Two colleges vie for Thumb TV channel

BY MIKE ELIASOHN

Upper Thumb area television viewers who want to watch something other than the three commercial networks may eventually have a clear alternative.

Both Central Michigan University and Delta College have applied to the Federal Communications Commission for permission to erect public television transmitting facilities near Bad Axe to serve the upper Thumb.

Only one or none will receive the required permission. In addition to needing approval from the Federal Communications Commission, both projects are dependent on receipt of a federal grant from another agency to pay most of the cost of erecting the antenna and transmitter.

Both projects have been developed in a relative vacuum. Monte Higgins, station manager of WCMU-TV, (Channel 14), the public broadcasting station at Central Michigan in Mount Pleasant, was unaware of Delta College's proposal until advised of it by the Chronicle.

William J. Ballard, manager of Delta's WUCM-TV, said he had read about Central Michigan's application in a newspaper.

The proposals differ slightly.

Delta would simply relay what is being broadcast by its Channel 19, which operates on its campus near Bay City. Ballard said its signal would reach about 25 miles. He pointed out some of Channel 19's programming now is of special interest to the Thumb.

Higgins said "99.44 percent" of the Bad Axe station's programming would be a repeat of what WCMU broadcasts in Mount Pleasant, but it would have the capability of broadcasting programming specifically for upper Thumb viewers. Its signal would reach 25-30 miles.

WCMU presently operates a satellite station like that in Alpena and a "translator" station in Traverse City-Leland which only shows what is being broadcast over the home station in Mount Pleasant.

It is in the process of installing stations at Cadillac and the Ludington-Manistee area which, like the one proposed for Bad Axe, would have the capacity for locally originated programming, but will mostly repeat Channel 14's programs.

WHAT THE TWO colleges are proposing isn't cheap.

Delta's proposed antenna-transmitter would cost approximately $450,000, Ballard said, of which 70 percent would come from federal funds and 30 percent locally.

CMU needs about $625,000, according to Higgins, of which $500,000 would come from the federal government and the rest locally.

The federal money must come from the National Telecommunications and Information Administration. Ballard said it and the FCC work together. The latter won't grant permission for erection of the antenna-transmitter if the NTIA won't approve the funding and vice-versa.

Where will the local funding come from if Washington approves its share?

Ballard said no special fund raising efforts would be needed in the upper Thumb. Proceeds from Channel 19's annual auction are all used for purchase of equipment, which would include what will be needed at the Bad Axe facility, if approved, and proceeds from other fund raising activities are used for buying programs.

Higgins said Channel 14 raises about 25 percent of its funds from viewers and it would hope to repeat that with the Bad Axe station.

For its Ludington-Manistee station, Channel 21, it has organized a "Friends of 21," which is soliciting support from businesses and philanthropic organizations and such a group could also be formed in the upper Thumb.

CMU IS ASKING THE FCC for permission to operate its Bad Axe station as Channel 15, and that's where Delta may have an edge, Ballard feels.

His station applied to the FCC a couple years ago to

PCB silo bailout and $4 million lawsuit on hold

Farmers who have PCB-contaminated silos who have been waiting for the state to bail them out are going to have to wait a while longer.

Meanwhile, the start of what is probably the first lawsuit in Michigan involving PCB contaminated silos, filed in behalf of an Owendale family which is seeking $4 million in damages, has been postponed to March 5. It had been scheduled to begin Monday of this week.

The 359 silos in Michigan known to be contaminated with PCB, include ones on farms in Huron County (some have more than one such silo), one farm in Tuscola County and six farms in Sanilac.

PCB was contained in a sealant used for coating the inside of silos, constructed mostly by the Michigan Silo Co. from the 1940s until it sold out to C and B Silo Co. in 1966.

PCBs (polychlorinated biphenyls), a suspected cancer-causing agent that has also been linked to other illnesses, could spread from the silo walls to the feed stored inside to the livestock that ate it to the humans who consumed the milk and ate the meat of the contaminated cows.

To find the affected silos, the Michigan Department of Agriculture has checked more than 17,000 silos. All dairy farms have been checked, but inspection of silos on other farms isn't done yet.

The postponed suit in Huron County was filed in 1977 by Donald and Florence Haley and their son and his wife, Roger and Valerie Haley. Donald Haley has since died.

The Haleys, whose dairy farm is on S. Elkton Road, Owendale, have four silos built in the 1960s by Michigan Silo and C and B Silo.

They claim breach of contract, negligence, mental anguish, loss of livestock, equipment and land and damage to their health.

DEFENDANTS ARE C and B Silo, Michigan Silo and Monsanto Chemical Co., the manufacturer of an ingredient containing PCB that was used in the silo sealant.

The delay in the start of the trial, scheduled to last almost two months, was obtained by the attorneys for the Haleys so they would have more time to study information recently released by Monsanto in connection with other PCB lawsuits.

It is one of four cases pending in Huron County Circuit Court filed by farmers with PCB-contaminated silos.

PCB, once widely used in industrial products, was last manufactured in the United States in 1977 because of the potential health hazards.

Use of PCB-contaminated silos wasn't banned until May 3 of last year by action of the State Agriculture Commission, but its emergency rule expired Nov. 9. It was thought unlikely farmers would use the silos after that, however.

Standards barring sale to the public of milk or meat with more than an allowable level of PCB have been in effect since the 1960s, according to Ed Renkie of the Toxic Substances and Emergencies Office of the Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA). Not all farms with PCB-contaminated silos have had cattle with more than the allowable limit.

IN NOVEMBER, GOV. James Blanchard signed into law a bill approved by the legislature giving the Michigan Department of Agriculture the right to acquire and dispose of PCB-contaminated silos. The new law provides for reimbursement to farmers for their silos at market value, less depreciation, including those who already removed and disposed of them.

The legislature hasn't done two things, however. It hasn't appropriated any money to implement the measure -- an estimated $4.5-5.5 million will be needed to get rid of all the silos -- nor has it passed a companion bill to loan money to affected farmers at low interest to cover the difference between the reimbursement they receive from the state and what it actually costs to build replacement silos.

State Rep. Dick Allen (R-Fairgrove) said it appears $2.7 million to remove the 100 most critical silos will

COLD FIRE -- The temperature was well below zero when Elkland Township firemen Saturday morning extinguished the fire that destroyed the trailer of Carol Mosher. She wasn't home when it started. Firemen were at the scene about 90 minutes.

Temperature way below zero as trailer burns

Elkland Township firemen coped with well below zero temperatures Saturday morning while extinguishing a trailer fire.

Renter of the trailer was Carol Mosher, who wasn't home when the fire started. The structure, on M-53, south of Bay City-Forestville Road, was described as a total loss.

Ms. Mosher rented the approximately 8-by-30 foot trailer from Arnold and Susan Taylor, whose

Over 300 pigs die in fire

More than 300 pigs were killed in a fire that destroyed a barn northwest of Owendale Sunday morning.

Owner of the barn on Oeschger Road, near Riskey Road, was Richard Welch-

Owendale firemen received the call about 5:30 a.m. and were at the scene for four hours. They were aided by the Sebawaing Fire Department, which had all its equipment there, and the Winsor Township Department which brought its tanker.

Welchner Monday evening was still waiting to talk to insurance representatives, so didn't have an official loss figure, but guessed it was at least $75,000.

He said he was awakened by his dog barking. Whenever the water was running in the barn, he said, it would also run in the house. When he heard the water running, he went out to check the barn and saw the flames. He thinks possibly plastic water pipes in the barn had melted.

There wasn't time to get anything out of the barn. Welchner said the fire appeared to have started in the feed room. Since lights, motors, fuse boxes and refrigerators were in that room or nearby, he guessed the cause was electrical.

Owendale Fire Chief Robert McPhail said no official cause was determined.

The 24-by-110-foot farrowing nursery with gestation barn, Welchner said, was less than seven years old and housed a variety of pigs -- feeders, sows, etc.

mobile home is on the same lot. Mrs. Taylor said she had picked up Ms. Mosher at work at Provincial House in Cass City and when they pulled in the driveway, they saw smoke coming from the trailer. They were unable to get anything out.

The fire was reported about 8 a.m. Firemen were at the scene until about 9:30.

Fire Chief Jerome Root Jr. said afterwards he was unaware of any firemen suffering frostbite, but there were "a lot of cold fingers and noses." Firemen went inside the department's van to warm up when necessary, taking turns in fighting the fire. Back in Cass City, the bank thermometer sign read 14 degrees below zero.

Root said the fire appeared to have started in the water heater, which was located in the approximately 6-by-6 foot entranceway add-on to the trailer and then spread to the trailer itself. The trailer was old and its value was considered to be worth only $1,000. Root estimated the value of the contents at $1,500.

Mrs. Mosher said she lost everything in the fire except for some family photographs, which were in a suitcase.

Her possessions weren't covered by insurance. Mrs. Mosher is in need of clothing, and possibly later, furniture. Persons with items to donate can call Mrs. Taylor at 872-2614.

She is temporarily living with her daughter and son-in-law, Dwight and Rita Loeding, on Koefgen Road. Mrs. Mosher said Monday that she hadn't decided yet where she will be living permanently.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Elkland firemen were called to the Ed and Dotty Scollon residence, 4849 N. Seeger Street, at 2:15 p.m.

Friday to extinguish a chimney fire. (See photo, page 18.)

The chimney was connected to a fireplace insert. The fire was attributed to creosote in the chimney.

Firemen used an extinguishing fuse and a chain dropped down the chimney to put out the fire. Root said there was no damage.

CAR FIRE

Elkland firemen were called to a car fire at 4:25 p.m. last Wednesday.

The owner of the 1969 model car, John Heard of 4152 Sherman Street, poured a bucket of water on the fire and had it out by the time firemen arrived. The fire took place outside his home.

Firemen said the fire started under the dash. The fire damaged the wiring and dash and cracked the windshield. Firemen estimated repairing the damage would cost several hundred dollars.

Tuscola property values up for '84

Property values in Tuscola County, on which December, 1984, tax bills will be based, will be going up an average of 4.45 percent.

County Equalization Director Donald Graf presented his department's study of recommended values for this year to the county Board of Commissioners Tuesday.

The preliminary equalization study shows the value of agricultural property went up an average of 5.48 percent countywide; residential, up 3.84 percent and timber cutover, up .59 percent. The commercial and industrial study is almost complete and will be presented to the board soon.

The preliminary values are subject to change, since township supervisors if they wish can conduct one year studies of how much the value of property increased or decreased in 1983 within their townships, if they disagree with the equalization department findings. The equalization department studies are two year averages.

In March, township boards of review will hear appeals from property owners.

The county board must approve a finalized equalization study in April, which then goes to the State Tax Commission in Lansing. The STC approves equalization valuations for all of Michigan's 83 counties in May.

In other action Tuesday, commissioners approved a three-year contract with Unit II of the Fraternal Order of Police, which represents the Sheriff's department's detectives, sergeants, lieutenant, a total of eight employees.

For the first year, retroactive to last July 1, they will receive a 5 percent pay increase, plus the secretary will receive a one time salary adjustment of $500. The increase the second year will be 6.5 percent, and in 1985-86, 5 percent.

The percentage pay increase the first two years is the same as that granted Unit I, which represents the rest of the Sheriff's Department employees, primarily deputies, whose contract was approved in December. Their contract has a wage reopener clause for the third year.

The promotional procedure was made a part of the Unit II contract and there was a revision made in the article outlining the probationary period. Most of the other changes were in contract language.

Tentative agreement on the contract was reached Jan. 12. Unit II members approved it before the board did.

The board ratified the agreement recently reached with Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn with the aid of two mediators concerning the pay of court reporter Kenneth Gangler.

Joslyn had ordered that Gangler be paid $24,000 annually, which was $5,000 more than his pay established by the board.

