Good year predicted for crop farmers

By Mike Eliasohn

Provided Mother Nature cooperates, the financial outlook is improving for Thumb area and all cash crop Michigan farmers.

"It's not going to be a super year because we didn't have enough (crops) to sell," said Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Director Bill Bortel, "but it's going to be a good year."

It will especially be a good year when compared to the last few, when farmers had bumper crops, which resulted in low prices. This year, although yields are down, prices are up significantly.

It will be a contrast to 1982, according to farmer Richard Loeding of Decker-ville Road, Snover, when, "It cost you more to grow the stuff than you would get out of it."

That will benefit Michigan farmers, but, as Bortel pointed out, "at the expense of someone else."

Crop prices are up for two reasons. One is that the federal government's payment-in-kind (PIK) program, which pays farmers in surplus commodities for reducing their planted acreage of corn, wheat, grain sorghum, cotton and rice, resulted in less being planted.

The other reason is that drought devastated much of the Farm Belt.

The Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service estimates sale of the state's agricultural products will gross more than $3 billion this year, which would be a record and an 8.8 percent improvement over 1982.

In comparison, the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates gross farm receipts nationwide may decline as much as 7.4 percent from 1982 or increase as much as 17.2 percent. The drought and other factors are making projections difficult.

AS OF LAST FRIDAY, Bortel said, more than 90 percent of the dry beans in Tuscola County had been harvested, versus a state average of better than 70 percent.

Provided the remaining 10 percent can be harvested without losses, yields should be about the same as they were a year ago, 12-13 hundredweight per acre.

He referred to the corn and soybean crops as "good average crops." The 1982 county average for corn was 117 bushels per acre. This year, it will be about 20 less.

Both tonnage and sugar content of sugar beets are down from last year.

The increased prices being paid to farmers should more than offset reduced yields, according to Bortel.

Although cash crop farmers should do okay, this isn't a good time for livestock farmers. Hog farmers are likely losing money, according to Dennis Stein, Tuscola County extension agricultural agent, cattle feeders might break even at best and only dairymen who are very good managers make any money.

High corn prices mean it's more profitable to sell the crop than feed it to animals, but livestock farmers can't stop feeding their animals overnight and those who make most of their living from livestock aren't in a position where they can get in and out of the business depending on its profitability. Dairy farmers are also hurting from the reduction in the support price.

IF FARMERS DO END up with some more cash in their pockets, it isn't likely to stay there very long. Farmers are more likely to invest it in their business, than save it.

There are signs already that that is happening. Rabideau Motors Farm Division has sold four tractors in the last two weeks, according to Buck Rabideau. "It's picked up quite a bit," he said of the implement business.

Helping sales, in addition to farmers having more money, is that many manufacturers are offering sales incentives.

At Laethem Equipment in Caro, Ernie Cramer said, business picked up a few weeks ago before slackening off because of harvesting and weather.

The dealership is looking forward to December, he continued, when it expects sales will be good, because farmers will have their PIK money and buy for before-the-end-of-the-year tax advantages.

Although cash crop farmers may start buying equipment, that doesn't hold true for livestock farmers. "The livestock people just got the dol-drum," said Enos Farm Supply owner Dick Enos, whose business is being affected accordingly since he mainly sells to livestock farmers.

THE AMOUNT OF MONEY farmers will receive from PIK, when added together, is substantial.

The release date for corn and wheat is Nov. 1, when Tuscola County farmers enrolled in the program will receive about 2.5 million bushels of corn and 36,000 of wheat. Sanilac County farmers will get about the same amount of corn and 212,000 of wheat. In Huron County, the figures are about 3 million bushels of corn and 138,000 of wheat.

The market price for corn Friday was about $3.26 a bushel and $3.09 for wheat.

Virgil Boucek, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Tuscola County executive director, hopes to receive notification this week from the ASCS on where the grain will be located. Participating farmers will then receive "letters of entitlement" notifying them of how much grain they will receive and at what area elevator it is located.

Farmers will then have various choices. One is to take possession of the grain, which would be the choice of livestock farmers if they need it (corn) for feed.

Farmers could sell it immediately to the elevator and take the cash or make arrangements to have it transferred, at least on paper, for sale elsewhere.

Boucek thinks a lot of farmers will choose a third option to hold on to their grain for a while and possibly sell on forward contract. The reason is that after they become owners of the grain Nov. 1, PIK is paying five months' free storage, so waiting that long to sell won't cost them anything.

"ALTHOUGH CASH crop farmers should come out better than they did a year ago, there are some 'ifs,'" Fred Auten of the Cass City State Bank thinks farmers will wait to sell their crops, hoping the price will go up still further, so feels it's too early to tell what the impact of present prices will be.

"They're going to be able to pay off their costs for '83 and completely pay their expenses for '82," predicted Phil Keating of Chemical Bank Cass City. He cautioned, however, that most farmers have lost some of their net worth and it's going to take more than one year to regain that. "You're not going to turn that around in one year."

Although farmers aren't visiting banks much to buy equipment—some manufacturers are offering interest free loans and some farmers will be able to buy without borrowing—Curt Strickland of Thumb National Bank said some farmers are buying land now, "probably 100 percent more than in the spring."

Loeding, who farms more than 700 acres and feeds some steers, feels his fellow growers might hold off making major purchases for another year, unless they have equipment in need of replacement.

With no PIK program for corn next year and a good price now, farmers might plant a bumper crop next year, which could drive prices down again. Thus they may choose to wait another year before deciding whether to make big but post-ponable expenditures.

One good year isn't enough for farmers, Loeding commented. "They have to have another good year before they'd want to get real optimistic."

STRIKE — Weather obviously wasn't a factor in Tuscola Intermediate Education Association members' decision to go on strike Friday. It was cold and windy. Picketing is being done at the two entrances to the Tuscola Intermediate School District office, Skill Center and Highland Pines School on Cleaver Road, Caro.

Tuscola Intermediate strike enters 4th day

By Mike Eliasohn

The strike of Tuscola Intermediate School District (TISD) professional personnel continued into its fourth day Wednesday.

A six-hour negotiating session Monday with state mediator Gordon Lee ended with both sides saying they weren't close to a settlement and accusing each other of not wanting to bargain.

The strike which began Friday affects 78 members of the Tuscola Intermediate Education Association (TIEA) and about 1,000 students countywide.

It means the closing of the Tuscola Area Skill Center, which is the county vocational education school, the Highland Pines School for physically and mentally impaired children, both outside of Caro, two classroom programs for hearing impaired children elsewhere in the county, plus a halt to services provided by TISD staff for students and teachers in local school districts.

Among those affected are more than 90 Cass City High School students, all but one or two 11th and 12th graders, who attend the Skill Center half-days. During the time they would normally be there, they are being given the choice of staying home or coming to the high school and staying in the library or study hall.

Evening adult education classes are being held at the Skill Center despite the strike.

The TIEA, a Michigan Education Association affiliate represented in bargaining by the Tri-County Bargaining Association, represents teachers at Highland Pines and Skill Center, plus psychologists, social workers, teacher consultants, audiologists, speech therapists, physical and occupational therapists and some other professional personnel.

The TISD is also involved in negotiations with the union that represents its para-professional personnel. Little progress has been reported in those talks, either. The union members are not on strike.

Negotiations with both unions took place last Wednesday evening. Both sessions ended with the negotiators for the TISD Board of Education calling for a state mediator.

Thursday afternoon, Dr. Bruce Dunn, the TISD superintendent, met with MEA UNISERV Director Lee Longfield of the Cass City office and TIEA President Wendy Rummel.

The women gave Dunn the union's counter-proposal to the board's latest offer.

After school that day, the TIEA members met and "much more than a majority" voted to go on strike the following day, according to Miss Rummel.

MS. LONGFIELD TOLD the Chronicle Friday morning the major issue dividing the two sides is not money. "Our estimate is that parties can get together on that, given their current positions."

