Robbery suspect in jail

Ronald L. Richards, 30, of 3837 N. Phillips Road, Cass City, remained in the county jail Tuesday afternoon, charged with armed robbery in connection with the Friday afternoon hold-up of the east Caro branch of Peoples State Bank.

The bank was robbed by a lone gunman, who ordered money to be put in a cloth bag.

He is being held in lieu of $50,000 bond. Richards was arraigned Monday by District Judge Richard F. Kern, who scheduled preliminary examination Friday and preliminary examination next week Tuesday.

Richards was arrested by Deputy Paul Strasz about 40 minutes after the 12:30 p.m. robbery, after the officer stopped his car on Dodge Road, a short distance north of Deckerville.

There was $17,516 taken in the robbery, according to Strasz, of which all but $5, used for buying gas, was found in the bag in the trunk of the stopped car. A handgun was found under the spare tire.

The officer said he was in Cass City when he was notified of the holdup. He drove to the bank, talked to the sheriff's department detectives there, and was told it was believed the suspect had driven east.

Strasz, who had a description of the getaway car, drove east on M-81 and then on Deckerville Road.

As he passed Hurds Corner Road, he said, he saw the suspect vehicle stopped at the stop sign on Hurds Corner Road.

The suspect turned right, so Strasz stopped and let the car go by. The officer followed the car three miles until the driver turned north on Dodge, where he

Heating costs constant, except for electricity

By Mike Eliasohn

If the snow that fell Monday and Tuesday is any indication, it is going to be a long winter.

And one doesn't need a meteorologist to predict that chances are this winter won't be as mild as the last one.

The good news for homeowners and owners of other buildings is that the cost of keeping warm will be about the same as last year for those using natural gas, bottled gas or firewood. Users of fuel oil will be paying less than a year ago.

The one exception is those who heat their homes electrically, who will be paying more.

Although per unit costs may be the same or less, a severe winter, of course, could mean paying more overall than last winter. No shortages of any type of heating fuel are expected.

Because of the difficulty involved, no effort was made to determine which type of fuel is the cheapest to use.

FUEL OIL

A year ago, two area dealers were quoting prices of $1.12 or $1.14.9 for No. 2 grade fuel oil (plus tax) and $1.17 or $1.21.9 for No. 1. Those prices were from 2-6 cents less than at the end of 1981.

The price has fallen even further. The prices quoted last week were 99.1 or 99.9 cents per gallon for No. 2 and $1.05 or $1.06 for No. 1 grade.

What will happen to the price this winter? "I don't think it's going to go up much, if it goes up any," commented Cass City Oil and Gas owner Duane Chippi.

"I don't look for it to increase any," said Mo Winchester, manager of Gagetown Oil and Gas, who thought the price might even decline a couple of cents per gallon.

Both dealers say the loss of customers who switched to other types of heating fuel because it was cheaper is ending, and they are gaining some back.

Winchester said some industrial customers who can burn either oil or gas have switched back to oil because it's now cheaper. Chippi said one big account switched back to his product.

BOTTLED GAS

Prices cited a year ago for liquified petroleum gas were 85 or 86 cents a gallon. One area dealer is currently charging 86.6 cents; the other, from 76-93 cents depending on the size of the customer's tank (the larger the tank, the fewer deliveries needed, so the less the cost per gallon).

Asked what she thought will happen to the price, Belva Schott, Petrolane Gas Service manager in Gagetown, responded, "I really don't know." The price usually goes up some in winter, she added, but she hasn't heard of that happening this winter.

"I haven't heard anything yet what the price will do," said Karl R. Carter, Cass City Fuelgas manager. "I would hope it's going to hold even."

NATURAL GAS

A typical Southeastern Michigan Gas Co. home customer this winter, based on a normal winter and use of conservation measures, will pay an average of $102 a month for November through March.

That compares to the average bill for those same months last winter of $99 a month, according to Jan Mitchell, Southeastern public relations representative.

Rates were reduced 12.3 percent this past June, she said, due to a decrease charged by the pipeline suppliers, ordered by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

The reason the average bill is expected to be higher this winter, Ms. Mitchell explained, is because it is anticipated this winter will be "normal," as opposed to last winter when it was warmer than normal. It is predicted consumption will increase 5 percent this year.

Southeastern does have a rate increase request pending before the Michigan Public Service Commission, she said, to cover increases in operating costs, not gas costs. She termed the requested increase "very small."

Blastoff a thrill for astronaut's parents

How does it feel when your son is about to be blasted 155 miles into space at a speed of several thousand miles per hour?

"I wasn't so nervous, but she was," said Brewster (Bruce) Shaw.

"I was not," responded Leone Shaw. "I was excited. I yelled when the shuttle took off. I gave a great big cheer."

As seemingly the whole world knows, or at least, most Michiganians, their son, Brewster Shaw Jr., is a pilot on the Columbia space shuttle that was launched from Cape Canaveral Nov. 28. He is one of a crew of six.

It is scheduled to land this Thursday morning at Edwards Air Force Base in California. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, who returned home last Thursday, won't be in California for the landing. Although space flights are attracting less attention nationally — the present flight of the Columbia is the ninth shuttle mission — because of Shaw being on it and perhaps because he is from a small town, actually from outside of one, there was a lot of interest by the media in Michigan.

Prior to the flight, Mr. and Mrs. Shaw were interviewed by reporters from four television stations, at least five newspapers and a researcher for Paul Harvey's radio program. The crew from Channel 4 in Detroit arrived by helicopter, landing in a field across from their Pringle Road, Cass City, home.

Mrs. Shaw insists she wasn't surprised by all the interest in her son and his parents. "If he had been a cook on a train, I would have been surprised," she said.

The Shaws flew to Florida Saturday, Nov. 26, to see the launch. In addition to the excitement surrounding the launch, it was a rare opportunity for them to be together with all their children and grandchildren — except for Brewster.

Present were the astronaut's wife, Kathleen, and their three children; Brewster III, Jessica and Brandon, and his three sisters and their families, Peggy and Joseph Mayo of Grosse Pointe Farms and their three children; Mary and Eugene Moore and their three sons from Oxford, and Susan McGrath and her son from Northville.

There was also a large contingent of Cass Cityans and ex-Cass Cityans there. (See sidebar story.)

THERE WERE THREE special activities for families and friends in Florida.

The first, Sunday afternoon, was a cocktail party put on by Kathleen Shaw and Judy Parker, the wife of astronaut Robert Parker, who is also on the flight.

It was held in the officers' club at Patrick Air Force Base, Cocoa Beach.

Sunday evening, the day before the launch, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration provided buses to take the families and friends of all six astronauts to within a half to quarter mile of the launch site. They couldn't see much of the Columbia, however, because the service module was in front of it. About all that was visible was the nose.

There was a guide on each bus. The Shaw entourage had a bus to themselves.

Launch day, the NASA buses took everyone to a viewing site five miles from the launch site. There was a separate set of bleachers

"It was fun....It was really exciting when that thing blasted off."

Leone Shaw

for each astronaut's family and friends.

"I'll bet you saw more (on television) than we did," Shaw said of the distance of the viewing site from the launch site.

There was a practical reason for being so far away, which was still close enough to clearly see the launch. "It was loud," the Shaws said.

"It was fun," according to Mrs. Shaw. "It was really exciting when that thing blasted off."

There haven't been many opportunities the last couple of years to see their son. Once he is back and any work in connection with the flight is over, Mrs. Shaw said, "We're hoping he'll have a little more freedom to plan things with the family."

They, and presumably Brewster Jr., don't know when he will be going into space again. In Florida, Brewster Sr. was given a schedule which lists the shuttle flights and crews through March 29, 1985, and his son isn't on any of them.

THE DAY AFTER their return, Shaw was operating a corn picker. At age 79, he still farms his 160 acres, growing feed for his hogs. He breeds and then

'84 looks good for livestock, but not for cash crops

The new federal dairy program, intended to reduce milk production, probably won't work.

Cattle and hog producers shouldn't worry about the market being flooded with dairy cows being sent to slaughter because of the dairy program.

Cash crop prices next year will probably be less than this year, unless weather intervenes.

Those were among the predictions of Dr. John F. Marten, staff economist of "Farm Journal" magazine, who spoke to about 200 persons last Thursday at the Colony House on M-53, Cass City.

The program was sponsored by the Federal Land Bank Association of Caro and Lapeer and the Production Credit Association of Sandusky. Marten spoke before and after lunch.

He started by talking about the dairy bill recently signed into law by President Reagan, which will pay dairymen for producing less milk.

Livestock producers are worried that dairy farmers will send huge numbers of cows to slaughter, in order to reduce production, which will drive down the price for cattle and hogs.

Don't worry, Marten advised. "Realistically, we aren't going to send all our cows through the golden arches, are we?"

Of the nation's dairy herd of 11 million cows, he expects maybe 500,000 will be prematurely slaughtered during the 15 months of the program.

That might result in reducing milk production by 4 percent, he said, so rather than 10 percent overproduction, there will only be 6 percent overproduction.

"Ninety percent of dairy farmers aren't going into this program," he predicted. "The economic reality for many dairymen is you can't go into this program. It's going to hurt (them financially)."

Marten expects many farmers who reduce their herd size will sell cows to a buyer, who will turn around and sell them to someone else. Other participants, to reduce production during the short length of the program might buy pigs and feed them a ration including milk to get rid of their overproduction.

The only dairymen who might benefit from the program, said the former fertilizer salesman, will be those with herds the same size or a little smaller than a year ago, those who are short of feed, especially those buying it, those with a lot of poor quality cows or ones needing cash.

MARTEN EXPECTS there will be a smaller pig crop next year due to corn prices and this year's drought. As a result, he expects hog prices will be in the $52-57 range by July or August of next year, up from the $39 range now.

Although 1984 looks promising for hog and cattle producers, it doesn't for cash crop farmers, according to Marten, who owns more than 1,000 acres of cropland in Illinois and Indiana.

"Almost no one is going into the wheat PIK program," which is the only payment-in-kind program next year. The former cor-

"If It Fitz..." From hero to heavy

By Jim Fitzgerald

In 1967, after the nation received a stupid sermon about war protesters from J. Edgar Hoover, I wrote: "If he hasn't anything better to do, Hoover should read that portion of the Warren Report which states clearly what a lousy job the FBI did in protecting John Kennedy from Lee Harvey Oswald. He might also prepare a message explaining why every cop in the country knows there is a nationwide crime syndicate (Mafia) but the FBI never does anything about it."