Under the compromise, Gangler will receive $22,000 this year and $25,500 next year and the judge will re-

Rabbit Tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Maybe because sentiment gets in the way of good judgment, but I just can't believe that Cass City's basketball team is as poor as its record indicates.

I'm putting my money where my mouth is. Saturday I bet a buck a game for the remainder of the regular season with Rick deBeaubien.

Dick's a Cass City fan, too. He says that anything that he bets on is the kiss of death and that the buck a game just might turn things around for the Hawks.

You can take the person from Cass City, but not Cass City from the person. Received a friendly note and clipping from Florence Hoppe, now of Port Richey, Fla.

The story was about ice that fell out of the sky a few miles from her home. Only in a neighborly small town would a person take the time to pass on information like that "back home."

And only in a small town would it be appreciated.

After investigation about business phones there's one obvious conclusion. General Telephone has it rigged so that anyone not sharp in the business doesn't know what to do, buy or lease.

Consequently, at our office we've done nothing. What's more this approach has been followed by many business persons on the main stem.

There is agreement about one phase of the new program. It's costing more no matter what you do.

Grain storing workshop set Jan. 26

A grain storage and management tour and workshop will be this Thursday.

At 9:45 a.m., visit the John Schlicht grain handling facilities, a quarter-mile south of M-46 on Vassar Road. Schlicht has a new drying system with a Kongslied blower. The air mover is a new concept of handling grain.

At 11 a.m., visit the Paul Monte and Sons grain handling and drying facilities northwest of Caro, located four miles west of the Caro standpipe and north 1 1/2 miles on Sheridan Road. The Monte has 500,000 bushel capacity of flat and bin storage with two Behlen drying units. They have a two leg system (wet and dry), two cleaning units to take out fines and a screening bin.

At 1 p.m., the grain drying workshop will be held at the Brentwood (large meeting room) in Caro. It will focus on keeping grain in condition — mechanical, monitoring and insect management; air movement flow and principles, kernel physiology, bin principles and management; storage options and management, and drying equipment, principles and what's new.

The day is sponsored by the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service. Resource people will include Roger Brook, Agriculture Engineering, Michigan State University; Robert Ruppel, Entomology Department, MSU, and Harold Rouget, regional crops agent, Cooperative Extension Service.

Esckilsen given medal by Army

Chief Warrant Officer 4 Clinton A. Esckilsen has been presented the Army Achievement Medal for his contribution to improving the Patrick Missile System at the Martin-Marietta plant in Orlando, Fla., where he is stationed.

He is the son of Mildred Esckilsen of Cass City and the late Arthur Esckilsen. Esckilsen and his wife, the former Joyce Merchant of Cass City, are currently in Washington, D.C., where he is serving for a month in the Pentagon on the promotion board for warrant officers.

Esckilsen, a Cass City High School graduate, has served 30 years in the Army and plans to retire in January of next year.

The Haire Net

The current furor over the quality of education in this country is good news. The bad news is the various suggestions for improving it.

On their face, these suggestions appear right on. More math, more English, more, more, more. Really, we didn't need a commission to tell us this. What we need is a commission to tell us how, not what.

It's certain that if you walked down Main Street, USA, and asked about the recommendations for more basic instruction, you'd receive an overwhelming vote of approval.

It's even more certain that when you asked these same persons about how it should be achieved, you'd receive answers as varied as Michigan's weather.

The jocks would be aghast if one of the popular sports were cut to make way for a reading course.

The "minor" sports bugs would be the first to cry discrimination if their pet endeavor were cut from the curriculum.

Right down the list the answers would come. Home ec for boys, shop for girls, band, vocal music and all the others would have their critics and defenders.

There is a uniformity running through all of this. Everyone wants basic education improvement at the expense of someone else.

It would be perfectly okay to the vast majority to add basic courses and pay for them by reducing the salaries of the teachers and the administrators.

And that gets down to the meat of the problem. Deep down we don't have a commitment to educational excellence. It's one of those things that would be nice to have, like a trip to Alaska or a vacation in Florida. Nice, but not of gut wrenching concern.

If, when you were polling the United States about education, you would key the improvement to a $200 increase yearly in taxes, what would be the result? There's no need to go into that. You know the answer.

Gov. Blanchard has come up with a concrete proposal. What he wants is a scholarship grant for all Michigan students that achieve a certain standard on tests, regardless of income.

Well, at least he did suggest something, which is more than anyone else has done. It's a starting point for discussion at least. Hopefully it will never pass. There's an old fashioned belief here that scholarships should be reserved for students that are worthy and can't get to college any other way.

There are political overtones in the Blanchard plan. It's a sop to the restless middle class.

Now that education is in the limelight, it's certain that the politicians will try to hop on the bandwagon.

We'll be seeing lots of rhetoric, but little action.

Our commitment to education really isn't strong enough to demand it.

"If It Fitz . . ."

World War IV

By Jim Fitzgerald

According to newspaper reports, the Pentagon is currently planning how to fight World War IV. One problem is that the military leadership needed to direct World War IV strategy must somehow survive World War III. How can the survival of important generals and admirals be assured? Fortunately, our Coast Guard has already demonstrated that it knows how to solve this problem.

Last month, a bomb threat was received at Coast Guard headquarters in Washington. The lives of 2,000 Coast Guard employees, military and civilian, were in danger. But only eight admirals were warned to leave the building.

The Coast Guard commandant, Adm. James Gracey, later explained that the headquarters would have been thrown into a panic if everybody in it had been told they might be blown to pieces in two minutes.

The bomb threat turned out to be a false alarm, but that fact didn't mollify 1,992 people when they belatedly learned that they'd purposely been left behind when the eight admirals fled the building. "Headquarters morale plummeted," the New York Daily News reported.

Those unwarned people showed a bad attitude. As Coast Guard spokesman Werner Siems explained, the admirals were needed to keep "vital government services functioning." Of course.

What if everyone had been warned, and the bomb had been real? What if low-ranking personnel, scrambling for safety, had blocked an admiral from saving his neck? What would it profit a Coast Guard typist if she escaped death from bombing but had to live under a government whose vital services malfunctioned? My God, just think about it.

Also, think about how difficult it was for the eight admirals to respond to the bomb warning and flee the building. "It wasn't what any of the admirals wanted to do," Siems said. "In this case you do what the security officer says."

Certainly. Avoiding death by bombing is unpleasant work, but someone has to do it.

We can only hope our Coast Guard is in charge of military security when World War III begins and ends between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. some sunny day in May. Otherwise, surviving citizens may be left with no admirals and generals to defend them when World War IV comes along.

World War III strategy should be the same as used during the bomb threat at Coast Guard headquarters. When it is first learned that Russia's nuclear bombs are hurling toward our military installations, only top-ranking brass should be warned. If low-ranking personnel find out about it, there'll be a panic.

According to "Defense Guidance," the Defense Department's annual policy statement, the safest place to be during a nuclear attack is underwater, in a submarine. The U.S. has a limited number of subs and, of course, they must be reserved for military leaders. And a general's route to submarine safety must not be blocked by panicky privates fleeing target areas. The U.S. can't afford to enter World War IV with no top-level strategy for protecting the rubble of World War III.

If the warn-eight-admirals-only policy seems harsh on low-ranking personnel, it must be remembered that being abused is a natural risk of serving in the military. That fact was aptly illustrated recently when the Army refused to pay damages sought by a Seattle soldier, Betty Ann Buckmiller, who was raped and beaten by two fellow soldiers while confined to an unguarded barracks for being AWOL.

In rejecting Buckmiller's request, the Army cited a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that the military cannot pay claims to service members who suffer injuries "incident to service."

It is clearly "incident to service" for privates and seamen to die so generals and admirals can live. Living is unpleasant work, but someone has to do it. Otherwise, vital government services will cease to function and there'll be no World War IV for the Pentagon to plan on.

Obituaries

JAMES GORECKI
 Detroit who was killed Jan. 15 in a car accident in the Detroit area.

Funeral services were held Thursday, Jan. 19, for James R. Gorecki, 41, of Detroit Police Department and was the son of Theodore and Regina Gorecki of Detroit.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother Richard and sister Dorothy. Mrs. Lillian Otulakowski of Cass City is his aunt.

Services were held in Our Lady Queen of Apostles Church, Hamtramck, with burial in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Icy roads factor in three accidents

Winter driving woes continued last week as icy roads were a contributing factor in some accidents.

Edward G. Kontak, 19, of Mayville, sought his own treatment after a 1:15 p.m. accident last Wednesday in Ellington Township.

Sheriff's deputies reported he was eastbound on Tomlinson Road, west of Jacob Road, when he slowed to turn left into a business. The car behind him because of the slippery pavement couldn't stop in time and ran into the rear of Kontak's car.

The other driver involved, Timothy L. Sheridan, 23, of Caro, was ticketed on a charge of failure to stop in an assured clear distance.

A 16-year-old Deford youth was ticketed by Cass City police on a charge of speed too fast for conditions after a 4:15 p.m. crash Friday.

Officers said the juvenile was eastbound on Third Street, couldn't stop in time at the yield sign at West Street because of the icy pavement, and ran into a southbound auto driven by Joseph L. Krol, 19, of 4469 West Street.

At 2:10 p.m. Saturday, deputies reported, Clark L. Hillaker, 26, of 4059 Doerr Road was westbound on Shabbona Road, east of Keilitz Road, saw a car backing out of a driveway, and was unable to stop in time because of snow, ice and the road incline.

To avoid a collision, he drove off the south side of the road.

Driver of the car exiting the driveway was William C. Pomeroy Jr., 16, of 2034 Keilitz.

A semi-truck was reported to have gone off Bay City-Forestville Road, east of Gageton, into a ditch at 1 a.m. Monday, but no further information was available.

Jeffery A. Jensen, 22, of 4394 Maple Street, Apt. 1, was ticketed by Cass City police on a charge of no proof of insurance following a 3:10 p.m. mishap Saturday.

They reported he was exiting a driveway onto Main Street, west of Brooker, and ran into an eastbound car driven by Erwin G. Hall, 63, of 5825 Main Street, Deford. Jensen said he didn't see the oncoming car because a parked car obscured his vision.

A vehicle owned by Herbert A. Bills of Maharg Road was damaged while parked in the Cass City High School lot. The incident was reported to Cass City police Monday morning.

A car owned by Owen Quinn of 6216 Hadley Road, Cass City, was damaged by a hit and run vehicle while parked in the village lot at Church and Seeger Streets. The incident took place about 11:30 a.m. last Thursday.

Cass City police reported that Sheila M. Freydenhoven, 31, of 3157 Decker Road, Decker, was in her car in the Charmont lot at 12:35 a.m. Jan. 17, ready to back out of its parking space, when another vehicle hit her car.

Owner of the other car was Frank Johnson, no address listed on the police report.

Deputies reported that Audrey Alred DeGrow, 59, of 3255 Washington Street, Kingston, was northbound on Kingston Road, north of Lanway Road, at 6 p.m. Sunday when his car struck a deer.

At noon Jan. 16, deputies reported, Helen A. Moore, 38, of Caro, was southbound on Kingston Road, south of Hawkins Road, when her auto collided with a deer.

51 attend O-G Senior Citizens

The Owen-Gage Senior Citizens met last Thursday at St. Agatha's parish hall in Gageton with 49 members and Charlotte and Gaylord LaPeer as guests.

After a potluck dinner, Veneta Kling led the group in the pledge to the flag. Letters were read from Elma Miklovich and Mabel Ondrajka, who with Clara Adams and Estella Leyva, are spending a few weeks in Florida. Get well cards were sent to Mary Vargo and Anna Klakulak. Ada Salgat and Grace Clara were welcomed back and they thanked the group for the cards they received.