The major stumbling block, she continued, is "the massive number of proposals given us by the board team that would eliminate a great many protections we've been given over the years."

Such issues, she explained, include grievance procedures, leave time, and seniority.

Dunn, commenting after the Monday bargaining session, felt the two sides were as far apart on the financial issues as they were on the other ones.

He accused the TCBA negotiators of refusing to budge on the non-economic issues. "They tell us it's not going to be that way (that the TISD board wants) and then they move to the next article (of the contract)."

The Monday session with state mediator Gordon Lee lasted from 10 a.m. to a little after 4 p.m. "As of now, we're not very close to a settlement right now,"

Dunn said minutes after the session had ended. "I still don't know what they want and where they want to go."

THE TIEA SPOKESMAN following the session, Jim Hobson, the other MEA UNISERV director from the Cass City office, only agreed with Dunn that the two sides weren't getting anywhere. "That's accurate. We are not getting anywhere."

He accused the board and its negotiators of not budging. "The whole reason we're involved in this (strike) is we're not seeing a response by the board...It's our position they see no urgency in finding a solution to this."

Hobson said the TIEA members won't necessarily stay on strike until a contract settlement is reached. It will continue "until we see some good faith bargaining" and then the union members "will reassess our position."

Dunn and the TISD board may not be content to wait, however. Friday, the superintendent sent the union a letter "ordering" the strikers back to work.

Dunn responded, when asked by the Chronicle, that no legal action was being contemplated "at this time" to force the staff back to work, since they hadn't obeyed his letter.

(The superintendent indicated Wednesday morning further action concerning the letter was on hold pending the outcome of the upcoming bargaining sessions.)

Hobson's response to Dunn's letter was that it was a "request," but did not "demand" that the union members return to work.

This is the second strike by TIEA members. At the start of the 1980-81 school year, they walked picket lines for two weeks before agreement was reached on the three-year contract which has now expired.

Bargaining continues Wednesday

The regularly scheduled meeting of the Tuscola Intermediate School District Board of Education Monday evening attracted between 75 and 100 parents and striking professional personnel.

Those who addressed the board urged a quick settlement, with comments ranging from the parent who suggested both sides lock themselves in a room and not come out until a settlement is reached, to Tuscola

Shaw space flight delayed 1-4 months

Brewster Shaw Jr.'s flight into space on the Columbia-Spacelab 1 shuttle has been delayed for at least a month and possibly four months.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) announced the delay Friday because of fear insulation on a booster rocket nozzle might burn through and could cause a disaster.

The Cass City native is one of two pilots on the flight, which was to have been launched Oct. 28.

It is the second delay for the flight. The original launch day for the nine-day flight was Sept. 30. The first postponement was due to technical reasons not related to the problem that is causing the second delay.

The new problem was first encountered on the Challenger shuttle launched in August. Half of the insulation coating the inside of the rocket nozzles of the booster rocket is supposed to burn away as it lifts the shuttle into orbit.

Almost all the insulation on one of the nozzles burned off, however, and the pilot on the flight estimated had it been firing another 2.7 seconds, it would have burned through.

Had that happened, the rocket's exhaust would have gone out through the side of the nozzle, causing the booster and the shuttle to cartwheel. (NASA engineers said the nozzle could have lasted another 10-20 seconds.)

The insulation coating the nozzles of the Columbia booster was from the same batch as that used on the last flight, hence the delay while the possibly faulty component is replaced.

The earliest the Columbia can now be launched is Nov. 28, but that causes problems.

The Columbia's cargo is the $1 billion Spacelab, built by the European Space Agency. A late November launch, however, would mean some of the intended earth observation experiments aboard the Spacelab couldn't achieve their objective because of seasonal changes on earth.

The scientific objectives can be met by delaying the flight to late February, but that means extra cost to the ESA, plus it disrupts NASA's intended schedule for future shuttle launches.

Announcement of the new launch date is expected by the end of the week.

Shaw will be one of six crew members on the flight. The other pilot is John Young, the mission commander.

Cards, letters and brickbats

By Jim Fitzgerald

The nicest thing happened while I was out of town. S.K. Pullen, a resident of Belleville, Mich., wrote a letter to the editor accusing me of not "liking anything the average person likes." And I was whelmed by the number of readers who wrote in my defense.

But they didn't write to the editor, they wrote to me. I usually don't publish letters in this column, so when people write nice letters about me, I wish they'd address them to the editor for possible publication on the editorial page. People who write nasty letters about me should address them to the City Waste Disposal Department for possible burial in a sanitary landfill.

In the meantime, I hope you won't think it too egotistical of me to reprint the Pullen letter. Obviously, Pullen and many other people considered it a nasty letter, but I disagree.

"I have given up hope of Jim Fitzgerald's ever liking anything the average person likes," Pullen wrote. "He hates hunting, rodeos, boxing, most professional sports and guns and he thinks integration is the answer to all of society's ills. A bleeding heart such as he must have had 100 transfusions over the past 7 years. What a soldier he must have been."

When I first read that letter, I thought I couldn't be more flattered. But I guess I could.

Pullen could have added that I also hate war, pestilence, cooked carrots, tamper-proof bottles and Jerry Lewis. That would have been even more flattering. But I'm certainly not complaining. Within the confines of a short letter, which editors always prefer, Pullen did an incredibly complete job of buttering me up, and I am grateful.

My only regret — and it's tiny — is that Pullen didn't mention that one of the professional sports I hate is football as played by the big universities. That is, I can enjoy the games themselves, but my gorge leaps whenever I hear the athletes described as amateurs playing strictly for the glory of the old alma mater.

Athletes vigorously recruited to entertain in exchange for tuition, books, room, board and other goodies are professionals selling their services for a price. To claim otherwise is as dumb as trying to find 100,000 people willing to pay $15 each to watch 44 parents cut corners so they can afford college educations for sons with skinny necks.

(Incidentally, the score was Michigan 42, Michigan State 0. As an MSU alumnus, I'm extremely grateful my university was smart enough to pay a Philadelphia law firm $19,000 for ar-ranging a $175,000 payoff to quash a $1 million tampering lawsuit filed by George Perles' ex-employer, therefore making it possible to hire Perles for $95,000 annually to coach MSU football. If old Muddy Waters were still coach, the score could very well have been 43-0.)

Otherwise, S.K. Pullen did me proud. And any slight hint of sarcasm detected here shouldn't be interpreted as meaning that I think Pullen was wrong to say the average person likes hunting, rodeos, boxing, most professional sports, guns and segregation. Good lord, if Pullen isn't right, a civilized society can no longer believe what it reads on bumper stickers.

But I never wanted to be ordinary, which is average, so those whelming readers who feared that my bleeding heart might be cauterized by Pullen's letter should be assured that, on the contrary, it was thrilled and encouraged to continue pumping.

Lutheran Pastor Carl Welsler of Hamburg, Mich., who is also a columnist, wasn't confused. He wrote: "I consider the Pullen letter perfect in nearly every detail. I should like to receive such a letter myself. However, I have been writing a column for more than two years without success. What is your secret?"

It's no secret: I was a lousy soldier and I never eat cooked carrots.

Eigner faces false gun theft charge

Fairgrove gun shop owner Robert F. Eigner has been charged with filing a false police report for falsely reporting the theft of guns.

Eigner, 36, reported to Caro state police Feb. 21 of this year that 19 rifles and shotguns, 16 handguns, $282 in cash and 40 rifle and pistol scopes and ammunition had been stolen from his store, Eigner's Sports Headquarters on Van Buren Road.

He received $15,600 compensation from his insurance company in March, according to state police records.

Tuesday of last week, state police stopped and searched a vehicle Eigner was driving on Van Buren. Of the four guns inside, they took custody of two long guns and one handgun. Eigner then gave officers permission to search his store, home and pole barn, all at the same address. Police seized six firearms from the barn.

