"SURVIVAL FLIGHT," the University of Michigan Hospital helicopter was used for the first time Saturday to transfer a patient from Hills and Dales General Hospital to Ann Arbor. Robert Thorn had stomach surgery earlier in the week, according to his physician, Dr. Hoon K. Jeung, MD, who decided to transfer him to University Hospital after he developed pneumonia and respiratory distress. Thorn is expected to recover, Jeung said. The helicopter, staffed with a doctor and nurse and equipped with life support equipment, made the flight to Ann Arbor in 35 minutes. (Another photo, page 18.)

Regional Center adding patients and employees

The Caro Regional Center will be adding beds for 40 residents and with them, more than 40 employees.

Dr. Marlin H. Roll, the center's director, received notification from the Michigan Department of Mental Health Tuesday to expand the psychiatric unit (for mentally ill persons) by 40 beds no later than April 1.

A building that had been used to house developmentally disabled persons (mentally retarded) will be renovated for the new residents.

The center presently has a 21-bed psychiatric unit. The added beds, Roll said, will require hiring more than 40 employees, although a few will be for purposes of maintaining accreditation of the present unit.

Of the 40 plus, 20-23 will be attendants, including all those still on layoff (the only Regional Center employees on layoff, Roll said), and the rest will be nurses and other professional personnel.

If 40 plus employees sounds like a lot for 40 patients, the director pointed out the unit must be staffed around the clock, seven days per week.

The present psychiatric unit serves residents of Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac Counties, and when necessary, Saginaw County.

The additional residents will be coming from Saginaw, Midland, Gladwin, Bay, Arenac and Lapeer Counties.

Mentally ill persons needing treatment from the six added counties have been going to state facilities in Traverse City, Lapeer, Pontiac or Ypsilanti. Presumably those facilities were overcrowded, Roll explained, plus sending the persons to Caro "is consistent with the plan to provide service closer to home."

The decision to send more psychiatric patients to Caro followed meetings earlier this month by representatives of the center and the mental health department. The main role of the center will remain treatment of the mentally retarded. There are 380 such residents at the center now and about 580 employees.

The number of developmentally disabled residents has been steadily dropping the last several years as they have been transferred to small care units in numerous communities.

The patient population at the Regional Center is a far cry from the late 1960s, when it was treating as many as 1,800 epileptic patients.

Roll said the mental health department may eventually decide to house more mentally ill persons in Caro.

State law at stake

Tuscola rape conviction before Supreme Court

A rape that took place in Tuscola County may have statewide implications.

The appeal of James Paquette of Millington, convicted in 1980 of criminal sexual conduct (first degree) was one of two cases argued recently before the Michigan Supreme Court.

At stake is the state law approved by the legislature in 1975 that protects rape victims from having to testify in court about their past sex lives and reputation.

Before there was such a law, explained Tuscola County Prosecutor Scott Stermer, the victim "in effect...became the accused...Their integrity was attacked."

It was common for defense attorneys prior to passage of the law to try to convince juries their client was innocent by arguing that the victim had consented to the sexual act. To show the victim was likely to do so, the defense attorney would try to prove she had a history of promiscuity.

Paquette, then 20, and Alvin Thrasher, then 22, also of Millington, were found guilty by a Circuit Court jury Sept. 12, 1980, of sexually assaulting a Richville area woman March 28 of that year.

of gas north of Millington. The two men who were convicted, she said, gave her a ride into Vassar, where she bought a container of gasoline. They then drove her outside of town and sexually assaulted her.

Judge Martin E. Clements sentenced Paquette to 12-20 years in prison and Thrasher to 6-10 years. Paquette got the longer sentence, the judge explained, because he had instigated the attack and unlike Thrasher, had a prior criminal record. Paquette served only a short time in prison before being released on bond during his appeal.

Both men appealed, but the Michigan Court of Appeals upheld their convictions.

Paquette's attorney for his appeal, Michael A. Mason of Flint, said his understanding is that Thrasher ended his appeal at that level.

Paquette appealed to the Supreme Court, however, and Mason presented arguments before the state's highest court Jan. 4 in Lansing.

HE AND THE DEFENSE attorney in the other test case before the Supreme Court contended that Michigan's so-called Rape Shield Law makes it impossible to present the best possible defense for their clients.

Paquette's attorney, Mason argued, was unable to prove at the trial the victim was after a "casual, consensual sex" the night she was picked up by the two men. Mason did not represent Paquette at the trial.

Because of the state law, Paquette's trial attorney could not present at the trial supposed information that the woman had had a voluntary sexual encounter prior to March 28 with a stranger she met at a bar, that she had told friends her sex life with her husband was unsatisfactory, and information regarding her sexual character and reputation.

The basic objection to the state law, Mason explained, is that it shouldn't automatically preclude certain evidence from being presented. The question should be "is the evidence relevant?"

THE LAW GRANTS only two exceptions to the prohibition against presenting evidence regarding the victim's past sexual history. Evidence of past sexual conduct between the victim and accused is admissible, as is medical evidence to show semen, pregnancy or a disease related to sexual activity.

However, those exceptions are only allowed if the presiding judge agrees they are important and will not stir emotions that would upset the jury's objectivity. The law further encourages a judge to consider in his chambers whether such exceptions should be allowed, so that the jury won't hear the arguments.

Mason said the Supreme Court now has four options: 1) It can uphold his client's conviction, 2) it can order a new circuit court trial for Paquette, or 3) it can order the circuit judge to conduct a hearing on whether the excluded evidence should be allowed. If he decides it should be, the judge can schedule a new trial.

The attorney considered the fourth option, of throwing out Paquette's conviction and allowing him to go free, as extremely unlikely.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY General Michael Nickerson argued the state's case, that the law should be upheld.

He told the Chronicle the excluded evidence was irrelevant and therefore was properly not allowed as evidence.

Paquette's attorney felt it would buttress his client's case to be able to present purported evidence of prior sexual improprieties by the victim, Nickerson said, but the only real purpose would be to harass her.

If such information were allowed, he commented, it "puts the victim on trial"

In four districts

Evaluation underway of school programs

By Mike Eliasohn

No matter what happens to the state Board of Education's plan to improve Michigan schools, the four area school districts are already evaluating their programs with the aim of making improvements.

Cass City, Owendale-Gagetown, Kingston and Uby are all or will be reviewing course offerings and content, with one aim being possibly stiffening graduation requirements.

Since last year began, there has been a raft of studies evaluating the nation's schools. The Cass City Board of Education was recently given a compilation, prepared by the Michigan Association of School Boards, of the various studies. There have been seven of them.

The state school board's recommendations, which it approved last Wednesday, makes eight.

Owen-Gage Supt. Ronald Erickson, who was at the state board meeting when it approved what it labels its "Blueprint for Action," stressed they are only recommendations. It has no authority to mandate they be implemented.

Among the recommendations are:

- Lengthen the school year from 180 days to 200, of which at least 190 must be for instruction, with the rest used by teachers for professional development and record keeping. The state legislature should increase school funding to pay for the longer year. No more than five "snow days" could be missed without having to make them up.

- All local school boards should require high school graduates to complete a minimum of four years of communication skills; two of mathematics; two of science; three of social studies; one of health and physical education, and one year of foreign language, performing or fine arts, vocational education or practical arts; plus one semester of computer education.

- Students planning to attend college should be encouraged to take an additional year of math (total of three years), science (three years total) and foreign language (two years total). •Local boards should develop written student performance standards for report card, promotion and graduation purposes.

- Local boards should adopt policies on homework, including how it is assigned, monitored, made meaningful, graded and returned to students.

- Senior high school students should take a minimum of six 50-minute classes each day.

- Teacher salaries should be increased "to attract the brightest and best into the teaching profession." According to the report, Michigan teachers receive an average $23,965 annually, which is the sixth highest in the nation.

- The legislature should increase funding so that the state board can help local districts develop their own competency tests and expand statewide testing of fourth, seventh and 10th graders so they can be tested in subjects in addition to reading and math.

City School Board's own "blueprint for action" was completed at its Jan. 9 meeting when it was presented with curriculum reports for grades K-12 prepared by teachers and their building principals.

The purpose of the surveys, according to Supt. Donald Crouse, was to coordinate subjects within grades and between grades.

In English, for instance, the aim was to determine that a student in one grade isn't re-learning something that he or she already studied in a lower grade or that they don't learn something "because the teachers are assuming it's being done at another level."

The curriculum study "is a means of double checking," the superintendent continued, since such coordination was already being done, one means being use of the same textbook series from one grade to another.

With the curriculum studies completed, the board at its Feb. 13 meeting is expected to decide on the

State board plan useful, area superintendents say

Area school superintendents see a lot of good in the state Board of Education's "Blueprint for Action" for improving the state's schools.

Simply by its being published, Kingston Supt. Jerry Laycock said, it emphasizes the need for higher expectations by and for students. "It's something visible everyone can see."

Meeting the state board's suggested added courses for graduation wouldn't be a problem, he feels. "We don't have any problem with those requirements."