Door prizes were won by Grace Roberts and Mike Pisarek. After the meeting was adjourned, euchre was played. High prizes were won by Erma Martin and Gaylord LaPeer, low prizes by Maude Sarosky and Homer Kretschmer, and traveling prize by Nettie Doan.

He moved to Cass City after marrying Ruby Biddle Oct. 26 of last year.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Bernard (Audrey) Savary, Oxford, Mrs. Clyde (Barbara) Schinke, Rochester; two sons, Robert A. Thorne, Pontiac, and Larry M. Thorne, Royal Oak; nine grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren, and one step-son.

He was a retired carpenter and also retired from the staff of Camp Barakel, Fairview. He was a member of the Five Points Community Church, Pontiac Township.

Funeral services will be at noon Thursday at the Five Points Church, with burial in White Chapel Cemetery, Troy.

Arrangements were by Pixley Memorial Chapel, Rochester.

Osborn candidate for sheriff

Sanilac County Deputy Sheriff John G. Osborn of Sandusky announced Monday that he will seek the Republican nomination for sheriff of Sanilac County.

Osborn is a nine-year veteran of the Sheriff's Department and has received two meritorious citations during that time.

JOHN OSBORN

Deputy Osborn has worked extensively with Sanilac County Ambulance Services, is a licensed paramedic and is currently in charge of training for county ambulance personnel.

In 1981 he was named "police officer of the year" for his work in developing and constructing a shooting range to be used in police training.

Osborn is a life-long resident of Sanilac County and graduated from Crosswell-Lexington High School. He holds an associate degree in law enforcement from St. Clair County Community College and is currently working on a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from Saginaw Valley State College.

Osborn is a member of Custer Lodge No. 393, F&M, president of the Sanilac County Law Enforcement Association and Vice-President of the Deputy Sheriffs Association of Michigan.

His wife, Teresa, is an x-ray technician at McKenzie Memorial Hospital in Sandusky.

ORDINANCE NO. 106

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND ORDINANCE NO. 105, ENTITLED:

USE OF PUBLIC AND PRIVATE SEWERS AND DRAINS; THE INSTALLATION AND CONNECTION OF BUILDING SEWERS AND THE DISCHARGE OF WASTES INTO THE VILLAGE'S SEWER SYSTEM; AND ESTABLISHING AND PROVIDING FOR THE COLLECTION OF RATES AND CHARGES FOR USE OF THE VILLAGE'S SYSTEM IN THE VILLAGE OF GAGETOWN, MICHIGAN.

THE VILLAGE OF GAGETOWN ORDINANCE:

Section 1. Sections 10 and 11 of Ordinance No. 105 shall be amended to provide as follows:

Section 10. Service Charges and Rates to Users:

From and after the date of adoption of this Ordinance and pursuant to the provisions of Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended, the Revenue Bond Act, the service charges and rates to users of the sewer system shall be as prescribed from time to time by resolution of the Village Council. Such charges shall initially be as follows:

A. Capital Connection Charges:

Prior to connecting to the Village Sewer System, the User so connecting shall pay the following Capital Charges:

Each dwelling unit - $2,000.00 minimum. Provided, however, in the event a one-inch or larger water meter is used to service a dwelling unit, the Capital Charges shall be assessed as set forth below. Uses other than dwelling units - minimum size connection one (1) inch.

1 inch meter	50 GPM	$ 5,000.00
1 1/2 inch meter	100 GPM	10,000.00
2 inch meter	160 GPM	16,000.00
3 inch meter	300 GPM	30,000.00
4 inch meter	500 GPM	50,000.00
6 inch meter	1000 GPM	100,000.00
8 inch meter	1600 GPM	160,000.00

All meters larger than 8 inches to be charged for in the same mathematical proportions as the above set forth charges.

B. Special Exceptions:

Capital service charges normally shall be paid in full before a connection to the sewer system is allowed. However, an installment payment program shall be made available to any person who elects to pay in that manner. Written notice to elect to pay by installments shall be made to the Village on or before May 1, 1985.

Installment payments shall be made in thirty-nine (39) equal payments, commencing July 1, 1985, and shall bear interest at the rate of twelve (12%) per cent per annum commencing July 1, 1985 on the unpaid balance. The entire unpaid balance may be paid at any time.

C. Non-Residents:

Non-residents connecting to the Village Sewer System shall pay 1 1/2 times the Capital charges listed above for each connection to said system.

D. Sewer Use Charge:

Sewer Use Charges shall be based initially on a minimum flat rate of $18.00 with a charge of $1.50 per thousand gallons or fraction thereof used over and above 12,000 gallons per quarter.

A surcharge for extra strength sewage shall be charged at the rate of $0.16 per pound for S.S. and $0.26 per pound for B.O.D.

E. Billing and Annual Notice of User Charge Allocation:

All recurring charges as hereinbefore provided shall be rendered quarterly during each operating year at the same time and shall represent charges for the quarterly period immediately preceding the date of rendering the bill. Said bills shall become due and payable within fifteen (15) days from the date thereof, and if said bill is not paid on or before the last due date thereof, a penalty of ten per cent (10%) of the amount of said bill representing the sewer service charges shall be applied thereto.

The Village shall notify annually each user of the system of the amounts of monthly user charge that are allocated to the Debt Retirement charge and to the O. M. & R charge.

F. Enforcement:

The charges and rates herein specified, in accordance with the provisions of Section 21 of Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended, shall constitute a lien on the property served and benefited, and if not paid within six (6) months after the same are due, the official or officials in charge of the collection thereof shall, prior to August 1st of each year, certify to the tax assessing officer of the Village and Township the fact of such delinquency, whereupon such charge shall be by him entered upon the next tax roll as a charge against such premises and shall be collected and the lien thereof enforced in the same manner as general township taxes against such premises are collected and the lien thereof enforced.

In addition to the foregoing, the Village shall have the right to shut off water service to any premises for which charges for sewer services have not been paid, and such sewer service shall not be re-established until all delinquent charges and penalties and a turn-on-charge to be specified by the Village Council, have been paid.

G. Inspection:

The Village shall have the right to inspect all connections to the Sewer System, and all connections must meet the approval of the Village.

Section 11. Allocation of Revenues:

All monies derived collection of the rates and charges imposed by this Ordinance shall be deposited in a bank, to be designated by the Village Council, in a special depository account to be designated "VILLAGE OF GAGETOWN SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEM RECEIVING FUND, and the moneys in said fund shall be allocated periodically to the following separate funds:

- (A) OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE FUND (which includes Replacement Costs);
- (B) BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION FUND;
- (C) RECONSTRUCTION FUND;
- (D) IMPROVEMENT FUND.

Moneys remaining in the Operation and Maintenance Fund shall be credited to the user class from which the excess was derived and an appropriate rate adjustment made so that the user class which generates the excess will directly obtain credit therefor.

Section 12. Conflict and Severability:

All ordinances, resolutions and orders or parts thereof in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance are to the extent of such conflict hereby repealed, and each section of this ##### Section 13. Publication and Recording:

This Ordinance shall be published in full in the Cass City Chronicle, a newspaper of general circulation in the Village, and under State law to publish legal notices promptly after its adoption, and the same shall be recorded in the Ordinance Book of the Village and such recording authorized by the signatures of the Village President and Village Clerk.

Section 14. Effective Date:

This Ordinance shall be effective on the date of its adoption, and shall be immediately necessary for the preservation of the peace, health and safety of the Village and shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and publication as required by law.

Passed and adopted by the Village of Gageton, County of Tuscola, Michigan, on January 18, 1984, and approved by me, William Downing, Village President of Gageton.

Attest: Ebery Sontag, Village Clerk.

YEAS: Leroy Stapleton, Richard Carroll, Fred Sullivan, Charles Wright, Dave Abbe, Thomas Reehl.

NAYS: None. ABSENT: None.

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete copy of an Ordinance adopted by the Village Council of the Village of Gageton, County of Tuscola, Michigan, on January 18, 1984, and that the minutes of said meeting were kept and will be made available as required by law.

I further certify that said Ordinance has been recorded in the Ordinance Book of the Village of Gageton and such recording has been authenticated by the signature of the Village President and Village Clerk.

Ebery Sontag, Village Clerk.

Winter memories

By Mike Eliasohn

All women who remember having worn leggings, raise your hands.

Now, all women and girls who don't know what leggings are, raise your hands.

Leggings go back to the days when no female would be caught dead in public wearing slacks or jeans. If they wore trousers at all, it was when they cleaned the garage or slopped the pigs. I dare say many women did farm chores while wearing dresses.

Leggings were worn by girls under their dresses on their way to and from school so that their legs didn't freeze. They were, the office expert tells me -- who is slightly older than I am -- made out of wool, with a soft lining inside. They were waist length and had straps under the feet.

Winter fashions have changed greatly since I was a kid, and the disappearance of leggings is only one example.

Leggings probably disappeared in the early 1960s, I suppose when girls started wearing trousers in public.

Girls also wore white or red rubber boots with zippers and fake fur around the tops.

Boys wore galoshes, of course. Four buckle Arctics were the norm.

I can't remember when I started wearing gloves, but it seems like those were something you graduated to. Little kids only wore mittens.

The worst mittens I ever had were coated on the outside with a plastic type rubber material. I think the idea was that they wouldn't get soaking wet if the kids played in the snow.

That was nice in theory, but in practice, the surface of the things was so slippery it was impossible to pack a good snowball and throw it, because the snow felt like ice. What good are mittens like that to a kid if he can't pack snowballs with them?

I must have been good at losing things, because I can't remember ever having those little elastic straps that clipped to the coat sleeves and mittens, so that the kids wouldn't lose their mittens -- unless

I lost the clips.

I don't remember what kind of winter hat I wore when I was a kid, only that it wasn't a knit cap like almost everyone wears these days. In my younger days, about the only persons who wore knit caps were sailors and maybe lumberjacks.

Knit caps are nice, since they can easily be stuck inside a coat pocket when indoors, but I find they can't completely cover my ears without obscuring my vision.

The best winter hat I had, which was when I was a young adult, was one of those Russian style hats, which have retractable ear flaps. It was possible to completely cover my ears and still see where I was going.

The trend in winter clothing these days seems to be to pretend it isn't winter. That might be nice psychologically, but doesn't make much sense.

For instance, kids and some adults parade around all winter in jogging type shoes, which certainly aren't designed for keeping feet warm. And slush and salt hurt leather athletic shoes.