Troopers said all nine guns were among those reported stolen.

Eigner is scheduled to appear in district court for a pre-trial hearing on the charge Nov. 8. He was not taken into custody.

The Haire Net

A business magazine recently came out with an interesting speculation about computers.

What's going to happen, the forecaster says, is that all purpose computers will go the way of the passenger pigeon.

In its place will be specialized computers. It's like electrical generating power was in the beginning.

A water wheel was hooked to an endless stream of belts and pulleys to provide power. It was not until the electric motor came along that really wide-spread use of electric power came about.

That's going to be the computer story, according to this seer. There will be small computers scattered about for specific purposes just like motors are today.

The big all purpose computer will be gone.

That forecast may or may not be true. What is sure is that it adds to the confusion. I can't bear to part with the 40-year-old typewriter that this was written on. Now a computer?

We're talking here about a computer now that handles job printing estimating, maintains mailing lists, accounts payable and receivable and inventory. The whole ball of wax.

We're into computers in typesetting. One purchased last year is setting this story into type.

But that's different. All that was needed to learn was how much type it would produce, what quality at what speed and at what cost.

No bother with any foreign (to me) language. Does it have formatted disk capacity, monitor, parallel printer interface, CP/M, etc.?

I don't know and I don't care. That computer is a single use machine and it's easy to measure what it will do without knowing anything more than what keys to punch.

There are suppliers in the printing industry coming up with programs for the specific needs of publishers.

They are better today than ever before. Cheaper, too. I can see the Chronicle buying a system and then finding out that there was another one on the market cheaper and better. Or worse, finding that the computer purchased simply was not made to do what this business demands of it.

Those are the rational reasons. If you must know the truth, I'm in awe of those 14-year-old kids that break into sophisticated systems even if it is illegal. If I knew what they did I'd probably buy tomorrow. But it just goes against the grain to buy a machine when you can't even ask an intelligent question about it.

Rabbit Tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

It's too late for many of you that received the paper through the mail, but for early newsstand buyers let me tell you that Dr. H.T. Donahue's segment on TV 2 "Super Doc" program is Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. That's channel 11 for cable viewers.

We learned this from a couple of sources. One was Sandy (Holcomb) Miller of West Bloomfield who was considerate enough to call long distance to clue me in.

Now if some last minute snafu doesn't occur, this is the last time we'll have to mention this.

Pheasant season opens Thursday and I can tell you where two lovely cock pheasants are...or at least where they were one day last week.

One is near Quanicasssee and it flew right in front of our car. The second was picking gravel on the shoulder of I-75 between Bay City and Saginaw. It always happens before the season opens.

Will this be another year like one several falls ago? I can remember playing golf at Gagetown in the middle of November. Certainly the weather Tuesday was as great as fall can be. As nice as it's been the chances are remote that the November playing date will be surpassed. Darn it all.

LACK OF SPACE in last week's Chronicle prevented showing these photos along with the article about Ron Ziehm and the year he spent working on farms in West Germany and Australia. Above, sugar beets are being harvested on a German farm. The beet leaves, visible in the right front corner, are used for silage.

GROUND CLEARING — It is so dry in Australia that the stubble from the previous year's crop won't decompose in time to plant the new crop. The stubble, as shown here, is removed just before the rainy season by burning it.

THREE-IN-ONE — Yields in Australia are low, so farmers have to economize whenever possible. One way they do it is to pull these three wide discs behind one tractor in preparation for planting wheat.

Helen Rutkoski in serious condition after accident

Helen Rutkoski, 69, of 4145 S. Seeger Street, was reported in serious condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales General Hospital, where she was taken following a Saturday morning accident.

Tuscola County sheriff's deputies reported she was westbound on Elmwood Road, east of Cemetery Road, when she lost control of her car. It went off the north side of the road and struck a tree. The accident took place at 9:30.

Jeri Tordai, 33, of 5355 Hartsell Road, Cass City, sought her own treatment after an 8:46 a.m. accident Friday.

Huron County deputies reported she was westbound on Sebewaing Road and collided with a vehicle driven by Douglas Germaine, 28, of Vassar, who was northbound on Bay Port Road.

Officers said Germaine, who was ticketed on a charge of failure to yield, stopped at the stop sign, failed to observe the Tordai vehicle approaching and pulled into the intersection.

Kirk D. David, 31, of Flint, was ticketed by Tuscola deputies on charges of driving left of center and defective equipment following an 11:50 a.m. accident Sunday.

Officers said he was northbound on Kingston Road, south of Legg Road, and started to turn left and struck the side of a southbound vehicle driven by Francis E. VanHorn, 68, of 2356 Washington Street, Kingston.

A 16-year-old Cass City driver was ticketed by deputies on a charge of failure to yield after an 11 p.m. accident Tuesday, Oct. 11.

They reported he was northbound on Phillips Road and his car was struck in the right side by a westbound vehicle as he crossed M-46. The teenager told officers he didn't notice the other vehicle until he was in the center of the intersection.

The other driver involved, Kristine J. Dennis, 20, of Mayville, unsuccessfully tried to turn to the right to avoid a collision.

Deputies ticketed David W. Bock, 19, of 5675 E. Cass City Road, Cass City, on charges of driving in the wrong lane and improper license plates after a 2:43 p.m. accident Oct. 10.

Bock told officers there was play in his car's steering, which caused the vehicle to go in the opposite lane.

He was northbound on Schwegler Road, north of M-81, at the time and collided with the southbound auto of Thomas E. Holik, 21, of 7600 Reed Road, Cass City, who unsuccessfully tried to steer into the northbound lane to avoid a collision.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Deputies reported that at 6:15 p.m. Oct. 10, the vehicles of Nelson C. Willy, 59, Road, south of West Street, and John A. Warju, 20, of 5043 Severance Road, both Cass City, collided as they were southbound on Dodge Road, 2356 Washington Street, south of DeLong Road.

Officers said Warju was passing Willy when Willy turned because of some cattle in the road. The Willy vehicle hit the right front door of the Warju auto.

Cass City police reported that at 8:45 a.m. Oct. 11, Shelly L. Terbusch, 17, of 305 Cemetery Road, Deford, was backing up in the Hills and Dales lot and backed into the parked car of Jerry Kratz of 4274 Hurds Corner Road, Kingston.

At 1:15 p.m. Oct. 9, deputies said, a car driven by William J. Fisher, 43, of 6554 Gage Street, Gageton, hit a light pole in the parking lot of the Caro United Methodist Church on Gilford Road.

Edwin D. Nichol, 24, of 3653 N. Van Dyke Road, Decker, told deputies that he was eastbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, and missed a turn onto Colling Road. He attempted to back up and the trailer his truck was towing went into the south ditch.

The mishap occurred at 11:45 p.m. Friday.

CAR-DEER

Walter F. Howard Jr., 41, of 3569 Third Street, Owendale, was southbound on Cemetery Road, north of Merchant Road, at 6:45 a.m. Saturday when his car struck a deer.

Clifton G. Strickland, 55, of 4431 S. Seeger Street, was westbound on Bevens Road, east of Berry Road, at 6:45 a.m. Friday when his car collided with a deer.

At 7:30 a.m. last Wednesday, Brian D. Johnston, 24, of 4829 E. Sanilac Road, Kingston, was westbound on M-46, east of Plain Road, when his car struck a deer.

Sheriff's deputies investigated all three accidents.

Pedaling Around

A slice of life

By Mike Eliasohn

Thomas S. Monaghan probably wouldn't like me. Four of my five college years were spent in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, where his Domino's Pizza chain had its beginnings, and all that time, I don't think I ate more than one slice of his product.

The reason is simple. I don't like pizza.

So while I was trying to study in my dormitory room, I had to put up with such conversation in the background as, "Do you want to order a medium or large? With anchovies or without?"

Later, I had to put up with a greasy piece of cardboard occupying the wastebasket until someone would finally empty it.