What would be difficult for all Tuscola County school districts, Laycock continued, "would be extending the school year, for which we would need the (additional) money."

The state board is recommending the legislature increase funding to pay for the longer school year, but such funding -- and the longer year -- aren't likely. One state Department of Education official estimated adding 20 days to the school year would cost the state an additional $450 million.

The initial reaction of some key legislators to the state board's plan was that the legislature isn't likely to appropriate any large additional amounts for schools.

Owendale - Gagetown Supt. Ronald Erickson questions the value of adding four weeks to the school year, of which only two would be devoted to instruction. "I question the validity of the longer school year," he said. "I don't see it satisfies any real need."

Erickson feels that if students don't learn in 180 days, an added 10 (plus 10 more for teachers) wouldn't make a difference.

He has some reservations about some other aspects of the report, but overall, "I think there are some really

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Small world department. While waiting to be seated for a brunch Sunday in Bay City, a couple came up behind us. It was Dr. and Mrs. heron Donahue.

That's not so unusual, you say? Right. But how about this? One of the ladies working at the Inn came up and said, "You're Dr. Donahue, aren't you?" When the doctor acknowledged it, she said, "I'm Mrs. Parker, and you delivered me."

Dr. Donahue didn't say so, but you just know that has happened many times in his long illustrious career.

For the first time in several years, Cass City will host the district basketball tournament. The Hawks haven't lost a district game at Cass City in at least 10 years.

Judging by the record, they will need to be at their best to avoid from ruining the record. Schools to play here are Brown City, Sandusky, Marlette, Cass City, Mayville and Tecumseh.

If you were in town you couldn't help but notice that the spotlight on the main four corners was on the blink again. (Pun intended.)

Usually when that happens you can count on it being repaired within a day. But not Monday. The reason? It was Martin Luther King's birthday observance which is a legal holiday in Michigan and soon to be one nation-wide, of course. Repair was made Tuesday.

Patience was rewarded for relatives of Yellowstone National Park ranger John Lounsbury, who appeared last Thursday in a segment of the "20-20" television program.

The segment was tentatively scheduled for broadcast in September and then "definitely" scheduled two other times before finally making it on the air.

Lounsbury and his wife, Lois, drove to Bozeman, Mont., to see the program, according to his mother, Mrs. Lyle Lounsbury, which meant a drive of about 130 miles one way which the first 40 or so was by snowmobile.

If you think it's been cold in Cass City this winter, in Yellowstone one day in December, the temperature reached 52 below zero. The high for the day was 37 below, Mrs. Lounsbury was told by her son.

Decision expected soon on apartments

The Farmers Home Administration (FHA) should make a decision within a couple of weeks on a developer's request for a loan to construct apartments for senior citizens in Cass City.

Joe Green, district loan specialist at the FHA office in Caro, said last Thursday that he would probably start reviewing the recently submitted application of Rural Housing Corp. of East Lansing, which wants to construct a 24-unit building on village-owned property in the southeast corner, south of Garfield Street. The village council in September approved an option for sale of three acres to RHC, contingent on it getting the FHA loan. Green said he will be examining such factors as the need for the apartments, the site, RHC's credit history and financial capacity to undertake the project.

If he decides in favor of the project, the loan application must then be reviewed by the FHA state office in Lansing. Green expected the entire process of loan application review and approval or denial to take about two weeks.

Until contacted by the Chronicle, he was unaware that another firm, Bavarian Builders of Frankenmuth, is planning to apply for an FHA loan to construct a two-building complex for senior citizens in Cass City, 16 apartments in one building and 15 in the other.

Bavarian obtained from the council at its December meeting an option to buy the rest of the land the village owns, approximately six acres, where RHC wants to construct its building.

Provided Bavarian submits its application soon and all other factors are equal, Green said, if a loan application is approved, RHC would presumably get the nod, since it applied first.

There had been a third firm seeking an FHA loan to build apartments in Cass City.

Management Resources Development of Lansing wanted to build a three-building, 32-unit complex on privately-owned property north of the Charmont for lower-middle income families.

Its loan application was rejected by the FHA in November on the grounds the location was unsuitable.

One of the operators of MRD, Thomas Breakey, said at the time he would try to find another location in Cass City.

Green said last week he hasn't received any communication from Breakey since the denial.

3 meetings slated for grain farmers

Farmers are invited to attend a series of three meetings on grain drying, handling, storage and marketing.

They will be held Friday, Jan. 20 and 27, and Thursday, Feb. 2, from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the extension service conference room, 37 Austin Street, Sandusky.

Ken Hafmer, feed grain inspector, will start the series by discussing federal grades of grain. "How Does a Commercial Elevator Figure Cost, etc.," presented by Robert O'Connor of O'Connor Farms, Jeddo, will follow.

The balance of the Jan. 20 program will consist of "what kind of storage is

A highlight of the Jan. 27 program will be the morning spent on pneumatic and conventional handling systems. Doug Campbell from David Manufacturing Co. will be the resource person along with a panel of farmer users. Farmers in the afternoon will learn about filling bins, using spreading equipment, and crop dryers, such as, conventional, bio-mass and microwave.

Feb. 2 will be devoted to marketing. Jim Hilker of the MSU agricultural economics department will present an overview of the world supply of grain. Michigan price outlook and mix of crops for 1984 will be discussed. Hilker and commodity and security specialists will also be discussing marketing programs, hedging and forward contracting.

Peace gamers are loose!

By Jim Fitzgerald

In recent weeks, several convicted peace-game players have been released from jail and now are back on the streets, wantonly kneeling and praying and otherwise threatening the community with dangerous ideas. So watch your step. Everyone knows what war games are. Members of the military get together to fire weapons and practice killing people and destroying cities. No one is ever jailed for doing that. War games are better known and more popularly accepted than peace games.

People arrested for playing peace games are never specifically charged with that offense, because most police and prosecutors don't recognize a peace game when they see it. Instead, they usually are charged with trespassing or violating a court injunction.

That's what happened to dozens of peace-game players jailed in Oakland County during the last few months of 1983. Their self-confessed crime was pleading for peace outside a factory that manufactures war weapons. But they received 30-day sentences for stepping over forbidden boundaries or for disobeying a judge's order to stop expressing peaceful ideas in public.

The Rev. Melvin Hall was one of those jailed peace-game players. My function today, in the spirit of public service, is to warn you about what he's been up to since serving his time and being set loose on society.

Mr. Hall is associate pastor of Cass Community United Methodist Church in Detroit's ragged Cass Corridor. Shortly after he got out of the slammer, there was a terrible fire in an apartment building four doors from his church. According to news reports, Mr. Hall was seen arriving at the burning building on a dead run, still getting dressed, within minutes of the first alarm at 5:14 a.m.

Six people were killed, and he helped identify the bodies. He opened the church to survivors, giving them food, clothing and comfort. According to neighbors, Mr. Hall is always doing stuff like that. Each week he distributes food, clothing, blankets and other things to as many as 200 people who are merely needy and haven't even been burned out.

"This is where I see the church alive, not talking about it on Sunday but living it through the week," Mr. Hall told a reporter. That's probably the same sort of troublemaking thing he was saying when arrested for playing peace games outside that weapon factory.

So watch out for Melvin Hall. He's out of jail and obviously dangerous.

You may wonder how peace-game players such as Mr. Hall behaved while in jail. An answer was provided in the Sunday Bulletin of St. Gerard's Catholic Church in Detroit. The Rev. Lawrence Kaiser, the pastor, quoted a letter received from a parishioner who's been teaching at the Oakland County Jail for 10 years.

The teacher pointed out that some of the jailed peace gamers were ministers, priests, nuns, lawyers and educators. She said they were continually talking kindly to shoplifters, or counseling prostitutes, or helping young prisoners learn to read.

The transformation since the peace-game players arrived "is obvious. There is singing instead of fighting and swearing. What a blessing for our inmates, and what a Christmas bonus for me!" she wrote. "Of course, my bubble breaks when I walk by a group of guards and hear these beautiful people called f----- commies."

Of course. Your beautiful people may be someone else's f----- commies. Some folks like to play war games, and some prefer peace games. You know where you stand. And if you're standing in the street, keep a lookout.

Those peace-game players are out of jail and on the loose. Be careful, or you might stumble over a praying kneeler or bump against some nut giving away food and clothing. You might hear singing, or even a peaceful idea, for Christ's sake.

Snowmobile is stolen

Theft of a snowmobile was reported to Cass City police Saturday morning by Edward Scollon.

Scollon, of 4849 N. Seeger Street, reported the 1971 black Arctic Cat was left in a field near Chestnut Blvd. and Hemlock Lane in the Northwood Subdivision for about a week due to carburetor problems. The keys were in the ignition.

The snowmobile, valued at $300, was last seen about 24 hours before it was reported missing.

If you were in Texas during World War II era, Bill Moyers' television show about his home town of Marshall, Tex., had to strike a chord. You didn't have to be there then to appreciate it now, but the show assumes added significance if you were.

Three years in Texas was an experience for this Yankee in Confederate territory.