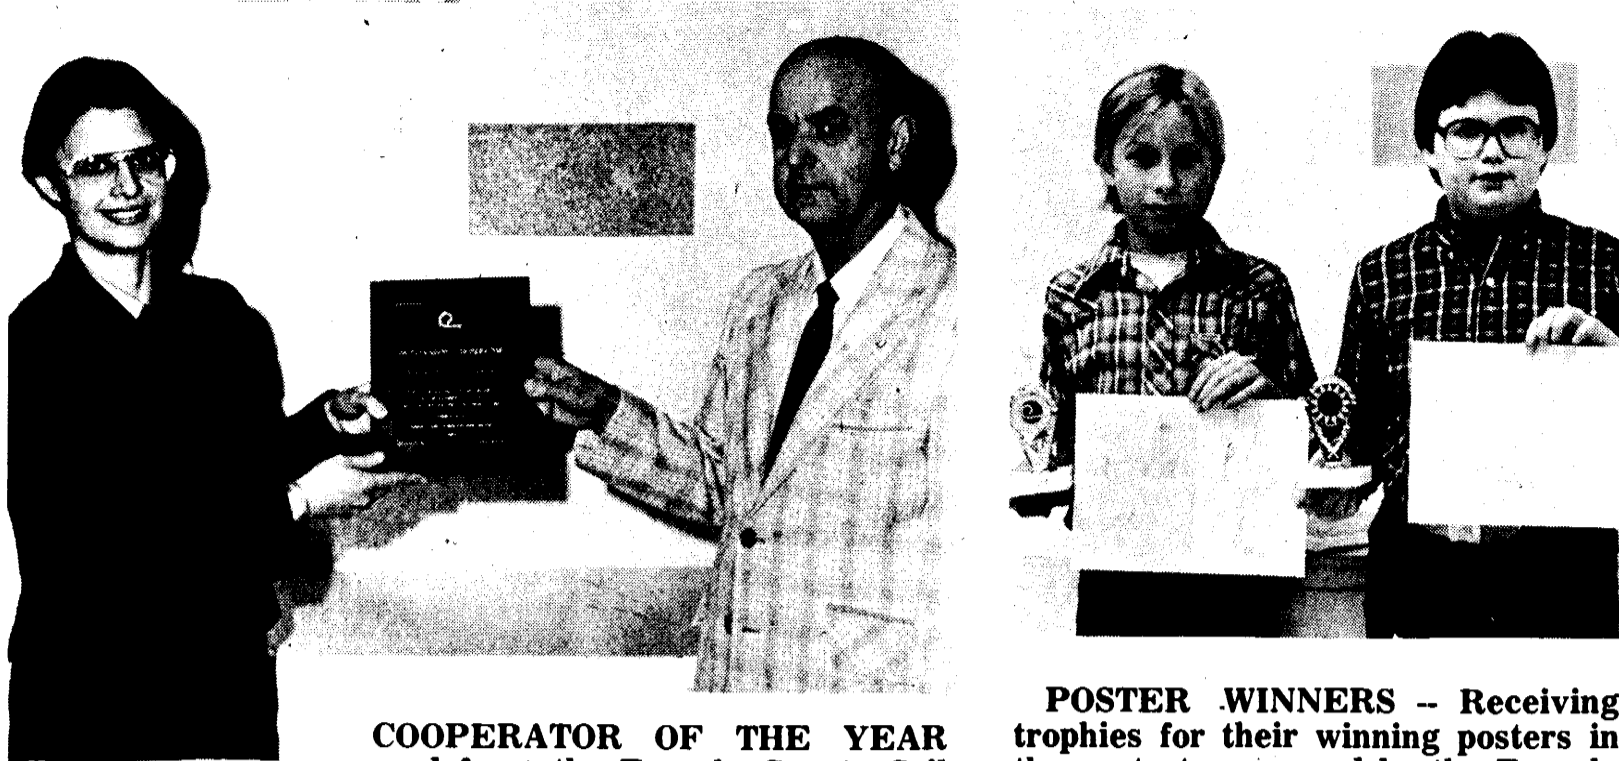

When I was a kid, the only shoes that wore athletic shoes in winter -- what we called tennis shoes -- were too poor to afford anything else. Of course, in those days, a pair of PF Flyers probably cost $5. Some athletic shoes these days cost more than a lifetime subscription to National Geographic.

My favorite trousers in winter are corduroy. They are warm and comfortable, but I don't see corduroy being worn much these days.

Blue jeans, which now seem to be the clothes for all seasons and reasons, don't seem too warm.

After all, how much warmth can they provide when there is only a thirty-second of an inch of fabric between one's skin and cold air?

Tight fitting jeans on good looking females may not keep them warm, but they can raise my temperature a few degrees.

Hofmeisters soil district cooperators of the year

Ken and Andrea Hofmeister of Hobart Road, Gagetown, were honored as cooperators of the year last Wednesday at the 40th annual Tuscola County Soil Conservation District meeting.

The dinner meeting attended by approximately 160 persons was held in the Caro High School cafeteria.

Mrs. Hofmeister accepted the plaque for "outstanding accomplishment in the conservation of soil, water and related resources" from district director Gerald Hicks of DeFord. Her husband was unable to attend because he was attending the first session of the Michigan Agricultural Leadership Program at Michigan State University.

The Hofmeisters farm 325 acres of cash crops (corn, wheat, beans and rye), in Elmwood Township.

Their conservation efforts starting in 1977 include installation of about 20,000 feet of drainage tile, five erosion control structures, a 1,300 foot grassed waterway, a 650-foot shallow ditch, planting of a windbreak to shield their house, use of conservation tillage on 31 acres of soybeans and dry beans in 1980, and planting of no-till corn in rye in 1981, more no-till corn in 1982 and no-till soybeans planted in corn stubble in 1983.

In preparation for planting of a 1-acre experimental asparagus plot (10,000 plants), the Hofmeisters planted wheatgrass and rye strips as wind barriers.

Mrs. Hofmeister, who now does most of the farming, is director of the Cass City community choir (Tom Thumb Singers), sings professionally and most Sundays in the First Presbyterian Church in Cass City, and teaches voice and piano.

Her husband, who is regional manager for Agri-Tronix in Caro, which sells farm computers, is also Elmwood Township treasurer and a past president and director of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau.

They have two children, Nicholas, 5, and Mary Jo, 4.

OTHER AWARDS

Trophies were presented to the winners of the district sponsored conservation poster contest. They were: Division I (grades 1-2), Robbie Hogarth and Kenny Farmer, Millington; II (grades 3-4), John Jesionowski, Reese, and Nikki Bundy, Millington; III (grades 5-6), Tony Diegel and Tony Favazza, both of Kingston, and IV (grades 7-8), Julie Koepf, Sebewaing.

Scrapbook award winners were: Division II (grades 5-6), Mike Sattlerberg and Shelly Parmenter, and III (grades 7-8), Paul Desmarais. All attend Unionville-Sebewaing Middle School.

Not all the award recipients were present. Trophies were presented for the district-sponsored land judging contest to Reese High School Future Farmers of America, first place; Caro FFA, second, and Unionville-Sebewaing FFA, third. The Reese FFA also received the Bruce Ruggles Memorial cash award. Ed Kuck of Reese was presented a desk pen set for high individual score.

Charles Wells of Denmark Township was presented a plaque honoring him for 20 years of service as a district director. Mary Lou Earl was given a desk pen set and cash award for the 15 years she has worked in the Soil Conservation District office as district aide.

Henry Gruber of Gilford Township, who has been a district director three years, was elected to a new three-year term.

PROGRAM

District Conservationist Phil Dakin of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service showed slides illustrating accomplishments in the district during the past year.

There were 600 acres of no-till corn and 140 of no-till soybeans planted in the county last year in cooperation with the district, plus 120 acres each of ridge-till corn and soybeans and 100 acres each of ridge-till sugar beets and dry beans. The district worked with the Tuscola County Road Commission and county drain commissioner in 1983 on using plastic netting to hold grass seed and mulch in place on steep roadside ditch banks, so that the grass would grow.

The district staff aided 2,250 landowners in 1983. Conservation practices were applied on 844 farms. There were 49 erosion control structures built, 253,000 seedling trees sold to more than 600 persons, 411 acres of trees planted, 3,000 feet of grass waterways constructed and the county soil survey of 519,731 acres was completed.

Entertainment at the meeting was provided by Raymond Vasold of Saginaw, retired Cooperative Extension Service agricultural and farm management agent, who showed slides of various trips to Europe he took with his wife, Helene.

Elmwood oks library contract

The Elmwood Township Board Jan. 11 signed a new contract with Rawson Memorial Library to enable its residents to use the Cass City library.

For its fiscal year starting April 1, the township will pay $1 per resident. The subsidy is to be increased 25 percent each year until it reaches the equivalent of .3 mill minus penal fines. For the 1983-84 fiscal year, the library was paid a subsidy of 45 cents per capita.

Elmwood has a population of 1,337, according to the 1980 census.

The board will review the contract annually and it can be cancelled by either side on six months' notice.

In other action, the board appointed Bill Winchester as sexton of the township cemetery, probably starting April 1, to replace Les Beach, who is retiring.

It approved a resolution allowing Gagetown's sewage treatment lagoons to be constructed in the township.

The board's next meeting will be March 21.

Computer show at Skill Center

The Tuscola Area Skill Center invites Thumb area residents to a "Computer Expo" Wednesday, Feb. 1, at the Skill Center on Cleaver Road, Caro.

Vendors from the Thumb area, Saginaw, Bay City and Flint will exhibit computer hardware and software for business, educational, home and farm applications.

Those attending will also be able to learn about classes available at the Skill Center through the adult education department.

The "Expo" will run from 7-9 p.m.

Telephone book being delivered

Telephone removal and telephone jack installation instructions are included in the new version of the General Telephone directory. The latest edition of the book is on its way to customers in Caseville, Cass City, Elkton and Kingston.

Potential money-saving tips on isolating telephone problems are contained on page 5. Customers are urged to refer to this page when they encounter phone difficulties since the information can be helpful in eliminating an unne-sary service call. Also included for the first time is the telephone number of the "GTE Action Line" and information on customer service agency booths and drop-off—pick-up locations.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

New books at the library

OUTRAGEOUS ACTS AND EVERYDAY REBEL LIONS by Gloria Steinem (non-fiction). Covering everything from personal political experiences to love, money, food, youth, and erotica, Steinem's writings portray a history of change. She has had a profound effect on the politics of this country, and the lives of both women and men in the United States. Also included are interview transcripts and profiles of Jackie Onassis, Pat Nixon, Marilyn Monroe, and Linda Lovelace, among others, with whom Steinem has spoken. An illuminating foreword that charts the growth and future of feminism is also provided.

TRINITY'S CHILD by William Prochnau (fiction). In the face of a massive U.S. arms buildup, the Soviets have launched a preemptive nuclear strike. World War III is under way and the fate of humanity hangs in the balance. The helicopter carrying the president has been destroyed, and in the chaos that follows, power has settled on the eighth-ranker in the constitutional order of succession. This happens to be the Secretary of the Interior, a man by no means equipped to cope with the situation. The president, it turns out, has survived the crash, and though blinded and severely injured, he now sets about trying to regain the reins of power. This proves extremely difficult, for communications have been all but destroyed. Meanwhile an old B-52 armed with nuclear bombs, drones on toward Russia, piloted and co-piloted by a man and woman who can't stand each other. Their personal relationship is central to the theme, for they are a kind of Adam and Eve of the "new beginning" - if there is to be one.

RACE FOR LIFE: THE JOEL SONNENBERG STORY (non-fiction) by Janet Sonnenberg. What's the definition of miracle? For Janet Sonnenberg, it could be defined as what happens when the power of prayer and the power of God come together. The accident that, medically speaking, should have claimed the life of her two-year-old son brought incredible pain - for Joel, for Jan and her husband Mike, for other friends and family members. But through a country-wide network of prayer chains it also brought dramatic evidence of God's healing power.

Boating safety class set

The Cass City Department of Community Education announces the formation of a boating safety and seamanship course sponsored by the Coast Guard Auxiliary, for students age 16 through adults. The classes will begin Thursday, Feb. 2, from 7-9 p.m. at Cass City High School. The comprehensive 10-week course will cover such topics as safe boating, legal requirements on boats, "rules of the road," aids navigation, charts and piloting, marine engines, weather, radio telephones and rules, locks and dams, and an optional session on sailing. The final class will include a review and test. Upon completion of the course, students will receive a patch and certificate which will enable boaters to receive a 10 percent discount on boat insurance. Cost of the class is $16, which includes a boating safety text and workbook. Couples may share a text. Deadline for registration is Monday by 6 p.m. To register, call the Community Education Department at 872-4151 from 8:30 a.m.-9:30 p.m.