Few persons had heard of Monaghan until last week, when it was announced he had purchased the Detroit Tigers for $43 million.

It's a true rags-to-riches story. He was raised in an orphanage and foster homes, worked his way through the University of Michigan and started the pizza business with his brother in 1960, when they borrowed $900 to buy a two-table pizza carryout in Ypsilanti.

Now there are almost 1,100 Domino's pizza stores, all but one of them in the U.S. (there is one in Canada), plus plans to expand in several countries. The firm had revenues of $128.7 million last year and net profits of $3.07 million or $1.83 a share. That's a lot of pizza.

One reason why I never cared for the stuff started with the one time a pizza was served in the Eliasohn household when I was a kid. I won't go into gory detail, but the results of eating it had an unpleasant effect on my digestive system. The other family members were fine. For the record, the pizza was a frozen one.

If I had one slice of pizza in college -- I don't remember -- it was to confirm that I didn't like the stuff.

The other reason I didn't buy pizza was financial. I always lived in dormitories in college (except for my one year at Lansing Community College) so all the meals were paid for in advance, and since they were paid for, I ate them. There

Hairdressers see styling demonstration

Thumb Hairdressers Affiliate No. 25 met recently, for a color show at Helen's Beauty Salon, Cass City.

Three technicians, representatives from the Roux Co., changed the appearance of three hairdressers, from "blah" to "ah."

The white elephant sale was a huge success. The group will hold another sale Nov. 14th that will include "velvet shoes" to "tea cozies."

Jan Wiefeldt, of Saginaw, a member of Michigan Hair Fashions, will show slides that create the total fashion look at the November meeting. She will do precision hair cuts for form, and perms for texture.

President Esther Fisher and husband were on a Caribbean cruise, so First Vice-president Gladys Montei of Caro presided.

WHIRLY VISIT -- A Coast Guard search and rescue helicopter from Selfridge Air National Guard Base, Mount Clemens, landed at the Cass City football field last Thursday. The visit was arranged by Karl Carter, Cass City Fuelgas manager, who used to be a crewman on Coast Guard helicopters.

DEMONSTRATION -- Petty Officer John DeNunzio demonstrated use of the two litters used in rescue missions to Cass City firemen and ambulance personnel. The pilot, Lt. Robert Wright, is at far left. One other crewman also came. Coast Guard helicopters based at Mount Clemens go on search and rescue missions over Lake Huron as far north as Au Sable and as far east as Lake Ontario.

Sales, earnings up at Walbro

Lambert E. Althaver, president and chief executive officer, Walbro Corp., reported consolidated net sales of $14,151,947 for the three-month period ended Sept. 30, up 27 percent from sales of $11,092,456 for the same period in 1982.

The company posted net earnings of $383,162 for the period, compared with earnings of $78,489 for the third quarter of 1982.

A three-for-two split of Walbro common stock occurred Aug. 31. At that time, one additional share of Walbro common stock was issued for each two shares of common stock standing in the name of each stockholder of record July 27.

As a result of this split, there are 1,168,143 shares of Walbro common stock now outstanding, compared with 778,820 shares outstanding prior to the split.

Earnings per share, restated to take into account the stock split described above, were 33 cents per share for the third quarter of 1983, compared with earnings of 7 cents for the third quarter of 1982. Per share earnings were calculated on 1,168,143 shares outstanding, in both cases.

For the first nine months of 1983, Walbro sales totaled $40,656,452, compared with $32,076,183 for the same period in 1982. The company reported earnings of $1,212,137 for the period, compared with a loss of $322,319 for the first nine months of 1982.

Per share earnings were $1.04 for the first nine months of 1983, compared with a loss of 28 cents for the same period in 1982, based on 1,168,143 shares outstanding.

In announcing the third quarter results, Althaver noted that sales of the company's electric fuel pumps were at record levels for the third quarter and for the first nine months of the year, due to continued strong demand in both the automotive original equipment and replacement markets.

"Demand for the company's small engine carburetors has remained below previous years' levels," he said, "but we anticipate an improving market for these products throughout the fourth quarter and into 1984."

Althaver also noted that shipments of automotive throttle bodies have been somewhat below planned levels in the third quarter, but are expected to rise toward the end of the fourth quarter and increase significantly in 1984.

"Shipments of components produced by Walbro's Plastics Group reached record levels in the third quarter, aided by the installation of new, computer-controlled injection molding equipment at that facility," he continued.

Sales of products manufactured by the company's diecasting subsidiary did not increase significantly during the third quarter, but an increase in sales levels is anticipated for this subsidiary during the fourth quarter of 1983.

Balwinski wins award

Vera M. Balwinski, a native of Cass City, was recently recognized for her work as a management analyst through receipt of the first Administrative Systems Manager of Excellence Award.

Mrs. Balwinski works for the U.S. Army in the publication field with the Adjutant General's Office in Alexandria, Va.

She and three other members of the Publications Improvement and Planning Office received the award for changes in the Army's publication system that will eventually save the government $25 million, reduce paperwork, simplify procedures and improve service to customers.

They wrote a new publication that explains the publication systems to its customers. This achievement was cited as their most important contribution. They also instituted an automatic distribution system and streamlined the operation in several other ways that helps make their area more effective and efficient.

The excellence award is given to those people who have made significant impact in their agencies, garnered tangible benefits through creativity and innovation and have developed systems applicable to other areas of the Army. This is the first year the award has been presented.

Mrs. Balwinski grew up in Cass City and graduated from Cass City High School. She moved to Virginia in 1960. Her father, Carl E. Wright, is a resident of Cass City.

HEALTH TIPS Don't use butter to treat burns

Burns are among the most painful emergencies. Treatment and likelihood of recovery vary with the degree of burn, according to Thomas Wright, Hurley Medical Center's administrative coordinator for trauma-emergency medical services, but knowing what to do for burns can help enhance the healing process.

"One of the most important things to remember is to never use greasy substances like butter to treat burns," he said. "That will only hold the heat in and spread the burn."

Instead, Wright recommends other treatment, depending on the type of burn.

First-degree burns are characterized by red skin, mild swelling and pain. Most sunburns are of this type, Wright said.

Treatment for first-degree burns involves cleansing the area with cool (not ice) water or applying cool, clean cloths. Sterile pads or clean cloths may be applied.

Second-degree burns exhibit a deep red or wrinkled appearance and often form blisters. There usually is considerable pain and swelling.

Wright advises patients not to break the blisters. Instead, patients should treat the burns with cool water (as for first-degree burns) and seek medical advice. Third-degree burns usually are painless because nerve endings have been damaged, Wright explained. The skin shows deep wounds that are deep red-to-white or charred in appearance.

"The most important initial treatment for third-degree burns is to remove all clothing—covering the burns, especially belts or other materials that retain heat," he said. "Then you can cover the wounds with sterile, non-stick pads or clean, lint-free cloths or sheets."

Those treating people with third-degree burns should never touch or cough over the wounds, Wright added. Medical help should be sought immediately.

Electrical burns are particularly dangerous because they can be misleading. "They may look like only a small area is involved, but usually deeper tissues are damaged and there may be changes in heart function."

Wright advises immediate medical attention for electrical burns.

SCHOOL INFORMATION

The 1982-83 audit shows an increase in the General Fund balance of $168,205. $98,000 of the $168,205 is obligated for payment of roofs and asphalt work contracted last year. The total General Fund balance on June 30th was $333,351 and included $90,540 in accounts receivable and $53,964 in inventory.

All debt retirement payments were made on schedule and those accounts retain sufficient balances to meet payment needs.

The school hot lunch program showed a profit during the past year of $9,427. A portion of this surplus is being used to pay for a fire extinguishing system in the kitchen and convection ovens. It is expected that the hot lunch program will operate in the black again this year.

Passage of the additional millage last year combined with the program cuts that were made enabled the Cass City Schools to operate on a balanced budget for the year. It was also possible to do some of the needed maintenance work and purchase replacement buses.