It was nearly 100 years after the Civil War, but racism still burned brightly in the mid-'40s. In the Air Force (then Air Corps) office where I toiled a black came in weekly to clean up.

Nice enough guy, I figured, after talking with him awhile. Anyway, he'd come in and exchange greetings. "Hi, Ben," I'd say, and he'd answer, "Hello, John." Nothing much earthshaking about that.

Except that our office featured three guys that were stationed about 25 miles from home. Each was Texas born and bred.

They were aghast that a Negro called me John. He should call you Mr. John, they said.

It got pretty sticky when I laughed and said why should he? I didn't call him Mr. Ben.

Moyers' show indicated that the Civil War was being fought in Texas towns until the 60s, some 20 years later.

It wasn't until then, the show indicates, that blacks were allowed in white stores and allowed to sit on the main floor of the theatre rather than in the balcony.

Now, of course, blacks attend the college of their choice, are active in politics and attend integrated schools.

On the surface great strides appear to have been taken.

In truth, visible racism has been wiped out in the south. If actual racism has been lessened it is only marginally better.

Because blacks refused to be shut out of the system they have made strides in receiving more of the opportunities that should have been theirs without struggle.

You can change the system much easier than you can change men's long-held prejudices. If they've changed much since World War II days it isn't very apparent.

That goes for the north and the south. Closer to home, prejudice is very much alive in the Thumb and in Cass City.

If Moyers could get that across in a documentary he'd have a real blockbuster.

It might even help change a mind here and there, but I doubt it.

Two injured when car hits deer, then rolls over

A Monday accident northeast of Kingston which started when a car hit a deer resulted in injuries to two persons.

Injured were Donald and Vounda Gill of 7450 Rossman Road, Kingston. Gill, 30, was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday afternoon at Marlette Community Hospital. Mrs. Gill, 36, was transferred from Marlette to St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw Tuesday for treatment of facial injuries.

Tuscola sheriff's deputies reported their car was eastbound on Rossman, west of White Creek Road, when it struck the deer. The car then slid sideways, rolled over twice, went off the north side of the road and landed on its roof. The accident took place at 5:30 p.m.

Five persons escaped injury in a 10 a.m. accident Sunday.

Cass City police said Eugene Michael Otulakowski, 26, of 6313 Kelly Road, northbound on Cemetery Road, started to pass a car driven by Joseph F. Santos, 34, of 6404 River Road. As he was doing so, Santos started to turn left onto River Road and the vehicles collided.

The impact sent the Otulakowski van, which had three passengers, down the Cass River embankment. It came to a halt at the edge of the river.

Santos told police he had his turn signal on and had slowed to make the turn. Otulakowski said he started to pass because the Santos car was moving slowly and he couldn't see the turn signal because it was covered with snow.

Luella F. Horner, 66, of 3600 White Creek Road, Kingston, was ticketed by deputies on a charge of failure to yield after a 4:10 p.m. accident last Thursday.

Officers reported she was southbound on M-24, stopped at M-46, then started to turn right and her car ran into the wheels of a trailer on a semi-truck driven by Wayne R. McCarty, 19, of Carsonville.

Another semi-truck was involved in an accident at 8:20 a.m. Sunday east of Gagetown. Deputies reported Robert W. Rocheleau, 41, of S. Elkton Road, Cass City, was westbound on Bay City-Forestville Road, west of Richie Road, when his truck went into a mound of snow on the road.

The truck started sliding. He jerked the steering wheel to the left and the trailer slid sideways, hit the bank along the south side of the road and jackknifed.

Deputies noted that because of drifting snow, only one lane was open and the roadway was very slippery.

Loy Arthur Smith, 36, of 6525 Centerline Road, Kingston, told deputies he was northbound on Phillips Road, south of Deckerville Road, at 1 p.m. Saturday when he drove into a ditch to avoid hitting a southbound truck that was traveling down the middle of the road at approximately 60 mph.

Only one lane of the road was open because of snow.

Deputies reported that Michael J. Mullin, 17, of 3350 E. Deckerville Road, Cass City, was northbound on Dodge Road, south of Shabbona Road, at 11:30 p.m. Friday, when his car went off the west side of the road into a snow bank, spun around and then flipped over, landing on its roof in a ditch.

Mullin said he lost control on the icy road after slowing to avoid hitting a deer.

At 7:36 a.m. Monday, according to Cass City police, Irene M. Freeman, 72, of 4456 Seeger Street, was eastbound on Huron Street, east of Leach Street, when her auto struck a car parked by the south curb. Owner of the car was Karl Wilkovsky of Bad Axe.

Officers noted the windshield of Mrs. Freeman's auto had frost on it.

At 11:15 a.m. Friday, according to village police, a vehicle driven by Raymond K. Phillips, 53, of 1615 Colwood Road, Caro, backed into the left rear corner of the parked car of Gary and Enita Nepper of Snover, which was parked in the Hillside Apartments' parking lot off Hill Street.

Fred Iseler of 4728 Schwegler Road, reported to Cass City police Friday that a hit and run motorist damaged his car while it was parked Jan. 6 in the lot between the Hahn Real Estate Building and Veronica's Restaurant off Main Street.

Caro state police reported that Teana Marie Robinson, 27, of Caro, was westbound on Bevens Road, east of Froede Road, at 11:30 a.m. Friday when her car hit a deer.

Your phone service in 1984.

How to start it.

How to change it.

How to stop it.

New ways to handle your phone service.

On January 1, 1984, Michigan Bell separated from AT&T. As a result, there are some changes in how you go about starting, transferring, changing or disconnecting your phone service.

Services Michigan Bell provides:

Michigan Bell provides your basic local service, ranging from budget measured service to flat rate service with unlimited local calling. We continue to offer Calling (Credit) Cards and optional calling plans, plus Touch-Tone® service and Custom Calling service, where available. We also offer long distance service within certain geographic areas called LATAs. LATA stands for "Local Access and Transport Area." In Michigan, there are five LATAs that happen, in most cases, to closely approximate our Area Codes.

Services other companies provide:

Effective January 1, 1984, AT&T Information Systems assumed ownership of the phones that Michigan Bell had been providing for a monthly fee. AT&T will continue to lease phones to you and will offer repair services for them. You also have the option of obtaining telephones from other telephone suppliers.

A number of companies provide long distance service between LATAs. You may wish to contact various companies for an explanation of their offerings.

Ordering new service:

Call a Michigan Bell Service Representative to arrange for new Michigan Bell service. You'll find a number to call listed in the Customer Guide pages in the front of your Michigan Bell Telephone Directory.

In order to use your Michigan Bell service, you need to lease or buy your telephones, as mentioned earlier, from the supplier of your choice.

You also may want to select a long distance carrier. Your basic Michigan Bell service provides access to AT&T long distance service. Or you may contact one of the other companies that offer long distance service.

Transferring service:

Call your Michigan Bell Service Representative to have your service disconnected at your old address and started at your new Michigan Bell location.

Telephone sets that you own may be taken with you to your new address. If you are leasing phones from AT&T, please call AT&T Information Systems for instructions as to the disposition of those phones (1 800 555-8111).

Adding, changing or deleting service:

Call your Michigan Bell Service Representative if you wish to add or delete telephone lines, or if you wish to add or delete other services, such as Touch-Tone service or Custom Calling services, etc. Your Service Representative's phone number is listed on your telephone bill.

If you want additional outlets for extensions, you have these options: Michigan Bell or other companies will install them for a charge, or you may install them yourself, using conversion kits available through other service companies.

Disconnecting service:

To cancel your Michigan Bell service, simply call your Service Representative and ask that it be disconnected. If you are leasing phones from AT&T, you need to call AT&T Information Systems for instructions as to the disposition of those phones.

Michigan Bell intends to keep you informed as other changes take place in your phone company and your phone service. You expect the best... and that's our promise to you. After all...

Gerald Bungart, 22, of Deckerville, was killed Saturday evening when the snowmobile he was riding ran into a parked car.

The accident, reported to the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department at 8:20 p.m., took place along M-19, approximately a half-mile south of Snover Road, in Moore Township.

The sheriff's department reported Bungart was riding his snowmobile southbound along the west shoulder when he ran into a car parked sideways on the shoulder.

The car was about to be used to pull another car out of the west side ditch.

Bungart was pronounced dead at the scene. No one else was injured in the mishap.

Officers noted the road shoulder was an illegal place for Bungart to be driving the snowmobile.

Slightly peeved

By Mike Eliasohn

Having been in a generally foul mood lately, I have decided to vent my frustrations by listing many things that have been bugging me:

Winter — It seems like when it hasn't been bitter cold this winter, it has been snowing. I like snow best when it's melting.

Property owners, be it of home or businesses, who don't shovel their sidewalks. There may be a few homeowners physically unable to shovel them who can't afford to hire someone to do it, but I suspect most walks don't get shoveled because of laziness. One only has to look at the path trod by persons going over unshoveled walks to realize they do get used.