Evangelical church has annual meet

The first annual meeting of the congregation of the Evangelical Free Church was held Sunday afternoon to coincide with the calendar year which is customary with the Evangelical Free Church denomination. Present membership stands at 71 and on Feb. 19, others will be welcomed into church membership. Those who join by March 1 will have the status of charter members. Several vacancies of officers were filled at the session. Charles Wright and Gary Bader were elected elders; financial secretary, Mrs. Gary Martin; assistant financial secretary, Mrs. Steve Hammet; social chairman, Mrs. Ted Furness; worship music chairman, Kendall Jacobs, and Christian education chairman, Nancy Leino. It was voted to send a contribution from the missions fund to the Spring Hills Camp at Ewart and to assist Carole Findlay, a registered nurse, who is awaiting her passport and credentials to go to Singapore or the Philippines. Jude Patnaude presided over the business session. Following the morning worship service and preceding the meeting, about 100 persons attended a potluck dinner.

FIVE YEARS AGO
Suzanne Little and Kari Witherspoon didn't win a trip to New York, but their entries in the Scholastic Arts Awards competition at Hampton Square Mall did. Their works will be judged in New York City in national competition for high school students. A new office and warehouse complex will be constructed this spring at the Wickes Agriculture elevator in Cass City, according to Manager Robert Wischmeyer.

TEN YEARS AGO
Construction crews completed work last week on the Cass City cable television tower located on the old Schell farm south of Walbro Corporation's main plant. Marine Lance Corporal Carl D. Wheeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Wheeler of Snover, has reported for duty at the Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N.C.

The Tuscola County 4-H Council held its annual election Jan. 10. The new president is Mrs. Lyle Clarke of Cass City.

Mrs. Clara Bird's farm northeast of Cass City has been recognized as a centennial farm by the state. The original homestead was established in 1856.

25 YEARS AGO
An estimated 100 telephone poles were down Thursday in the Thumb, 42 in the Cass City exchange area, as the season's worst ice storm placed many area phones out of order. Phone service was restored by Friday night.

Ray Burrows of Gageton is proud of the features of the all-steel cab that he designed that is about to go into production at Automotive Industries in Owendale.

The constitution for the newly formed Presbyterian Women's Association is expected to be adopted at a meeting scheduled Monday evening. Officers have already been selected. Mrs. Harold Perry will be president; vice-president, Mrs. K.I. MacRae, secretary, Mrs. Dave Ackerman, and treasurer, Agnes Milligan. Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Ellicott and children of Owendale were Sunday dinner guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hempton.

35 YEARS AGO
Mr. and Mrs. John W. Marshall and son, Roger, spent on Friday until Monday in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald L. Miller in Middleburg, Ind.

The Cass City State Bank's interior has a "new look." The changes being made are saving steps for employees, provide more counter space and make the working area much lighter. Woodwork has also been refinished.

Harold Paul Jr., has been enrolling boxers of this community for the golden gloves tournament at Bay City. Six young men have signed up. They are Arthur Schobert, Ray Newsome, Floyd Roach, Pat Bernard, Tim Partridge and Russell Blakely.

Mr. and Mrs. O.W. Nique of Decker were Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dillman. Mrs. Nique was the honored guest as her birthday was Monday.

HEALTH TIPS

Weakening bones can be prevented

By C. Everett Koop, M.D.
U.S. Surgeon General

Many of us know someone — usually a woman over the age of 60 — who has broken a hip or wrist while doing a routine task.

Bone fractures are common among elderly women, we have heard, because their bones simply weaken with age.

In point of fact, weakening of the bones is not an inevitable part of the aging process. It's a treatable disease called osteoporosis.

Roughly 15 million Americans suffer from some degree of osteoporosis, and about 88 percent of the cases occur in women. Osteoporosis can begin as early as age 35, so that by the time a person reaches the age of 60, her (or his) bones are thinner and break more easily than those of someone who has not developed the disease.

Every year, 190,000 elderly persons fracture hip bones. Osteoporosis is often the underlying cause, and many of these people decline in health and die within six months of the injury.

Osteoporosis is a progressive disease, meaning that once it begins, it continues to worsen if not treated.

Osteoporosis is caused by a decrease in calcium and other substances that maintain strong bones. Women are more likely to contract the disease, partly because their bones are smaller to start with, and also because changes that occur during menopause lower the levels of calcium and estrogen in their bodies, thereby accelerating their loss of bone tissue.

For most women, the gradual bone-thinning process that occurs in osteoporosis is painless. The first sign often appears on an X-ray taken for another purpose or, unfortunately, when a bone is fractured. The disorder usually shows up first in the bones of the forearm and the spine. It may later affect the upper part of the thigh bone, where it helps to form the hip.

Women who lose bone mass in their vertebrae or spine may suffer from lower back pains because the shrunken vertebrae move closer together and put strain on the back muscles.

This type of bone loss and weakening can result in loss of height or a curvature of the spine that you may have heard referred to as "dowager's hump."

Doctors try to stop or slow down the rate of bone loss in patients with osteoporosis in a number of ways — by prescribing diets rich in calcium and adequate in protein, for example, and by encouraging patients to get plenty of daily exercise.

Vitamin D supplements often are prescribed because it aids in the absorption of calcium from food. An effective and common drug treatment for slowing bone loss in women after menopause is estrogen therapy. Neither should be used, however, except under close medical supervision.

The osteoporosis that shows up in the later years had its beginning much earlier, which is why medical experts recommend that preventive measures be started as early as possible.

A woman should get plenty of calcium in her diet throughout life, but particularly after the age of 40, following menopause. Dark green, leafy vegetables are excellent sources of calcium, as are milk and milk products.

To make sure that you get the calcium you need, discuss your diet with your doctor. After estimating the calcium content of a person's normal diet, a doctor can recommend calcium supplement tablets, if necessary, to bring daily calcium intake up to the proper level for that individual.

Staying active appears to protect against osteoporosis, too. While there is no hard proof that exercise will prevent the disorder, we do know that lack of physical activity hastens bone loss and that regular exercise of the type that works the muscles against gravity, such as walking, bicycling and running, serves to maintain and actually strengthen bones.

Shabbona News

Marie Meredith Phone 672-9489

The Shabbona Fellowship group of the United Methodist Church met Wednesday morning with Mrs. Arthur Severance.

The Shabbona RLDS Church will have a family night Friday evening, Jan. 27. A potluck supper will be served at 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Smith and family and Brian Schember were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith and family. An afternoon caller was Mrs. John Dunlap.

Mrs. Marie Snell was a Thursday supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. Voyle Dorman.

BUNCO

The Bunco Group met Saturday evening, Jan. 21, with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones.

High was won by Mrs. Paul Phillips, low by Mrs. Cecil Navarro and door prize went to Mrs. Arie Gray. Lunch was served.

Meetings set for township officials

A series of three training sessions will be held for Sanilac County township and village officials Jan. 30, Feb. 6 and 13.

Sponsored by the Sanilac Chapter, Michigan Townships Association, and the Sanilac County Cooperative Extension Service, they will begin each evening at 7:30 in the county conference room, 37 Austin Street, Sandusky.

The first meeting will feature Sanilac County department officials, who will explain items that the townships and county need to be working on together.

The second meeting will be devoted to monthly and annual meetings, what should committees do and the Open Meetings Act.

The last meeting will be devoted to township and village insurance information and concerns. Specialists will answer questions.

A registration fee of $15 will be charged per unit of government to cover refreshments and materials.

Two persons plead guilty in Tuscola Circuit Court

Two persons pleaded guilty when they appeared Monday before Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn. Steven R. Kenward, 23, formerly of Cass City, pleaded guilty to violating probation. His plea was accepted and sentencing scheduled April 9. Bond was continued. Kenward was placed on three years' probation in March, 1981, for malicious destruction of police property. He violated probation by his guilty plea in Macomb County District Court to assault and battery and escaping lawful custody, and by failing to pay court-ordered obligations since last April. Eric Hubbard, 21, of 5965 Kingsbury Street, Kings- ton, pleaded guilty to possession of a short barreled rifle Dec. 17 in Indianfields Township. His plea was accepted and sentencing was scheduled March 12. Bond was continued. Hubbard had also been charged with unlawfully driving away an automobile and driving with license suspended in connection with the same incident. Also Monday, Tammy Lea Alderman, 20, of 4475 Curry Road, Kingston, stood mute to a charge of delivery of marijuana June 26 in Wells Township. A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled Feb. 6. Bond was continued. William B. Pelton, 22, current address unavailable, stood mute to a charge of violating probation. A plea of innocent was entered and a hearing date will be set. Pelton, who had an Akron address, was placed on four years' probation in February, 1981, for delivery of PCPY. He is charged with violating it by failing to report to his probation agent in May, 1982, and not living in his parents' home. In cases heard Tuesday, Jan. 17, by Judge Joslyn, Frederick G. Alderman, 25, of Curry Road, Caro, stood mute to a charge of delivery of marijuana June 24 in Wells Township and innocent to supplemental information charging him with being an habitual offender because of two prior felony convictions. A pretrial hearing was scheduled March 5. Bond was continued. Joseph Y. Davis, 40, of 2055 Walk Road, Caro, stood mute to charges of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (third offense), operating with license suspended (second or subsequent offense) and transporting open intoxicants in a motor vehicle Dec. 21 in Indianfields Township.

JAN. 17 CASES In cases heard Tuesday, Jan. 17, by Judge Joslyn, Frederick G. Alderman, 25, of Curry Road, Caro, stood mute to a charge of delivery of marijuana June 24 in Wells Township and innocent to supplemental information charging him with being an habitual offender because of two prior felony convictions. A pretrial hearing was scheduled March 5. Bond was continued. Joseph Y. Davis, 40, of 2055 Walk Road, Caro, stood mute to charges of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (third offense), operating with license suspended (second or subsequent offense) and transporting open intoxicants in a motor vehicle Dec. 21 in Indianfields Township.

A plea of innocent was entered and pretrial hearing scheduled March 5. Bond was continued. Timothy Piazza, 22, of 103 N. Main Street, Apt. 3, Vassar, pleaded no contest to a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, of possessing two stereo amplifiers Jan. 3 in Vassar. His plea was taken under advisement. Sentencing was scheduled Feb. 21 if his plea is accepted. Kevin D. Headla, 20, of 5675 Arbelia Road, Millington, was sentenced to six months in the county jail for larceny in a building July 15 in Millington Township. He was credited with seven days served. Serving of 120 days of the sentence was deferred. Headla, who pleaded guilty to the charge Dec. 5, was also placed on probation for four years, fined $500 and assessed $500 court costs.

Your neighbor says A 'split decision' for women's rights

Two-thirds of the persons surveyed in a recent nationwide poll feel the women's rights movement has done nothing to improve women's lives. A fourth of those surveyed felt it had. "I think it's kind of a split decision," Marsha Franks said of the effect of the women's rights movement. It has opened up new job opportunities for women and made them aware there are more opportunities, she commented. "When I got out of high school, there were only a few jobs that women thought about going into, like teachers, nurses, salesladies and homemakers. Now the sky's the limit." Mrs. Franks also feels it has meant higher pay for women, but it hasn't had as big an effect on pay as it had on creating more job opportunities. Sometimes, however, women's rights can backfire. For instance, women "still like to be treated feminine sometimes."

Asked for an example, she said women used to be able to depend on their husbands to take care of the family car. Now that women are driving to work, they are expected to take care of the car and know how to change a tire. When her husband, Stephen, was working in a factory, some women asked the men to help them lift things. "I feel if you get the same pay, you should be able to do the same work (as men), if working side by side." Some women have to do more than work at a job. When they get home, their husbands expect them to do all the cooking and cleaning. "I hear them (women) at work complaining, they've got everything to do," Mrs. Franks said. She counts herself as "one of the lucky ones." As she has assumed more responsibilities outside the home, her husband and children have willingly taken on more duties inside the home. "That I can't complain about." "I think the roles of husbands and wives have to be equal," she continued, "not one over the other." Mrs. Franks is in her third week of working on a production line at Walbro. Her husband is a self-employed carpenter and furniture refinisher. They have three children. At home are Debra, who works at Erla's, and Steve, a 10th grader. Their daughter, Sheryl, is in the Army, stationed in West Germany. The family lives on Cedar Run Road, Cass City.