The financial condition of the district should remain sound during the 1983-84 fiscal year.

New books at the library

WINDS OF BLAME by Jane Gilmore Rushing (fiction). Love in its many forms is the catalyst in this remarkable novel, set in rural Texas in the summer of 1916. It is love that causes the citizens of Greenfields to cover up the murder of a man who "needed killing," and in the long run, to try to come between a young woman and an "outsider" she loves - an outsider who might learn the truth. Greenfields is a town in which moral values are strictly observed and this story of what happens when those values are turned inside out is tops.

OUR ENDANGERED CHILDREN by Vance Packard (non-fiction). Author Packard is perturbed about the low esteem with which children are held in today's society. His accusations run the gamut from high-tech birthing methods to high-rise living. While the system takes a share of the blame (especially schools' disciplinary failures and the prohibition of children from apartment buildings), parents are just as readily taken to task, especially working mothers and divorced couples. Children are all too aware of societal animosity and their status as "burdens" to working or separated parents, Packard claims, and they react negatively to these pressures.

LIVING TOGETHER by Robert C.S. Downs (fiction). Janice Norman and Charlie Parker, the sole survivors of a small plane crash in the Maine wilderness, must confront tremendous odds, both physical and emotional, if they are to survive and find their way back to civilization. They manage to surmount their initial physical injuries and make their way to a remote hunting cabin where they regain their strength. That accomplished, they find themselves drawn toward each other, despite personal commitments, and eventually must come to terms with new found love.

Cass Cityan tells of Soviet tour

American blue jeans popular with Russians

RUSSIAN HOSPITAL — This cardiology hospital in Yerevan, Armenia, was one of several hospitals visited by the American occupational therapists.

The Soviet Union appears to be a country where the emphasis is on not getting sick or injured and where hospitals aren't as well equipped as American ones to help those who are sick or injured.

It is also a country where a Russian citizen may literally offer to buy the shirt off your back — if you are an American — or the pants you are wearing.

Those are among the observations of Catherine McGuire of Kelly Road, Cass City, who returned home Oct. 4 after a two-week tour of the Soviet Union.

An occupational therapist at the Caro Regional Center, she went on a study tour sponsored by the American Occupational Therapy Association.

Most of the trip was devoted to sightseeing rather than to visiting hospitals. For Mrs. McGuire, it was an opportunity to see Russia cheap. Total cost was $1,500, which included airfare, hotels and meals.

The first stop for the 38 Americans was Moscow.

The only medical facilities they visited were hospitals and one thing they learned is Soviet hospitals specialize, at least those in large cities. There are separate hospitals, for instance, for cardiac (heart) patients and persons who have been in accidents.

"WE FOUND WHEN WE got there, they don't have occupational therapists," Mrs. McGuire said. "They have what we call 'methodists,' but they don't do all the things our occupational therapists do."

Occupational therapists work with persons who have had strokes, brain damage, are mentally retarded, etc., to help their function as best possible, such as teaching them how to feed or to dress themselves.

At the Regional Center, Mrs. McGuire works with the severely mentally retarded, teaching them as much as possible to take care of their own needs.

The occupational therapists visiting the Soviet Union didn't always see what they wanted. They only got to see one therapy department, and all they saw was the equipment. No 'methodists' or patients were there.

At another hospital, they asked to see the therapy department, but were told it was being remodeled, then were told it was "easier to show machines than people." The group was then shown laboratory equipment, an electrocardiogram machine, etc.

Mrs. McGuire wasn't always impressed with the equipment. Referring to what she saw at a large cardiac hospital, she commented, "I'm sure Hills and Dales has better equipment than that."

When the visitors asked about retarded persons, they were told the Soviets try to teach them work skills if they are capable of learning. If not, the retarded, as do the handicapped, are expected to live at home with their families.

MOST OF THE HOSPITAL visits lasted two hours and the guides were usually an administrator and doctors. The group never met a Russian therapist.

In addition to the hospital visits, in Moscow the group, plus another of American nurses, had a round-table discussion with two Russian doctors and a government representative. "That's where we got the most propaganda."

Included were explanations of the health care system (all costs paid by the government unless a person is injured because of his or her carelessness) and the pension system. The latter, Mrs. McGuire said, was word-for-word the same as the explanation in a guide book.

The occupational therapists were told that the Soviet medical system stresses prevention. For instance, they aim at trying to keep persons from having heart attacks, rather than put all the emphasis on treating those who have had them.

Doctors will know what a person does on a job and prescribe preventative measures to reduce the chances of stress on his heart. Workers who use machines that vibrate a lot will be given a massage every couple hours.

"It looks like their rehabilitation after something (happens) is less than we do here, but it looks like their prevention is more than we do here," Mrs. McGuire observed.

FROM MOSCOW, THE group flew to Tbilisi, Georgia, a trip of about 1,000 miles. Tbilisi is about 100 miles from the border with Turkey.

From Tbilisi, they went by bus to Yerevan, Armenia. The group next flew to Baku on the Caspian Sea, which was their shortest stop, 24 hours. The others were usually three days and two nights.

From Baku, the group flew almost 1,200 miles, to Kiev in the western part of the country.

Places visited in most of the cities, in addition to hospitals, included churches, monasteries, ancient ruins and art museums. They also saw circuses, ballets and operas.

In Kiev, the group visited a Russian Orthodox church and Jewish synagogue, which were the only churches they visited still being used for religious purposes. The rest were museums, where they viewed frescoes and icons.

In the Orthodox church, they saw many old women with grandchildren. In the synagogue, they saw many old men.

One member of the group who spoke a little Russian asked someone why they didn't see adults other than old ones in the churches. The answer given was that younger persons are afraid they will be repressed at work if it is known they go to church.

"Everything was carefully programmed," Mrs. McGuire said of the guided tour, "but if you went out on your own, you could talk to people." Few average citizens can speak English, however, so contact with them was minimal.

THE SIGHTSEEING WAS the best part of the trip for Mrs. McGuire. "That was really great."

One surprise for the Cass Cityan was that in contrast to the grayness and many poor persons she expected to see, she saw "good clothes, bright colors. The streets were clean. All the buildings you saw looked in good shape."

Although the clothes may have been good quality and colorful, apparently many Russians would like something else. It was common for Russian citizens to approach the Americans and offer to buy their clothes, especially blue jeans.

Blue jeans are available legally in the Soviet Union, including some imports, but they are expensive and supplies are limited. The imports sell for $100, whereas the average Russian only makes $284 a month, so buying from foreigners means getting a bargain.

The Russian government frowns on the practice, however, since giving money to foreigners means removing it from the shaky economy.

Despite the possibility of getting into trouble with the Soviet authorities, apparently some of the visiting occupational therapists yielded to temptation. "Nobody admitted to it," Mrs. McGuire said, "but we think several people emptied their suitcases."

TWELVE-IN-ONE — One of the souvenirs Catherine McGuire brought back from the Soviet Union was this series of 13 wood dolls. Each one fits inside the next largest one.

Arrests decrease in September

The end of summer vacations and leisure time resulted in a decrease in most categories of law breaking activity recorded by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department in September, compared to the month before.

Deputies made 70 arrests last month, 12 less than they made in August. Forty-five persons were arrested for traffic-related offenses, mainly drunk driving and six for family related offenses.

Officers issued 391 traffic tickets, down from 445 in August, including 153 tickets issued for speeding and 54 for defective equipment. There were 38 appearance tickets issued in September (26 in August), of which 29 were for transporting or possession of open intoxicants in motor vehicles.

Car-deer accidents total 1,085

There were 371 car-deer collisions in Huron County in 1982, according to the Department of Natural Resources, 368 in Sanilac County and 346 in Tuscola, for a total of 1,085.