In 1970, after reading a Life magazine article describing the FBI in action, I wrote: "Law enforcement has made great strides in this country since the vulgar old days when G-men gunned down George Raft. There may even be some truth to the gossip that J. Edgar Hoover is now doing Pat Nixon's hair."

In 1975, through the Freedom of Information Act, I learned the FBI investigated me for writing all of the above plus other equally uninspired words critical of J. Edgar and his merry band of dark suits. For $33 I obtained a copy of my FBI file which revealed that I was a country newspaper editor with a limited audience that paid no attention to my radical ravings. The reason for rehashing my old troubles with the FBI is NBC-TV's recent mini-series, "Kennedy," which depicted J. Edgar Hoover as a bigoted, blackmailing, window-peeping creep. As portrayed in foreboding shadows by actor Vincent Gardenia, Hoover came across as Adolf Hitler's evil stepbrother.

It is amazing what a difference 16 years can make. For over 40 years, Hoover was one of this nation's greatest heroes. According to the news media, movies and radio and TV shows, he could do no wrong. In 1967, it wasn't at all surprising that the FBI was alerted when I dared to throw a dinky dart at its sacrosanct director.

At that time, my righteously indignant objection was merely that Hoover regularly spent taxpayers' money to bombard the country with reprints and broadcasts of his stuffy tirades against such dangerous criminals as apple-pie haters and Vietnam war protesters.

"I think it is splendid that J. Edgar Hoover has such high-flown opinions on all controversial issues. It is also OK if he wants to tell the world that his mother brought him up right. But, by God, he should buy his own postage stamps." I wrote, speaking of stuffy tirades.

The aforementioned Life article included photos of an FBI agent helping Martha Mitchell, wife of the then U.S. attorney general, solve a crucial problem of state. Martha needed a dress ironed, and an unidentified FBI man did the job for her.

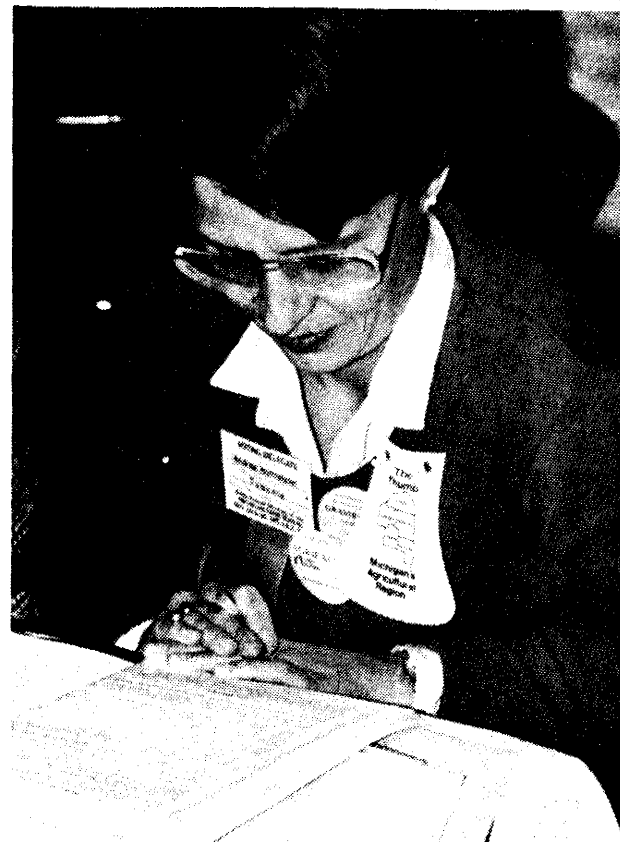

"The FBI is made up of selfless men who want no personal glory for their marvelous achievements. They want only to protect you taxpayers, you people who pay their salaries, from wrinkled dresses," I wrote. "If an ordinary, glory-mad maid had been pictured ironing that dress, she would probably have demanded that Life print her name. But there was no maid around that day. She was probably out fighting the Mafia. Somebody has to."

That was the type of wimpy criticism that got a writer investigated by the FBI in 1970. Things began to change a few years later, after Hoover's death, when his successor, L. Patrick Gray, admitted under oath that he lied to aid the Watergate cover-up.

"I was warm and hot all over, almost like a woman in menopause, because I had told a lie," Gray said. So I wrote: "The explosion you heard was J. Edgar Hoover cracking through his gravestone headfirst. He devoted his life to fighting the Red Menace and earning respect for the FBI, and now he is betrayed by a replacement who forgot to take his estrogen pills."

Now, on national TV, Hoover has been pictured with clay feet up to his eyebrows. And there will be no FBI investigation.

Onward and Upward. The next director of the FBI may be Rodney Dangerfield.

CONVENTION -- Andrea Hofmeister of Gagetown was a voting delegate from Tuscola County at the Michigan Farm Bureau annual meeting Nov. 29-Dec. 2 in Grand Rapids.

Laurie farm group v.p.

Jack Laurie of Dodge Road, Cass City, was reelected vice-president of the Michigan Farm Bureau during the reorganization Friday of the organization's 16-member board of directors.

Laurie, a dairy farmer, is starting his eighth year as vice-president.

Reelected president was Elton R. Smith of Caledonia in Kent County, a dairy farmer, who has headed the state's largest farm organization since 1964.

Faye Adam of Snover was reelected to represent Farm Bureau Women on the board.

Newly elected was Wayne Wood of Marlette, who will be a director-at-large.

The reorganizational meeting came after the Farm Bureau's annual meeting ended in Grand Rapids.

The Haire Net

It probably was good that enough valid signatures weren't found a couple of years ago to get the recall effort for the Cass City School Board on the ballot.

The way it's going, the single issue voters in the district would have prevailed. That's the general drift of what's happening in Macomb county and Pontiac and suburbs.

The state's legislative system is now in a mess and the 25 percent or less of the voters who make it to the polls in recall elections dominate the system.

What makes it especially frustrating is that these voters are against taxation, but offer nothing to take its place.

It's like it was in the Cass City district. Recall advocates say cut spending to balance the books.

They never say how spending can be cut or where.

It's sure that if the cuts in programs affected any of them individually they'd be up in arms.

Up in arms just like the voters here were when bus service was cut. Bus riders wanted non-riders to take the cuts. Non-riders wanted cuts in curriculum restored. And so it goes.

Recall advocates say that if the men elected to serve aren't representative throw them out. That's fine except only about 25 percent of the voters decide whether or not the representative has been responsive to the electorate.

The majority just don't give a damn and never make it to the polls. It's hard enough getting over half of them there in a regular election, let alone a one-issue recall.

It's hard to be for a raise in taxes. Nobody wants that. The best that can be hoped for is that it is accepted as necessary. That isn't much of a motivation to get anyone to the polls.

Politically, in the short run it's best not to raise taxes. President Reagan's popularity is leaping because the economy is improving and things are looking better.

A couple of years down the road his own financial advisor and experts generally say that his deficit spending is going to lead to massive inflation and high interest rates.

By that time the election will be over and the fallout won't hit the president where it hurts.

It will be the average guy that suffers then from what we are doing now just like

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

It's bound to happen this season. Either Scott Hurford or John Meininger will get a slam dunk sometime during the year.

Hope it happens at home for the enjoyment of the home town fans. Dunks are fun. We haven't seen one since Jesse Groth was a senior.

He did it at home and electrified the crowd.

Another crowd pleaser for cage fans is the blocked shot. Hurford did that a couple of times in the opening game. Great stuff.

It proved impossible to work out the details for a picture this week of the weekly winner of the week end for two at Valley Plaza in Midland, sponsored by the Cass City Retail Committee.

The prize was awarded and the winners are Herb and Kay Rutkoski.

We don't know how much the state received for the oil leases it let for bids Monday, but it's sure that it will be much less than it would have been a couple of years ago when oil mania in the area was at its peak. Oil leases were going for $35 an acre or more then.

A few dry holes dampened that ardor and leases go for a fraction of what they did during the boom.

Joslyn to 7½-20 years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson for criminal sexual conduct (first degree). A jury found him guilty of the charge Oct. 31, which involved a girl under 13 years of age April 22 in Fremont Township.

Joslyn granted a motion to allow Kronz, of 5390 Mertz Road, Mayville, to be free on bond pending appeal. Bond was set at $100,000 cash or surety.

Sentencing was delayed one year for James E. Brown, 19, of 1078 E. Caro Road, Caro, who pleaded guilty Oct. 17 to larceny in a building, to stealing money and firearms Nov. 16, 1982, from a Caro restaurant.

Ricky J. Rolland, 17, of 9781 Lewis Road, Millington, was sentenced to six months in the county jail for larceny in a building, to stealing food from an Arbela Township home Sept. 23. He was credited with two days served.

CHIMNEY FIRE -- Elkland Township fireman Gary Diebel moves the stovepipe after the fire at the home of Clemens R. Koepf was put out last Thursday night. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

Chimney fire loss estimated at $3,000

Damage was estimated at $3,000 by Elkland Township firemen who extinguished a fire last Thursday night in a home south-west of Cass City.

The home on Severance Road, west of Phillips Road, is owned by Harold Simmons and occupied by Clemens R. Koepf.

Cause of the fire, firemen said, was an overheated wood burning stove in the kitchen and cressote in the stovepipe.

The fire started around where the pipe entered the ceiling. It damaged the ceiling, plus there was minor damage to the walls.

The fire was reported at 11:15 p.m. Firemen returned to the fire hall about 12:30 a.m.

Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. issued a reminder that under a policy enacted by the Elkland Township Board in October, 1982, the fire department will charge $250 for each chimney fire it extinguishes in homes where it previously extinguished such a fire.

The aim is to encourage homeowners to keep their chimneys cleaned and maintained.

There is no charge for the first such fire or for any other fires.

Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. said the fire was in the chimney between the living room and kitchen, which serves a wood burning heater in the living room.

The chimney was cleaned this fall, Root said, but a capped outlet in the kitchen was missed and that's where the fire was burning. Firemen cleaned out a bucket of soot from there.

