $37,179 and leave $18,420 for extra-curricular activities.

If the kid is anything like foxy Grandpa, he may need even more for the sporting life.

Gerrit Baker of Boca Raton likes to quote Thomas Edison, who, when asked what the greatest invention of man was, replied, "compound interest."

I harp on this time and time again. For some of us more mature people (read: old coots) the only way we can take advantage of compounding the present high rates for a long time is to make gifts for grandchildren.

Some of us would find it more fun to spend it ourselves. It is for the young and middle-aged, then, to reap the benefits of such investments.

Let's say you are 40 years old — a veritable adolescent in Boca Raton or Delray Beach.

So this $10,000 I suggested to old Charley, you put it in some zero-coupons yourself. In 18 years you'll be 58 with $55,599 for yourself.

No taxes meanwhile, no capital gains, no taxes when you cash in the bonds — unlike the IRA accounts.

So what will money be worth then? you argue.

I'll not go along with that 7 percent inflation that Charley refers to.

Inflation historically in the United States (and that means for 200 years) has averaged less than two percent.

It was less than that for eight years from 1958 to 1966. The first six months of 1983 it has been only one percent above last year. In 1982 it was only 3.5 percent.

In 1971, when Nixco thought it was so high he imposed price controls it was 4.5 percent and thought intolerable.

So I'll settle for two percent inflation over the 18-year period we're talking of. That will cut down the constant dollar return of 10 percent to eight percent.

Invest $10,000 at 8 percent compounded for 18 years and you'll have $39,960 in 2001.

The beauty of zero-coupons is that you have no reinvestment problem. Interest, in effect, is paid all at maturity, but is computed as though it were paid twice a year and compounded.

Free lung tests at Hills & Dales

In conjunction with National Respiratory Therapy Week, the respiratory therapy department at Hills and Dales General Hospital will be giving free pulmonary function tests this week.

Otherwise known as a lung test, the machine measures how large a volume of air a person can breathe into it. If the results indicate they don't have a "normal volume" because of some restrictive problem, they will be advised to see a doctor.

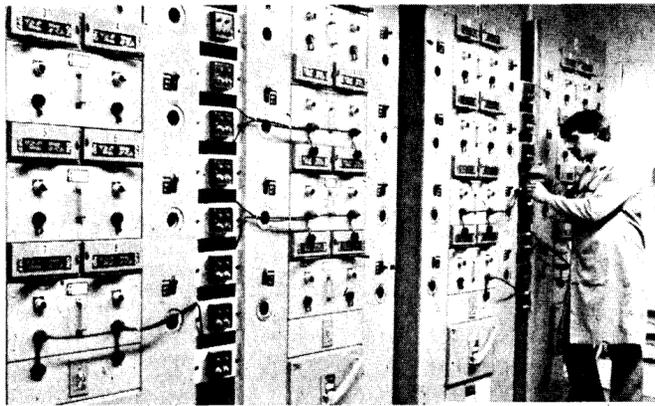

The tests will be performed in the large basement meeting room from 1-2 p.m. Thursday and 4-5 p.m. Friday.

The public is also invited to tour the respiratory department through Saturday. It is located next to the meeting room and is open from 7 a.m.-11 p.m.

The department will have free pamphlets available on the first floor this week dealing with such topics as lungs and lung diseases, respiratory therapy and the dangers of smoking.

BREATH TEST — Thelma Graham blows into the pulmonary function testing machine that will be used for free tests for the public Thursday and Friday. Administering the test is respiratory technician Tammi Rabideau.

TEST CYCLES at Walbro's new fuel system testing facility in Caro are programmable, offering various voltages, operating pressures and on-off cycles to duplicate a wide range of real-life conditions.