There was a total of 19,614 such accidents in Michigan last year, which resulted in 1,049 persons being injured and one killed. The fatality took place in Delta County in the Upper Peninsula when a driver swerved to miss a deer, lost control and his car struck a tree. There were 18,814 deer killed.

The most car-deer collisions, 745, were in Kent County (Grand Rapids).

During this time of year, the DNR advises motorists to: "Be alert. Start watching for deer. Slow down, be prepared to stop straight ahead. Make sure seat belts and child restraints are fastened. Remember, deer move in numbers. Tooting the horn might help. Call state police or sheriff for assistance. On Michigan roads and highways, expect deer everywhere."

Cass City

WINNERS IN A 4-team meet in Cass City Tuesday, Oct. 11, were Renae Stimpfel and Greg Bliss. Both were alone in the lead when the racers were about three-quarters finished. Cass City won the boys' meet and finished second in the girls' competition.

Cross country teams appear in best form against top foes

With the Thumb meet Thursday and the regionals following Saturday, Oct. 29, Coach Doug Grezeszak feels that the cross country teams are rounding into top shape for the first time this season.

The reason for the coach's optimism is the rigorous training schedule that the teams have followed.

The training showed in one of the toughest meets of the year Tuesday, Oct. 11. Cass City boys won the 4-school competition and one of the victims was Essexville Garber, a top Class B school with a great performer in Kyle Rambo.

Rambo has won every meet with the exception of when he faces Greg Bliss and Tuesday was no exception. Bliss won in 16:25 with Rambo second, 16:44.

Randy Jackson was fifth in 17:23, his best showing of the year. Kevin Bliss, 17:35; Kurt Bliss, 17:48, and Mike Middaugh, 18:02, were others helping the team to the win.

The team results were: Cass City, 39; Garber, 51; Caro, 56; Marysville, 75.

Although Cass City's Renae Stimpfel, 20:19, was the winner and Chris Tuckey finished third, Marysville's depth pushed it to victory.

The team results: Marysville, 30; Cass City, 48; Essexville Garber, 52; Caro, 101.

Other Hawks figuring in the scoring were: Ruby Bryant, sixth; Lorie Hurley, 19th; Dana Zdrojewski, 21st.

REESE MEET

The Red Hawk boys and girls both won an invitational at Reese Saturday. In the boys' competition 11 teams were entered.

The results: Cass City, 57; Hemlock, 91; Marlette, 97; Sandusky, 102; USA, 120; Fennville, 123; Saginaw Sts. Peter and Paul, 133; Breckenridge, 214; Mayville, 216; Vassar, 309; Frankenmuth, 319.

Greg Bliss was first in 15:17. Other places for Cass City were: Kurt Bliss, 10th; Kevin Bliss, 11th; Randy Jackson, 16th; Randy Nicholas, 19th; Mike Middaugh, 20th.

In an extremely close race the girls edged Hemlock, the ninth rated class B school in the state. The team results: Cass City, 62; Hemlock, 65; Marlette, 75; Breckenridge, 77; Sandusky, 97; USA, 188; Frankenmuth, 199; Vassar, 208.

The race was won by Lisa Salyers of Sandusky in 18:37. Renae Stimpfel was second, 18:52. Other Cass City finishes were: Chris Tuckey, 5th; Ruby Bryant, 6th; Ann Leslie, 24th; Dana Zdrojewski, 25th; Lorie Hurley, 26th; Denise Anker, 39th.

Carolyn Tuckey and Denise Cooper medaled in the JV race. The course was 3 miles.

Turnovers ruin fine offensive effort for Hawks against Caro

When you don't have the ball it's hard to score and the Cass City Red Hawks found that out again Friday at Caro when they turned the ball over six times.

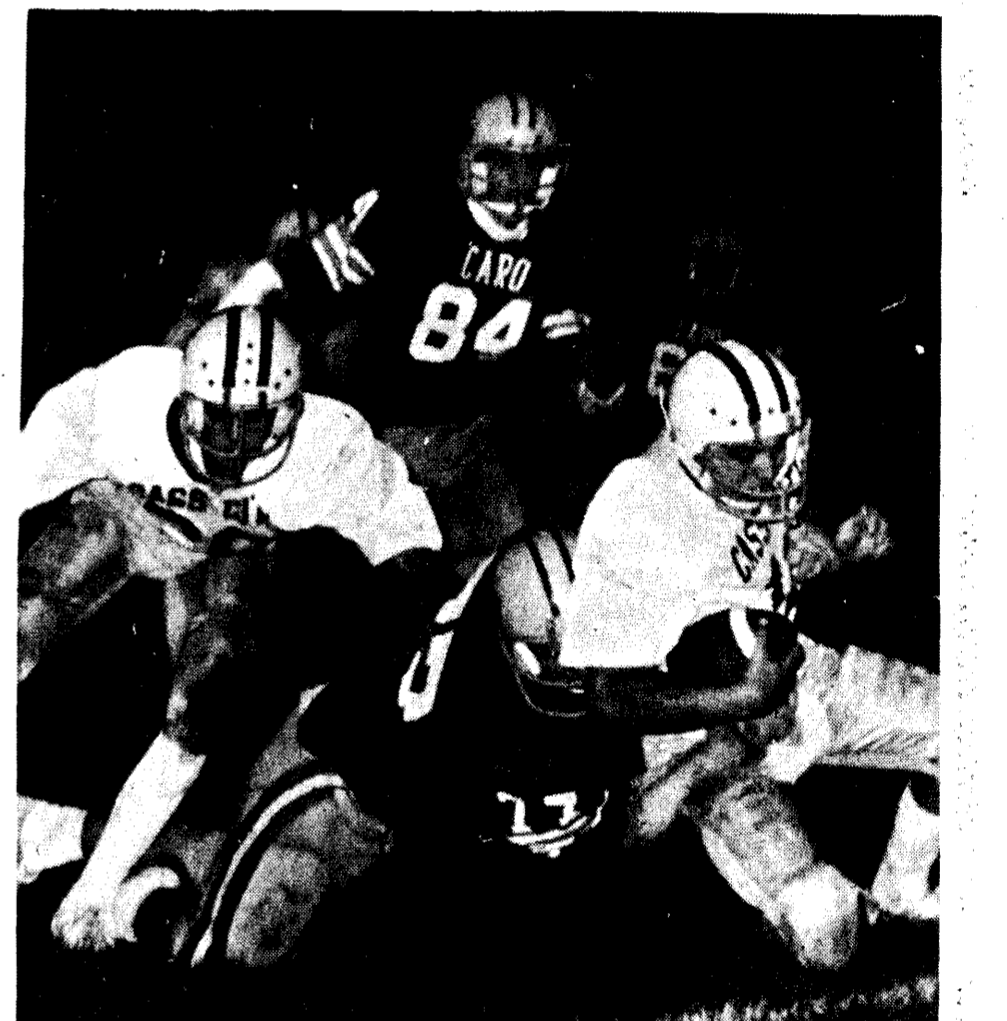

It has been the pattern all year for Cass City in a frustrating season. By not hanging on to the ball, Cass City dropped a 22-8 decision to Caro while playing surprisingly well against its tough Thumb B Association neighbor.

If the Hawks can cure the turnover problem chances are they will rack up a win over visiting Bad Axe Friday.

The Hatchets are in a down year and Cass City has shown the ability to score.

The Tigers marched down the field to score the first time they got the ball. With a first on the Cass City seven, Derik Smith carried three straight times, going over from the one.

Mike Caister scored the extra points on a run around end. That score came at 5:32. Caro scored again 3 1/2 minutes later. It was one of the turnovers that set up the scoring opportunity. A bad pass from center that sailed over punter Joe Viney's head gave Caro a first on the 12-yard line. From there Scott Sosne scored on a reverse and Cass City trailed, 14-0.

BRYAN BEECHER made a fine gain on this play in one of the series when the Hawks moved the ball well. Making the stop is Caro's Mike Green.