There was no damage. The home is owned by Lawrence Moore.

Pedaling Around

Achieving goals

By Mike Eliasohn

From the standpoint of an observer, I think the nicest thing about Brewster Shaw Jr.'s space flight is that he had a definite goal in life and he achieved it.

Most persons have certain goals in their life, and it's too bad when some don't achieve it.

Goals don't have to be lofty. There's nothing wrong with wanting to be happily married with two kids, a job, a house and a station wagon in the garage.

Considering how many marriages these days end in divorce, many persons don't achieve that.

I recently read an article in the National Geographic about the first expedition to go around the world by crossing both the North and South Poles. The goal was achieved.

I also remember reading several years ago a condensed version in Reader's Digest of a book that told the story of an American woman who had a love for the classics of literature.

She ordered many books from a small English bookstore that specialized in such things and over the years, a loving relationship developed via letter between the woman and the employees of the bookstore.

The woman kept promising in her letters that she would come visit the bookstore and employees some day, but one thing or another intervened and she never made it.

The book consisted of letters written by the woman to the bookstore and by the employees to the woman. The last letter to the bookstore was to notify the employees that the woman had died.

I thought that was sad. If there was a moral to the story, it was that one should not keep postponing their goals or they may never achieve them.

Often, luck is a factor. As intelligent and talented as Brewster Shaw is, he never would have made it into space without luck.

Some of his luck, he made. After deciding in college he wanted to become an astronaut, Shaw joined the Air Force after receiving his master's degree, became a fighter pilot and then a test pilot, all with the aim of becoming an astronaut.

He was an instructor at the test pilot school at Edwards Air Force Base when he was selected as an astronaut.

He attributed that part to luck, he said in an April, 1982, Chronicle interview. Many of his fellow test pilots at Edwards were equally qualified and had also applied to be astronauts, but weren't selected.

"I'll never know why I ended up in Houston (the space flight center) and they didn't, he said. "I'll have to attribute that to luck, but I'm not knocking it."

Goals have to be achievable, however.

A mediocre football player in high school is never going to play in the National Football League, no matter how hard he tries. A mediocre soprano is never going to sing in the New York Metropolitan Opera.

Novesta discusses drainage problem

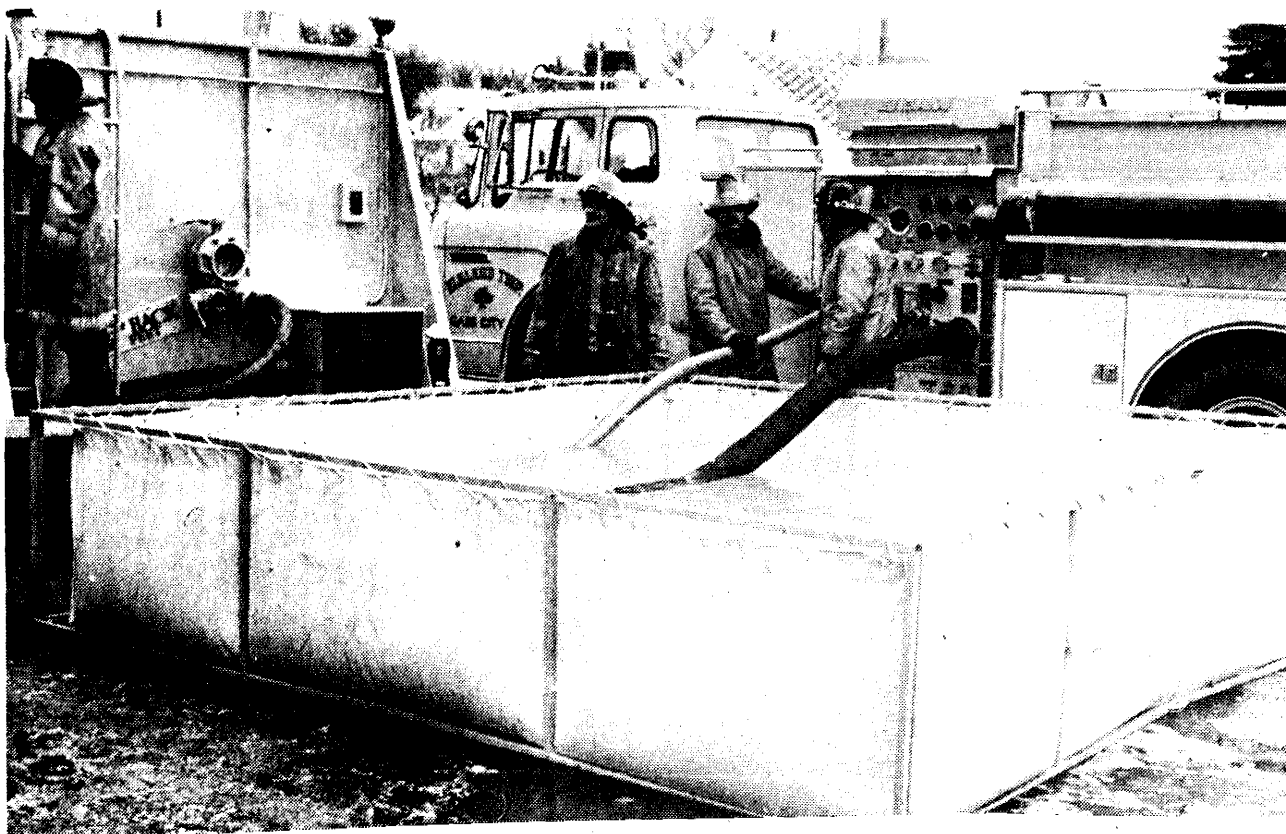

Steve Schneeberger discussed with the Novesta Township Board Monday evening a drainage problem on his property at the corner of Warner and DeLong Roads.

The problem, Clerk Nurse Kloc explained, is with the ditch running along Warner running to the Deerlick Drain. About 200 feet need to be cleaned. The board voted to approach the Road Commission about having the section cleaned.

Also at the meeting, a request was made to the board to have the two miles of Shabbona Road between Cemetery and Phillips Road graded, graveled and ditched where needed.

Supervisor Bill O'Dell will get an estimate from the Road Commission on how much it will cost and the board will then decide whether to have the work done.

O'Dell will also check into having a driveway culvert installed along Deckerville Road. The property owner, township and Road Commission will split the cost, Mrs. Kloc said.

NO SWIMMING - The Elkland Township Fire Department has had its 3,000 gallon water tank about a month and has already used it twice, the second time last Wednesday when it assisted the Elmwood Township - Gagetown Fire Department. Water from its tanker truck is dumped in the tank, then the truck can go back for more water. Fireman J.D. Tuckey welded the frame and a Caseville firm made the canvas liner, for a total cost of about $800. If purchased commercially, it would have cost about $1,400.

Base, yield notices sent to farmers

Notices of bases and yields have been mailed to area farmers by county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices.

The notices indicate the acreage base established on each farm for wheat, corn, oats and barley and the yields for these crops assigned to the farm.

Farmers are encouraged to bring production records for the last five years to their county ASCS office to prove their yield. This would establish their yield at the average of the five year period. They can bring in their production anytime up to 60 days before harvest of each crop for 1984.

For farmers who cannot prove their yield, ASCS offices will accept appeals until Dec. 31. To do this, they must come to the office and file a written appeal stating why their yield should be raised.

People once believed that a glass made in Venice would break if anyone put poison in it.

Oats only apparent loss in animal feed plant fire

A potentially serious fire at the Agri-Sales elevator feed plant in Gagetown last Wednesday resulted in a minor loss.

Elmwood Township-Gagetown firemen didn't have an easy time putting it out, however, because to do so required carrying hoses to the top of the mill, approximately 75 feet high, so they could pour water in from above.

Fred Sullivan, the department's day captain, said the distributor mechanism on top of the plant had frozen, so employees used a torch to thaw it.

That got it hot enough that apparently some grain dust started burning and the fire went into a bin containing flaked oats, which started burning or smoldering.

Firemen, who received the call at 11:30 a.m., poured water into the bin, the contents of which were emptied.

They were assisted by the Elkland Township Fire Department, which brought a pumper, tanker and canvas water tank; the Owendale department, a tanker, and the Caro department, its rescue van and aerial ladder truck. The aerial ladder was too short to reach the top of the feed plant, so wasn't used.

Gagetown firemen, usually four at a time and taking turns, were on top of the mill until about 1:30.

Firemen washed out the bin which contained the oats. Sullivan said, and an adjacent one that was empty to cool it.

In the beginning, he said, "We were quite concerned about the possibility of a dust explosion. Things run through your mind." Elevator manager Kale Bradley said there was no structural damage and the feed plant was in operation the next day.

Corn and soybeans were emptied from the bins that were adjacent to the one that contained the flaked oats. There didn't appear to be any damage to the corn and soybeans, he said, but they would be tested to make sure before they would be used.

If the corn and soybeans were okay, then the only damage would have been to the oats.

Reorganization shouldn't affect Gagetown plant

Reorganization of Farm Bureau Services (FBS) into Agra Land, Inc., shouldn't have an effect on the cooperative's fertilizer blend plant in Gagetown, according to its manager, Paul Burdon.

The name of the new cooperative was announced at its first annual meeting last week in Lansing, at which articles of incorporation, bylaws and an 11-member board of directors were approved.

In addition to a new sign, Burdon said he expects there will be a few new products to sell.

Agra Land operates 12 service centers, including the one in Gagetown, three grain and bean terminals, a feed manufacturing plant, fertilizer manufacturing plant and a distribution warehouse in Michigan, all of which had been under the banner of FBS.

FBS had been operating under Chapter 11 of the federal Bankruptcy Code since October, 1982. Its reorganization plan to form the new co-op had to be approved by a majority of its 25,000 creditors.

Creditors were divided into four categories -- unsecured creditors, debenture holders, unsecured tort creditors and equity security holders.

Most of the unsecured tort creditors were PBB claimants who claimed losses from when the fire retardant chemical was mixed with animal feed by FBS in 1973. The reorganization plan creates a $2 million fund to pay PBB claims.

Land O'Lakes, a large regional cooperative in Minnesota, is an investor in the new cooperative and some products using its name will be sold by Agra Land.