Motorists, also out of laziness, who don't clear all their windows completely before driving. Failure to do so can result in accidents. One example took place this winter when the driver drove into a utility pole because he couldn't see. The result was a power outage for many persons in Cass City.

Motorists who don't kick the frozen slush out from their wheelwells. Occasionally, I see a car where the stuff is so built up and frozen solid, it's a wonder the front wheels turn. Sometimes the big chunks fall off on a roadway, where they become an obstacle to other cars. I know because I ran over one the other day.

Persons who don't fasten their safety belts in cars, which is most persons. Accidents don't always happen to the other guy or gal. Despite my feelings on the subject, I have mixed emotions about whether wearing them should be required by law.

Wood burning heaters or furnaces. Life was easier for firemen and reporters who go to fires before such things became popular, the result of which has been a lot of chimney fires.

News persons, primarily on television, who use the phrase "on line," such as in, "The nuclear power plant will go on line in September, 1984." Why can't they use plain English and say, "The nuclear power plant will start operating in..."

Restaurants which advertise "homemade" soup, pies, etc. I am under the impression that it is illegal for restaurants to cook food in other than an approved kitchen, which presumably rules out home kitchens.

Presumably, the stuff is cooked on the premises, so how about, "We make our own soup, pies, etc."

Mark Tanner and Marian Strozier, the news anchors on Channel 5. One at a time is okay, but with two, they giggle a lot, which I don't want on a news program. Why is it that the television networks have found they only need one anchorperson at a time, while local stations figure two is imperative?

Plastic shopping bags, which aren't made from a renewable resource and won't decompose, once thrown out. Paper bags forever.

The forms everyone who has stocks and bonds and, I think, certain bank deposits, has to fill out to verify their Social Security number, which the issuers of the stocks, bonds, etc., already have. It was part of the Congressional-Reagan Administration compromise so that banks and issuers of stocks and bonds didn't have to withhold 10 percent of all interest and dividend payments for tax purposes. The alternative is a big pain and with some of the forms being written by lawyers, I'm not sure if I'm filing them out right. If I goof, 20 percent of my interest or dividends is withheld as punishment.

Ex-Holbrook minister serves inmates in 2 jails

Rev. Dale Bird is spending a lot of time behind bars these days, but for a good purpose.

The former pastor of the Holbrook Baptist Church is the full time chaplain at the Tuscola County Jail in Caro and the Huron County Jail in Bad Axe.

Rev. Bird was at the church on Germania Road, northeast of Cass City, from September, 1979, until the end of last year. The church is now looking for a new pastor, he said.

The minister started working at the jail in Bad Axe last April while still serving the Holbrook church, and added his duties in the Caro jail at the beginning of this month. Both jails have had chaplains before.

Rev. Bird isn't paid by the two counties in whose jails he works. He is employed by the Forgotten Man Mission of Grand Rapids, but his pay has to come from contributions to the organization from churches and individuals. The pastor is in the Huron sermon about once a month.

He is hoping to start the same type of religious service in cooperation with local churches Saturday mornings at the Caro jail.

Rev. Bird is usually at the jails from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. What does he do? "I keep real busy."

His basic mission, he said, is, "I visit men in the cell block and share Christ with them."

HE MEETS THE INMATES individually, helping them with their religious needs and with various other problems. "I'll counsel them on any problems, except legal."

Rev. Bird has served as intermediary between inmates and their families to help resolve family problems. Sometimes he asks a local pastor to serve as intermediary, if the situation warrants.

The minister has also accompanied inmates to the funerals of family members when no police officer was available.

He administers a Bible correspondence course, which includes tests that he corrects. At one of the jails, he helps with the store for inmates.

"What we're trying to do is rehabilitate men through the Lord, Jesus Christ," Rev. Bird explained.

He feels he has already met with some success, citing the example of one inmate who is to be released this Wednesday, who, he said, has made "tremendous strides" with his aims and goals in life.

Some other men who used to be in jail almost monthly, he said, haven't been back.

Rev. Bird hopes to have more churches work with inmates after they get out of jail.

Many didn't attend a church before going to jail and once out, there often is a stigma attached to having been there, so the chaplain would like churches to welcome the freed men and women.

MIGHT SOME PRISONERS take advantage of him by claiming they "got religion" in jail as a means of earning good time and an early release?

Rev. Bird said he can't make a recommendation whether an inmate should be released early. "All I can tell them (jail authorities) is whether they've been faithful in church."

He said he wouldn't want a role in helping determine a prisoner's good time for early release, so they "don't feel they can use me or I'm hurting them in any way." (Prisoners can earn up to five days good time per month for early release, according to Tuscola Sheriff Paul Berry.)

The minister said he became interested in becoming jail chaplain through the late Rev. Milton Gelatt, who had served as pastor of the Holbrook Baptist Church and was a Tuscola County court officer.

Rev. Gelatt was on the Forgotten Man Mission's mailing list and after he passed away, Rev. Bird started getting the mail from the Mission, which got him more interested.

REV. BIRD AND HIS wife, Marie, have three children, Dale Jr., 10; Scott, 6, and Christina, 14 months. Since leaving the Holbrook church, they have moved to Sebawaing.

As mentioned, his salary is paid by the Forgotten Man Mission from contributions, which supplies chaplains to many county jails in the state.

Churches and individuals who would like to donate to his work can send their contributions to the Mission at 3940 Fruit Ridge N.W.; Grand Rapids 49504. They must be earmarked for the Tuscola and/or Huron County jails.

The pastor is also available to fill pulpits and speak to church and civic groups. This Wednesday, for instance, he is speaking at a Rotary Club meeting and to a church prayer group.

He can be reached by leaving a message with the Tuscola or Huron Sheriff's departments or by calling him at home at 883-2637.

Ginnie Mae, I love you!

1. You pay me as much as 12% interest.
2. You're guaranteed by the U.S. Government.
3. You send me monthly checks.
4. You're highly marketable.

Who's "Ginnie Mae"? That's the nickname of a little known U.S. Government-guaranteed security that is suddenly coming into favor among professional investors looking for high yield and maximum safety. "Ginnie Mae" stands for the Government National Mortgage Association—an agency of the U.S. Government. The full faith and credit of the U.S. Government guarantees these securities. This means they are as safe as Treasury Bonds, but yield a higher return. Interest and principal are paid to you monthly, giving you a higher monthly paycheck than just interest payments alone. If you have $25,000 or more to invest in safe, high yield securities, First of Michigan Corporation would like to tell you more about the advantages of "Ginnie Mae"—the newest girl in our family.

Your neighbor says

I could live without television for a month

The 17,000 residents of Farmington, Conn., have been urged by local educators and librarians to participate this month in the Great TV Tuneout, to unplug their television for 30 days and get involved in other activities.

Could Connie Benedict survive without watching television for a month? "Definitely," she responded.

Mrs. Benedict said she watches television four or five times a week, "because it's there. It's available," and "sometimes I watch it to get my mind off what's going on in the real world." She and her family have their favorites. She likes "Cheers," the family likes "Family Ties," and her husband, Douglas, who raises quarter horses as a hobby, likes "The Yellow Rose," which has a lot of horses in it. The Benedicts have three daughters, Sherri, 23, and, at home, Lisa, 20, and Jill, 17.

Mrs. Benedict encourages her family to read. There are "stacks of magazines" around the house and when no one feels like reading, or watching television, there is a 1,000 piece jigsaw puzzle to finish.

Mrs. Benedict likes reading fiction and non-fiction books. One of the latter, which she is currently reading, is "Stages," which describes how persons make moral decisions. "It's interesting," she said.

Mrs. Benedict has a vested interest in reading. She works as a seventh and eighth grade remedial reading teacher's aide at Kingston High School.

From working with children, she said, "I don't think they read as much as they should." If given a choice between a book and television, invariably, they will say, "I want to watch TV."

Children are willing to read more, Mrs. Benedict feels. "I think they just need to be challenged" by parents and teachers.

The Benedict family lives on Shay Lake Road, Kingston.

Youth sought for electric co-op program

High school students from rural Michigan will have an opportunity to learn about farm and consumer cooperatives during Michigan Rural Electric Youth Days '84, April 26 and 27.

This third annual event, sponsored by the state's rural electric cooperatives and the Michigan Electric Cooperative Association (MECA), will be at the 4-H Kettunen Center in Tustin. Three students from each rural electric cooperative will be selected on the basis of their interest in cooperatives, commitment to rural life and leadership potential.

Interested students, whose parents are members of a rural electric co-op, should indicate to their co-op their desire to attend. The deadline for letters is March 15.

Students selected will learn from a variety of activities and speakers about cooperatives, especially rural electric co-ops. They will also explore career opportunities in co-ops and take part in mock board meetings.

Free time activities will include canoeing, hiking, and volleyball.

Free brochure explains assessments

The Michigan Consumers Council has published a brochure to assist consumers in determining whether to protest their property tax assessment notices and how to proceed through an appeal process.

The council advises discussing any errors with the assessor first. Some assessors may be willing to adjust the appraisal, saving the property owner and themselves the nuisance of a formal protest.