Production of most crops down in '83

A decline in production in 1983 from the previous year was noted for all of Michigan's field crops, except sugarbeets and alfalfa hay, according to the Michigan Agricultural Reporting Service. The 172 million bushel corn crop was 44 percent below 1982's record crop. The lower production is attributed to a 34 percent decline in harvested acreage due largely to the government PIK program combined with lower yields. A state average yield of 92 bushels per acre was 17 bushels below the 1982 record of 109 bushels. Soybean output of 30.6 million bushels dropped 5 percent from 1982. Soybean yields were largely unaffected by the unfavorable weather. An average yield of 32.5 bushels per acre established a new record high for Michigan soybeans. Sugarbeet output is pegged at just under 2 million tons, 7 percent above 1982, due to 7,500 more acres being harvested this year.

A yield of 19 tons per acre showed a fractional decrease from 1982. Alfalfa hay production at nearly 3.9 million tons was up 5 percent. All other hay production dropped off due largely to lower yields. Other crops revealing lower production were potatoes and spearmint which were off 8 and 6 percent respectively. Nationally, production of corn for grain in 1983 was estimated at 4.2 billion bushels, half as large as the record high 1982 crop and the smallest crop since 1970. Harvested area was 51.5 million acres, down 29 percent from last season. The yield was 81.6 bushels per acre, down from the record high 114.5 million bushels last year. Soybean production at 1.6 billion bushels declined 28 percent from the previous year. Harvested area, at 62.2 million acres was down 11 percent and the yield, at 25.7 bushels per acre, was down 6.2 bushels from 1982.

190 Gagetown Elementary students fingerprinted Friday 'just in case'

DRY HANDS -- The natural moisture in the skin would mess up fingerprints, so a hair dryer was used to dry the hands before the fingerprinting. Operating the dryer for Jamie Parrish is volunteer helper Magdeline Gray.

About 190 youngsters at Gagetown Elementary School were fingerprinted Friday, courtesy of the Huron County Sheriff's Department.

The hope is the fingerprints will never have to be used. "...over 150,000 children are reported missing every year," Sheriff Richard V. Stokan wrote on the form parents or guardians had to sign before their children could be fingerprinted. "Thousands are found each year, unidentified. Some are runaways while others 'just seem to vanish.'"

"Out of concern for young people, we are providing a service that could protect your family with fingerprint records of your children, which you keep at home. In an emergency, the information on this completed form could greatly assist law enforcement officials in locating and identifying missing children."

Only one set of fingerprints was made by each child. The form was then placed in an envelope for each to take home. In addition to the fingerprints, the form contains spaces for parents to write in other identifying information (color of eyes, hair, right or left handed, etc.), where dental records are available and space for a photograph.

Principal William Britt said of the 216 students, 210 had permission from their parents to be fingerprinted. Twenty were absent the day of the fingerprinting. Sgt. R.B. Woodward, Sheriff's Department director of community programs, said about 4,200 Huron County youngsters, an estimated 85 percent to whom the service is made available, will be fingerprinted.

Woodward received permission from all public and parochial schools in the county to fingerprint their youngsters. Gagetown was third from the last.

Gagetown Elementary was included since the Owendale-Gagetown district is in the Huron Intermediate School District.

Children in grades K-6, plus those in K-8 in the one-room country schools are being fingerprinted.

Preschoolers, children older than those fingerprinted in school and those absent the day of the fingerprinting, Woodward said, can go to the driver's license bureau at the sheriff's department in Bad Axe to be fingerprinted. A parent or guardian must be with them to sign the permission slip. They should live in a Huron County school district.

Assisting Woodward in doing the fingerprinting in Gagetown were Robert Haldane, a full-time deputy and part-time police officer in Owendale, and John Gussell, a part-time officer in Sebawaing. Several parents also helped.

Children had to have their hands dried with a hair dryer to remove all moisture before being fingerprinted. Afterwards, they washed their hands with a special soap to remove the ink.

If a child disappears who was fingerprinted, Woodward said, and police feel the child was removed from the county or state, the fingerprints can be sent to the missing child section at the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington.

MESSY FINGERS -- Fingerprinting ink doesn't come off easily. Using the special soap plus water to wash their hands after the fingerprinting were fourth graders Michael Parks and Lisa Peters.

Three-session class set for cattlemen

Beef producers will have the opportunity to attend a series of educational meetings on beef production.

The meetings will be held on Wednesdays, Feb. 8, 15, and 22 at the Juhl Lutheran Church, east of Marlette. The meetings will start at 9:30 a.m. with the cost being $5 per meeting for meals.

The first day's program will start with the "economics of the feedlot and cow-calf enterprises," presented by Dr. John Waller and Dr. Harlan Ritchie of the Michigan State University Animal Science Department. The balance of the day will be spent on selecting cattle and marketing options for beef production, presented by the MSU Agricultural Economics Department.

The program the other two days will cover such topics as forage production, basics of ration balancing, and potential use of by-products as cattle feed, prevention and treatment of cattle diseases, implants, and feed additives. The last day will also cover dairy beef production, presented by Gary Weber, area extension Livestock Agent.

Cattlemen are encouraged to pre-register at their county extension office or call the Sanilac office.

Juhl Lutheran Church is located seven miles east of Marlette on Marlette Road, then 2 miles north on Juhl Road.

CHILD PROTECTION -- Fourth grader John Shelby Russell gets fingerprinted by Deputy Bob Haldane of the Huron County Sheriff's Department. About 190 Gagetown Elementary students were fingerprinted Friday.

6,000+ miles of roads need repair

By Warren M. Hoyt
Mich. Press Association

A recent road information study reported that more than 6,000 miles have been added to the backlog of needed road repairs in Michigan since 1979 despite increases this year in federal and state money for highways.

The survey by The Road Information Program (TRIP), conducted for the Michigan Road Builders Association, reported that 15,196 miles (14.9 percent) of state, county and municipal highways have become substandard in the last five years, but road departments have had funds to repair only 8,856 miles (8.6 percent).

The study further noted that 35.4 percent of the state's 10,064 bridges are listed as deficient and in need of repairs or replacement.

TRIP reported that Michigan's county, state and selected city maintained road systems revealed that the backlog of road and bridge deterioration grows by 1,268 miles and 56 bridges every year.

The study called for the state, county and municipal governments to spend an additional $137 million annually for the next five years to eliminate the backlog that has been developing since 1979.

The federal gas tax increase last April added approximately $148 million available to Michigan for roads, while the additional state gas tax should provide nearly $52 million annually.

The increased funding allowed the state and local road agencies to address a greater portion of the backlog this year but not all of the funding is available for repairs as some is specifically earmarked for new construction, safety projects or routine and seasonal maintenance.

Lutherans schedule workshop

The Witness Workshop II will be conducted Friday evening, from 6 to 9, and Saturday 9 a.m. till 4 p.m. at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Cass City.

The major emphasis is to learn witnessing skills for use in everyday living with special focus on communication skills. There will be Bible study, small group sharing and singing.

Baby-sitters will be available and the Friday evening meal and luncheon Saturday will be provided.

It is expected that 60 persons will participate and anyone interested is welcome to attend.

cities -- Detroit, Flint, Marquette and Saginaw -- as well as existing data on state-maintained roads and bridges.

Responses were evaluated in terms of traffic volume, economic activity, population and geographic location.

TRIP, of Washington, D.C., researches, evaluates and distributes economic and technical data on transportation issues.

It is a non-profit agency sponsored by highway contractors, construction equipment manufacturers and suppliers, insurance companies, motor vehicle manufacturers and businesses involved in highway engineering, construction and financing.

MEANWHILE, THE state's motor fuel tax increased another 2 cents Jan. 1, which will enable the state to continue making headway on the long-deferred road, street and highway improvements.

The increase is the second step which was approved by the legislature last year as part of the transportation survival package.

The 1984 increase from 13 to 15 cents per gallon is expected to raise about $65 million.

The state transportation package was tied to a 2-cent gallon increase in the then 11-cent tax on gasoline and diesel fuel.

It allowed for an additional 2-cent increase, using a formula based on the increase in the cost of highway maintenance and the continuing decline in the consumption of gasoline as automobiles become more fuel efficient.

The tax is capped at 15 cents per gallon.

DEPARTMENT OF Transportation Director James Pitz said without the scheduled increase, the state's transportation network "would fall back into the same trend of decay and deterioration."

Pitz said the added revenue from the 1982 transportation package enabled Michigan to match all federal aid available for highways, roads and streets.

He noted the state's share of federal aid rose from $194 million in fiscal 1982 to $356 million during the current fiscal year.

Cash shortage limits senior citizen rides

At its January meeting, the Board of Directors of the Thumb Area Commission on Aging adopted a set of measures which will limit the amount of transportation provided to senior citizens in Huron, Sanilac, and Tuscola Counties.

Such action became necessary when requests for rides began to outstrip the Agency's available funding for the service.

"During fiscal year 1982-83, our volunteer drivers drove an average of 6,275 miles per month in providing rides to older people," stated Executive Director, Robert Brown. "This fiscal year, during the first three months, October, November, and December, we have been averaging 9,245 miles per month. If we continue at this rate, we will run out of transportation funds before the year is over."

To avoid such a situation, the following plan was put into effect:

(1) A set amount of transportation funds will be designated for use each month. This will be based on the amount of funds left in the transportation service budget and any additional monies which have been secured.

(2) All requests from persons who have no available means of transportation and cannot use available public transportation, if available, will be honored until costs exceed 25 percent of available funds in the first week, 50 percent in the second, and 75 percent in the third.

When this happens, the commission will only provide the ride if no other means of transportation is available and by not providing the transportation would constitute an emotional or physical health hazard.

(3) Commission on Aging staff will attempt to secure additional funding for the program through all available federal, state, and local sources.

"It was a hard decision to make," Brown said, "but we were faced with the situation of granting all requests now, and running out of money, or denying some requests now to be able to get a senior who is all alone and becomes sick, to the doctor's this summer. Our obligation to provide services to those in greatest need necessitated the latter."

Kingston funeral home owners retire

For a farm boy who didn't want to farm, but didn't want to live in a city, Kingston has been the perfect place for Walter Harmon.

After having operated the Harmon Funeral Home in Kingston since February 1953, he and his wife, Carolyn, have retired, having sold their business to brothers Richard and Harry Lance of Ithaca.

The change in ownership took place Dec. 1. Harmon said he remains available to assist the Lances any time they need help. The business is now known as the Harmon-Lance Funeral Home.

The Harmones prepared for retirement well in advance. They moved from the funeral home on Washington Street, into an apartment in the four-apartment building they constructed on Ross Street, south of the elementary school, 10 years ago.

Harmon, who did much of the construction work on the building himself, said it was constructed with the idea they would move there once they retired.

The apartment building is on 34 acres "I intend to play with." Eight of the acres are covered with trees Harmon has planted since purchasing the property. There is a pond on the property. Come spring, he plans to plant some corn for deer to eat.

What is turning into a miniature preserve works out well for Mrs. Harmon, whose hobbies include sketching and bird watching.

The Harmones, who have been married 40 years, have one daughter, Carol Jane Stutz, who is a registered nurse working for the Ingham County Health Department. A widow, Mrs. Stutz and her sons Jeff and Joe live in Haslett, near Lansing.

HARMON, 65, GREW UP on a farm outside Glenwood, Minn. During World War II, he was a navigator on B-17 bombers in Europe and earned the Distinguished Flying Cross and five Air Medals. He was recalled to duty for 10 months during the Korean War, but didn't go overseas.

"I'm really just a farm boy," Harmon said. "When I got out of the service (after WWII), I figured there was an easier way to make a living than scratching it out on a dirt farm."