Area accidents

Six injured in Monday crash

An early Monday accident north of Mayville resulted in injuries or possible injuries to six persons, including two from Kingston and one from Deford.

All of those injured sought their own treatment. Those listed in the Caro state police report as definitely injured were Mark J. Shire, 19, of Burt, one of the drivers involved, and a passenger in his car, Wesley L. Nathan, 20, of Saginaw. The other passenger, Andrew M. Winter, 21, of Montrose, was listed as having possible injuries.

The driver of the other car involved, Kristine J. Dennis, 20, of Mayville, was unhurt.

Her three passengers were listed as having possible injuries. They were Harold H. Spencer III, 25, of 6247 Barrett Road, Kingston; Gary L. Spencer, 21, of N. Froede Road, Kingston, and Daryl L. Periso, 19, of 44 S. Kingston Road, Deford.

Shire told troopers he was westbound on M-46, west of Lobdell Road, when he was passed by the Dennis vehicle, which then slowed. He then started to pass the Dennis auto, but she wouldn't let him by, so he tried to pass on the right and the two autos collided. Both vehicles went into the ditch, the Shire auto after rolling over.

Ms. Dennis told officers after passing the Shire auto, she then saw him attempt to pass on the right.

Shire was ticketed on a charge of careless driving. The accident took place at 1:30 a.m.

Catherine T. Hornbacher, 47, of Unionville, was charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor after a 10:10 p.m. accident last Thursday.

Sheriff's deputies said she was northbound on Rick Road, north of Bay City-Forestville Road, when her vehicle went off the west side of the road and got stuck in a field.

Ms. Hornbacher required treatment for injuries from a doctor. She was later released from custody on $2,500 personal recognizance bond, with arraignment scheduled Dec. 12 before the district court judge.

Todd A. Howaczyk, 22, of 7305 Main Street, Owendale, was ticketed by deputies on a charge of failure to report a personal injury accident after a 1 a.m. accident Nov. 26.

Deputies said he drove his vehicle off Silvernail Road, east of Froede Road, into some sand pits. As his vehicle crested a hill, the right front tire hit a bump, causing the vehicle to "tilt and flip" backwards down the hill.

One of two passengers,

Joseph D. Howard, 24, of 4261 Oak Street, Cass City, went to a doctor for treatment.

Christopher M. Petiprin, 30, of Caro, sought his own treatment after a 7:30 p.m. accident Saturday.

Deputies said he was westbound on Tomlinson Road, near Dietz Road, when he lost control of his car on the icy road and his car slid into the north side ditch.

At 2 p.m. that day, according to Caro state police, Barbara Jo Wilson, 25, of 5120 Owendale Road, Gageton, was westbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, east of McEldowney Road, when she lost control, apparently because her left side front tire blew, and the car went into the north side ditch.

Ms. Wilson sought her own treatment for injuries.

Norma J. Szarapski, 46, of 5485 Kelly Road, Cass City, sought her own treatment after a 3:45 p.m. accident Friday.

Caro state police reported she was westbound on Kelly, west of Cemetery Road, when she lost control on the icy road. Her car slid into the ditch and rolled over.

Mrs. Szarapski was ticketed on a charge of violation of the basic speed law (too fast for conditions).

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Rudolph F. Dadacki, 51, of 4063 Shaw Road, Kingston, was ticketed by Caro state police on charges of violation of the basic speed law and failure to report an accident after a 10 p.m. accident Saturday.

Troopers said he was southbound on Froede Road, south of Silvernail, when he lost control of his car on a patch of ice. The auto went into a ditch, then back on the road and rolled over onto its roof.

At 5 p.m. last Wednesday, troopers said, Nancy E. Gyomory, 47, of 2112 S. Cemetery Road, Deford, was southbound on Cemetery Road, south of Gilford Road, when her tires hit a rut in the icy road and the car spun off the west side of the road.

Cass City police reported that at 11:50 a.m. Sunday, Emma J. Ackerman, 67, of 4677 Kennebec Drive, was exiting the parking lot east of Seeger Street onto Church Street and her car ran into the side of an eastbound car. She told officers her foot slipped off the brake pedal onto the accelerator.

Driver of the other car involved was Kimberly Rae Hendrick, 25, of 5311 Pringle Road.

Robert L. Sawdon of 4292 Oak Street told village police Saturday afternoon that between 8 p.m. Friday and noon Saturday, the left door of his car was dented, apparently by another vehicle.

The damage was probably done between 8 and 8:30 p.m., he said, when his car was parked behind Old Wood Drug.

Cass City police said that at 10:30 a.m. last Thursday, Ralph L. Retherford, 29, of 4646 Hunt Street, was backing out of a parking place in the alley south of Main Street between Leach and Seeger and backed into an eastbound car driven by Mary L. Kritzman, 79, of 4294 Leach Street.

Handle kerosene heaters safely

If you use a kerosene heater, use it safely.

That's the message the Insurance Information Institute wants to get across in its new Kerosene Heater Safety leaflet.

The federal Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) staff has recommended important product changes for kerosene heaters to reduce contact burn injuries, flare-up fires and pollutants.

Most current models lack these added safety features and the Institute's leaflet seeks to help consumers avoid a number of serious hazards.

ACCORDING TO THE CPSC, kerosene heaters caused 6,870 contact burns in the United States in 1982. There were 4,810 victims under age 5 and 1,130 between ages 5 and 14. In addition, some 1,639 children below age 5 ingested kerosene.

The Institute's leaflet tells how to use a kerosene heater safely. It also tells how to pick a model, deal with hazards, handle fuel and conduct summer-fall maintenance.

The leaflet notes that burns could be caused by direct contact with a heater or by ignition of combustible clothing. Children and pets should be kept at a safe distance from operating heaters.

Fires could be caused by operating the heater too close to furniture, draperies or other combustibles, by knocking over a lighted heater or by igniting the fuel when filling the tank.

Explosions could be caused by using the wrong kind of fuel, such as gasoline, or by operating the heater in an area where there are combustible fumes.

THE LEAFLET ALSO discusses the risk of asphyxiation and indoor air pollution.

Oxygen could be reduced to a dangerous level if kerosene heaters are operated in a small or inadequately ventilated area. This could lead to incomplete combustion of fuel and produce carbon monoxide, an odorless, colorless gas, which in sufficient concentrations, or if breathed over a period of time, can kill without warning.

Kerosene heaters also can emit such pollutants as carbon dioxide, nitrogen dioxide and sulphur dioxide. Breathing these substances can create a risk, especially to pregnant women, asthmatics, individuals with cardiovascular disease, the elderly and small children.

WHAT'S THE BEST way to minimize the pollution and asphyxiation dangers?

The leaflet says it's important to have adequate ventilation to other rooms AND a source of fresh, outside air such as a window or door open at least one inch whenever a kerosene heater is used.

The leaflet adds that kerosene heaters could be especially hazardous in bedrooms and should NEVER be used while a family is sleeping.

Kerosene heaters are still illegal in some areas and consumers are urged to check with their local fire department or fire marshal's office for any restrictions BEFORE making a purchase.

Consumers shopping for a kerosene heater should look for a recognized seal of approval such as the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) label, which means that the heater has performed well under test conditions and meets acceptable fire safety standards.

Act to save water resource

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

Efforts by both legislators and Gov. James Blanchard towards adoption of an interstate compact prohibiting the diversion of Great Lakes water to other parts of the country got underway recently.

Blanchard announced he was corresponding to all other Great Lakes states governors to assess their interest in such a compact and several legislators, led by Rep. Mary Ellen Parrott (D-Utica), announced they were preparing legislation to prohibit any water diversions.

Parrott, along with Reps. Pat Gagliardi (D-Drummond Island), Jeff Padden (D-Wyandotte), Sen. Mitch Irwin (D-Sault Ste. Marie) and Natural Resources Director Ronald Skoog, said the legislation would be a "unified starting point," but that "ultimately we must seek strength and solidarity" with the other Great Lakes states and Canada to prevent any diversion of water to areas such as the southwest states.

Any such diversions of water could have tremendous impact on the states, especially Michigan, both environmentally and economically, she said.

"A drawing down of one inch in the Great Lakes level has a tremendous impact on shipping," Parrott said, forcing freighters to carry smaller loads and increasing shipping costs.

The legislators admitted that Michigan by itself could not prevent any diversions from the lakes, but argued that an interstate compact could help stop any diversion.

Asked if the issue was not eventually a lost cause for the Great Lakes states as the nation's population was shifting more towards the west and southern states with greater political impact. Padden said a political strategy will have to be developed to get an interstate compact approved by Congress, which must approve interstate compacts.

It was possible, he said, that the Great Lakes states could draw on the support of states that would not be involved in any specific diversion issue.

Blanchard said he would initiate discussions with other Great Lakes chief executives at their Nov. 16-18 meeting in Indianapolis on an interstate compact.

Last month, the House and Senate both approved a resolution, sponsored by Gagliardi, urging Congress to oppose any diversion of Great Lakes water.

JOB TRAINING

Gov. James Blanchard recently announced the creation of a new office of Job Training and appointed Deputy State Superintendent of Public Instruction Eugene Paslov as director.

The executive order creating the office directs all departments to assign existing staff to assist in planning, implementation and administration of $40 million in federal funds.

The federal funds for the office are part of $175 million the state will receive under the Job Training Partnership Act. The office is to use its portion to design and administer a variety of statewide programs, including those for dislocated and older workers.

Blanchard said the office will make a series of recommendations in the coming months regarding specific programs and will work in conjunction with the Job Coordinating Council, the commission on Jobs and Economic Development and the Cabinet Council on Jobs and Economic Development.

The Baltimore Oriole, a songbird of North and South America, is also often called Hangbird, Firebird or Golden Robin.

Snow sends Cass City pupils home early

Tuesday was a no-win situation for those who decided whether the school buses will run during nasty weather.

The result was some Cass City buses slipped off the road. No one was injured and only one bus had a lengthy delay.

Supt. Donald Crouse said the decision to open school despite the snow-covered roads was made because the forecast was that the heavy snowfall and winds wouldn't start until afternoon. If it looked like that would happen before the normal end of school, students could be sent home early.

That is what happened, because elementary students were sent home at 1 p.m. and high school students 15 minutes later. By then, however, roads were sloppy, but passable, so there would have been no problem keeping students in school until the normal closing time.