Hawks stage last period rally for first loop win

The Cass City Red Hawks got back on the winning trail with a Thumb B Association win, their first in the league this season, Tuesday, Oct. 11.

The team's first league winning game was an exciting one at Caro as Cass City won by a single point, 45-44.

The Hawks jumped out in front 16-12 in the first period only to slump in the second quarter when the Tigers outscored them, 14-3.

The Tigers looked as if they were going to be easy winners with a 36-25 lead at the end of the third quarter.

But the Hawks came bouncing back in the final eight minutes to salvage victory from almost sure defeat. The last minute was exciting. Cass City had forged in front by three points. Jill Hutchinson was on the line and missed the charity toss. Caro rebounded and came down to score.

Caro then pressed, but the Hawks got the ball to Hutchinson who was fouled. She made both ends of a one and one. Caro scored at the buzzer and the Hawks walked off with the victory.

Hutchinson with 16 points and Sherri Horner with 11 points led Cass City. Marcia DeLorenzo led Caro with 12 points.

The Tigers won the JV game, 50-24.

BAD AXE GAME

Thursday the visiting Bad Axe Hatchets had too much firepower for Cass City in a 59-43 decision.

Bad Axe jumped off to a 14-7 lead in the first quarter and never looked back.

At the end of three periods the Hatchets were in front 42-21 and Cass City's 22-17 last quarter advantage just made the score closer.

Hutchinson had a big game for Cass City with 23 points. Bad Axe had scoring balance with three players in double figures. Lori Johnson, 12, Julia Plevnia, 13, and Lauri Mazure, 11, were the top scorers. Cass City hit just 32 percent of its shots while Bad Axe converted 50 percent.

The Hawks' record is now 1-4 in the Thumb B and 3-8 overall.

Bulldog cagers lose 3 tilts

The Owen-Gage basketball team, still looking for its second win this season, lost at Caseville Tuesday evening, 60-34.

Top scorers for the Bulldogs were Linda Retford with 12 points and Sheila Engelhardt with 10. Sandy Johnson scored 18 points for the Eagles and Aileen Simet, 16.

Caseville won the junior varsity game, 34-26.

The Bulldogs' next game is Tuesday, Oct. 25, when they host North Huron.

PORT HOPE

Owen-Gage, still unable to score in double digits in more than one quarter, lost to the visiting Blue Stars last Thursday, 41-31.

The Bulldogs' best quarter was the last one, in which they scored 10 points. They matched Port Hope in points in that quarter and the second. The Blue Stars' best period was the first, when they opened a 14-6 lead over their opponents.

Top scorer for Owen-Gage was Shelly Ellicott with eight points. Sandra Gaffke led the Blue Stars with 15.

Port Hope won the junior varsity game, 25-18. Score by quarters:

PH	14	8	9	10	41
O-G	6	8	7	10	31

KINGSTON

The Cardinals won their first game of the season Tuesday, Oct. 11, at the expense of visiting Owen-Gage, 41-35.

Kingston trailed by six points at the end of the first quarter but by halftime was ahead by one.

Linda Retford led the Bulldogs with 13 points. Kim Bastian was top scorer for Kingston with 15.

The result means Owen-Gage and Kingston are tied for the basement of the North Central Thumb D League, both with 1-7 records.

The Cardinals also won the junior varsity game, 28-17.

Score by quarters:

O-G	12	9	6	8	35

OWEN-GAGE'S TROUBLES Friday night were illustrated when a Reid Goslin pass in the second half was intercepted by Akron-Fairgrove's Jim Streeter. The pass was intended for Gary Erickson, who tackled Streeter.

Offense falters, A-F hands Bulldogs second shutout

Owen-Gage was shut out for the second time this season as it lost last Friday to visiting Akron-Fairgrove, 26-0.

The Bulldogs, who drop to 2-3 in the North Central Thumb D League and 3-3 overall, play Saturday afternoon at Peck. Game time is 1:30. "We have to improve on our offensive line blocking as well as blocking from our backfield or we're going to be in trouble," Bulldog coach Arnie Besonen said of the upcoming clash.

"Our defense has been playing most of the game and you can't win if the offense isn't scoring and controlling the ball." That was part of the Bulldogs' problem Friday night against the Vikings, whom Besonen called "the best team in the league... They are well balanced and can pass as well as run."

"We made several costly mistakes and turnovers that led to their scores," and was also a factor in the Bulldogs' inability to score, according to the coach.

"First and goal at the eight-yard line and penalties stopped us," he cited as his team's greatest lost opportunity. That was in the second quarter and came after an Akron-Fairgrove player bobbled catching an Owen-Gage punt, which was then recovered by the Bulldogs at the Viking eight.

Akron-Fairgrove's first touchdown came with 12 seconds left in the first quarter on a 22-yard pass from Rob Goodchild to Marc Laceski. Ramon Ruiz carried the ball in for two more points.

In the second quarter, the Vikings blocked an Owen-Gage punt at the Bulldog seven-yard line. The Owen-Gage defense held for three downs, but on the fourth, Tom Linabury scored from one yard out with 1:22 remaining on the clock. Matt Ricker intercepted Goodchild's pass attempt for two more points.

With only five seconds left in the half, the visitors scored again, on a 27-yard pass from Goodchild to Mark Broadworth. The extra point try was no good, which made the halftime score, 20-0.

The final TD of the game came on a 75-yard run by Ruiz in the third quarter. Goodchild's pass attempt for a two-point conversion was incomplete.

The Viking offense made 12 first downs, gained 220 yards on the ground in 41 carries and 108 in the air, with Goodchild completing

Arrest pair for driving, drinking

Cass City police arrested two men early Saturday on charges of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor.

Daniel A. Colby, 22, of Sandusky or Rockford, was taken into custody at 1:55 a.m. after his car was stopped on Seeger Street, near Rose Street.

Daniel T. Smith, 19, of 2180 Bulgreen Road, Snover, was arrested at 2:35 a.m. after his car was stopped on Ale Street.

Both men were released from the county jail in Caro later that day after posting $100 bond. Both are scheduled to be arraigned this coming Monday in Tuscola County District Court.

Clara Eberts of 6162 Cedar Drive, Cass City, reported to sheriff's deputies last Wednesday morning that five gallons of gasoline were siphoned from her car during the night, plus her gas cap was missing.

Theft of a stereo system from a home on Cedar Run Road, Cass City, was reported to deputies Sunday, but no further information was available by Tuesday.

O-G dilemma

Football-golf schedule conflict forces 3 players to choose between sports

Most coaches only have to worry about winning and losing.

Owen-Gage golf coach Harvey Billy, whose team will play Saturday in the state Class D tournament at Concord Hills Golf Club, Concord, near Jackson, doesn't know who will be playing.

The Bulldogs qualified for it by outshooting four teams in the regionals Friday at Verona Hills Golf Club near Bad Axe. Joe Lopez carded a 95 for the 18 holes, followed by John Patnaude, 100, Rick Salcido, 107, Gary Erickson, 114, and Scott Wright, 119.

Their total of 416 during the cold, windy day bettered Dryden, 421; Caseville, 430; Mount Clemens Cardinal Mooney, 433, and Port Hope, 457.

Low medalist was Pat Murphy of Port Hope with a 91, who also qualified for the state tournament.

Billy's problem is that three of his five golfers, all except Patnaude and Salcido also play football. Lopez, Erickson and Wright played Friday night against Akron-Fairgrove and are scheduled to play Saturday afternoon when the Bulldogs journey to Peck -- the same day as the state golf tourney.

Monday, Billy was hoping to persuade football coach Arnie Besonen to spare one of the football player-golfers (probably Lopez) to take to Concord along with Patnaude and Salcido and two substitutes.

There was one other problem. Billy didn't know yet whether the Michigan High School Athletic Association will allow him to use substitutes.

Owen-Gage finished 3-3 during the regular season. Prior to the regional match, Billy wasn't concerned about there being a conflict between the state tournament and the Peck football game. "I never thought we'd win it."