He wanted to become a veterinarian, but couldn't get into vet school. A friend from high school was a mortician, having taken over his (the friend's) father's business. Talking to his friend got Harmon interested in the undertaking business.

He attended the Washington School of Mortuary Science in Chicago, then served his apprenticeship at a funeral home in Mount Pleasant.

He then worked at the Trahan Funeral Chapel in Bay City for three years, with time out for military service during the Korean War.

HARMON WANTED TO own his own funeral home and when the one in Kingston became available, he bought it. He has no regrets. "I have liked it. To me, it was like coming home. I enjoyed it."

The business he bought was started by Naamun Karr, who started it about 1900 and ran it until 1951. He sold it to Gerald Schepel, who only owned it about a year before he passed away. Harmon bought it from Schepel's estate.

When he bought it, the funeral home was located on State Street downtown where Barrons' Antiques is located now. He was there about four years before moving it to what had been Karr's home.

When Harmon came to Kingston, the funeral business was in a time of transition. Undertakers had gone to the homes of the deceased, where they did the embalming. The body was displayed in the house and the funeral was performed there.

By 1953, embalming was usually being done in the funeral home. The bodies were then taken back to the home of the deceased for viewing, then to a church for the funeral.

Harmon added a chapel to the funeral home on Ross Street in 1953, because by then, funerals were taking place in the funeral home. The chapel was later expanded. He did most of the building of the chapel himself.

ONE FUNERAL STANDS out in Harmon's memory, which took place about 1960. He doesn't remember the exact year.

The deceased was a young Navy man who was killed in a radiation accident at a Navy installation in Idaho Falls, Idaho. The Navy didn't give Harmon many details.

The casket, shipped to Michigan by airplane, was lined with lead because of the radiation and was so heavy, Harmon had to have it unloaded from the plane with a forklift.

A man from the Atomic Energy Commission met the plane, checked the casket for radiation leakage, stayed through the funeral and then checked the ground for radiation around the plot in the Kingston Cemetery for radiation before leaving.

The casket was buried inside an extra thick concrete vault and instructions at the cemetery are the vault is never to be disturbed.

The deceased was from Roscommon. His father was from Kingston and the family had a burial plot in the Kingston Cemetery.

"That funeral was really a lot different," Harmon commented.

SOME OTHER FUNERALS were a factor in Harmon's deciding to retire. "The last few years in a small community...I'm burying people my age and people I have worked with and played with the past 30 years," he explained. "It gets close to you."

Another factor was that, "I didn't want to hang on until I couldn't do it any more."

In addition to working around the apartment and the grounds, the Harmones plan to do some traveling. In March, they are planning to travel in their motor home to visit her brother in Kansas and his brother in Arizona and his mother in Oregon.

Laid off policeman seeks job back

Village officials deny the contention in a grievance filed in behalf of police officer Robert Moore that he was laid off because he once gave a traffic ticket to the village's attorney, Clinton House.

Moore was laid off from his full-time job by the council Dec. 27 for what was said to be a cost-cutting

Computer workshop scheduled

A computer workshop will be held at the Cooperative Extension office in Caro Feb. 6, 8 and 10 from 12:30-3:30 p.m.

The workshop is designed to serve the needs of farmers who are determining the type of computer hardware and software they may purchase. The program will cover current computer hardware, software packages (accounting and a crop management system) and the way that they apply to farm situations.

The program will be limited to the first 20 to sign up with the Extension Service by calling 673-5999, ext. 228. The workshop will not be a basic learning class and the participants will be involved with some hands on application of computers and software.

measure. Moore had the least seniority of the four patrolmen on the force. He now is working part-time when Police Chief Gene Wilson needs additional help.

Daniel Hankins, attorney for the state Fraternal Order of Police, filed a grievance with the village Jan. 3, claiming Moore's reduction from full-time to part-time status was actually a disciplinary measure without just cause, intended as punishment because the officer gave House a ticket last fall for failure to stop at a stop sign. The FOP represents the village's police officers except for the chief.

The grievance asks for Moore to be reinstated to his full-time job.

Village Councilman Dick Hampshire, chairman of the personnel committee that recommended the layoff to the council, said he was unaware of the ticket being issued when the council took the action and, "to my knowledge, they (rest of the council) didn't either."

He commented to the Chronicle that he had no idea how the FOP came up with the allegation "other than they couldn't come up with anything else."

House also denied the allegation contained in the grievance. "Absolutely. I had nothing to do with it." He said he didn't know whether any council members knew he had received the ticket when they laid off Moore. House added, "I'm the village attorney. I don't decide who to lay off..."

The attorney was issued the ticket by Moore Oct. 23, according to Tuscola County District Court records. He has pleaded innocent ("denied responsibility") and is scheduled to appear at a formal hearing Feb. 9 before Judge Richard F. Kern on the disobeying a stop sign charge.

One of House's jobs as village attorney was to negotiate a contract with the FOP for the village's full-time officers.

The procedure outlined in the contract calls for any grievance submitted by the FOP to first go to the chief. If the union is not satisfied at that level, the grievance then goes to village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie.

LaPonsie said he met Jan. 17 with the union steward, officer Phil Klaus, to discuss the grievance. The superintendent has 10 working days from then, until Jan. 31, to issue a response to the grievance.

Hankins said he expects the FOP won't be satisfied with LaPonsie's response and the grievance will then go to the next step, which the outcome will be decided by an arbitrator. At that level, he expects to be able to prove the allegation "because we anticipate people will tell the truth under oath."

Moore couldn't be reached by the Chronicle for comment.

New pamphlet explains Bean Commission

"What's The Commission Doing With My Nickel?" is the title of a new pamphlet just published by the Michigan Bean Commission to help make dry bean growers aware of the wide range of activities the Commission is involved in.

The nickel refers to the 5 cents dry bean growers are assessed on each hundred-weight of dry beans they sell for the operation of the commission.

The pamphlet is available at elevators, Cooperative Extension Service offices, or from the Bean Commission office in Lansing.

Stringed instruments played with a bow are thought to have originated in Asia about the 8th or 9th century.

Michigan Highway Deaths: A Five-Year Downhill Ride

Michigan's 1983 traffic death toll of 1,300 is the state's lowest since 1945 when 1,150 persons were killed. It marked the fifth straight year of declining traffic deaths in the state, and last year's unofficial total is 37 percent below 1978's figure of 2,076. In addition, Michigan's preliminary 1983 death rate of 2.05 per 100 million vehicle miles traveled is the state's lowest ever. The Automobile Club of Michigan cites increased safety belt use, more drunk driving arrests and stricter enforcement of speed limits, conservative driving during the recessionary period and highway design improvements as major factors in the five-year decline.

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT

If you are one of America's workers, an IRA may be the solution to your retirement income needs.

Even though you may plan on Social Security, for most people Social Security is a beginning, but it may not provide an adequate retirement income by itself.

All interest on an IRA account is TAX-FREE until withdrawal. You take before-tax dollars from your earned income now (lowering your taxable income) and deposit them into an IRA account. You pay no taxes on the principal or interest until you retire and start to withdraw the money... at which time your tax bracket should be substantially lower.

So, plan ahead now for your retirement years with your own IRA. It's a wonderful opportunity for you to --

- SAVE TAX DOLLARS
- EARN BIG TAX-EXEMPT INTEREST
- BUILD SECURITY FOR YOUR FUTURE

Federal Regulators require substantial penalties for withdrawals made prior to maturity. IRA regulators provide for substantial penalties for withdrawals before age 59 1/2.

Last chance Friday?

Woes continue for Hawks at Sandusky

The way it has been going Friday may be the last chance that the Cass City Red Hawks will have to escape from the Thumb B Association basement.

Right now the Hawks are tied with the Marlette Red Raiders for the league cellar and the Raiders will be in town Friday. The loser may end up at the bottom of the conference heap.

Cass City didn't do anything Tuesday night to boost the confidence of the die-hard fans who traveled to Sandusky. The Redskins came from behind to top the Hawks for the second time this season, 48-38.

In the first half it appeared as if Cass City was going to have the kind of night that fans have been waiting for all season.

Using crisp passing to the inside where John Meininger and Scott Hurford scored from close-in, the Hawks jumped off to an early lead.

Cass City played aggressive defense to complement its offense and as a result jumped off to a 16-11 first quarter lead.

The two teams played on virtually even terms in the second period. The Hawks were able to overcome a cold spell when the team failed to score for the first 3½ minutes.

At the intermission Cass City was in front 22-19.

In the third period familiar faults cropped up again and the Hawks became mistake prone and lax on defense.

Sandusky was quick to take advantage of it. Midway through the period the Redskins had edged in front, 25-24, for the first time in the game.

The next two minutes decided the game. Cass City came down the floor and turned the ball over four straight times.

At the end of that series of misplays, Sandusky was in front 30-26 and that was the ball game.

Sandusky went ahead 36-

30 with 4:38 left in the final quarter and the best the Hawks could do after that was close the margin to five points.

Sandusky then went into a control ball offense and pulled away again to kill whatever slim chance Cass City had of pulling out the victory.

John Meininger led all scorers with 22 points. John Kubik, 13 points, and Paul Faszczewski, 11, led the Redskins.

EXCITING GAME

Most of the excitement for Cass City fans came in the Junior Varsity game. Cass City looked hopelessly out of it at halftime but steadily chipped away at the Sandusky margin to tie the game in regulation time.

In the second overtime with the time run out on the clock Randy Teichman hit two free throws for a 65-63 victory.

JOHN MEININGER reached past Paul Faszczewski (21) and Jon Miller Tuesday for two points. He scored 22 points in the Red Hawks' losing effort against Sandusky.

Hawks fall in basement battle

The Cass City Red Hawks hit rock bottom Friday night at North Branch. Rock bottom in the Thumb B Association. Rock bottom in caliber of play. Rock bottom in offense. Rock bottom in defense.

The Broncos won the battle of cellar dwellers, 72-65, and it was the same old story. Cass City found a way to lose.

Coach Ron Nurnberger started a revised line-up in an attempt to shake the squad out of its doldrums but the move was ineffective.

Turnovers and missed shots were the story in the opening quarter as North Branch raced off to an 11-2 lead before many of the fans had settled comfortably in their seats.

The Hawks finally found the range late in the quarter to score a few buckets, but the defense went into a deep freeze and the Broncos countered with easy baskets.

For awhile in the second quarter it appeared as if the Hawks were not only going to be beaten, but humiliated.

The Hawks started the second period with two quick turnovers that resulted in easy buckets for North Branch.

Midway through the second quarter the Broncos scored several easy buckets from close-in to move in front 29-16.

The two teams then traded baskets until the half and the hosts were in front, 40-26.

The Hawks applied a little pressure on defense in the late stages of the third quarter to move into contention.

In one spurt, sparked by that defense, Cass City moved from 44-26 to 44-32 and continued to rally to move just six points behind, 50-44, at the end of three quarters.

North Branch answered that challenge in the opening moments of the final quarter with a couple of quick buckets to move ahead again by 10 points.

Rich Randall then took personal charge of the scoring and whipped in baskets from the outside. Three quick tallies moved the team into contention.

With 1:05 left, Cass City moved to within three points, 66-63, the closest it had been since the opening whistle.

But North Branch called a time out and went into a control ball game and it worked perfectly as the Broncos scored on two uncontested layups to kill the rally and Cass City's chances for a come from behind win.

Despite a bad night at the free throw line where he was one for seven, Scott Hurford netted 17 points. Randall led all scorers with 18 points. David Smeznik led North Branch which had balanced scoring with all five starters in double figures.

Cass City outrebounded the Broncos 20-16 and had the edge in field goals, 30 to 24. But a miserable 5 for 13 from the free throw line compared to 24 of 35 for North Branch was the difference in the game.