The problem, Crouse said, was that the decision to close school early has to be made by 10:30-10:45 in the morning, one reason being so morning kindergarten can be kept in school until all students are released.

At that time, the forecast was for 6-8 inches of snow Tuesday, so the decision was made to end school early.

The most serious problem encountered Tuesday morning, transportation director Jim Fox said, was a bus that slipped off Seeger Road as it approached M-53, northeast of Cass City.

The bus started sliding sideways as it went up the slight incline and it slid off the road.

It took about an hour before the wrecker could arrive, because it had to tow other vehicles that went off the road, so another bus was dispatched after completing its run to pick up the students and complete the part of the route along main roads. Because of lateness, a few students living on side roads were never picked up, Fox said.

The other bus that had slipped off the road under similar circumstances was on LaJoie Road, west of Colwood Road at the western edge of the school district.

A four-wheel-drive vehicle that came along pulled the bus back on the road.

There was at least one instance, and apparently more, of buses needing a tow from tractors Tuesday morning.

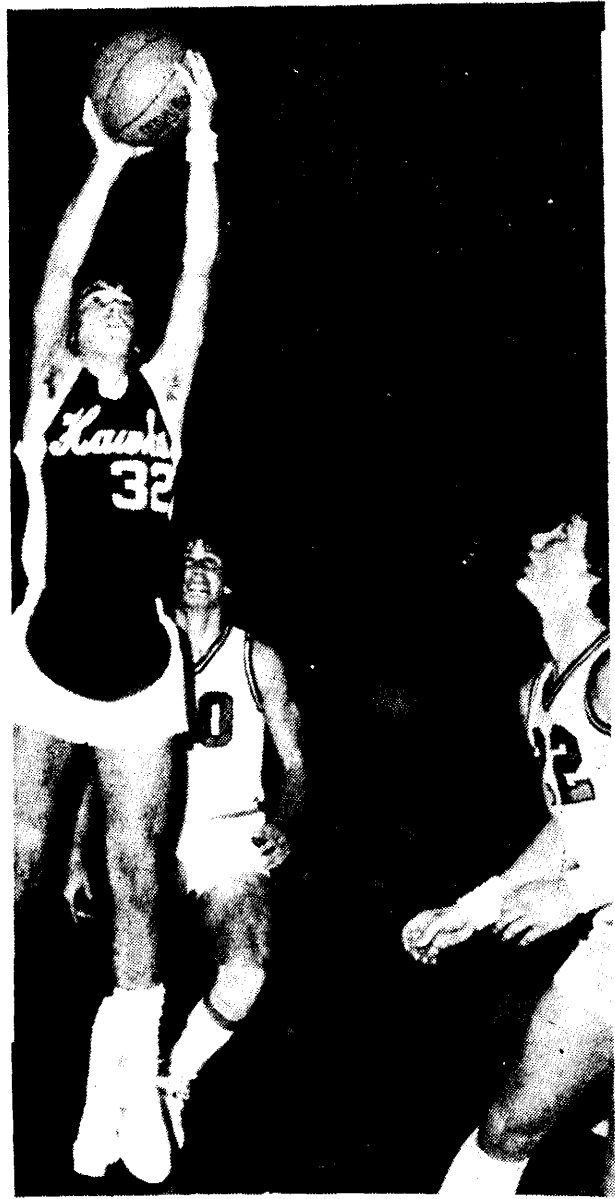

Most buses arrived at school a few minutes late, Fox said.

The transportation supervisor starts checking roads at 5 a.m. on days when schools might have to be closed.

He has to start then, he explained, because cooks start preparing meals about 6 and some bus drivers are on the road by 7.

Fox consults with Crouse before the decision is made whether schools will open.

All public schools in Tuscola County were open Tuesday. The only area districts that didn't open Wednesday were Vassar and Marlette.

RICH RANDALL hit this short jumper from the side against Harbor Beach. It was one of five baskets he hit, including one just as the buzzer sounded ending the first half. Paul Makowski (22) and Troy Schelke watch.

After pair of victories

Vassar to test Hawks' number one rating Friday

It's likely that Cass City will need to play better this Friday than it did Tuesday at Marlette if the team is to remain on top in the Thumb B Association.

The Hawks pushed past the Red Raiders, 52-35, but didn't look impressive doing it. Friday Vassar comes to town. The Vulcans are one of the teams to beat in the league this season.

Cass City will have to eliminate many of the turnovers that plagued the team against Marlette to win.

In the first minute and a half of the game the Hawks turned the ball over four times as the guards had trouble passing the ball and the front wall had trouble catching it.

and a half minutes before the half.

Paced by John Meininger who put away a pair of rebounds and passed well for another bucket, Cass City jumped off to a 24-16 margin by intermission time.

The Hawks added steadily to the margin in the third period, pushing the margin to 38-24 with 2:22 left in the period and ended the quarter with a 42-27 lead.

After that it was mop up time for both teams.

The Hawks had three players in double figures led by Meininger with 20 points on 10 baskets. Joe Langenburg and Rich Randall each netted 10 points. John Ritter led the Raiders with 11 points.

JV LOSES

Hurford	3	-	6
Randall	4	2-2	10
Meininger	10	-	20
Beecher	3	-	6
Total	24	4-4	52

The Hawks lost an overtime decision to the Marlette Junior Varsity, 56-51, as the host team converted foul shots in the extra three minutes to salt away the game.

HARBOR BEACH GAME

Marlette	FG	FT	PTS
Forbes	1	-	2
Keyes	1	-	2

Gippert	1	2-2	4
Hirsch	2	-	4
Ritter	5	1-3	11
Smith, John	2	-	4
Total	16	3-5	35

There appears to be little doubt that the Cass City Red Hawks will be a stronger team in 1983-84 than it was last season when the team won the Thumb B Association championship.

With a couple of baskets from the outside and a couple more on close-in shots, the Hawks opened an 8-2 lead with 4:06 left in the first period.

After that they never were behind although Marlette closed to 12-10 at the end of the first period. The Hawks put away the game for good in the last three

All of that's in the future. For now, Cass City fans can bask in the afterglow of an impressive opening night victory over Harbor Beach, 77-58, in a non-conference tilt played in Cass City.

What impressed was the scoring balance that the Hawks exhibited in its opening victory as all five starters scored in double figures.

There was the usual first game ragged play on the part of both teams. Play should improve as the season progresses. But after the first five minutes there was little doubt that the Hawks were going to win.

Undoubtedly the most improved player on the squad is Scott Hurford, the 6-7 senior center who has very limited varsity experience.

Besides scoring 13 points, Hurford excited the crowd by blocking several shots and along with John Meininger controlled the backboards. Hurford had 8 rebounds and Meininger 10 boards.

The game saw-sawed back and forth for the first five minutes as the Pirates stayed in the game by beating the Hawks' defense on the fast break.

The Hawks adjusted to that midway in the period and that killed the Pirate offense. Joe Langenburg and Bryan Beecher hit a couple from outside and Meininger and Hurford added a pair on the inside and at the end of the period Cass City was in front, 20-10.

Hurford hit a couple of short buckets in the early moments of the second period and Cass City jumped in front 27-12 with 6:23 left in the half.

After that Coach Ron Nurnberger ran reserves in and out all night and the Hawk lead varied from 7-19 points the rest of the way. Joe Langenburg picked off six assists to go with his 16 points. Rich Randall topped the club with 7 assists and scored 10 points.

The Hawks shot a creditable 49 percent from the field on 37 of 75 shots while the Pirates hit 25 of 60 for 41 percent.

From the charity stripe Cass City converted just of 10 for 30 percent while Harbor Beach shot 8 of 16 for 50 percent.

JV GAME

Much of the excitement for the evening was furnished by the JV squad which came from behind after trailing in the last period to win 45-42.

"Rare Earth" will cut radiation

When an x-ray examination becomes necessary, it's now possible to get the health protection from that x-ray without having to worry about being exposed to unnecessary radiation, medical experts say.

Elements which are found in the earth's crust in only trace amounts—"rare earth" elements—are improving the safety of x-ray examinations at many hospitals around the country.

A 50 percent and higher radiation reduction has been made possible through the use of "rare earth" intensifying screens and orthochromatic x-ray films. The Kodak Lanex and Min-R screens which contain these "rare earth" elements absorb more x-radiation and convert more of the energy to light than calcium tungstate, which for many years was the primary phosphor used in intensifying screens. This means that less exposure to x-ray is required to record the image on the film. And less exposure also means less radiation exposure to patients as well as to the technologists and other hospital staff.

DNR reports deer kill down in county

The firearms deer season ended last Thursday with probably fewer deer being killed in Tuscola County than a year ago, according to Carlton (Bud) Jarvis, Department of Natural Resources area wildlife biologist.

He attributed that mainly to rainy weather during the season, which started Nov. 15, but added that the deer herd in Tuscola was slightly smaller than last year, especially in the southwest corner of the county.

An estimated 1,500 deer were shot in the county last year.

About 230 hunters brought their deer to the DNR office south of Caro, which is 20 fewer than a year ago.