If the consumer finds it necessary to proceed with a protest, the brochure provides information which will be helpful when it comes to documenting a case before the township board of review. It's crucial that consumers observe deadlines. Each township has a functioning board of review, which meets sometime between the first week in March and the first week in April.

For a free copy of "How To Appeal Your Property Tax Assessment," write Michigan Consumers Council, 414 Hollister Building, 106 W. Allegan Street, Lansing 48933; telephone (517) 373-0947.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Rich Lowe and Curt Little, students in Lansing, spent from Friday evening until Sunday at the Harold Little home.

Owen-Gage won a big one Friday night, downing North Huron, 87-77. It was a come from behind effort for coach Phil Gray's Bulldogs. The victors were led in scoring by Brad Erickson with 22 points.

Detroit TV cameraman

Filming grief hard for Russ Coleman

Fires, murders, political conventions, accidents, sports events.

Russ Coleman has seen them all—through the viewfinder of a television news camera.

The 1966 Cass City High School graduate works as a cameraman for WJBK, Channel 2, in Southfield.

It's a job he describes as fun, but one that has its exasperations.

Coleman, 35, has been at the Detroit area station five years. He came there from Houston, Texas, where he was for about eight months. Prior to that, he worked for a station in Fort Wayne, Ind., for six years, after eight months in Savannah, Ga., his first television job.

After graduating from high school, he enlisted in the Army, since he was about to be drafted anyway. He ended up as an infantryman in Vietnam and after two months and seven days, "I got hit." After that came six months in hospitals before returning to active duty stateside.

He got out of the Army after two years and enrolled in the broadcasting program at Delta College, near Bay City. By the time he received his associate degree, he was married with one daughter, so needed a job, rather than continuing his education.

A friend of his from college was already working at the station in Savannah, which is how Coleman found out about the job there, which was as a weatherman and working in the control room.

His first job as a cameraman was in Fort Wayne, which was "my favorite place to work. It was smaller and they treated you like a human being."

The Houston station, which was larger, was a step up the ladder and more pay, which is why he went there.

But the pay at WJBK was twice what he was earning in Houston, plus he had the opportunity to see his parents on week ends, so his stay in Texas was a short one.

Coleman is the son of Myles and Geraldine Coleman of Crawford Road, Deford, whom he visits most week ends. The cameraman doesn't like big city life, so welcomes the opportunity to go back to his parents' farm.

SIX MONTHS AFTER arriving at WJBK, Coleman was offered a job as a cameraman by ABC. "Everyone sets a goal in life," he said. "I set mine to be a cameraman for a network."

Despite that, he turned the offer down. It would have required working out of one city for three weeks at a time and then one week overseas. But with a family, he didn't want to do all that traveling, so turned the offer down.

He still does plenty of traveling for WJBK. Two years ago, he was in Florida covering Tiger spring training and he anticipates he will go back there this spring.

He was in Texas twice for a murder story (the mur-derer killed some of his victims in Michigan), covered a Democratic national convention, a Super Bowl and was at the last Michigan-Ohio State football game.

Coleman has two daughters, Brandi, 9, and Jennifer, 11, from his first marriage, which ended in divorce.

He met his present wife while doing a story about deer hunting. He and Bonnie Grifka, who is from Uby, were married in September.

TELEVISION NEWS isn't a low cost operation. WJBK paid $178 each for round-trip airline tickets for him and a reporter to go to Columbus for the U-M-OSU game. They had to rent a car when they got there and there were other expenses. All that, he noted, for a story that ran 90 seconds on the air.

When he and a reporter came to Cass City to cover Brewster Shaw Jr.'s parents on the day the astronaut landed, they came by helicopter. It costs the station more than $400 per hour for each hour a chopper is used.

All three Detroit stations use helicopters frequently, to get to assignments quickly and sometimes to cover events from the air, such as big fires. Coleman refers to helicopters as "a real good news gathering instrument."

All three Detroit stations were in Cass City at one time or another to do stories in connection with Shaw's flight. Why all the interest?

"It was somebody from home and the space program is getting to be such a big thing," Coleman responded. "It was a nice light news story."

NOT ALL STORIES are light. There was, for instance, the triple murder in Detroit a few years ago, in which the three victims were beheaded. While filming at the scene outdoors, someone in a building dropped a beer bottle on him.

Coleman has also had a gun pointed at him, in Houston, and in Fort Wayne, when filming in an apartment where two persons had burned in a fire, the owner and his sons threw him out bodily.

What he likes most are what he calls "breaking stories" when what is happening in front of him at that moment is the story. What he hates most is covering politicians. "I hate politics."

He also doesn't care for many of the reporters he has to work with. "That's the trouble with TV. The people who get in front of the camera have such egos it drives me nuts...They've got to have their time on the air and show themselves."

He would rather have the camera tell the story. For a story about an impoverished family, he used as an example, "if someone sees the pictures and sees how really bad it is, it tells how bad it is without someone telling them it is."

Coleman doesn't know whom he will be working with each day until he gets to work, since reporter-cameramen pairings change from assignment to assignment.

IDEALLY, ASSIGNments are a 50-50 effort between reporter and cameraman. "If I see something that will work visually, I tell the reporter and ask what they want...You have to find the angle they want to go after and show that visually."

At the time of the Chronicle interview, there were 13 cameramen and 12 reporters at WJBK.

Sometimes cameramen go on assignments alone, such as to film an accident, in which the anchorman will later explain what happened, known as a voice-over, or a press conference, where he will record whoever is speaking.

There are some assignments he would rather not go on.

When a Detroit area Marine was killed in Lebanon, Coleman waited outside his parents' house from 11 a.m. until dark to tape the Marine officer who would come to tell them officially their son was dead. The officer didn't come until the next day.

What about filming a person, who having undergone a tragedy, is suffering grief? "I hate that," Coleman said. "That to me is imposing, but you have to do it."

RUSS COLEMAN

O-G - union meet with mediator

Negotiators for the Owendale-Gagetown School Board and teachers met for the first time Tuesday evening with state mediator Bill Borushko.

"It was an informative session with some positive notes, but no progress was made at this time," said Bob Gengler, chief negotiator for the Tri-County Bargaining Association, which represents the teachers.

Borushko met first with the two sides together, during which each made a presentation, Gengler said. They were then in separate rooms and the mediator served as go-between.

The two sides adjourned after about two hours without a decision made on when the next session will be held, or whether Borushko would be there, though he is available, Gengler said.

Medicare enrollment time here

People who failed to sign up for the medical insurance part of Medicare or who once had this protection but dropped it have a chance to get this protection during the 1984 general enrollment period, January through March.

The medical insurance part of Medicare helps pay for doctor bills, outpatient hospital services, and many other medical items and services not covered under hospital insurance. Medicare enrollment period begins in January.

Protection for people who sign up during the general enrollment period will start July 1, 1984.

Medical insurance is financed by premiums paid by those enrolled and the federal general revenue. Currently the federal government pays about three-fourths of the cost.

Seibel to appeal board ruling

The State Board of Education in Lansing last Wednesday denied the appeal of Harold Seibel to transfer his property from the Owendale-Gagetown to the Unionville - Sebawaing School District.

The state board's hearing officer, Raymond L. Godmer, who conducted a hearing on the transfer request in September, recommended it be denied, that the property stay in Owendale-Gagetown.

Seibel, of Colwood Road, Gagetown, petitioned for the transfer in 1976. The Tuscola and Huron Intermediate School Districts Boards of Education didn't take action, so Seibel appealed to the state board. It didn't take action until after the Supreme Court had ruled on the Goslin transfer case involving Owen-Gage.

Although Owen-Gage was represented when the state board acted, neither Seibel nor anyone from the USA district was present.

Seibel told the Chronicle he was never notified when the state board would vote on his appeal. "I got a letter some time back that it would be going before the state board, but I never got notice (when) they were going to act."

He said he still wants his property transferred to the USA district, so plans to make another appeal to the state board.

USA Supt. William Dodge said he also didn't receive notice of when the state board would act, but it wouldn't have made a difference, since the policy of the USA School Board is that it won't get involved in property transfer requests if no children are involved.

Seibel had children in school when he first sought the transfer, but all have since graduated.

The reason Seibel and Dodge weren't notified when the state board would act, its administrative secretary, Lad Dombrowski, explained to the Chronicle, is that it isn't required to, nor would it make a difference.

Interested parties (affected school districts and property owners) are notified of the hearing conducted by Godmer, who takes testimony and then makes a recommendation to the state board.

Dombrowski said Godmer sends notice of copies of his decision to the interested parties. Those who wish to respond, most likely those who disagree with his recommendation, have 20 days to do so in writing.

Their responses are included along with the information compiled by Godmer at the hearing and his recommendation, all of which are considered by the board members in deciding whether to approve or deny a property transfer.

Board members made their decision based on the written record, Dombrowski said.

Tuscola rape case to test state law

Asked if victims might be more reluctant to report they were raped, he said that was a "definite possibility," adding that if they do report such crimes, they might be "more reluctant to proceed with the case."