JV WINS

The Hawk junior varsity jumped off to an early lead and held it throughout the game to register a 44-36 decision.

At last! Owen-Gage wins 2 games

Owen-Gage won its second straight basketball game -- its second win this season -- at Caseville Tuesday evening, 59-57.

The cellar dwelling Eagles are winless in North Central Thumb D League play.

The Bulldogs travel to Carsonville-Port Sanilac Friday and host North Huron next Tuesday.

PORT HOPE

Owen-Gage finally gained its first win of the season Friday, 50-47, at the expense of Port Hope, but the win was in doubt until the last minute. With 60 seconds to go, the score was tied at 45-45.

The game was close throughout. The Blue Stars led by two at the end of the first quarter. The Bulldogs had tied the score at the half, 22-22, but Port Hope led by two at the three-quarter mark.

The result ties the two teams at 1-6 in the North Central Thumb D League, one step ahead of winless Caseville.

Gary Erickson led the victors with 14 points and nine rebounds. John Shope scored 13 points and John Patnaude, 11. The team sank 18 field goals and tossed in 14 of 34 free throws.

The Bulldogs had to do without the services of their leading scorer and rebounder, Scott Wright, who is out due to an ankle injury.

Pat Murphy scored 22 points for Port Hope. Ricky Tomlinson sank nine of 10 free throws plus one field goal for 11 points. The team scored 15 field goals and 17 of 25 free throws.

The Owen-Gage junior varsity won its third game of the season, 53-51.

Score by quarters:

O-G	10	12	13	15	50
PH	12	10	15	10	47

AKRON-FAIRGROVE

League leading Akron-Fairgrove had no trouble getting past winless Owen-Gage Tuesday, Jan. 17, 84-60.

The Vikings led 26-10 at the end of the first quarter and widened their lead in the next three periods.

Gary Erickson led the Bulldog scorers with 15 points. Scott Wright added 13 before going out in the third period with an ankle injury. Todd Rockefeller scored 12 points. The team collected its points on 22 field goals and 16 of 34 free throws.

In double figures for A-F were Steve Bollinger with 22 points; Scott Ballard, 19, and Del Nichols, 11. The Vikings scored their points on 30 field goals and 24 free throws.

Host A-F also won the junior varsity game, 67-59.

Erickson to play in coaches' all-star game

Gary Erickson of Owen-Gage High School has been selected to play in the fourth annual East-West All-Star game Aug. 4, at Spartan Stadium in East Lansing.

Gary was one of only two Class D players selected to the East squad by the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association, officers, all-star committee and East team coaches Jan. 13 at Michigan State University.

Erickson was a four-year starter in football for coach Arnie Besonen and was selected to all-conference, area, and state first teams. He is also a member of the National Honor Society, president of the Student Council and merit chairman of his senior class.

Gary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Erickson of Owendale,

Pickup - snowplow vandalized

Vandalism to a pickup truck parked at Frank's Service Station, just south of Cass City, was reported to sheriff's deputies Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 18.

Station owner Frank Spencer said the pickup, used only for snow plowing, had last been used Jan. 14. The damage wasn't noticed until the day it was reported.

The windshield had three small cracks in it, possibly done with a BB gun, and the lenses and bulbs were removed from the turn signals mounted above the snow plow blade.

Loss was estimated at $110.

Theft of a wood stove from a home on Shabbona Road, Cass City, was reported to deputies Saturday, but further information wasn't available.

Traxler aide in Tuscola

A staff aide of U.S. Rep. Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, will be in Tuscola County this Thursday to discuss problems and concerns of constituents.

He will be in the Vassar city hall from 10 a.m.-noon; the courtroom in the courthouse annex on Grant Street, Caro, from 1-3 p.m., and the Unionville fire hall from 4-5 p.m.

INCOME TAXES
The 1983 income tax filing time is now through April 16, 1984. While April 16 is the deadline for filing your 1983 tax return, it should be completed as soon as possible. In so doing, you are able to obtain early refund processing, or, if a payment is due, you may plan ahead for the proper amount.
For fast, professional preparation of your personal, farm, or business tax returns call 872-4532 for an appointment. Appointments will be made for your convenience, including evenings and weekends.
Individual returns, including State of Michigan, from $20.00.

NO SANTA — Elkland Township fireman Mick Kirn had the unenviable task in near zero degree temperatures Friday afternoon of pulling a chain up and down the chimney at the Ed and Dotty Scollon home to clean it out after a fire. Assisting was Mike Stec. (Story on page 1.)

operate a Channel 15 at Bad Axe, but its application was rejected because permission already had been granted for a Channel 15 in Detroit and there was fear the signals from the two stations could interfere. It is applying this time to operate as Channel 55.

Ballard said he was "very optimistic" that Delta will get the nod to operate the Bad Axe transmitter-antenna. He pointed out Channel 19 is already partially serving the Thumb and Thumb residents have contributed money and program ideas to his station. "The Thumb has identified with us."

He mentioned the farm equipment consignment auction conducted by Tuscola County Farm Bureau Women a couple of years ago, with proceeds going to Channel 19 programs, as an example.

Channel 19 and Channel 28, the public broadcasting station operated by the University of Michigan - Flint, are both carried by the television system in Cass City and can be seen with varying degrees of clarity by those who don't have cable.

IN CONTRAST, HIGGINS said his station has a "track record" of operating satellite public broadcasting stations and the home station on the CMU campus gets very high ratings for a public television station.

He added that he wasn't being critical of the station operated by Delta. "I'll be the last to say anything bad about them."

How long will it take for the FCC to make a decision on which, if either, college will be given permission to start broadcasting in the upper Thumb?

Neither man could say for sure. Ballard commented that six months

Land values increase in Tuscola

duce the $16,000 allocated in his budget for a law clerk for 1984 to $8,000.

The board approved sale of 12.3 acres of county-owned land on Cleaver Road to the Tuscola Intermediate School District for $45,000. The TISD will use the land, which is adjacent to its office, Tuscola Area Skill Center, and Highland Pines School, for egress from the Skill Center to Decker Road, possible use by vocational agriculture classes and possible building expansion.

The board's next meeting will be Feb. 7, a week earlier than usual, because of the Michigan Association of Counties conference in Lansing Feb. 12-14.

Commissioners will conduct the federal revenue sharing hearing Feb. 28 at 2 p.m.

would be a "fair guesstimate," but prefaced that with, "Your guess is almost as good as mine when the FCC will let us know."

If all goes well, Ballard said it might be 18-24 months from now that Delta could have Channel 55 in operation.

Higgins said CMU received permission from the FCC to operate the Ludington-Manistee station last July or August and it will be July or August of this year when Channel 21 begins operating, so it might take that amount of time in the upper Thumb if the university receives permission to start Channel 15.

Cash needed for PCB silo demolition be appropriated soon, possibly within a few weeks.

He didn't know when the legislature might appropriate the money needed to dispose of the rest of the silos or for the loans. "I have no idea and I don't think the sponsors (of the legislation) know either."

Allen voted for the PCB bill approved in November.

UNTIL THE LEGISLATURE appropriates the money, Renkie said, the MDA can't begin acquiring the contaminated silos.

The procedure to be used is ready now, he said. The value of the silos will be determined by state Department of Transportation appraisers, who usually appraise the value of structures on property needed for highway construction.

Among those in the lurch are brothers Marv, Clayton and Leonard Innes and Marv's son, Mike, who operate a dairy farm southeast of Decker in Lamotte Township.

They tore down their PCB-contaminated 20-by-60-foot silo this past summer and replaced it with another silo, purchased used.

The remains of the old silo are sitting in a pile next to where it stood. "They (the MDA) didn't tell us what to do with it, so that's where it's lying," said Marv Innes.

Farmers in such instances are going to have to wait until the legislature appropriates the money, Renkie said. Once the MDA has the money, it will probably contract with a trucking firm to haul away torn-down silos to an approved toxic waste landfill for disposal.

The intent is to remove all contaminated silos, he said, no matter whether they have been used recently or not.

So you think you already know all about IRA and Keogh plans?

Here's a gimmick that will make you an extra $25,000 tax free. Be patient. Read on. It takes a bit of explaining. If you have a better way to make $25,000 in the next 10 minutes then turn the page.

You know, of course, that any wage earner can stash away up to $2,000 a year in such a plan. This sum is deducted from your taxable income. In other words, you don't have to pay tax on this amount.

The money has to stay tied up in the plan until you're 59½ years old at least, and must be taken out before you're 70½. Take it out before 59½ and you pay a 10 percent penalty.

In any case, when it's taken out, it becomes taxable income.

Big advantages appear, but mostly, salesmen trying to get you to invest this $2,000 with them point only to these two:

1. You save money on income tax the year you put money into an IRA or Keogh (same as IRA, except it's for self-employed).
2. The earnings on the investment are tax-deferred until you take the money out.

What the boys overlook is continued compounded savings on the income tax you save right now. This is money you will otherwise send to Washington and you'll never see it again.

Example: You and your spouse earn $36,000 in taxable income in 1983 (after exemptions and deductions and non-taxable items such as municipal bonds).

Your tax will be $6,904. You reduce that taxable income by $4,000 by each of you putting the maximum allowed of $2,000 into an IRA or Keogh plan.

Your taxable income now becomes $32,200.

Your tax on that will be $5,664.

You have saved $1,240. That is money you never would have had without using the IRA route. It would have gone off to Washington to delight the big spenders.

My suggestion: Invest this $1,240 windfall — so it will come due when you retire. Let's say that is 30 years off.

Now, in the ordinary sort of investment you will have a problem investing the small amount of dividends or interest this $1,240 will bring. In stocks, say $79 a year, and this will be income taxable. You're in a 30 percent bracket in the example we used, so you keep $52 of the annual income. Where do you put $52? You solve that problem by spending it, or....

Here's a better solution: Buy 20 zero-coupon tax-exempt bonds, maturing in 2014. And believe me, 2014 will come around sooner than you think.

The bonds will cost you five cents on the dollar, assuming a yield of 10.25 percent which is realistic. So you get $25,000 par value bonds now, and you pay $1,250 for them.

The $1,240 you save now in income tax has become $25,000 when you retire 30 years hence. Meanwhile you need do nothing. Put the bonds in the box, or leave them with your broker. No taxes to pay during this span. No taxes to pay (not even capital gains) when you cash them in.

Meanwhile, the $4,000 you put into the IRA account has been earning money and postponing the income tax until you take it out. So that's 30 years hence, too.

This $4,000, if it were mine to invest, I'd sock it away in some zero-coupon U.S. government's which the big brokerage firm sponsor. They're called by acronyms as TIGRS and CATS, but they're actually just zero-coupon governments. They're taxable, but in an IRA fund, you're postponing the tax anyhow.

In a recent ad Merrill Lynch ran on this sort of bond, $3,800 invested now would grow to $80,000 in 30 years.

For a one-time shot in an IRA right now, your $4,000 allowed to be deducted in one year would then cover the sum needed to get these long zero-coupon government bonds.

At retirement time you'll have $80,000 due you from the $3,800 invested now. You'll have another $25,000 from the tax savings on your income tax. Total: $105,000. Pretty good.

This, mind you, for going the IRA route only once. You can do the same thing every year.

As years go by, the compounded growth to this Retirement Day in 2014 will be less for sums contributed after 1983 until finally you have only one year's income on the money you put into the plan in 2013.

You will become filthy rich by following this plan. Look, you're going to have $105,000 by 2014 for doing this just once. Do it 29 times annually for your working years — and your bankroll will be beyond your most avaricious dreams.

And all this time you haven't needed to fret about reinvesting, or about interest rates dropping, or your favorite stocks going into Chapter 11.

Stash it away and forget about it except for one thing — remember the broker's name. And tell the broker to forget you, and not try to roll over your investments. Just let 'em sit.