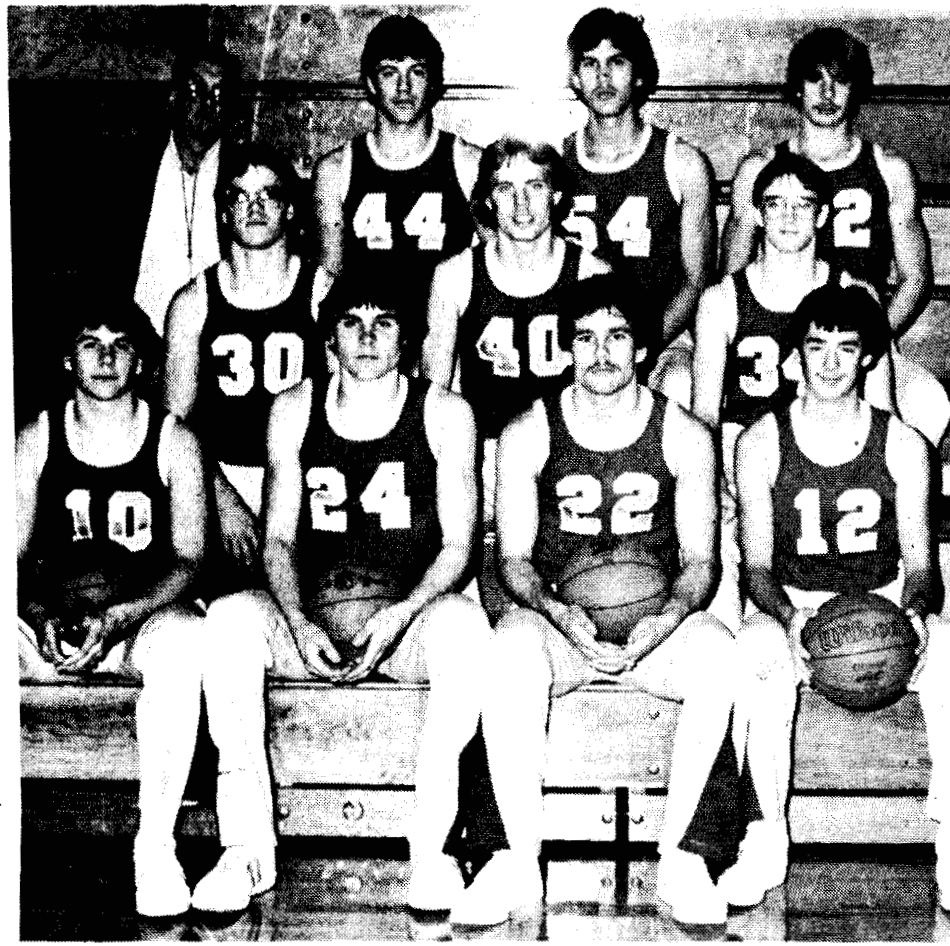

In Huron County, Jarvis said, probably more deer were taken than a year ago because there were more deer there than in 1982. He thought the harvest in Sanilac County was as good as last year.

Statewide, according to the biologist, it was reported the number of deer killed from about Bay City north was down from last year. South of a line drawn through there, the harvest was about the same.

More definite information will be determined by a DNR postcard survey of hunters to be taken this winter.

The muzzleloader deer season, which started Dec. 2, ends Sunday statewide. Archery deer season ends Dec. 15 in the Upper Peninsula; Jan. 1 in the Lower Peninsula.

Thirty United Methodist Women attended the Monday evening meeting at Trinity Church.

Mrs. John Marshall presided over the business meeting.

Mrs. Paul Craig was in charge of the program, with a Christmas theme, titled "Mary's Thoughts," which concluded with the song, "O Holy Night," presented by Beverly Nieboer.

Police probe school break-in Caro state police are investigating a break-in at Gageton Elementary School, which netted the intruder or intruders two pipe wrenches, a small amount of change and a propane torch.

The stolen items were valued at a total of $62.

Principal William Britt reported the break-in at 7:15 a.m. Friday, it having been discovered by custodian Mert Hendershot. It took place between 6 p.m. Thursday and 7:05 a.m. Friday.

Entry was gained through a cafeteria window. The intruders then entered the gym and broke through a door into the main hallway.

They entered the office by breaking a window and then reaching in to open the locked door. Some papers were thrown around and an unsuccessful attempt was made to open the floor safe with a torch.

Taken from a storage room were the wrenches and a propane torch. The police report didn't say whether the torch is believed to be the one used in the office.

Several cabinets were opened in the kitchen, but nothing was reported taken.

Tony Adams of 4546 Oak Street reported to Cass City police Friday afternoon that he had run out of gas on Elmwood Road at 6 a.m. that day.

When he returned to his car at 1:30 p.m., the spare tire, a gas can and hydraulic jack were missing. Value of the missing items totaled $140.

Marvin Hobart of 4534 Oak Street told village police that two long scratches were made on his car while it was parked Friday night at the high school while he was at the basketball game.

Russell Richards of 6592 Houghton Street told village police Friday that while his van was parked at the Bay City K-Mart store Nov. 19, a wire wheel cover and the black reflector behind it were taken. The theft wasn't noticed immediately.

Denise Osentoski of 5163 Koepfgen Road, Cass City, reported to sheriff's deputies Friday afternoon that the hub caps were stolen from her car when it was parked behind The Station in Cass City from 8:30 p.m. Thursday to 12:30 a.m. Friday.

Break-in of a Crawford Road, Cass City, home was reported to the sheriff's department Sunday. No further information was immediately available.

Stevens sees depth problem for O-G cagers

Owen-Gage's basketball fortunes this season will depend a great deal on coach Claude Stevens' starting five staying healthy and staying out of foul trouble.

As the season begins, the veteran coach says there is a big difference between the starting five and the second five.

Stevens, starting his 29th year of coaching, has two starters back from last year's squad which finished 8-13, Scott Wright, a 6-1 senior forward, and Reid Goslin, a 5-10 junior guard.

The third definite starter will be Gary Erickson, a 5-10 senior forward, who was the No. 6 man last season.

The probable other starters are John Shope, a 6-2 junior center, and John Patnaude, a 5-10 senior guard.

The three starters lost to graduation from the 1982-83 team were Stan Andrakowicz, Mike Powell and Dan Glidden, all of whom also started their junior year.

When Stevens turns to his bench, he likely will be turning first to Kellin Kretschmer, a 5-9 junior guard, and then Earl Harris, a 6-1 senior who can play center or forward.

The other members of the team are Matt Ricker, a 5-11 junior whom the coach describes as "the best vertical jumper on the team," Frank Abfalter, a 6-2 senior center, playing basketball for the first time since junior high, and Todd Rockefeller, a 6-1 junior guard.

Stevens describes his team as "small, but I hope mighty....I think we'll be quick and aggressive, but we're going to have trouble rebounding."

A plus for the team is, "Their attitude is excellent."

The Bulldogs had pre-season scrimmages against Lakers, Imlay City and Mayville. "They looked better than what I thought they would," Stevens said of his team.

All of Owen-Gage's December games will be tough. Stevens picks Friday's opponent, Deckerville, to finish second in the North Central Thumb D League. Then comes Carsonville-Port Sanilac, his selection for third; North Huron -- "awesome" and his pick for No. 1, and non-league but bigger Ubyly.

"If we can split the first five or six, we'll be alright," Stevens said.

He predicted Akron-Fairgrove will finish in the fourth spot, with the position of the other five teams a tossup. "I think we'll finish in about the middle of the league," he said.

The junior varsity coach is Dean Roller.

JV games start at 6:30, with the varsity about 8. The schedule:

Dec. 9	at Deckerville
Dec. 13	Carsonville-P.S.
Dec. 16	at North Huron
Dec. 20	at Ubyly (non-league)
Jan. 6	Kingston

McDonalds at WMU grid bust

Bud and Jeannette McDonald of Owendale were in Kalamazoo Monday evening, Nov. 28, with their sons, Darren and Mark, to attend the 1983 Western Michigan University grid bust, held in the Kalamazoo grand ballroom.

The banquet was to honor members of the 1983 Western Michigan Broncos Football Team, especially the 25 senior members of the team, who will graduate in spring, and have played out their eligibility. Mark was a member of the group, having played defensive tackle for four years after having been red shirted as a freshman due to a work-related accident.

The invocation was given by Kurt Bartarian, WMU captain. Mastor of ceremonies was Warren Reynolds, WOTV (Channel 8), Grand Rapids, who introduced WMU President Dr. John T. Bernhard, WMU Athletic Director, Tom H. Wondering and head football coach Jack Harbaugh. They each gave their thoughts on the 1983 season, in which the team was 6-5 in the Mid-American Conference.

Harbaugh then introduced each senior member and gave a short personal comment on each as he had gotten to know them during the past two seasons.

Guest speaker was Lee Corso, former Indiana University head coach and now color analyst for ABC Television.

Eight hundred persons attended.

Extend deadline for Sanilac books

The deadline for the submission of family histories for the new Sanilac County History has been extended to Jan. 30.

The overwhelming response to the section of the book on early family histories, with many coming from coast to coast, prompted the editorial board of the book to set the new deadline as the absolute last date for receiving the histories. It will allow the board to still have the book ready for distribution in the summer of 1984.

This is the first comprehensive history of Sanilac County since 1884, according to editor Hazel Arnold Trumble of Lexington.

It includes the events that shaped the development of the county from the days of the Indians to today. The stories of the great fires, 1871 and 1881, which nearly wiped out the pioneering families of the Thumb; the Great Lake storms of 1913; the changes in county and local governments are all part of the new history.

The growth of the dairy industry which puts Sanilac

Martin Luther stamp display at St. Paul's

Martin Luther's 500th birthday anniversary was remembered and celebrated at St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Linkville Sunday, Nov. 13, with a mini-stamp show and poster display by Postmaster Jeanette McDonald of Owenton, who is member of St. Paul's.

Numerous articles, posters and sheets of special issue 20-cent Martin Luther stamps were on display along with coins that the Ladies Aid of the congregation had for sale.

The U.S. Postal Service chose the founder of the Lutheran Church, because of his significant contributions to universal education, freedom of religion and expression, freedom of the press and the expansion of knowledge through the translation of Latin into the vernacular and the printing of books. This postage stamp was issued Nov. 11. The Luther stamp was based on the 1533 portrait by Lucas Granach, Luther's banker, supporter and close friend.

Each member was given a souvenir issue in glassine envelope upon exiting church, by Mrs. McDonald.

County today at the top of the production in Michigan and all of the changes in grain and other crops are included. The role of education was always an important part of the history of the county.

The book, hard cover with over 200 pages, is being financed by advance sales. The book is $20 and can be ordered at the Village Hall, Lexington 48450, and at all libraries in the county.

Several hundred have already been subscribed to and anyone wishing a copy should place the order to assure that he or she will receive one.

The banks in Sanilac County included a history book order form with all account mailings some time ago, and we are hoping they will do another mailing shortly after the first of the year, Mrs. Trumble said.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Wilson was a Democrat

Dear Mr. Haire,

I read your remarks in 'Rabbit Tracks' about our President. You mentioned that Mr. Reagan's namesake was President Woodrow Wilson and that Mr. Wilson got us into a war.

Since you were giving us a history lesson, I think you should have gone on and told us the rest of the story about that particular history. You could have mentioned that in every war this country has been involved in since the Civil War, at the beginning of the President in office was a Democrat. (I believe the people from South Carolina who fired on Fort Sumter to begin the Civil War were also Democrats).