If a woman's character and sexual history can be placed in question during the trial, Stermer said, the jury might decide cases on the basis that she didn't deserve sympathy, rather than on the merits of the case. "That would be very unfortunate."

The Supreme Court ruling could have nationwide repercussions, since Michigan was the first state to adopt such a law and now 38 others have used it as a model to pass similar laws.

New books at the library

THE OTHER KAREN by Velda Johnston (fiction). Catherine Mayhew is an aspiring young actress whose life in Manhattan has bottomed out. An ad in the Village Voice offers an unknown actress a part in a regional theater production. The role turns out to be a real-life deception of an old woman whose dying days may be made more pleasant if she believes her long-lost granddaughter has come home at last. Persuaded by the woman's niece and nephew that this is an act of altruism that will also fill her slender pocketbook, Catherine agrees. But things are not what they seem and she finds herself in a plot involving evil and sudden death.

AMERICA II by Richard Louv (non-fiction). This book by a San Diego Union reporter examines the ever-mobile American's growing rural migration, especially to the planned communities of the South and West, in search of "personal control in a livable environment." While sometimes overstating his case for this "condoized, computerized" land of privately governed developments and home-based entrepreneurs ("The America we know is dying..."), he offers abundant evidence that many, notably the affluent, are pursuing "that peculiar mix of nostalgia, faith in the technological fix, and privatism" available in high-tech towns and certain cities (Houston, San Diego, etc.). Drawing on interviews and studies, he describes the movement and the forces behind it and concludes "America II" may be yet another crossroads in the quest for an elusive Eden.

THE DRAGON WAITING by John M. Ford (fiction). Here is an alternate world where magic works, Christianity was crushed by the Emperor Julian and Byzantium survived to dominate northern Europe and meddle in the English succession in the 15th century. A Welsh wizard, a noble Greek mercenary, a woman doctor from the court of the Medici and a German vampire who is a munitions expert join forces to foil Byzantine plots and bring Richard to the throne.

HEALTH TIPS Remedies relieve but don't cure colds

A cold is caused by one or more of 120 different viruses and affects your body in many different ways. Viruses are usually short-lived and resist virtually all forms of medication.

Most colds run their course in about a week, with or without cold medication -- including antibiotics.

To treat a cold, doctors suggest the following:

- Get plenty of sleep.
- Drink more fluids than normal.
- Eat well-balanced, light meals.
- Avoid stress.

Using cold remedies sold over the counter may provide temporary relief, which is important, but they won't "cure" or even shorten your illness, physicians say.

If you want temporary relief, Aetna Life & Casualty's staff physicians and pharmacists believe you should be aware of a few things before you purchase cold remedies.

Remember to read the labels carefully and completely. Even over-the-counter cold medications interact with other drugs and can cause more serious medical problems. Make sure that the drugs you purchase and use have not been tampered with.

There are two common types of cold medications. One includes ingredients that will act on a specific problem, while the other will work on every cold symptom from A to Z.

To help decide which medicine is right, first ask yourself some basic questions, like: "Do I have a single complaint or are there a variety of symptoms?" "Is there any skin rash or irritation?" "What type of cough is it --

'loose' or 'tight'?"

If you aren't sure, consult your doctor. If you are reasonably certain you know the answers, ask your pharmacist for the best medication available over the counter.

Here are a few hints on how various medications work:

Antihistamines help stop a runny nose. When used in spray form, the drug constricts blood vessels which in turn constricts the dripping.

Oral antihistamines (tablet and liquid) act the same way. However, they can also restrict blood vessels in other areas of the body. People with high blood pressure, hyperthyroid conditions, diabetes, glaucoma or other eye diseases, should consult a physician before taking any cold medications, especially antihistamines. They may also cause drowsiness, and-or blurred vision.

Decongestants, which are found in a variety of cold medications, act differently than antihistamines -- they reduce the stuffed-up feeling that may accompany a cold. They are often mixed with other cold remedies instead of being marketed as a separate product.

Coughing is an annoying aspect of a cold. However, it does serve a function. Coughing is a natural defensive reaction against fluid buildup in the lungs. Therefore, trying to stop a cough is not advised.

There are a variety of cough medications on the market designed to do different things for different types of cough...expectorants induce coughing, while antitussive syrups restrain them. Before purchasing a cough remedy, ask your pharmacist which is best for your type of problem.

Aspirin is mainly used to reduce the aches and pains that can accompany a cold. It is an anti-inflammatory drug. Thus, it reduces swelling in the joint tissues of the body. Aspirin effectively combats fever as well.

However, like a cough, a fever can be an important body reaction to your cold. It is important to treat the cause of the fever, not just the rise in body temperature alone. If a fever persists more than three days while taking aspirin, consult your physician.

Aspirin substitutes, known as acetaminophen also work to reduce fever, but they do not contain the anti-inflammatory ingredient found in aspirin. The lack of this ingredient makes the substitute less irritating to the stomach lining. In some instances of a cold accompanied with an upset stomach, the acetaminophen may be preferred.

Regardless of which you choose, doctors strongly recommend taking only the recommended dosage -- two tablets every four hours if you're over 12 years old.

Hawks lose 2 more

North Branch - Cass City in cellar clash

When the Cass City Red Hawks travel to North Branch Friday it will be a battle of losers. The Hawks made sure of posting their worst mark in the Thumb B Association since coach Ron Nurnberger took the reins at the school.

The only difference in the loss Tuesday night to Caro, 66-58, was that Cass City didn't blow the game in the last quarter.

It was the first quarter this time that spelled doom for the Hawks. The Tigers came out shooting and consistently hit the 15-foot jumpers to go into an early lead and then hold it for the victory.

Hitting the long range bombers were Roger Louks, with 12 points in the first half, and David Thompson with three buckets and six points. At the end of the first quarter Caro was ahead 20-12.

The Tigers were helped by lackluster defense by Cass City.

The loss was marked by the same malady that has affected Cass City all year. Erratic passing and ball handling. Cass City was guilty of 21 turnovers.

Only Scott Hurford, with 11 rebounds, and Rich Randall have played consistent ball for Cass City this season and the Caro contest was no exception.

The Hawks tightened up in the second period to play just about on even terms as Hurford scored 8 points to show the way. At the half, Caro was in front, 36-26.

The Hawks made a feeble effort to get back in the game in the third quarter, outscoring Caro, 12-9, as the defense tightened.

Both teams burned the hoop in the last period, but the Tigers stayed well in front to take the win.

Hurford had the best scoring night of his career with 28 points. Randall scored 14. Louks led Caro with 16 points and Brad LaFave netted 15.

LAKER GAME

For possibly the first time this year the Cass City Red Hawks played with the hustle and enthusiasm that it takes to make a winner.

Okay, so they lost to the Lakers Friday and exhibited the same tendencies that have proved so costly all season. The score was 49-46 and the Lakers rallied to win after the Hawks came from behind to take a five-point lead in the quarter.

Cass City was playing without the services of John Meininger who has been suspended for two games because of rules infractions.

The loss of the big, talented center-forward was apparent as the Green Machine dominated the boards.

Second and third shots enabled the Lakers to take an early lead and stay in the game when the Hawks rallied early in the last quarter.

Coach Ron Nurnberger had the Hawks in a box-and-one defense most of the night. One man dogged John Rathje wherever he went and the ploy worked as the Laker all-star was held to seven points.

In the early moments of the fourth period it appeared as if the Hawks might upset the favored Green and White.

The Hawks trailed 39-38 when Joe Langenburg hit two close-in jumpers and Bryan Beecher scored on a fast break to give Cass City its largest lead of the night, 44-39, with 5:27 left in the game.

After a time out the Lakers went into a trapping pressing defense and the Hawk ball handlers just couldn't cope with it.

Three turnovers in a row enabled the Lakers to come roaring back to retake the lead, 45-44.

With 1:14 left the Lakers were in front 47-44, but Cass City wasn't through yet.

Playing for the good shot the Hawks scored to close the gap to a point. The Lakers failed to hold the ball after the bucket and Cass City had a foul shot with 9 seconds left.