Barcia's aide gets runaround

Dear Editor,
The official who has authority to make arrangement where a senator or representative or their aides are to meet with constituents needs to hang their head.

When State Sen. James Barcia's aide Sal Krygier called in advance to make arrangements in Cass City, it was set up for him to be at the Municipal Building Friday, Oct. 14, from 2-3 p.m. Needless to say, several people were looking for him there. They were informed he would be at the Cultural Center.

We don't think this is very fair after arrangements were made and publicized to the effect he would be at one place, then they change it for him and, of course, no one else knows it has been changed.

Shame, shame. The other time he was in town, no one showed up to unlock the door for him at the Cultural Center, so he sat in his car in 90 degree weather. I ask, is this any way to treat our people who help to represent us?

We apologized to him for these actions. We certainly hope the people who set up meetings in the future can get things together.

Interested persons,
Louis and Grace Nemeth
Main Street
Cass City

Editor's note: According to Village Clerk Joyce LaRoche, the reservation was made for Barcia's aide's visit.

The news release received by the Chronicle said the aide would be at the Municipal Building.

Mrs. LaRoche said only one person showed up at the Municipal Building wanting to see Krygier.

Vehicle fire damage called minor

Elkland Township firemen were called to the Dick Wright home on Severance Road, east of Cemetery, at 7:05 p.m. last Wednesday to extinguish a car fire.

Firemen said Wright had just parked the car and when he looked back, saw smoke.

The fire was out by the time they arrived. Firemen said the fire apparently burned through the radiator hose and when Wright tried to restart his car, the water spilled out, extinguishing the fire.

Apparent cause of the fire was gasoline spilling out of the carburetor. Damage to the car was estimated at a "couple of hundred dollars."

The real name of James McNeill Whistler's painting of his mother is "Arrangement in Grey and Black."

Committee's report didn't 'lash out'

To the Editor,
The object of the final Citizens Advisory Committee survey was to draw out the feelings of the community and act as an effort to show that working together can make a difference—not to show statistics. We have had two statistical reports this past year.

There was no "lashing out" in this report. The 20 suggestions are designed to improve student, parent, and teacher performance and to encourage communications and problem solving.

Two of the most common feelings expressed were the "administration won't listen" and "the board doesn't care."

We have had complete administrative cooperation and school board acceptance of our efforts. Donald Schelke has been faithful in representing the teachers. Fred Matthews, Terri Groombridge, my wife Dee and I cannot represent the entire community.

The committee was formed to give the school board a means to monitor community feelings. Because of lack of citizen participation the Citizens Advisory Committee is on hold.

There is a copy of the entire report at Rawson Memorial Library for anyone wishing to have a copy made.

Thank you,

Raymond J. Garety

Bargaining continues as union pickets district

 Intermediate Education Association President Wendy Rummel, who called the board's negotiators "callous."
 She claimed in the prepared statement she read that, "No one will get serious until the very future of our fine program is at the greatest kind of risk."
 Most of those who spoke were strikers, Dunn said. After the comments were heard, the board spent two hours in executive session to discuss negotiations. After it ended, board members announced there would be a bargaining session Tuesday, which had been previously scheduled, and another session this Wednesday afternoon with the board to meet this Wednesday evening starting at 7:30 to discuss the status of negotiations.

 By prior arrangement, there were only four persons at the Tuesday afternoon session -- TISD Supt. Bruce Dunn and Assistant Superintendent for Business and Finance Jerome Thiemes, Lee Longfield of the Michigan Education Association and TIEA bargaining team member Kathy Kurtis.

 Jim Hobson of the MEA said Longfield and Kurtis presented some TIEA proposals on a "variety of issues," mostly dealing with contract language, although some had "economic implications."

 Dunn said what was done was to review the proposals both sides had previously presented on which agreement has not yet been reached.
 By 11:30 this Wednesday morning, both sides were to have presented their responses concerning those proposals, in order for them to be prepared for the afternoon bargaining session, which began at 1. The full bargaining teams were to be present for the afternoon session.

Work camp work starts

Work began Tuesday on the long-delayed Michigan Department of Corrections prison work camp on the Caro Regional Center grounds southwest of Caro.
 Construction is slated to take 13 months, with the camp for 80 inmates to open shortly thereafter.
 Gregory Construction Co. of Bay City is the contractor for the $1.74 million project. Most of the work involves renovating the long-closed Cottage 4 at Chambers and Washburn Roads, which will be used to house the residents, plus dining and recreation facilities.
 The corrections department has said the camp will be for inmates within four years of their parole dates who are classified as "low risk" or "next to low risk." Most will work at various public facilities, such as parks, game areas and roads.
 There are expected to be 11 employees at the camp. The originally scheduled opening date for the camp was fall of 1980, but construction was often delayed, primarily because the state didn't have the money.

Prolific for seafood

Each year, the nation's largest estuary, the 4,400 square mile Chesapeake Bay, yields an average of 125 pounds of seafood per acre to sport and commercial fishermen, including 90 percent of the country's soft-shell crabs, according to the National Wildlife Federation.
 The Chesapeake is also the dumping ground for 400 million gallons of municipal sewage every day.

By Bill Myers

Taking stock

After all the hoopla this year that Social Security benefits had been saved, and we watched love-feast hosted by Claude Pepper with Tip O'Neill and President Reagan as the honored guests...now that the party's over, and everyone has sobered up...
 It was a well-staged political caper, and it got the Republicans and Democrats alike off the hook. It stalled until after the '84 elections, maybe until after the '86 off-year voting, the necessity to face up to the facts of life.
 Research by Prof. Peter Drucker of the Claremont Graduate school says the next crisis will be in 1987, perhaps as soon as '86.
 "With a labor force of 105 million, there are 30 million drawing Social Security. There are thus only 3 1/2 workers to support each retiree. The ratio will drop to 2 1/2 to one by 1990."
 When the whole thing was started 50 years ago, there were 11 workers supporting each retiree. On that basis the system could have stayed solvent.
 Three things happened since:
 1. The average age of 55 has soared to over 70. When a person went on Social Security two generations ago, he could look ahead to five years of drawing benefits. Now a man at 65 can expect 15 more years on earth.
 2. As a result of longer life expectancy, and also changing birth rates, the percentage of persons over 65 is twice what it used to be.
 3. Starting with the Kennedy administration, Congress has raised Social Security pay-outs twice as fast as it has raised contributions.
 Add all these up and you have more older people drawing balloon-size benefits, supported by a shrinking number of workers paying into the system. A triple-whammy.

 Prof. Drucker suggests an immediate remedy — push up the retirement age by one year, every year for the next five years. Thus, in 1984, retirement age would be 66, and by 1988 it would be 70.
 That's strong medicine. Can't you see Claude Pepper having apoplexy in living color before the news cameras? Can't you imagine Senator Kennedy posing with crocodile tears streaming down his cheeks...and the AARP paid lobbyist grinding out a mimeograph press release that its millions of members automatically and unanimously oppose the idea?
 A change that could be done with somewhat less pain would be to remove the big penalties now in force if a man works past 65.
 Now that people are living longer, they are also quite able to work longer, and a lot of them would prefer to.

 But as it is, they lose 50 cents of Social Security for every dollar they earn over a modest $7,000 a year. These people and their employers also pay 11 cents on every dollar of wages earned. And finally, they pay full income tax. It all adds up to as much as 75 percent of their wages.
 Let Social Security taxes end for both employer and employee at age 65. Let there be no penalty for continuing to work.
 The government would still come out ahead in income it collected, and a whole lot of people could continue in productive work, rather than sitting around the house.
 The country would be better off in not penalizing people who want to work. After all, wealth results only from people producing things.
 Under the present set-up, people who want to work so in large numbers, but they work "underground," where they're paid in cash, because they can't afford all the penalties involved in obeying the rules.