Now Mr. Haire, you and I both know that President Reagan is a Republican. We can't refute history, can we?

Sincerely yours,
Bob Howell

Most heating prices steady

Prices vary depending on such factors as whether the wood is seasoned or unseasoned, all hardwood or mixed hard and soft and whether it is delivered and how far.

A typical price appears to be $28-30 for a face cord of unseasoned hardwood delivered. John Kappen, who sells it, said an average customer uses 12 face cords a year.

Business appears to be good. "I've got a lot more customers this year," said Rick Hartwick, but he doesn't know whether that is because there are more persons burning wood or fewer selling it. He delivers wood all over the upper Thumb.

John Kappen said his customers from past years are "really keeping me busy" and that business is as good as it has been the last couple of years. He also sells all over the upper Thumb.

Gerald Whittaker guessed his business might be up 10 percent over last year due to new customers.

Whittaker, who primarily is in the logging business, hauls wood as far as the Port Huron area and northern Macomb County, adding $10 per face cord for wood hauled farther than Imlay City.

Only one dealer reported business isn't at least as good as last year. "It's just slow this year. I don't know what the reason is," said Nancy Peters, whose husband, Ron, and his helpers, cut wood in the northern lower peninsula and sell it as far south as the Detroit area.

As of last week, however, she was starting to get more calls. A lot of persons wait until the last minute, she said.

Ideally, persons should have bought the wood they will use this winter several months ago so that it is well seasoned by now.

ELECTRIC HEAT

Detroit Edison has requested a 10 percent rate increase. Assuming it gets it, the average residential customer in 1984 will pay $621 for heat, plus $524 for other electrical uses, according to George Andersen, the utility's Tuscola County general supervisor.

That compares to $588 for heat in 1983 and $398 for other uses.

Andersen added that he doesn't think Edison will get all of the rate increase it is requesting.

There are approximately 1,500 homes with electric heat in Tuscola County.

WINTER SUPPLY — Persons who buy firewood will be paying the same price they paid last year, according to local suppliers. The only source of heat that is more expensive than last winter is electricity.

'84 farm outlook mixed, expert says

porate farm manager described it as not worth going into.

The crop report due this month will show "an astonishingly large wheat acreage" planted this fall.

Weather permitting, he also expects bumper crops of corn and soybeans next year.

FARMERS SHOULDN'T look to the export market to be buying a big part of next year's anticipated bumper crop. The strong dollar makes American grain expensive overseas.

Marten put much of the blame on the big deficits being incurred by the Reagan administration. "We wouldn't need half of this help Washington keeps sending us (farmers) if Washington would learn how to balance its books."

He explained that, "The national economic plan for next year is to spend $5 for every $4 that comes in."

With the government having to borrow so much money, that keeps interest rates up.

The West Lafayette, Ind., resident presented figures showing that U.S. corn exports in 1979-80, when the Carter administration had an embargo in effect, were valued at $2.43 billion. It has declined each year since, and for 1983-84, is forecast at only $1.8 billion.

What that shows, he said, is that embargoes don't hurt exports as much as big deficits, the strong dollar, high interest rates and credit problems.

He recommended to cash crop farmers that they participate in the government 30 percent set-aside program for wheat (not the same as PIK) and 10 percent set-aside for corn in order to qualify for price supports.

In a comment to the Chronicle during the lunch break, the former farm management and marketing professor said if farmers hold this year's crop until next year, they can manage to have two bad years in a row.

DURING THE MORNING session, he suggested next year may be a good year to sell corn on forward contracts. This fall was a good time to forward sell wheat.

Among Marten's recommendations on when to sell are:

- 1) Does the price meet your cash flow? "...if you can pay your bills, that's a good price."
 - 2) Is the price above the expected annual average?
 - 3) Is the price above production costs?
 - 4) When in doubt, spread sales. There may be more than one peak price.
 - 5) Remember interest and storage costs.
 - 6) Think like a gambler.
- The goal, Marten concluded, in listing his various recommendations, is, "Avoid being wrong big."

16 Cass Cityans see space launch fattens them for market. He presently is feeding about 50 hogs.

Mrs. Shaw, 76, retired from Cass City High School in 1972, where she taught Spanish and French, after 32 years of teaching, 23 in Cass City schools.

The Shaws moved to their Evergreen Township farm Jan. 1, 1943, from Bloomfield Hills. Their son was born in May of that year.

Shaw was a contractor. In Bloomfield Hills, which wasn't the heavily populated Detroit suburb that it is now, Shaw specialized in building gravel roads.

Once relocated to Cass City, he installed a lot of water and sewer lines and cleaned county drains.

Starting in 1952, he went into the bridge building business, which he did for about 10 years. He built bridges all over Michigan and, "He'd be away all week long," Mrs. Shaw recalled.

Shaw finally decided he should spend more time at home, so opened a Massey-Ferguson dealership at the corner of M-81 and M-53, in the buildings he originally constructed to house his construction equipment. (Enos Farm Supply is there now.)

Shaw started the business with the idea that his son could take it over once he graduated from college.

"It didn't work out that way," he said. "You can't always tell what your kids are going to do."

stopped the car. Strasz said he waited to stop the car until it reached a clear area plus he waited until radio traffic cleared so he could notify the dispatcher he was stopping the vehicle.

The officer said he ordered the suspect, who gave permission to search the trunk, to lie on the ground. He found the money first, then waited for a backup unit to arrive before searching further for the handgun.

The suspect surrendered without resistance.

and his wife, Shirley, and daughter, Debbie.

Bernard and Loretta Ross were there, as was their son, Jerry, who like Dale McIntosh, is a friend of the astronaut from high school days. Jerry lives in Walled Lake.

The Ross's daughter, Shirley Law, and her daughter, from Whitmore Lake, also viewed the launch.

Other Cass Cityans there were Marv and Janice Winter, sons Kirk and Kent, and a Brazilian exchange student living in Caro they took with them, and Stuart and Joan Merchant.

Also there were Bob and Linda Morley of Williamston, who know Shaw.

McIntosh said some friends of Shaw from college days were there to see the launch.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw said the navigator who flew with their son in Thailand during the Vietnam war (Brewster Shaw Jr. was a fighter pilot) drove to Florida with his family from Iowa.

They noted, like Brewster Sr., the ex-navigator is also a hog farmer.

Money available for medical help

The federal government has allocated a limited amount of funds to assist persons who are unemployed and who are in need of urgent, but non-emergency medical care.

The funds are being distributed in Tuscola County through the county Health Department.

It is not the intention of the program to pay for hospitalization, emergency room care, care which is elective, or care which has been received in the past.

The funds may be used for prior-authorized doctor office visits, prescriptions and necessary lab tests. If possible, the person will be asked to pay for part of his or her own care.

Those who have a family physician will be sent to that physician for care if the doctor is willing to provide the needed care.

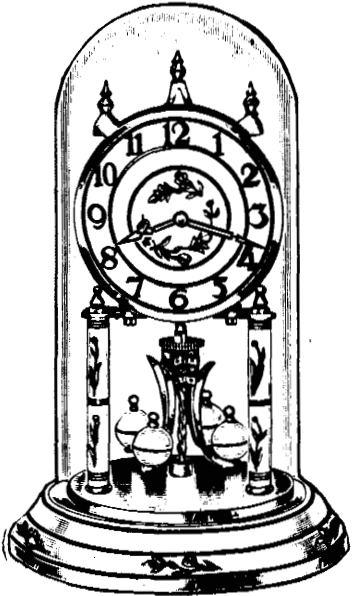

A financial means test will be used to establish eligibility. Persons who are covered by insurance or Medicaid will be asked to use those funds.

Persons or their dependents who are in need of medical care, have no means to pay for it, and are unemployed can call the Health Department at 673-8114 and ask for an appointment with a nurse.

The nurse will evaluate their situation and if appropriate, give them an authorization form to take to a specific medical provider.

Jim Hendershot of Gagetown

Student is head coach for 3 weeks

Five years ago, Jim Hendershot was playing football for the Owendale-Gagetown Bulldogs. This season, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Hendershot of 4806 State Street, Gagetown, found himself the head coach of a Class B varsity team, albeit for only one scrimmage and two games.

Hendershot, 22, has completed most of his coursework at Central Michigan University, majoring in industrial education and minoring in physical education. This semester, he is only taking one course. Next semester he will student teach and then get his degree.

In addition to his studies, he is assistant manager at a Mount Pleasant tavern. In the fall of 1982, Hendershot was hired as an assistant varsity coach at Chippewa Hills High School, working under the head line coach.

When he went back there this year, he was supposed to be the head defensive and offensive line coach for the varsity squad. Chippewa Hills is located 25 miles northwest of Mount Pleasant and includes the communities of Remus, Mecosta, Barryton and Weidman.

It graduates 170-200 students each year, which is about the entire enrollment of Owen-Gage High School, grades 7-12. Hendershot earned a varsity football letter all four years as a Bulldog, though he played mostly on the junior varsity his first two years.

His senior year, in 1978, he was the starting center and defensive end. At 5-11 and 180 pounds, he was too small and too slow to continue his football career at CMU.

"I LEARNED A LOT in high school," Hendershot said of his playing days. He took two football classes at CMU, the advanced one taught by the head coach there.

When practice started late this summer, it was supposed to be another normal football season. What changed that was that on what was supposed to be the first day of school, the teachers went on strike.

The administration decided that as long as the strike lasted, teachers who coached sports would be barred from coaching. The varsity football coach, Don Foreman, was the only teacher. His assistants consisted of Hendershot, another CMU student and a CMU graduate who farms and coaches basketball at another school.

The administration asked Foreman whom he wanted to take over the team and he told them Hendershot.

The strike lasted three weeks, which meant the acting head coach was in charge for a scrimmage and the first two regular games.

That meant he was in charge of practices, discipline and game strategy. "There were times I said, 'I don't know what I'm doing,'" he admitted.

One assistant handled the offense and the other the defense, with the aim being to keep everything as normal as possible until Foreman returned. "I think we banded together and did a good job," Hendershot commented.

Foreman didn't disappear during the strike. Hendershot was able to consult with him each day and he attended the scrimmage and the first game.