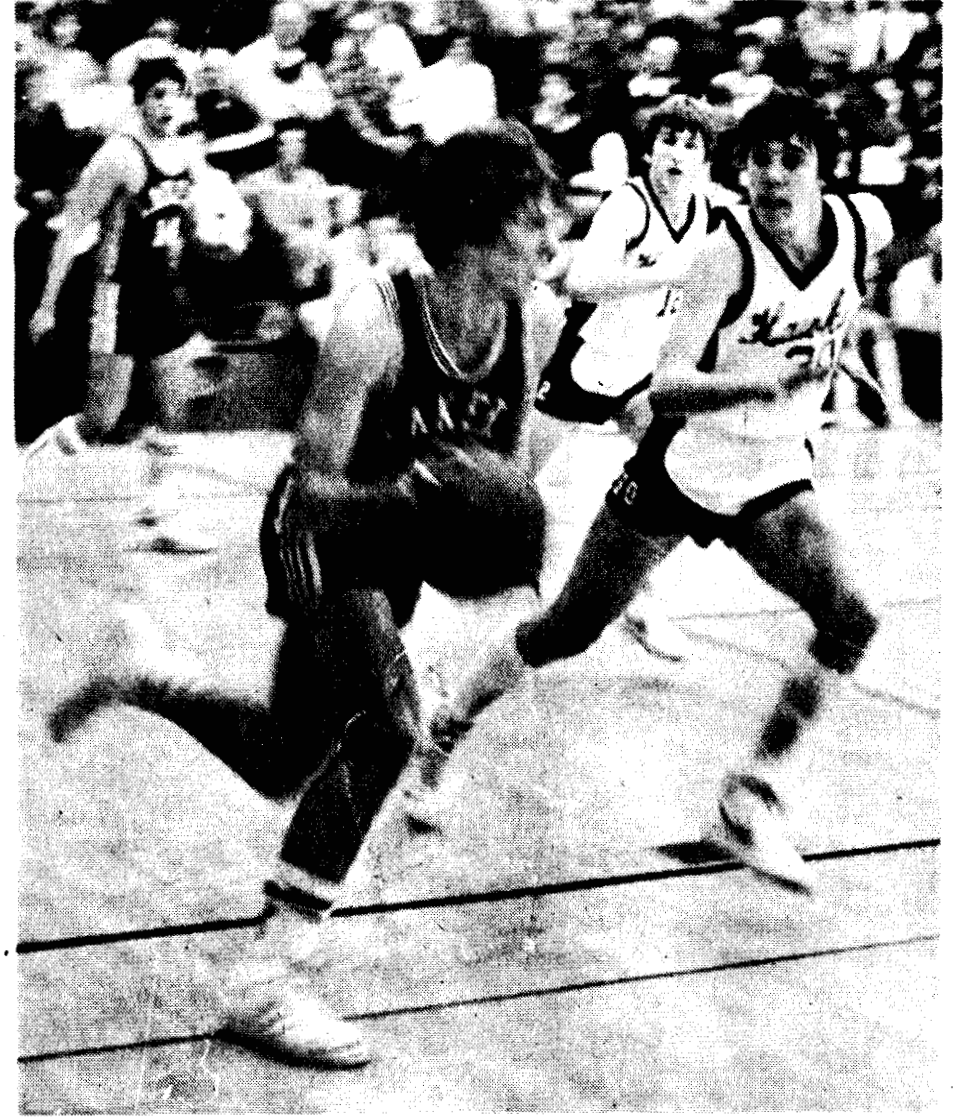

The tying free throw was missed, but Cass City had one chance left. After a missed foul shot Cass City had the ball out of bounds with a chance to win with 5 seconds remaining.

But Beecher hit a girder in the ceiling trying a full court pass and Lakers took the ball. Cass City immediately fouled but the free shots were good and that was the ball game.

Beecher led the Hawks with 14 points. Scott Hurford added 10 and picked up 9 rebounds. Bill LaPage netted 15 and Scott Rosenthal, 11, for the Lakers.

Assistance targeted for auto suppliers

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

Special assistance targeted to auto supplier companies, including four major pilot programs, has been announced by Gov. James Blanchard. The governor said he wants to create a new working partnership between the state and the industry, and in some cases, simply "get out of the industry's way" so it can pursue its own priorities. Blanchard proposed pilot programs to expand Michigan markets through a "Make It In Michigan" project that includes major companies, large suppliers and economic development agencies and a pilot project to provide a targeted, coordinated job training service for auto suppliers adding employment to service new assembly plants.

The proposal would also permit suppliers to tap the proposed Michigan Strategic Fund for investment funds and targeted assistance through the proposed Center for Small Business and Entrepreneurial Development in Jackson.

The governor also reaffirmed support for programs which he said will have to wait until the state's fiscal condition improves, including removing the cost of workers' compensation and unemployment compensation insurance from the taxable base of the single business tax.

Also included is support for wood products and technology research, a national advanced materials research center for wood at Michigan State University; use of the proposed strategic fund for financial assistance to forest products entrepreneurs, and a new council on forest products industry development for on-going research, advice and policy development.

The governor said he will appoint a task force to determine the appropriate role of public lands in future economic development of the state.

Rebuilding year for Owen-Gage volleyball team

This is a rebuilding year for Judy Campbell as she starts her eighth year coaching the Owen-Gage volleyball team.

It would be for any coach who lost eight seniors to graduation from the previous year's squad, including four starters. Another starter from the 1983 team has moved to another state.

Last year's squad finished third in the North Central Thumb D League with a 10-6 mark and was 14-14 overall.

The only returning starter is Sheila Engelhardt, one of two seniors on the team, and this year is being switched from setter to second spiker. The lead spiker is 5-11 Linda Retford, a junior.

Retford and LaNette Mickelson, the other senior, are the only players in addition to Engelhardt who saw playing time on the 1983 varsity.

Not only is the team young, Miss Campbell pointed out, many of the players only had one year's experience on the junior varsity.

One problem so far is, "We're not spiking enough. I don't have anybody who can really jump outside of Linda."

In addition to Retford and Engelhardt, Miss Campbell is looking for good things from Jenny Hellebuyck, whom she describes as real quick, but who as of last week was recuperating from a knee injury suffered while cheerleading. She was expected to return to practice this week.

Despite the inexperience, there are some encouraging signs. The Bulldogs finished third of five teams with a 2-2 win-loss record in an early bird tournament Dec. 27 at North Huron. Miss Campbell noted her players missed few serves.

She picks Caseville and Deckerville to probably be the top two teams in the league and her Bulldogs to finish "probably right in the middle."

Evening matches start at 6:30, beginning with a varsity match, then the junior varsity, and a second varsity match. The schedule:

Jan. 30 at Deckerville
Feb. 2 Kingston
Feb. 9 at Port Hope

Owen-Gage still seeks first basketball win

Owen-Gage lost at Akron-Fairgrove in basketball Tuesday evening, 84-60.

The Bulldogs, still looking for their first win, host Port Hope Friday and next Tuesday play at Caseville.

PECK

A victory continued to elude coach Claude Stevens' Bulldogs as they fell to Peck Friday night, 65-42. The host Pirates led by four points at the end of the first quarter, eight at the half, 10 at the three-quarter mark and then exploded for a 21-8 final period.

The win leaves Owen-Gage in the bottom of the North Central Thumb D League, tied with Caseville, at 0-5, and 0-7 overall.

In double figures for the Bulldogs were Gary Erickson with 12 points and Scott Wright with 11. The team scored 13 field goals and was 16 of 32 at the free throw line.

Peck's top scorers were Ted Krause with 14 points; Scott McCanham, 12, and Eric Kuhn, 11. The team collected 30 field goals and sank five of 20 charity tosses.

The Pirates won the junior varsity game, 75-39. Score by quarters:

Peck	14	16	14	21	65
O-G	10	12	12	8	42

BAD AXE

One bad quarter by the Bulldogs resulted in a lopsided score for visiting non-league Bad Axe Tuesday, Jan. 10, as the Hatchets won 76-57.

The two teams, both scored 18 points in the first quarter and Owen-Gage had only two points less in the third and fourth quarters. Disaster came in the second quarter when Bad Axe poured in 25 points while the Bulldogs could only manage 10.

Jim Slzaga paced the visitors with 29 points. Chris Peters contributed 22.

Top scorers for the Bulldogs were Scott Wright and John Shoppe, each with 14, and Reid Goslin with 11.

Democratic caucus rules challenged

Michigan officials for six of the eight Democratic candidates for President have threatened to file suit if the state party fails to change its caucus rules for allocating caucus delegates, particularly provisions which preclude a secret ballot.

They argue the rules favor former Vice-president Walter Mondale, whose organization was not part of the protest, because he has the solid support of party leadership.

The rules of the March 17 caucus require participants to both declare themselves to be Democrats and sign their ballots.

George Sallade, co-chairman of the Michigan campaign for U.S. Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado said the secret ballot rules give party, state and union officials the means to retaliate against those who do not favor Mondale.

Without a change in the rules, he said his candidate does not stand a chance of winning in Michigan. "The cards are stacked against us."

A LETTER TO DEMOCRATIC Party Chairman Rick Weiner, signed by officials from all but the Mondale and Rubin Askew committees, said the lack of a secret ballot violates due process protections.

Annual Bean Day Feb. 8 in Saginaw

The annual Michigan Bean Day will be Wednesday, Feb. 8, at the Saginaw Civic Center.

Markets and production area reports will be the focus of the morning program with Jim Byrum, executive secretary of the Michigan Bean Commission, updating domestic activity, and John McGill of the Michigan Bean Shippers Association with an international market review. Production area reports will feature Charles Broadwell from Ontario; Bob Melhouse, Minnesota, and Cliff Walker, Nebraska.

Dr. James Anderson, dean of the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, Michigan State University, will begin the afternoon program by highlighting the involvement of MSU in the dry bean industry in ways other than production research, such as product development, quality assurance, crop forecasting and troubleshooting.