Having to watch the first game proved so frustrating for Foreman, Hendershot said, that instead of going to his team's second game, he went to another to scout.

UNDER HENDERSHOT, the Warriors outscored their opponents in the scrimmage at Greenville. They won the opener, 10-7, against Belding on a fourth quarter pass play, and lost the second to Alma, 14-0.

After Foreman's return, the team was 3-4, for an overall season record of 4-5. Chippewa Hills lost one game, 5-2, in overtime. "It sounded like playing in the World Series," Hendershot said of the score.

"That's what really hurt us this year was penalties," he continued. Other than that, the Warriors played well and easily could have finished 8-1.

He also thinks the strike hurt the team, since for the first two games the players missed the atmosphere in school, such as banners in the hallways, that can create a winning spirit. "It just wasn't the same (not being in school)," Hendershot commented. "It really hurt us as a team."

Under the circumstances, he feels the players did well during the strike. "I thought the kids did a really admirable job for not knowing what was going on the next day (from day to day)."

Asked for the difference between a Class D school, such as Owen-Gage, and a Class B one, Hendershot responded that the larger school has many more better and larger players.

"It was hard for me to get used to so much talent (at Chippewa Hills). It's really a lot different. I had a lot to pick from."

HENDERSHOT coached the Chippewa Hills' junior varsity baseball team last spring and will do the same this coming spring.

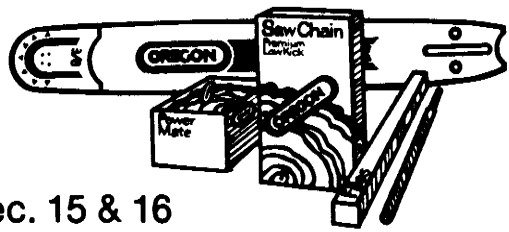

After he finishes his student teaching, which will be at Chippewa Hills, he wants to find a teaching job, in which he can coach football and baseball, out of state if necessary.

He is sure of one thing, that his three weeks as acting head coach was very beneficial. "I think I learned more in three weeks than I did the whole year."

JIM HENDERSHOT, 1979, Owendale-Gagetown graduate, now has experience as a high school varsity football coach, albeit for only three weeks, before receiving his college diploma.

Gagetown sets sewer charges

The Gagetown Village Council Monday evening approved an ordinance regulating the use of and installation of sewers and drains and rates in the village.

Passage of the ordinance is a necessary step before construction of the sanitary sewer system can begin next year.

The ordinance sets the minimum connection fee at $2,000 for homeowners and a minimum use charge of $18 every three months for 12,000 gallons or less, plus $1.50 for each additional 1,000 gallons used.

Village President Bill Downing said the rates may change, depending on the construction cost for the project.

Construction bids were opened Nov. 8 and will be awarded within the next couple months. The council will meet next week Tuesday with representatives of Edmonds Engineering to discuss the status of the project.

The entire ordinance will be published in next week's Chronicle.

Also Monday, the council hired Danny Haag of Cass City as bookkeeper for the sewer project.

Santa Claus will make his official visit to Gagetown Saturday, Dec. 17, arriving at the fire hall with candy for the kiddies at 1 p.m. The council decided to buy two snow tires for the village police car from Gagetown Oil and Gas.

Your neighbor says Winter is okay, but I like when it's over Winter doesn't officially start until Dec. 22, but no one needs a calendar to tell them that winter has arrived.

Karen Venema doesn't mind the colder weather. "I like all the seasons," she said.

It isn't her favorite time of the year, however. "I like spring, when winter is getting over and you can finally hear the birds again."

She hears a lot of them then because her home is located in the woods.

Mrs. Venema stays inside quite a bit in winter, where she enjoys knitting, crocheting, clipping coupons, spending time with her family and listening to Family Life Radio.

"I like winter, but I think it is especially nice for children," she added. "They really enjoy it, but I find myself wanting to stay inside to keep warm." Sometimes, she plays outside in the snow with her children.

As for getting prepared for winter, as of last week, the firewood was ready, but the plastic wasn't over the windows yet.

Mrs. Venema also likes taking care of animals (two goats and nine cats and kittens), "fixing things," the outdoors, and most of all, year-round, "I just enjoy kids."

A housewife, she and her husband, Calvin, have three children, Marshall, 9, Clayton, 7, and Jordan, 4. The family lives at 3466 Cass City Road, Cass City.

Free cheese distribution set Dec. 16

The Human Development Commission will conduct a surplus cheese and butter distribution, Dec. 16, from 10:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. or until supply is exhausted at the Evangelical Free Church, 4633 Weaver Street, Cass City, across from Erla's Food Center, and at the fairgrounds in Caro and Vassar.

Individuals must report to the distribution site in person and present their surplus commodity registration card. Persons who are unable physically to go to the distribution themselves may have someone pick up their surplus commodities only if the card is shown.

If an individual has not yet received this card, they must register at the HDC office in their county prior to receiving cheese and butter. The telephone number for the Caro HDC office is 673-4121.

All households who are receiving a form of public assistance, such as ADC, General Assistance, food stamps, or SSI, are eligible to receive cheese and butter.

Households who are not receiving any of these types of public assistance, but who have received services through HDC, may also be eligible. Persons living on fixed incomes or unemployment benefits might be eligible, in accordance with federal poverty income guidelines.

The surplus commodities have been made available to the HDC, the community action agency serving Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties, from the federal government and are intended for personal consumption by low-income and needy families.

Grace Kelly was the first movie actress to appear on a postage stamp. She and Prince Rainier of Monaco, her husband, were featured on one in 1956 in commemoration of their marriage.

HEALTH TIPS

Shoveling snow can be deadly for some

Persons who suffer heart attacks while shoveling snow or participating in other strenuous winter activities often have no history of heart problems.

Many victims of "snow-fall heart attack" go from a routine of virtual inactivity to the strenuous workout that shoveling snow can be.

"Any instant change from inactivity to overactivity can be too much for the heart to handle," says Sister Mary Kroger, associate chairman of the Department of Community Health Science at Michigan State University.

With age, bodily systems tend to decline, some more than others, according to Sister Kroger.

One is the cardiovascular system — the heart and blood vessels. A person's cardiovascular system reaches its peak at age 30 and declines as a person grows older. For example, the heart may be working at 100 percent of its capacity at age 30, but it declines to 68 percent by age 75.

The fibrous tissues that replace heart muscle cells do not have the same function as that of muscle tissue. People who aren't active don't always realize that as they grow older, they don't have the muscle capacity they once had.

Keeping active year round is one of the best ways to keep your heart working properly, she suggested. "Walking is a universal exercise that nearly everyone can do," she suggests.

People who are shoveling snow or doing other strenuous activities often hold their breath. This also puts a strain on the heart.

"Holding your breath may seem to give you more power as you shovel, but it puts more stress on the heart because it keeps oxygen from the heart," Sister Kroger said.

It was once thought that men were more likely to suffer heart attacks, but in recent years, the risk of heart attacks in women has increased.

One factor is the increased number of women in the work force. The working woman must deal with stress on the job as well as at home. In addition, smoking has become more socially acceptable for women, and the number of women who smoke has gone up.

Research has shown that the factors that increase the risks of heart disease in men and women include obesity, alcohol consumption, high cholesterol diet and smoking.

Heredity and environmental stress, particularly in the work force, also increase the risk of heart disease.

Hypertension (high blood pressure) is often a precursor to heart disease, Sister Kroger said. Jobs in which a person has a great deal of responsibility, such as those of physicians and business executives, produce great amounts of physical and mental stress.

A person with a history of heart problems doesn't necessarily have to completely avoid exercise or outdoor work, but Sister Kroger emphasized that such a person should start an exercise program or participate in other strenuous activities only with the guidance of his or her physician.

Anyone planning to shovel snow or do other winter outdoor work should dress warmly, work slowly and avoid staying out in the cold for long periods of time.

New books at the library

PET SEMATARY by Stephen King (fiction). It begins in the hills above a little Maine town, in a carefully tended plot of ground. All around are gravestones made by generations of children. When Dr. Louis Creed, the new head of medical services at the nearby university, first sees the graveyard, he thinks it is a charming oddity - a harmless tribute made by the children to the animals they've loved. He doesn't realize there is something beyond it. He doesn't know that something will call to him... his wife... even his beloved children. Then the nightmare slowly unfolds. There is another graveyard behind the Pet Sematary, a place of sinister power. It is a place where no living humans should venture... for there they will face things far, far worse than death.

WHILE REAGAN SLEPT by Art Buchwald (non-fiction). Every administration provides grist for Buchwald's wit, but the Reagan regime seems especially rich in comic targets. Here is Reaganomics explained in terms of jelly beans, the president returning to his days as a General Electric pitchman to clarify the rebates on new refrigerators. Here, too, are such members of the Reagan team as James Watt, who laments the presence of trees in national parks, and the Department of Justice, whose employees have nothing to do, since civil rights and antitrust prosecutions are on hold. And there are nonpolitical subjects, like bulls in the stock market and the linking of sex and violence.

KISS MA BELL GOOD-BYE: HOW TO INSTALL YOUR OWN TELEPHONES, EXTENSIONS & ACCESSORIES, by Wesley Cox (non-fiction). With the recent birth of Baby Bell, the rules that formerly regulated the telephone company have changed drastically both for Ma Bell and for her customers. This may prove to be a mixed blessing for consumers, but, for the present, savings can result if you own your own phone, even as service charges escalate. Cox, with the technical help of a Bell employee, tells how to go about buying and installing your own telephone and communications equipment and thus escaping rental fees and service costs. Cox explains the simple procedures used to connect telephones and extensions to company lines. He also describes how accessories - answering machines, amplifiers, computers - can be connected into your very own communications systems.

Christmas programs at Rawson Memorial Library

Rawson Memorial Library offers something of interest for people of all ages during the Christmas season.

A special preschool Christmas storytime will be held Thursday, Dec. 15, at 10:30 a.m. Children do not need to be registered for this.

A good selection of Christmas books, craft books and magazines, and Christmas records and tapes are available to be checked out at the library.

Area children are invited to help trim the Christmas tree. Materials to make decorations are provided in the library, and children may drop in anytime after school or on Saturday to make a decoration for the tree.