Greg Varner, research director of the Production Research Advisory Board, and Wayne Adams and Jim Kelly, bean breeders in the Crop and Soil Science Department of MSU, will discuss dry bean varieties. Harold Rouget, east central regional crops agent of the Cooperative Extension Service, will discuss problem weeds and their control. Soil fertility for dry beans will be MSU's Don Christenson's topic and Steve Poindexter will point out approved production practices for dry bean growers.

"Where do we go from here?" will be the title of Dale Kuenzli's speech to end the afternoon program. Kuenzli is president of Valley Marketing Cooperative in St. Johns.

More than 85 chemical, seed, fertilizer, and other suppliers will be in the exhibit area.

Doors and exhibits open at 9 a.m. The program begins at 10 and will end about 3:45 p.m. The Civic Center is located just off I-675, on the north side of downtown Saginaw.

There will also be a family focus program. Morning topics will be bean recipes and "turn small time hobbies into big time bucks." Afternoon topics will be solar home design and "farm families plowing through stress."

Bean Day is sponsored by the Production Research Advisory Board, Michigan Bean Commission, Michigan Bean Shippers Association, and Michigan State University, Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension Service.

School program evaluation underway

procedure to be used to evaluate the school program and a timetable for doing so.

The aim of the board, according to Crouse, is to make any possible improvement in curriculum. Included will be an examination of graduation requirements.

OWEN-GAGE

At Owen-Gage, a curriculum committee spearheaded by high school Principal Wayne Wright has been meeting once a month since October.

There are approximately 20 members, including students, teachers, board members and members of the public.

The committee has been or will be looking at graduation requirements, use of standardized tests to evaluate students, curriculum development and athletic eligibility. It should have all its recommendations ready to present to the school board in May.

The committee, Wright said, has already completed its evaluation of graduation requirements.

It will probably recommend to the board that for students to graduate from Owen-Gage, they will have to complete two years of math (one is required now), two of science (one now), one semester of computer science (none required now), and one semester of typing (none now).

The present requirements of four years of social studies and three of English will remain the same.

It will be recommended that the present two years required of physical education and/or band be reduced to one year.

Dropped entirely will be the presently required two years of art, shop, business or home economics classes, but most students will still take that much as electives. The required classes will only total 12½ credits of the 24 possible from the ninth through the 12th grade, Wright pointed out.

KINGSTON

An instructional advisory council has been established, composed of citizens, teachers and administrators. Students are serving on some of its advisory sub-committees.

The council is examining graduation requirements, computer education, language arts and libraries, and reporting to the board as it completes each segment of its review study, according to Supt. Jerry Laycock.

It will present its recommendations for stiffened graduation requirements to the board at the Jan. 23 meeting.

Suggested changes will be two years of mathematics (one year required now), and one semester each of typing and computer science (neither required now).

No change will be suggested for English, three years required; science, two years; social studies, three years, and physical education, one year. Although not a graduation requirement, college bound students must take a year of Spanish, the only foreign language offered, and two years are recommended.

The required courses will total 12 units of the 22 necessary for graduation.

UBLY

"No question about it," Uby Supt. David Landeryou responded when asked whether the reports from the various national educational study committees was a factor in the Uby School Board's decision at its Jan. 9 meeting to organize its own study group.

Composed of nine teachers, three administrators, one counselor and two board members, the committee will examine such things as courses in all grades, graduation requirements, homework, where educational emphasis should be placed and teacher expectations of students.

Once the committee gets organized, Landeryou said, it will conduct a public meeting to hear from the public on what they want.

The committee expects to present a final report to the board in May.

Landeryou is sure of one thing, that high school students will have fewer electives and more required courses, "in effect, what we feel is important to them and their future."

Should school year be longer?

good aspects of it."

Uby High School has seven class periods per day. Most students take six classes per day and one study hall and some take seven classes.

With six classes, that works out to 1,200 hours of instruction per year, so the district is already complying with what the state board is recommending for all districts, Supt. David Landeryou pointed out.

Funding for a longer school year "would be a financial problem," he said.

Present state law requires 180 days and 900 hours of classroom instruction per year, which works out to five class periods per day. The state board is recommending six class periods for all high school students.

Owen-Gage students have six class periods per day and take six classes. Kingston High School has seven periods and most students take seven classes, according to Laycock. Some take six plus a study hall.

At Cass City High School, which has seven class periods, ninth and 10th graders must take at least six classes, which means they have one study hall. Eleventh and 12th graders only have to take five classes. Most take six and some take seven, but those who only have five have two study halls per day.

Cass City Supt. Donald Crouse said he wanted to keep an open mind regarding the Cass City School Board's evaluation of school programs, so didn't wish to comment on the state school board's recommendations.

By Bill Myers
Taking stock

From a newspaper report:

Chattanooga, Tenn. — "James L. Hardy Jr. was awarded $25,000 Tuesday in a lawsuit against Days Inn of America, Inc., claiming he permanently injured his neck after walking in on a 'skimpy clad' woman in a motel room.

"Hardy, 56, of Nederland, Tex., sought $150,000 in damages from Days Inns, saying the company's motel in suburban East Ridge was negligent for giving him the key to the wrong motel room and exposing him to the night-gown-clad woman in July 1981. Hardy said the weight of luggage he was carrying caused him to jerk his neck suddenly as he turned to leave the room."

I resist the temptation to comment on the above.

It does call to mind an incident I will title "Keeper of the Wrong Keys," and the setting is on the island of Guam.

I had rented a Toyota from the desk of National Car Rental in the hotel.

"Here are the keys," said the woman in the green uniform. "The car is a station wagon just across from the hotel entrance."

There it was, a somewhat beat-up wagon. I muttered to myself that National was feeling the spell of the tropics. The car wasn't sharp like the ones in the USA.

It was also nearly out of gas, and so I filled the tank and took an all-day tour of the island. Incidentally, it's a pretty island, mostly overlooked, except by the Japanese tourists.

Coming back to the hotel parking space, a fellow drove alongside, got out, and calmly said, "You've been driving my car all day."

"Oh, no, I got this from National this morning."

This went back and forth a few times, and the pleasant stranger finally got through to me that the car I should have taken was parked one row behind where the car I did take (and which was his) was parked.

"But the keys fit..." said.

"Maybe it's cheaper for Toyota to make them that way."

I offered to pay him for driving it all day, at the same time adding that I had filled his empty gas tank.

"Call it square," he said. We got talking. He was the circulation manager for the Gannett newspaper there, one which lays claim to being the first newspaper to be printed in the world, each day. The trick is to have the plant next to the International date line.

I swapped a few newspaper yarns with him. Before leaving, he suggested a place for dinner that evening, and we parted on most pleasant terms.

Getting into the car that evening after dinner, it was darker than the inside of your pocket. These foreign cars, I can never find the dash light. I messed around with my keys, located the ignition lock by feel and poked the key in. The engine started, but as soon as I took my hand off the key the key popped out and the engine quit.

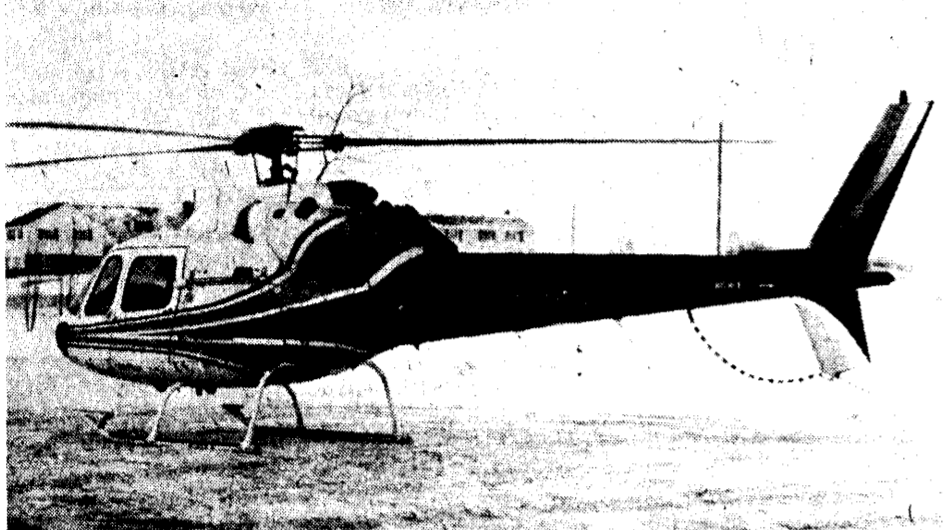

After 10 minutes of messing around and having exhausted my stock of profanity, do you know what I discovered?

I had been using the hotel room key.

The darned thing would start the car, but it wouldn't stay in the lock.

So back to the hotel, and on to the airport for the flight to Honolulu. Since I had driven this car only to the restaurant and then to the airport, and since everything in Guam is pretty close, there were only six miles on the odometer when I checked in.

The check-in girl at the airport couldn't believe it, so I had to tell her the whole story — the one you've just read.
